WHAT DO YOU THINK?

Do you think the American people would vote to spend more than $300,000,000 of their tax money on a project which could be financed and built with private funds under the private enterprise system—and which, once in operation would become a large taxpayer instead of a tax-consumer? It hardly seems likely. But that's just what one clique in government wants to do at Niagara Falls.

As a result of modifications in a Canadian-American treaty, a huge amount of additional water is available at the falls for hydroelectric development. The sole question—which must be decided by Congress—is whether government will do the job with our tax money, or whether a group of business-managed utilities, which are all ready to go ahead, will be permitted to do it with capital. The issue isn't complicated by flood control or navigation. The project will produce electric power and nothing else.

Identical bills have been introduced in House and Senate whose stated purpose is to preserve the scenic beauty of Niagara Falls; to further the national security; and to assure the development of low cost electricity under the private enterprise system. They should be passed without delay.

"COMPETITION IS TERRIFIC."

The Anaheim, California, bulletin, recently editorialized on the shopping situation in its region. Anaheim merchants, it observed, have kept abreast of the public demand with better stores, improved and expanded lines of merchandise, and increased parking facilities. However, the Bulletin stated, "Competition is terrific. On all sides, and within very short distances, there is every conceivable type and size mercantile center. This area is constantly bombarded with literature and advertising to attract the customer away."

The same is true, in varying degree, in thousands upon thousands of American communities. And this is the reason why retailing, in America, has reached a peak of efficiency and service unknown abroad. That hasn't happened because merchants are any more public spirited than the rest of us. It has happened because, where competition is free and open, survival depends upon keeping up with the swim.

Furthermore, in this kind of a system anyone can rise to the top — there are no artificial checks on growth and progress. The small store of today becomes the great store or chain of tomorrow. And today's great store, if it fails to meet the competition, swiftly goes downhill. The prizes go to those who honestly earn them.

SUBSIDY MEANS DEPENDENCY.

It is difficult to see how exception may be taken to Agriculture Secretary Benson's statements that price support programs should be avoided, except as insurance against disaster and to help stabilize food supplies. If the country had not been conditioned to dependency by years of living under a benevolent, tax-squandering government the fundamental rightness of the Secretary's position would be recognized by all.

The idea of looking upon perpetual prosperity as a natural right to be subsidized by government, regardless of cost, should be repulsive to every American citizen. In the first place, it is inconsistent with the ideal of a self-reliant people, and secondly, as everyone should know by this time it leads nowhere but to more bureaucracy and ultimate national bankruptcy.

Our national administration should seek to preserve the political and economic liberties of the individual, and to protect the nation from the communist menace. It should endeavor to halt a trend in domestic policies which destroy our freedom. It should strive to stop wasteful spending and depreciation of money caused by government promising too much to too many.

Men of Secretary Benson's caliber are trying to prevent our fifty-cent dollars from becoming two-bit dollars or ten-cent dollars. They are opposed to the false security of the welfare state or, in plainer words, the police state. They are proceeding on the assumption that the people agree with them and are worthy of the responsibilities as well as privileges bestowed upon them by our constitutional republic.

Watching Mom hand Dad a heaping platter of chicken are Julie, 2; Patricia, 5; Horace, 11; Rita, 9; Stephen Jr., 7, and Terence, 4.

"As It Looks From Here"

OMAR BURLESON
Congressman
17th District

A committee of the United States Senate has voted to increase the salary of members of Congress and most Federal Judges to $25,000 a year. I shall not support such a proposition if it comes to a vote in the House of Representatives.

If the Congress would cut out a lot of useless activities, pay more attention to strict legislative matters, and less politics, it would not be necessary for us to remain in almost continuous session every year. It would be cheaper for the individual member of Congress and to the nation if we did our work in six months and went home.

Another thing more important than increasing salaries for members of Congress would be to extend the term of office and prohibit spending of huge sums of money to be collected. Common sense will tell anyone that a man who spends thousands of dollars to be elected is receiving it from sources to which he will be obligated after he is in office. At least he should be if he is going to accept such contributions.

Personally, I had rather have a little time off in order to attend to personal business back home than to have an increase in salary. It is true that in some parts of the United States, only rich men are elected to public office because they can spend great sums on a campaign. There are a number of millionaires in the Congress today, and I doubt if it would be good for the country if the Congress became a "rich man's club." President Eisenhower favors increasing salaries for Senators and Representatives and has said, "There is danger, conditions being what they are, that only the well-to-do could afford to serve in Congress."

Another argument is used that many people in Government receive more than a member of Congress. Many "bureaucrats" appointed by the Executive and approved by the Senate are paid more than those who have jurisdiction over them. Congressman Martin Dies has suggested that no "bureaucrat" be paid more than a member of Congress and maybe this is a good idea.

Be this as it may, I repeat, I shall oppose an increase in salaries at a time when we are making great efforts to economize and balance the budget.

The returns from my annual Questionnaire have been exceedingly gratifying. A few are still coming, and to date, more than 7,500 have been received. A preliminary check shows that most people in the 17th Congressional District decidedly favor balancing the budget and reducing the huge public debt before reducing taxes. People in our area also, by about 2 to 1 favor an equal percentage of reduction for all taxpayers when taxes are reduced.

Overwhelmingly, those in our area believe that governmental authority and the expenses it entails should be turned back to the states and that government should get out of business and not compete with private enterprise.

People also believe that the United States should continue military support to the Free Nations of the World if these countries do their part towards building up strength to oppose Russian aggression and Communism.

More strict immigration laws are overwhelmingly favored, and by 3 to 1, the outlawing of the "Union shop" is favored.

A very great majority have also expressed themselves affirmatively requiring labor unions to publish financial reports.

A final tabulation will be completed in the next few days and the total result will be furnished in a separate report to this newspaper. I hope everyone will find it of interest.

This method of giving people the opportunity to express themselves is, in my opinion, true representative government. I certainly feel it is my duty to know how the people whom I represent think and feel on the various issues with which I must deal.

I am most grateful for the many encouraging words which have accompanied the Questionnaires.

Editor's note — Congressman Burleson deserves to be congratulated for his stand against raising congressman's wages. The people in this area are against higher taxes of any kind whether originated by "Ike" or anyone else. We shall do our best to defeat at the polls next election any man who does not speak out against all the waste and extravagance in the federal government. The president is doing a lot better than Truman did and if our representatives will stay on the ball a lot of stealing now going on can be cut to the minimum. Thanks representative Burleson for your stand against more and higher taxes.

MAY NEWS

By Mrs. Luther Cobb

Doesn't time rush by? Just last Monday morning, Vacation Bible school started at Calvary Baptist church for one week and it is history now, but we had a wonderful school. Had an enrollment of 70 and an average attendance of 54. Had the closing program on Friday night, had such a good little program and had most of the parents and a number of others attending. We hope to arrange for two weeks next year. The Methodist folk and us failed to get our dates together this time for which we are very sorry, and we hope no one misunderstands it, and we hope many of our children will go to their school this week. I have not had a report on their school but I'm sure they are having a good one also.

Mrs. Mae Armstrong of Sydney spent the week end with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith. They attended worship service at the Church of Christ and had lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Weaver Smith.

We of Calvary church enjoyed an all day service Sunday, spreading our dinner together at the noon hour. We had 70 in Sunday School, had some visitors from Brownwood: Rev. and Mrs. Hormon and children, and Dr. and Mrs. Phillely and daughters and another young lady whose name I don't recall from First Baptist church in Rising Star came and ate lunch with us. Dr. Phillely preached in the P. M. The three girls rendered two special numbers. It was all so good. We are truly thankful for their coming and the good

"Well yes", Mr. Hicks, would ask about the condition of the calf that was to have been the cause of an auto wreck near San Angelo, new information has been brought to my attention. It was the calf's mama that met with death. Now if you were thinking of some nice tender steaks, just rub it out, Chili, or some real tough hamburger was all that was left, so the cow only received any injury, and that was fatal so the report has it.

message from the Lord, brought by Brother Phillely and the girls. We invite them back again.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Jackson of Andrews spent the week end with Mrs. Vera Jackson and her mother, Mrs. Stewart, and attended the service at Calvary church Sunday night. ## Doctors Discuss Scientific Medicine Both Old and Young

Two medical subjects in which all doctors are vitally interested are psychosomatic medicine and geriatrics.

Psychosomatic medicine takes into account the fact that there is a close link between the patient's mind and body. Doctors recognize that emotional or mental disturbances may lead to symptoms much like those resulting from physical disease. This belief was held by the old-time family doctor, who practiced psychosomatic medicine even though he probably didn't call it by that name. His patient often felt better just talking with him and at times benefitted as much from the "spiritual" treatment as from medicine given him.

The physician will not say there is nothing wrong with the patient's body until he has made a complete investigation. Nevertheless, early in the course of the examination he begins to question whether or not something in the patient's life other than physical illness might be causing the trouble. He listens to the patient's complaints, which may be his cue. If the patient says that he is nauseated, the doctor looks into the patient's environment to see if there is something he "cannot stomach." If thorough examination fails to show a reason for a feeling of pressure on the chest, the doctor sounds the patient out to see if there's something he'd like to "get off his chest." Thus, he is called on to interpret a kind of "organ language" of the patient's everyday life.

By promptly recognizing and treating minor emotional and mental upsets, the doctor often is able to ward off serious mental disease and to avoid unnecessary treatment or operation.

The second subject, geriatrics, means care of the age. With the increase in the average life span in the United States to 68 years of age, there is a greater proportion of persons older than 65 years of age in the general population today. This means that more and more the health needs of old people are being felt.

There are no diseases of the aged as such, doctors inform, but because with aging natural changes in the body are to be expected, the character of disease in the aged is different. The incidence of sickness is not much greater in the older generation than in the young, but once illness strikes, recovery is apt to be slower.

Prevention of disease should play a large part in geriatrics. Doctors believe that if lessons of how to care for oneself are learned early in life, the individual person is likely to live longer and be healthier. They advise patients to develop broad interests; to keep active as they grow older, although perhaps cutting down somewhat on strenuous activities; and to make the best possible economic provisions for advanced age.

Health Q's and A's.

Q. What is a general practitioner?

A. A general practitioner is a licensed physician and surgeon who holds the degree of M. D. and who does not limit his practice to a particular field of medicine or surgery. In the United States there are more than 95,000 general practitioners.

Q. How much of human illness can be treated by the general practitioner or family doctor?

A. About 80 to 85 per cent.

Q. Does a medical specialist know only the field to which he limits his practice?

A. He has a broad basic medical background but makes no claim to anything but limited knowledge of fields outside his own specialty. For this reason he usually reports his findings to the family physician, who then can fit his report into the total needs of the patient.

Q. Is psychosomatic medicine a medical specialty?

A. No, not in the usual sense. Psychosomatic medicine takes into account the close link between the mind and the body in health and disease. All doctors at times apply psychosomatic medicine.

Q. Why is the practice of geriatrics (care of the aged) becoming increasingly important?

A. The 1950 census showed that 12.4 million people, or about 8 per cent of the total population, were older than 65 years of age. Doctors are turning their attention more and more toward improving the health of those who reach old age.

The Christian Church of Eastland received 43 tea towels, four aprons, 13 dish rags and 12 pot holders, from H. D. over the county. That was our way of way of thanking them for the use of their annex for our special get-togethers.

The meeting was very entertaining.

We will have a training school on basket weaving June 6 at the North Star club house.

AMITY H. D. CLUB REPORT

Mrs. Guy Taylor, Reporter

The club met on May 19th with Mrs. Tom West as hostess, with five members, two visitors and Miss Carlson, the H. D. agent present for a very interesting and helpful program. The president held a brief business session and gave a council report in absence of council delegate, in order to give the agent plenty of time for her demonstration in making whole wheat rolls in a variety of shapes; each one having a hand in the preparation for baking; after which samples were passed and a score made, which was excellent. Miss Carlson handed out blanks for all to fill out to send to a breakfast campaign being made by A&M Extension Service plan, to determine what percent of people eat a good breakfast, which affords plenty of energy and is very important for health. This was illustrated with charts showing vitamins, proteins and other food elements in a well balanced meal. Her talk was very interesting and instructive.

We were especially glad to have Mrs. Tom Pool and her daughter, Mrs. Grady Brooks from California visiting in the Tom West home participate in our club meeting.

At the close of the meeting refreshments of canapes, cake and grape juice was served. Beautiful flowers gave a cheerful air to the rooms.

Next meeting will be June 2 in the home of Mrs. E. R. West. Come early in the afternoon as we have extra items to discuss.

Amity club members deeply sympathize with all families who have had recent bereavements.

In a recent council meeting in Comanche the following Amity club members, modeled dresses made under the direction of the H. D. agent and Miss Hallie Hill, Amity club's clothing demonstrator.

Miss Hallie Hill wore a sporty tailored dress in blue and white Orlon, with navy shoes, bag and hat with trimming of pink flowers. Mrs. Joe Fox wore a navy linen with pink hat, gloves and navy shoes and bag.

Mrs. J. B. Caudle wore a green nylon with white shoes, bag and hat. Three women from other clubs modeled lovely frocks, too. All were very attractive and the tailoring bears close inspection and quite an accomplishment to make the dresses worn.

Amity club president, Mrs. Tom West and reporter, Mrs. Guy Taylor were in attendance and enjoyed the entire program of the council meeting.

1954 Agricultural Conservation Program Is Discussed at Eastland Meeting May 18

MAY PEOPLE ATTEND ABILENE FUNERAL

Relatives attending the funeral of Mrs. Robert Fincher and two months old son, Jesse David in Abilene, from May, were two nieces, Mrs. Glen Robason, Mrs. Nancy McDaniel, also a cousin, Mrs. Floyd Michael and a great niece, Mrs. Josie Whiteside, both of Sipe Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Hicks had as their last Sunday guests, Mrs. Pearl Timmons and Mrs. Vivian Railsback of De Leon. They were neighbors when the Hickses lived in De Leon.

Samuel Adams planned the Boston Tea Party.

A meeting of local farm leaders and agricultural workers was held in the Eastland county courthouse on Monday, May 18, to discuss the 1954 agricultural conservation program and to make recommendations for Eastland County. Recommendations were made in view of the anticipated limitations of practices to those of a permanent nature and the possible reduction of ACP funds, called for in Secretary Benson's budget.

It was pointed out that the primary object of the 1954 Agricultural Conservation Program is to provide assistance needed for enduring and permanent type soil and water conservation practices that contribute to the accomplishment of the basic conservation objective of the Department of Agriculture, which is "The use of each acre of agricultural land within its capabilities and the treatment of each acre in accordance with its needs for protection and improvement".

Those present were E. E. Powell, county administrator for the PMA, E. E. Blackwell, J. B. Webb, and A. Z. Myrick, member of the Board of Supervisors of the Upper Leon Soil Conservation District; Leslie Haganam, member of the Board of Supervisors of the Palo Pinto Soil Conservation District, J. M. Cooper, Eastland county agent, G. I. Lane, Farmers Home Administrator, and E. E. McAlister, J. W. Lee, W. L. Garner and Paul T. Flynn of the Soil Conservation Service.

RECENT VISITORS IN SAN ANTONIO

Mrs. Bessie Kirkland brought a clipping from the San Antonio Express showing clippings of her grandchildren.

They are Donald and Ronald Kirkland and attend school at Sunshine Cottage, a school for deaf children. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkland attended a program at the school and enjoyed visiting with the children.

She stated it was remarkable how much the children learned even to singing to music.

There is evidence to prove that farm and home accidents can be reduced when rural people attack the problem through organization. Agriculture presently ranks as the third most hazardous occupation in the nation. It's a good time to make a check and then remove the accident

Samuel Adams is known as the "Father of the Revolution."

DR. AND MRS. W. S. CARTER SELL VAN HORN PROPERTY LAST WEEK

Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Carter, well known in the dental profession in West Texas, have sold their Van Horn property but will continue to practice their profession there as well as in Rising Star. There were two deep wells on the property. We have lots of friends over the area and will serve the needs of the people in both places it was said.

The Carters have extensive property in this area, maintaining a ranch near Carbon where registered Black face Angus cattle are raised.

In addition to practicing dentistry and ranching the family takes quite an active interest in hunting—especially deer. In his office in Rising Star he has just mounted the head and horns of a nine point buck killed by Mrs. Mildred Hounsel near Van Horn. Mrs. Hounsel is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Carter.

Make Silage A Must For Year 1953

COLLEGE STATION.—No less than three tons of silage should be put up for each cow in the dairy herd. That word comes from R. E. Burleson, dairy husbandman for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. And he adds, it's a good idea to double this amount to take care of the lean and unproductive years.

Yields from the best silage crops, when properly fertilized, are usually heavy and large acreages of cropland are not re-

it's the Law

Indictment Not Evidence of Guilt.

What does indictment by a grand jury mean? Lawyers find that many persons are inclined to confuse indictment by a grand jury with a court conviction for a crime.

This misconception is unfair to anyone who becomes the subject of a grand jury investigation. Justice, in the United States, is based on the theory that a man is innocent until proven guilty, and public opinion should withhold its verdict until the courts have had an opportunity to determine guilt or innocence.

An indictment is simply a written accusation presented by a grand jury to the district judge. It charges some person or persons with a crime. It is not a conviction. When a grand jury indicts a person it merely affirms that there is sufficient reason for him or her to stand trial. That is as far as the grand jury goes.

After that, the judge and the trial jury take charge of the case. At the trial the indictment is simply the state's pleading in the case, to which the defendant may plead "Not Guilty". The trial jury is instructed by the judge that it must not consider the indictments as any evidence of guilt.

All felony offenses in Texas, that is all offenses punishable by imprisonment in the state penitentiary, must be prosecuted on an indictment by a grand jury. A grand jury may indict an individual for a misdemeanor, an offense punishable only by a jail sentence or fine, but this is rather an unusual procedure.

Misdemeanor cases are customarily prosecuted on the basis of an "information" filed by the county attorney. This serves the same function as a grand jury indictment.

The importance of a grand jury verdict is this: If it votes a "True Bill"—that is, not to indict—the suspected person cannot be tried.

The grand jury procedure is one of the basic protections enjoyed by the common man against outrageous procedures of would-be tyrants, and dates from early Anglo-Saxon times. It assures that no person shall be forced to stand trial for a felony on the basis of a malicious or frivolous accusation having no apparent factual support.

When called to serve on a grand jury you share with a group of fellow citizens some of the most solemn responsibilities known to our democracy. Consequences of life-or-death importance may hinge upon your vote.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

quired for silage production. points out Burleson. But he explains, the crops must be planted, harvested and stored before it can be used and it is now time to perform that first job—planting. Last week's showers materially improved the chances for a good stand and good early season growth, says Burleson.

The specialist likes atlas sorghum for silage but he adds, there are other crops which also produce good yields and excellent silage. Atlas sorghum is adapted in most sections of the state and will produce from 10 to 18 tons of silage per acre depending of course upon available moisture and soil fertility. He says silage can be produced and stored for about $8 per ton and next to pasture is the cheapest source of feed for the dairy herd.

With hot weather, pastures will not generally provide all of the grazing needed by the herd and unless supplementary pastures have been provided, silage is the answer to the feed problem, believes Burleson.

Use liberal amounts of fertilizer and harvest and store the crop at the right stage of maturi-

AGRICULTURE

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

The fact that a good pasture and range management program is a paying concern is readily seen when we digest the following information obtained from Clint McCain of Eastland recently.

McCain has 53 acres of pasture land about four miles south of Carbon that produced 4,350 pounds of beef during a 3-month period in 1952. This seems like some tall talk until we look at all the factors responsible for this production.

This 53 acres of grassland consists of 35 acres of old Indian grass and 18 acres of new Indian grass seeding — seeded in 1950. The condition of this pasture was excellent and the growth and vigor of the grass was good on April 1, when McCain started grazing it with 29 head of steers. After 90 days grazing or on July 31 McCain took these steers off the pasture and on weighing them found that they had gained an average of 150 pounds per head. This figures an average daily gain of 1.67 pounds per head, per day and at 16 cents a pound, it figures about 27 cents per day, per head. More figuring shows that at 16 cents per pound of beef produced this pasture made $696.00 during a 90-day grazing period. This was a per acre income of $13.10 which was pretty good going for 1952.

At the present time this pasture is being rested and if you want to see some real grass, stop and look at it on your next trip to Carbon.

SCS technicians at Eastland made the statement a few days ago that moisture penetration, following the recent rains, on poor condition ranges was about five inches whereas; penetration on excellent and good condition ranges went 24 inches or more. Similar results were found here. The question arises again, as to how much rain is a 2-inch rain?

O. L. Crownover recently put up 42 bales of "home grown" alfalfa hay. He said, these 42 bales were taken from one and one-half acres which was planted last September. About three acres were planted but all except the 1½ acres died out due to lack of moisture thru the fall and winter. In addition to the 42 bales of choice hay, Crownover got two short grazing periods off this alfalfa. He intends to plant more alfalfa this fall.

Alfalfa, the great soil and hay crop, is increasing in popularity in this area. Several fall and winter plantings may be seen here now and they are all looking pretty good at the present time. Guyle Greynolds, Fred Brizendine, Charles Ballew, and others will be grazing or cutting a hay crop before long. Cecil Shults has an old planting that he is proud of.

The Upper Leon Soil Conservation District has a Hancock Combination Drill and a Brillion Seeder that plants alfalfa very nicely. They may be used by Cooperators with the District for a small rental fee.

The most widely adapted varieties of alfalfa in this area are Common (Chilean), southwest common, and improved common such as buffalo (a variety highly resistant to bacterial wilt). Alfalfa has a very high fertilizer and lime requirement. Since it is intolerant to acid soils, the soil should be tested. September and October are best planting dates but it can be spring planted. It should be planted at the rate of 10 to 15 pounds per acre and covered ½ to ¾ inch deep. The seed should be inoculated.

to get full value from it, says the specialist. Use, he says, the type of storage that is best adapted to your section of the state and for complete details on a silage program for the farm, Burleson suggests that dairymen or other livestock producers check with the local county agent for information that will aid in making the program even more successful.

Mrs. Tom Baker dropped by the Record office last week to renew her subscription for another year. Says the good woman: "The paper is getting better with each issue." Thanks, Mrs. Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Duensing and Debra of Rio Grande City visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Holamon last week and motored over to Winters where they visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Holamon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Broer, of Raymondville, Texas, are spending the week here visiting the family of his sister, Mrs. Allen Hancock and old friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Broer made their home here until they moved to Raymondville about four years ago.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

A scene like the one this mother is shooting would be a fine picture for a Christmas gift album for the grandparents.

Springtime Thoughts of Christmas

I KNOW it is in a strange time of the year to be writing about Christmas—but I have a very good reason for it. I've been doing some early gift planning and thought that you might be interested in the same idea.

This week I've been taking some pictures which will eventually find their way into small, special albums that will go to special people as Christmas gifts.

Last year some friends of mine kept a year-long snapshot record of their small daughter. When November came around they picked out a series of the best ones and had two sets of extra prints made from each negative. From them they made up two albums, one for the grandparents on each side of the family. After Christmas they reported that these albums were just about the most successful holiday gift they had ever planned and that they intended to make it a traditional yearly gift, so that the grandparents would have their own complete picture record of the little girl.

I also heard of a variation of this idea in which again, grandparents were recipients of the album. In this case there were several grandchildren, living in various parts of the country. One of the daughters put together not only snapshots of her children, but collected pictures from the other families, and made them up into one book titled "The Grandchildren—1952."

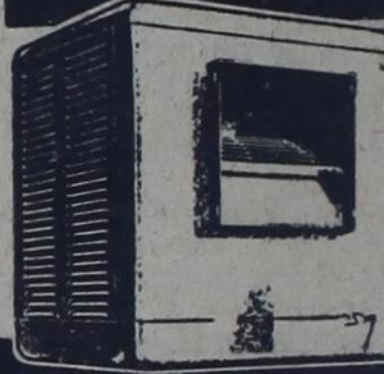

If snapshotting is a regular thing around your house, you may be able to wait until November, or even December, to start making up a gift album. However, if you do that, I have a feeling you'll start thinking back on occasions and situations in which you wish you had taken pictures for this use. To be on the safe side, give a little thought to the kind of pictures you'd like to give for gifts next Christmas and work them into your regular spring and summer picture taking plans.

—John Van Guilder
