Reynell M. Parkins to Appear at Tech Monday

Halls Listed in Who's Who at LCC

Leonard and Monica Hall, originally of Colon, Panama, have been elected by the Lubbock Christian College faculty into the 1971 Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges.

The senior year at LCC doesn't start until this September, so the campus favorites are still listed in the junior colleges. This is the last year to be listed as such and will be in the senior college division next year.

The fifteen students chosen by faculty were elected on the basis of scholarship, citizenship, participation and leadership in academic and extracurricular activities, and general promise of future usefulness to business and society.

Leonard and Monica are working their way through college and this husband and wife team have gained the love and respect of everyone that comes in close contact with them.

Talks Continue Here Between Meat Cutters and Farm Pac Over Wages

The officers of the 162 member Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workers of North America AFL-CIO, Local Union P-77, Unit 3 met Wednesday morning with the owners of Farm Pac Kitchens to discuss the problems the members of the union are faced with concerning an increase in wages. The 10:00 a.m. meeting was held at Furr's General Offices, 1708 Avenue G.

Ronnie Brown, unit chairman and chief steward, told a "Times" reporter that the local union has been trying to meet satisfactory terms with the owners.

He said, as he explained the problem, "Our labor rate is $2.20 and we are competing with master companies (such) as Armour, Swift and others. In the past three years, the employees have made the company (Farm Pac Kitchens) more money since existence of the company. The last negotiations were made with the company in 1968, and the raises for 1968, 1969, and 1970 were 10 cents per year. At the time the company gave us 10 cents per hour each year, the company was low in finance, but now is making more money."

"Aside from this," the young energetic labor leader said, "the company has government contracts in regard to beef, bologna, picnic hams, ribs and bacon. The parent company, Furr's, buys all the Protein meat from the company and the company custom kills beef for Kain Cattle Company."

"If the company doesn't comply with the wishes of the body, it will result in a strike until the demands are met, by the union," he concluded.

At "Times" deadline time, it was learned that negotiations are still underway between Union officers and owners of Farm Pac Kitchens. A meeting which was scheduled for last evening was postponed until a later date since talks are being continued.

The West Texas Times will keep abreast of later developments as they unfold.

Boy Scout Project Underway This Week

Boy Scouts of Troop 102, under the direction of Raymond Peppers, Scoutmaster, are out working hard this week on a project to raise funds to go to summer camp in July.

Kentucky Fried Chicken is playing an important part in the outcome of this project. Kentucky Fried Chicken is making a contribution to Troop 102 of Boy Scouts of America.

In order to help these young people with their special effort, you (concerned citizens for Scouting) pay $1.00 now to the organization's representative calling on you. Then, "visit the Colonel" at your convenience: present the card to the Kentucky Fried Chicken locations which are listed on the back of the card and receive a Family Bucket of "finger lickin" good Kentucky Fried Chicken for $1.00 off the regular price.

The young fellows are out working hard this week. Let's all get behind them in order for them to accomplish their goal.

Lubbock—Reynell M. Parkins, sociologist, lawyer, Episcopal priest and university professor at the University of Texas School of Architecture, will discuss "Creative Ideas in Solving Minorities' Search for Meaning" Monday, March 29, in Lubbock.

Parkins' lecture will be presented by the Texas Tech University Graduate School as one of its series on Current Problems in American Society. Free to the public, the lecture will be given at 7 p.m. in Room 211 of the Electrical Engineering Building.

Parkins, a native of Colon in the Republic of Panama, served with the U. S. Army in Europe and Okinawa during World War II. Following the war, he resumed his education, and his academic background is as varied as his career.

He first was graduated from the LaBoca Normal Training School and taught in Canal Zone public schools. He also has studied at the universities of Panama, Oregon, New York University and the Alexandria, Va., Episcopal Theological Seminary.

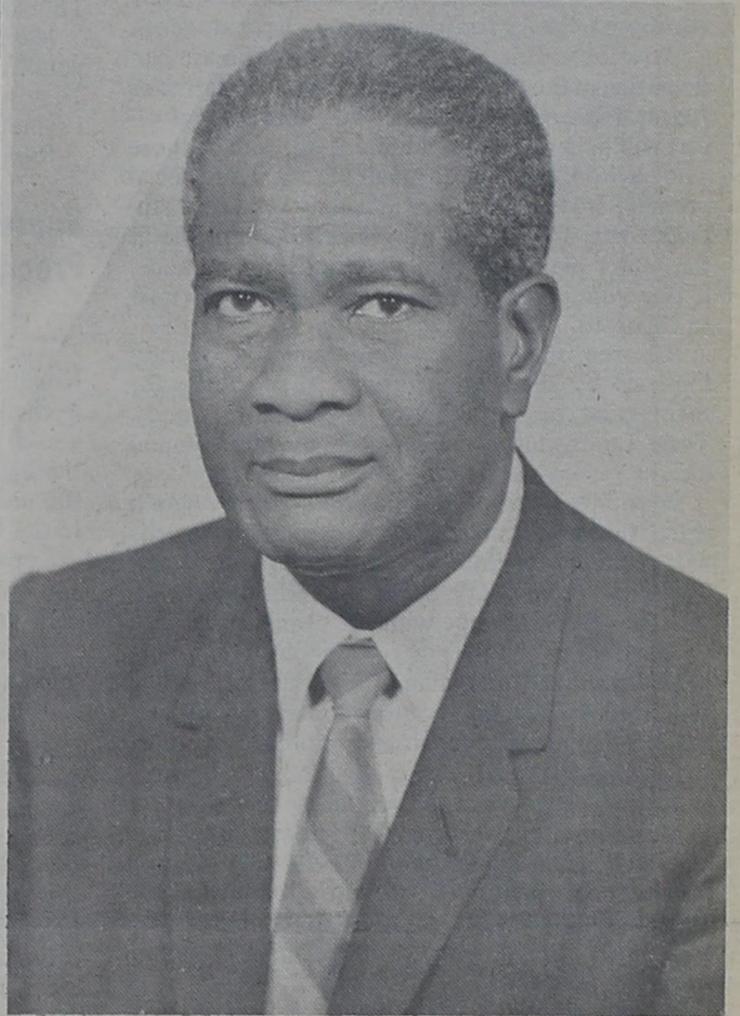

Parkins holds a Juris Doctor degree and a Bachelor of Divinity Degree in addition to his bachelor's degree in sociology.

He practiced criminal law during the 1950's and then came to South Texas to work with the City-County Welfare Division of Nueces County.

In Corpus Christi he established the St. Martin's Episcopal Church which is described as having a "truly tri-ethnic" congregation.

In the same city he established and supervised a bilingual school which teaches English and Spanish to children from 3 to 6 years old, using the "team-teaching" method in the classroom.

Through Parkins' efforts, six Episcopal churches in the Corpus Christi area joined to establish a non-profit corporation and built Cliff Maus, a Rent Supplement Project of 110 apartments and a community building. He also helped to develop a detailed plan of community services designed "not only to take people out of the slums but to take the slum out of people."

While a resident of Corpus Christi, Parkins was a vice president of the Community Action Program, one of nine trustees of the Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board of Nueces County, a member of the Legal Aid Society Board, and served many day school and community boards as well as working in the areas of family counseling and suicide prevention.

He was one of 12 delegates of the Episcopal Church in America to the World Council of Churches in Uppsala, Sweden.

Parkins is known for his lectures at several universities. He taught at the University of Corpus Christi before he left that city in 1969 to join the faculty of the Planning Section of the School of Architecture of the University of Texas at Austin.

He still serves the church as a worker priest and is chairman of the Church and Society Division of the Texas Conference of Churches.

In Austin Parkins organized and is president of the non-profit Community Development Corporation, dedicated in improving living conditions for the poor.

He is chairman of the American Collegiate Schools of Architecture Task Force—for the accreditation of schools of architecture in Black colleges and universities—and a director of the American Institute of Architects—Ford Foundation Scholarship Program.

The Contemporary Problems in America series at Texas Tech University is coordinated by the Department of Electrical Engineering. Prof. Marion O. Hagler and William M. Portnoy are directing the program.

Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin, an employee of International Business Machines (IBM), is attending a three-day conference (March 24-27) in Miami, Florida, of the National Awards Conference in Field Engineering Division. The conference is being held in the Fountainebleau Hotel.

Vote Yes On New School Bonds

by T. J. Patterson

It is true, Lubbock needs better schools for the thousands of young people in this 75 square mile area. Better schools will make a better Lubbock. In order to invest wisely in the future of Lubbock, vote "yes" April 6, 1971, for the $56 million in bonds for the young people of our community and city.

The bonds, which will entail a five-year improvement program, will provide kindergarten classes, expanded programs for special education and pre-vocational classes for junior high school students.

After observing the young people who are participating in the pre-vocational classes at Matthews Junior High, I'm convinced that this type of effort will help in the development of some of those who have only walked through school. This special program makes life more pleasant for those students who are looking for something tangible at the junior high level. This is of most importance, if our young people are to have something now to relate to.

It's true, the new state programs are partially financed by the State of Texas, but facilities for them must be wholly paid for by local funds. These funds must come from people like you and me.

If you're a parent or concerned citizen, you'll agree that our public school community needs new facilities for Ballenger, North Avenue U and Southeast Elementary Schools. Additional facilities are needed to cope with the changing residential patterns within the city of Lubbock. Our young people need the upgrading of libraries at all levels. The need for lighting, improved safety conditions around elementary schools and improved facilities for elementary and junior high school physical education programs would certainly be welcomed to our community. Perhaps the most important factor of the bond effort will be the upgrading of instructional equipment for our young people.

All of these improvements will be made over a five-year period, with school bonds sold as the financing is needed.

Our young people in the Lubbock Independent School District need our help. They need each of us to think positive come April 6th. From 7:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m. let's vote "yes" for the future of our school district. Your vote is important.

Iles Students Make Good Sense

by T. J. Patterson

A group of young elementary school students of Ella Iles said a mouth full last week in a skit given for the parents attending a Parent-Teacher Association Meeting. These young people addressed themselves to Article I of the Bill of Rights

(one of the original ten amendments) to the Constitution of the United States.

As black people, we must become involved with some of the things those young people found in Article I. They talked about the Freedom of Speech, Freedom of Religion, Freedom of the Press, Freedom to Assembly and the Freedom to Petition.

I wonder how many of you are older than these young people and still have not paid close attention to Article I of the Bill of Rights?

You know, these young people are learning these things in their elementary years of development. I wonder what they will think about us when they find out that many of us are afraid to carry out the freedoms they spoke so loudly about last Thursday evening at Ella Iles cafeteria.

Maybe we should start paying attention to these young people. They really say a lot sometimes. They just may take us older people up on Article I sometimes.

Supreme Chancellor Hester's Proclamation Worth Reading

by T. J. Patterson

The Supreme Chancellor Commander of Knights of Pythias, R.A. Hester of Dallas, sent a challenge to the many lodges throughout the world last week. In his annual proclamation, the highest officer in the international order told the members of this organization they have a job to do.

In part the proclamation read: "From the sweat and toil of the long day's dusty road, the Black man in America has advanced to the pinnacle of a laughing star. We know that there are problems that beset us, mountains to be climbed, rivers to be bridged and valleys to be exalted."

The challenge comes when he says: "... every brave Pythian and fair Calanthean must be willing to dedicate their honor, life and sacred fortune..."

I wonder how many of the members of Knights of Pythian No. 514 and Court of Calanthean—Running Rose and Evening Joy Courts—paid close attention to this proclamation? It says something.

I'm sure Chancellor Commander George Woods, and Worthy Counselors Coraine Fair and C.M. Harris will agree with me. There is a lot to be done in our community. We can all start together, today.

my views

by Eddie P. Richardson

We Must Do It Ourselves!

Basically, there are two kinds of power that count in America: economic and political, with social power deriving from the two. In order for black people to control their destiny, they must be able to control and affect the decisions which control their environment; economic, political and social.

We need to organize the black community block by block to make the community aware of its power and potential. We need to make every voter in the black community aware that he or she is an independent voter. We should support and/or organize political clubs, to run independent black candidates for office, and support any black American already in office who answers to and is responsible to the black community.

Economic exploitation in the black community is the most vicious form of discrimination practiced on any people in America today. Many blacks pay twice as much rent for rat-infested, roach-crawling tenements; the black American pays more for food, clothing, and insurance than anyone else.

Getting ourselves together will be the only way we can wage an unrelenting struggle against these evils in our community.

We must work with our people to solve the problems, and start self-improvement programs.

Our communities must be the source of our own strength politically, economically, intellectually and culturally in the struggle for "human Rights and Dignity."

Citizens Involvement Must Stop Wild Shooting!!!

An unfortunate incident happened last Saturday afternoon, at approximately 4:00 p.m., in the 500 block of East 23rd Street. A shooting spree occurred which could have been detrimental to some of the young people enroute to choir rehearsal at Bethel A.M.E. Church. Not only these young people, but many others who were waiting in Nettie Lou's Barber Shop for their regular trim.

Mrs. Gadison did report the incident to the Lubbock Police Department, just as she should have done. She was able to give as much information about the incident as she witnessed. By the same token, her place of business was a target of a stray bullet, which hit the large window pane, and later was found on the floor of her establishment by investigating officers. Mrs. Gadison is to be commended for getting the young people into a safe area while the "wild dumb-ass shoot-out" was happening.

What's really disturbing about the whole matter is that no one else gave any information whatsoever concerning the incident, even though both parties were driving automobiles, and both left the scene of the "comedy" in the same automobiles. Because of the lack of citizen involvement, those responsible for the dumb stunt, got away. Without any doubt, because of lack of involvement, others who saw the incident are also responsible although they did not get involved.

Brothers and sisters, it's past time for us to get involved when these type of incidents happen in our community. East 23rd Street is not a "wild, wild West" location, waiting for someone to come along and enjoy themselves with a shooting spree. There is no place in our community for the type of person or persons who would stupidly endanger our young people and loved ones at their own leisure.

Why not start getting involved now—so this type of "gun-play" won't happen anymore? We've all got a lot to live for, and we all got a lot to lose if some of these very dumb and unthoughtful people are allowed to continue their style of games in our community.

Get involved, be observant, and don't be afraid to "tell it like it happened" when law enforcement officers arrive to get the story. Remember, only concerned citizens can stop this sort of action before some innocent child is killed or maimed for life.

The community must reinforce its moral responsibility to rid itself of the efforts of years of exploitation, neglect, and apathy, and wage an unrelenting struggle against footshufflers, phonies and jive-time Uncle Toms.

We must accept the responsibility for regaining our people who have lost their place in society. We must declare an all-out war on organized crime in our community; we must establish a clinic whereby one can get aid and care for drug addiction and alcoholism and create meaningful, creative, useful activities for those who were led astray down the avenue of vice.

We, the people of the black community, must be prepared to help each other in all ways possible; we must establish a place where unwed mothers can get help and advice; a home for the aged in our own community and an orphanage for children in our community. We must help our youth stay out of trouble by providing constructive activities for the youngsters. We must set good examples for our youth and teach them that their greatest responsibilities are to themselves, their families and their community.

The black community must endeavor to do the major part of all charity work from within the community. Charity, however, does not mean that which we are legally entitled in the form of government benefits. The black veteran must be made aware of all the benefits due him and the procedure for obtaining them. These veterans must be encouraged to go into business together, using GI loans etc. Black people, in order to survive, we must unite and work together.

We must take pride in the black community, for it is home and it is power. What we do here in regaining our self-respect, manhood, dignity and freedom helps all people everywhere who are fighting against oppression.

To reach our aims and goals we must start at home and do it ourselves.

Afro-American Notes for Busy Bellringers: On February 7, 1867, the Peabody Foundation Fund of three and a half million dollars established for the education of Negroes in the South and on February 15, 1879, Blanche K. Bruce, black Senator from Mississippi, presided over U. S. Senate. On February 25, Hiram R. Revels, first U. S. Senator took the oath of office in 1870 and on March 3, 1834, Isaac Lane was born. Lane was one of the first bishops of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church and founder of Lane College, Jackson, Tennessee. At the time of his death in 1937, the New York Times had shortly before cited him as the oldest living Protestant bishop in the world.

On March 5, 1770, Crispus Attucks, a black seaman, first to fall mortally wounded in the Revolutionary War in the Boston Massacre. On March 16, 1827, Freedom's Journal, first black newspaper was launched and on March 17, 1836, Texas, as a republic, abolished the slave trade.

On our recent visit to the mid-winter session of the West Texas Press Association at Sul Ross University in Alpine country, we had an opportunity to visit briefly Fort Davis, National Historic Site in the mountain country. Once an army outpost on the San Antonio-El Paso road, the Fort was garrisoned by black troops for 18 years.

Abandoned during much of the Civil War, Fort Davis was reopened by the 9th U.S. Calvary and the 24th and 25th Infantry (mostly black troops) compiling a remarkable record of success against Comanche and Apache Warriors, various renegades, bandits and highwaymen. Having served its purpose in the taming of the West, Fort Davis was abandoned by the Army (U.S.) in 1891.

Attention West Texas High School Seniors. The Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, the Elks (IBPOEW), National Council of Negro Women, the NAACP, the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity and the Shriners (A.E.A.O.N.M.S.) have reported to this column that there are scholarships available for you valued up to $1,500 each. They are awarded by the Coca-Cola Company on the basis of financial need and academic standing. Black students interested in these scholarship awards should apply through local chapters of the above West Texas organizations before October, 1971.

An Invite—Dear Bob: As you may no doubt know, within a few days we will be observing our founder's day and celebrating our re-admittance in the Southern Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges. Please pass the word on to other bellringers and graduates as well as ex-students and friends of Texas College in the Midland-Odessa area and throughout the vast West Texas area. . . We hope that many of you can get an opportunity to see the remarkable progress of our institution in the past five years especially . . . Looking forward to seeing you and others on our campus within the coming weeks, I am; Yours truly, W.E. Williams—Office of Public Relations, Texas College, Tyler, Texas.

Thanks W.E. It just might be that by the time these lines reach bellringers, we will be on the campus, talking about old times and helping to plan for the future of dear ole T.C. Indeed, those were the good ole days.

When President Nixon spoke at the last rites of Whitney M. Young, Jr., this past week in Kentucky, and how eloquently the president expressed Young's basic philosophy: equality and opportunity, I thought of our last press conference in Dallas with him several years ago. He said then that while many privileges and opportunities had been opened for blacks and other minorities in the country by the civil rights act of 1954, that the only way these could be implemented were by job opportunities. He then cited several instances of firms that did millions of dollars worth of business with blacks and other minorities in the field of insurance, etc., and porters were about all one could find in these firms and offices.

Young felt that the term "subsidy" was a better term than "welfare" and that a lot of people depended on either or both of them. He was a

Special Institute to Be Presented for Minority Law Students at Texas Tech This Summer

Lubbock—A special institute free to minority group students who want to enter the profession of law will be offered during the 1971 summer at Texas Tech University.

Deadline for applying for the institute is April 1. Applications may be obtained through the Texas Tech University School of Law by calling or writing to Assistant Dean C. Tom Reese. They must be mailed to the supporting organization, the Council on Legal Education Opportunity (CLEO), 863 Fair St. SW, Atlanta, Ga. 30314.

Dr. Reese explained that there will be seven CLEO Summer Institutes conducted in the United States this summer. Texas Tech, the University of California at Davis and the University of Denver will conduct institutes for 35 students each, and the University of Florida at Gainesville, and St. Louis, Tulane and Howard universities will conduct smaller institutes.

Working in consortium with Texas Tech in the program are the universities of Houston and New Mexico.

The purpose, Reese said, is to discover among Mexican-American and Negro students potentially successful law students. Because of its location, the Texas Tech Law School program is expected, Reese said, to attract its largest enrollment from Mexican-American students. He emphasized, however, that the institute is open to all minority groups.

Those who complete the six-week institute successfully will gain admission to an accredited law school.

The Law School Admission Text usually used to predict a student's potential for success in law school, Reese said, is not always a satisfactory measuring instrument for students from minority groups because its basic design takes into account the traditional Anglo-American background.

For the participants, the CLEO Summer Institute will provide the equivalent of the Law School Admission Text. Participants, however, do take this test.

To apply for the institute, students should have a bachelor's degree or expect to receive the degree this spring, Reese said.

The institute will provide a law school semester in miniature. Offered will be a course on legal research and writing and courses on legal process, civil procedure and criminal law. Reese said that law and English professors will work closely with students.

The program, which has the support of the Ford Foundation and the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, is totally free to the students. Room and board, books and supplies and travel expenses are paid by CLEO.

"In addition," Reese said, "we hope to assist those successfully completing the institute to find what financial assistance might be necessary for them to go on to law school. In accepting applications CLEO considers the financial ability of the student to pursue three years of law school as well as his academic potential."

"The legal profession is interested," he said, "in encouraging minority group persons to enter the law profession." He explained that only about 1 per cent of the profession nationally now comes from minority groups.

"These minority groups must be integrated into the profession," said Reese, "in order to solve a lot of the social problems that exist in this country today."

Federation of Choirs to Celebrate 16th Anniversary Here This Sunday

It was sixteen years ago when a great project was put together by some dedicated people in our community. The man who was instrumental and played a great part in the outcome of this project was Mr. Oscar Iles who is now deceased.

This monthly song feast is called the Federation of Choirs. This organization will celebrate its 16th anniversary Sunday, March 28th with the Mass Choirs under the direction of Mrs. Desma Moore, Mrs. Mae Pearl Jackson and Mrs. Berrye Hollins Miller.

A great rehearsal was held Tuesday evening at the Greater Saint Luke Baptist Church in preparation for the big day Sunday. Final rehearsal will be held tomorrow evening, Friday, at 8:00.

The officials of this organization urge the public to attend this annual affair. You'll miss a treat if you fail to be there. We are all

Pythian-Calanthean Turn Out Last Sunday for Services

The members of the Knights of Pythian and Court of Calanthean turned out last Sunday afternoon at the New Light Baptist Church in their annual Thanksgiving Day Services. The Reverend M.P. Swisher, pastor of New Light, delivered the annual sermon.

The Dunbar marching band got the "big day" underway for the members of this fraternal order by marching through the northeast Lubbock neighborhood.

Mrs. L.S. Graves was responsible for giving the special welcome in behalf of her church. T.J. Patterson delivered the Pythian address; and Mrs. Emmalene Chatman did a splendid job in delivering the Calanthean address.

George Woods, Chancellor Commander of Post No. 514, passed his gavel over to George Smothers, who served as master of ceremonies during the afternoon affair. Woods added color to the program when he told the beautiful story of Damon and Pythian.

Mrs. Coraine Fair and Mrs. C.M. Harris, Worthy Counselors of Evening Joy and Running Rose Courts respectively, gave brief remarks to the group.

The New Light Senior Choir devoted their talent to beautiful music for the group. Solos were given by Mrs. Mary Sterling, Mrs. Mary Nels and Mrs. Skief.

Immediately following the annual fete, a family style dinner was served at the lodge hall, located at 1310 East 17th.

The Police Department will issue citations for violators who do not have their vehicles covered so as to allow garbage or other debris to drop or blow onto the city streets or alleys.

Upon conviction, violators may be fined up to $200 in Municipal Court.

Blackwell said, "This program of enforcement is necessary to
