

A WEEK AT A TIME

by J. M. RANKIN

CITATION

For genuine old-fashioned politeness displayed in the simple matter of asking for a drink of water, we are pleased this week to cite Douglas Neugebauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Neugebauer. Instead of the "Gimme a drink," or I want a glass of water," so many youngsters use as a request for that favor, Douglas, who can just barely see over the fountain, looked up at the fountainer and said, "May I have a glass of water, please." Billy Loke, serving the fountain, was gracious of course, and the writer was surprised and pleased at the evidence of training in the idea that a favor should be asked not demanded.

NO GOOD REASON

The laws forbidding the rushing of private automobiles to every fire are not made to cheat the citizens out of a little fun; they are made to protect lives and property. From the cars and spectators attending two fires last week, you might have thought a free medicine show was to be given. There was no great harm done in this instance.

But in a neighboring town a few years ago a lot of harm was done. They'd gone pleasantly along for years like any other country town, ignoring the fact that there were city ordinances forbidding the rushing of cars to every fire. Then one day the truck driver tried to miss a car that hadn't pulled to the curb according to the law. There was a crash, a fireman was killed and several injured, and thousands of dollars worth of fire fighting equipment were destroyed. Now the law is strictly enforced. It never took more than one easy lesson to cure the worst offender. Less than a half-dozen fines were assessed. And now the firemen can go to a fire without the fear they may have to wreck an engine to save a life.

In Slaton a simple announcement that the law will be enforced is all that is required to stop the dangerous practice of rushing to the fire. And the safety of who knows how many people demand enforcement. Common sense demands it. The men who take the risks of fighting the fires demand it, and where there are dozens of good reasons why nobody but the legally authorized officials should go to the fire, there is not a single good reason why automobiles should be permitted to rush headlong to every fire that is announced by the siren.

THEY EAT IT UP

Self-styled, "Father Divine," negro, whose cult has appealed to numerous rich, idle, and neurotic white women about New York, has an enthusiastic gang of black followers called angels, who will go anywhere free food and drink are set out. Mrs. Angela C. Kauffman was planning to entertain two thousand of them at a grand free barbecue at her Newport, Rhode Island place until Father Divine informed her he would not bring so many. But Mrs. Kauffman's hospitality was not directed toward the negroes as might have been suspected. She has no religious motives. She applied recently for a permit to sell liquor in her home which she has converted into a hotel. The neighbors didn't want a hotel near them but couldn't help that; however, they could keep it from being a saloon—and did. Angela got sore and so invited the negroes to come, thinking that would displease her uppity neighbors. It did. "Barbecue for angels" might not sound quite congruous with the ideas we have always had of angels, but Father Divine's angels actually "eat it up."

Mr. W. R. Wilson, and S. G. and Paul made a business trip to Dimmitt, Monday.

Legion Election Returns Dennis P. G. Meading Is Renamed Adjutant

American Legion elections for officers to head Luther Powers Post for 1940 were held at the regular meeting at the Post Hall Monday evening. Arthur Dennis was re-elected Post Commander to serve a second term, and P. G. Meading was returned to the post of Adjutant. Special attention was given by the Legionaires to the fact that under the present administration, for the first time in many years, the membership of the local post had exceeded the quota set by state officials.

Other officers named are, Merle J. Nelson, Senior Vice Commander; Junior Vice Commander, Carter Skillen; Finance Officer, Dan W. Liles; Chaplain, Sam N. Gentry; Historian, Jas. W. Savell; Service Officer, Webber B. Williams; Sergeant at Arms, Felix Boldin; Judge Advocate, Charles W. Taylor; Mess Officer, Anton J. Kahlich. Executive Committee members named are M. J. Nelson, L. L. Lively, and D. W. Liles. Installation of officers will be made at the regular meeting August 14.

After the meeting refreshments were served in the kitchen of the Post Hall.

Skillen-Woodward Marriage Announced

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Skillen of La Junta, Colorado announce the marriage of their son, John Robert, Jr., to Miss Dorothy Woodward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Woodward of Tahoka, Texas, which took place Saturday June 17, 1939 at Leaveland, Texas.

The young couple spent their honeymoon visiting the parents of Mr. Skillen and motoring through Colorado and New Mexico, after which they will make their home in Crosbyton, Texas where Mr. Skillen is employed by the United Cotton Compress and Warehouse Co.

Mrs. Satterlee is Honoree at Shower

Thursday afternoon, July thirteenth, the ladies of the Nursery Department and of Mrs. Proctor's Class, gave a going-away party to Mrs. O. R. Satterlee who is soon to move to La Junta, Colorado. Mr. Satterlee was recently promoted and transferred to the Colorado Division to be Chief Clerk to J. R. Skillen, Assistant General Manager.

The party took the form of a surprise handkerchief shower at the home of the honoree at 220 So. 7th St. After the party dainty refreshments were served as many expressions of regret were made that one so helpful to the community life should move to the distant state.

BLUE BONNET CLUB AT MRS. CREWS' HOME

Mrs. H. S. Crews, of West Lynn Street, was hostess to the Blue Bonnet Club Wednesday afternoon. Chinese checkers and forty-two were played. Next week they will have their annual picnic for their families at McKenzie Park.

Mrs. R. L. DeBusk of South 11th Street was hostess to the Sunshine Club, Thursday afternoon, July 20 at 2 o'clock. After sewing, refreshments were served to 14 members. The next meeting will be next Thursday in Mrs. E. Culver's home.

Robert Green left Wednesday to visit with friends and relatives in Baird.

New Gas Refund Law Published

From the State Comptroller's office plans for the strict enforcement of the gasoline refund laws. The fact that there are a number of gentlemen in the Texas penitentiary for frauds perpetrated in gasoline exemptions, made the recent legislature try to stop the thefts before they happen in the future.

After September 1st, no refunds will be made on gasoline purchased from an unlicensed dealer. Dealers who expect to sell tax exempt gasoline must have licenses. The licenses will be issued free. A new exemption form will be issued and it will be furnished free. There are other protective clauses in the new law, but the chief thing of interest for buyers is that after Sept. 1st, he must be sure his gasoline is bought of a licensed dealer.

Mrs. Melinda Griffin Is Buried At Wilson

Mrs. Melinda E. Griffin, died at five o'clock Sunday afternoon at the home of her son, W. A. Tadlock of Wilson. Mrs. Griffin was born in Tennessee in 1848 and came to Texas early in life. She lived in Navarro County until 1924 when she moved to Sweetwater where she lived until her death.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Homer Hawkins of Sweetwater and the son at Wilson, and two granddaughters. Dr. O. P. Clark, presiding elder of the Lubbock District officiated at the funeral which was held at the Methodist Church at Wilson. Interment was at Wilson Cemetery.

Rev. J. Paul Stevens At Ceta Glen Camp

Rev. J. Paul Stevens is at Ceta Glen Camp in the Palo Duro Canyon this week with the annual Camp held by the Amarillo Presbytery for girls. From Slaton are attending Miss Roberta McKane, David McKane, Emily Darwin, Paula and Wanda Lou Atnip.

Mr. Stevens reported last year after the camp that the meetings and activities were sources of inspiration and strength for all who attended.

T. A. Turner Sees Sweetwater Tragedy

T. A. Turner, Santa Fe train master returned Tuesday evening from Lake Sweetwater where he witnessed the unfortunate boating accident that took the life of Fred Buhler, 18, of New Orleans. At this writing the body of Buhler has not been recovered from the sixty-five feet of water into which he was knocked by a sail boat boom.

LIFF SANDERS PREACHES AT CHURCH OF CHRIST

Elder Liff Sanders of Lubbock, pioneer Church of Christ minister, preached morning and evening at the Church of Christ. Mr. Sanders told the congregation that the day was the forty-first anniversary of his first attempt to preach. By coincidence, Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Merriweather of Loekney where that first sermon was preached and who heard the first sermon were visiting their son, Carl Merriweather, for the week end and attended the preaching service.

SUB-DEB CLUB MET JULY 20

The Sub-Deb Club met July 20 at the Henington home on West Lubbock, Miss Hope Henington hostess. Six members and one guest were present; other members were out of town. A salad course was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dale Meyers have returned from Clovis, New Mexico, where Mr. Meyers worked for several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Ferrell and son, Robert Allen, went to Cleburne Monday for a visit with relatives.

Mrs. Earl Mangum received a letter this week from Mrs. P. J. Danneberg stating that Mr. Danneberg had received another promotion and was transferred to Winslow, Arizona, on July 1st.

City Hall Improved But Not Completed

The City Hall has been cleaned up. The Retail Merchants Association began it by doing over the office occupied by it last winter. New linoleum was laid, a new stove was bought, the walls and ceilings were painted and new curtains were hung over the windows.

Next the Chamber of Commerce broke out with an improvement and clean up, paint up campaign that left old settlers almost breathless at the inviting office that houses the activities of the BCD and C. of C.

Mayor Teague being a good housekeeper than attacked the mayor's office and just before the Fourth of July Celebration he couldn't stand it any longer and with the City Commission he started the wheels turning and the lobby was cleaned and painted up to look better than any time since it was brand new.

It has been the idea of some of the office keepers that an open house would be appropriate, but since the City office, occupied by the City tax officer and water department is not yet brought up to standard, it would appear impolite to refuse admission to that office and it would be embarrassing to admit visitors, so no open house yet.

Model Grocery Is Remodeled

The Model Grocery on Eighth St. has remodeled the store and fixtures for mere convenience to its patrons. A change is always attractive, but these changes have made the store like a new store except the remarkable courtesy always to be found there and the perfect food market could not be improved, so there is no change there. Mr. Fred H. Schmidt, proprietor, invites a visit of all who will, and solicits the patronage of those desiring a service that takes away all uncertainty about foods that are bought where satisfaction is guaranteed.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Walker and Mrs. Alpha Morrow were week-end guests of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. Parks in Breckenridge. Other guests in the Parks home were Mrs. Horton McMahon, of Stevenson, Alabama, and Mrs. G. J. Cason, of Dallas, both sisters of Mr. Walker.

Rev. James Rayburn is supplying the pulpit at the First Baptist Church during the absence of Rev. W. F. Ferguson, who with his family, is attending the Baptist World Alliance, at Atlanta, Georgia.

RAYMOND LEE JOHNS, MANAGER

Well, here's the column back again after a week has lapsed without it, and we guess you are glad you got a rest from having to struggle through it. The office boy has been going to school again. The Southwestern Chamber of Commerce school was held last week in Dallas and a lot of water was poured over the bridge by experts in the field and by others interested in different forms of civic stimulation until we thought we'd never get through learning valuable things to bring home, but now we're back in the saddle pitching. Lloyd Wilson, former editor of this column, was one of the main speakers at the school.

You localites and farmers who are worrying about our prospects for a crop here would gladden were you to see some of the crops between here and Dallas. In fact, after we left the caprock we saw nothing especially good until we reached the school city and gazed beyond the city limits on the other side at the cotton and corn. Our crops here are average for the State in our way of thinking.

Interest Grows In Yard Contest

Slaton Chamber of Commerce is again sponsoring a pretty yard contest for both residents of business and private property and offering numerous cash prizes as well as a generous assortment of nursery stock furnished by nurseries on the South Plains. Several entries have already been registered.

Members of the organization's beautifications committee are C. C. Hoffman, Jr., Carl Stewart and C. L. Tanner. They have set September 20 as the day for judging.

In two divisions of the contest, one for yards one year old or less, and another for yards more than one year old, prizes will be offered for the best front yards, the best back yards and the best business yards.

Mrs. L. P. Evans Is Guest Here

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Nickel were dinner hosts Sunday to thirty-five relatives and friends to honor Mrs. Nickel's grandmother, Mrs. L. P. Evans of Stephenville. Mrs. Evans, 87 years of age, motored through from Stephenville in a 1923 model Ford, her son, Cleve Evans, doing the driving and consuming 14 hours on the road. Others at the dinner were Mrs. Emma Johnson of Stephenville, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Johnson and family of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Racker and family of Acuff, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Evans of Grassland, and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Evans and family of Tahoka.

ROTARY

The Rotary Club last week had as guests, C. N. Lane, proprietor of the City Drug Store, A. A. Bodden of Dallas and Cynthia Ann Loveless who was guest of her father Dr. Gordon R. Loveless.

Rev. Tony Dyess of Southland, led the Club Singing as guest director in which capacity he has agreed to serve as long as he can.

Mrs. W. T. Driver, of North Eleventh Street, is in a serious condition at the Mercy Hospital where she was taken early Wednesday morning. Dr. and Mrs. Roland O. Peters arrived from Sweetwater Tuesday night. Dr. Peters returned to Sweetwater Wednesday morning. Mrs. Peters remained at the bedside of her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Woody Chandler returned this week from a six weeks vacation in Greenville.

C. E. Davis, of the clerical forces of the engineering department of the Santa Fe offices here, has been transferred back to Amarillo after about eight months residence here.

Paving Project Is Launched

Eleventh From Jean To Lubbock is Aim

The Slaton City Commission is driving with foresight and enthusiasm toward more paving for the rugged streets of the city. This week the first step is being taken toward paving Eleventh Street from Jean Street at the High School Campus northward to the intersection of Lubbock. This first step is in the form of publication of intention as required by law.

The Eleventh street project has received a lot of attention lately and much serious work has been done to advance the improvement by residents on the street. The broad triangle at the junction of Floyd and Division Streets lying before the Church of Christ has often served as a deterrent perhaps to fast driving and has surely served as a deterrent to careful drivers who had to cross it. This triangle is a part of the new proposal, and lies in one of the most populous parts of the city.

It is the wish of the City Commission to have this project ready for grading and drainage work as soon as the imposing Ninth Street Job is completed. The new work will be similar to the caliche and asphalt of which so much has already been laid.

Helpy Sefly Laundry Is Improved

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Bostick have been making extensive improvements about their Helpy Sefly Laundry on West Garza lately. The boiler room has been partitioned off from the laundry for coolness, and eight new Maytag washing machines have replaced the same number that were not quite new. They make their announcement in the advertising columns of the Slatonite this week.

Cottonoil Employee Comes From Abilene

Mr. Brassell, an employee of the West Texas Cottonoil Company, was transferred from the Abilene office to Slaton. He will take up his duties here Monday morning.

Mrs. Tucker's Nephew Accidentally Killed

Mrs. W. A. Tucker was notified Thursday at noon that her nephew, W. O. Stone, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Stone of Quannah was accidentally killed Thursday morning Mrs. Tucker and daughter, Miss Docia left early Friday to attend the funeral.

Mrs. Wilson's Nephew Dies in Car Crash

Mrs. W. R. Wilson left Tuesday for Terrell where she learned her nephew, Curtis Wilson Reynolds had died of injuries suffered Sunday night in an automobile accident near Lawrence on Highway 80.

LEGION AUXILIARY APPOINTS NOMINATING COMMITTEE

The American Legion Auxiliary in their regular meeting Monday evening nominated a committee to offer a ticket for the election of officers for the 1940 period. Election will be held at the next meeting, August 14.

Mrs. O. R. Satterlee and son, Doyle, returned Wednesday from La Junta, Colorado, where they went to visit Mr. Satterlee and to join him in the search for a home to move into. While there, Mrs. Satterlee visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Skillen.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marriott, Jr. returned this week from a two-weeks vacation. They visited in Albuquerque, Santa Fe, Taos, then on to Pecos and Red River where they went fishing.

Miss Eunice Graham of Farwell, a college friend of Miss Myrtle Teague, is visiting Miss Teague this week.

Miss Docia Tucker

Miss Docia Tucker is the newest accession to the staff of the Slatonite, taking the place of Miss Cordelia Grantham as society and women's editor. Miss Tucker is well known in Slaton and is eager to record all the news that comes to her notice. In addition to looking for news, she is available by telephone and asks that reports come to her by that way or in written form.

Rotary Officers Are Announced

Various Committees To Carry On Work

Roster of officers and directors and club committeemen has been completed for the year in Slaton Rotary club. New officers installed were Charlie Taylor, president; C. G. Hoffman, Jr., vice-president; Raymond L. Johns, secretary-treasurer-editor; Lonnie L. Lively, sergeant-at-arms. J. H. Brewer retired as president. Taylor was moved up from vice-president; Hoffman was sergeant-at-arms, and Johns succeeded himself.

The musical staff Mrs. O. D. Groshart, pianist, and Tony Dyess, song leader.

Directors are Taylor, Hoffman, Brewer, Johns, Ollie J. Crow, Roy Mack and James M. Rankin, the latter three and Hoffman replacing Jim A. Elliott, Webber B. Williams, Leonard A. Harral and Nic. R. Carter.

Committees and members as appointed by President Taylor includes: aims and objects committee composed of the board of directors; club service, Hoffman, Brewer and O. D. Groshart; classifications, M. J. Nelson, Everett Payne and Lively; membership, Williams, Elliott and Harral; fellowship, Gordon Loveless, C. F. Anderson and Geo. Blackwell; attendance, Bill Cates, Otis Neill and J. D. JEHOSHAPHAT: A LIFE OF OBEDIENCE

LESSON TEXT--II Chronicles 17:1-6, 9-12. GOLDEN TEXT--But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness.--Matthew 6:33.

Obedience is one of the old-fashioned virtues which has been pushed aside in our present mad rush of self-expression. It needs to be revived if we are to have a happy, contented, and useful people. The lesson for today affords an excellent opportunity to give class members a right perspective. Many regard obedience as something which is exacted by those who desire to have authority over us, but as a matter of fact it is a principle established by God for the right and orderly conduct of life, the observation of which results in blessing and prosperity, and the ignoring of which brings chaos, fighting, bitterness, and disappointment. Obedience to parents, to the law of man, and to the law of God should be taught and exemplified by us, even as it was by Jehoshaphat. Obedience in his life made him

I. A Good Son (vv. 1, 3, 4). He followed his father Asa and his forefather David insofar as they had followed God. Apart from God and the influence of the Christian faith, the tendency is quite the other way. Frequently we see that a father who came up from poverty by his own diligence and ability will have a wastrel son who amounts to nothing, or even worse, one that ruins himself and others. Blessed is the son who has a godly father and who has sense enough to follow in his steps in obedience to God.

II. A Capable Administrator (vv. 2, 5, 12). Jehoshaphat faced real problems. The nation was prospering, but there were many difficult questions of foreign relations and in domestic affairs. Especially was he concerned about their fellowship with the sister nation of Israel. Idolatry was still common in the land, new territory had to be consolidated and fortified. The man who is obedient to God's law and whose heart is lifted up toward Him may expect that all his faculties will be stimulated, and that, furthermore, he will have the guidance of God in the discharge of his duties. This is true not only of kings and national leaders, but of each one of us. If we trust in God and are obedient to His guidance, He will bring about astonishing results in the lives of any one of us.

III. A True Worshiper (vv. 3, 6). He walked in the ways of his forefathers in his obedience to God. A man does not need to be a blind worshiper of the good old days to realize that America could profit by walking in the ways of those of our forefathers who daily walked with God.

Note also that Jehoshaphat had a real personal spiritual experience of his own. "His heart was lifted up in the ways of the Lord" (v. 6). Spiritual exaltation makes a man better fitted to live in the daily round of life where he must keep his feet on the ground. There is a dearth of new personal spiritual experiences in our time. How long is it since you and I have felt our souls strangely warmed? God is ready and willing to do this for us now, as He was in the days of Jehoshaphat.

IV. A Wise Educator (v. 9). Here was a real program of religious education. A wise teacher knows that it is not enough to remove the bad, he must replace it with the good. Jehoshaphat tore down the places of heathen worship, but he substituted the teaching of the Word of God. That kind of a program of nation-wide Christian education would be tremendously worth-while in this year of our Lord 1939 and within the confines of our own beloved country.

Read verses 7 and 8 and you will note that most of the leaders in this teaching campaign were laymen. The priests were evidently for the most part not interested. This has all too often been so, but let not that deter the layman from going ahead in God's name.

V. A Respected Ruler (vv. 5, 10, 11). His own people gave him the recognition of love and loyalty (v. 5). The jealous nations around him were afraid of him, for they knew that God was with him (v. 10). This was what would be in our day regarded as a rather unusual means of national defense, but note that it was tremendously effective. Would that America were a nation united in loving obedience to God's law. Then would our enemies be afraid because God's hand would be upon us for good.

There Are Two Ways to Get at Constipation

Yes, and only two ways—before and after it happens! Instead of enduring those dull, tired, head-achy days and then having to take an emergency medicine—why not KEEP regular with Kellogg's All-Brain? You can, if your constipation is the kind millions have—due to the lack of "bulk" in modern diets. For All-Brain goes right to the cause of this trouble by supplying the "bulk" you need. Eat this toasted nutritious cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if your life isn't a whole lot brighter! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 42), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells. Get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a good general system tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life. Not So Hot! Weather's Warm But These People Know Tricks

From mid-July to late August most of America expects its warmest weather, although the sun has already started its return trip to the southern hemisphere. But enterprising and uninhibited Americans have found many ways to escape the heat. For example: In Detroit (above) sweltering citizens congregate around spraying hydrants. This method is most popular in New York's tenement district. Right: A happy, young lady indulges in a distinctly American summer treat.

Above: On the beach near Gloucester, Mass., another lady finds the temperature of 94 not so bad. Left: Professor Charles M. Heck of North Carolina State college kept cool last summer making a "heat survey" from various levels of New York's lofty Empire State building. He is shown here testing his new "prophesying" instrument. According to Professor Heck, heat rays rising from the earth are absorbed by moisture in the air and then re-radiated. Most heat sufferers don't care — but that's science for you.

It's done in the best of city and small town families on those hot nights when beds feel like blazing infernos. This Chicago couple followed the crowd, taking baby right along and covering his buggy with mosquito netting while mother and dad sprawled comfortably on the ground. When dawn peeps over the horizon they'll head for home and breakfast.

COLD CUTS FOR DELICIOUS VARIETY
See Recipes Below.

Cold Cuts for Variety

For a help-yourself-party (or almost any other lunch or supper) few foods rival in popularity a platter of "cold cuts." Designed to tempt the appetite, and to provide interesting variety, this good-to-look-at and good-to-eat dish is a summer favorite.

Salami, liver sausage, thin slices of flavorful boiled ham, and corned beef or sandwich slices make an attractive and delicious combination. Water-thin slices of cheese, small sweet pickles and radish roses with sprigs of watercress complete the platter.

These same cold meats have other uses, too. For example, cubes of salami add zest to a green salad, corned beef makes a tasty casserole meal, and slices of boiled ham combine with cream cheese and chives to make a tempting and unusual dish for lunch or supper plates.

I've chosen from my file of tested recipes a half dozen which will add new interest to your meals. I hope they may inspire you to do a little experimenting on your own.

Luncheon Slices.

(Serves 4-5)
5 slices of sandwich loaf (½-inch thick)
1 egg (beaten)
Fine crumbs
Dip meat in beaten egg and then in crumbs. Fry in deep fat, heated to 380 degrees, until golden brown. Serve with sauteed pineapple rings.

Ham and Cheese Pinwheels.

(Serves 4)
1 3-ounce package cream cheese
1½ tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon chives (minced)
4 slices boiled ham
Combine cream cheese, mayonnaise and chives. Spread generously on the slices of boiled ham. Roll each slice firmly, wrap in wax paper and chill. When ready to serve, cut the rolls into slices ¼ inch thick. Arrange on a bed of watercress and serve with French dressing.

Rarebit Sandwich Filling.

¼ pound dried beef
1 pound American cheese
1 cup condensed tomato soup
Grind the dried beef and the cheese in a food chopper. Add soup and blend well. This may be kept in the refrigerator for several weeks.

Ham and Cabbage Slaw.

(Serves 4-5)
3 cups cabbage (finely shredded)
¼ cup green pepper (cut in slivers)
1 cup boiled ham (cut in slivers)
1 teaspoon onion (minced)
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
½ cup salad dressing
1 egg white (beaten)
Combine cabbage, green pepper, ham and onion. Add salt and pepper. Fold salad dressing into stiffly beaten egg white, and mix lightly with salad ingredients. Serve in salad bowl.

Corned Beef de Luxe.

(Serves 5)
2 cups potatoes (cooked and sliced)
1 12-oz. can corned beef (sliced)
1 cup onions (sliced very thin)
3 hard cooked eggs
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
¼ teaspoon salt
Pepper and paprika to taste
1 cup cheese (grated)
½ cup buttered bread crumbs
In a greased casserole place alternate layers of potatoes, corned beef and onions. Cut the eggs in two, crosswise, and push into the mixture, cut side up. Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, milk and seasonings. Add the cheese to the sauce and pour over all. Sprinkle buttered bread crumbs over the top and bake in a moderate (375 degree) oven for approximately 30 minutes or until browned and heated through.

Salami Salad.

(Serves 5)
1 cup salami (cut in cubes)
2 cups cabbage (shredded)
1 cup raw spinach (shredded)
¼ cup sharp American cheese (grated)
¼ cup French dressing
Combine salami, cabbage, and spinach. Add cheese to French dressing, and pour over the salad ingredients. Chill thoroughly. Serve in large bowl lined with lettuce.

Vacuum Cleaner With Clean Dust Bag Best

A vacuum cleaner with a clean dust bag does the best cleaning job, studies at Purdue university experiment station show. For best service the bag should be emptied after each daily use. Never wash the bag, as that destroys the finish that keeps it dustproof. How much dust a machine draws from a rug, the studies indicate depends partly on how fast it is pushed back and forth. Most machines clean best if they are moved at a speed of from one to two feet a second.

Naturally, the machine should not be allowed to pick up pins, tacks, or glass because these sharp objects may poke holes in the bag or chip the fan blades.

It is also desirable to keep the machine in a clean place, protected from dirt and dust.

Many Electric Outlets Important to Kitchen

When electric outlets are being planned in a new house for lamps, clocks and radios, the kitchen is often neglected. It has more uses for plugs than any other room.

Within reasonable limits, there cannot be too many appliance outlets in the kitchen. In this room electricity is used both for lighting and for motivating power.

Consumption of current varies widely with kitchen appliances, and special attention should be given to the load the outlet is expected to carry.

Just Sterilize Containers To Prevent Ropy Bread

"Ropiness" in bread is caused by a bacillus and it makes the bread unfit for use. All containers in which the bread was mixed, baked, and stored should be sterilized by boiling. Ropiness in bread does not develop immediately after the bread has been baked, but announces itself by a disagreeable odor.

To Remove Jar Covers

To remove covers from preserv jars place the jar top downward in a dipper of hot water (not boiling) and allow it to remain five or ten minutes. Remove the jar from the dipper and insert a steel kitchen knife at different points under the rubber. This will let in the air. The cover can then be removed easily.

On Washing Curtains

When washing curtains put dye or tint in the washing machine with the soap flakes. They color more evenly this way.

HOW to SEW

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

NOTICE: Two books for the price of one. Readers who have not secured their copies of my two books: SEWING, for the Home Decorator; and Gifts, Novelties and Embroideries; should send in their orders at once, before the supply is entirely disposed of. You may also have your choice of the Patchwork Quilt Leaflet or the Rag Rug Leaflet FREE with orders for two books; enclose 25 cents with name and address; directing your order to Mrs. Spears, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill. These two books contain 96 How to Sew articles that have never appeared in the paper.

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I like to make interesting cushions—in summer bright cotton covered ones and silk covers in the winter. The cost is nothing as I find that after the waists of dresses are worn out, there are still parts of the skirts that are good enough to give long wear when made into these covers. J. B."

Thanks, Mrs. J. B., for that suggestion, and here are two covers that you might like to try. To make the contrasting edge for the round one, stitch two-inch strips together in points as at A, trim as at B clipping between the points then turn right side out. Pull out smoothly and press, then gather as at C. Stitch into one section of the cover as at D, then stitch the two sections together leaving an opening for the cushion.

To make a pattern for a modernistic patchwork cover, cut a rectangle of paper, then divide it into sections as shown. Use these sections as patterns to cut the fabric adding a seam allowance as at F.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, and Pepsin-ize Acid Stomach Too

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste, and bad breath, your stomach is probably loaded up with certain undigested food and your bowels don't move. So you need both Pepsin to help break up fast that rich undigested food in your stomach, and Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels. So be sure your laxative also contains Pepsin. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative, because its Syrup Pepsin helps you gain that wonderful stomach-relief, while the Laxative Senna moves your bowels. Tests prove the power of Pepsin to dissolve those lumps of undigested protein food which may linger in your stomach, to cause belching, gastric acidity and nausea. This is how pepsin-izing your stomach helps relieve it of such distress. At the same time this medicine wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your bowels to relieve your constipation. So see how much better you feel by taking the laxative that also puts Pepsin to work on that stomach discomfort, too. Even finicky children love to taste this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative—Senna with Syrup Pepsin at your druggist today!

J. C. Sanders Has Many Friends

Lubbock may well be proud of the citizens who have made the city and the surrounding territory so favorably known. In mentioning some of these men we could not in common honesty omit the name of Mr. J. C. Sanders, manager of the Lubbock Tailoring Co.

Mr. J. C. Sanders, a leading business man, cannot be praised too highly for his great achievements. His main interests have always been devoted to the welfare and the building up of a greater Lubbock. The value of such a man to the community cannot be over-estimated when talking into consideration the many things he has accomplished that have been an asset to Lubbock and this district.

Mr. J. C. Sanders is wholly deserving of our sincere praise, and these few words of commendation are but a just recognition of the many activities he has conducted for the general welfare of the community as a whole.

Applaud Prominent Rank Of W. T. McKinley

Those who advocate the winning of laurels by the application of tireless efforts have a splendid demonstration of their theory in the case of Mr. W. T. McKinley, a man who has won his way upward on a basis of sheer merit.

At the head of one of the district's most prominent concerns and a leader of recognized ability in community life, he stands out today as one of the best liked men on the panorama of Lubbock activity. His friends are numbered by the thousands in this locality and all of them are of the lasting fibre which comes of worth-while associations, both in the world of business and in the realms of neighborhood life.

The Lubbock Poster Co., of which Mr. W. T. McKinley is the Owner and Manager has been a strong factor in recent upturns shown by business here and Mr. McKinley's own efforts have been the stimuli behind this splendid work by the firm. The case is a fine example of the man at its head weaving his own personal prominence into the concern's life with lasting benefits to both organization and individual.

Honor Is Due F. H. Lane

The true value of a citizen is not gauged by his personal success but rather by the manner in which he shares that success by his contributions to the community in which he lives. A city grows and flourishes according to the number of public spirited men and women who compose its population. Mr. F. H. Lane of Lane's Drive

Inn Restaurant, is one of those men who has given much toward the development of Lubbock and vicinity. He has turned his personal success in the business field to the advantage of the people as a whole, and has accomplished much toward making Lubbock a better place in which to live. Mr. Lane's magnetic personality and dynamic driving force have raised him to a commanding position among his neighbors and friends.

We compliment Mr. F. H. Lane in this edition and wish to offer him this small evidence of our esteem.

Sam Gentry Is Civic Booster

There are a number of business and professional men in Lubbock who stand head and shoulders over the crowd. This especially is true in the case of Mr. Sam Gentry of the Gentry Welding Machine Shop. Mr. Gentry has always been in the front rank of the business and civic life of Lubbock and the surrounding trade area. He is a dominant person, yet one whose genial personality has earned for him a host of friends and admirers.

Mr. Gentry's intuitive understanding of the needs of the city are a valuable and important factor in the successful promotion of many civic activities. As a result Lubbock is firmly established in the minds of the people, for many miles around, as a growing metropolis which they regard as the logical trading center for this district.

We compliment Mr. Sam Gentry for his success in business and public affairs and say without fear of contradiction that he will continue for many years to enjoy that success which he has so justly earned.

W. J. Lasater Is Honored

Our issue today proposes to call the attention of our readers to various civic leaders who have contributed over a period of years to the upbuilding of our community to the position of prominence which it enjoys at present.

One of these men to whom we wish to direct attention is Mr. W. J. Lasater of the Economy Oil Company, a business leader who has never spared himself in his aggressive march forward and his competitors respect him as much as do all others with whom he comes in contact.

Mr. W. J. Lasater is at all times conscious of his civic responsibilities and may be depended upon to meet in every detail the many opportunities which present themselves to be of service to the city. Mr. Lasater's record of achievement is one of which he may well be proud. His value to the city of Lubbock and this district is an established fact, and we hasten to give him credit which is his just due.

R. C. Johnson And Vance Apple Are Informed On Ins.

Two of the better informed insurance executives in the city of Lubbock are Mr. R. C. Johnson and Mr. Vance Apple who, in November of last year, formed the partnership of Johnson-Apple Co. They have been performing an essential service for the people of this city over a period of years, and during that time has made many thousands of friends both for themselves and their agency. They have contributed a great deal of his time and energy to the growth and progress of this district and has been content to take his reward in the quiet knowledge of a work well done, and in the respect and admiration of his many friends.

The value of such men to this district cannot be over-estimated. His willingness to perform in the interest of the community as a whole is his most admirable characteristic, and he has often made personal sacrifices in order to contribute to the general welfare. We congratulate them on their splendid reputation, and we urge our readers to reciprocate for their many services by considering the Johnson-Apple Co. in Lubbock, in all matters pertaining to general insurance.

B. M. Wells Merits Praise

There are plenty of men in their chosen fields who are prominent, but who will not permit much to be said about it. It is, however, public property every time a man reaches a position in any community where he is generally recognized as a leader. Mr. B. M. Wells, manager of the Lubbock Fender and Body Co., has always done his work effectively, even though it has been accomplished in an unobtrusive manner. His many friends would think it a strange omission were we not to say a word about him.

Mr. B. M. Wells, busy as he is, always manages somehow or other to do his bit in any movement calculated to benefit the community as a whole.

Mr. Wells' modesty will not permit him to say the things about himself which are said by his friends. This paper is merely performing a civic duty when it pays this small tribute to a man who so richly deserves more profuse compliments. We do not hesitate to recommend Mr. B. M. Wells to our readers as a man who continues at all times to work to the advantage of the people of Lubbock and the Plains country.

Louis Feldman Has Fine Record

In paying tribute to some of our most prominent civic leaders we should be remiss in our duty were we to fail to include the name of Mr. Louis Feldman of the Lubbock Iron and Metal Co.

Mr. Louis Feldman is a man who has contributed much to the welfare of Lubbock and the surrounding territory. His civic spirit is evidenced by the many services which he has performed and which he continues to perform in the interest of the people as a whole. No worth-while enterprise which promises to benefit the city or the surrounding district, escapes the attention of Mr. Feldman.

Mr. Feldman is a man of wide acquaintance whose many friends admire and respect in him those virtues which inspire confidence and promote good feeling. His upright business methods are a credit to his high sense of honor. There is always a place in any community for men of his type.

We congratulate Mr. Louis Feldman on his splendid record of service and trust he shall continue to assist us for many years to come.

R. E. Hamilton Deserves Mention

Mr. R. E. Hamilton of Hamilton Candy Co. in Lubbock, performs a real service for the people of this district and his contributions to civic betterment are too well known to require further repetition in these columns. His personal success has been turned to the advantage of his fellow citizens, and he is always ready and willing to assist in any enterprise which promises to advance the welfare of the community.

Mr. Hamilton is deserving of our highest compliments and this small tribute is but a just recognition of the many services which he has performed. His reputation for the successful conduct of his business affairs, is no greater than his reputation for the honest practices which characterize his every transaction.

We congratulate Mr. R. E. Hamilton on his splendid record and trust that he shall continue for many years to serve the people of this district.

C. M. Lang Is Universally Liked

Most people of Lubbock and vicinity are acquainted with the Lubbock El Paso Motor Freight Co. and many of them have had mutually profitable dealings with this popular company.

The firm has been in business for years and during that period of time has made many friends in and around Lubbock. However, little is known except among his customers of the man behind the firm, and this is the personality we wish to present to our readers.

Mr. C. M. Lang is the person who is responsible for the success of his firm. He has worked hard to deserve the confidence which the people of this community have in him and he continues to work hard to maintain in every way that high standard which he has set for himself. Mr. Lang is one of the business men who has assisted in every manner at his disposal in the growth and development of the city of Lubbock. He is always ready and willing to lend his support to any project which promises to benefit the community as a whole. Mr. C. M. Lang deserves our heartiest congratulations on his splendid record, and we sincerely hope for his continued success.

Fred Snyder Is Well Known

One of the pioneer business men of the city of Lubbock who deserves the respect and admiration of every citizen of this district is Mr. Fred Snyder, of the Snyder Livestock Market.

The Snyder Livestock Market is a Lubbock institution, and Mr. Snyder is no less so because of his inseparable connection with the firm in the mind of its customers.

Mr. Fred Snyder has always been ready and willing to contribute his time and energy to the assistance of any plan which promises to benefit this community as a whole, and the people of our district may regard with particular satisfaction the many services Mr. Snyder has performed for this community. We urge our readers to look to Mr. F. Snyder as a man of whom we may well be proud. His devotion to this city has been constant and his achievements are well merited.

R. D. Jones Lubbock Booster

Few men have done more to raise the prestige of the city of Lubbock than has Mr. R. D. Jones of the R. D. Jones Lumber Co., one of Lubbock's leading companies. He has always worked for the development of this community and his many services are worthy of sincere appreciation.

Mr. Jones has proved himself worthy of extended mention and these few words are really not adequate recognition for the many services which he has performed. His outstanding success as a business man is easily understood knowing as the people do, his widespread reputation for the honesty that characterizes all of his business dealings.

Mr. R. D. Jones is completely aware of his responsibilities, and is wide awake to the many opportunities for service. He is always ready and willing to lend his support to any project which promises to benefit the community as a whole. We compliment Mr. Jones on his accomplishments and wish for him continued success.

R. H. Martin Deserves Recognition

Most cities if they amount to very much are man-made. They do not just happen. It has been the realization by its citizens that their city must grow and prosper and be something other than just another place on the map, that has brought results and made it possible for the city to be an outstanding one and for those within it to prosper. Mr. R. H. Martin, the manager of Martin Baking Co., is one of the men to whom credit must go for playing no small part in the growth and development of Lubbock. The friends of Mr. R. H. Martin pay him this well-deserved tribute and they do so because they know that he deserves it. It is no secret that Mr. R. H. Martin has played a real part in the development of Lubbock and Slaton, Mr. Martin is well known in Slaton, as he was the first distributor of bread in our city. He has been a large shipper of flour by rail.

Mr. R. H. Martin would be the last man to mention the matter, but when the call goes forth to rally around something worth-while to the community, he is always among the first to volunteer. Successful in his own business, he is equally as successful in the promotion of civic progress.

C. J. Ward Makes Many Friends

A city grows and prospers by reason of the public spirited men and women who take an active interest in its development. Lubbock has its share of these civic minded people, and one who's deserving of special mention is Mr. C. J. Ward of the Lubbock Coal and Grain Co., a leading concern.

Mr. Ward has not only in his business activities but also in his attention to civic duty assumed a position of the utmost prominence in the community affairs.

Mr. Ward has always been ready and willing to contribute his time and energy to the promotion of any project which promises to benefit the community as a whole. He has often sacrificed his personal interests to be of assistance to the city. His efforts are wholly deserving of commendation and support.

We congratulate Mr. C. J. Ward and his concern and wish him continued success.

Claude And Ralph Keeton Are Constructive Citizens

The city of Lubbock has assumed its place of importance in state affairs because of the efforts of the far seeing business and professional men who have developed the natural resources and extended the trade advantages of the locality. Two of the citizens who have taken a very important part in all progressive movements are Claude and Ralph Keeton of the Keeton Packing Co.

They have devoted a great deal of time and energy to the general welfare of this district and it is fitting at this time that we attempt to express in a small way our appreciation for their unselfish contributions to the general welfare.

They are full of wide acquaintance, and many friends admire and respect in them those virtues which inspire confidence and promote good feeling. Their upright business methods are a credit to their high sense of honor. We congratulate Mr. Claude Keeton and Mr. Ralph Keeton on a splendid record of service and wish them continued success.

Banking Head Merits Praise

To those men who take an active leadership in civic affairs we owe a debt of gratitude that we find difficult to pay. However we can do so in part by publicly acknowledging their many services and we take this opportunity to do so to Mr. Sam C. Arnett, president of the Citizens National Bank in Lubbock, and we publicly congratulate him on behalf of this district. In doing so we know we express the sentiment and the feelings of not only the community but those men and women who have been actively associated with him in civic betterment.

Mr. Sam C. Arnett is a busy man, engaged as he is in the banking business. He finds every minute of the day occupied with pressing problems in connection with his financial business. Yet there has never been an occasion when he has been called upon by the people of Lubbock and the surrounding territory to assist some civic project that he has not responded and given to the community his valuable time. Thus he has frequently sacrificed his personal interests to be of help to the city.

No business is more important to a city than the conduct of its financial affairs. These include the finances of the people themselves. Mr. Sam C. Arnett has been conspicuously prominent in this respect and can number his associates and friends by the scores. He stands out not only as one of the most prominent and progressive citizens but also a civic leader of which this district has every reason to feel justly proud.

W. L. And J. B. Logan Are Leading Citizens

Mr. W. L. and Mr. J. B. Logan of Logan School Supplies, are those substantial type of citizens upon whom this community depends a great deal for leadership and guidance. They have in the past and no doubt will continue in the future to give more than their share of time and energy for the welfare of others than themselves. They are the type of men who make friends and friendships once formed by them are never broken by an unfriendly action on their part. Their success in business is directly attributed to their application of these principles which guide their business dealings. They spare no effort in order that their services to the people of this community shall be commendable.

Mr. W. L. and J. B. Logan have never been known to inject themselves into a situation for the mere purpose of gaining publicity. They proceed in a calm, unostentatious manner and accomplish their objective with a quiet dignity. For that reason the true estimate of their worth is sometimes missed.

This newspaper sincerely wishes to offer them this small evidence of heart-felt esteem.

Hub Jones Wins Admiration

We wish in addition to pay special tribute to Hub Jones of the Hub Motor Co. for his many services to the city of Lubbock and his splendid record of achievement. Jones probably has a wider circle of personal friends than any other man we could name. He has cultiivated friendships wherever he goes and is at pains to conduct himself in such a manner as to deserve the respect and admiration of all who know him.

A city is extremely fortunate in being able to number among its civic leaders such a personality as Mr. Hub Jones. He has probably accomplished more toward the development of Lubbock and vicinity than any other one man we could mention. He is always ready and willing to lend his prestige and ability to the promotion of any project which promises to benefit the city of Lubbock. Mr. Jones may be depended upon, and his services to the people are too many in number to be described here. It may be sufficient to say that the publishers of this paper consider Mr. Hub Jones an asset to the community and a man of whom the city may be proud.

H. W. Craig Shows Faith In Community

To be a consistent and persistent booster of the home community very often takes courage and plenty of optimism. It is because of his unflinching faith in Lubbock and the future of the South Plains, and his unflinching efforts to promote its development that Mr. H. W. Craig, the manager of the Lubbock Planing Mill, is selected now for this brief tribute.

Mr. H. W. Craig has always followed the policy of building his business ahead of the community, and thus setting a pace that has brought an ever-increasing number of people to make Lubbock their trading center. He is a man of keen business judgment, whose ideas have been the inspiration of many who know him. His personality and energy in directing the operation of his company are important factors in its outstanding success.

We are glad to pay this deserved tribute to Mr. H. W. Craig and to point out to our readers that his is the guiding genius behind the many popular services which his company offers.

J. I. Case Co. Aids The Farmer

One of the Lubbock firms on which the farmers of this rural district depend a great deal is the J. I. Case Co., distributors of the finest farming machinery that money can buy. This firm has befriended the farmers and truck gardeners of this district for many years and has made thousands of friends throughout the district. This firm distributes a complete line of farm machinery and stands behind every product with the full resources of the company.

The J. I. Case Co., of Lubbock, has always been ready and willing to lend assistance to any project which promised to benefit this district as a whole, and by the way of reciprocation the farmers of this territory should give the firm every consideration when buying equipment.

Mr. J. H. Hackfield, the manager, and Mr. J. W. Garner are the men who have won the universal respect and admiration of our people. They richly deserve their measure of success. They have made a study of problems which confront the local farmer, and their advice on these subjects is eagerly sought after. We congratulate Mr. J. H. Hackfield and Mr. J. W. Garner on their personal success and also on the high position to which they have raised their firm in the opinions of the readers of this paper.

Optimism Shown By Floyd Beall Praised

Because this is a period of unprecedented economic uncertainty, the business leaders in any city who continue to operate their particular enterprises successfully are entitled to more than ordinary acclaim. We are, therefore, glad to pay this tribute to Mr. Floyd Beall agent in Lubbock for the Phillips Petroleum Company, for he is becoming an outstanding figure in the business life of Lubbock. His persistent optimism and steadfast belief in the ultimate prosperity of the people of Lubbock and the South Plains country are characteristics which are deserving of our highest praise.

Mr. Floyd Beall has always shown a willingness to do his part in civic advancement, and has contributed repeatedly with his time and energy to the welfare of his city. We believe that this unusual business leader is entitled to our sincere praise both because he has achieved success in his private affairs and because he has been a generous contributor to the public good.

Russell Morrison Is Civic Leader

The men of the community who work for the best interests of the community, usually are leaders in whatever they attempt. They are men who can be depended upon and who are called upon to help with all worthy projects. Such a man is Mr. Russell Morrison, of the Russell Morrison Company in Lubbock. He stands at all times prepared to assist his community and is ever ready to take off his coat, if necessary, and work for it.

It is because we have men of the type of Mr. Morrison that this community has made such a record for growth, expansion and progress, and because of these things is so favorably advertised and so well known throughout the country. It is men like him who have had the vision to realize the possibilities of the community and he has given of his finances, his time and his energies to make the vision come true.

If Mr. Russell Morrison feels that a proposed civic project will be helpful to his community no special invitation is necessary to get him interested. And because of his enthusiasm and willingness to help he has won the admiration and praise of his fellow business and professional men. We take pleasure in paying this brief tribute to a man who has ever been in the forefront of the business life of Lubbock.

T. J. George Is Brilliant Leader

Performing an outstanding service to the people of Lubbock and the surrounding territory, George's Linen Supply has achieved an enviable reputation for the progressive policies of business operation pursued by its executives. We believe that most of the credit for this splendid institution is due to the brilliant management of Mr. T. J. George, the owner and manager.

Mr. T. J. George is a man of ideas. He is as practical as he is aggressive in putting these ideas to beneficial use in furthering the service his company renders to the people of this district. His sound business judgment and unwavering honesty are characteristics which place him in the front rank of the business leaders of Lubbock. And yet, Mr. George is unassuming and modest in his personal contact with the people; always ready to listen to their ideas and desires.

We are glad to pay tribute to this type of business leader, for it is such men who are making Lubbock a city to which prospective investors and residents turn with increasing favor.

Ralph Garrett Has Splendid Reputation

Civic leaders too frequently do not receive the credit they have won and are entitled to for the time and effort and energy they have put forth to guide the destinies of Lubbock in which they are active. It is therefore with real pleasure that we call our readers' attention to the fine work and aggressive leadership of Mr. Ralph Garrett, the manager of the Lubbock Paint and Supply Company. We also wish on behalf of the residents of the city to extend to him their congratulations and thanks.

No city can make progress, grow and expand as it should without the intelligent leadership on the part of its prominent citizens. These leaders too often hide their light under a bushel. It is not praise that they want as their reward. It is the victory of doing and accomplishing civic projects for the general betterment of the community from which they get their satisfaction. But we cannot refrain from pointing out the usefulness along this line by such men as Mr. Ralph Garrett. So far as their fellow citizens are concerned they have indeed won their civic spurs.

C. S. Walker Earns Praise

Leadership in business may be a gift, but with that instinct must also go a lot of hard work and conscientious application. Mr. C. S. Walker, of Bray's Cleaners and Furriers, is an outstanding example of the point we wish to make. He, apparently, is a natural born leader, yet the amazing knowledge of details of his business which he possesses, can only be the result of consistent and persistent hard work.

Our admiration for the achievements of this man, for his unassuming nature; his matter-of-fact approach to problems that would appear unsurmountable to many having less courage, is so sincere and so firmly fixed, that we are prompted to share it with our readers. Mr. C. S. Walker is an inspiration, a dominant personality, whose career is worthy of the highest acclaim, and whose accomplishments are daily bringing worthwhile benefits to Bray's Cleaners and Furriers and the city of Lubbock.

M. R. Tripp Has Outstanding Record

The honors that come to any man bring him equal responsibilities. Mr. M. R. Tripp of the S. M. Murrell Claim Service in Lubbock, has discharged worthily the many responsibilities that have come to him with many honors.

He has lived in Lubbock a part of a life that has been marked by public and civic service, and a strikingly successful business career.

The prominent part that the S. M. Murrell Claim Service has played in the building up and the development of Lubbock and the South Plains Country reflects the character and ability of this man. Mr. M. R. Tripp has at all times been steadfast in his devotion to his city and on many occasions has turned his talents and the resources of his company to the successful promotion of meritorious civic projects.

Lubbock and this district are fortunate to have such a man as Mr. M. R. Tripp in a position of responsibility and service, and this newspaper feels that it honors itself when it honors in this small way a man of such worth.

Roy B. McAllister Makes Business His Hobby

It is no coincidence that more frequently than not the man or men who play the leading role in the development of their city are the same men who are pre-eminently successful in conducting their own private affairs. Such a man is Mr. Roy B. McAllister of McAllister's Brick and Builders Supply Co., and to whom we take this occasion to pay a deserved tribute.

Mr. Roy B. McAllister has proved very ably that he is an organizer of unusual ability, for it is largely due to his sound and practical ideas that the McAllister's Brick and Builders Supply Co. holds its high position in the opinion of its many patrons. Mr. Roy B. McAllister has made his business a "hobby" with the result that it is today one of the most popular companies in Lubbock, giving to its patrons an excellence of service seldom equalled.

It is true also that Mr. Roy B. McAllister is one of the leaders in the community improvement, and has given freely of his time and energy in the promotion of those enterprises which have benefited Lubbock and the surrounding territory. We are glad to voice our praise of a man who is successful in his own business and who has time also to give to community advancement.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bickerstaff and Lee are off this week for the New Mexico mountains for some fishing.

At midnight 40 military supply trucks from East Prussia rumbled into the Free City of Danzig...

SIR IRONSIDE

He reiterated. The rumor was traced from Warsaw to London and finally back to their birthplace at Berlin...

Both Poland and Britain denied it, and their explanations made sense. The rumor began spreading just as Maj. Gen. Sir Edmund Ironside, inspector general of British overseas forces, arrived in Warsaw for Polish-British staff consultations...

Nothing like that happened. To the contrary, General Ironside's visit offered the most firm reiteration to date that Britain is ready to fight for Poland's cause...

Whole Farm Program for 1940 to Be Broadened, AAA Announces

Soil Conservation to Be Stressed; Increased Opportunities Given for Participation by Small Farmers; Folks Are Awakening to Fact Waste Must Be Paid For.

By WILLIAM BRUCKART WNU Service, National Press Bldg., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—A press release has just come to my desk from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. It outlines the farm program for 1940. That is next year. The statement from the AAA press bureau announced that the 1940 farm program was evolved at a three-day conference of "approximately 100 AAA farmer-committeemen and others interested," acting for all of the millions of farmers...

"Increased emphasis on soil conservation, increased opportunities for participation by small farmers and greater responsibility of administration by the farmer committees are included."

I have watched the AAA officials operate for five or six years. They are still struggling for that more abundant life and, therefore, I have observed the changes with some curiosity. Also, there has been a certain amount of humor in what they have done—not humorous for the farmers but for an onlooker whose life savings and hopes were not directly at stake. There never has been a dull moment. Sometimes, the antics have resembled the movements of whirling dervishes of the desert in their most fervent moments of prayer; other times have produced attitudes on the part of the officials and their underlings that strangely resembled a mouse-colored and very stubborn mule that my father once owned...

Just a Word of Praise For AAA Administrators

That I may not be accused of being a common scold, let me give the AAA administrators a word of praise just here. The soil building and soil conservation phases of the program likely are going to be valuable although I fail to understand why anybody thinks it is necessary to pay a farmer to keep his own land in good shape. But, skipping my own thoughts on that, there is justification for governmental interest in helping to restore soil on a national scale because our nation is going on for a number of years — we hope.

Then, too, there is argument favorable to a policy of government encouragement in the planting of trees, a program of reforestation.

There is, of course, that famous "parity" business. There is a fund of $225,000,000 which a bunch of vote-getting congressmen put into law. From it, the AAA officials can pay farmers producing wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco and rice certain sums if the price of these commodities is less than "75 per cent of parity."

We have had that one before and after many trials there are still many hundreds of versions of "parity." It has put the money out. There is no doubt about that. The AAA men made sure that all of it went out, but some of the methods of calculations, of appraisals, of discriminations among farmers, of do's and don'ts and just plain bureaucratic regimentation make a fellow dizzy. I cannot help wondering what those who live a hundred years from now will say when they read the current AAA records. They may find some new words that will properly describe the mess.

Now Comes the Pay-Off On the 1940 Farm Program

Next comes "commercial vegetables." There is to be designation, as this year, of "commercial vegetable counties," the designation, of course, to be done by AAA officials. Commercial vegetable farmers, after they sign up and do as they are told, will get payments, too, and I hope the arrangement will make the green onions that my wife buys from the commercial vegetable man who calls at our door somewhat less spongy.

And now, we give you the pay-off on the 1940 program. Next year, any farmer who grows a vegetable garden will get $2—two whole dollars that are still highly regarded by me—if he "co-operates" and does as he is told by the AAA master farmers. If he fails to grow that vegetable garden, he will be docked $2. The government will get it, too. Uncle Sam's boys are good at that. To make sure about getting that $2 fine, the AAA will deduct it from whatever other payment that the farmer has earned. The regulations have not been issued yet so I cannot report to you in advance what you will have to do to get your $2. The AAA may possibly tell you that you have to grow so many rows of radishes, so many hills of beans of two or more types—maybe some pole beans if you have planted trees under the reforestation program. Or they may tell you to produce so many yards of spinach, and there must be carrots and peas, because children must eat carrots and peas. And potatoes! I want to warn the AAA about potatoes. Maine and Idaho voters may kick about including potatoes in the list of "must" vegetables. In the South, there ought to be melons, for there is nothing like a good ripe watermelon. Medical men advise squash in the diet, along with rutabagas. As a special favor to me, I am going to ask that onions be included and planted alongside that row of tomato vines.

Of course, as I said, the regulations have not been issued and so I do not know what will constitute a vegetable garden "within the meaning of this act," as the official rules will say. On this point, however, I think it can be said safely now that the regulations will extend the law just as far as human ingenuity can stretch language. The idea will be to embrace as many of the farmers as can be brought under the newest—and rawest—of the schemes for regimenting the farmers of the nation. None will be overlooked, except perhaps those like myself whose farm consists of a backyard some 60 feet deep wherein are crowded flowers that I love.

Will Extend Law as Far as Language Can Be Stretched

I guess that I will not get any payment for planting trees, either. But the real reason I resent this $2 payment is that it represents a gigantic reduction in the price of votes. I think those AAA men haven't learned much about politics. They've gone sissy. The new price sounds like a fire sale. They ought to know that no votes induced by that price will stay put.

But to get serious about this thing, this new atrocity that is being put over in the name of farm aid, it ought to be said that never in all recorded history has there been any such thing attempted before. That, of course, is no answer. It is an answer, however, to say that some governmental policies, like the actions of some private persons, are so utterly ludicrous that they hardly warrant discussion. Further, we ought to remind ourselves that in this instance a government, supposed to serve all of the people, is undertaking the course. To my mind, the fact that government is doing it makes it perfection on the asinine side.

Folks Awakening to Fact That Waste Must Be Paid For

We have witnessed waste in more forms in the last few years than ever happened in our nation or any other. Folks throughout the country are awakening to the fact that this waste has to be paid for, because taxes are beginning to sneak up on them from the most unexpected directions. There will be more. Of that, there can be no doubt. Meanwhile, instead of slowing up federal spending, we find AAA paying $2 for a garden. There should be something in the way of aid for those who grow window boxes.

Only Tool Is Two-Bladed Penknife.

John asked his helper if he had any tools in his pocket. The only thing the helper had was a small penknife with two blades. John told him they'd have to try digging their way out with that knife. Anything to keep their minds off the death that was clutching at them—one degree at a time. They started hacking away at the plaster that coated the walls, cutting a hole about eight inches in diameter. It didn't take long to cut through the plaster. It was only half an inch thick. But back of that was eight inches of cork.

John Feels He Is Nearing End.

"I sat down and wrote a few words to my wife on the back of one of my cards. I was feeling mighty sleepy, and I knew I was nearing the end. And then out of a clear sky, my helper shook me and said he had a small hole through to the outside." It was just a tiny hole. The one they originally started had narrowed down almost to a point. It did them mighty little good, but John's helper thought they might try shouting for help. To please his helper, John agreed to try—but he knew there was no one in the building, and knew that the chances of any one hearing them from the outside was mighty slim. For an hour they kept up their intermittent shouting. John was yelling "Police," and his helper was just crying "Help!" It was almost 10 o'clock by that time, and John had lost all hope. And then, suddenly, they got an answer.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Breath of Doom"

HELLO EVERYBODY: John A. Kollins of Decatur, Ill., is a refrigerator repairman, and he knows the ins and outs of mechanical refrigerating systems and can tell you just what makes them go.

John learned that business with an eye to making his bread and butter out of it. But there came a time when he had to use every doggone bit of the knowledge he had acquired—to save his life.

But, in the end, it was a penknife that saved the day. Without it, all of John's technical skill would have been of little use in the battle against the icy breath of doom which he and his helper found themselves fighting. John's knowledge told him what not to do, but knowing what not to do isn't enough when death is clamping down and slowly wringing the life out of you.

It all happened in Springfield, Ill. On March 31, 1936, John Kollins was called over there to make some repairs in the refrigerating plant of the Morris Fish Market. He got there early in the morning with his helper, and they worked hard all day on the job.

The market had several cooler rooms carrying below-freezing temperatures and one room, called a sharp fish freezer, that went down to 10 or 15 degrees below zero when the machinery was working.

Evening was coming on, and still their job wasn't finished. The market had closed and every one had gone home before John finally got the machinery working properly. He still had to test it, though, and he turned the controls on full and he and his helper climbed out of the basement and went up through the big, empty market to the sharp freezer room to see how rapidly the machine was bringing the temperature down.

Find Catch Broken on Freezer Door.

When they got to the freezer door, John noticed again that the catch was broken. There was an old pair of ice tongs hanging nearby, to open it in case it stuck. He had seen that before, and made a mental note of it. He had even told his helper to be careful in closing that door behind him. But now, as John walked in, his helper, following behind him, gave the door a thoughtless bang.

Then, suddenly, the big blade of the knife broke!

Locked in! And in a small, cramped room whose temperature was rapidly going down! Going to 15 below zero! Not even an Eskimo could live through a night in the open at such a temperature, and John and his helper, dressed in ordinary working clothes, knew that they'd be frozen to death long before morning.

"My heart almost failed me right then and there," says John, "but if it hadn't been for my knowledge of the structure of this freezer, we might have died before we even had half a chance to try to get out. My helper was all for taking a big block of ice and trying to ram the door down, but I knew better than to try it. The door was too strong, and, if we failed to get out on the first try, it would be the end."

"I had built this plant eight years before. I knew the ammonia coils would not stand much jarring without springing a leak. And once the ammonia got in, we'd have choked to death before we had a chance to freeze."

No—that was out. The only thing those two lads could do was cling to straws. They MIGHT just possibly be alive in the morning.

Only Tool Is Two-Bladed Penknife.

John asked his helper if he had any tools in his pocket. The only thing the helper had was a small penknife with two blades.

John told him they'd have to try digging their way out with that knife.

Anything to keep their minds off the death that was clutching at them—one degree at a time. They started hacking away at the plaster that coated the walls, cutting a hole about eight inches in diameter. It didn't take long to cut through the plaster. It was only half an inch thick. But back of that was eight inches of cork.

"We took turns digging," says John, "and made progress little by little. But, all this time, the machine was running in the basement and the temperature was going down. It went from five—to ten—to fifteen below, and our hands became numb as we worked. Then, suddenly, the big blade of the knife broke."

John Feels He Is Nearing End.

"I sat down and wrote a few words to my wife on the back of one of my cards. I was feeling mighty sleepy, and I knew I was nearing the end. And then out of a clear sky, my helper shook me and said he had a small hole through to the outside."

It was just a tiny hole. The one they originally started had narrowed down almost to a point. It did them mighty little good, but John's helper thought they might try shouting for help. To please his helper, John agreed to try—but he knew there was no one in the building, and knew that the chances of any one hearing them from the outside was mighty slim.

For an hour they kept up their intermittent shouting. John was yelling "Police," and his helper was just crying "Help!" It was almost 10 o'clock by that time, and John had lost all hope. And then, suddenly, they got an answer.

"Where are you?" A man, parking his car in the alley beside the market, had heard them.

The fellow broke in a window, found the freezer, and used the old ice tongs to pry open the door.

"He didn't know what to do about us," says John, "until I, in my delirium, began yelling 'Police!' again. He thought that was a good idea and called the cops."

The police arrived and gave the two men stimulants. Before it was over, the newspaper photographers had arrived and they had to go back into that freezer again to pose for pictures. But that time they made darned certain that the door wouldn't slam shut on them.

Ancient Totem Pole

The totem pole in Seattle's Pioneer Square was carved from a single cedar tree by a tribe of Indians inhabiting Tongass island, southeastern Alaska. It is 60 feet high and 8 feet in circumference and was intended as a monument to a distinguished family. The pole stood for nearly a century on Tongass island and was discovered by a party of Seattle businessmen in August, 1899, and removed to that city.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Young, pretty Jane Barnes, who lived with her brother, Baldwin, in Sherwood Park, near Washington, was not particularly impressed when she read that rich, attractive Edith Towne had been left at the altar by Delafeld Simms, wealthy New Yorker. However, she still mused over it when she met Evans Follette, a young neighbor, whom she had left completely discouraged and despondent. Evans had always loved Jane. That morning Baldwin Barnes, on his way to work in Washington, offered assistance to a tall, lovely girl in distress. Later he found a bag she had left in the car, containing a diamond ring on which was inscribed "Del to Edith—Forever." He knew then that his passenger had been Edith Towne. Already he was half in love with her. That night he discussed the matter with Jane, an "A" called her uncle, worldly, sophisticated Frederick Towne. He visited them at their home, delighted with Jane's simplicity. He told them Edith's story. Because her uncle desired it, Edith Towne had accepted Delafeld Simms, whom she liked but did not love. She disappeared immediately after the wedding was to have taken place. The next day Jane received a basket of fruit from Towne, asking if he might call again. Mrs. Follette, widowed mother of Evans, was a woman of indomitable courage. Impoverished, she nevertheless managed to keep Evans and herself in comparative comfort by running a dairy farm. Evans, mentally depressed and disillusioned, had little self reliance and looked to his mother and Jane for guidance.

"As a man thinks—Do you believe it?" Evans asked.
"Some of it," replied Jane.
"We'll talk about it tonight. No, I can't come in. Dinner is at seven." He lingered a moment longer. "Do you know what a darling you are, Jane?"

She stood watching him as he limped away. Once he turned and waved. She waved back and her eyes were blurred with tears.
In Jane's next letter to Judy she told about the dinner.

"We had a delicious dinner. It seems to me, Judy, that my mind dwells a great deal on things to eat. But, after all, why shouldn't I? Housekeeping is my job.
"Mrs. Follette doesn't attempt to do anything that she can't do well, and it was all so simple and satisfying. In the center of the table was some of the fruit that Mr. Towne sent in a silver epergne, and there were four Sheffield candlesticks with white candles.

"Mrs. Follette carved the turkey. Evans can't do things like that—she wore her perennial black lace and pearls, and in spite of everything, Judy, I can't help liking her, though she is such a beggar on horseback. They haven't a cent, except what she makes from the milk, but she looks absolutely the lady of the manor.

"The cousins are very fashionable. One of them, Muriel Follette, knows Edith Towne intimately. She told us all about the wedding, and how people are blaming Edith for running away and are feeling terribly sorry for Mr. Towne. Of course they didn't know that Baldy and I had ever laid eyes on either of them. But you should have seen Baldy's eyes, when Muriel said things about Edith. I was scared stiff for fear he'd say something. You know how his temper flares.

"Well, Muriel said some catty things. That everybody is sure that Delafeld Simms is in love with someone else, and that they are saying Edith might have known it if she hadn't always looked upon herself as the center of the universe. And they feel that if her heart is broken, the decent thing would be to mourn in the bosom of her family. Of course I'm not quoting her exact words, but you'll get the idea.

"And Baldy thinks his queen can do no wrong, and was almost bursting. Judy, he walks in a dream. I don't know what good it is going to do him to feel like that. He will have to always worship at a distance like Dante. Or was it Ahab? I always get those grande passions mixed.
"Anyhow, there you have it. Edith Towne rode in Baldy's flivver, and he has hitched that little wagon to a star!

"Well, after dinner, we set the victrola going and Baldy had to dance with Muriel. She dances extremely well, and I know he enjoyed it, though he wouldn't admit it. And Muriel enjoyed it. There's no denying that Baldy has a way with him.

"After they had danced a while everybody played bridge, except Evans and me. You know how I hate it, and it makes Evans nervous. So we went in the library and talked. Evans is dreadfully discouraged about himself. I wish that you were here and that we could talk it over. But it is hard to do it at long distance. There ought to be some way to help him. Sometimes it seems that I can't stand it when I remember what he used to be."

Evans had carried Jane off to the library high-handedly. "I want you," was all the reason he vouchsafed as they came into the shabby room with its leaping flames in the fireplace, its book-lined walls, its imposing portrait above the mantel.

The portrait showed Evans' grandfather, and beneath it was a photograph of Evans himself. The likeness between the two men was striking—there was the same square set of the shoulders, the same bright, wavy hair, the same air of youth and high spirits. The grandfather in the portrait wore a blue uniform, the grandson was in khaki, but they were, without a question, two of a kind.
"You belong here, Jane," said Evans, "on one side of the fireplace, with me on the other. That's the way I always see you when I shut my eyes."

"You see me now with your eyes wide open—"

"Yes, Jane, I told Mother this afternoon that I wouldn't go to New York. So that's settled, without your saying anything."

"How does she feel about it?"
"Oh, she still thinks that I should go. But I'll stay here," he moved his head restlessly. "I want to be where you are, Jane. And now, my dear, we're going to talk things out. You know that yesterday you made a sort of promise. That you'd pray for me to get back—and that if I got back—well, you'd give me a chance. Jane, I want your prayers, but not your promise."
"Why not?"
"I am not fit to think of any woman. When I am—well—if I ever am

Evans had carried Jane off to the library.

—you can do as you think best. But you mustn't be bound."
She sat silent, looking into the fire.

"You know that I'm right, don't you, dear?"
"Yes, I do, Evans. I thought of it, too, last night. And it seems like this to me. If we can just be friends—without bothering with anything else—it will be easier, won't it?"
"I can't tell you how glad I'd be to you, as you call it. But it wouldn't be fair. You are young, and you have a right to happiness. I'd be a shadow on your—future—"

"Please don't."
He dropped on the rug at her feet. "Well, we'll leave it at that. We're friends, forever," he reached up and took her hands in his, "forever?"
"Always, Evans—"

"For better, for worse—for richer, for poorer?"
"Of course—"

They stared into the fire, and then he said softly, "Well, that's enough for me, my dear, that's enough for me—" and after a while he began to speak in broken sentences. "Ah, silver shrine, here will I take my rest. . . . After so many hours of toil and quest. . . . A famished pilgrim. . . . That's Keats, my dear. Jane, do you know that you are food and drink?"
"Am I?" unsteadily.
"Yes, dear little thing, if I had you always by my fire I could fight the world."

When Jane and Baldy reached home that night, Baldy stamped up and down the house, saying things about Muriel Follette. "A girl like that to criticize."
She yawned. "I'm going to bed."
The telephone rang, and Baldy was off like a shot. Jane uncurled herself from her chair and lent a listening ear. It was a moment of exciting interest. Edith Towne was at the other end of the wire!
Jane knew it by Baldy's singing voice. He didn't talk like that to commonplace folk who called him up. She was devoured with curiosity.
He came in, at last, literally walking on air. And just as Jane had felt that his voice sang, so she felt now that his feet danced.

"Jane, it was Edith Towne."
"What did she say?"
"Just saw my advertisement. Paper delayed—"

"Where is she?"
"Beyond Alexandria. But we're not to give it away."
"Not even to Mr. Towne?"
"No. She's asked me to bring her bag, and some other things."

He threw himself into a chair opposite Jane, one leg over the arm of it. He was a careless and picturesque figure. Even Jane was aware of his youth and good looks.

Edith had, as it seemed, asked him to have Towne send the ring back to Delafeld—to have her wedding presents sent back, to have a bag packed with her belongings.

She started up the stairs but before she had reached the landing he called after her. "Jane, what have you on hand for tomorrow?"
She leaned over the rail and looked down at him. "Friday? Feed the chickens. Feed the cats. Help Sophy clean the silver. Drink tea at four with Mrs. Allison, and three other young things of eighty."

"Well, look here. I don't want to face Towne. He'll say things about Edith—and insist on her coming back—she says he will, and that's why she won't call him up. And you've got more diplomacy than I have. You might make it all seem—reasonable. Will you do it, Jane?"
"Do you mean that you want me to call on him at his office?"
"Yes. Go in with me in the morning."

"Baldy, are you shirking? Or do you really think me as wonderful as your words seem to imply?"
"Oh, if you're going to put it like that."
She smiled down at him. "Let's leave it then that I am—wonderful. But suppose Mr. Towne doesn't fall for your plan? Perhaps he won't let her have the bag or a checkbook or money or—anything—"

Jane saw then a sudden and passionate change in her brother. "If he doesn't let her have it, I will. I may be poor but I'll beg or borrow rather than have her brought back to face those cats—until she wants to come."
CHAPTER V

Frederick Towne never arrived in his office until ten o'clock. So Jane was ahead of him. She sat in a luxurious outer room, waiting.

When he came in he saw Jane at once, and held out his hand smiling. "You've heard from Edith?"
"Yes. Last night. Too late to let you know."
"Good. We'll go into my room."
Jane was thrilled by a sense of things happening. Outwardly calm, she was inwardly stirred by excitement.

She sat in a big leather chair which nearly swallowed her up, and stated her errand.
"Baldy thought I'd better come, he's so busy, and anyhow he thinks I have more tact." She tilted her chin at him and smiled.

"And you thought it needed tact."
"Well, don't you, Mr. Towne? We really haven't a thing to do with it, and I'm sure you think so. Only now we're in it, we want to do the best we can."
"I see. Since Edith has chosen you and your brother as ambassadors, you've got to use diplomacy."
"She didn't choose me, she chose Baldy."
"But why can't she deal directly with me?"
"She ran away from you. And she isn't ready to come back."
"She ought to come back."
"She doesn't think so. And she's afraid you'll insist."
"What does she want me to do?"

Dog Show Judges' Decisions Seldom Pleasing

To be a dog show judge is one of the most desired and least appreciated positions among dog fanciers. Novices, and many show veterans, have a distinctly envious regard for the people who award the ribbons in the show ring. The position carries with it a certain amount of the limelight which is so attractive. On the other hand, the dog show judge is one of the most abused of individuals. His decisions seldom give universal satisfaction and he is called publicly and privately every-thing from a publicity-seeking ignoramus to a deliberate cheat, writes R. R. Taynton in the Washington Star.

The truth of the matter is that many people rush into dog judging before they have had adequate experience in breeding and showing dogs and before they have cultivated that "eye for a dog" that is absolutely indispensable to a good judge. Others judge entirely on the basis of personal prejudice as to what constitutes an important point in the breed chosen.
For instance, if ears of a certain type may be the most difficult point to attain in that judge's kennel, he may give undue emphasis to that

"Send her the bag with the money and the checkbook, and let Baldy take out a lot of things. She gave him a list; there's everything from toilet water to talcum."
"Suppose I refuse to send them?"
"You can, of course. But you won't, will you?"
"No, I suppose not. I shan't coerce her. But it's rather a strange thing for her to be willing to trust all this to your brother. She has seen him only once."
"Well," said Jane, with some spirit, "you've seen Baldy only once, and wouldn't you trust him?"
She flung the challenge at him, and quite surprisingly he found himself saying, "Yes, I would."

"Well," said Jane, "of course."
He leaned back in his chair and looked at her. Again he was aware of quickened emotions. She revived half-forgotten ardors. Gave him back his youth. She used none of the cut and dried methods of sophistication. She was fearless, absolutely alive, and in spite of her cheap gray suit, altogether lovely.

So it was with an air of almost romantic challenge that he said, "What would you advise?"
"I'd let her alone, like little Bo Peep. She'll come home before you know it, Mr. Towne."
"I wish that I could think it—however, it's a great comfort to know that she is visiting friends, and that I've heard from her. And now, about the things she wants. It seems absolutely silly to send them."
"I don't think it's silly."
"Why not?"
"Oh, clothes make such a lot of difference to a woman. I can absolutely change my feelings by changing my frock."
She rose. "I'll leave the list with you and you can telephone Baldy when to come for them."
"Don't go. I want to talk to you."
"But you're busy."
"Not unless I want to be."
"But I am. I have to go to market—"

"Briggs can take you over. I'll call up the garage."
"Briggs! Can you imagine Briggs driving through the streets of Washington with a pound of sausage and a three-rib roast?"
"Do you mean that you are going to take your parcels back with you?"
"Yes. There aren't any deliveries in Sherwood."
He hesitated for a moment, then touched her shoulder lightly with his forefinger. "Look here. Let Briggs take you to market, then come back here, and we'll run up to the house, get the things for lunch at Chevy Chase, and put you down, sausages, bags and all, at your own door in Sherwood."
"Really?" She was all shining radiance.
"Really. You'll do it then? Sit down a moment while I call up Briggs."

He called the garage and turned again to Jane. "I'll dictate some important letters, and be ready for you when you get back."
So Jane went through the fine old market, with its long aisles brilliant with the bounty of field and garden, river, and bay and sea. There were red meats and red tomatoes and red apples, oranges that were yellow, and pumpkins a deeper orange. There were shrimps that were pink, and red-snappers a deeper rose. There was the gold of butter and the gold of honey—the green of spinach, the green of olives and the green of pickles in bowls of brine, there was the brown of potatoes overflowing in burlap bags, and the brown of bread baked to crustiness—the brown of the plumage of dead ducks—the white of onions and the white of roses.

Smart Hand-Crocheted Dress Good Style the Year Round

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

OH, FOR a dress that is cool to wear on hot sultry days, warm and "comfy" to wear on cool days, a dress that somehow or other possesses the magic of fitting into the scheme of things, whether it be going places about town during the active hours of the day or doing more or less of a society stunt at informal bridge party or tea in the afternoon at the club.

The answer? Well, here it is right before your very eyes in the accompanying illustration—dresses that are hand-crocheted of mercerized cotton. Yes, a dress like either of the models pictured will prove a friend in need and indeed at any time of the year. As to solving the mid-season problem of something to wear that tides over the gap between fashions old and fashions new, you'll find a hand-crocheted dress gives the perfect answer. Such a gown is correct and likable to wear this very minute and for the girl who will be faring to school in the early autumn days.

The best way of putting to the test all we have been saying about the crocheted theme is to make such a dress for yourself. Just a few leisure moments devoted here and there, that would otherwise be wasted, to the crocheting thereof and in an unbelievably short time you will be the exultant possessor of a dress that will prove a treasure in your wardrobe, the whole year round.

Want to try it? Well, here's how!—go to your nearest fancy work shop or department. There you will find oodles of mercerized crocheted cottons in adorable colors. However, that once done, together with the acquiring of exactly the right size crocheted hook, not forgetting to ask for a pamphlet of instructions as how to make, which is always available where you buy yarns.

There's good news for crocheters this year in that the idea of styling is being played up for all it is worth. For the first time crocheted has been treated like fabric. The result is a collection of crocheted dresses unmatched for smartness, wearability, fit and individuality.

Most important is the way in which the newer crocheted frocks fit and mold the figure. Dressmaker touches are also stressed. Padded shoulders are emphasized, zipper closings are used, skirts swing gracefully, with a view to achieving the young look so much exploited this season.

Typical of the new crocheted fashions is the casual, neat-as-a-pin dress as shown to the left in the picture. A decorative zipper down the front, closing at the throat with two pompons, high-placed pockets and a wide contrasting belt give it the dressmaker touches. Even the belt is crocheted. Worked in lustrous mercerized crocheted cotton, the entire outfit is simple to make.

The hand-crocheted dress to the right has the stylish look. Its lines are fluid and soft with the shoulders slightly exaggerated to slenderize the silhouette, making it graceful for the more mature figure as well as for the slim and svelte young woman. The stitch is open and lacy—delightfully cool to wear throughout the summer. Later on you will find this type gown an ideal starter for the fall wardrobe.

Designer Visions Coming Fashions

Quoting Edith Head, top designer of clothes for Hollywood notables: "The reign of the popular simple frock or suit is over. Everything indicates that the fall and winter styles will be lavish in fabric and extremely romantic and flattering. Clothes will doubtless cause social functions to increase in formality and it will be, all and all, a dressy season."
"I am sure," predicted Miss Head, "that there will be no certain or definite skirt, sleeve, or coat lengths in the coming trend. Women will dress strictly to their own individuality, getting away from the 'sheep' fads and crazes which made all of us look alike for the past several years. At last feminine fashions will assume something else than 'all poured of the same mold.'"
"The high note of the new trend," said the designer, "will be magnificence of material. Silks, brocades, velvets, and embroidered fabrics will be abundant and tailored, all-purpose models will bear a definite death knell."

Rich Silk Fabrics For Coats, Suits

It is with an eye to the future that women are buying the smart new coats now showing in the mid-summer collections, made of rich silk fabric. A costume of the hand-some bengalines and such will carry through until the "frost is on the pumpkin." The appeal of these handsome suits is not to be without best dressed fashionables.

Red Dots White

Still the rage for polka dots goes on. In the picture it is white silk chiffon with red polka dots that fashions a most captivating evening dress. For country club wear and city roofs under starlit skies with music in the air here is the gown ideal. The halo hat in tones of red matches the kid belt which is tied with a fabric bow. The bracelet is the new-type bubble lass that glitters in prismatic colors.
