WHAT ARE WE DOING TO MAKE SLATON BETTER?

It has been said, and truly so, that Slaton has grown and prospered in spite of ourselves—the citizenship. But that has been changed now. We have new life since the reorganization of our Chamber of Commerce and the mossbacks and has-beens are taking to the tall timber.

But after all, what are we doing to make Slaton the worthy, busy, thriving center of the best territory on the great South Plains?

What investment of time, vision, thought, labor and money are we placing in this great task?

Are we in line with the programs for the advancement of the city and this entire territory?

Are we in harmony with the means through which the thing can be made a great go?

Are we moved by an unselfish desire to see a development of this city and its trade territory that will be for the good of all?

If these questions can be answered satisfactorily, then Slaton and its surrounding communities need have no fear for results.

Slaton has a distinctive place, and as distinctive a task. Great possibilities carry with them great responsibilities, and no one can question for a minute the assertion, and the assumption that Slaton has both of these.

The eyes of the outlying communities and towns are on Slaton. It is said with pleasure that many of these places are her friends. It is also admitted with regret that still others of them do not entertain that feeling of friendliness that is always such a complement and a comfort. But—neither the friendship nor the lack of it, relieves Slaton of her responsibilities to her trade territory.

People are flocking here from other and distant sections of the country and settling on our rich agricultural lands. Many new business enterprises have sprung here during the past year, a number of these investors coming from towns that once deserted Slaton, but have seen their error and want to locate in a good town. We welcome them all, for they were among the best and most progressive citizens of their respective communities.

Another fact is apparent: No one that has ever succeeded has escaped the censure, the criticism, the maligning of those who felt that their own ends could best be forwarded by an antagonistic attitude. Nor would it be polite at this time to declare that such attitudes are evidences of minds dominated by narrow ideas.

Slaton's growth and development, her supremacy through the days to come will be measured exactly in terms of her willingness to make such investments as may be necessary to keep herself up with the progress of the communities surrounding her. It will not matter that some of the people in some of the towns outside do not love her to the extent of backing her in a big, unselfish way. Thrusts at Slaton may be turned wonderfully to account for good. The attacks being made on Slaton, will but make wise the unsuspecting, and bring them to the support of the forces already in the field and fighting to make this the best town on the great South Plains. Viewed in this broad, hopeful light, it may be that those who have spoken unkindly of Slaton and put out false and misleading reports about certain industries that would be moved to another town, have really done us a good deed.

At the same time, let none of us overlook the fact that even the smallest, the least important thing we do in connection with making Slaton and surrounding communities all that they should be. Get in the harness if you haven't already joined the Chamber of Commerce.

ROBERTSON'S LIQUIDATION SALE DRAWING BIG CROWDS

As announced in the last issue of the Slatonite Robertson's Liquidation Sale opened Saturday morning, Oct. 29, with one of the largest crowds present that ever attended a like event in Slaton. A large force of extra salespeople had been employed for the occasion and they were kept on the jump all during the day and far into Saturday night.

According to Mr. Payne, manager of this big establishment, throngs of eager bargain hunters have crowded the store each day this week and buying has been brisk all the time. But even now you can hardly tell that a sale has been going on at this store as the stock is so large and so well assorted.

Mr. Payne also stated that the sale had so far exceeded his fondest hopes and is more than pleased with the way people are patronizing his store. He said that people were coming from a distance of 35 and 40 miles to avail themselves of the bargains the Robertson store is offering.

On account of the death of Col. A. B. Robertson this business will be liquidated by January 1, 1922, and the stock must be sold. Mr. Payne says that in order to reduce this stock quickly they will put the prices down to rock bottom now—at a time when people are buying their winter merchandise so that they may have advantage of the bargains when they need them most.

Watch for the announcement of this store each week in the Slatonite.

H. D. TALLEY REPLIES TO STATEMENT OF JUDGE BROWN

The following statement of Judge P. F. Brown, made in address before the Rotary Club of Lubbock concerning the roads of the county, was published in the Avalanche of last week. It is quoted below:

"On the other hand he (Brown) referred to the road between Lubbock and Slaton, and stated that it was about as bad a road as we had in the county, and it should be the best as there is much more travel over it. He did not blame the commissioner for it, and explained that all the money assigned that precinct for road work had been used on the hill on the canyon near Slaton, and expressed the opinion that this was about as bad place as could be found on the canyon to put a road and did not believe that it would ever be made a good road without the expenditure of a tremendous amount of money yet, and while he did not say so, the general tone of his address on this subject was that it was also useless as Slaton had a good road north across the canyon, also east, and that this money might be better spent on other roads, where more people would be served."

Below Mr. Talley gives the figures on the amount of money he has spent on each road in his district. Inspect them closely, then you can draw your own conclusion as to whether or not "all the money assigned that precinct had been used on the hill on the canyon near Slaton." Glance at these figures:

|--|---------------|
| Grading road from Lubbock to County line, 22 miles | $900 |
| Puget Sound highway, commencing at Singer St., Lubbock | $550 |
| Work on road S. E. of Lubbock, adjoining townsite | $200 |
| Nine miles of road N. W. of Slaton | $640 |
| Work on canyon hill | $745 |
| Grubbing and working lakes, repairs on machine, about | $400 |
| Grading and grubbing 2 miles road Puget Sound highway | $190 |
| TOTAL | $3435 |

H. D. TALLEY, Commissioner. According to the statement in the Avalanche the most important roads in the county are in the Slaton district, which is a FACT, yet Mr. Talley states that he has spent less money on his roads than either of the other three commissioners. He says he did this in an effort to keep the county out of debt and to avoid the payment of ten per cent interest on time warrants, such as have been issued for road work in other sections of the county.

The Slatonite wants to compliment Mr. Talley for the efficient service he is rendering the county. He applies the same conservative business methods to the county's affairs that he does to his own private interests, which accounts for the fact that he has been able to accomplish so much for the county with so little money.

A CITY HALL.

Wednesday and Thursday of this week citizens of Slaton have been circulating a petition to vote bonds of the city in the sum of $15,000.00 for the purpose of erecting and equipping a city hall in the center of the public square park.

The Slatonite is heartily in favor of this move, and has advocated it for some time past. It is a pleasure to know that the move has taken definite form.

But we are convinced that a grave mistake is being made in asking for only $15,000.00. By all means the park in the public square should be beautified, and the city should erect a beautiful city hall. The time has come when a city hall is a necessity. But when that building is erected it will be permanent. It must not be a cheap structure void of any architectural beauty, and it should be a fire-proof building, with large basement, fitted with steam heating plant, and an auditorium on the second floor capable of seating 1500 people.

The first floor should be equipped for use as offices. For use of the Mayor, Secretary, Recorder, Justice of the Peace, City and School Tax Collector and Assessor, Chamber of Commerce, fire fighting apparatus, and—the post office.

The post office is now in need of more commodious quarters, and according to the views of many of our citizens the postoffice should be centrally located, and in the city hall in the center of the public square. Arrangements no doubt could be made with the Government to rent a room, the equipment to be furnished by the post master. Considerable revenue could be derived in this way, and the county would be willing to pay reasonable rent for a room for the justice of the peace of Slaton precinct.

The Slatonite also believes that sidewalks should be built around and through the park, and that plowing therein should cease; that with city water available, blue grass and white clover should be sown, at least two slightly fountains constructed, hitching racks built, and the park in other ways made beautiful.

The city hall should be furnished with modern and up-to-date furniture and conveniences.

To make a permanent, slightly and commodious structure, and equip the building, not less than $25,000.00 should be voted, and we trust that all who view the matter as we do will petition the City Council to call a bond election at once for the above named purpose to vote not less than $25,000 or $30,000 in bonds.

NO TRACE OF J. W. HOOD'S FORD THAT WAS STOLEN

On Wednesday night, Oct. 19, a new Ford car belonging to J. W. Hood, was stolen from his residence. No trace of the car has been found, though every effort has been made. Mr. Hood carried insurance against theft.

There's no use talking
Those fellows over in Lubbock
Have got better control
Over their wives
Than we have in Slaton
And while I was there recently
F happened to be in a drug store
Trying to call up a friend
Over the telephone
And I was hunting for his number
And right next to me
Was another guy
And he was looking
For another number
And seemed to be having trouble
Locating what he wanted
And a woman
Was looking over his shoulder
And I supposed
That she was his wife
And she spoke up and said:
"Why don't you look
In the classified directory,
Maybe you'll find it easier"
He didn't even look up
But opened one side of his mouth
And calmly remarked
"Aw, shut up"
And she shut
And didn't have Anything more to say
And after a while
He slammed the book shut
And walked off
And she tagged along
Just as meek as a kitten
And I got to thinking about it
A little later on
And up there
The policy seems to be,
Treat 'em rough
But just the same
I can't help but wonder
What would happen
If I or J. S. Lanham
Or R. J. Murary
Or W. B. Montague
Or R. H. Todd
Or T. M. George
Or anyone else for that matter
Should give our wives
A rather superior glance
And say to them
Kind of sarcastic like
"Aw, shut up"
Gee, it makes me shiver
Just to think of it.

Civic and Culture Club.

Mrs. Lee Green was hostess to the Civic and Culture Club. After the usual business meeting the following program, with Mrs. Walter as leader, was given:
Bach as an Organist, Mrs. McCarty.
Handel, the Master of Oratorio, Mrs. Smart.
Haydn, the Father of Symphony, Mrs. Shankle.
Mozart, Boy Violinist, Mrs. McReynolds.
Beethoven, the Supreme Master, Mrs. Parker.
Wagner, the Great Master of Lyric Drama, Mrs. Baldwin.
After a general discussion of the lesson, Mrs. Green, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Dick Ragsdale, served a delicious salad course and a social hour was enjoyed by the members.
The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. B. M. Holland with Mrs. W. Donald as leader.

Junior B. Y. P. U.

The Junior B. Y. P. U. Society was entertained Friday from 5 to 7:30 at the home of Mrs. Fred Stottlemire, with Mrs. Stottlemire and Mrs. Harry D. Moore, their leader, as hostesses. A large number were present. After a delightful musical program many amusing games were played. Every Junior was bubbling over with fun and enjoyment and the climax came when a delicious refreshment course was served, consisting of cake and strawberry ice cream. Every one went to their homes rejoicing in the fact that they were a member of the B. Y. P. U. REPORTER.

Program for next Sunday:
Song, "Help Somebody Today."
Prayer for the orphans in homes and orphanages, that they may grow in mind and soul to be like Jesus.
Song, "Somebody Else Needs a Blessing."
Group 2 in charge of program.
Scripture reading, Matt. 19:38-42.
Special song, Mable Stottlemire and Arah Moore.
Reading, "There are lonely hearts," Beryl Hardesty.
"Caring for the sick," Vinita Bowen.
Loving the helpless, Evelyn Stallings.
Honoring the old ministers, Alleen Tucker.
Leader's ten minutes.
Minutes, business, announcements.
Closing song and prayer.

Slaton Rebekahs.

Slaton Rebekahs met Monday night with a good attendance. After the general routine of business two came in by transfer, and then the degree team put on the initiatory work, with three candidates. After work was finished to the great surprise of all came Mrs. Hannam, Mrs. Whipple, Mrs. M.

G. Leverett, B. O. Bailey, Misses Mabel Castleberry and Nora Davidson with whipped cream, pumpkin pie and hot coffee. During the social hour music was furnished by Mrs. L. B. Hagerman and the young people enjoyed themselves very much. All went home feeling it was good to be a Rebekah, and will be back at the next meeting.

Each member of the degree team is requested to be at the hall Friday night to practice in team work.

Laverne Manire is Ten.

Laverne Manire entertained a number of the little folks last Saturday afternoon at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Manire, celebrating his tenth birthday. Indoor and outdoor games and music on the player piano were enjoyed. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Laverne was the recipient of many useful and pretty gifts.

Marjorie and Kenneth Smith Celebrate Their Birthdays.

Marjorie, aged 5, and Kenneth, 4, entertained a large number of little folks at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Smith, from 3 to 5 last Saturday afternoon, celebrating their birthday anniversaries. Many games dear to the hearts of the little fellows were indulged in and the afternoon was a continual round of pleasure for them. Refreshments of cake, candy and punch were served. The little hosts were remembered by numerous gifts suitable to the occasion.

Tudor-Abbott.

Val Tudor and Miss Nannie Abbott, both of this city, were married in Lubbock on Oct. 15, but it was kept secret from their friends until a few days ago. The groom in this happy event is a son of Mr. and Mrs. K. K. Tudor of Carr Ranch, and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Abbott of this city. Both young people are highly esteemed by a large circle of friends.

On last Tuesday night a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, honoring the newly-weds. Delicious refreshments were served. The Slatonite joins in extending congratulations and best wishes.

The Junior Misionary Society met at the Methodist church Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with Mrs. L. C. Odom as leader. It was a very interesting meeting. There were sixteen members and three visitors present. After the lesson refreshments were served.

The teachers of the Baptist Sunday School held a meeting at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Hardesty last Monday night. After discussion of the lesson and teachers' problems the guests were delighted with refreshments of hot chocolate and cookies. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Owens.

The Y. W. A. held a very interesting meeting Tuesday night at the Baptist church. Fifteen girls were present. We were glad to add two new members, Misses Audie Meador and Vera Frost. Mrs. Hardesty led the meeting. Readings were heard from Misses Faye Tucker and Ruth Wadley. Plans were completed for the society's first social meeting to be given at the home of Miss Mamye Haney on tomorrow night.

Missionary Society.

Our Bible Study is growing in interest and is becoming one of the most attractive of our meetings. As we studied Luke 10-11 we realized more fully the need of more workers and our daily prayer should be to Him with whom all things are possible to thrust forth more laborers into the harvest. We should deem it a great privilege to be a coworker with God in His effort to redeem a lost world. And we can please Him best by rendering unto Him our service and be more determined than ever to work for the promotion and building up of His kingdom. One of the best methods by which we can do this is to study the Bible and find from it His will concerning us. Then we will be able to carry the sweet old-story to sad hearts and its message of hope to de-

Highly Pleased With the Trade We Are Receiving

—The business given us on our opening far exceeded our greatest expectations, and business has been good every day since. To say that we are gratified does not wholly express our appreciation to the good people of Slaton and surrounding territory for the very cordial reception they have given us and for the liberal business they are giving this store. We are going to strive harder to merit your good will and patronage, and if good merchandise at prices that you can afford, and prompt and courteous service will retain your patronage we have no doubt about the good business we will enjoy in the future.

THAT the Ford One-ton truck does more for the farmer or the merchant is proved by the great number of them now in daily use,—that it does this at less cost is shown by the actual figures—a smaller first cost and a much lower expense for operation and upkeep.

The Ford One-ton Truck has proved a great money saver, as well as a labor saver. It has solved the problems of economic transportation between the farm and the city.

The Ford One-ton truck has all the merits of the Ford car, with added strength for greater capacity. The worm drive of aluminum bronze gives unusual and positive power at a very low cost.

Come in and let us show you how the Ford One-ton Truck will help you and save you money in your work.

IMPORTANT

We are prepared to furnish the Ford Truck equipped either with Standard or Special Gearing. The Standard Gearing gives the truck a maximum of power. The Special Gearing increases the speed of the truck from five to seven miles an hour, converting it into a Fast Delivery Car.

WOULDN'T STAND FOR REBUKE

Beggar Woman Had Her Own Point of View Concerning "Business" She Was Engaged In.

Secretary Lawson Purdy of the Charity Organization society said at a dinner in New York:

"Professional beggars are a self-righteous crew. What I mean is that they regard their trade the same as you and I regard honest work. One winter afternoon I came on a beggar woman I knew of old. She was begging in a bitter wind on a corner, and three little children in calico rags shivered at her side.

"'You—Jane,' I said reproachfully. 'You—begging! And those three little ones! They aren't really yours at all!'

"'Well, damntall,' said the beggar woman. 'I wouldn't have to beg so hard if they were really mine, for then I wouldn't be forking over a dollar a day to hire them.'—Los Angeles Times.

Not an Army.

"He must be innocent." "What makes you think so?" "He's hired only one lawyer to defend him."

His "Tips."

Young Little liked a "little bit on," but unfortunately he had not the skill, or perhaps it was only the luck, to pick winners.

On looking through his racing paper one morning he saw a tipster's advertisement.

"Two sure things for $5." He purchased a money order for the required amount, and wrote off straightway to the address in the advertisement.

But the advertiser was a smarter man than Little, for in reply Little received the following note:

"Dear Sir—As advertised, my 'sure things' are:

"Loose Button—Sure to come off.
"Dirty Carpet—Wants some beating."

Like the Old Folks.

A bachelor who is forever putting his foot in it, recently visited the proud parents of a new boy.

The mother held up the bundle for the inspection of the bachelor and asked gaily: "Tell us, now, frankly, which of us do you think he is like?"

After a careful examination of the mite the bachelor answered: "Well, Marie, of course, intelligence has not yet dawned in his face, but he's wonderfully like both of you."

Which?

Cora—Every tongue in the college was wagging yesterday.
Cousin Dick—Gossip or gum?

The man who leaves the world no better than he found it is a worse parasite than dodder.

HIS DANCING DAYS NOT OVER

Civil War Veteran Astonished Hotel Loungers During Recent Reunion at Indianapolis.

When the "boys in blue" went marching down Pennsylvania street toward Washington, the masses of spectators to the left and right were astonished to see two men, who a moment before had seemed as weary and spent as any in the column, break step, link arms and shy to the west curb where, for 50 yards, they executed a dance, a sort of double jig, of which their aged limbs seemed incapable. Some of the comrades, on the sidewalk at the east side of Illinois street near the Hotel Severin, were discussing this feat in the evening. Two civilians who had witnessed the airy capers joined in the comment, and the "meeting" agreed that the antic was remarkable. While this talk was flowing an old soldier from lower Ohio came near and listened. He was a little past eighty years; his beard mantled his breast, his weight was a trifle under 800 pounds, and there was a twinkle in each of his eyes.

"Sho, that wasn't much to do," he piped in a voice unexpectedly small and high.

The members of the "curb meeting" looked at him sharply, as if to ask on what grounds he presumed to belittle the acrobatics of comrades. The aged Ohioan's eyes twinkled like two stars. He knew what was passing in the minds of the men he had interrupted, and he meant to answer them by deeds. Before they realized his purpose, he pitched his broad-brimmed hat aside, gave a hitch to his trousers, and danced a double-shuffle at a rate reminding the "audience" of a tenor drum roll. Had the hotel building reared up and spun round the little crowd would scarcely have been more astonished. Three minutes the jig clattered on, then with a triumphant glance about him, the dancer stopped, caught up his hat and trundled down street without a word.—Indianapolis News.

He Named the Flapper.

Why is a flapper? Who knows? Well, why is she called a flapper? Now, that's different.

In "Bunker Bean," a story published 12 years ago, Harry Leon Wilson, the author, called the little, dumpling girl to whom "Our Hero, Bunker Bean," found himself married, the "flapper."

The name "just kind-a fitted" that type of girl and it caught on, slowly at first, through use of joke writers, on the vaudeville stage and in short story magazines. Its use became general with a rush about a year ago, perhaps because short skirts and bobbed hair seemed to increase the tribe of "flapper types."

When asked recently why he called his Bunker Bean girl a flapper, Mr. Wilson said he didn't exactly know.

"I heard the term first in England, I believe," he said. "Over 15 years ago the little, plump chorus girl was called a flapper. Later England dropped the word and called her a 'pony,' as she is still known. But flapper originated, I believe, in the English chorus."

As He Saw It.

He was the underpaid minister of a church whose members were wealthy but very thrifty farmers. He tried to get them to raise his salary as the cost of living increased, but failed. And the next Sunday following that board meeting he preached on fulfilling the Scriptures. He congratulated his congregation on the way they had carried out several injunctions of the Bible and finally he spoke of some not so necessary to follow.

"And now I will end with the verse which speaks of myself," he said courageously, and proceeded to read the one beginning, "The poor, ye shall always have with you."—Indianapolis News.

MOTHER! CLEAN

CHILD'S BOWELS WITH CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little tongue is coated, or if your child is listless, cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, give a teaspoonful to cleanse the liver and bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful today saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.—Advertisement.

You remember the story of the Pitcher—

It made a good many trips to the well and it came back in good order.

A lot of people won't believe coffee can harm them until it does harm them.

"Nonsense!" they say, "it never disturbs me."

When it does disturb them, then they know.

Often the disturbance which they then recognize is the result of irritations to nerves and digestion which have been going on for a long time.

If you have to lie awake at night and count the clock ticks, after an evening cup of coffee, then you know that it's better to be safe than sorry.

The risk of coffee's harm is gone when the meal-time drink is Postum.

Here's a delightful and satisfying table beverage, with charm for the taste and without harm for nerves or digestion. You know you're on the right road with Postum; there's never the possibility that you'll go once too often.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

CALOMEL GOOD BUT TREACHEROUS

Next Dose May Salivate, Shock Liver or Attack Your Bones.

You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into your blue like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tonic for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tonic straightens you right up and you feel great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salivate.—Advertisement.

JOY BROUGHT INTO HOME

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Restoring Mrs. Benz to Health

Altoona, Pa.—"I am writing to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. We have had six children die almost at birth. From one hour to nineteen days is all they have lived. As I was going to have another, I took a dozen bottles of your Vegetable Compound and I can say that it is the greatest medicine on earth, for this baby is now four months old and a healthier baby you would not want. I am sending you a picture of her. Everybody says, 'That is some healthy looking baby.' You have my consent to show this letter."—Mrs. C. W. BENZ, 131 3rd Ave., Altoona, Pa.

No woman can realize the joy and happiness this healthy babe brought into the home of Mrs. Benz, unless they have had a like experience.

Every woman who suffers from any ailments peculiar to her sex, as indicated by backaches, headaches, bearing-down pains, irregularities, nervousness and "the blues" should not rest until they have given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

TO REMAKE FROCK WITH SEMI-BELTED EFFECT

Addition of Cape That Matches Provides Up-to-Dateness

Fabric That Blends May Be Used, Lined With Silk in Shade Like the Dress.

Making over a last-season frock has become a popular experiment with a great many women these days. One of the best possible ways to make a simple one-piece frock of last season's vintage look like one of the 1921-22 models is to equip it with a cape that matches, or at least blends, with the costume well enough to make it seem an actual part of the year-old frock. This may be accomplished in a number of ways. Of course, best of all is the actual matching of the dress fabric and the fashioning of the smart cape to accompany it. If this is not possible, then fabric in some color that blends with the frock may be purchased, and it may be lined with silk in a shade exactly matching the dress.

Stitching a fabric in heavy silk thread or in beads to match the frock it is to accompany is often done, the plain material being transformed into a checkered or striped weave, so far as appearances are concerned. Very fine silk braid is frequently used for this purpose, instead of the silk stitching.

A smart one-piece frock and matching cape is made of light tangerine colored duvetyl or velours. The frock fastens in front, little loops of the fabric serving as buttonholes and the buttons are small bullet-shaped affairs covered with black silk. A silk braid girdle holds the frock in at the waistline. The cape is lined with black

This is a striking redingote model of French serge bandeau with Hungarian embroidery. One large button serves to give the dress a semi-belted effect.

FASHION NOTES

Velvet still is good for entire costumes, but it is considered smarter this season when used in combination with soft wool fabric or with silk or satin.

Nightgowns made of silk, similar to that used for men's shirts, are shown, made on very simple lines and finished with a double row of machine hemstitching.

All shimmering fabrics are not all silk, though they are known by names that convey the silk idea. Bengaline is a worsted-filled silk that has good wearing qualities and is of attractive texture.

Deep-piled woolsens for coats have such a soft and close texture that they resemble fur. Chemise resembles beaver in its deep, lustrous pile. Armida conveys a good idea of Persian lamb fur. Panvelaine is a close suggestion of otter. Wool canton has a pebbly surface, and is shown in all the new color tones.

Camisoles made with lace and embroidery trimming at the front to show in the cloth suits and dresses instead of vests are being shown in great numbers. The camisole itself is made of net, satin, crepe, edged about the top with lace and strapped over the shoulder with ribbon. The vest front in some of them is loose and long enough to hang down over the skirt.

Sets comprised of hats and scarfs are being developed by the different designers as accessories to the winter outfit. Some of them are made of fur and silk and metal fabric combinations, others are of flowers, and include muffs for evening wear. Still others are of paisley effects, or roman striped material combined into many different and clever shapes and sizes.

Slit Down the Back.

Dresses made with an open slit down the back, the blouse fastened at neckline and waist only are frequently noted.

CREPE POPULAR WITH FRENCH

Fabric is in Evidence Everywhere in Paris—Used for Both Day and Evening Wear.

All smart Frenchwomen have now completed their season's wardrobe, and the couturiers are specially busy for the moment with their foreign clientele. Crepe de chine is more successful than ever. In the morning in the Bois, in the fashionable tea places which the really smart Frenchwoman frequents more as an onlooker than to dance, in restaurants, theaters, in fact everywhere, one sees crepe de chine.

For day-time wear, it is usually black, and in style, the most successful models are the simple straight chemise line either trimmed with a double fastening effect on each side of the bodice, or sometimes trimmed with plaited flounces; the sleeves are short, and long black gloves are still a much favored accessory for this style of dress.

For evening wear, also, crepe de chine is used but in light shades, of which mauve seems to be the most favored, and the Vionnet models are among the most successful. One of the models designed by this house was made of a narrow white foundation covered by lace and jade chiffon points starting from the waistline and falling a little longer than the foundation.

Children's Styles.

Simplicity is the rule in developing styles for children, whether coats or dresses are under consideration. The sleeveless jumper dress is to be a fall favorite, made of serge, velveteen, tricotine or wool jersey cloth, and worn with either silk or cotton blouse

Colored Linens.

Flat colors in table linens are found in some of the smart shops. One particularly good-looking luncheon set was of vivid pink with hemstitch-ends.

Gray-Haired Women.

A blue dotted veil is becoming to the gray-haired, blue-eyed woman.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN.
(Copyrighted.)

Washington, Nov. 1.—A moderate cool wave is expected on the northern parts of meridian 90 near Nov. 6, a warm wave near 8, a cool wave and blizzard near 11. Near these dates these weather features will cover all the northern Rockies, Pacific slope, western Canada and northwestern America. Beginning with high temperatures and moderate storm forces, in the far northwest, the usual weather that precedes a great continental storm disturbance will affect the whole continent. That kind of balmy and deceitful weather always leads the sleepy, unwaterful class into a weather trap and then they complain of their misfortunes. Observe Nature's signals and you will not get caught.

That great November storm, with its varying weather features, will move toward New Orleans and then gradually turn, moving over and along the Alleghenies and down the St. Lawrence river, then out along the European steamer line towards Great Britain. Of course the last end of this great storm, the blizzard part, will interest you most. I expect the central part of the cold wave to reach Missouri not far from Nov. 13, Texas 14, Ohio 15, Quebec and Maine 16. It will be a big cold wave and will affect the whole continent. I have given only its central portions and they are usually the mildest part of it; the fiercest part of these bad weather storms usually occur northeast of the central parts.

But you must know something about the weather signs that are hung out above you. I can not give the exact path the central parts of storms will take, but the weather signs above will indicate how the storm is moving. If you can see a daily U. S. Weather Bureau map about that time the information will be valuable to you. The U. S. Weather Bureau is a success in showing what the weather has been and then, having my forecasts you will be prepared for coming weather events.

This storm and that expected near Nov. 28 will bring the principal precipitations of the month. But I am expecting the total precipitation of the month to be less than usual.

I am advising farmers and dealers that the speculative markets of New York, Chicago, St. Louis and other great centers are absolutely unreliable as to what the market should or will be for grain, cotton, live stock and other farm products. Market news is under perfect control of the profiteers and particularly the agents of European countries that are buying the products of North America. These manipulators can put the markets up or down to a limited extent and they always buy when the markets are down. But they can control supply and demand and therefore have no influence on the far-away markets. Farmers and dealers should carefully estimate what the markets will be three to six months ahead and give no attention to speculators' daily quotations.

Every Automobile Owner Will Be Interested in the Adco Dry Storage Battery

The same type of plates and materials used in the ADCO DRY STORAGE BATTERY have been used for years in the wet battery. There is no radical departure. The only change made is in substituting the dry electrolyte for the old-time water and acid bath or solution that covers the plates. In this day, people are looking for new and improved methods. There is no part of an automobile that receives more abuse than does the battery. It was up to some manufacturer to build a battery as nearly fool-proof as possible. This has been accomplished in the ADCO DRY STORAGE BATTERY.

HAS MORE POWER: The Adco Dry Storage Battery will discharge more power in a shorter space of time than does the wet battery. The proper size of Adco Dry Storage Battery for your car will deliver at least four times as much power as is ordinarily used for starting your car.

FIRES A HOTTER SPARK: It is possible to get a much hotter spark from the Adco Dry Storage Battery than is possible to get from the ordinary wet storage battery.

WILL NOT FREEZE: The Adco Dry Storage Battery will not freeze, this having been proven for two years past in the motor car and through standing in cold storage.

NO CORROSION: There is no liquid acids to slop over and thus cause the terminals to corrode, thereby causing poor connections.

NO REPAIR BILLS TO PAY: This is made possible by our strong guarantee. The Adco Dry Storage Battery can be recharged in less time than it requires to recharge the wet battery. Just keep it charged and it will run on and on for years to come.

YOUR OLD WET BATTERY MADE DRY: There is no difference whatever between the construction of a wet storage battery and the Adco Dry Storage Battery except the putty-like electrolyte which replaces the fluid bath in the wet battery. Any one desiring to have their old wet battery transformed into a dry storage battery may readily do so. Send us your battery and we will impregnate it with our electrolyte compound, which replaces the water and acid fluid bath. Then your battery will function the same as the new Adco Dry Storage Battery.

—We will carry a complete stock of these new dry batteries, as well as the Electrolyte Compound for refilling your old battery. Call and let us demonstrate these batteries.

WHAT WE DO

—We Chiropractors work with the subtle substance of the soul. We release the prisoned impulse, the tiny rivulet of force, that emanates from the mind and flows over the nerves to the cells and stirs them into life. We deal with the magic power that transforms common food into living, loving, thinking clay; that robes the earth with beauty, and hues and scents the flowers with the glory of the air.

—In the dim, dark, distant long ago, when the sun first bowed to the morning star, this power spoke and there was life; it quickened the slime of the sea and the dust of the earth and drove the cell to union with its fellows in countless living forms. Through aeons of time it finned the fish and winged the bird and fanged the beast. Endlessly it worked, evolving its forms until it produced the crowning glory of them all. With tireless energy it blows the bubble of each individual life and then silently, relentlessly dissolves the form, and absorbs the spirit into itself again.

—And yet you ask "Can Chiropractic benefit appendicitis or the 'flu?'"

Y. W. A. Hallowe'en Social.

The young lady members of the Y. W. A. held their first social on last Saturday evening when Miss Mamye Haney received the members and invited guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Haney. Something like thirty spooks presented themselves in response to printed invitations sent out a few days before. After the guests arrived Miss Faye Tucker was given a prize for having guessed correctly the largest number of girls and boys. The house was artistically decorated with black cats, witches and yellow crepe paper, draped in appropriate places. Music on the phonograph, fortune telling and other Hallowe'en features were diversions for the evening. At a late hour refreshments of cocoa and black and yellow cake were served. This was the first of a series of socials that will be given by members of the Y. W. A. It is hoped that by our next social meeting our enrollment will be larger. We especially urge members of the Baptist church and Sunday School to become members of the Y. W. A. Others are also welcomed. REPORTER.

Mrs. W. T. Hill Entertains.

Mrs. W. T. Hill entertained with a Hallowe'en party Saturday night honoring Misses Frankie and Mary Trammell, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Trammell. The home was decorated in Hallowe'en colors. The guests, who were composed of the seventh and part of the fifth grades of school, were all masked. Numerous indoor and lawn games were enjoyed by the youngsters. Refreshments of fruit punch and cake were served.

Mrs. John Glaze Entertains.

On Monday night the doors of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Glaze were thrown open to a large number of mysterious looking ghosts, responsive to invitations sent out previously. Upon entering the house the guests were directed to the back door by Ghost No. 1. There they were given the glad hand of welcome by the icy hands of Ghosts Nos. 2 and 3. They were then escorted to the reception room, which was decorated appropriately for the occasion, and were introduced to their disguised friends. Indoor games and dancing to music furnished by the Victrola were the main diversions.

Apples, hot chocolate, marshmallows and cake were served to the following: Misses Pearl Olive, Clara Mae Abbott, Dota Mae Davidson, Elma Reed, Rea Breedlove, Jennie McDonald, and Mrs. O. P. Reed; Messrs. Leonard Rhodes, Dennis Brown, Frank Clark, Joe Reed, Garner, Arvin Amos, Uel Howerton, Lonnie Lively, and C. L. Tanner.

Y. W. A.

The Y. W. A. held their regular meeting at the church on last Tuesday evening, Mrs. Hardesty leader. The attendance was small but good interest was manifested. Members of the Society please take notice of the following program to be given Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Topic: Sleeping Giants.
Prayer: That we may be Awakened.
Song, "Praise Him."
Scripture: An Unenlisted Church.—Audie Meader
Hymn, "More Love to Thee, O Christ," No. 189.

Topics for talk: Do nothing Churches, Louzelle Leverett; Do Little Churches, Faye Tucker; Do as Little as Possible Members, Pauline Hardesty.

Prayer: That Gods Spirit May Lead Us.

The Leader's Charges—Mrs. Hagan, Song: "Revive thy Work, O Lord." Closing Prayer.

Sunbeams Entertained.

On Wednesday afternoon members of the Sunbeam Band of the Baptist church were entertained by their leaders, Mesdames Stephenson and Martin at the home of Mrs. Stephenson. The house was tastefully decorated in the Sunbeam colors, yellow and white. After songs, recitations, games and class yells, refreshments suited to the husky western boys and girls were served. After this they gave their Sunbeam yell in honor of their hostesses, and each child took a souvenir, an autumn leaf done in yellow and white, and scampered happily away.

Miss Georgia Forschon Entertains.

On last Monday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. George H. Jones, Miss Georgia Forschon entertained a number of girl friends with a "hen party." Half of the girls were dressed in boys' clothing, representing boy scouts, sailors and civilians. The others wore children's dresses and the affair throughout reminded one of a kid party. A delightful time is reported. Refreshments of hot chocolate, cakes and strawberries were served to the following: Misses Lola Miller, Ruth Wadley, Maud Abbott, Georgia Forschon, Edith Marrs, Mamye Haney, Lucile Henry, Lulu Henry, Elsie McManus and Cleffie Watson.

Missionary Society.

The society will meet at the church Monday, Nov. 7 at 2:30 in the regular monthly business and social session, with Mesdames A. E. Whitehead, G. A. Van Natta, T. A. Worley and T. D. Johnston, hostesses. It is also the first day of our Week of Prayer. The entire membership is urged to be present with a free will offering in the interest of the great work we represent. Program for Monday, Nov. 7:

Mrs. Adams, leader.
Hymn 495.
Bible lesson.
Topic: Some assurances of prevailing prayer or God's assurances: James iv. 8; Psalm cxlv. 18; John xiv. 13; xvi. 23; Luke xi. 9, 10; Phillipians iv. 19.

Silent intercession.
Some achievements through prayer, (four short talks.) Mrs. Abel, Mrs. Donald, Mrs. Hoffman, Mrs. Hendricks.

Answered prayers.
Hymn 497, verses 1, 5, 6.
Silent intercession.
Offering.
Closing hymn.

Mrs. Pember will lead the program for Tuesday and Mrs. A. L. Robertson on Wednesday.

Old Fashioned Quilting Party.

Mrs. J. B. Stallings gave an old fashioned quilting party at her home Wednesday afternoon—one of those affairs of by-gone days that bring back memories of the good old days before newspapers were so generally published and quilting parties were a place for disseminating the gossip of the entire community. Not so in this instance, however. The ladies arrived about 2 o'clock and quilting was begun in earnest.

Before leaving the guests were refreshed with hot chocolate and cake. Those present were: Mesdames W. R. Wilson, Cleve Wilson, J. H. Reynolds, A. M. Watson, Paul Owens, Fred Stottlemire, I. E. Madden, C. V. Young, John P. Hardesty, C. F. Anderson, and Miss Ruby Reynolds.

Hallowe'en Dance.

Monday evening, Hallowe'en, the ladies auxiliary of the B. of R. T. entertained the members of both orders and their friends with a masquerade at the Shopbell Hall.

Appropriate decorations of Hallowe'en colors and chrysanthemums were effectively used and the gypsy fortune telling booth proved a great attraction to those of all ages.

Mrs. L. B. Hagerman and Mr. H. O. Hagan furnished splendid music for the dancers and a donation was given them, to go to the orchestra fund.

Prizes were given Mrs. John Braswell and Mr. Sutton for being the best disguised there.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served to about two hundred guests.

At a late hour everyone said good-night, declaring to have had a splendid time. ONE OF THEM.

Miss Gray Entertained Juniors and Seniors.

A Hallowe'en masquerade party of unusually pretty appointments was given last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. M. A. Evans, when Miss Theodocia Gray, assisted by Mrs. Evans and Miss Myrtle Barber, entertained the Juniors and Seniors of Slaton high school.

The rooms were decorated in yellow and black crepe paper, and witches, black cats and jack-o-lanterns were everywhere.

The first part of the evening was spent in guessing the correct names of each of the queer party of clowns, witches and ghosts. An interesting feature of the affair was a witches' den, a dark room to which the guests departed, and receiving from the witch advice as to their future fortunes, which was contained in a large pot, being continually stirred by this mysterious old witch, whom was afterward learned to be Miss Barber. Numerous other games were enjoyed, and at a late hour refreshments of cocoa, cakes and salted peanuts were served.

Miss Cordia Weaver Entertains.

Miss Cordia Weaver was hostess at a Hallowe'en party on last Saturday night at the pretty suburban home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Weaver. The young spooks were entertained with numerous games, such as fortune telling and ghost stories. During the evening apples, nuts and popcorn were served, and before the guests departed they were refreshed with cocoa and cakes. The affair was an enjoyable one throughout.

Mrs. Richard Ragsdale Hostess.

Mrs. Richard Ragsdale proved herself a charming young hostess when on last Monday evening she entertained her Sunday School class of young ladies and their invited guests. Upon their arrival the guests were met at the door and numbered, after which a prize was given to a boy and a girl for giving the correct names to the largest number of masked guests. Immediately after their guessing contest was over the guests were ushered into a dark room, where they found the supposed body of a dead man. Then they were directed to the back yard where a large bonfire was built. The guests also got a brief glance at, and an experience in Hades, which consisted of bed springs, barrels, skeletons and other spooky experiences as they quickly passed through the large garage.

The spacious lawn was well lighted and occupied by tents in which were seen moving pictures and fortune tellers.

During the evening indoor games were enjoyed, and refreshments of cake, candy, cherries, all-day suckers, oranges, fruit gelatin and whipped cream were served.

The enjoyable evening was concluded with a serenade through the residential section of town, led by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ragsdale.

Methodist Ladies Visited Tahoka.

The ladies of the Methodist Missionary Society were invited to Tahoka Monday afternoon and fourteen took advantage of the invitation. We were given a most cordial welcome and were made to feel that our visit was indeed appreciated. An interesting program was given by the Tahoka Auxiliary. Mesdames Adams, Proctor and Shankle were called upon to tell of the work being done by our society.

We hope our visit may be returned soon, for there is an inspiration in meeting and talking with those who are attempting to carry on the work of our Master.

Before leaving we were served substantial refreshments. REPORTER.

THE TOWN GOSSIP.

Editor Town Gossip: We've got a boy in our neighborhood who's been courting the same girl for over five years. Some of us thought that maybe you could help him to pop the question. He seems to be awfully shy when he's around the girl and we believe that she has about given up all hope that he'll ever get down to business. SOME FRIENDS OF HIS.

Dear friends of his
There's an old saying
That you can lead a horse to the trough
But you can't make him drink
After he gets there
And this girl
Whom you mention
Doesn't seem to be having
Very much trouble
In keeping his attention
But she just can't get him
To pop the question
If I understand rightly
And it's mighty nice of you
To interest yourselves
In the matter
And try to fix things
So they'll end up right
And there was a time
When I went with a girl
For over three years
Before I found out
That she had false teeth.
And ever after that
I tried to be cautious
And maybe that's the way it is
With the fellow you mention
And he probably believes
In the theory "safety first"
And there are some men
Who can render
The right kind of judgment
At a moment's notice
And there are others
Who have to deliberate
For years upon a thing
And your friend
Is evidently one of these
And if I were you
I'd leave him alone
Or you may force him
Into a marriage
That he won't like
And he'll never forgive you
You never can tell
As long as he lives
Maybe she's got a wooden leg
Or wears a wig
And he can't make up his mind
What to do about it
And anyway
I hope she's a nice girl
And doesn't dip snuff.

OUT-OF-TOWN MEXICAN COUPLE MARRIED HERE

Miss Carmen Lopez and Ignacio Avila were quietly married at the public school house for Mexican children Sunday at 5 p. m., Rev. D. J. Hubbard, Baptist minister, officiating. Mrs. Ben T. Owens interpreted the ceremony as neither of the contracting parties could speak English and the minister was so excited that he could not speak Spanish. On short notice Mrs. Owens prepared a song in Spanish, appropriate for the occasion. The little school house, which was beautifully decorated with white and yellow chrysanthemums, was filled to its full capacity with friends of the couple. The bride was from Snyder, the groom from Dermott, where he is employed by the Santa Fe. "Any time any person doubts Bro. Hubbard's ability to tie the knot right," said some of the friends of the couple, "just come and ask us—he does the work like an old experienced hand." And he is lucky with it—as he has been rewarded right then and there each time he has served.

DO YOU BUY AT HOME?

The editor of this paper, like the editor of every small town newspaper gives largely of his time for public enterprises. Then he comes back into his office and donates column after column of space for the public good. Then sometimes in the few hours he has left to look after his personal business he finds out about Smith, Jones & Co. sending out of town for a piece of job printing because they could save fifty cents on the order. The next day along comes young Jones, the junior partner of Smith, Jones & Co., with a subscription list for the widow who lost her home by fire, or the cemetery association, or some other equally worthy cause, and the country editor puts down about the same amount as the banker or any other of the town's leading business firms. Who ever heard of the Near-City Printing Company making a donation on local distress calls, or sending a representative to do committee work on public enterprises? Stay with your home printer—he is the man to tie to and never fails to do his part on community enterprise. Reciprocity is a great doctrine and this old world needs more men who will practice it.—Clarendon News.

"PEEPING TOM" HAS CITIZENS OF HIGGINS WORRIED

(From Higgins News.)

That scurvy individual who, a couple of weeks ago, badly scared some of the lone women of the town by peeping into their homes, when the men were absent, has been prying again, and some of the women are almost at their wits end.

It would seem as though the men will have to stay closer to home, or the women will be obliged to learn the art of self-protection, a-la-the-days-of-the-45, and teach this intruder of the privacy of the home a good, wholesome lesson.

We personally, know of more than one woman who is capable of handling that efficient instrument of offense and defense, and who will use it in case of need—and that would be very well!

In cases of this kind the officers of the law are all but helpless, and the punishment of the criminal will be in the hands of the victims. No man, no matter how efficient he may be can be in all places at the same time. It would be an utter impossibility for an officer to guard every home in the city, and it is a case of every household making due preparation, and greeting the intruder in a befitting manner.

When all is said it matters but little which of these remedies may be applied, so long as the job is done well. A man of this description is not entitled to any kind of fair treatment, and he need not be surprised to meet up with a dose that will be equivalent to the crime he is guilty of.

BE LOYAL TO THE HOME TOWN.

Don't go abroad or send away to buy something when you have a few dollars to spend and then ask your home merchant to sell you on time when you are broke. If you have bills with your merchant who has given you credit and an extension of time and accepted small payments and purchased your produce, some times at a loss, and take your cash and send it to the mail order house who has no interest in your town or community. Nine times out of ten he will "do" you because he doesn't expect to ever see you.

The home merchant helps to pay the taxes that support your schools, and he will save you money on reliable goods, which he guarantes with his reputation.

A town that is big enough and good enough for a man to earn his living in is good enough for him to buy his provisions in. If he doesn't think so, both he and the town would be better off if he pitched his tent elsewhere.

WOULD PUNISH GIRLS FOR AIDING BOYS' DELINQUENCY

Chicago, Nov. 2.—New interest in the juvenile court among club women was aroused today according to statements by Mrs. Anna L. Davenport, for eleven years a juvenile court officer, before the West End Women's club.

"I'm in favor of punishing girls for contributing to boys' delinquency," she said.

"It's often the girl's fault these days. Short skirts and flimsy waists have increased the number of cases in the juvenile court. Why? Because the girls thus use flamboyant sex attractions and men make special efforts to pursue them."

BOY SCOUTS

Conducted by National Council of the Boy Scouts of America

SCOUTMASTERS NEEDED.

"Fine work!" everybody said when the Pueblo boy scouts rose to the occasion in the emergency of the flood and went about aiding the police, rendering first aid and saving human lives at the risk of their own. "Wonderful movement!" we cry when we read how boy scouts fight forest fires, act as traffic police, conduct city clean-ups, take the lead in safety-first and anti-fly and save-the-wild-flowers campaigns.

Again, when we happen to notice a scout giving his seat to a lady on a car, stopping to tell a stranger how to get to his destination, interrupting his ball game to help somebody fix a tire, jumping into the street to pick up a bit of broken glass or a banana skin, we are impressed by the spirit which somehow or other has been instilled into these lads. Though still just everyday youngsters, they are a little straighter, a little manlier because of the rigorous discipline of the boy scout training, a little more given to service because of the daily "good turn" boy scout gospel. But we should remember that without the scoutmaster's enthusiasm and devotion to the boys none of these results could be realized.

There are 16,685 scoutmasters in the United States serving 109,070 boys. They are busy men, all of them, doctors, lawyers, ministers, school teachers, business men, bankers, editors, electricians, photographers, giving their time, their energy, their best thought and services to scouting. But, despite all this devoted and patriotic work the country over, there are hundreds of boys wishing to get into scouting who cannot do so because there are not enough leaders—that is, scoutmasters.

Let every live, red-blooded, boy-hearted man in America stop and ask himself whether he isn't letting a priceless opportunity pass by him if he isn't lining up with scouting, doing his bit for the boys of America who need his leadership.

BY PRODUCT OF SEA-SCOUT TRAINING.

Sea scouts are, in addition to their technical water training, learning something that all good Americans prize as worth more than diamonds and gold, namely: judgment.

Judgment! In a boat, as nowhere else on earth, judgment (or sea judgment) is a prime necessity. Poor judgment bays your schooner boat's nose into the wharf—poor judgment leaves the water barrels empty, or worse, rocks the boat, drops oars overboard, or capsizes. Good judgment comes to a boy or man only after he has tried to beat the sharp-eyed old girl, known as Mother Nature, who has skinned his knuckles, blacked his eye, doused him and spanked him. Her eye is kind on the land, but out on the water it glitters gray and green, like the eye of a shark. Look out, there landlubber! She'll get you sure—if you don't steer a straight course. But whose afraid?

SCOUTING IN BOYS' SCHOOL.

Scouting adapts itself well to private as well as public life. At Blair academy, in Blairstown, N. J., there were 40 boy scouts this past year, 32 of whom were on the school's honor roll. Seventeen were first class scouts and eight second class. The troop boasted also one Eagle, one Star and one Life scout.

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 6

PAUL'S EXPERIENCES AT JERUSALEM.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 21:18-23:24.
GOLDEN TEXT—God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will we not fear him.—Ps. 46:1, 2 (a).
REFERENCE MATERIAL—II Tim. 2:16-18; 4:14, 15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—How Paul's Nephew Saved His Life.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Boy Tells of a Plot Against Paul.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Paul and His Enemies.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Paul Attacked by a Jewish Mob.

I. Paul's Arrest (21:18-40).
The immediate occasion of this was his effort to remove the prejudice which certain ones held against him. His reception by representatives of the church was most cordial. In order that all the brethren in Jerusalem might graciously receive him, it was proposed to him by the elders that he take a Jewish vow to prove that he was in no way opposed to the law. They recognized that such an act would in no way compromise or involve the Gentile brethren. As to how far this act conciliated the Jews we are not told, but it only enraged the unbelieving Jews, causing them to resort to mob law. These maddened Jews, on the basis of a supposition, seized him and dragged him from the temple and beat him mercilessly, intending to put him to death. Paul was rescued from the mob by the Roman guard, stationed nearby. Paul kept himself under control and politely asked permission of the captain to speak to the people. When he addressed him in Greek and quoted his Roman citizenship, the captain granted his request.

II. Paul's Defense (22:1-27).
1. His claim for a rightful hearing (vv. 1-3). (1) His birth (v. 3). He was a Jew born in Tarsus, a city of no mean reputation. (2) His education (v. 3). He was educated in school under the tutelage of Gamaliel, and instructed "according to the perfect manner of the fathers" (v. 3). His zeal (v. 3). He was as zealous toward God as those Jews who were trying to destroy him.
2. His attitude toward Jesus (vv. 4, 5). "I persecuted this way unto the death"—it was one of hatred, as was that of the Jews.
3. How his attitude was changed (vv. 6-16). It was brought about by the intervention of God.
4. The Lord commissioned him to go to the Gentiles (vv. 17-21). It was not of his own will that he preached to the Gentiles, but by the Lord's direct commission.

III. Paul Before the Sanhedrin (23:1-10).
The Roman officer, in order to learn why Paul was arrested, commanded the chief council to assemble, and brought Paul before them.

1. Paul's earnest look at the council (vv. 1, 2). This was a solicitation of their honor to give him a fair hearing, and also a look of conscious integrity and unflinching courage. He protests that his behavior as a persecutor of the church and preacher of the Gospel has been in keeping with the highest principle of national integrity. At this the high priest ordered him to be spitten on the mouth.
2. Paul's stern rebuke of the head of the council (v. 3). "God shall smite thee, thou whited sepulcher"—fair without and foul within. This was a just sentence, no doubt directed by the Lord. Paul's words show that he had the highest respect for the office, but the man now occupying it was not worthy of it.

3. Paul's appeal to the Pharisees (vv. 6-10). Seeing that he could not get a fair hearing, and perceiving that the body before him was made up of Pharisees and Sadducees, he appealed to the Pharisees, hoping to get their attention, for his preaching had something in common with their beliefs. This resulted in a squabble.

IV. The Lord Stood by Paul (v. 11).
Paul was in great need of grace to sustain him. He may have begun to question the wisdom of his course in going to Jerusalem, but this assured him that his course was right, and thus comfort was brought to him.

V. The Conspiracy to Kill Paul (vv. 12-22).
More than forty men banded together for the purpose of getting Paul out of the way. They placed themselves under a curse to abstain from eating and drinking until they had murdered him. God defeated their plans without a miracle. This was done by Paul's nephew. Their fatal mistake was that they left God out of the question.

WHEN WEARY WILLIE SCORED PUZZLE FOR LOVERS OF DOG

Uncle Isaac Was Just a Little Bit Too Emphatic in His Verdict Concerning Coat.

Weary Willie slouched into the pawn-shop. "How much will you give me for this overcoat?" he asked, producing a faded but neatly mended garment. Isaac looked at it critically. "Four dollars," he said.

"Why," cried Weary Willie, "that coat's worth $10 if it's worth a penny!"

"I wouldn't give you $10 for two like that," smiled Isaac. "Four dollars or nothing."

"Are you sure that's all it's worth?" asked Willie. "Four dollars," repeated Isaac. "Well, here's your $4," said Weary Willie. "This overcoat was hangin' outside yer shop, and I was wonderin' how much it was really worth."

Just How Did Terrier Know the Correct Time, When the Clocks Had Been Advanced?

Perhaps because of his power of speech, the parrot is usually regarded as amazingly wise. But many dumb creatures often display just as remarkable intelligence.

Can a dog judge time? This is one of the subjects upon which some light is thrown in "Dogs, Birds and Others," by H. J. Massingham.

A terrier had been in the habit of jumping on his master's bed and awakening him each morning at seven o'clock. When the clocks had been advanced an hour for summer time, the man was anxious to see what the dog would do.

Next morning, as usual, the animal jumped upon the bed. The clock was at seven exactly, although really it was only six o'clock. Had the dog counted the strokes of the clock when it struck, or had he understood about the clocks being put on?

World's Armament Goes On.

San Marino, the smallest republic in the world, is about to double the size of its army, which in future will consist of six soldiers.

Too many people regard speed and progress as synonymous.

The foolish man who built his house on the sand—

He gave an example in folly which anybody can understand.

It isn't so easy, however, to sense the mistake of trying to build the body on foods which lack essential nourishment.

Here, again, is a foundation of sand which gives 'way when the test comes.

Many a food that tastes good lacks honesty of nourishment to equal its taste. Thus it tempts the appetite into mistakes that often are costly.

Grape-Nuts is a food which helps build bodily endurance for life's stress and storm. The full nourishment of wheat and malted barley, together with the vital mineral salts so necessary to bone structure and red blood corpuscles, with phosphates for the brain, is retained in Grape-Nuts. The long baking process by which Grape-Nuts is made gives the food a natural sweetness and an unusual ease of digestibility and assimilation.

Served with cream or milk, Grape-Nuts is fully nourishing, and whether eaten as a cereal at breakfast or lunch, or made into a pudding for dinner. Grape-Nuts has a particular delight for the appetite. Sold by grocers.

"There's a Reason"

The Voice of the Pack

By EDISON MARSHALL

"Father and I are to stay here?"
"What else can you do?" He went back to his traces and drew the sled 100 yards farther. He didn't seem to see the gaunt wolf that backed off into the shadows as he approached. He refused to notice that the pack seemed to be steadily growing bolder. Human hunters usually had guns that could blast and destroy from a distance; but even an animal intelligence could perceive that these three seemed to be without this means of inflicting death.

A wolf is ever so much more intelligent than a crow—yet a crow shows little fear of an unarmed man and is wholly unapproachable by a boy with a gun. The ugly truth was simply that in their increasing madness and excitement and hunger, they were becoming less and less fearful of these three strange humans with the sled.

It was not a good place for a camp. They worked a long time before they cleared a little patch of ground of its snow mantle. Dan cut a number of saplings—laboriously with his ax—and built a fire with the comparatively dry core of a dead tree. True, it was feeble and flickering, but as good as could be hoped for, considering the difficulties under which he worked.

The dead logs under the snow were soaked with water from the rains and thaws. The green wood that he cut smoked without blazing.

"No more time to be lost," Dan told Snowbird. "It lies in your hands to keep the fire burning. And don't leave the circle of the fire light without that pistol in your hand."

"You don't mean," she asked, unbelieving, "that you are going to go out there to fight Cranston—unarmed?"

"Of course, Snowbird. You must keep the pistol."

"But it means death; that's all it means. What chance would you have against a man with a rifle? And as soon as you get away from this fire, the wolves will tear you to pieces."

"And what would you and your father do, if I took it? You can't get him into a tree. You can't build a big enough fire to frighten them. Please don't even talk about this matter, Snowbird. My mind's made up. I think the pack will stay here. They usually—God knows how—know who is helpless and who isn't. Maybe with the gun, you will be able to save your lives."

"What's the chance of that?"

"You might—with one cartridge—kill one of the devils; and the others—but you know how they devour their own dead. That might break their famine enough so that they'd hold off until I can get back. That's the prize I'm playing for."

"And what if you don't get back?"

He took her hand in one of his, and with the other he caressed, for a single moment, the lovely flesh of her throat. The love he had for her spoke from his eyes—such speech as no human vision could possibly mistake. Both of them were tingling and breathless with a great, sweet wonder.

"Never let those fangs tear that softness, while you live," he told her gently. "Never let that brave old man on the sled go to his death with the pack tearing at him. Cheat 'em, Snowbird! Beat 'em the last minute, if no other way remains! Show 'em who's boss, after all—of all this forest."

"You mean—?" Her eyes widened.

"I mean that you must only spend one of those three shells in fighting off the wolves. Save that till the moment you need it most. The other two must be saved—for something else."

She nodded, shuddering an instant at a menacing shadow that moved within 60 feet of the fire.

"Then goodbye, Dan!" she told him. And she stretched up her arms. "The thing I said—that day on the hillside—doesn't hold any more."

His own arms encircled her, but he made no effort to claim her lips. Lennox watched them quietly; in this moment of crisis not even pretending to look away. Dan shook his head to her entreating eyes. "It isn't just a kiss, darling," he told her soberly. "It goes deeper than that. It's a symbol. It was your word, too, and mine; and words can't be broken, things being as they are. Can't I make you understand?"

She nodded. His eyes burned. Perhaps she didn't understand, as far as actual functioning of the brain was concerned. But she reached up to him, as women—knowing life in the concrete rather than the abstract—have always reached up to men; and she dimly caught the gleam of some eternal principle and right behind his words. This strong man of the mountains had given his word, had been witness to her own promise to him and to herself, and a law that goes down to the roots of life prevented him from claiming the kiss.

Many times, since the world was new, comfort—happiness—life itself have been contingent on the breaking of a law. Yet in spite of what seemed common sense, even though no punishment would forthcome if it were broken, the law has been kept. It was this way now. It wouldn't have been just a kiss such as boys and girls have always had in the moonlight. It meant the symbolic renunciation of the debt that Dan owed Cranston—a debt that in his mind might possibly go unpaid, which no weight of circumstance could make him renounce.

His longing for her lips pulled at the roots of him. But by the laws of the debt incurred on the hillside, months ago, had been paid; to take them now meant to dull the fine edge of his resolve to carry the issue through to the end, to dim the star that led him, to weaken him, by bending now, for the test to come. He didn't know why. It had its fount in the deep wells of the spirit. Common sense can't reveal how the holy man keeps strong the spirit by denying the flesh. It goes too deep for that. Dan kept to his consecration.

He did, however, kiss her hands, and he kissed the tears out of her eyes. Then he turned into the darkness and broke through the ring of the wolves.

CHAPTER III.

Dan Falling was never more thankful for his unerring sense of direction. He struck off at a forty-five-degree angle between their late course and a direct road to the river, and he kept it as if by a surveyor's line. All the old devices of the wilderness—the ridge on ridge that looked just alike, inclines that to the casual eye looked like downward slopes, streams that vanished beneath the snow, and the snow-mist blowing across the face of the landmarks—could not avail against him.

"Keep the Fire Burning."

A half dozen of the wolves followed him at first. But perhaps their fierce eyes marked his long stride and his powerful body, and decided that their better chance was with the helpless man and the girl beside the flickering fire. They turned back, one by one. Dan kept straight on and in two hours crossed Cranston's trail. He didn't doubt but that he would find Cranston in his camp, if he found the camp at all. The man had certainly returned to it immediately after setting fire to the buildings, if for no other reason than for food. It isn't well to be abroad on the wintry mountains without a supply of food; and Cranston would certainly know this fact.

Dan didn't know when a rifle bullet from some camp in the thickets would put an abrupt end to his advance. The brush grew high by the river, the elevation was considerably lower, and there might be one hundred camps out of the sight of the casual wayfarer. If Cranston should see him, musing across the moonlit snow, it would give him the most savage joy to open fire upon him with his rifle.

Dan's keen eyes searched the thickets, and particularly they watched the sky line for a faint glare that might mean a camp fire. He tried to walk silently. It wasn't an easy thing to do with awkward snowshoes; but the river drowned the little noise that he made. He tried to take advantage of the shelter of the thickets and the trees. Then, at the base of a little ridge, he came to a sudden halt.

He had estimated just right. Not two hundred yards distant, a camp fire flickered and glowed in the shelter of a great log. He saw it, by the most astounding good fortune, through a little rift in the trees. Ten feet on either side, and it was obscured.

He lost no time. He did not know when the wolves about Snowbird's camp would lose the last of their cowardice. Yet he knew he must keep a tight grip on his self-control and not let the necessity of haste cost him his victory. He crept forward, step by step, placing his snowshoes with consummate care. When he was one hundred yards distant he saw that Cranston's camp was situated beside a little stream that flowed into the river and that—like the mountaineer he was—he had built a large lean-to reinforced with snowbanks. The fire burned at its opening. Cranston was not in sight; either he was absent from camp or asleep in his lean-to. The latter seemed the more likely.

Dan made a wide detour, coming in about thirty yards behind the construction. Still he moved with incredible caution. Never in his life had he possessed a greater mastery over his own nerves. His heart leaped somewhat fast in his own breast; but this was the only wasted motion. It isn't easy to advance through such thickets without even a misstep, without the rustle of a branch or the crack of a twig.

Certain of the wild creatures find it easy; but men have forgotten how in too many centuries of cities and farms. It is hardly a human quality, and a spectator would have found a rather ghastly fascination in watching the lithe motions, the passionless face, the hands that didn't shake at all. But there were no spectators—unless the little band of wolves, stragglers from the pack that had gathered on the hills behind—watched with lighted eyes.

Dan went down at full length upon the snow and softly removed his snow shoes. They would be only an impediment in the close work that was sure to follow. He slid along the snow crust, clear to the mouth of the lean-to.

The moonlight poured through and showed the interior with rather remarkable plainness. Cranston was sprawled half-sitting, half-lying on a tree-bough pallet near the rear wall. There was not the slightest doubt of the man's wakefulness. Dan heard him stir, and once—as if at the memory of his deed of the day before—he cursed in a savage whisper. Although he was feeling the opening of the lean-to, he was wholly unaware of Dan's presence. The latter had thrust his head at the side of the opening, and it was in shadow. Cranston seemed to be watching the great, white snow fields that lay in front, and for a moment Dan was at loss to explain this seeming vigil. Then he understood. The white field before him was part of the long ridge that the three of them would pass on their way to the valleys. Cranston had evidently anticipated that the girl and the man would attempt to march out—even if he hadn't guessed they would try to take the helpless Lennox with them—and he wished to be prepared for emergencies. There might be sport to have with Dan, unarmed as he was. And his eyes were full of strange conjectures in regard to Snowbird. Both would be exhausted now and helpless—

Dan's eyes encompassed the room: the piles of provisions heaped against the wall, the snow shoes beside the pallet, but most of all he wished to locate Cranston's rifle. Success or failure hung on that. He couldn't find it at first. Then he saw the glitter of its barrel in the moonlight—leaning against a grub box possibly six feet from Cranston and 10 from himself.

His heart leaped. The best he had hoped for—for the sake of Snowbird, not himself—was that he would be nearer to the gun than Cranston and would be able to seize it first. But conditions could be greatly worse than they were. If Cranston had actually had the weapon in his hands, the odds of battle would have been frightfully against Dan. It takes a certain length of time to seize, swing, and aim a rifle; and Dan felt that while he would be unable to reach it himself, Cranston could not procure it either, without giving Dan an opportunity to leap upon him. In all his dreams, through the months of preparation, he had pictured it thus. It was the test at last.

The gun might be loaded, and still—in these days of safety devices—unready to fire; and the loss of a fraction of a second might enable Cranston to reach his knife. Thus Dan felt justified in ignoring the gun altogether and trusting—as he had most desired—to a battle of hands. And he wanted both hands free when he made his attack.

If Dan had been erect upon his feet, his course would have been an immediate leap on the shoulders of his adversary, running the risk of Cranston reaching his hunting knife in time. But the second that he would require to get to his feet would entirely offset this advantage. Cranston could spring up, too. So he did the next most disarming thing.

He sprang up and strode into the lean-to.

LITTLE STORY CARRIED STING

Must Have Shown to Readers the Neglected Industrial Possibilities of the South.

D. A. Tompkins, the father of the cotton-oil industry, who built his fortune on his inextinguishable faith in the industrial possibilities of the South, was fond of quoting this little story about a Georgia funeral, says his biographer, Dr. George Tayloe Winston, in "A Builder of the New South."

"I attended a funeral once in Pickens county, Georgia. It was a poor, 'one-gallus' fellow. They buried him in the midst of a marble quarry; they cut through solid marble to make his grave, and yet a little tombstone they put above him was from Vermont. They buried him in the heart of a pine forest, and the pine coffin was imported from Cincinnati. They buried him within touch of an iron mine, and yet the nails of his coffin and the iron in the shovel that dug his grave were imported from Pittsburgh. They buried him by the side of the best sheep-grazing country on earth, and yet the wool in the coffin bands and the coffin bands themselves were imported from the North. The South did not furnish a thing on earth for that funeral but the corpse and the hole in the ground. There they put him away and the clouds rattled down on his coffin and they buried him in a New York coat and a Boston pair of shoes and a pair of breeches from Chicago and a shirt from Cincinnati, leaving him nothing to carry into the next world with him to remind him of the country in which he lived and for which he fought four years but the chill blood in his veins and the marrow in his bones."

Capt. Roger Clap to His Children.

Roger Clap's words to his children were:

"You have better food and raiment than was in former times; but have you better hearts than your forefathers had? If so, rejoice in that mercy, and let New England then shout for joy. Sure all the people of God in other parts of the world, that shall hear the children and grandchildren of the first planters of New England have better hearts, and are more heavenly than their predecessors, they will doubtless greatly rejoice, and will say: 'This is the generation whom the Lord hath blessed.'"

Capt. Roger Clap, an English colonist in America, was one of the founders of Dorchester, Mass., settling there in 1630. He was captain of the fort or "castle" on Castle Island from 1655 to 1686, after which, until his death, he lived in Boston. He is best remembered for his "Memoirs," which were not published until 1731, when they were edited by Thomas Prince.

A Flying Chariot.

All Paris, I think, myself among the rest, assembled to see the valiant brothers, Robert and Charles, mount into the air yesterday, in company with a certain Pilatre de Rosier, who conducted them in the newly-invented flying chariot fastened to an air-balloon. It was from the middle of the Tuilleries that they set out, a place very favorable and well-conducted for such public purposes. But all was so nicely managed, so cleverly carried on, somehow, that the order and decorum of us who remained on firm ground struck me more than even the very strange sight of human creatures floating in the wind; but I have really been witness to ten times as much bustle and confusion at a crowded theater in London, than what these peaceful Parisians make when the whole city was gathered together,

It matters little where I was born, or if my parents were rich or poor; but whether I live an honest man or woman and hold my integrity firm in my clutch, I tell you, my brother, as plain as I can—it matters much—Emerson.

SAVORY DISHES.

Calves' hearts are tender and delicious, cut in slices and fried in a little butter. They should be cooked until well browned and served with the gravy which may be thickened or not.

Braised Liver.—Wash two pounds of fresh liver and flour well, seasoning with salt and pepper and a little lemon juice. Lay in a casserole; add two sliced onions and six carrots shredded lengthwise, a bay leaf, a sprinkling of parsley and a pint of boiling water. Place thin slices of bacon over all; cover tightly and bake for one hour and a half; then remove the cover, baste and brown ten minutes. Serve with tomatoes or chili sauce.

Fried Peppers With Cheese.—Choose large green peppers and blister them in the oven until they peel easily. Remove the seeds and veins and wrap each pepper around a piece of cheese. Fry in good sweet lard or butter, or better, olive oil. Prepare a sweet sauce of browned butter, flour, a flavor of garlic, to pour over the peppers when ready to serve.

Baked Mexican Chicken.—Steam two young chickens for 20 minutes, then cut up as for fricassee. Strain a can of tomatoes; mix with a can of corn; add one green pepper chopped, a little parsley, cayenne pepper and paprika. Put the chicken into this mixture; thicken with bread crumbs and bake with pieces of butter over the top, for half an hour.

Ripe Pear Salad.—Cut pears in halves and scoop out the core with a potato scoop, leaving a good-sized, perfectly round cavity. Make cream cheese balls, season them well before rolling, and dust with paprika. Fill the cavity with the ball, arrange on lettuce and serve with a French dressing prepared with some of the pear juice if possible. Canned pears may be used for this recipe.

Muskmelons may be served the same way, using just the melon or a combination of melon and banana.

Miracles are good, but to relieve a brother, to draw a friend from the depths of misery, to pardon the virtues of an enemy, these are greater miracles.

EVERYDAY GOOD THINGS.

A tender well-seasoned and cooked tongue is one of the most tasty of meats.

Beef Tongue en Casserole.

Choose a tongue which has been slightly corned, remove all the rough portions, rub with flour to which has been added a dash of ginger and allspice. Fry a few slices of salt pork, then add a sliced onion and the tongue, tying it into shape. Flour it lightly on all sides. Make a cupful of gravy, adding the juice of a lemon, three tablespoonfuls of shredded almonds, and a half cupful of seeded raisins. Put the tongue in a round casserole, pour over the gravy and bake one-half hour in a moderate oven. Untie the tongue, turn out on a platter and serve with the gravy over it.

Fruit juices which lack the thickening quality called pectin, may be supplied with it by using the white pith of an orange peel. Remove all the rind and cut it in strips, cover with cold water and simmer for an hour or two to remove all the pectin and boil up again. There will be sufficient pectin in half an orange rind to thicken several glasses of jelly.

Iced Cocoa.—Put two heaping teaspoonfuls of cocoa into a double boiler, add half of a pint of boiling water and cook five minutes; add one-half pint of milk, beat thoroughly and take from the fire. At serving time fill the glasses one-third full of chipped ice, add a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, fill the glass two-thirds full of cocoa and top with whipped cream.

Oatmeal Cookies.—Take two cupfuls of browned and ground oatmeal, two cupfuls of flour, one egg, one-half cupful of sour milk, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one-half cupful of shortening and a cupful of sugar; add raisins and nuts and drop from a teaspoon on a well-greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven until firm to the touch.

HOGVILLE.

Ellick Helwanger went to church last Sunday and has been trying all this week to get a tune off of his mind.

Cricket Hicks says while a song may be printed on a sheet of paper with the words and music, the singer still has to furnish all of his own noise.

Sim Flinders, our widely known rat-trap inventor and Hog Ford Sunday-school teacher, is thinking about starting a stinging school in the Calf Ribs neighborhood, since he heard somebody over that way trying to call the cows.

The left hind wheel of the tin peddler's wagon is proving a great drawback in the progress of the rest of the vehicle.

Sile Kildew's hat blew off while he was passing through Rye Straw Wednesday. The reason the wind came up suddenly was that he was trying to light his pipe and had already struck two matches.

Poke Eazley, who set out from here two or three weeks ago for Tickville, driving his yoke of steers, has returned. He intended to reach there in time to enter in the races at the county fair, but it was over when he arrived.

The postmaster received another severe disappointment yesterday. Miss Hostetter Hocks wrote a long letter, and while on the verge of buying a stamp, changed her mind and tore it up.

Raz Barlow has a good 1920 model straw hat that he would like to exchange for two overcoat buttons.

The Hog Ford preacher will start a campaign to raise a lot of money for the church as soon as the weather gets right cold. He believes that is the best time to raise money, as then everybody has their hands in their pockets.

A man is coming to the Wild Onion school building Friday night to lecture on the North Pole, and Sid Hocks is going to wear his ear muffs and over-shoes.
