Annual Staff Holds First Night Meeting This Week

Cautions That Orders Must Go In Next Month

The staff of this year's Wolverine has been at work all year but really got down to the serious business of the "home stretch" Thursday night when they met in the evening at the school to begin organizing the material for this year's bigger and better annual.

They will hold frequent evening meetings from now until the middle of February, when all material must go to the printer.

They cautioned students and patrons that all orders for this year's annual must go to the printer at the same time. They say that every year several are disappointed because when the annuals come in they want one, but there are none available for them.

Cost of this year's annual is still $3.40, although it will be larger than in the past. It will be the same type of imitation leather binding in the school colors, but in a different design than last year. A deposit of $1.50 must be made with the order. The balance can wait until the annual is delivered.

Editor of the 1955 Wolverine is Nona Stevens, Asst. Editor is June Gregory, Business Manager is Lois Lewis, assisted by Charles Hamilton, Yvonne O'Hair is Layout Editor, assisted by Janis Jones, Typist is Joan Kelley and her assistant is Joe Lee Campbell. Art Editor is Don Randolph and his assistant is Tony Cortez. Richard McCaskill is photographer and Rex Loftis is his assistant.

Staff members are seniors and their assistants are juniors. The assistants will be in the top spots for next year's annual.

Commissioners Suggest Installing Risers Now

Work began in Earth this week on the new $70,000 sewer project, with more than 1200 feet of line already laid. The work began in the south east corner of town and is going north across the highway. This line is one of the two main lines from which laterals will branch off to cover the entire city.

At the city commissioners meeting Tuesday, a decision was reached on the disposal plant to deal with the Narcross Construction Co., of Snyder in securing a Carter Clarigester, which can be delivered in four months and will have a two year warranty.

Another important detail discussed in the meeting with the commissioners, the Mayor and Engineer Ralph Douglas of Little-

This Issue Makes History

This is a history making edition of the Earth News because it is the first newspaper ever printed at Earth.

Publisher Ross Middleton, who has been mechanical superintendent for the Littlefield newspapers, left that position on January 1 to take over personal operation of the News' plant. The machinery used in printing the edition was moved in several weeks ago.

Middleton is purchasing the interests previously owned by Sam Williams and Douglas Poe of Littlefield.

The first pieces of commercial printing from the plant were also turned out this week.

JC's Will Kickoff Their Part Of The Dimes Drives Mon.

Mrs. E. C. Hudson, chairman of the local March of Dimes Drive reports that the Earth Jaycees have promised to assist with the drive and that they plan to make Mondays noon meeting a "kickoff luncheon" for the event.

This year's goal for Lamb County is $10,000, half of which will remain in the county for assistance in the paying of hospital and medical expenses of polio victims. The county chapter of the Foundation of Infantile Paralysis reports that it spent $6,261 in 1954 in caring for nine patients. Two of these were carry over cases from 1953, and two others will be carried over into 1954. Two other 1954 cases were covered by insurance and have not required assistance.

They say that the average child's stay in the hospital is three months and that the average cost per month, for hospital, doctors, therapists, drugs, etc. is between $500 and $600.

Rumors are that the statistics on last summer's tests of Sauk vaccine are going to show that it is an effective preventive, in which case Foundation officials hope to vaccinate 18 million children in 1955, including all first and second graders. This is expected to cut 1955's victims to about two thirds of last year's 38,000. And there is hope of eliminating the disease within five years.

Meanwhile, however, there are 75,000 paralyzed victims presently in hospitals which should be rehabilitated. Cost of caring for them is presently nearly fifty million dollars per year.

Mrs. R. S. Cole and Mrs. Floyd Bills were in Muleshoe Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Hair, Jr., of near Earth took New Year's dinner with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob O'Hair of Earth.

Busy Basketball Week Coming Up

Every night but Wednesday night may be basketball night for the Wolverines next week. They start the week off with a district game at Dimmitt on Monday.

Back home they will face the Amherst boys and girls teams Tuesday night. Thursday they play the first games in the Amherst tournament.

Monday evening twenty-nine farmers and businessmen gathered in the community building and carefully examined all possibilities for telephone service in the rural area north of Earth. They adopted the Dodd Exchange plan as the best and organized an association to get it built.

The group considered four possible plans and discarded two of them quickly. They long ago gave up hope of General Telephone Company extending rural lines from the Earth exchange to any considerable number of farms. And they do not want to be on the co-op's Lazbuddie exchange because it will be connected to Muleshoe instead of Earth, where they want to talk. Only about a third of the farmers in this area have agreed to accept service from Lazbuddie, and most of them did so only because they thought nothing better would be available.

That meant they must choose between building their own rural lines into General's exchange at Earth, or building a rural exchange somewhere up toward Dodd and connecting it to the Earth exchange by a couple of trunk lines. The government will loan on rural exchanges (but has once refused to do so on a Dodd exchange because they thought it would not pay out) but not on rural "feeder" lines into an already established exchange. Another disadvantage to the rural lines is that after they were built some one would have to maintain them forever and these men did not want to be in the telephone business that long. Also it would be more difficult to add phones in the future to the rural lines than it would to add them to a rural exchange.

They assumed that Five Area Cooperative would be glad to build and operate an exchange at Dodd if it could be made to pay out. To make it pay out they decided to do two things: (one) try to get more subscribers than Five Area got when it canvassed the area, and (two) raise money to make up the difference between the amount that will pay out and the amount it will take to install the exchange.

No one knew for sure what this difference might be, but the figure $15,000 was mentioned by co-op officials at a meeting two weeks ago and it was used frequently in the planning Monday evening. Everyone seemed to think there was little doubt but that such a sum could be raised, if necessary to get the exchange. This money would be paid back to the donors eventually out of proceeds from the monthly telephone bills.

Albert D. Taylor, Earth realtor, said that Earth businessmen had indicated a willingness to raise a sizeable part of this sum and everyone who expressed himself seemed to think that the farmers affected would raise whatever more it took to get the job done.

The group elected Taylor to head the association, which will attempt to get Five Area Co-op to build this exchange and to help iron out any difficulties that may arise. Enos Harper was picked for vice-president and B. Campbell for secretary-treasurer. The officers were authorized to set as an executive committee and act for the association.

A BY-Law committee was appointed by Taylor, consisting of G. W. Sanderson, Bill Beasley and Truman Stines. Its first meeting was scheduled for one p. m. Thursday in Taylor's office.

The motion to form an association to secure rural telephone service north of Earth was made by Taylor and seconded by Cullen Hay and adopted unanimously. Another motion by Paul Wood, seconded by Enos Harper, directed the officers to favor the Dodd exchange as the best method of obtaining this telephone service.

Several names were considered and the one proposed by Melvin Bock and seconded by G. W. Sanderson was adopted. The organization will be known as Earth Telephone Association.

IT'S THE LAW in Texas

Copyrights are of two types: Common Law and Statutory. In general, the common law copyright protects unpublished works and the statutory copyright protects published works. The following discussion applies to published works and the statutory copyright.

The United States copyright statutes give to authors, composers, and artists the exclusive right to their published works for a period of twenty-eight years. During that time others are prohibited from copying or reprinting such works without permission of the copyright owner. Statutory copyrights are renewable once for a second twenty-eight years.

WHAT COPYRIGHTED?

Works that may be protected under our copyright laws include books (not only bound volumes, but also pamphlets, leaflets and even single sheets); periodicals (newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, serial publications, etc., which appear at regular intervals of less than a year); contributions to periodicals; lectures, sermons or addresses prepared for oral delivery; musical compositions and dramatic or dramatic-musical compositions.

Also maps; works of art; models or designs for works of art; published three-dimensional works of art; reproductions of works of art; drawings or plastic works of scientific or technical and pictorial illustrations including prints (advertisements) or labels used for articles of merchandise; motion picture photographs and motion pictures other than photoplays.

The principal steps to be taken in securing a statutory copyright include (1) properly marking the work with a notice of copyright, (2) publishing the work, and (3) filing with the Register of Copyrights in Washington an application for registration of the work and a specified number of copies of the work must accompany the application. It should be noted that the marking must precede publication, and that both of these steps must precede the filing of the application.

Failure to incorporate the notice of copyright before publication or to get it up in proper place or to place it in the proper place on the works will result in abandonment to the public of the claimant's rights. He will lose his copyright. Requirements vary in respect to the form of the notice, and the place on the works at which it should appear—depending on the nature of the works, whether they are published or unpublished, and other factors.

On some works it is mandatory that the notice contain the word "Copyright" or the abbreviation "Copr.," on certain other works, the letter "C" enclosed within a circle may be used instead. On some works the notice must include the year in which the work was first published.

MUST BE IDENTIFIED

In every notice the copyright claimant must be identified. In some cases the full name of the claimant is required; in others the initials or monogram, or an identifying mark or symbol, is sufficient. The name or mark may be that of the creator of the work, or of one to whom the copyright has been assigned.

Here is an example to show the effect of a copyright: A copyright on a map of Texas does not preclude another from publishing a map of Texas, provided he gets his information from original sources. The copyright does preclude another from copying the map protected by copyright. Further, the copyright law does not normally protect ideas as such nor abstract ideas, but rather the copyright grants the right to preclude others from copying an expression of an abstract idea.

Copyrights are of two types: Common Law and Statutory. In general, the common law copyright protects unpublished works and the statutory copyright protects published works. The following discussion applies to published works and the statutory copyright.

The United States copyright statutes give to authors, composers, and artists the exclusive right to their published works for a period of twenty-eight years. During that time others are prohibited from copying or reprinting such works without permission of the copyright owner. Statutory copyrights are renewable once for a second twenty-eight years.

WHAT COPYRIGHTED?

Works that may be protected under our copyright laws include books (not only bound volumes, but also pamphlets, leaflets and even single sheets); periodicals (newspapers, magazines, reviews, bulletins, proceedings of societies, serial publications, etc.); which appear at regular intervals of less than a year; contributions to periodicals; lectures, sermons or addresses prepared for oral delivery; musical compositions and dramatic or dramatic-musical compositions.

Also maps; works of art; models or designs for works of art; published three dimensional works of art; reproductions of works of art; drawings or plastic works of scientific or technical and pictorial illustrations including prints (advertisements) or labels used for articles of merchandise; motion picture photographs and motion pictures other than photoplays.

The principal steps to be taken in securing a statutory copyright include (1) properly marking the work with a notice of copyright, (2) publishing the work, and then (3) filing with the Register of Copyrights in Washington an application for registration of the copyright. The registration fee and a specified number of copies of the work must accompany the

Highlights and Sidelights From Your State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex.—No one envies the job of the Texas legislators who convene here on the 11th. They must solve the state's biggest financial problem in years. Cut out for them is the task of: (1) providing more money for increased enrollment in public schools, (2) finding additional funds for public welfare and (3) locating construction dollars to maintain and enlarge highways.

A heavy load of students during the next two years will add $24 million to school expenditures.

Public welfare, increased by a November constitutional amendment, will take $14 million more over the same period.

An estimated $50 million per year is needed for highway maintenance and construction.

Education, public welfare and highways already take 90 cents of each tax dollar. And there is pressure for more money from other quarters.

In the general fund is slightly more than $12 million.

WHAT TO DO?

A two cents per gallon increase in the gasoline tax is one proposal. Present tax is four cents state, and two cents federal. That would meet highway needs.

Adding $2.75 per barrel to the present $2 per barrel beer tax is another proposal. This would bring in an estimated $10 million annual revenue.

Colleges may be asked to increase the present $24 per semester tuition fee to $50. That would bring in $3.5 million more per year.

Legislators are eyeing natural gas production. A 1954 tax law allowed a levy on the market value at the well with a one per cent tax reduction each following year. They may vote to cancel the reductions. By so doing the state would keep $14 million per year of the tax money.

VETERANS LAND SALES
Hearings will be resumed next week by a Senate Investigating Committee looking into "block" land sales made to the state under Veterans Land Program.

Testimony during the first two-day session showed that individual land sellers had made as much as $200,000 on a single deal. Indicated by the committee were suits to cancel some block sales to veterans, criminal prosecution in other cases, and changes in the law.

Investigations were being held at the request of the Veterans Land Board itself. All its members, Land Commissioner Bascom Giles, chairman Governor Allan Shivers; and Attorney General John Ben Shepperd, testified.

Complaints have been received in other land transactions, besides the 11 now under investigation.

These too will be investigated, say officials in the Department of Public Safety, the State Auditor's Office and the Attorney General.

Veterans to whom the land was re-sold by the state testified that they didn't know they were buying the land. They thought they were getting a cash bonus, or prolonging their rights to buy land on credit, or "selling their signatures" and waiving their rights for $100 to $300 each.

DUVAL COUNTY

Attorney General Shepperd is turning over the investigation of Duval County affairs to District Attorney-Elect Sam Burris.

Shepperd, who forecast recovery of some $500,000 in stolen public funds, said he was in complete agreement with Burris.

The transfer brought to an end a two year personal investigation of the county's affairs by Shepperd.

Makes Serious Mistake About Tuberculosis

Lois Parker made a serious mistake about TB.

When her doctor first told her she had tuberculosis, she refused to believe him. She was just beginning to cut her niche in the business world and the idea of going to the hospital for months, possibly years, seemed preposterous.

Lois Parker died at 37 in a Colorado sanatorium last month—just two weeks before her book, "The Calcified Cliffs," was published.

In a sketch of her life written for the book jacket, she says, "I wrote this book in the hope of keeping other patients from making the same mistake I did."

She found all kinds of excuses for not staying in the hospital. She was in and out several times—in emergencies. Her disease steadily worsened and finally she had no choice. She went to the hospital to stay, but she had waited too long.

During six years in bed she taught herself to write and sketch. Several of her stories were published by national magazines and finally she combined her talents in "The Calcified Cliffs." She called it a "story for TB patients and others with a sense of humor."

But Lois Parker didn't live to see the book in published form. As she explained it, "I simply didn't understand tuberculosis." In Austin, Miss Pansy Nichols, executive director of the Texas Tuberculosis Association, who does understand tuberculosis, received copies of the book today. She said it will be made available to TB patients throughout Texas by the TTA and its affiliated associations.

"Perhaps," Miss Nichols said, "it will help other patients understand tuberculosis." We believe it will keep some of them from making the same mistake Lois Parker did."

Mrs. Gene Brown and daughter Katy and Mrs. H. A. Carter attended the bridal shower of a sister-in-law Wednesday at Hale Center.
