A CONSOLIDATION OF THE EARTH NEWS AND THE EARTH SUN, OCTOBER 13, 1966

VOLUME 19 10 CENTS EARTH, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 1973 10 PAGES NUMBER 44

This Sunday, all across the nation, citizens will be honoring fathers. Certainly, it is a privilege to set aside this day for letting dads know your love.

However, no one should wait until Father's Day to let dad know your love, as Father's Day just rolls around once a year. So if dad lives to be between 60 or 70 years, which is average, it can't be said that one has just won themselves out letting dad know their love.

Our two dads are both in heaven now with our Heavenly Father—we would not bring them back if we could. We are thankful for our earthly fathers—but most of all, we're thankful for our Heavenly Father who loves us most of all, even though we sometime act like scoundrels.

So, on this Sunday, we sincerely hope that our nation does not fail to show dad their love. In so doing, Jesus will be pleased, and nothing is more important than expanding our love, and exercising our faith, in the Heavenly Father.

EVEN THE BIBLE TELLS OF WATER GATE CONFESSIONS

A contemporary translation, The Living Bible, published two years ago and now appearing on best seller lists, tells about weeping and confession of national sins at Jerusalem's Water Gate, 2500 years ago. Then as now, the participants were high government officials. But in the incident, the confessions were voluntary!

It all came about when the Jewish nation, after 70 years of captivity in Babylon, returned and rebuilt the ancient gates of their capitol city. One of these was the Water Gate.

A mass meeting was convened at this gate to discuss the fact that the clergy, political leaders and average citizen alike were disobeying the laws God gave to Moses a thousand years earlier. Two of these same laws... "Thou shalt not steal," and "Thou shalt not lie,"... are prominent again in today's Watergate affair.

In the earlier event the people broke out into weeping and confession when they realized how many of God's laws they themselves had broken along with their leaders.

But it ended for the good of all concerned. A national reform was decided on, and agreement reached for everyone... politicians and average citizen alike... to obey all of God's laws thereafter. A happy celebration was begun, giving gifts and feasting, because everyone felt so glad that righteousness had again prevailed and God's laws were being enforced again.

The Living Bible tells of this historic event in the Old Testament Book of Nehemiah, chapters eight and nine.

In mid-September, all the people assembled at the plaza in front of the Water Gate and requested Ezra, their religious leader, to read to them the law of God which He had given to Moses. So Ezra the priest brought out to them the scroll of Moses' laws. He stood on a wooden stand made especially for the occasion so that everyone could see him as he read. He faced the square in front of the Water Gate and read from early morning until noon.

School Board Selects Citizens State Bank as Depository

The meeting of the school board was Monday, June 11, at 8:00. All members were present with one guest attending, Norma Dawson. Approval of minutes and bills opened the meeting and with a report by the superintendent, Bill Mann, on plans that had been made on the kindergarten. Mr. Mann advised the board that very little could be done on the kindergarten until Governor Briscoe signed the bill now on his desk.

The superintendent also gave a report on average daily attendance. In the 1971-72 school year attendance was 715.85 which entitled the school to 29 regular classroom teachers. In the 1972-73 school year the attendance rose to 721.20 due to the kindergarten.

A five-year contract with W. W. Trailer Company of Armerillo was entered into. This contract enables the school to trade trailers the first time for a small cost of $4.95 and every 12 to 15 months hereafter for no charge.

A depository agreement to handle school funds was made with Citizen State Bank for 1973-75.

The school secretary was then given permission to attend a workshop in Austin on June 25 through 27.

The board appointed a board member to take the place of Jack Angeley, who is unable to serve because of a family illness. L. J. Welch was chosen making the equalization board Eudell Baucum, Eddie Haydon, and L. J. Welch.

The July 9th meeting was changed to July 16 in order for the superintendent to attend the annual summer superintendent workshop at Juster Center on the campus of the University of Texas.

The board then did preliminary work on salaries of non-certified personnel.

The board decided to meet as a committee of the whole on June 25 to study school policies. The budget progress report was then the last business of the meeting.

CHECKING NEW AUTOMATIC GIN FEEDER---Cotton Incorporated's newly developed automatic gin feeder worked like a charm in tests at the Brooks, Texas gin. Checking the performance are (left to right) J. Dukes Wooters Jr. of New York, N. Y., Cotton Incorporated president; Lambert Wilkes of Texas A&M University, who conducted the research for Cotton Incorporated; and J. K. ("Farmer") Jones of Raleigh, N. C., associate director of agricultural research for Cotton Incorporated.

The principle of operation is simple, Jones explained. After a seed cotton module is carried to the gin by means of the loader-transporter, it is drawn slowly into the feeder, broken up by spiked cylinder beaters, and fed into the gin.

Commercial prototypes will be installed at several gins for the 1973 ginning season, said Fred Abel, Cotton Incorporated's associate director of agricultural research for implementation.

Abel sees the new feeder as a real opportunity for a gin manager to get the most out of his operation.

"The experimental feeder has a capacity of 30,000-35,000 pounds of seed cotton per hour the equivalent of 20-22 bales of picked cotton," said Abel. "So the last gin stand should never run 'hungry.'"

Abel said production-model feeders can have larger capacities. "Besides its speed, the automatic feeder delivers a fluffed up material into the gin," Abel added. "This should reduce 'down time' caused by choke-ups from slugging the machinery."

Farmer Jones believes the new feeder will make possible a completely controlled flow of seed cotton that can allow a ginner to operate at 70-80 per cent of capacity. "And that's where real economies come in," he said.

The crux of seed cotton economics is to use the big cost items more efficiently and to reduce labor costs.

Big-cost items between stalk and bale are the harvester and the gin. Both involve high capital investment and depreciation.

When the crop is ready, the pickers or strippers pickers or strippers must operate at a maximum capacity. At the other end of the line, the gin must operate at maximum efficiency--as a factory, at constant capacity.

"The cotton module builder system," said Jones, "means big money at both ends of the line."

The module builder lets the producer keep all of his harvesters in operation while storing his crop in evenly compacted 8-12 bale modules, which remain in storage until the ginner calls for them.

With a backlog of stored cotton modules, the ginner can schedule his operations for a constant volume without paying the high labor costs demanded by the traditional methods of on-again, off-again ginning spurts.

"The new automatic gin feeder ties the cotton module builder system directly to the gin," Jones said.

Research leading to the automatic gin feeder was conducted for Cotton Incorporated by Lambert Wilkes of Texas A&M University, who handled earlier research that developed the cotton module builder and associated palleters and loader-transport units.

Insulation Saves Fuel

COLLEGE STATION ---The "energy crisis" may well become each homeowner's concern.

Homeowners can join in the fight to conserve fuel supplies by assuring that proper insulation is used in their homes, says W. S. Allen, agricultural engineer for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Without sufficient insulation, more energy is required for either heating or cooling a home or building, points out Allen. But what kind of insulation should be used?

Generally, there are several types of insulating materials that will do a specific job, and these should be compared on the basis of costs.

All insulating materials are rated with either a "R" or "U" value. The higher the "R" value, the better the insulation. A typical value of "R" is 3.7 for one inch of fiberglass. The "U" value is the reciprocal of "R" (1 divided by R). For example, the "U" value for one inch of fiberglass would be 1/3.7 or .27. Different types of insulation with the same "R" value will have the same insulating qualities and are thus comparable, explains the Texas A&M University agricultural engineer. When comparing costs, consider not only the cost of the insulation but also the associated materials that are needed. A vapor barrier may be required from some buildings although it is usually not necessary for the typical home. Installation costs will also vary and therefore require close comparison. With the fuel situation now a matter of national concern, careful planning and proper installation of insulation will pay well in fuel savings, adds Allen.

STUDIES SHOW the average U. S. family's dietary level isn't keeping pace with its material prosperity.

Automatic Gin Feeder Latest Cotton Module Builder Advance

RALEIGH---Cotton Incorporated research has developed a new machine that automatically feeds seed cotton modules directly from pallets into the gin.

"The automatic gin feeder is the latest development in the total mechanization of the stalk-to-bale flow of seed cotton," said J. K. ("Farmer") Jones, associate director of agricultural research at the Cotton Incorporated Research Center here.

Cotton Incorporated is the research, sales and marketing company sponsored by America's cotton growers through their dollar-per-bale program.

The automatic gin feeder, used in conjunction with the cotton module builder, may be a fixed or portable installation at the gin, said Farmer Jones. It can work two ways. One way eliminates the grueling job of suction pipe operator by attaching a suction pipe directly to the feeder. The other way eliminates the suction pipe altogether by moving the seed cotton directly into the first dryer.

"The direct feed method, in bypassing the suction pipe, cuts total gin power requirements by 15 per cent," Jones said.

Automatic Enrollment For Part of Medicare

The 1972 Amendments to the Social Security Act provides that persons who first become entitled to hospital insurance benefits (Part A of Medicare) on or after July 1, 1973 will be automatically enrolled in supplementary medical insurance (Part B of Medicare), according to John Hutton, Social Security district manager in Lubbock.

Under prior law, an individual had to take positive action to enroll in Part B of Medicare. For various reasons, some four per cent of all eligible individuals were not able to enroll on time and this caused several lost months of Part B coverage. In some cases, persons were excluded altogether from Part B because they delayed too long. Congress decided it would be better to assure that all eligible individuals are enrolled unless they elect not to have coverage Hutton said.

The Amendments provide that the aged and disabled, except, for residents of foreign countries and Puerto Rico, will be enrolled in Part B automatically as they become entitled to hospital insurance, unless they indicate they do not want Part B protection. Persons subject to automatic enrollment will be given the opportunity to decline the coverage and once coverage begins, will be free to disenroll if they wish.

Persons already receiving monthly social security or railroad retirement benefits prior to age 65 and who attain age 65 after June, 1973 will be entitled to both Part A and Part B of Medicare effective with the month they attain age 65. Persons who will have been entitled to disability insurance benefits for at least two years before July 1, 1973 will be entitled to Parts A and B beginning with the month of July, 1973. New and recent beneficiaries, Hutton explained, will have to wait until their 25th month of continuous receipt of benefits before entitlement to Medicare begins.

What Is A Family Worth?

Families may be worth more than they think, according to a home management specialist.

Lynn Bourland with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, advised families to make a net worth statement in order to find their real value.

"Net worth is a dollar figure obtained by subtracting debts (liabilities) from assets," she explained. "It's an attempt to place a money value on the results of total financial operations."

"First step is taking stock of assets—amount of cash in checking and savings accounts, stocks, bonds and cash value of life insurance policies.

"Also, if sold today, the cash value of the home, car, furniture, appliances and other valuable items.

"Total assets give the total value of what is owned," the specialist noted.

"Next, calculate what is owed. Liabilities may include mortgage on a house, car loan, revolving credit, charge accounts and other debts.

"When these are totaled, subtract them from the total assets figure—this is the net worth statement."

"These statements—whether made yearly, monthly or before major purchases—can help families make financial plans, such as paying off small debts owed to several creditors or converting some assets into cash savings or investments.

Comparisons of net worth statements at different times tells the family if its economic condition is improving, depreciating or remaining stable, Miss Bourland pointed out.

"If assets are larger than debts the family is solvent and could raise enough cash from assets to pay all debts, if necessary," she concluded.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Parkinson's Disease

Scientists at Yale University's School of Medicine have reported isolation of an enzyme which is essential to the brain's control of bodily movement.

The work appears to have significant implications for the treatment of Parkinson's Disease, an illness characterized by lack of control over movement. Apart from increasing basic understanding of how the brain works, clinical implications of the Yale team's findings are far-reaching. The search for new drugs to treat Parkinsonism has been greatly hampered by lack of a suitable test system.

Isolation of the enzyme, a dopamine receptor, now makes it possible to carry out rapid testing of large numbers of compounds for dopamine-like activity. It should accelerate the discovery of new compounds for treatment of the disease.

A secondary yield of the research may lie in the treatment of mental illness.

Some drugs used to treat mental disorders possess as a major side effect in patients the property of causing symptoms similar to those seen in Parkinson's Disease.

Such unwanted side effects have limited the usefulness of those drugs for physicians to prescribe for mental patients. Medical scientists generally believe that the effect of these tranquilizers results from their interfering with the action of dopamine on the dopamine receptor. The Yale work has confirmed that they do so interfere. Discovering thus that the chemical basis of a major undesirable side effect of the tranquilizers may facilitate the development of new tranquilizing agents devoid of such side effects.

Muleshoe-Earth Fetes Catholic Father

Father Robert O'Leary, pastor of Immaculate Conception Catholic Church of Muleshoe and St. Mary Magdalene Catholic Church of Earth since October 1, 1966, is leaving June 12 for Chicago. Father O'Leary is retiring from the responsibilities of being a pastor of a church. He emphasizes, "I am not retiring from the priesthood. My retirement is due entirely to my present state of health."

A farewell was held in his honor Sunday, June 10 at 4 to 6 p.m. in the Catholic Parish Center of Muleshoe. Everyone in Muleshoe and surrounding areas was invited to attend. It was hosted by the Muleshoe and Earth Catholic churches.

Father O'Leary was born in Chicago, April 10, 1911. He was ordained a sub deacon in Vienna, Austria in May, 1939 while a student and a teacher there. On December 28, 1939, he was ordained a deacon in Holland and August 15, 1940, he was ordained a priest in Chicago.

For his first parish, he was assistant in St. Mary's church in Vicksburg, Mississippi. He was also principal of the grammar school in Vicksburg, September 1941-1945.

He then went to Clarksdale, Mississippi, September 1945 to build a school and parish for colored people for a six county area. At this time, there were only four adults and two children who were Catholics. During his 11 years in Clarksdale, he drew plans and had a grammar school, convent, and church built with a seating capacity of 500 for the colored people.

In July 1956, he was stationed in Chicago for 18 months where he was in charge of foreign students who came to this country for education. Then he requested returning to missionary work among the Negroes in Greenville, Mississippi where he rebuilt the church, convent, parish house, and recreation center.

In July 1961 he was transferred to New Orleans to work out of an office for the support of Catholic foreign missions. He left in July 1964 when he was reassigned to Clarksdale, Mississippi to repair the grammar school and church, and to build a high school and was there until June 20, 1966.

He joined the diocese of Amarillo and was assigned to Muleshoe and Earth, October 1, 1966. While here, he built the Catholic Parish Center, remodeled the interior of the Immaculate Conception Church and rectory of Muleshoe and built the St. Mary Magdalene Church of Earth.

Migrant Worker Jobs Scarce In Northern States

The Texas Employment Commission reports that seasonal agricultural jobs for migrant workers have been greatly reduced for 1973 in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Wisconsin. Roy Wilson, TEC Manager in Littlefield, advises migrant workers not to go to these states to seek work unless they have an official job commitment from an employer. Migrant workers interested in working in the harvest in these states should contact their nearest Texas Employment Commission Office and get details on any official job openings.

Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin will employ about the same as in 1972, except that officials warn that workers should have firm commitment for jobs before coming to their state; Michigan and Minnesota report a decrease in their states needs because of the increased mechanization in such activities as sugar beet cultivation, cherry and asparagus harvest, and decreased acreage in strawberry and pickles; Ohio is the only state reflecting any increase in labor needs. This is due to projected acreage increase in tomatoes and pickles to be planted in 1973. Any increase in workers needed is contingent on the effect of the late freezing and flooding.

Wilson reports that the reason for the decline in workers needed this year is due to mechanization in harvest methods. Free wheelers will again encounter a great deal of difficulty in securing employment and their migration should be discouraged. Such action is particularly important this year in view of the uncertainties surrounding the refunding of projects or organizations that normally provide supportive services to migrant workers who become "stranded" in the above six states. Major crops that are involved consist of cherries, asparagus, tomatoes, cucumbers, sugar beets, apples, blueberries and strawberries. Wilson asks that migrant crews who need further information about out of state work, contact the nearest office of the Texas Employment Commission.

FUN IN THE SUN... This group of youngsters are waiting patiently to leap into the water to begin their swimming classes. Swimming instructions are conducted by pool manager, Chuck Smith, assistant instructor is Karen Hinchliffe.

P02/C Lonnie Adrian Wins Photography Award

The classic lines of the USS Hancock (CVA-19) provided a photographic study for Petty Officer Second Class Lonnie D. Adrian. A study which gained him an award in the 1973 Naval and Maritime Prize Photography Contest, Officer Adrian's picture was one out of ten pictures chosen from the Navy entries.

The picture was taken just off North Viet Nam in Tonka Bay on a routine mission. Upon returning from the mission, Adrian's commanding officer instructed Lonnie to send the roll of film into the contest headquarters. Adrian had almost forgotten the contest when a letter arrived stating that his picture was one of the ten chosen. Officer Adrian's picture was chosen for the cover of the April issue of the United States Naval Institute magazine. The other nine photos are also in the magazine. In addition to having his picture as tie cover, Officer Adrian also won $100.00.

Adrian received his basic training in Orlando, Florida where he was selected as an honor man. He then attended photography school in Pensacola, Florida and was ranked third in his class. After schooling, he was stationed in San Francisco on the USS Hancock which sailed for Viet Nam. After a nine month voyage he then returned to Florida for more schooling.

He is currently on the USS Hancock, which will dock at Tokyo, Singapore, Hong Kong, Hawaii, Philippines, and Viet Nam.

Officer Adrian is a 1966 graduate of Springlake-Earth High School where he was active in football, basketball, track, and band. He also attended South Plains Junior College for two years and West Texas State College for two years.

Officer Adrian's wife, Mrs. L.D. Adrian nee Helen Smith, from Olton, is now residing in Canyon where she is a senior Art Major at West Texas State College.

RECLINERS MAKE BIG NEWS this year-many have low-back styling and pop-up headrests. Also look for dainty, small-scale recliners for woman and wing-back ones for Early American homes.

Room Air Conditioners cool better when filters are washed or changed regularly. Wash reusable filters at least monthly to prevent dirt collections on cooling coils.

THE WINNING PHOTOGRAPH OF THE U.S.S. HANCOCK aircraft carrier was taken by Officer Second Class Lonnie D. Adrian over Tonka Bay North Viet Nam.

2, 4-D Users Need To Use Caution

AUSTIN--Users of 2, 4-D and other hormone-type herbicides are reminded to be especially careful during this time of year, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has stated. "We are getting several reports throughout the state of 2, 4-D drift damage to tomato plants, cotton, and other broad-leaf crops. The herbicide is a valuable ally to our agricultural producers, but it should be used only according to directions," Commissioner White said.

He suggested that users be especially on guard not to use 2, 4-D when wind speeds are in excess of 10 miles per hour. "The problem with 2, 4-D is that it drifts from the field on which it is applied when wind is blowing and can cause considerable damage," Commissioner White said.

About a third of the state's counties are under regulations for herbicide control which is administered through the Texas Department of Agriculture. The rules are designed to protect measures for both users of 2, 4-D and producers who have susceptible crops.

In regulated counties, a permit must be obtained for applying any herbicide on plots of 10 acres or more. On smaller plots, the operator must notify the same office of his intent to spray before making application.

Party Line Use Caution Poisonous Snake Near

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Inglis visited Sunday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Griffin of Olton.

Leta Kelley visited with Mr. and Mrs. Allen J. Doggett and daughters Perri and Jerri in Lubbock Sunday afternoon.

Visiting in the home of Mrs. Alphon Whitford Saturday was her daughter, Claudene Jones and children, Mike, Gail, Sharon, and Karen from Jal, New Mexico.

Arriving Monday from Fort Sumner, New Mexico, was Mrs. Whitford's sister, Ola Bailey who also visited B. V. Padon of Springlake. Also visiting Monday, was Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCaskill, Judy Justin of Corpus Christi, and Jenna V. Keilar, Elizabeth, and Jennafer.

Mr. and Mrs. Noah Shrimsher and family from Burkburnett is visiting with Johnny Enloe and family who is going to Oklahoma next week to visit Mrs. Enloe's mother.

"Caution" is the word to remember when you or a member of your family encounter a poisonous snake. A person's fear of snakes could well be his worst enemy in an actual encounter with any one of the four poisonous snakes found in Texas, which include the rattlesnake, copperhead, cottonmouth, and coral snakes. The most prevalent in Texas is the rattlesnake.

Should you encounter a rattler, the safest thing to do is to remain perfectly still or edge slowly away. The worst thing you could do is run, or shout, or make a quick motion. You only excite the snake, making it more apt to strike in self defense. The snake is not really the vicious and cunning creature with a deep seated hatred of man that many people think. It is really a rather timid and retiring creature that only wants to be left alone. But the snake will react to man as it would to any big and threatening creature.

Actually, more people die of insect bites in Texas than snake bites. Bees and wasps are most often the causes of insect bite deaths, although some deaths can be attributed to hornets, black widow spiders and even such harmless looking creatures as caterpillars and moths. Some 49 persons died of insect bites over the past ten years, compared to only 28 deaths from snake bites. But snake bite deaths are most frequent among the young and old.

The wise outdoorsman will avoid places where a snake may make a home. Walking in weedy areas with brush piles or thick undergrowth is asking a snake to lash out. Boots help; caution helps even more. Look before you step. Don't assume that a snake will shake its rattles as a signal of attack, or that it only strikes when coiled. A rattling tail indicates nervousness rather than a sign of aggression. And, a rattler may strike in any direction from any position.

In applying first aid for a snakebite, make the victim lie down as soon as possible and apply a constricting bandage above the bite. The pulse in blood vessels below the bandage should not disappear, nor should the bandage produce a throbbing sensation. Loosen the bandage for a few seconds every 15 minutes. If possible, apply ice packs to the bite and get the victim to a physician or hospital.

If there is going to be a lengthy interval until antivenin can be given, make cuts cautiously through the skin into and just above the presumed venom deposit site, avoiding tendons, and apply suction.

Antivenin for the potent poison of the North American Eastern Coral snake is available from the Texas State Department of Health. The State Health Department laboratory in Austin, and laboratories in local health departments at Dallas, Houston, Corpus Christi, and San Antonio, serve as distribution centers for the antivenin. When a bite by a coral snake occurs, the physician or hospital should immediately request antivenin from the nearest distribution center. Administration of antivenin is recommended within two hours of the bite. Other poison antivenins are available through commercial sources.

The treatment for poisonous snake bite can now be made available on short notice anywhere in the state in emergency situations. State Health authorities hope local physicians and poison control centers will take note of the availability of the anti-snake bite venom.

But most important--though snakes present a possible danger, the Texas State Health Department reminds all citizens that this danger can be avoided through the use of the proper caution on spring and summer outings.
