Voliva Says Polar Explorers Fell Off Edge of the Earth

CHICAGO. — More convinced than ever that the world is flat as a pancake, Wilbur Gleen Voliva, overseer of Zion City, returned to Chicago today from his European tour. Voliva cast some interesting light on the probable fate of the lost dirigible Italia, Nobile and his crew. Mr. Voliva believes the craft may have reached the edge of the world and have dropped into oblivion. And Commander Richard Byrd had better watch his step or he will meet a similar fate. Mr. Voliva is quite certain of it.

"I've been grossly misquoted," Voliva said. "I never did say that there was an edge to the world. There's a ledge, and that's all. It's a matter of feet, say a few thousands of feet high, beyond which the good Lord has never seen fit to cast light and sunshine. It's highly possible that the dirigible Italia has slipped over that wall.

"If it has, it will never come back, you may be sure of that. Byrd had better look out. If he goes over that wall he'll never see him again, either."

Love Blamed For Youth's Actions

NEW YORK. — August Gabriel, who is nineteen years old and thinks he is in love, was held for examination in Gates avenue police court, Brooklyn, following an early morning encounter with Patrolman Vincent Parry of the Gates avenue police court, which convinced him that not quite all the world loves a lover.

Mr. Gabriel told Magistrate Elperin that he was walking along DeKalb avenue, fighting matches and throwing them in the gutter, as a young man will when he is in love, when Patrolman Parry accosted him gruffly, asking him what he was doing.

"I guess I'm in love," Mr. Gabriel said he told the policeman quite frankly.

"At that," said Mr. Gabriel, the policeman said he guessed Mr. Gabriel was queer and had better walk along with him. He did so, said Mr. Gabriel, until he heard the policeman tell the crowd which was trailing them that he was a lunatic. That, said Mr. Gabriel, aroused his resentment and he struck the policeman.

Patrolman Parry was not present to give his version of the encounter. The magistrate was informed that his injuries prevented his appearance.

Milk Without Cows Predicted By Expert

LONDON. — Milk without cows will be the next short cut of science, according to a statement by Alfred King of the Sanitary Inspectors association meeting at North Allerton. Experiments are now being made at Billingham, Northumberland, looking toward the production of synthetic milk direct from grass by a process that eliminates the cow.

HONOLULU. — Old Japanese residents of the Hawaiian Islands still cling to many superstitions, one of which is that if a twin dies the other also will die.

To circumvent the fate which they believe impends for the survivor when one of a pair has died, a dummy of the survivor is made, using some of his hair and finger-nail trimmings. Then the dead twin and the dummy are buried or cremated together and it is pretended that both have passed from life.

The remaining twin is regarded as a "nobody" until he or she can be taken to the temple to receive a new name and to be considered ever after as a new member of the family.

Circus Wild Man Chased To Swamp

CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE, N. J.—Ephriam Gadsden, a negro laborer who climbed to stardom in the side show of a traveling carnival circus with a wild man's make-up, is now a miserable exile in the cedar swamps near here, unable to show his face without being fired at by the farmers who think he's real. This is the theory of Sheriff James T. Hoffman, who has been investigating two things: (1) the disappearance of Gadsden in his professional garb, and (2) the appearance in various places hereabouts of what the terrified rustics have described as "a devil with feathers for hair."

The plight of Gadsden, if the sheriff's theory is sound, goes back to the performer's ambitious project of being a combination wild man and snake charmer.

Gadsden, his face bestreaked with eyes, wearing his extra-special ostrich plume headgear and attired in a bear skin, was accustomed to leap about in his canvass-lined circus pit while around his feet squirmed a dozen horrible but harmless black snakes. In Millville, he was a tremendous success. He played to crows but an unfortunate incident made him leap clear over the rail of the pit and keep on going.

A youthful cynic of Millville caught a five rattlesnake, put it in a box, put the box in Gadsden's pit and opened it. The rattler rattled and out of the pit went Gadsden in one wild leap.

The first report on Gadsden's cross-country sprint came from the outskirts of Millville where a farmer saw the circus wild man coming just in time to grab his shot gun and fire a load of rock salt intended for crows. The sheriff has followed the trail to the cedar swamps where it seemed to leave the ground and lose itself in one gigantic leap. Since then there have been prominent reports from farmers who have chased the "devil" back to the swamp.

It is assumed that Gadsden has been unable to shed his make-up unaided, it being a most elaborately and carefully hooked and buttoned affair.

Eavesdropping is punishable by law in England.

Double Celebration Of Weddings Is Held

NEW YORK.—A double celebration of the silver wedding anniversary of the Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Freimuth, and the golden wedding anniversary of Mrs. Freimuth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wichmann, was held at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church, of which the Rev. Mr. Freimuth is pastor. The two couples were married on June 18, of 1903 and 1878.

A purse of several hundred dollars was presented to the pastor by church societies.

Kaiser's Nephew Now Raising Bees

HEMMELMARK, Germany.—Prince Sigismund of Prussia, second son of the former kaiser's brother, Prince Henry, is determined to be master of his own fate and to create an existence for himself in Guatemala.

According to letters received by the Hohenzollern family, Sigismund is changing his occupation for the third time. He has decided to raise bees and hopes to export honey to his former fatherland, Germany.

The prince's career has been a thorny one. While his older brother was content to remain on his father's estate at Hemmelmark after the revolution, Sigismund immediately cast about for an occupation. He first became manager of the Guatemala branch of Schlubach-Sapper and company, Hamburg importers.

Differences arose, however, between himself and the firm, and he returned to Hemmelmark with his baby and his wife, the Princess of Sachsen-Altenburg.

After a year and a half he ventured out again for Guatemala, where he bought a piece of land and tried to place it under cultivation. He and the princess felled trees and cleared the ground.

But the exertion proved too great, and Sigismund wrote his father that he would try next to raise bees. Prince Henry admires his son's pluck and determination, but is worried lest the bee venture result in the loss of the last remnant of Sigismund's fortune.

Western Hermit Seeks Fellowmen

FORT MORGAN, Colo.—After living for thirty years in the mountains of western Colorado as a primitive cave man, shunning human society, hunting for his food and wearing the skins of animals for clothing, Reuben Dove, sixty-two years old, has at last been forced to seek the society of his fellowmen and has decided to spend the rest of his life in that human society that formerly he avoided.

When Dove was a young man, during the early '90s, an agent for a railroad that was building in the Centennial state, contracted with him to furnish a large number of railroad ties. For these he offered Dove a good price. The young man labored hard during the winter and when the agent came around he had a considerable supply of ties on hand. But the railroad man rejected about one-fourth of the ties, saying that the company would not take such poor stuff. Dove thought this a grave injustice and he declared, on the spot, that he would never do another day's work for any man. This vow he has kept for nearly a third of a century.

Before leaving the pile of ties he made a bonfire of it and with some of his belongings went back into the Rockies, where he dwelt in a cave for more than thirty years.

When he had been missed for several months a forest ranger went to his cave and found him ill with a raging fever. He was taken to a hospital and later to the home of a relative where he will spend the remainder of his days. He was known as the "Hermit of Hubbard Park."

Oldest Sundial Is Found Near Rome

ROME.—A curious discovery has just been made on the southern side of the old wall of the cathedral of Palestrina, the ancient Praeneste of the Romans, which is about twenty-five miles distant from Rome. Traces of what is held to be the oldest sundial in Europe have been found there, and the authenticity of the discovery has been confirmed by several experts who closely examined it.

Details of the important discovery were given in a lecture delivered before one of the Roman institutes of archaeology by Professor Orazio Marucchi. The lines still visible on the walls of the church, an old building believed to date back to the Roman period, are said to have formed part of the sun dial mentioned by the Latin poet Ovid in the sixth book of his "Fasti," where he says that "there is a sun dial at Praeneste, which marks not the ordinary hours, but those of Juno."

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The kind of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach, and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination ofenna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. If grown people want to use them no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

Rollie C. Burns Tells of Hunting Wild Mustang Horses Back in 1889

Following is an account of how wild mustang horses had to be hunted in order to protect cow ponies on the I O A ranch back in 1889, told by Rollie C. Burns, pioneer of this region, and at-present tax assessor at Lubbock:

The I O A in 1889 had some thirty or forty wild mustang horses that gave us more or less trouble, as occasionally some of the cow ponies would fall in with the mustangs, and we had to run them down to get them back to the "Remuda." Hence we decided to rid the pasture of the troublesome mustangs.

In the spring of 1889, some six or eight stray men as we called them, had drifted into the ranch and were staying at the ranch headquarters waiting for the spring round-up. One day the foreman of the ranch, having decided this to be an opportune time to get rid of the mustangs, told the boys that he would mount each of them on a good horse for the purpose of hunting down and killing the mustangs on the ranch.

Two of the men, George Brown, who now lives in Arizona, and Cal Merchant, who now lives in Hansford county, Texas, were noted as reckless riders, and I did not want to give them good horses for fear that they would kill them by hard riding in the chase. I gave to each of these two men an outlaw horse, and told them that it would not make any difference if they did kill these in the hunt. To the other men I gave good mounts.

Two Mustang Bunches.

There were two bunches of mustangs in our pasture. One bunch ranged southwest, and the other ranged east of where the town of Lubbock now is located. The town section was then a part of the leased ranch holdings. The men were divided into two groups of about ten men each, one group being put in the charge of G. M. Boles and the other group being put in the charge of R. C. Burns. One group went to the southwest to the mustang range and the other group went to the east, where the second bunch of mustangs were.

Each group of men soon found its bunch of mustangs and the chase began at about 10 o'clock a. m. About an hour later a singular thing happened. The outlaw horse being ridden by Cal Merchant fell and broke its neck, and about the same time, the other outlaw horse being ridden by George Brown fell and broke its neck. The two groups of men were some twelve miles apart when this thing occurred. It was a coincidence that the two horses should be killed about the same time and in the same manner. Another singular thing about it was that while the two men were riding their horses at full speed, and while each of the horses were killed, and in the same manner, neither Brown nor Merchant was seriously hurt. The drive resulted in the killing of about twenty of the mustangs, and during that year we killed the balance of the wild horses that roamed the I O A pastures.

Rounding Up in Lubbock.

During the same year but later, the round-up outfit was camped in the canyon, about two hundred yards east of where the stock pavilion is located in our fair grounds. The roundup was to be the next day on the section of land where the city of Lubbock now stands. We had some fifty horses hobbled out. The next morning while we were getting ready for the day's work, we noticed that a big sorrel horse was missing from the "Remuda," and after getting the boys off on the round-up, I started on a hunt for the missing horse. I concluded that he had fallen in with a bunch of mustangs, and sure enough about five miles northeast I saw a bunch of these horses.

When a tame horse attempted to join a bunch of these wild horses, the mustangs would not let him get too close to them for a day or so, until they had, as it were, proved him. As soon as the mustangs saw me they began to run, and about one hundred yards behind them I saw the horse I was hunting. I wanted to cut him off from the mustangs and in order to do this, I let my horse out at full speed. But when I got within some fifty yards of the horse I was after and saw that I was not going to be able to head him off and separate him from the mustangs, and knowing that if he got away with them, we would lose him, I pulled my forty-five and shot at the horse. I hit him on the jaw, but for some reason the bullet, being a spent one I presume, did very little damage.

Bullet Successful

However, it did what I wanted done. As soon as he was hit the horse turned around and ran all the way back to the "Remuda" at the camp. The scar from the spent bullet remained visible as long as the horse lived.

Those were great days, full of hard work, and at the same time they were days of enjoyment. It was interesting work and many amusing things happened from time to time, such as only a man acquainted with the range could enjoy.

It is a far cry from the big I O A cattle ranch, one of the largest in the West, of 1889, to the busy, hustling cities of Lubbock and Slaton.

Uncle Sam Fights Seal-Killing Whale

TACOMA.—Uncle Sam has a little war on his hands. The United States Coast guard has been notified to use gunfire against orcas, or killer whales, suspected of attacking the fur seal herds on the Pribilofs.

The orca, said to be the most ferocious animal in the world, is a species of whale twenty-five feet long and weighing about a ton. Its favorite game is whales of other species and the young of seal. In Bering sea, their cruising ground, near the fur seal rookeries, the orcas grab the seal pups when they go into the water. As many as twenty of these potential fur coats have been found in the stomach of a single orca.

So serious has the menace to fur seal industry become that the bureau of fisheries has requested the coast guard cutters to attempt bombarding the killers when they are seen floating on the surface of the sea.

From three to half a dozen orcas often will attack a blue whale, sixty feet long. They act simultaneously, biting chunks out of their victim's flesh and hanging onto its lip until the cavernous mouth opens, the tongue offering a choice repast for the killers.

RIP VAN WINKLE

BELGRADE.—A Rip Van Winkle in real life has been discovered in the person of one Franja Kreiner. He had lived for 22 years hidden in one room of a large deserted house.

When he emerged the other day he did not know there had been a World war, he thought the Emperor Franz Josef was still alive, and he had never seen an automobile. He was amused by present-day masculine clothing. The hermit returned to his room without seeing any women.

Recently Kreiner was discovered. Naturally he was thought insane, but tests proved him sane and extremely clever. Twenty-two years ago Kreiner disappeared after a broken romance, and everyone thought he had left the country. He kept one servant to bring him water and the plainest sort of food.

Shoes often mildew in warm, weather, especially in a dark closet. They are not so likely to do so if kept on shoe-trees or stuffed with paper, and stored in a well-ventilated, dry, light place. Mildew can be washed off with warm water and soap.

NERVES

Went to Pieces

"I suffered a long time, before I tried Cardui," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 130 "K" St., Anderson, S. C.

"I was badly run-down in health. My nerves 'went to pieces', and I had to go to bed.

"I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room.

The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild.

"One day I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it. It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable my family and friends were delighted."

Try Cardui for your troubles.

Wood-Chopping Still Ex-Kaiser's Pastime

COLOGNE.—The former kaiser works hard from early morning till late at night, declared Count von Finkstein, the former monarch's adjutant general, in an address before the League of Germany Conservatives.

His estate at Doorn comprises about thirty acres, and to keep up a court-like household the deposed emperor requires the services of four adjutants, with alternating shifts, who are said to have their hands full continually.

"I, for instance," the count declared, "have a secretary, whose time is entirely taken up with addressing and dispatching letters." The four adjutants take turns representing the former kaiser at governmental and administrative functions.

When not receiving visitors or devoting himself to his correspondence or "letter books," the speaker said, "his majesty works busily in his garden or park, chopping wood for hours because it is a very healthy exercise."

The former kaiser's health on the whole was described as excellent, although it was said that the dampness of the Dutch climate had made him very susceptible to colds. In conclusion, the count remarked that Wilhelm would never return to Germany unless the German people called him.

Bar Familiar "Thou" In Paris Hospitals

PARIS.—The familiar form of address, the singular of "you," used toward children, servants and inferiors, is barred from the hospitals of Paris.

This form, used in a quite different sense from the old "thou" in English, implies a condescension that is offensive to patients, says the order of Dr. Louis Mourier, head of the public relief department. The instructions are issued to the nurses and internes, but doctors are expected to take the hint.

The war put millions of people in close contact and broke social barriers while peacetime economic upheavals badly disarranged the class system. The formal plural "vous" was turned on very short acquaintance into the familiarity of "tu," but many people resent the informality or the implication of superiority.

Glacier Due To Fall Into The Pacific Soon

JUNEAU, Alaska.—Mid-summer tourists may expect to witness one of the biggest splashes the Pacific has ever displayed, when Hubbard Glacier, largest of the group in Disenchantment bay, whose sea cliff extends five miles across the face will tumble part of its ice into the sea.

Owing to the slow movement of Hubbard Glacier icebergs are not born every year from its sea cliff but once in several seasons. Due to favorable weather conditions and the advancement of several years toward the deep water of the bay it is expected a huge discharge of ice will occur.

Beans Found In Old Jar Planted, Thrive

ALPINE.—While exploring a cave of an ancient cliff-dweller in New Mexico, J. A. Pruitt, of Santa Rita, found a jar filled with beans of extraordinary size. It is estimated that the beans had been undisturbed in the receptacle for 800 to 1,000 years. Pruitt sent a few of the beans to his sister, Mrs. A. G. Prude, of Alpine, and she planted them.

Much to her surprise, they sprouted and are up and doing well. If the plants continue to thrive and bear a crop, it may mean the introduction to the Southwest of a species of beans of which nothing is now known.

How Measure Length Of Fish Is Puzzle

OLYMPIA, Wash.—How to find the length of fish is now one of the world's puzzles. When University of Washington sages failed to agree over the method, Judge Chester A. Batchelor was left to decide. Professor E. Victor Smith declares that since the state game law does not specify, the proper way to measure fish is from tip of head to tip of tail. But Dean John Cobb, of the College of Fisheries, declares, "The proper way to measure a fish is from the point of 'V' in his tail to the end of the lower lip."

Judge Batchelor will decide if Roy Jensen was justly charged with selling fish under the legal minimum.

The use of cod liver oil in the feeding of livestock has increased its demand to such a degree that imports last year exceeded $2,500,000 gallons, valued at nearly $2,000,000.

A TRUE STATEMENT

OF THE
Record and Qualifications

OF

CANDIDATE FOR THE OFFICE OF

District Judge

99TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT COURT

OF

THINK!

JUDGE NORDYKE is candidate for District Judge of the 99th Judicial District, and believing that he is, in every sense of the word fitted in temperament, education and moral character to fill the office of District Judge with honor to himself and credit to the office, he bases his candidacy upon his own merits, record and qualifications.

EDUCATION—Charles Nordyke is a graduate of Cumberland university, one of the oldest law schools in America—a school which has furnished more real lawyers of note, judges of the Supreme Court, U. S. Senators and Congressmen than any other law school in the United States.

WHY THIS—For the lack of some substantial criticism, Judge Nordyke has been criticized for choosing this school to round out his legal education. For this reason, a few of the more prominent personages (many of them are known to you) who are also graduates of the law department of Cumberland university, are listed below: Howell E. Jackson and Horace H. Lurton, United States Supreme Court Judges; T. P. Gore of Oklahoma, Joe Bailey of Texas, former United States Senators; W. H. Lightfoot and Ben H. Looney, former Attorney-Generals of Texas; James B. McCreary, Governor of Kentucky; Judge William Poindexter of Texas; Cordell Hull, member of Congress and Chairman of the Democratic National Party; John W. Burgess, Dean of Columbia University Law School, N. Y.; S. Arakawa, Professor of Imperial University, Japan; Duval West, U. S. District Judge, and thousands of others of equal standing. It isn't the school that makes the man or lawyer or judge, but the alumni does make the reputation of the school. That's why Cumberland University is known and recognized as one of the outstanding and leading law schools in the United States.

PRACTICAL—He has been actively connected with the District and County Courts of the State of Texas for more than ten years; he knows law, he knows court procedure, and he knows how to clear a court docket and keep it clear.

DO YOU KNOW that the same law and the same rule of procedure govern the trial of civil and criminal cases in the County Court as those which govern the trial of cases in the District Court, and if correctly applied, few appeals will be taken from the decisions of the trial court?

JURISDICTION—The County Court, over which Judge Nordyke has presided two terms, has jurisdiction to try criminal cases, carrying penalties of two years in jail and $1,000.00 fine or less, all civil cases under $1,000.00; also all condemnation suits, though they may involve millions of dollars, as well as all probate cases, regardless of the amount involved.

NUMBER OF CASES—Judge Nordyke has correctly tried, and disposed of more cases, as Judge of the County Court, than have been filed in both District Courts of Lubbock County in the past four years.

CONCURRENT JURISDICTION—Our District and County Courts have had concurrent jurisdiction of several hundred cases tried in Judge Nordyke's Court. These cases could have been filed either in the District Courts or the County Court. Lawyers and litigants chose his Court. There must have been a reason.

CIVIL CASES—He has tried more than 1,000 civil cases, as County Judge. He has had only 31 appeals from his decisions, and of these only 7 were reversed. Litigation is ended by a correct judgment in the trial court.

CRIMINAL CASES—He has tried more than 500 criminal cases, including pleas of guilty—numerous trials being hotly contested and severe penalties inflicted. There have been only three appeals from these decisions. Only one of which has been reversed.

Lawyers are quick to appeal only when they have a fair chance of reversing the trial court. If the trial court will try all cases fairly and render a correct decision, there will be few appeals from its decisions.

APPEALS—Although Judge Nordyke has tried more than 1,500 cases—criminal, civil, probate and condemnation suits—he has had only 34 appeals from his decisions, and of these only 8 were reversed. His record as Judge of the Law has never been surpassed by any Judge in West Texas.

JUVENILES—A number of boys and girls have been brought before Judge Nordyke. Each case was carefully investigated. In nearly every instance the child has been deprived of one of its parents, through divorce or some other unfortunate circumstance, and the child had never known the sanctity of a real home. Notwithstanding severe criticism, Judge Nordyke gave each child a chance with someone who understood and loved children to help direct its way, requiring that regular reports be given him. He is PROUD that these children are making good, that his judgment has been vindicated and that these children have been saved to society. There are only seven exceptions, and these seven have been sent to the State Training School as incorrigibles.

DOCKET—Judge Nordyke keeps his Court Docket cleared and uncongested. He will do as much for the District Court as he has done for the County Court.

AS JUDGE—While he insists that every person charged with a criminal offense have a fair and impartial trial, yet he always insists on a vigorous prosecution of every case.

TEMPERAMENT—Judge Nordyke is of a genial, courteous and friendly disposition—quiet, unassuming and free from egotism, yet firm in his convictions and positive in his manner and decisions. He knows human nature—is well grounded in legal and business principles and knows Court Procedure—all of which are necessary qualifications and, in a large measure, accounts for the few appeals from his decisions and judgments.

CIVIC—He is a devout Christian and leader in his Church; stands for law enforcement in its strictest sense, for progress in its every nature. He is honest, fearless, keen of thought and action. He believes the laws can be enforced; that people want them enforced. He enforces them and will continue to enforce them. He is a leader, works with his associates, but does not try to drive them, and therefore, has the confidence and respect of all who know him.

AS DISTRICT JUDGE he will see that the burden of jury service is equally shared by all; that jurors, when called, will be used. He will save thousands of dollars in jury service alone, to say nothing of the jurors' time. He will try all cases without regard to any political effect. He will clear the Court Docket, and keep it clear, and at the same time, create fear and respect for the laws in those who choose to violate them. He will make you as good a District Judge as he has County Judge, and will do it with less effort.

There is no man in West Texas better qualified for District Judge than Judge Nordyke. He is ideally fitted for the office, from a legal, moral, and intellectual standpoint.

TO VOTE for Judge Nordyke is to vote for the best interests of Lubbock County.

PICTORIAL LIFE OF HERBERT HOOVER

No. 3 By Satterfield

1. On August 13, 1874, Herbert Clark Hoover was born in West Branch, Iowa. He had one brother and a sister.

2. As a boy, Herbert loved all sports and outdoor pastimes. In winter he delighted in snow sports.

3. Herbert's father died when he was six, and Aunt Agnes took him on a visit to Oklahoma.

4. The boy's playmates during this visit were little Osage Indian boys, who taught him many Indian sports.

Canada Puts Stop On Liquor Sale

TORONTO.—Ontario is putting the brakes on the free sale of liquor.

In a serious effort to halt abuse of legal buying privileges of unlimited quantities of hard "hooch," the liquor control board has just issued instructions to all permit clerks and liquor vendors that their business is to control liquor, not to increase sales. They are cautioned not to sell relatively large quantities to poor people; they are warned to halt sales to those they have every reason to believe are drinking too much.

No new rules are laid down, but the official bartenders of Ontario are warned to use their judgment. In a statement just issued Sir Henry Drayton, new chairman of the liquor board, says: "Vendors and clerks must realize that the object of the act is twofold. On the one hand, to stop the activities of the bootlegger and to transfer as much as possible his enormous gains to the people of the province.

Profits "Secondary to Service" "On the other hand, a matter of as great if not indeed greater importance, to regulate and, as much as possible, control the use of liquor, to prevent sales where they ought to be prevented and thereby improve social conditions to the fullest extent possible. Officers will please realize that profits in their stores are subsidiary to public service, and that proper service demands the most careful scrutiny and control of purchases."

Sir Henry announced that 2,973 permits have been canceled and intimated that hundreds more would be canceled if abuses were not stopped.

Cancellation of a permit means that the former holder can no longer purchase liquor, or even possess it legally. A friend who buys liquor for him is liable to heavy fines. For him the days of prohibition have returned. His chances of slaking his thirst are even worse than under prohibition, for police have his name and there is no place where he may legally keep liquor.

Need for More Control. It is generally admitted that there is need for tightening the control of government liquor sale. It was expected that the first few months would see more drinking than under prohibition. The expectation was realized. Conditions now, however, are steadily improving.

Attorney General William H. Price announced that figures so far this year compare very favorably with pre-control statistics. There have been fewer drunks convicted in Toronto, Hamilton, London and Ottawa in 1928 under legal liquor sale than in the same period of 1927 under prohibition. Every month shows a steady gain, supporting the government's contention that control is better temperance than prohibition.

Simmons To Debate An Australian Team

ABILENE.—A contract for a debate with the University of Australia, Eydney, has been signed by representatives of Simmons university. The contest will be held here some time next fall.

This is the second international debate in as many years for the debates of the Abilene university. Last fall they met and defeated Cambridge university of England.

Prince of Wales Is Airplane Enthusiast

LONDON.—The Prince of Wales has taken to the air.

Much interest was reflected in the British press recently when it was reported that the Prince had made a flight from London to Norwich. In reporting the event, many London papers stressed that the flight was made to keep a pressing engagement, which the Prince otherwise would not have been able to keep. The impression left with the English public at first was that the Prince wouldn't do it again, or at least not often and only when the circumstances made it impossible for him to travel in any other fashion. It is learned, however, that by special arrangement a plane is to be at his disposal at all times in assisting him to keep his engagements. The plane, a D N moth, will have its home hangar at the Stag Lane air-drome.

Ten Million Ducks Are Killed Annually

GENEVA.—From six to ten million ducks were killed in the United States last year, says Dr. T. Gilbert Pearson, of New York, president of the American Audubon societies, who made fervent appeal for better protection of birds during the international conference here on bird protection.

Dr. Pearson created a stir when he said that one American sportsman had killed more than 50,000 ducks. Dr. Uchida, the Japanese delegate, reported that more than 500,000 ducks had been killed in Japan in six months.

The conference decided that commercialization of food and plumage birds, with inexcusable disregard for the lives of other species of the feathered tribes, is the greatest menace to wild bird life.

Simmons Stadium Will Be Erected

ABILENE.—The contract for the new steel stadium to be erected at Simmons university was let late last week to R. C. Lewis, local contractor, and construction will begin at once on the first unit which is to be completed before September 22, the date of the first home football game of the Simmons Cowboys.

The first unit will cost $15,000 and seat 5,000 people, making the total seating capacity of Parramore field 10,000 for the coming football season. Several high school games will probably also be played on the Simmons grid.

The stadium, as planned, when completed, will seat nearly 20,000 people and give Simmons the largest stands in West Texas.

The new playing field is to run north and south and the first unit will be erected on the west side of the field.

Tech Second Summer Term Begins July 16

LUBBOCK.—The second term of the summer session of Texas Technological college will begin Monday, July 16, with registration of new students. With 850 students on the campus for the first term it is expected that the total enrollment will be considerably over 1,000 for the summer. This is an increase of about 75 per cent over last summer.

Preparations are under way for the annual summer trip to the Carlsbad caverns on July 2, 3 and 4. Several hundred will make the trip. This has come to be a feature of the summer session.

Coyotes Destroying Watermelon Crops

RAYMONDVILLE.—Coyotes are destroying the watermelon crop of many farmers of this section. The animals have a great liking for juicy, ripe melons, and at night they invade the fields and feast on those that are just ready for shipment. The fact that the watermelon farms are bordered by a wilderness of chaparral which is the habitat of coyotes and other wild animals makes it difficult to protect the crop against the raids. Skunks also seem to prefer ripe watermelons to almost any other kind of food, and they are almost as troublesome as coyotes.

Boys Take Names Girls To Fool Evil Spirits Of Chinese

FOOCHOW, China.—"What's in a name?" Much, the Chinese think, if it can fool "devils and malignant spirits" into believing that a boy is a girl and therefore into leaving him alone, since they supposedly pay scant attention to girls.

"Spring-sister" is the name of a sturdy full-grown coolie who does heavy work at an American missionary's home. "Little Girl" is the boss of a crew of sedan chair carriers. "Little Sister," who is married and has several children, works as table boy in another missionary's home. The spirits that might have troubled these three are those of hateful departed relatives, but they are supposed to be safe from them now.

Names also tell of the calamity of having no boys at all in a family. "Leudie," which means "Lost Little Brother," is the name of a sixth of a row of girls and another tailender of the same gender bears the name of "Mo Huak," which means, "It's fated. There is no hope."

Dickens' First Love Was Wilful Coquette

LONDON.—When Charles Dickens was eighteen he became acquainted with three daughters of George Beadnell, a banker. With one of them, Maria (the original Dora in "David Copperfield"), who was a year his senior, he immediately fell in love and Maria flirted with him very desperately. But the love making of the future novelist was not treated very seriously for he was not considered by any means an eligible party and even Maria, herself, adopted an attitude of amused tolerance.

For three years the affair went on and then Dickens realized that his case was hopeless. He pleaded in vain with the girl, whose caprices maddened and gladdened him alternately, for, as a matter of fact, Maria Beadnell was a wilful coquette.

The end of it all was a reply that held out no hope and so the parting came. For twenty years they saw no more of one another. Ultimately Maria Beadnell was married to Henry Winter and when Dickens met her again time had wrought sad havoc on his youthful ideal. Mrs. Winter wrote to her old lover, but Dickens did not care to renew a correspondence with his old sweetheart. Then Mr. Winter failed and the chagrined wife appealed to the lover of her girlhood for help, but without avail. The romance ended long before Mrs. Winter's death, in 1886.

MORE PAPER SCRAPS

Secretary of State Kellogg has recently made public his draft of a treaty which proposes to outlaw war, and his note inviting fourteen nations to join the United States in signing the covenant.

Probably Mr. Kellogg has forgotten that Kaiser William Hohenzollern of Germany called treaties he had made "scraps of paper," and refused to abide by them.

When this attitude is taken, treaties are nothing more than that — "scraps of paper." It is rather an ironic thing that the only ones who are willing to abide by treaties are the ones who are not the aggressors in any controversy.

The law of this nation is strong enough that individuals can be made to abide by written agreements, but a powerful nation can abrogate any treaty by a declaration of war if it feels pugnaciously inclined.

The chief deterrent to any future war of world-wide consequence is that war is no longer profitable. Seizure of lands and treasure was once the animating force behind all wars. Conquest was the aim, and victory was profitable to the victor.

Modern methods of warfare have eliminated this. It costs enough to wage a war as years of peace can repay. Nor is war the sport that it once was. Knights in armor charging in battle are far more romantic than deadly gases, long range guns which belch forth destruction, and other methods of modern battle.

Secretary Kellogg should be given every support in his idea, but it is likely that war is beyond the pale of law; and can be regulated only by the use of common sense.

The Arrow and the Song.

I shot an arrow into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For, so swiftly it flew, the sight
Could not follow it in its flight.

I breathed a song into the air,
It fell to earth, I knew not where;
For who has sight so keen and strong,
That it can follow the flight of song?

Long, long afterward in a
long, long, afterward in a
I found the arrow, still unbroke;
And the song, from beginning to end,
I found again in the heart of a friend.
—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

History Society Is Given Indian Relics

CANYON.—Valuable collections in the form of ancient Indian pottery have recently been deposited by Mrs. W. G. Baxter with the Panhandle-Plains Historical society. There are twelve well preserved pieces of pottery and many fragments.

Mr. and Mrs. Baxter made valuable additions to their already priceless collection of more than eight hundred pieces a short time ago when they deposited various Indian relics with the society. The pottery was obtained by Mrs. Baxter from the Rio Grande region of New Mexico. The archeological interests of the society have doubled in value due to the work of the Baxters in this line.

Other relics which were recently given were: A fine specimen of a large metate which was used by the Indians to grind their corn; three awls; two flint drills; two beads; one trinket; a peculiarly interesting Indian skull; one grinder, and a $50.00 bill of Texas republic money.

Young dairy heifers should at all times have plenty of roughage which is best furnished in late spring and summer, by green pasture. In addition, enough grain should be fed so that the heifer develops steadily and gains from one to one and one-half pounds a day. If skim milk is plentiful and cheap, it may be fed advantageously to the dairy heifer until she is eight or ten months old.

Loneliest Island Becomes a "Port"

CAPE TOWN.—Tristan da Cunha, once the loneliest island in the world, is becoming a regular port of call for huge liners carrying tourists around Africa. The Empress of France, which has arrived in Table Bay, brought the latest news from the island.

Dr. J. W. Edgar, a passenger who landed with several of the liner's officers, declared the islanders were badly in need of relief when the Empress of France arrived. Fortunately the weather was good and twenty tons of food and clothing were sent on shore.

150 People on Island.

The Rev. R. A. Pooley, who went to Tristan eleven months ago with a lay assistant, had met no one from the outside world since his arrival. He gave Dr. Edgar a favorable report about the life of the little community of 150 people. There had been only one death since the last ship called—a little girl had fallen down the mountain and been killed. The people have enjoyed the superb health made possible by the fern-free atmosphere of the South Atlantic.

The islanders approached Dr. Edgar with bullock horns, shells and penguin feathers, which they wished to barter for food and clothing. They had no use for money. Many of the islanders rowed out to the liner in their canvas boats and tasted ice cream for the first time.

Dr. Edgar was impressed by the physique of the islanders, especially their very fine teeth. He thought, however, that their mentality had suffered through their isolation. There was no insanity, but their outlook on life was extremely limited. Only a few of the older people had ever been away from the island.

Dr. Pooley, in a letter recently received, said: "The islanders welcomed me as a leader outside their own circle. There is no need to abandon Tristan da Cunha, for a profitable trade in whales, fish and seabirds' eggs could be built up. If Britain gives up the island, some other nation would quickly seize it. Norway would be glad to establish a whaling station here.

Need Wood for Homes.

"Lazy people do not exist here. The men could work as well as any other men in the world if they had up-to-date tools. They very soon built our house with the wood we brought from South Africa. The next job is the erection of a school. We need wood, tar and zinc for roofing. We are the poorest folk in the world, and cannot help begging.

"I married three couples recently, using a gramophone in the pulpit, as the organ had broken down. Dancing on the island is a scream. The islanders take short steps, then suddenly turn around. The fox-trot will reach us in fifty years' time."

Dr. Pooley considers that some of the islanders should be removed to South Africa, as a state of over-population is rapidly being reached. Like other missionaries on the island, he pleads for an annual visit from a British man-o'-war.

Stores landed at Tristan included 1,800 pounds of flour, 1,100 pounds of sugar, 400 pounds of tea, 500 pounds soap, 500 pounds of rolled oats, 150 pounds of tobacco, several gramophones and records, and several harmonicas. The American tourists made generous contributions.

It is essential that my car should always operate properly and accordingly I use Champion Spark Plugs.

Champion is the better spark plug because it has an exclusive sillimanite insulator specially treated to withstand the much higher temperatures of the modern high-compression engine. Also a new patented solid copper gasket-seal that remains absolutely gas-tight under high compression. Special analysis electrodes which assure a fixed spark-gap under all driving conditions.

Strange Fish Takes Voyage Under Ships

HAVRE.—The strangest fish ever seen in the port of Havre, according to some versions, has been labelled a "cycloptere lompe." It is all height and no width and is said to be an insatiable voyager around the world. Rarely is one of these fish found alone. Nearly always it is with its mate, and the two wander together over the ocean floor. They do their journeying, however, with neither cost nor effort to themselves, for they attach themselves to the bottoms of ships. In this way they move serenely from coast to coast. Sometimes they borrow the underside of a whale for their gypsying.

Whenever they find themselves over a particularly luscious acre of sea bottom they loose themselves from their caravel, staying there a while and moving pleasantly on, following their inclinations and the passing overhead of a chance ship, or shark or larger whale.

Venezuelan Autos Have Three Horns

CARACAS.—Venezuela's laws require every automobile to have two horns, but the really well equipped cars carry three, making the country a good market for such accessories. The law demands a hand horn for city driving and an electrically-operated signal for use on country roads. Drivers in mountainous territory add a third, operated by a button placed conveniently near the left knee, to permit quick or constant operation on steep grades and sharp curves.

King Boris Says He Is Too Busy To Get Married

SOFIA.—King Boris of Bulgaria is the only monarch in the world who has never had a love affair. This explains why, today, at thirty-four, he is the only bachelor king in Europe.

The lonely young sovereign's life has been so ordered, from youth to maturity, that he has had little opportunity to cultivate the society of women. His autocratic father, the deposed Czar Ferdinand, who now lives in Coburg, denied him all diversions in order to train him for the duties of the throne. And the last fifteen years of his life have been so occupied by the World war and the duties of ruling the country that his social life has been neglected.

Too Busy to Wed.

"I am too busy putting Bulgaria's house in order to get married," said the genial ruler.

"Besides," he added, "Bulgaria is too poor at the moment to afford a queen. When we get on our feet I shall be prepared to embark on the sea of matrimony. We must first make sure that the throne is strong enough to 'support' two."

When the correspondent asked if there was any likelihood he would plight his troth with Princess Giovanna, twenty-two-year-old daughter of King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, Boris smiled and said evasively: "You see, in Bulgaria there is a custom that the sons in a family shall first get their sisters married off before they themselves take brides. As I still have my sister Eudoxia on my ahnds, the question of my own wedlock must wait."

Called Democratic Ruler.

King Boris is as democratic as his father was autocratic. His charming simplicity, gentle nature, buoyant enthusiasm and unblemished character have made him the idol of the Bulgarian people. Where his severe father commanded the respect and fear of the people, Boris has won their love.

He may be seen any day driving his American-built automobile through the towns of Bulgaria, where he is as well known for his daredevil speed as the Prince of Wales is noted for his bold horsemanship. Boris knows every inch of his little kingdom. Every one of Bulgaria's 6,000,000 peasants is on speaking terms with the king, whom they call their "Little Father."

Unannounced he frequently turns up on their farms in an American golf suit and cap and discusses their problems with them.

Although King Boris in another few months will have been on the throne ten years, he has never been formally crowned. This is due to the poverty of the country, which the peace treaties left dismembered and bankrupt.

Never Formally Crowned.

"I suppose the coronation will take place," said the potentate, "only when a queen shares the throne with me. But until we restore the prosperity of the country both my wedding and coronation must be deferred."

In spite of the fact that he has palaces at Sofia, Vrania, Euxtograd and Sitnyakowo, the bachelor king lives a very uneventful and modest existence. He is undoubtedly the loneliest sovereign in the world. The only time he entertains is when he gives the customary royal receptions to government officials and the diplomatic corps.

Intelligent, hard-working and intensely earnest, King Boris received a sound education, which he owed chiefly to his mother, the Princess Marie Louise of Bourbon-Parma, beloved by her people for her goodness and gentle character, who died in 1899. Boris graduated from the Sofia Military academy and fought in the Balkan war of 1912 and in the World war, in which, entering with the rank of major, he emerged as a full general. When only twenty-four he replaced his father on the Bulgarian throne.

Cordial to Americans.

To American visitors King Boris shows marked cordiality and friendship. When the correspondent arrived in Sofia the king despatched one of his American automobiles with his

- MOTT'S SANDWICH SHOP
- For the Best in Fountain Service.
- and Keg Beer, Hot Dogs, Chili, Sandwiches, and other Quick Lunches.
- On West Side of Ninth Street

secretary to the hotel to bring the correspondent to the royal palace at Vrania, just outside Sofia.

"How do you do? I am glad to see you again," said the youthful monarch in perfect English as he walked down the long graveled path to the gate of the palace grounds to greet the American visitor.

Displaying pride in the magnificent flowers, ferns and trees in the royal grounds, most of which he planted himself, the king next showed his visitor through the palace buildings. One of these is a full-fledged menagerie, where the king's pets are three giant Indian elephants, which he feeds every day. He is a great lover of all animals.

That a grown-up sovereign can have toys just as much as children was observed by the correspondent when the king gave him a ride in his narrow-gauge Decauville railway, which encircles the palace grounds. The king, during his few leisure moments, plays with the miniature locomotives, coaches and freight cars forming the equipment of his railroad with as much joy and enthusiasm as an American boy finds in toying with a "scooter."

Specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture have found that when a farmer keeps accounts he has the best guide for improvement of his business. Farm accounts show which of his activities have proved most profitable, and which have been conducted with little profit or loss. The farmer is then able either to concentrate on the profitable ventures or to substitute other activities which may bring good profits for those that have not been profitable.

No Fixed Season In Mexico For Straws

MEXICO CITY.—Straw hats and overcoats, either or both, together or separately, are worn the year around in Mexico City, according to individual taste.

There is no fixed date for commencing to wear straws, no dead line when they must be abandoned. More straws are worn in the summer than in the winter, but there are plenty of men here wearing straws on Christmas Day, and every day of the year.

The term high brow is said to have been first used by the writer Will Irwin.
