Several months ago the council elected to pay librarian, Sally Bohlar $100.00 per trip to Amarillo because the cost of gas was so high. The council was in agreement to go back to paying her so much per mile for her trips.

McLean I.S.D Board of Trustees Approves Election And Emergency Operation Plans

The McLean Independent School District Board of Education met for a Regular meeting at 7:00 p.m. on February 20, 2006. Board members present were Marshall Hanes, Chet Bohlar, Toni Bohlar, Terri Adams, Billy Bybee, Joe Riley, and David Fuller. Others present were Superintendent, Jimmy Hannon, Rhonda Patterson, Dick Crockett, and Leslie Darsey. Bo Loya was the only visitor present.

All votes are unanimous unless otherwise stated.

Terri Adams called the meeting to order at 7:00 p.m. and Billy Bybee gave the opening prayer.

Motion was made by David Fuller, second by Toni Bohlar to approve the Regular Board meeting minutes of January 16, 2006. Motion carried.

At this time President Terri Adams ask Ms. Loya for any visitor comments. Ms. Loya stated that several parents and students had come to her wanting to have the gym open to play basketball. She went on to say that there was nothing for the kids to do on the weekends to keep them out of trouble and suggested that if the gym were to be open they would be playing basketball. Mr. Hannon replied that after this discussion with TASB policy services, that there should be administrative guidelines as to the use of the gym. The Texas Constitution prohibits school districts from spending district resources to serve non-school purposes, therefore, charging no fees constitutes an improper "gift of public funds." if the district is spending its resources to keep its doors open for non-school use. The guidelines will be drawn up in March or April with the possibility of organizations having to pay a fee if only for the District to recover the cost of operations (including utilities, wear and tear, and personnel costs, if any). Some sort of agreement would also have to be signed for liability issues or damage to the facilities. At this time the Board thanked Ms. Loya for her comments.

Motion by Chet Bohlar, second by Joe Riley to order the School Board election to be held on Saturday, May 13, 2006. Motion carried.

Motion by David Fuller, second by Marshall Hanes to appoint Marjorie Fish as Early Voting Clerk and also as Election Judge for McLean ISD. Motion carried.

Terri Adams announced the Board Training hours which have been reported to TASB as follows: Terri Adams 9.75, Chet Bohlar 3.0, Toni Bohlar 8.0, Billy Bybee 4.5, David Fuller 2.0, Marshall Hanes 7.5, and Joe Riley 7.0.

New Board members are required to have 16 hrs. of training, and experienced Board members are required to have 8 hrs. of training per year, with an additional hour of Open Meetings Act training for all members.

Motion by Toni Bohlar, second by Chet Bohlar to approve the Resolution of Voting System according to Sec. 61.012 of the Texas Election Code requiring that McLean ISD provides at least one accessible voting system in each polling place used, in a Texas election. This system must comply with state and federal laws setting the requirements for voting systems that permit voters with physical disabilities to cast a secret ballot. The Gray County Clerk shall provide a Hart E-slate 2.013 voting machine to the District for a rental fee. Motion carried.

I-40 DPS Traffic Stop Search Finds Stucco Machine Harboring Drug Money

Groom — We have all heard of the proverbial tree that money does not fall from. Well evidently we should have been looking in stucco machines instead of on trees. Because after making a traffic stop on I-40 yesterday DPS Troopers found something other than stucco in a stucco hopper towed by the vehicle. They found 80,380.00 dollars cash money.

Troopers searched a stucco machine towed by the pickup. In the hopper of the machine cash was found in a hidden compartment that totaled 80,380.00 dollars.

Arrested were Alejandro Sandoval 23, of Fontana, CA. and Jose Saucedo 19, of Paramount, CA. The subjects were placed in the Carson Co. jail on charges of money laundering.

The cash was believed to have originated in Illinois and was destined for California.

At 12:20 PM yesterday troopers stopped a 2006 Ford F150 pickup for a traffic violation. The stop was made on I-40 near Groom. Troopers became suspicious of the driver and received consent to

Time To File For Local City-School Elections

City of Groom Aldermen and Groom Independent School District Board of Trustees both announced in their latest monthly meeting that they would call for an election on May 13, 2006.

The annual event will see three seats in contention for the City Council. Seats currently held by Don Case, Ellis Stapp and the seat vacated by Doug Kling that the Aldermen chose not to fill by appointment. Both Case and Stapp have served on the council for several terms of office. Neither has given any indication as to if they intend to run again.

Two seats will be decided in the Groom ISD election. Those currently held by Tony Britten and Tony Rocha are expiring. Neither Trustee has stated whether or not they plan to seek re-election.

Requirements for candidates, in general, require that the person has been a resident of the District or City (which ever the case may be) for at least 6 months. Some training will be required for both the city and school as well as monthly meetings, so there is a time commitment involved.

Those who are interested in serving in the community in one of these capacities should pick up an application at City Hall or at the School Business Office for a

Directors Approve Rate Buy Down For 2006

AMARILLO, Texas—Panhandle-Plains Federal Land Bank Association, FLCA (FLBA), CEO Robert R. Williams Jr. announced that the board of directors approved a patronage payment and additional interest rate buy-down for 2006.

The Association board met January 19, 2006 in Amarillo to review performance goals from 2005 and approve the 2006 business plan that includes these payments. Association Board Chairman Wayne Garrett further explained, "this patronage, which will amount to $2.7 million, will return $.25 of every dollar our customers paid in interest during 2005. This year's payment will again be 100% cash, and in their hands this spring" said Garrett. Since 1997, Panhandle-Plains FLBA has a history of stock reduction, patronage payments, and interest rate buy-downs all of which reduce the cost of credit for rural real estate mortgages.

CEO Williams elaborated on the rate reduction. "We are simply continuing our philosophy of Providing Value to Membership with the best possible service at the lowest possible cost. Rates have been on a steady rise since the middle of 2004, and our products have reflected this increase. But this association has reduced its cost of operations and utilized its capital strength to pass along savings resulting in a variable that is currently 1% point under the Prime Rate. Again this spring, our business plan calls for a spread adjustment "to mitigate the increasing cost of borrowing," said Williams. "We are committed to being the best choice for long-term real estate mortgages on farm and ranch land, rural recreational tracts, rural homes, and agribusiness."

Panhandle-Plains FLBA provides long-term credit to farmers, ranchers, and agribusiness in 17 counties of the Panhandle and South Plains. Offices are located in Amarillo, Pampa, Perryton, and Plainview. It is under the direction of a stockholder-elected board of directors. Members include Larry E. Fairchild of Adrian; Dennis Babcock of Groom; Randy Darnell of Amarillo; Ronnie N. Hopper of Petersburg; Don James of

Plainview; Rusty Henson of Quitaque; Daniel Krienke of Perryton; Wayne Garrett of Gruver; Steve Rader of Canadian; and Steve Brown of Floydad

Drip Irrigation Is Most Popular

VERNON - After three years of testing cotton performance in the field, a Texas Agricultural Experiment Station agronomist says subsurface drip irrigation is a workable option for Rolling Plains crop producers.

"Drip is the preferred way to irrigate in many other crop-producing regions," said Dr. John Sij, Experiment Station agronomist based at Vernon. "Research has proven it is the most efficient water delivery system available today. But is it feasible in the semiarid climate we have here on the Rolling Plains? Answering that question is the rationale behind our research."

So far, the Rolling Plains project has focused on evaluating plant productivity and lint quality of irrigated cotton grown in conventional and conservation tillage systems. Results were then compared to cotton grown with traditional furrow irrigation.

The site for the first three years of this research was a 28-acre field in Munday, Texas. Subsurface drip-irrigation lines were installed 12 to 14 inches deep, using 40- and 80-inch spacings. This allowed the researchers to divide the field into 66 plots, each slightly smaller than one-half acre, which could be individually watered and monitored. "We installed water meters to record actual crop water use in each plot," Sij said. "We planted our conservation-tillage study into a terminated rye cover crop. The planting dates for each study ranged from early May to early June. "We used SureGrow 215 bollgard/roundup-ready cotton in all the plots, seeded at five plants per foot of row on 40-inch rows. We used a combination of hand-hoeing and herbicides to control weeds."

A well producing more than 200 gallons per minute provided irrigation. Wells of this caliber are common in the region, Sij said.

"We had some leaks in the system and a minor rodent problem right after the system was installed," Sij said. "Even with some labor involved to fix the leaks and take care of gophers, the subsurface-drip system has proven more labor-efficient than a traditional furrow-irrigation system."

"Installation cost is a factor when you compare drip systems to furrow or sprinkler irrigation," he said. "Drip is more labor-efficient, but it can cost from $700 to $1,200 per acre to install. The ability to intensively manage the crop and the land compensates for the higher installation cost." In the 2003 study, there was no yield difference in cotton regardless of irrigation line spacing or tillage systems. The terminated rye cover crop used in the conservation-tillage study did not contribute additional soil moisture as Sij had hoped.

"There was very little precipitation in 2003, so we didn't see any effect from using a cover crop," he said. "Our drip-irrigated cotton did, however, produce significantly more cotton than our furrow-irrigated plots. Our drip plots averaged 3.7 bales per acre, while the furrow-irrigated plots averaged about 2.5 bales per acre - a 48 percent yield advantage."

In 2004, Mother Nature turned the tables on the studies by adding abundant precipitation to the cotton equation. Cotton root rot, possibly encouraged by ample soil moisture, knocked yields of drip irrigated cotton back to 2.9 bales per acre. No yield difference was found between 40-inch and 80-inch drip line spacings with conventional tillage. But cotton grown in a terminated rye cover crop outperformed conventional-tillage cotton by six-tenths of a bale per acre.

"In a wetter year, the terminated rye cover crop boosted yields significantly," Sij said. He also conducted a study comparing deficit irrigation to full irrigation in 2003 and 2004 on 40-inch drip line spacings. Full irrigation was based on 100 percent evapotranspiration replacement. Reducing irrigation water by 50 percent, to 50 percent evapotranspiration replacement, reduced yields in conventional and conservation tillage studies but not as much as expected.

"We noted a 9 percent yield reduction in conventional tillage cotton and an 18 percent yield reduction in cotton grown in a terminated rye cover crop," Sij said. "That tells us that the cover crop extracted some subsoil moisture. At the same time, a cover crop protects young plants from weather-related damage and reduces erosion damage that can mean re-tilling or entirely replanting a field." With two years of comparative data at hand and one year's data still in review, Sij feels subsurface drip irrigation has proven its worth on the Rolling Plains.

two tillage systems, compared with traditional-furrow irrigation," he said. "In two years of our study, the loan value (lint quality) was the same for cotton grown with subsurface-drip lines on 40-inch spacings using 50 percent evapotranspiration replacement and 100 percent evapotranspiration replacement."

During the day-long legislative seminar and Capital visits, Advanced Practice Nurses to have prescriptive authority based on the relationship with the delegating physician rather than the location in which the APN works. Currently APNs may sign prescriptions in Texas, just as they can in 40 or the 50 states.

However, Texas is one of only five states that bases writing those prescriptions on the practice site.

Bilyeu noted that "Advanced Practice Nurses have been permitted to prescribe in Texas since 1989, and qualified to prescribe based on their education. However in Texas, we have situations in which an APN may prescribe for patients in one clinic in the morning, but not in a different location in the afternoon. It does not make sense that an APN is qualified to prescribe in one location, but is not qualified to prescribe for the same types of patients in another. In the end, the consumer suffers," Bilyeu added.

Bilyeu is a part of a busy rural health clinic in Claude, TX specializing in family practice. She provides primary care to patients, with acute and chronic illnesses, ranging in age from 3 weeks old to 103. Her delegating physician is Dr. Randy Stewart.
