Effects Of Poor 71 Crop To Be Felt

The effects of the poor West Texas cotton crop in 1971 will be felt in 1972 by a lack of high quality planting seed available this spring.

Producers will have to be satisfied with lower quality seed and depend on improved management and cultural practices to overcome this built-in handicap, says Dr. Robert Metzger, extension area cotton specialist at Lubbock.

He offers several suggestions for getting the best performance from the seed available in 1972. "Use your highest quality seed for early planting when conditions are not as favorable for emergence," he says, "save the lower quality seed for later when the soil temperature is high and other conditions are better."

He explains that a low quality seed lot may produce only 20 per cent seedling emergence if planted in late April, but can produce an acceptable stand of 70 per cent if planted after the middle of May.

"Bed planting is another practice that goes a long way in getting maximum stands from any quality seed, but is especially helpful when a farmer must use low quality seed," the agronomist says.

The seedbed is not only the warmest area of the field, but it will warm up earlier than the furrow and also provides the best possible environment for germination. He also warns against planting seed too deep.

"Although seed needs to be planted in moist soil, poor quality stock cannot tolerate deep planting and soil crusting as well as seed of high quality," he adds.

Producers can also improve stands by simply increasing planting rates, although they should be careful not to overdo it.

Children Are Susceptible to Preventable Diseases

Thousands of children in Texas today who are susceptible to one or more preventable diseases. Most of these youngsters are between one and four years of age. Health authorities have launched a massive immunization campaign aimed at the school child in an effort to reduce the number of preschoolers who remain unimmunized against several deadly and common childhood diseases. Texas Legislature moved last year to require certain immunizations for all school-age children as a pre-requisite for attending school, said Texas Health Commissioner Dr. J. E. ... "and it will go a long way toward reaching all school children who have not attained their immunization. But even this measure reaches what we consider the prime group of susceptible children—the preschooler between the ages of one and ...

When a youngster transmits the rubella virus to a pregnant mother—particularly during the first three months of her pregnancy, the results can be devastating—a baby born with severe birth defects. That is why it is important to have mass immunization of all children between one year of age and puberty.

THERE IS THE FINISH LINE... Kress placed first in the 440 yd. relay at the District Track Meet at S-E Saturday. Guy Davis, the first boy in a white shirt, placed second for S-E.

Tips on Eliminating Rats and Mice

Eliminate costly rats and mice from your premises during the winter when biological conditions make a control program more effective, suggests County Agricultural Agent Buddy Logsdon.

The reproductive rate of rats is slower in winter, and a shortage of food makes them more likely to take bait. Starving rats also die from diseases and hungry predators prey on them during colder periods. Cold weather drives rats indoors.

"Every rat getting room and board on farms and homes throughout the state is eating valuable food and causing damage. Rats also carry dangerous diseases which may infect both animals and man," points out Logsdon.

The primary species of harmful rats and mice in the state are the Norway rat, Alexandrian rat (commonly called the roof rat) and the house mouse.

To permanently remove the threat of rats and mice from buildings, remove their food, shelter and water, says the agent.

A speed consistent with other traffic, but don't travel with a group of cars moving at the same rate of speed. According to Mazda, this type of driving, especially at night, is the preliminary to a multiple-car pile up.

The rat's sources of food are spilled grain, livestock feed and pet food. Logsdon advises placing grain and feed sacks at least six inches off the floor to discourage rats from nesting in them. Keep garbage and refuse in tightly covered metal containers. All food stored should be kept in rat proof buildings, rooms, or containers.

Rats and mice seek shelter in implement storage areas and places that have dense weed growth. They like wood and trash piles and old sheds that aren't used often. Such places should be either cleaned or destroyed. Buildings that are used for storage of feed or grain should be rat-proofed by sealing all entrances except doors and windows with hardware cloth or metal flashing.

Fix any leaky faucets and other sources of water around grain storage areas, suggests Logsdon.

"Eliminating the habitat is a good start in a rodent eradication program. However, bait stations should also be set up in all areas where rats are likely to roam," Logsdon adds. Baiting is only effective if most other sources of food have been eliminated and the bait stations are continually supplied with bait.

Anticoagulant baits are effective and less hazardous to use than arsenic, strychnine, phosphorus and other highly toxic poisons. Anticoagulants break down the circulatory system and prevent blood coagulation. Water baits of anticoagulants can also be used where the rats' food supply cannot be eliminated.

Ready-mix baits containing warfarin, Fumarin, diphacinone, Pival, PMP, or Prolin are available under many trade names and are equally effective in controlling rats.

Water soluble baits are most effective when feed is available and the rats' water supply can be eliminated. Water soluble bait should be placed in a chicken fountain type of container.

Logsdon advises to check bait stations every afternoon for a few days to see if bait is being

Minimize Driving Dangers

Wintertime driving is almost always as dangerous as driving during daylight hours, according to research reports. That's the perfect in vision conditions have only 75 percent of that vision at night. A lessened ability to see, combined with the narrow tunnel illuminated by headlights, fatigue, contribute to danger on the roads at night, reports the Mazda Consumer Information Council. The hazard increased when driving covers familiar territory.

If you do to minimize risk when you must travel at night? Mazda, the distributor of the rotary engine automobile, offers these safety tips:

1. You know you'll be driving at night, wear sunglasses during the day, but take them off when darkness starts to descend. Practice will help your eyes to adjust easier.

Mazda also suggests having your headlights cleaned before darkness sets in. A single day's accumulation of dust and bugs can cut the output of headlights in half, according to Mazda.

An alert navigator with an up-to-date map should prepare the driver for entrances and exits on highways, Mazda suggests. Having a current map is especially important because many of last year's maps may be confusingly outdated in areas.

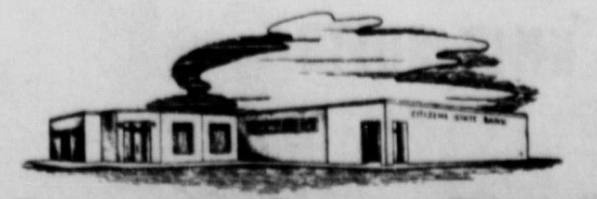

If your travel route includes a superhighway, enter with plenty of gas. Mazda's research showed running out of gas to be one of the major causes of car trouble on interstates. A stopped car, even on the side of the highway, is a sitting target for drowsy drivers.

College Children Are Susceptible to Preventable Diseases

There are thousands of children in Texas today who are susceptible to one or more preventable diseases. Most of these youngsters are between one and four years of age, and health authorities have mounted a massive immunization campaign aimed at the school child in an effort to reduce the number of preschoolers who remain unimmunized against several deadly and common childhood diseases.

The Texas Legislature moved last year to require certain immunizations for all school-age children as a pre-requisite for attending school, said Texas Health Commissioner Dr. J. E. ... "and it will go a long way toward reaching all school children who have not obtained their immunization. But even this measure may not reach what we consider the prime group of susceptible children--the preschooler between the ages of one and ...

Peavy stressed the importance of giving protective immunization to all preschool children immediately. "Other parents run the risk that their child will contract a fatal disease like diphtheria, polio, measles, mumps, tetanus, or whooping cough, or whooping cough may strike their unimmunized preschool child," said Peavy.

Other diseases, such as pertussis, tetanus, and per-

(or whooping cough) can all three be prevented by triple vaccine DTP. The first dosage is given as early as two months of age, and is followed at one month intervals by the two remaining doses. All three doses are necessary before complete protection is given.

Today, one dose of measles vaccine given to children one year of age or older offers almost 100 percent protection. It's the best odds a parent can find anywhere in child health care these days.

Since the Salk and Sabin vaccines were discovered a decade ago there has been no major polio outbreak in Texas. But Texas has always had more than its share of this disease. In a five-year period in Texas, 121 of 133 victims of polio were under five years of age. Nothing further need be said on the necessity of immunizing all preschoolers against this disease. Again, three doses are necessary for complete protection.

Tips on Eliminating Rats and Mice

Eliminate costly rats and mice from your premises during the winter when biological conditions make a control program more effective, suggests County Agricultural Agent Buddy Logsdon.

The reproductive rate of rats is slower in winter, and a shortage of food makes them more likely to take bait. Starving rats also die from diseases and hungry predators prey on them during colder periods. Cold weather drives rats indoors.

"Every rat getting room and board on farm and homes throughout the state is eating valuable food and causing damage. Rats also carry dangerous diseases which may infect both animals and man," points out Logsdon.

The primary species of harmful rats and mice in the state are the Norway rat, Alexandrian rat (commonly called the roof rat) and the house mouse.

To permanently remove the threat of rats and mice from buildings, remove their food, shelter and water, says the agent.

Criss Dent Outstanding Actress

The story was centered around six members of a family trapped in a bomb shelter during World War II and concerned the reactions of each member of the family as they knew they were going to die.

Minimize Driving Dangers

nighttime driving is almost as dangerous as driving during daylight hours, according to research reports. That's the perfect in vision situations have only 75 percent of that vision at night.

Reduced ability to see, combined with the narrow tunnel of headlights, fatigue, contribute to danger on the roads at night, reports the Mazda Consumer Information Council. The hazard increased when driving covers unfamiliar territory.

What you can do to minimize risk when you must travel at night? Mazda, the distributor of the rotary engine automobile, offers these safety tips:

You know you'll be driving at night, wear sunglasses during the day, but take them off when darkness starts to descend. Practice will help your eyes to adjust easier.

Mazda also suggests having your headlights cleaned before darkness sets in. A single day's accumulation of dust and bugs can cut the output of headlights in half, according to Mazda.

An alert navigator with an up-to-date map should prepare the driver for entrances and exits on highways, Mazda suggests. Having a current map is especially important because many of last year's maps may be confusingly outdated in areas.

If your travel route includes a superhighway, enter with plenty of gas. Mazda's research showed running out of gas to be one of the major causes of car trouble on Interstates. A stopped car, even on the side of the highway, is a sitting target for drowsy drivers.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents.

The table was laid with white satin and toole cloth and featured a beautiful three tiered wedding cake, baked by Mrs. Jesse Starkey of Happy, aunt of the bride. The cake featured tiny flowers and wedding bells and was adorned with a miniature bride and groom.

The bridal bouquet, silver and crystal appointments, and a white taper held in a crystal holder featuring mint green and white satin bows completed the table decorations.

Guests were served punch and cake by Mrs. Denise Galloway of Amarillo and Mrs. Carmen Starkey of Floydada.

Karen Hinchliffe Presents Views On Presidential Classroom

During my trip to Washington, D. C. (March 11-18) as a member of The Presidential Classroom For Young Americans, I learned many facts about our government that are not found in our civics book. The classroom was fortunate in being able to find out about current government by people who are in the very center of the "hot" issues.

I left the Lubbock Regional Airport at 6 a. m. Saturday and arrived at Dulles International Airport at 12:10 p. m. It was a 45 minute ride to the Shoreham Hotel where many conventions for top officials are held. When we registered, we were given a Guide to Current American Government, a Syllabus (our notebook), and other materials. The members were also assigned to sections. I was in section 5. At 7:15 we were given a general welcome by staff workers of the classroom and an orientation. After this, we had section orientation. We were introduced to our leaders, Jonathon Boyd of the Civil Service Commission and Ellen Hall of the Environmental Protection Agency. After our seminars every night, we could attend discussion groups with instructors from various departments, start our own discussion groups, or have free time. I chose the last that night so I could meet my roommates, Laurie Steinberg from New Hampshire, Phyllis Mc Lanahan from Georgia and Kathy Schmidt from Virginia.

Sunday morning we were given a tour of the Bahá'í Temple. We then proceeded to the Washington National Cathedral where Jews, Catholics, and Protestants worship in different rooms of the church. I attended the guitar mass in which the sermon was a cover-sation between the congregation and the preacher. We then began our sightseeing of the city. We visited the Ford Theatre, Washington Monument, Lincoln Memorial, Lwo Jima Monument, The Jefferson Memorial, the Library of Congress, Supreme Court Building, Cabinet Buildings, and the Petersen House where Lincoln died. Our seminar for the night was on "Power in Washington" dealing with the branches of government, press, pressure groups, and the vast bureaucracy in the Capitol. It was given by Charles Bosley who is presently National Press Secretary for the McCarthy campaign. We were allowed to ask questions after the lectures. After the final seminar of each day, we had "tie together". This was the time in which all of us could exchange opinions on anything of interest to you that occurred that day.

The classroom did not leave the hotel Monday as we had 5 seminars. The first was on "Political Campaigning: How to Play Dirty Politics." The speaker was Sam Archibald who is Executive Director of the Fair Campaign Practices Committee which is called in if the fairness of campaign techniques are challenged. He showed some commercials that had been used and were considered unfair, one of them used by former President Johnson and one by Sen. Benton. The next seminar was given by Walter Mazan (described as one of the few men in Washington to whom anyone can come with a problem) on "Federal Relations in State and Local Governments." Dolf Droge, employed by AID and a career civil servant, presented "The Executive Branch-Viet Nam; the Hawk, the Dove, the Owl." After living several years in Viet Nam, he was able to give us some information about the country, its history, and people. It is his opinion that men being sent to Viet Nam should be given more information about the people and their background. They are taught how to shoot a gun and that's it. I believe this was the best seminar given.

Director of Washington Bureau of the NAACP, Ralph Tabor, Director of Federal Affairs for the National Association of Counties, and Bill Davis, assistant to the Executive Vice President of the National League of cities. The final seminar was "The Consumer Crisis." The speaker was Dr. Mervyn Silverman, Director of the Office of Consumers Affairs, Food and Drug Administration. He told us of many dangerous products in use such as suna belts and what we can do about getting rid of them.

Tuesday was the day we went to see the Capitol Building and met our Senators and Congressman. Sen. Tower was not in but his staff took our group on a tour of his office. Sen. Benton was in and we discussed issues such as busing with him. I then went to meet Congressman Price. He was called out of an agriculture committee meeting to meet me. I then spent some time watching the committee meeting. After lunch, it was time to watch the House and Senate in session. I must confess that it was boring and time was wasted. There were perhaps 10 senators present, everyone else was campaigning in Florida or was involved in some other business. Seminar # 10 was on "Committees and Committee Staffs." Congressman Charles Diggs presented the program. He is Michigan's first Black Member of the U.S. House of Representatives and a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and Chairman of its Subcommittee on Africa. M's. Vicki Kellar, Staff Assistant on the Domestic Council at the White House, was the speaker for "The White House." Her special areas of concern were with aging and housing. Seminar # 12 was on "The House of Representatives." The speaker was Congressman Robert McClory. He was a sponsor of the Narcotics Addiction Rehabilitation Act of 1967, he authored the McClory Monday Holiday Act, and he was the principal Republican sponsor in the House of the Constitutional Amendment granting Equal rights to Women, which passed in Oct. 1971, by the House.

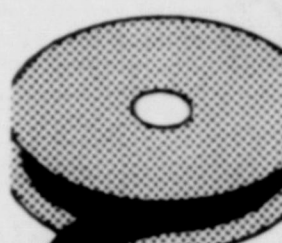

of the increasing number of people leaving the cities because of the lack of jobs. She also mentioned a bill establishing "home rule" for Washington. The city has a mayor appointed by the President and one congressman who can't even vote. She pointed out that the people have taxation without representation and they have no say in bills that could effect them if passed. Our last seminar for the day concerned "The News Media." The lecturer was Bill Dickinson, the editor of Editorial Research Reports and Vice President for Development of Congressional Quarterly, Inc. Mr. Dickinson told of how the government always causes problems for the press and of the FBI investigation of Daniel Shore of CBS News. During his speech, James Johnson, assistant Secretary of the Navy who was attending the National Press Conference in the hotel, came in and rebuked everything Mr. Dickinson said, which he was not supposed to do. After the seminar, we met and talked to many top officials of the press and government. Some of the officials were Henry Kissinger, Gen. Westmoreland, Sen. Taft of Ohio, Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Rogers Morton (Sec. of Interior), and John Chancellor of CBS members of the "The New Century" came to entertain. The first seminar was "The Role of the National Security speaker was Adm. Moorer, Chairman of Chiefs of Staff, the development of talks and of Foreign Policy. After we boarded buses Hill where the lectures were held, Eagleton of Missouri a seminar on "The death penalty, women's lib and the delay in courts. Men's Lib was also brought up since bills have been written concerning it. One argument is that if the man is less able than the woman, she should pay him alimony if divorce occurs. He also told us of Margaret Chase Smith's bill saying if a Congressman or Senator is gone 40% of the time from his office, he should be made to vacate it unless there is a good excuse. I agree with her after watching Congress in session. Our officials may introduce all the bills he wants but if he isn't there to vote, he's not doing all of his duties. I believe that if the people know that their congressman or senator is there doing his job, that this is more important than all the sometimes unnecessary campaigning he does.

Wednesday morning was spent by hearing Senate and House committees in session. The classroom had a choice of committees and I attended three. I went to two committee meetings under the Committee of Judiciary, one concerned with the suspension of the death penalty and one having hearings on a proposed constitutional amendment relating to the assignment of public school students, and related measure. I also went to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. The subcommittee on Commerce and Finance were having panel discussions of the problems of the securities industries.

Our class then boarded buses for a tour of the White House. Seminar #14 was "The Supreme Court" presented by Brad Reynolds, who is employed by the Solicitor General's Office and he argues cases before the Supreme Court. The speakers for the next seminar were Mr. Houser who works with criminal law and Mr. Coleman who works with the Anti-Trust Commission. Their topic was "Law Enforcement." Adele Alexander, a Legislative Assistant to Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, III, of Illinois, spoke to us about "The Urban Crisis." She told three programs deal with the State Department. The first was "Foreign Policy: A New Perspective," and the second was "NATO" presented by Marvin Humphreys. The third was "Africa" given by Lars Lonnback, attached to the Royal Embassy. He told the educational system among other things. On the last day, we had a seminar in the morning. The speakers were Bob Chief of the newly created Oil and Energy Group for the Office of Energy Preparedness; Gen. employed in the Sec. of Defense as a Viet Nam Task Force; and, an oceanography and program coordinator Versar, Inc., a firm involved in training inner-city youth from the D. C. area for careers in the marine sciences; and Jon Fox, Special Program Officer in the General Services Administration. They conducted a panel discussion on "National Issues." One thing pointed out in the discussion which I agreed with was Toni Ford's opinion on busing. She said she was in favor of busing if it was to achieve quality education, but it is ridiculous to make a child get up an hour earlier so he can be bused to a school for integration, especially if the school is worse. From 11:45 to 4:30, we had free time. I went to the Smithsonian Institute. That night the class had their banquet at the new John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. The United States Navy Band played and speaker was Ray Hubbard, Vice President for Programming and Production for the Post-Newsweek stations. We then went to see the play "Captain Brassbound's Conversion" with Ingrid Bergman in the Opera House,

CHRISTIAN LOVE IS...

By DAVID HARTMAN

"...Never haughty or selfish or rude."
To be haughty suggests we have an inflated sense of our own importance. Plus wanting everyone to know it. Have you ever thought of things continuing to exist without you? Truly great people have lived and died. Usually these folk never stopped to consider whether they were important or not. Life continued to move on in spite of their death. The haughty person is self-oriented. That's a semi-polite way to say he is selfish. Everything must revolve around him (or her) - the conversation, activities, everything. Somewhere I read the following little quote. "One thing is clear to me, that no indulgence of passion destroys the spiritual nature so much as respectable selfishness."

I hate to say it but often the haughty and selfish person is rude to his fellow human beings. He may talk or act rude or both. Some folk pride themselves in their bluntness. They may be blunt almost to the point of being brutal. Bluntness may get the job done but it doesn't always make Christian love too attractive. William Barclay says, "There is a graciousness in Christian love which never forgets that courtesy and tact and politeness may possibly be regarded as lesser virtues but they are lowly things."

Miss Teen - Ager Pageant Set At San Antonio

After the play, we went back to the hotel for a dance during which Bob Hope came in and entertained us with a few jokes. As you can see, we had a very hectic week, but it was worth the time and money. I had a chance to talk to teenagers from all over the United States and abroad and we discussed our schools. Many told of courses offered in their schools such as marine biology. They told me of their open campuses run just like the colleges. But most of all, we had one thing stressed over and over to us by the instructors. Everyone must be or get involved with issues. As long as we sit and do nothing, we have no right to complain, but if we get involved, whether we get anything accomplished or not, at least, we have a right to criticize measures taken on issues.

The Miss Texas Teen Ager Pageant will be held on July 28 and 29, 1972, at the St. Anthony Hotel in San Antonio, Texas, and all girls 13-17 are eligible to enter, if U.S. citizens, and residents of Texas, and contestants must still be 17 on Sept. 1, 1972. There is no talent or bathing suit competition, and no entrance fee. Girls are judged for their scholastic achievements, civic contributions, poise, personality, and appearance. Educators and political and civic leaders across the country have recognized the pageant for its worthwhile efforts to recognize teen-agers for their civic-mindedness and scholastic abilities. Each girl is interviewed individually by a panel of judges during the day on Saturday, and again by the group at the pageant on Saturday evening. The winner, and 4 runner-ups will receive trophies, and a Congeniality and Citizenship award will be given. Also, the winner, and 1st and 2nd runner up from each state will receive scholarships to an accredited Jr. College. Scholarships amounting to $75,000 will be given throughout the country in these state pageants and all state winners will have their food, lodging, and plane flight paid to the National Finals in Atlanta, Ga., August 23-26, 1972. Theme of the National Finals will be "What's Right About America?" and each state winner will be asked to write a 100 word theme on this subject as part of the national judging. Miss Texas will return home and receive 100% of monies received for civic appearances and events in her state. Interested girls may write for applications to Official Certification Headquarters for the state of Texas, 126 Bunn Drive, Rockton, Illinois 61072.

Sweet Chew

Shown above is an excellent Sorghum-Sudax hybrid from Niagara. It produces a sweet, succulent, leafy plant, very attractive to animals for grazing, green chops and a high quality hay and cover crop. Sweet Chew grows tall... 8 to 10 feet under favorable conditions when not grazed or clipped. It has a remarkable drought resistance and excellent regrowth ability. It can be grazed all summer and after frost may be grazed as standing hay. It makes a fast regrowth but should not be clipped or grazed too close to the ground. 8 to 10 inches is about right for a rapid come back. Fast regrowth makes it particularly good for green chopping. It can be dehydrated and reprocessed; can be used as a green manure or cover crop, or may be cut for hay three times and then turned under. It will furnish plenty of pasture during hot months when other forages slow down or quit. It responds well to fertilizers, particularly nitrogen.

Scouts Tell Why They Love America

The following are essays written by Cub Scouts in Den 3. The essays were composed of fifty words telling why each scout loves America.

It's a beautiful place. You are free every day and night. It's a real green place you can have fun in this place.

You can do anything you want. You can learn all this about long ago people. I like this because there are nice people in it. I like the flag that flies in this country. We have a beautiful flag in this country.

You can have a house for shelter to live in. It is a really beautiful place.

Britt Pounds
I love America. It's beautiful. I love America because it's free. It is still beautiful, that is why I love America.

I love history too. I love this free country. I love it because you get to go school and Church and Cub Scouts and Mother and Father and brother and sisters.

Nathan Ingram
I love America because of its beauty. I like America because it's free. I am glad of Amer-ca because you can go to any church and you can have any friend. You can do anything you want to. I am proud of America. We can live any place we want.

Gregg Gaisler
I like America because you get to choose the place you want to worship.

I like America because you have holidays such as Easter, Halloween, and Christmas.

I like to think of the people who fought for our country.

I like America because you have a choice of what school to go to and what place to go.

Glen Hausmann
I love America for the freedom to go to the Church you want, to play football, to play baseball, to bear arms, and to have your own friends.

Because of the history behind our state.
For the brave people who fought in the Alamo, like Sam Houston, Davy Crockett, and Jim Bowie.

Lonnie Nelstast
I love America because we get to pick the Church to go to. We have the right of speech.

We get to go to the store we want. We get to pick where to go for a picnic or vacation. If you ever think about the men who fought in the War.

Jimmy Robbins
It is pretty. It is clean. People do not tell you what to do. There are laws but you don't have to do what everybody tells you.

You get to go to the Church you want. It's a fun thing to do like go to Cub Scouts.

Keith Locke
I love America because we are free to do what we want to and we get to go to school. And we should think about brave men who fought for liberty for our country.

George Washington, Thomas Jefferson who were great men. They were great inventors. That's why I love America.

Kyle Kelley
I love America because it's beautiful. I love America because it's friendly. I love America and it's freedom.

You can learn about long ago people. You can live any place you want to. You can go anywhere you want. You can play anything you want to.

The library on wheels will serve residents of Springlake from 11-11:45 a.m. Thursday, April 27.

When the bookmobile departs from Springlake it will travel toward the Springlake-Earth School campus where interested persons may use the free facilities from 12 noon to 1 p.m.

Earthites may take advantage of the facilities from 1:15 -3:45 p.m. April 27.

BOOKMOBILE BREAKS RECORD

The patrons of the High Plains Bookmobile from the four Counties Parmer, Cochran, Lamb and Bailey have reason to be proud. The Bookmobile has always had the latest books and reading material on the shelves for them for 8 years as of April 16, 1972. Eight years ago, April 16, 1964, the Bookmobile began its 38 scheduled stops. These stops are made every three weeks.

Last year the Bookmobile circulated 52,887 books, but if the patrons continue to check out books in 1972 as they have begun to do they will break all records. In fact, last month, March 1972, the Bookmobile Librarians circulated 5630 books which exceeds any month since the Bookmobile started its rural service in 1964.

Sunday, April 23rd, 1972, the Muleshoe Library is having the dedication and formal opening of their new building, from 2 p.m. till 5 p.m. Residents of Lamb, Bailey, Cochran and Parmer Counties are invited to attend.

Fewer Migrant Jobs Available In Some States

The Texas Employment Commission reports that seasonal agricultural jobs for migrant workers have been greatly reduced for 1972 in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin. Roy Wilson TEC Manager in Littlefield advises migrant workers not to go to these states to seek work unless they have an official job commitment from an employer. Migrant workers interested in working in the harvest in these states should contact their nearest Texas Employment Commission Office and get details on any official job openings.

Illinois will have 550 fewer jobs for out of state workers; Indiana will show a decline of 8700 jobs in 1972; Michigan reports that the state will need 9570 less workers than in 1971; Minnesota will employ about the same as in 1971, except that officials warn that workers should have firm commitment for jobs before coming to the state; Wisconsin reports the same information as does Minnesota although there will be a slight decline in the cherry harvest. Ohio will need 500 fewer harvest workers in 1972.

Wilson reports that the reason for the decline in workers needed this year in those six states is because of freeze damage and a general reduction of crop acreage. Increased mechanization in harvest methods also is blamed for part of the need for less workers. Major crops that are involved consist of cherry, asparagus, tomatoes, cucumber, sugar beet, apples, blueberries and strawberries. Wilson asks that migrant crews who need further information about out of state work, contact the

Sign of Good Breeding

Pioneer brand grain sorghum varieties have bred-in yield potential to help farmers get the most from their good management even in the face of adverse weather, insects, or plant disease. Also, the genetic inheritance of every Pioneer hybrid is unique. Each variety is bred to bring out the special traits necessary for maximum performance in the area where it is to be grown.

Your Pioneer dealer has many varieties bred to help farmers on the Plains turn in top yields. Some of these varieties are:

Pioneer Brand 820: shows its potential on irrigated land — performs well under stress — excellent standability — MDM resistant — 144-day maturity

Pioneer Brand 828: outstanding yielder — stands and threshes well even after freeze or snow — hard grain holds quality — MDM resistant — 144-day maturity

Pioneer Brand 846: excellent drought resistance — consistent high yields — MDM resistant — 134-day maturity

Pioneer Brand 833: yields along with 820 — excellent thresher — 140-day maturity

Pioneer Brand 8417: new yellow endosperm variety — full, open heads — good standability — easy thresher — MDM resistant — 135-day maturity

Days to maturity is an averaged figure, which is affected by weather and other variables.

GOOD YEAR OR BAD YEAR, YOU'RE BETTER OFF WITH PIONEER.

SHERMAN RUSHING, Fieldton, averaged 6878 pounds of grain per acre last year with Pioneer brand 820 hybrid grain sorghum, in spite of very dry planting conditions and too much rainfall at harvest time. Mr. Rushing liked the yield and standability of 820. He also liked the way the seed came up after planting. This year he plans to plant Pioneer brand 820 again.
