Subject: COMMON SENSE IN RELIGION

While honesty is one of the greatest virtues one can possess, it is not all sufficient. The Bible repeatedly demands it of every child of God.

People often mistake honesty for the whole requirement of God. "Just so a man is honest," they say, "he is all right. He will make it to heaven."

Religion is the only thing in this world in which people will believe that honesty is the only essential to being safe and right. Here is a traveller. He wants to go to a certain place and thinks he is on the right road. He is honest and sincere. But he is going in the wrong direction. Does his honesty in believing he is right bring him to the desired destination? Certainly not, and no one would so affirm.

Why then, would you expect a rule to work in religion that certainly will not work any where else? Surely, such reasoning is not good. The Bible tells of many occasions in which people were honestly mistaken, and also reveals the fact that dire consequences follow mistakes whether honest or otherwise.

Take the young prophet in I Kings 13 for example. He was honest in his convictions and proved it by going from Judah to Bethel to denounce Jereboam for his idolatry. He further proved he desired to do God's will by refusing to eat, drink or dwell in the land, and by determination to return another way, as God had directed.

But as he had fulfilled his assignment, and was returning as per instructions, an old prophet intercepted him and lied to him, saying that God had changed his orders and that the young prophet was to return with him to Lethel and eat. Sincerely and honestly, the young prophet believed him, and as a result incurred the wrath of God and brought about his death. Honesty alone was not enough. God warns: "Be not deceived," John said: "Believe not every spirit, but try the spirits, whether they are of God: because many false prophets have gone out into the world." I John 4:1.

Saul of Tarsus is another example of the same thing: mistaken honesty. "I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day," he declared in Jerusalem. Acts 23:1. Certainly he was honest. But still he was found as the chief of sinners, by his own statement, and said that "beyond measure I persecuted the church of God and wasted it."

Sure, he was honest, had deep convictions, was zealous and sincere. But he was wrong. Jesus said: "Why persecutest thou me?" To be saved he was required to "be baptized and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." Acts 22:16. Honesty was not enough. Obedience is essential.

Nothing is more reasonable than true religion. God said: "Come now and let us reason together. Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool. If ye be willing and obedient, ye shall eat the good of the land; but if ye refuse and rebel, ye shall be devoured with the sword, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it." Isa. 1:18-20.

God says: "There is a way that seemeth right to a man, but the ends thereof are the ways of death." Prov. 14:12.

The very fact that God provides the Bible for you to read is proof positive that honesty alone is not enough. He expects you to have the information. He wants you to know the right way. He expects intelligent obedience of every soul going to heaven.

TEXAS RETAIL STORES SHOW INCREASE INCOME

Independent retail stores in Texas had a sales increase of 4.2 per cent over September, compared with an increase of 16.2 per cent for the same period in 1945 the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reports. The statistics were compiled in cooperation with the Bureau of the Census.

Sales of all types of apparel combined showed a decrease of about one per cent. The greatest month-to-month increase, 10 per cent was in sales by women's specialty shops. Men's and boys' clothing stores continued to make larger gains than any other type of clothing stores included in the report. They reported a rise of 7 per cent during the month, with an increase of 5 per cent over October 1945.

The force that Holds a Soap Bubble Together

OIL-PLATES Your Engine!

ACTUALLY a soap bubble is an extremely sheer net of molecules (held together by a strange attractive force) enclosing a sphere of air. And by pioneering in fields of molecular forces, Conoco scientists bring out new and better oils.

For instance, by molecular attraction, a special ingredient in Conoco Nth motor oil is bonded to working surfaces of your engine. Unlike the soap bubble which vanishes when pricked, Conoco Nth oil's ingredient holds on—is OIL-PLATED to cylinder walls and other parts.

OIL-PLATING stays up where it belongs... doesn't all drain down to the crankcase, even overnight... gives you these benefits:

- added protection when your engine starts up
- added protection from corrosive action
- added protection from wear that leads to fouling sludge and carbon
- added smooth, silent miles

That's why to OIL-PLATE now... at Your Conoco Mileage Merchant's. Look for the red triangle. Continental Oil Co.

SANTA FE STILL NEEDS MORE ROLLINN STOCK

It is apparent that there are not enough box cars in the United States to meet requirement of shippers. For that reason it seems that, despite any desire Santa Fe may have to the contrary, the present pooling arrangement of box cars will continue until box car ownership throughout the nation more nearly meets shippers' requirements.

Basing his predictions on those two statements, Fred G. Gurley, president of the Santa Fe Railway, said today the pooling of box cars may continue until serviceable box cars owned by all carriers equals the total serviceable box cars owned as of August 1, 1943, when 724,579 box cars were in service.

The August report of the Association of American Railroads shows that a number of serviceable box cars declined 24,449 since 1943. The Santa Fe, on the other hand, was building up its ownership of cars to keep abreast of war needs and prepare for the reconversion task. Despite the terrific war wear to rolling stock, the Santa Fe increased its serviceable car supply from 75,865 in 1940 to 81,304 in 1946—a gain of 5,4439.

While rolling stock of the country generally is wearing out faster than it is being replaced, the Santa Fe bought 8,312 new box cars and 1,000 new auto cars. It rebuilt 3,644 box and 1,158 auto cars and made heavy repairs to 2,000 other box cars. On order are 2,500 more new box cars. "This makes the Santa Fe box car fleet one of the newest in the country," Mr. Gurley commented. Nearly 1,000 new units have been added to the Santa Fe livestock car fleet making a total of 8,794. More than 4,100 refrigerator cars have been built or rebuilt and 350 more new ones are on order. The Company's gondola fleet has been increased from 12,118 to 14,632.

"I'm so happy in our new all-gas home that I can't help laughing. Our automatic hot water heater gives us an abundance of hot water which makes that new dish washer (that's me) breeze right through the stack. And my automatic gas range—ummm! As for the gas refrigerator, it's simply woonn-derful and so silent . . . you can hear a pin drop. Plenty of room too! Oh, yes, I almost forgot . . . we've got the most wonderful automatic central gas furnace for heating. Bob and I felt awfully silly but we switched it on the other night just to see how it worked. The automatic thermostat control just flicked on and off so fast . . . you just can't imagine. Best of all, when next winter comes with those cold mornings, we can just set the control at night, and when we wake up in the morning the house will be just the right temperature. Horace Sanders, who has returned from the Rochester Sanitarium where he underwent an operation reports that while there are many, many reasons why one should not want to be sick that there is one thing that has encouraged him considerably and that is to find out that he has regained his freedom and that his wife will jump when he says frog.

Horace says that every time he wakes up at night that he howls for a drink of water whether he wants it or not, however the service is not as good as it was when he first came home.

The following story clipped from the Readers Digest has given me an idea and I am going to print some stickers for myself, for J. D. Holt, for Miss Duncan, who works for the Slatonite, for Nat Heaton, for Doc Castleberry, for Superintendent Kavanaugh and for my wife.

Here is the story:
 Hiram Stevens Maxim, the well-inventor, was plagued by absent-mindedness. After losing umbrellas, packages, books and drawings, until he was desperate, he finally had stickers printed which he attached to practically everything he owned. Bordered in red, they announced boldly:

This was lost by a damned fool
Hiram Stevens Maxim who lives at 325 Union st. Brooklyn
 A suitable reward will be paid for its return.

—Hiram Percy Maxim, A Genius in the Family (Harper)

Not long ago J. D. Holt phoned my wife and told her that he had sold her something and had made a notation to charge our account with it but had failed to note what it was and the price. My wife could not remember at the time what the item was and did not until she found it in the back of the car a week afterwards, she phoned J. D. and he made another note but failed to jot down the date or the size package it was so he hoped me about it, a month went by and I finally found out for him what the size of the bottle was and we made a settlement but none of us know what the date of the purchase was.

When I am at home I take off my glasses when I go to bed at night but I keep my case in my pocket, in the mornings I slap my pocket to check up on whether I have my glasses or not, my case reports that I am all fixed but when I get down town I find that the case is empty, I go to the Post Office unlock the box, get out my glasses and start reading the mail, go off and leave my keys in the box and spend two or three days trying to find out where they are because some good Samaritan has given them to the Post Master. Life is one continual muddle and I come down each morning and stir the stuff on top of my desk trying to find the things I lost the day before. It's a good way to start the day and it's a great pleasure to find something one's lost several weeks ago, gave up and substituted something else or did the work all over again. Life is one swell mess.

Regardless of what happens to John Lewis the United States is fast reaching a crisis in labor and industry and until some kind of agreements are met between them, production of all kinds of vital materials is being jeopardized. It is easy enough to either praise or censure one man but Lewis is just an outstanding figure on one side. No doubt both labor and industry are right in some of their contentions but neither side will win if their fight brings on a depression or some change in our form of Government.

The above statement may seem like a criticism of our Government but it is not meant that way on the contrary it is my opinion concerning what will happen if both the industrial leaders and the laboring classes ignore the laws of democracy. The majority of the people including those belonging to labor unions will suffer in many ways if present trends continue. The people in small communities have little or no influence on what will happen and what we think or do will have little effect on results but we can try to guess on what will happen and act accordingly and it has come to a point in this country that some very drastic changes are likely to be made soon and we in this agricultural community should start guessing.

In case you should get into a switch because of some sour remark here is how such matters are handled by experts:

When Diaraeli was elevated to the Peerage, he was deeply gratified that he could leave the stormy scenes of the House of Commons and take his place in the serene atmosphere of the House of Lords. Once while standing in the presence of the new company, he was asked how he felt about the change.

"Feel!" exclaimed the new Earl of Beaconsfield. "I feel as though I were dead and buried."

And then sensing the remark might be misunderstood, the witty statesman added, "and among the best spirits of the great and good."

Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge sent a case of peach brandy as a gift to the well known writer, James Lane Allen.

When the two men met, Allen expressed his deep appreciation to the Colonel, and added, "I hope you will accept in return some copy of my works which I will sign."

The Colonel replied that he would be delighted, whereupon the author inquired, "Which would you like?"

Now, for the life of him, Breckinridge could not recall the title of a single book the other had written, although he had read them all. Then, by the grace of Providence, in the midst of his embarrassment, he heard himself say: "I want the one you like best, Mr. Allen."

"Then, it shall be a Kentucky Cardinal," said Allen, hugely pleased.

Prince Gaewar of Baroda, attending a Christmas ball at an English country house, was introduced to a woman whose name he did not catch. A little later they were dancing together, when the Prince suddenly exclaimed, "Do you see that man over there?" He was staring angrily at an officer who had once deceived him in India.

"Well, if there's one man in the world I hate, it's he."

"Really!" rejoined his pretty partner. "That's my husband."

"Yes," rejoined the adroit prince. "Yes, of course. That's why I hate him."

WESTERN MARKET NEWS

Cattle led the gradual upward swing of prices for sheep, eggs, peanuts, wheat and barley at southwest markets last week, according to USDA's Production and Marketing Administration. However, cotton took another tumble, turkeys and sorghums dropped sharply and hog decline. Other products remained about steady.

Last week saw turkeys drop to a level below that of last year at this time as demand continued to drop. Prices ranged from 23 to 25 cents per pound for young toms. Young hens held a stronger position at about 10 cents per pound higher. Demand strengthened for good fat hens at 22 to 25 cents per pound. Fryers moved fairly well at 27 to 40 cents per pound. Also, corn went up under increased holiday demand for light supplies. Current receipts were quoted from 42 to 45 cents per dozen depending on the market.

Cotton dropped below 30 cents per pound at some markets last week for the first time since the mid-October collapse. However, activity increased and demand was strong. Moderate offerings of Colorado onions and potatoes moved slowly at dull to slightly weaker prices last week. Also, south Texas citrus and vegetables met with slower demand than the previous week. Tomato prices were off about 50 cents per crate from Monday. Grapefruit prices were lower too but peppers and orange held about steady. Louisiana and Texas sweet potatoes remained firm.

Steady to stronger prices and moderately active trading ruled southwest cattle markets last week. However, some easiness showed up on lower grade beef cows and calves. San Antonio sold common and medium grass steers at $11 to $12 per hundred pounds and common and medium cows $9.75 to $13. Common and medium steers and yearlings brought $12 to $15 at Houston and $12 to $18 at Ft. Worth. At Oklahoma City good beef cows reached $17 and medium and good beef steers and yearlings sold at $15 to $22. Common and medium cows realized $10.50 to $13.50 at Wichita and $11 to $14 at Denver where a few loads of good fed steers sold at $20 to $23.50 per hundred.

TEXAS TECH NOTES

Fresh strawberries on the table twice daily are no novelty even in November for Joe Horne, Tech student, who grows berries for a hobby and is now gathering about five gallons a week from his 20 by 100-foot berry patch.

Careful planting and irrigation are essential to keeping strawberries in production, Horne said. He is transplanting vines now, trimming the roots to one inch and setting plants in individual mounds two feet apart. Soil around the plants are thoroughly soaked.

His berries, of the Gem and Minnesota Maid everbearing varieties, produce from May until the ground freezes hard in late fall.

THIS WEEK'S LESSON

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, December 1.

The Golden Text is: "There is no wisdom nor understanding nor counsel against the Lord" (Proverbs 21:30).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh" (Galatians 5:16).

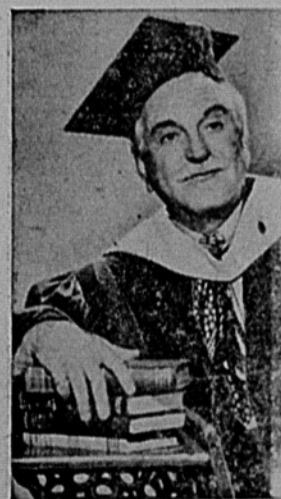

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "In a world of sin and sensuality hastening to a greater development of power, it is wise earnestly to consider development of power, it is wise earnestly to consider whether it is the human mind or the divine Mind which is influencing one" (page 82).

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui, many women say, has brought relief from the cramp-like aches and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Taken like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, & thus help build resistance for the "time" to come. Started 2 days before "your time" it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes. Try it!

ARE YOU JUST A PLAYTHING OF NATURE?

Nature may endow you with breathtaking beauty, a lovely curvaceous figure. She may bestow gifts on you that make you a brilliant actress, a leader in your class at college, sought after at dances, or a charming wife and mother.

Yes, Nature may do all this. And yet you may find your face mockingly slapped if you suffer these distressing symptoms, which so many unfortunate girls and women do.

Something You Should Not Joke About!

So if female functional monthly disturbances are causing you to suffer from pain, nervous distress and feel weak, restless, so cranky and irritable that you almost turn into a 'she-devil'—on such days—THIS IS SOMETHING YOU SHOULDN'T JOKE ABOUT. Start right away—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. It's famous for this purpose. And don't forget—Pinkham's Compound DOES MORE than relieve such monthly pain. This great medicine also relieves accompanying nervous tension, irritability, those tired-out, mean 'pick-on-everyone' feelings—when due to this cause. Taken regularly thruout the month—Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such distress—a very sensible thing to do. Just see if you, too, don't remarkably benefit! All drugstores.

Construction Of New Building
At High School Under Way

The Slaton High School Tiger's Cage weekly publication carries the following account of a new building that is being constructed under the direction of A. C. Strickland, head of the Agricultural Department. The building will be used by the students in his classes. The agricultural building that is under construction behind the high school building is to be 120' by 50' and will include a class room, a laboratory, a tool room, and a room for shop equipment.

Though the agriculture boys are doing the work, most all the boys in High school are helping; therefore about half the cement blocks are already made. Excavation has been made for the foundation and concrete will be run in this as soon as re-enforcement steel can be obtained. Tentative plans have been made for an athletic dressing room and the entire building will consist of five or six rooms. The building will probably be stuccoed on the outside. The main entrances will be on the south, east, and northwest. The agriculture boys, with the help of others, will make the brick, lay the foundation, and lay the brick in the wall.

Two pieces of very useful equipment have already been received, an air compressor and a two ton chain-hoist.

The trip from his home on King Island, in the Bering Strait, to Portland, Ore., involved a walrus skin boat, ship, and airplane, but Eskimo Veteran Paul Tjulana needed a new artificial limb and the 2,400-mile trip was necessary to assure a proper fitting. Tjulana lost his leg in a truck accident soon after joining the U. S. Army's Alaskan defense force.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

A Lesson In Conservation

We were sitting on Bill Webster's porch the other night, chatting over a glass of beer—when the talk turns to forest preservation, soil erosion, and other things that affect a farming community.

From where I sit, the Judge is right. All America's great resources, our abundant natural wealth, are lost the minute we lose the right to work them as free people in a free land!

Judge Cunningham speaks up: "It's all right to worry about conserving our natural resources," he says, "but there's a far bigger problem when it comes to conservation—and that's preserving our democratic way of life, our sense of personal freedom, our respect for one another's rights."

Whenever you see or hear of an encroachment on our rights—whether it's the right to free speech, or the right to vote as we see fit, or the right to enjoy a friendly glass of beer in licensed, law-abiding places... watch out!

Why We Observe Our Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving was inaugurated by the Pilgrim Fathers who set aside a special day for offering Thanks to God for their bountiful harvest and for safe deliverance through their first year in a new and a strange land full of the dangers of a wilderness and the terrors of the unknown.

This gave rise to a custom of observing a national holiday, falling on the last Thursday in November, at a time when the harvest was in. The President of the United States issues a proclamation designating Thanksgiving Day, as do the governors of most states. We are the only country in the world that celebrates a national Thanksgiving Day, and this year we probably have more to give thanks for than almost any other country in the world.

Our country was less torn up by war than most of the other countries. We have been able to plant and harvest our crops this year under normal conditions, and we have had a bountiful harvest. We are able to help feed the starving peoples of the world from our own bounty. The war is over and the peace is in the making, which is an added cause for thankfulness. If we pause and count our blessings, we will find that they are so much more than we might have thought them to be.

The Spirit of Thanksgiving

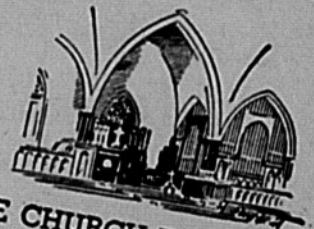

Thanksgiving Day is a symbol of the earth's abundance and the goodness of God. In token of our appreciation of these things, we set aside this day as a period of special thanksgiving to God for all that He has provided for our needs and comfort.

It is a custom that goes back into the dim ages of human history. From the earliest days, as man feasted upon the fruitfulness of the earth, he felt an instinctive urge to look up to the Supreme Being and, with grateful heart, express his thanks.

We have much more to be thankful for today than the people of past ages. The earth produces more for our comfort; we do not have to work so hard or face so many dangers in acquiring the things we need, and in America we live in comparative comfort and security.

The bells in many church steeples will ring out on this Thanksgiving Day, and in countless homes grateful families will bow their heads in humble thankfulness for the goodness of God. This is a fitting tribute for humanity to pay to Him who makes the earth fruitful and blesses our land with abundance.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend and support the Church of his choice. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to Church on Sunday.

COTTON INSURANCE NOW AVAILABLE IN TEX.

Federal crop insurance on the 1947 cotton crop is now being offered for sale to every cotton farmer in Texas, State Director B. F. Vance of the Production and Marketing Administration has announced. Insurance contracts will be signed in county ACA offices.

Under the 1947 insurance plan, farmers are being offered a wider choice on the amount of insurance they can buy. Coverage may be made for as low as 40 percent of the average yield and as high as 75 percent Vance says.

All-risk insurance, which protects the crop against any unavoidable hazards, goes into effect when cotton is planted and continues until it is ginned. The amount of insurance increases as the crop grows, because more costs have been incurred and the crop is worth more to farmers, Vance explains.

"Demand for all agricultural products promises to continue at high levels and no farmer can afford a crop failure when protection can be bought cheap. Crop insurance will help bridge the financial gap if losses occur," the PMA official states.

Sir Joshua Reynolds painted the "Age of Innocence."
