King as the speaker at its luncheon, Jan. 6, at the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh, Pa. The meeting was attended by representatives of similar Carver Week events in Philadelphia and Atlanta. In forefront, Mrs. J. C. Hairston Sr. and Mrs. Artegius Moncrieff; Lifetime Co-Chairpersons, Carver Week. Back, left to right, Mike Kumpf, Atlanta Carver Chairman; Frank Hess, Philadelphia Carver Chairman; Mrs. Jayne Spain, Senior Vice President, Gulf Oil Corp. and 1978 National Carver Chairperson; W. C. Bickel, Manager-Community Relations, Gulf Oil; Mrs. W. E. McClellan and Rev. McClellan, Uniontown, Pa. Chairpersons.

Evening School Registration Underway

Registration is now underway for the second quarter of Lubbock Evening High School. Classes for the new quarter at the evening school will begin November 21, and registration will continue through December 7.

Standard high school courses will be offered in English, reading improvement, mathematics, science, social studies, typing, clerical practice, and general business.

Each class will meet two nights per week for one and one-half hours.

Two class periods will be scheduled for Monday and Wednesday evenings and two periods for Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The classes will meet in the Lubbock High School building, 2004 19th Street.

The evening high school is designed for adults 17 years of age or older who are not enrolled in day school.

Tuition charges are $15.00 per course per quarter.

Students may earn regular high school credits leading to a diploma which will meet college and vocational school entrance requirements. The courses may also help adults satisfy employment standards and qualify for promotion.

Enrollment is being conducted at the Adult Education Office, 2013 13th Street, from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Mondays through Fridays.

It is also being taken at the Evening High School office, located on the second floor of the Lubbock High School building, from 7:00-9:00 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays. Because of the Thanksgiving holidays, classes will not meet on Wednesday and Thursday nights, November 23 and 24.

Further information may be secured by writing the Adult Education Office, 2013 13th Street, Lubbock, Texas 79401, or by calling 765-9338.

YWCA To Offer Classes

The Lubbock YWCA will be offering classes in the Parkway Community beginning January 31.

There will be a nominal fee for these classes.

Among the classes offered will be exercise, cooking, tennis, budgeting, sewing, macrame, make-up and hair care, and a parenting program.

For more information contact Vivian Mendez at 792-2723.

Public Schools To Enjoy Holidays

A longer - than- usual holiday period will be enjoyed by students of Lubbock Public Schools this Thanksgiving season. They will be out of classes November 24 and 25 for Thanksgiving.

In addition, they will have a holiday November 23 which is one of the scheduled teacher work days for the year.

The first of the three quarters that make up the regular school year will end Tuesday, November 22. Students in the junior high and senior high schools will follow a quarter examination schedule Monday and Tuesday, November 21 and 22. They will be dismissed at 11:50 a.m. on those days.

The younger students in the elementary schools will be dismissed Monday and Tuesday at the regular times.

WASHINGTON—The jobless rate for blacks, which tend to fluctuate much more from month to month than the rate for whites, edged up from 13.1 to 13.9 percent in October, the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported.

Unemployment of white workers, on the other hand, has held at 6.1 percent for 4 straight months.

Over the past year, the black rate has shown no improvement, while joblessness for whites has declined by more than a percentage point.

The unemployment rate for black youths was 37.9 percent in October, remaining within the 35 to 40 percent rate that has prevailed for the past three years.

The Bureau reported that on a national basis, the overall employment situation was little changed in October.

The unemployment rate was 7.0 percent, thus remaining within the 6.9 to 7.1 percent rate that has prevailed since April.

Total employment — as measured by the monthly survey of households— edged up by 135,000 to 91.2 million in October. Over the past 12 months, employment has grown by 3.5 million. Nonfarm payroll employment—as measured by the monthly survey of establishments —also rose slightly (by 120,000) over the month to 82.9 million. Payroll jobs have increased by 3.1 million since October 1976.

There were 6.9 million unemployed persons in October, after seasonal adjustment, about the same number as in the previous month. The unemployment rate was 7.0 percent, the level around which it fluctuated narrowly during the prior 6 months. Strong downward movements early in the year, however, account for an 11-month decline of a full percentage point.

While the overall number of persons unemployed was little changed in October, there was an increase among men 25 years old and over; their 4.4-percent jobless rate marked an 8-month high. Partly offsetting this movement were marginal declines in the rates for most other age-sex groups.

Over the October 1976-77 period, total unemployment has fallen by more than 600,000, with four-fifths of the decline occurring among job losers. The average (mean) duration of unemployment edged down in October to 13.8 weeks and was 1.5 weeks lower than a year earlier.

Total employment continued its post-recession expansion with a small rise in October. There were over-the-month increases among teenagers of 175,000 and adult men of 160,000. These outweighed a decline of 200,000 among adult women, which followed an advance of 500,000 in the previous month. Total employment has risen by 3.5 million over the past 12 months, and, in contrast with the September - October developments, almost half of the total increase was among adult women. Their ranks swelled by 1.7 million, while employment of adult men was up 1.4 million and teenage employment grew by nearly 500,000.

The employment - population ratio—the proportion of the total noninstitutional population that is employed—held steady over the month at 57.3 percent, a tenth of a point below the record high last reached in March 1974.

An October increase brought the civilian labor force to 98.1 million, 2.9 million more than a year earlier. The labor force participation rate—the proportion of the civilian noninstitutional population either working or seeking work—was 62.4 percent in October, a tenth of a point above the September rate and a tenth below the alltime high recorded in June.

Estacado Plans Double Header

On Friday, November 18th, the Estacado Athletic Booster Club will stage its annual Spaghetti Supper, beginning at 6 p.m., in the Estacado Cafeteria.

Patrons will be served until 8 p.m. Tickets are $2.00 for adults and $1.50 for students under twelve. Proceeds will finance the annual Estacado Sports Banquet, to be held in the Spring.

Louis Kelley is Chairman of Estacado's Athletic Department and Head Football Mentor.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., that evening, the Estacado Band Department will hold its Sixth Annual "Band Talent Show" in the Auditorium, with the theme "Boogie Fever". Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students.

The show will feature outstanding dancing and singing groups such as "The Angels," composed of Doreatha Spencer, Jackie Flowers, and Bridgette Dewberry.

The "Creation", a feature group from the Choral Department, will be composed of LaTresa Stubblefield, Robbie Phillips, Audrey Harris, Stanley Hall, Joseph Moore, and Clifton Peoples.

The Estacado Stage Band and EHS Rock Group will perform throughout the evening.

The musical medley will be dedicated to the Estacado Marching Band, recent winner of a first division, "Superior" rating at the Region XVI UIL Marching Competition, held at Jones Stadium.

David Riker is Director of Bands, assisted by Dennis Richardson, Estacado Choir Director, with special arrangements by C. Doyle Gammill, Director of Student Activities.

Proceeds from the talent show will assist in financing accessory musical equipment for the department.

'Junk' Phone Calls

by Richard L. Worsnop

Junk mail is a nuisance, but at least it can be tossed away unread. Junk phone calls are different. These unsolicited sales pitches for everything from dancing lessons to recreational property always seem to come when the doorbell is ringing or dinner is about to be served. Even if the message is cut short by slamming down the receiver, the annoyance is likely to linger.

The prevalence of junk calls is one reason why about 15 per cent of all American telephone subscribers elect to have unlisted or unpublished numbers. But this defense has been breached by the advent of automated devices that can dial every number in an exchange—listed, unlisted and unpublished—and deliver a standard, prerecorded message. The recipients of such calls do not even have the satisfaction of telling the caller off before hanging up.

Relief from junk calls may be on the way, however. Nov. 14 is the deadline for comments on a petition filed with the Federal Communications Commission by Walter Baer of Santa Monica, Calif., and the Citizens Communications Center, a public-interest law firm based in Washington, D.C. The petition urges the FCC to (1) restrict the use of automated dialing devices for presenting unsolicited messages over the telephone, (2) designate a way for consumers to indicate they do not want to receive such calls, and (3) require the senders of recorded messages to identify them as such at the outset.

Baer, a physicist with the Rand Corp., decided to act after he was barraged with unwanted phone solicitations while working at home one day. In order, he received calls from a book club, an encyclopedia salesman, an insurance agent and, to round things off, the book club again.

His supporters include Rep. Les Aspin (D-Wis.) and Sen. Wendell R. Anderson (D-Minn.), who have introduced legislation to ban unsolicited sales calls unless phone subscribers agree in advance to receive them. Aspin's House bill has 40 cosponsors.

Anderson and Aspin stated the rationale of the legislation as follows: "Every day thousands of people are dragged to their phones only to have a cooing voice try to sell them the ultimate product without which their lives would not be complete. This is not routine advertising; this is the ultimate invasion of privacy to millions of Americans who want to tend their gardens, eat their dinners or chat with neighbors in peace."

The telephone privacy bill contains provisions not included in the petition before the FCC. For instance, it would limit unsolicited calls to 60 seconds and place restrictions on calls that are dialed by a person rather than by a machine.

Concern about individual privacy in a complex modern society has been growing for decades. In an article in the Harvard Law Review of Dec. 15, 1890, future Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis and Professor Samuel D. Warren wrote that the right to privacy included the "principle which may be invoked to protect the privacy of the individual from invasion either by the too enterprising press, the photographer or the possessor of any other modern device for recording or reproducing sounds."

Congress & Carter

What long, bitter fights on energy, tax, welfare and other issues between Congress and President Carter reveal is the disquieting fact that most members of Congress, even majority Democrats, have little faith in Mr. Carter's legislative proposals.

House leaders claim Carter's welfare proposals would add more than ten million recipients to the welfare rolls. Senators on both sides of the aisle say Carter's energy and tax proposals were too hastily drawn, would not achieve desired goals, etc.

In short, most members of Congress obviously believe President Carter's 1977 legislative proposals were too often the work of amateurs, idealists, and big spenders. With a heavily Democratic Congress, a Democratic President could normally expect broad cooperation from Capitol Hill. Carter isn't getting it.

The lesson could be beneficial for Mr. Carter and the nation. The President is handicapped because he received no mandate in the 1976 election. Labor, blacks and minorities elected him, and he has been forced in recent months to pay off. That alone will not reelect Mr. Carter; he must win in spite of this, if he is to be reelected. But Mr. Carter has largely lost the battle of 1977 in Congress.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

U.S. Pressured U.N. Delegates To Pass Anti-Israel Resolution

by Jack Anderson
with Joe Spear

Copyright, 1977, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
WASHINGTON — President Carter is under fire from the Jewish community in this country. He has been too lenient toward the Arabs to suit the Jews.

The president has done his best to soothe Jewish feelings. But each time he calms them down, something happens to stir them up again.

Now, we've learned of another incident that is certain to distress American Jews. It's so sensitive that State Department spokesmen have flatly denied it. One spokesman called the story sheer "baloney."

Nevertheless, we have confirmed the story from sources who have personal knowledge of it. Here are the backstage details:

Two weeks ago, the United Nations passed a resolution to censure Israel for establishing settlements on the occupied West Bank of the Jordan. The vote was an overwhelming 131 to 1. Only Israel voted against it.

The United States abstained. We had to remain neutral, said U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, because we are co-chairman of the Geneva peace conference on the Middle East.

But our sources say that, behind the scenes, the United States wasn't neutral at all. U.S. diplomats brought quite pressure on other nations to vote for the resolution and against Israel.

Our sources say the United States pressured the African nation of Liberia, for example, into cosponsoring the resolution against its will. U.S. diplomats also twisted European and Latin American arms.

The purpose of this lobbying effort, according to our sources, was to convince the Israeli government that it is totally isolated in the world community on this issue.

Drug Prices: We have reported in the past on the pricing practices of the big drug companies. For years, they have been charging high prices for their brand-name products. Yet the same drugs are available at lower prices under their chemical name.

The pharmaceutical houses claimed more care went into the manufacture of their drugs. We've now learned, however, that some companies don't even bother to manufacture their brand-name drugs.

They simply buy the chemical drugs from small manufacturers, put their name on the drugs and hike up the price. There's absolutely no difference between the two products, except that one is peddled under a famous name.

For example, one kind of penicillin sells under its chemical name for $3.50. But Smith, Kline and French buys the same penicillin, stamps its name on it and sells it for $5.35. The company also buys an antihistamine for $7.50 and sells it for $13.

Another big drug company, Lederle, sells a tranquilizer called Meproamate for $9.03. You can get the same tranquilizer without the trade name for $6.21. And the Wyeth Company, believe it or not, sells the same amount of this tranquilizer for $58.

Spokesmen for the companies told us they insist on strict quality control for the drugs they buy. But the Food and Drug Administration told us there is no difference in their products. Meanwhile, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wisc., is investigating.

Hack Hideaway: The White House has suddenly taken an extraordinary interest in water management. But it isn't the drought that has stimulated this sudden interest. President Carter's people have discovered that the river commissions are good, obscure places to hide political hacks.

Three months ago, we reported that the White House was grooming Patrick J. Delaney for a $50,000-a-year post on the Susquehanna River Basin Commission. As preparation for this high calling, Delaney had been a law school dropout, a stock salesman, race track official and Richard Nixon fundraiser—in that order.

But the 36-year-old Delaney had one outstanding qualification. He is the son of Rep. James L. Delaney, the 76-year-old curmudgeon who heads the House Rules Committee. This committee determines what legislation will reach the House floor.

President Carter's political major-domo, Hamilton Jordan, gave the job to young Delaney without consulting anyone at the Interior Department, which oversees the commission.

Now it turns out that the Ohio River Basin Commission is also about to get a new chairman. The $47,500 job is expected to go to Fred Krumholz. He has prepared himself for the job by working as a sales manager for a beer distributor, serving as a deputy county treasurer and raising funds for the Democratic cause.

Apparently, a prospect's political credentials are more important than his technical qualifications if he is going to manage the nation's critical water supplies.

Royal Welcome: There could be bloodshed in Washington when the shah of Iran calls on President Carter this Tuesday and Wednesday. More than 10,000 demonstrators are expected to turn out. They will be evenly split, apparently, between supporters and opponents.

Anti-shah groups, waving signs and wearing masks, have become common in Washington. But this time, a number of pro-shah groups have also asked for permission to demonstrate.

There are reports that the shah's secret police have been offering cash and transportation to recruit pro-shah demonstrators. U.S. officials believe these reports. They think the Iranian government is behind this sudden show of affection for his imperial majesty.

Police Beat

James Edward Alexander of 1820 E. Amherst reported to police that he ran out of gas one day last week in the 600 block of N. Quirt. He said he abandoned his vehicle and went for gas. When he returned he found that the windshield had been broken out of his Chevy Station Wagon. Damage was estimated at $400.

A young man told police that someone shot him while he was asleep, and he said he doesn't know who would want to shoot him. However, the shooting reportedly was the result of a family quarrel. The young man was taken to Methodist Hospital.

In another shooting incident, a young man told police that he was visiting a friend when an argument started ... between his friend and another associate. The young man said his friend then pulled a gun and attempted to shoot the associate, but shot him instead.

A young lady said she went to the Thunderbird Lounge for a night out on the town, but said she ended up with a stolen handbag and a swollen lip instead. She reportedly received the swollen lip when she accused one of her companions of taking her handbag.

Christmas Seals Mailed

Dear Citizens of West Texas, The cost of living is a source of concern for many—it denotes common worries about rent, mortgage payments, food, utilities etc. But who worries about another vital concern—the cost of life?

One group battling against the soaring cost of life is the American Lung Association. For decades they have sought the support of the public through their annual Christmas Seals Program—a concept that has been described as "An American Tradition since 1907." Christmas Seals are used to fight the increasing number of lung diseases that plague so many—emphysema, bronchitis, asthma and tuberculosis—and air pollution and smoking.

This month, the child-created Christmas Seals are being mailed to more than 80,000 homes and businesses throughout the West Texas area as a part of the 1977 appeal for funds.

Seeing Christmas Seals decorating a package or envelope is a hopeful sign of concern for life—it represents support of an organization that works to make longer, healthier lives possible for millions of people.

So, while we all worry about the cost of living, isn't it time we thought about the cost of giving?

Peace Corps Volunteer Works To Aid Pre-School Youngsters

Applying more than 20 years of professional experience, Peace Corps volunteer Raber R. Wharton, formerly of St. Louis, Mo., is working in Barbados to help provide early childhood care and guidance to 500 youngsters who have suffered from malnutrition.

The purpose of the program is "to prevent children with a history of malnutrition from the common 'fall behind' in public schools," says Mrs. Wharton, daughter of Mrs. Mary Ramey of Oakland, Calif. She is also training employees of day care centers and children's homes in the Caribbean island nation.

A 1950 graduate of Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, N.Y., Mrs. Wharton has taught in and directed nursery and day care centers for 23 years.

Mrs. Wharton is one of 31 Peace Corps volunteers assigned to Barbados, primarily in fields of education, health and agriculture.

Chili Lovers Recipe Contest Announced

A chili recipe contest has been announced by Golden West Publishers, cookbook specialists. Chili cooks from all parts of the nation are invited to submit their favorite original chili recipes for inclusion in the Chili Lovers Cook Book to be published in 1978.

Good, hearty, old-fashioned and new-fashioned recipes for chili and chili variations are wanted!

Contestants may submit one or more recipes on the Official Entry Blank or a plain sheet of paper. Entries will be judged on uniqueness of recipe and on clarity and accuracy of directions.

Recipes will be selected at the discretion of the editors. Contestants retain the right to use their own recipes in other contests. Winners whose recipes are selected will receive a free copy of the Chili Lovers Cook Book on publication.

Recipes should include a title, number of persons the chili serves, ingredients listed in the same order as they appear in directions, and instructions for making. In case of duplicate recipes, editors reserve the right to select a winner.

Original recipes should be mailed to Golden West Publishers, 4113 North Longview, Phoenix, AZ 85014, no later than Jan. 31, 1978. Free official entry blanks will be mailed on request.

Christmas Gift For the Elderly
"Gift" the elderly this Christmas with a touch of independence.

For those who "have everything," give to enhance the aging person's living independently longer, and perhaps prevent a serious accident.

Very little money is required for:

- a night light for bedroom, bath or hallway
  - luminous cover plates on wall switches
  - a bedside table
  - a table or floor lamp (older people need more light; also, they should not depend on ceiling fixtures, which require bulb-changing, which is, in turn, dangerous for older persons.)
- Other ways to give—a little money, and a little time:
- install an outside lamp to light walkway, or handrails on steps and porches
  - apply abrasive strips on stairways and bathtubs
  - provide bedside telephone outlet
  - paint a room a light color (light warm color helps illuminate) warm color gives feeling of homelike warmth)
  - install a horizontal grab bar on the wall over bathtub
  - install an emergency push button or signal device in the bathroom.

Growing Up in Harlem Told in Seventeen

Renee Bailey

"I grew up in Harlem in the late sixties—and that meant growing up fast," says Renee Bailey in November's Seventeen Magazine.

"My naivete was lost while still a child; poverty and crime were a part of everyday life I had to come to terms with."

Though there may be more pleasant settings in which to grow up, Renee remembers another side to this "inner city" located in the northern part of Manhattan: a community rich in history and ethnic diversity.

One of the most famous landmarks in Harlem, the Apollo

Theater, was only a few blocks from Renee's home. She remembers frequenting this theater where the greatest black entertainers got their start in the thirties and forties, people like jazz giant Duke Ellington, blues singer Lena Horne and multi-talented Sammy Davis, Jr. The concerts Renee heard in the Apollo, however, were given by such headliners as The Temptations, The Supremes and Stevie Wonder.

Sometimes, during her daily walks, she would pass through Strivers' Row, a two-block area lined with lush green trees and two and three-story townhouses boasting ornate entrances. The Row was the home of numerous show business personalities. "Some Harlemites complained that Row people divorced themselves from the rest of Harlem," notes Renee. "Others envied this black 'elite' bitterly."

With more than 4,000 teens—black, white and Hispanic—Reene's high school was known for the explosive nature of its student body. "There were no dances, pep rallies or even varsity sports, as any large gathering might trigger a gang fight," she recalls.

In an effort to drum up school spirit, Renee joined a group which recruited speakers and performers from the community. This proved to be a good means of meeting people and she made some long-lasting friends there. Often on weekends they would walk across the Brooklyn Bridge or attend street festivals in Harlem, not having enough money for dinner or movies.

Later in high school, Renee became increasingly restless to experience life outside of Harlem, and after a near-mugging, her parents decided that a vacation was in order. A week later she and Dari, a close friend, left for a six-week stay in Kingston, N.Y. "Dari loved country living, and so did I, for a while," Renee remembers. "But soon, I began to miss Harlem—the street sounds, the aroma of spicy foods and incense from the marketplaces." She sensed, too, that Kingston young people could not understand how she had escaped the ghetto unscathed—she spoke well, didn't use drugs or steal.

Her friend remained in the country and begged Renee to do so too, but she returned to Harlem and finished high school. "Having lived in a ghetto, I developed an early awareness of and sensitivity to the hardship and suffering of others. If I rejected Harlem, I would be rejecting myself and my family—my past."

In the spring of her senior year, Renee was awarded a scholarship to the University of Rochester in upstate New York and finished her degree there in psychology. Now she is back in New York City, working on Seventeen's editorial staff in the Reader Mail Department.

"I did grow up fast in Harlem. But I learned too, that poverty and ghettos aren't sins. It is giving up and giving in that are."

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

Texas Tech took charge from the opening kickoff, rolled to a 6-0 lead and let the defense blunt the opposing attack. That's the way a good football team is supposed to act.

As it turned out, the offense continued to attack and, before the half arrived, the Red Raiders were well on their way to making a rout of the SMU contest. Indeed, a 35-7 lead at the half is a pretty good rout and Steve Sloan was able to play a lot of reserves.

Talking with Dr. Wallace Hess Sunday, he pointed out that SMU helped Tech with a lot of penalties, but "we would just as soon not have seen a lot of them. They were the kind on which you get injuries, and we did."

How bad are the injuries? Currently it looks as though four injuries will result in four less players being available for Houston Saturday. And that hurts.

It became obvious that the Raiders, for maybe the first time this season, were really blocking as a unit. They moved the ball consistently and rolled up their biggest yardage of the year.

Tech did it against a good team. The Mustangs present a real challenge to the defense with many sets and many options. The Raiders did their usual outstanding job on defense, effectively shutting down SMU until the game was well under control.

This week the co-champions of the conference clash in a top game in Houston. The Cougars are coming back strong after the loss of Danny Davis and it will take another great effort by Tech to win.

It might be that the Raiders will receive a bowl bid after the game, regardless of whether they win or lose. It probably won't be a so-called major bowl, since the Raiders probably will be no better than fourth in the conference.

Still, to paraphrase Gertrude Stein, a bowl is a bowl is a bowl, and the exposure helps any team. As indicated last week a lot of possibilities exist, but it still appears to be Texas and Notre Dame in "our" bowl in Dallas.

Alabama is headed for the Sugar Bowl and, once Bear Bryant decides which team he'd like to play, the others will fall into line. Bear, however won't influence Notre Dame.

Look at the bowls. After the biggies—Rose, Cotton, Sugar, Orange—there are the Gator, Bluebonnet, Sun, Fiesta, Liberty, Tangerine, Hall of Fame, Peach and maybe one or two I may have missed.

It takes two teams to fill each bowl, so that's a total of at least 22 teams that are needed. There may be that many teams of top quality right now, but only 20 teams are ranked each week. Thus, those teams, minus Kentucky and Colgate, should be assured of bowls.

Tech climbed back to 18th last week in AP, ought to move higher this week (this is being written on Sunday). That should be a big boost to the Raiders, who were observed by only the Tangerine Bowl against SMU (but the Tangerine had three men present).

The Rose Bowl is a closed corporation, with the Pac 8 winner playing the Big 10 winner. And Southern Cal's demise weakens the Trojans from going anywhere else, although the No. 2 Big 10 team might well be considered.

You have Oklahoma a cinch to go to the Orange Bowl, so five teams are set. Arkansas, possibly the No. 2 SWC team, might be opposite Alabama, with A&M going to the Bluebonnet. Penn State will be in a bowl without doubt, either Orange or Sugar, and Pitt is a possibility.

The Gator might well go with Florida or Florida State, to get home appeal, against maybe North Carolina. That would make it a regional bowl, not to be desired, so Tech might be a possibility there.

Nebraska and Iowa State also can lay claim to a bowl, with the Huskers popular because they always bring a large crowd with them. Clemson has to be figured, too, despite the loss to Notre Dame.

The Fiesta might go with the No. 2 Pac 8 team, for regional appeal, against a southern or southwest team. And don't forget the Sun, which has been coming up with good teams of late.

The possibilities are endless.

Right now, though, Tech's main task is beating a good Houston team in the Astrodome and that will be no easy chore. The Cougars are coming back and played Texas a tight game.

In Alois Blackwell the Cougars have one of the best running backs in the nation. Delrick Brown is maturing at quarterback and the Houston line has been doing a good job. Once again Tech's defenses will be sorely tested.

The encouraging thing to Tech fans, though, is the way Rodney Allison is coming back. He makes the offense go and the offense against SMU left little to be desired.

It's probably the top game in the conference, with Texas getting Baylor, Arkansas facing SMU and A&M playing TCU. If the Raiders can defeat their conference co-champions, by 11 p.m. Saturday we might know what post season activity is in store. We might know anyway.

The Story Behind the Welfare Crisis and Welfare Reform Told

"There is shame in the welfare system but the shame is not yours," George Wiley used to tell welfare mothers.

Today, as President Carter attempts to sort out the "mess" in the welfare system, a new book suggests that the welfare explosion of the late 1960's and early 1970's may have been created in part by one man—the late George Wiley.

"A Passion for Equality," to be published on August 29th by W.W. Norton & Company, Inc., by Washington authors Nick and Mary Lynn Kotz, examines the life and times of the controversial black leader who drowned in the Chesapeake Bay four years ago.

Why did the nation's welfare rolls suddenly skyrocket, more than doubling in a few years? Why did the effort at welfare reform fail during the Nixon Administration? What are the necessary political and social ingredients for a successful reform from the present Congress and Carter Administration? These crucial national issues and many others are probingly explored in this book.

The authors weave together two stories, both crucial to an understanding of the problems of welfare, poverty, and race still confronting the country.

The first story, seldom told or frankly explored, is that of the so-called "Talented Tenth," the minority of upper class blacks who achieved success in America in the years before the civil rights movement, and often had to purchase that success at the painfully heavy cost of separating themselves from their black heritage—in the process becoming "white Negroes." Such was the case with George Wiley, who at an early age was emerging as one of the nation's leading research chemists. The book relates the crisis faced by the Talented Tenth when the civil rights and black nationalist movements arrived, challenging the formula for success and the life style of blacks such as Wiley. In trying to resolve that crisis, Wiley faced the taunts of fellow blacks who accused him of forsaking his race. Wiley underwent a painful struggle to resolve that dilemma, in the process discovering his own black roots and committing himself to the struggle for equality. As Dr.

George Wiley

Kenneth Clark, the nation's most eminent black psychologist, said of the book: "The Kotzes have skillfully captured the human dilemma faced by George Wiley and other blacks and described by W.E.B. DuBois: 'One ever feels his twoness, an American, a Negro, two souls, two thoughts, two unreconciled strivings; two warring ideals in one black body.'"

Wiley was a complex man. He devoted one portion of his life to a highly educated white woman; another portion to the poorest and most downtrodden of black women. Part of him was always the intellectual, the scholar; yet another was always the activist. Describing the book's treatment of Wiley's inner struggle and the larger struggle for social justice, Studs Terkel commented, "It is a book of glory."

Coupon Clipping Can Benefit Consumer

Coupon clipping can benefit the consumer by introducing new products, by providing information, and sometimes by offering bargains, says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Coupons come through the mail, in nearly every newspaper and magazine, and in or on containers. They usually offer five, ten or more cents off on the purchase price of a product.

More and more homemakers are taking advantage of coupon savings as they look for ways to hold down shopping costs.

If you are looking for a new product, coupons that you fill out and send in the mail with a minimum of money provide one way to find out what you like before committing yourself to a full-size purchase.

Special offers: Many companies offer special gift items, free or at little cost, if you send proof that you bought their product. This type of coupon is a bargain only if you know and like the product, or have made up your mind to try it.

Free information: Companies will sometimes include a free booklet describing or praising their product. Remember that the information is from the manufacturer's point of view.

Coupons can be a help to the consumer, but keep in mind that they are designed to sell a product.

Be a good sport in the woods this year. Give your dumb friends a break, and a chance to survive for another season.

President Signs Bill Raising Minimum Wage

WASHINGTON — President Carter has signed legislation raising the federal minimum wage annually for the next four years, until it reaches $3.35 an hour in 1981.

The first increase, effective Jan. 1, 1978, establishes the minimum at $2.65 an hour. It will increase the pay of 4.5 million workers by a total of $2.2 billion.

In 1979, another 5.1 million workers will benefit, by a total of $2.1 billion, when the minimum reaches $2.90.

The 1980 minimum — $3.10 an hour — will add $1.9 billion to the pay of 5.2 million workers. The last scheduled step up, in 1981, will provide increases amounting to $2.3 billion to 5.4 million affected employees.

Workers in the hotel, motel and restaurant industry will benefit from provisions in the law affecting employer exemptions for "tipped employees."

First, the number of employees who will receive the full minimum is increased by changing the definition of "tipped employee" from those receiving $20 a month in tips to those receiving $30, effective Jan. 1, 1978.

Second, the amount of "tip credit" employers can use to reduce the percentage of the full minimum that they must pay their workers is reduced from the present 50 percent to 45 percent, effective Jan. 1, 1979, and to 40 percent, effective Jan. 1, 1980.

Also, overtime payments to workers in hotels, motels and restaurants (except for maids and custodial employees) will begin after 44 hours instead of 46, effective Jan. 1, 1978, and after 40 hours, beginning Jan. 1, 1979.

This increased overtime protection will benefit 2.4 million workers.

Overtime provisions were also liberalized for some cotton ginning, sugar processing and tobacco workers.

In the retail and service industry, it is expected that fewer workers will be covered by the minimum wage as the result of provisions gradually increasing the amount of business done or gross annual volume of sales allowed to enterprises not covered by the Act. Approximately 650,000 employees may be affected by the end of 1981.

In Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, workers already receiving a minimum wage equal to that paid on the mainland will continue to do so. Those receiving less than the mainland minimum will get annual increases, starting Jan. 1, 1978, until they are at the same minimum rate as mainland employees.

The legislation, which amends the Fair Labor Standards Act, allows the Secretary to grant waivers permitting employers to hire children aged 10 and 11 in piece rate hand agricultural operations, under certain restricted conditions.

It also provides the right to private action for employees who are discharged or discriminated against, either for filing a complaint under the Act or for cooperating with the Department of Labor in proceedings under the Act, effective Jan. 1, 1978.

Americans can't get the Communists out of America by criticising each other.

Extension Update

by Georgia Doherty
Home Safe Home

Is your home really safe? Most people view their homes as a haven from hazards of the outside world. However, more people are injured at home than anywhere else. They fall, get burned, asphyxiated, poisoned, shot, electrocuted, and bruised.

To reduce the risk of home accidents, follow these precautions:

— Learn proper use and care of household appliances and equipment.

— Maintain heating and electrical systems to prevent fire and shock hazards.

— Arrange furnishings to permit easy, unimpeded movement from room to room.

— Provide ample storage space to help keep things out of the way when not in use.

— Keep stairs and traffic ways free of tripping hazards.

— For climbing, use a sturdy step stool or stepladder rather than chairs or other makeshift steps.

— Wipe up spills immediately and wear shoes that give good support and traction.

— Avoid dangling clothing near stoves, heaters, and machinery.

— Make a special effort to protect small children and the elderly or handicapped from all home hazards.

Dual Career

A lot of wives, in both rural and urban areas of Lubbock County are going to work to help support their families. But, when both adults in the home work, the two salaries do not necessarily provide a grandiose lifestyle.

Dual careers sometimes impose pressures and strains that preclude gracious living. Exhausting jobs both at work and at home for either or both partners can become burdensome. In addition to the pressures of work, a part of each twenty-four hour period must be dedicated to family.

After a taxing day on the job, child care, household cleaning, laundry and entertaining still remain to be done. Re-apportioning household tasks is one way of reaching a more workable solution.

A family may decide to delegate some responsibilities, if the services they require are available, but it also costs more to buy the services required to ease the over-load.

Although having two careers and two paychecks might automatically supply more expendable income for a family unit, it may not mean that life can be more relaxed and pleasurable. It may merely mean a shuffling of priorities and dilemmas for personal gratification.

Above all, keep a good attitude and a smile on your face. It will help.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

I've got a confession to make. I stayed home by myself all this weekend, stepping aside from my usual movie catching on Saturday afternoons, just staying by myself, doing some work on my autobiography, doing chores and, for once, watching what the television tube has had to offer. And, believe it or not, it has been rich fare this weekend.

As I write this column I am also listening, watching "live" from Lincoln Square, New York City, the Metropolitan Opera's presentation of "Rigoletto." It brings new voices and tried and true voices in this favorite opera of melodrama and heartbreaking tragedy. Cornel McNeil is doing the hunchbacked jester, a little weak of voice it seems too, a superb lady, whose name I cannot seem to catch off the screen, who sings her Gilda as a lyric soprano and not in the used-to-it form of the coloratura of Roberta Peters and Lily Pons. Superb.

The Duke is Placido Domingo and he is a tenor of the highest rank. It is a superb performance and it proves the value of television and, especially, Public Television, for what I am watching is a "replay" of the live performance earlier this week. "Rigoletto" in my living room, what a joy! The Met will later this year, through PBS, bring us "Thais" and "Cavaleria Rusticana". That, in itself, is worth the pledge of support to KTX-TV, Channel 5, to keep up this superb public service for the whole family.

Now, on the television kick, let me say that much of my seclusion weekend is being devoted to the Home Box Office service, which operates in Lubbock off of the Lubbock Cable-TV installation. When you can have "Inside the NFL," popular night club performance doing their "thing," and such not-so-old movies as the Academy Award winning "Network," "The Outlaw Josey Wales" and upcoming "The Sting," uncut and uninterrupted, then you've got it where it is.

Sometimes, even though I manage to hit most of them, I miss a film in its hardtop opening in this city, for one reason or another. I missed "Josey Wales" and I missed, for some forgotten reason, "The Sting" as well. Well, HBO will give them to me as it did another "miss-ee", "Taxi Driver" that hard-bitten, shocking film that moved into my living room last weekend.

There are foreign films, innovations on HBO that really make the investment worthwhile. And that goes for Lubbock Cable TV, too. There are programs that are not available to the public on the little screen through the local TV outlets. These can be realized through the additional outlets found in the cable service. I depend on cable, as I rely on Home Box Office. The cost is minimal, compared to regular box office prices at the local houses and I urge you to think about these advantages. You'll find they are most worthwhile, both of them, Cable TV and Home Box Office.

I postponed my attendance at the Lubbock Theatre Centre's "Life With Father" this past weekend, but I shall, and I hope you do, too, catch the repeat performance scheduled for this Friday and Saturday. I'll let you know next time around.

There is yet another couple of outings that I shall be mentioning next week, the Texas Tech University Theatre's production of "Elizabeth I," the "virgin queen" which opens Friday and runs through the 22nd. And the second concert of the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra which will have been given its two performance dates in the Civic Center Theater Monday and Tuesday before this can appear. The program that founding musical director-conductor William A. Harrod has arranged is a delightful one in anticipation and to be further anticipated is the appearance of the Russian-born pianist Alexander Teradze, who has just come up covered with roses as the winner of the recent Van Cliburn Piano Competition in Fort Worth.

Well, that about brings it up to date. Except for some comment on movies around town. My favorite and highly recommended choice for you is the revival, in stereophonic sound, of Walt Disney's unquestioned classic, "Fantasia." This is a MUST, if you have never seen and heard it or if you have and have forgotten the superb genius of Disney, Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra, then run, don't walk, to the South Plains Cinema I-II at the South Plains Mall. The whole family. This is what is meant when people speak of "classic." It was, is and shall remain so.

At Showplace 4 they are unspooling an innocuous little comedy, lightweight, low budget film, "You Light Up My Life," which has gained attention mainly because the title song has soared to the top rank No. 1 on the charts. The song is what it's all about. The film is a shallow, mildly amusing little piece that can thank the tunesmiths for putting it into the public and box office consciousness.

Coming up Friday at the Fox 4 complex out on 19th Street is a film to be anticipated. "Bobby Deerfield" with marvelous Al Pacino and Marthe Keller (she was the lead in "Black Sunday" and "The Marathon Man") and on the heels of the week's television four-day marathon showing of "The Godfather" Parts I-II, Pacino is hot. I've always predicted that Pacino, a sensitive, knowledgeable actor, will win his Oscar one of these days, given the right time, place and role and I stand on it. I wait for "Bobby Deerfield."

If "Mr. Billion" is still holding forth at Showplace 4, and you want a laugh, go see it. It's a silly little film but it has its moments, enhanced by a cast including Terrence Hill, Valerie Perrine, Jackie Gleason, Slim Pickens, William Redfield, our own Chill Wills and others. It's a lightweight comedy, chase and all, but fun, I think.

"A Piece of the Action," with Sidney Poitier and Bill Cosby is fun, a followup to their successful two films before, a little message, laughs. It is at the Fox 4 complex. Last week, so get there if you want to catch it.

Not much to say for "Damnation Alley." It's a preposterous story of what happens after the nuclear holocaust and a band of hardy souls trying to reach the only untouched area, of all places, Albany, New York. You see this one at your own risk! I'd go for Home Box Office, if I were you.

South Plains Writers Meet

"Finding Your Forefathers: Names, Dates, and Stories," will be the title of the program Monday, November 14, 1977 when the South Plains Writers' meet at 7:30 in the Garden and Arts Center at 4515 University. Christine Wood and Mardema Ogletree will tell some of the thrills and chills they have experienced as they researched their own ancestry. They will explain how to search public records, libraries and other sources for information.

Christine Wood has had four family history books published and is working on two more. She is teaching a course in Advanced Techniques for Genealogical Research at South Plains College and has taught courses at Lubbock Christian College and at Wayland Baptist College. Mrs. Wood became a certified genealogist in 1974 and conducts genealogical and historical research on assignment. She is a member of the editorial staff of the Texas State Genealogical Society.

Mardema Ogletree was President of South Plains Genealogical Society in 1976-77. She attended a seminar at the Imperial College in England and heard lectures in Scotland this past summer, and researched her family background in London. "The search for ancestors helps a person find his own identity," she said. "If you can identify with an ancestor at a certain time in the past, then history becomes more meaningful to you."

The public is invited to attend the meeting. For more information call Christine Wood, 799-1176 or Mardema Ogletree 799-8748. The Genealogical Society invites the public to use their special section in Mahon Library for research.

Ringling the Bell . . .

with Bob Tieuel

Looking at the Black Experience: A few months ago, "Roots" held the nation enthralled for eight days. Prime-time television, public libraries and Alex Haley won't ever be the same. Genealogical libraries and historical repositories have been swamped since last January by people tracing their own origins. "One of the biggest things among black people is that they no longer see their slave ancestors with shame but with a sense of pride," states Haley.

The National Archives in Washington and its branches report a huge increase in people searching through old census records for their ancestors. The number of black people visiting the archives has tripled.

A sequel, covering the second hundred years of Haley's book, is now being prepared for the 1978-79 season by ABC. Said Stan Margulies, producer, "My single hope was to get people to ask one question: 'What would I have done if I had been alive then?' It was not to dump guilt for slavery upon America. I don't see any legislators running to put new laws on the books or people changing their lives, but "Roots" has gotten people to start thinking. There can be no doubt that "Roots" will have a tremendous impact on television viewing for years to come. It, along with "Rich Man, Poor Man," the year before, paved the way for the mini-series."

Haley had labored for 55 years in total obscurity, including 20 years in the Coast Guard. Then he became an instant celebrity and a millionaire. Since the series and publication of the book he has been constantly on the lecture circuit. It is reported that Haley has now cut his lecture engagements and gone back to writing "My Search for Roots" and working on material for the series sequel. He adds, "I've lived the life of a nomad. Since I've been an adult I've been the Chicken George of my immediate family . . . I learned to write in the Coast Guard when I was a cook. I was sustained during the 12 years of research and writing—when I was broke, broke, broke. It was indeed a spiritual experience. I felt a sense of being a participant in a living drama while writing and researching 'Roots.'" And in the meantime an anxious nation awaits the next chapter in the story of Chicken George and his family. Too bad we will have to wait until next year bellringers.

Dear Bob: Why do we have a world cursed with hunger, nakedness, war, disease, depression, inflation, a nation and a world composed of haves and have nots? . . . In the first place, man is too immoral to want for all people what he wants for himself. Tenets of his philosophy are . . . dog eat dog . . . the survival of the fittest . . . let him get his like I got mine . . . I'm going to get mine, let the devil take my neighbor.

"Man has the intellectual tools to form a just and happy society. The need is political in nature. He simply lacks the wisdom on the governmental level to set wise priorities and then to implement them . . . With his knowledge, his resources, his manpower it is absurd that he has farm depression, unemployment, slums, ghettos, ghost towns, disease, inadequate housing, pollution, inflation . . . yet he has them! Man in his selfishness and foolishness, will have it no other way." Signed: HMB in "Thoughts for Thursday"

We Remember! For many years, the Rev. C. Elmore Chapman was a pillar in the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church. A minister and a newsman who rounded out 50 years in the ministry in 1969, he was not only an active preacher and presiding elder but was a goodwill ambassador for his church and the black-oriented Kansas City Call newspaper. Long before public relations became the profession that it is today, stated the Kansas City Call in an editorial, "Chapman developed the first public department of the C.M.E. Church and the General Conference of 1938, meeting in Hot Springs, Arkansas, adopted his plan and made it a part of the general church." End of quote. We worked closely with C.E. during the intervening years till his death. We hope that the C.M.E. Church will restore this department at the next General Conference in Birmingham, Alabama in 1978.

The Church of God in Christ, with national headquarters in Memphis, Tennessee has recently released plans to build one of the most modern and elaborate church headquarters of any black denomination in the world.

Lenton Malry, democratic state representative from Dist. 18, in Albuquerque's Southeast Heights, who has announced for the office of lieutenant governor of New Mexico is chairman of the legislature's education committee and a member of the Appropriation and Finance Committee, becomes the first black ever to announce for a statewide elective office.

Mt. Gilead Baptist Church

"We enter to worship, we depart to serve. The church where everybody is somebody."

The Rev. LaSalle Jones will begin our Harvest Revival on Sunday Nov. 20, at 11 a.m. He is scheduled to appear with us nightly at 8 p.m. until Friday, Nov. 25, 1977.

The Brotherhood program scheduled for Nov. 20, will have as its guest speaker Elder C.J. Johnson, of L. Kentucky. This will be at 7 p.m. Let all members plan to attend and support them in their effort also.

Let us continue to pray for our sick and bereaved.

Lauterdale's Memorial Power House Church of God in Christ

Ralls, Texas—Rev. S.R. Anderson is gradually improving at Methodist Hospital following major surgery last week. He is pastor of Lauderdale's Memorial Church of God in Christ, at Ralls.

The family would like to thank the many friends and neighbors who have been of so much assistance during this period of illness. Thank you for the cards, flowers, telephone calls and everything that has been done. Words can never express the true meaning of friends. The members of the church would like to especially thank Rev. Archie McNeal of Jerusalem Temple Church of God in Christ, Bishop James Judie Pastor, in assisting with our worship services.

Lyons Chapel Baptist Church

Sunday was Youth Day, the young adults of the church were in charge of the morning program. Rev. Larry Josey delivered the message, which was titled "Divide the Bread of Life Righteously." His scripture was taken from St. John 6:33-37.

Rev. Gary Bunton sang a beautiful solo, and Ms. Perry and Rev. James Allen did a lovely duet. We are very proud of young people, for they are truly doing a fantastic job. Keep up the good work!

At our afternoon service the spirit really did reach its peak. We were honored with very special guests from Austin, Texas. The Male Chorus, under the leadership of Rev. Franklin, minister of St. James Baptist Church. I was truly overwhelmed with the group. Each selection warmed your soul very deeply. If you missed them you missed a treat. They did several selections; a few were, "Standing in the Need of Prayer," "Look Where the Lord Has Brought Us," "I Come to Be a Witness," and "Amazing Grace." We truly hope next year we can unite again in fellowship.

The O.D. Hollins Memorial Banquet was indeed a very big success. Thanks to each and everyone that participated in the program. We are grateful to Ms. Jean Freeling for being our guest speaker, she gave a dynamic address, "The Black Woman on the Move." It was very inspirational. To top it all, the dinner was great. Our congratulations go out to Ms. Eleanor Jones, chairperson over the committee for a job well done.

Federation of Choirs will be Sunday the 20th at 2:30 p.m. at Bethel. Let us make plans to attend.

Each Wednesday evening at 7 p.m. is prayer service. Come one come all, for prayer is vital. Let us continue to pray for our sick and shut in members of the church. Bro. John Dotsey is in Methodist Hospital. Let us go by to visit with him. Let us pray for the Robert Ray Sr. family, that they find the strength they need after the loss of their son, Robert Ray Jr. III.

Hope Deliverance

Rev. John Black Jr. will be in revival at Hope Deliverance through Saturday, Nov. 19. We encourage everyone to come out and hear this young man.

Services begin nightly at 7:30 p.m.

Parkway Church of the Nazarene

We would like to invite everyone to come out and hear the Rev. Charles Jones from Port Arthur, Texas tonight through Friday, Nov. 18. Services begin nightly at 7:00 p.m.

Mount Olive Baptist

Snyder—Sunday School was called to order with the Supt. Sis. Bertha Willis presiding.

Sisters Daisy Lewis, Lott and M.H. Brandon taught primary classes; Sis. E.N. Jenkins and Sis. M. Willis were intermediate teachers and Bro. Hubert Urdu Adult teacher.

Pastor. E.D. Toines delivered the message. His topic, "The Lord Will Never Let You Down." Scripture reading Psalms 27:10.

Music was provided by the senior choir, assisted by Sis. Annie Hawkins.

Anyone needing a ride to Mount Olive for Sunday School or worship service can call 573-3813, 573-6165 or 573-9928.

Services Held For Robert L. Ray Jr.

Services for Robert L. Ray Jr., 23, of 302 N. Spruce, were held at 11 a.m. Saturday in Lyons Chapel Baptist Church with the Rev. Floyd Perry, pastor, officiating.

Burial followed in the City of Lubbock Cemetery under the direction of South Plains Funeral Home.

Ray died of natural causes at his home last Monday.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Ray Sr.; a son, Tremain Lamar of Lubbock; a brother, Michael E. of Lubbock; three sisters, Mrs. Gwendolyn Titus, Mrs. Jacquelyn Porch, and Karon Sue Ray, all of Lubbock; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Jenkins and Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Bulter, all of Lubbock.

Men in Service

Navy Ship's Serviceman Third Class Fred Phillips Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Phillips Sr. of 3424 E. Bates, Lubbock, Tex., recently departed for an extended deployment in the Western Pacific.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the aircraft carrier USS Kitty Hawk, homeported in San Diego. While deployed, his ship will operate as a unit of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

The missions of the Seventh Fleet are to protect U.S. citizens, shipping and interests in the Western Pacific; to deter aggression against our Western Pacific allies by maintaining mobile striking forces; to promote peace and stability in the Western Pacific area and to create goodwill for the United States.

During the cruise, his ship is scheduled to participate in training exercises with other Seventh Fleet units and with ships of allied nations. Additionally, port visits are scheduled in Japan, South Korea, Hong Kong, Thailand and the Republic of the Philippines.

The Kitty Hawk is 1,062 feet long and displaces more than 80,000 tons. She carries a crew of 2,800 officers and enlisted men, plus 2,150 personnel assigned to an attack aircraft wing. She is capable of carrying 85 jet aircraft and can travel at speeds in excess of 30 knots.

Phillips joined the Navy in September, 1974.
