more efficient mail deliveries from correspondents. "Although box numbers are an integral part of most rural and star route addresses, it has recently become the practice of many postal customers to omit this element," Postmaster Miller said.

"This practice sometimes causes mail to be returned to the sender because of an insufficient address. It has also been cited by publishers and other large mailers as one of the major causes of duplicate mailings to rural customers.

"These duplicate mailings hurt everyone," Postmaster Miller said. "They cost the big mailers in dollars and cents, and because they flood the mail stream, everyone's mail is slowed.

USCS Urges Farmers To Take Advantage Of Survey

Farmers concerned with using the best available acreage to increase their cropland can get valuable data from a soil survey, Dan Blackstock, area soil scientist from Lubbock of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, said today. He was here providing soils training to the Littlefield field office staff.

"Soil survey field work has been completed for 123 counties in Texas," Blackstock said. "And the data is available to anyone making land use decisions."

Work is currently underway on soil surveys for all remaining counties in the state, Blackstock added.

"With a soil survey map, you can read the land like a book," said Blackstock. "Some soils are ideal for a particular crop. Others are better off in another crop, or left in grass. And on some soils, the owner can choose between pasture or crops."

"The point is that a great deal of soil information is available to farmers and other land users. The survey for Lamb County has been completed. The Soil Conservation Service--working through the Lamb County conservation districts--can provide soils data to anyone considering a change in land use."

Blackstock added, "Although farmers are the biggest group of users, soil survey information is also very helpful to engineers and urban land use planners who need to know about drainage patterns, depth to bedrock foundation hazards, or other uses being planned for them. A number of cities in Texas have made changes in their land use plans after checking a soil map--and as a result, they saved a great deal of money in construction costs. Local soil survey maps and information can be obtained from the Soil Conservation Service office at the Courthouse in Littlefield.

Ads Geared to Attract "Energy Shortage" Worriers

AUSTIN--Some of the advertising by automobile dealers is being geared now to attract the attention of consumers who are worried about the "energy shortage."

Although gas mileage is not the first consideration for all prospective car buyers it is of interest to all.

A great deal of work has been expended in compiling gas mileage ratings for the various 1974 models. The President's Office of Consumer Affairs has released one such list, detailing fuel use expectancy of more than 200 vehicle models tested by the Environmental Protection Agency.

But the published list contains the warning, "Fuel economy is affected by a wide range of factors, including the manner in which the vehicle is driven, frequency of cold starts, use of power-absorbing accessories, ambient conditions, and many others."

Lately, too, the fact the speed at which a vehicle is driven affects gas consumption has been highly publicized.

Since the manner in which you drive, as well as the places in which you drive (heavy traffic versus rural roads, for instance) have a lot to do with the gas mileage you can obtain from a vehicle it probably would be a good idea for you to test-drive a car yourself.

Some car dealers are advertising an invitation for you to do just that.

Before you start out, it would be a good idea to look for the manufacturer's sticker providing information about a model's fuel economy. Many manufacturers are participating in a voluntary labeling program which involves listing details about characteristics of an individual model which would affect fuel consumption.

The automotive industry, through the Automotive Information Council, has put out some tips on fuel economy, such as:

- Tread lightly on the accelerator and increase your speed gradually.
- Don't "ride" the brakes. Slow the car by easing off on the accelerator.
- Plan your driving so that one trip can take the place of two or more.
- As you approach a red light, slow down if traffic permits, to save the energy required to halt and get the car in motion again.
- Drive at a smooth, steady speed.
- Keep the tires inflated to the pressure recommended by the manufacturer.
- Keep up regular maintenance measures to increase your vehicle's efficiency.

Do not be eager to accept obviously exaggerated claims for an automobile's fuel efficiency.

If you have reason to believe that someone is taking advantage of the energy problem in order to misrepresent a product, do not hesitate to contact the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission in Austin, or the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division.

Energy Crisis May Change Recreation Habits

Today's youth is going to get the opportunity to demonstrate how deep its commitment is to turn its back on a materialistic society in the months ahead, according to a well known Texas A&M University leisure and recreation authority.

Dr. Leslie M. Reid, head of the A & M Department of Recreation and Parks, said that "as recently as the summer of 1972, young Americans seemed in total agreement that no odds were too great to campaign under the banner of ecology for preservation of natural beauty and to clean-up a soiled, polluted world."

Reid also is a researcher with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and an Educator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"If you talked with college students, hard-core dropouts, commune members or just concerned youngster," Reid said, "the message was essentially the same: We're being strangled in a plastic society. Who needs it?"

Reid added, "The recent interruption of oil imports from the Mid-East seems to indicate that much of the clamor for a clean environment at any cost may have been only a skin-deep commitment. Reversal of decisions on the Alaska Pipeline, on use of high-sulfur coals, planned development of oil shales, and approvals for additional oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel have raised hardly a ripple of opposition."

Reid noted, however, that "our crusading youth has no choice but to play the game we are all deeply involved in a fundamental re-thinking of our basic way of life."

In any event, Reid pointed out we all may soon have a chance to experience exactly what life in a non-plastic society is like. It is "becoming increasingly clear that the fuel shortage is much more severe than the inconvenience involving shortages in gasoline and fuel oil."

"There is serious concern whether enough basis petrochemicals exist for conversion to a galaxy of products. Toymakers, for example, depend heavily on oil for plastics. Photograph records, automobile anti-freeze, polyester fabrics, auto tires and farm fertilizers are other items expected to be in short supply.

"Firms dealing in production of plastic products are already experiencing shortages as all segments of our society compete more frantically for a share of the available supply of plastic resins.

"The leisure and recreation implication of all this," Reid said "is that as non-essential products increasingly lose out in cutbacks to manufacture bare essential industrial and health-maintenance items, people will be forced to re-evaluate their leisure preferences.

"The prospect," Reid added, "is that travel for fun may be greatly reduced or eliminated, sports equipment may be no longer available, and replacement parts for expensive recreational equipment may be unobtainable."

Reid emphasized that this country badly needs a chance to analyze its recreation and leisure.

"Today, the leisure and recreation business is a multi-billion dollar a year industry. It deserves protection, yet this crisis is good that it will make us take time to determine which activities are worthwhile and useful, and which ones are diversionary and destructive in nature."

"The oil crisis can definitely be instrumental in helping Americans focus their leisure tastes and activities in areas that will be uplifting to the individual, useful to society and in balance with our energy supply," Reid continued.

"The young 'plastic-haters' may well have glimpsed the right road for us all; it's up to them and us to rationally assess the leisure choices facing us today," the recreation authority said.

Interest Rate In G.I. Home Loans Drop

A one-quarter percent reduction in the maximum G. I. home loan interest rate became effective January 22, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director.

In ordering a drop from 8.5 to 8.25 percent on Veterans Administration loans, Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson noted that the new lower rate has been established for FHA loans by the Secretary for Housing and Urban Development.

A law enacted last July authorized the VA Administrator to set interest rates on G. I. loans in line with market conditions following consultation with the HUD Secretary.

The new maximum rate was set after a series of market indicators had demonstrated the old 8.5 percent figure, in effect since August 25, 1973, was very near the par for commercial home loans.

The reduction effective January 22, is the first decline in interest rates since February 18, 1971. Interest rates were reduced three times between December 2, 1970, and February 18, 1971. Rate increases marked the program from its founding in June 1944 until December 1970.

G. I. loan applications last month were well below the normal seasonal dip for the period. During the first half of FY 1974, 155,700 loan applications were received - 22 percent below the total for the first half of FY 1973. Appraisal requests also were down 22 percent.

Noting that the lowered interest rate can save as much as $1530 over the life of a 30-year mortgage on a $25,000 home, Coker expressed the hope that the reduction would encourage many service personnel to re-enter the home buying market.

Many area taxpayers will not be able to receive early refunds this year unless they receive their W-2 Forms from their employers soon.

Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Administrative Officer, Walter I. Perry, today reminded employers that next Thursday, January 31, is the last day to have completed W-2 Forms in the hands of their employees. "W-2 Forms for those employees who left the job during the year should have been furnished to the employees not later than thirty days after the last paycheck," Perry reminded. "Those W-2's which are undeliverable should be sent to the IRS with the employer's Form 941 or 941E for the second quarter of 1974," he said.

Eat More Vegetables For Better Health

Most Americans don't eat enough vegetables, according to one expert.

Dietitians advise families to increase consumption of these vital foods, Mrs. Mary Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A & M University System, said.

"Some advantages of eating vegetables include healthy eyes and skin, greater resistance to infection, and better blood and elimination. This stems from the fact that vegetables are one of nature's main storehouses of vitamins and minerals," she said.

"Properly handled and prepared, most vegetables supply an abundance of vitamin A--plus iron, calcium, phosphorus and vitamin B. Some raw vegetables also contain vitamin C.

The specialist explained that proper preparation results in minimum vitamin and mineral loss.

"For example, one method involves cooking vegetables for short periods of time in small amounts of liquid.

"The family then gets its vitamins and minerals from these vegetables, instead of buying them under a brand name at higher prices.

"Consumers needn't be afraid to experiment with cooking--the family may learn to enjoy eating vegetables," the specialist added.

In addition, a record number of 19 auction sales will be held during the two weeks of the show.

The Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo initiated and maintains one of the finest scholarship programs in the nation. This year, there are 102 students on scholarships in 12 Texas colleges and universities -- 65 are four-year, $4,000 scholarships; the remainder are one-year, $1,000 scholarships. The program also provides graduate assistantships for six students who are completing advanced degrees.

The first such organization in the country to underwrite agricultural research, the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo funds selected research programs at colleges and universities throughout the state. Some $100,000 is set aside annually for research designed to improve agricultural practices. The '74 show opens February 23 and runs through March 3. "Project Safeguard" Termed Successful Protection of both humans and animals and a cleaner environment--these were the objectives of "Project Safeguard" last summer in a group of selected Texas counties. And, from all reports, the project met with astounding success.

"Project Safeguard was initiated by the Agricultural Extension Services of a number of southern states last year to bring messages on the safe use of pesticides directly to those engaged in supplying and using the materials," explains Dr. Jack Price, agricultural chemist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The project was a cooperative venture with the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Program aides were employed to work closely with county Extension agents to deliver information on pesticide safety on a door-to-door basis to farmers, farm workers, farm wives, chemical companies and dealers, cotton gins, commercial pesticide applicators, and farm associations. Counties in the project were selected on the basis of their high use of ground equipment for applying pesticides, notes Price.

More than 5,700 people, the majority of them farmers, received information from these program aides on the hazards associated with pesticide use, proper decontamination and disposal of pesticide containers, and proper storage of pesticides.

A limited number of farmers were also interviewed demonstrating an understanding of safe pesticide use, and over half made changes after receiving safety information from the program aides, points out Price.

"This indicates that the contacts made by the program aides were of definite benefit to the farmers," contends Price. "The program aides themselves expressed satisfaction with the service they were performing." In conjunction with Project Safeguard, county Extension agents also contacted 9,000 medical doctors either directly or through medical associations to provide them with information on pesticide safety.

Holland's Attend Conference

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Holland Jr. of Earth, attended a Seminar Conference on January 24 and 25 at the Marriott Inn, Berkeley, California, as part of a sales training program sponsored by the Shaklee Marketing Corporation.

Topics of discussion during the two day period included sales and training techniques, product information, sponsoring and motivational techniques, advertising and publicity procedures, and information pertaining to company procedures and policies. As independent supervisors for Shaklee, Mr. and Mrs. Holland conduct sales training programs locally for distributors within their area.

Mr. and Mrs. Holland have resided in Earth for the past two years and have been associated with Shaklee for one and half years. Both are natives of Texas, and reside five miles southeast of Earth with two of their three children, Pam and Craig. Debbie is a Junior student at McMurry College in Abilene.

Investment Credit Can Reduce Taxes

Investment tax credit is a massive tax saver and can be applied to a great deal of farm property, says Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Seven per cent of the qualified investment in new or used property with a useful life of seven years or more can be claimed," points out the economist. "For a $10,000 tractor the top investment credit would be $700; that's equal to $2,800 in added depreciation deductions for a taxpayer in the 25 per cent bracket. For a 14 per cent bracket taxpayer, the $700 is equal to $5,000 in extra depreciation deductions in terms of tax savings."

"The tax saving is significant because investment credit offsets your calculated income tax dollar for dollar," emphasizes the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Besides the usual array of machinery and equipment, breeding stock is also eligible for investment credit. And such things as tile drains, fences and feeding floors are eligible. Buildings generally are not eligible, but credit may be claimed on storage facilities such as grain bins and silos used for bulk storage of fungible commodities.

"Recently, both structures and equipment in livestock confinement systems have qualified. The test is whether the structure houses property used as an integral part of production, manufacturing or extractive activity. Farming doesn't meet that requirement," contends Hayenga. "Also, the structure must be so closely related to the use of the equipment that it can be expected to be replaced when the equipment is changed."

is taken the year the eligible property is placed in service because that is usually the time of acquisition. "More precisely," says Hayenga, "it is the year depreciation is first claimed, or the property is placed in a condition of readiness and availability for use, whichever comes first."

"Families used to be considered shiftless if they lived from payday to payday. Now they wish they could."—Fred W. Crown, The Bergen (N. J.) Citizen.

Brick Popular For Exterior Walks

COLLEGE STATION---Brick continues as the most popular home exterior, according to a nationwide survey.

"Since national statistics were first gathered in 1969, brick exteriors accounted for almost 40 per cent of all new homes sold," Mrs. Jane Berry, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System, noted.

"Next in line were wood exteriors at 30 per cent, then stucco at 11 per cent, eight per cent with aluminum siding and 11 per cent with asbestos shingles, cinder block, stone and other materials.

"Brick homes are most popular in the South, where 65 per cent of all new houses have brick exteriors," the specialist continued.

"The West, on the other hand, favors stucco--with brick accounting for only eight per cent of new homes.

"Wood and wood products dominate exteriors in the Northeast and North Central sections."

When building, buying or remodeling a house, give serious thought to the exterior wall materials, Mrs. Berry suggested.

"Beauty, durability and low maintenance requirements highlight brick's popularity."

"Although initially more expensive than some materials, brick may provide sufficient, maintenance-free service in the long run to offset the higher costs," she concluded.

Vehicle Registration Now Underway

AUSTIN-February 1 and April 1! Two important dates for Texas motorists to remember. February 1, in person motor vehicle registration began at county tax offices and substations. April 1 is the deadline for Texas motorists to display their 1974 plates.

Within this two-month period 8.4 million motor vehicles must be registered to operate on Texas streets and highways. Again, as in recent years, the same rules for motor vehicle registration apply.

The motorist may register his vehicle in person at his county tax office or substation by bringing in the entire handy three-piece form he received in the mail from the Texas Highway Department. It takes only a few minutes to process the form, collect the fee and send the motorist on his way with new license plates.

Or, drivers can save themselves a trip downtown if they register by mail prior to March 1. Simply send in the complete three-part form, the registration fee plus one dollar for each vehicle to the Tax Assessor-Collector in the county in which they live.

After March 1 it will be necessary to go to the county tax office or substation in person as 30 days are required for mail delivery. In any case, owners will find the procedure simplified by using the computerized forms.

With the form, a certificate of title and last year's registration receipt are not needed.

Whether applying by mail or in person--the important thing for the driver to remember is DO NOT SEPARATE THE THREE-PART APPLICATION FORM. The entire form must be mailed or taken to the county tax office or substation. A stick-down strip showing the new license number is attached to all sections of the form. The tax office separates the form, returning part of it as a receipt for the owner.

Applications for license plates should be sent only to the local county tax office. Motorists should NOT send their payments to the Texas Highway Department because this will delay their registration. Register early! Remember the deadline, midnight, April 1.

Students Return To Mc Murry College For 2nd. Semester

Five local students have enrolled in McMurry College for the spring semester. They are Debbie Holland, Carl Sulser, Dale Wheatley, Coelita Biles and Darlene Sulser. These students went to Abilene on Monday for registration, beginning classes on Wednesday, January 22.

Debbie Holland is a second semester junior. She is beginning her student observation in the classroom at public school.

Carl Sulser is a first semester junior, having completed enough hours to attain this rank. Sulser attended the mini-semester which consisted of a biology course and ski trip to Sacramento, New Mexico.

Dale Wheatley is a sophomore transferring from Texas Tech. His interest are chiefly math and chemistry. Coelita Biles is a second semester freshman. She is a member of the Chanters, one of the choirs at McMurry. She has a choir scholarship.

Darlene Sulser is a first semester freshman, living in President Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Goforth and Ms. Janie Way visited in Hereford Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Max Goforth.

SEVERAL FAVORITE CARTOON characters soon will lend their familiar faces to fabrics, ranging from polyester and rayon jerseys to broadcloth and cotton duck.

PROTECT EYES by using proper lighting for reading and studying. Also schedule regular eye examinations with an ophthalmologist.

JONATHAN LIVINGSTON SEAGULL has winged his way onto sheets, towels and hooked rugs. Soon other home furnishings and apparel products will picture seagulls and soft cloud formations.

THE TREND toward smaller private living spaces has reduced play areas once set aside for children--and multiplied dangers for home accidents among children.
