Annual Chamber Of Commerce Meet Set for Jan. 14

The annual banquet and membership meeting of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce has been set for Tuesday night, Jan. 14. This action was taken Tuesday night of this week when the board of directors of that organization held its semi-monthly meeting at the Chamber of Commerce office in the city hall.

Program details for the meeting are yet to be worked out, and will be announced in due time, officers said. The principal speaker has not been chosen, and the place of holding the banquet has not been definitely picked. It was held last year at the Slaton Clubhouse.

An effort will be made to make the annual meeting in January the most successful one in the history of Slaton, it was declared.

Brownfield Team Comes Here Next Friday for Game

The Brownfield High School eleven will meet the Slaton High School team on the Slaton gridiron, next Friday afternoon, Oct. 18, that being the first interscholastic league game the Tigers will have played this season. All games so far have been Class A teams, but Brownfield and Slaton are both in Class B.

The game next Friday will be the second one the Tigers will have played at home this season. It will be played on the new athletic field, just west of West Panhandle Avenue.

Baptist Revival Campaign Closed

The two weeks' revival meeting at the First Baptist church here was brought to a close Sunday night, at which time Miss Lucile Reagan, a renowned missionary from Africa, spoke to a large audience. About twenty people were baptized at the close of the Sunday night service. Thirty-seven members were added to the church during the meeting, according to Rev. B. G. Holloway, pastor.

Dr. W. R. White, who spoke twice during the revival, and who is pastor of the First Baptist church of Lubbock, was the speaker Sunday evening. He returned to his pulpit Sunday night, and Miss Reagan gave the closing address for the revival. She is located at Lagos, Nigeria, West Africa, and her home is at Big Spring, Texas. She is in this country on a lecture tour, lecturing in various churches here.

At the morning service Sunday, an offering was taken for mission causes fostered by the First Baptist church here. An offering was taken Sunday night for Dr. White.

SETTLER PASSES AWAY AT ACUFF

John N. Pirtle, aged 72, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. L. Buckman, at Acuff, Wednesday morning. Mr. Pirtle had been ill for some time.

The survivors are three sons, John Pirtle, Honey Grove; Jeff Pirtle, Barmouth; Price Pirtle, Acuff; four daughters, Miss Mary Pirtle, Mrs. W. L. Buckman, Mrs. Joe Anderson, all of Acuff, and Mrs. George Weems, of Houston.

BOB ALLEN INJURED IN AUTO WRECK NEAR SNYDER

Mrs. Bob Allen was painfully injured while returning from a down town trip, near Snyder, while on the way in company with her husband and brother-in-law, the auto overturned. Mrs. Allen's injuries, while serious, proved to be very painful.

When taken to a Lubbock sanitarium where an examination disclosed fracture of a hip. She also received minor cuts from broken glass.

Allen and brother, Gordon Allen, and a stranger, were uninjured. The auto was not damaged badly.

Local Acorn Store Changes Manager

Sidney Anderson, assistant manager of the Acorn Store at Big Spring and formerly assistant manager of the company store here, has been transferred to this place as manager.

W. R. Moore, who has been manager of the Acorn Store here for several months, expects to leave today (Friday) for Brownwood, where Mr. Moore will accept the managership of the Acorn Store at that place.

Although we regret to have Mr. Moore and his family leave Slaton, we are glad to have Mr. Anderson again a resident of our city.

Rotarians Will Have Program on Fire Prevention

In helping to properly observe Fire Prevention Week in Texas this week, the Slaton Rotary Club will devote its program this Friday to the subject of "Fire Prevention". Members of the club and several members of the Slaton Volunteer Fire Department will take part. Fire Chief E. V. Woolfever said Wednesday that the fire department members would be glad to do all they could to make the program a success.

The City Commission members will also be invited to the meeting, Rotary Club officers announced.

C. of C. Elects Wilson Secretary For Another Year

The board of directors of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development has elected L. A. Wilson as secretary of the organization for another year. He has been secretary of the Chamber of Commerce here for almost three years, his third year coming to a close next month. His re-election calls for his serving the organization through the remainder of 1929 and through the calendar year of 1930. Mr. Wilson has accepted the re-election.

The Chamber of Commerce is composed of voluntary members, while the Board of City Development was created last March as a municipal body when Slaton's new charter was adopted. Both bodies are managed by the same board of directors, composed of fifteen men. Horace Hawkins is president of the Chamber of Commerce and T. A. Worley, Jr., is vice president. J. H. Brewer is president of the Board of City Development and T. E. Roderick is vice president.

The other members of the board are: J. W. Hood, A. J. Payne, H. S. Riggs, George G. Green, Carl W. George, J. A. Elliott, M. W. Uzzell, R. P. Burks, W. H. Smith, O. Z. Ball and Dr. W. E. Payne.

John Rayburn is Slaton Contestant For C. of C. Meet

John Rayburn, of this city, has been chosen by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, according to Horace Hawkins, president, to represent Slaton in the "My Home Town" contest at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at El Paso, October 24-26.

John is the seventeen year old son of Rev. and Mrs. James Rayburn. He is classified as a junior in high school.

This young man represented Slaton in the oratorical contest at Tahoka last spring and made a fine showing.

Slaton is expecting John to tell the folks about Slaton at the Annual Convention and to "bring home the bacon" if possible.

Knights of Columbus Install Officers

The Slaton Order of the Knights of Columbus met Thursday evening at the St. Joseph school building in the yearly installation of officers.

Joe Brennan, of Amarillo, District Deputy for the organization, was present to assist with the installation.

TIGERS FIGHT -- BEAT 'EM

Five-Ten-Fifteen Yards—Look at 'im go!

TIGERS VS. WESTERNERS

Friday, October 11th.

At Tech Stadium, Lubbock

Kick-Off at 4:00 p. m.

The Buckaroos Wilt the Sunflowers, 0-0

They came, they saw, but they did not conquer, and the Wellington Sunflowers met their match in the Santa Fe Buckaroos, and as predicted they were bent, probably not broken.

It was a clean game, the Wellington boys are a mighty fine bunch and by the way, there were some fine Kansas young ladies along. It was indeed a fine gathering, very orderly for a football game. The G. R. M. Apprentice Club is to be complimented on the decorum, but we all know if Jimmy McGinnis had a hand in it, it would be. We hope to have the Wellington team with us again.

Santa Fe Makes More Improvements

The old wooden floor in the Santa Fe machine shop has been replaced with a solid concrete re-inforced floor. The improvement which has been under construction for several weeks is near completion and is a wonderful addition over the old floor.

HOT CHECK ARTISTS AND FORGERS WORK SLATON

Several of our commercial establishments suffered the loss of various amounts, by forgery of checks by a party that no doubt believes in making an easy living.

The usual way was used, passing forged checks, and forged indorsements, buying some merchandise, taking the balance in cash. We are advised the total amounts to $105.00 that was obtained in cash and merchandise. The law will no doubt take the artist into custody. They usually get their man.

2,250 Bales for Six Slaton Gins At Noon Saturday

Exactly 2,250 bales of 1929 cotton had been received by the six Slaton gins when a total was compiled at noon last Saturday. This was a gain of 876 bales over the preceding Saturday, or an average of 146 bales ginned each day during the week. The ginning season is now as far advanced as it was on Nov. 25 last year, records show.

Favorable weather during the past few weeks has encouraged cotton harvesting. The crop has opened rapidly, due to hot sunshine and little moisture since early September. Farmers have been very busy harvesting maize and other feedstuffs, also.

Several farmers have been clamoring for pickers and could not secure them, it was reported here this week. The local Chamber of Commerce has been helping place pickers with the farmers, and has been responsible for bringing many pickers to this section during the past few weeks, officials of that organization said.

Retail Merchants Ass'n Met Monday

The Slaton Retail Merchants Association met Monday evening in the office of the Secretary, with a very good attendance present.

An interesting meeting was held during which the membership committee reported the addition of several new members to the Association. The committee is anxious to make the Association one hundred percent of the Slaton merchants.

A water well has been brought in west of Lamosa which is furnishing an adequate supply for the city.

3 A-A-A'S

The Tigers played havoc on a sunny Saturday afternoon with another Class A team. It was Plainview, and plain as viewed by the gathering of some 5,000 fans, that the Slaton spirit was there. The last day of a great week in Lubbock county history. The Fair was a grand success, everyone happy, and they promise a bigger and better Fair next year. Well, the football game Saturday was some game, only just a little too one sided, but all Slaton is happy over the outcome.

Slaton was almost deserted, so many were there to witness the slaughter. Of course, we do not want our boys to get the idea that they are invincible, when they do they will surely bite the dust, some hard games are before them, especially the one this Friday with Lubbock. Of course, they are a Class A team, and they do not want a Class B team, and especially Slaton, to win. No over-confidence do we wish to see, but that steady grind, that punch and good sportsmanship, we have it and we hope we know how to use it.

While the full bore Cannons and Austin played their usual game, it must not be forgotten that the line up made this all possible, that mighty lineup that withstood the onslaught. We give great credit to the stellar attractions, but as great to the team as a whole.

Three Class A scalps now are trophies in the Tiger's Lair. The last one labeled 40-0.

The Pep squad still shines brilliantly. They are the fairest and finest on the South Plains, wonderful spirit, no wonder the boys win, sure, we are for them.

Well, well, the Tigers surely did it, and so far, in three games, their goal line has not been crossed.

Capt. McMennany took the kick off, the Tigers gained 33 yards by carrying the ball; complete passes none; incomplete, none; the Tigers made one first down. Slaton penalized 3 yards. Score 0-0.

Second Quarter.
The Tigers made 71½ yards by carrying the ball, with three complete passes; incomplete passes, 2; number of first downs, 5; Slaton penalized 15 yards; Austin makes first touchdown; O Cannon makes extra point; Austin comes in for another touchdown, Rucker makes the extra point. Score 14-0, in favor of Slaton.

Third Quarter.
Tigers make 19 yards by carrying the ball; complete passes, 1; incomplete, none. Nowell makes a touchdown, Demp Cannon makes the extra point; Otis Cannon makes another touchdown, no extra score. Score 27-0, in favor of the Tigers.

Fourth Quarter.
Tigers make 128 yards by carrying the ball; there were 5 first downs; Slaton penalized 15 yards; complete passes, none; incomplete, none. Austin makes another touchdown, Scott makes the extra point; Evans makes a touchdown, no extra point. Score 40-0, favor of the Tigers.

Line Up.
Armes, center; guards, Maxey and Savage; tackles, Hodge and McMennany; ends, Scott and Simmons; quarterback, O. Cannon; half back, D. Cannon and Johnson; full back, Austin; Subs, Rucker, Smith, Jackson, Henry, Alford and Potet.

Tigers to Play Paducah in That City, November 1

The Slaton High School Tigers will meet the Paducah High Dragons in a game at Paducah, Friday, Nov. 1, according to local school officials. This was an open date on the Tigers' schedule when the season started. Paducah came here last year to play the Tigers, being defeated 13 to 6 by the Slaton gridmen.

One other open date, Nov. 15, yet remains to be filled by the Tigers.

The new scoring system to be used in the State Fair of Texas Agricultural Show, Oct. 12 to 27, has attracted more counties to the state exposition than ever before, J. A. Moore, superintendent recently report to State Fair officials. Counties select the crops they wish under the new system.

Westerners and Tigers to Clash Friday Afternoon

The Slaton High School Tigers are to meet the Lubbock High Westerners at Lubbock Friday afternoon for the fourth grid game of the Tiger team this season. Many Slaton fans are expected to accompany the Tigers to Lubbock for the fray.

After beating Big Spring High Steers, 12 to 0, trampling the Clovis, N. M., High team, 21 to 0, and crushing the Plainview High Bulldogs, 40 to 0, the Tigers seemingly offer strong opposition for the Westerners in Friday's game. Big Spring and Plainview are both Class A teams, and so are the Lubbockites, while the Tigers are in Class B.

Last year, the Westerners administered an 18 to 6 defeat to the Slaton eleven, but in former years the local team won its share of the spoils.

The fact that the Tigers have not yet had their goal line crossed this season may cause them to do some battling Friday afternoon, even if they are to confront one of the strongest Class A elevens of this section.

Slaton Legion to Install Officers This Friday Night

The Luther Powers Post of the American Legion, of this city, will hold the formal installation of officers who were recently elected for the coming year, this ceremony being set for Friday night of this week at the Slaton Clubhouse. All members of the Legion Post are urgently requested to attend.

Officers who have been elected by the Post, are: D. E. Kemp, commander; J. W. Savell, first vice commander; W. H. Yandell, second vice commander; L. A. Wilson, adjutant; Alvin O. White, sergeant-at-arms; H. V. Jarman, finance officer; D. W. Liles, historian; E. C. Foster, chaplain; George Brown, service officer; Lee Peebles, mess sergeant; and P. G. Meading, judge advocate. The executive committee will be composed of Kemp, Savell, Wilson, White and Jarman.

The Post voted to invite the Lubbock Post to aid in the installation ceremony Friday night. Also, it was voted to present Past Commander Dan W. Liles a suitable gift in recognition of his valuable service during the past year as the highest official of the Slaton Legion organization.

A resolution was passed expressing appreciation to all officers of the past year for their splendid service.

Postal Receipts Show Gain Here

Slaton postal receipts for the third quarter of 1929 were six and one-half per cent higher than for the same period in 1928, according to figures given by Postmaster J. S. Bates. The gain was even larger as compared with the third quarter of 1927.

COUNTY AGENT EATON LEFT WITH JUDGES WEBB

D. F. Eaton, County Agent of Lubbock county, left Wednesday with his champion team representing Lubbock County for St. Louis, Mo., where they visit the National Dairy Exposition. Our boys won the state judging championship and, in a measure, they are repaid with this trip. Their judging in country dairy rated high. While they compete with teams from all over the United States, for honors in dairy judging, they expect to stage a demonstration of tattooing on dairy cattle.

The members who made the trip include Jack Stalcup, Jim Potts, Fred Elliott and E. C. Pounds. We are all pleased that Slaton is represented, knowing the team will give an honest endeavor to go higher.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Hamar, of Cisco, Texas, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. C. B. Bryant. They express happy thoughts of Slaton and the surrounding country.

"Very Latests"

BY CECILE.

Black, you have perhaps guessed, will be exceedingly smart for coats this fall. And there is a return of duvetyn coating in a new kasha weave which does not crumple or mark as the duvetyn of old. We are happy to welcome back this fabric which is so becoming to those who find it difficult to wear most other black cloths.

The coat illustrated—an original model by Henri Bendel, New York—is developed in black duvetyn. Its standing collar of black Persian lamb is very new and lends grace and charm to an otherwise straight and simple coat. The cuffs are applied wrap-round fashion. The big soft bow—also one of the newest features of the autumn mode—not only keeps the collar in place, but adds a delightfully feminine touch to the coat.

With this wrap is worn a black felt hat created by Maria Guy who features the off-the-face treatment and a novel trimming in the form of a black feather bag.

Notes on New School Togs.
For boys past the wash-suit age, many novelty woollens in mannish sack-suit models are shown. Some are of the adored "long pants" type following in the footsteps of Father. Knicker suits in tweeds and berring-bone weaves are popular for school wear. Overcoats have sport sleeves and big patch pockets—and of course the well-dressed young man has his trim-fitting trench coat of water-proof twill for rainy days.

For school girls—the ensemble costume in jersey is most important, and brown and yellow, brown and turquoise, brown and pale French blue are charming color combinations, the cardigan jacket and side-pleated skirt being of the brown, the blouse in the lighter color, with perhaps a trimming motif that includes different shades of brown.

Shoes Have Snake-Skin Trimming.

Among the new designs are black shoes with fascinating insets of snake-skin, and where summer featured tan and beige-toned reptile leathers, the skins now take on deeper hues, accenting the browns of fall. The vogue for suits, we are told, is responsible for this tailored combination of two leathers.

Suiting the Costume to the Type.

No less an authority than Lucien Lelong gives us the following barometer of fashion:

For Fair-Haired Types: Light colors, as a rule. Beige in the tone of the hair; chocolate brown lighted with pale rose in scarf or blouse; Nile greens, vierge blue; any pastel shade. Never wear a harsh tone unless it is cerise, for sport costumes. White and pale pink, both dull, rather than bright. All black or night-blue. Sky blue velvet is especially becoming.

For the Silver Blonde: Bright shades; little or no black; no beige; wear instead grey in all shades from the lightest to darkest. Some red, green, bright blue in the grey ensemble. Mat black; good effect of white in satin. Avoid white spangling, but scintillating black is marvelous. Jade green; orchids, capucine, periwinkle, porcelain blue. Hats matching dresses. Coats of velvet matching frock.

For Bluish Dark Hair: Any light beige; any light gray; bright shades for sports. Thick wooly white. Mat black. Cerise and dark red, mat tones. Light, dull yellow. Mat white.

For Chestnut Hair: Fancy woollens, jaspered or checkered. Beige matching shade of hair or lighter; never darker. Dark blue and black cloth or satin. Satin the shade of hair or pinkish beige. Chiffon matching the shade of hair. Any soft shades. Bright red, very pale violet. Coats matching dresses.

For Auburn Hair: Any reddish brown matching the hair. Bright yellow. Bright capucine. Bright Bright pinks. No pale color except mat white; draped. Very dark red, nearly black; plain materials rather than fancy ones. Pinkish beige for the whole ensemble including shoes and hat for motoring and traveling. Dull and soft black material.

ROTARY HOT SHOTS.

With W. H. (Bill) Smith and Lloyd A. Wilson absent, the purple fell upon the shoulders of 100 percent Allen Payne. He did fine. Very noticeable were the absentees, we are mighty sorry to learn some of the boys are out, well goodbye boys, we will miss you even when you are absent. But maybe we can increase the percentage.

Educator Green sure hit the bull's eye, several times, and strong, his address naturally covered his vocation, teaching and directing one of the largest plants in Slaton. His statement that the pupils are just as good as the homes they come from, was well received, and no argument covering that point. Parents might take notice of that.

Bill Florence, the trouble shooter, found everything calm and placid, and were there any trouble, he would sure find it. One visitor, Dr. White, was the guest of Ben Holloway, stated he was glad to again meet with the bunch.

The pinch hitter was absent, excuse that he is practicing the culinary art, and becoming very proficient, yes, it was a hot meeting, lots of hot biscuits, surely good, and plenty of them. We failed to notice anyone taking forty winks.

The percentage is in the red all the time; the question is how are we to overcome it, that is up to the individual member.

For ten years Texas has led States in total crop values average annual production of 000,000.

Run-Down

"ABOUT seven years ago, I was all run-down, worn-out and never felt good," says Mrs. Harry Cantrell, of Cape Girardeau, Mo. "A chair would be more welcome any time than my work."

"I was so tired when I would arise in the morning. Instead of being rested, I felt terrible."

"At last, mother told me to take Cardui, and I did. After the first bottle, I could tell a difference, and when I had taken five bottles the tired feeling was all gone. I felt like a different person, thanks to Cardui. I hope that other mothers will try Cardui. I have been wonderfully benefited by it."

Here's Howe

BY E. W. HOWE
"The Sage of Pokato Hill"

ARE YOU ORTHODOX? QUEEN VICTORIA. OLD THINGS AND NEW.

As impressive reading as I have ever found in the writing of a first-class man is from George Santayana:

"I have great respect for orthodoxy; not for those orthodoxies which prevail in particular schools or nations, and which vary from age to age, but for a certain shrewd orthodoxy which the sentiment and practice of laymen maintain everywhere. I think that common sense, in a rough, dogged way, is technically sounder than the special schools of philosophy, each of which squints and overlooks half the facts and half the difficulties in its eagerness to find some detail the key to the whole. I am animated by distrust of all high guesses, and by sympathy with the old prejudices and workaday opinions of mankind: they are ill expressed, but they are well grounded."

I also like Santayana because he said: "My system is not mine, nor is it new." I am prejudiced against those persons who show enthusiasm only in presence of something they consider new. Here is a leader in philosophy who has most respect for the old common sense as discovered by laymen in the school of practical experience, where all of us are students, and may become useful teachers:

Harvard college is just a building; outside is the World:
I am orthodox; I accept what the best of my neighbors say; I accept that shrewd orthodoxy which the sentiment and practice of laymen maintain everywhere.

When one encounters a good thing in reading, a pleasurable thrill follows—I never greatly admired Queen Victoria. Possibly it was because her virtues were exploited so much; one soon gets too much of that. But years ago I read that, as a girl, Victoria was compelled to learn house-keeping, and it gave me a pleasurable thrill, for I believe in training of that sort. Occasionally I have heard a woman say, boastfully, that she never had her hands in dishwater, and thereafter I think of her as I do of a professional actress, athlete, suffragette, or follower of the "Occult".

A great medical association lately held its annual convention. The best men in the profession were attracted, and one old fellow, recognized as without a peer in his line, bluntly told them that with all their investigation, practically nothing of value prolonging life had been discovered in many years; that old age is the same inexorable thing it has always been. . . . With all our learning, old things finally demonstrate their supremacy over the new.

There is a kind of woman men obey with a good deal of cheerfulness. But she is always a capable boss, and does not ask too much; when too much is demanded, men tighten up, and display a meanness women cannot equal.

Half the people are martyrs to unreasonable, disagreeable kin.

Lubbock Man Now Gives Out Facts

R. A. Begley, Well Known Employee Simms Oil Company, Says His Wife is Now Like Different Woman Since Taking Orgatone.

Among the many well-known Lubbock people who have given their endorsements for Orgatone is R. A. Begley, for the past three years employed by the Simms Oil Company and residing at 1720 Nineteenth Street, Mr. Begley came in Bowens Drug Store and in telling of the benefits his wife has derived from its use said: "My wife has taken Orgatone about five weeks now, but I can see a big change in her in every way and several of her friends have told her she looks better than she has in months. She had been in a general run-down condition, weak and nervous, for three years or more and was gradually getting worse all the time. She suffered from stomach trouble and indigestion and had fearful gas pains at times, which would often cause attacks of acute indigestion. She would have these attacks of gas so bad at times that she would become unconscious and when we called the doctors they said this was caused from acute indigestion. She would get up in the mornings all tired out and couldn't get through with her work without stopping to rest. Her cheeks were getting hollow and I could see she was losing ground all the time.

"I had become uneasy and worried about her condition because we had never been able to get anything to check her troubles. So when a friend of ours claimed to get so much benefit from the use of Orgatone I decided to see what it would do for my wife. Well, I'm glad to be able to say she already looks like a new woman and seems better in every way than she has been since her troubles began. She has little or no trouble after eating now and the gas pains have disappeared entirely. Her nervousness is about all gone, and she sleeps well at night and doesn't complain of feeling tired and worn out like she did. Orgatone seems to be exactly what she needed and is giving her back her health and strength as fast as we could expect. I am glad to recommend Orgatone for it is the only medicine that has ever done my wife any real good and I can't say too much for it."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drug and is sold in Slaton by the Teague Drug Store who are direct laboratory agents. Ady.

HENS BEAT COTTON CROP THIS YEAR

MARSHALL.—Described as an example of growing rather than going into the poultry business, Mrs. H. A. Russell of the Maple Springs home demonstration club is able to show a net income of $134.79 from a flock of 177 White Leghorns for the four months ending July. In spite of paying out $237.95 for feed, supplies and equipment during this period, the hens will make more than the cotton crop, she says.

July production in this flock averaged 19 eggs per hen which is four eggs above the standard set by the Extension Service calendar. The net profit for the month was $40.48, and it came as a result of furnishing plenty of fresh water, good feeding, and keeping the birds free from lice, Miss Maggie Peach, home agent, explains. Sodium fluoride was used to dust the hens for lice.

How to Raise Poultry

By Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., St. Louis, Mo.

ARTICLE XXIV

HEATENING THE HEN'S VACATION

Proper Feeding and Sympathetic Handling of Hens During the Try- ing Period of the Molt Will do much Toward Accelerating Their Return to Productiveness.

Editor's Note—This is another story in a series of 52 stories on poultry raising written by the well known national poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis. The entire series will appear in this paper. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

It is thought has often occurred to those who have seen a man and fowl to do a great many things that nature never intended to do. Civilization and evolution combined have also changed many of their natural bodily functions. Yet, with incomprehensible stubbornness they still retain organs and habits for which the need has since disappeared. A man's tendency, for instance, is his soured of some long forgotten physical action, while the fowls' habit of molting is her reminder of the time when a vital need existed for the radical removal of her feathers.

A hen in the wild state frequently had to depend on her wings for flight from birds and beasts of prey. Her feathers, moreover, were her only protection from the elements. In the wild life she led they were undoubtedly in need of repair and renewal at the end of a strenuous season in which she had to depend on her own strength and brier. It was to be expected, therefore, that wise Mother Nature would provide some regular, automatic method to supply the needed renewal at the proper time.

Now, the wild hen had only to lay a few eggs to hatch out a small brood. When the chicks were old enough to shift for themselves, she was free from duties or responsibilities of any kind as a modern flapper is free from housework in the summer time. She was then at liberty to wear her coat and she could take the rest of the year for the job. Now, civilization has changed all that. The wild hen might lay a few eggs or less and started hatching at once, the civilized descendant expected to lay ten times that much and gets no chance to exercise her instinct. Instead, her eggs are hatched by a machine and her chicks foster-mothered by a capon or pecker.

Although man now provides shelter and protection from wild beasts, the hen has no chances; she continues to molt. This would be of no great consequence were it not that egg laying and molting do not often go on together. A hen can neither eat and produce enough food nor supply enough eggs to produce both new feathers and a regular supply of eggs. Consequently, the longer a hen takes for a molt, the less time she has for laying and the less profitable it will be to feed and care for her. The big problem in connection with the molt, therefore, is to make it as short as possible.

Careful breeding offers one solution. Good layers will not stop laying until late August, early September later and are through in about six weeks. Eggs for hatching should always be from such hens. Hens that lay early and take two or three months for it should be watched carefully. The chances are they do not pay enough to pay for their feed and care, but would be more profitable if they were culling for the table.

By constantly culling out the layers and breeding only from the best layers, a flock will eventually be made up which will require only a very short vacation period for the molt. A corresponding increase in time devoted to laying. Very careful feeding and feeding is desirable at all times, however, to keep the vacation at a minimum and the production at a maximum. Avoid anything that hinders laying, like sudden change of feed. It may bring on the unprofitable molt sooner than need be. On the other hand, correct feeding and a little extra care may accelerate the growing so the hen can complete her new winter costume and get profitable production in a short while.

During the molt, fowls should have the best of care. They should be kept in shade, an abundance of green food and plenty of fresh water. They should be protected from dampness, drafts and exposure of any kind. Very late molters should be especially protected against cold. If possible, put molting birds to themselves. They are timid and self-conscious when bare, and the other hens will make life miserable for them. The less hens are disturbed at this time, the easier it is for them to convert food into feathers.

Proper feeding is of paramount importance. Feathers are derived from the same material as eggs, being about 80 percent protein. It is wrong, therefore, to take away the mashes as many people do when hens are molting. The mashes contain the protein concentrates while grains contain very little. To rob molting hens of their proteins is simply to prolong the molting period until enough proteins are assimilated to supply the feathers needed.

The regular scratch grains may be fed including oats, wheat and corn, but not too much corn as it is too heating. Feed also some sunflower seed and linseed meal in the mash. Also a little more meat scraps or cut bone than is usually fed and give plenty of milk if possible. A good mineral tonic is also invaluable.

Remember the molting hen is really very much out of condition, but that careful handling and special diet will help to speed up the passage of this trying period. Then, as she begins to get back to normal, gradually work back to the regular feeding practice of the laying period. Avoid sudden changes as they will only delay full completion of the molt. Careful adherence to these methods is sure to speed up the molt with a commensurate increase in egg production just when prices are beginning to soar upward.

HUMUS A DECIDING CROP FACTOR

When our farmers in the Southwest learn to appreciate the value of humus in the soil, we are going to have better crops at less cost per pound of cotton or per bushel. Humus is organic matter thoroughly rotted and taken in the body of the soil, becoming a part of it. It serves two purposes. It fits the soil for absorbing and retaining moisture and prevents rapid erosion. It serves as a vehicle in the multiplying of bacteria necessary to plant growth.

When soil has a fair portion of humus in it we say it is in good physical condition. It is easy to work. Plants grow rapidly and fruit heavily. It makes the use of commercial fertilizers more profitable, for the poorer the soil the less use one gets from chemical mixtures of fertilizers. The more humus, the more fertilizer used, the more profit, up to a fixed limit. Most soils well filled with organic matter will produce normal crops without adding fertilizer, but should one desire a bumper crop, fertilization under such conditions will result in quick plant response.

Crop rotation with the turning under of occasional legume crops will build humus into the soil, and then, with early spring rains on fall-plowed lands, enough moisture will be stored for plant use during drouths such as experienced in North Texas, Oklahoma, and Arkansas the season just closing. It may look like a waste of money to turn a crop of sweet clover, cowpeas or other legume into the soil, but it is not. It is an investment which will return to the farmer an attractive dividend.—Farm and Ranch.

The new army airport at San Antonio, designed to be the aviation West Point, will represent an initial investment of about $14,000,000 and a probable ultimate outlay of around $50,000,000. It includes 800 buildings for housing the 2,200 officers and men and their families. When completed 250 planes can land or take off simultaneously and more than 300 planes will be used for training the cadets of the flying school to be established there.

If a man's fortune does not fit him, it is like the shoe in the story; if too large, it trips him up; if too small, it pinches him.—Horace.

-- so we lay our cards on the table to the people of the Southwest

OVER A HALF CENTURY ago, when six-shooters and longhorn cattle were in vogue, the Waples Platter Company started the distribution of coffees and foods, housed in a tent on the banks of Red River in Indian Territory. Shortly thereafter the business was moved to Denison, which was then the terminal of the Katy Railroad.

Texas is a big state. Technically it is one state, but geographically she is a half dozen. To those who think a trip through seven states from Boston to St. Louis is never-ending, this same distance can be covered without leaving the borders of Texas.

The grit and courage of the people of the great Southwest is reflected in the development of its vastness, laying the foundation for the homes of great industries and enterprises which have today materialized.

During the forward march of Texas, more than 1,000,000 loyal people of the Southwest have made the Waples Platter Company one of the largest food distributors in the United States. That is important. Not just because it is now a big business—but because it presents an obligation which must be discharged in full to deserve the continuance of your patronage.

Naturally, you haven't realized the business you were building. Waples Platter Company is merely a name to many of you. But in thousands of households White Swan Coffee, Wapco Beans and many other Waples Platter products mean the finest quality that can be placed on a table.

Goodwill is the most precious asset of any company. It cannot be bought like a commodity. But can be established only by insuring the lowest price consistent with the highest quality.

By going to the very source for its products, by controlling every step of their preparation and distribution, it makes sure that no finer foods can be brought into your home for the price you are asked to pay.

To guarantee this, the Waples Platter Company has become far more than a distributor of foods. It is importer, roaster, packer and preserver, selecting crops direct from the world's finest farms and plantations.

Every step from raw materials to the finished product is now supervised and packed under their own roofs. Twenty-five acres of land accommodate the many modern plants which our customers made possible to erect, and stand today as monuments to their patronage of this Texas institution.

This assures the permanency of a quality that has won your favor and acceptance, and at the same time bringing it to you at lower cost through more than 10,000 dealers who are freshly supplied from 22 Waples Platter Houses strategically located throughout this territory.

And now, with greater resources combined with facilities for greater economies, Waples Platter will endeavor to reward your loyalty with even higher quality and service.

ILLITERACY.

The unschooled boy of the Blue Ridge Mountains who in giving President Hoover a 'possum drew the nation's attention to the degree of illiteracy in his region, has perhaps accomplished as much for the cause of education as any single individual during the past year.

The first result, as we all know, will be the establishment of a school at the headwaters of the Rapidan river where the Hoover summer camp was located. More far reaching, however, is the widespread public interest in illiteracy and realization of the existence of rural slums.

Too often we are inclined to believe that all illiteracy in this land of ours exists in the city. The children in many rural regions, however, are likewise frequently denied the educational opportunities that we feel every American child is entitled to and that we also believe is necessary for the maintenance of a successful democracy.

In the more prosperous farming regions surrounding Slaton, of course, the boys and girls receive educational opportunities that are on a par with the best that city schools can give. In poorly developed regions everywhere, however, where cheap, sandy or non-productive land attracts a poor class of farm workers, illiteracy of the worst type exists. Generations of children arise with scarcely enough schooling to enable them to sign their names. Their lives are squalid and their contribution to our civilization is nothing.

Every publisher comes in contact with illiteracy from time to time. And naturally we all wish that the time might come when it could be completely wiped out.

AN INTERESTING PREDICTION.

C. R. F. Smith, agricultural engineer of Iowa State College, makes an interesting prediction. In fifty years from now, he says, the American farmer will sit in an office before an electric switchboard and control automatic plows, cultivators and harvesters which will produce his crops for him without the aid of a single field laborer.

"The great revolution in agricultural methods of the last fifty years," says Mr. Smith, "will prove small in comparison with the revolution that will take place in the next fifty years."

"Automatic farm machinery which runs without constant human supervision will be widely used. . . the machine will be able to run night and day if necessary. . . the greatest aid to super-farming in the future, and one whose realization is near at hand, will be a soil-tilling machine, which will move over the field, mixing and pulverizing soil, organic material and plant food in a single operation."

The forerunner of these new machines, it may be pointed out to the sceptical, is already in operation and proving successful. It is a manless plow used at Iowa State College, which, after being steered across the field to make the first furrow, guides itself automatically by a guide-wheel, which follows the last furrow plowed until the field is completed.

MARKETING OR SELLING

World consumption of United States cotton for the year ending July 31, 1927, was 15,708,000 bales. In the year following it was 19,407,000 bales. And for the year ending July 31, 1929, it was 15,076,000 bales.

Keeping those figures in mind let us remember that the estimated production of the 1929 crop is only 14,825,000 bales.

Doesn't it appear that we will consume more cotton in the year ending July 31, 1930, than we grow?

The carryover plays just as big a part in the price of cotton as does the production. The combination of the two gives us our total supply. What has this total supply been?

The total supply of United States cotton for the year ending July 31, 1927, was 23,500,000 bales. For the year ending July 31, 1928, it was 20,800,000 bales. And for the year ending July 31, 1929, was 19,599,000 bales.

When we combine the holdover on hand Aug. 1, 1929, with the estimated production from the present crop, we get a total supply for the year ending July 31, 1930, of 19,599,000 bales.

In the face of these figures it might seem that the price would do better. But why should the price be any better?

Most of the cotton which has come, and yet is to come, on the market is distress cotton. The growers must sell. They need the money, and must have it. Those whom they owe demand settlement.

Foreign spinners have been studying financial conditions in southern states all summer. American spinners know what the conditions are. Both know that most of the cotton will be sold by Thanksgiving.

Hence they are buying only when the market drops.

This situation isn't new. It has always existed and it will take two things to change it. First, the man who grows cotton must live a year ahead instead of a year behind. He must stay out of debt and grow other products. He must make cotton a clear cash crop.

Second, is needed the further growth of farm marketing organizations. When the grower actually owns the crop he grows and owns his own marketing agency, he can then truly market his crop.

Now, he merely sells it.—Clarence Roberts, in October 1 Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

THE GIST OF THE TARIFF.

The chief purpose of the tariff is to protect the high wage and living standards enjoyed by our workers. If foreign goods can undersell American products we must equalize the difference by levying a tax. If foreign goods cannot undersell our goods, no tariff is necessary.

The tariff is an economic question. It should be taken out of politics and placed in the hands of experts. A tariff which is either too high or too low would prove detrimental to our prosperity.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT.

The world's longest newspaper route is in Yellowstone Park, is 160 miles long and absorbs between 600 and 800 pounds of newspapers daily between June and September.

It is a full day's work that confronts the driver, Bird Newell, when he steps on the starter of his Chevrolet Coupe, and sets about the day's business. Fast driving and knowledge of short cuts are necessary to complete the task before dusk.

Newell's subscribers number several hundred persons who reside each summer in the isolated camps and resort hotels of America's greatest natural park. Until 1928 these vacationists had no means of getting their home town newspapers. Since the route opened the Chevrolet coupe has been in constant service, never missing a day.

The car has already travelled 42,000 miles and has never undergone any major repairs. Thus far the total cost of servicing the car has been only $58.50.

Newell receives his papers at the Gardiner entrance each day at 10:20 a. m. He makes four stops, about 45 minutes each, at the major camps, and returns to the bunk house at Mammoth Lodge at 6:30 p. m. To do this he must average 32 miles to the hour. His actual driving time is five hours.

L. E. Flint, publicity director of the park recently invited a reporter to accompany Newell over the route. It afforded the writer a splendid view of the park from trails forbidden the average tourist.

When the reporter got back to his office he wrote an enthusiastic description of the enchanting vistas that had been revealed to him. Nor did he forget the ability of the car which swept him through the alluring landscape.

"I never enjoyed a more comfortable ride in a motor car," he wrote. "We travelled through this wonderland leisurely, despite the consistent speed that was maintained up-grade and down. The Chevrolet took hair-

TIGER'S CAGE STAFF MAKES PLANS FOR PUBLICATION

The staff and the reporters of the Tiger's Cage met Tuesday morning and discussed a plan of publishing the paper for the year. It was decided to give a picture, without the frame, to the room that sold the most subscriptions to the paper, above twenty-five. Also that the pupil who sold the most subscriptions, should be given a subscription to the paper free.

The paper will be published every two weeks. The subscriptions will be 75c.

It is your paper, help it to be a success by getting good reports in on time. Help your reporter to get the best. Come on, Juniors, the Seniors are ahead. The contest will close Monday afternoon at four o'clock.—Tiger's Cage.

HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A.

Tuesday at 3:45 p. m., the P. T. A. met in the auditorium, with Mrs. R. L. Smith presiding, and transacted some very interesting business. First, they decided to have hot water arranged for the boys' and girls' baths, and to finance the proposition if the school board could not. Supt. Green was instructed to have estimates made as to the cost of installation, and that it be done as soon as possible. In order to raise the needed funds it was decided to have a "measuring party" at the Club House, Oct. 17th; each guest is to pay 5c for each foot of his or her height, and 1c for each inch or fraction over a foot. There will be social games and music for entertainment.

It was also voted to put on a drive for new members, or renewals, giving a picnic to the room that turns in the most paid members in proportion to the number of pupils. Those joining should have it understood to which room they wish to have credit passed for their membership. A meeting is called for Oct. 22nd, to canvass the result of the membership drive, and to provide for the picnic and to elect delegates to the State Convention at Waco. It was also voted to co-operate with the ward P. T. A.'s in providing for a State Health Nurse to examine all students of the schools.—Reporter.

HUGE COST OF FIRES.

Good authorities estimate the direct and indirect costs of fires in the United States will reach the almost unbelievable total of $1,112,000,000 every year. If put into concrete roads at $25,000 a mile, this would pave 44,480 miles, nearly enough in one year to finish paving every remaining mile of primary road in the United States. It would pay every family in the United States about $50 per year.

Such a huge sum would be enough each year to build a paved highway 400 miles long and costing $27,000 a mile, leaving enough to develop on each side of the highway 100-foot lots with a house on each lot costing $7,000, a $1,000 garage, $3,000 furniture for each house, a $1,500 car, $3,900 for running each home for a year, and $2,000 to give each family a trip to Europe each year might also be provided. After the road and all this had been paid for, there would still be left $382,000 for building schools, parks and other extras.—October 1 Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

NEW SENATOR OF LOG CABIN ORIGIN

The days of Abraham Lincoln are not yet over! Who would have thought that in the year 1929 there would come to Washington a Senator who was born in a log cabin? Yet that is exactly where the junior Senator from Tennessee was born.

Now Senator Brock is a millionaire. He is not the richest man in the Senate, but he is among that select circle of very rich men who used to be pointed out to visitors to the Senate gallery, but, alas, no longer attract any notice.

Who, for instance, cares if Senator Couzens of Michigan is the wealthiest man in the Senate and that the humble Ford car was the source of his great wealth? Nobody. What counts in that body is brains, personality, energy, determination, education, scholarship, and influence.

Like Senator Tyson, whom he succeeded, Senator Brock is a native of North Carolina, and the son of a Confederate soldier. At 23 he began to make his way in life, on a salary of $30 a month. By dint of personality and tremendous energy he pushed into prominence. He is modestly very religious, a Methodist.

Preening and brushing and combing her hair—It wonders me not she remains very fair!—Warendolph.

Your hair probably has not profited by the summer vacation—unless you the unusually fortunate—and requires special attention at this season of the year. The sun, salt water and careless, hasty shampooing as well as complete neglect in the matter of massage and brushing, are likely to have robbed the hair of its smooth sheen and lustre.

Let us begin at the beginning. Good circulation is the prime essential for a healthy scalp and healthy, lustrous hair. The blood supply in the scalp must be kept active in order to flourish the hair roots and to keep the tiny glands in good working condition. This means that the scalp must be stimulated. Hair tonics should fulfill two functions. First, they should be stimulating to bring up the circulation. Second, they should be corrective in their effects upon the oil glands. For the dry scalp a tonic should be oily. For an oily scalp the proper tonic should have astringent, drying qualities. Simple massage when used in connection with an efficient hair tonic will frequently correct the common scalp troubles of dandruff and falling hair. Massage brings up the blood to the scalp, and tones up the tiny muscles at the root of each hair, thus permit-ing the nutrition and general good health of the hair.

Regular, vigorous brushing is another important beauty aid in developing healthy, lustrous hair. It is an excellent thing to remember at this time of the year that if you massage your scalp and brush your hair regularly and frequently as you eat your meals or brush your teeth you will not have to spend time and money later in curing unhealthy scalp and hair conditions.

Shampoos are important, too, but as I have recently gone into this matter so thoroughly and completely, I shall not take it up again.

I shall mention one caution, however. When it is possible, avoid the drying machine for your hair. After it has received its final rinsing, wring it out thoroughly and wrap a warm towel around your head, rubbing the hair until most of the moisture is absorbed. Then divide the hair into sections and rub each section with a second warm towel. This is a good time to use your hair tonic, if you need one. Massage it well into the sections of the scalp. Shake your hair well and, if convenient, finish the drying process with a sunbath.

BE CAREFUL IN TALKING TO YOURSELF

The things that men, women and children say to themselves when alone, make or unmake their lives, according to Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, noted New York minister, in a plan for self examination.

"Most people do scant justice to the immense importance of inward conversation which never stops," says Dr. Fosdick. Usually they are fully awake when in company of others, to the influence of conversation, whether it be pleasant or displeasing. They are wary of propaganda and see the disastrous effects of conversation. Everybody has seen, he continues, a young girl wilt before a scornful remark, or watched the baneful effects both physical and psychological, which sarcasm and scoffing can produce on a growing boy.

"Yet one of the commonest keys of inward conversation is quarrelsomeness. Forever to be engaged in an inward conflict writing inward conversation berating someone, pummeling our own selves with bludgeons, is utterly disastrous to personality," says Dr. Fosdick. "Anxious self-communion is not enough; probably angry self-communion is worse. Of course some of the reasons run back to childhood; only a first rate psychiatrist at the hidden cause of the commotion, however, is quite capable, and only our failure to realize how ruinous it is keeps us

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. 1, Chicago, Illinois, for free trial.

Cleveland fell prey to her long fascinations, but he was so her business rival and their personal love scenes were such duels of points, that she could not think of him as an amateur in love. "But it might come to—"
"Well, for the matter of that, a lot of hugging goes on in a lot of homes—and outside of them. No guaranty ever went with marriage that was good for anything, and there's none now. We've got as good a chance as anybody."
"But what if we should fall out? Divorces are so loathsome."
"They're pretty popular, though. They're more decent than the old way—and divorces are as ancient as the world. Moses brought down from heaven the easiest system—"
"Yes, but Christ said—"
"Christ said nothing about a woman ever getting a divorce at all. He only allowed a man to get it on one ground."
He took her in his arms, but Mem was not in a gambling mood, and withdrew herself. She wanted to ponder a while longer.
When she was under Tom Holby's spell, she was easily convinced that the ideal partnership was an actor and an actress. She had been of a mind that actress and director made a perfect combination. Claymore had left his autograph on her soul.
Then a rich man fell into her orbit and wanted to put "big money" back of her, organize The Remember Steddon Productions, Inc., and make pictures exclusively for her. But he talked so large that he frightened off her love.
This love business was driving Mem frantic. In all the pictures she had played, as in the traditions of her girlhood, love was a thing that came once and never came again. Good women knew their true fate-mates at once and never swerved in their devotion.
Yet here she was, passionately interested in several gentlemen, finding each of them fascinating just so far, and faithful thereafter. Instead of giving herself meekly to the bliss of matrimony she was debating its advisability, practicability, and profit. She must be at heart a bad woman; one of those adventuresses.
Then came The Pause. Hard times struck the movies so hard that in the studios they became no times at all. Most of the motion-picture factories disarmed entirely, and the rest of them nearly. The Bermond Studios kept one company at work, and it was not Mem's company.
She was stricken with terror as she confronted her problems.
What could she do now—not to perfect her shame, but to make a living? She would be poorer than her father. She would have to discontinue the installments of that "conscience fund" which she had learned to expect from Doctor Bretherick. She could not even pay the installments on numerous vanities she had bought for herself from the shops.
Her lovers were as defuted as herself. Authors, actors, directors—all—instead of marriage they talked poverty.
No one had talked hard times longer or louder than Bermond. Having heard him croak of disaster so long, Mem assumed her contract would be canceled. Bermond sent for her and she went prepared for the guillotine. He said:
"I like you, Miss Steddon. You've worked hard. I find that the exhibitors are wiring in: 'Give us more Steddon stuff. Why don't you star her?' What the exhibitors say goes—as far as it can."
"We can't star you now. But I believe in you. I want people to know you. And when the good times come again you must be ready for them. So I'll go on paying your salary and send you out on a tour of personal appearances."
"Your last picture looks like a knock-out. I'm going to take down Clive Cleland's name and feature yours lone. I want you to go East—to New York and Boston, Philly, Chi., all the big cities, and let the people see you when they see the picture."
"We'll pay your traveling expenses and so your mother can go along as our guest."
"Of course!" Mem cried. "And it's ever so kind of you."
The abandoned suitors of Mem made a sorry squad at the Santa Fe station. They stared at her with humiliated devotion.
Bermond sent a bushel of flowers and fruit to her drawing-room. He saw to it that there were reporters to give her a good send-off.
Soon after her arrival the papers of New York were publishing her engaging eyes, the billboards all about town were announcing her, and in paragraph and advertisement she was celebrated. But so many others were also claiming the public eye! other new-comers and favorites in impregnable esteem.

People who had come from Calverly were claiming Mem as a fellow-citizen and feeling that they gained some mystic authority from mere vicinity. Some of them called upon her in person or by telephone and set her heart agog.
The night her own picture was shown she stepped out before what seemed to be the world in convention assembled. She felt as tiny as she looked to the farthest girl in the ultimate seat up under the back rafters.
She parroted the little speech that Bermond's publicity man had written for her and afterward wondered what she had said. There was a cloud-burst of handclapping and a salvo from the orchestra that swept her from the stage into the wings.
And that was that!

"But you'd be hugging other girls before the camera—and other men would be hugging me."

She did not know that one of the town's wealthiest men was lolling in a futeuil down front and that her beauty and her terror smote him.
His motto had been, "Go after what you want, and bring it home!" He prided himself on being a go-getter who had not often come back foiled. He wanted Mem and he went after her. He was willing even to bring her home.
There was no difficulty about meeting Mem for a man whose name spelled of millions honestly amassed and gracefully dispersed.
Austin Boas came humbly to Mem to pay his respects, and his enormous name made her tremble as her bisque daintiness set him quiver. He was shy, ashamed of his own lack of heroic beauty; and Mem was dazed to find

What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

herself feeling sorry for him. Pity was a dangerous mood for her.
He might have won Mem via pity, if he had not tried to win her from her career. He was a monopolist by inheritance, and he wanted all there was of Mem. Boas had one terrific rival, the many-headed monster.
It is not hard to seduce an actress from the stage, but it is hard to keep her off. There is a courtship that the public alone can offer, and no one man can give her as much applause as a nightly throng's. That form of polyandry is irresistible to most of the women who have been lucky enough to get on the stage or the screen and to win success there.
One day Bermond summoned her to his New York office and said:
"How about getting to work again? I've got a great story for you and they need you at the studio. On your way back you can make personal appearances at four or five cities, but it's back on the job for you, eh? That's right! That's a good girl!"
Bermond offered Mem neither ease nor devotion—except devotion to her publication. He offered her toil and wages, hardships and discontent, sleepless malaise, and bad press notices.

And she could have flung her arms around him and kissed him.
Austin Boas was at the station to see Mem off. For his last fling he filled her drawing-room with flowers—poor things that drooped and died and were flung from the platform by the porter.
Long after their spell had been forgotten, the sad gaze of Boas as he cried good-bye haunted her.
She had murmured to him, "When I make another picture or two I may decide to be sensible, and then—if you are still—"
"I shall be waiting," said Boas. And he gave up with a groan: "Marry me anyway and have your career, too. I'll put my money in your company. I'll back you to the limit."
At Buffalo and at Cleveland she paused to come before huge audiences and prattle her little piece. When she reached Chicago she found awaiting her a long letter from the manager of the moving-picture house in Calverly. He implored her to visit her old home town and make an appearance at his theatre. He promised that everybody would be there. This was success indeed! To appear in New York was triumph, but to appear in her native village was almost a divine vengeance.

MORE THAN 1,200,000 NEW CHEVROLET SIXES ON ROAD DETROIT, Oct. 11.—The Chevrolet Motor Company announced here today that more than 1,200,000 of the new six cylinder Chevrolet cars have been placed on the road since the first of the year. This achievement accomplished in little over nine months, is three times the best showing of any other manufacturer of six cylinder cars in a calendar year and tops Chevrolet's record total for the entire year of 1928. It is now certain that six cylinder production will set a world record this year, surpassing for the first time in the history of the industry the output of four cylinder cars. This leadership of the sixes will come about chiefly because of Chevrolet's record showing this year. Chevrolet factory officials declare that the dominating reason back of the leadership of the six is the public preference for the advantages which this type of construction affords. They point out too that the influence of great volume production, which has enabled the industry to get six cylinder prices down to the lowest on record and has made it possible for Chevrolet through maximum volume to offer six cylinder performance at a price that formerly bought only a four. With a new year record already assured, Chevrolet factories are continuing on the biggest Fall production program ever undertaken by the company. Nine assembly plants and seven large manufacturing plants are facing the busiest final quarter that Chevrolet has ever known. The heavy Fall factory program was made necessary, it was explained, to bring production up to the level of the demand and make possible quicker deliveries to owners.

Graceful Figure Wins Movie Role

perfect figure and superb grace which brought Louise Brooks fame on the stage and the opportunity for a screen career, was visible, in a large measure, for her selection to play the role of "The Ordinary" in Paramount's "The Canary Murder Case," which will open Sun- days, or 3 days at the Palace Theatre, St. Louis.

Called "The Van Dine," mysterious author's best selling detective story, "The Canary Murder Case," is the most beautiful, the most interesting and the most expensive picture being shown in the glow of the "way's midnight sun."

"The Canary Murder Case," Brooks is the featured figure in the picture, a presentation which is a chorus of 70 girls. In addition to unusual demands upon acting, the role also required that the character display a figure which put in the shadows those of 70 of the most beautiful girls the cast- ing department of the Paramounts in Hollywood could assemble.

Brooks toured with the Ruthless dancers, played in George's "Scandals of 1924," danced in London and returned to New York in Florenz Ziegfeld's "Louis Ruyter" and in his "Follies." She signed a Paramount contract with William Powell, James Hall, Jean Harlow and Miss Brooks are the featured players in "The Canary Murder Case."

It is of record that the most notable case arising under the flexible provision concerned this effort to procure a reduction in the tariff on sugar. The case earned a reputation as a "national scandal".

Unfortunately this recommendation of the Tariff Commission came during a political campaign, and the President, it is said, thought it inexpedient to adopt it and put it in effect.

The Tariff Commission stated in its report that "the cost to the country of retaining the rate of 1.76 cents per pound as against the establishment of a rate of 1.23 cents per pound is approximately $75,000,000."

Now tariff experts have demonstrated that the rate on sugar in the Smoot Bill will increase the burden on the American pocket-book some $65,000,000 annually.

PUT IDLE LANDS TO WORK BY PLANTING TREES

The farmer has too much idle land or there is not enough market for what he produces. Idle acres are as great a drag on national prosperity as idle men would be. The farmer, to be in an ideal situation, must have a market for his produce but, since his crops are annuals, the finding of an annual market is the crux of the agricultural problem. Why not put some of that acreage into wood- lot? The farmer uses more lumber than any other class. An expenditure of about ten dollars per acre will net $200 per acre in forty years. That acreage which once raised food for horses, and is now idle owing to the coming of the automobile and the tractor, can again be made profitable if planted to trees.

Says Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association:

The American people must wake up to the forest situation. The National Forests Reservation Commission has a buying program and right- ly so. But idle land is as great a drag on our economic system as idle men would be. It is not the function of the commission to do anything but buy the land to the best possible advantage. What is going to put that land to work? The dollars the Budget Committee will put in the hand of the U. S. Forest Service.

As to areas outside the national forests the proposition is of vital importance to every child born this year because a majority of them will live to write the year 2000. In the meantime a forest situation now acute will have become desperate by that time unless the idle land is put to work. We in America talk a great deal about making this country the greatest on earth. If we are to make it so, however, we must not permit any necessary commodity to become depleted to a point lower than our actual needs.

Of recent years the scarcity of timber has reflected itself in high prices. Many of us have been forced to use substitutes—not always because those substitutes are better, but because they are cheaper. Wood, in all its multitudinous forms, is something we cannot well do without. No nation ever has. Wood means houses, turpentine, boxes, fuel, shingles, ties, posts, poles, magazines, books, and newspapers. It means a wealth of things on which our whole economic structure is predicted. Yet it is daily growing scarcer.

In its broader aspect this forestry situation is not difficult to size up. We have in the United States about 470,000,000 acres of land that are chiefly valuable for growing trees. They will either produce wood or nothing, for they cannot profitably produce agricultural crops. What we do with these acres determines our success or failure in providing this nation with cheap and abundant wood. The answer seems simple enough. There are billions in trees. We have the idle land. The farmer has thousands of acres of such land that he can put back in trees and soon have a tree crop every year. The demand for forest products is increasing because our population is growing. We must grow forest for a growing nation.

LEGISLATION AND THE MARKET BASKET

"To interpret the tariff in terms of the market basket," is one aim of the Committee on Living Costs of the National League of Women Voters as expressed by its Chairman, Mrs. Har- his T. Baldwin, of Washington.

"The relation between tariff legisla- tion and living costs is a subject on the study program of the League," Mrs. Baldwin said. "We do not take any definite action on a legislative subject until we have studied it in detail for two or three years. This involves an immense amount of read- ing and research, but it has been proved the wisest course to follow. Our Chairmen in various states are following a concrete program of edu- cation along tariff lines, and, of course, we in Washington are follow- ing tariff proceedings through every stage."

Women have shown themselves sur- prisingly responsive to the technical- political subject of duties, protection, ad valorem rates, etc., Mrs. Baldwin says. The rural woman, who feels most directly the effect of taxes and other economic legislation, is espe- cially well informed on the subject, and they in particular are well awakened to the relation between prices of food and the duties thereon.

Other subjects on the study pro- gram of the Committee are the regula- tion of public utilities, the elimina- tion of unnecessary costs in producing and distributing necessities of life, the agricultural depression and meas- ures for reconstruction, and so on.

WHAT'S THE CURE.

German efficiency seems to be com- ing close home to most unromantic problems. A commission of German physicians, sponsored by the Ministry of Transportation and Commerce, are reported to be busily engaged in voy- aging up and down the Baltic Sea, in- vestigating the efficacy of various remedies offered for sea-sickness, for which purpose they solicit the cooperation of passengers.

We still maintain that our German friends will never find a better rem- edy than the time-honored one that Spaniards offer the unsuspecting traveler: "Sea-sickness? That's nothing. I know an infallible cure." The victim invariably falls for the "cure", and is told all he has to do is sit in the shade of a tree!

As railroad building bonuses Texas gave 35,000,000 acres of its public do- main—roughly the equivalent of 43 counties of the average size of 900 square miles.

Hail Severe in Post Vicinity

According to reports the Grassland and Graham Chapel communities were badly damaged by the severe hail-storm last Wednesday night. A strip of country approximately ten miles long and six miles wide was completely cleaned of all growing vegetation.

The rainfall in the communities was only slight and was considered as only a sprinkle.

Reports state that the crop in the Grassland community was destroyed in spots while the crops in the Graham Chapel community which were stricken by the disaster were a complete loss.

Farmers living in the stricken area state no stock were killed and that the loss among the poultry was light, as most of the poultry was under shelter.

The hail, which lasted for about three minutes, covered the ground.
