Erratic oil prices noted with reports

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil prices are behaving erratically because of apparently conflicting comments by the Reagan administration over whether Vice President George Bush will pressure Saudi Arabia to reduce production.

In late-morning trading on the New York Mercantile Exchange today, contracts for May delivery of West Texas Intermediate, the benchmark U.S. crude, were rallying after an earlier low of $10.90 per 42-gallon barrel to levels near Wednesday's $11.52 close.

That settlement was up 25 cents from Tuesday's close, but down significantly from the day's peak of $12.45.

Today's late-morning prices for refined products were down about a half a cent from Wednesday, when May contracts for unleaded gasoline rose nearly 3 cents to 41 cents a gallon before dropping back to close at 39.75 cents, up a penny from Tuesday. May heating oil contracts closed at 37.35, down from the day's high of 39.40 cents and Tuesday's 37.46 cent close.

William Byers, an analyst at the Bear, Stearns & Co. securities firm, attributed the day's closing figures to "the White House's clarification of George Bush's previous statements."

On Tuesday, Bush told reporters he planned to tell Saudi Arabian officials during a Mideast trip that U.S. national security is threatened by the stresses put on the American oil industry because of the continuing price free-fall.

U.S. Energy Secretary John S. Herrington told reporters that the Saudis, dominant members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, "need to be aware of the dire straits the American oil and gas producers are in" and the related industries and banks as well.

RODEO QUEEN CANDIDATES — Candidates for queen of the 1986 WTC NIRA Rodeo are (from left) Janyne Gravell of Slaton, Gi Gi Robinson of Snyder, Denise Merritt of Snyder and Roxee Holloway of Eagle Butte, S.D. The queen will be selected by vote of the Rodeo Club and will be introduced during the first rodeo performance April 17. (SDN Staff Photo)

Four seek WTC title

Four Western Texas College coeds have entered the race to be named college rodeo queen for 1986.

Seeking the title are two Snyder students, Denise Merritt and Gi Gi Robinson. Also in the contest are Janyne Gravell from Slaton and Roxee Holloway from Eagle Butte, S.D.

Contestants must be full-time students with at least a 2.0 grade point average. To become a finalist, the contestant must sell a minimum amount of tickets for the rodeo scheduled April 17-20. The queen will be selected by vote of the Rodeo Club.

The new queen will be introduced during the first rodeo performance on April 17 and will be presented a silver belt buckle as a souvenir of the occasion. She will also be introduced at each rodeo performance and will present the awards to the winners in the short go on April 20.

Rodeo tickets can be purchased

Economic group has first meeting

An organizational meeting of the Scurry County Economic Development Committee was held at noon Wednesday.

Miller Robinson, pastor of the Colonial Hill Baptist Church, has been named by Chamber President Jack Denman to serve as chairman of the steering committee.

Robinson thanked members of the steering committee who have agreed to serve and said it was his intent to include a cross-section of citizens interested in the economic improvement of the town.

"Others who have an active interest and who want to serve will be used and be put to work," Robinson added.

Members of the steering committee include Martin Brooks, Eddie Johnson, Roger B. Mize, M. L. Duke, Cloyce Talbott, County Judge Preston Wilson, John Gayle, Jack Smartt, Roy McQueen, Wedge Turner, Denman and Mort Ewing.

Jack Smartt will head the existing industry subcommittee. Members are Rod Waller, Harold Lacik, John Jarrell, Henry Clark and Ralph Williamson.

The public information subcommittee is headed by Roy McQueen. Members are Mel Gilbert, Wayland Holt and Dr. Harry Krenek.

The industrial search committee is headed by Wedge Turner. Members are Bob Hawes, Dr. Jim Palmer, Joe Fowler and Red Faver.

Father, son treated after city accident

A five-year-old Snyder boy and his father were treated for minor injuries and then released from the emergency room at Cogdell Memorial Hospital following a 6:54 p.m. traffic accident in east Snyder.

Vinsente Garcia and his son David — both of 210 31st St. — were taken to the local hospital

'Annie' is sellout for first 2 shows

Individuals wishing to see a performance during the three-day run of "Annie" — presented by the Snyder Junior High School Choral and Drama Departments — must now wait until Monday to get a seat.

School officials report the Thursday and Friday night performances are now a sellout.

The production, based on the comic strip "Little Orphan Annie," will begin in the junior high auditorium at 7:30 p.m. each night.

It features a cast of 35 human players, one dog and a 13-piece orchestra comprised of local musicians.

"Annie" is under the direction of Ellie Dryden and Barbara Perkins.

Tickets for the Monday night performance of "Annie" are now on sale. Adult and student tickets are priced at $3 each. Children under 12 will be admitted for $2.

Advance tickets, purchased through the junior high office, are recommended due to the limited seating capacity of the auditorium.

The musical was a long-running production on Broadway and features a cast of characters familiar to most comic page readers. Heading the list are eighth graders Amy Polk and Jacy LaRoux, double cast in the title role of Annie.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Success is simple. Hitch your wagon to a star, put your shoulder to the wheel, keep an ear to the ground, read the handwriting on the wall, and marry a girl with money."

There are those who say there is no such thing as good American fiction, However, one IRS office worker says you ought to see some of the early returns.

That dreaded day, April 15th, is not far away. Things haven't changed much from Biblical times when tax collectors were among the most despised.

Said one farmer, "Beware of the IRS man. He'll take the pig and then come back for the squeal."

This time of year, the IRS folks will be the targets of a lot of jokes. Don't feel too sorry for them, they always come out on top 'cause they write the rules.

There's one about the fellow who paid a visit to a regional IRS office. On his way out, he was mugged and robbed. He said he couldn't tell the difference.

Another taxpayer knew the IRS had made a mistake. After several calls to the district office, someone finally admitted the mistake, then switched him to a recording which said, "Sorry about the mistake, our administrative computer is chewing out our billing computer right now."

Our favorite is the wise guy who handpainted a sign to replace one of special parking signs always available at government buildings. It read:

"If you are not handicapped when you park here, you will be when you leave."

Someone passed along a formula for a long marriage.

"Take time to go to a little restaurant two times a week. A little candlelight dinner, soft music, and a slow walk home. She goes on Tuesdays, and you go on Fridays."

TWA incident hurts tourism

By The Associated Press

Some vacationers canceled trips to the Mediterranean but travel agents said they were more concerned with the calls they won't get, from people who are too afraid of terrorism to plan foreign journeys this year.

Four Americans were killed Wednesday when an explosion tore a hole in a Trans World Airways Boeing 727 flying 15,000 feet over Greece, the latest in a string of terrorist incidents that travel officials said has increased fears of traveling abroad for many Americans.

The TWA plane, flight 840 from Rome, landed safely at the Athens airport 10 minutes after the blast and Greek tourism officials insisted that their islands were a safe destination and that security was now tight in the Athens airport.

Since last summer, a TWA jet has been hijacked to Beirut, 60 people died in the hijacking and attempted rescue of an Egyptair jet to Malta in November and 20 people were killed by gunfire at the Rome and Vienna airports in December.

"I just canceled two today because of what happened to TWA," said Roger Stratford of Murdock Travel in Salt Lake City.

"My problem is not necessarily canceling as not getting new bookings," he added. "We don't have near as much of that as business not coming in. And that (terrorism) is what we're attributing it to."

Greece, Italy, Egypt and Israel were reported to be especially affected by American concerns about tourism. Some agents reported a drop in bookings to all of Europe. Others reported a preference this year for Britain, Scandinavia and other northern points.

"Greece is dead. That's completely out," said Catherine Ruttka, co-owner of Robin Travel Agency in Edison, N.J., who said the only bookings she is getting are from Greek-Americans.

"After what happened in Greece today, I'm afraid all the money the Greek government spent trying to rebuild its tourism industry will be wasted," said Charles Bressler, owner of Foreign Travel Inc. of Chevy Chase, Md.

But the Greek National Tourist Organization said it would continue with its advertising campaign urging Americans to visit.

"Americans' perception of the dangers of foreign travel are not based on the reality of actual terrorist activity, but are formed by what we see on television and in print in the immediate aftermath of a dramatic incident, such as today's, in which Greece was the safe haven for the stricken aircraft and not involved," Peter Martin, a public relations consultant hired by the Greek tourist office, told a news conference in New York.

Permafrost yields riches at mine site

LUPIN MINE, Northwest Territories (AP) — Boom. A rumble from deep beneath the arctic permafrost shakes the hanging plants in the cafeteria of Canada's northernmost gold mine.

"Rub your hands together," advises Gary Garner, who has just finished his 12-hour shift in the mine. "That's money. Underground blasts, I like that sound."

Garner and his friends went back to watching a hockey game on television, one of an assortment of offerings available by satellite in the comfortable recreation center at the Lupin mine, named for a flower that blooms nearby in the brief arctic summer.

In the tunnels below, the scene is grittier — dirty, cold, wet and noisy.

Just 20 to 25 miners work on each shift, drilling holes, setting off explosives, carrying the broken rock in giant scoops to a crusher and hoisting it to the surface for processing in the mill and refinery.

"There goes another $500," says John West, the mine captain, as a load of crushed ore crashes down a chute after its 1,000-foot ride to the surface.

The whisper of riches is everywhere at Lupin, a collection of connected buildings painted bright orange against the blinding white of the snow and ice outdoors, 1,500 miles due north of Great Falls, Mont., and more than 100 miles from the nearest community, an Eskimo village.

"The money's good," said miner Ray Lavoie, when asked about his job. "It's dirty work, wet, but you get paid for it."

Lavoie worked 11 years in mines in his native Sudbury, Ontario, where he returns for his two-week vacation every month. Most of Lupin's employees work in rotation, 12-hour shifts for 14 straight days, followed by two weeks off.

Last year, counting hourly wage, steady overtime and production bonuses, miners could count on an annual wage of as much as 90,000 Canadian dollars (about $65,000), mine officials said.

But because of stricter enforcement of government standards on worktime underground, the miners said they expected to earn less this year, but still considerably more than they could make back home.

The ore at Lupin is richer than average — slightly more than a third of an ounce of gold per ton of rock. On international markets, gold sells for around $350 an ounce.

"You won't see any gold here," jokes geologist Ted Goettel, sitting in the lunchroom where hot meals are lowered 550 feet below the surface for each shift of miners. "Except in the bullion room. It's a nice sight, that 70-pound brick."

But still, the miners find a certain romance in the line of work.

"When I tell people what I do, they think of panning for gold," says Bob Gilroy, the mine manager.

Dear Abby

Finding Right Prosthesis Is A Matter of Black and White

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Here's a question I hope you have the answer to. I am a black female who had a mastectomy in 1981. I came through it and made a good recovery. I'm just getting to the point of thinking of myself as the same woman I was before I lost one breast, then every morning I have to put on this pink or rose-colored prosthesis made for whites, and I don't feel right. It looks very different, and I can't get used to it.

Abby, do you know of any company that makes prostheses for blacks? I haven't been able to find one in this area.

TWO-TONE IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR TWO-TONE: No. But after this hits print, I bet I will. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: Will you please say a few words to the public on behalf of the shopkeepers whose customers arrive five minutes before closing time to do their shopping?

Most businesses have their hours clearly posted and rely on the good sense of the customers to be out of the store by closing time. However, there are always those who feel that if they are inside the door one minute before closing time, they are welcome to stay as long as they please.

This can be very difficult for the employees who have put their full shift in already. Transportation and appointments can be missed and baby sitters made angry when we are kept late. Once in a while is not minded, but I am writing after a 9 1/2 hour day on my feet, no coffee breaks, and an hour late out of the door. And this is the second time this week.

So, Abby, please be a dear and speak for those of us who can't very well speak for ourselves without offending our customers.

SPEAKING FOR MANY

DEAR SPEAKING: Consider me your spokesperson. I'm sure most customers who arrive late and shop leisurely are not deliberately thoughtless. Let's hope this makes the lateniks more aware of the inconvenience they may cause.

(P.S. I am addressing only customers who can't decide whether to buy one or two-and-a-half yards of ribbon. I have heard of jewelers who cheerfully stay open as long as it takes to close an important sale. And for a Texas oil tycoon, they might even have dinner sent in!)

DEAR ABBY: I have a simple question that has turned into quite a big issue in my family. Your answer will help my family along with other families who have the same problem.

What is wrong with a girl making a telephone call to a boy? I am a 16-year-old girl and my friends include boys as well as girls. If I want to call up a girlfriend to make plans, it's fine with my parents. But they frown on my calling a boy. They say, "Maybe we're old-fashioned, but we don't think it's proper for a girl to call a boy. Besides, what will his parents think of you?"

What do you say?

TO CALL OR NOT TO CALL

DEAR TO CALL: Much depends on the purpose of your call. To talk? Why not, but don't call a boy who never calls you to talk. To "make plans?" Plans for what? A special occasion? Fine. But don't call a boy repeatedly to "make plans" unless he also calls you to make plans.

Your parents are probably afraid that you will come over as a pushy girl who aggressively pursues boys, which is what a boy's parents will think of you if you overdo it. So don't.

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading you for years in the Leesburg (Va.) Commercial, so I know you are a great believer in donating organs. I recently saw a sign while driving on a Florida highway, and thought of you. It read: Recycle yourself. Be an organ donor!

Transplants may help pain

NEW YORK (AP) — Transplants of painkiller-producing bodily cells into the spinal cords of rats provided relief from pain up to four months, suggesting that such surgery may help control chronic pain in people, researchers say.

The experiments involved injections of nicotine, and people with intractable pain could be able to trigger relief by taking nicotine, even in chewing gum, or some other substance that acts like nicotine, said George Pappas, professor and head of the anatomy department at the University of Illinois College of Medicine in Chicago.

Possible candidates for the therapy include cancer and arthritis patients, amputees who still sense pain in the missing limb and others who suffer from chronic pain, said Jacqueline Sagen, a research associate in the anatomy department.

Pappas also said experiments showed that painkiller-producing cells from cows did the job in rats, suggesting the possibility of using animal cells for human patients. That would be a handier supply than human cells, he said.

Another expert called the work interesting but unlikely to produce a good alternative to traditional pain management in the near future.

Convention begins today

More than 100 garden club members are expected in Snyder today and Friday for the convention of District 8 chapters of Texas Garden Club, Inc.

Hostess chapters for the event, to be held at the Fine Arts Theatre, will be Colorado City Garden Club, Highland Garden Club Sweetwater, Roby Garden Club, Sweetwater Garden Club and Snyder Garden Club.

Mrs. Forrest Fox, co-chairman of the local convention, has announced that the theme will be "Going Wild With Wildflowers." Mrs. Tommy Davis will be co-chairing with Fox.

The convention begins today with registration and a Sesquicenntenial Party from 4-5:30 p.m. at the Dodson House. A shopping tour will follow and dinner at the Shack. The Diamond M Museum of Fine Arts will be visited afterward.

Friday morning registration begins at 8:30 a.m. at the Scurry County Museum. A general assembly in the Fine Arts Theatre on Western Texas College campus will follow. Mrs. Charles Baker of Coleman, district director, will preside over the meeting. Mort Ewing, executive director of Snyder Chamber of Commerce, will welcome the group to Snyder. Glenna Jones will lead the invocation.

Other dignitaries on the program include Mrs. John Willingham, former director of San Angelo, will be giving response; Mrs. Henry Horn, state chaplain, former director and state president from Del Rio, will give the lunch invocation; Mrs. Charles Speck Jr. of McCamey, will present the awards; Mrs. J.P McCord, past district director and master judge of Cross Plains, will give the credentials report; Mrs. O.B. Trulock Jr., president of Colorado City Garden Club, will give courtesy resolutions; and Mrs. Cumby Ivey of Robert Lee, will introduce the speakers.

Following the luncheon at Martha Ann Woman's Club, a flower arranging program entitled "Designs for Texas Arrangers-150 Years Young" will be presented by Joyce Ewald of El Paso.

MODELS FOR STYLE SHOW — Martha Ann Woman's Club will be presenting a luncheon and fashion show on April 19. Margaret's will be furnishing the latest in spring and summer fashions. Ridiculous bidding can occur in any system. For all you know, I just may have invented today's bidding to get the declarer to a grand slam that he could make with a lot of luck. As regards the bidding, North did not have to jump to four spades. South, after asking for aces and kings, should have bid only six spades. North would know that his partner was interested in seven from the five no-trump bid, and could go all the way with the right cards.

The play was smoother than the bidding. In a ridiculous contract, you simply have to play for a combination of cards that will let you make it. The Q-J of spades doubleton in either hand would work, but it was better to play for West to hold his actual flat distribution, with one trump honor and two small trumps. Declarer played heart ace and trumped a heart. He led a club to dummy's jack and ruffed another heart. Crossing his fingers, he now cashed all three high diamonds. He played a club to dummy's king and trumped dummy's last heart, both opponents kindly following suit. Next came the club ace, on which dummy's last diamond was discarded. Finally, the last club was led from declarer's hand. Since West was down to nothing but trumps, what would you have him do? If he ruffed with the queen, dummy would overruff; and declarer would then finesse against East's jack. If he ruffed low, dummy's spade 10 would win, and the king and ace would take the last two tricks.

Horribly bid, but played with gusto!

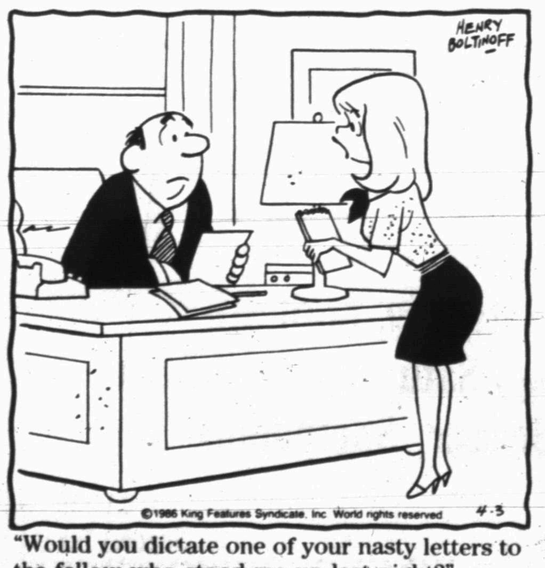
LAFF-A-DAY



"Would you dictate one of your nasty letters to the fellow who stood me up last night?"

DENNIS THE MENACE

"IT'S LIKE A BASEBALL GAME... THE WHITE SOX ARE JUMPIN' ALL OVER THE RED SOX!"

E. Texas woman continues to shelter birds

PERT, Texas (AP) — Clucking, cooing and chirping fill the air. Hundreds of turkeys, chickens and peacocks roam the grounds. And a 77-year-old woman meanders through the frenzied scene in a matter-of-fact fashion.

The place is a bird sanctuary, East Texas style. It's the home of Ruby Miller, who lives about 15 miles outside of Palestine and raises birds of all types in her back yard. She is as active as any woman 50 years her junior.

She has to be active with so many feathered friends to look after. Geese, turkeys, quail, bobwhites, pheasants, doves — they all can be found at Mrs. Miller's home.

Some of the birds have free rein over the property, while other, less domesticated birds, such as parakeets, live en masse in special pens. Mrs. Miller has so many birds sometimes it's difficult to walk through her yard.

The sounds of the hundreds of birds constantly fill the air. But Mrs. Miller is used to that. She says she's loved birds all her life and enjoys raising them.

"If I didn't like that, I couldn't do it," Mrs. Miller said. "I've had chickens all my life. I remember the first chicken I ever owned and the first pig I ever owned."

Mrs. Miller recalls a somewhat gruesome story of how she acquired her first bird. She and her cousin discovered a deep hole and dug to the bottom of it. They came upon a fat snake that evidently had just dined — on fresh eggs.

"He was full of eggs," she said. "We cut him in two."

Mrs. Miller's cousin then pushed out the eggs, 16 of which were unharmed. Her cousin wanted to boil the eggs and eat them, but Mrs. Miller suggested putting them in a hen's nest to hatch.

"I said 'Let's put the eggs in her nest,' " Mrs. Miller said. "She hatched every one." One of the chicks that hatched became Mrs. Miller's first chicken.

Mrs. Miller also has a couple of pigs, and also raises raises ferrets, guinea pigs, goats and dogs. But birds are at the heart of Mrs. Miller's animal collection. She makes daily rounds throughout her maze of bird pens, gathering new eggs and petting a few of the birds on the way.

Though birds are not usually thought of as the petting type, Mrs. Miller's birds seem to like the attention. "They know I'm not going to hurt them, I guess," she says.

Though she sometimes eats boiled eggs, Mrs. Miller doesn't eat chickens or other feathered pets too often. "I don't like to kill my chickens and peel them."

Keeping up with the eggs the hundreds of birds lay every day is a job in itself. After gathering the eggs she labels their shells in pencil and places them on several shelves of an incubator, where they remain until the baby birds hatch.

Large goose eggs and tiny button eggs cover the incubator trays. Every now and then when Mrs. Miller pulls out a tray, a tiny bird that has just hatched is sitting on it.

The birds get a little help in the hatching process when Mrs. Miller chips away some of the cracking egg. "You have to. This one ain't ready for help, though," says Mrs. Miller as she chips away part of a large goose egg.

Mrs. Miller knows from the labels when each and every egg is supposed to hatch. "What's disgusting is to come out here and they're supposed to hatch and not a darn thing's happened," she says. "That's what's disgusting."

Once the babies hatch, they live in the incubator until they are old enough to move into the yard with the rest of Mrs. Miller's flock.

Perhaps the most beautiful of Mrs. Miller's pets are the several varieties of pheasants, with their multi-colored feathers.

College candidates field questions

Howard Sterling

candidate
place 3
WTC board

(Editor's Note: Incumbent board member Howard Sterling responded to the four questions submitted by the SDN with a statement which he said he felt summed up each.)

To the four questions:

Q. — State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished if elected.

Q. — What do you consider the most pressing problem facing the college today?

Q. — Outline the solution to this need.

Q. — Define briefly the role of a college trustee.

Sterling replied:

"Education is getting very expensive at all levels. In my opinion, many of our colleges and universities have entirely too many overly paid non-productive faculty people in their systems.

"I think this is the Number 1 problem in education at all levels. At WTC, we are continually working in this area to see that everyone carries a full work load.

Regarding the role of a college trustee, I think we need to choose the best administrator that's available; present him with sound and proven policies; stand behind him 100 percent in his decisions; and handle the business decisions at the college.

Tom Aishman

place 3
WTC board

Q. — State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished if elected.

A. — 1. Improved communication between the board of trustees and the people they represent. 2. Renewed confidence that the opinions of the citizens of Scurry County are being heard and considered, and that those opinions are reflected in decisions reached by the board of trustees. 3. Restoration of the WTC Golf Course to the outstanding condition it was in when I came to Snyder five years ago. 4. A thorough review of all policies related to the operation of the WTC Golf Course with an eye toward changing those policies which are outdated or detrimental to the operation of the facility.

Q. — What do you consider the most pressing problem facing the college today?

A. — The most pressing problem facing Western Texas College today is the steady decline in traditional sources of revenue.

Q. — Outline the solution to this need.

A. — The board of trustees and the administration are going to have to work together closely to control expenses and to find new ways to replace those declining revenues. Tax rate increases should be considered only as a last resort.

Q. — Define briefly the role of a college trustee.

A. — The trustees of Western Texas College are elected representatives of the citizens of Scurry County responsible for overseeing all activities of Western Texas College. In order to effectively represent its constituency, the board of trustees must be willing to: 1. Openly communicate the problems with which it is faced, the solutions which are being considered, and the reasons those solutions are deemed appropriate. 2. Where possible, delay action for a reasonable period of time to allow interested citizens to voice their opinions. 3. After all factors have been considered, cast their ballots without regard to how other board members may have voted.

Bob Hargrove

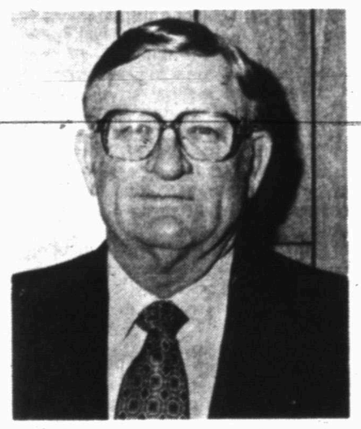
place 4
WTC board



Q. — State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished if elected.

A. — WTC has made great progress with a quality program of junior college education. We have a favorable student-teacher ratio in the academic fields which makes for a very good student-teacher relationship. Our occ-tech and continuing education is guided in such a way as to fill the needs of the community. I would like to think we excel in all these areas and will continue to do so.

Q. — What do you consider the most pressing problem facing the college today?

A. — Financing is the most pressing problem facing the college today. With the possibility of a 13 percent reduction of state funding, the board is compelled to budget available funds in such a manner to get the best results with the taxpayer's dollar. Financing, budgeting and the management of both are the most pressing problems of every business, household and public institution today as well.

Q. — Outline the solution to this need.

A. — The solution to this is the careful budgeting within each department of the college so as not to be lavish in our spending but sufficient enough for a quality program of education and the utmost consideration for the taxpayer's dollar.

Q. — Define briefly the role of a college trustee.

A. — A college trustee should cooperate with the remaining board members in formulating operating policies and then follow through with the policy management and enforcement. Trustees should be very much involved with budget preparation and approval of same. Trustees should be concerned with good and effective leadership within the administration and the total program of the institution.

Lee Presswood

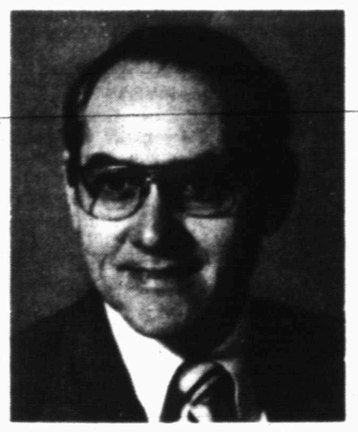
place 4
WTC board



Q. — State any specific goals you would like to see accomplished if elected.

A. — 1. Maintain the academic excellence of the present educational program at WTC 2. Seek ways to improve the educational program at WTC 3. Cooperate with the administration and faculty in devising ways to improve the morale of personnel.

Q. — What do you consider the most pressing problem facing the college today?

A. — The declining tax base used for financing the educational programs.

Q. — Outline the solution to this need.

A. — I feel that the solution to this problem is to work cooperatively with the fellow board members to meet the needs of the college without over burdening the taxpayers.

Q. — Define briefly the role of a college trustee.

A. — The role of the college trustee is to determine administrative policies, plan the educational program, plan the financial program, and maintain a public relation program in order to keep the public informed.

"Meeting Tomorrow's Needs Today"

White House taking action

WASHINGTON (AP) — In its announcement of President Reagan's public embrace of proposed Pentagon reforms, the White House said the administration was mindful of "the need to move quickly and decisively."

What the statement omitted was the political fact of life in Washington that the need for speed arises from a growing clamor on Capitol Hill for change in the way the Defense Department is organized and spends — some say wastes — the federal government's largest budget.

Ap Analysis

Few subjects have generated as much mail to congressional offices in recent years as stories about $600 toilet seats, $400 hammers and weapons that cost too much and won't work.

In recent months, there have been dozens of legislative proposals to change the way the Pentagon does business. In One debate last year, Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., spoke for many colleagues when he told the Senate, "I don't care what we do, but we've absolutely got to stop this tremendous waste."

The changes Reagan supports were proposed by a commission he appointed last summer to recommend reforms after two years of criticism about high-priced spare parts.

The announcement is timely because when Congress returns next week from its Easter recess, a leading item on the agenda will be the overall shape of the fiscal 1987 budget.

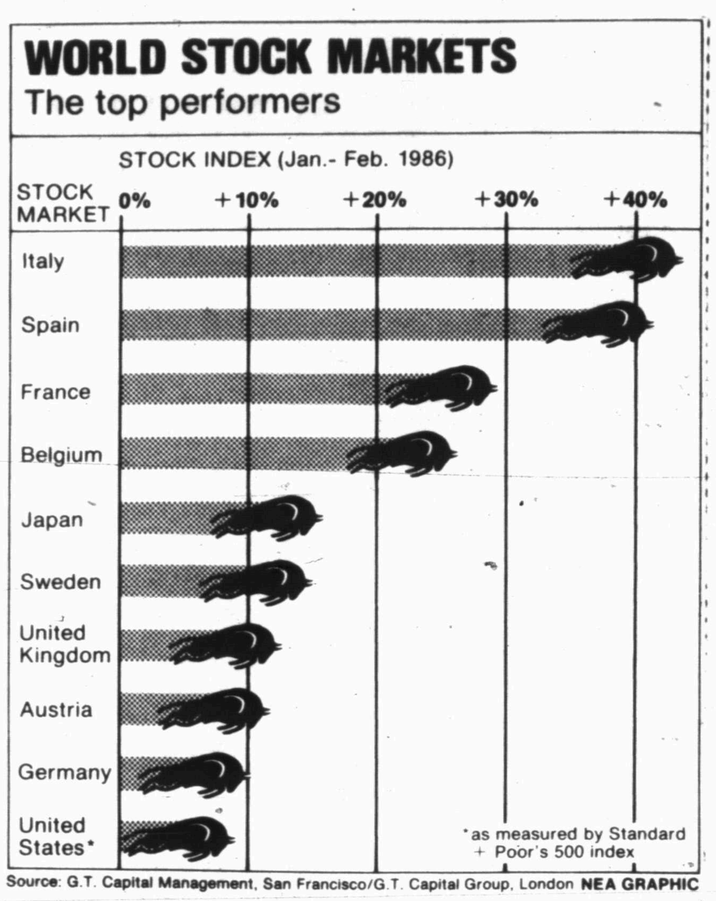
The president has sought a hike of almost 12 percent in defense spending — to more than $320 billion — in what would be a continuation of his program to "rearm America." However, Democrats and Republicans alike have warned that the request is likely to be cut, partly in response to public anger about Pentagon waste.

The commission, headed by industrialist and former Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard, originally set out to look at waste in spare-parts spending, but it ended up endorsing a broad package of changes.

It called for strengthening the five-member Joint Chiefs of Staff and centralizing the purchasing process under one civilian office.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Wednesday that the proposals "are among the most extensive reforms of the defense establishment since World War II."

What Speakes didn't say is that the Packard commission proposals are general and lack many specifics about just exactly who will control what.



Foreign stock markets have soared in the '80s, primarily because of booming economies and pro-business policies in leading countries. The U.S. market — though rising, too — is still far behind.

Ancient Indian camp discovered

SEATTLE (AP) — Along the Duwamish River, hard by the steel and lumber factories, is a ditch where archaeologists are uncovering a bit of Seattle's long-buried and long-forgotten past.

But time is running out for the site of what is believed to be an ancient Duwamish Indian hunting village. A sewage pipeline is to be built through the heart of the camp, which apparently was used for at least 1,200 years.

As those involved in the dig work toward an April 30 deadline, the tribe's chairwoman hopes the effort will uncover historical information that will help her people gain federal recognition.

"With all the urbanization around Seattle, there aren't that many sites that still survive," said Dennis Lewarch, senior archaeologist for URS Corp., which is conducting the sewer project. "Every one of them is like a time capsule with a lot of valuable information."

Bits of shell and bone, a few rough tools, almost indistinguishable from regular stones to the untrained eye, and fire-marked rock show where Indians once worked about 100 feet above one of the river's bends.

Just as important as the relics is the pattern showing how the camp was used and what the Indians gathered. Lab tests, for example, can tell what species of migratory birds and other animals were collected.

"The food debris isn't as dense as a winter village, so it might have been either a fall or spring hunting or gathering camp," Lewarch said.

The camp site is an anomaly along the grimy waterway. The plot of several acres has been spared heavy development.

Just south lies Kellogg Island which, like much else along the river, fell victim to the turn-of-the-century frenzy to dredge and develop — a process that turned the swampy mouth into a ruler-straight ship channel that today is the heart of Seattle's heavy industry.

Some teacher tests not to be graded

LAREDO, Texas (AP) — State District Judge Ruben Garcia has ordered more than 30 state ordered teacher competency tests given to Laredo teachers returned ungraded.

Garcia made the ruling Wednesday after granting a temporary injunction in a suit filed by the teachers against the state.

A representative of the Texas Attorney General's office says the decision will cost the state thousands of dollars

According to the ruling, the Texas Examination of Current Administrators and Teachers tests, which were taken by teachers and are being graded in Iowa and North Carolina, are to be returned to Garcia in seven days.

Laredo Independent School District teachers listed in the suit allege the state has no right to enforce a competency test that could terminate lifetime teaching certificates issued before passage of House Bill 72, which mandated TECAT.

Garcia issued a temporary restraining order March 22 when a lawyer for the teachers presented an argument based on 1981 legislation, that teachers were exempt from TECAT.

The suit attempts to bar state officials from revoking teaching certification because of failing TECAT scores.

Lawyer Donoto Ramos said he was pleasantly suprised by Garcia's ruling and estimated the case would eventually go to appellate courts.

State Assistant Attorney General Kevin O'Hanlon said the injunction was a political move and lambasted the $500 bond issued by Garcia in case a later court rules in favor of the state.

O'Hanlon said the retrieval of the tests which have all been detached from the authors' names, could cost the state thousands of dollars. O'Hanlon's request for a $2,000 bond was denied.

O'Hanlon disputed Ramos' claim, saying the grandfather clause in the 1981 Senate Bill 50 excluded teachers from taking competency tests created for college graduates pursuing careers in education.

Ramos said the clause was not amended when legislators passed House Bill 72.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 21-month-old son has received cefaclor, erythromycin and amoxicillin for the treatment of otitis media on three separate occasions. He developed an allergic reaction to all three, including a high fever and skin rash with the amoxicillin. Are there any ways of treating bacterial infection in a child who is so allergic? Can drug allergies be outgrown?

DEAR READER — Cefaclor and amoxicillin are related to penicillin; therefore, your son may be cross-reacting to them because of a penicillin allergy. Erythromycin, however, is not related to the penicillins and is considered to be a good substitute drug for penicillin-sensitive individuals. I'm concerned that he appears to be allergic to that, too.

Sulfa can be substituted for the three antibiotics you mention; it may not be as effective, though. Because your son may need antibiotics in the future, I suggest that you ask your pediatrician to refer your son to an allergist who, by special testing, can determine exactly what the child is allergic to. That would be important information to have.

Children often develop rashes during the course of an illness and the rash can confuse doctors and parents into thinking that a drug allergy is the cause. Although children can outgrow allergies, I would not feel comfortable administering an antibiotic to a child whose allergic status is unclear.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A relative has been told by her doctor that she has an embolism in her stomach. He said when it bursts it will kill her. What can I expect when this happens? Will there be time to get to the hospital? Will there be pain?

DEAR READER — I suspect that you misunderstood the doctor. Your relative probably has an aneurysm near the stomach.

The aorta is the major artery supplying blood to the body. It loops up from the heart into the chest and then passes through the diaphragm muscles, past the stomach and into the abdomen. As people age, portions of the aorta can become weakened and balloon out like a thin spot on an inner tube. This dilation is called an aneurysm. It can leak blood, causing pain, or it can suddenly burst. Obviously, a rupture is a disaster; it results in sudden pain, internal bleeding and death within seconds.

Modern surgical techniques allow specialists to remove diseased portions of aorta and implant plastic substitutes. The operation is common and lifesaving, because once the untreated aneurysm gives way, there is little time to correct the problem. Your relative will need an aortogram, a special X-ray study, to determine if she is a candidate for aortic surgery. If the aneurysm has not yet grown to the point where it is a danger, she can be given periodic ultrasound exams to determine when surgery should be considered.

Your Birthday

April 4, 1986

Several new avenues for personal advancement will open for you in the year ahead. Two will be from your own efforts; one will be uncovered purely by chance.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're likely to be more fortunate today with your new projects than you will be with older ones. Work on ways to advance your latest interests. Major changes are ahead for Aries in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Circumstances may place you in the right spot today at just the right time to reap some type of unique career benefit.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may enter into an alliance today to handle an unusual development. The coalition will be effective, but of short duration.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Fortunate happenings for you today aren't apt to come through your own efforts but from associates who want to do nice things for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're thinking about participating in some type of competitive social sport today, select one that requires a teammate. Together you'll do well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you want to experience a true sense of fulfillment today, strive to do things that are of genuine service to those you love. Seek nothing in return.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Should you have to choose between two social invitations today, select the more lively group.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A household item you have been wanting to discard has commercial value. Rather than toss it on the junk heap, try to sell it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Some good news you have been hoping to receive could be forthcoming today. Let others know where you can be reached if you have to do some running around.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Material conditions continue to look favorable for you. Remain alert for unusual trends that could spell gain for you in some manner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You'll derive more enjoyment from today if you do things of your own choosing. Avoid letting others schedule your activities for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A secret ambition you felt would take a long time to fulfill might be achieved in the twinkling of an eye today. Luck will grease the skids.

The civilian unemployment rate fell to 6.7 percent during the first month of 1986 (it had been 7.4 percent exactly one-year before). But minorities and teenagers were still hard-hit by joblessness.

Prison count ceiling sought

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — State officials are considering a court settlement that would lower the Texas Department of Corrections' inmate-population ceiling by several thousand if prisoners' living conditions are not improved, officials say.

An 18-page proposal, drawn up by special master Vince Nathan and obtained by the Houston Chronicle, aims to reduce the 40,089-inmate population by 1,500 by next year.

The proposal is an effort by attorneys to avoid a scheduled June 2 hearing before U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice. State attorneys acknowledge the state has failed to meet reforms ordered in connection with the 14-year-old prison lawsuit filed by former Texas prison inmate David Ruiz.

Scott McCown, assistant to Attorney General Jim Mattox, said the state is considering sanctions such as the lower ceiling rather than face fines of several thousand dollars a day.

"De-population is the common remedy in these types of prison lawsuits," McCown said. "The only thing I want to emphasize is that the accelerated de-population is on a penalty basis."

State officials agreed last year either to build new cells for about 4,130 inmates or reduce the prison population by that many convicts by 1989.

If penalties are imposed against the state, it could speed up the population reductions within the Texas prison system, the nation's second largest, officials said.

If the proposal is accepted, the releases will start next February.

Gov. Mark White has criticized the early release of convicts to settle the lawsuit.

State Rep. Allen Hightower, D-Huntsville, said he expects that any convicts released will probably be minor offenders.

"There are a certain number of people in the TDC that can't safely be turned loose," said Hightower, chairman of the House Law Enforcement Committee.

Under the proposal, dated March 20, the TDC would also house violent inmates and potential victims in one-man cells; add an unspecified number of guards in the dormitories of the five high-security units; have gymnasiums and recreational yards completed by Nov. 1; and construct 100 more cells for female inmates by Sept. 1, 1987.

Border arrests are up by 40 percent

HOUSTON (AP) — Illegal alien arrests along the Texas-Mexico border are on the increase, up 40 percent the first three months of 1986, and federal officials predict the increases will continue.

A mild Texas winter and Mexico's soured economy contributed to the increase, which amounted to 196,549 illegal immigrants arrests in Texas this year from January through March, U.S. Border Patrol officials said.

That number is 56,916 more than the 139,633 arrested during the same period in 1985, officials said earlier this week.

Cake decorating course scheduled

Cake decorating will be taught in a series of Continuing Education classes set to start April 7 at Western Texas College.

Classes will meet from 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Mondays through April 28 for a total of 12 hours of instruction. Tori Lyons will be the instructor.

Enrollment in the class will be limited to 16 students.

Persons wishing to enroll are to pre-register by calling the Continuing Education Office at WTC, 573-8511, ext. 240, in advance of the starting date. Fees are $25 per person and each student must provide a decorating kit. These may be purchased from the instructor on the first night of class.

Childbirth class adds exercises

Body building exercises will be taught in a prepared childbirth class to begin Tuesday night at Western Texas College.

Freda Murray, RN, will teach this Continuing Education course. Classes will meet from 6:30-9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays through May 13. Fees are $55 per couple.

Instruction in the class will also include breathing techniques, terms related to childbirth, and recognition of the three stages of labor. Proper diet for the expectant mother will be discussed. A hospital tour for class members is also planned.

To enroll call 573-8511, ext. 240. The fee will be paid on the first night of class. Students are to wear slacks and bring two pillows and a blanket on the first night of class.

Life saving course set

A senior life saving class has been scheduled to begin Tuesday at Western Texas College, Mike Harrison, instructor, said.

Classes will meet from 7-9:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays from April 8-24 except on April 15. There will also be classes from 5-9:30 p.m. on two Saturdays, April 12 and 26.

Fees will be $50 per person and this cost includes the textbook. Students will also need to bring a pencil to take notes and towels.

Students must be at least 15 years of age and must demonstrate swimming and diving skills. These include a front standing dive, diving up to a depth of eight feet then swimming a distance up to 20 feet, treading water for one minute and swimming 550 yards continually, using front crawl, side stroke, breast stroke and a stroke done on the back.

A student must achieve at least a score of 75 at the final evaluation to receive an American Red Cross Life Saving Certificate. They will be evaluated on class work and preparation (40 percent), skills and abilities (40 percent), and final knowledge and test (20 percent.)

Enrollment in the class will be limited to 20 persons. To preregister, students are to call 573-8511, ext. 240.

Border Patrol is scrutinizing security

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The security system at El Paso International Airport is under scrutiny after the break-up of an alien smuggling ring exposed a gaping hole, authorities said.

"People were boarding airplanes without ever going through the security check," said James Selbe, associate chief of the U.S. Border Patrol in El Paso. "Our main concern in breaking up the ring was not the volume of aliens being smuggled, because there weren't that many, but the security leak.

"This time it was aliens boarding planes. Next time it might be someone else."

George Perry, the airport's manager, said Wednesday "security as it is set up by the (Federal Aviation Adminstration) and the airlines is fallible."

"We're looking to see what we can do to prevent it," he said.

Selbe said the investigation into the alleged smuggling ring started about a month ago and culminated Tuesday with the indictments and arrests of three airport janitors.

Those indicted by a federal grand jury in El Paso were identified as Pablo Gallegos, 61,; Felix Botello, 55; and Jose Jaime Uribe, 30.

All three — charged with conspiring to transport, conceal, harbor and shield illegal aliens — are free on $10,000 bond each.

Perry declined to say if the janitors had been fired or suspended.

"People can be assured that we are responding appropriately," he said.

Selbe said that because of the security risks to passengers on American Airlines and United Airlines, Border Patrol agents and airport security officers decided to break up the smuggling operation prematurely.

"We only arrested the hired help," he said. "We do not have the ringleaders and organizers in custody. We will get those people later. We wanted to make the airlines safe first."

Selbe said the three men were the key to getting people around security and on the airplanes to extend their travels inside the United States.

"These three men were paid very little," he said. "Since they are airport janitors they had keys and access to all the rooms at the airport."

Selbe said aliens were charged about $500. According to the border patrol, the ring worked like this:

Someone in Mexico recruited people who wanted to come to the United States and got them into the country.

One of the ringleaders would then contact one of the airport janitors.

The janitors then would meet the aliens somewhere in El Paso, put them in their car and take them to the airport employee parking on the west side of the airport terminal.

The aliens would be escorted into a locked American Airlines operations room, which is connected to the airport's west wing.

"The janitors had their own keys to enter and clean this building," Selbe said.

From there the janitors would take the aliens through an employee stairway, which has a door leading to the concourse.

"When they got inside the concourse, they were already 88 feet beyond the security station," Selbe said.

The janitors would then take the aliens to a utility closet near the American and United boarding gates. The aliens were the hidden in a locked janitors' closet.

"The aliens already had their airline tickets," Selbe said. "The tickets were bought by someone else."

Ten minutes before the designated flight was to leave, a janitor would unlock the utility closet and let the people out.

"(The aliens) would get their boarding passes, get on the plane and take off without anyone noticing," Selbe said.

Reds could open season with three rookie outfielders

by The Associated Press

Three rookie outfielders could be on the Cincinnati Reds' roster for next Monday's season opener against Philadelphia following strong spring training performances.

Tracy Jones, Kal Daniels and Paul O'Neill, each of whom batted .300 or better last season for the Reds' farm team in Denver, played important roles Wednesday as Cincinnati beat Houston 3-2 in exhibition action. Jones had two hits to raise his spring average to .366, while Daniels and O'Neill keyed the Reds' three-run ninth-inning rally.

In other games, it was Oakland 16, Chicago Cubs 7; Milwaukee 22, Seattle 10; Detroit 9, Boston 3; New York Mets 7, Minnesota 1; New York Yankees 8, Chicago White Sox split squad 2; Kansas City 5, White Sox split squad 3; Los Angeles 2, Montreal split squad 1; Atlanta 7, Montreal split squad 1; Philadelphia 4, Toronto 3; Baltimore 12, Texas 6; Pittsburgh 10, St. Louis 7; Cleveland 9, San Francisco 8, and San Diego 6, California 5.

The Reds' ability to keep all three rookies on the opening-day roster may depend on a possible trade of Eddie Milner, last year's regular center fielder who has apparently lost his starting job to Eric Davis. Milner, despite batting .389, has had only 18 at-bats this spring because of an injured wrist.

Orioles 12, Rangers 6

Fred Lynn hit a pair of homers and Cal Ripken added a two-run shot as Baltimore bombed Texas.

Royals 5, White Sox 3

Tom Seaver, who has asked to be traded to New York or Boston, gave up a tie-breaking two-run homer to Frank White that helped Kansas City beat Chicago.

"All I can do is wait and see what develops," Seaver said. "I can't force anyone's hand. In essence, I'm a third party in this matter."

The White Sox scored twice off American League Cy Young Award winner Bret Saberhagen in 4 2-3 innings.

Yankees 8, White Sox 2

Ron Guidry allowed only three singles in seven shutout innings as he tuned up for the season

Lady Tigers to face tough competition at Sweetwater

SWEETWATER -- Snyder's Lady Tigers will be among a top-flight field competing at the Lady Mustang Relays here Saturday.

The single-day meet will feature Snyder, Sweetwater, Hamlin, Breckenridge, Brownwood, Sunray and Lake View.

Running prelims are scheduled for a 10 a.m. start and will include the 100, the 100 hurdles, the 400 and the 200 meters.

Field events will follow, with the triple jump, discus and high jump starting at 11:30 and the long jump and shot put at 12:30 p.m.

Finals are scheduled for 2:30 and will begin with the 3200 meters. The final event, the 1600 relay, will get underway about 4:30 p.m.

Hamlin features one of the area's top athletes, Cynthia Titus, who holds the state's third best triple jump (39-0), sixth best long jump (18-11¾) and sixth best 200 meters time (24.25) this season.

She may be challenged by Snyder's Karlene Thompson, whose 38-0¾ triple jump ranks sixth in the state. Thompson has also long jumped 18-7 and is capable of running the 200 meters in the 25s.

Breckenridge's Carla Riggins has jumped 37-9¾ which is seventh best in the triple jump this year.

Other standout individuals include Brownwood's Kay West, who has high jumped 5-6, Tiffany Jackson of Lake View, who has equalled that mark and Sweetwater's Tara Lemmons, who has thrown the discus 128-10.

Cougars lead decathlon at Austin's Texas Relays

AUSTIN (AP) - University of Houston athletes Harry Clark and Debbie DaCosta took first-day leads in the decathlon and the pentathlon at the 59th Texas Relays.

Clark, who finished the day with 4,143 points, set a Relays decathlon record Wednesday when he won the 400-meter run in 48.00. In second overall was was Sten Ekberg of Southern Methodist University. Ekberg won the high jump at 6 feet 9½ inches and posted a first day total of 4,091.

In the pentathlon, DaCosta won the 100 meter and 200 meter events, finishing the day with 3,557. Eva Karblom of Brigham Young placed in the top three in all of Wednesday's events and took second place overall with a 3,554 total.

Brenda Webb, running for the Puma Track Club, won the women's 10,000 meters in 33:36.7.

The decathlon and pentathlon conclude Thursday. An expected 2,000 athletes representing 200 schools will compete in the Texas Relays on Friday and Saturday.

Cowboys still tops with TV networks

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys may have been whipped 44-0 by the Chicago Bears, trounced 50-24 by the Cincinnati Bengals and shut out in the NFL playoffs by the Los Angeles Rams, but they remain favorites of the television networks.

In the National Football League schedule released Wednesday, the Cowboys will have the maximum three appearances on ABC television's Monday Night Football series this fall, although one of the games will actually be played on Sunday night.

For the fifth season in a row, the Cowboys will open the ABC football series. This year it will be a home game Sept. 8 against the New York Giants.

They also have another Monday night game against the St.

Spradling favors three-point line

It was unconfirmed this morning whether the decision by the National College Athletic Association to institute the three-point line in basketball will effect junior college members of the NJCAA, but it is expected that it will.

"I think we will be going by it, too. We go completely by NCAA rules," said Western Texas College coach Phil Spradling.

The Western Junior College Athletic Conference constitution and bylaws states "The National Collegiate Athletic Association Basketball Rules shall apply to all conference basketball games."

Western Texas College is a member of the WJCAC.

If the new rule does include the NJCAA, coaches may aim more toward recruiting outside shooters than in the past. That won't worry Spradling, at least not right away.

"I think it would be great. I think we have a couple of shooters coming back that can shoot it from 19 feet," he said, referring to John Lewis and Alvin Lee. Lee was the conference's third-leading scorer last season with a 20.3 average - mainly in the 18 to 20-foot range. Lewis is also a long-range threat.

For next season...

NCAA adopts 3-point goal

DALLAS (AP) - A decision by the NCAA men's basketball rules committee to impose a three-point goal and the use of instant replays to correct timing and scoring errors has met with mixed reviews by college coaches.

One praised the moves, another called the three-point goal "silly."

Notre Dame's Digger Phelps was less than enthusiastic about the rules changes, announced Wednesday by Dr. Edward S. Steitz, secretary-editor of the rules committee and athletic director of Springfield, Mass., College.

"It would be nice, one of these years, to let the game settle down and see what we really have," Phelps said. "If anything needed to be addressed, it's still the foul situation at the end of the game."

Southern Methodist Coach Dave Bliss thinks the idea will work.

"I think you'll see a lot of dramatic comeback attempts and a lot of dramatic losses," Bliss said. "I think it will be positive."

Under the new rule, three points will be credited for a shot made 19 feet, 9 inches from the basket.

In another rules change, coaches no longer will be charged with a technical foul if they leave the coaching box to protest errors involving time, scoring and alternating possession.

Louisville assistant coach Bobby Dotson questioned the need for the three-point goal.

"The game was going awfully good," he said. "I don't see why they need to mess with it. I can't understand why they would put something like this in.

"I think it's silly."

Steitz said the three point goal would ease the rough play beneath the basket.

"It's going to force teams to play more defense away from the basket," Steitz said. "People will say 'you are putting the little man back into the game' and that's good."

Steitz stressed that the used of instant replays would be used only to clarify timing and scoring questions.

An incident that occurred in Kansas City during the NCAA Midwest Regional two weeks ago was a factor decision to use instant replay, Steitz said.

A clock malfunctioned causing 15 seconds to be lost during a game between Kansas and Michigan State and the incident was blamed for blemishing the Jayhawks' victory.

"When there is a problem area that we haven't addressed, we'll try to address it," said Steitz, athletic director at Springfield, Mass., College.

Steitz said conferences experimented with different distances for the three-point goal before adopting the 19-9 distance.

"Some conferences used the pro distance (23-9) and didn't find that desirable," Steitz said. "As a result of a questionnaire, most of the coaches preferred 19-9."

In another rules changes, the committee eliminated the 28-foot hash marks and the combination count while a player is being closely guarded in the mid-court area.

Under the new rule, the entire front court will have a five-second count on a closely guarded player for either holding or dribbling the ball.

"Having just one count eliminates a lot of confusion," Steitz said.

Steitz said the committee also singled out several existing rules that would be stressed next season.

They include illegal use of hands and arms during rough post play; ejection of players because of flagrant intentional fouls; illegal screening away from the ball and three-second violations.

The committee also listed several items for experimentation including:

- Creation of a rear boundary arc concept. Instead of requiring 10 seconds to cross midcourt, teams would have to advance to the arc within 10 seconds.
- Widening the free throw lanes to the NBA width of 16-feet.
- Reducing the size of the backboard as a safety factor. The size reduction would be below the basket to help prevent player injury.
- Permit a player with four personal fouls at the end of regulation play to receive two more fouls in overtime play before fouling out. A player who fouled out in regulation play could not return in overtime.
- Reduce officials' pre-game jurisdiction from 30 minutes to 20 minutes.

Conferences that want to experiment with any of the items must receive approval from J. Dallas Shirley of the Southern Conference, Steitz said.

Shirley is the rules committee's research chairman.

Hicks, Dawn play in all-star contest

MIDLAND -- Western Texas College standouts Alvin Hicks and James Dawn wll compete in the Texas-USA All-Star game here Sunday at 3 p.m. in Chaparrel Center.

The game pits players from Texas junior colleges against those from other junior colleges throughout the United States.

Tickets are $5 each.

Joining the pair from Western will be Jeff Chumbley, 6-7, from Angelina; Edward Wright, 6-6, from Alvin; Tim Scott, 6-3, from Lon Morris; Wendell Perkins, 6-6, from Jacksonville; Cedric Ellis, 6-0, from Cisco; and Ricky Grace, 6-1, and Eddie Frazier, 6-6, both from Midland.

Heading up the USA team will be Tyronne Howard, 6-8 all-conference, all-region player from New Mexico Military Institute, who played against Western Texas and Midland during the past season. Others include Melvin Faust, 6-7, Miami Dade; Leonard Jackson, 6-3, Central Arizona; Ed Cox, 6-3, Grand Rapids; Harvey Grant, 6-9, Independence; Mitchell Richmond, 6-5, Moberly JC; Chris Blocker, 6-4, College of Southern Idaho; Jeff Flory, 6-6, Ellsworth, CC, Iowa Falls; Darrell McDonald, 6-3, Westchester CC; and Kenny Reynolds, 6-7, Chowan, N.C.

Hicks and Dawn will also compete in the TABC Texas Junior College All-Star Game on April 19 in Waco.

Dusters scheduled in Waco, April 18

WACO -- Pam Cox and Angela Jeans, all-conference, all-region choices from Western Texas College, will play in the Texas Association of Basketball Coaches Women's Junior College All-Star Game, Friday, April 18, here at McLennan Community College's Highlander Gym.

Tip-off for the contest, which pits Region 5 players against those from Region 14, is 6 p.m.

Joining the two sophomores from Western Texas will be Charlotte Lewis and Missy Davis from McLennan; Doreatha Conwell, Donna Wilson and Renay Daughtery from Odessa; Valerie Barnett from Cisco; Kasi Higgs from Grayson and Rolisha Goins from Weatherford.

Ken Hefner, coach of the national champion Odessa team, will serve as coach for the squad.

Cox, 5-8, averaged 17.9 points, 4.1 rebounds and 5.8 assists per game while shooting .581 from the field and .695 from the free throw line. Jeans, also 5-8, averaged averaged 10.6 points and 7.7 assists. She shot .583 from the floor and .795 from the free throw line.

Celtics set record with 28th home victory of the season

by The Associated Press

To K.C. Jones, records are no big deal, even when they are 36 years old.

"It is rest and preparation for the playoffs that are important," the Boston coach said Wednesday night after the Celtics established a single-season record with their 28th straight home victory. "A team in 1934 broke a record. Who cares? Twenty years from now nobody will care about this record."

The Celtics beat the Detroit Pistons 122-106 with an overpowering performance by their front line of Larry Bird, Robert Parish and Kevin McHale, who combined for 83 points and 37 rebounds.

"It's something that happens to be here on the way to the playoffs," Jones said of the record that broke the NBA mark for consecutive home victories established by the Minneapolis Lakers in 1949-50. "I really can't get into the record. I can get into what we need to win the ballgame."

But Detroit Coach Chuck Daly said the Boston players wanted the record.

"I'm sure the winning streak was in the back of their minds because they all played very hard tonight," Daly said. "I would rather have come in here on another night."

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Philadelphia 93, New York 87; Phoenix 110, Golden State 101; Los Angeles Clippers 97, Utah 94; and Portland 121, Seattle 109.

Parish had a season-high 30 points and 18 rebounds, Bird had 29 points, 11 rebounds and 13 assists and McHale added 24 points and eight rebounds.

The Pistons played without guard Isiah Thomas, who missed his third consecutive game with a pulled left hamstring.

The Celtics now are 37-1 at Boston, equalling the mark for most home victories in a season achieved twice each by Philadelphia and the Los Angeles Lakers. If Boston wins its remaining six games, it will tie the NBA mark for best single-season record, 69-13, set by the Lakers in 1971-72.

76ers 93, Knicks 87

Philadelphia, playing without center Moses Malone, still had plenty of healthy players to beat New York, which lost its sixth consecutive game.

Charles Barkley had 18 points and 19 rebounds and scored the first five points of the final period to extend a two-point lead to 73-66, and the Knicks, who have lost seven players for the season because of injuries, never caught up.

Julius Erving added 23 points and rookie Terry Catledge 19, while Maurice Cheeks collected 14 points, nine assists and seven steals for the 76ers, who have lost Malone for the rest of the regular season because of a fractured eye socket. Darrell Walker led New York with 18 points.

Suns 110, Warriors 101

Phoenix improved its playoff chances with a strong fourth quarter against Golden State.

Alvan Adams and Larry Nance, who had 31 points, 15 rebounds and seven blocked shots, scored eight points each as the Suns outscored the Warriors 37-22 in the fourth period to rally from a 79-73 deficit. The lead changed hands 11 times in the quarter before Jay Humphries' jumper with 3:54 left put Phoenix ahead for good at 96-95.

Phoenix, which also got 27 points from Walter Davis, is now only 1½ games behind San Antonio in the race for the eighth and final Western Conference playoff berth. Golden State, which was paced by Joe Barry Carroll with 18 points, is out of playoff contention.

Clippers 97, Jazz 94

Los Angeles also stayed in playoff contention as Benoit Benjamin had 18 points and 16 rebounds for the Clippers against Utah.

The Clippers' fourth straight victory moved them to within 2½ games of the Spurs. Los Angeles trails Phoenix by a game.

Mark Eaton's two hook shots capped an 8-0 Utah run, giving the Jazz an 86-82 advantage with 6:56 left. The lead changed hands four times before Benjamin gave Los Angeles the lead at 95-94 with a slam dunk with two minutes remaining, and Norm Nixon hit a 15-foot jumper for the final points of the game.

COWBOYS TOPS

Louis Cardinals and a Sunday night version of ABC's pro football show against the Los Angeles Rams, who whipped the Cowboys 24-0 in the NFL playoffs.

The Cowboys follow the Giants game with contests against the Detroit Lions, the Atlanta Falcons and then go to St. Louis for the Monday night contest against the Cardinals, who are coached by Gene Stallings, one of five former Dallas assistants who is now a head coach in the NFL.

Tom Landry's Cowboys will face two of the other former assistants, Dan Reeves' Denver Broncos and Mike Ditka's Chicago Bears later in the season.

The Cowboys face a tough 10-game stretch after that, including matches against Denver, Washington, Philadelphia and the Los Angeles Raiders. They'll close out the regular season with consecutive home games against Philadelphia and the Chicago Bears.

The exhibition schedule has the Cowboys playing the Bears in London Aug. 3; at San Diego Aug. 9; at the Raiders Aug. 16; at home against the Steelers Aug. 23 and at home against the Houston Oilers Aug. 30.

ROOKIE OUTFIELDERS

opener by beating Chicago.

A's 16, Cubs 7

Mike Davis and rookie Jose Canseco hit two home runs apiece for Oakland, with Davis adding a single in a seven-RBI performance.

Brewers 22, Mariners 10

Mike Felder hit two two home runs and drove in five runs in another windswept game. Felder led a 28-hit barrage that included five hits each by Robin Yount and Rick Cerone on a day when virtually every ball hit into the air was an adventure because of the winds.

Tigers 9, Red Sox 3

Alan Trammell, Kirk Gibson and Chet Lemon homered for Detroit while Dave LaPoint pitched seven innings, giving up three runs on six hits, including Bill Buckner's three-run homer. Boston's Al Nipper was tagged for six runs on 11 hits in six innings.

Mets 7, Twins 1

Dwight Gooden hurled seven scoreless innings in his strongest spring outing and Gary Carter's fourth home run ignited a six-run second inning for New York against Minnesota.

Dodgers 2, Expos 1

Pinch hitter Terry Whitfield doubled home the winning run for Los Angeles with two out in the bottom of the ninth, scoring Ken Landreaux.

by units of Aid Ambulance Snyder after Garcia's 1984 Chevrolet pickup was struck by a 1980 Dodge driven by Fredrick Darrell Williams of Hermleigh. The collision occurred at the intersection of 37th St. and Ave. C.

Injuries to Garcia and his son were said confined to numerous bruises and small cuts.

Units of the Snyder Fire Department were dispatched to the scene to wash down gasoline spilling from the pickup's fuel tank.

Also damaged in the mishap was a stop sign owned by the City of Snyder.

TWO SUSTAIN MINOR INJURIES — Vinsente Garcia of 210 31st St. and his 5-year-old son, David, were treated for minor injuries at Cogdell Memorial Hospital Wednesday evening after this 1984 Chevrolet pickup in which they were riding was struck broadside by a 1980 Dodge driven by Fredrick Williams of Hermleigh at the intersection of 37th St. and Ave. C.(SDN Staff Photo)

Passenger recalls bomb explosion

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — The blast that tore through a TWA jet over Greece ripped off a boy's wristwatch, shattered glass and punched a hole in the plane's side through which four American passengers vanished.

"There was a big bang and then the man beside me was blown out along with his seat," Ibrahim al-Nami, 29, recalled. "I felt myself being pulled out, too, and I hung on to my wife's seat beside me."

The Boeing 727, despite the gap in its side, landed minutes later in Athens — the original destination on the Wednesday flight. Those sucked from the plane included an American man.

from members of the Rodeo Club as well as the queen contestants and are available at Bar H Bar Western Wear and Koda Kountry Western Wear. They are priced at $4 for adults, $3 for students and $6 for box seats.

Students in Snyder schools can pick up free tickets for the Thursday night performance in the office of the principal at the school they attend. Students in Ira, Hermleigh and Borden County schools can get free tickets from their principal for the Saturday afternoon matinee starting at 2 p.m. The tickets must be obtained at the principal's office and will not be available at the box office.

Rodeo performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. on April 17-19 and at 2 p.m. April 19-20. WTC will also be conducting homecoming activities the same weekend, with most events on April 19. Information about the rodeo can be obtained from Bob Doty, WCT rodeo coach. Homecoming activities are being coordinated by Mickey Baird, student activities director.

Blood donor name omitted

The name of a second four-gallon blood donor from Tuesday's blood drive was inadvertently left out of Wednesday's report of the drive.

Also receiving recognition for four gallons of donated blood was Tommy Doyle.

3 parking lot wrecks noted

Police were called to investigate four minor traffic accidents Wednesday, three of these occurring on city parking lots.

Involved in the first — at 9:07 a.m. on the parking lot of Furr's Supermarket — were a 1981 Ford driven by Helen Miller Brumley of Rt. 3, Snyder and a 1974 Buick driven by Evelyn Young Elliott of 304 36th St.

The day's second mishap was reported on the parking lot at Snyder High School at 12:06 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1981 Ford driven by Kelly Ann Walker of the Arah Rt. and a 1981 Chevrolet driven by Samuel Edward Becerra of Rt. 3, Snyder.

The third accident was reported on the parking lot of the C&W Food Store at U.S. Highway 84 and Huffman Ave. at 1:59 p.m.

According to police reports, a security light pole owned by the convenience store was struck by a 1986 Kenworth tractor-trailer rig driven by Nathaniel Savage of Dallas.

Wednesday's fourth accident was reported at 4:02 p.m. in the 1200 Block of College Ave.

Involved in it were a 1984 Buick driven by Alvah Jackson Jones of the Arah Rt. and a 1980 GMC driven by Juanita Ramirez Gonzales of Colorado City.

Bikes returned by city police

Police reported the return Wednesday of two bicycles reported stolen from a west Snyder residence Monday.

The bikes were initially reported missing by Don Cole of 4603 El Paso Ave. The bikes were later said spotted in the neighborhood and were returned to Cole by police.

No charges have been filed in connection with the incident.

In other action Wednesday, police jailed six subjects on misdemeanor charges.

Two each were charged with public intoxication and driving while intoxicated.

One of the DWI suspects was also charged with a single count of unlawfully carrying a weapon.

Two other subjects were arrested on misdemeanor warrants — one for failure to pay a fine for public intoxication and one for failure to pay fines for traffic citations issued by the Department of Public Safety.

Extra security in place for Bush's trip to Persian Gulf

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush sets out today on a trip to the Persian Gulf region, where officials say "prudent" security precautions are in place because of heightened concern for his safety.

Marlin Fitzwater, the vice president's press secretary, said there had been no change in Bush's schedule because of the bombing Wednesday of a TWA jetliner bound for Athens.

Administration officials say the trip poses greater-than-usual security risks for Bush because of recent threats by Libya's Moammar Khadafy to strike at Americans in retaliation for U.S. military action against Libya in the Gulf of Sidra.

After an overnight stop in Frankfurt, West Germany, the vice president will arrive in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, on Saturday, the first stop on a 10-day tour that also will take him to Bahrain, Oman and North Yemen.

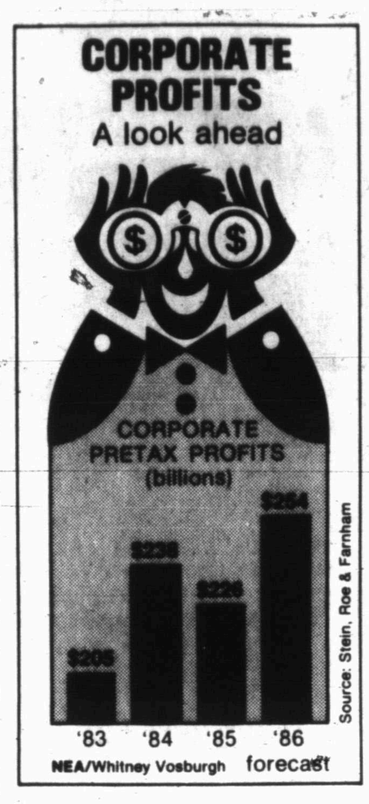
He is scheduled to return to Washington April 13.

Four people were killed in the explosion on the TWA jetliner. An anonymous telephone caller in Beirut, claiming to speak for Arab Revolutionary Cells, said the underground Palestinian group was responsible for the blast.

The group is believed linked to Libya, and the caller told a Western news agency that the bomb was planted on the plane in retaliation for the U.S. action against Libya.

Even before the plane bombing, increased security steps were adopted for the vice president, and officials, speaking on condition they not be identified, said Secret Service agents would be more visible than usual.

"I think all prudent measures were being taken before this, that we're certainly aware of what Khadafy is saying and that there are other (terrorist) groups out there that are active," said Donald Gregg, the national security adviser to Bush.



Corporate profits should be higher this year, since the dollar's lower foreign-exchange rate will ease foreign competition with U.S. industry.

Court considers single appraisals

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court has under consideration a challenge to the state law calling for single countywide property tax appraisals.

Galveston County Tax Assessor-Collector Chuck Wilson, along with similar county officials throughout the state, claims the statute takes away authority given them by the state constitution.

"The Legislature failed woefully," Galveston attorney Anthony Griffin Jr. said Wednesday of a 1981 constitutional amendment that includes counties in single county-wide appraisal districts.

"We ask you to declare this amendment unconstitutional," said Griffin, speaking for Wilson.

Griffin added that such action would make the county tax assessor-collector become the chief tax appraiser for all government units, including school districts and all special districts.

Arguing against Griffin and in support of the amendment were the Galveston County Central Appraisal District, aided by the state attorney general.

Wilson filed suit against the appraisal district after the dristrict canceled a contract with the county official to do countywide property appraisals.

The district won its case in a Galveston district court, and it was appealed directly to the Supreme Court because it involved the state constitution.

Griffin said the state constitution of 1854 and state property tax laws of 1954 said the county tax assessor-collector would "do all the assessing and collecting of taxes within county."

A 1980 constitution change, resulting from passage of the so-called Peveto bill, said a single property appraisal would be made for all taxing units except the county.

Later, voters approved an amendment that allowed the Legislature to include counties.

J. Pylant to give recital in Lubbock

Jacqueline Pylant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Snider and Jackie Pylant, will present a senior piano recital at Hemmle Recital Hall at Texas Tech University at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Pylant will be graduating from Tech Magna Cum Laude in May with a bachelor of music education degree. Upon graduation, she intends to pursue a master of business administration degree with an emphasis on accounting.

During her undergraduate studies she has made either the Dean's List or President's List each semester. Honor societies of which she is a member include Kappa Mu Epsilon Math Honor Society, Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society, Golden Key Honor Society, and Alpha Lambda Delta Freshman Honor Society. During her freshman year she was a member of the Texas Tech marching band.

She began her musical training under her mother, Joann Snider, and studied under Ralph Wesson for five years. She continued her study with Mrs. Ross Griffin and Mrs. Jerry Neill. During her high school years she studied with Mrs. Randy Perkins. For the past four years, while at Texas Tech, she has studied with Richard Redinger.

On Saturday, Pylant will be performing compositions from the classical, romantic, and contemporary eras which include Mozart's Sonata XIV, K. 310, Grieg's Piano Concerto in A minor, op. 16, and Richard Muczynski's Maverick Pieces for Piano op. 37, numbers 6, 8, and 9.

JACQUELINE PYLANT

The orchestral section of the concerto will be played on piano by Wilma Turner. The recital is open to the public and persons interested are invited to attend.

Hearing to determine fate of snake

BALLINGER, Texas (AP) — A West Texas showdown is scheduled tonight in a hearing to determine the fate of the Concho River Snake.

Opponents say it's just a "damn snake."

But, supporters counter, it's a snake that calls the site of the proposed Stacy Dam Reservoir its only home in the world.

The Concho River snake, nerodia harteria paucimaculata to its friends, is the subject of a public hearing at the Runnels County Courthouse that will draw representatives of federal, state and local governments and agencies.

Those scheduled to attend the hearing include state Sens. John T. Montford of Lubbock, Bill Sims of San Angelo, Ray Farabee of Wichita Falls and Grant Jones of Temple; and state Reps. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring and Dick Burnett of San Angelo.

Called by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the hearing is intended to allow officials to sound off on the federal agency's proposal to grant the snake status as a threatened species.

If the status is granted, the snake and its environment would be protected under the federal Endangered Species Act of 1973. The Concho Water Snake has been listed as a Texas endangered species since 1977.

Because its habitat is within areas targeted for the reservoir and dam, the snake could postpone or halt construction of the Stacy project.

The reservoir will be in Coleman, Concho and Runnels counties.

Supporters of the dam, including many cities and counties that will rely on Stacy Dam for a major water source, say the need for the water snake doesn't come close to the need for water in West Texas.

But some maintain the snake's habitat, critical for the snake's survival, would be endangered by construction of the dam.

"There is a rapid rate of extinction as a result of human impact," said John Peslak, a chemistry and physics professor at Hardin-Simmons University and conservationist of the Big Country Audubon Society.

Pezlak laughingly concedes his statements at the hearing won't be popular, and he undoubtedly will be outnumbered.

"We hear all these claims about an endangered snake, but the West Texas water situation is in danger, too," said Chino Chapa, an aide to U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Stamford.

Owen Ivie, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, said Abilene, San Angelo, Odessa, Midland, Ballinger, Coleman and Paint Creek are among cities objecting to granting the snake threatened species status.

Concho County Judge Charles Dankworth said he will make a statement on behalf of his county objecting to listing the snake as threatened.

Peslak, who will make a presentation on behalf of the Big Country Audubon Society, said most people are misinformed about the snake, which numbers between 300-600.

The snake's habitat "is absolutely critical to maintain the snake," he said. "The snake is going to be listed."

Peslak said there is room for compromise, but it probably would mean a delay in the construction of Stacy Dam.

Dr. Bruce C. Thompson, program leader for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department's Nongame Endangered Species Program, said the snake was given protection under the Texas Endangered Species Act in 1977.

However, the state act only addresses the issue of capturing the snake and doesn't deal with protecting its habitat, he said.

Thompson said the snake probably couldn't survive in a reservoir because it forages and breeds in areas where there is flowing water over a rocky substance.
