

Sugar Beet Meeting Tonight In School Auditorium, Farmers Enthusiastic

Jim Witherspoon, Hereford Attorney and Legislative Representative of the Texas Sugar Beet Association will be principal speaker at the local sugar beet meeting in the High School Auditorium, Thursday 7:30 p.m. Also on the program will be Lee Benefield, Hereford, Association President and one of the largest growers of Sugar Beets in Texas and New Mexico. The purpose of the meeting is to organize a local Sugar Beet Association, and in turn the Association will go to work to obtain acreage for the new crop here in the Plains area. Sugar Beet meetings have been taking place in almost every community on the Plains to learn the growing, harvesting and marketing of this new crop. The farmers in this area are very enthusiastic over this new crop and are hoping to form their organization and begin the effort of securing acreage allotments for the area. Local farmers seem positive of its becoming a major money making crop for

Plains if enough acreage can be obtained, according to experienced sugar beet growers of Hereford, the Plains is an ideal locality for the new crop. Farmers in the area are hoping to interest businessmen and cattlemen as well as all the local farmers, in this meeting, a special invitation is given to all interested people in the Earth-Springle trade area to attend this meeting.

A question and answer time will be held following the speaking at which time local farmers will be given the opportunity to find out in length the feasibility of this new cash crop. Sugar Beet meetings were held the past two weeks at Sudan, Floydada, Hart, Tulla, Friona, Seminole, Muleshoe, Olton and several other points over the High Plains. In each area interest has been kindled and farmers are enthusiastic over the prospects of this new crop. Clarence Hamilton will be Master of Ceremonies of the local meeting and the Earth Chamber of Commerce will serve refreshments. Sugar Beet refining plants are an expensive item to build, however with the enthusiasm the new crop is receiving over the plains, it is hoped that the plains can pull a plant or two to these plains area.

NOSIN.....
WITH POLLY

"Good Morning Comrade!!" came a sleepy little voice of an early morning caller, that began the day Wednesday, November 9, 1950 for me, following the late hours I had remained awake to watch the election returns Tuesday night. This was my first greeting of the day.

However as the day wore on, I was told by various citizens of the area of many changes in the routine of the everyday life in Earth, beginning with the price of pickpicks that had gone sky-high as Earth residents were buying them like hot cakes. My thoughts were, gee, people are really getting to work in the harvest. However, the reply was "no not for that reason, but to use to drag their money to the bank."

One fellow declared the bank would be utterly forced to push forward with America and build an overflow warehouse to keep those five hundred dollar bills filled away from the thousand dollar bills.

One fellow was busy he said cleaning off his Republican desk so he could find his Democratic merchandise.

Baskets I was told were quite in style now to lug down the streets, rather than carry an old fashioned ordinary Republican purse.

One fellow found a nickel in front of the office, he came in to say he suspected it to be some of that overflow of Kennedy money already running over and dripping out on the ground.

One resident in the area laughingly decided to hold a rummage sale at their home to rid themselves of their old possessions to give space for such future purchases.

The enrollment in the math department of Springlake School according to one resident, had soared sky high doubled and tripled over and over. He added that it would flat take a math instructor with a Doctor's Degree to determine the enrollment of the said arithmetic class, as people were seeking a higher education in math in order to be able to count all the money they anticipated making in the next four years.

One fellow declared that no one need get too enthusiastic however about making a fortune, that he felt like the crystal ball of the tomorrows held some bullet dodging for some of our Nation's youth, he left the impression that he flat thought there'd be a little more to do in the future than count money.

So went Wednesday, November 9 in Earth, Texas, where people were highly interested in the outcome of the Nation's race for President of the U. S. A.

Money was for the major part the discussion of the day. However, if money is our major concern in America, then our days of freedom may be numbered.

However after this day, I have wondered if money had anything to do with the opinion of the majority of people in America in electing John Fitzgerald Kennedy as our next President.

Seriously now, the election is over, let's all get down to work and analyze where the true values of life lie. America was not begun just as a land to make money in, but as a land to live as you see fit.

First and foremost we are all Americans, living in this grand land. WE LOVE AMERICA so let's rally behind her with full strength, courage and determination to make this Nation better for our living been privileged to live here and raise our families here in this AMERICA, THE LAND WE LOVE.

Kennedy-Johnson Carry Nation

John Fitzgerald Kennedy, 43 year old Democrat candidate won the race for President elect of the United States of America, and made his very short victory speech shortly after noon Wednesday.

Kennedy, chalked up a victory with Electoral votes of 337 compared to a probable 192 for Nixon in one of the hardest fought campaigns in the nation's history in which a record vote was cast in almost every one of the fifty states. Latest tabulation of the popular vote indicated 64,194,922 votes had been cast, breaking the record vote of 62,627,795. The most amazing aspect in the campaign was the very close popular vote which gave Kennedy only a slight edge over Nixon, the vote standing at 1 p.m. Wednesday as 32,275,184 for Kennedy and 31,829,738 for Nixon, giving Kennedy only 445,446 votes over Nixon in the nations record popular vote.

PRESIDENT-ELECT JOHN F. KENNEDY VICE-PRESIDENT-ELECT LYNDON B. JOHNSON

The Electoral Votes was the determining factor early in the contest, even though the popular vote was running neck and neck that led morning newspapers to cross the nation to go ahead with blaring lead lines proclaiming Kennedy as the President Elect of our nation, shortly following the beginning of the flow-in of returns Kennedy overtook Nixon in the Electoral votes, and held his position practically throughout the contest with a small variation at intervals when a state would change from one candidate to the other.

One of the factors of importance to Texans is the fact that Vice President Elect, Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas own candidate is proclaimed a hero for supposedly whipping the (Mavericks, or Democrats for Nixon) back into the Democratic fold. National reporters give him credit for swinging most all the Southern votes to Kennedy, and causing the South to be a large factor in determining Kennedy as President - Elect.

Also of importance to Texans is the overwhelming vote with which Johnson carried the Senate vote over Republican John Tower of Wichita Falls. The votes totaled 850,964, Johnson, and 609,309 for Tower, giving LBJ a more than satisfactory vote of confidence over Tower.

The state vote for the Presidential race early Wednesday was Kennedy 837,718, Nixon 793,849 which were still incomplete but enough to give the Electoral votes to Kennedy.

Lamb county tabulated 5,853 votes, Kennedy took 3,089 with Nixon following closely behind with 2,764 votes. County poles and votes in the 16 voting boxes in the county are as follows:

In the House of Representatives there were 262 Democrats elected with four still leading, making an approximate of 266 and on the Republican picture there were 169 races won and two candidates leading making a total of 171 Republicans.

Nixon conceded the race shortly before noon Wednesday, and Kennedy, the youngest President elect in the Nation's history looking rested though a little red eyed, before a crowd who showed very little enthusiasm made a very short victory speech. Though Kennedy began his campaign for President shortly after '56 his long and hard battle ended in success for now he has found the Pot of Gold at the end of the rainbow, The White House.

1961 Upland Cotton Quota And Acreage Allotment Proclaimed

College Station — A national marketing quota of 15,562,000 bales and a national acreage allotment of 18,398,424 acres have been proclaimed by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson for the 1961 crop of upland cotton. Both are increases over those for 1960.

The Secretary also set December 13 as the date for the referendum on 1961 upland cotton marketing quotas. A two-thirds favorable vote will be required to keep marketing quotas in effect for another year.

Secretary Benson said, "It is significant that it is not only possible to increase cotton acreage for 1961, but that it is essential to do so in order to maintain a desirable supply situation. We are moving in the right direction when our farmers have more freedom to plant."

The United States is currently seeking to maintain and improve the position of cotton both at home and elsewhere in the face of rising competition from synthetic fibers and foreign-grown cotton. In order to maintain adequate cotton stocks, an increase in the national quota was needed. To produce this quota, based on the average yield of 496 pounds per planted acre for the 1956-59 period, the acreage allotment was set.

The national allotment for upland cotton will be apportioned to the States, the State allotments to counties and the county allotment to farms according to the provisions of law. Individual farm allotments will be made available to producers prior to the December 13 referendum.

If producers approve marketing quotas for the 1961 crop in the referendum, price support will be available to those who comply with their farm allotment at a level within the range of 70 to 90 percent of parity. The exact level will be determined at a later date.

If quotas are voted out, the allotment program will remain in effect and price support will be available to cooperators at 50 percent of parity, as provided by law.

Farm Bureau Largest Membership In History

Waco—The Texas Farm Bureau wound up its membership year with the largest membership in its history—80,992 farm and ranch families, according to Millard Shivers, organization director.

This represents a gain of 1,578 members over last year and marks the eighth consecutive year that the state farm organization has shown an increase in membership. In the past eight years, the organization has grown from 48,650 to its present membership, a gain of 32,342.

The official membership year in the TFB is from Nov. 1 to Oct. 31. A last-minute deluge of memberships in the state office delayed the official count for four days, Shivers said.

The 80,992 memberships assures Texas a place in the top five states in the American Farm Bureau Federation, the organization director said. Only Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky, in that order, ranked ahead of Texas last year.

Ellis County now has the largest county Farm Bureau in Texas, with 1,545 members. A total of 111 of the 199 organized counties in the state exceeded their quotas this year, Shivers said.

Savings Bonds Sales Upped In October

E and H Bond Sales in Texas amounted to $12,081,059 during September. This represents an increase of 12.8 percent over September 1959.

"Series E and H Savings Bonds now earn 3 and three fourths percent when held to maturity and your old Savings Bonds now earn one half percent more," Chairman Stone concluded.

Alfalfa Varieties Tested For Aphid Resistance

College Station—Six alfalfa varieties were recently tested for their resistance to the spotted alfalfa aphid by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Varieties used in the test, which was conducted near Wellington, were Texas Common, New Mexico-16, Buffalo, Cody, Moapa and Lahontan.

The spotted alfalfa aphid, a pest of considerable importance in Texas, was first reported from New Mexico in 1924. Insecticides are now the primary means of controlling these insects. Although several insecticides results in good initial kill, their residual effectiveness is limited and reinfestations usually occur a few days after application. For this reason, the use of resistant alfalfa varieties appears to be the most effective means of control.

Of the six varieties tested, Cody and Lahontan appeared to be the best adapted to growing conditions in the Texas Panhandle. These two varieties showed the best winter survival through a combination of cold-hardiness and spotted alfalfa aphid resistance. Forage and seed yields of Cody and Lahontan were comparable with those of the other four varieties tested.

Moapa, Buffalo and Texas Common produced no stands, and New Mexico-16 produced a very slight stand. These stand losses were due to a combination of extremely low temperatures and aphid damage. Buffalo, however, is not ordinarily harmed by low temperatures.

Further information on these tests is contained in Texas Agricultural Experiment Station publication PR-2153. Copies may be obtained from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Dr. G. W. Thomas States Ag Student Enrollment Decrease

Lubbock—Agriculture today is losing its share of top students to the other sciences while facing a challenge of the future that will place rigorous demands on our young people, Texas Tech's dean of agriculture declared in Austin today.

Dr. Gerald W. Thomas, speaking before the 34th annual meeting of Texas Agricultural Workers Assn., pointed out the fact that agriculture schools are losing out in the competition for better students because many high school teachers and guidance counselors are not aware of the broad needs of the agricultural industry, and encourage students to enter other career fields.

"In projecting the image of agriculture, we must help them to better understand the broad scope of the agricultural industry," Thomas said, "an industry which employs 40 per cent—not nine to 10 per cent—of our working population; the industry which includes the suppliers of machinery, fertilizers, and other production resources. This industry includes both the producers of farm and ranch products and the processors and distributors of these products."

Calling for a program to help more people understand the relation of agriculture to other business and industry, he pointed out that agriculture is the largest user of petroleum products in Texas and that U. S. agriculture uses six and a half million tons of finished steel annually.

Thomas said agriculture today and in the future has a need for more and better qualified personnel at all levels.

"There are, today, approximately two jobs for every qualified college graduate in agriculture," he declared. "We need the very best talent that this nation can offer to go into the business aspects of agriculture, the scientific aspects and technological or production aspects of agriculture."

The Tech dean recognized the good work being done by vocational agriculture teachers and

1961 Upland Cotton Quota And Acreage Allotment Proclaimed

College Station — A national marketing quota of 15,562,000 bales and a national acreage allotment of 18,398,424 acres have been proclaimed by Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson for the 1961 crop of upland cotton. Both are increases over those for 1960.

The Secretary also set December 13 as the date for the referendum on 1961 upland cotton marketing quotas. A two-thirds favorable vote will be required to keep marketing quotas in effect for another year.

Secretary Benson said, "It is significant that it is not only possible to increase cotton acreage for 1961, but that it is essential to do so in order to maintain a desirable supply situation. We are moving in the right direction when our farmers have more freedom to plant."

The United States is currently seeking to maintain and improve the position of cotton both at home and elsewhere in the face of rising competition from synthetic fibers and foreign-grown cotton. In order to maintain adequate cotton stocks, an increase in the national quota was needed. To produce this quota, based on the average yield of 496 pounds per planted acre for the 1956-59 period, the acreage allotment was set.

The national allotment for upland cotton will be apportioned to the States, the State allotments to counties and the county allotment to farms according to the provisions of law. Individual farm allotments will be made available to producers prior to the December 13 referendum.

If producers approve marketing quotas for the 1961 crop in the referendum, price support will be available to those who comply with their farm allotment at a level within the range of 70 to 90 percent of parity. The exact level will be determined at a later date.

If quotas are voted out, the allotment program will remain in effect and price support will be available to cooperators at 50 percent of parity, as provided by law.

It was announced that work will begin on these projects just as soon as final planning is completed and right of way secured. Sr. Resident Engineer Rhea E. Bradley will be in charge of the work in this area.

Farm Bureau Largest Membership In History

Waco—The Texas Farm Bureau wound up its membership year with the largest membership in its history—80,992 farm and ranch families, according to Millard Shivers, organization director.

This represents a gain of 1,578 members over last year and marks the eighth consecutive year that the state farm organization has shown an increase in membership. In the past eight years, the organization has grown from 48,650 to its present membership, a gain of 32,342.

The official membership year in the TFB is from Nov. 1 to Oct. 31. A last-minute deluge of memberships in the state office delayed the official count for four days, Shivers said.

The 80,992 memberships assures Texas a place in the top five states in the American Farm Bureau Federation, the organization director said. Only Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Kentucky, in that order, ranked ahead of Texas last year.

Ellis County now has the largest county Farm Bureau in Texas, with 1,515 members. A total of 111 of the 139 organized counties in the state exceeded their quotas this year, Shivers said.

Savings Bonds Sales Upped In October

Mr. C. O. Stone, Chairman of the Lamb County Savings Bonds Committee announced today that Savings Bonds Sales for September totaled $8,207. "Sales for the first nine months of 1960 were $205,167 or 55.5 percent of the yearly goal," Stone said.

E and H Bond Sales in Texas amounted to $12,081,059 during September. This represents an increase of 12.8 percent over September 1959.

"Series E and H Savings Bonds now earn 3 and three fourths percent when held to maturity and your old Savings Bonds now earn one half percent more," Chairman Stone concluded.

Alfalfa Varieties Tested For Aphid Resistance

College Station—Six alfalfa varieties were recently tested for their resistance to the spotted alfalfa aphid by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Varieties used in the test, which was conducted near Wellington, were Texas Common, New Mexico-16, Buffalo, Cody, Moapa and Lahontan.

The spotted alfalfa aphid, a pest of considerable importance in Texas, was first reported from New Mexico in 1924. Insecticides are now the primary means of controlling these insects. Although several insecticides results in good initial kill, their residual effectiveness is limited and reinfestations usually occur a few days after application. For this reason, the use of resistant alfalfa varieties appears to be the most effective means of control.

Of the six varieties tested, Cody and Lahontan appeared to be the best adapted to growing conditions in the Texas Panhandle. These two varieties showed the best winter survival through a combination of cold-hardiness and spotted alfalfa aphid resistance. Forage and seed yields of Cody and Lahontan were comparable with those of the other four varieties tested.

Moapa, Buffalo and Texas Common produced no stands, and New Mexico-16 produced a very slight stand. These stand losses were due to a combination of extremely low temperatures and aphid damage. Buffalo, however, is not ordinarily harmed by low temperatures.

Further information on these tests is contained in Texas Agricultural Experiment Station publication PR-2153. Copies may be obtained from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

Dr. G. W. Thomas States Ag Student Enrollment Decrease

Lubbock—Agriculture today is losing its share of top students to the other sciences while facing a challenge of the future that will place rigorous demands on our young people, Texas Tech's dean of agriculture declared in Austin today.

Dr. Gerald W. Thomas, speaking before the 34th annual meeting of Texas Agricultural Workers Assn., pointed up the fact that agriculture schools are losing out in the competition for better students because many high school teachers and guidance counselors are not aware of the broad needs of the agricultural industry, and encourage students to enter other career fields.

"In projecting the image of agriculture, we must help them to better understand the broad scope of the agricultural industry," Thomas said, "an industry which employs 40 per cent—not nine to 10 per cent—of our working population; the industry which includes the suppliers of machinery, fertilizers, and other production resources. This industry includes both the producers of farm and ranch products and the processors and distributors of these products."

Calling for a program to help more people understand the relation of agriculture to other business and industry, he pointed out that agriculture is the largest user of petroleum products in Texas and that U. S. agriculture uses six and a half million tons of finished steel annually.

Thomas said agriculture today and in the future has a need for more and better qualified personnel at all levels.

"There are, today, approximately two jobs for every qualified college graduate in agriculture," he declared. "We need the very best talent that this nation can offer to go into the business aspects of agriculture, the scientific aspects and technological or production aspects of agriculture," he said.

The Tech dean recognized the good work being done by vocational agriculture teachers and

EDITORIAL: Lest We Forget To Count Our Many Blessings

We hear a lot of talk these days about bringing industry to this community or that community in Texas. And we hasten to agree that new industry will do a lot for the local economy. However, we often forget to count the blessings that already are ours in the way of financial insurance for the future. This has been brought to mind by the Texas Press Association-sponsored education program on U. S. Savings Bonds. We were surprised to learn that it is estimated that Lamb county has approximately $3,330,650 cash value in Series E and H Bonds currently being held by the thrifty folks of this area. Recent improvements in these bonds have pushed the earning power up considerably. Those now being issued and those issued since June 1949, are earning at least 3 and three fourth per cent compound semi-annually from now till maturity. Those issued prior to that date earn at least 3 and one half per cent at next maturity. Just to be on the safe side, lets use the 3 and one half per cent figure to see approximately how much will accumulate to the bond holdings of our people in this county in 1960. According to our grocery store arithmetic, this would amount to $115,500. It's easy to see that this is the equivalent of a good size industrial payroll.

Through the years this accumulation of Savings Bonds is always readily available to be poured into the spending stream in times of economic reverses. It could buy a lot of seed wheat, groceries, or pay the rent. It adds stability to local business. Too, people with savings are not afraid to spend from current income. Savings Bonds offer us as individuals a systematic plan for setting aside a part of our income for education of our children, expansion of business of farming interests, a more comfortable retirement, and to finance some of the "big things" in life. E and H bonds are guaranteed by the full fifth and credit of our government. It's a comfortable feeling to have such a nest egg of security.

Post Office To Distribute Livestock Survey Cards Nov. 16

A number of patrons of the Earth post office will find livestock survey cards in their post boxes on November 16.

"Information reported on these cards is used to set the yearly inventory of livestock and poultry on Texas farms," Postmaster Miller explains.

Cards are distributed at random among patrons having livestock and poultry.

"This means that not every box will get a card," Mr. Miller said. "For this reason, it's important for everyone who gets a card to return it filled out so that USDA can get a true sample of the State's livestock holdings."

Facts and figures secured in this survey are the basis for the Texas and National pig crop report and inventories of the livestock and poultry on farms as of the first of the year. Stockmen and many others use this information in making business decisions.

Survey results will be widely distributed through Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service releases, newspaper, farm magazines, radio and television.

"This annual survey has been a joint undertaking of the Post Office and the Agriculture Departments since 1924," concludes Mr. Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Kelley left Lubbock Tuesday, by plane for Alexandria, Va., to visit Mrs. Kelley's brother and niece, Wilson and Susan Green.

MRS. LOTT'S LOT

What are YOUR children doing in school? If you don't have the answer to this question you can read the junior high paper. We, the students, want you to know what is going on in our school. We are doing these things in 7-B.

In reading we have a new reading kit. It is of great value to our class. It helps in reading and widens our vocabulary. In the same class we have spelling. We have a trial test on Monday. Mrs. Lott, our home room teacher, gives us another test on Tuesday and takes grades.

Mr. Slover, the English teacher, is teaching us how to write friendly and business letters. We sent letters to a company that furnishes us with book covers telling them how much we appreciate them.

In math we are studying about stated problems with more than one step. We are also studying fractions. Our teacher in math is Mrs. Davis.

In history we are studying about Texas. After a study period we close our books and Mr. Fox ask us questions over our lesson.

In Physical Education, Coach Mahan is teaching us how to play basketball. We have a good set of exercises to keep us slim and trim each day.

In study hall we get our homework so we won't have so much to do at home.

In this same column you will have a chance to read about your child's room and what they are doing.

USMLE COLONEL By Bob McKinley

Your hunting and fishing licenses expire on August 31. Together they will cost you $5.30 — $2.15 for the fishing license and $3.15 for your hunting permit.

Combined, they cost you no more than the price of four or five lures, or a few boxes of shells. A mighty good investment, I'd say!

Ever stop to think what these licenses mean to you—in pleasure, relaxation, fellowship?

It's a truly great pleasure to hunt and fish. Furthermore, these outdoors activities provide the greatest source of mental and physical relaxation ever conceived.

And speaking of fellowship—man, if you want to make friends—hundreds of them—just grab a gun, or some fishing gear and head for the woods and lakes. You'll meet more people of all walks of life in the shortest time ever—even before you wet a hook or fire a shell.

And once you rub elbows with them, you'll come to know them more intimately than by any other manner of introduction.

Greatest advantage of the great outdoors is the fact that rich and poor look and act alike. There's no "high-toning" when you're roughing it. There's no playing favorites. The millionaire is likely to be the poorest dressed of the lot. Fact of the matter is, it's about the only way he can get out of the "dudey-duds" and become a down-to-earth fellow, just like the chap across the tracks.

But this five bucks or more which you pay for those licenses, does something else too. It pays the salaries of trained specialists in wildlife management. It hires biologists, wardens, and other expert personnel for the Game and Fish Commission.

ATTENTION JOHN DEERE TRACTOR OWNERS:
Why pay more for an old-fashioned cotton stripper? This year John Deere users can own a modern and proven cotton stripper. We now have on display a McCormick No. 21 Cotton Stripper mounted on a John Deere tractor. With this machine you can leave your grease gun at the house because there are no places to grease. Old-fashioned chains sprockets, gearboxes, and kickers have been eliminated cutting maintenance cost and down time to almost nothing. Pay less and no longer be penalized for owning the best cotton stripper. Come in today.

ing are modern day sports. They are pleasures to be enjoyed by all who wish to participate. They harm no one at all.

I can see no comparison of these pastimes with such unlawful practices of catching masses of fish by "telephoning" or netting.

But I do think there is a point along this line that is well worth considering — although perhaps impossible to adopt.

I refer to the proposal made only a few weeks ago—about placing more restrictions on the issuance of hunting licenses as a means of reducing the accidents and deaths that occur in the fields each year.

These restrictions would not be dependent upon any great skill. They would simply require a basic knowledge of guns and ammunition, their limits and effectiveness.

Release of the license also would hinge on certification as to the applicant's personal character and his record as a sober, law-abiding citizen.

Today's guns are as safe and accurate as modern technology can produce. On the other hand, our shooters have become increasingly negligent.

Naturally the first objection to such restrictions would be the cost of administration. Second, the reduced income from license sale—due to failure to pass the test. And third, an inevitable drop in services because of the lack of sufficient funds.

On the other hand, which is more important—a human life or a book? It's harder to acquire a card from a public library today than it is to buy a hunting license.

These men do marvelous jobs. They are the ones who are largely responsible for the fish and game being with us today—in greater abundance—for all to enjoy. They set up the controls that prolong the life and increase the species of the various types of fish and wildlife.

Furthermore, they do their best to see to it that these controls are adhered to. This for your own hunting and fishing pleasure tomorrow and the tomorrows to come.

A recent article by Ernest Swift in Conservation News a publication of the National Wildlife Federation, proposes strict controls.

In discussing skills in the art of hunting and fishing, Swift said that one nationally noted hunter had remarked that "prairie chicken hunting was the sport of gentlemen but that gentlemen had just about disappeared before a rash of gadget-crazed men."

He goes on to say that "State conservation departments will have to take a large share of the blame for making the sport of hunting and fishing the mediocre recreation that it has become."

Then a cites motor trolling, put-and-take fishing, pen-released pheasants before the gun, and access roads to every lake, as designed to entice more license buyers.

Swift notes that this has gone so far that reversal seems out of the question. He feels that "American sportsmen should be screened, allowing only the master sportsmen in the field."

His goal he says, is to bring back dignity and stature to the word "sportsman."

My personal feeling couldn't be farthed from his views.

Luckily we are in a country where the resources are subject to private enterprise and the public domain is open to all the people.

No man should be denied the right to enjoy this country's resources simply because his skill or adeptness in the art of hunting or fishing is below that of some others—so long as that man does not endanger the life or rights of others.

Fortunately no group in this country can force Swift's preferred method of enjoying a sport on those who are doing no harm.

Trolling and gace-preserve shoot.
