SIX NOMINATIONS MADE IN "MOST USEFUL CITIZEN" CONTEST HERE

In conducting a vote contest here to select the person who has been Slaton's "most useful citizen" during the past year, the local Post of the American Legion has received six nominations from heads of various leading organizations of the city.

One of the nominees was nominated by two different organizations, leaving only five different nominees out of the six nominations.

Instead of selecting the "most useful citizen" at their regular meeting held last Friday night, the local Legion Post is this week conducting a voting contest by mail, in order that every member of the Post will have a chance to cast his ballot for his choice. Letters were sent out Monday to the Legion members, each letter containing a return card, bearing a list of the nominees and requiring that the Legion member check the name he chooses and return to Dan W. Liles, Post Commander here, not later than 6 p. m. Thursday.

The return cards may be mailed or given to Commander Liles in person, he said, but they must be in his hands by Thursday at 6 p. m. in order to be counted. A committee consisting of Henry Jarman, Alvin White and Walter Savell was named to canvass the ballots when they have been returned by the Legion members. This work will be done by the committee between 6 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. Thursday evening, the latter hour having been chosen as the time for making public the name of the person chosen by the Legion to bear the title of "Slaton's Most Useful Citizen" during the past year.

The public announcement of the person chosen and the formal presentation to him of an engraved certificate will occur Thursday night on the city hall lawn immediately after the prizes have been awarded by the Chamber of Commerce for the lawn contest which closes Thursday. This latter program had already been set and announced and the occasion of it will be used to present to the "most useful citizen" his certificate of honor. Post Commander Liles announced yesterday, Judge D. E. Kemp will be the speaker who will present the certificate of honor to the person chosen. He was selected by the Legion last Friday night to perform this task.

The five men nominated by the six persons making nominations were: G. J. Catchings, W. E. Smart, Rev. B. G. Holloway, W. E. Olive and L. A. Wilson. The latter was nominated by two people.

Reasons given for the nomination of G. J. Catching were:

"That he has been very active in all of Slaton's undertakings; he is always back of everything that is good for the betterment of our town; he is a thorough Christian gentleman; he does not believe in classes, but is friendly and is for the betterment of everyone; he is thoroughly patriotic and law-abiding; he believes in the advancement of our younger generation and has been a great help in leading them in the right direction for making better citizens; he is everything that could go to making a model citizen."

Reasons given for the nomination of W. E. Smart were:

"He is always ready to cooperate in anything for the upbuilding and advancement of the city and its interests, such as building, beautifying and encouraging progress and securing enterprises to come to Slaton; any enterprise suggested that stands to upbuild our city finds him among the first to take hold and do his bit toward securing it."

Reasons given for the nomination of Rev. B. G. Holloway, were:

"First, because he is the oldest minister in Slaton, in point of service; second, because he is a capable man; third, because he has the interest of everyone at heart; and last but not least, because I believe him to be a Christian man."

Reasons for nominating W. E. Olive were:

"He was one among many of the

Rotarians Pick Edison and Ford Nation's Leaders

In a discussion held last Friday at the luncheon meeting of the Slaton Rotary club, five members of the club agreed on Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford as going two of the three outstanding living Americans. Commander Richard E. Byrd, J. P. Morgan, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, John D. Rockefeller and Chief Justice William Howard Taft received one vote each, that is each of these men was suggested by one of the five speakers as the third outstanding living American.

The five speakers who selected these men as typical leaders were: R. H. (Bob) Tudor, Allan J. Payne, H. Frank Miller, Charles B. Jordan and Claude F. Anderson. The subject which they discussed was "My Idea of Who Are the Three Outstanding Living Americans, and My Reasons for My Choice."

In behalf of Edison and Ford, the speakers said Edison had done more for the world in developing electric light and the various means for making practical use of electricity than had any other person in the world, and that Henry Ford had done more to revolutionize the automobile industry and to improve working conditions for the laboring man than any other person had done.

Commander Richard E. Byrd was commended for braving the extreme cold and the almost insurmountable difficulties of exploring the Arctic and Antarctic regions, giving to the world a knowledge of conditions in those places which it might never had otherwise.

J. P. Morgan was praised for his gigantic accomplishments in the financial world, helping America to take the leading place among all nations as a prosperous and wealthy nation.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was applauded for his work in advancing aviation. John D. Rockefeller was praised for his enormous gifts to charity and to the advancement of medical science through the gifts of huge sums of money for research and study of diseases and their possible cures, besides the founding of many hospitals. Chief Justice Taft was praised for his leadership and service in the world of political affairs.

A vocal quartette by Harry C. Burrus, A. Lee Tudor, George W. Shanks and Jess Swint was the first feature of Friday's program.

The program for next Friday will begin with a quartette by Lloyd A. Wilson, Tom J. Abel, Allan J. Payne and Walter E. Olive. A social welfare program will follow, discussions being scheduled by W. H. (Bill) Smith, Ben G. Holloway and Will P. Florence, on the subject, "The One Scientific Achievement which, in My Judgment, Has Most Benefited Mankind, and Why."

Howard Hoffman, of Slaton, was the only visitor at the club meeting last Friday.

Another feature of the program for next Friday will be short talks by the 4-H club boys of Slaton who attended the Farmers' Short Course at A. & M. college, July 29 to August 3. These boys have been invited to the luncheon next Friday, along with their fathers. They are: Irvin Reed, Jack Stalcup, Casey Fine and Ralph Dickinson.

TRI-STATE FAIR SENDING OUT SOME 5000 CATALOGS

With some 5000 catalogs sent out all over the Panhandle and Tri-State territory, several prospective exhibitors at the Tri-State Fair to be held in Amarillo, September 23 to 29, have already signified their intentions to enter one or more exhibits at the fair, Wilbur C. Hawks, president, has announced.

FINE SHOWERS HERE THE FIRST OF WEEK

The past week gave us a few local showers. Sunday evening and night they were heavier and Monday afternoon we had a wonderful precipitation, which has worked wonders with the growing crops. From all reports, several sections were favored, the rain was needed, as in places there were signs of crops deteriorating. Naturally we are all thankful that nature has smiled on us with these courtesies.

LOCAL PASTOR AND FAMILY OFF ON MONTH'S VACATION

Rev. and Mrs. L. A. Webb left Monday for the mountains of New Mexico where they will enjoy a camping trip for about a month. They will probably go on up into the state of Colorado while away.

Rev. Mr. Webb made arrangements for his pulpit to be filled each Sunday morning while he is away, but there will be no evening services until his return.

CHICK GARLAND OPENS "HELP YOUR SELF" STORE SATURDAY

Chick Garland, who is well known to the buying public, is opening a cash grocery store in the new building that has recently been erected by Porter brothers on the east side of the square. Chick is moving the new stock from Southland and will add much to make it one of the largest grocery stores in Slaton, so he advises.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS PLAN FETE AT JOHNSTON RANCH

H. L. (Bud) Johnston stated to the Slatonite force that all indications were for a rousing good time at the ranch on Labor Day, September 2, which will be held from August 31 to September 2, inclusive. Each day "Bud" expects to have attractions that will please everyone. He is assisted by H. A. Johnson, known over the Plains as "Hackberry Slim." The boys are using every effort to please the public.

One of the major attractions will be the terrapin races. They are lining up pretty fast for that event and it is expected that more than a hundred will have entries.

They are stressing a free rodeo for Saturday afternoon, August 31 and there is to be a free barbecue on Monday afternoon. "Hackberry Slim" said to tell the fellows to bring their dippers and gourds, as there will be plenty of coffee and it will be good.

There will be dog races with mechanical jack rabbits; horse racing, with a half mile dash, open to all.

They expect to have speaking, old fiddler's contest, band concerts, and on Monday night they expect to have a Labor Day ball.

Full announcement of the program will be made later.

Itasca is paving and the water main work is underway.

ENTERTAINMENT GENUINE IN "SYNTHETIC SIN"—HERE

There is certainly nothing synthetic about the entertainment offered in "Synthetic Sin" Colleen Moore's newest comedy, which opens at the Palace theatre Wednesday and runs through Thursday.

On the contrary, it is decidedly of the 100-proof variety, indicated at the first local showing.

A clever story, an excellent cast, and Colleen's bubbling personality have been woven into a picture that ranks among the most humorously entertaining films to be seen in months. "Synthetic Sin" is a triple triumph for saucy Colleen as the star, William A. Seiter as the director, and Frederic and Fanny Hatton, authors of the play from which the picture was taken.

The characterization in which Miss Moore appears is perfectly suited to her ability and personality, her role being that of an innocent Southern girl who masquerades as a disillusioned woman of the world in order to obtain experience that will suit her to a career as a dramatic actress. The story follows the adventures of this synthetic little sinner in New York's underworld, where she becomes involved in both romance and hilarious melo-drama that carry this interesting story to a whirlwind finish.

LAWN PRIZES TO BE AWARDED AT THURSDAY NIGHT PROGRAM

Police Officers Request Traffic Rules Be Obeyed

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE CITY OF SLATON:

For your cooperation in the past we wish to thank you. Our city has had fewer traffic accidents than any of our sister towns for some time. But, the increase in accidents recently indicates we are growing careless to some extent. Traffic rules are for the protection of the people and their property. With your help in observing them, all are benefited.

So, we are asking your cooperation in a better observance of the rules, thereby making Slaton safer for our people and property. We ask you to observe the stop signs and turnstiles at intersections closer in the future. Also, we are having considerable complaints of undue noise from cut-outs and "bad order" mufflers, and unnecessary horn-sounding. This is annoying to your neighbors and to the people in general. Also, too much speeding, especially on side and residence streets, which endangers the lives of the people and their property.

We, as officers, are maintained by the city to regulate the above conditions and enforce the city ordinances in relation to same. So, we ask you, one and all, to help us by better observance, and thank you in advance for your cooperation, which we feel sure we will receive.

S. S. Forrest Has Ford Car Stolen

A Ford coupe parked conveniently in the street in front of the S. S. Forrest home, 220 West Scurry street, with the key in the switch and ready to go, in a sleeping city and nobody looking, is a great temptation to even an amateur thief. Such was the case when some late prowler started the car owned by Mr. Forrest about four o'clock one morning last week.

Fortunately Mrs. Forrest was awake at the time and at once called her husband. The car was later found near the park.

Anyway, Something Has Made Him Feel Better By Albert T. Reid

Prizes in the third annual "Pretty Lawn Contest," being conducted this season by the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, and which comes to an end on Thursday of this week, will be awarded Thursday night when a public program will be held at the bandstand on the city hall lawn, according to Chamber of Commerce officials.

Everybody is invited to attend the program, and especially it is desired that all who entered their lawns in the contest this year will be present.

Judges will come to Slaton from Tahoka Thursday morning to make the awards. They will spend most of the day viewing the lawns. The judges are being sent here for this work by the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce, of which C. C. Williams is secretary.

Prizes in the contest will go to sixteen people, four in each class. Cash prizes will constitute half of the $100 in awards, and shade trees, shrubs, and seeds will constitute the other half, members of the civic committee of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce announced.

SAGE OF POTATO HILL TO WRITE FOR THE SLATONITE

The late Dr. Frank Crane once designated Edgar Watson Howe "The Sage of Potato Hill." This was a tribute to the wisdom and commonsense of Ed Howe, whose weekly column, "Here's Howe" starts in Slatonite next week.

Born at Treaty, Indiana, in 1854, Ed Howe has been in and around printing offices since the age of 12, and has always lived in small towns. At 12 he was already an accomplished typesetter, and after several newspaper jobs and ventures he became in 1877 editor and proprietor of the Atchinson, Kansas, Globe, which he made the most famous weekly newspaper in the United States by filling its pages with his clever observations on life. He retired over thirty years later, after becoming world-famous and writing several important books, among them "The Story of a County Town."

Ed Howe has the most thorough insight into small town American life of any present-day writer. His work has a deep human appeal, and is presented in a simple, homely style—his articles have all the qualities of good conversation between plain people. "Plain People," by the way, is what he named his autobiography.

It was Ed Howe who said "It is better to be safe than sorry." In fact many of his epigrams have become part of our national inheritance.

He is the leading exponent of country journalism—though he has had many offers, he has never consented to work in a city newspaper office. His life has been devoted to Atchison, Kansas, his chief interest, he has somehow found his way into the heart of the entire world and is known wherever English is read or spoken.

ATLANTA SUGGESTS A SLOGAN

The Atlanta Constitution suggests as a winning slogan for the Democratic Party, "Free Sugar on Every American Table!" There can be no doubt that if the Democratic Party could make that slogan its own it would gain many adherents. But the revolt against the sugar tariff is not limited to Democrats or, indeed, to any particular section of the country. It is nation-wide and some of its leaders are as irreproachably Republican as Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, who is going about the west telling the farmer what the sugar tariff is costing him in dollars and cents.

Senator Capper's attack on the entrenched domestic sugar industry have struck consternation into the ranks of the beet barons who long have played a dominant role in Washington and Rocky Mountain politics. They are not so much disturbed as Senator Capper's telling audiences that the present unconsciously high sugar tariff exacts a tribute of $15 annually from every American family. That, with other aspects of the domestic sugar industry—its dependence upon Mexican ponds, 3,000,000 of whom now live in the United States and constitute another racial problem; its forcing the American family to contribute $60,000,000 annually to the fabulously profitable sugar industries of Porto Rico, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands; its failure to live up to its responsibility during the Great War; the enormous sums that inveigled out of the Treasury for irrigation projects, on which, according to ex-Secretary Jardine, there is an outstanding unpaid balance of $79,000,000; the extravagant profits made during the recent years by the intelligently located and managed beet-mills—these facts have all become public knowledge during the course of the recent House and Senate tariff hearings.

To repeat, it is not so much what arguments Senator Capper uses against the sugar tariff that worries the beet-sugar spokesmen. What has driven them into a bewildered huddle is the fact that he is attacking it. As expert politicians themselves they recognize the Kansas Senator's gift of political clairvoyance, his ability to foresee and get aboard political movements before they acquire visible shape. With Senator Capper, political clairvoyant and wheel-horse of the Republican Party, denouncing the sugar tariff raid, they foresee the end of a sinecure which during the past generations has cost the American people a sum sufficient to build twenty Panama canals.

WHY PEOPLE GO BANKRUPT.

Ignorance and inexperience rather than fraud, seem to be the main cause why businesses go on the rocks. At least this is the opinion of E. E. Barbee, secretary of the Oklahoma City Association of Credit Men. According to his view, inexperience bankrupts 25 per cent of every 100 who have to quit.

A great many people get the idea that they can succeed in business. The path to prosperity through the way of a little store looks somewhat easy to them. They see merchants making money, and they have the idea that all they have to do is to open up with a good stock and trade will come naturally. But it does not come that way.

It is a tough proposition for a man to start out in any line of trade unless he knows that business through and through.

He has to know a thousand quirks and twists of the goods he handles, or he will get loaded up with stuff that he can't sell. He has to know a lot about human nature too, for even if his stock is good, it is easy to offend people if one does not know how to deal with them. It is a great art to keep them pleased and satisfied.

A man has to put a lot of his own personal thought and intelligence into a line before he can sell it. He must know why the stuff manufactured by one concern is more desirable than the merchandise turned out by some rival. He ought to have had long experience seeing what goods please the people and what ones fail to do. A man has an ambition to go to work for some time in that line, and to see how it is done.

the line. Then there is the question of advertising, but that is a long story. It is enough to say that the very best line of goods will sell slowly, if the public are not given some information about it.

Give Turkeys Careful Attention

By D. H. REID
August is a critical month in the turkey's life, as the young flock receives very little care and attention during this month. May flocks starting the month with 100 or more show up in September with less than fifty. Of course the owner honestly claims that someone stole them, while the truth of the matter is they have fallen victims to predatory animals. Last night a big rat captured the smallest poult in the flock, while this morning a starved cat ate another that got too close. Tomorrow night a skunk will capture one, while foxes and coyotes like nothing better than husky young turkeys. Of course a few of the turkeys will eat the maggots found in a dead rabbit, and will fall victim to limberneck. Others will become badly infested with worms, and may later die from disease resembling blackhead. All these things are very likely to happen to uncared for flocks and a person who does not set eyes upon his turkey flock each day during August is running chances of finding he has less than half as many birds at the end of the month as he started with.

The first step in caring for a flock of young turkeys during August is to mark the young turkeys in some way so that they can be easily identified, and if at all convenient, have this mark recorded at your county courthouse. This may save you disputes and lawsuits, as some of your neighbors may be sure that you are selling some of their turkeys, and the ownership of unmarked turkeys is often difficult to establish. This marking may be done with wing bands, toe punches, or any easily identified mark.

The second important thing is to protect the turkeys against prowling animals. One of the best ways to do this is to build a turkey roost somewhere near your premises. It is well to make this at least five feet high, with slanting boards with cleats on them that will enable even the weaker young turkeys to climb easily. Turkeys can be easily taught to roost by feeding them a small amount of grain just before sundown, near the desired place. It is also well to have one or two buckets of water near the roosting place, as a shortage of water is likely to stunt the young flock.

The actual feed needed by the young poult during August is simply a small amount of grain feed each evening, allowing them to range freely during the day and coming home at night to get a small amount of feed so as to be sure and keep them growing.

It is well to look the flock over each evening, and if droopy birds are noticed, shut them up in a clean yard and give them a couple of quarts of moistened bran in which three-fourths of a pound of epsom salts has been mixed. Keep them shut in the yard during the next day, being sure to provide them with shade. Then feed them a moistened mash in which one teaspoonful of ipecac has been mixed for each six turkeys. Ordinary egg mash may be used in this connection.

If the young flock shows signs of being infested with worms, they should be treated with some good worm medicine, several kinds of which are on the market. The worm medicine for ceca worms is especially important, as it has been definitely determined that the presence of these worms makes the young poult more susceptible to blackhead infection. The ceca worms puncture the inner lining of the blind guts, and the blackhead organisms are these openings to get into the blood and to the liver of their victims. A small amount of lime, thrown around over the dropping under the roosts, is also a prevention against the poult becoming infected.

from each other. It is a good plan at this season of the year to mark the birds that mature most rapidly, as the early maturing turkey is the best to breed from the next year. So it will pay to mark in some way the strongest, most rapidly, showing they are especially strong and vigorous. The turkey flock that is watched over and taken care of through the month of August is far more likely to be a profitable flock at Thanksgiving time than is the flock that is turned loose and forgotten during this hot month.

ATHLETIC PARK MASS MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

A mass meeting was held Monday night at the city hall at which plans were discussed for securing an athletic field and having it ready for use when the football season opens next month. This is a problem which the city is facing on account of the old ball park at the southeast corner of the city having been sold because of its very inconvenient location.

Possible locations for an athletic park here were mentioned, but none seemed exactly the desirable thing until a suggestion was made that the northeast corner of the county park might be secured. This includes a space about 200 yards long and more than 100 yards wide, and would make an ideal football field, in the opinion of those attending the meeting. Its location would make it convenient for everybody to attend games, and it could be made a very attractive field by planting grass over the entire area of the ground, it was suggested.

Plans for erecting a park fence of good quality wire, with iron posts and barbed wire protection on the top, were discussed and prices are being secured on the cost of this kind of a fence.

A committee of six men: E. V. Woolever, W. H. Smith, J. H. Brewer, Roy Wilmesmeier, J. A. Elliott and Mayor W. G. Reese, volunteered to circulate petitions among Slaton citizens, asking Commissioner J. T. Pinkston to request the county commissioners' court to give authority for the ground to be used as a football field and athletic park, giving a long-time contract on it which would guarantee continued use of the plot for many years in the future.

As a means of getting the athletic park in shape, building and equipping a public gymnasium, and paving the rest of Slaton's streets, why not have a municipally owned skating rink.

"What is the matter with Slaton?" One thing that "ails" it is that many of its business people are satisfied with a small success. "Lightning rods are sold, not bought," an old agent who had successfully "sold" this commodity for forty years, used to say, and the wise conclusion of the agent applies no less to other things. There is always something doing at the place of a successful business, and quarts of printer's ink continually conveys this fact to the public, in phrases blatant, compelling, and cajoling; the people are never allowed to forget its existence. To do this requires courage, faith and vision, but it has been justified in every business that has succeeded in a big way. Never having been in business and never expecting to be, we feel perfectly qualified to advise Slaton merchants, so we say turn your stocks, turn them at a profit, if you can, but turn them. Continually calling attention to your place of business, if in no other way, try standing on your head in the doorway. Though some things do increase in value as antiques, as the years go by, you can never hope to live long enough to "cash in" on that.

Mrs. H. D. Porter Died Here Friday

Mrs. H. D. Porter, mother of Mrs. W. R. Lovett, died Friday afternoon, August 9, 1929, at 5:30 o'clock at the Lovett home, 415 Lynn street.

Mrs. Porter had made her home with her daughter since the death of her husband on the 21st of November, 1928. She had been in ill health for several years, suffering with thyroid goiter. However, her condition was not considered serious at the time of her death.

The deceased was 60 years of age and would have been married 41 years on the 17th of last May, had her husband survived until that time.

She was a devout Christian, having been a member of the Methodist church since early childhood. Mrs. Porter had spent the greater portion of her life in Marceline, Missouri, where her body was sent for burial.

Mr. and Mrs. Lovett left Sunday morning at 6:45 o'clock in company with the body for Marceline, Mo., at which place funeral services were held this afternoon (Tuesday).

She leaves to mourn her death: one daughter, Mrs. Edith Lovett, Slaton; and five sons, C. H. Porter, Philadelphia, Penn.; George F. Porter, of Chicago, Ill.; H. D. Porter, Jr., Ogden, Utah; E. H. Porter, of Carlen, Nevada; and T. L. Porter, of Toy, Nevada.

Wilson To Have Community Fair

The second annual community fair will be held at Wilson, ten miles south of Slaton, Friday and Saturday, September 20 and 21, according to H. M. Kopecky, president of the fair association. A catalog and premium list has been issued, he announced.

Wilson's fair last year was held for one day only, but its success was so pronounced that a two-day affair was decided upon for this year. Visitors at last year's fair said it was equal to many county fairs.

Farmers, home demonstration club members and 4-H club boys and girls are now getting their exhibits ready for the fair. Winners will carry their prize exhibits to other fairs of this territory after the Wilson fair ends, it was said.

A Mercedes company has been organized to handle the export of eggs from the Valley into Mexico.

The clubhouse was beautifully decorated for the occasion, a profusion of flowers being used.

As the guests arrived they were received by the hostesses and were refreshed with punch from a bowl prepared over by Miss Edda Bell Benton.

During the afternoon an enjoyable program was rendered which consisted of a vocal solo by Mrs. Claude F. Anderson; reading, "The Little Band of Gold," by Miss Vinita Bowen; violin selections by Howard Hoffman; vocal solos by Mrs. Richard Douglas of Lubbock; a toast to the bride-to-be by Mrs. J. W. Wallace; a toast to the groom-to-be by Howard Hoffman; and a toast to the "girls left behind" by Miss Eunice Florence.

The honoree was then chosen to go on a treasure hunt which started down the "stream of life" into the "matrimonial sea" by the way of the "home barque" to "treasure island," which was a bank of palm trees over-shadowing a mass of green grass, after brushing away the grass trees bride-to-be found a lovely chest overflowing with beautiful gifts.

The guests compiled a "notebook of advice" for the honoree.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH WORK PROGRESSING NICELY

The work is progressing nicely under the leadership of Rev. Z. B. Dally and Mrs. Dally at the First Christian church. They have shown great ability and won the esteem of the congregation, to a high degree, during their first three months pastorate.

Brother Dally has been made the Sunday school superintendent and is planning great things for the future of the Bible school.

The pastor is an able speaker and the morning services have been very uplifting and a goodly number are present each Lord's Day. At the night services there has been a light attendance which is due to the custom of dismissing, when there are meetings in progress at other churches in the city.

There have been several families added since the pastor took up the work and more are expected to line up. We are glad to have the privilege of working with such an able man and feel sure that under his consecrated efforts the church and community should be blessed by the labors of Brother and Sister Dally.

It is urged that all members put forth extra effort to enlist. Many of those in our community do not attend any of the other churches.

It is encouraging to note that the financial condition is very healthy. This phase of the church work is always more or less of a problem, but we can boast that this membership is standing by their part loyally.
