The German has a word for it—Weltschmerz, literally "world pain"—and it is used to represent the sorrowful state of mind a person gets into from too much brooding upon the troubled affairs of this old planet and its future. It is pretty easy to get a dim and unhealthy outlook upon life when you've nothing to do but think about your problems, the faithlessness of human nature, and how badly your side is being outvoted in Austin and Washington.

But now and then there comes one of those uplifting "mountain top" experiences to remind you that there is a basic honesty in human nature—at least in a saving portion of it—and you can understand with thankfulness to the Lord God, that as long as there is such a heaven of goodness in the race, the situation is not all bad by any means. As the Good Book says, a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump.

Such an experience was the lot of Ed Kennedy last week, an experience in which Weldon Roach shared not a little himself. It was not so much that Ed Kennedy got back the valuables he lost which gave him the certainly happy experience of walking on air. It was more the fact that he discovered that there are people who can be trusted to be honest for simple honesty's sake.

There was all the opportunity in the world for H. L. Nix, who drives a truck for Van Gardenhire of Cisco, to have taken the currency out of the billfold he found crushed and torn on the highway three miles south of Rising Star last week, to have put the money in his pocket, tossed the billfold away and drove on $24.00 richer in money, and a million or so poorer in soul.

Instead, he picked up the wallet, which had been run over several times, collected the papers, Social Security card and other personal documents that had been scattered from it, put the whole business in a sack and brought it to Rising Star where he gave it to Weldon Roach to return to Ed Kennedy. The wallet had fallen from Mr. Kennedy's pocket as he drove his tractor to his home south of town.

Now it may be said that honesty deserves no praise because it is its own reward, and I have no doubt that Mr. Nix views his action as having no particular merit.

But can you wonder that Mr. Kennedy today feels somewhat richer in spirit, somewhat more confident of the species of which he is a member?

In the family Bible which she heired of her grandfather, Mrs. Carl Irby found a copy of the Rising Star News of Saturday, July 14, 1900, edited and published by Albert Tyson.

The newspaper, four handset pages about half the size of the modern Record, makes interesting reading, full of names familiar to modern residents. A subscription could be had for 50¢ per year, exactly the same price for which a bushel of plums was offered. You could buy staple and fancy groceries at A. J. Rhone's, buggies for $60 to $112.50 from Bucy and Son, who would also sell you hawks, wagons, paints, organs, tents, sewing machines, and fish hooks. You could get a "nice smooth easy shave" by G. W. Bills and have your razor honed for 25¢ at J. W. Walton's City Barber Shop. If you used Velvet Starch your grocer would give you a beautiful apron absolutely FREE. A New York firm was in the market for pearls, which was certainly an odd advertising request in this dry and landlocked country until you consider what might have happened to any pearls.

Voters Urged To Ballot In Revenue Bond Election Sat.

Rising Star voters, qualified as property owners who have rendered their property for taxation, have been called to the polls Saturday of this week on a $64,000 issue of revenue bonds to finance modernization of the city's sewage disposal system.

The bonds, to be paid out of utility revenues only, will help finance the construction of a new disposal plant, using the most modern technique of sewage treatment, in a location about a mile from the site of the present plant. Remainder of the financing is expected to be furnished in the form of a grant of $25,800 in government funds administered through the State Health Department.

Mayor Walter Smith urged that all voters in the city who are eligible to vote in the election make a special effort to appear at the City Hall between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday and cast their votes on the proposition.

"The city is in a critical position with respect to its sewage disposal system and we are obliged to do something about it," said the mayor. "This is a wonderful opportunity for us to solve this problem permanently and we urge our people to cooperate with the city in getting it done. No tax money can be used to pay the bonds. It will so state on their face. Only utility revenues can be used for this purpose. Let's have a big turnout of the voters on this matter."

G. E. McDonald will be judge of the election. He will be assisted by Mrs. Joe White, Mrs. Ethel Barnes and Earl Marsh.

Curry Trial Transferred To Palo Pinto County

Eastland—Dist. Atty. Earl Conner Jr. will continue to be chief prosecutor when the Nathan Curry murder trial begins in Palo Pinto County in October, he said in an interview last week.

The trial, transferred out of county this week, by visiting Judge W. J. Oxford after three days of interviewing prospective jurors, is believed to be the first such case transferred from this county in many years.

However, a similar situation happened in the early 1950's when a murder case, transferred here from Coleman County, was transferred on to Dallas County, after failure to seat a jury here.

Palo Pinto County Attorney Sam Cleveland may assist, Conner said, and probably will take charge of questioning and helping select a jury. This is generally customary, Conner said, of "host attorneys."

The Palo Pinto court is in Judge Oxford's district and he will preside. The small town of Palo Pinto is about 35 miles east of Eastland.

Judge Oxford gave up hope at 4 p. m. Wednesday of getting a jury here in the Curry murder trial and ordered the case transferred to his own court in Palo Pinto.

He said the 17-year-old youth's new trial would begin in 29th District Court at 9 a. m. Oct. 14.

The decision came minutes after attorneys had qualified the 21st venireman.

Alton Roan To Be Director Of Wildcat Band

Supt. Sam Jones of the Rising Star public schools announced this week that Alton Roan, director of the High School band at Clyde for the past year, and a resident of Rising Star, has accepted the position of director of the Rising Star High School Wildcat Band.

Mr. Roan, who directed the Breckenridge Buckaroo band for 15 years, achieving statewide recognition, came to Rising Star about 4 years ago where he owned and operated Roan's Variety Store until its sale to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Croan last year.

"We are certainly happy to have a band director of Mr. Roan's experience and recognition to direct the Wildcat band," said Mr. Jones. "We look forward to having a very successful music program in our schools under his direction."

Mr. Roan had been re-elected to the Clyde directorship but chose to accept the Rising Star position because he already owns his home here and he and his wife, the former Evora Wofford, daughter of Mrs. H. S. Wofford of Rising Star, like very much living in this community. "We like it here," said Mr. Roan.

Mrs. Erna Ford, a sister of Mr. Roan, also makes her home in Rising Star.

CofC Designates Saturday, July 6, Next Trades Day

Day event in Rising Star.

The date was set along with a decision to hold the business boosting program once every three months—instead of once a month—and to ask that the merchants alternate in offering prizes in the drawings which will be held.

The group decided that once Saturday, July 6, was fixed as the date for the next Trades a month would place too much of a burden on the promoters and merchants who offer prizes and would tend to depreciate the appeal of the trades event.

A three-month interval would give ample time to develop an attractive promotion and for advertising it in and away from Rising Star.

The event will be patterned upon the very successful Saturday sales appeal held in connection with the Clean-up Week campaign two months ago.

As in that campaign, merchants will be asked to make sidewalk displays of merchandise they will feature; local church, civic and school groups will be invited to have booths for special promotions, and prizes of merchandise will be given away.

At the Clean-up Trades Day drawings more than 40 prizes were given. The drawings—there were three—took up so much time that it was decided to cut the list in half for future Trades Day drawings and to ask the merchants to alternate in furnishing prizes.

President James Rutherford announced that the same committees who functioned in the original event would be asked to serve for the July program.

He also announced that the benches which a number of businesses have donated for use in the Horton lot recently cleared and surfaced with chat are ready and would be moved on to the site. They are primarily for the use of elderly people who spend time in town.

Braking the Trend

There is a tactical disposition on the part of so-called liberals to label as reactionary, and even subversive, any effort to arrest the hastening trend toward centralized government. Advocates of three proposed amendments to the U. S. Constitution designed to effect curbs upon further encroachments of the Federal power upon State and local jurisdictions have come under that onus.

They are accused of being "revolutionaries"—which is exactly what George III called the American patriots who resisted the encroachments of the Crown—of seeking to return the nation to the state of near chaos existing before the Constitution, and of being enemies of the "American system" who would pave the way for a Communist take-over. Even some of our more restrained newspapers have used that left-handed argument.

It is charged that the proposals were inspired by resentment of the Federal Government's intervention in civil rights issues in the South, and particularly of Supreme Court decisions affecting "State's Rights". That is true. Does not most if not all agitation for political reform stem from resentments?

There are three proposed amendments. They must be approved by two-thirds of the State legislatures before Congress is required to submit them. After submission three-fourths of the States must approve them within a period of seven years before they can become effective.

Only one of the three seems to have any real merit. It would set up a constitutional court of last resort composed of the Chief Justices of the 50 States a majority of whom could overrule the U. S. Supreme Court on interpretations of the U. S. Constitution affecting States' Rights.

The other two proposals would make possible for the leg-out any action of Congress, and deny Federal Courts jurisdiction of the States to adopt Constitutional amendments with tions in matters relating to representation in State Legislatures.

Of the latter two the first would be a dangerous and unwarranted invasion of the system of checks and balances which distinguishes our form of Government and makes it the best of all the democratic systems of government that man has ever devised. The present method of amending the Constitution is slow, deliberate and difficult. It was devised to be just that. It is also the most representative that can be conceived of consistent with the ideal of discouraging haste. The second would merely declare what its sponsors fear a super-court of State Chief Justices would not maintain.

But the power to interpret is the power to amend. The Supreme Court was not specifically given the authority to determine Constitutional intent. It is reasonable to lay a check upon that power, and to further insure that the States and the people shall be the arbiters of what of the rights reserved to them shall be delegated to central authority. That is the democratic way. It is reasonable to effect that insurance by transferring a veto to a broader, more elective and, hence, more democratic tribunal.

Contrary to the appeals of those who insist upon more and more Federal authority—and who are they to condemn "emotionalism"?—it is not an issue of undermining the Union. It is an issue of means. It is an issue of maintaining the union strength in the only way that it can be maintained in freedom. It is a question of the proper and restrictive definition of the powers of government, the re-enforcement of a system which our Union was designed to employ as most fruitful of human values.

There is a naive fallacy which assumes that merely by taking power from the hands of the people and vesting it in a strongly centralized Federal organization, it is refined of human faults and becomes altruistic. Nothing could be more tragically deceptive.

The fact is we have gone hog wild over centralized, paternalistic government. It is high time we stood back and took a long and careful look at this monolith we are building in Washington. Is it the answer to the problem of creating and maintaining a community in which the objectives of a good life, liberty and happiness are secured to us? More importantly, who determines our rights, our liberties and our happiness?

In view of what is growing in our land, the flowering of those bureaus and authorities which are gaining increasing control over all aspects of our lives, over the economic fate of our nation, is it unpatriotic to suggest that some restriction be laid upon the exercise of powers not given or intended by the Constitution?

Power to enforce a good may as readily inflict an evil. We are properly distrustful of the unchecked growth of any system of government in which the decrees of a small appointive group can be linked to the terrific military might of a central authority.

There are people who seek the empty honors of life in the hope that other people will not know how empty they are.

The generation of emotion may serve some human purpose, but it is doubtful that it produces anything more than mistakes.

Driving an automobile while drunk is about as serious a crime as a person can commit in this day of speed on the highways.

There may be nothing new under the sun, but the present generation is seeing it for the first time.

Moment to Remember

As It Looks From Here

By Omar Burselson, M. C. 17th Texas District

WASHINGTON, D. C.—CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS, who represents the Panhandle of Texas, recently developed a scholarly statement on the separation of the powers of the Federal Government.

IN HIS DISSERTATION ON THE SUBJECT, Mr. Rogers says that man has yet to devise a better system of government than that of the United States, and that the separation of powers between the Executive, the Judiciary and the Legislative is the keystone of it. He called attention to a pamphlet entitled "The Elite and the Electorate," recently published by the "Fund for the Republic." This publication is not a Government document and the organization has no connection with the Federal Government. It argues that some authority now vested in Congress should be transferred to the President. The reason given is that the United States might act more swiftly to meet sudden challenges at home or abroad.

AS A MATTER OF FACT, MOST OF US are complaining that the Legislative authority of our Government is already being usurped to a far greater extent by the Executive and the Supreme Court than is authorized by the Constitution.

FROM TIME TO TIME IN OUR HISTORY one branch or other has been dominant in the exercise of power granted under the Constitution's broad outlines. In some periods of our history, the Congress has acted more forcibly than the other two branches. At other periods, the Supreme Court has invaded duties and responsibility of the Congress and has legislated. When we have strong willed Presidents, they have often welded power so vigorously that they were accused in their day, of being near dictators.

FOR THIS VERY REASON, Abraham Lincoln was a particularly controversial President. History indicates he cornered more power for the Executive than any other. For instance, under the war power he proclaimed the slaves emancipated. He devised and put into execution his own plan for reconstruction. He increased the Army and the Navy beyond the limits set by law. He suspended court procedures and declared martial law. Public money in the sum of millions was spent without Congressional appropriation. No one ever accused Lincoln of not knowing the Constitution or that he did these things innocently. He knew how far he could go, and under the exigencies of the time and because there was a weak and divided Congress, he resorted to expedients to get a job done which he thought was needed.

THUS, THROUGHOUT HISTORY ONE BRANCH OR ANOTHER of our Government has been in position to act with authority beyond its constitutional limit. By reason of the growth, expansion and resultant complexities in operation, the Congress has, over the years, delegated a great deal of authority to the Departments, Commissions, Bureaus, and Agencies. This means, of course, that the lives and activities of all of us are, to some degree, affected by the authority wielded by bureaucratic control. It means we are governed to a considerable degree by people who are not elected by the people. There is just no doubt that, by a process of evolution and under the pressures of the times, the Constitution is being violated. At what place it began or at what point it ends, is a matter of opinion.

ANY SWEEPING CHANGE IN THE BALANCE OF LEGISLATIVE, Executive and Judicial powers of the Government can only be done legally by the adoption of a Constitutional amendment. The doctrine of the separation of authority in the three branches of Government is fundamental. Nowadays it is not always easy to find where the power of one ends and the other begins. One branch may usurp the authority of the other which has occurred at intervals in our history, but the fact remains that the Legislative branch, which is the Congress, is the only one which can delegate its power.

The Congress in too many instances has abdicated its responsibility and has surrendered a part of its Constitutional authority, which those of us elected to public office have sworn to uphold.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

FOLLOW SIMPLE RULES IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS

Vacation time is here. Soon millions of people will be driving about the country, and automobile accidents will occur with increasing frequency. What should a person do when involved in an accident?

At such times it is hard to keep your wits about you and just what to do. It is therefore a good idea to plan in advance just what you would do in event of a smash-up. Here are a few simple rules that every driver should commit to memory:

1. STOP! Failure to stop can result in serious criminal consequences.
2. RENDER AID. If anyone is injured: (1) Render first aid. (2) Stop bleeding. (3) Call a doctor or an ambulance or both. (4) DO NOT move an injured person in any way that could possibly add to his injury.
3. PROTECT THE SCENE FROM FURTHER DAMAGE. You may be liable for damage to approaching drivers, unless they are properly warned. If the highway is obstructed at night, have someone turn his headlights beams on the wrecked vehicles.
4. CALL AN OFFICER. Policemen, Highway Patrolmen, Sheriffs and their deputies are trained accident investigators whose testimony may be invaluable in establishing your civil claim for damages.
5. GATHER INFORMATION... WRITE IT DOWN. Don't trust your memory. Don't guess—be specific. Measure skid marks. Step off distances. Be sure to obtain names and addresses of witnesses. You are required by law to exhibit your driver's license to the other driver—and he must do the same.
6. BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU SAY. Even if you feel you are to blame, it is best to make no admission. You may learn later that the other driver was equally at fault, or more so. Emotional comments can be misconstrued by others, or may be misquoted. Whatever you say, make it factual.
7. SEE YOUR DOCTOR if there is the slightest chance you may be injured. Serious injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed.
8. CONSULT YOUR LAWYER IMMEDIATELY. The sooner your lawyer is brought into the matter, the better he can advise you and protect your rights. He can obtain statements from the witnesses while their memories are still fresh, and do many facts are preserved. Get your lawyer's advice before giving any interviews or statements to investigators or adjusters for the other side.
9. INFORM YOUR INSURANCE COMPANY PROMPTLY. Failure to do so may void your policy.
10. REPORT THE ACCIDENT

About Your Health

It all started with Sir Walter Raleigh and a Y-shaped pipe. The pipe was a gift to Raleigh from Sir Francis Drake—a souvenir from West Indies, where natives put the prongs in their nostrils and inhaled the smoke of a smoldering substance called "tobacco". Raleigh apparently set the style of his day, for when he took up smoking the practice soon became fashionable. All this happened nearly 400 years ago—in 1586. Since then smoking has become perhaps the most ingrained habit of humanity. Today in the United States alone, more than half the men and a fourth of the women smoke cigarettes daily, and additional millions smoke pipes and cigars. And the habit is winning more and more young recruits each day. Teenaged youngsters in increasing numbers are succumbing to the blandishments of national advertisers who depict smokers as virile men or beautiful girls, or the pull of "belonging" to a sophisticated group whose smoking members frown on non-smokers. Browsing With Bev

Summertime brings back memories of old-fashioned ice cream parties—the kind where everyone took a turn at working the freezer between "times up" at baseball or dips in the pond.

Today, hand freezers are hard to find. Instead manufacturers are producing electric gadgets that turn out ice cream with a flick of the switch. One of these fits into an ice cube tray and operates in the freezer compartment of a refrigerator. Another electrifies the old-time freezer.

If you have either of these ice cream makers—or if you still have an old-fashioned hand freezer—you're probably looking forward to lots of homemade ice cream this summer.

Here are some tips on making ice cream in a freezer—either electric or hand operated:

Thoroughly cool the mix after it is prepared and if possible keep it in the refrigerator for a few hours or even overnight. This will improve the flavor and texture.

Don't fill the freezer more than two-thirds full of mix. Otherwise, there'll not be enough room for the increased bulk caused by whipping. Use about 6 pounds of crushed ice, 1 pint of cold water, and 1 pound of rock salt or common table salt to freeze a 2-quart batch.

When the ice cream is frozen remove the dasher and pack the freezer with a mixture of crushed ice and salt—about 1 part salt to 8 parts ice (by weight). Cover with newspapers and let stand about 2 hours. Or, if you really want to go modern, wash off the container and put the container and all in your home freezer.

For a home-made ice cream that will bring the kids running-try this:

Home-made vanilla ice cream—Two cups sugar, ¼ cup corn starch, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup milk, 4 eggs, beaten, 2 table-spoons vanilla, 4 cups light (table) cream.

Mix sugar, cornstarch, and salt in the top of a double boiler. Blend in milk gradually. Cook over boiling water, stirring occasionally, until thickened, about 12 to 15 minutes. Stir a small amount of the hot cornstarch mixture into the beaten eggs; then stir the eggs into the remaining cornstarch mixture. Cook thoroughly; this is essential for a smooth ice cream. Stir in vanilla and chilled cream. Fill a 1-gallon freezer container not more than two-thirds full. Freeze in a hand-cranked or electric freezer with a mixture of 1 part ice cream salt and 6 parts crushed ice.

Remove dasher and repack freezer with ice and salt mixture (1 part salt to 8 parts ice) and allow to ripen in the freezer about 2 hours. Or, pack ice cream salt and 6 parts crushed and harden in a home freezer.

Makes 3½ quarts ice cream enough for about 28 servings.

As a special treat, serve the ice cream topped with fresh strawberries, blackberries, or Bing cherries. Or, you may want to add the fresh fruit to the ice cream itself. Rub 1 cup of sweetened fruit through a wire strainer or crush it fine with a fork. Add the fruit to the chilled mix just before freezing.

Third Case of Screwworms In County Confirmed

Another case of screwworms was confirmed last week according to Roger Blackmon, assistant county agent, Eastland.

This was the third confirmed case of screwworms in Eastland county this year. This case occurred in the northeast corner of the county. The first two cases verified were in the Gorman area.

Livestock owners are urged to report any case of screwworms to the county agent's office or to the local Vocational Agricultural Teacher's office. A sample of the worms should be collected and sent in a special container to Mission, Texas, for positive identification. These containers are available free of charge at the county agent's office.

When a case is confirmed, thousands of sterile male flies will be dropped in that area to control the increase of the screwworms. Mr. Blackmon, stressed the importance of reporting every case of screwworms in this county.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Swift visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hill. Mrs. Joe Copeland and Mr. and Mrs. Cadl McAden, all of San Angelo. Mr. Hill is a brother of Mrs. Swift and Mrs. Copeland is a niece of Mr. Swift.

Why should you buy U.S. Savings Bonds when there are so many other good investments?

To help your country is one answer—and a good one.

But Bonds have other advantages that make them worth your consideration.

For instance, they offer you just about the easiest way to save money: the Payroll Savings Plan. You just ask your employer to put part of your wages aside towards a Bond. Savings come automatically. Almost painlessly.

Another unique advantage of U.S. Savings Bonds is the way they stick with you. You can get your money any time. But if you're like most people, you'll hang onto your Savings Bonds for the big things you want in your future.

And, of course, Bonds are a safe investment—as long as there's a United States of America.

Which brings us back to your country again. Bonds help defend freedom at a time when the enemies of freedom are stronger than ever.

Buy Savings Bonds. The banks and savings institutions that sell them don't charge you a penny for the service.

Important facts about U.S. Savings Bonds

- You get $4 for every $3 at maturity
- Your Bonds are replaced free if stolen, lost or destroyed

Countywide Picnic At Eastland Planned For Flag Day Observance June 14th

EASTLAND — You'll come to the picnic.

Everyone is invited to the Eastland City Park at noon Friday for an old-fashioned picnic in observance of Flag Day in Eastland.

This picnic will afford the public the opportunity to share their food, meet new friends and renew acquaintances.

Each person is urged to bring a basket filled with food for themselves and one or two friends.

Post Office Officials from Regional and Washington will be on hand for the grand festivities, as well as several out of town Postmasters.

Another event of importance on that day will be an 8 a. m. buffet Friday at the Lone Cedar Country Club.

Highlight of the breakfast will be the presentation of two essays written by members of Charles Marshall's history class of Eastland High School. Manuscripts of the top ranking essay and the runner-up will be purchased and presented to the Post Office Department.

Since space is limited due to visiting dignitaries, reservations must be made by Wednesday and may be made by calling the local Post Office.

Flag Day festivities will be under the direction of Mrs. Marene Johnson local Postmaster, and are scheduled to continue at the 10 a. m. ceremonies on the Post Office lawn.

Adding special interest to the day will be the unveiling of the Stamp Mural, a seven-year project and a magnificent work of art done by Mrs. Johnson.

Providing atmosphere will be the four military services, both men and women, color guard, Six Flags over Texas, a parade, the 40 ft. flag of blooming flowers, the Oriental Garden and the Lion statue, as well as the other events.

In attendance for the annual celebration will be General Services Administration officials; David S. Phillips, Administrator of Region Seven; James B. Riley, Director; and G. F. Carlson, Area Manager.

Cachets (envelopes with picture of mural stamp window printed on them) are now available for mailing to your friends. They sell for 12 for $1.

12,000 Stamps Fashioned Into Historical Mural

Eastland—Postage stamps tell interesting stories.

Nearly 12,000 stamps make up one of the biggest and most significant historical murals in the Southwest — and it's located in Eastland.

Mrs. Marene Johnson, local postmaster, has spent about 1,000 "woman" hours on the mural, preparing the glass with stamps. This doesn't include time spent searching, buying, pressing, cleaning, washing and generally readying the stamps for the six by ten-foot mural.

At the bottom center of the mural, she has made a Texas historical scene, with the outline of Texas and its several flags, to honor all the pioneers of the state — but specifically the pioneers of Eastland County. The popular nine-cent Alamo Stamp helps make up the Texas section.

In the top center, she created from stamps, a large portrait of Benjamin Franklin (originator of the "franked" mail). The portrait is surrounded by roses, made of small, appropriately colored stamps.

There is even a giant cancellation bearing the well-known "Pray for Peace."

Glazers have sealed the mural between sheets of glass.

In another corner Mrs. Johnson has the autographs of all the living presidents and vice President Lyndon Johnson, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Richard Nixon, Harry Truman, John Nance Garner and Hubert Hoover.

She also has the signatures of Lady Bird Johnson, Cong. Omar Burleson, Gov. John Connally, Sen. Tom Creighton, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, and Representatives Jim Wright and W. R. Poage.

A large United Nations Seal centers the mural and features the Freedom of the Press series, and stamps from most of the member nations, with autographs.

The mural will be unveiled Friday — Flag Day, June 14.

Homes Abound with Potential Poisons, AMA Official Warns

Children, supposedly "safe at home," are poisoning themselves at the rate of nearly 1,500 a day.

"When you consider that more than a quarter million home-used products on the market contain toxins, it is not difficult to understand why more than 500 children die each year from self-administered poisons," said F. J. L. Blasingame, M.D., executive vice-president of the American Medical Association.

Children are naturally curious, especially the very young ones. They are prone to stick into their mouths anything they can get in their hands. It doesn't even have to taste good or look pretty.

Most accidental poisonings occur in children under five. Two-year-olds are the most poison prone, with one-year-olds close behind. At this stage in life their curiosity is at its height and their sense of fear not yet developed, Dr. Blasingame explained.

Medicine, especially aspirin, heads the list of items children seem to like to sample, accounting for nearly half of all accidental poisonings. In fact, too much of virtually any medicine can produce serious consequences.

Among the supposed non-edibles that frequently find their way into children's stomachs are cleaning and polishing agents, detergents, shoe polish, cosmetics, waxes, insecticides, paint, turpentine, chalk, bleaches, plant foods, plaster, perfume and decorations.

Medicines account for nearly half of all accidental poisoning in United States each year. Discard unused medicine and keep rest out of children's reach.

A primary cause of such accidents, says Dr. Blasingame, is storing poisonous substances in food containers or soft drink bottles. A toddler just naturally assumes that a soft drink bottle contains a treat. He'll drink whatever he finds in it. "The facts are clear," he warned. "Between 65 and 70 per cent of all poisonings take place because an item was accessible to a child."

"If we're going to live in modern homes with modern conveniences and modern medicines, we have to develop some up-to-date standards that will make home safe for our children."

Among suggestions for lessening the poisoning hazards in the home, Dr. Blasingame suggested:

- Keep potential poisons out of reach and tightly sealed.
 - Never transfer toxic materials into household utensils.
 - Don't leave your child alone in a room in which you're working with poisons.
 - Give medicines only in a lighted room.
- If your child might have taken a poisonous substance, call your doctor for instructions at once. Don't wait to see what happens.

Notwithstanding the dry weather and grasshoppers H. E. Anderson was constantly opening new stocks of dry goods and the Rising Star Band was prepared to furnish music for all occasions where band music was wanted.

Seven miles north of Rising Star, M. E. Wilkinson was standing a jack by the name of Brigham Young.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks for the many thoughts of me while I was in the hospital at Dublin. The cards, flowers, letters, gifts and the encouraging visits of so many friends are deeply appreciated as is the wonderful food after I returned home. It prompted me to play sick just to receive such attention.

What

difference

Grandma may talk about the good old days, but a whole team of horses couldn't drag her back to an old fashioned kitchen. When you compare the two pictures, you observe an important fact. All the marvelously improved conveniences you see are made possible by electricity — every single one. Yes, electricity makes the difference, and what a difference it makes! It eliminates drudgery and creates more leisure time by performing countless tasks in the home at the flip of a switch. It turns factory wheels, lights the darkness, and does all these things effortlessly and economically. That is one of two reasons why the use of electricity is increasing here in the Center of the Southwest. The other is that more people, more businesses, more industries are coming our way. Our expansion program is keyed to this increase, for we are convinced our service area faces GROWTH UNLIMITED.
