Mr. Bert Roby, one of the proprie-tors of the Portales Herald, and en-gaged extensively in the manufacture gaged extensively it the manufacture of the cement blocks which have be-come so famous and popular as a substitute for brick and stone, was in Artesia two weeks ago with the view of putting in a factory. He found that a great deal of building is con-templated and that there is a demand in this section for a material that will prove more satisfactory, the the a great deal of building is contemplated and that there is a demand in this section for a material that will prove more satisfactory than lumber and nots o expensive as brick. Deeming this demand sufficient to justify the investment, Mr. Roby decided to establish a stone factory at particular and was here this week to perfect arrangements. He purchased several lots from the Artesia Improvement Company on which to put his plant and his residence. The factory will be on West Main street and the proprietor expects to have What is it that "hereby heartily" What is it that "hereby heartily".

Editor Artesia Advocate,

Dear sir: I see that the Democratic county convention recently held at Roswell to elect delegates to the Territorial convention, "Hereby heartily in-dorse the candidacy of William R: Hearst for the democratic nomination for the presidency," etc. etc.

Now, are the balance of us voters of New Mexico to understand that these Roswell democrats are well?

Canvas Shoes the Style.

Canvas shoes the Style.

Canvas shoes for both men and women will be more popular the coming season, according to the returns of the salesmen, and they will be more pretentious than ever before. Several of the factories are now at work on the new orders, and some very natty shoes are going to be made in this line. There are to be some very pretty combinations in white duck, with trimmings or stays of black, shiny leather, perforated, and also of tan and colors. There will be many pure white canvas shoes for men, women and children; some of the ladies' shoes being of a basket weave material. White oxfords are in the majority. There are some boots which are cut very high, in Rolish style, the demand for these coming from the Pacific coast.

A JAPANESE ROYAL WEDDING.

Cortege Must Have Presented an Imposing Appearance.

"The royal wedding of the Crown Prince of Japan, some four years ago, was celebrated with national rejoicings," writes Florence Eldridge in her article on Yoshihito, Crown Prince of Japan, in the March Pearson's. "The city of Tokio was transformed into a veritable fair ground with arches of flowers, feativals, numerous processions and congratulatory emblems. A new postage stamp was issued to commemorate the happy day. Thousands of people thronged the streets and gathered to see the imperial procession pass, standing respectfully with heads reverently bowed when the cortege appeared.

"The costumes worn by the imperial bride and bridegroom during the cremony were fashioned after the court dresses of centuries ago. The dress of the Crown Prince was a flowing robe of sain seven feet in length, that trailed on the ground behind him as he walked, silken breeches, an outer coat of crepe, embroidered on sleeves, back and breast with his creat. With this he wore a cap of black, varnished material, bound by a fillet of gold, with a long streamer of stiff wire riboon hanging from the back; this cap was kept in place by a light-colored silk cord which, passing once over the top of the head, was brought down and tied under the chin.

Prairie firse were of frequent occurrence in the early days, but they were a danger almost forgotten in recent years until a few days ago, when free broke out, and, driven by the furlous winds, ravaged vast areas in Kanasa and Oklahoma. Three persons were burned to death and eighteen or more are reported fatally or seriously in Jured. Thousands of dollars' worth of property was destroyed. The existence of Lawton and Hobart for a time was threatened, and it was only by a luil and change in the wind that these small communities were saved.

About Clipping Horses.
A Review correspondent wishes to know the advantages to be derived from clipping horses.
A Review correspondent wishes to know the advantages to be derived from clipping horses.

In or shedding the hair is a draft on the vitality of the animal. The appetite is diminished, and with a work or pleasure horse exertion is irisome during the period. Clipping, or artificial removal of the hair, accomplishes in a very short space of time what nature requires much more time to do. In other words, nature is anticipated in her words and the animal's system is saved a call upon it.

Second—A clipped horse is less tiable to take cold than a long-coated horse, because the evaporation of perspiration is more rapid. A "hot" horse will cool out quicker with a short coat. Every groom is aware of this fact.

Third—A clipped horse requires less fuel (food) to maintain bodily heat than a long-coated horse; therefore clipping as a matter of economy should be generally practiced.

Fourth—A clipped horse looks cleaner, acts more sprightly and keeps in better health. Horses intended for the sale or show ring should be cipped at least two weeks before the event. There will be a marked improvement in weight and appearance, with manifest advantage to the owner's pocketbook.—Horse Review.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham: — I am so pleased with the results obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham: — I am so pleased with the results obtained and a privilege to write you about it.

"I suffered for more than five years with ovarian troubles, causing an unpleasant discharge, a great weakness, and at times a faintness would come over me which no amount of medicine, diet, or exercise seemed to correct. Your Vegetable Compound found the weak spot however, within a few weeks— and saved me from an operation— all my troubles had disappeared, and I found myself once more healthy and well. Words fall to describe the real, true, grateful feeling that is in my heart, and I want to tell every sick and suffering sister. Don't daily with medicines you know nothing about, but take Lydia E.
