Mrs. Bernice Kelly Named "Rainbow Queen" Wednesday at State Convention

As many of her friends told her before she left for the finals, "You will be queen, Mrs. Kelly." Her friends were right as Mrs. Bernice Kelly became the Rainbow Queen last Wednesday, January 22. This special effort was sponsored by the Women's Auxilliary of the B.M.&E. Convention of Texas.

Her victory, according to sources, was a landslide. The queen was to be the contestant with the highest amount of money over $100. Twenty-nine of the fifty-five contestants were present, representing twenty-nine states.

This affair was held at the Tenth Winter Wonderland Fellowship Banquet of the Women's Auxilliary National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc. It was held at Hotel Arlington, Hot Springs, Arkansas. Officers of the national organization present were Dr. Mary O. Ross, president; Dr. Joseph H. Jackson, A.M.D.D., president of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A. Inc.; and Mrs. Willa M. Grimes, general chairlady.

Mrs. Kelly was presented a gold pendulum, a trophy and a cash reward. Her victory made it possible for a trip to Stockholm, Sweden, to the Baptist World Alliance. The group, including her husband Ulysses, she hopes, will arrive at New York on July 8 and on to Sweden.

Mrs. Kelly's amount was $1,216.70. First runner up was Mrs. Elenor Harris of Oklahoma; second runner up was Mrs. Emma Lee Shaw of Michigan; and third runner up was Mrs. Vivian Woods of Missouri.

"I would like to thank the churches, friends and families for each contribution that helped me to win. Your kindness will ever be remembered," said Mrs. Kelly. She went on to add, "The words, Thank You, are simple, but very sincere."

Approximately 650 employers, students, teachers, and administrators will attend. The banquet will have a "traditional French" theme and setting.

Brian Hall, Texas Tech's outstanding extra point and field goal kicker, will be the guest speaker. Hall is a two year letterman at Tech and is majoring in Agriculture Communications. At Dalhart High School, Hall held many offices in FFA and served as a state FFA officer.

Black and Brown Organizations Working Together

It's been a long time coming, but at last it's here! Members of the El Movimiento Popular and East Lubbock Business Association (ELBA) are working hand in hand for the expansion of the City Council. This move, on the part of the Mexican - American and black organizations, is long overdue, but thank God it's finally happening.

Both groups were a part of a coalition to seek the expansion of the city council. An election was held and all amendments, including the one which would have expanded the present council by three, failed. After that action, members of El Movimiento Popular have met and said that they will sponsor a petition drive for 6,000 registered voters.

ELBA members, in a board of director's meeting last Friday evening, took action to see that the City Council would be enlarged. ELBA is expected to meet with other black organizations in East Lubbock, with the first organization being the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Anyway we look at it, ELBA and El Movimiento Popular are working in the same direction for the betterment of all people in the City of Lubbock. It appears as though the sleeping giants, black and brown people, have been awakened, and are finally going to do their "thing" together. This is the way it should be, black and brown citizens working for the same cause.

The citizens of Lubbock have begun to pay close attention to the efforts of these groups. It appears as though when decisions will be made in the black and brown communities, ELBA and El Movimiento Popular will be contacted and asked for their input. In the past, both communities (black and brown) haven't had any organization to give such input. At last, it appears as though this is taking place. This is also a good sign that no one individual in the black and brown community will speak for the entire community. This is good!

We at the West Texas Times would like to applaud the leadership of El Movimiento Popular and the East Lubbock Business Association. We know that both communities can work hand in hand. We also know, without any doubt, that there is dynamic leadership in both organizations.

We would also like to encourage all citizens of Lubbock to get behind the efforts of these groups, El Movimiento Popular and the East Lubbock Business Association. We've criticized each other too long, now it's time to stand up and be counted like men.

Whatever the future holds for the destiny of El Movimiento Popular and the East Lubbock Business Association, let's stand behind them. Lubbock is overdo for blacks and browns working together. Now it's happening and let's thank God that we are able to see it happen.

Congratulations Deltas On Your Award Program

We would like to congratulate the members of the Lubbock Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. for their first annual Community Service Awards Presentation to be held Friday evening, January 31, at 7:30 p.m. at Mae Simmons Community Center.

It is good to know that there is an organization in our community who is willing to recognize a Man of the Year and a Woman of the Year. As one spokesman of the local chapter said: "We want to show our appreciation to the man and woman of our community who have done something for the benefit of all of us."

Let's all support this unselfish effort on the part of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority for what they are doing. This local chapter, too, needs to be cited for a splendid job well done. Keep up the good work sisters, your first annual effort will help our community.

Gene Gaines Is A Credit To Our Community

We are most fortunate to have talented people in our community. In the past, we've been guilty of losing our talented men and women. We are, however, fortunate to have a young black lawyer, A. Gene Gaines, who is an example of what the black man can do if he really wants to make it.

Let's keep pushing A. Gene Gaines so he will be able to utilize his legal talents in the black community. If you get an opportunity, go by and tell him that we appreciate what he is doing and want to continue to encourage him.

Keep on pushing Brother Gaines, we need you in our community.

Sister Regina Foppe, Catholic Social worker, has a good point when she says the absenteeism at Estacado High School is too high. Regardless of any other high school in Lubbock, there is no reason for students of Estacado High School to have this type of absenteeism. Most of the students are black and brown and this is where the lower socio - economic problems are located.

As I See It, each parent of students at Estacado High School needs to have a copy or an idea of the study which Ed Irons, superintendent, will provide in the near future. Members of the Estacado High School Parent Teachers Association (PTA) should get involved and do something about this type of thing.

It is unfair to blame the school if the parents don't see to it that their children are in school. On the other hand, if problems at the school are causing young people to be absent, then this should be looked into.

As parents, we give our children all the liberty in the world to attend a football or basketball game or some social dance, but we are falling behind on demanding that they attend school to secure a knowledge of something in order to make it in this world.

As parents, we are going to have to put aside those excuses and look into this high absenteeism at Estacado. Quit, by all means, saying that you don't have time to look into the welfare of your young people. Not only parents, but every concerned organization in the East Lubbock community should be concerned about this matter. Every church, regardless of the denomination, should look into this matter also.

Not only do the young people suffer when there is a high absenteeism at the school, but as taxpayers, we loose money everytime a student is absent from the institution. For example, if the school district looses $1.00 every day a student is absent from Estacado High School and this is multiplied times a hundred students a day, this can become quite costly during the entire school year.

Let's quit all this excuse making and start seeing what is causing these absences. According to a school official, he says that Estacado should have a least a 94% attendance each school day. Not the present 90%, according to the data Sister Foppe has researched.

Think about this and get involved seeing that our young people are in school. When I say young people, I'm talking about the Mexican - American, white and black people who are members of the Estacado family.

I'm beginning to worry about black people, for not getting angry about what is being done to us in Lubbock. Apparently we don't know exactly what is going on or we don't give a nickle about anything. We are still the last to be hired and the first to be fired. We are not receiving an employment opportunity with the Fire Department and our eastern part of the city hasn't grown as it should.

To me, at least, it appears as though everything is at a complete standstill. Our leadership ability has become dead and dry. We are not encouraging each other to make it as well as supporting those who are attempting to help the effort.

I would have thought by now that the young black men and women would have arose to the point of addressing themselves to what is going on around us. The older citizens of the black community, and I'm talking about those of us over age 26, appear to be afraid of losing what we have and are afraid the "Man" will take our slave from us. In some cases, we are even selling out the brother or sister who is trying to make it.

We had better awaken to the fact that our economic and political vision is mighty low key. Just because we are working for an organization or institution, doesn't mean we are going to have that job forever. Check out what is going on around you. Look at who is catching many problems because of the recession and inflation era in this country.

My closest critic, my wife, told me the other evening that just because we build buildings and bring in government programs doesn't mean that everything will be alright. I appreciate her pointing out the fact that as black people we are going to have to get our mind in the situation if we're going to make it this day and time.

A young man approached me the other day and asked the question which I though was quite important. He wanted to know how many churches in our community give scholarships to college for young people in their congregation? I couldn't answer the question, but thought it worth knowing more about.

I would like to know if ministers or pastors are doing this type of ministry in their churches. If you are making it possible to send a young black brother or sister to college, please let me know. After all, this is an important area of involvement of the church.

KISSINGER WOULD INDEED USE FORCE ON ARABS IF ...

by Jack Anderson, with Joe Spear
(From United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The Arab world is in an uproar over Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's remark about hypothetical American military intervention against the oil states.

Vice Admiral Frederick Turner, the Sixth Fleet commander, added to the furor by saying the Navy didn't want to invade any oil sheikdom but was "prepared" to do so.

Now, American diplomats are trying to calm the storm. They are telling Arab leaders that Kissinger's views have been misrepresented by the press. Kissinger himself has publicly disavowed his own statement. We can reveal, however, what the Secretary of State told associates during a recent secret discussion.

He said President Ford would not stand by while the Western world was destroyed by an oil squeeze. If oil should be used as a weapon to destroy the free world's economy, Kissinger said, it would be just as serious a threat as a Soviet military move against the West. The response of the United States, he added, would be the same.

Kissinger also said he didn't think the Soviets would go to war with the United States over the Middle East, as long as the United States was defending the West's "vital interests."

Of course, Kissinger stressed that the oil crisis can be solved without war. And in the secret policy councils, he has vigorously opposed the idea of military intervention.

Meanwhile, Kissinger has been scheming secretly with the Shah of Iran to find a solution to the Middle East mess.

The two men have developed a warm personal relationship. Kissinger has persuaded the Shah that another Middle East war would increase Arab dependency upon the Soviets and, therefore, strengthen Soviet influence in the Middle East. This would be a threat, Kissinger warned, to Iran's position.

The Shah has secretly agreed, therefore, to supply Israel with the oil she would lose by giving up the captured Egyptian oil fields. The Shah is also willing to join the United States in guaranteeing Israel's survival. This is significant, because Iran is emerging as a military power in the Middle East.

Egypt's President Sadat has told both Kissinger and the Shah, meanwhile, that Israel must give up more than the oil fields. There must also be withdrawals from the Golan Heights on the Syrian front and the West Bank on the Jordanian front. Sadat explained that he could never accept a deal that didn't also include his Arab brothers.

Kissinger is now bringing pressure on the Israelis to come to terms with the Arabs before it is too late.

Ford's Faultfinders: Congress, the press and the public have been ripping apart President Ford's economic proposals. But some of the President's own appointees have given him the roughest going - over.

At a recent Saturday White House meeting, the President, his energy czar Frank Zarb and his economic adviser William Seidman were raked over the coals by the Citizens Action Committee, a group Ford set up under his "Whip Inflation Now" program.

After Seidman and Zarb briefed the group, Ford strolled in, expecting simply to pass a few minutes in friendly banter. But the citizens committee unloaded on him.

They charged that the Seidman and Zarb presentation were too one - sided, and they complained that the Administration was taking too hard a line against gas rationing. One member said the committee was useless and ought to be disbanded.

Ford, according to those present, calmly tamped down his pipe and listened.

After the fireworks, the committee voted on two proposals. One was a resolution to ask business to hold the line on prices; the other was to create a "victory garden" on the White House lawn as an example for the nation.

The vegetable garden measure passed, but the price resolution was scuttled by a representative from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

D.E.A. Dope: The Drug Enforcement Administration, the nation's top anti - narcotics unit, has been virtually paralyzed by an internal power struggle.

Congress created the DEA in July, 1973, in an effort to eliminate the inter - agency rivalries that used to plague the war on narcotics. Our own two month investigation of DEA, however, reveals that the old animosities are still alive. Only now they are under one roof.

Office politics at DEA have gotten so rough, in fact, that the FBI has been called in to investigate charges that the agency has been covering up in house security probes. And on Capitol Hill, Sen. Henry Jackson, D - Wash., has begun a full scale investigation of the DEA.

Some influential lawmakers have told us privately that they hope to abolish the anti - narcotics agency. These legislators see the DEA as an expensive operation that has yielded only marginal results.

Iron Orders: When it comes to wage - price controls, some businessmen get a little carried away. Take, for instance, the case of Robert E. Lauterbach, the president of Wheeling - Pittsburgh Steel.

In a recent memo to all management personnel, Lauterbach inveighs against the evils of controls, and issues these marching orders: "I direct you to personally write to your Congressman and U.S. Senator, on personal, not corporate, stationary. Be forceful and cite wherever possible examples that apply to your Congressman's constituency. Finally, forward to me a copy of your letter, as well as any response you receive. I'm looking forward to receiving them."

Lauterbach attached a four page fact sheet that loyal employees could refer to. To work at Wheeling - Pittsburgh, you apparently have to share the president's ideological views.

House Burglaries On The Move

This column would like to inform you of the increasing number of house burglaries in our community. As a resident of a house or an apartment, you should take extra precautions to see that your place of residence is secure.

If you live in a neighborhood and are concerned, you should do your part to report all strange people walking and in cars in your neighborhood. If you don't want to get involved, you can at least alert the police department about strange things happening in your community. Sometimes it pays to take down the license number of strange cars in your neighborhood. This just may prevent or help catch a burglar.

Think about this, for it is very important.

House Burglary

J.L. Owens, 1506 East 16th Street, reported that while he and his wife were sleeping one night last week, persons unknown broke into his house. He reported that a money bag containing $25 in cash was taken.

His coat and pants had been removed from the house and were left on the west side of the house. Taken from his billfold in his hip pocket was a $10 bill.

Police discovered that there was a scratch found near the lock bolt handle where the striker plate is on the front door. There were no suspects in this house burglary.

House Burglary

Willie S. Jackson, 806 David Street, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown broke out a window on the west side of his house to gain entry. Damage to the window was believed to be $10.

Taken from the house was $2.00 in change in a jar. Police took the jar for possible fingerprints.

House Burglary

Johnny Gray, 3506 Ute Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that someone gained entry to his house through a door screen to the kitchen. An investigation revealed that it was cut and persons unknown unlocked the screen for entry. Unknown persons apparently knocked out the back door glass.

Taken from the house was a man's suit valued at approximately $80. There was $30 worth of damage done to the door.

Assault

Patsy Ann Kelly, 1618 Avenue C, Number 57, reported to Lubbock police that a man threw a beer bottle through a window glass and broke it.

The glass fell and caused several deep lacerations on her forehead and the top of her head. She was taken to a local hospital for treatment.

Shot Victim

A Lubbock man, age 18, was reported shot and taken to a local hospital for treatment. He refused to tell police who was apparently responsible for shooting him. He was arrested for loud and profane language at the hospital.

The young man also refused to sign a statement for treatment.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

When the 1975 Southwest Conference basketball campaign goes into the record books, the biggest basket of the season may have been the one William Johnson scored against Texas Saturday afternoon last. At least, from a Texas Tech standpoint, it may have been the biggest.

The Red Raiders were on the verge of losing their second straight league battle. A horrendous first half by Tech was made acceptable only because Texas almost matched the Raiders.

Then came the second half turnaround, when the Raiders began to hit with their accustomed ability. Slowly they pecked away until they had tied it. The lead changed hands and here came the heart stopping final minute.

And here came a flu-ridden Johnson, summoning up hidden strength to block a shot, kick it out to another Raider. With time running out, Tech had a chance to win—if it could score.

An overtime might be costly. Rick Bullock, who had come back in the second half, also had fouled out and was not available. Only Johnson and Phil Bailey had been scoring consistently.

"We wanted Johnson to take the last shot," Coach Gerald Myers said. That tells you something of the high regard and respect Tech has for this superb athlete. It also jolts the memory back to the days when Gerald was the one Tech wanted to take the last shot under similar circumstances.

Johnson was equal to the challenge. From 15 feet out he turned, jumped and arched his last effort. The ball fell through and Tech held a 1-1 record in league warfare.

It's foolish to speculate what might have happened had that basket not been made. The game would have gone into overtime and who knows what would have happened? Forget it. Johnson took care of that and propelled the Raiders right back into the thick of things.

A week ago Coach Myers, gravely concerned about Bullock's shoulder, remarked that Tech might well be playing the four toughest teams right at the start—with three of the games on the road. He had added, in dead seriousness, that Tech could be 0-4, easily.

For a time that dismal Saturday night against Texas he almost seemed like a prophet. Loss No. 2 appeared imminent and, while two losses, unlike football, would not eliminate a team, it would be a tremendous hill to climb.

Then came Johnson's winning goal and the Raiders could breathe a little easier. They were only one game behind Arkansas and Texas A&M—and they had a chance Tuesday night to do something about the Aggies.

Arkansas looked impressive beating a good SMU team, a Pony team that might well be in the fight all the way. The Razorbacks ought to have relatively easy sledding this week, with only Rice and Baylor. Still, both games are on the road and anything can happen.

This is a critical week for the Raiders. They came out of road warfare at .500 and that's a winning margin. Two victories this week would make the picture much brighter.

One thing is certain, it's going to be a rough race. The team that wins probably won't lose over three games. And, if the prime contenders win all their home games, it's going to make road games all the more important.

Right now I'd list the main contenders as Tech, A&M, Arkansas, with SMU and TCU in the leading challenging positions. Baylor, Rice and Texas can be the type which will be extremely dangerous.

So, Arkansas, A&M, and Tech each have taken a step forward against the more dangerous teams, but with Arkansas having a little better on the strength of beating SMU in Dallas.

There's a lot of season left and the fans ought to be hanging from the rafters for every game in the conference.

A couple of sports fans were talking in church Sunday and one remarked that he had never seen such fantastic shooting as Arkansas showed against SMU. I remarked that he must not have seen the Houston-Tech game, when both teams shot better than 52%.

"Houston!" he replied. "Boy, they're going to mess things up when they start playing in the conference."

Maybe the Cougars will, but there will have to be some changes, primarily in attitude.

Insofar as ability is concerned, the Cougars this year probably have the best talent in the league. They have height, speed and tremendous shooting ability.

But Houston did not impress us as a disciplined team. There was individual ability, but not the type of team play that will make Houston a consistent winner. They have the type of team that can win by 40 points this time, then lose by two to an inferior club the next time.

The recent Pro Bowl game wasn't, as Frank Gifford inadvertently said, "the last game of the year," it was the last game of the 1974 season. Coming up in the not too distant future will be Tech's spring training game and then the All-America battle.

I'm looking forward to spring training. Tech had a lot of good material last year, some excellent red shirts and a world of potential. It will be interesting to see how it is all put together in the spring.

A guy and a girl were sitting on her couch discussing intellectual things like mental telepathy.

"No," the guy smiled. "I'd call that just plain good luck!"
