ELDORADO MAY GET DOMESTIC GAS FROM PAGE WELL IN FUTURE

Supply Said More Than Ample for All Needs Of Far Larger City

A proposal was brought forth at the meeting of the Eldorado Lions Club, on Wednesday of this week, whereby this city may have a supply of natural gas for cooking and heating purposes before next winter.

The supply of gas would be obtained from the Page well, located east of Eldorado. This well, which was started as an oil test, struck a gas supply, and is reported to have been tested at seven million cubic feet, enough to supply the needs of several cities the size of Eldorado.

It is understood that J. M. Cooper, owner of the well, plans (See No. 3, Last Page)

Laird Contest Will End Next Saturday

The contest being conducted by M. F. Laird to select a name for his garage and filling station will be closed Saturday afternoon, April 27, at five o'clock, and no suggestions for names will be received after that hour, according to announcement made Wednesday by Mr. Laird.

According to the rules of the contest, the name suggested is to be written on the outside of an envelope, and the name of the person making the suggestion is to be written on a slip of paper and enclosed in the envelope, which must be sealed and delivered, either in person or by mail, at the office of The Success.

Only one envelope will be opened by Mr. Laird, and in case two or more persons should suggest the winning name, the one whose envelope chances to be opened will be declared the winner. This is done to insure fairness to all, as the names of the contestants will not be known to anyone.

Remember that the contest is to close Saturday afternoon, and have your suggestion at the Success office before that time.

Eldorado School High In Passing Students

According to the 1934 report of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the graduates of the Eldorado high school who were in college passed 72 semester hours of work and failed in none. The percentage of work failed in by students from all over the state was 13.7.

These reports are based on the records made by freshmen in college only. Only two other schools in this section of the state ranked so low in percentage of failures as did the local school, the other schools being Winters and Rankin.

The percentage of failures for schools in this section of Texas follows:

Eldorado 0, Brady 32.5, San Angelo 20.1, Sonora 27.4, Ozona 38.5, Junction 13.4, Rocksprings 17.9, Iraan 18.7, Rankin 0, Winters 0.

Reports for the years during which Eldorado has been a member of the Southern Association indicate that the percentage of failures has been an average of only 4.07.

IMPROVEMENT

Under the direction of the Woman's Club of Eldorado work is progressing nicely on the park just south of the court house. Shrubs are being set out, and flowers will make this a spot of real beauty in the heart of the city during the summer.

Senior Class To Stage Play On Friday May 3

"On de stroke ob two, dat's when de ghost parade begins," says Rastus, the colored boy.

The senior class of 1935 of Eldorado high school will present "The Ghost Parade" on May 3rd. The laugh from "Mama's Baby Boy" has died out, and it is time to start another. Aitho this play contains all of the elements that make up a drama, love, fear, and mystery, the play contains plenty of wit and comical actions.

Every person who is able to go to the high school auditorium on Friday evening, May 3, at eight o'clock, will be expected to be present to see the seniors stage their play.

Local Lions Attend Regional Meeting

Nine members of the Eldorado Lions Club attended a regional meeting of the organization, held at Sterling City on Tuesday night. They reported an excellent meeting, well attended by representatives from many towns in this section of Texas. The next meeting will be held in Ballinger.

Inch Rain In County Improves Prospects

Accompanied by high winds and some hail, a good rain fell in this section of the state early Thursday, giving increased hope to farmers and ranchmen alike.

The rain, which began falling at about two o'clock in the vicinity of Eldorado, is said to have amounted to about half an inch in and near this city, but was considerably heavier to the north and west, some localities reporting from three-quarters or an inch to more than an inch.

So far as has been learned, no property damage was done in this section by the wind and hail, and the moisture received will prove of untold benefit to pastures and crops.

SCHLEICHER COUNTY FOLKS YOU KNOW

Among the folks you know in Eldorado and Schleicher county, none is better known than Jimmie West, manager of two filling stations, Rock Stations No. 1 and 2, in Eldorado.

Jimmie is one of the younger business men of the city, but is making a name for himself by his courtesy, dependability and close attention to business. He is local distributor for Conoco gas and oils and for Goodrich tires, and is building up an enviable trade in these products.

Jimmie is another excellent example of a home town boy who believes that opportunity in the home town is not by any means a thing of the past. He states that he not only learned to walk on the soil of Eldorado, but

STANFORD DAIRY WANTS MILK LAW

The Stanford Dairy, owned and operated by S. L. Stanford just north of Eldorado, is one of the local business enterprises deserving a large measure of commendation for its enterprise and excellent service.

Mr. Stanford stated to a representative of The Success that when he moved to his present location he had no intention of operating a dairy, but seeing the demand for such an enterprise, he just gradually "grew into" his present business.

The Stanford dairy herd is composed entirely of Jerseys, and every animal is regularly TB tested and approved by the state and federal inspectors. The cows are kept in a pasture at some distance from the barn, and are brought to the barn only during the time actually required for the milking.

The barn itself is of approved construction, with concrete floor, and with all openings screened and kept as nearly fly-proof as possible. The milk is cooled by being flowed over a container filled with ice. It is then put into sterilized bottles which are capped by a machine, thereby guaranteeing that no human hands come into contact with the interior of the bottles or the milk.

The milking barn and milk rooms are scrubbed daily, and all utensils used in the process of cooling and bottling the milk are sterilized every time they are used.

In addition to the whole milk sold, Mr. Stanford supplies cream to a number of homes and to several cafes in Eldorado. Still another dairy product which is very popular in the summer months is chocolate milk, in the manufacture of which the same scrupulous care is taken as with all the other operations of the dairy.

Mr. Stanford has equipped his dairy to meet the strictest requirement of the standard Grade A milk ordinance, and states that he hopes such an ordinance will soon be adopted in the city of Eldorado.

USE OF WOOL URGED IN MAKING PIN CUSHIONS

"Wool should be used exclusively in stuffing pin cushions," said Mrs. Melvin Rogers, Riverside wardrobe demonstrator, in quoting Mrs. Dora Barnes, state clothing specialist, to the Riverside home demonstration club at the home of Mrs. Melvin Rogers on April 16.

The wardrobe demonstrator explained that since wool is so abundant, resilient, and prevents pins from rusting, it should be used. One foundation skirt pattern was cut and fitted.

The club will have its next meeting with Mrs. Tom Low on May 7.

Refreshments were served to twelve members and twelve guests.

Motorists who know these facts will save money:

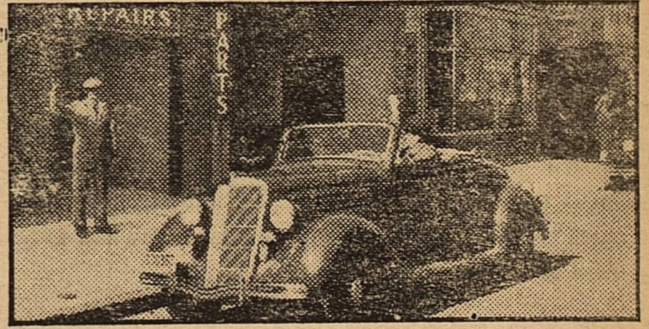

Motor oils refined by the usual methods have some oiliness and film strength, but they may form carbon and sludge, which lead to expensive motor repairs.

Other oils may form almost no carbon and sludge, but are so over-refined that they are robbed of oiliness and film strength they need to prevent motor wear.

Germ Processed Oil is refined to eliminate carbon and sludge troubles and then the Germ Process adds extra oiliness and 2 to 4 times more film strength than any mineral oil.*

YOU will save money on repairs and have a smoother running motor if you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil!

The Germ Process—adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil—gives it the extra oiliness and film strength so necessary for full protection of high-powered, high-speed motors. No other oil is made by the Germ Process.

Germ Processed Oil cuts down costly starting wear, which other oils fail to do. It is the only oil with the "Hidden Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away.

Germ Processed Oil is free from carbon and sludge troubles. It has a lower rate of consumption and gives longer mileage, as proved by the famous Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Say, "O. K.—Drain"—and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil.

Seventh Grade Presents Play

On May 22 the seventh grade will present "The Mysterious Friends," a short play in two acts. Also the class song will be sung, and diplomas awarded at that time.

There are twenty-eight in the seventh grade, and about 75 per cent of the grade will be expected to graduate to high school.

The class contains almost an equal number of boys and girls. Some good football material is coming up with this grade.

Assembly Program

The assembly program was given in the high school auditorium on Tuesday, April 17. This program was put on by the seventh grade girls. The first number on the program was "Characters of Mrs. Sentences," an English skit by Maude Brown Jewel Butler.

A short play, "The Visitor," was given by several of the seventh grade girls. The scene was laid in a dormitory room of a young girls' boarding school.

The characters in this play were Erma Lee Bodine, Venita Morgan, Wanda B. Rape, Shannon Talley, Genevieve Ramsey, Theila Luedecke and Charlene Mund.

A Laissez-Faire Policy

Back in the Middle Ages there was a policy adopted by the people in various towns called "laissez faire," which meant "hands off," and referred to the government. The people did not want the government to interfere with business so they adopted this hands off policy, meaning that the government should let them alone and have no hand in their affairs.

Altho the "laissez faire" applied to the government in the past, it might profitably apply to school students today, for after all, government and school cannot be separated. If students would only let the belongings of others alone! Things have a habit of disappearing rather mysteriously, and one frequently hears some one lamenting over some lost article which has disappeared

The Rural Community Has Come to Town

The rural community and small city faces a new future. Electric service and all that electric power and light mean to home life, commercial and industrial development is now available for a more constructive and wider field of achievement.

Much work, planning, testing, engineering and large investments of capital was necessary in order to make this possible. Our 2600 miles of power transmission lines, interlacing 49 counties in West Texas and serving 160 towns and communities provide an adequate and economical source of dependable electric service with precise regulation to meet the requirements of modern day appliances.

Today hundreds of small West Texas towns and communities can offer to industry this modern electric service in proximity to its raw materials . . . two very necessary prerequisites for industrial progress.

We point with pride to our part in assisting the small towns and communities in this way, thus guaranteeing to them the same opportunities in respect to power as the larger metropolitan cities enjoy. It is our policy to fully co-operate with the small towns and communities we serve so that they may realize the full benefits accompanying and made possible by electrical development.

Do you know that your increased use of Electric Service is billed on a surprisingly low rate schedule . . . and adds only a small amount to your total bill?

from his or her desk.

If everyone would make a habit of returning what they take from another's desk, instead of leaving it where it is very likely to be forgotten or picked up by someone else, much of this careless disregard and indifference to others' property would be eliminated. But whether it is forgetfulness or just plain "don't care," few abide by this rule. James "borrows" Will's pencil when Will is away, but James does not return it; he misplaces it or forgets it, and Will wonders but never knows just what became of it.

It seems to me that a "hands off" policy would be a good idea for everyone. If pupils carelessly disregard the rights of their neighbors, and their personal property, in school, then what kind of citizens will they make later when situations are more complex and involved?

Preparing for Examinations

Preparing for final examinations is a thing that is in the air at the present time.

Now is when all the students should be reviewing and studying hard, preparing for the final examinations. The examinations will start in four weeks, and every one could be ready for them if they started reviewing now.

Usually the teacher gives some questions for the pupil to study, and takes her number of questions from this group. This is a great help to some students, but others will not take advantage of these hints.

Ages of the Seniors

The youngest member of the senior class of the Eldorado high school is Clarice Lee. Clarice was sixteen years of age September 1, 1934, and will graduate at the age of sixteen.

At the beginning of school, which was September 1, 1934, there were four boys and three girls who were sixteen, three boys and four girls who were seventeen, three boys and two girls who were eighteen, one boy and one girl who were nineteen, and two girls who were twenty.

At the close of the school year which will be May 24, there will be one girl sixteen years of age, five boys and four girls seventeen years of age, two boys and three girls eighteen years of age, two boys and one girl nineteen years of age, one boy and two girls at twenty, and two girls at the age of twenty-one.

Spring Football Practice

Spring football practice is progressing very well now. About 28 boys are coming out, and every one is working hard. The boys scrimmaged against some of the ex-players Friday afternoon. The team showed up fairly well.

The purpose of spring practice is to teach some of the new men the fundamentals of football.

Eldorado has good prospects for another group of district champions next year.

First Grade Program

Thursday, April 18, the grammar and elementary grades were entertained with a Texas program, under the supervision of Miss Lee.

The first number on the program was a group of first grade boys giving the facts about Texas. "The Life of Davy Crockett" was given by a first grade student. A group of boys sang "Texas, Our Texas," "Beautiful Texas," "Home on the Range." A story was given by George S. Finley. An Indian story of Texas was given by a girl student.

A group of girls sang many songs. The last number on the program was a skit giving all the products of Texas. A brief summary of the history of Texas was also given.

This was a remarkable program given by the first grade. A large number of parents were present.

The Student's Choice

All students should spend the next four weeks of school to the best advantage. If they are weak or failing in any subject, they can fail or pass in it in the next few days by the amount of work they put out and the attitude they have in class.

Students who are failing or weak in a subject should spend about twice as much time in that one subject, because they can easily afford to do two or three times as much work for only one more month rather than to fail in the subject and have to spend another nine months on it.

Students often have a tendency to let down in their work on a particular subject after they have been low in it for some time. They often think that they don't have a chance, but nearly always one good grade will bring a failing average to a pass.

DEBATE SEASON OVER FOR CURRENT YEAR

Due to the fact that both the boys and girls debate teams were eliminated at the district meet, the season for this year is about closed. The boys' team, consisting of John E. Rodgers and Charles Ratliff, went to the finals at San Angelo, but was eliminated by the Paint Rock team. In getting into the finals, the Eldorado team defeated Robert Lee and Ballinger, both by votes of three to none.

The Eldorado girls' team, Mary Lee Davis and Josephine Clayton, was eliminated by the Eden team in the preliminaries. Eden then defeated the San Angelo girls' team in the finals. Both San Angelo and Eldorado drew the affirmative against Eden, and both lost by a vote of two to one.

It is interesting to note that the two Eldorado teams drew the affirmative in every debate in the district meet. The boys drew that side three consecutive times.

During the season the four teams comprising the traveling squad made trips to Christoval, Eden, and two trips to San Angelo. In addition, a local debate tournament was held, and visiting teams from Eden and Christoval were met in practice debates during the season. In all, the four teams had a total of 31 debates, winning 9, losing 9, and 13 being unjudged. The fact that our second boys' and girls' teams were forced to debate the first teams of all the schools with the exception of San Angelo added considerably to the number of debates lost.

SELF-CONFIDENCE

Every day the news dispatches convey the stories of men and women who have lost their grip. These suicides have not been confident of their ability to overcome, eventually, their handicaps or difficulties.

Many people long to know how they can attain a confident and courageous attitude toward life, and how to gain more personal power.

The recipe is simple, altho a thousand pages would not be sufficient for a detailed explanation. The difficulty comes in following it successfully.

Having confidence in one's source is often an aid in gaining confidence in one's powers. The finest flowering of many religious systems of thought is the idea that the soul of man is of the same essence as the Infinite Creator. Those who need to gain confidence in their inherent powers would do well to think of this several times a day. They should read all they can supporting this idea.

When they have firmly fixed in mind who and what they are, they will often find that the fearful and cringing attitude has been crowded out, in much the same manner as light pushes back the darkness. But having gained an inner confidence, a man may still lack the force to express it outwardly.

In similar mental mood a man may be confident in his own mind that he can lift two hundred pounds of sand. However, when he has actually done it, he is not afraid to tackle any two hundred pound sack of sand, no matter who is looking. Then he has confirmed confidence. But how can he get to do it? Easy. By practicing first with twenty-five, and then with fifty pounds, and so gradually increasing the weight. If he never masters the two hundred, he will come much nearer to doing so than if he had not followed this method.

The same method will do as much in the matter of developing untried confidence. One should begin the developing process by doing and saying things of which he is only a little bit timid.

A confident attitude, like muscular power, develops thru use.

ADOLPH OCHS

It is even fitting for the editor of a small newspaper to pay tribute to the late Adolph S. Ochs, who took the New York Times when it was on the verge of ruin and developed it into one of the mightiest newspapers in the entire world.

He had the courage of his convictions, and they were largely centered on the accurate presentation of news. He erected his monument in the shape of a real newspaper in the best sense of the word, deliberately attracting intelligent and thinking readers. Contrary to the modern trend he did not go in for comics, features and sensationalism.

He made a high mark in his calling, his memory lives and his example will continue to inspire great newspapers in the future.

JUST RAMBLIN'

By Walter G. Shields

We must start this column with a complaint, this week. We have been sadly misled concerning the climate of this part of Texas. We came up with the understanding that of all dry places, this section was the very driest. Now we've been here less than two weeks, and we've already seen it rain twice. We claim that the climate was grossly misrepresented. We could have gone most anywhere if we had wanted to see rain.

However, everybody seems to be delighted to see the overflow of moisture which has been received this week, so it isn't up to a newcomer to raise too much of a kick about it. Probably we'll soon be as glad to see it as the older residents are.

Friday afternoon the conductor of this column took a trip to the eastern part of the county, in company with the county agent. It's a painful and shameful thing to have to admit, but after some six years in West Texas we're yet a tenderfoot. We're seeing and learning things every day that we never heard of before. One of the new things that Snell sprung on us was a kind of trick gate that kept us guessing for some time. We were introduced to it like this:

Snell drove up to a gate. It has been our experience in West Texas that when a car drives up to a gate and stops, it's etiquette and sometimes the part of wisdom for the passenger to climb out and open said gate. We were preparing to unkink our angular frame and perform this chore, when we were politely but firmly restrained by the county agent. We began to wonder. We figured that surely we were not going to sit there and look at that gate for the rest of the afternoon. It was a nice, wide, attractive gate, but not attractive enough to merit that long a study. But we took the part of wisdom and obeyed the county agent.

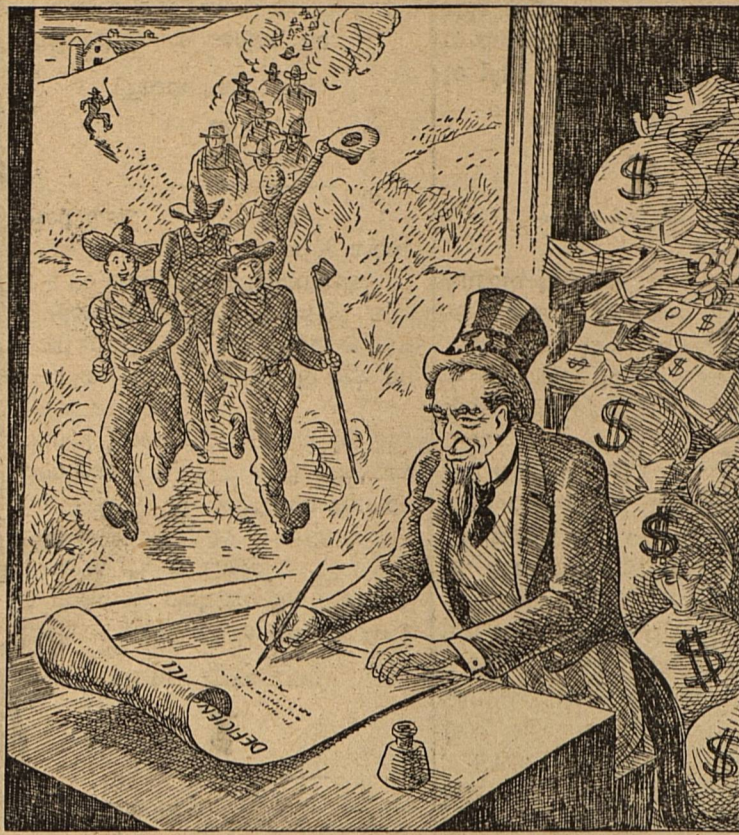

Seeing that we were again safely seated, Snell suddenly and without warning drove directly into that gate. It opened. That was not so wonderful, but we thought it was pretty nifty for the agent to drive right on thru and leave the gate standing open. We took a look behind us, and we looked just in time to see the gate shut itself. It was just about the best-trained gate we ever saw, but our friends assure us that such gates are a common thing in this part of the country.

So when we accept your kind invitation to take a ride around in the country (not hinting anything, of course), kindly tell us when we are expected to open the gates, and when they are of the well-trained variety that open and close themselves.

This ride with the county agent carried us on to Fort McKavett, where we saw some mighty fine country and some equally fine folks. Considering the difficulty that the farmers further north are having, with their farms blowing out from under them, we believe more firmly than ever in the agricultural future of this part of Texas. The resources of soil and climate are here, and some day not so far in the future they are going to be recognized.

You probably decided this some time back, but we'll agree with you that this is plenty for this week. We'll be with you again next week, if we don't get caught in any bump gates.

Crop Loans Starting!

THE signing of the Deficiency Bill, making the $60,000,000 for Crop and Seed Production Loans available, was good news for farmers who are now buying seed, fertilizers, and other supplies. The bill will be a boost for American industry, since the Farm Credit Administration suggests that borrowers buy American-made supplies.

INFLATION

During the first year of the Roosevelt Administration, the spectre of inflation presented a constant topic for conversation and comment. Then it dropped out of the headlines, and little was heard of it save in the serious economic reviews. Now inflation has returned to the public eye, and promises to be a major political and economic issue.

There are two kinds of inflation. The most obvious is currency inflation, and it is never resorted to except when a government is in the direst financial straits. It consists of turning the printing presses loose to produce paper money, irrespective of gold backing or any other security. The result of this kind of inflation is to drastically lower the value of money—the prime modern example is post-war Germany.

More subtle is credit inflation. This consists of constantly expanding the amount of business credit available and makes it possible for industry, government and individuals to spend more than they earn for a long period of time. The eventual consequence, of course, is a financial explosion. In this country, the post-war years witnessed a tremendous amount of credit inflation—and its culmination was the crash of 1929, which heralded depression.

Now a number of economists are forecasting that the United States is well on the road to another era of credit inflation. The group believing this is led by famed commentator Willard Kiplinger, who has published a book on the subject, and his camp is filled with other well-known experts. They think that credit inflation will bring the United States prosperity during the next year or two, which will be followed by a veritable boom, similar to that of 1928. After that—another crash.

Some businesses want inflation. Retail trade, for instance, would benefit, inasmuch as there would be much more money in circulation to spend for perishable goods. Businesses and individuals with fixed or regulated income are bitterly opposed to inflation.

A short time ago it was said that the recent general decline in wholesale prices casts doubt on the theory that inflation is inevitable—that the present movement in stocks is of the "bear" variety, and there had never been inflation during the present generation without a "bull" movement. One of the inevitable results of any kind of inflation, of course, is to force commodity and stock prices upward.

Thus, there are two schools of thought on the subject—but the first school, consisting of those who forecast inflation next year or the year after, is by far the largest. It is a notable fact that many businessmen likewise belong to this school, and are now taking steps to prepare for inflation as best they can.

TAXES ROB THE BREAD BASKET

"It will do no harm to have a reminder that when the Congress passes laws requiring the expenditure of money, the people will have to pay it. When a deficit exists, it must be met. Temporary borrowings by the Treasury may take care of it for the present, but finally the taxpayers will come to a day of reckoning.

"Raising tax rates does not seem popular. Imposing a new levy on small income is anathema to those who vote large appropriations—But people with small incomes will pay directly in all they buy or use, even if they pay no direct tax. They are the ones who suffer most from government extravagance.

"The present high rate of taxes, especially state and local assessments, is one of the main reasons small concerns are closing up and their business is going to chain stores and other large corporations. The overhead of taxes is so large that a small business is at a serious disadvantage."

That was written three years ago—and its author was former President Calvin Coolidge. Since that time, the tax problem has become critical—taxes levied by the government indebtedness has soared to an undreamed-of peak. The people will eventually have to pay the bill—every penny of it.

RESOURCES

The possibility of future industrial development in this country is far greater than in most other nations; says a prominent official of the U. S. Steel Corporation, in calling attention to our low density of population of about forty-one to the square mile.

His reasoning is sound, provided the population increases sufficiently to take advantage of the possibilities. However, the birth rate is not as high as it once was, and fewer immigrants are now allowed to enter this country.

The resources of America are as great as they have ever been, but it takes population to develop these resources.

Religion cannot be expressed solely in lip-service, but must be lived, and for this reason any religion that is worth while must be livable. The world has long since given up the idea of a religious man or woman as one who goes thru life with a long face, and spreads gloom and sadness everywhere.

Real Christianity does not include set rules so much as a rule for the individual conduct. Many have taken advantage of this fact and have tried to make any restriction of license un-Christian. This is just as foolish as intolerance or bigotry. It is perhaps far more common in our land today, and is more dangerous, because it works under the mistaken idea of tolerance.

It is a mistake to let liberalism run wild.

Eldorado Represented At Regional Contests

The Eldorado typing team, having won first place at the district meet at San Angelo, attended the regional meet in Abilene last Saturday.

The students who went to Abilene were Clarice Lee, Doris Fish and Cecil Newlin. They were accompanied by J. Carleton Smith, high school principal and typing teacher.

Clarice Lee won first place in accuracy, with four errors. This is the second consecutive year that Eldorado has won in accuracy, Helen Stanford having won first last year with a perfect paper. Clarice wrote 44.6 words per minute, giving her sixth place among eighteen writers from thirteen towns.

Doris Fish had eight errors, which won second place in accuracy. She had 29.3 words per minute.

Cecil Newlin got off a bad paper and wrote only 14.8 words per minute.

First place was won by the Brownwood team, second place by Stamford, third by Abilene, fourth by Mineral Wells, fifth by Abilene and sixth by Eldorado.

The winning rate was 66.5 words per minute. Schools ranking below Eldorado were Coleman, Ballinger, Throckmorton, Breckenridge, Colorado, Sonora and Eastland.
