Snubbed In America, Dean Dixon Named Conductor Of Sydney Symphony Orchestra

Sydney, Australia - The adage "A prophet knows no honor in his own country," is particularly true in the case of Dean Dixon, the 47-year old Harlem-born symphony conductor.

Dixon who fulfilled a life's ambition to become a fulltime symphony conductor after many frustrating years in America when he was named conductor of the Gothenburg, Sweden, Symphony in 1949 was named last week musical director and conductor of the Sydney Symphony orchestra.

Despite a brilliant American career, first as a student and then as a classical musician, Dixon got his big chance in Europe. Before his appointments in Sweden and Australia, Dixon was one of the most sought-after guest conductors in Europe.

Dixon, born to West Indian parents in New York, holds musical degrees from the famed Juilliard School of Music and matters as trips to Puerto Rico and elsewhere by the congressman and his aides. He also said Powell's requested $679,000 budget for the two years of the current congress should be cut by $200,000.

Meanwhile, in Harlem, J. Raymond Jones, executive committee member of the New York County Democratic Party, and Powell's 1958 campaign manager said in a television interview that he felt that the attacks had helped rather than hurt Powell, as far as Negroes at large are concerned.

Columbia University. As a student he was outstanding, but he never received the recognition in America he did elsewhere.

Attacks Help Rather Than Hurt Him, Says Harlem Congressman Powell

WASHINGTON—Adam Clayton Powell's cavalier reply to an attack on him in the Senate appeared last week to have intensified rather than quieted the storm of criticism that has been swirling about his head.

While President Kennedy refused to be drawn into the controversy, saying that Powell is well able to take care of himself, a member of the House Labor and Education committee, of which Powell is chairman, led a new assault upon him, and indignant members of the Tennessee legislature adopted a resolution condemning him.

The new attack on the controversial Harlem congressman indicated that the feud may continue for some time to come. It was essentially a continuation of the initial attack made upon Powell on the Senate floor recently by Republican Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware.

Williams said then that both the previous Eisenhower administration and the current Kennedy administration had been shoveling out millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money to Powell, and further criticized the Congressman for a work-and-leisure jaunt to Europe last summer. Williams also attacked him for carrying relatives on the House Committee payroll.

In reply, Powell called a press conference following his return from a trip to Puerto Rico, at which he ripped Williams as a foe of civil rights. He said the Dixie senator indulged in "inaccuracies and lies" about him, and added that Williams had attacked him because he is a Negro. Williams denied the racial motive and said he was standing fast on his charges.

The new attack last week was also led by a Republican, Congressman John Ashbrook of Ohio, who is on Powell's committee. Ashbrook followed Williams hard line attack, suggesting that the Democrats discipline Powell. He called Powell a "spend-thrift" in the use of his committee funds for such

Crewman In Shrimp Boat Straffed By Cuban Plane, Jack-Rolled

MIAMI - You can be internationally famous one day and in jail the next, Benjamin Washington has discovered.

Washington and Paris Jackson were the two men aboard the shrimp boat "Ala" when it was straffed by Cuban-based combat planes recently.

Because of the international implications of the incident, the two men were flown here from Key West to appear on a national TV program, but before they "Ala" when it was towed into Key West by a Navy vessel. Actually, Washington was languishing in a Miami jail at the time.

Washington got into his predicament this way. After the TV network appearance, he and Jackson were given $50 each for expenses and bus fare back to Key West. Scheduled to leave town the following morning they checked into a room in the Negro section of Miami for a night's sleep.

However, Washington got restless for a sample of Miami night life. He decided he wanted to have a few beers and left the room to seek out a nearby bar. At the bar he met a girl. And that was all he could remember about the bar or his "date".

Washington apparently had too much to drink and as a result was jack-rolled. When police found him in a stupor at a street intersection, his $50 was gone and he was unable to give a local address.

So he was jailed on a charge of public drunkenness until a CBS cameraman who had brought him and Jackson here learned of his plight and bailed him out of jail.

The cameraman, Wendell Hoffman, bought Washington a bus ticket and made sure he got on a vehicle to Key West to rejoin Jackson.

Washington was the wiser for his experience.

Washington

could return home, Washington landed in jail.

It was at first erroneously reported that Washington and Jackson, skipper of the shrimp boat, were on hand to greet the 72-foot

Private School Meet Held

The meeting was held at the Christ the King School at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday March 12, 1963. Representatives from the following schools were present; Mary & Mac, St. Peters, St. Christopher, Lubbock Christian College, with the host being Christ the King School.
 First on the agenda was the Tentative Literary Meet, which is scheduled for the first Saturday of May 1963. The location being Christ the King School. This Literary Meet will consist of the following events; Declamations, Story Telling, Debated, Spelling, Reading Writing, Number Sense, Art and the one Act Play.

The Kindergarten will participate in an art contest. This item is believed to be a big boost to the little ones in the kindergarten level.

The One Act Play will only consist of the 7th and 8th graders. If any school has a one act play which might be preformed without any difficulty then by all means that play can be used instead of the ones suggested by the state.

Mr. Caesar Julius Graves, of the Mary & Mac School was appointed as director of the Story Telling Event.

The Play Day activities were also discussed at the meeting. It will consist of several relays plus the 80, 70, 60 and 40 yard sprints for boys and girls. Play Day is scheduled for April 26 of this year. The event will be held at the Field house of the Lubbock Christian College. Details for the method of awarding each activity have been completed and first second and third place trophies will be awarded.

MARY & MAC NEWS...

The Tigerettes have only played one game in basketball this year with one remaining. This being the first year the Tigerettes have played basketball. They will encounter Christ the King School for their last basketball game of the year.

The May Day activities are gradually sneaking upon the boys and girls at Mary & Mac. On May 4th they will compete against Christ the King, St. Peters, St. Christopher, and Lubbock Christian College's Elementary school in the Interscholastic Literary Competition.

Play Day activities are held on Friday, April 26. These activities will consist of various types of relays, including the boys 70 and 80 yard sprints. The girls are not left out, because they will have an opportunity to perform their speed ability in the 40 and 60 yard sprints. This should be quite an experience for the Tigers and Tigerettes. Play Day will be held at the Field House of Lubbock Christian College.

day nights from 7-9 p.m. Classes are designed for adults who are interested in improving their educational status. In the classes each student has the opportunity to seek and find answers to the problems involved in becoming better equipped in the courses they choose.
