HUMBLE TEST PASSES THOUSAND-FOOT MARK

Cattle Buying In Schleicher Continues

$11,493 in cattle checks were received in the mail Thursday at noon. Officials in charge of the cattle buying program in this county state that they expect about $5,000 each day until the entire amount is paid.

Over 8,000 cattle have been sold in this county to date on the Government relief cattle buying program. More than 1750 head have been condemned and killed. Checks approaching the $90,000 mark are already in the mail for cattle men of this county and more than $7,000 has already been received.

Additional contracts have been made during the past week. Even though prospects for good rains have made their appearances it is doubtful that rain now will make enough winter pasturage and all cattle remaining in the county will have to be fed. It is thought that cattle buying will continue several more weeks though the major part of the sales are over, it is thought.

Van Enemann is working in this county as veterinarian now and I. W. Ellis is appraiser for Schleicher county. An average price of $14 per head has been paid for cattle in this county.

SHEEP BUYING TO BEGIN SEPTEMBER 10

Sheep and goat buying in this county will begin September 10 according to those in charge of the program. Sheep, one year old and over, will bring about $2 per head; goats will bring $1.40 per head. No veterinarian will be used in sheep and goat buying in this county. Plans are being made to use a local man who is acquainted with the sheep and goat business to appraise, buy, and condemn animals.

Sheep Buying Planned For 41 Counties

T. A. Kincaid, Ozona, president of Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers Association, has been in conference with G. W. Barnes, assistant state drouth director, regarding the work. The rules and regulations for buying of sheep and goats have not yet been received and the work will not be started until then.

Mr. Barnes and Mr. Kincaid, however, announced Texas counties in which purchases will be made. These counties number 44.

Barnes said that it may take five or six months to handle the animals in this state as facilities for handling the carcasses are limited.

Purchases will be made in the following counties: Bandera, Bell, Brewster, Brown, Bosque, Burnet, Coke, Coleman, Comanche, Crane, Crockett, Concho, Edwards, Glasscock, Irion, Kerr, Kendall, Kimble, Kinney, Lampasas, Llano, McCulloch, Mason, Maverick, Menard, Mills, Nolan, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Real, Randall, Reeves, San Saba, Schellenger, Sterling, Sutton, Taylor, Terrell, Tom Green, Upton, Uvalde, Val Verde and Williamson.

GOVERNMENT TO ADVANCE 12c ON COTTON

Plans are now being pushed by the Federal government to advance cotton farmers of the Southern states 12 cents per pound on cotton. Any cotton grower who does not wish to sell his staple at this time may borrow 12 cents per pound on the commodity. If the price of cotton should go lower than 12c the Government stands the loss.

Cotton has been selling for more than 13 cents per pound recently, but because of threatened textile strikes and other weakening factors, it seems likely that the price of cotton may drop. The drop in price is expected to be only temporary, and the government is making the advance in order to enable the farmer to hold his staple until prices are more favorable. The 12c advance does not mean that the government is buying the cotton; but should the price of cotton drop below 12c and remain so, the government is to take the loss.

Reports show that the government did not lose money on advances made last year.

Coach Williamson Announces Football Schedule

Coach Dave Williamson has recently returned from a coaching school at San Antonio. The school was sponsored by the Texas Coaches Association for High School coaches only. Jack Meagher of Alabama Polytech, formerly of Rice Institute, and Doc Spears of Wisconsin U. were principal instructors in the school.

Coach Williamson announces the following schedule for Eldorado High School, 1934 season:

September 22, Ballinger.
September 29, Brady (cont-tive).
October 6, Menard at Menard.
October 13, Sonora at Eldorado.
October 20, open.
October 27, Junction at Eldorado.
November 3, open.
November 10 (Armistice game) Rocksprings at Rocksprings.
November 18, open.
November 25, Ozona at Ozona.
November 30, Thanksgiving game, Sonora at Sonora.

The open dates will be filled with the Kittens or some teams from nearby towns.

Lettermen lost from last year's squad are Junior Isaacs, W. B. Gibson, John I. Jones, Ariss Carr, Dee De Long and Jack Meador by graduation; and Alton Page by ineligibility. Lettermen to return to this year's machine are Billie Kerr, captain and end; Joe T. Hext, quarter; R. J. Alexander full; Milton Spurgers, half; Bill Smith half; Jack Shugart, guard; Edward Butler, guard; Felix Susan, tackle; and Richard Jones, end.

The big problem of this season's squad is a center. Reserves who expect to try for a birth on the first string this year are Harold Susan, center; Sam Cloud, guard; Sam Smith guard; Louis Kerr, guard; Jack Jones guard; Raymond Spurgers, guard; John E. Rodgers, tackle; Clayton Trotter, tackle; Marshall Davis, tackle; Robert Lee Anderson, tackle; Cecil Moore, end; Jack Rape, end; Bill Stockton, end; Jack Hext, quarter; Paul Davis, half.

Since the first game is scheduled for the second week after school has opened, workouts will begin one week before school opens, coach Williamson states. The first workout is scheduled for Monday, September 3, one week from next Monday. The early beginning will be necessary in order that the team will be in shape for the first game, the coach explained. He urges all the boys to be present for the first workout, at least to get suits and to give reasons, if any, for being unable to begin early workouts.

Coach Williamson states that the prospects in way of material are good this year but that prospects in way of hard games were better.

JUDGE SUTTON SPEAKS FOR RUNGE

Judge J. F. Sutton of San Angelo spoke in Eldorado Wednesday afternoon in the behalf of the candidacy of Judge Carl Runge for congress from the new 21st Congressional District.

"Judge Runge," he said, is a native son. "He has always worked hard, beginning his career in a book store. His family were people of the soil. His environment fits him for the office which he is seeking.

"Judge Runge is a man of energy," Sutton said. "He was in San Angelo beginning his runoff campaign on the Monday following the first primary. He is not a man to take unnecessary rest. He is physically strong and mentally alert, characteristics necessary to the rendition of excellent service in office.

"This country is dependent upon agriculture, livestock, wool, mohair, and oil interests and Carl Runge has all of these interests at heart," Judge Sutton stated. "He knows the needs of these principal industries and resources."

Judge Sutton declared that nearly everyone in San Angelo would vote for Runge.

"Runge has promised no particular measures," Sutton said; "but he will meet the problems intelligently and as they arise. He favors the payment of the war veterans bonus if it is possible. He favors immediate payment of the disabled. He favors a protective tariff on cotton."

JUDGE SOUTH ENDS CAMPAIGN

Without ballyhoo or excessive expenditures, assisted only by personal friends and his 18-year old son, Carl, Judge Charles L. South this week is ending an intensive campaign for congress that has taken him to every section of the 21st district.

In numerous addresses, Judge South stated he would be free to represent all the people to the best advantage because he has made no promises of postoffice appointments or any other jobs.

Judge South also reiterated his stand for a protective tariff on ranch and farm products of West Texas and for truth in fabrics legislation.

"If elected, I will go to congress unshackled, not recognizing master except the people of this district," Judge South said in asserting that he is not backed nor controlled by any special interests.

JUDGE WILSON "POURS IT ON" FOR ALLRED

Judge G. T. Wilson of San Angelo, former member of the attorney general's staff, spoke to a comparatively small crowd here last Friday night in behalf of James V. Allred's candidacy for governor. Judge Wilson was introduced by Judge Whitten of Eldorado.

Wilson opened his address by stating that he was proud to speak for a clean public official such as Jimmie Allred has made. "Allred," he said, "is considered one of the best lawyers in the state with a record above board. He then related the facts about the suits which Allred brought against seventeen oil companies and stated that had not the NRA interfered Allred would have secured ouster proceedings against them and collected large fines.

Wilson stated that Allred had saved the people of Texas about $7,000,000 through suits and that through those same suits he had saved posterity another $20,000,000. Wilson stated that Allred had saved nearly twice as much tax money for the people of Texas as any other attorney-general. Judge Wilson also made a few brief statements in defense of the relief commission.

The San Angelo speaker declared that Allred was completely and positively dry, but that he was willing to submit the liquor question to the people of the state if they so desired it. Hunter, Wilson declared, has never made a statement as to whether he was wet or dry, but said that he (Hunter) was being supported by the leading wets and oil companies of the state. Judge Wilson read several letters and affidavits to substantiate his remarks and offered to support Hunter if anyone proved any of the accusations were untrue.

"Allred," he said, "against race horse betting and against lobbying in Austin." In comparing the wealth of the two men, Wilson showed that Hunter owned 27 oil wells and other property. In strong words supported by affidavits and other evidence, Wilson denounced Hunter as the candidate of the wets and of the big oil companies.

More Cotton Checks Received Here

Sixteen cotton checks were received by C. Snell, Schleicher county agent, for distribution to farmers in this county who leased land to the government on the Cotton Control Bill. The sixteen checks amounted to $1,981.99.

The amount represents a total of thirteen contracts made the government. $472 has been received as first payment on hog contracts. There were fourteen of these contracts, one of which is still out.

70 Bales Of Cotton Ginned Here To Date

The Eldorado Gin Company reported Thursday at noon that their ginnings for the current year amount to 70 bales. The cotton is coming off early in Schleicher county this year due to the extended drouth which is causing cotton to open prematurely.

RUNGE CLAIMS VICTORY

The Congressional Race in this District has been attracting as much attention as the Governor's race. Both candidates for Congress have made a great number of speeches and have had numerous friends deliver addresses in their behalf. Carl Runge of Mason who led the ticket on July 28th and received 19,108 votes to his present opponent's 16,957 votes has been conducting his campaign along conservative business lines on a high plane; has been stressing the fact that he and his forefathers have resided in this District for eighty years and that he is thoroughly familiar with the needs of the District and because of his actual experience, training and education has a sympathetic understanding of such needs; while his opponent was born in Virginia and has been a resident of this District for only twenty years during all of which time he has been on the public payroll and has not had a good opportunity of becoming familiar with the needs of the District. Runge has further been stressing the fact that his opponent ran last in fourteen counties of the District, receiving only 800 votes in 14 counties and that he, Runge, did not run last in a single county and that his candidacy met with more popular approval throughout the entire District than did his opponent's whose vote was practically confined to only five counties of the District.

Among those who have been actively supporting and making speeches in behalf of Runge's candidacy are: Rev. Ray, Pastor of the Christian Church of Mason; M. J. Benefield, State Commander of the American Legion, Brady, Texas; Rev. Korie, Pastor of the Methodist Church of Llano; Judge John F. Sutton of San Angelo and Judge Brian Montano of Del Rio, both of whom were class mates of Carl Runge at the University of Texas; H. C. Lyon, Superintendent of Schools, Ballinger, Texas; Jas. C. White, Editor of the Brownwood Bulletin; Sam McCollum, Attorney at Brady; Bob Tuckness, a farmer of Mason County and Roscoe Runge a brother of Carl Runge. All speakers and all delegations report that Carl Runge will carry the District by a larger margin than he did in July and that Tom Green County will give him two votes to his opponent's one on August 25th.

ALLRED, SCORING HUNTER CLAIMS VICTORY

Austin, Texas, August, 22.—James V. Allred, backed by a tremendous public sentiment that widens daily, brought his progressive campaign for state betterment to the Texas capital tonight. Thousands of persons welcomed him to Woolridge Park here, applauding his program for lifting Texas "out of a rut" and onto the highway of President Roosevelt's recovery plans. The ringing approval given Allred's demand that Texas elect an "ungoverned governor", his support of President Roosevelt, and his campaign aides to predict that Tom Hunter's dictatorial schemes will be buried under an avalanche of Allred votes next Saturday.

The prediction was supported by thousands of letters and telegrams written by citizens in every position in life, which poured into Allred's campaign headquarters here. The messages applauded Allred's decisive and constructive positions on vital public problems, and told of the collapse of the Hunter "bandwagon."

Hunter's fumbling on his stand for tax program of Texas to further burden the masses while relieving the taxes on himself, his own oil corporation, a sales tax; his effort to revise the and on other oil companies; his "twisting" the people of Texas by running dry in North Texas and wet in South Texas; and his dangerous proposals that would wreck the public school system of the state if carried out, all of these were blamed for the collapse of Hunter's support.

"My oil man opponent is frantic and on the run," Allred said here. "He is stooping to all kinds of things in an effort to retrieve himself. It is getting ludicrous, silly and foolish. He See Allred Scoring, pg. 7

LIONS CLUB TO SPONSOR PAYMENT OF FAIR PARK

In its regular meeting Wednesday, the Lions Club voted to sponsor payment for the Fair Park. The Lions do not intend to make direct payment on the park, but they plan to sponsor subscriptions to the amount of $500 to take care of one outstanding note on the park, which according to George Williams, present owner of the park, will be a satisfactory arrangement for the time being. Members of the Lions Club will take up the subscription.

ACTION DESERVES PRAISE

The action of the local Lions Club which has already done much toward the development and progress of Eldorado, is to be commended. Eldorado needs the Fair park for school athletics, outdoor programs, rodeos and county fairs. Probably no other organization in town could handle the situation as well as the Lions Club and the vote to sponsor the movement for raising the money with which to make a payment on the park will mean much to the future of Eldorado.

WATER COMMITTEE REPORTS

The Water Committee of the Lions Club reported that until more facts could be determined as to the adequacy of Eldorado's water supply and its pressure that nothing could be done toward lowering the water tax and the matter of laying adequate fire mains in the city was deferred.

DISTINGUISHED VISITORS HERE

Les Cranfill, coach of Hardin-Simmons University, and W. C. Ribble, economics professor of that school, were visitors at the Lions luncheon Wednesday. They were in Eldorado on official business of the college, and they report that prospects for an increased enrollment at the University are good.

W. E. Cooper, Mathematics teacher in the Eldorado high school, who has recently returned from Abilene where he was enrolled in the Hardin-Simmons University, was also present at the luncheon. Mr. Cooper who is to serve his second term in Eldorado high school this year has been working on his M. A. degree during the past summer.

J. J. Bailey, an employee of the West Texas Utilities at Abilene and former resident of Eldorado, was also a visitor at the local Lions Luncheon. He was visiting relatives in Eldorado. C. H. Jennings, game warden from Sonora, was a visitor at the Lions luncheon.

HUNTER CARRIED HOME COUNTY OVER ALLRED

"I am not worried over the result of this election," Hunter told an audience on the Courthouse Square, a Waco, after he had been introduced by Frank Tiley, former Waco district attorney.

"I know that the people of Texas as will accept the recommendation of the home folks who have known me and Jimmie Allred through the years of our professional lives."

"The greatest gratification that any man could know was the favorable result of the verdict of the home folks. The fact that I defeated Jimmie Allred in the precinct in which we both lived, the fact that I defeated him in the county in which our homes are located and the fact that I defeated him in the senatorial district and the congressional district in which we both live and vote is sufficient answer to everything that he may say or publish against me. The people who know us best have spoken."

Vote Tomorrow!

It is a deplorable but persistent habit of the Texas voters to neglect their right and privileges to vote in the second primary. Some people feel that just because a number of their friends have been eliminated in the first primary that their duty as a voter has ceased. We need good government more so now than ever; and there is only one way to get it; elect the right man. Don't fail to vote tomorrow.

After a few days' unavoidable delay, the scheduled rotary operations at the Humble No. 1 like Honig began in earnest Sunday morning at 6:4 feet, the depth to which the Crosby Drilling Company had drilled, per contract, with a water rig. The rotary operations have been moving steadily forward day and night and the well is now drilling past the 1000 foot mark.

Two cars of clay have been hauled to the location this week. The clay is to be used in drilling. Hauling of two cars of 10 3/4 inch casing was begun during midweek and will be completed by the end of this week. More clay, casing, and fuel are due to be dispatched to the location soon.

Plans are completed now for continual drilling and it is the intention of the Humble Company to keep drilling at a steady pace until the well has been put down to a depth of about 10,000 feet. The well is located in section 38, block M, 10 feet west of center line, G. H. & S. A. Ry Co. survey.

Important Amendments To Be Voted On In November

Several amendments to the constitution of Texas have been authorized by the Texas Legislature to be voted upon in the November election. These amendments have been published in the Success for the past four weeks, this issue being their last appearance in the Success. A number of interested voters have asked for a brief resume of each amendment and we are hereby summarizing each amendment.

The House Joint Resolution No. 41 is drawn up for the purpose of allowing cities of more than 5000 population to amend, adopt, repeal, or alter their charters by election every 12 months.

The Senate Joint Resolution No. 18 provides that all real property shall be taxed equally and uniformly; and that all property other than municipal property shall be taxed in proportion to its value; and that the Legislature shall make classifications of all property. (Continued on page 5)

COTTON, THE BIG SUBJECT

The Success is joining Peter Molyneux, the brilliant editor of the Texas Weekly, along with many other papers, particularly the Dallas Morning News, in a fight for what we might term economic parity for the Southern states. To gain such a parity means, generally, that the great nationalistic tariff wall around the United States must be broken down.

We are convinced that tariff in a reasonable amount is necessary to the life of some industries but the tariff which is now in effect in this country is virtually prohibitive to international trade, a trade which is absolutely necessary to the southern states which thrive by exporting agricultural products.

When the United States becomes so nationalistic, as the "Self-Contained" theorists advocate, that she neither exports or imports, 95% of Texas-grown cotton will be left standing in the field for the simple reason that 95% of Texas-grown cotton is exported.

What is wrong with the cotton market, anyway? Simply this: no country can trade with us unless we trade with them and our prohibitive tariff wall has killed international trade. Civilization has reached that point where international trade and international cooperation is the key to success.

We get little or nothing for our agricultural products but because of tariff we pay plenty for the finished product.

The South will always raise cotton; and our agricultural control bill should not be one of crop reduction but one of crop rotation. And with world trade established again, cotton would again be the "money crop" of the South rather than "pauper's down."

And again, while the South cuts cotton production, Egypt, Russia, and India are slowly but surely stealing our markets, first because of a tariff which prohibits world trade; and second because crop reduction and the processing tax creates a pseudo price level which helps to make the cottons of other countries the favorite in British and Japanese markets.

We have said before and we say again that tariff was never designed as a source of revenue for which our government now uses it. What we need is a reestablishment of world trade.

Decentralization Of Industry

The Texas Weekly in discussing the decentralization of American industry, issue of August 4, says that decentralization of industry should mean a dispersion or scattering of industries which are concentrated in the northeast to all parts of the United States. A writer for the Eldorado Success suggested the same thing several weeks ago, June 29 to be exact. The writer even went further, saying that such decentralization was the only fair means of redistributing the concentrated wealth of the nation.

President Roosevelt's idea of moving the factories from the cities to the country is good provided he moves a large number of the factories "far out into the country." By that we mean into states of the South and West, not simply from downtown New York to the outskirts of that city. Wealth and industry are so concentrated in that 14 percent of the U. S. known as the Northeast that the nation is "top heavy," and we poor suffering fellows here in the South and West are about to be thrown off the face of the globe. Let's get this thing balanced up so we can stay on our feet. We are pleading for Geographical Status Quo.

And we think that such an idea as redistribution of wealth by a complete distribution of industry would make a good plank in the platform of the winning candidate for congress in tomorrow's runoff.

And by the way, when this decentralization of industry starts, Eldorado should be the first town in the Southwest to bid for the location of one of them.

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

Ferguson Endorsement

It has been looking dark of late for all candidates whom Jim Ferguson has given his endorsement. A gigantic statewide opposition seems to be forming against those candidates among whom are Hunter, Wodul, Pundt, and Lattimore. We still maintain that it isn't far to boycott a candidate because of one certain man's support. Ferguson is going to support somebody anyway. Still and all, there maybe something "fishy" about Ferguson endorsement and Ferguson might have done better by his candidates to keep his mouth closed.

Hasty Endorsement

Several newspapers have made impulsive endorsements of candidates, and have had to back down or about face all of which goes to show that such a newspaper is either unstable or just didn't know the candidate to begin with. It proves another point: voters should study the candidates closely before voting. It is a serious matter, this choosing a good candidate. The wrong man in office may work much havoc in two years or four years, and it is hard to oust the wrong man from office before he does do harm. For this and other reasons, this paper is not actively endorsing the candidacy of any candidate. We are leaving it up to the voters' intelligence to pick the right man.

Newspapers and Opinion

The newspapers of the country are in position, and rightly too, to influence public opinion. For that reason editors of the various papers over the state should be careful in choosing what they put before the public. A newspaper is the key to the progressiveness of a community and editors should hold sacred that trust which readers put in their interpretations.

ALPINE, Texas, August, 23. —Miss Hazel Bruton of Eldorado is among the twenty-nine students of Sul Ross State Teachers College who were elected, on the basis of scholastic standing, to the Sul Ross chapter of Alpha Chi, formerly the Scholarship Societies of the South, by a recent selection. Texas Leads U. S. in Birth Rate

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 23. —For the first time in the history of Texas, the United States Bureau of the Census has published the Texas birth rate along with that of the other states in the Union.

Texas, in comparison with the larger states, ranked first in birth rate, 17.9 per thousand of population; third in number of births filed; and fifth in population.

To secure admission to the Registration Area of the United States it is necessary for at least ninety per cent of all births to be filed with the State Department of Health.

The registration of births is valuable to the individual in that a birth certificate may be necessary to secure passports, prove school age, prove citizenship, prove right to vote, prove legal age for marriage, prove age for military service, prove right to hold public office, prove right to property inherited, prove qualification for jury service, prove age under child labor laws, prove nationality in foreign countries, determine the birth rate in state, counties and cities, establish proof for pensions, insurance, compensation, etc.

State Fair To Exhibit Drouth Resisting Crops

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 23. —Results of many years of experimental work in drouth resisting crops will be one of the principal features of the farm show at the 48th annual exposition, State Fair of Texas, it has been announced here by J. A. Moore, superintendent of agriculture, who has been working with officials of Texas A & M College and other agricultural agencies of the state in gathering exhibits.

Special preparation of the soil, special drouth resisting seeds, and special means of cultivation are necessary for these crops and all of these methods and results thereof will be shown in the State Fair Agricultural Show. One feature of this method of farming will be an exhibit of corn where under terrible drouth conditions the farmer raise a thirty-five bushel corn crop, while his neighbors corn crop across the road was a total failure.

Agricultural agencies of Texas have been experimenting with such crops for several years, but the 1934 season has provided the first real Texas for them and the results will be exhibit for the first time at the fair, opening Saturday, Oct. 6 and extending through Sunday, Oct. 21.

Two baby parades, for tots under seven years of age, will be staged during the 1934 State Fair of Texas, Oct. 6 to 21, for which cash awards will be made to the winners. More than 150 babies participated in two similar events held at the 1933 exposition.

Carnival night at the 1934 State Fair of Texas will be held, Friday, Oct. 19, for which $250 in cash awards will be given for the best costumes. Five classes of costumes will be featured in the fun night festival.

THE PHANTOM CHAMPIONSHIP

(A story of love and baseball)

Synopsis

Benjamin White, a rookie pitcher for the Miners who were contenders for the Copper-Belt championship, was making good his first year in league pitching. His only fault was that of wanting money too badly. While he was out "looking for a job on the side," Ben was told that Higgins, manager of the Indians, the team which was contending with the Miners for the championship, wanted to see him. Higgins made White a $10,000 offer if White would throw the game to the Indians. Ben was tempted to take the money when Higgins walked out of the office leaving Ben to his own judgment, good or bad.

Ben's weakness for money overcame him and he took the money. His first thought was to look up his old friend Bill Moore, and with him, celebrate. To Ben's great surprise, Bill was entertaining a visitor, a cousin, who was very beautiful. Together the three had a "swell" time and Ben returned to his home town late that night after Bill had promised to bring Monna, his cousin, over to see him (Ben).

Now on with the story

CHAPTER III

Ben was up early.

"Mother, could I persuade you by some hook or crook to fix us a nice, appetizing lunch—the kind you always fix? I'm entertaining friends today."

"You know I will, son, if you'll get the things I will need. How many will there be?"

"Four."

Mrs. White looked affectionately after her son as he dashed off to the neighborhood grocery. She loved him and he loved her. She thought he was the best ball player in the world.

Ben was soon back with a bundle of groceries.

"I'll help you, mother."

"No, I'd rather do it myself." But Ben wasn't satisfied with that. He piddled and puttered around first with house-cleaning, then with the lunch. His old mother knew what had happened—Ben had never been interested in house-cleaning and lunches before—and there were to be four friends. That was a well balanced number. If there were to have been three or five friends, Mrs. White would have thought Ben was sick.

"Don't sweep the trash under the bed, Ben," she scolded. Ben wasn't as proficient in the home arts as he was in baseball, and Mrs. White scolded him and corrected his methods several times before the lunch was completely done and the house made ready.

There was salad, roast, pineapple pie, banana short-cake, creamed peas, creamed potatoes, hot rolls, iced tea, and many nice things. When Mrs. White finished, there was no lunch to it—it was a meal. Ben had spared no cost and Mrs. White had spared no trouble.

Bill, Monna, and Dorothy Carr, Bill's girl friend, came at eleven-thirty.

"You're just in time!" Ben greeted. He was in ecstasy. He played the part of the delightful host with great ease, even to his own surprise. The lunch was good, the party high-spirited, and the conversation pleasant. Talk drifted from one subject to another: scenery, movies, radio-programs, people, baseball and other topics. It was natural for most of the time to be spent on baseball.

"Of course the game will be good." "Who will win?"

Ben's face flushed a little as he answered, "Miners." Bill was sure the Indians would win.

After lunch there was music from Los Angeles. There was waltzing; a fox-trot—then a hand or two of bridge. Monna sang, accompanied on the piano by Dorothy. Ben and Bill were delighted. They decided that it was the best singing and playing that they had ever heard.

"You don't have to do so much to have a good time," Ben commented enthusiastically.

"Not if you resolve to have it," Bill amended.

The pleasantness of the afternoon ended when Bill announced that he had some business that must be attended to. He and Dorothy left Ben and Monna to seek their own pleasure.

"Wouldn't you like to drive around and see some of the sights in our town?" Ben asked.

"I'd be glad to."

"They aren't much," Ben apologized, "but it will be something to do until there is something sure enough to do."

Ben's chief object was to be away with Monna, somewhere, quiet, delightful.

"It's cooler driving," Ben was afraid his purpose was too obvious.

The sights of the city were shunned or slighted, and the couple was soon out on the highway.

"This is the Old Apache Trail," Ben told her. "Many people think the scenery along this road is very beautiful."

"I like it." Monna gazed out over vast expanse of copper-colored hills. "Don't you like it?"

"Well, I've seen red hills until I don't like them anymore, but I do kind of like the scenery around Roosevelt and between the dam and Mormon Lake."

"I've heard the lake is very beautiful."

"It is; you would certainly like Cocanino forest. The lake is in Cocanino. I wish we had time to go."

"I think there's something beautiful about all scenery."

"Oh, I do too," Ben did not notice the inconsistency of his statement and his dislike for the hills of copper ore. If Monna noticed it, she did not let it be known.

The car sped over the hills while Ben wheeled it with the accuracy of one who is experienced in mountain driving.

"This is 'Flivver Rest.' He pointed to a wide, flat place in the road on the summit of a long, winding hill. "The place was made for cars to stop and rest if they get tired pulling that hill."

Monna laughed at his idea of personification.

"Well, it's so, he protested.

"I'm sure it is or you wouldn't have said so. I simply thought it was strange." Ben accepted the explanation without noting the slight sarcasm.

"Here's where a car plunged over the cliff."

Monna shivered. "Ugh, what a horrible accident."

"Yes," Ben said no more.

Monna enjoyed the scenes that passed all too swiftly. The deep valley below them, the far-distant mountains, the varied vegetation—all could not but thrill a person who was not accustomed to such.

"What's the white streaks on the hills yonder?" Monna asked with interest.

Those are meager strata of asbestos outcroppings. There are a few asbestos mines in this country."

The Roosevelt dam soon came into view. At the dam, Ben stopped the car. Its neat construction and its huge size were impressive. Ben gracefully helped Monna out of the car, and they went down below the dam to inspect the power-house and flood gates. It was all interesting to Monna; and though he had seen it a number of times, Ben took great pride in and derived much joy from explaining the whole structure.

Later in the afternoon, the couple halted the car again. This time it was under the spread of a great pine tree on the edge of Cocanino. The wind sang softly through the branches of the tall trees. The place looked cleaner and greener to Monna than any she had ever seen.

"This is lovely," she commented.

"Yes, it's much nicer and cooler than back in town."

During the brief silence that followed, Ben slept his arm around Monna's neat, warm little body and drew her closely to him. She was either unconscious of the action or did not mind.

"Monna, it wouldn't—it wouldn't make you mad if I told you something would it?" Ben was self-conscious as he realized the crudeness of the approach, but he had never made such a tender attempt before. He knew no better way to say what he wanted to say. He had no courage to say it with directness—beating around the bush would set a stage for him on which he could more easily act. Anyway, he thought, the subject was too tender to be discussed bluntly. Thus he exhaled himself.

"No, you know it wouldn't make me angry." Monna's face wore a pretty little half-shy, half-coy expression, and with a dainty gesture, perfectly effeminate, she laid her head between Ben's shoulder and neck. Hot blood pulsed through his veins as he felt a sensation that is called a thrill because no better name has been given to it. His cheeks were burning, glowing, but could he have seen Monna's rosy cheeks, he wouldn't have possibly disparaged himself so much for his weakness.

"Well, then," Ben began awkwardly, hesitantly, in a whisper as if he feared someone were near enough to hear, "Monna, I love you."

"I like you, too, Ben, but...."

ing; foods of all kinds, canning, preserving, new methods, all are there.

From the Foods Building one may go directly to the Streets of Shanghai, typical representations of "the international melting pot" of China. The Dutch Village is situated on the Beach Midway overlooking Lake Michigan, a beautiful, refreshing sight. The Dutch Village is typical of the Hollanders.

From the Dutch Village one may next walk through the States Building where exhibits from practically all 48 states in the union are to be seen, somewhat disappointing to a Texan because there is no Texas exhibit; but Texas is represented back on the Island midway by Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive" show. Strewed up and down midway is what one might call a huge carnival with its various gags and riding devices (not the hobby horse.)

But we hurry on to the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps Building, a very interesting area, located on the beach, open to Fair visitors though it is not a part of the Fair.

We have now reached the Electrical Building equalling in interest the Science Hall, through which we will journey next week.

OHLENBURG—JONES WEDDING

Rev. Wilkinson.

Mrs. Ohlenburg, who is well known in West Texas, was graduated from the Eldorado High School. She later attended Daniel Baker College at Brownwood and Southern Methodist University at Dallas where she was a member of the Delta Gamma sorority.

Mr. Ohlenburg was formerly of Waco but for the past seven years has been connected with the Humble Oil Company. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple left for a honeymoon trip their destination being unknown. For a going away dress the bride wore an Exclusive Costume Flock from College Princess, made of Forstman's basket woolen in a soft, cypress green. The ensemble consisted of a smartly tailored, one piece dress, the blouse fastening with six little silver bow knots held together in groups of twos by tiny silver chains. The chic fitted jacket buttoned snugly down the front with self covered bone rimmed buttons. The large roll collar was entirely of grey Siberian squirrel and was held in place beneath the chin by a clever bow knot of the material.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the house which was attractively decorated with cut flowers, palms and ferns. The guest were met at the door by Mrs. Jones, mother of the bride. After registering in the bride's book, over which Mrs. Lyovelle Ballew presided, they were ushered into the dining room. The dining table was covered with a Venetian lace cloth while white tapers tied with maline bows burned at either end of the table. The center piece was formed by a miniature bride and groom standing under an arch and a lovely two-tiered wedding cake which was cut by the bride. Approximately 150 guests were served cake and punch.

Assisting with the reception were Misses Inez Cobb, Jess Ella Johnson, Marguerite Bradley, Mrs. Lawrence Steen and Mrs. F. B. Gunn.

Out of town guests were: Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Granville, and J. B. Jr., Mrs. S. W. Espy of Brady, Annagene and Worth Johnson of Goldthwaite, Dr. and Mrs. Guy Davis and daughter Mary Anna of Brownwood, Howard Espy, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Jones, Harva and O. T. Jr., Mrs. R. A. Halbert, John I. Kline, and Pat Cooper all of Sonora, Miss Emma Sessions of McComey, and Margjorie and A. J. Roach of Colorado.

Big Horse Show Planned For State Fair

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 23.—The return of the horse, the jack, the jennet, and the mule to Texas is best evidenced a thie increased interest in horses and the large number which will be on exhibit, will be shown in the Charity Horse Show, will be raced on the track and will be auctioned off at a sale of this at the 1934 State Fair of Texas. More than 2,000 head of horses will be included in these various activities at the 48th State Fair.

Premiums in the horse classes have been increased in some instances. There will be a complete exhibit of all kinds of horses in the stalls at the State Fair throughout the 16 days of exposition. More than 1,000 fine horses will be housed in the racing stalls and will be participating in the seven daily events for 19 days—the race meet extends one week beyond the regular dates of the exposition. Horses which will participate in the Charity Horse Show on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 19, 20 and 21, will also be on exhibit during the exposition.

One of the big events in the return of the horse to popularity will be the auction sale to be held on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 19 and 20. Draft horses, race horses, show and saddle horses, brood mares, weanlings and colts will go to the high bidder. This sale is being held by the State Fair of Texas, with the co-operation of J. E. McDonald, Texas Agricultural Commissioner; the Saddle and Bridle Club of Texas, and the racing division of the State Fair of Texas. Officials in charge hope to make it one of the biggest horse sales ever held in the South at any time.

MAC'S MESSAGES

How do newspaper men feel? "I wish you would send me a dozen copies of last week's paper as I wanted to send my nephew the article about Betty's wedding. My uncle just died over in the adjoining county, please publish this so all the folks can have a copy of the writeup. Also I would like to know why I never get my name in your paper. Mrs. _____ gets her name in your locals every time she comes to town while I never do; and she isn't a bit better than I. And I wish you'd mention on the front page, if it doesn't cost anything, that our pasture is posted. My subscription was out two months ago so please stop my paper as times are too hard to waste any more money on a newspaper."

ALLRED SCORING

is fearful that the verdict of Texas voters will be against the politicians and big oil companies who have controlled this state too long, against his own selfish political schemes.

"I am asking the support of every man and woman who voted for C. C. McDonald or any other of my opponents in the first primary, in a united drive for the betterment of our government. But I am not going to C. C. McDonald, to Jim Ferguson, or to any other boss and ask them to deliver those votes like Tom Hunter did," Attorney General declared.

"I have nothing personal against either Mr. McDonald or Mr. Ferguson. But I say now that I had rather be defeated for office than to be under obligation to James E. Ferguson or any other politician for my election. Intelligent men and women who voted for Mr. McDonald in the first primary will resent this effort to trade them out as if they were sheep.

"Tom Hunter says he will be under no obligations to Jim Ferguson, yet he admits that he solicited Jim's support and asked him to deliver McDonald's vote, lock, stock and barrel.

"If Jim does that for him, and he does not feel under any obligations to Jim, then he is the biggest ingrate that ever loomed in Texas politics.

"We must have an 'ungoverned government,'" Allred continued. "The type of leadership Texas selects next Saturday will largely determine whether we sink or swim.

"Relief must be provided for our suffering farmers and unemployed laborers. Progress has been made under President Roosevelt's program in some branches of business, but there are today nearly a million people on the state relief rolls, with the added horrors of a devastating drought, economic security is still our vital program."

Allred then reviewed his proposals for state participation in President Roosevelt's plans for old-age pensions and unemployment insurance; for a redistribution of tax burdens for law enforcement and court reforms, for child welfare and rehabilitation, for a greater school system that will provide rural children the same opportunities as given children in large cities; for adequate utility regulation; for safeguarding the rights of labor; for the unalated construction of modern highways; for reforestation, advancement of home ownership, and industrial development to absorb the state's unemployed.

Attorney General Allred will speak Thursday in Lockhart, New Braunfels, and San Antonio before swinging back into North Texas for addresses at Cooper, Sulphur Springs, and Greenville on the final day of the current campaign for governor.

Mrs. Roach Honored On Birthday

Honoring Mrs. A. J. Roach on her 50th birthday, her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Eldred Roach, gave a surprise birthday luncheon. Since it was Mrs. Roach's golden birthday, golden tints were carried out in the color scheme decorations. Yellow candles in crystal holders were placed attractively around the table. Spread across the table were the golden numbers 18-4-1934. Gifts were presented to the honoree before a three course luncheon was served.

During the afternoon forty-two was played. Mrs. W. B. Cobb won the award for high score and in turn, she presented the award to Mrs. Roach. Guests present were Mmes. W. R. Nicks, Ed Ratliff, D. E. DeLong, A. meet extends one week beyond the rounds, W. B. Cobb, Ben Isaacs, J. E. Isaacs, C. C. West, J. A. Whitten, Dora Oliver, Doc Kerr, Jess Bradshaw, Will Cloud, Roy Andrews, Frank Bradley, S. L. Wright, W. B. Price of Dallas, and T. J. Bailey of Abilene; Miss Mollie Turner and Josephine Clayton.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Johnson have returned from Chero in east Texas. They were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. W. B. Turpening and son, Billie of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. DeLong visited Mrs. and Mrs. Steen of Sonora Saturday.

What Is It

which money cannot buy? And what is it which pays more dividends in the long run?

QUALITY

Consider the wise man's ways and look for quality first, quantity last. What does it profit a man to buy an article which, because of its poor quality, he finally assigns to the garbage can? It is criminal waste to throw away money in such a manner. One pound of staple, quality merchandise is worth two of a lower grade.

James V. Allred For Governor

In the coming primary, there is offered to the people two types of leadership:—

1. Misguided, wild idealism versus things that can be done.
2. Achievement versus unsecured promises.
3. Training and experience versus an unknown and untried quantity.
4. A practical and progressive program versus extravagance and unworkable ideas.
5. Real relief versus visionary political nostrums.

A thousand promises are not equal to one concrete instance of accomplishment. Particularly is this true when the promises threaten turbulent dissension in the State's economic and political life. Allred invites your minutest examination of his remarkable record; your most critical study of his forward-looking program.

A vote for James V. Allred is a vote for a new era in Texas policies. Old factional lines have been merged and forgotten in his candidacy. All the "isms" are out. Allred promises to work for Texas, for all Texas, and all Texans.

The closing paragraph of Mr. Allred's opening runoff speech bespeaks for him the confidence of every voter in Texas who believes in a Divine Ruler: "Should the Democrats of Texas see fit to nominate me on August 20th, I shall dedicate myself solemnly, reverently and prayerfully to the building up and betterment of Texas.

Do not be deceived; James V. Allred, is a known, proven quantity."

Rudd Revival Closes Last Sunday

With an all time revival attendance record for Rudd community, the Methodist revival closed last Sunday night. Rev. P. S. Connell of Eldorado conducted the week's services. Three services were held Sunday with both dinner and supper being spread on the ground.

Brother Connell reports that the interest was the best possible and the meeting was what he termed a successful meeting.

PRAIRIE FIRE DESTROYS HALF SECTION OF GRASS

A prairie fire of unknown origin destroyed a half section of grass on the J. W. Lawhon, Jr. place about 3:30 Wednesday afternoon. Several people from town and neighboring ranchmen helped bring the fire under control. The disaster is a warning to people who are careless with cigarettes, matches, and open fire on the dried ranges of West Texas. Grass will be a precious article this winter and a fire, once started, could easily wipe out several sections before being brought under control.

Interpretative Flashes

Why Not Wool Too?
The government is preparing to make advances on cotton—12c per pound in fact which is an extremely good advance considering everything. But a big portion of Texas is more dependent on wool and mohair than on cotton. We don't begrudge the poor old cotton farmer any break which may come his way. He deserves all that he gets and more—a kingdom if we had it to give him, for the farmer, though not in name, is in reality the king of the Universe. But—if the government can advance 12 cents a pound to the poor cotton farmer, why can't it make a proportionate advance to the poor old wool and mohair farmers. The situation is the same with the exception that what threatens the cotton market has already done its job to the wool market. If a textile strike affects the price of cotton, what will it do to wool? If Indian, Egyptian and Russian cotton horn in on American cotton, what does Australian wool do to American wool? We believe a 25c advance on wool would be about proportionate to a 12c advance on cotton. Reckon we'll get it?
