Mr. Forrest has a fine herd of Hereford cattle on range on his ranch near here, and the huge feed crop of this summer has encouraged him to prepare to feed his cattle through the winter months. Six trenches have been opened, each with a capacity of 150 to two hundred tons, and they will be filled as con as possible.

Davis has not so much feed to put up, but plans to fill two large trenches. The siling of feed has grown in popularity the past few years because of the safe storage possible under this plan. Moral: It's an Art To Know When to Fight

A loud, noisy and particularly objectionable skunk, obsessed by its own prominence and the attention paid to it, challenged a lion to single combat. The challenge was promptly declined by the lion. "Huhl" sneered the skunk, "You're afraid to fight me."
"No," answered the lion, coolly, "but why should I fight you? You would gain fame from fighting me, even though I gave you the worst licking of your life, as I would do. How about me, though? I couldn't possibly gain anything by defeating you while on the other hand, everyone who met me for a month would know I had been in the company of a skunk."

Miss College Girl Is Engaging Attention of Fashion Designers

away to school.

The style program arranged for Miss College Girl and her younger schoolgirl sister fairly teems with excitement. For instance, there is the new bustle dress. The idea has taken the collegiate set by storm. The quaint bustle dresses that grandmothers galavanted in as girls in the '80s are actually proving inspiration for frocks that the modern girl will wear this fall.

The highpoints of these oldtime

ern girl will wear this fall.

The highpoints of these oldtime silhouettes are being revived such as waistlines of vanishing inches, slim corseted midriffs and wide back-swirling skirts interpreted in novel bustle treatments but modified so cleverly they are made thoroughly practical and wearable for this day and age. Then there is the new vogue that calls for a velvet or velveteen jacket worn with a gay platied wool skirt or a contrasting or ed wool skirt or a contrasting or matched solid color as fancy dic-tates. The decided military air that the new fashions take on is also a big factor in the new mode and most outstanding of all is the im-portance attached to fine materials.

These and other significant style ion revue staged by the Style Crea-tors of Chicago. The three models pictured were especially applauded by the audience of visiting mer-chants as fashions that are repre-sentative of what the up-to-date fashion-alert girl will be selecting for her going-away-to-school ward-

The clever little date frock of shepherd check velveteen shown to the left in the group is sure to enjoy

Here is a smart version of the costume suit that combines plain woolen with gay tweed. The fitted jacket is of yellow and black tweed in a diagonal weave. Yellow and gold tones are held in high favor according to what is showing in advance Paris collections. The costume includes a jacket, swagger coat and skirt. This idea of both jacket and topcout done in matching color scheme is very practical. The saucer brim hat is of black felt.

a gay campus career. Its cunning tunic bustleback and its full circular-cut skirt gives it swank and distinction such as collegiate fashionables demand. Its red suede belt supplies a fetching dash of color. Approval for the new bustle-back dresses is assured for being interpreted in simple words, bustle-back is merely a way of saying "back fullness" achieved in ingenious ways that are conservative and wearable without being overdone. The suit to the right is very style-revealing, stressing as it does the continued triumph in the mode of richly colorful striped woolens. The stripes, the plaids and the marvelous artistry with which designers combine them with monotones in related tone simply hold one spell-bound. The gorgeous striped wool that fashions the costume suit keys to the smartest fall colors, harmonizing vibrant greens with luscious blackberry tones. The skirt is allaround pleated. The boxy jacket tops an emerald green velvet blouse closing with novel key-and-keyhole ornaments. An oversize quill tops closing with novel key-and-keyhole ornaments. An oversize quill tops the moss green sallor hat.

ornaments. An oversize quill tops the moss green sallor hat.
You may expect to see gay little velvet jackets dotted all over the college campus. The girl centered in the picture wears a snug black velveteen jacket quite military looking as so many of the newer fashions are, with a plaid pleated skirt that introduces an artful blend of grape, pink and yellow tones, climaxed with a sweater in warm yellow hues. Juniors, likewise college sophisticates, simply dote on the new plaids and stripes. A Scotch cap of black velvet with satin ribbon streamer, together with the plaid carries the message that fashions for young folks have gone very Scotch this season.

For many women, the most try-ing coat length of recent inspira-tion is the rather popular just-be-low-the-waist length that nips in at the midriff and hugs the hips.

It is a good style for a slender woman with a streamlined figure and is being shown in any number of varieties, of which one of the most popular is a monotone wool jacket worn over a gay print dress. But the problem is not so simple for those who border on plumpness.

One suggestion is that the slightly

HEZEKIAH: A KING WHO REMEMBERED GOD

LESSON TEXT—II Chronicles 30:13-22. GOLDEN TEXT—Turn us again, O God, and cause thy face to shine; and we shall be saved.—Psaim 80:3.

The way out—that seems to be the chief object of the search of men. The world is in what seems like hopeless confusion with the imminent danger of a devastating explosion which may in the judgment of some destroy civilization. Politics, economics, education, yes, even sellgion, have tried their hands at solving the problem and we seem to be worse off than ever. Conditions are much as they were when Hezekiah came to the throne after the death of his wicked father Ahab, who had brought Judah into moral, spiritual, and national declension and disgrace. The way out-that seems to be the and disgrace.

The young king brought the nation back within a few years to peace and prosperity. How did he do it? He did not do it. God did it, and He did it because Hezekiah remembered Him and led His people in a return to God, in a recognition of His Word, and to restored worship. God therefore prospered them.

It is significant that while our les-ship. God therefore prospered them.

It is significant that while our lesson is about King Hezekiah, his person quickly recedes into the background of our thinking and God is given our attention and our praise. Truly great men do not magnify themselves or their own names, but point by their very greatness to the sternal God to whom they give the glory. Let us consider how God worked through Hezekiah.

I. A Cleansed Temple.

Our lesson calls for attention to the context. Read chapter 29 and learn how the priests and Levites first were directed by the king to cleanse the temple which had suffered degradation and disgrace under King Ahab. Sixteen days were devoted to a thorough clean-up.

That's a good place to start.

That's a good place to start. America, how about cleaning up our churches? Some of them need attention to their physical property, cleaning and rehabilitation. Others are beautifully kept up as far as the building is concerned, but the rubbish is in the teaching and in the manner of worship. Let's clean that up too.

up too.

II. A Prepared Priesthood.

Hezekiah gathered the scattered priests and Levites, but he did not permit them to serve in the temple until they had been sanctified and prepared for their work. The men who stand in the sanctuary to direct the worship of God must not only be men of God's own choosing, but they must be cleansed by the blood. As the sacrifices were offered in Hezekiah's day, so for us has One been given in holy sacrifice, and unless those who profess to be His ministers have been cleansed by His blood they have no proper place in His service or in the sanctuary.

III. A Purified People.

His service or in the sanctuary.

III. A Purified People.

The people of the nation were not ready for God's blessing. Some of those in the northern kingdom, to whom the royal invitation had gracifiestly been extended to come to the Passover, scorned the invitation (30:10). There was nothing that could be done for them. But others humbled themselves and came (v. 11), and those in Judah came out in a great assembly (vv. 12, 13).

Observe carefully that this was

Observe carefully that this was more than a great homecoming or jubilee event. The people were here to worship God and they needed to be prepared by being "healed" of their sins (vv. 18, 20). They too needed the cleansing blood. It is the only way even now, for "without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin" (Heb. 9:22). Sin is Cut into wedges. what we must be cleansed from and Peel tomatoes, healed of if God is to bless our land. remove stem end, IV. A Feast of Joy and Blessing. and cut in to The nation and its leaders kept the eighths. Place in

The nation and its leaders kept the feast not only for seven days, for they were not satisfied with this, but they kept it for seven more days. Think of many of us who can hardly sit through an hour of service on Sunday morning, and if we also go to Sunday school we are quite worn out. It is just "impossible" for us to get to the Sunday evening service or to the midweek prayer meeting. Evidently we do not have the spirit of the people of Hezekiah's day or the joy that they found in their hearts as they worshiped God. If we did, we would seek His house and give ourselves gladly to His worship. The result would be that we would receive some of the great blessings which came to the people of Judah.

A money-saver for the bride consists of a two-skirt suit of very sheer wool or crepe, designed with a suave fitted jacket. The street-length skirt can be worn with the jacket and printed crepe or organdy blouses to make a smart runabout costume by day.

A floor-length skirt of the same material, combined with the jacket and a sheer chiffon blouse make a chic dinner costume for boat and hotel wear in the evening. blessings which came to the people of Judah.

The reading of II Chronicles 31 and 32 will reveal how God responded to the cry of His people and how He blessed and prospered them. He is the same God today and He can and will do wondrous things for those who trust and honor Him.

Commencest Faults
Some of the commonest faults of thought and work are those which come from thinking too poorly of our own lives and of that which must rightly be demanded of us.—Bishop Paget.

TASTY SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPERS (See Recipes Below)

Sunday Night Suppers

Even though you expect everyone to have had a noon meal with stay-ing power on Sundays, people do like to eat when Sunday evening rolls 'round! To be sure, they like food that's somewhat lighter, and food that's out of the ordinary. So it's a grand time to leave the beaten path and serve something a little different.

If you serve left-overs, be sure to serve them in a new way or with an unusual accompaniment like the jellied chilisauce I've suggested in menu No. III. If you plan a meal especially for Sunday night, plan one which can be served "help yourself" style and arrange foods, dishes and silver on the table so that guests may serve themselves. Appetites will be quickened by the eye-appealing arrangement of the table, and the air of informality makes Sunday night supper a sociable affair.

These menus are suited, too, to served.

These menus are suited, too, These menus are suited, too, to serving larger numbers — lodge groups, church organizations or clubs. Recipes for the main dish and salad in every menu are easily increased. Unless you have special recipes and equipment, cakes and pastries are likely to be better if the single recipe is used.

There are so many points to be considered in planning meals. One which is all too likely to be overlooked is this—that the dessert is more than something to satisfy the family's "sweet tooth"; it really plays an important part in the menu.

Strange Facts Bats Aren't Batty Set for Next World Swift Blow-Up

The only animals known to carry their lunches on journeys are certain species of hats, notably the Pipistrellus pygmaeus. They curl their talls into pouches, fill them with insects and feed while in flight.

On the day before a Chinese funeral, the family of the deceased purchase and burn a number of paper representations of horses, boxes of money, extra clothes and servants, which he or she will need in the next world. Incidentally, the shops selling this merchandise are usually known as "hell-equipment stores."

Nitroglycerin acts with such rapidity that if a five-mile pipe filled with it were detonated at one end the entire column would explode—and produce 10,000 times its own volume of gas—in about one second.—Collier's.

EXTRA SMOKES

Which cigarette gives the most actual smoking for your money? Here are the facts recently con-firmed through impartial labo-ratory tests of 16 of the larges-selling brands:

1 CAMELS were found to con-tain MORE TOBACCO BY WEIGHT than the average for the 15 other of the largest-sell-ing brands.

2 CAMELS BURNED SLOW-ER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED - 25% SLOWER THAN THE AVER-AGE TIME OF THE 15 OTHER OF THE LARGEST-SELLING BRANDS! By burning 25% slower, on the average, Camela give smokers the equivalent of 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

3 In the same tests, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER than the average time for all the other brands.

British-German Settlement Of Polish Issue Under Way; 'Appeasement' a Solution

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY HENRY W. PORTER

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

A self-explanatory map of the European continent, describing the ength of the Berlin-Rome axis with that of Great Britain, France and land. The strength in man power, planes and ships is shown by the inserted figures on the map.

EUROPE:

Appeasement?

A move to "appease" Hitler is definitely under way, according to reports from London and Berlin, as this is written. Continued prepara-tions for war, however, are reported from Poland, France and other European centers. The seeming contradiction of peace talk in the midst of these warlike maneuvers was not explained officially. Arrangements for a settlement between Great Britain and Germany over the Polish issue were well advanced, it was said in diplomatic circles.

Pressure was being put on Poland from London to accept the prelim-inaries which Hitler demands as a basis of settlement with the British. Hitler demanding Danzig and the Polish corridor before entering ne-gotiations. It was hoped in London to compel Poland to contact Berlin to compel Poland to contact Berlin immediately.

Berlin reported that Hitler had signed a treaty with Albert Forster, chief of the state of Danzig. The city is already virtually in possession of Hitler's men.

Hitler has named a special six man council for the defense of Germany. The council was given blanket authority to act on its own initiative, but he still may issue decrees and direct legislation through the reichstag.

reichstag.
Other developments in Germany included the authoritative statement included the authoritative statement that the German government "welcomes with extraordinary sympathy the offer of mediation by Queen Wilhelmina and King Leopold." The Germans indicated, however, mediation would not be considered pending the outcome of the discussion with British.

with Britain.

What is going on now is believed to be a war of propaganda, other-wise a gigantic game of bluff, with the game going to the best bluffer finally. However, Europe breathed a little easier and the hope was ex-pressed that war again has been sidestered

An inexplicable aspect of the situation is the French censorship.

French papers reach London with whole columns of white space marked "deleted by censor," just as in the World way. No comprunication marked "deleted by censor," Just as in the World war. No communication by telephone with Paris is possible, and yet from London one can telephone easily to Rome, Berlin and other parts of Europe.

No effect was given in London apparently to the appeal of Warsaw to Britain regarding the concentration of German troops on the border. Continuing their war propaganda.

Continuing their war propaganda, Germans assert that "a cave-in is unavoidable because 500,000 Rus-sians are threatening Poland's eastern flank while her western and southern borders are threatened by German forces preparing a formidable military placer movement that can be started at a moment's notice."

Developments leading up to the British offer for "appeasement" of Hitler were merely a repetition of the guessing and rumors that had kept the world in a turmoil.

New barriers in the way of a peaceful settlement of the Polish crisis were raised by Hitler in his latest note in the exchange of com-munications between the German dictator and Chamberlain. Diplo-matic circles which knew the con-tents of the reply, were frankly alarmed. Hitler again demanded the unconditional surrender of Dan-zig and the Polish corridor before he was willing to discuss interna-tional problems with other powers. Now he adds to his previous de-mands return of the former German lands of Posen and Polish Upper Silesia. latest note in the exchange of com

While England and Germany are While England and Germany are negotiating directly, Germany paid little attention to the efforts of the queen of the Netherlands and the king of Belgium in offering their services as mediators.

Events took an uglier turn in London while the Hitler note was being discussed. Aroused by the heavy concentration of troops on its southern frontier the Polish government decided to invoke the British guar-antees under the mutual assistance pact. The Polish communique said:

"The occupation of Slovakia by German troops represents an act of aggression against Polish vital in-terests and is considered a threat to Polish security.

Minister Chamberlain dumped the whole question of war or peace into Hitler's lap in an address in the house of commons. The tense but cheering members were told that Great Britain again had made it plain to Adolf Hitler its determination to fulfill its obligations to Poland and added that "the issue of peace or war is still undecided."
"We shall hold fast the line which we have laid down," he declared, as the house echoes with tremendous cheering. "We still will hope and still work for peace."

Without disclosing the details of the exchange, Chamberlain de-clared Great Britain delivered "our final answer" to a communication from Hitler; that "we have made plain that our obligations to Poland will be carried out," and that "at will be carried out, and that "at this moment the position is that we are waiting for Hitler's reply." The prime minister spoke in a firm and assured voice. At times almost buoyant, such as when he said: "At any rate we have not had to begin here by issuing ration cards."—an

Campaign Strategies, Plans

None knows, for example, whether the agreement between Stalin and Hitler is going to give the Russian lion a free hand in the Orient. That is to ask: can Stalin's forces now align themselves with China and force the Japanese back to their is-land homes? If so, there is a brand new proposition for us on the Pacific side. We have wanted, and still want, the market of China. But we have to play with the Soviet if, by chance, the conjectured change takes place and Hitler abandons his connections with Tokyo.

Thus, I think we are brought forcibly to the conclusion that the rec-ords made by the two major politi-cal parties thus far may constitute only a part of the things which the ever-puzzled voter may have to con-sider next year. It is made quite plain, it seems to me, that campaign strategies, plans, hopes, will have to undergo serious revision in the next few months. How they are revised is going to be dependent almost en-tirely upon the developments abroad. There is always the thought in the background that most people are interested in the things around them, not 3,000 miles away, and it is not going to be easy for the po-litical campaigners to know how much of a dose they showed attempt

There seems to be no doubt that developments between now and next June, for example, will have a vital effect upon Mr. Roosevelt's politi-cal fortunes. Most sound thinking men seem to agree on that. One hears discussions pro and con. Many wagers have been made around Washington that Mr. Roosevelt can not be elected, or even nominated, for a third term, but always there is the reservation "unless there is a war." Always, there is that reserva-tion "unless." I relate this, not be-cause it indicates more than the views of those making the bets, but because it illustrates how closely linked are our affairs with those of the rest of the world.

May Call Congress to

Revise the Neutrality Act

There is talk that Mr. Roosevelt will call congress into extra session to deal with international problems —and acting with Roosevelt sudden-ness, he may have issued the call two hours after this is written. He can not foresee them, nor has any-one been able to convince me of their ability to see that far into the

As I am able to examine the puz-zle of the future, therefore, I can see only a very difficult time shead for those who want to have a voice in their government. Of course, there is going to be a percentage of vot-ers, as always, whose convictions will be those of their political party.

But there is an increasing number of voters who would like to know what they are voting for or against:

why they are voting for one man over another. They probably constitute the blance of power in American politics, and if they do it is a splendid thing. Yet, I repeat they are going to have their hands full in trying to understand the issues next year. It is a tough propo-sition to learn what proposed poli-cies will do for or to us when those cies will do for or to us when those policies concern affairs close at home. It is just that much more perplexing when we are called upon to figure out what will happen when the issues of a campaign involve not only our own affairs but the affairs of other nations, as well. And it strikes me that next year would be a good time for political lead ers to start being honest about what they seek to accomplish:

Must Undergo Revision

WASHINGTON .- There is an in- | Take agriculture, for example. Our teresting offshoot of the several European crises that has begun to attract attention among political leaders. It has been practically 20 years since international affairs fluored to any extent in our domestic politics, but they threaten to do so next year. And upon the turn of events abroad, it appears, will depend the strength or lack of it shown by various presidential aspirants.

It may be that, in the short space of time between the writing of these lines and their publication in your local newspaper, another European crisis will have arisen and actual hostilities will have been started. It is possible, therefore, only to take a peek over the horizon and offer conjecture as to the effect upon our domestic partisan battles. There can be no doubt of the importance of the subject as a matter for thought, however, because: (1) if there is a European war, there will be the struggle between two very powerful forces to drag us in or keep us out, respectively; and (2) if there is no war abroad but a continued threat and continued disturb-ance of international relations, our domestic life will be constantly feeling the effects in one way or an-other. So, the situation shapes up that international affairs are likely that international affairs are likely to be vitally important in the matter of selection of party nominees next year, as well as in the election of one of the major party candidates to the presidency.

The condition warrants thought on the basis that it touches private lives. Private lives are concerned not only because of the ever-present.

not only because of the ever-present possibility when war stalks in the world that there may be blood shed by some of our people. The effect goes as well into our everyday af-fairs, the thing which the intelligencia usually calls our national econ-

When Political Leaders Took Wrong Side of Question

One needs to go back to 1920 to recall what happened to political leaders who took the wrong side of a question—the wrong side from a majority of the people. President Wilson's followers stood by him, as they should have done in those days. They committed the Democratic party to a position on the League party to a position on the League of Nations and the Versailles peace treaty that proved to be unpopular and a good many of them were en-gulfed in the flood of the unpopular-ity of that side of the question.

If there were complex conditions to be considered by voters and thought through in advance of the election of Warren G. Harding over James M. Cox at that time, the conditions then must be regarded as simple to what confronts America at this time. Nor is there any possibility of simplification of those problems. The bulk of the people can say, as I firmly believe the materials are times to be that we must jority sentiment to be, that we must stay out of foreign entanglements— must be isolationists—and there still will remain the influence of those foreign conditions upon our own life and living and means of making a living

But to be specific with respect to the political picture of presidential

The candidates now going about the country herding in delegate pledges or having their representathe country herding in delegate pledges or having their representatives do so have thus far proceeded, quite naturally, upon the basis of purely domestic questions. These questions include such as the Roosevelt money policies; the undoubted waste that has characterized the governmental spending; the regimentation of agriculture with its mentation of agriculture with its crop control in one place and crop expansion in another without apparent rhyme or reason; the su changes in national plans and the consequent instability and uncer-tainty. Others could be named, but these few suffice to illustrate the

Jealousy and Distrust

No Matter What Happens

Now, let us assume that actual ostilities have started abroad and that they extend into next year. Of what use is the political strategy now being employed by those seeking pledges of support? Or, assume that Hitler's rapacious plans have been satisfied. There still will be heat, abroad. There will be jealousy heat, abroad. There will be jealousy and distrust. There is the new pact between the slippery Stalin of Russia, and the blustering Hitler that neither will attack the other. There are now, and will continue to be, dissatisfied minorities in Central Europe complex who want to break rope, peoples who want to break away or who feel they have been used as pawns. There will be all of these and other things to keep the fires burning, a sort of an international poison ivy case.

whatever the conditions may be a vear from now, there is no way that I can see by which the United States an avoid consideration of policies o meet the circumstances generated by these several influences. Why?

"A Ride With Death"

H ELLO EVERYBODY:

Mary Billard of La Salle, Ill., is today's Distinguished Adventurer, and she wins that distinction-as well as the well-known ten bucks-with one of the most terrifying yarns I've seen in a long time.
It happened in 1913, when Mrs. Billard was Miss Mary

Blanch, a girl of twelve, and Mary says, "The La Salle papers called me a heroine at the time, and it was all quite exciting for a girl of my age, but it lost its thrill when I thought of my mother lying in a hospital in a critical condition, fighting the dangers of gangrene and lockjaw."

You can see from that statement of Mary's that there was tragedy in that episode as well as adventure. And it started with nothing but a common, ordinary buggy ride. There weren't so many automobiles in those days, and most of the streets were mere unpaved dirt roads.

Mary's dad had bought a horse that had spent all its life on race tracks and was hard to handle when hitched to a buggy. It had run away twice, and Mary's mother didn't drive it any oftener than she had to.

But there came a day when she felt she HAD to drive that horse. They had just moved into town, and Mary was finishing a term at a little country schoolhouse three miles out of La Salle. Mary's teacher was coming back with her that evening, so Mother Mother hadn't been feeling well all that day, but she made the trip to the schoolhouse without any trouble. They were all on their way to town, with Mary in the middle between her mother and the teacher, when, without warning, Mary felt her mother fall away from her.

Mary Looked Around and Saw Her Mother. She looked around just in time to see Mother topple from the seat and pitch headlong into the road. She had fainted.

But that was only the beginning of a disastrous train of events.

Mother had fallen out with the lines still clutched in her hands.

The sudden jerk on those reins, caused by her falling, frightened

"And with that leap," says Mary, "there started the fastest ride I had ever remembered in all my 12 years.

"We were horrified at the situation. The horse was plunging along at a full gallop, and my mother was being dragged face downward over stones and gravel, in a way that struck terror into my heart. The teacher and I were helpless.

"I pulled and jerked at the reins until I brought the horse to a stop."

"We called and screamed to mother, pleading with her to let go of the lines, but all our screaming was useless, for mother was in an un-conscious condition, clinging to those reins with a death grip while the horse dragged her along."

And, for half a mile, mother dragged along beside the reeling wagon, in imminent danger of rolling under the wheels, while up in the seat Mary and the teacher sat paralysed with fear, trying to hang on to the swaying, reeling buggy.

Mary says that buggy was running on two wheels a good part of the time. And at other times it seemed to be flying through the air, with nothing under the wheels at all.

Several men along the road had tried to stop the horse, but couldn't do anything with the crazed animal. At last, at the end of a half a mile, mother's hands loosened on the reins and the lines were free. They got between the horse's front legs, and that only served to frighten the

The Careening Carriage Flew Down the Road.

Still the reeling, careening carriage flew on. They had covered more than a mile, and now they were within a short distance of a narrow culvert, just outside of the business section of La Salle. There were pillars on either side of it, and it would be a miracle if the crazed horse got through that cramped space without wrecking the buggy,

The leacher was the first one to think of that culvert. She screamed to Mary that if the horse couldn't be stopped before they reached it they would both be killed.

"And with her voice still ringing in my ears," says Mary, "she rose to her feet, stood on them for a moment on the awaying floor of the buggy—and jumped! I shut my eyes as I heard her body hit the road, and thought that surely she must have been killed."

killed."

And now, Mary was left alone in that speeding buggy. She knew that, somehow, she had to get hold of those reins that were dragging down there beneath the horse's feet. Just a little way ahead, now, was the culvert. And even if the buggy did get through the culvert, it was certain to crash into something in the business district two blocks beyond. So, while the buggy reeled and swayed, Mary began climbing over the dashboard, onto the horse's back.

It was a desperate chance. Time and again Mary almost lost her hold in that precarious trip. The horse was slippery with foam and perspira-tion, and only by bracing her feet against the shaft did she manage to keep from being thrown into the road.

"I reached the horse's head," she says, "and the feel of my body on her seemed to frighten her all the more, and make her go faster than ever. But I got the lines from between her legs and started inching my way back to the buggy."

"I pulled and jerked at the reins until I brought the horse to a halt," she says, "and it stopped just a few feet in front of the dreaded culvert. A boy ran up to hold the animal, and I left the buggy and ran into town to get a doctor for mother. She was still unconscious when they brought her in, and to this day she carries, on the right side of her face, the terrible marks of that horrifying experience."

Mary says she's glad the horse and buggy days are over because-ell—because she wouldn't want any of her children to have such an experience. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

"I saw Mrs. Laramore yester-ay," he said, abruptly, "lovely as

"Yes, of course." Towne wished that Hallam wouldn't talk about Adelaide. He wished that all of the alone with Jane.

"Mrs. Laramore," said Jane un-expectedly, "makes me think of the lady of Shallott. I don't know why. But I do. I have really never seen such a beautiful woman. But she doesn't seem real. I have a feeling that if anything hit her, she'd break like china."

They laughed at her, and Edith said, "Adelaide will never break. She'll melt. She's as soft as wax." Then pigeonholing Mrs. Laramore for more vital matters. "Uncle Fred, I am going out to Baldy's studio; he's painting Jane."

Frederick was at once interested. "Her portrait?"

CHAPTER IX

"Janey-!"
"Yes, Baldy." Jane sat up in bed, dreams still in her eyes. She had been late in getting to sleep. There had been so much to think of-Frederick Towne's proposal—the startling change in Evans—
"It's a telegram. Open the door, dear."

She caught up her dressing-gown and wrapped it around her. "A telegram?" She was with him now in the hall. "Baldy, is it Judy?"

"Yes. She's ill. Asks if you can come on and look after the kiddles."

"Of course." She swayed a little. "Hold on to me a minute, Baldy, It takes my breath away."

"You mustn't be scared, old girl."

The next morning Baldy went to bring his car around, and Evans stood with his hand on the back of Jane's chair, looking down at her. "You'll write to me, Jane?"

"Oh of course."

"Oh, of course."
He shifted his hand from the chair back to her shoulder. "Dear little girl, if my blundering prayers will help you any—you'll have them."
She turned in her chair and looked that he had been should not speak up at him. She could not speak. Their eyes met, and once more Jane had that breathless sense of fluttering wings within her that lifted to the sun.

Then Baldy was back, and the bags were ready, and there was just that last hand-clasp. "God bless you, Jane . . ." Frederick Towne was at the train.

Frederick Towne was at the train.

He had been dismayed at the news of Jane's departure. "Do you mean that you are going to stay indefinitei?" he had asked over the wire.

"I shall stay as long as Judy needs me."

Frederick had flowers for her, books and a big box of sweets. People in the Pullman stared at Jane in the midst of all her magnificence. They stared too, at Towne, and at Briggs, who rushed in at the last moment with more books from Brentano.

Edith and Baldy were on the platform. Edith had come down with Towne. So Frederick, alone with Jane, said, "I want you to think of the things we talked about yesterday—"

Hawks Destroy Field Mice; Aid to Farmers

Nature is wise. She provided that | without these, farming would be imwhere the mortality in a species is high, the species is prolific. Such a prolific species is the field mouse. In winter field mice eat seed, seed that is needed for game birds and other wildlife. -AUTUMN SPORTS-

Football Is Serious Business But Here's the Funny Side

Each autumn, at risk of smashing their cameras, sports photographers get a classic assortment of pictures from the gridiron. They catch beautiful action plays, freak accidents, fumbles, penalty plays and quite a bit of rough stuff generally. The above pose, for example, is not one of endearment. Jack Williams of Santa Clara is merely using a high tackle to down St. Mary's giant, Mike Klotovich. Jack is probably saying, "Beg your pardon, Mike." And Mike answers, "Not at all, Jack" . . . maybe, but we doubt it.

I'll huff and I'll puff and I'll shove-and blow your ballplayer down. This is one way to break up a passing attack, but don't try it while the referee's watching. The trick, preserved for posterity by your photographer, cost Georgetown a neat 15-yard penalty in its game with Hampden-Sidney last autumn. Yes, Sylvia, it's against the rules. But Georgetown won 51 to 0, anyway.

Shelf Edging Dresses Up Kitchen Windows

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

SOME of us can remember seeing our mothers cut scalloped shelf papers. Dextrously they folded and snipped the edge in points or curves; sometimes adding a cut out diamond in the center of each scallop. For many there is more satisfaction in this creation of their own hands, than in using fancy lace edge paper by the roll. Today, we find that same satisfaction when we choose oilcloth shelf edgings—thinking in terms of color has a fascination even beyond scallops with diamonds in the center.

The suggestion sketched here for using shelf edging to dress up kitchen windows was sent in by a reader. The busy homemaker will appreciate the fact that the curtains are perfectly straight and plain and easy to remove for laundering. When windows and shelves match the effect is especially good. Banded towels may be of the same color, and tin containers for bread, sugar, and spices may be painted with bright enamel, to match.

The new Sewing Book No. 3 by Mrs. Spears is packed full of useful, money saving ideas, that almost any homemaker may put to practical use. Every idea is clearly illustrated with large sketches. You will be fascinated with the variety of interesting things to make for the home and for gifts. The price is only 10 cents postpaid. Send coin with name and address to Mrs. Spears, 210 S.
