Kahlich Victim Monday

Funerals were conducted at 9 o'clock from the Catholic church for Carl Kahlich, who was fatally injured in an auto wreck Friday afternoon.

Kahlich was fourteen years of age, the second oldest son of Mrs. Carl Kahlich, who lives in Slaton. A cousin, Edward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bednarz, was driving the car, when the accident occurred. The cause for the accident is not known. However, it is thought that the car might have been going at a fair speed, causing the car to overturn. Kahlich was left in the car at the time of the accident and walked to the hospital where immediate aid was rendered. X-ray pictures revealed that young Kahlich had sustained a broken shoulder and two ribs, one rib having punctured his lung, which caused his death at 11:30 o'clock Friday night.

Funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. Bednarz, where only minor injuries and bruises about the face were noted.

The Kahlich family moved to Slaton eight months ago and had made their home here at that time. The youth attended school in Slaton.

Funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. Thos. O'Brien, with the deceased acting as casket bearers. They were: Edwin, Rob-Willie Bednarz, Victor, Hugo and Heinrich.

Slaton Girl's Team Defeats Lamesa 35-27

On Thursday evening of last week the Slaton High school basketball girls went to Lamesa and engaged the Lamesa sextette in one of the stiffest encounters they have had this year. At the end of the contest the score stood 39 to 27 for Slaton.

We feel that we got some of the revenge for the football game which Slaton lost to Lamesa last fall.

So far this year the Lamesa girls have been undefeated, except for the two games lost to Southland and one to Post. Each of these teams have been defeated by the Slaton girls at a much larger score.

WILLIE GROUND HOG HUNTS HIS HOLE

Mr. Ground Hog was all smiles Sunday, Feb. 2nd. When he came forth in the morning, he was greeted by old Sol with alluring smiles. Of course this means that he will have to hibernate for six weeks, if all predictions are correct, and we on the South Plains will have six weeks of bad weather. We are all hoping, however, it will not be of the vintage given us during January. Again, Willie Ground Hog may be poor on his prognostications this year. We hope that he falls down badly.

Mr. Miller is sending the Lucille Elmore & Company, here for that date, and advises that the personnel are all artists and a mighty good program will be given. Lucille Elmore is sufficient guarantee to the Santa Fe audience that it will be one of the best entertainments offered this season. Miss Elmore is a cousin of Fred Stone, the famous comedian, well you all know Fred, and what Will Rogers thinks of him.

Mr. Miller states that the three boys will amuse and please you with their instruments and singing.

Much complaint is heard concerning the children that attend these entertainments, their deportment is not as it should be, just too much confusion. Mr. Miller states that this absolutely must stop, or they will have to take away the privilege of letting them attend. In fact he states that no children will be admitted under 15 years of age unless they are accompanied by their parents and they must remain with their parents during the entertainment. Here is something else for you to remember. Beginning with this entertainment the doors will be opened at 7:30 p.m. This is for the convenience of the Santa Fe employes and their families, and no outsiders will be admitted until 7:45; the entertainments being particularly for the employees and families, they should be given the first opportunity for seating. Visitors coming next, so be on time.

LUBBOCK CO. HIGHWAYS SOON TO BE STARTED With the arrival in Lubbock, of Guy R. Johnson, engineer of the Highway Department, establishing his headquarters there, preparatory to the work of laying the paving projects that will soon be started in the county. It was stated that the engineering details will start immediately on Highway 7, between Slaton and Lubbock, it is presumed that this Highway will be the first to see the laying of the slabs, as that appears to be the intention at the present time, and as soon as the weather permits work will commence, there is much preliminary work to be done before the actual laying is commenced. On January 17th, the Commissioner's Court ordered the issuance of $321,500 out of the total bond issue of $991,000. $21,500 of these bonds will be used in liquidating the outstanding indebtedness of district No. 1, and the balance for the paying of Highway 7 from Slaton to Lubbock. Early spring should see activity on this Highway, and another link binding Slaton and Lubbock closer together, will become a fact.

Acidity

The common cause of digestive difficulties is excess acid. Soda cannot alter this condition, and it burns the stomach. Something that will neutralize the acidity is the sensible thing to take. That is why physicians tell the public to use Phillips Milk of Magnesia.

One spoonful of this delightful preparation can neutralize many times its volume in acid. It acts instantly; relief is quick, and very apparent. All gas is dispelled; all sourness is soon gone; the whole system is sweetened. Do try this perfect anti-acid, and remember it is just as good for children, too, and pleasant for them to take.

Any drugstore has the genuine, prescriptive product.

Marvelous Work Of New Konjola Medicine Told

Red Cross Pharmacy to Introduce Advanced Remedy For First Time in Slaton

If you were told that one single medicine put hundreds of men and women back to work in Chicago, Philadelphia and other large cities after they had been idle for months with health troubles, it would sound impossible, wouldn't it? And that countless people were completely relieved of rheumatism and neuritis, and that they were able to walk again, without cane or crutches, and that this same medicine restored health to men and women who had suffered with stomach and kidney troubles for years, that complete relief had come in cases of misery where health resorts, expensive treatments and medicine upon medicine had failed—indeed it seems impossible. Yet it is all true, and the medicine that has done all these things is the new Konjola, which is being introduced starting today at the Red Cross Pharmacy, this city.

G. H. MOSBY Discoverer of Konjola

Wherever introduced, this Konjola is vastly different and more effective in thousands of cases of ill-health than any previously known medicine. It is a remarkable liquid compound for the following well-known troubles.

RHEUMATISM: Especially severe cases, where pains are intense, muscles swollen, joints stiff and rigid. In the milder cases of this disease, Konjola relieves almost at once, and this medicine brings the same results to the neuritis victim that it does for the rheumatic sufferers.

STOMACH, LIVER, KIDNEYS and BOWEL TROUBLES: Nearly all forms of misery that arise from these unhealthy organs have been so quickly relieved by Konjola that men and women sufferers everywhere were surprised. It is the action of this medicine on the organs of the inner-system that removes toxic poisons from the system and brings quick relief in so many cases. The secret of this Konjola is the way it acts on the important functionary organs of the body namely, the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. So many diseases and long standing disorders of these organs were so completely conquered and entirely banished by this new compound that thousands of people in larger cities were able to give up taking medicine for time to come.

After the great accomplishments and wonderful work of Konjola in other sections, it is declared that this medicine is what hundreds of sufferers in Slaton and vicinity have long needed to actually reach their cases, and preparations are being made to introduce Konjola for the first time at the Red Cross Pharmacy where this medicine will be sold and explained to the public daily.

ACUFF NEWS AND NOTES.

Farming is largely the order of the day, since the snow and freezing weather has been broken.

Since January 1st, several changes have been made in our community. J. J. Holder sold his farm to Elmer Rush. This good family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Holder, their daughter and her husband W. F. Clark. They have moved to Riverside, Calif., where they expect to make their home.

F. A. Hawkins has added some nice improvements to his well equipped dairy barn, having installed electric lights, under the Delco system.

In the games at Ralls last Friday and Saturday, our girls won over Ralls Friday evening, but were badly beaten Saturday morning by the Sudan girls. Our boys scored a defeat at Petersburg the same date.

Basketball is the paramount issue among the players and fans at the present time. The tournaments will be no immediately, then baseball will be in order.

The Stamps quartette gave an entertainment the past week at the Auditorium, which was well received.

Rev. Auley Ashley will fill his regular appointment Sunday February 9th, at the Dalton Memorial Methodist church. The Epworth League will be reorganized Sunday evening before church services.

Mr. E. N. Cummins who has been ill with the flu, and his daughter Frances who had pneumonia, have both recovered.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Askew are the proud parents of twin daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Samples have a new daughter in their home.

The Short Course at Lubbock last week was well attended by Acuff folks.

The ball game between Acuff and the Lubbock High school was an exciting one Monday evening, the game was a very even one, but Lubbock won by a score of 21 to 19.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Perryman will live on the J. F. Proctor farm, just vacated by W. S. Richmond, who has moved to the Becton community.

Texas led all the states in railroad building in 1928 and 1929 and will lead again in 1930. New mileage built in 1928 was 449.53, in 1929 158.82 and actual and tentative construction for 1930 totals near 1,000 miles.

Greater Beauty - Finer Performance

Never has a Chevrolet car won greater praise for its appearance than the new Chevrolet Six. Its new Fisher bodies reveal in every detail the artistry that has made the Fisher name famous throughout the motor car world. In beauty of line and color, in balance and harmony of design, they represent one of the greatest style triumphs in Fisher history. And the promise of this exterior beauty is more than fulfilled when you look inside the car. Upholsteries are richer and more durable. The instrument panel carries a new and more attractive grouping of the control instruments. Seats are wider and deeper. In fact, not a single feature has been overlooked that would add to the comfort and convenience of both driver and passengers.

In addition to its new beauty, the new Chevrolet Six represents a remarkable advance in every phase of performance. Its improved six-cylinder valve-in-head engine has been increased to 50 horsepower—giving faster acceleration, greater reserve energy and more comfortable high speeds. Steering has been made safer and easier by a new front axle assembly. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers provide exceptional riding comfort. Fully enclosed, internal-expanding, weather-proof brakes give positive braking control. And numerous structural improvements add to the car's dependability, endurance and long life. Come in today and see this car. And remember, it is now available—

ABRAHAM LINCOLN (1809-1865)

A Lincoln's Birthday Thought.

There is always a great element of tragedy in the life of any person, if his career is cut off before he has had a chance to finish his work. If we see some young person cut off in early youth, there is special feelings of regret because of the belief that such a one could have accomplished great things if his life had been continued.

So it is with the great historic character of Abraham Lincoln. His was a case of a great man cut off before his task was finished. While it is a tremendous proposition to be at the head of a nation through any war, yet it requires almost more statesmanship to handle a country through the period following a war. War lets loose a tumult of passions. After the war is over, the most extreme and revengeful elements proceed to work out their bitterness. Whatever ill feeling followed the war between the states, was due far more to the troubles and errors of the reconstruction days, than to any bitterness created by the actual fighting. Mr. Lincoln, as soon as the war was closed, set out to hold these stormy passions of the post-war days in check. He would have worked for a prompt reconciliation between the warring states. The country needed the healing touch of his sympathy and tolerant spirit, and the constructive force of his powerful mind. It was a bitter tragedy that he had to go when his work was only half done.

The country has always admired Lincoln, not merely for his statesmanship, but because he set an example to boys and girls of the most humble home. He pulled himself up out of the most obscure surroundings. Any young person who will show equal ambition and earnestness can likewise elevate himself a long distance above his early environment.

Boock Farmer Feels Like New

Retired Farmer Declares He Feels Like a New Man Since Taking Orgatone

After several weeks of Orgatone, treatment actually put an end to my indigestion and makes me feel like a new man. H. D. Owens, a well known farmer residing at 311 Ave. T., Slaton, Texas, in relating his experience with Orgatone.

"The day after eating," he continued, "I had an awful attack of indigestion and from that time on I could not get in a general run down. My stomach would bloat with gas so at times I could hardly breathe. I would have sick dizziness, until I could hardly stand. I started doctoring but in spite of the medicine I took I became much worse, and suffered much agony that it looked like nothing could ever do me any good." "One of my friends advised me to try Orgatone and I began to improve right from the start and in a week I felt much better. A few more weeks' treatment fixed me up all right and I have gotten entirely over my indigestion and can eat anything I want. I believe everybody in my neighborhood is taking Orgatone and praising it for the good it is doing them."

Genuine Orgatone may be bought in Slaton at the Teague Drug Store.

"A Song of Kentucky" Promises Many Thrills

The triumph of a talented young song writer is the keynote of "A Song of Kentucky," Fox Movietone all talking and singing romantic comedy drama which will be at the Palace Theatre. He battles bitter enemies and strives to win the girl of his dreams.

Lois Moran, beautiful and much loved screen actress, and Joe Wagstaff, who rose to eminence in musical comedy in New York, portray the leading roles and supply the love interest. Dorothy Burgess, will be remembered for her outstanding portrayal of "Tonia" in "In Old Arizona," is also prominently cast. Others furnishing commendable support include such well known favorites as Douglas Gilmore, Hedda Hopper, Edward Davis, Herman Bing and Bert Woodruff.

The plot is replete with romantic situations, exciting action and delightful music. It concerns Jerry Reavis, a song writer who falls in love with Lee Coleman a beautiful society heiress who owns a colt which she enters in the Futurity and later in the Kentucky Derby.

The girl and Jerry plight their troth, but are later estranged through the efforts of Pitcairn, a suitor for Lee's hand, assisted by Nancy, Jerry's former vaudeville partner. Jerry rises to prominence as the writer of a melodic symphony, and Lee attends its first public presentation. At the concert she learns of the plot that brought Jerry and herself so much unhappiness, and a dramatic climax ensues.

One of the most thrilling scenes in the picture is the actual running of the 1929 Kentucky Derby at the historic Churchill Downs course. These scenes were made in May of that year by Lewis Seiler, the director, and the cast already named. The book, lyrics and music, including the symphony, were written by Conrad, Mitchell and Gottler. They are also authors of the two songs, "Sitting by the Window" and "A Night of Happiness," sung by Wagstaff in the picture.

A man ahead of him was walking more slowly, a slouching man with his hands in his pockets and his coat collar turned up. Luke was wearing rubber-soled shoes, and came up to the walker before he was aware of his presence. He saw the night wanderer lurch sideways with a snarl, stoop forward as though he were going to run, and then something in Luke's face or appearance checked his flight.

"Hullo!" he said huskily. "Thought you was a busy."

Luke recognized him. "You're Lewing, aren't you?"

The man peered into his face.

"Blimey, if it ain't Mr. What's-your-name?—Maddison! What you doing down here? You should have come and seen me down Tooley Street; this ain't my pitch."

Twice he looked back furtively over his shoulder.

"You thought I was a detective?"

The thin lips of the man twisted in a leer.

"That's what I said. No, I thought you was one of Connor's lot. They chased me out of Rotherhithe tonight, said I'd been 'nosing' on 'em. That's why I'm around here. Connor's crowd always thinks that someone's been nosing if one of his gang's dragged."

"Nosing? You mean spying?"

"Giving 'em away to the police," explained Mr. Lewing. "Connor's brother got caught the other night and they got a yarn down Tooley Street that I'd done it."

Luke began dimly to understand.

"Come down here."

The clawlike hands of Lewing caught him and dragged him down a narrow, ill-lit street.

"I'm nervous tonight," he said, and here he was speaking the truth, for his voice became a little whimpering gasp. "You're a gentleman, Mr. Maddison. You'd help a pore feller to get That's yours, Lewing!"

To Luke it only seemed that the man had edged a little closer to Lewing as he spoke. Lewing coughed and fell groggily against Luke.

"Get the busy," said a snarling voice.

Luke swung back but not quite in time. He saw the glitter of steel and felt as though a hot iron had been drawn across his breast; and then a curious weakness came on him, and he leaned back against the wall and gradually slipped into a sitting position. His last conscious impression was the clattering feet of running men; four dark shapes vanished into a greater darkness, and he was left alone, with something that sprawled across the pavement, staring with unseeing eyes at the flickering light of the street lamps.

It was the thirteenth day after the disappearance of Luke Maddison, and a day of fate for his wife, since it put a period to the long and agonizing hours of doubt and uncertainty, of self-reproach that at times approached self-loathing. Twice she had been on the point of acquainting the police, and twice had Danty stopped her.

It was a time of worry for Danty also, but from quite another cause.

What had puzzled, and to some degree comforted her, was the fact that Mr. Stiles, the manager of Maddison's Bank, had shown no particular anxiety. She guessed, or knew, that Luke had told him of her act, for when she had offered her check it had been almost peremptorily refused. What she did not realize was that in the days before she became a factor in Luke Maddison's life, and largely determined his actions, Luke was in the habit of disappearing into the blue. Invariably it was from Spain that Stiles had received a postcard notifying him of the imminent return of his employer. The country had a fascination for Luke. He spoke the language like a native.

ed the headline. She glanced at the letter-press, and saw that it had reference to a murder that had been committed in South London, and that he whose picture was shown had been present and had only escaped death by the narrowest of margins. Not even his dearest friend would have recognized Luke Maddison, for the photograph had not been taken until the eleventh day of his detention in the hospital, and it had been taken in a very poor light.

They put Luke Maddison in a private ward, and one morning they left a little temperature chart within his view, and he saw that his name was Smith.

"How long have I been Smith?" His voice was extraordinarily strong, remembering that only a few days before he had not been able to speak above a whisper.

The good-natured nurse grinned cheerfully.

"If we don't know people's names we call them Smith—preferably Bill," she said. "But you're going to be good, aren't you, and tell us yours?"

He shook his head.

"No, I don't think so. Smith is a very good name, borne by some very nice people. If my name had been Smith I might have been a better man," he added whimsically.

Since they had moved him into the private ward the burly-looking policeman who had loomed out of his dreams, and seemed part of them, had been taken away. That day they thought he was dying a police magistrate had been summoned to take his deposition; but he had told nothing which was of the slightest consequence or value. Moreover, he had heard one detective say to another that he would not be of the slightest value as a witness at the inquest. So he could afford to lie and watch the hours pass, and the pale light of the sun move across the green wall, and night come and the lights.

He did not care really what happened after. It was his sixteenth or seventeenth day in bed—he was not sure which—when the sister came in.

away. You know what Connor is—he'd knife you for twopence. Bumping off, he calls it—he's an American; at least, he's been in Sing Sing. Sing Sing, is it? Anyway, it's a stir. A couple of quid'd get me out of London.

"I haven't got a couple of pounds with me," said Luke.

He was already weary of the companionship; and, but for being in his present condition, would never have submitted to being dragged into this foul little street.

"Perhaps I can call at your office in the morning?" Lewing's voice betrayed his anxiety. And then, as he remembered: "I give that ten pounds to the Gunner."

"You gave nothing to the Gunner," said Luke coldly. "Mr. Bird told me all about you."

There was an embarrassed silence.

"Anyway, I'd like you to stay with me, sir," said the man. "I called you a busy just now, and you look like a busy. If any of them Connors see me with a busy they'll—"

They had just turned the corner into an even narrower street, and Lewing stopped suddenly. Four dark shapes, two on the pavement, two in the roadway, confronted them. Luke surveyed them curiously. They all seemed to have caps drawn over their eyes; each man had both hands in his pockets.

"Here, what's the idea, Joe?" Lewing's voice was a whine. "This gentleman is taking me around—"

The leader of the four laughed harshly.

"You've got to have a busy with you, have you?" he said with an oath. "You ain't satisfied with nosing on us Connors, but you got to carry Scotland Yard strapped under your arm."

He was one of the few Englishmen who understood and enjoyed the puntillio of bull fighting, and he loved nothing better than to retire to Cordoba or Ronda and, making that his headquarters, rove the countryside for weeks on end.

Stiles was uneasy, but he had that hope left, that in this great crisis of his affairs Luke Maddison had gone back to the scenes of his happy holidays.

Margaret opened a drawer of her desk, took out a folded sheet of paper and handed it to Morell. It was a telegram addressed to Margaret Maddison:

You can hardly expect me to come back to you. In a few months I will furnish you with sufficient evidence to enable you to secure a divorce. I am not entirely without money, therefore I am not entirely without pleasant consolations.

It was signed "Luke," and had been handed in at Paris at eight-thirty that morning.

"That's that," she said. Her tone was light, but there was an agitation in her heart which she had not imagined possible.

Consolations! And this was Luke Maddison, the idealist—a vulgar philanderer, who had fled to—consolations!

A few days later, on the center page of the Post-Herald Margaret saw the photograph of a haggard and unshaven man. It had evidently been taken in a hospital bed. His eyes were closed; the photograph just showed the edge of the sheet a few inches under his chin.

"Do You Know This Man?" demanded
