WASHINGTON — About 100 U.S. commandos battled on the ground in southern Afghanistan, opening a new phase of the war on terrorism after nearly two weeks of punishing airstrikes, U.S. officials said Friday night.

Earlier in the day, officials confirmed special forces were in northern and southern Afghanistan, searching for Taliban targets to strike and searching for Osama bin Laden and his al-Qaida lieutenants.

The use of small numbers of U.S. troops on the ground in Afghanistan early Saturday local time marked a shift to a broader range of military activities — overt and covert — that the Bush administration said is necessary to win the war.

A Pakistan military official said Friday American officials informed his government U.S. special forces will be conducting "hit-and-run" operations in Taliban-ruled areas of Afghanistan in an effort to flush out bin Laden, members of his al-Qaida network and Taliban leaders.

An unspecified number of U.S. special forces were dropped into southern Afghanistan on Thursday, the official said on condition of anonymity. The official said Pakistan was told U.S. forces have been in northern Afghanistan for more than one week.

In preparation for ground action, the USS Kitty Hawk, an aircraft carrier in the Indian Ocean, was loaded with special forces last weekend.

And Air Force special operations AC-130 gunships began attacking in southern Afghanistan. The high-firepower AC-130s typically give close air cover to forces on the ground or going in for small-unit operations.

Bush gets cautious nod from China on U.S. military action

By Ron Fournier

SHANGHAI, China — Cautioned by China to spare innocent civilians in Afghanistan attacks, President Bush urged wavering Asian nations to support America's campaign against terrorism. He faced resistance from Malaysia, whose leader wants the United States to stop bombing Afghanistan.

On the eve of an economic summit here, the president declared, "All civilized nations must join together to defeat this threat."

Bush met Chinese President Jiang Zemin for the first time Friday and praised him for sharing intelligence on terrorists' activities and helping to cut off financing to their organizations. The Chinese leader, in turn, cautioned Bush about U.S. military strikes against the terrorist-harboring Taliban.

New law, National Guard stretch firefighting ranks

By D. Lance Lunsford
Staff Writer

Manpower is a frontburner issue with the Midland Fire Department as National Guard responsibilities and new state regulations strain and stretch the department's ranks.

It's too early to blame lack of manpower for firefighter's death./6C

As of Sept. 1, fire departments across Texas have been ordered to comply with the "two-in, two-out rule." The regulation requires four firefighters' presence on the scene of a blaze before efforts to attack the fire can begin. Two firefighters are allowed to go into the burning structure while the other two firefighters remain outside to handle the peripheral fire. The two outside crewmen are also on-hand in case the two firefighters inside become trapped, injured or endangered.

In Midland, three firefighters are assigned to each engine crew. In essence, a crew's hands

Firefighting needs present obstacle for 'streamlining'

By Stewart Doreen

Just because Midland is currently abiding by the "two in/two out" regulation — which requires Fire Department personnel to enter a burning structure only if at least four department personnel are on the scene — doesn't mean there aren't issues for the City Council to ponder.

Midland Fire Chief Andy Mehl said while the city is in compliance, potential problems loom.

The first is the lack of Fire Department personnel.

"If we don't have four people on the scene at

Texas teachers move up to 26th in pay, but dead last in benefits

By Hillary S. Condon
Staff Writer

Texas teachers have moved up slightly on the national pay ladder, but Midland teachers say the state still has a way to go.

Texas teachers earned an average salary of $38,361 last school year. That's $4,568 below the national average of $42,929, according to figures released by the National Education Association, a group representing teachers.

That bumps Texas up one spot from last year to 26th out of the 50 states. In the 1999-2000 school year, teachers earned an average salary of $37,567, which was $4,135 below the national average of $41,702.

Steve Buck, president of the Midland Federation of the Teachers, said the numbers are Midland firefighters look over a car they had to cut the top off of to get the driver out following a two-car accident Friday morning at the intersection of Cuthbert and Andrews Highway. Fire Department officials said the driver of a van walked away with minor scratches, and the driver of the car suffered a broken arm. Friday night, she was still undergoing evaluation at Midland Memorial Hospital.

FIRE: Despite problems, department following two-in, two-out regulation are tied until at least one additional firefighter arrives on the scene.

Midland Fire Chief Andy Mehl said the department has not changed the way it dispatches crews to fires, but it has found a way to comply with the regulation.

"We're following the two-in, two-out (regulation)," Mehl said. "The only problem is there are not four (firefighters) at every station. We have two engines going out anyway, but they have to wait (to extinguish a fire) until the other engine gets there."

Currently, two or more engines are dispatched to the location of each fire, but before the first engine crew can enter the burning structure, it has to wait for the second engine crew to arrive on the scene. With only three men on each engine, adding one man to each engine would require additional staffing the city cannot afford.

Mehl said an additional man on each shift would come to a need of approximately 30 additional firefighters across Midland.

"We don't currently have the staffing to respond in that way. According to the law, you can't respond or go into a building on fire unless you have at least four people assembled," Mehl said. "It could easily cost the city 30 additional firefighters."

Mehl said the new requirement is unsafe for his men and the people of Midland.

"If we're going to have to wait, it's going to let the fire spread. In my opinion, it's going to put more lives in danger," Mehl said. "The end result is that they put more firefighters and citizens in danger."

Although the Legislature passed the law and Gov. Rick Perry signed it, the measure provides a few exemptions.

"If there is an obvious life that's in danger, then we do not have to follow the law," Mehl said.

The Occupational and Safety Health Administration (OSHA) regulations have been in place since January 1998, requiring the two-in, two-out guideline. Not until Texas Senate Bill 382 was approved were the state's fire departments ordered to meet the requirement.

Texas Fire Commission Public Information Officer Mark Roughton said the organization is still making rules regarding the technical sides of the two-in, two-out process and action to be taken if the compliance is not fulfilled.

"We don't have rules in place to enforce it yet," Roughton said. "At the last firefighter advisory committee meeting, our contact with the Attorney General's Office said localities should comply in good faith. Despite the fact that the commission doesn't have rules in place, doesn't mean they don't have to comply with it yet. Before (as an OSHA ruling), there was never any legal action to enforce it. Senate Bill 382 did that."

Protecting the United States

While cooperation with the two-in, two-out rule remains difficult to abide by in Midland, additional strain faces firefighting administrators as a select few Midland firefighters serve "homeland security" missions under the orders of President George W. Bush as members of the National Guard.

Four firefighters with the Midland Fire Department were called to serve, and the city is required to make their positions available upon the return of the firefighters. This makes their replacement difficult for now, leaving firefighter presence in Midland burdened.

CITY: Need for more firefighters presents problems with trimming budget a structure fire we have to wait before we can go inside. I don't think that will happen a lot, but I know that will happen," Mehl said.

Second is the safety issue. The longer a structure burns the higher the probability of the fire getting out of control and someone getting hurt.

"We don't have enough people where I feel comfortable that we are not putting either the citizens or the firefighters in danger," Mehl added.

The dilemma stems from the new state law — Senate Bill 382 — passed by the Texas Legislature this past session.

Each Council member said protection of firefighters is a top priority.

"We were very surprised this piece of legislation was passed. It falls under the realm of an unfunded mandate. I think it presented a problem for a lot of communities," Midland Mayor Mike Canon said. "Obviously, we will comply and do what we have to do."

The problem is balancing the need for additional personnel and the hope to trim the $100 million city budget.

Mehl has said the city would need to add approximately 30 additional firefighters for an additional person to be added to each shift.

"We will look to do whatever we can to continue to comply, provide a safe environment and an appropriate number of firefighters to get the job done and do whatever we can to keep our expenditures and city finances under control," Canon said.

The city figures each new firefighter would cost an estimated $37,201 in salary and benefits. Multiplied by 30, that is a million-dollar hurdle for the city.

"I feel like I was slapped in the face," said Council member LuAnn Morgan of hearing of the new ordinance and what it could mean to the city.

Ms. Morgan is one of the Council members who has been talking about streamlining City Hall and exploring ways to lower the city's property tax rate.

Canon has said a panel will be put together to look into managed competition and indicate where the city can trim public sector fat, should it exist. The addition of new firefighters could have the city, though, looking for areas to trim just to make up for additional personnel.

"It puts a strain on us," Ms. Morgan said. "Just when you think you are onto a solution, then another problem comes. At the same time it is critical for employees to remain safe. We don't want to sacrifice the safety of employees for sure."

For District 3 Councilman Scott Dufford, the most vocal of all the Council members when it comes to cost management, there is no real issue.

"I don't see where it is a real big problem. We are complying with two-in/two-out right now," Dufford said. "We send a battalion chief, two pumpers, an aerial ladder truck, a fire rescue truck and ambulance to every response. That is 11 people."

"What they would lead you to believe is you have to have more firemen to in order to comply with the law. My thinking is we are already complying with it," Dufford added. "We have added three firemen a year for the last three years, and I don't see where we need additional firemen."

Red Cross benefit

Five Midland businesses will host a Red Cross benefit at 5 p.m. today at Murray's Deli, 3211 W. Wadley Ave.

Murray's, The Fireplace, Reynolds Reproduction Co., The Hemingway and Ski Skeller Sports will be serving barbecue, and 100 percent of the money raised will go to the American Red Cross.

"We are trying to help our neighbors who have had luck not so good as ours," Bart Hotchkiss with The Fireplace said. "This is something we wanted to do. Rather than each of us writing a check out of our business accounts, we decided to make it more than that and put on this feed, basically."

They are asking a minimum donation of $10 a head, "but we are hoping people will step up more than that," Hotchkiss said.

Hotchkiss said the event will last until they run out of food or customers, which ever comes first.

For more information call Murray's at 697-3433.

BUSH: President to meet today with Malaysian prime minister targets. And efforts should hit accurately and also avoid innocent casualties," Jiang said at a joint appearance with Bush.

The remarks reflected the sentiments of many leaders joining Bush at the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation conference, which formally opens today. The APEC leaders are expected to approve a statement against terrorism without mentioning U.S. strikes on Afghanistan.

In what could be a ticklish session, Bush meets today with Malaysian Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad, who recently denounced the Afghanistan raids. "We are against such an attack because I don't think it is going to help in combatting terrorism," Mahathir said.

U.S. officials believe the al-Qaida group of Osama bin Laden, the top suspect in the Sept. 11 attacks in the United States, has been trying to build ties with Islamic militants in Malaysia.

One of the suspected suicide hijackers, Khalid Almihdhar, was shown to be visiting Malaysia early this year, appearing on a surveillance videotape meeting with a suspected bin Laden associate.

Malaysia is one of three Muslim-dominated nations in APEC. Brunei and Indonesia are the others.

Bush also meets today with Sultan Hassanal Bolkiah of Brunei, who expressed sympathy with the United States after the attacks.

Indonesian President Megawati Sukarnoputri, in an Oval Office meeting with Bush after the attacks on Washington and New York, was one of the first foreign leaders to sign up for the anti-terrorism campaign. Upon her return home, under pressure from anti-U.S. political forces, she hardened her stance against bombing.

The Bush-Jiang meeting at a government guest house was conducted around a bed of 1,000 orange roses that separated the leaders by about eight feet. The divide reflected the distance in their personal relationship.

White House aides said the Bush-Jiang relationship, though improved by Friday's session, is not as warm as the one between Bush and Russian President Vladimir Putin. Bush described Putin after their introductory meeting as straightforward and trustworthy. On Friday, Bush did not talk about Jiang in personal terms.

Bush meets Putin on Sunday, capping three days of wartime diplomacy carried out halfway around the world from an American public rattled by anthrax threats.

Bush told reporters he did not know whether foreign or domestic terrorists are behind the anthrax cases. He pledged to prosecute people mailing powder as hoaxes.

"I leave my country at a very difficult time," Bush said. "But this meeting is important because of the campaign against terror" as well as issues of national ties and trade.

Bush was laying out his case against terrorism in an address today to Asian business leaders. Advisers who worked on the text Friday said it would open with the observation that the attackers targeted a symbol of free enterprise when they struck the World Trade Center in New York.

His speech also outlines the economic successes in Asia — 513 percent growth in the gross domestic product of China since 1975; Malaysia's literacy rate cut by two-thirds since 1975; Indonesia's infant mortality rate cut in half since 1980.

Bush planned to challenge APEC leaders: Show the world — enemies and friends alike — that economic progress will continue despite the efforts by terrorists to spread fear across the globe.

The president worked on the speech with aides after meeting with South Korean President Kim Dae-jung. He demanded that North Korean leader Kim Jong Il "prove his worth" and open talks with the United States.

In the Bush-Jiang session, neither man sidestepped their differences.

"The war on terrorism must never be an excuse to persecute minorities," Bush said, an apparent reference to China's treatment of the restive Muslim Uighur population in China's Xinjiang region.

Jiang predicted a bright future for U.S.-Chinese relations so long as the United States sticks to its agreements on Taiwan, an issue that has bedeviled ties off and on for more than 50 years.

PAY: Texas ranked 50th for teachers' benefits

(From 1A)

skewed when all benefits are added.

"We may be 26th if you do just straight averages, but in benefits, we're dead last," he said. "When you combine those two things, we're 37th. That's where we truly fall."

Buck, a former political aide, said the debt in the state budget will make the health insurance and benefit woes of Texas teachers even worse.

"I'll pray for (State Rep. Tom) Craddick every day to find where he's going to come up with the money," he said. "We have a major problem, because we just don't have any money, we need $2.4 billion, and we don't have any money."

Buck said in benefits, Texas ranks 50th out of 50 states.

"You've got to decide," he said. "One minute, we say we want local control, but then we need insurance and want the state to pay for it. We really need to look into doing an entirely new school finance program."

The Texas State Teachers Association said the rise in ranking was good but teachers should be paid at least the national average, which would move Texas up to 15th on the list. The group called on local districts to spend more state funding on teachers' salaries.

Rep. Ignacio Salinas Jr., D-Alice, said he hopes an interim committee studying school finance will look into teacher salaries as well as improving public school funding. Salinas also is TSTA president.

Texas Classroom Teachers Association President Linda Hancock said the local school districts can work harder to stress teachers' needs in the legislative sessions.

"The only thing that local districts can do to make it better is that the superintendent and the school board contact the state legislators and ask them at the next session to once again raise the salaries," she said. "Our salary schedule is set by the state Legislature, and for Texas teachers to earn more, and to become better than 26th, then the state Legislature has to increase our salary schedule."

The Associated Press contributed to this report.

TROOPS: Officials say air assaults to intensify soon

(From 1A)

collection of intelligence. Special forces in southern Afghanistan are supporting the CIA's effort to encourage ethnic Pashtun leaders to break away from the Taliban militia, a U.S. official said Friday.

Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld declined to comment on that.

Rumsfeld did say the United States was coordinating with rebels in northern Afghanistan as well as other anti-Taliban forces.

"There is good coordination from the air with the ground in some places, particularly in the north," Rumsfeld told reporters who flew with him Friday to Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo., to visit with crews of B-2 stealth bombers. "There is not that kind of coordination as of yet in the south."

In a later session with reporters at Whiteman, Rumsfeld was asked whether the war against terrorism would have to be fought in countries outside Afghanistan in order to be successful.

"There's no doubt in my mind," he replied.

Separately, U.S. officials said the air assaults that began Oct. 7 and continued Friday will intensify soon and focus more directly on front-line troops of the ruling Taliban.

Airstrikes resumed early today in Kabul, with at least eight explosions rattling the city from the northeast.

Afghan forces opposing the Taliban are attempting to take advantage of the bombing and are hoping for additional U.S. military assistance. Rumsfeld said Friday the opposition forces known as the northern alliance have asked for and received U.S. aid, including ammunition or money to buy it.

Gen. Rashid Dostum, an ethnic Uzbek warlord who is a northern alliance commander, told The Associated Press on Friday his forces have been holding talks with several U.S. military personnel this week near the city of Mazar-e-Sharif, just south of the border with Uzbekistan, where U.S. forces are stationed.

Dostum said his discussions with the Americans centered on delivering humanitarian aid to Dara-e-Suf, an enclave of opposition resistance south of Mazar-e-Sharif.

U.S. Air Force C-17 cargo planes have dropped more than 500,000 ration packages in Afghanistan, but U.S. officials are hoping to make overland deliveries, which could get more aid to the needy more quickly.

America's special forces

Numbering about 40,000, special operations forces are the most highly trained, specialized, and secretive in the U.S. military. Except for the Marine Corps Force Recon, all special forces are placed under a single command structure.

Special Operations Command (SOCOM)
Officially established in 1987 with its headquarters in Tampa, Fla., SOCOM comprises all the special operations forces of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Although SOCOM is the smallest command in the armed forces, it has global responsibilities and performs the most missions. SOCOM controls its own budget and is the only command that trains, equips, and deploys its own forces.

Army
Includes rapid deployment of lightly armed forces with special skills in unconventional warfare. The Army Special Operations Command has its headquarters at Fort Bragg, N.C., and includes:
- Rangers
- Delta Force
- Green Berets
- Night Stalkers (specialized helicopters)
- Psychological operations

Navy
Units operate in all environments and contribute a unique maritime capability. The Naval Special Warfare Command has its headquarters in Coronado, Calif., and includes:
- SEAL teams (Sea, Air, Land)
- Special Boat Units

Air Force
Includes highly specialized helicopters and aircraft in support of Army and Navy units. Air Force units also conduct search and rescue behind enemy lines. Air Force Special Operations Command has its headquarters at Hurlburt Field, Fla., and includes:
- Special Tactics Squadrons
- Special Operations Wings and Groups

Joint Operations
Located at Fort Bragg, N.C., the Joint Special Operations Command is a multiservice command tasked with standardizing equipment, training and tactics of special forces. Also responsible for counterterrorism, Delta Force, and SEAL Team Six operations.

In lieu of flowers, the family request that memorials be made to Hospice of Midland, Inc., P.O. Box 2621, Midland, TX 79702.

Bobbie Lee Robertson Martin

Bobbie Lee Robertson Martin was born on May 24, 1927 to H.W. and Beulah Robertson in Amity, Texas. She attended North Texas State University in Denton. Bobbie married Marvin Martin on December 20, 1945 in Cisco. She taught school in Timpas, Colorado from 1947 to 1949. Bobbie moved to Zuni, New Mexico in 1949 when her husband worked for the Department of Interior Indian Services. In 1951, Bobbie worked in Santa Fe, New Mexico in the State Library. She moved to Midland in 1953 and was very active in Burnet PTA since 1960. She was awarded the Lifetime PTA membership in 1963-64. She was a devoted volunteer for the PTA and served as the 17th Volunteer PTA President. She was also City Council PTA President in 1970-71. In later years, she was a volunteer at Carver Center, MHS and MARC. At MARC, Bobbie worked as coordinator and started the sitter companion service. Mrs. Martin accumulated 30 years volunteer work for the PTA and MARC.

Mrs. Martin passed away at her Midland home on Thursday, October 18, 2001.

Graveside services have been scheduled for 2:00 p.m., October 20, 2001 at Amity Cemetery. Arrangements are under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

She was preceded in death by her parents, H.W. and Beulah Robertson. Bobbie is survived by her husband, Marvin of Midland; her son and daughter-in-law, Wesley and Sandi Martin of Pampa; her granddaughters, Christi and Kelli Martin of Pampa; her brother, Bill and his wife, Violet Robertson of Arlington; her sister, Peggy Ellen of Odessa; four nephews and numerous cousins; and her Uncle John Robertson of Comanche.

Sharon G. Frysak Lange

Sharon Gail Lange was born March 31, 1952 to August M. and Jerline Debus Frysak. She passed from this life on Thursday, October 18, 2001 in San Angelo, Texas.

She graduated from Garden City High School in 1970, received a bachelor's degree in Business from Angelo State University in 1974 and married Warren Jerome Lange in 1978. Sharon was employed by Shannon Medical Center for several years until 1979. She then became employed by GTE (now Verizon) where she remained until her death. Sharon was active in the Wall Young Homemakers and the 4H club of Wall. She was a member of St. Ambrose Catholic Parish where she taught CCD. She was also a member of the Catholic Daughters there.

Recitation of the Holy Rosary will be 6:00 p.m. Friday at the chapel of Johnson's Funeral Home. Funeral mass will be celebrated 2:00 p.m. Saturday at St. Ambrose Catholic Church with Monsignor Larry Droll officiating. Interment will follow at St. Ambrose Cemetery.

Lange of San Angelo; sons, Dustin, Kendrick and Heath; mother, Jerline Frysak of Garden City; sister, Theresa Frysak of St. Lawrence; brother, Kervin Frysak of St. Lawrence; brother and sister-in-law, Mark and Linda Frysak of St. Lawrence; sister and brother-in-law, Kathleen and Kenneth Schniers of St. Lawrence; mother-in-law, Evelyn Lange of Rowena.

She is also survived by her husband's grandmother, Sarah Halfmann; brother-in-law, Allan and his wife Wanda Lange of Wall; sister-in-law, Jennifer Lange of Grand Prairie, Texas; godchild, Kaycee Schniers; many nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by her father, August M. Frysak and her father-in-law, Jerome Lange.

Pallbearers will be John Schwartz Jr., Leon Braden, Kenneth Braden, Glen Braden, Ron Michulka, Guy Fredieu, honorary pallbearers will be Erwin Schwartz Jr. and Don Campbell.

Family requests memorials be sent to American Diabetes Association, American Cancer Society, Matthiesen Heritage Association Seminarian Burse or Rev. Bernard J. Binversie Seminarian Burse.

L. Dwain Henson

L. Dwain Henson, 79, of Stanton, died on Thursday, October 18, 2001 in the Big Spring Veterans Hospital. Funeral services will be at 11:00 AM Saturday, October 20, 2001 at the Downtown Church Of Christ with Deral McWhorter, minister of Cedar Ridge Church of Christ in Gatesville, Texas, officiating. Interment will follow at Evergreen Cemetery.

He was born on December 6, 1921 in Stanton, Texas. Dwain Henson lived in Stanton almost all of his life, this is the way he wanted it. He was a well-known grocer for many years. He was co-founder of Stanton's Friendly Food Store. He had been ill for several months, but kept his sense of humor to the end. Stanton along with family and friends will be missing a wonderful man.

He was a member of Downtown Church Of Christ, and had served in the United States Army Air Corps from 1942 to 1946 during World War II. Dwain was an avid golfer.

Survivors include a son, Gary Henson of Boerne; a daughter, Brenda Coats of Arcola and five grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his mother, Alta, one brother and three sisters.

The family suggests memorials be made to Volunteer Services of V.A. Medical Center, 300 Veterans Blvd., Big Spring, TX 79720.

Arrangements under the direction of Gilbreath Funeral Home.

Crime of the week

The Midland Police Department is asking for help from anyone with information relating to a robbery at La Quinta Inn located at 4130 West Wall St. on Sept. 28.

According to Sgt. Bill Anderson, the victims in the robbery arrived at the hotel and went to eat. Upon their return, they found their motel room's door pried open, and all of their belongings were gone. Anderson said an unknown number of suspects had even stolen the occupants' ice chest from the room.

Included in the belongings was a gray metal box containing more than $20,000 in jewelry, comprised of diamonds, pearls and opals.

Investigators believe the suspects may have been watching the victims arrive at the hotel before they robbed the room.

Anyone with information regarding the robbery may call Midland Crime Stoppers at 694-TIPS or 1-800-7-LOCKUP. Information leading to the arrest of the suspects in the case are eligible for a $1,000 reward. Information given to Crime Stoppers is accepted on a basis of anonymity, and no caller identification system is used.

Terror attacks bring realignment in U.S. relations with Russia, China

By Tom Raum
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Sept. 11 attacks produced a seismic shift in the earth's political geography, nudging the United States ever closer to old adversaries like China and Russia to win their help for the war against terrorism.

■ News analysis

The reordered landscape was clear in Shanghai on Friday as President Bush and Chinese President Jiang Zemin proclaimed themselves united by a common enemy.

A similar note of harmony in the struggle against international terrorism was expected at a Sunday session between Bush and Russian President Vladimir Putin.

"Not only is the Cold War over, the post-Cold War period is also over," declared Secretary of State Colin Powell, in China with Bush for a 21-nation Asia-Pacific economic conference. "And I think at this time of anxiety, we should see the promise that is before us."

It was not clear how long the new warmth would last, however. Even as Bush and Jiang pronounced themselves side-by-side against terrorism, there were some mutual digs.

Bush said the war on terrorism "must never be an excuse to persecute minorities," apparently alluding to China's crackdown on Muslim separatists in China's far-western Xinjiang region. And Jiang cautioned that the U.S. air war in Afghanistan must be aimed at clearly defined targets to avoid civilian casualties.

Even so, China has already shared intelligence with the United States in the effort to root out terrorists and condoned U.S. air strikes against one of its neighbors. Its leaders have sought to diminish long-standing U.S.-Chinese differences.

Russia, too, has given its strong support to the U.S.-led effort to hunt down Osama bin Laden and his al-Qaida followers.

Putin has offered air corridors to the United States and has provided information on Afghanistan's web of caves and mountain tunnels dating back to the botched Soviet war there. Moscow has also delivered weapons to the anti-Taliban northern alliance and helped the United States gain a footing in the Muslim former Soviet republics that border Afghanistan to the north.

Furthermore, U.S. and Russian officials have been talking about what should happen in Afghanistan once the Taliban is toppled.

Only months ago, such cooperation with Moscow and Beijing might have seemed impossible.

In early 2001, China and the United States were locked in a standoff over the collision of a U.S. surveillance plane and a Chinese fighter jet over the South China Sea. The United States and Russia were quarreling over a spy scandal, Russian military action in Chechnya and its arms sales to Iran.

President Bush's insistence on a U.S. missile defense was raising alarms in both Beijing and Moscow.

But that was then.

"President Jiang and the government stand side by side with the American people as we fight this evil force," Bush said Friday after meeting his Chinese counterpart.

Previewing the upcoming meeting with Putin, Powell praised Russia for deciding to abandon a Soviet-era listening station in Cuba and a naval base in Vietnam. "As part of the new strategic opportunity, there's a new strategic opportunity to work with Russia," he said.

There were even hints that Russia and the United States might soon reach agreement on two major areas of friction: U.S. plans for a missile defense and Russia's objections to expansion of NATO into former Soviet territory. Bush and Putin meet again next month at Bush's ranch in Texas.

"The conventional wisdom prior to Sept. 11 was that we had two big problems on our horizon: mischief-making from Russia and the potential for a major power rivalry with China," said Kurt Campbell, a senior analyst with the Center for International and Strategic Studies. "The tragedy of Sept. 11 has opened the possibility of a major realignment of relations with Russia and China."

New York Post employee, second New Jersey postal worker test positive for anthrax

By Patty Reinert
Hearst News Service

Washington — Anthrax bacteria mailed to Florida, New York and Washington are indistinguishable from one another and have not been ground finely enough to be used in a massive airborne attack, Homeland Security Director Tom Ridge said Friday.

The FBI has traced two anthrax-poisoned letters to the mailbox where they were posted, Ridge said.

He refused to elaborate on the mailbox's location.

"It is an ongoing investigation. ... That's all I can give you right now," he said during a White House briefing.

FBI officials also declined to elaborate. But investigators trying to track the letters, which were addressed to NBC News anchor Tom Brokaw in New York and Senate Majority Leader Tom Daschle in Washington and postmarked in Trenton, N.J., spent the day questioning residents and workers along a mail route in suburban Trenton. The route is the responsibility of a female letter carrier who was diagnosed with anthrax earlier this week.

After weeks of anthrax scares after the Sept. 11 terrorist hijacking attacks that killed more than 5,000 people in New York and Washington, the number confirmed with the disease nationwide climbed to eight on Friday. One of those people has died.

Ridge's announcement that the anthrax used in the recent attacks is not "weapons grade," as previously feared, is good news. It means the anthrax spores have not been manipulated to the point where they could be easily unleashed onto a large population — through a building's ventilation system or from a crop duster, for example.

It also means the spores are not small enough to easily enter the lungs and cause disease, health officials said. In most cases where people were close enough to be exposed to the anthrax, the bacteria spores were clumped together, causing them to lodge in the nose and do no harm.

The disease is not contagious and cannot be passed from one person to another. It is treatable with common antibiotics, including penicillin, but can be deadly if not treated before the flu-like symptoms appear.

Ridge said the fact that anthrax bacteria used in three cities — at a Boca Raton, Fla., tabloid publisher, media outlets in New York and Daschle's office on Washington's Capitol Hill — are the same strain could indicate they initially came from the same natural source, such as from an infected animal.

"It does appear that it may have been from the same batch," Ridge said. "But it may have been distributed to different individuals to infect and descend into different communities."

On Friday, a New York Post employee and a New Jersey postal worker became the latest to test positive for the disease.

New York Mayor Rudy Giuliani and executives at the New York Post announced that a woman whose responsibilities at the newspaper include opening the mail had tested positive for the skin form of anthrax.

The woman, whose name was not released, appeared to have been infected about the same time that workers at NBC, CBS and ABC were exposed.

She initially noticed a sore on her index finger that she mistook for an insect bite. Later, alerted by the other anthrax cases, the woman requested a test. A biopsy result was negative, but results from a blood test were positive, Giuliani said. The woman is responding well to antibiotics, he said.

"She is at work, either recovered or very close to being recovered," he said.

Three other New York Post employees who worked near the woman were tested and those results were negative, health officials said.

The other new victim was a second New Jersey postal worker who was diagnosed with the disease after handling anthrax-spiked letters that were addressed to Daschle and Brokaw.

Health authorities said tests are pending on two other people suspected of having the disease. Both are already taking antibiotics as a precaution.

In Washington, where the U.S. House and Senate were in recess on Friday, no new exposures were reported. In fact, because of false positives on some test results earlier in the week, the number believed exposed to the bacteria fell from 31 to 28. None of those exposed to anthrax here have developed symptoms of the disease.

White House officials, sensitive to any suggestion that it was ill-advised for President Bush to travel to China during the anthrax crisis, said Bush has not ignored the matter while he is abroad attending a summit of Asian nations.

They said the president talked with Ridge three times Wednesday as the president flew aboard Air Force One from Washington to Shanghai and has remained in close contact.

"The president is very well focused on what is going on in the United States," said a senior administration official who accompanied Bush to Shanghai. "In addition to the phone calls, he is getting updates very frequently about the situation, and knows it very, very well; is directing it from here."

Northwest pulls sweeteners from flights after white powder found in two states

EAGAN, Minn. (AP) — Northwest Airlines has pulled artificial sweeteners and powdered coffee creamer from all flights amid concerns about white powder found on two flights.

The carrier removed packets of the powdery substances Wednesday to prevent delays and ease fears amid the anthrax threat, Northwest spokesman Kurt Ebenhoch said Friday.

On Monday, passengers were detained on a jet in Detroit for more than an hour after a white powdery substance — apparently food crumbs — was found.

Also Monday, a substance was found on top of baggage that was being removed from a jet in Burlington, Vt. Tests are pending, but officials said it was unlikely the substance was anthrax. As a precaution, officials recommended antibiotics for passengers and crew.

Sugar and salt are still available aboard Northwest flights, because their crystals are more easily identifiable, Ebenhoch said.

Passengers won't be prohibited from bringing their own sweeteners or powdered creamers aboard, although Ebenhoch said the airline would prefer that they not do so.

Social Security raises will be 2.6 percent next year

By Leigh Strope
Associated Press

Congress has talked a lot about dealing with the rising cost of prescription drugs — which are not covered under Medicare — but so far has done nothing. The Bush administration wanted to promote drug discount cards, but a lawsuit by drugstore owners blocked the program.

WASHINGTON — Social Security recipients will get a 2.6 percent cost-of-living increase next year, about $22 a month for the average retiree. That's down from this year's 3.5 percent raise because inflation has slowed.

Monthly Social Security checks for 45.6 million Americans are adjusted annually to keep rising prices from eroding recipients' income. But dropping energy prices this year have kept inflation low.

The increase is automatic and is tied to changes in the Consumer Price Index, one of the government's chief measures of inflation.

"Inflation continues to be low, which is certainly good news for the elderly and disabled," said Larry G. Massanari, acting commissioner of the Social Security Administration.

But next year's raise "will seem to most people very small, particularly given the health care cost increases they are facing," said John Rother, legislation and public policy director for the AARP, formerly the American Association of Retired Persons.

More than 60 percent of retirees rely on Social Security for more than half their income, the AARP said.

The government also announced Friday that monthly Medicare premiums will increase by $4 a month next year to $54, an 8 percent increase.

The premiums are deducted from most elderly and disabled Americans' Social Security checks for insurance coverage of doctors' office visits. About 40 million older and disabled Americans participate in the program.

The increase, which also takes effect Jan. 1, reflects higher health care costs and is legally mandated. It is not based on the cost-of-living adjustment.

Medicare care costs have jumped a seasonally adjusted 4.8 percent in the past year, fueled by a 7.2 percent increase in hospital services and a 6.8 percent rise in prescription drugs, the Labor Department said Friday.

Congress has talked a lot about dealing with the rising cost of prescription drugs — which are not covered under Medicare — but so far has done nothing. The Bush administration wanted to promote drug discount cards, but a lawsuit by drugstore owners blocked the program.

The terrorist attacks have shifted political attention away from domestic concerns, so it is unclear when the issue could be addressed.

"But these kitchen table concerns have a way of coming back," Rother said. "They are so pervasive. They are what people face every day."

As for Social Security, President Bush has created a commission to recommend a plan later this fall to shore up future funding for the retirement system by letting younger workers invest some of their payroll taxes in the stock market. Social Security is expected to start paying out more in benefits than it collects in taxes by 2016 because of an influx of baby boom retirees. The trust fund is projected to be depleted in 2038.

Starting in January, retirees' average monthly Social Security check will increase from $852 to $874.

The maximum monthly payment for low-income beneficiaries will increase $14 to $545. For a low-income couple, the maximum monthly benefit will increase $21 to $817.

Except for this year's 3.5 percent increase, yearly adjustments have remained at or below 3 percent since 1993. In contrast, double-digit inflation in the late 1970s drove the cost-of-living adjustment to 14.3 percent in 1980.

Social Security also announced that for working Americans, the maximum annual earnings subject to Social Security taxes next year will rise to $84,900 from $80,400. Of the 154 million workers who pay Social Security taxes, only about 10.5 million will be affected by the higher wage base in 2002.

Oregon town has never gotten over its 1984 bioterrorism scare

By Gillian Flaccus
Associated Press

THE DALLES, Ore. — In 1984, followers of the Indian guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh spiked salad bars at 10 restaurants in town with salmonella and sickened about 750 people.

The cult members had hoped to incapacitate so many voters that their own candidates in the county elections would win. The scheme failed, but the episode spread fear in The Dalles and drained the town's economy.

Seventeen years later, there are lots of things this quiet town would like to be known for — its lush cherry groves, its renovated downtown and its grand views of the sweeping Columbia River, among them. But not its role as the site of the first bioterrorism attack in modern U.S. history.

Some townspeople are bothered that the story is being retold as the news media cover the national anthrax scare.

"We didn't ever expect it to raise its ugly head again and it's not good," said Karen LeBreton, a food-poisoning victim who was Wasco County deputy clerk at the time. "For us, in small-town America, it was very overwhelming."

The Dalles, a town of 12,000 people about 80 miles from Portland, is suffering badly in the weak national economy, said Susan Huntington, Chamber of Commerce director. The closing of two aluminum factories and a downturn in the cherry market have cost 700 jobs in the past year, she said.

The renewed publicity about the 1984 poisonings "doesn't exactly make people want to pack up their families and move here," Huntington said.

There was little national attention given to the salmonella poisonings in the years immediately afterward, largely because it occurred in a remote town and was perpetrated by a fanatical fringe group, said Gary Perlstein, a Portland State University professor and terrorism expert.

"They assumed that it would never happen again," said Perlstein, who wrote about the poisonings in his 1991 book "Perspectives on Terrorism."

A brand-new book on bioterrorism, "Germs: Biological Weapons and America's Secret War," devotes an entire chapter to the outbreak.

Some residents say the episode was good preparation for the anthrax threat.

"We lived with that fear on a daily basis," said Sue Proffitt, who was Wasco County clerk in 1984 and was among those who fell ill. "We understand in The Dalles how bioterrorism can happen."

Beginning in 1981, Rajneesh assembled nearly 7,000 followers on a 100-square-mile ranch south of town. The cult members incorporated their commune as a city, created an intimidating police force, stockpiled weapons and took over the city council of nearby Antelope.

The cult plotted to win two of three Wasco County judgeships and the sheriff's office by incapacitating non-Rajneeshee voters in The Dalles.

The cult members had planned to contaminate The Dalles' water supply. The salad bar contamination was a test of the salmonella.

Residents suspected the cult members were behind the poisonings, and went to the polls in droves to make sure they didn't win any of the county positions.

The outbreak cost restaurants hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Dave Lutgens, former owner of Shakey's Pizza Restaurant, said he lost about $300,000 in sales and $165,000 in liability claims when 400 of his customers got sick.

"We were thinking it was dirty employees or hepatitis," he said. "Health inspectors checked all the food and closed the salad bar."

In the months that followed, many residents feared cult members would try to spread the AIDS virus or poison the water.

"People were so horrified and so scared," said Laura Bentley. "People wouldn't go out, they wouldn't go out alone. People were becoming prisoners."

The cult came apart in 1985 and some cult leaders became prosecution witnesses.

In 1986, two leading cult members pleaded no contest to the salmonella poisoning, among other things, and served four years in prison. They then fled to Europe before prosecutors could pursue further charges.

The cult's leader, Rajneesh, was fined $400,000 for immigration fraud and died in India in 1990.

More than 20 other cult members were indicted on charges ranging from immigration violations to concocting a plot — never carried out — to murder a federal prosecutor.

Space station will be No. 1 problem for new NASA chief

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The international space station, NASA's headlining and budget-busting act, will be the No. 1 problem facing the next space agency chief.

NASA Administrator Daniel Goldin, who is quitting next month after a record 9 1/2 years in the job, contends the space agency is better now than when he took over.

Maybe so, but the next space chief still will inherit a dismal situation, according to experts.

Despite all the hype of the past several years, space station Alpha may end up being short-staffed, with a shrunken science agenda, because of cost overruns topping $4.5 billion. No longer is there any money for a habitat module needed to increase the size of the crew from the current three to the promised seven, or for a seven-person lifeboat.

"It's worse than usual because you've got a station program that still needs a lot of changes to get itself under management and budget control," said John Logsdon, a longtime space analyst and director of the Space Policy Institute at George Washington University. "I mean, NASA has been oversubscribed."

It's also an inopportune time for a newcomer because of a cost-cutting movement within NASA to hand over space shuttle and space station operations to private companies. Goldin acknowledges this has caused "angst" within the agency.

But he insists he is not leaving NASA in a lurch. He already has submitted a version of next year's budget and, before he resigns on Nov. 17, will accept the report by an external task force that has spent the past three months looking into the space station's economic morass.

Goldin says there will be no more money for thousands to work on the 20-year-old space shuttle program; instead, he believes money will be funneled toward cutting-edge research and development.

Ever since President Bush took office and Washington's political landscape changed, virtually everyone has anticipated Goldin's departure. He was appointed the ninth leader of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by Bush's father in 1992 and, unlike most, survived the Republican-to-Democrat transition when President Clinton was elected.

When it was clear Bush had won, Goldin promised to stay in the job until a replacement could be found. But the Bush Administration was unable to quickly find a successor, and Goldin grew restless as a lame duck. Last weekend, he decided to resign, just a few days after visiting his hometown of New York City and seeing the carnage of the World Trade Center.

At age 61, he says family, not work, has become his priority. He has accepted an interim position as a senior fellow for the Council on Competitiveness in Washington, but his plan is to get back into private business in Southern California.

He says he will help the Bush Administration find a fill-in until a new space director is chosen and confirmed. He won't speculate on who his successor might be or specific qualities Bush might be seeking.

Anti-Taliban general says his forces coordinating with U.S. in Afghanistan

By Steven Gutkin
Associated Press

MAHMOUD-E-RAQI, Afghanistan — A general fighting with the northern alliance to rid his country of the ruling Taliban said Friday his forces spent the last week with American military officials, in a sign the United States is expanding the level of engagement in Afghanistan.

Gen. Rashid Dostum told The Associated Press that he and a delegation of eight to nine U.S. military personnel have been holding talks near the key city of Mazar-e-Sharif in northern Afghanistan and that a final meeting was scheduled for Saturday.

It was unclear how long the Americans would remain in the area, whether they were part of the special forces the United States acknowledges are operating in Afghanistan, or what their purpose was. But Afghan opposition forces claim to be closing in on Mazar-e-Sharif, which the Taliban now control, and are anxious for U.S. help.

Speaking to an AP reporter in Uzbekistan, Ibrahim Ghafoori, a northern alliance official in Uzbekistan, said the Taliban had sent more reinforcements to Mazar-e-Sharif over the past two days from neighboring provinces. Ghafoori said there was heavy fighting around the city but the Taliban did not gain any ground.

The Taliban first entered Mazar-e-Sharif in May 1997 but were driven out after suffering heavy casualties. The Islamic militia regained the city in August 1998, and a U.N. report issued several months later charged the Taliban with executing thousands of people, many under severe torture.

Dostum would not say whether he had talked about launching a coordinated effort with the Americans to take the city, which is a major hub in northern Afghanistan just south of the border with Uzbekistan, where U.S. forces are now stationed as part of the U.S. anti-terrorism effort.

Capturing Mazar-e-Sharif would allow Afghan opposition forces to control supply routes and consolidate their position near the borders with Tajikistan and Uzbekistan. Humanitarian aid is crossing from Uzbekistan and Tajikistan into Afghanistan, and Tajikistan is a major transit point for Russian weapons being supplied to the northern alliance.

Dostum insisted his discussions with the Americans centered on delivering humanitarian aid to Dara-e-Suf, an enclave of opposition resistance in Samangan province, which lies to the south of Mazar-e-Sharif.

"The main battle for Mazar has not yet begun," Dostum said in a telephone interview.

Dostum, a former communist, leads the Jimbush-e-Milli-Movement. His fighters are mainly ethnic Uzbeks like himself.

It was unclear where Dostum was speaking from. He refused to give his precise location, saying he was in "a strategic position" between Samangan and Balkh provinces. Mazar-e-Sharif is the capital of Balkh province, where the armies of Alexander the Great and later Genghis Khan once did battle.

In Washington, U.S. Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld said Thursday the United States wanted to do everything it could to help anti-Taliban forces within Afghanistan, but he was vague about what that help might be.

"Our effort would be to try to make them successful; to do things that are helpful to them so that they have the opportunity to move forward" toward Mazar-e-Sharif and eventually the capital, Kabul, Rumsfeld said.

Dostum also said there have been small-scale skirmishes at the mouth of the Marmoul Gorge in Balkh province.

"Fighting is in progress right now," he said.

The city's airport, which is visible from the heights of the gorge, was heavily damaged in bombing raids and can no longer be used by the Taliban, Dostum said.

Israel sends tanks into biblical Bethlehem

By Ibrahim Hazboun
Associated Press

BETHLEHEM, West Bank — In one of Israel's biggest incursions into Palestinian territory, the army sent tanks into biblical Bethlehem on Friday, commandeering two hotels for its troops as it stepped up pressure on the Palestinians following the assassination of an Israeli Cabinet minister.

Six Palestinians were killed Friday, including three in the Bethlehem area, Palestinians said. Israelis and Palestinians both appeared to be gearing for further conflict despite international calls to observe an oft-ignored Mideast truce.

Israeli forces have charged into several Palestinian areas in the West Bank over the past two days, and Prime Minister Ariel Sharon's government has suspended contacts with Yasser Arafat's Palestinian Authority. The moves are part of a tough response to Wednesday's shooting death of Tourism Minister Rehavam Zeevi, who was slain by members of a radical Palestinian group that is on the U.S. State Department's list of terrorist organizations.

"We consider this comprehensive Israeli attack an implementation to a war policy against the Palestinian Authority and the Palestinian people," the Palestinian leadership said in a collective statement. The Palestinians said the Israelis were "taking advantage" of Zeevi's killing to "reoccupy more Palestinian land."

Israel sent some 30 tanks and armored personnel carriers into Bethlehem and adjacent Beit Jalla before dawn Friday after Palestinian militants fired on a nearby Jewish neighborhood on the southern fringe of Jerusalem.

Israeli troops fortified their positions Friday, establishing sniper positions on top of two Bethlehem hotels. About two miles away, thousands of Palestinians chanting "Revenge!" marched through the center of the tense town as part of the funeral for three Palestinian militants killed Thursday.

Palestinians packed Manger Square in Bethlehem, next to the traditional birthplace of Jesus, with some militants firing rifles in the air, as the three bodies were brought for the funeral procession.

Atef Abayat, the Bethlehem leader of the Tanzim militia, which is linked to Arafat's Fatah movement, was killed along with two other militiamen in an explosion Thursday evening in his newly acquired sport utility vehicle.

The Palestinians blamed Israel for the blast. The Israelis, who have carried out dozens of targeted attacks against Palestinian militants, had Abayat near the top of their wanted list, saying he was responsible for several fatal shootings of Israelis. However, Israel refused to say if it was responsible for the explosion.

Within an hour of the blast, Palestinian gunmen opened fire Thursday night on the southern Jerusalem neighborhood of Gilo, built on land Israel captured in the 1967 Mideast War. Several hours later, the Israeli tanks rolled into Bethlehem and Beit Jalla to stop the shooting.

Bethlehem, a town heavily dependent on foreign tourists, has been badly hit by the fighting, and many hotels have been shut for months for lack of business. The Israeli troops took over two of the empty hotels — the Paradise and the luxury Inter-Continental — placing tanks in front, soldiers inside, and snipers on the roofs, witnesses said.

Soldiers and Palestinians exchanged periodic gunfire Friday, while youths threw stones, burned tires and pushed trash bins into the street in an attempt to block the Israeli advance. Three Palestinians were killed in the Bethlehem area. One of the victims was a 28-year-old woman, hit in her home by what appeared to be a stray bullet, Palestinian officials said. Israel's army said it was checking the reports.

Three Israeli soldiers were wounded, one seriously, the army said.

Israeli forces have entered Palestinian territory on many occasions during the Mideast fighting, but only rarely have they stayed for more than a few hours. The Israeli positions at the hotels, which are set on normally crowded main streets in Bethlehem, suggested the Israelis could be preparing for an indefinite stay.

Israeli Justice Minister Meir Sheetrit said Israel had no intention of holding on to Palestinian territory but had to "stop Palestinian attacks against Israel."

Israel sent tanks into Beit Jalla on Aug. 28 and held the village for two days, withdrawing after the Palestinians pledged to maintain calm there. The area had been quiet until Thursday.

Russian city recalls deadly anthrax outbreak still shrouded in secrecy

By Sarah Karush
Associated Press

YEKATERINBURG, Russia — On an April morning in 1979, Lazar Karsayev awoke early as usual, drank a cup of tea and walked to work at a ceramics factory. A few hours later, the fit 64-year-old was sent home with what doctors said was a bad cold.

When medics wearing biohazard suits showed up to take him to the hospital the next day, his family suspected something much worse. A few days later, they were taken under police guard to watch Karsayev's coffin — filled with chlorinated lime and sealed in plastic — being lowered into one of dozens of fresh graves at the edge of a cemetery.

Doctors told them he died of anthrax, but nobody told them how or why.

A mysterious outbreak of the disease killed at least 68 people 22 years ago in the Russian industrial center of Sverdlovsk, today known as Yekaterinburg. At the time, neither the victims nor their families suspected they had been hit by a biological weapon.

In 1992, then-Russian President Boris Yeltsin, who in 1979 was Communist Party chief in Sverdlovsk, said in an interview that the outbreak was caused by an accident at a germ warfare laboratory. Until that time, the official explanation had always been infected meat.

The laboratory, known as Military Compound 19, formed part of a network of germ factories in the Soviet Union's biological weapons program, which produced hundreds of tons of anthrax.

The Soviet Union joined the Biological Weapons Convention, banning germ warfare, in 1972. But Russian officials admitted later that Moscow violated the treaty for 20 years.

Despite that admission, the Russian military has never provided details about the Sverdlovsk incident, and a shroud of secrecy continues to hang over it and the still functioning compound where the leak occurred.

"Nobody has ever officially told us that this was from biological weapons," said Karsayev's daughter, Lidia Tretyakova. "Nobody has ever apologized."

No official records are available about the outbreak. The 1979 anthrax cases were skipped entirely in the regional epidemiological service's annual report, said Viktor Romanenko, deputy chief of the service. Karsayev's death certificate lists "infection" as the cause of death, his daughter said.

Details of the incident were first described in a 1994 article by Harvard's Matthew Meselson in the journal Science. Meselson and his co-authors found that most of the 77 known patients lived and worked in the southern part of the city, near Military Compound 19, and concluded the outbreak was caused by a spray of anthrax spores originating at the compound.

The leak is assumed to have occurred in the early hours of April 2, about two days before people began getting sick.

"All those who fell ill were people who, for one reason or another, had been outside at night or in the early morning," Romanenko said. Some, like Karsayev, were not outside, but in factories with ventilation systems that sucked in outside air.

Romanenko said he and his colleagues noticed the pattern immediately, but were not free to say so.

Following the official line, local public health officials took meat samples for testing and cracked down on butchers. But they also took measures to prevent the spread of the disease through the air.

In a neighborhood of wooden one-story houses next to the sprawling and heavily guarded Compound 19, residents recalled how immediately after the outbreak, their dirt roads were paved and the roofs and walls of their houses were washed.

"Nobody told us what was going on," Yelena Klyuchagina said. "We just saw these people in masks washing our houses. There was no information."

Cases of human anthrax occurred only a few miles from the compound. But the bacteria had traveled in smaller concentrations into outlying villages, where it killed animals.

Alexandra Sankova, her husband and nine children were quarantined in their house for a month during the outbreak.

"Our ram died of anthrax, so they isolated us," said the 75-year-old resident of Bolshoye Sidelnikovo, a village about 12 miles from Yekaterinburg. "People brought us food because we were not allowed out."

In Sverdlovsk, Tretyakova and her family were vaccinated and treated with antibiotics.

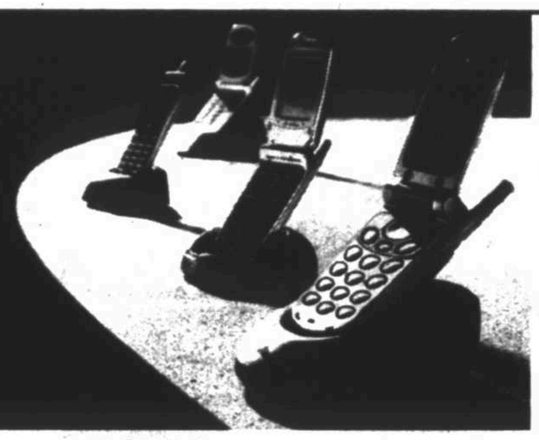

"They told us that all of us who had contact with him would also die," she said. "Not even our relatives came to see us."

Rebels fall to Abilene Cooper, 29-22

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

ABILENE — If this was ultimately the vaunted game for the District 4-5A football championship, then Midland Lee can count turnovers as the title demise.

The Rebels turned the ball over seven times (five lost fumbles and two interceptions) to lose to the No. 10 state-ranked Abilene Cooper Cougars, 29-22, at Shotwell Stadium Friday night.

Still, even with the Christmas wrapped gifts for the Cougar offense, this game had six lead changes and enough emotion smashers to fill a season.

"Well, it wasn't pretty, but it felt pretty," said Cooper coach Randy Quisenberry. "I said our defense would have to come up with some big plays to win this game. Well, they did come up with the big plays, but we couldn't do much with most of them. It was a strange game.

"I don't know if I can take another game like this. That's two weeks in a row and I feel like we're in for another war next week with Midland High. I told our kids that we're 2-0, but that Odessa High was 2-0 last year and didn't go to the state playoffs."

Cooper went up 29-22 on a field goal by Matt Uselton with 9:16 left to play. Lee had two possessions in which to tie this thing up, but had to punt once and the game ended much like the game had been played. Lee quarterback Cole Sampson threw an interception to Cooper's Marcevic Ralston on fourth-and-12 at the 47-yard line to end any comeback hopes. Ralston had a big game with a rushing touchdown, a 57-yard TD on a fumble recovery and the interception.

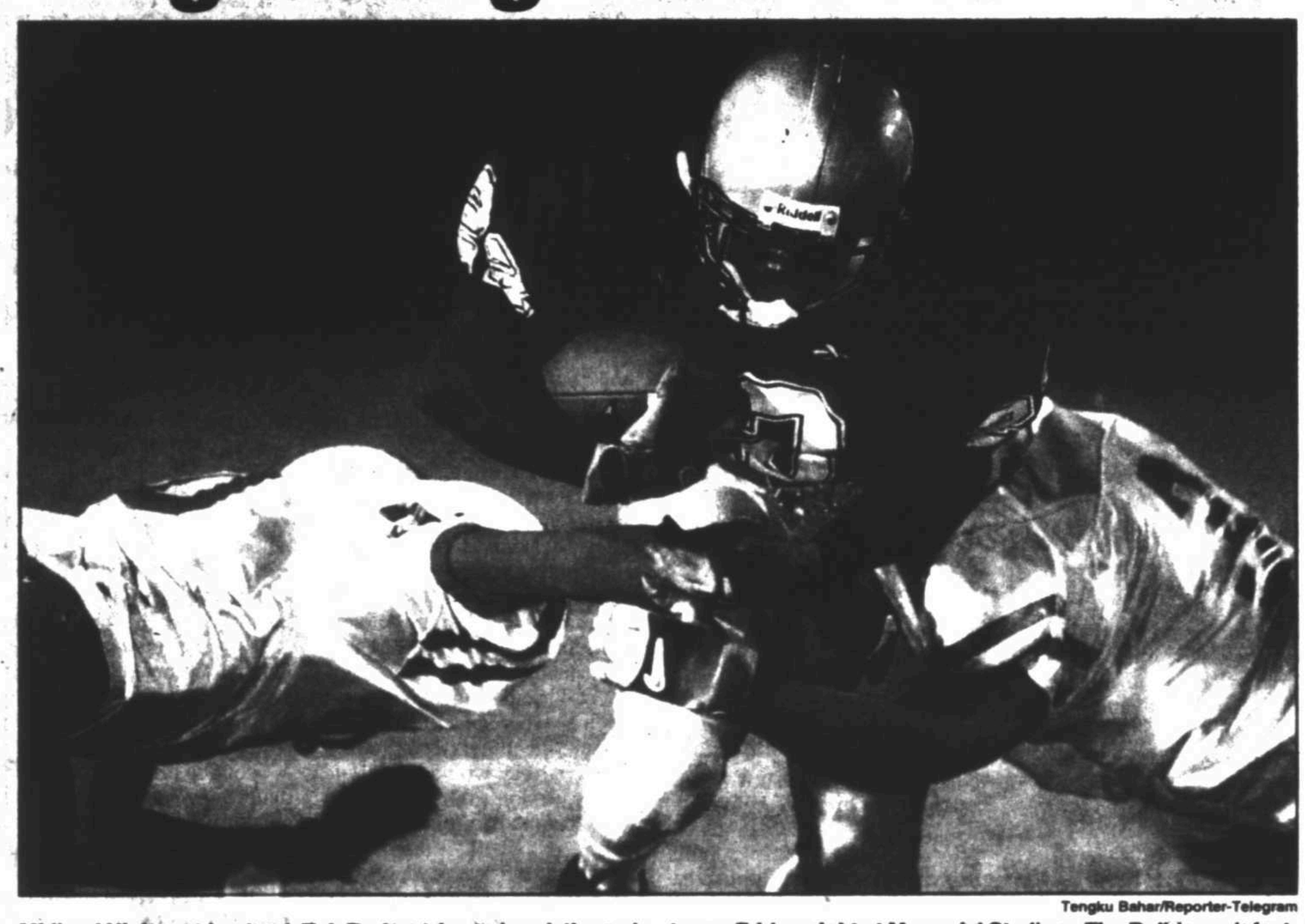

Lee coach John Parchman was hurting after the win, but remained positive.

"I feel bad for these kids," Parchman said. "They really picked each other up all night, time after time when things went bad. We may have lost this game, but we grew up as a team.

Bulldogs bust loose for 16-13 district victory over Odessa High

By Lee Passmore

It came down to the final 12 minutes at Memorial Stadium Friday night to determine if Midland High or Odessa High would either have a chance to make a statement in the District 4-5A playoff race or be forced to play out the string.

M
Midland High 16
Odessa High 13

On the first play of the fourth quarter, the Bulldogs got the answer they were seeking.

Midland High safety Herb City picked off Odessa High quarterback Travis Young at midfield and returned the ball deep into OHS territory. That set up MHS kicker James Gripp's third field goal of the night from 29 yards, breaking a tie and eventually giving the Bulldogs their first district victory, 16-13.

With both teams entering the game having lost their district openers, it was as close to a must-win situation as the Bulldogs (4-3 overall, 1-1 in district) or Bronchos (2-5, 0-2) could face. Now Midland High knows heading into next week's game at district co-leader Abilene Cooper that it has something to play for.

"I think there's no question that these kids stepped it up in the fourth quarter," said MHS coach David Browning. "Things were really looking bleak at one point."

During the third quarter, the Bulldogs seemed to let the game slip away. After taking a 13-6 lead at halftime, they botched a field goal attempt which would have stretched their lead to 10 points, then fumbled in punt formation to set up the Bronchos deep in MHS territory.

City

Gripp

One play after MHS punter Cody Baker couldn't handle the snap, and was eventually smothered at his own 18-yard line, Young hooked up with Brad Fox for their second scoring pass of the game, which tied it 13-13.

When the teams changed ends to start the fourth quarter, Odessa High had the ball at the Midland High 48 and appeared to have momentum. But when Young looked to the right side of the field, City stepped in front of a receiver and picked off the throw, returning it 24 yards to the OHS 30.

"We were in a man coverage on that play and I just followed my guy," said City. "I thought I had a really good chance to make the play out there in the flat."

Just as important as City's reaction was his return. He ran up the sideline for about five yards before cutting back toward the center of the field and looked as if he had a chance to take it back all the way.

City returned an interception 70 yards for a score against Lubbock Monterey earlier in the season, and he was thinking along that line against Odessa High.

"I was trying as hard as I could to score," said City. "I knew a guy was on my back but I carried him for awhile."

The Bulldogs were probably in good enough shape to break the tie right then and there considering that Gripp kicked first half field goals of 36 and 41 yards which looked as if they both might have been successful from about 20 yards further away. Midland High moved to the OHS 12, and with 9 minutes, 45 seconds left in the game, Gripp's field goal gave the Bulldogs the lead.

After suffering a stress fracture in his right (kicking) foot last fall, and still being an integral part of Midland High's run to a state baseball championship, Gripp sat out the first five weeks of the season and

Schilling's strong start helps Arizona take 2-1 series lead

By Ben Walker
AP Baseball Writer

ATLANTA — Curt Schilling blew away the Atlanta Braves with his pitching, then bowled them over with his baserunning for good measure.

Schilling put another glittering start on his growing postseason resume, and the Arizona Diamondbacks beat the Braves 5-1 Friday night for a 2-1 lead in the NL championship series.

Coming off two complete-game wins over St. Louis in the first round, Schilling mixed a 98 mph fastball and a sharp splitter in pitching a four-hitter and striking out 12.

Schilling also added a bit of rough 'n tumble on the bases, knocking down catcher Javy Lopez on a play at the plate during a three-run fifth inning.

Atlanta totally fell apart in the field during that game-breaking burst, forgetting to cover bases and failing to catch the ball.

At least the Braves did not hear a lot of boos from their fans, and there was a good reason. The crowd of 41,624 at Turner Field was about 9,000 short of a sellout, leaving the ballpark atmosphere not nearly as juiced as it has been for the ALCS between Seattle and the Yankees.

"The fact that they've drawn so well during the regular season is what makes this so difficult for me to understand," said commissioner Bud Selig, who was in attendance.

Steve Finley drove in three runs and Craig Counsell, reprising his role as a playoff star, had three hits and a key sacrifice bunt against losing pitcher John Burkett.

Greg Maddux, winless in his last nine starts, will try to get Atlanta even when he pitches on three days' rest Saturday night in Game 4 against Albie Lopez.

Another loss would put the Braves in an extremely precarious position. Randy Johnson, who seems to have found his postseason rhythm, is scheduled to start Game 5 for Arizona.

With Schilling in command, Johnson and the other Diamondbacks pitchers had little to do on this night. The Big Unit applauded in the dugout when Schilling fanned pinch-hitter Dave Martinez to strand a pair of runners and preserve a 5-1 lead in the seventh.

Schilling is 3-0 this postseason with an 0.67 ERA after leading the majors 22 wins. He's 4-1 lifetime in the postseason and was the MVP of the 1993 NLCS with Philadelphia.

He did not allow a hit until Marcus Giles led off the fourth with a double. One out later, Chipper Jones grounded an RBI single under the glove of diving shortstop Tony Womack.

Greenwood defense shuts out Seminole

By Stewart Doreen

GREENWOOD — There was a possibility the Greenwood football team would be doing some peeking ahead Friday night. Seminole left J.M. King Stadium knowing that never happened.

The Rangers had their eyes on the Indians long enough to build a 31-0 lead 18 minutes into the game and ran away with this District 3-3A game, 38-0.

The Rangers, which still have key 3-3A road contests in Lamesa and Denver City to deal with, took care of business as senior running back Brandon Audas rushed for 236 yards and three touchdowns and the Ranger defense posted its fifth shutout of the season.

"It has been pretty hard not to peek," said Greenwood head coach Bob Purser of the remaining three games on the district schedule which includes a home game with Brownfield sandwiched in between the road games. "We thought we had a good chance to get to this point, and the whole district is in front of us now. We have three games we got to win to get into the playoffs. That has been the goal all year."

And make no mistake about it — a possible district title is also still up for grabs. The Rangers are 6-1 overall and 2-0 in 3-3A.

"I think they are definitely a contender for the district championship, no question about it," said Seminole head coach Army Salinas, who can compare at least two of 3-3A's top three teams. His squad was shut out last week by Denver City, 28-0. "Every team is different, but this team (Greenwood) probably has the most speed we have faced all year long. We had a hard time containing their speed, not to mention the fact they are a well-coached team."

Greenwood also showed no problems landing the knockout punch early. Up 3-0, Greenwood's Cody Hollums intercepted a Seminole pass to give the Rangers the ball on the Indians' 25. One play later, Audas scored for the first time on the evening.

Two series later, Greenwood again got the ball in Seminole territory, and again, the Rangers capitalized quickly. This time, it

RANKIN — The sixth-ranked Iraan Braves proved just how good they are Friday night by dominating the 10th-ranked Rankin Red Devils, 36-0, on the Red Devils' own field.

Jared Jennings, one of Iraan's two quarterbacks, ran for two touchdowns and threw for another as the Braves rolled up 346 yards on Rankin.

Even more importantly, Iraan stifled Rankin's offense, allowing no first downs in the first quarter. Rankin was limited to 76 yards of total offense in the game.

While Iraan scored on three of its first five possessions, Rankin totaled minus-4 yards on its first five possessions. Rankin never got past the Iraan 43-yard line in the first half, and it didn't get past the Iraan 22 in the game.

"They're a well-balanced team," Rankin coach Jeff Butts said. "By that I mean that they're good on offense, good on defense and

Lady Mustangs host playoff match

By Jay Peden

The Midland Christian volleyball team started playing matches way back on Aug. 14, but the season didn't really begin until after Sept. 4.

That's when the team hit rock bottom, getting whipped by two teams in a dual match. The next day, though, the Lady Mustangs began a climb that resulted in the TAPPS District 1-4A championship, a perfect record in district for the first time in the program's history and a home playoff match against Austin Hyde Park at 11 a.m. today. And that's just so far.

"We got beat bad by Bronte and Colorado City," said MCHS coach Penny Wasem, who is in her first year at the school. "It was a long bus ride home. The next day, we didn't even practice. We didn't even touch a ball. We did team building, and we found out what our foundations would be.

"The groundwork for these girls is that God is first in their lives," Wasem said. "We put the focus back on God, not on me (the new coach). We found out what our strengths were and how each girl was vital to the team, and we just started to play. The girls began to realize that they

Jackalopes drop opener

Staff Report

ODESSA — It wasn't exactly the good start the Odessa Jackalopes were hoping.

In the season opening game in the new Central Hockey League, The Jacks lost to rival New Mexico and head coach Tony Martino, 4-1, Friday night at the Ector County Coliseum.

The Jacks' only score came in the second period when Mike Sanderson scored a power play goal on assists by Scott Hillman and Don Margettie.

But other than that goal, the Jacks were just one of eight on power play opportunities against the Scorpions.

The Scorpions jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first period by outshooting the Jacks 19-9.

Joe Harris started in goal for the Jacks and he saved 35 of the 39 shots by the Scorpions.

The Jacks return to action at 7 p.m. today when they host the Fort Worth Brahmas. After the game, red, white and blue jerseys worn by the Jacks will be auctioned with proceeds going to the New York Relief Fund.

DISTRICT 4-5A

Abilene 24, Permian 17

ODESSA — Two extremes came out of Friday's District 4-5A game between Abilene High and Odessa Permian, as Abilene High won 24-17 to go unbeaten in district while Permian stayed winless in 4-5A.

The Eagles (5-2 overall, 2-0 in district) used the big play, as quarterback Marcus Johnson threw a pair of long scoring passes of 61 yards to Jerale Badon and 65 yards to David Willis. That mitigated an outstanding ground effort by Permian (4-3, 0-2), which had two runners over 100 yards in Jayson Dorman (117 yards) and quarterback David Durell (112 yards and both Permian touchdowns).

David Salas led Abilene High defensively with two interceptions, including one he returned 20 yards for a touchdown in the first quarter.

MUSTANGS: Team has 21-8 record

were good passers and awesome servers.

"We talked about commitment," Wasem said. "I was saying, 'Those who stay committed reap the benefits in the end.' We were saying that before Sept. 4, but we didn't believe it."

It was probably only natural that the team needed some time to come around. Although MCHS has a strong program, with four straight TAPPS playoff appearances entering the season, only three girls returned from last year's 24-6 team. And there was a new coach. Wasem, who had moved with her family from Alaska not long ago, was tapped for the job when Kathi Hutton stepped aside after 11 seasons (Hutton is still teaching at the school).

"All I heard was that it would be a long season," Wasem said. "There were no expectations."

So the Lady Mustangs built their own expectations, finishing District 1-4A play at 6-0. They carry a 21-8 record into today's playoff match.

Wasem seems genuinely grateful at the way things have turned out, with the way the players had adjusted to her and accepted her.

"I could give the same information to a different group of girls, and they probably wouldn't take it," she said. "What's happened to this team is so well deserved. What they went through, with a completely different personality from Kathi Hutton at the helm. I love her, but — I've heard — we're way different."

The Lady Mustangs are not the kind of team that will impress anyone when they get off the bus. Haley McMinn is probably the tallest player at 5-foot-8, Wasem estimates. The Lady Mustangs get by on smarts and hustling defense.

"Mental toughness is the key to our team, and we love adversity," Wasem said. "We don't match up well. Sometimes, if you look at the other team, you'd think that they would annihilate us, but we don't think that. You don't have to be a big banger to win at volleyball. It starts with defense... and we're definitely gifted in that department."

Wasem also cites passion and good serving as important weapons. The Lady Mustangs have been averaging 15 aces per match, Wasem said. She declined to provide individual statistics.

The team is led by junior Hayley Whiteside at middle blocker — one of the holdovers from last year. The others are seniors, setter Lauren Lary and outside hitter Amy Lowery.

Junior Melissa Patton also sets in the team's 6-2 offense. The other outside hitters are juniors Coleen Cosner and Breann Legendre. McMinn, a freshman, is the middle blocker when Whiteside rotates to the back; when McMinn rotates to the back, she is replaced by defensive specialist, either sophomore Kendyl Washburn or senior Kelli O'Neal. Sophomore Melissa Donnell comes off the bench to play the middle. Freshman Nikki Davis has been added to the roster for the playoffs.

Scouting private schools is difficult, and Wasem knows nothing about Austin Hyde Park, she said. But there is a silver lining to that.

"I'm kind of glad that I don't know much about them," she said. "I just want our kids to be fundamentally sound and be ready to anticipate different things that come our way."

Stadium plans for Cowboys under review

Associated Press

FORT WORTH — New stadium plans for the Dallas Cowboys that would include a sports and entertainment complex are under review for the Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport area.

Team owner Jerry Jones said Thursday he will meet formally with Grapevine officials next week to discuss building a new home for the team near the airport's north end.

Private presentations to other cities, including Arlington and Irving, were also planned before the month's end, Jones said.

The Cowboys have played at Texas Stadium since 1971 and Irving officials have been trying to keep them there.

But Jones said Grapevine's proximity to the airport, its location midway between population bases in Fort Worth and Dallas, and its access to major highways are advantages.

"Location is significant," Jones said.

Frenship escapes Andrews with 20-17 win

By Evan A. Pierce
MRT Correspondent

ANDREWS —Despite a desperate comeback from the Andrews Mustangs, the Frenship Tigers held on Friday night for a 20-17 victory.

"We played a heck of a first half," Frenship coach Bobby Davis said. "The third quarter almost got us."

The Tigers sprinted out of the gates with flawless football play, scoring on every drive of the first quarter. Frenship (5-2 overall, 3-1 in District 4-4A) ran the ball at will and came up with big defensive plays. That success was short lived and slowly they began to run out of gas.

"At first they (Tigers) were just ready to play," Davis said. "We lost last week in a heartbreaker and they wanted to win."

Offensive momentum started to trickle away in the second quarter as Andrews finally stumbled out of the blocks. With only a field goal to show in the first half, it appeared that the damage had already been done and the Mustangs were about to close up shop.

"At halftime I told them to get the ball, go down the field and score on the first drive after the half, and we did it," Andrews coach Mike Lebby said. "They did a much better job blocking and tackling in the second half."

With 17 points in their way, the Mustangs toughened up their defense and started moving the ball. Relying on clever play calling and a strengthening passing game, Andrews hit full stride in the second half.

After quarterback Ryan Newbrough connected with Matt Gardner for a 16-yard touchdown in the last seconds of the third quarter, Andrews struck again with a surprise onside kick recovery that landed them in Tiger territory. Seconds later Matt Gardner threw a touchdown pass of his own to receiver Jason Glasson on a fullback pass. Now within three (20-17), the Tigers appeared to have their backs to the wall. But like any wild animal, they kept fighting and came out on top.

With mere seconds left in the game and Andrews driving down the field for one last shot at victory, Frenship linebacker Jeff Harris came up with an interception to seal the victory.

"They're a good team and a class act," Davis said. "This is the biggest win of the year."

The Andrews Mustangs (3-4, 2-2) are facing elimination from the playoffs with another loss.

"If we don't win big next week, we'll be out," said Lebby.

LEE: Rebels host Permian next week

(From 1B)

"As far as all of the turnovers, I can't explain that. Some of them are just unexplainable. We don't ever do that even in practice. If we come out Monday hurting and not pointing fingers at each other, we can grow from this. That's the challenge I gave the kids after the game."

Lee might have been a little miffed at the half after four turnovers (an interception and four lost fumbles), but at the same time had to thank its lucky stars for owning a 15-13 lead at the intermission.

Lee got on the scoreboard quickly when Tim Norman returned the opening kickoff to the Cooper 12-yard line where Freddie Jones scored on two carries for a 7-0 lead with only 55 seconds gone on the clock.

However, it would get tougher. Cooper scored on its next two possessions to take a 12-7 lead in the first period as if the Lee defense didn't exist. The first drive covered 70 yards with Marcevie Ralston getting the last eight and then Cooper turned in a Cole Sampson interception into another TD. Cooper's Baron Martin got the pick of Sampson at the Lee 33 and Brandon Diles covered that distance in two plays.

Lee gave up a fumble on its next possession, got to the Cooper 18 on the next, and fumbled on the next two. But Cooper didn't take advantage of any of the Lee three fumbles. Lee's Michael Skinner blocked a Matt Uselton field goal try from 29 yards out and had to punt on the other two.

That gave Lee some room and the Rebels marched 69 yards in 10 plays to kill the half and take the lead at 15-14 when Jacobe Kendrick crashed in from the seven and Jones ran in a two-point conversion.

Lee pulled off its Duncanville Special (onside kick) to open the third quarter and Drew Winston recovered. Lee is now 2-0 with that stunt. But a fumble made the magic disappear as Ralston picked it up and with 57 yards for the score, But Lee came back for a 22-19 lead when Kendrick romped 30 yards on a great block by fullback Shawn Murphy to give Lee a 22-19 lead, its last of the night.

The Cougars had seen enough. They went to the ground and Brandon Diles. Diles ended the night with 145 rushing yards and two touchdowns and led Cooper's last TD drive, carrying four times and catching two passes.

"We felt like we had to run the ball more in the second half and try to keep the ball away from Lee," Diles said. "So, we ran the ball. I can tell you that district play has really been fun so far. It's fun playing in games like this."

Lee had 322 yards rushing with both Kendrick (146) and Jones (139) breaking the 100-yard barrier.

"We did go with the run in the second half," Quisenberry said. "We just felt like we had to keep Lee off the field and we had some success in that area. I can tell you that we never expected turnover after turnover from the three-time defending state champions. I hate to think where we would be if they hadn't had so many turnovers."

Lee now falls to 4-3 for the season while Cooper is 7-0. Lee is 1-1 in district play and will host 0-2 Odessa Permian next Friday. 4-5A is now all Abilene as Abilene High went to 2-0 Friday with a win over Permian.

MHS: Gripp kicks three field goals

returned to the team last week, although he didn't have a chance to be a factor in a 26-0 loss to Abilene High.

"I was just glad to get the opportunity," said Gripp, who scored 10 points on the evening. "I had all this extra adrenaline flowing and I really hadn't had it in a long time."

On the ensuing possession, the Bulldogs forced Odessa High to punt and got the ball back at their own 30. They wouldn't give it up again.

MHS stuck entirely to the ground, bulling deep into OHS territory as the Broncho defense reeled. Most impressive was that the Bulldogs did this damage with only one carry by leading rusher T.J. Barber, who had a game-high 76 yards and give MHS a 7-0 first quarter lead on a 58-yard scoring run.

Barber was hobbled by turf toe but fullback Wade Koehl (63 yards on 13 carries) and Barber's replacement Michael Smith took care of things to help kill the clock.

"I was real pleased with the way our tandem backs responded on that last drive," said Browning. "(The OHS defense) gave us a two linebacker defense from the beginning and it just opened up."

With under two minutes remaining in the game, the Bulldogs ran what appeared to be an ill-advised reverse as Zack Sledge lost 12 yards back to the OHS 23, and the Bronchos looked as if they would get the ball back. But OHS linebacker Justin Jorgensen was flagged for a late hit, giving the Bulldogs a first down, and they were able to run out the clock.

A dark cloud to the victory was that the Bulldogs suffered 86 yards in penalties, but Browning found a silver lining in that.

"That's what's been missing with this team is emotion, but that really tickled me to death to see them play with emotion tonight," said Browning.

RANGERS: Seminole offense rushes for 22 yards, passes for 96 yards took two plays — a 24-yard scamper from quarterback Brandon Smith and a 16-yard burst from sophomore running back Jeremy Audas.

Another Seminole mistake — a muffed punt — gave Greenwood more advantageous field position, and in familiar fashion, the Rangers made the Indians pay. This time, it took three plays from 19 yards out, capped by a 7-yard run by Jeremy Audas, who finished the night with 60 yards and two scores.

On the next series, Seminole committed another mistake as Greenwood defensive back Frankie Barela intercepted Seminole quarterback Austin McBee. Continuing the theme of the first 18 minutes, Greenwood capitalized quickly. The big blow was Brandon Audas' second score of the half — a 55-yard touchdown run. On the play, Audas started inside, broke a couple Seminole tackles, broke the play left toward the Greenwood sideline and outran the Seminole secondary.

With 9:04 left in the second quarter, Greenwood led 31-0. During this stretch, the Rangers forced two turnovers and outgained the Indians, 183-5. During the course of the entire game, Seminole earned a meager 22 yards rushing and 96 passing.

"They have a lot of speed," Salinas said, "and you've heard the expression — 'If you don't have it (speed), you are chasing it' — and we spent most of the night chasing it."

In the fourth quarter, Greenwood found the end zone for the final time, as Brandon Audas ended a nine-play, 85-yard drive with a 9-yard score.

For the game, the Rangers totaled 425 yards on the ground. Purser thought the effort was a good one, but said his team was "unfocused" at times, probably referring to the latter portion of the second quarter and during a scoreless third quarter.

"We are hitting and missing some," Purser said. "We have to get things right before next week or we will be in trouble."

Greenwood Notes: Greenwood coach Bob Purser is (5-3) against Seminole... The Rangers travel to Lamesa next week... Greenwood was a 33-point favorite going in, according to Harris Ratings system for high school football...

Pair nominated for bowl game

Midland Lee's Eric Winston and Midland Christian's Jamie Beeghley are two of nearly 400 athletes nominated to play in the Second Annual U.S. Army All-American Bowl, a national high school football all-star game.

The game will be played at the Alamo Dome in San Antonio on Jan. 5. The game is modeled after the McDonald's All-American Basketball game. The contest will pit the best football players from across the country in a classic East versus West Showdown. The game will be televised live at noon on ESPN2.

Winston is a standout tight end at Lee, while Beeghley is a standout quarterback at Midland Christian.

Tom Lemming of Men's Health 18 Magazine said of Winston, "Eric Winston's ability to run with the ball is amazing. He runs good routes and can surprise a defense with his speed. Winston is proving to be not only a great receiver but also one of the top blocking tight end's in the nation."

Of Beeghley, Lemming said, "Jamie shows great mechanics, a strong arm, terrific quickness and leadership. He is a strong passer who can run."

Over the next few weeks, team selections will be conducted and two teams comprised of the top 35-40 players each from across the country will be finalized by the end of November. Coordinating the selection process is Lemming, a well respected evaluator or prep football talent and contributor of ESPN Sports and USA Today.

Marriott Marquis new home of Heisman Trophy

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The Heisman Trophy presentation has been moved from the Downtown Athletic Club to the New York Marriott Marquis because of damage to the building in the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

The building, located a few blocks from the World Trade Center site, wasn't seriously damaged but the elevator system was declared unsafe. Jim Corcoran, president of the DAC, said Friday that the elevators should be fixed by the Dec. 8 ceremony honoring college football's top player, but the club would be hard-pressed to prepare the 71-year-old building for Heisman Trophy-related events scheduled for Dec. 7-10.

It will mark the first time in 67 years that the trophy will be presented somewhere other than the Downtown Athletic Club.

"While the damage to the building is something that should be easily repaired in time, we do not feel that we can adequately have the club ready for an event of this magnitude by Dec. 8," Corcoran said.

Eleven DAC members were among the victims of the attacks. Five members who died worked at Cantor Fitzgerald LP, a bond-trading firm that lost about 700 employees.

PGA Tour rookie takes Disney Classic lead

Associated Press

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (AP) — Kaname Yokoo is in position to be the next Japanese player to make a name for himself in America.

Yokoo, a PGA Tour rookie after making it through qualifying school last year, had a 7-under 65 on Friday and wound up with a one-stroke lead over Jerry Smith at the halfway point of the National Car Rental Classic at Disney World.

The 29-year-old player doesn't have the flashy smile of Shigeki Maruyama and doesn't wear outrageous cowboy hats like Shingo Kayatama. He certainly doesn't have their credentials, at No. 186 in the world ranking.

But he has the lead at 13-under 131, and now gets to experience what it's like to have Davis Love III, David Toms, Vijay Singh and Tiger Woods on his heels.

"By Sunday, he might be caught up to me," Yokoo said of Woods, who had a 67 and was five strokes out of the lead.

The cut was 5-under 139, the lowest in the 23 years of play at Disney.

Yokoo, who has won each of the past three years on the Japanese tour, secured his PGA Tour card for next year with a tie for sixth in the Texas Open three weeks ago.

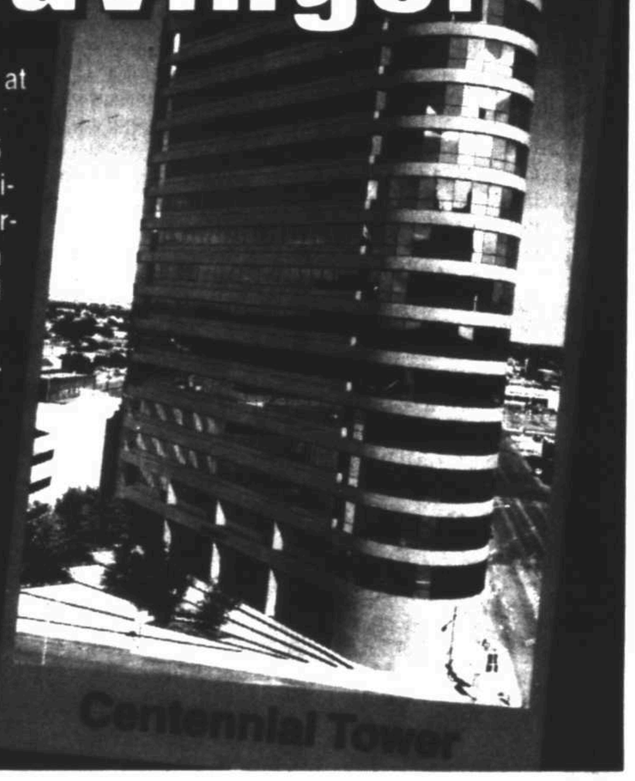

He will be paired Saturday with Smith, a 37-year-old from Iowa who is 120th on the money list and is grinding to finish the year in the top 125 on the money list.

"You're always sort of aware, and everybody asks you about it," Smith said after his second straight 66. "I've really tried to just say, 'Hey, I don't care what happens.' It has played out very well for me. I've gotten myself back into the number, but I've got three weeks left. There are only 125 guys that are going to stay."

What Could You Do With No Car Payments For 1 Year?

ASK ABOUT 0•0•0!

Have extra money for Christmas this year, and next year! • Pay off some of those credit cards • Finally put some money in your savings account • Get a hotel room for your in-laws once a month for the next year, and still have money left to take them to dinner • Get that landscaping done • Improve your wardrobe, not that you need it • Let your spouse go on that shopping spree to Dallas • Plan a trip to Las Vegas • That land you've been wanting? Go get it. • Make more contributions to your favorite charities • Have money to give the Salvation Army Bell Ringer this year • Say "Lunch is on me" more often • Get the updates to your computer software • Redecorate the bedroom, or the kitchen, or the living room, or all of them • Go ahead, start that IRA • You could fill your new Montero, Eclipse, or Galant for 2 or 3 years with gas • Increase your life insurance amount • Get rid of any past due bills you may have • Debt? What debt? Finally pay off those credit cards • Go somewhere every weekend for the next year - and stay in a hotel this time • Buy all the camping gear for that great family expedition into the great unknown, or the local lake • Buy those jet ski's you've been eyeballing and live at the lake every weekend for the whole summer • Buy all those computer/playstation games you've been wanting • Start a new hobby -- start several new hobbies • Have a home stereo system that is the envy of all your friends • Cable TV or Satellite? Both! • Buy tickets this year to the charity fish fry -- so you don't have to cook • That kid who comes to your door selling candy? This year, buy some • You know you've always had an eye for art. Go buy a painting. • You've had those dishes since you were married. Maybe it's time for a new set • Start saving up for that anniversary trip • Give regular allowances to the kids? Nah!

Stacy Compton climbs out of his car after claiming the pole Friday for Sunday's NASCAR EA Sports 500 at the Talladega Superspeedway in Talladega, Ala.

Second-year driver takes pole for EA Sports 500

Associated Press

TALLADEGA, Ala. — Stacy Compton grabbed his second Talladega Superspeedway pole of the season Friday and gave Dodge a sweep of the top qualifying spots at NASCAR's two restrictor-plate tracks this season.

The second-year driver, second from last in the 45-car qualifying line for Sunday's EA Sports 500, bumped the Chevrolet driven by Bobby Hamilton from the pole with a lap of 185.240 mph.

Compton joined Dodge boys Bill Elliott and Sterling Marlin, who won the poles at the Daytona races this season. The Intrepids, new to Winston Cup this year, took five of the top eight spots Friday.

Hamilton, who won the April race at Talladega, was fastest for most of the session and appeared to have the pole wrapped up with his lap of 184.438 before Compton's Melling Racing Intrepid drove onto the 2.66-mile, high-banked oval.

"Hopefully, we won't go from first to worst like last time," said Compton, who led only the first two laps and went out with a blown engine after just 116 of the 188 laps in the spring race.

"These poles only come from a lot of hard work by the boys on the team and by Dodge. We got a lucky draw, too. It cooled down considerably near the end of the session."

Marlin was third at 184.058, while Johnny Benson was fourth in a Pontiac at 184.019, followed by Elliott at 183.942, the Chevrolet of Dale Earnhardt Jr. at 183.867 and the Dodges of John Andretti at 183.684 and Kyle Petty at 183.585.

Other than the battle for the pole, most of the attention Friday was fixed on Tony Stewart because of NASCAR's new mandate that all drivers must use head and neck restraints, found himself near the opposite end of the 43-car lineup after a particularly uninspired qualifying effort.

Stewart, the last holdout among the Cup drivers in using either the HANS device or the Hutchens device, the two head and neck restraint systems currently available, finally did settle on the latter. Still, he didn't get into his Pontiac until after a run-in with Winston Cup director Gary Nelson, a visit to the NASCAR hauler and some solitary moments in his own trailer before the opening practice.

With a knot of media members watching his every move, Stewart wore his Hutchens device when he climbed into his car for qualifying. His fast lap of 181.082. was 41st on the speed chart.

Stewart, who wasn't talking to the media Friday, will start Sunday's race 37th based on team owner points.

Sampras loses to Mirnyi

Associated Press

STUTTGART, Germany — Pete Sampras' long wait for another tournament title was extended Friday when he lost to qualifier Max Mirnyi 6-4, 6-2 in the quarterfinals of the Stuttgart Masters.

Mirnyi hit 11 aces to set up a semifinal meeting with fifth-seeded Yevgeny Kafelnikov, who beat Thomas Enqvist 7-5, 6-4.

Mirnyi, of Belarus, already defeated top-ranked Gustavo Kuerten and Wimbledon champion Goran Ivanisevic this week, saving two match points against each.

Sampras was never that close, giving away the first set with a double fault. Mirnyi then powered to a 3-0 lead in the second set and hit a return winner on his first match point to end the contest after just 66 minutes.

The 30-year-old Sampras has won a record 13 Grand Slam championships and 63 titles overall. But the former No. 1 has now played in 19 straight tournaments without winning a title, dating to his victory at Wimbledon in 2000.

GAME: Rankin falls to 0-2 in District

good on special teams. They deserve everything that their ranking (means), and probably a little more. They've got good team quickness and decent size, and they executed very, very well. That's what it takes to be a great team. And that's what they are, in my opinion: a great team."

The Red Devils will likely fall out of the top 10 for the first time this year. Even worse, Rankin would need a miracle to make the playoffs, despite Marfa's 21-6 victory Friday over Wink, the team that upset Rankin a week ago. Rankin fell to 0-2 in district play and 4-3 overall.

After forcing Rankin to punt on its first possession, Iraan drove 68 yards on five plays, capped by Jennings' 37-yard touchdown run, and the tone was set. Rankin soon got the ball on the Iraan 45 after a muffed punt — one of the Braves' few mistakes — but the Red Devils couldn't move the ball at all.

RELIGION

There's agreement among Muslims, Christians, Jews on morality of war

By Richard N. Ostling
Associated Press

Despite all the current talk, many Muslims say the Arabic word "jihad" doesn't mean "holy war" but simply "struggle" and refers to all efforts for personal righteousness or social justice. War-making is only a minor aspect.

A war edict from one low-ranking cleric (Osama bin Laden) or a single regime (Afghanistan's Taliban) is a far different matter from the considered consensus among Islam's recognized authorities. That's equally true when novel ideas are proposed among some Jews or Christians.

But obviously there's a growing Muslim populist movement that advocates indiscriminate use of terror against civilians to achieve political aims. Sept. 11 moved this into anomic anarchy lacking any announced demands or justifications.

Experts say this phenomenon poses a serious challenge against classical Islam, spurning the teaching on military morality from the founding Prophet Muhammad and his immediate successors, the Rightly Guided Caliphs.

Like the Quran, Islam's holy book, the Bible doesn't speak of "holy war." But that's obviously how the biblical writers viewed the Israelite campaign to establish a God-given realm in the Holy Land and then defend it against hostile forces. However, the Bible says God also chastised Israel through enemy armies.

Surprisingly, in light of today's Mideast dispute, the Quran and Bible agree that the Israelite presence in the Holy Land was God's doing.

In the Quran's account, Moses instructs the Israelites, "Call in remembrance the favor of Allah unto you, when he produced prophets among you, made you kings, and gave you what he has not given to any other among the peoples. O my people! Enter the holy land which Allah hath assigned unto you" (5:20-21).

In another Quran passage God commands the children of Israel to "dwell securely in the land (of promise)" (17:104).

Korean Baptist church made up of deep-rooted Christians

By Johnnye Montgomery
Religion Writer

The Koreans who make up the congregation of Midland Korean Baptist Church are not converts from other religions, but deep-rooted Christians. According to the 2001 World Almanac, 47 percent of South Korea's population is Christian. When they immigrate, they may have trouble with English, but their faith is firmly in place.

Midland Korean Baptist began 17 years ago in a building provided by Crestview Baptist Church. Among the earliest members were the families of Joo Kang, Soo Dong Lee, Chong Bu Song, Nam Young Kim, Jung Hee Na and Tae Ho Lee.

Among the congregation is Cran Barrow, a Caucasian who has been a member for 10 years. Barrow said he doesn't know much Korean, but feels this church is home for his soul.

"I've never understood the words of the sermons, but I love the people, and I love the spirit here," he said. "As you can see, this is a friendly church."

Barrow always stays for the potluck luncheons that the church has every Sunday after services. And his contribution is almost always the same thing — watermelon.

"We love the watermelons," said one of the parishioners. "We look forward to them."

Charter member Sudong Lee said to the best of his recollection, Crestview Baptist for years provided financial support amounting to about $500 per month. Another supporter of the church has been First Presbyterian Church. In 1999, Midland Korean Baptist had the opportunity to buy a building on Andrews Highway, and First Presbyterian came up with $10,000 — an amount set aside during one of its capitol campaigns specifically for the purpose of aiding building projects for other churches.

Lee said there have been other instances of aid from First Presbyterian and others.

"The Christian community of Midland has always been helpful to us," he said. "So many times when we needed help, the churches and the individuals

Worshipping God ... Korean Baptist style

By Johnnye Montgomery
Religion Writer

It's 10 o'clock on a Sunday morning, and the cars parked outside the Midland Korean Baptist Church have taken up the entire parking lot and are now rounding the corner to line the adjacent street. Laughing children emerge from the cars and run toward each other. Adults straighten ties, check hemlines and call out reminders to their children. At the door, a cluster of women carrying casseroles make way for a man pushing a child in a wheelchair. They greet the girl with smiles and hugs.

They see me, and they greet me, urge me to come in, to take a seat, and although the woman at the front is playing a different tune, the song going around and around in my head is, "There's a meeting here tonight, there's a meeting here tonight. I can see it in your friendly face, there's a meeting here tonight."

During Crusades, Christians fought against Muslims

By Richard N. Ostling
Associated Press

As he inaugurated military strikes in Afghanistan, President George W. Bush insisted this is no war between the West and Islam. Indeed, America has welcomed Muslim immigrants and aided Muslim lands, and many Muslims support his anti-terrorism campaign. Obviously, however, those Muslims who back Osama bin Laden's terror cult promote the conflict model.

There really were Christian-Muslim wars long ago, the medieval Crusades. Those expeditions remain so touchy that bin Laden cited them in his holy-war edicts and Muslims erupted when Bush used "crusade" in an offhand remark.

By coincidence, the Crusades are among matters examined in a book that Princeton University Press was printing just prior to Sept. 11: "One True God: Historical Consequences of Monotheism" by University of Washington sociologist Rodney Stark.

This intriguing work argues that few if any social forces are as important as monotheism, belief in the one exclusive God as revealed in the Bible and Islam's Quran. Stark says monotheism has extraordinary power to unite people and give them purpose (for example, Judaism's incredible persistence) but also to create conflict (for example, the Crusades).

Some history:

After Muslims seized Jerusalem from Christians in 638, they mostly maintained religious toleration until 1009. Then Egypt's Caliph al-Hakim destroyed Christendom's holiest shrine, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre at the traditional location in Jerusalem where Jesus Christ was buried and rose from the dead.

This "Mad Caliph" persecuted not only Christians and Jews but fellow Muslims who doubted his claim to semi-divinity. He then disappeared, possibly through murder, and toleration resumed.

But then Muslim Turks began seizing Christian pilgrims heading for the Holy Land, torturing or enslaving them.

Response was slow but inevitable. In 1095, Pope Urban II ordered the First Crusade to establish Christian control in the Holy Land. European Crusaders soon took Jerusalem, then lost it in 1187 with Saladin's celebrated Muslim re-conquest. Afterward, Christians held the holy city only briefly in the 13th century.

Later, Muslim forces swept toward Europe, capturing Constantinople (Istanbul) in 1453 and Belgrade in 1521, and threatening Vienna in 1529 and again in 1683.

Stark emphasizes how Jews fared in the Christian West during these times and makes several unexpected points:

- During most of the period from 500 to 1648 (when the Treaty of Westphalia ended Europe's internal religious warfare), Jews faced pressures but little danger of death.
- When Christian outrages occurred, they were only in certain localities, especially sectors in Germany.
- The church hierarchy often worked to defend Jews against the anti-Semitic rabble.
- Muslims were often as guilty of atrocities as were Christians, and typically during the same time periods.

Stark explains that Christians and Muslims targeted the Jewish minority outside their faiths, and heretics within them, when the two religions were attacking each other, or during social disruptions such as the Black Death which — think of it — killed as many as 30 million people or a third of Europeans in 1347-50.

When society faced no peril it accommodated the religious dissenters, Stark concludes. "But when confronted with significant threats from one another, Muslims' and Christians' tolerance evaporated, and Jews and heretics paid the price."

Christians haven't mounted such armies for centuries, and in modern times the United States became a world leader in tolerance. New York, that Sept. 11 target, was the great laboratory.

America became tolerant because of pluralism; no one faith dominates. However, "societies will not develop religious civility unless they must," Stark says, so it's unlikely to appear in many nations.

LESLIE WILLIAMS

God is the perfect parent with plenty of room in His lap

Via e-mail, I recently received some sage advice from kids. Michael, age 14, offered this wisdom: "When your dad is mad and asks you, 'Do I look stupid?' don't answer him." Or from Alyesha, age 13: "When you get a bad grade in school, show it to your mom when she's on the phone."

Williams

Other kids who've figured out how to handle their parents include Taylia, age 11: "When your mom is mad at your dad, don't let her brush your hair," and finally, Naomi, age 15: "If you want a kitten, start out by asking for a horse."

Children outwit us early. I overheard a conversation this summer as my son and his cousin compared notes. When faced with her kids' persistence, my sister apparently gets stricter and less tolerant as exhaustion and impatience take their toll, whereas I wear down and give in. The fascinating thing is that each child knew exactly how far to push and when to stop.

The analogy of God as a parent is a classic one, but one that bears exploring, especially distinguishing among the different roles parenting involves: Parent as cheerleader, banker, judge in petty court, taxi driver, maid service, etc. My favorite parenting role so far has been the "Giant Lap," a reliable place of comfort. I rocked my babies around the world for years until they grew up and sprawled over the rocker's arms, cutting off the circulation in my legs. Now the "Giant Lap" is metaphorical, just as it is with God.

Next is the role of parent as "Vending Machine." For children at 18 months, this means Cheerios for a snack or for a reward for good behavior. Later, it means providing special jeans, or drum lessons, or art class, or whatever else the budget will bear, within reason. We tend to think of God, too, as a vending machine, until we realize the relationship with Him is more important than whatever goodie it is we're asking for.

Then there's the "Mean Witch Who Ruins Her Children's Lives" role. Everyone in the world gets to stay out later than my cruelly deprived children.

I have to remember this role when God gives me a lousy salad in life and I have begged Him for ice cream. Like a good parent, God does know best; we can trust His judgment.

Finally, there's the "Tennis Backboard" role, where the parents get to stand firm in values, boundaries, and character, while the child hurls rebellious questions and challenges. This is where the parents get to pray to God for strength, where we get to steep ourselves in God's Word so that we can stand firm, no matter how hard those questions come.

God as parent. The good news here is that God is the perfect parent, not susceptible to exhaustion, not outwitted by our selfish or spoiled requests, not abashed by our challenges. Best of all, there is always plenty of room in His lap.

in churches have aided and assisted us."

For the past 18 months, the church has been served by the Rev. Seung K. Kang, who lives in Fort Worth. Kang, his wife, Young, and their 13-year-old daughter, Yu, make the five-hour trip to Midland on Saturday and then drive back on Sunday.

Because Kang has vision problems, his wife does the driving. Kang said it was the onset of the vision problems that turned him to the ministry.

"I was born in Seoul, but spent many years in the southern part of Korea, near Pusan," he said. "I was a chemical engineer in a big industrial complex for about 17 years.

"Then about seven years ago, I was manager of the production department of my company, and I was planning to visit our stockpoints in the U.S. and Europe, when suddenly, the day before my planned departure, I began to experience pain and visual problems."

He went to a hospital emergency room where he was referred to a doctor who diagnosed the problem as a detached retina. During the resulting surgery and a month of recovery time, he began to seriously reconsider his life's work.

"I was raised a Christian, but when I experienced (the detached retina), I began to ask myself why this had happened," he said.

"I spent that month with both eyes bandaged. I could do nothing without my wife's help. At the time, I didn't realize it, but later I could understand that this had been the avenue for God to change the direction of my life, and my motivation for changing from management to the ministry."

The family moved to Texas, where Kang entered seminary.

Kang said his vision is still foggy at times, even though the surgery was successful. Each morning he must monitor the condition of his eye, and if there is a change, no matter how small, he must see his doctor. He has a driver's license, but he prefers to leave the driving to his wife.

The Kangs said they don't mind the 10-hour round trip.

"So many times you hear that families don't spend time together, don't talk to each other," said Ms. Kang. "We have this opportunity to spend time together, and to talk. We think of this as a gift. It's the congregation's gift to us. It's God's gift to us."

The church is at 3409 Andrews Highway; services begin at 10 a.m.

BAPTIST: Members enjoy potluck lunch after sermon

(From 1C)

This is a Korean church, where the sermon, the songs and the prayers will all be said and sung in Korean, but there is no doubt whatsoever that non-Koreans are welcome.

The 25 to 30 families who make up the congregation of the Midland Korean Baptist Church are for the most part second- and third-generation Christians. The the older members were Christians before they ever set foot on U.S. soil.

Their order of worship is an intriguing hybrid: western hymns sung from hymnals with the words in both Korean and English; the pew bulletins are inscribed in Korean characters; the sermon is delivered in Korean.

For the benefit of westerners or others who might not understand Korean, there are subtitles in English on the pew bulletin, and they offer me a tape player with headphones, to listen to the English translation of the sermon.

By taking the first available chair next to an already seated woman, I inadvertently separated a husband and wife. Ilhyun Lee and Haesun Lee, assistant professors in computer science at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin, introduce themselves and vigorously shake my hand. The couple, who moved here from Chicago, insist that they don't need for me to move down so that they can sit together.

The meeting room has filled. Several people bring in more folding chairs, and we inch ours forward to make more room.

Ilhyun Lee explains to me that attendance is not usually this good, but that a group of singers has come from Dallas.

"A lot of people came to welcome our guests," he says.

Now the pastor from Fort Worth makes his way to the podium and silence descends. We pray. We sing, the Koreans in Korean, the English-speakers (there are at least four of us that I take to be English-speakers scattered through the room) in English. Now, the pastor directs the congregation to sing the next song first in Korean, then in English, then in either language, as we choose.

"God is multi-lingual. God will understand," he says, and the congregation laughs.

We sing another song or two, then the pastor starts to welcome the guests. There is a visitor from Chicago, Ilhyun Lee's mother, who is seated near the front. Another woman has come from Houston. Next, he points out a visitor from Midland. Finally, he announces that another Midlander from the newspaper, also is visiting.

The announcements done, he asks us to greet one another, and we do, shaking hands, hugging, laughing, helping each other to move in and out in the crowded room. I feel thoroughly welcome.

Now it's time for intercessory prayer, and for the first time, I understand the Acts story of the Pentecost, and the sound of a mighty wind from heaven. This sound, however, comes not from heaven but from the prayers of the people. These people don't pray timidly, but boldly, ceaselessly, saying words a-mile-a-minute, for I don't know how long. Then the praying tapers off and stops, and the group from Dallas comes center stage and starts to sing. It's a very emotional time, both for singers and congregation. They sing several songs. I try to be subtle as I glance at my watch. When they've finished, the pastor assumes his place at the podium and clips a microphone onto his collar. I place the headphones on, and press the button.

To my amazement, the synchronization between the English message on the tape and the Korean sermon at the pulpit appears to be perfect. Each time the tape message says "let me read you from ..." I see that the pastor is reading from his Bible on the podium. The sermon, "Jars of Clay," is wonderful and inspiring, and when the tape is finished, the pastor is also finished.

A final song, a final prayer, and the liturgy may be over, but not the service. The congregation will now break bread together, with a potluck luncheon of Korean entrees and American desserts. I'm invited. I eat and eat and eat, then take my leave, making my way through a crowd of children blowing soap bubbles on the front porch. They wave to me and smile, and as I begin to cross the street, a kid about 12 years old yells out, "Come again!"

Midland shoe drive successful

By Evan A. Pierce
MRT Correspondent

For many Americans, the question of where they are going to get their shoes never crosses their minds.

Worldwide, however, footwear is often a luxury. Knowing this, nine local churches were able to obtain more than 900 shoes and $1,800 for the less fortunate.

"Nine Southern Baptist churches in Midland participated in a shoe drive in August to collect shoes and donations for orphans in 13 countries and the United States," said James Aldridge, pastor of Northwestern Baptist Church.

The drive was under the auspices of Buckner Orphan Care, International, a part of Buckner Baptist Benevolences.

Aldridge said most of the help will go to international causes.

"There are poor people all over the country and there are programs to help these children," Aldridge said. "There's nothing to help some of these children worldwide."

Kent Kwik convenience stores allowed shoes to be dropped off at all of their Midland locations.

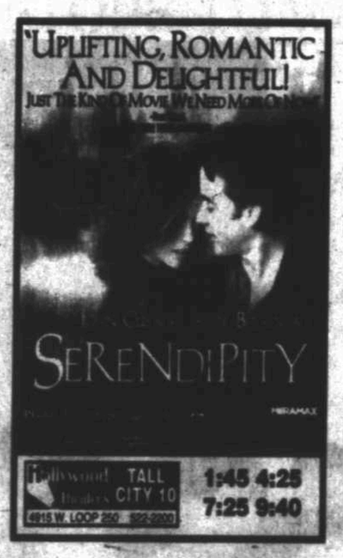

"We were called by pastor Aldridge prior to the Sept. 11 terrorist attack to be part of the shoe drive," said Julie Bixler, vice president of advertisement for the Kent Cos. "We gladly accepted. After the 11th, we were really, really glad. I just hope we helped."

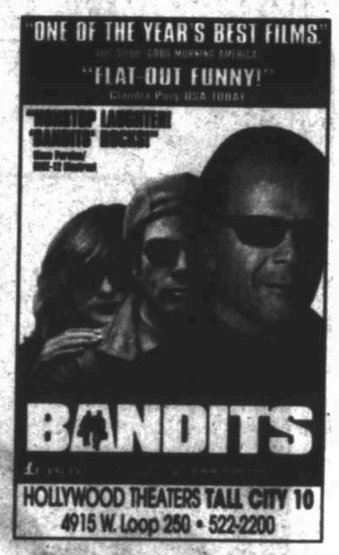

Aldridge is appreciative for the community's help.

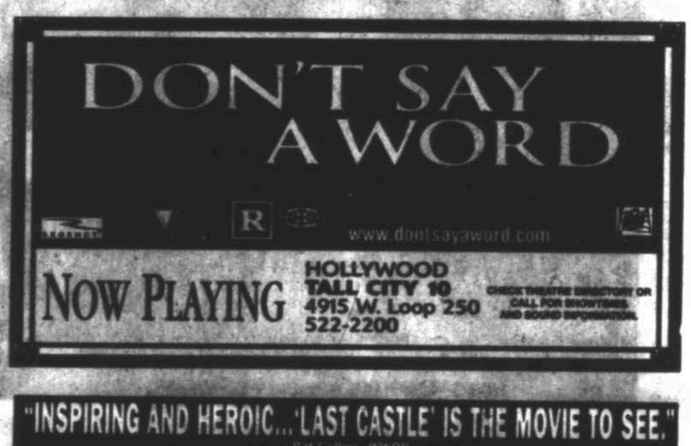

"As coordinators for the shoe drive, we would like to thank each of the participating churches, Kent Kwik convenience stores and Avis Lube, as well as the community, for their support of this cause," he said.

More than 80,000 shoes were received nationwide in the month of August.

MORALITY: Religions agree war must be very last resort

(From 1C)

There's wide agreement between Islam and Christianity's concept of "just war" as formulated by the great North African bishop St. Augustine and later refined by Thomas Aquinas. Judaism has produced similar thinking.

The basics: War must be a last resort after peaceful negotiations collapse, have proper intent to defend the realm and righteousness, be directed by lawful authority, and waged so innocent people are protected and evil results don't outweigh the desired benefits.

Many churches are underscoring the latter points as the United States responds to the Sept. 11 attacks.

"The Geneva Convention and similar documents did not add much in terms of war conduct to what the Prophet taught nearly 14 centuries ago," remarks Professor Jamal Badawi of Halifax, Nova Scotia, chairman of the Islamic Information Foundation.

Islam's first caliph, Abu Bakr, famously instructed his army never to kill children, women, the aged or the clergy. By extension, the Muslim tradition has interpreted that to protect all noncombatant civilians. Abu Bakr even forbade his troops to destroy the enemy's plants and animals.

Muslim history has included successful military campaigns to expand the "dar al-Islam" ("territory of Islam") by reaching into the "dar al-harb ("territory of war," referring to non-Muslim regions).

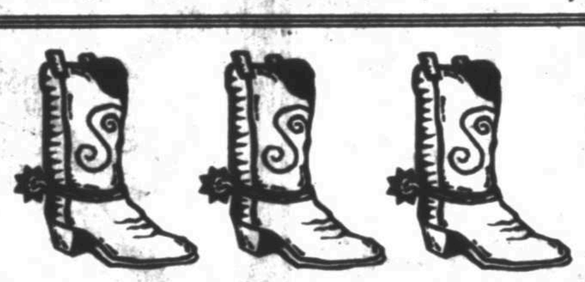

Muslims quickly point out Christians did the same thing during their medieval Crusades to repel Muslim advances in the Mideast. The Crusaders' atrocities greatly embarrass modern-day Christians, and President Bush infuriated Muslims with offhand use of the word "crusade."

Despite the warfare in the Old Testament, many early Christians were strict pacifists, citing Jesus' "love your enemy" teaching. They also shunned soldiering because it required fealty to Rome's pagan emperors.

But once Christians became responsible for government law and order, the faith generally accepted military activity if it was properly conducted. In the majority view, Jesus' admonition applied to relationships between individuals, not nations.

VOTERS GUIDE

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT ELECTION * NOVEMBER 6, 2001

PROPOSITION 16

The constitutional amendment prescribing requirements for imposing a lien for work and material used in the construction, repair, or renovation of improvements on residential homestead property and including the conversion and refinance of a personal property lien secured by a manufactured home to a lien on real property as a debt on homestead property protected from a forced sale.

EXPLANATION

The "homestead provision" of the Texas Constitution protects homesteads from forced sale to pay debts with certain exceptions which include loans for the purchase of homesteads and loans for improvements to the property. At the present time, manufactured homes which are purchased separately from the land to which they are to be attached are not covered by these exceptions. This amendment would expand the list of exceptions to the homestead law to include manufactured homes purchased separately from the land. The amendment allows conversion and refinance of a lien on personal property secured by a manufactured home to a lien on real property. Once the manufactured home attaches to the homestead property, the homestead can be used to secure the debt for the purchase or installation of the housing by converting or refinancing the original lien.

The amendment also reduces from 12 days to 5 days the length of time that must elapse before a contract for improvements on a homestead is executed, and in order for a lien on the homestead to attach.

ARGUMENTS FOR

- Currently, liens incurred by the purchase price of a manufactured home not attached to property cannot extend to the homestead land on which it eventually will reside. This amendment would ensure that purchasers of these homes could convert their liens on personal property to liens on real estate. Because real estate loans secured by homestead property carry much lower interest rates than those for personal property, these homeowners would save substantial amounts of money. The amendment would also make it possible for title companies to insure the real property title on the manufactured home.
- The current 12-day waiting period is a burden on homeowners who need to make immediate home renovations or repairs, especially considering the additional three-day right of rescission under federal law. The 12-day waiting period is much longer than for other types of loans. This amendment would not remove other provisions that protect homeowners from high-pressure sales tactics.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

- Shortening the waiting period would allow unscrupulous salespeople to pressure unsuspecting homeowners into signing contracts committing them to purchase expensive repairs. Because people who sign these contracts forfeit any protection against foreclosure should they default on the payments, any inconvenience caused by the longer waiting period is more than justified.
- Allowing conversion or refinancing of debt for the purchase or installation of manufactured housing to become a permissible lien on the homestead property risks the loss of the home and the land to foreclosure for nonpayment of debt.

PROPOSITION 17

The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to settle land title disputes between the state and a private party.

EXPLANATION

Under an 1836 law, all land not covered by a settler's survey was retained by the state. In 1900 this unpatented land not used for other state purposes was given to the School Land Fund supervised by the General Land Office. Because these parcels are not large, they often have been sold in combination with other lands to innocent parties. More than 16,000 parcels of unsurveyed land remain, despite three previous constitutional amendments that cleared title defects for certain parcels. Proposition 17 would allow the state to give up their surface rights to certain parcels to claimants who demonstrate chain of title to the land going back to at least January 1, 1952, that they did not know that they were buying state land, and that they had paid property taxes on the property. In addition the land would have to be debt free and landowners would have to produce proof of a recorded deed. Beach land, submerged or filled lands, or islands would not be covered by this amendment.

The enabling legislation would allow claimants to petition the General Land Commissioner (GLC) for a patent. All applications would require the approval of the GLC and the School Land Board.

ARGUMENTS FOR

- This amendment would provide a method for settling land-title problems connected with unsurveyed parcels of land without necessitating additional constitutional amendments, a procedure that is expensive for the state and time consuming for landowners.
- Land-title constitutional amendments were on the ballot in 1981, 1991, 1993, and again in the current election. Because as many as 1,000 claims remain, a mechanism for resolving these claims in an inexpensive, timely manner is needed.

ARGUMENTS AGAINST

- Because some of the unclaimed land may be valuable, the constitutional process should continue, allowing Texas voters and the legislature to review title problems on a case-by-case basis.
- Because some claims include special circumstances such as those in the Bastrop County, additional constitutional amendments may be necessary, even with passage of Proposition 17.

Sobieski in the money, but refraining from shopping sprees

NEW YORK — Leelee Sobieski received $1 million for starring in the thriller "The Glass House," but the 18-year-old actress refrained from going on a major shopping spree.

"I bought a few posters — two Matisses and a Picasso," which she hung in her dorm room at Brown University, where she's a freshman.

Sobieski told People magazine for its Oct. 29 issue that her college roommate isn't starstruck living with her.

"It's more about, 'Do you have any turkey in our little fridge? I'm starving.'"

Sobieski also co-stars in "Joy Ride" with Paul Walker and "My First Mister" with Albert Brooks.

LOS ANGELES — Lisa Whelchel, who played spoiled Blair Warner on "The Facts of Life," is experiencing firsthand how America has changed since Sept. 11.

Whelchel, her husband, Steve, and their three children are spending a year touring the country in a recreational vehicle. She home schools the kids, ages 9, 10 and 11.

"We'll hit about every state except one or two. It wasn't our goal as much as to see the sights that America is famous for," she said.

Whelchel was filming "The Facts of Life" reunion movie, airing Nov. 18 on ABC, in Toronto when the East Coast terrorist attacks occurred.

"I had no idea until recently how much this has affected New Yorkers," Whelchel, 38, said Thursday by telephone from an Ohio truck stop.

"Walking into this truck stop, they had pushed all the Indiana and Ohio T-shirts out of the way and all the big displays were of 'United We Stand' and 'God Bless America,' " she said. "That is the common bond all across America."

Whelchel's trip was planned before the reunion movie came together.

"I was a little disappointed that we were going to be interrupted by the movie until I realized it was going to pay for an awful lot of diesel fuel," she said.

LOS ANGELES — Former "Seinfeld" cast member Julia Louis-Dreyfus is working on a sitcom of her own.

NBC announced Thursday that Louis-Dreyfus, who played Jerry Seinfeld's gal pal Elaine, will star in a midseason comedy tentatively titled "22 Minutes With Eleanor Riggs."

In the series, Louis-Dreyfus plays a Los Angeles club singer whose life is examined in what NBC called a "22-minute snapshot." Her circle includes a married older sister (Lauren Bowles), an ex-boyfriend (Steve Carell) and a current flame (Darren Boyd).

The network has ordered 12 episodes of the series, created by her husband, "Saturday Night Live" alumnus Brad Hall. He'll serve as executive producer along with Marcy Carsey, Tom Werner and Caryn Mandabach of "Roseanne" and "Cybill" fame.

So far, attempts by "Seinfeld" co-stars to create their own TV magic have fallen short. "The Michael Richards Show" was canceled quickly last season, and Jason Alexander's new "Bob Patterson" on ABC hasn't fared well with critics or in the ratings.

BOSTON — Caroline Kennedy read from a newly released collection of her mother's favorite poems at the Boston Public Library and spoke about the importance of poetry, reading and family.

Among the poems: Henry Wadsworth Longfellow's "Paul Revere's Ride" and Langston Hughes' "Let America Be America Again."

About 500 people listened Wednesday to the selections from "The Best-Loved Poems of Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis."

A large part of the anthology is made up of poems from a scrapbook her mother started when Kennedy and her brother, John F. Kennedy Jr., were young.

Kennedy, a mother of three, is a lawyer and co-author of "The Right to Privacy," a book on the Bill of Rights. She is married to Edwin Schlossberg, a museum and theme-park designer. They live in New York City.

BOSTON — Singers Clint Black, Taylor Dayne and former MTV personality "Downtown" Julie Brown are headed overseas to entertain troops deployed after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks.

The Citizen Patriot Tour is being organized by Janet Langhart Cohen, a former Boston television personality and wife of former Secretary of Defense William Cohen.

"We want to laugh, we want to get cheered up, and just feel real good about the homeland defense and the armed forces. We're just armed with our patriotism and our talent and our support," Langhart Cohen said.

Former "Saturday Night Live" writer Al Franken will join the tour, as will some New England Patriots cheerleaders and Lt. Lorenzo Thrower, a Virginia firefighter from Fairfax County's search and rescue team who responded to the Pentagon attack.

The celebrities are scheduled to leave this weekend. The military bases they're visiting were not disclosed for security reasons.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The Stars Show the Kind of Day You'll Have: 5-Dynamic; 4-Positive; 3-Average; 2-So-so; 1-Difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, Oct. 20, 2001:
Your abilities to verbalize and to understand others add to your popularity. Nearly anything becomes possible if you strive to break past hurdles and stay open. Sometimes you spend way too much time socializing. Learn to close your door and concentrate. If single, your love life will take many interesting twists and turns. Know how desirable you are, and don't settle. If attached, this year will get better and better. You will realize one of your fondest desires. SAGITTARIUS understands you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★ Reach out for others. Think in terms of expressing more of yourself. Invite others over for a football game or out to a movie, but choose one of your favorite pastimes. Friends prove to be most provocative but fun. Let your hair down and enjoy. Others love a relaxed Ram. Tonight: Opt for the exotic.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★★★ Build on a special friendship. Schedule an outing that you both enjoy, and keep it just the two of you. Sharing a meal adds to the closeness. Let humor play a bigger role. Check in with an eccentric friend or relative. Tonight: Make nice.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★★ Your sense of humor goes a long way with someone at a distance who often is a bit wired. Learn to walk in this person's shoes. As a result, you'll feel a lot better. Expand this attitude to others. Tonight: Dance to another's tune.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★★★ Work closely with others, whether you are learning a new sport or getting a project completed. Your fun attitude goes far with a difficult partner or associate. Do something nurturing, and you will see this person relax. Your sensitive ways mean a lot. Tonight: Don't make anything complicated. Others will do that for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★ A gnawing insecurity greets you this morning. You know something is off. Explore where the problem lies, and if you don't find it, stay alert. Make calls, especially to a sibling or relative. Catch up on news. Tonight: Let the kid in you out.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★ Don't let responsibilities interfere with plans, at least for today. A purchase could become a lot of fun, if you share your excitement and enthusiasm. A child or family member does a great job of disrupting your plans. Don't be so rigid. Tonight: Invite others over.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★★ Always diplomatic, you speak your mind and say what you are thinking. Others surprise you with their reactions, which come at the most unexpected moments. Browse a favorite bookstore. Catch up on others' news. Tonight: You don't have to go far.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★ Once more, your sixth sense comes through. You might think twice about plans, especially if they surround an expenditure. Explaining to a family member where you are coming from could be futile, but at least you tried! Tonight: Choose what you want. Another will go along.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★★ Though someone might have recently rained on your parade, don't let it get to you. Your personality melts others' resistance. You have a way of turning "no" into "yes." How nice for you — and others. Bring friends together in your very cordial way. Encourage spontaneity from others. Tonight: Play it your way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★ Step back and let others know that you could be overly tired. Withdraw and say "yes" to cocooning. Some down time is right up your alley. Refuse to listen to another's plea for help. The best thing you can do is take care of yourself. Put your feet up. Tonight: What suits your fancy?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ Express your individuality in a way that makes a difference to others. You care about many people, including your close friends. Espouse a cause or other important, heartfelt issue. Help someone see a different point of view. Not everyone has your vision. Tonight: Party away.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★★ Someone chooses to express his authority. You might have a very strong reaction. Talk to a loved one on a one-on-one level. Understanding grows as a result. You could be surprised by what both of you opt to disclose. Vulnerability enhances your bond. Tonight: In the limelight.

Tom DeLay satisfied with Port of Houston security

By Mark Babineck
Associated Press

HOUSTON — In Houston because his own workplace was shut down as the U.S. Capitol deals with anthrax attacks, U.S. Rep. Tom DeLay was privately briefed Friday on security measures at the nation's second-largest port.

"I was pleased by the high degree of professionalism and coordination already in place between the port, private industry and federal agencies," said DeLay, the House Majority Whip from suburban Houston.

"Although the port wasn't directly threatened, the quick action assured the community, the state of Texas and the nation the port was prepared and ready to respond to any potential threat. Fortunately, the enhanced security status hasn't significantly impacted commerce at the Port of Houston, and it is still running full-steam."

The world's eighth-largest port, the Houston Ship Channel and its accompanying cluster of refineries and petrochemical plants pump $7.7 billion in the local economy annually and are crucial to the nation's industrial and energy infrastructure, and thus are potential targets.

Congress and the Bush administration are working to assess future threats and decide where federal assistance might be necessary to beef up security, DeLay said. Ports are among the entities that might receive more government help.

"People need to understand we've got a lot smarter people dealing with the security of the Port of Houston and other potential targets than they have coming after us," said DeLay, a Republican.

Officials accompanying DeLay at a dockside news conference said public and private entities already have a good working relationship along the Ship Channel because of the constant threat of explosions or leaks in the area, where hazardous and flammable materials are constantly handled.

"Nothing new has been established since Sept. 11 that hasn't been in place for a number of years," said Howard Meeks of Channel Industries Mutual Aid, the coalition organized to address safety, security and crisis management. "Unfortunately, we have had a couple of incidents that have required public and private entities to work together to handle emergencies along the Ship Channel corridor, and that brings us experience."

Channel Industries Mutual Aid, thought to be the largest disaster response coalition in the world, was formed in 1947 after a ship exploded setting off a series of other blasts that killed 576 people in Texas City . It remains the deadliest industrial disaster in U.S. history.

Too early to blame lack of manpower for firefighter's death, chief says

HOUSTON (AP) — It is too early to tell whether a lack of manpower caused the death of a firefighter who became trapped while battling a high-rise blaze last weekend, Houston's fire chief said.

Preliminary reports show 41 firefighters on the scene of the Oct. 13 blaze that killed Capt. Jay P. Jahnke.

"It is still premature for a cause," Chief Chris Connealy said. "I can't tell you what those firefighters were physically doing or where they were until we review all of the radio transmissions."

Jahnke's widow suggested during his funeral this week that the city's practice of staffing fire trucks with three firefighters cause his death. Federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration guidelines recommend a minimum of four firefighters per truck.

Houston Mayor Lee Brown announced a $16 million plan to increase Houston Fire Department staffing hours after Dawn Jahnke criticized the city.

Earlier this month, a group of district fire chiefs said residents in 60 Houston neighborhoods were in danger because too few firefighters had been assigned to those areas.

"Classified Advertising is the best link in our community between buyers and sellers!"

GENERAL INFORMATION:

To ensure the integrity of our newspaper, for the benefit of our readers and advertisers, the Midland Reporter-Telegram reserves the right the revise, reclassify, edit or refuse any advertising. We also reserve the right to convert all advertising into digital and/or audiotext formats within our other products and services.

Please check your ad the first day it appears, and, if you find a mistake, please call our office at 682-6222 so we can correct the error immediately. This will ensure that your ad is exactly what you want readers to see. If an error does occur, you can choose to rerun your ad once for free, or we'll gladly refund the cost of the portion of the ad affected by the error. If an ad is inadvertently omitted, we will assume liability up to the cost of the ad itself – consequently, we will publish your ad in our next available edition or refund the price you have paid.

Rate charges are determined at the time of placement. All ads accepted are subject to credit approval. Some classifications require payment in advance. Credit applications are required for business accounts.

We welcome your suggestions or comments. Please call: Brandi Alexander, Telephone Sales Supervisor, 687-8813.

HOUSEHOLD ITEMS:

PLACING AN AD:

Call 682-6222, Monday through Friday, from 8a.m. – 6p.m.

A friendly Advertising Consultant will help you word and schedule your ad for best results.

HOW TO WRITE A CLASSIFIED AD THAT WORKS!

❶ Promote Your Merchandise - The more descriptive you are the more likely your merchandise will appeal to someone.

❷ Check The Market Value - The most common mistake that occurs is over or under pricing your goods.

❸ Always Include The Price - People are more likely to respond when they know the price range.

❹ Keyword Your Ad - Begin each ad with the name of the item, such as "Stove" or "Guitar" rather than "Kenmore" or "Gibson", "Ford 1997" instead of "1997 Ford", or by its key reference point, such as location or area in real estate ads..

New car, new rules:

2002 TOYOTA CAMRY SEDAN

RoadWorthy!

By Ken Chester, Jr.

The all-new fifth generation Toyota Camry has redefined the term "quality" as it applies to family sedans. Meaning much more than just an absence of defects, upscale seductive elegance is now being factored into the equation. A wedge shape, flowing lines and a decidedly upmarket flavor define the new Camry.

Boasting its first new platform in ten years, the 2002 Camry is roomier, quieter and more powerful than last year's model. Crisper handling, improved ride comfort and increased refinement make the Camry a mass-market car with a niche-market feel.

Built at the automaker's sprawling Georgetown, Ky., manufacturing complex, the new Toyota sedan also has a North American content of 65 percent. Both the engine and the transmission are US-sourced. Only 35 percent of the vehicle originates from Japan. Available only as a four-door sedan, the Camry is available in LE, LE V6, SE, SE V6, XLE and XLE V6 models.

The base engine for the sedan is an all-new twin-cam 16-valve 2.4L four-cylinder engine with variable valve timing (VVT-i). Despite an increase of 21 horsepower over the previous four-cylinder engine, the new engine is EPA-certified as an Ultra Low Emission Vehicle (ULEV).

Toyota will also offer a four-cam 3.0L six-cylinder engine for those desiring more power at speed. The six-cylinder engine is also ULEV certified. The base LE sedan is equipped with a five-speed manual overdrive transmission. Consumers opt for an all-new smooth-shifting electronically controlled four-speed automatic overdrive transmission with intelligence (4ECT-i) for $830.

On the road, the optional six-cylinder is willing and responsive. A tap on the gas pedal provides instant results. Handling and control are solid, buttery smooth, substantial and predictable at speed. This is indeed impressive for a family sedan. While the LE is shod with P205/65R15 tires, the upscale XLE and sporty SE feature beefy P215/60R16 tires.

The Toyota Camry features an independent suspension with anti-vibration front and rear subframes. MacPherson struts secure the front and work in concert with springs and shocks that have separate upper bearing points on the inner fender. This reduces noise, vibration and harshness (NVH) by minimizing noise to the body shell.

The anti-roll bar end-links are coupled to the strut housings as opposed to the lower control arm for increased boll roll without excessive ride harshness. The rear suspension is equipped with Chapman struts with very long lower control arms to reduce camber change during body roll. In other words, the Camry sedan corners flat at speed.

Inside, a spacious cabin with excellent outward visibility greets the occupants. A user-friendly dashboard has an upscale touch and feel – a sort of budget Lexus experience. The Camry is the first vehicle I have driven that features an on/off switch for the daytime running lights (DRL).

Front and rear seating is chairlike and very comfortable. A rear armrest with dual cupholders and a split folding 60/40 rear seat are standard on all Camry models. Wide door openings facilitate entry and exit. A cavernous, well-shaped trunk with a cargo capacity of 16.7 cubic feet completes this impressive package.

Ratings & specifications

Engine performance numbers are as follow: 2.4L four-cylinder – 157 hp at 5,600 rpm and 162 lb./ft. of torque at 4,000 rpm; 3.0L six-cylinder – 192 hp at 5,300 rpm and 209 lb./ft. of torque at 4,400 rpm.

EPA fuel economy figures range from 24 city/33 highway for the four-cylinder/five-speed manual to 20 city/28 highway for the six-cylinder/four-speed automatic. The four-cylinder uses regular unleaded gasoline while the six-cylinder requires the use of premium unleaded. Underhood fluids are easily accessible for both engines, but not clearly marked.

Standard safety/security features include automatic programmable power door locks with anti-lock out feature, daytime running lights with off switch, full-size spare tire, dual front airbags, battery saver feature, side impact door beams and internal trunk-entrapment release handle. LE V6 adds engine immobilizer and four-wheel anti-lock brakes with Electronic Brake-Force Distribution (EBD). SE adds integrated fog lamps. XLE adds anti-theft system with engine immobilizer and vehicle alarm and Home-Link Universal transmitter.

Optional safety/security equipment includes navigation system, seat mounted and overhead driver and front passenger side-impact airbags, Vehicle Skid Control (VSC) with traction control and brake assist.

The base Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price (MSRP) for the 2002 Toyota Camry sedan begins at $18,970 for the base LE four-cylinder with manual gearbox to $25,405 for the well-appointed XLE V6. Destination charge adds $455. Dealers report the new Camry is flying off the lot as quick as they can unload it from the transport – so patience is required in order to purchase one.

Value leader:

2002 SATURN S-SERIES COUPE

RoadWorthy!

By Ken Chester, Jr.

For Saturn, corporate life began with the launch of the S-Series in 1990. The retail revolution that became known as Saturn evolved over the last 12 years as the brand continued to improve and compete against better-known, deeper entrenched competition. "Continuous improvement" is the watchword at Saturn as the automaker takes a page from the Japanese play book in its quest to compete in the most ruthless of automotive market segments – small cars.

The fact that folks at Saturn have managed to survive throughout the last decade without any kind of truck or minivan speaks volumes about the soundness of the original concept.

Manufactured at the nameplate's Spring Hill, Tenn., assembly plant, the Saturn coupe is available in SC1 and SC2 models. The top-of-the-line SC2 coupe remains the best example of the current thinking at the automaker. In 1999, Saturn became the only automaker to improve the accessibility of its coupes with the addition of a third door on the driver's side.

Production began in November 1998, making the coupe much more versatile while opening up new reasons for American motorists to consider this nifty subcompact two-door. This improvement is standard on every Saturn coupe. The coupe also features dent-resistant thermoplastic fenders, doors, quarters and fascias that replace traditional steel to help resist nicks, scratches and dents during ownership.

Engine choices are two versions of the nameplate's 1.9L four-cylinder – a single-overhead camshaft (SOHC) version (SC1) and a 16-valve double overhead valve (DOHC) version (SC2). A five-speed manual gearbox is standard. A four-speed electronically controlled automatic is $860.

On the road, the engine is much quieter than previous models, delivering a smooth and responsive performance that is impressive. Handling and control are sporty and contained. A four-wheel independent suspension system features a MacPherson front strut with lateral link and tension strut combined with a trilink rear strut/spring module. P185/65R14 tires on SC1 and P195/60R15 tires on SC2 work together with the steering systems to give the driver a good feel of the road at all speeds.

Inside the cabin, excellent large displays – a Saturn trademark – greet the driver and controls are well placed and within easy reach. Power window switches are located in the center console instead of the doors for ease of use and improved reliability. While rear seat space is snug, as to be expected for a small coupe, the fold-down split-rear seat backs in concert with the third door improve the coupe's utility while adding to the flexibility of the 11.4 cubic foot trunk.

Ratings & specifications

Engine performance numbers are as follow: 1.9L SOHC – 100 hp at 5,000 rpm and 114 lb./ft. of torque at 2,400 rpm; 1.9L DOHC – 124 hp at 5,600 rpm and 122 lb./ft. of torque at 4,800 rpm. EPA fuel economy figures range from 29 city/40 highway for the SOHC/manual to 25 city/36 highway for the DOHC automatic using regular unleaded gasoline. Underhood fluids are easy to reach but not consistently marked.

Standard safety features include dual front airbags, daytime running lights, fog lamps, internal trunk escape handle and dynamic side-impact protection. Optional safety equipment adds four-wheel anti-lock brakes with traction control ($495) and head curtain airbags ($325). The optional head curtain airbags are designed to help reduce the risk of head and neck injuries to front seat occupants on the near side of certain side-impact collisions

The base Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price (MSRP) for the 2002 Saturn S-Series coupe starts at $12,900 for the SC1 manual to $16,940 for the SC2 automatic. Destination charge adds $465. The automaker reports good supplies of the S-Series coupe.
