

NAACP Chapter Votes To Start Procedures To Sue City

Members of the Lubbock chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) voted unanimously last Sunday afternoon in their regular monthly meeting at Posey Neighborhood Center to start necessary steps to file suit against the City of Lubbock for the absences of black firemen.

A. Gene Gaines, a local attorney, was given the go ahead to find the necessary steps the local unit must take to get something done in this area. "We're tired of being run around on employment of black people on the city of Lubbock's Fire Department," said Dr. F.L. Lovings, president.

In a motion submitted by Dr. Vivian Davis, the body voted in favor of the motion. The motion was: "The Lubbock Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) will begin whatever process necessary to file suit against the City of Lubbock Fire Department and City of Lubbock for racial discrimination in hiring practices."

Atty. Gaines told the body that there were test cases throughout the country that the local chapter could look at for information. "As soon as possible, I will begin to look into the matter and have a report back as soon as possible," said Gaines.

Expansion of Council

Not only will the City of Lubbock have to worry about a suit in the fire department, but there is a great possibility of the local unit looking into legal matters of the recent decision of the City Council in the expansion of the council. "We can't give any comments at this time, but information toward this matter will be forthcoming," said Dr. Lovings.

Aside from the efforts of concern, which was stressed by the NAACP, a spokesman of the East Lubbock Business Association (ELBA), Harold M. Chatman, has been representing ELBA in this matter.

Other business taken up in the monthly meeting included the following:

•Election of officers for the next two years. Those elected to office were: Dr. F.L. Lovings, president; Dr. Emory Davis, first vice president; Mrs. Kate Nobel, 2nd vice president; George C. Woods, 3rd vice president; secretary, Mrs. Ida Mae Cheek; assistant secretary, Mrs. Byrtle Rochelle; treasurer, Mrs. Bilye J. Caviel.

C.F. Cooke, Sr., served as chairman of the nominating committee for the election of officers. The entire body voted unanimously on the election of all officers.

•Membership voted to change hours of monthly meetings. Executive board will meet at 3 p.m. and the general meeting will be held at 4 p.m. on the second Sunday of each month.

•Members of the Political Action, Legal Redress and Education Committees were asked to follow up on recommendations made to the Crosbyton and Friendship Public Schools.

•Dr. Emory Davis's report of the Education Committee findings in an alleged racial discrimination at Brownfield High School was accepted. He reported that there was no evidence of racial discrimination.

•Membership Committee, Ms. Maxine McCormick, Chairman, reports the committee is still working hard. A $50 check from the Men's Civic Club was presented.

Dr. Lovings told the group: "I am not satisfied with the way the City Council voted on the recent expansion of the City Council. There has to be something done

KLFB, Spanish Radio, to Present Mexican Horse Show Here this Month

In celebration of its' Seventh Anniversary, KLFB Spanish Radio, brings to city a glimpse of Mexican folklore and culture as displayed by the renowned singer and horseman, Roberto Duinar.

This premiere Mexican star of stage and screen launched his musical career at the age of 8 and has since been acclaimed throughout Mexico, South and Central America, as well as in some regions of the United States such as New Mexico, California, Arizona and Texas. This is his first visit to Lubbock and his plans include tours through New York, Chicago as well as Puerto Rico, Spain, France, Germany, Italy and Japan.

Since childhood, Robert Guinar has been a member of the National Federation of Charros in Mexico and it was through this affiliation that he decided to bring to the world a spectacular show with charros and Mariachis, a rodeo of highly trained horses, "Pecosa" the most comical mule in the world, and "Snowman" the onetone bull who leaps through a ring of fire. Also he brings with him a bunch of Cowboy Monkeys and the popular "Mr. Ed", the Spanish speaking horse. Roberto also brings with him Amelia Martinez, one of Mexico's newest and brightest stars, his charming 4 year old daughter, Charrito, the Mexican stunt men, a great mariachi band from Nuevo San Juan, the Mexican Jr. Champion trick roper and guest of honor D.C. Lubbock Organizations Address Council Representatives from several concerned organizations in the city of Lubbock met at the University Ministeries last Monday evening to draw up plans to address their position to the Lubbock City Council on Wednesday of this week. Organizations involved are East Lubbock

Business Association (ELBA), Lubbock League of Voters, Momientivos Popular, American Civil Liberties Union, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

The group voted to appear before the City Council Wednesday morning at 9:30 a.m. and ask them not to pass the resolution which would extend the city council by two (2) without residential requirement. If the city council refuses to reconsider their stand, the group will seek petitions to ask that the citizens call for an election to increase the city council by two with residential requirements.

In order for the group to call an election, according to Vernon's Law of Texas Civilian, Article 1170—"the governing body shall, upon receiving a petition signed by qualified voters in such city, town or political subdivision in number not less than five per cent (5%) thereof or 20,000 signatures, whichever is less, submit any proposed amendment or amendments to such charter". . .

The group is saying that the proposal should read to the citizens of Lubbock as: "shall be composed of a mayor and six council members to be elected at large with the requirement that each councilperson be a resident of a certain geographical district; the boundaries of said districts to be determined by the city council. The transition schedule and terms of office to be determined by city council."

The advantages of such system are:

1. Council members would be responsible to all citizens.
2. As a result of both expansion and residency requirements, hopefully, there would be input of

EDITORIALS

Let's Put The West Texas Times In Every Home

We want every home in east Lubbock to have a copy of the West Texas Times each week. With this possible, we will be able to communicate to brothers and sisters of the black community what is happening in our community. If you are a weekly reader of the Times, we hope you will join in this effort to see that this goal is achieved.

There are some boys and girls who sell the paper, which is dedicated to informing the residents of our community. Aside from street sales, we will make an attempt to sell subscriptions house to house to persons who would like to receive this newspaper through the mail.

The West Texas Times, as we've said many times, is your voice; and we want every black brother and sister to know what is going on. With an effective tool of communications, we'll be able to inform you about what is going on and what will happen if we are not aware of some of the problems.

Whether you know it or not, the West Texas Times will become a more effective tool if it is in every home each week. Let's put the Times in every home in east Lubbock. If this is done, the entire black community will accomplish more than is now possible. We are ready to walk from house to house to see that this is possible. We hope all of you are on our side and will pass the word concerning this effort.

We've been working over fourteen years for you. It can be done if you will help put the Times in every home.

Lincoln At Gettysburg

On Nov. 19, 1863, Abraham Lincoln helped dedicate a national cemetery at Gettysburg—a 17 acre cemetery where thousands of Civil War soldiers were then buried (Confederate dead were later removed to Richmond).

Lincoln wasn't the main speaker—Senator Edward Everett of Massachusetts had that honor. But Lincoln's brief words have become perhaps the most famous in American history. In his message, Lincoln continued his international and national relations campaign to turn the war into a crusade against slavery—"all men are created equal, government of the people, by the people and for the people."

That was part of Lincoln's campaign to win moral support around the world. The South, of course, was fighting for independence (Lincoln didn't propose to abolish slavery when he took office as President in 1860) and the war began on the issue of secession—the right of a state to secede from the Union.

A popular idea today is that the Civil War was a great conflict over ending slavery. Not really true—at least, that's not how it began, though slavery was a hot political issue. Lincoln, a humanitarian, stressed the anti-slavery theme increasingly after he ordered an invasion of the South; he launched full-scale war (after S. Carolinians fired on the flag, a poor bit of strategy because it inflamed the North).

But even in Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation (July 1, 1863), he didn't free slaves in non-southern states, or in cities and counties which were Union-occupied, such as New Orleans and Norfolk, several occupied counties in Virginia, etc. (Lincoln had warned the South in September of 1862 he would emancipate the slaves of states not represented in Congress by January 1st, 1863).

Lincoln, of course, was ahead of most of his contemporaries in his devotion to individual freedom and broader democracy; and he assured victory for the Union by turning world opinion against the South on the slavery issue.

Once the world saw the war as one between pro-slavery and anti-slavery forces, the outcome was inevitable, for the South's only chance lay in winning diplomatic recognition from England and/or France, whereby those countries' navies would insure delivery of food and supplies to a blockaded Confederacy.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

Members of the Student Organization for Black Unity (SOBU) and brothers and sisters of Omega Psi Phi Alpha Phi Alpha and Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternities and Delta Sigma Theta and Alpha Kappa Alpha Sororities are to be complimented for a splendid job done last Saturday evening on the campus of Texas Tech University in their second annual "Greek Show".

More than one hundred black brothers and sisters filled the auditorium of the Agriculture Building to see the well known version of the "stomp" by all organizations. Although it only lasted for an hour and a half, it said many things to the Greeks and non-Greeks as well.

It would be beautiful if black brothers and sisters of Texas Tech would keep this type of relationship going from time to time. There is enough brother and sister power to help our black community. If these organizations would pool their resources in the black community, there would be some more "stomping" going on.

There are so many little black brothers and sisters in Lubbock as well as West Texas who need your help. Get out into the community and start similar projects for them. Once you've got their eye and they realize which way you're coming from, then you can help them in many ways. Such as tutoring, knowledge of self, serving as a big brother or sister to them, and any way in which you feel you can help little black brothers and sisters.

I don't see this type of show as a once a year thing. Rather, I see it as a beginning for black fraternities and sororities to get together and do bigger and better things together.

Without any doubt, your second annual West Texas Greek "Stomp" show was "right on." Now let's get down to business and do some other things for little black boys and girls, by working as a team together. Can you dig that?

After spending a week in San Antonio last week, talking to young people at several high schools there, I was able to see what black people are doing in the Alamo City. For one, black brothers and sisters will go to the polls in larger numbers and vote than we will in Lubbock.

Not only will the black brothers and sisters express themselves at the polls, they will speak out on issues which they disagree with, regardless of what others may say.

One of those people working hard in the community is Sister Dorothy Collins, wife of Samuel Collins. She was recently elected as District Twenty committeeperson of the Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA). As she sees it, young people need the help of the adults in this day and time.

Sister Collins is doing that as principal of the Edgewood Elementary School.

All in all, there's no difference between the black brothers and sisters of San Antonio and those in Lubbock and West Texas. We've just got to get up and start doing something which will help ourselves and our community.

President Ford sent a message by his Special Assistant Stanley S. Scott to the National Business League's annual convention last month. It was: President Ford "supports minority business as a vehicle to enable minorities to participate in the mainstream of America's economic life." It continued: "this Administration will work toward providing more effective programs to achieve these ends."

As I See It, it is time for this same type of attitude to be seen by "powers that be" in the Lubbock community. The minority businessman and woman must be given some consideration. This is an absolute must for our community. We need some success stories in Lubbock and West Texas.

It is good to see the Estacado Parent Teachers Association is doing its thing this year. I must take this space and say: keep up the good work. Your projects for December make a lot of sense.

I hope you will continue to make the 1974-75 school year a great one. It is good to see the theme for this year in operation for members of the Estacado PTA. "We Have A Commitment" is fitting and proper in our community.

Let's stay behind this group of moms and dads at Estacado. They've got something going now. Check them out!

One of the senior citizens in our community, Rev. S.S. Scott, 2314 Cedar Avenue, is a very interesting man of God. Rev. Scott, who is age 97, tells me he is trying to sell a cord of fine wood for only $45. If any of you need some wood, why not help Rev. Scott out. You can call him at 744-4991.

Rev. Scott, who came to Lubbock in 1927, has a lot to say about our community. I hope to have an opportunity in the near future to write some of his wisdom so our readers can know something about Lubbock and West Texas.

Rev. Scott is an interesting man of 97 years who has a lot to say. If you can use some good wood, check Rev. Scott out.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

FORD MEN BOTCH UP ECONOMY

by Jack Anderson
From United Feature Syndicate

Washington—Our White House sources tell us regretfully that President Ford is mismanaging the economy worse than former President Nixon did during the Watergate crisis. There is confusion in the White House, they say, over how to cope with economic problems.

The President is still insisting that inflation is the nation's number one problem. The measures he has adopted to fight inflation, meanwhile, are pushing the nation into a recession, and this, many economists believe, has become the number-one problem.

There is now evidence that the President got his economic wires crossed. White House insiders say his economic advisers delivered a confidential forecast to him several weeks ago that unemployment would hit 7 per cent next year. This would be a sure sign of a recession.

But their confidential prediction never reached the Economic Policy Board while it was working out the President's economic program.

This board is the nation's top economic policymaking group. Yet its members went ahead with a plan to fight inflation unaware that the President's economic advisers, in effect, expected a recession.

Thus, an increasing number of economists believe the President is fighting the wrong economic war with the wrong weapons at the wrong time.

War Drums: Once again, the Middle East tinderbox is threatening to explode into flames.

The Arab nations have formally designated the Palestinian Liberation Organization as the bargaining body for all Palestinians. But the Israelis, who regard the PLO as a terrorist group, swear they won't negotiate with them. The only alternative, it appears, is war.

Already, the two sides are preparing for battle. Russia is pouring armaments into Syria. The Israelis are clamoring for rush deliveries of U.S. arms, including sophisticated missiles.

This has led intelligence analysts to believe the Israelis may even by planning a preemptive strike against the Arabs. The Israelis reportedly expect Egypt and Syria to launch long-range, ground-to-ground missiles at cities. To prevent this, they may decide to launch their missiles first.

Intelligence experts fear this would be the first step toward a nuclear exchange. As we reported several years ago, the Israelis already possess nuclear weapons. And the Egyptians have been promised a nuclear reactor from the United States.

The CIA has also picked up hints that India may provide the Syrians with a nuclear reactor. The deal was struck, according to intelligence reports, when the Indian defense minister visited Damascus in late September.

The Middle East, clearly, has become the most dangerous spot on the map.

Ford to Quit?: Sources close to Gerald Ford now believe he will not try to stay in the White House after 1976.

The reasons are both personal and political. The primary reason, of course, is his wife's poor health. Betty Ford, even before her breast surgery, had been urging her husband to retire from politics.

Friends say that Ford depends heavily on his wife for political advice. He has sorely missed her views during her illness. If she now asks him to step down, he probably would do so.

The man himself may also be tiring of the fray. In the past, he has enjoyed political barnstorming. But his performance this fall was lackluster.

Privately, GOP leaders fear his bland style will also hurt Republican chances in 1976. They know him well enough to tell him about their apprehensions.

It is just possible, therefore, that Gerald Ford may be content to settle for his assured place in history: a caretaker president who saw the nation through a crisis.

Hill Reform: The new Congress will be dominated by junior members who have been elected within the last six years. Even before the election, 61 senior members retired, rather than face the electorate again. Most of them were obstructionists who have helped to block reform.

Now a majority appears to favor reform. The first test will come in December when the House Democrats hold their organizing caucus. The newcomers will set up a howl for congressional reforms.

They are also talking about checking the power of the president. There will be renewed support for a constitutional amendment that would permit Congress to remove a president in a three-fourths vote of each House.

There is even talk of establishing a ceremonial president who would attend to the formalities of the office, while a constitutional president will concentrate on governing the nation.

Some of the lessons of Watergate, it appears, may finally be adopted by the new Congress.

Washington Whirl: During the last days of the Nixon Administration, one irate citizen forwarded a package of dried cow dung to the White House. The package broke open at the post office and perplexed authorities wondered what to do. They decided that regulations are regulations, so they wrapped up the cow chips and dispatched them to the Executive Mansion. . . . Because he failed to take out health insurance when he left the White House, former President Nixon will have to foot his enormous hospital bills out of his pocket. Ironically, even if his own proposal for national health insurance had been enacted, Nixon would still have had to pay at least $1,500 of his medical costs. And, after 90 days of unemployment, he would have been without insurance.

Scores of children and some adults have been hurt while imitating Evel Knievel's jumping feats. The worst injury resulted in a death. The last serious case involved a six-year-old Chicago girl who got a bad scare when she drove her bicycle off a board and into a sandbox. . . .

Pulitzer Prize winning correspondent George Weller has been waiting in Australia for nine months to recover a tattered notebook he lost in a scuffle. The courts awarded him his notes and 40 cents in damages, but the wait has already cost him $5,000. . . . The federal budget squeeze has forced government officials to withdraw the support they were giving to an important Mafia informant for the testimony he gave against his syndicate comrades. He is now on welfare.

She was accompanied by a nephew, Arthur Irvin of Marshall, Texas, who drove here Saturday and they took a Sunday morning flight to San Francisco, but it was the first to have a black pilot whose destination was from California to Houston. She says: "flights are faster and so far smoother, but I still prefer the ground."

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Walker and daughter, Merry Joe, left early Sunday morning for Fort Worth, Texas, to return their son and brother, Shelby Glenn, to Carswell Air Force Base where he is stationed. He spent the weekend here with his wife and new daughter and other relatives.

Former City Resident Passes Away in California

Final rites were held Monday, November 4, at Jones United Methodist Church at 1:00 p.m. on Post Street in San Francisco, California, for Mr. Willie Irvin, age 74, who passed away Thursday, October 31, in a local hospital there. He had been confined in the hospital a few days and suffered an apparent heart attack.

Rev. Hamilton T. Boswell, pastor, gave a glowing tribute in a eulogy as to the faithful services rendered by Brother Irvin who had been a member of his congregation for many years. Mr.

Irvin and wife were former members of Bethel A.M.E. Church here before moving to San Francisco in 1944.

His first wife, Mrs. Georgia Irvin, passed away. A few years later, he remarried his first love, Viola, the mother of five children and lived together until his death.

The services were largely attended and was a token of the love and esteem they held for a devout christian servant of God and humanity.

Survivors included his widow, Viola; three sons, Tommie Lee and Warren of San Francisco and Arthur of Marshall, Texas; a daughter, Mrs. Gloria McCray of San Francisco; eight grand children (one of whom is a student at Texas Tech University of Lubbock); one child, a daughter died in infancy; a sister, Mrs. Irbie Whitfield of Lubbock; other relatives and many friends.

Interment was in Cypress Lawn Memorial Park, 44 East Jefferson with Bryant Funeral Home in charge of arrangements and burial. Mrs. Whitfield attended the services.

Former Resident Succumbs at Oakland, California

Message was received here Wednesday of the passing of Mr. Dan Stanley, a former longtime resident of Lubbock who made his home in Los Angeles, California after leaving here years ago. Later he moved to Oakland to be near one of his sons and remained there until his death.

Survivors include two sons, Lester of Oakland; T.O. of Austin, Texas; their wives, a niece, Mrs. Mamie Black; and a grandson, Lester, Jr.; also a great grandson of Lubbock.

His first wife, Cora Stanley, passed away during their residence here and later he was married to Miss Mary Dixon and that marriage was dissolved while they lived in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Mamie Black and the great grandson left Saturday morning via Continental Airlines for the funeral services. As we go to press, they have not returned.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

This is, without a doubt, the screwiest, most mixed up, craziest, zaniest, ever-loving football season I've ever seen. You could make a fortune just betting upsets.

A week ago Tech's chances for a conference title and a Cotton Bowl berth were as dark as the murky, misty skies on the South Plains. Today, those hopes have been resurrected and the Raiders are back in the thick of things—with two league losses.

The road ahead is rocky. Beating Baylor in Waco this week is a major chore. Adding Arkansas next week in Lubbock will be little easier. But the Raiders MUST win both games to have a chance.

If Tech beats Baylor, then the Bears would have two losses, also. Let's assume that Texas beats TCU, as it should, and A&M beats Rice, as it should. That would leave the Aggies in first place at 5-1, put Tech and Texas at 4-2, all with one game left.

Let's assume, also, that Baylor beats SMU Nov. 23 to stay in the race, with only Rice left. That would put all the marbles on the Nov. 28 game between UT and A&M—at Austin, an Aggie nemesis.

All of this conjecture is interesting and might not prove a thing, but if it follows the above script—and don't bet on it—and Texas beats A&M, Tech would be in the Cotton Bowl. Sounds simple, doesn't it? It wouldn't touch it with a 10-foot pole, but it's possible.

As a matter of fact, most people I've heard talk are convinced that the Horns will beat the Aggies, so it really is up to the Raiders. If Tech beats Baylor, it will have beaten the Bears and Horns, lost to A&M, and SMU can be disregarded since it can't go to a bowl.

In the process, for the first time in history the conference title will have been won by a team with two losses. It speaks well for the way talent has been distributed and the evenness of the race.

For much of the first half, yawns were more prevalent than cheers Saturday. It was a standoff punting duel, with neither team doing anything to fight off the sleep of the Homecoming fans.

Then Don Roberts appeared and sparked the Raiders to a 7-0 halftime lead, that looked tenuously safe. TCU had not been a threat at all, but the Horned Frogs had come on strong the second half in their last two or three games. The victory wasn't assured.

The Raiders—not given a pep talk by Jim Carlen at the half, or so he said—came out more fired up for the last half. They controlled action, staying on the ground, and rolled over TCU.

The shut out was pleasing, the first in 35 games. Incidentally, Tech hasn't been shut out since Arkansas did it the week after the Raiders blanked the Bears in 1971, 34 games. Indeed, TCU crossed midfield only three times Saturday and never really threatened.

Once again the defense played an outstanding game, intercepting four passes and recovering a fumble. Meanwhile, the Raiders had only one turnover, a first half fumble.

One interesting note, Tech converted only one of 11 third down situations Saturday, while TCU converted 6 of 18. Carlen could have cared less, and so indicated at his postgame interview. That interview was not like the usual one, with TV cameras, high officials, women and a Peach Bowl official present.

After the bowl bid presentation and other hoopla was over, Carlen answered questions. It was the most informal conference he's held and he was far more relaxed, with general give and take apparent.

Indeed, Miller Bonner more or less set the tone when he remarked that "two weeks after you went to the Peach Bowl with West Virginia, you took another coaching job. Where are you going this time?"

Carlen smirked at Bonner, gave a flip reply and the give and take was on, with Eddie Clinton getting in some licks, too.

Nothing like a victory, is there?

Did Muhammed Ali call, and talk, with Howard Cosell in the ABC football booth, or was it a clever Canadian mimic? The Ontarian claims he made the call, talked with Cosell—and the resulting laugh was heard, and enjoyed, around the world.

The only one who didn't think it was funny was, of all people, Cosell. Big Mouth had only one comment. "He ought to be put in jail," or something like that. Jail? He ought to get a medal!

If you haven't been listening to the Art Turf show on KFYO radio, you've been missing the funniest show this side of All in the Family or Sanford & Son.

When I first heard it, I shook my head and said to myself, now what in heck would KFYO want to put a corny show like that on the air. Then, since I didn't have much of anything better to listen to as I drove, I started listening more closely to it.

The show is hilarious, and the longer you listen, the more you start to put coaches, writers, radio men and others into the script. Schools like UFO (University of Florida at Okeechobee), DUD, well, you get the idea, are featured opponents.

Inept Tech, Coach Turf's school, finally scored a safety a week ago. Those were the first points scored in years. And the names of the players really grab you. If you aren't tuning in, you ought to be.

Maintaining Strength For A Power-full Future

A power-full future means increased use of electricity at home and on the job. In November of 1971, we held open house at Jones Station where we were then capable of generating 256,000 kilowatts of electricity. This year we're doubling our capacity with our second unit at the largest electric generating station in West Texas, which brings our total system capability to 2,255,100 kilowatts. We're proud of our power plant and we want you to see it in operation.

Halloween Party Held Here Recently

Mr. and Mrs. Troy Nash of 2510 Fir Avenue, gave a Halloween Party for their grandchildren, Craig, Parky, Graylon and "Little Troy", and their Goddaughter, Sebrina D. Barnett, Thursday evening, October 31.

The party began at 7:30 p.m. until 9:00 p.m. There were other guests attending. Those attending were Mrs. Charles Brown, Sr., Mrs. Desolina Hunter, Mrs. Hollie "Shug" Johnson, Mrs. Gertrude Miller and Miss Bettye Gant.

The Nash's decided it would be wiser to have a party for the children since so many things happen to children on Halloween.

There were many goodies, including popcorn, candy apples, chocolate cake, lemonade, ice cream, and candy treats.

The highlight of this occasion was when "Aunt Shug" received a very large cooking bowl and a large spoon since there was no tricks, but she had her treats.

No group has the right to force its way of life on other people.

Estacado P-TA Meets Recently

The Estacado High School PTA got off to a very good start last week, October 28. The Estacado High School officials were there and introduced along with our honorable guest, Mr. Ed Irons, Lubbock schools superintendent. Mrs. Kathy Richardson presented a program with her dance class which was just wonderful and everyone enjoyed them.

Many, many thanks to everyone for taking part in this PTA meeting, especially to Mrs. Mary Paul publicity chairman and Mrs. Imatha Isaac, telephone chairman, both calling and advertising, working hard in order to make this meeting a success.

Most of all to Mr. E.W. Reed, Estacado principal, and Mr. Carol Thomas, Activity Director for Estacado. Thanks for working with the students and teachers on this behalf.

Thanks to everyone for their wonderful way of taking a part in our first PTA meeting. We are really looking for more meetings like this and need every parent and teacher working in order to make the student body of Estacado a bigger and greater high school for teachers, parents and students.

PTA president is LaVoyne Worthey.

Thanksgiving To Be Theme of ENP Day

A theme centered around Thanksgiving will mark the annual Information Day of the Expanded Nutrition Program in Lubbock County, November 20.

The 1½ hour program which gets underway at 10 a.m. at Mae Simmons Community Center, at 23rd and Oak Street, will be "Thank Goodness for ENP," will focus on highlights of six years of ENP success in helping limited income homemakers through person to person education.

A panel discussion by four homemakers will be part of the special occasion. Door prizes, exhibits, and a tasting bee are other highlights. The tasting bee will feature goods prepared by ENP homemakers.

Purpose of the event, says Mrs. Sanders, is to let area citizens know about the results of nutrition education efforts for limited income homemakers in Lubbock.

"Our aides have worked very hard in visiting hundreds of homes in the city where hardships of one type or another make it extremely difficult for a family to have a balanced nutritional diet," says the ENP leader. "These visits give homemakers an opportunity to learn on a person to person basis how to buy, select, prepare, and store food."

ENP is sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with Lubbock County. The state-wide Expanded Nutrition Program is a part of a national program of the Cooperative Extension Service USDA.

City Women Visit In South Texas

Mrs. Margaret "Sally" Hereford Jackson and a friend, Mrs. Virginia McGraw, have returned from a visit to San Antonio where they were guest of Sgt. Clemmie C. and wife, Frankie Giddens. Mrs. Giddens is the daughter of Mrs. Jackson.

While on the trip, they motored to Corpus Christi, Texas, and enjoyed fishing on Padre Islands. Together, Margaret and Virginia brought home about forty (40) pounds of fresh fish which they shared with relatives and friends.

Mrs. McGraw also visited her niece and nephew at San Antonio.

Sgt. Giddens is making a career in the U.S. Army and has served seventeen years. On December 12, he will be transferred to Hawaii where he will probably end his tenure. He and his family which includes a wife and two sons, Anthony and Curtis, are anxiously awaiting the move.

Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. McGraw are already making plans to visit Hawaii.

Greeks Stomp on Texas Tech Campus

On black college campuses, it is the going thing for black Greek organizations to "stomp" and let the sisters and brothers know about their fraternity or sorority. This is the way it was last Saturday evening on the campus of Texas Tech University in the auditorium of the Agriculture Building.

Over one hundred and thirty black brothers and sisters were present to witness the second annual "West Texas Greek Show", which is sponsored by the Student Organization for Black Unity (SOBU). Victor Hackett, coordinator of the annual project, said: "We hope black brothers and sisters will learn what it's all about in Greeklom."

Appearing on the one and a half hour show were sisters and brothers from the following fraternities and sororities: Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Eta Lambda chapter; the Ivy Pledge Club of Zeta Tau chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority; brothers of Omega Psi Phi and Alpha Phi Alpha fraternities.

Special guest were sisters and brothers of Eta Epsilon Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority and Epsilon Pi Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, both of West Texas State University.
