"Matador Day" Proclaimed

Friday, Nov. 24, 1978 was proclaimed to be "Matador Day", according to Mayor Dirk West. The proclamation was presented to Coach Louis Kelly during the pep rally at 12:00 noon. Bill McAlister presented the proclamation to Coach Kelly.

Among the speakers were football players who were in the State Championship for Estacado in 1968.

The Matadors took on Ft. Stockton in Midland, Texas Friday night. The Matadors defeated the Panthers 21-7. The Matadors are now the Bi-district champions. Friday, Dec. 1, the Matadors will take on Snyder in Snyder.

Grant Helps Needy Pay Utility Bills

Lubbock families with low incomes, who can qualify under federal guidelines, will receive assistance in paying their utility bills this winter.

The payments are made possible by a $15,000 grant to the City of Lubbock from the Federal Community Services Administration, according to Mrs. Madeline Amalla, Special Projects Coordinator for the city's Community Services Department.

Assistance will only be given to help pay electric and gas bills, Mrs. Amalla said, and such bills must be no more than 30 days past due.

Applicants must have documents as evidence of eligibility, Mrs. Amalla said. If they are employed, they must have check stubs or some proof of the amount they earn.

If they receive Social Security benefits, they must produce Social Security check stubs. Food stamp cards and identification cards from any welfare agency program will also be accepted as proof of income.

If an applicant is unemployed, he or she must submit evidence of job-seeking through the Texas Employment Commission.

Applicants must arrange an interview in advance by calling 762-6411, extension 2308. Interviews will be conducted, beginning November 27, at all of the Community Services Department's three locations: 820 Texas Avenue, 1532 E. 15th Street, and 2407 First Street.

Anyone who is confined to his home because of sickness or disability can arrange to be interviewed at home.

Shirley Chisholm to Lecture On Education at Texas Tech

U.S. Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, recently elected Secretary of the House Democratic Caucus and Vice-Chairwoman of the Congressional Black Caucus, will address "The New Thrust in Education Today" on November 30 in the Texas Tech University Center Theatre at 8:15 p.m. The lecture is sponsored by UC Cultural Events.

An articulate, straightforward champion of the rights of the downtrodden, she derives her power from the people she represents, rather than from the regular party organization.

Elected to the 91st Congress, Mrs. Chisholm represents New York's Twelfth Congressional District, which comprises Bedford-Steuvesant, perhaps the nation's largest black ghetto. She is the first black Congresswoman in the history of the United States and the first woman and the first black to seek the nomination for the Presidency of the United States on a major political party.

Mrs. Chisholm is a member of the House Education and Labor Committee, the Select Education, and General Education and Agricultural Labor Subcommittees.

The recipient of fifteen honorary degrees, Shirley Chisholm has remained on the Gallup Poll's list of the ten most admired women in the world for the past three years.

Tickets for the speech are available at the UC Ticket Booth. Admission is $2.00 for Tech students with ID and $3.00 for all others. For further information phone 742-3610.

Elementary School Named For Longtime Educator, Lottie Mae Hamilton

Two names adorn Carver-Hamilton Elementary School at 1210 East 12th, Ft. Worth, Texas—one for the famous black scientist, George Washington Carver, and another for Lottie Mae Hamilton, principal of the school for 10 years before her retirement in 1966.

"I have pleasant happy memories of those years," Mrs. Hamilton said about the 44 years she served in the Fort Worth public schools. "Those were the good old days."

Born and reared in Tyler, Texas, she received her bachelor's degree from Texas College in Tyler and was the first black to receive her master's degree in elementary education from Texas Christian University.

After a short teaching stint in Tyler, Mrs. Hamilton moved to the Ft. Worth public schools in 1922 where she taught first grade at Amanda McCoy Elementary.

The next year she taught first grade at Gaye Street School (formerly Third Ward School) where she later became head teacher and then principal. At the same time she was principal of 18th Street School.

When the State Highway Department bought the Gaye Street School for construction for I-35, Mrs. Hamilton transferred to George Washington Carver where she was principal 10 years.

For her work with the area's children, community residents decided to add Mrs. Hamilton's name to Carver School. The dedication service was March 2, 1976.

"It's unexplainable. It made me so happy," Mrs. Hamilton said about her feelings when her name was added. "I looked back on all the years I struggled and felt I had earned it."

Teaching runs in Mrs. Hamilton's family with two sisters who were teachers. She also has two nieces in the Fort Worth schools: Georgia L. Mayfield, librarian at R. Vickery, Mitchell Boulevard, and Carter Park; and Patricia Diane Mayfield, teacher of a five-year-old program at A.M. Pate Elementary. Another niece, Nora Lee Brackeen, now retired, was an art teacher at Westcreek Elementary. Mrs. Hamilton's husband was the late Dan L. Hamilton.

Mrs. Hamilton is founder and organizer of the Fort Worth Assembly which will present debutantes for the 38th year this year.

She is a charter member of Alpha Pi Sigma chapter of Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, a member of Retired Teachers, Administrative Women in Education, Mount Pisgah Baptist Church and the Fellowship Neighborhood Club.

Community Christmas Party Planned Dec. 5th

If you are a native of West Texas, or any rural area for that matter, chances are that some of your fondest memories about Christmas somehow involve community Christmas party you attended with your entire family. Everyone was there, and you stood around the brightly decorated Christmas tree, exchanging season's greetings while the children lined up to verbalize their "want" lists to Santa Claus.

The Women's Division of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the Memorial Civic Center Board will try to recreate this scene Tuesday, Dec. 5, at the Civic Center with Lubbock Community Christmas Party. The holiday open house will be from 6:30-8:30 p.m. with refreshments and entertainment provided. The party is free and open to the public.

"We want this to be community-wide event," said Mrs. Hurley Carpenter, chairman of the event. "For those who have never attended a community gathering like this, it's a Three

Rep. Leo Ryan's Slaying Stirs Bitterness in D.C.

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—The nation is still in shock over the bizarre suicide-killings in Guyana, South America. More than 400 disciples of the Peoples Temple joined their fanatical leader, Jim Jones, in an orgy of poisoning and shooting. Hundreds more, it is believed, fled into the jungle to escape.

The brutal slaying of California Rep. Leo Ryan and four others touched off the death orgy. It has also stirred a bitter controversy in the backrooms of Washington.

The congressman's staff told us that the State Department failed to give Ryan adequate warning of the danger. Spokesmen for the department, in turn, insist they perceived "no physical danger" to the congressman and his delegation.

Yet dissident members of the cult had complained to the FBI about threats of violence. The dissidents had told about gun-toting guards and harsh physical beatings. As early as last July, one dissident gave her attorney an affidavit, describing rehearsals for mass suicide at the Guyana colony.

The FBI, however, accepted the advice of the U.S. attorney in San Francisco, who claimed the FBI had no jurisdiction over the allegations because "no federal laws had been violated."

Now, the FBI is belatedly investigating allegations that the cult had a plan to kidnap or assassinate prominent people in the event of Jones' arrest.

The State Department also received complaints that cult members were held at the colony against their will and that they had been subjected to abuse. Consular officers visited the colony but could not verify the charges.

The murdered congressman also received a prophetic letter from Jones' attorney, Mark Lane. "You may judge, therefore," wrote Lane on Nov. 6, "the important consequences which may flow from further persecution of (the cult) and which may very well result in the creation of a most embarrassing situation for the U.S. government."

Rep. Ryan personally underlined those lines from Lane's letter. But the congressman responded that the implied threat "did not impress (him) at all." The State Department gave Ryan the green light, and he flew to Guyana to his death.

The leader of the Peoples Temple, Jim Jones, was a former San Francisco housing official. His church started out helping people in trouble. His disciples used to write to us frequently. "Brother Jones," they would write, "urged us to pray for you and your work." Once, the church offered to send us $1,000 to start a scholarship fund.

We turned down the money and suggested that Jones donate it to charity.

Deadly Brew: For decades, the chemical companies have been burying their wastes. These forgotten chemicals have combined in some places to form a deadly witches' brew.

In several cities, the chemical solutions are seeping to the surface. They are appearing in areas where homes and schools have now been built.

The deadly ooze has produced a host of hazards. Birth defects are showing up in children who were born in the contaminated areas. The cancer rate has risen. Animal life has died off or deserted the areas.

One of the worst sites, ironically, is Niagara Falls, the honeymoon resort in upper New York. But the surfacing chemicals are making it a dangerous trysting place.

Sources who have been investigating the chemical menace at Niagara Falls say that dioxin has been found at one dumping location. This is one of the most poisonous chemicals on earth.

Already, people are deserting their homes. An environmental official calls the polluted sites "ticking time bombs." He claims there are many of them across the country.

Yet the Environmental Protection Agency seems to be shutting its eyes to the chemical catastrophe. Congress has passed legislation to deal with such hazards, but our sources at the EPA told us that top officials are actually blocking the implementation of the new laws. It was only after we began investigating the situation, say our sources, that the EPA recently identified 638 dump sites containing chemical wastes that may be an "imminent hazard to public health."

American Casualty: The first American casualty of the Nicaraguan civil war has just been confirmed by State Department sources. He was Cesar Augusto Amador, a 25-year-old U.S. citizen who was living in Managua.

Amador was arrested during the fighting last September. He was hauled from his home by dictator Anastasio Somoza's National Guard troops. He was apparently suspected of being a rebel sympathizer, but was never charged with a crime. Nicaraguan authorities claim Amador was killed by Sandinista guerrillas when they raided the police station. His body was never produced; government officials said he was buried in a mass grave for "sanitary purposes."

Watch on Waste: The Pentagon is losing millions of dollars every year by making no effort to recover precious metals from scrap materials. Government auditors recently determined that $16 million could have been saved just by recovering silver from X-ray film solutions. The brass hats said they would "study" the problem.

government to control price of natural gas sold within a state and which require states to take part in enforcement.

The case is expected to take at least 18 months for a final decision.

Atty. Gen. John Hill said he is optimistic Texas can make a strong case for freedom from federal controls over pricing on state-owned lands, because the state reserved its public lands when it entered the union.

Employees Counted

As though in answer to Governor-elect Clements' recommendation to reduce the state employee work force by 25,000 over a four year period, Comptroller Bob Bullock said Texas government ranks below the national average in employees per 10,000 residents.

Bullock said there are 80,917 non-academic employees, 62,058 university and college employees and 22,944 part-time and seasonal workers.

That comes to 129 employees per 10,000 residents. The 1977 national average was 134 fulltime equivalent state employees per 10,000 population.

Courts Speak

The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the murder conviction and 66-year prison sentence of a Dallas man in the death of a store clerk.

Texas Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed the involuntary manslaughter conviction of a Fort Hood couple in the starvation of a five-month old girl.

Third Court of Civil Appeals disapproved a State Board of Dental Examiners suspension of an Austin dentist's license for allowing an unlicensed assistant to give "laughing gas" to patients as a relaxer before cleaning teeth.

The Court of Criminal Appeals upheld the sentence of a Houston man who allowed his 11 year old son to be subjected to such severe radiation burns that he was partially castrated.

Lawmakers Gather

Texas legislators gathered early in Austin this week at their biennial orientation conference for the 1979 Legislature.

The three-day sessions were held at The University of Texas Thompson Conference Center, under sponsorship of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs in cooperation with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Bill Clayton.

Lawmakers received information on legislative rules, the state budget, "sunset" review of state agencies called on to prove their existence, energy and utility rates, tax relief and reform, products liability and public school education programs.

Short Snorts

Gross sales in Texas climbed to $44.2 billion during the second quarter of 1978, an increase of $1.8 billion over first quarter sales.

The Railroad Commission set a November 27 hearing to receive oral arguments on jurisdiction in the application of United Parcel Service Inc. to transport packages of less than 50 pounds.

The commission approved increased gas rates by Entex Inc. for 143 residential and 16 small commercial customers in Kilgore and nearby unincorporated environs.

AUSTIN—Republican Governor-elect Bill Clements has launched taking over the governor's office.

Clements returned to Austin this week to resume the planning after spending three days at the Republican Governor's Conference.

He also conferred with top state officials from Gov. Dolph Briscoe to regulatory agency heads last week.

Clements said his conversations included the budget, revenues, appointments, energy problems, reduction of the bureaucracy, citizen power to initiate legislation and needed prison system improvements.

He also suggested in talks with House Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby that consideration be given to dedicating a cent of the state's four-cent sales tax toward further school property tax reductions.

And he again advocated eliminating the state's 10-cent property tax for college buildings.

Clements said he was assured of "leadership cooperation in the legislature," and repeatedly predicted no difficulty in dealing with majority Democrats.

The governor-elect has established a transition headquarters near the state capitol, and has staff members interviewing job applicants.

He also has an inauguration headquarters established in his old state campaign command post.

Suit Filed

Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana filed their federal court suit to overturn key portions of the National Gas Policy Act of 1978.

"Issues go to the heart of the question of where state sovereignty ends and federal authority starts," said Oklahoma Atty. Gen. Larry Derryberry.

The three major producing states sued the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission in Oklahoma court.

They challenge provisions of the federal act allowing the federal

UNCF Telethon To Air on KMCC-TV

Private black colleges continue to play an important role in educating Black students. However, the rising costs for providing instruction and other services to students at these institutions threaten the colleges' ability to provide financial aid to many pupils they have traditionally served.

In order to assist black private colleges provide financial support to their students, the United Negro College Fund (UNCF) will host its third annual mini-telethon Friday, Dec. 8 from 7 to 10 p.m. on KMCC-TV, Channel 28.

The star-studded, three hour "Evening Extraordinaire" special, filmed in Dallas, New York City and Las Vegas, will be headlined by entertainers Robert Goulet and Ann Murray. Features guests will include Julie Budd, Malcolm Roberts, Virginia Capers, Johnny Taylor, Billy Paul, Bishop College Sextet Singers, George Kirby, O.C. Smith, Delores Hall, Stephanie Mills and many, many more great performers.

Also, numerous community, religious and organizations leaders will be spotlighted to encourage donations. Volunteers will man the telephone bank to accept them.

This year's event will be co-chaired by Harold Chatman and Dr. Charles Henry.

The United Negro College Fund is a non-profit voluntary membership organization through which 41 colleges and universities around the country join forces to conduct a joint campaign. Six of these colleges are located in Texas. They are: Bishop in Dallas; Paul Quinn in Waco; Huston-Tillotson in Austin; Jarvis Christian in Hawkins; Texas in Tyler; and Wiley in Marshall.

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

Regardless of what happens at Arkansas Saturday, Texas Tech's football squad has had a tremendous season; and that victory over Houston will be talked about for years to come. It may not have been the greatest win that Tech has ever had, but it ranks right up there with the biggest and best.

After all, it isn't every year that you knock off the No. 5 ranked team in the nation. It isn't every year that you fool the experts so badly that they pick you to win from one to five games—and you win seven, with one to go.

No, this has been a banner year and it will be climaxed, if not with a bowl, a heap of individual honors. Rex Dockery is a shoo-in for SWC Coach of the Year, maybe the same honor nationally.

James Hadnot should be the rushing leader in the SWC, as well as the tandem offense leader. He could well be named Newcomer of the Year, since he never played fullback before this season.

Ron Reeves could well be named Freshman of the Year, Blade Adams could be the scoring leader and Maury Buford may hang on to be the punting champion.

It's all pretty impressive, regardless of what happens on Saturday. It also augurs well for the future, too, because the Raiders have only eight seniors and have been playing a lot of underclassmen.

It's also going down in the Tech record books as one of the impressive performances by any Raider eleven, despite no bowl bid. Lack of such a bid really isn't unexpected in view of the slow start Tech got and the early selections by the various bowls.

Speaking of bowls, there have to be a lot of red faces around. Wearing one of the reddest was Field Scovell, chairman of the Cotton Bowl selection committee. Field was in the pressbox Saturday, invitation safely esconced in an inner pocket of his natty Cotton Bowl green jacket.

"Which dressingroom are you going to, Field?" one of his friends asked kindly, hiding a smirk.

"I'm going home," Field replied.

"You going to be in Fayetteville or Houston next Saturday?" another friend asked.

"I may just stay home," he replied with a grin that was becoming a little more forced as he headed for the elevator—and home.

The Cotton Bowl can be forgiven. You don't come up with the year's top game every year—and last year they had the game for the national championship in Texas and Notre Dame. This year that goes to the Sugar Bowl.

And the Cotton suffered a little more discomfort Saturday when the Irish, apparently soundly licked, came roaring back to go in front. So far so good. But the Irish couldn't hold the lead and so there was a double loss. That had to tarnish the image, even though you may be sure it will be a good game.

As for crimson faces, how about the Orange Bowl? Now there's a major farce if ever there was one. The Orange is stuck with Nebraska and Oklahoma, two teams from the same conference. Most fans will say ho hum. They'll figure that the rematch will prove nothing, regardless of who wins.

The Sun Bowl wound up with Texas, embarrassed by that Baylor whipping and faced with the possibility that A&M might beat UT Friday.

The Bluebonnet Bowl, which usually waits and then takes a team from the SWC, is without a league team.

Arkansas, which might lose to Tech Saturday, is headed for the Fiesta Bowl and a date with UCLA.

I thought that last year, after the bowls picked too soon and we stung, the bowls had learned their lesson and would move slowly. But they all are afraid that if they wait they'll wind up with poor teams, that they jump into it and then wipe the egg off their faces.

A few years ago Colgate had a perfect season, but didn't get a bowl bid, leading to some writer, I think it was Grantland Rice, saying "Colgate—unbeaten, untied and uninvited." How good that team was we'll never know, but it did send a lot of players into the pro ranks, which tells you something.

So, the regular season winds down and there aren't many games left. In our league only three remain. I'll have to take Texas over the Aggies, although that might be a mistake, and Houston undoubtedly will beat Rice, darn it. That makes it academic what Tech and Arkansas do.

Still, this Raiders club has shown improvement in every game and right now ranks with the best in the circuit. The players believe in themselves and who am I to argue with that? So, I'll pick the Raiders in another cliffhanger to wind up an unbelievable season with a flourish.

The Raiders got their official basketball campaign started Monday night and have another game Wednesday (tonight). They should be 2-0 heading for North Carolina and a tough game against UNC-Charlotte.

Texas and the Aggies, both rated highly before the season, already have losses on their records, which hurts the league. But you can bet that this period before league warfare will sharpen all clubs and the league will have another great campaign. I can't buy the low rating for the Raiders, although that's not bad. It's a challenge for them to prove the "experts" wrong—as in football.

A belated observation: The only thing the Nebraska victory over Oklahoma proved was that Nebraska's Texans were better than Oklahoman's Texans. Wonder where either school would be without those Lone Star Staters.

Many tales start with: "Well, they tell me..."

Congress and signed into law by President Carter.

Survivors now have a choice of getting a VA-supplied headstone or marker or one they choose from a commercial supplier. The VA reimbursement, however, cannot exceed the average amount VA pays for the headstones or markers it supplies. Currently this amount is estimated at about $43.00, far below the average cost of headstones or markers on the open market.

For those who choose to have a headstone or marker provided by VA, the agency now has the flexibility to provide headstones or markers of any material (marble, granite, bronze, slate or other) aesthetically compatible with the cemetery in which it is to be located.

Assistance in filing applications for reimbursement or for headstones or markers can be obtained at any VA office. Applications for reimbursement must be forwarded to the nearest regional office. Applications for headstones or markers must be forwarded to Director, Headstone Service, National Cemetery System, Veterans Administration, Washington, D.C. 20420.

Max Cleland, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, reminds survivors that VA may reimburse them also for part of the burial expense for an eligible veteran. The new amounts are $1100 if the death is service-connected and $300 if it is not. These amounts are in addition to $150 plot allowance if the veteran is not buried in a national cemetery.

Moody Planetarium Program To Explore Wise Men's Star

Nineteen hundred and seventy-eight years ago on Dec. 25 a child was born, Christians will be saying this year, and Wise Men in the East saw the star which heralded the birth and traveled west to Judea.

The exact year and the exact date of birth for Jesus of Nazareth is not known, but the possible date and year and the possible "star" the Magi saw will be explored this season in the Moody Planetarium shows in The Museum of Texas Tech University.

The program, "For Unto Us . . ." will be shown at 3 p.m. each Saturday and Sunday through Dec. 31 with additional programs at 3 p.m. on Dec. 26-29. Cost is $1 for adults, 50 cents for students. Preschoolers are not encouraged to attend because of the level of programming.

Whether the Wise Men saw a comet, meteor, nova, supernova or the conjunction of planets in the constellation Pisces still mystifies all men, even astronomers.

But the possibilities of what they might have seen, from the clues left in recorded history and in astronomers' knowledge of patterns in the sky, can be explored.

Each of these possibilities is explored, leaving visitors to the show with enough information to decide for themselves what they believe the Wise Men saw, whatever it was in the heavens that led the three to Bethlehem, to incur the wrath of King Herod and to worship at the manger cradle of the infant Christians call the Christ Child.

All Region Junior High Orchestra To Perform Here

James Sudduth, Director of Bands at Southwest Texas State University and formerly of Lubbock, will conduct the All Region Junior High Orchestra in concert at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, December 2nd in the Recital Hall of Texas Tech. Featuring one hundred of Lubbock's outstanding junior high orchestra students, the event is presented under the auspices of the orchestra directors of the Texas Music Educators Association.

The students of the orchestra were selected November 22nd during competitive auditions hosted at Smylie Wilson Junior High by Mr. Jeff Whitmill, organizer for this year's concert. The students will rehearse two days under Mr. Sudduth's direction in preparation for the concert.

James Sudduth was appointed Director of Bands at Southwest Texas State University in the fall of 1974. Previous teaching experience in public schools includes two years at Mackenzie Junior High and five years at Coronado High School. He received both bachelor's and master's degrees in music education from Texas Tech University.

In the fall of 1970 he was appointed Assistant Professor of Music and Director of Marching Band at Northwestern University, Evanston, Illinois. Additional duties there included conducting concert band, jazz ensemble, coaching brass ensembles and teaching arranging and conducting orchestration classes. He has written over 200 arrangements for both marching and concert band and has several published. Also while at North-

Business Seminar Scheduled at Tech

Minority business owners who want to become bidders to Texas state agencies should plan to attend a "How to do Business with the State of Texas" seminar to be held in Lubbock on December 5. The seminar will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the School of Business Building at Texas Tech University.

Representatives from several state agencies will conduct workshops designed to acquaint business owners with state bidding procedures.

The seminar is being sponsored by the Texas Industrial Commission's Minority Business Enterprise Division. Admission is free.

Business and action strengthen the brain, but too much study weakens it.

Need for Foster Parents Reaches Critical Status

Joey, a three-year-old boy, came to the attention of a protective services worker. His family situation made an alternate care situation necessary. Because no foster home was available, a temporary care situation was arranged. He was then placed in a foster home when one became available. After working with Joey's parents for five months, it was possible for Joey to return to his own family.

Joey's case is not an uncommon one. The need for foster parents for this region has reached a critical status. There are too many children who need temporary homes and too few foster parents to meet their needs. In 1977 there were 213 placements of abused and neglected children made by Lubbock County Children's Protective Services with only some 60 to 70 foster homes to meet placement needs. The number of placements is even higher now and expected to increase steadily. Homes for infants and children with medical needs and special problems are needed most severely.

These children need stable homes where they will receive love, attention, and reassurance. They will not know what to expect and will be perhaps fearful or eager to please their foster parents. They need patience, acceptance, and parents who can find reward in just helping a child and giving his parents time to overcome their problems.

To become a foster parent is not difficult. Licensing is done through interviews conducted by a caseworker with prospective foster parents. Each home is checked for hazards by the health and fire departments, and tuberculin tests are required for all family members. Foster parents are then compensated on a monthly basis for money spent on care and feeding of the child. Medical and clothing costs are paid for by the State Agency.

Foster parents are not required to accept every child offered, and can outline the general type of child they can best aid. The idea behind this is that through matching, placements will be smooth and successful.

Foster parenting is a 24-hour responsibility and not an easy one. It is, by accounts from current foster parents, a very rewarding experience. It is contributing to your community on a very personal level, to find out more about foster parenting and how you can become involved; contact the Department of Human Resources at 762-8922 and ask for a foster care worker.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

With the advent of Thanksgiving and the ushering in of the Christmastime season it is only natural that here and there we have family fare at the movie houses in the city. Two pleasant, if predictable, films in this genre are current this week, "Across the Great Divide," a true life adventure film at Showplace 6 and "The Magic of Lassie," holding forth at the Cinema West.

I haven't caught the former but the reports are nice, excellent photography and nature abounding as two kids are taught the secrets of the outdoors in the Colorado Rockies by a youthful man who shares his love of beauty and his expertise with them.

"The Magic of Lassie" is a return to the old days when the collie was big box office in the old MGM series. This is a new film, not a reissue, and it is full of tears, laughs and likeable smaltz. There's an old saying that no actor wants to play opposite a child or a dog, and the parade of Lassies down through the years underscores that saying.

Kids will go for this one, but there is something added for the oldsters, too. For the star of the works is James Stewart and, lo, in the supporting cast are Mickey Rooney and Alice Faye.

There is a lull on the biggie films, marking time before the Christmas product arrives in town in a matter of weeks. The strongest and finest film around is down at the South Plains Mall Cinemas 4 and that has to be, of course, the dynamite and gripping "Midnight Express," the powerhouse story of a young American embroiled in Turkish prison and a seemingly hopeless situation of violence, rough talk and action, all based on the true story of Billy Hayes, played superbly by young Brad Davis. In fact, Davis could well be a solid contender for next spring's Best Actor Oscar, neck and neck with Jon Voight for his almost unbeatable portrayal in "Coming Home."

Do see "Midnight Express," but, remember it's a violent one and everything goes, brutality, language and the works. But as fascinating as a weaving cobra.

Some time ago I read an entertaining novel, "Who's Killing the Great Chefs of Europe," in which a systematic dispatch of chefs is recounted, each cook being done in his own specialty, baking, etc. The movie version, with George Segal and Jacqueline Bisset is at the Fox 4-complex and I'm sorry to report that it does not do justice to the written word. It's just a shade cutesy, if you know what I mean.

The best thing about "Chefs" is yet another opportunity to watch that British master actor, Robert Morley, do his admirable and never failing thing. He makes the film, it's too bad that he had a relatively smallish role. The minutes he is off the screen seem ever so much longer than they really are.

The holiday musical treat of the year will be the performances of the beloved Christmas ballet treat, "The Nutcracker" which is set for the Civic Center Theatre at 8 p.m. Saturday and again at 3 p.m. Sunday. Lubbock Civic Ballet comes into its own with this ambitious project and they will be aided, abetted and supported by Paul Ellsworth and the Texas Tech Symphony Orchestra.

This presentation will mark the 19th year that Tech has presented a Christmas concert, always heavily attended and warmly applauded.

Tickets are $4, $6 and $8 and you should contact the Lubbock Cultural Affairs Council at the Chamber of Commerce building.

I assume that any unsold tickets for each of the two performances will be on sale at the Civic Center Theatre prior to curtain time, as well.

Remember recently the bruhaha that erupted at Texas Tech when the University Theatre proposed to produce the Broadway hit, "Equus," nude scene and all? Well, subscribers to Home Box Office, adjunct to Lubbock Cable-TV will have ample opportunity to see the film version this upcoming weekend. It stars Peter Firth, of the Broadway cast, as the troubled boy, and Richard Burton as the equally-troubled psychiatrist. Both men were nominated for Oscars last season for their work in this one.

Other December lures on HBO include the Oscar-winning (Vanessa Redgrave and Jason Robards) film, "Julia," based on Lillian Hellman's book; and other goodies such as "Coma," "Barry Lyndon," the superb ballet film, "The Turning Point," DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" (Charlton Heston and all-star); and the Elizabeth Taylor musical, "A Little Night Music" which had been pencilled in for the Fox Theatre earlier but fell by the wayside, apparently. The HBO showing (the dates start Friday) will be the first exposure of the film in the city.

Rough, tough and gory is "The Wild Geese," wherein Richard Burton, Roger Moore, Richard Harris and Hardy Kruger are mercenaries in Africa trying to rescue a kidnapped leader. There is an attempt at light-heartedness in all this and some of it comes off, some doesn't. It's a diversion, nothing more, nothing less.

The Baker Gallery of Fine Art has another public preview (no charge) of new art pieces this weekend, with the trio of known artists on hand to greet their admirers. They are Carroll Collier, Ray Knaub and Helen Rumpel. The time is 1-4:30 p.m. at the Baker Co. 13th and Ave. L and the show will hang through the holidays, coming down on Jan. 1, 1979.

There's yet another show business "I tell all" book just out. What with the late Joan Crawford's eldest (adopted) daughter revealing her as a "monster" mother and all, Elizabeth Ashley now has her say about Elizabeth Ashley, helped on the form and grammar by Ross Firestone.

Miss Ashley calls her book "Actress: Postcards from the Road." She gives it her all and its all here. Her marriages to James Farentino and then George Peppard. Her success in "Take Her, She's Mine" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" on Broadway, movies and television, pot, abortion, dirty language and no little amount of arrogance and ego in the telling. The book won't make you love Ashley particularly, and only maybe is this the signs of the times. I found it only passably interesting by a passably interesting personality.

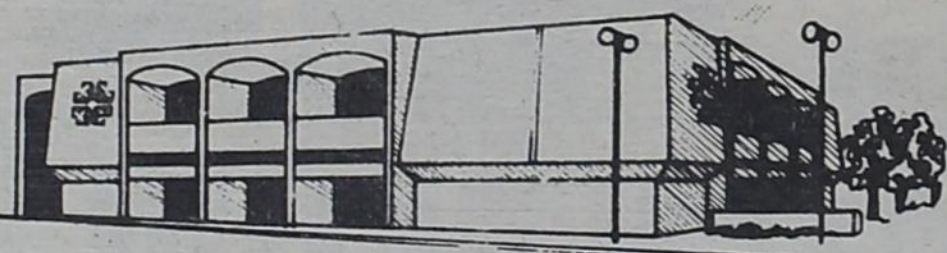

Those who do not study are only cattle dressed up in men's clothes.

The Black Experience: Affirmative Action—Was Allan Bakke, 38, the California engineer who said he wanted to be a doctor and study at the University of California in Davis, and won U.S. Supreme Court's approval ours? Was Bakke's victory a defeat for the nation's blacks? Rev. Jesse Jackson, president of PUSH, considered the ruling a devastating blow to our civil rights struggle, though not a fatal one. It is consistent with the country's shift to the right, a shift in mood from redemption to punishment. Black Congressman Ron Dellums of California says that the fact that Bakke won admittance to the University will serve to underscore the attack on further affirmative action. "It is still alive and breathing, but with great difficulty", Dellums added.

Some observers feel the Bakke decision is an appeal to treat people as individuals rather than as members of categories. Nathan Glazer of Harvard and author of Affirmative Discrimination believes that what the Supreme Court called for is human. It is asking for the kind of behavior any commonsensical human being would believe in.

The key weakness in the court's ruling, believes Law Professor Bruce Ackerman, was the failure to define what proof of past discrimination would be needed to justify preferential treatment. The question that wasn't talked about is: What is the role of numbers in proving past discrimination? Do you have to show actual intent to discriminate, or is the fact that there are no blacks in the work force enough. "There is a body of law on this issue but it is confusing and obscure", concludes Ackerman. In the meantime, Blacks remain free to continue to press for greater representation in schools and jobs, while the white majority are free to continue to assert their needs as well.

As I write most of these lines for this column this week, I am at the bedside of Mom who for the past five years has fought a brave and courageous fight against Cancer. In the midst of her pain and suffering, she manages a smile every now and then and can understand most of what we say to her. The doctors at the Prague General Hospital, Prague, Oklahoma are among the best we believe and they say that their aim is to make her as comfortable as possible and we are thankful to God for that. And to bellringers who have remembered we can only say thanks for everything. Perhaps this is the last of her many battles but God led her on to win the war at a ripe old age of 85. Only the great General above knows.

Recent great quotes: "News accounts of the existence of Ku Klux Klan units at Army bases should become the basis for a review of existing army regulations of such activities, as a first step toward eliminating them from all military organizations. The KKK does not belong in today's American Army. If the Army's discipline system does not presently permit commanders and the Secretary of the Army to control such activities, on or off base, the incoming Congress should take immediate measures to give proper authority to those in charge. There is probably more genuine racial integration in the armed service today than in other segment of our society." From John C. Currey in the Daily Oklahoman.

Famous Quotes from Jesse Jackson: Both tears and sweat are wet and salty, but they render a different result. Tears will get you sympathy, but sweat will get you change. We must contrast the politics of the five B's, blacks, browns, budgets, busing and balance, with the five A's, attention, attendance, atmosphere, attitude and achievement. Many of us allow our children to eat junk, watch junk, listen to junk, talk junk, play with junk, and then we're surprised when they come out to be social junkies. You're not a man because you can make a baby. It takes a man to raise one. Girls can have a baby, but it takes a woman to raise one. What does it matter if we have a new book or an old book, if we open neither.

And from the bedside of Mom who taught me to "always keep plugging" we say, Peace.

Change in Food Stamp Program Effective Dec. 1

A change in the food stamp program goes into effect in Texas beginning December 1. After that date, people who are eligible for food stamps will be able to get them without paying for them, but will receive fewer stamps.

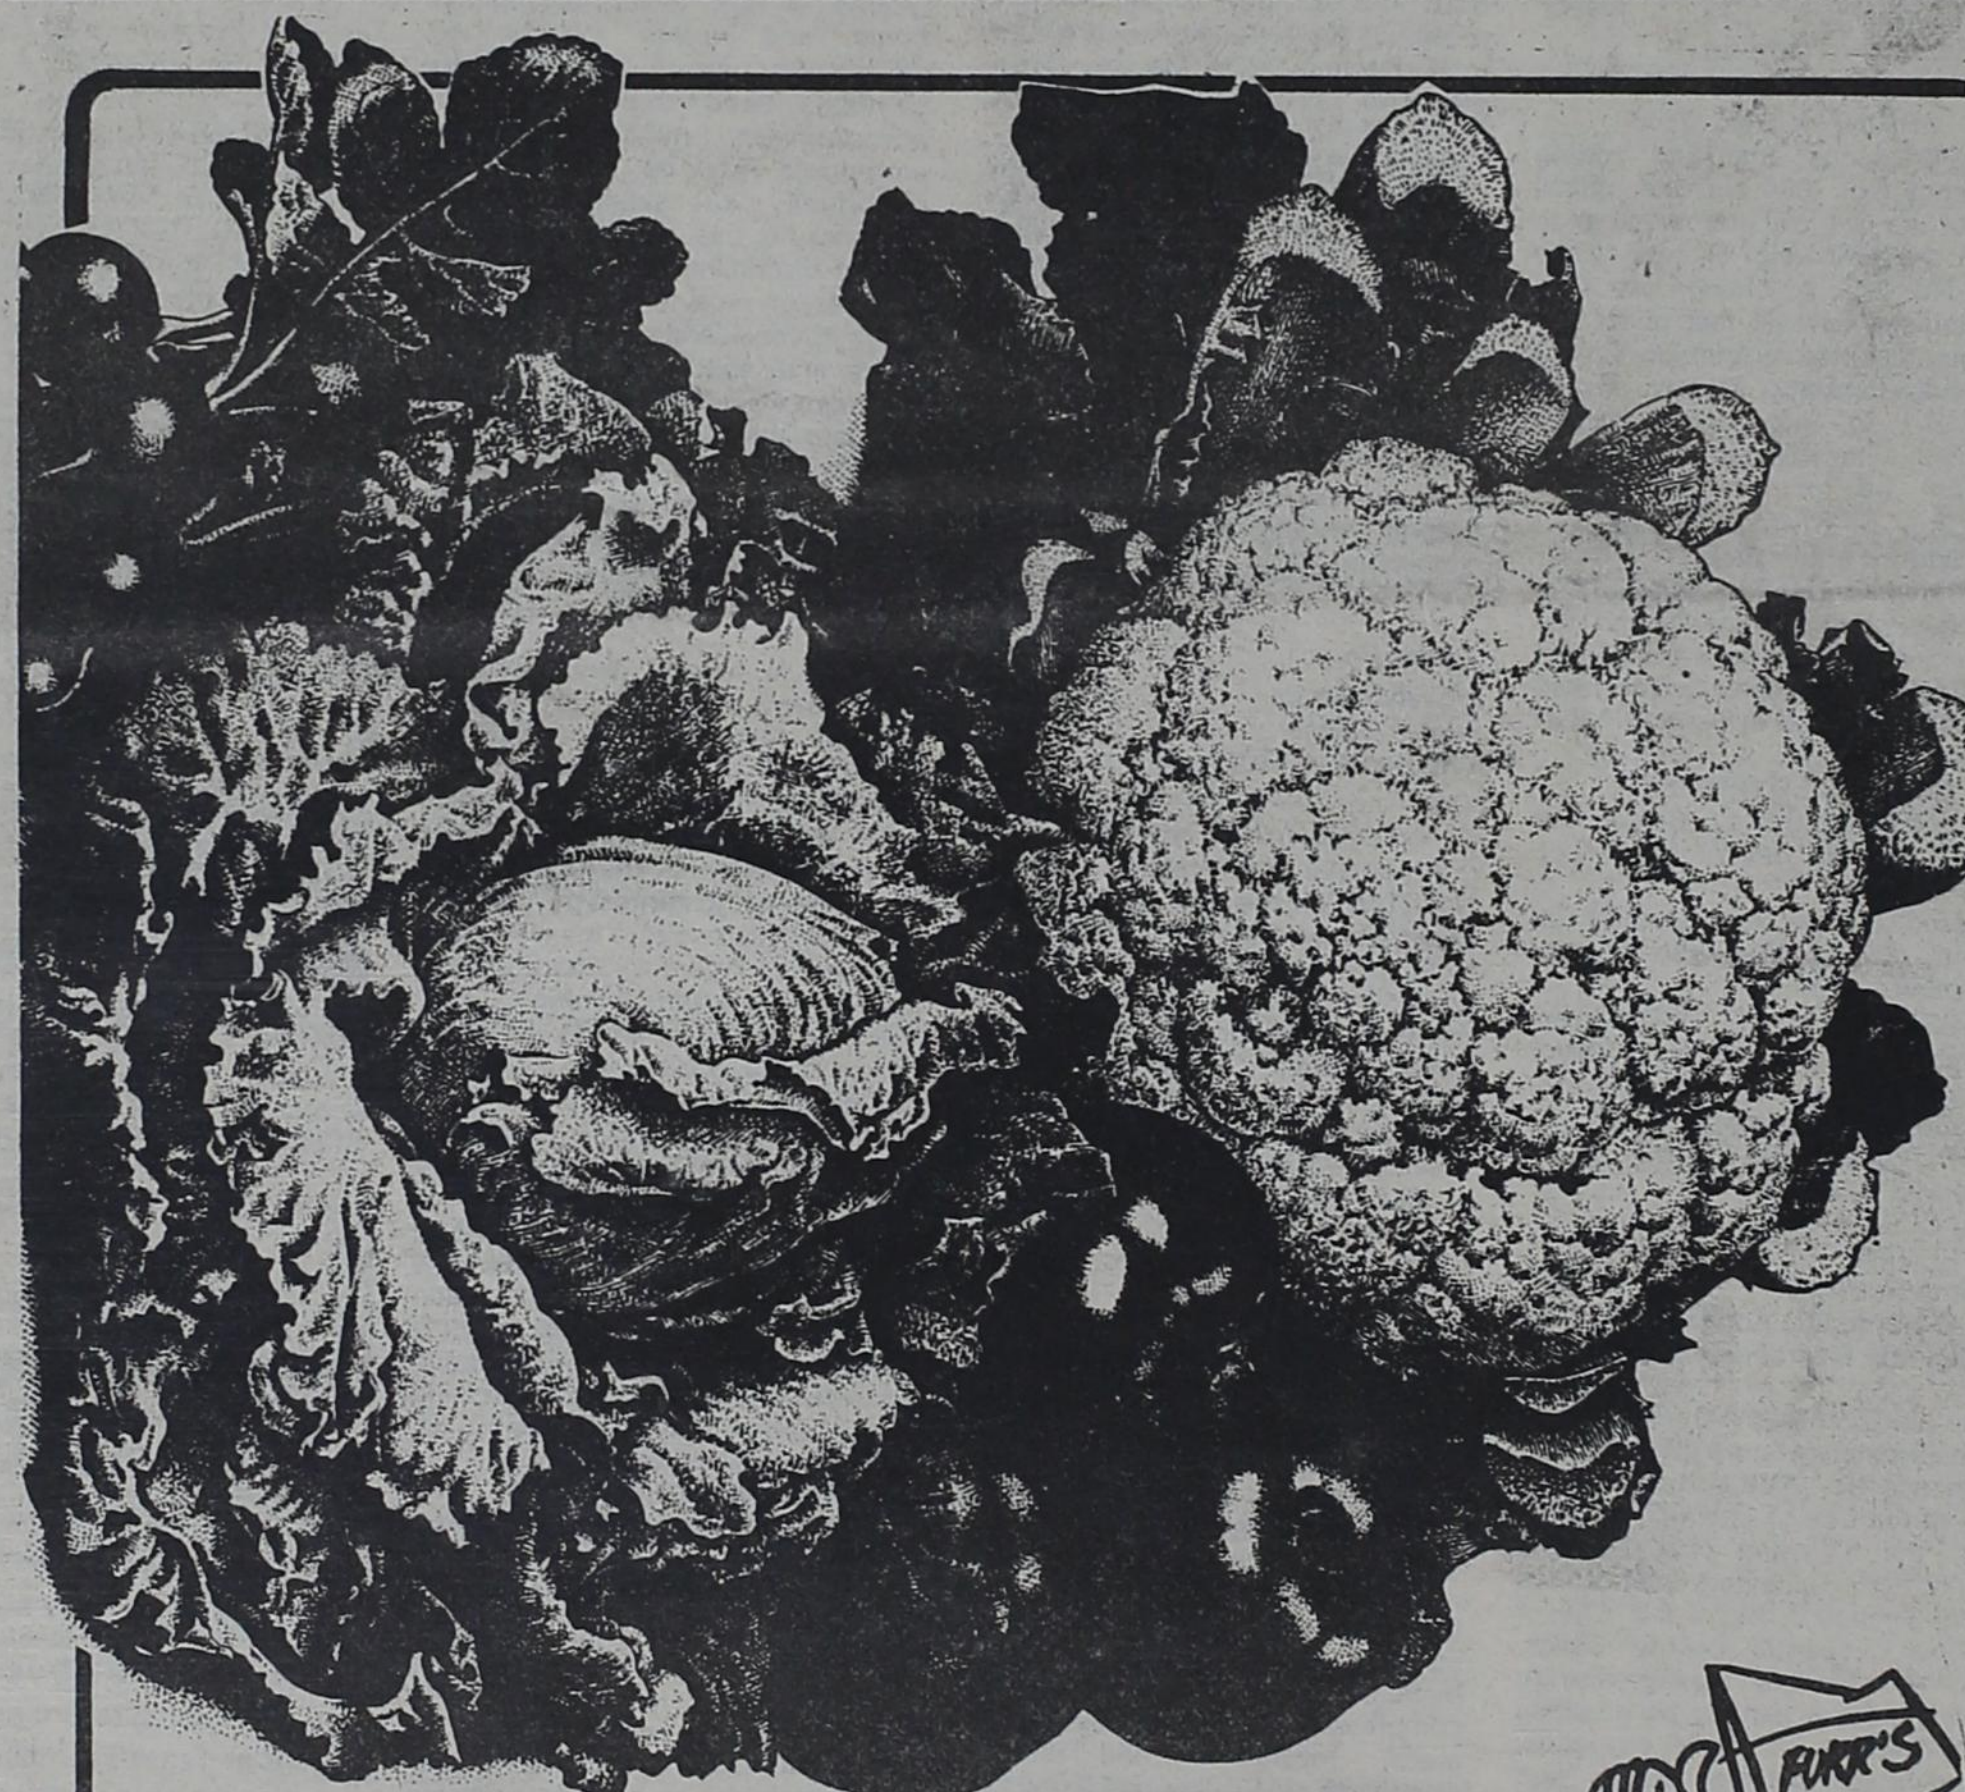

According to Texas Department of Human Resources Regional Administrator, Nathan Martin, the change, called the zero-purchase requirement, is intended to help poor people, especially the aged and disabled, whose limited income prevents them from purchasing their full monthly allotment of food stamps.

Under the old program, food stamp recipients paid a certain amount of cash, determined by income and the number of people in the household, and in return were given an equal amount of food stamps, plus a bonus amount. Now recipients will get an amount equal to the bonus stamps they got before.

For example, a typical household of four may now be getting $182 a month in food stamps. For this amount, the household pays $58 of its own money, making the bonus value of the coupons $124. When the purchase requirement is eliminated, the household will receive only the $124 in food stamps, and will pay no cash.

"For those Texans living on fixed incomes, such as social security or supplemental security income or low pensions, the new regulations will make it easier to receive increased nutrition through the food stamp program," Martin explained.

Elimination of the purchase requirement is in compliance with the Food Stamp Act of 1977, administered by the United States Department of Agriculture. Additional food stamp regulations concerning income, resources and eligibility will be implemented on March 1, 1979.
