SENATORIAL CONTEST ONLY TEXAS ISSUE OF STATEWIDE INTEREST

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Earle B. Mayfield's name appears on election ballots in a majority of Texas counties in today's general election, reports received at state offices here today indicate. The democratic nominee's name was placed on ballots in a number of counties after all night work last night, according to the reports.

DALLAS, Nov. 7.—Earle B. Mayfield, democratic candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Charles A. Culberson, and George Peddy, independent democrat and endorsed by the republican state committee, are the two figures of overshadowing interest in today's election in Texas.

Mayfield, with his name on the ballot in a number of counties, and legally entitled to a place on all of the ballots in the state, by virtue of an eleventh hour supreme court ruling in his favor, is said to have the Ku Klux Klan casting a solid vote for him today, although he has not said anything about the klan in his campaigning. Peddy is figured on to swing the anti-klan and the solid republican vote today. Peddy's name is not on the ballot.

The election climaxes a bitter battle of lawsuits, injunctions and mandamus proceedings and follows the brief lull occasioned by the supreme court's ruling yesterday nullifying all pre-election litigation.

Peddy, at El Paso, claimed victory in a final statement stating Mayfield was not the real democratic candidate. Mayfield at Houston also expressed optimism as to the result.

For probably the first time in Texas political history the republicans have practically a complete ticket in the field and claim the fourteenth and ninth congressional districts. In the former district, Representative Harry M. Wurzbach, republican, faces Harry Hertzberg, democrat, both opposing the Ku Klux Klan and the Volstead act. In the ninth district Congressman Joseph J. Mansfield, democrat, has for his opponent Willett W. Wilson, republican.

The democrats in the 16 other congressional districts, virtually sure of election, all are "dry" so far as is known. The republican party by out-and-out statement and by intimation has made its fight upon the democratic state committee's endorsement of Mayfield.

DALLAS COUNTY BALLOTS ARE BLANK FOR SENATOR

DALLAS, Nov. 7.—Favorable weather promised to bring out a large vote in Dallas county. Earle B. Mayfield's name was not on the election ballot, the county election board having decided last night that final court action came too late to permit printing new tickets.

At San Antonio special instructions were given Bexar county election judges to write Mr. Mayfield's name on the ballot as it is presented the voter. This authorization was issued by the county clerk.

Counties in which Mayfield's name is known to have been placed on the ballot at the last minute include Harris, Harrison, Williamson, Tarrant, Palo Pinto, Navarro, Taylor, Ellis, Wichita and Grayson.

GOVERNOR NEFF VOTES NUMBER 25 AT WACO

WACO, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Governor Neff came home to vote today, arriving early this morning. His vote was number 25. He left at 11 o'clock for Houston, where he speaks tonight.

FOR UNITED STATE SENATOR BLANK IN GALVESTON COUNTY

GALVESTON, Nov. 7.—With unsettled weather following a hard rain early this morning, balloting began briskly. There were no names of candidates for the United States senate on the ticket.

MAYFIELD'S NAME ON HARRIS COUNTY BALLOTS

HOUSTON, Nov. 7.—A light rain throughout the county had a material effect on the voting here

ONE MAN IN JAIL OTHER IN HOSPITAL

DENISON, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—An election argument here this morning landed one man in jail and sent the other to the hospital. Bill Shelton received a severe scalp wound and several cuts on the face for his heated defense of one of the senatorial candidates, Virgil Noel, the champion of the other candidate, went to jail charged with assault.

Voting in Texas

HOUSTON, Nov. 7.—Early tabulations in Houston showed Mayfield carrying the city three to one and election observers said the same is true of the rural boxes. Voters in Harris county also are balloting on a $6,000,000 road bond issue which requires a two-thirds vote. From early indications a commanding late vote will be required to pass it.

DENISON, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Less than 500 votes, under 15 per cent of the total vote, had been cast here at 2 p. m. Peddy is leading Mayfield by a big majority. The tickets are being generally scratched.

AMARILLO, Nov. 7.—Voting here at 2 p. m. today indicated that not more than 40 per cent of the votes polled in August will be cast in today's election.

ABILENE, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—The balloting here early this afternoon was very light.

BEAUMONT, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Check up of votes at 1 o'clock this afternoon in 13 city boxes here and at Port Arthur showed less than 1,000 votes cast out of a possible 8,000.

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—But scant interest is being shown here in today's election, only 1,400 votes having been cast in the city up to 1 p. m. There are approximately 8,000 registered voters in the city.

WACO, Nov. 7.—Little interest is being shown in the election. About 20 per cent of a total vote had been cast at 1 p. m. It is believed 40 per cent will vote during the day.

DALLAS, Nov. 7.—Comparatively light vote had been cast in most of the voting places in Dallas according to reports early this afternoon. There were no indications whether there would be a rush in the remaining hours the polls will be open.

MAN AND WIFE DROWN WHEN SKIFF OVERTURNS

BROWNSVILLE, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Pedro Cisneros, 25, and his wife, 18, were drowned in the Rio Grande above the Harlingen pumping plant yesterday when their skiff was overturned. Search was being made for the bodies today.

REPORT SITUATION IS QUIET AT CHILDRESS

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Ranger J. B. Wheeler, in charge of state rangers stationed at Childress, was here today and conferred at length with Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton. Wheeler said the situation at Childress is in complete control of the ranger force and is not alarming.

FILE BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT FOR $200,000

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 7.—A breach of promise suit for $200,000 was filed here today by Mrs. Lillian C. Hunter on behalf of her 20-year-old daughter, Gertrude Gladys Hunter, against Paul E. Heller. The latter, 50 years old, is a member of Newark's old and wealthy families.

Widow of Ballew Denies Reports of Notches on Pistol

ARDMORE, OKLA., Nov. 7.—The widow of "Bud" Ballew, famous peace officer and gun fighter of the southwest, who was slain last spring at Wichita Falls, Texas, appeared at a local newspaper office today and exhibiting the weapons as proof, denied reports that one of the two pearl handled "six shooters" which "Bud" wore at the time of his death bore six notches.

She said she wished to correct the erroneous impression which originated from the report that the notches were for six men who met death at "Bud's" hands.

DENY APPLICATION COMMUNIST LEADER FOR WRIT OF ERROR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Associate Justice Sutherland today denied the application of William Bross Lloyd and 17 other members of the communist labor party for a writ of error which would bring to the supreme court for review their conviction in Illinois on the charge of conspiracy to violate the state sedition law of 1919.

HAVE BUT ONE CHANCE OF ESCAPING SENTENCE

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Rehearing of the conviction of William Bross Lloyd and 17 other members of the communist labor party has been denied by the Illinois supreme court and the refusal of Justice Sutherland at Washington today to grant a writ of error apparently leaves action by the full United States supreme court the last chance of escaping sentence.

Lloyd, wealthy son of a Boston philanthropist and resident of Chicago, and two others were sentenced to prison for from one to five years and fined $2,000 each for violation of the state sedition law. Four others received similar prison sentences without fines. Two were fined $1,000 each and the others were sentenced to jail for one year.

'MORE BUSINESS' ONLY SOLUTION OF ORIENT PROBLEM

PARSONS, KAN., Nov. 7.—Solution of the difficulties of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad is "more business," Clyde M. Reed, chairman of the Kansas public utilities commission, said today before leaving for Washington, where he will present the case of the railroad before the interstate commerce commission Friday.

Mr. Reed will present the reports and recommendations of railroad experts who recently toured the Orient railroad. He intimated today that differential freight rates in behalf of the Orient might be suggested as a method of obtaining more business.

"A differential freight rate," he said, "merely gives the weaker railroad a chance to get more business."

WOMAN BEING HELD AS WITNESS IN CONNECTION WITH THE SHIELD CASE

MOSCOW, Nov. 7.—The police at Simbirsk who are investigating the disappearance three months ago of Philip J. Shield, American relief worker, are holding a woman who told them that late in the evening of October 15 she saw two men lugging a sack from which two human legs protruded.

TWO HIGHWAYMEN BELIEVED DEAD AS RESULT GUN FIGHT

WICHITA, KAN., Nov. 7.—Two of five highwaymen are believed to be dead as the result of a gun battle between H. Jones of Newton, Kan., and the alleged bandits on a highway nine miles north of Wichita last night. Officers of Sedgwick and Harvey counties were searching the country in the vicinity of the fight today.

Jones, after firing at the men, drove to Newton and gave an account of the fight to Sheriff Patton. He told the Newton officer that two of the men fell when he emptied his pistol at them. According to Jones the men placed an automobile tire in the road as a lure.

According to Sheriff Doug Simmons of Sedgwick county, five bandits have been operating in that vicinity for some time, several reports of attempted holdups having been made to him. The automobile tire, he said, had been used as a lure in each instance.

Unusual Interest In General Election In Many of The States

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 7.—Partial returns from seven counties in Kansas, as announced by the election judges, give for governor:

Davis, democrat, 3,342; Morgan republican, 1,564.

The precincts represented were principally in railroad centers where the early labor vote was heavy.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The first complete returns in today's election came from the town of Mashpee. The vote for governor and for senator was:

Governor: Cox, republican, 52; Fitzgerald, democrat, 6.

Senator: Gaston, democrat, 7; Lodge, republican, 54.

The vote of the same town in the last election, 1920, for governor was: Cox, republican, 44; Walsh, democrat, 2.

The vote of New Ashford was:

Governor: Cox, republican, 11; Fitzgerald, democrat, 3.

Senator: Gaston, democrat, 4; Lodge, republican, 10.

The vote two years ago was, for governor: Cox, republican, 22; Walsh, democrat, 5.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 7.—One precinct from Bartlesville, a normally republican county, reported complete shortly after noon today in the gubernatorial race, showing the vote:

John Fields, republican, 83; J. C. Walton, democrat, 37.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Fair weather for today's election was forecast generally for the north central states, except in extreme upper lake regions and the Dakotas, where rain and snow are expected to affect the size of the vote of the rural districts.

Nine of the 33 states electing United States senators today are commonwealths of the middle west. They are: Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio and Wisconsin. Most of the senatorial contests in these states rank as exceptional nationwide attractions.

The Ohio and Illinois beer and wine referendums are before the voters for an expression of sentiment, and Missouri presents a wet and dry fight in the senatorial contest between Senator James A. Reed, democrat, and Reginald Brewster, republican.

Reed, opposed by organized drys and Wilson democrats, relied on many wet republicans to desert the Brewster standard and rally behind him on the prohibition issue. Aside from the democratic candidate of a woman, Mrs. J. J. Hoover, who is opposing Senator LaFollette, the chief outside interest in Wisconsin centers in the candidacy of Victor Berger, socialist, for the congressional seat to which he was twice elected and from which he was both times unseated.

Situation in Iowa.

In Iowa one of the features in the senatorial contest was interest in the size of the republican revolt against the party nominee, Smith W. Brookhart.

Clyde L. Herring, the democratic candidate, expected support from the republican rebels.

In Nebraska, where Senator Hitchcock and William Jennings Bryan buried their hatchets after the Commoner's brother, Charles, won the democratic nomination for governor, Hitchcock and his republican opponent, R. B. Howell, ended intense campaigns.

Indiana's senatorial contest between former Senator Beveridge, republican, and former Governor Ralston, democrat, and the Michigan battle between Senator Townsend and former Governor Ferris are regarded by party managers as among the most important.

Illinois' chief issue aside from the congressional contests is the fight of Governor Small and Mayor Thompson of Chicago for bi-partisan control of the legislature. The governor and the mayor sought support of candidates, irrespective of party, who would go along with the Small-Thompson program, Illinois and Iowa vote on the soldiers' bonus.

ELECTIONS ARE HAVING EFFECT IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — Elections over the country today had their effect in Washington. In every government department there were many vacant places. Several members of the cabinet and many under officials and employes having gone home to vote. However, an increasing number voted by mail.

Having registered his choice in this manner, President Harding was at his office at the usual hour with a full day ahead. He had the latest forecast of his party lieutenants, and as the day wore along received scattering reports. Tonight he was to get the results in his study as rapidly as they could be received at the executive offices over an Associated Press wire and relayed to him over the telephone by Secretary Christian.

Four members of the president's cabinet remained in Washington. Of those Secretaries Hughes, Weeks and Wallace voted by mail. Attorney General Daugherty also voted by mail, but spent today in Baltimore with Mrs. Daugherty, who is recuperating after an operation. Three members of the cabinet will not vote. Secretary Mellon, it was said, was prevented from registering by pressure of public business; Secretary Hoover, now on his way west to a meeting of the Colorado river commission at Santa Fe, N. M., is unable to reach his home state of California in time for the election, while Secretary Davis is still in the far west where he has been campaigning.

While there was no accurate information as to just how many votes were cast today by residents of "voteless" Washington, leaders of the two principal parties estimat that there are upwards of 50,000 eligible to vote in the District of Columbia, the number having been swelled since the enactment by 24 states of laws permitting absent residents to vote by mail. Both the major parties maintain organizations here to get out through the mails the votes of those of the 400,000 odd residents who have that right.

HEAVY VOTE IS EXPECTED IN CALIFORNIA ELECTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—Unsettled weather prevailed in many parts of the far west early today but a heavy vote was expected to be cast for the various federal and state candidates, constitutional amendments and initiative measures on the ballots of the regions from the Rocky mountains to the Pacific ocean. All the Pacific slope states except Oregon, Idaho and Colorado are electing United States senators. Reelection is sought by one senator in each of the states of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Washington, Nevada, Wyoming and Utah. Gubernatorial campaigns have been waged in most of the states. The usual executive, legislative and ju-

Warning Issued Invisible Eye Is Watching Voters

PARIS, ILL., Nov. 7.—Robed Ku Klux Klansmen today gave warning against buying and selling of votes in the election here today.

Klansmen in full regalia drove into the city from the north and posted placards near all polling places reading:

"Vote buyers and vote sellers beware; the invisible eye is watching you."

The incident caused excitement and authorities swore in additional officers to prevent any possible violence.

LLOYD GEORGE REFERS TO NEAR EAST CRISIS IN 'I TOLD YOU SO' MANNER

By Associated Press.

NEWCASTLE, Nov. 7.—Lloyd George made some sharp references to the crisis which has arisen in the near east since his fall from the premiership in the political address which he delivered before a large assemblage here today.

"The near east is beginning to show symptoms of inflammation," he said. "Whatever happens, our flag must not be let down.

"We had got rid of the Turk but he has looked at the list of new ministers and come to the conclusion that this is the time for another try.

"If the government stands by the flag, my friends, I will be wholeheartedly behind them. I entreat the government to show the Turk that we will not be trifled with and that the Turk must stand by the document signed a few weeks ago at Mudania."

WANT SHIPPING BOARD TO DISCONTINUE SHIPS FROM COAST TO COAST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — The shipping board was urged today by the chamber of commerce of the United States to discontinue the use of government owned ships in service between Atlantic and Pacific ports. In a letter to Chairman Lasker, Julius H. Barnes, president of the chamber, declared the coast to coast shipping was provided with adequate private owned tonnage and remonstrated against government craft entering into competition with private enterprise under present conditions.

CHICAGO YOUTH HELD IN CONNECTION WITH TWENTY RECENT FIRES

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Jack Sorrenti, 24, was held by the police today in connection with investigation of 20 or more fires believed to have been started during the last month by a pyromaniac. One woman was burned to death and several persons were injured and overcome by smoke in one of these most recent fires.

Sorrenti was arrested when he was observed trying to burn a $10 bill with a cigaret. "Like to see things burn," he sai

BELIEVE KEMALISTS WILL CLIMB DOWN FROM HIGH HORSES

UNITED ATTITUDE OF ALLIES EEXPECTED TO BRING RESULTS

SUBJECT OF CONFERENCE HELD AT CONSTANTINOPLE

Turks Informed hat Allies Intend to Retain Military Authority

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—The British authorities have ordered the customs house closed and announce that they will operate the customs under the former tariff convention. This is almost certain to provoke opposition and resentment among the Kemalists, who are seeking to establish their own customs regime.

By Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—There is reason to believe that the Kemalists will climb down off their high horses. The allies now have taken a strong united attiude towards the demands of the Angora government that the allied troops evacuate Constantinople and that only one warship at a time enter Turkish ports and then only with the consent of Angora authorities.

The demands of the Kemalists, which the allied commissioners have refused to grant, and the new crisis which has arisen from this situation were the subject of a conference yesterday between the allied general and Rafet Pasha, the new civil governor of Constantinople. The tone of this meeting was sharp and positive, in strong contrast to the previous meetings, which were characteried by friendly and mutual consideration.

The allied generals informed Rafet Pasha in clear terms that they intend to retain military authority in Constantinople until it is decided to formally turn the area over to the Turks. Rafet then said he was anxious to agree with the allies and work in unison with them but that he could not accept outside control in any form.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Charles Harington, in command of British forces at Constantinople, told Rafet that he was apparently trying to usurp the authority of the allied generals. The Turkish leader declared Angora had asked for the removal of the allied troops and warships.

Rafet has assumed control of maintaining public order and public administration in Constantinople. He has been dismissing officials right and left and closing the customs. Reminding him of these things, Sir Charles told the nationalist governor apparently he had forgotten there was a treaty of Mudros, signed October 30, 1918, bringing and end to hostilities between the allied powers and Turkey. He reminded him this armistice treaty was not superseded by the Mudania convention.

Lieut. Gen. Herington declared Constantinople eventually would be turned over to the nationalists and he thought this might take place within a few weeks.

Meanwhile the allies will be responsible for the maintenance of public security and they are not going to give up that responsibility, Sir Charles insisted. His declarations were endorsed by Colonel Charpy and General Mombelli, the French and Italian military representatives.

TURKISH DEMANDS CAUSE MUCH ANXIETY IN LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The surprising demands which the Kemalists have made upon the allies in Constantinople since they took over the civil government on Saturday still causes a great deal of anxiety in London. The feeling of uneasiness has been intensified by the scarcity of news from Constantinople in the last 24 hours.

London newspapers treat the situation seriously and prominently. Deep suspicion of the aims of the Turkish nationalists is almost unanimous among the papers.

All seem worried about the safety of the non-Turkish population at the sublime porte.

A Times dispatch from Constantinople dated Monday but not timed, said the situation had become most critical and that the Angora government apparently was determined to take advantage of the confused political situation in Great Britain and by a series of accomplished facts to quickly carry out the whole nationalist program despite checks applied by the Mudania convention.

The dispatches from Constantinople reported that there was much nervousness in allied quarters there and that the European and other foreigners were preparing to leave at a moment's notice. Business is at a standstill and the unloading of

RECOVER 63 BODIES .13 MORE IN MINE; BELIEVE ALL FOUND

SPANGLER, PA., Nov. 7.—Thirteen additional bodies were taken from the mine of the Reilly Coal company here bringing the total dead recovered to 63. All are in the temporary morgue. Thirteen more bodies were in the mine, rescuers said, and 32 injured were in the miners' hospital. An explosion yesterday entombed the men.

Mine rescue experts said they had explored all but two of the headings and did not expect to find any more bodies.

Volunteers have been obtained to dig the graves of the victims, most of whom will be buried in two Catholic cemeteries here. A carload of coffins arrived in Spangler this morning.

By Associated Press.

SPANGLER, PA., Nov. 7.—The bodies of 50 miners who lost their lives in the Reilly mine explosion here yesterday lay in the city morge at 9 o'clock this morning. Thirteen more were in sight in the mine, rescue workers said, and 32 injured were in the miners' hospital.

Leaders of rescuers summarized the situation at that hour:

Men in mine when explosion occurred not more than 112.

Bodies recovered 50.

Bodies located in mine 13.

Injured in hospital 32.

Total unaccounted for 95.

There was still some uncertainty as to the number of men who went to work yesterday but it was pointed out that if the total was 112, as some authorities believed, the missing 17 miners would probably be found in the eighth heading where the water had risen so rapidly that exploration this morning had been impossible. Even if these men had gone into the mine, it was asserted, they had probably perished.

If that proved true, the leaders said, the number of dead would reach 80.

Efforts were being made to repair the pumps, damaged by the explosion, while a force of workers were cutting a passageway through the coal between the eighth and ninth headings. With this work complete, they hoped to reach the last of the unexplored galleries by noon today.

By Associated Press.

SPANGLER, PA., Nov. 7.—The gas-choked channels of the Reilly mine were giving up their dead today.

Forty victims of the explosion had been brought to the surface early as rescue workers searched through the treacherous water-soaked passages for the remaining dead, 15 to 20, believed to have perished when the blast entombed more than 90 men soon after they had gone down to work yesterday morning.

Officials of the Reilly Coal company, owners of the mine, were not certain of the number in the pit when the disaster occurred. They expressed the belief that the death toll would be about 60.

Thirty-three men rescued last night are in a hospital here. Physicians said all would recover.

The task of removing the dead started about 2 o'clock this morning after widows and children of the missing men had been induced to return home. They had stood in the rain all through yesterday. Rescue leaders believed that the mine would be cleared of bodies soon after daybreak.

Miners' hall, a little structure here, was the temporary morgue to which the victims were carried to await arrival of relatives to claim them.

Red Cross and Salvation Army workers from Pittsburgh, Altoona and Johnstown met rescue squads at the mouth of the mine with refreshments as the men came to the surface to rest for further exploitation of the hazardous, muddy levels.

New Main Shaft.

Rescuers reported that when they entered the mine soon after noon yesterday lifeless bodies were encountered as close as 100 feet to the main shaft. Those who reached the shaft were saved by the downpouring fresh air, it was said.

Hopes were revived when a rough brattice was found blocking a shaft. Scrawled on the timbers was the message, "There are 29 miners behind this."

However, relief crews feared that removal of the obstruction would mean death for any living man behind it, as the gas was so dense that it was even then necessary to work with oxygen helmets.

Other rescuers later found more than a score of bodies at the spot believed to have been behind this brattice.

Damage to the mine was small, officials announced. No cause for the explosion was announced. It was claimed, however, that inspectors reported the mine free from gas just before the men entered it.

The fan building, 200 feet from the mine tipple, was jarred from its foundations by the explosion, examination showed. Movable bulkheads to be lowered to the gas filled depths and swept through the chambers on the front of mine wagons to aid in clearing away the fumes are being constructed today.

No hope was entertained that any living miners now remain in the pits.

THREE ARE ARRESTED IN KANSAS CITY AND ADMIT ILLEGAL VOTE

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 7.—Three men alleged to have voted names other than their own in the third precinct of the first ward were arrested at the polling place after they had been challenged by a republican worker. They admitted, according to the police, that they had voted names on the registration books and had been promised pay for it.

HOWARD BRACKEN GIVEN LIFE TERM IN MURDER CASE

DURANT, OKLA., Nov. 7.—Howard Bracken today was found guilty of the murder of R. C. Means of Tulsa and sentenced to life imprisonment. The jury deliberated six hours. Bracken received the verdict calmly, still protesting his innocence.

Harry Zack, also charged with Means' murder, will be tried later.

FORMER BASEBALL PLAYER DIES AT DETROIT HOME

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—Sam Thompson, 62, a member of the old Detroit National league baseball team and one of the best known baseball players of earlier days, died at his home here today.

POLICE CHIEF OF FORT WORTH HAS BEEN SUSPENDED

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—Police Chief Hamilton was suspended from office this afternoon and hearing asked for him before the city commission by Police Commissioner Alderman, before he is finally removed from office. Insubordination is the charge against Hamilton. The latter demanded a hearing, refusing to resign. Pending the hearing he will not be allowed to handle the force.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—No new developments were in evidence today in the controversy between City Commissioner Alderman and Chief of Police Hamilton which originated when Alderman requested Hamilton's resignation and Hamilton refused.

It had been generally expected that the controversy would be aired by the commission when it met this morning. Corporation Counsel Rouer raised the point, however, that any action taken by the board today might be held illegal in case of a contest because it is a legal holiday.

LIGHT VOTE HERE; MAYFIELD EXPECTED TO CARRY COUNTY

Reports from voting precincts in Wichita county early Tuesday afternoon indicated a generally light participation in the general election and it appeared that the mass of voters were not bestirring themselves.

The fact that E. B. Mayfield's name appears on the ballot as a democratic nominee for the senate is considered as making certain that he will carry Wichita county. There was no information available as to the percentage of voters who were scratching his name out and writing Peddy's in, but it was not thought that many were doing so.

While many who ordinarily would have voted for an unchallenged democratic nominee are writing in Peddy's name, it was reported Tuesday that many republicans were failing to write Peddy's name, so that the Houston man's vote in this county will probably not be greatly in excess of that accorded the republican ticket.

The polls will remain open until 7 p. m.

Election Returns Bulletined Tonight

The Times will receive election returns tonight by leased wires and by radiophone.

Bulletins will be displayed on a screen on the Seventh street side of the Times building and will be announced through a radiophone amplifier. Returns from the Texas senatorial contest and from state and congressional elections throughout the country will be received. Reports are expected to start coming in soon after 6:00 o'clock.

In addition to election reports it is probable numbers from concert programs given at broadcasting stations at Kansas City, St. Louis and other points will be received.

PRESIDENT TO CALL SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS FOR NOV. 20

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7. — President Harding expects to issue a call Thursday or Friday for a special session of congress convening November 20, it was announced today at the white house.

It was said that although the president was not irrevocably committed to the proposal for the special session which has generally been expected by congressional leaders, only an eleventh hour change of mind would prevent him from issuing the call.

The plan for a special session after the election has received the general endorsement of senate and house leaders. It is understood the president feels that by meeting at least two weeks in advance of the regular session the legislative program can be so advanced as to enable congress to clean up its slate by the time the regular session ends next March 4. The feeling among administration officials has been that unless an earlier start is made an extra session undoubtedly would be necessary after next March 4.

Although the program for the special session has not been worked out definitely it briefly provides for consideration by the house of the merchant marine bill and work by the senate on the Dyer anti-lynching measure which has already passed the house.

Administration leaders hope these two measures can be disposed of by the time the regular session convenes, and house leaders have assured the president that by that time committee work on a number of the regular appropriation bills will have been finished.

The house appropriations committee has been called to meet Friday to begin its work.

BROTHER MRS. HALL DISCONTENTED OVER DELAYS IN INQUIRY

PLANS TO BRING MATTERS TO AN ISSUE BY LEAVING TOWN

INTERVIEW WITH WIFE DISCLOSES HIS PLANS

Were Ready to Go on World Tour at Time Murders Were Committed

LAVALETTE, N. J., Nov. 7.—Henry Stevens, brother of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, widow of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, who was murdered with Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills near Brunswick on September 14 last, is discontended at the delay in the official inquiry and contemplates bringing matters to an issue by leaving town, Mrs. Ethel Stevens, his wife, said in an interview here today." Stevens has told the investigators that he was fishing near Lavallette on the night of the murder and has furnished the names of several persons who he says saw him. Mrs. Jane Gibson, farmer, has told the authorities that a man committed the murders and that he was accompanied by a woman in a grey coat.

"We were ready to go on a world tour when this thing happened," said Mrs. Stevens, "but we gave it up because we thought it would be better for Henry to stay here and face whatever was in store for him. Now, however, we think the authorities have had time enough to act and we think that the best way to force them to do something will be for us to leave town and start our trip.

"The question has often been asked, why didn't Henry give his sister away in marriage. When Mr. and Mrs. Hall were married Henry was in New England. There was nothing in common between Henry and Mr. Hall and for that reason he made no special effort to attend the wedding. It is untrue that he refused to call on the Halls since the wedding. There is an entry in his diary for June 23. It says 'Edward and Frances here,' which means that they spent the afternoon here.

Suggests New Angle.

"I believe the solution of this crime has not even been hinted at yet. Has any one thought of looking up other men who might have figured in Mrs. Mills' life?

"We are ready to help the authorities in any way. We thought they might want Henry in a hurry some time, so we arranged a complicated set of signals while he is away. Right now he is at the Gunning Point about twelve miles across the bay and with the good telescope we have upstairs, on a decent day, I can see him. He has arranged to hang out a flag while he is there. If the flag—it is really nothing but a large handkerchief—is hanging out I know he is there. If it isn't, he is coming in. That's the way we expect to communicate until this either blows over or we leave town.

"State troopers were sent down here to watch Henry. They paraded up and down along the board walk in front of the house all day long but Henry had gone to the Gunning Point at 3 a. m. So there they were walking back and forth watching the house while the man they were supposed to be shadowing was twelve miles away. If they had only told us all about it we would have invited them in and made them comfortable."

Mrs. Stevens said she felt certain that neither Mrs. Hall nor her two brothers, Henry and Willie Stevens, knew anything about the murder.

REPORT PLOT TO OBSTRUCT JUSTICE IN MURDER CASE

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 7.—Investigation of reports of a plot to obstruct justice in the Hall-Mills murder case and to protect the murderers was under way here today. Special Deputy Attorney General Wilbur A. Mott, who expects to seek the indictment of the "woman in gray" the latter part of the week on the strength of the alleged eye witness story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, is said to feel that the inquiry has been hampered by the refusal of some of the witnesses to tell all they know. Definite action was promised by Mr. Mott before the week ends and this was taken to mean that the case would be presented to the grand jury Thursday or Friday.

There was talk of social and political influences hampering the investigation just before Mr. Mott took charge of the inquiry on behalf of the state. At that time Timothy N. Pfeiffer, counsel for Mrs. Hall, wrote Governor Edwards charging county authorities with "bungling stupidity" and asking that the state take over the investigation.

"Gets-It" —Painless Corn Remover

This Corn Remedy Is Guaranteed

No matter how tough or how stubborn it may have been, the corn or callus that is touched with a few drops of "Gets-It" is doomed to a quick, easy sure and painless end. Never again can it pain you. Soon you are holding in your fingers its entire remains—a single piece of dead, shriveled skin that you throw away—forever. Hard corns, soft corns, any corn. Costs but a trifle—and guaranteed. Catarrh

Quickly Ended by a Pleasant Germ-Killing Antiseptic

The little Hyomei Inhaler is made of hard rubber and can easily be carried in pocket or purse. It will last a lifetime.

Into this inhaler pour a few drops of magical Hyomei.

This is absorbed by the antiseptic gauze within and now you are ready to breathe it in over the germ infested membrane where it will speedily begin its work of killing catarrh germs. Hyomei is made of Australian eucalyptus combined with other antiseptics and is very pleasant to breathe.

It is guaranteed to end catarrh, bronchitis, sore throat, croup, coughs and colds or money back. It cleans out a stuffed up head in two minutes.

CHINESE BANDITS CAPTURE SEVERAL OF MISSION STAFF

SHANGHAI, Nov. 7.—Bandits who kidnaped H. E. Ledgard of the China International and mission staff at Shangtsaihsien, October 25, are also holding Madame Soderstrom of the Lutheran mission at Shangtsaihsien, a French priest and another Frenchman, according to advices received today from Lowang, province of Honan.

Madame Soderstrom's daughter also was captured but later released. The bandit forces operating along the Peking Hankow railway are estimated at 10,000. They have captured five stations along the railroad. The marauders have fought several engagements with government troops.

FEAR DISORDERS AT FORT WORTH AS RESULT ANNEXATION

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—Fearing election disorders at some of the municipal voting places where opponents of annexation have been making threats, police department heads this morning sent police to preserve order. Some of the suburbs, which were forcibly annexed last July by the city, have been at outs with the city administration and in at least one suburb all efforts to hold an election failed today. It was impossible to open a voting box. In another police were on guard.

CITY COURT POSTPONES CASES ACCOUNT ELECTION

On account of the election being held in the city hall no cases were heard in the city court Tuesday morning. Seven arrests for disturbing the peace and vagrancy were made Monday; the cases were passed over until the Wednesday morning session of the court.

Election Briefs

TOPEKA, KAN., Nov. 7.—Clear skies and a warm sun greeted the voters throughout the state of Kansas as they went to the polls this morning. The summer temperature is expected to bring out an unusually large vote for an "off" election year.

MEMPHIS, TENN.—With the weather cooler and clear throughout the state early indications today point to an unusually heavy vote being cast in Tennessee with the result in a number of races, both for state offices and congress, largely problematical.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Muddy roads in the country and prospects of rain or snow in some sections faced Minnesota voters who went to the polls today to elect a United States senator, congressmen and a complete state ticket.

PHILADELPHIA.—With fair weather generally predicted for the state, Pennsylvania voters today are ready to select a governor, lieutenant governor, two United States senators, a secretary of internal affairs and a judge of the superior court.

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—Fair weather and moderate temperatures which greeted Ohio voters today was expected by political observers to bring about at least a fair representation of Ohio's more than two million votes.

CHICAGO.—Police, operatives from the offices of the states attorney, sheriff and United States marshal, private detectives and paid guardians of the ballot box watched to prevent fraud at the 2,344 polling places in Chicago and Cook county today.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA.—Rain and unsettled weather in many sections of Alabama prevented a rush to the polls during the early hours of voting but observers predicted a record vote if the promise of clearing skies materialized.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—The hottest race that the fourth Tennessee district has ever known is being fought at the polls today in the upper Cumberland section between Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national committee, and Wm. F. Clouse, republican, over the seat in congress formerly occupied by Hull but which Clouse captured in 1920.

ST. LOUIS.—With clear and cold weather, a heavy early vote was being cast throughout Missouri. Political observers estimate that the votes in the state would be around 900,000, compared with 1,332,800 in the presidential election two years ago.

FARGO, N. D.—Gray weather, muddy roads and a raw wind faced the voters of this section of the state today. Further west snow lay over the mud.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—Snow greeted voters in some sections of South Dakota today but for the most part the sky was clear with a biting wind blowing.

OMAHA, NEB.—Cool but clear weather prevailed in Nebraska today indicating a heavy vote in today's general election.

BOSTON.—An unusually heavy vote was predicted in this city today as voters, despite a steady drizzle, went to the polls in large numbers. Police estimates said that the women's vote appeared to be the largest on record.

BATON ROUGE, LA.—Election day dawned cloudy and was passing in Louisiana today with only slight interest and with but few voters going to the polls. There was no opposition to the eight democratic congressmen selected at a recent primary.

DES MOINES, IOWA.—With fair weather in the state there is little to prevent normal voting at Iowa's polling places today.

DIES SUDDENLY WHILE VISITING SON IN LONDON

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Horace Merwin Carr of Parsons, Kan., who recently came to England to visit his son, Sam Houston Carr, collapsed in a street today and died before he could be taken to his son's home.

It is understood that Mr. Carr, who was more than 80 years of age, was formerly acting commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. An inquest into his death will be held tomorrow.

MRS. HAMMERSTEIN WIDOW IMPRESARIO REPORTED MISSING

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A general alarm for Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, widow of the impresario, has been sent out by the police at the request of Mrs. Julia Farley, a friend, who has sheltered Mrs. Hammerstein since she was found a few weeks ago penniless and ill on a bench in Central park.

Mrs. Farley told police that Mrs. Hammerstein, accompanied by her dog, left her home yesterday morning. A note left by Mrs. Hammerstein for Max Rubin, a student at Columbia university, who had planned a benefit for her at Carnegie hall next Monday night, read:

"I wish to thank you so much for all you have done for me. I am very tired and very weak. I can stand it no longer."

WOMAN BELIEVED TO HAVE POISONED FOUR OF HUSBANDS

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Investigation of the career of Mrs. Tillie Klimek, who, according to the police, is believed to have poisoned at least four husbands, was extended today to include other late relatives of the woman.

Her present husband, Joseph Klimek, is dangerously ill from poison. He recently had himself insured.

In the body of Frank Krupeck, another husband, was found enough poison "to kill four men," according to a coroner's physician. Plans were made to exhume the bodies of John Ruszkakski and Joseph Mitrewicz, former mates of the woman.

Meanwhile Harry Suida, a cousin of the accused woman, told the state attorney's office of the mysterious death of his sister, Rose, who died after attending a dinner at Mrs. Klimek's home. When Suida's story was told, Elizabeth Wylieckowski, another cousin, said her two sisters and a brother had died under mysterious circumstances after they dined at the Klimek home.

The two cousins asked to have the bodies exhumed for examination.

SEVERAL TESTS IN PANHANDLE HOLD SPECIAL INTEREST

PANHANDLE, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Several tests in the Panhandle field which have reached an interesting depth and are widely separated, are keeping oil scouts and interested parties on the jump to keep in touch with developments.

Texas company well on the Burnett lease will likely be drilled in and placed on the beam for a test this week, the Silk well 40 miles east in Gray county is drilling around 2,300 feet. Gulf No. 1 Dial in the north central section of Hutchinson county is shutting off water to shoot at 3,055 feet. Tipton No. 1 McConnell, northeast of White Deer on the east line of Carson county has resumed drilling after underreaming to shut off caving and have successfully molded off 10 or 15 million feet of gas at 2,461 feet. Guided by the logs of producing wells with which this well is checking favorably, drillers expect more gas after drilling less than 100 feet further, then six inch pipe will be placed in the hole and the gas will be conserved by braidenheading the six and eight inch pipe.

Naturally, the Texas well on the north line of Carson county is holding the greatest attention. Hundreds of operators and speculators hold acreage in large and small tracts immediately north in Hutchinson county. The Texas well scratched the pay two weeks ago and the well was immediately shut down to get storage and other equipment to the lease before drilling in. This is expected to be completed late this week, though a delay may be caused in placing a short string of liner in the hole to shut off caving immediately above the pay.

Near the Texas well to the south, Gulf and Silk have producers shut in awaiting pipe line connections. Two miles southwest, Gulf is drilling at 350 feet, and twomiles south Silk and associates have their derrick up and will rig at once.

"BE CAREFUL" IS SUBJECT AT EVANGELICAL SERVICE

A very interested and attentive congregation heard the sermon at the Evangelical church, corner of Fifteenth and Broad streets, on last Monday night and there seemed to be quite an interest in the revival if we can judge by the number of people who were there.

The subject of the discourse of the evening was "Be Careful," and was addressed to the Christians principally, and the scripture which the evangelist used for a text will be found in the 21st chapter of the Gospel of Luke and the 34th, 35th and 36th verses of that chapter, and reads as follows: "And take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfetting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares. For as a snare shall it come upon all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

"Watch ye, therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man." Reviewing the preceding verses the evangelist told the Christians that many were coming in the name of Christ and claiming that they were Christians, but that this would not save any of them and they could not afford to put their trust in things like this to get them to heaven or prepare them to go up in redemption at the coming of Christ to this earth to claim his bride; furthermore, he said in substance that as Christ told his disciples, these days are days when the most sincere will be deceived if they are not careful, and that if we ever expect to be the bride of our Saviour then we must have our hearts filled with the Holy Spirit and not be afraid what man may say about us but sure that our hearts are right and that we are watching and praying all the time for the coming of our Lord.

Come and hear these gospel messages and above all dot not miss the Bible lessons at 3 p. m., as these are a source of great strength to all professed Christians. The subject for the Bible study for Tuesday afternoon will be the Jewish Sabbath and its meaning, and on Wednesday afternoon he will take the Christian Sabbath and why we keep it. Come and hear these great lessons. GEO. L. TRABANT, Pastor.

MANY TEXANS HAVE MADE INVESTMENTS IN U. S. SECURITIES

DALLAS, Nov. 8.—Texans, long famed for their prodigality, are rapidly becoming capitalists. Saving is no longer a trivial incident in the average Texan's life, and investing is now occupying the attention of not only persons resident in Texas cities, but as well that of persons living in cross road hamlets, according to Dinsmore W. Hume of Dallas, federal savings director for this reserve district.

"Five years ago it might have been said with the preponderance of evidence on the side of truth that only about one Texan out of three hundred owned or had ever seen a government or municipal security. Now about one Texan out of three owns some form of government obligation," Mr. Hume said.

In investment in the saving securities of the United States government alone, known as treasury savings certificates, which are sold at postoffices, Texans, as compared with the residents of the other 47 states, rank eighth thus far this year in their ownership of 1922 purchased treasury savings certificates while not a single offering of certificates of indebtedness or treasury notes offered in this district, of which Texas is the larger part, has not been oversubscribed this year, he said.

There has also been a big jump in the total of funds deposited by Texans in savings banks, while more municipal bonds and warrants are being purchased by Texans than ever before.

Approximately $100,000,000 will be liberated in this district for further investment January 1, on which date the $5 war savings stamps of the 1918 series mature, Mr. Hume said.

Edna Park and Her Players to Open at Palace

The Edna Park Players which come to the Palace theater for a run of stock will come here direct from Jacksonville, Florida, where the company has just completed a very successful season of stock. Many new players will be added to the company for the Wichita Falls engagement. One of special note and well known to the theater goers of this city will be Mr. Jack Doty who was here last season with one of the other companies.

Edna Park has some surprises in store for the ladies of this city, in the shape of stunning evening gowns. While spending a fortnight in New York, Miss Park made a personal visit to Lady Duff Gordon's and also Peggy Paige. Accompanied by Mrs. T. B. McNealy, who is Miss Parks' personal representative in New York, and who owns the Fashion Shop, the little lady picked several "beauties" which she will wear whenever her characters will permit. Miss Parks will play the part of Blannie in "Fair and Warmer."

The opening night of "Fair and Warmer" in New York, it was conceded that this master farce comedy, which will be played at the Palace theater next week, had reached the pinnacle of possibility as a fun vehicle and that, at the same time Avery Hopwood, its author, had produced an idea that was entirely original and developed it along brand new lines.

"Fair and Warmer" has to do with the domestic affairs of two couples who live in the same New York apartment house. Billy and Laura, who occupy one apartment, are the two extremes, the former yearning towards his "quiet evenings at home," and the latter "nights out at the opera and the cabaret" afterwards. As Billy puts it when asked what he would do if he might have anything in the world, "I'd go to bed at 8 o'clock." On the floor above are Jack, who goes out several nights a week to attend imaginary meetings of "The Mystic Shrine," at which he "crosses the burning sands," and Blannie, his loving, faithful spouse, who implicitly believes everything he tells her just because he tells her.

Billy and Blannie are thrown together for the evening, their suspicions are aroused and they decide to have a little of the pleasure they believe their other halfs are having and have it right there at home. They do, with the result that the excitement loving spouse and husband receive the greatest lesson of their lives and what might have proven a serious tragedy turns out to be the funniest sort of a comedy.

"Fair and Warmer" opens with a laugh, keeps the laughter ball rolling during the entire performance and sends its audiences out chuckling at the adventures of the people in it. For the blues, that restless feeling or almost any other complaint, it is the greatest sugar pill that any prescription could produce. The local management is to be congratulated upon its acumen and progressiveness in securing so high class a production for the patrons of its popular playhouse. Bear in mind that it is going to be "fair and warmer" beginning next Monday.

WILL CONSTRUCT CROSSINGS TO HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING

ELECTRA, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—As a result of rains the first of this week the city will immediately put in street crossings on the principal streets leading to the new Thompson high school in South Electra, which is two blocks beyond the street paving. It was proposed that a sidewalk zone be incorporated for the building of a way on which pedestrians might reach the school building during wet weather. However, Mayor Wm. Calvert is of the opinion that since practically all of the land involved is owned by local business men they will voluntarily lay walks when the municipality paves the crossings. If this is not done the mayor says action will be taken looking to creating a sidewalk zone.

During the recent rain it was necessary to wade mud over one's shoe tops to reach the high school building, and Mayor Calvert says since Electra's schools have the highest affiliation of any along the Denver road except Wichita Falls and Amarillo, it is incumbent on the citizens to make it possible for students to get to their classes.

MA HELD HERE FOR GAINESVILLE SHERIFF

Deputy Sheriff Bradford placed Henry Elroy under arrest Monday night at a local rooming house and is holding him in the county jail pending the arrival of the sheriff from Gainesville. The man is wanted there on an indictment charging forgery, according to telegraphic advice received by the local department.

The HOOVER
It BEATS... as it Sweeps as it Cleans

Have you had a demonstration of the new, easily connected and high-powered air-cleaning Hoover attachments for dustless cleaning?

"Our rugs wear three to five years longer"

In 1912, several Hoovers were purchased to beat, sweep and suction clean the rugs in the Residential Halls at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y. Today, twenty-nine Hoovers are in daily use.

"Naturally our rugs are walked upon a great deal, with so many students going and coming," states Mrs. Elizabeth C. Grider, House Director. "Yet they wear from three to five years longer than formerly. This alone has paid for our Hoovers many times over.

"It is my experience that The Hoover, by its beating process, really extracts all the hidden, nap-cutting dirt from the depths of our rugs and so averts much wear on them.

"Furthermore, The Hoover sweeps beautifully—it collects the stubbornest litter in an instant; it brightens colors and even lifts any crushed nap, as well as cleans by air.

"I have yet to see anything that approaches The Hoover in cleaning efficiency, durability, ease of operation or economy."

Satisfied users of The Hoover now number nearly a million. Talk to the Hoover users in this community; let their endorsements be your guide.

Have a free home demonstration. You can easily own a Hoover. Pay only $6.25 down. Small monthly amounts—about 21c a day, in fact—will soon make The Hoover yours

Delegates Leave Monday and Tuesday For State D. A. R. Meet in Amarillo; Business and Social Program Planned

Mesdames R. A. Thompson, regent of the Major Francis Grice chapter D. A. R.; Mrs. E. T. Duff, state treasurer of the Texas D. A. R., and Mrs. D. G. Whitney, charter member and delegate of the local chapter, left Monday and Tuesday for Amarillo to attend the 23rd annual state conference of the Daughters of the American Revolution, continuing from Wednesday to Friday.

Amarillo, which is the smallest city in the state ever to get the annual conference of the historical organization, has made most hospitable plans for the entertainment of its distinguished guests, and a splendid social program has been planned to supplement the usual order of business meetings.

The city is expecting seventy-five delegates to the convention from the thirty-nine chapters in Texas, as well as a number of state officers and special guests from the national executive board. Mrs. George Maynard Minor, president-general of the national organization, will be among these latter.

The conference proper opens Wednesday evening, with an executive board meeting Tuesday which Mrs. Duff left Monday night to attend. The delegates will be entertained at luncheon each of the three days of the conference, at tea Wednesday afternoon, and with an auto ride Friday afternoon.

State officers of the D. A. R. who will be in attendance at the Amarillo meeting include the following: Mrs. Ike McFarland, Houston, vice president-general; Mrs. W. D. Garlington, Dallas, regent; Mrs. Samuel Seay, Amarillo, vice regent; Mrs. Henry Bailiff, Beaumont, recording secretary; Mrs. M. C. Turner, Dallas, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. T. Duff, Wichita Falls, treasurer; Mrs. W. D. Taylor, Weatherford, registrar; Mrs. C. Y. Early, Brownwood, historian; Mrs. Ward Templeton, Navasota, librarian, and Mrs. W. D. Orgala, Waco, chaplain.

SADLER-CARTER MARRIAGE SURPRISES MANY FRIENDS

The marriage Monday evening of Frank Sadler and Miss Emma Jo Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Carter, came as a surprise to many friends of the young people here. The engagement had been announced, but the marriage was not expected until near Christmas.

The ceremony was performed at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Simpson, Dr. Simpson officiating, with Mr. and Mrs. Nichols, Miss Adelyne Carter and Leedy Bradshaw witnesses.

Mr. Sadler was formerly proprietor of the Uneeda Tailoring company here, coming from Illinois several years ago. He is now with the Charles F. Noble company in Burkburnett, but the young people will make their home here on Tenth street.

Mrs. Sadler is the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter to marry within a week, Miss Anna Carter having married Ramon Pinnell Saturday evening.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
THE CAT AND THE FIDDLE
By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Goodness alive! How did you get here?" asked Nancy

Nancy and Nick looked and looked and looked for Mother Goose's broom.

They were still up in the sky on the star called Jupiter, a great big bright one where a lot of Mother Goose's people lived.

Pretty soon they heard music.

"It's a fiddle," said Nancy. "It makes me feel like dancing."

"It must be the Pied Piper of Hamlin," said Nick.

"Or King Cole," remarked Nancy, "perhaps it's one of his fiddlers."

"Or it might be Tom the Piper's son who learned to play when he was young," said Nick.

But to their amazement it was none of these, for along the road came a cat, at that very instant, playing a fiddle and doing a jig.

And now you know who it was, my dears?

"Hi diddle diddle, the Cat and the Fiddle," of course.

"Goodness alive! How did you get here?" asked Nancy.

"I'm looking for the cow that jumped over the moon," answered the cat. "I feel that my playing caused all the trouble, and her master needs her. Also, the dish that ran off with the spoon hasn't come back. Did you happen to see either of them?"

"No!" said Nancy, shaking her head. "Everything is lost, it seems. Mother Goose has lost her broom, too, and the cobwebs on the sky are so thick that people on the earth think they are clouds. They say she has started to ride one of her geese."

"No doubt," answered the cat solemnly, blinking his eyes. "But I must be on my way. Don't forget to look for the cow, will you? Or the dish! As for the spoon, someone told me they had seen a dipper in the sky. Maybe that's it! I'll go and look."

How to Gain Symmetry of Body

Bernarr Mac Fadden, well known writer on and teacher of physical culture, urges the women of this generation to develop their bodies to the point of beauty and symmetry of which they are capable. In his article, which follows, he tells how to gain health as well as beauty by building up the chest and bust.—Editor.

By BERNARR MACFADDEN

Beautiful womanhood is impossible without a well-developed, symmetrically formed bust and chest.

This particular area of a woman's body indicates her vital condition. A strong chest in nearly every instance insures a heart that is vigorous and capable of satisfactory functioning and well-developed lungs that are in turn responsible for a clear, smooth, healthy skin. A flat, under-developed bust, or an over-fat one is equally undesirable and unlovely.

The following exercises will make a decided improvement in the contour of your chest and bust, and will bring it to the point of perfection nature intended it to attain.

First Exercise.

For exercise one, lie flat on a couch and hold two books over the head in the position shown in the picture, keeping the elbows rigid. Bring the books immediately over the head. Return and repeat until tired.

Then hold the books in the hand as shown in figure two. Raise them straight up overhead. Return and repeat until tired.

With the left hand firmly placed against the right elbow, as in figure three, bring the right arm toward the left, the left arm resisting the motion. Return and repeat. Then take the same exercise with the position of the arms reversed.

For exercise four, hold the books in each hand, the hands spread apart as shown, with the elbows rigid. Bring the arms upward, touching the books together immediately over the head. Return and repeat until tired.

Then take the same position as in figure three, except that you place the left hand against the right wrist, instead of the elbow. Press backward slightly at the same time, bringing the right arm, with elbows rigid, upward to a position immediately over the chest. When returning bring the arm as far back as possible. Repeat the exercise until fatigued. Take the same exercise with the position of the arms reversed.

Do not overexercise at first, but devote a few minutes daily to these efforts, and you will notice a decided improvement.

108 ATTEND ALL-DAY MEETING M. E. CHURCH

The report of the social service committee chairman and the wonderful chicken pie dinner served by members of Mrs. Harris' circle were features of the First Methodist mission women's meeting Monday, attended, enjoyed and profited by 108 members of the four circles.

The social service report was given by Mrs. Goraline Jr., who departed from the usual report procedure and told of the social service work being done by several big classes in the M. E. Sunday school as well as by the mission, with all of the work splendidly cooperative. The classes mentioned included the D. O. D.'s, the Business Girls' class and the Wesley Girls, and these were highly praised. The classes are clothing children to keep them in school and doing practical assistance among the poor of the city, finding jobs for the jobless, medical assistance for the sick, clothing for school children, as well as food for the hungry and shelter for the roofless. The report was exceptional, and an eye-opener on the new social service methods now being used under the guidance of the community department.

Other reports which were excellent included that of the treasurer, Mrs. Guy Raley, and the cradle roll chairman, Mrs. Bullington. Another feature of special interest was a letter from the wife of Dr. Henry, Methodist church missionary in Su Chow, China, telling of the work among the Chinese. The letter was read by Mrs. C. H. Stevenson, to whom it was addressed.

Dr. and Mrs. Simpson, the new pastor and his wife, were introduced at the meeting and made brief talks.

In the circle attendance report for the day, Circle One had 26 present; Circle Two, 22; Circle Three, 28, and Circle Four, 32.

FLORAL HEIGHTS BAPTISTS PACK BOX FOR BUCKNER'S

At an all day meeting of the women of the Floral Heights Baptist mission society Monday a big box was packed for the Buckner orphanage, with money for footwear, clothing and furnishings. All four circles took part in getting the box ready for shipment Tuesday.

Before luncheon Mrs. Beggs, leader of circle four, led a Bible lesson, after which the members of circle one served the lunch. In the afternoon the society voted to send Mrs. John Gibbs, president of the organization, to the Baptist convention at Waco. Dr. Loving led the devotional in the afternoon.

About 30 members were present, representing a good percentage of the mission membership.

JACK DAW'S ADVENTURES
By ELTON

Jack then went outside the store and ate his lunch. Shortly he walked to the outskirts of the little town until he came to an oak tree. The treasure is in this vicinity, said Jack to himself. Then he spied a tramp on the roadside watching him.

What you going to do with the shovel, buddy," asked the tramp as he approached Jack. "Well," replied Jack, "I may as well tell you the truth—I'm going to dig for a hidden treasure." This made the tramp laugh and he walked on his way.

"You can't fool me," shouted the tramp from a distance. "You're just going to dig worms to go fishing." Then Jack counted 50 paces from the oak tree and started to dig. It was hard work, as little Jack soon found out. (Continued.)

NOT THE SKYLINE BUT THE SKIRTLINE OF NEW YORK

By NEA Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—This is the first exclusive view of the great New York skirt line. It was taken at great risk of life on the pavement of Fifth avenue. As the shopping hordes came sweeping down, the cameraman took one look and ran. But he got this picture. It shows that despite all decrees of fashion, the New York skirt line has not yet fallen—on the average. It still ranges from eight to 13 inches above the ground—without the wind blowing.

CONTEND MATTER OF PRINCIPLE INVOLVED IN OVERTIME ISSUE

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—A matter of principle was declared by each of the opposing sides today to underlie the case before the railroad labor board of the Chicago and Alton railroad, seeking abolishment of overtime pay and other changes in wages and working conditions of certain classes of employes.

W. G. Bierd, president and receiver of the road, said the case was brought to combat what he termed the growing tendency of labor organizations to display their power by striking and interrupting interstate commerce.

S. A. Boone, vice-president of the firemen's brotherhood, charged the Alton was leading a move to abolish the eight-hour day.

"The men's representatives," argued Mr. Bierd, "said the roads must pay, But do they? They do not. The great American public pays for all increases in the cost of transportation. My position is that the board should not establish a rule that takes something from one group and gives to another an unjust division of the whole."

Mr. Boone argued that the Alton's case sought to smash the eight hour day and force employes to return to long hours of service and unbearable working conditions. He said, in effect, that the road sought to cut expenses to meet charges on what he termed inflated capitalization.

University Club Has Program of Varied Numbers

Entertainment of quality and variety was provided at the luncheon of the University club today at the Y. W. C. A.

Paul Pond opened the program with violin solo with Mrs. Pond at the piano. Mr. Pond played two numbers before the club permitted him to quit.

Sousa, an entertainer, not the famous musician, but a magician as capable in proportion, was introduced by Frank Loew. Mr. Sousa is a member of a vaudeville troupe here at present. With the assistance of two members of the club, Mr. Sousa demonstrated perfect control of a deck of cards and closed by demonstrating the old adage, "The closer you watch, the less you see."

Dr. Simpson, formerly of Greenville, but lately removed to Wichita Falls to accept a new pastorate, was introduced to the club. Rev. Simpson expressed pleasure at being permitted to work here in the anticipated future, both with his calling and with the University club.

An appeal in behalf of the Musicians' club was heard from Mrs. King, urging support of the club in the coming event which will bring Madame Louise Homer here next week in a concert.

Two new members were introduced to the club and the president urged further effort in the membership campaign.

The club appointed a committee of Frank Loew, E. B. Ripley and Judge B. D. Sartin to confer with city officials, the chamber of commerce and others in an effort to have the week of November 12-18 designated as Music Week in Wichita Falls due to the two concerts scheduled, the other being that of "The Impresario" to be sung at the Wichita theater Tuesday.

Guests of the day included Rev. Foy E. Wallace Jr., evangelist of the Church of Christ, who is now holding a revival here.

DR. BASSETT SPEAKS ON THE TRANSFIGURATION

"The Transfiguration" was the subject of Dr. Wallace Bassett's sermon at the First Baptist church Tuesday morning. In the sermon, Dr. Bassett mentioned and discussed the lessons to be learned from the experiences of Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration. In part he said:

"In the life of Christ we are given glimpses of both heaven and hell. In the Garden of Gethsemane, He endured the suffering and agony of hell, tasting it for every man. On the Mount of Transfiguration, He had the glorious mountain top experience of His life, when his face shone in the light of heaven. This must have encouraged Him for what was to follow. It clearly shows the necessity of Christ's death on the cross, and makes more vivid the relation of sonship existing between Christ and God. Also, we learn from this experience that heaven and the life beyond are much better than the present, not only because of the company we'll enjoy there, but because, too, of the increased knowledge we'll possess. Then, we shall see Jesus praised as is due him."

Dr. Bassett closed his message with a strong appeal for more consecrated service on the part of Christian people.

Last night a very large audience heard Dr. Bassett's sermon on "Right and Wrong Roads to Peace and Happiness."

Traveling Men's Attention!

Dear Boys:

I want you all to know that the William-Mary has changed hands. It is being thoroughly cleaned, decorated and furnished for the comfort of its guests.

I have set aside a number of comfortable rooms for you boys. These rooms are with and without bath and at the very reasonable rate of $1.50, $2 and $2.50 per day. We have good shower and tub baths at $1.

Until the A-La-Carte dining room is ready to open, I am running, for the convenience of my guests, a choice of club breakfasts and fifty cent luncheons and dinners of good home cooked food.

It is my pleasure to please you and I assure you of prompt and courteous service in all departments. Have your mail addressed to the William-Mary and it will receive careful attention. If you drive, park your car on the east side of the building and all of you, on your next trip to Wichita Falls, come in and make yourself at home.

I shall appreciate your patronage and do all I can to please you.

TEXHOMA TEST TO BE WATCHED WITH UNUSUAL INTEREST

The Texhoma Refining company has made a location and are hauling material for a derrick on the northwest 38 acres of the Ward and Todd tract in section 6, G., C. and S. F. survey. This test will undoubtedly attract a great deal of interest due to the fact of its location being in the old Sunshine Hill district which was the scene of Wichita county's greatest activity a few years ago due to the number of producing shallow sands.

RODE MOON-EYED HORSE 8 MILES TO VOTE FOR COKE FIFTY YEARS AGO

"Fifty years ago today I rode a moon-eyed horse nine miles to Bonham, Texas, to vote for James Coke for governor of Texas; today I rode a blind Ford 48 miles to vote for Earle B. Mayfield for senator," said J. K. Luton, traveling representative of the Times, recalling the election fifty years ago when Coke defeated Davis for governor.

Mr. Luton votes in Wichita Falls. He was at Olney and made the trip here especially to vote.

"I don't know which I feel the better over, getting to vote or the fifty new yearly subscriptions to the Daily Times I brought up from Archer City and Olney with me on the trip," said Mr. Luton. "The people of those communities certainly have been generous and good to me and I wish you would say so for me."

DE MOLAY MEMBERS TO ENTERTAIN PARENTS THURSDAY EVENING

The parents' entertainment by Hope chapter, Order of De Molay, will be held Thursday evening instead of the regular meeting. All members of the chapter are expected to attend with their mothers and fathers.

This entertainment will be one of the five required entertainments of the order, and plans are on foot to put over several other big events before the first of the year. The program planned for Thursday evening is as follows:

The welcome address, by Master counciler, Will McClure.

Song, by R. E. Sheppard.

Outline of the future De Molay work, by Everett Latham.

The De Molay Patrol, by Lawrence Rollins.

Piano solo, by James Youngblood.

Talk on the better cooperation of parents and boys, by Joe Bashara.

Education and the De Molay, by Dr. N. F. Grafton.

There is to be a De Molay patrol meeting and drill Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, and all members interested are asked to report at the temple.

FARMERS REPORT THAT TURKEYS ARE MISSING

Watch your step on Turkey day; you are apt to be charged with concealing stolen property. As Thanksgiving draws nearer turkeys are more in demand and the idea seems to be to help yourself. Within the last two weeks several farmers living near this city have reported to police authorities that their turkey roosts had been robbed. Monday night thieves made a clean sweep of the poultry yard of a farmer living near Electra and 27 turkeys were taken. The robbery was reported and police here are at work trying to locate the turkey thief.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

But it is good to be zealously affected always in a good cause.—Galatians 4:18.

Zeal ever follows an appearance of truth, and the assured are too apt to be warm; but it is their weak side in argument, zeal being better shown against sin than against persons or their mistakes.—William Penn.

"DON'T TOUCH!"

Iron used to be made illicitly and sold "on the quiet," same as moonshine liquor is bootlegged today.

Before our country won its independence, England made it a crime to manufacture iron in her colonies. The idea, of course, was to protect the iron-makers in England.

This didn't stop the Americans of that period who had the bootlegging germ in their blood. They found a sheltered place in the forest, difficult to approach, and set up their blast furnaces.

The remains of one of these furnaces still exist near Youngstown, Ohio, says Prof. Herbert M. Boylston of Case School of Applied Science, in Cleveland.

Human nature seems to hate prohibition of any kind. Maybe you experience a craving to touch a painted surface which a sign warns you is fresh and wet. Or you may feel a hot mental wave of resentment at the sign: "Private—Keep Out. This Means You."

Many a grown man can recall how as a boy he got his tongue stuck fast to the cold iron pump handle, during winter—all because he had been indelibly cautioned not to do it.

Tell the nation that instantaneous death would result from pulling the lobe of the left ear four times in rapid success, and the undertakers would do a big business. Thousands could not resist.

All this explains why it is so difficult to enforce prohibition. As soon as a thing is prohibited, a crop of law-breakers springs up, ready to take a chance at violating the law for profit. This was true of the "iron bootlegger" prior to 1776. It is true of the liquor bootlegger today.

The greatest law-breaker, ethically, is the customer who provides the profit—the incentive.

On top of all this is the peculiar psychological fact that, as soon as a thing is prohibited, people who never thought of committing the prohibited act suddenly develop a mischievous craving to try it at least once.

ORGANIZERS WILL BE FORCED INTO WOMEN'S WEAR.

Over at Henryetta, Oklahoma, a band of men who called themselves the "Blue Overalls" met a tartar in a victim upon whom they had called to administer corporal punishment.

Down at Breckenridge the "White Owls" are reported to have been organized and to have demanded that negroes and Mexicans employed in that community be discharged and native whites employed in their places.

In far away Italy the "Black Shirts" have lately gotten into the newspaper headlines.

We have the "Black Masks" and the "White Masks," the "Dirty Shirts" and the "Bloody Shirts."

If anyone has a grievance or a prejudice or a hatred nowadays it is quite in order to give it the name of some garment and to start out and organize a secret society, with remunerative initiation fees, of course. The trouble of it is that we are about to find the human race has more prejudices than a man has garments.

We have got the "Black Socks" and the "Red Socks" left and then the organizers will be compelled to go into women's wear. Pretty soon we may expect to hear of such organizations as the "Yellow Bloomers," the "Pink Teddies" and what not.

And then when we have all peppered and inflamed our different prejudices and hatreds and gotten into our different hued garments this will be one sweet country of ours.

COTTON MILLS IN WEST TEXAS

The special committee from the west Texas chamber of commerce appointed to investigate cotton mills and markets in different sections of the country and report on the feasibility of establishing and operating cotton mills in west Texas, has returned and has made its report. This report which gives evidences of careful investigation and study and a conservative viewpoint recommends the establishment of mills in centers where the labor supply is adequate and where financial support can be obtained. It goes into some detail into the financial problems and into labor problems and advises against encouragement of promotional propositions, or the establishment of mills at points where an adequate supply of labor could not be assured.

The time certainly must come when the manufacture of cotton cloths will be an important industry in west Texas, and the west Texas chamber of commerce has taken a timely step in its investigation and the collecting of useful information.

Cotton itself is becoming more and more an important crop in west Texas. The time seems near at hand when the western part of the state may become a larger producer of cotton than any other section. The growing of cotton in this section is already successful beyond the expectations of any a few years ago. Here is the enterprise and resourcefulness and the unity that may make it as important as a manufacturing section as it is a cotton growing section.

FORD'S DREAM.

Henry Ford, visiting Boston, makes this startling prediction: "Within a few years—I wouldn't be surprised if it were within five or six years—we won't be mining coal any more. Coal will be burned underground, right where it is found, and the byproducts utilized.

"Probably we'll utilize all the gas, too, for heat, light and power. Some of the heat can be utilized, too, where it is generated under the ground. What heat is wasted by this method won't be nearly as important as the waste of human energy which results from our present method of mining coal, and the waste involved in transporting and distributing it."

Just how Ford would work this dream out in a practical way, he doesn't say. But it is possible.

Then, too, Ford has become an enthusiast about "white coal"—water power.

He sees the day when even drops of rain will be transformed into electricity.

He says the power going to waste in rain can be estimated by a locality's inches of annual rainfall and the distance the rain drops in making its eventual way back to sea-level. Part of this power unquestionably could be chained up.

Ford proposes: "Collect the water on flat lands during the winter. Drain it off as water power during the spring. And in the summer you'll have wonderfully fertile land for your crops. In the autumn, after the harvest, let the water collect again."

This latest dream of Ford's results from a trip he made the other day into a coal mine. He went about three miles underground and found it "a terrible place to be in, no fit place for a human being to work."

More than half a million Americans toil underground to get coal. In other words, to get power.

Meantime, tremendous power is going to waste in falling water, in the ocean tides, in the wind, in the sun's heat. All these will be harnessed some day. Nature has placed unlimited power at our disposal. Human drudgery will end when we learn how to harness these natural forces.

Harnessing them is a long, slow job. But it'll come. Nature gives us what we need. Her price is constant toil and patience. End of the road is far off, but it'll be worth the journey, for humanity.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RATION YOUR MIND.

There is nothing so impressionable in the whole human organism as the mind. Everything that you see, everything that you feel, is stamped indelibly there, whether of a conscious or unconscious nature.

The trivial incident of today may blaze forth more real than originally when contrasted with some new association twenty years from now.

It is well to note a unique fact about the brain, however—somehow or other it never gets over being hungry. The more it is fed, the more it desires and demands. And it is the one organ that grows in elasticity and power as age creeps in upon it.

But, like the body, it thrives best on a mixed ration. It broadens in vision and appreciation as its tiny cells increase their work.

So that that mind is finest which has experienced the most travel, read the most books, studied the most people and thought most.

The mind likes system, order, regularity and variety.

As it is taught to love beauty, nature and human beings, its interpretative powers enlarge and pass over trivial hurts and incidents as of little consequence in comparison with the vast interests of character and human need.

So you see how important it is to ration your mind carefully, keeping its powers healthy, active and receptive.

The mind naturally is a free agent, taking its cues from the imagination and the will. Its ability to absorb and store is unique—and during periods of inactive feeding, it thrives upon the rations of other days.

Have an inward reverence for this marvelous organ of yours. Pour into its mysterious depths everything that is clean and noble, so that it may serve you well during the times of stress, loneliness, and perhaps want.

Give it a generous taste of everything that is best, day by day, and as the years accumulate it will return your investments compounded over and over again.

JUST FOLKS —By— Edgar A. Guest

FOR THE COMMON GOOD.

You shall never be great by your selfish deeds
And the thing which you boast as skill;
And, save it is spent for a nation's needs,
In vain is the iron will.
For ever the badge of the greater man
Is to sink himself for the common plan.

This is the lesson that life has taught
Since the days of the earliest age—
Who, for himself has lived and fought,
Has vanished from history's page—
And all in vain was that mortal's birth
Who did not better the ways of earth.

Gather your money and build your fame
And rise to the heights of skill,
But Time shall give to the winds your name
When your boastful voice is still;
By the joy you take you can never live,
For fame depends on the joys you give.

Trade and barter and strive for gain
And sweat for your daily bread;
But all you do for yourself is vain
When once is your stomach fed.
For the world has plenty of selfish deeds,
But toil, for the common good, it needs.

Texas Viewpoints

Texas Politics Seem to Be Getting in a Devil of a Mess

Richard McCarty, in Albany News: Anyhow, we are in the midst of political strife down here in grand Old Texas, injunctions, mandamus, the headless tickets and court proceedings—and it is just carrying on from one thing to another, democracy and republicanism are locked in arms, and durned if we know whether we are a democrat or a mug-wump, socialist or anarchist. Yes, preacher and laymen are up in arms, and here we go, and God only knows where we are headed for. The demogogs are in the saddle, the folks are in the woods listening for a frog horn to lead them out into the clearing. Now there was brother Atticus Webb, he said that he watched the record of brother Earle Mayfield for thirty years, and that his record was clean, and laymen and preachers shouted it down the line, and Earle crossed the tape two times ahead of the hounds—but carry on, and they would not let him alone, picking was too good. So they brought him into court on the charge of too much filthy lucre in his political doings—yes, charged that he exceeded the ten thousand limit, therefore was barred from a seat in the United States Senate. They tried the case before a jury of his peers in the district court at Corsicana, and said jury said by their verdict that plaintiffs had a just cause, therefore defendant, Earle Mayfield, was guilty as charged, hence, he was ousted, and his name barred from the ticket. The case was taken up to the supreme court, and owing to the shortness of the time, it looks suspicious to us that the supreme court must have writ its opinion ahead of the brief. Earle Mayfield swore that he didn't, other witnesses swore that he did, and the jury sitting in the box, looking the witnesses in the face, and being the exclusive judges of the evidence, weighing same, seeing whether or not it was corroborated, etc. And it is just carry on, and we are all lost in the wilderness of isms, and we are wondering about this material out of which we are making United States senators. For instance, Senator John Sharp Williams from Mississippi, who will retire at the expiration of his term and go back to private life, said the other day that he would rather be a dog and bark at the moon than to go back to the United States senate. To say the least of it, that is putting it pretty strong. John Marshall said, and at that time he was vice president of these United States, before a great religious body in Washington City, that if the United States senate could have cast a secret vote on the proposition of national prohibition there would not have been ten votes in that august body in favor of the Volstead act. It's a bad state of affairs when men in high places stand for nothing except pelf and place. Now in this business down there at Corsicana, somebody has lied, somebody has sworn falsely, and it is a bad state of affairs in this nation, when we have to call men into court who aspire to office to procure a clean bill of fare. Now here comes George Peddy, he seems to be a nice clean Texas boy, came up from among the common folks, mowed the lawn and washed dishes and that kind of menial services for knowledge, and about the only charge that they have laid at his door is, he has joined his political fortunes with the black republicans and they are pretty durn dirty. Oh yes, there is another charge against George Peddy that we like to have forgotten, he dared to vote for Jim Ferguson, and they kicked him out of the Bible class down there in the Methodist church at Houston, and said he wern't fit to teach God's business in a Sunday school. Yes, it sure is in a devil of a mess, but it will all come out right in the long run, maybeso not this time, but it will right itself as the years come and go. As yet, we have not lost confidence in the common horse sense of the people, and then besides, we have the school house and the country press left, and just so long as our boys and girls learn their a b c's, figure and parse and read history, court and marry and build cottage homes, candy-haired children play around the door, and they just keep on reading the Albany News and Moran News and the like. And then as time moves along, public sentiment will crystallize for better government, and church and state will keep house separately, and the political preacher will be selling life insurance, peddling oil stock or taking subscriptions to some live journal—selah.

Explorers bring word that girls on Neu-Pommern Island, in the South Pacific, are confined in cages when three years old and kept there until marriage. The cages are indoors.

Woman's fight through the centuries has been to get out of her cage. Most of the bars are torn down now, in America. If the law of reactions holds true, men eventually may have their turn at being caged. The caging process is well under way. Volstead contributed a few bars.

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

SLOWER

The eight-hour day, established throughout Germany early in the revolution, is attacked by Dr. O. Hoffmann, German business writer. He says that the eight-hour day over there has reduced the average worker's output 15 per cent. So, concludes Hoffmann, bang goes the theory that as much work can be done in eight hours as in nine or ten.

Hoffmann is wrong. German productiveness has been decreased, not by the eight-hour day, but by the gloom of defeat and the knowledge that to work harder merely means more money for indemnmity. That is human nature.

COINCIDENCE

National City bank's market letter makes this comment on the claim by Hoffman, German economist, that German industrial productiveness has dropped 15 per cent under the eight-hour day:

"These figures have a curious coincidence, for they are exactly the figures for the annual (reparations) payments fixed by the London ultimatum of May 1, 1921."

Is it a case of premeditated coincidence, as well as a subconscious reluctance to pay up?

TIRED

The tired business man is real, not a myth, says Dr. Edward H. Oschner of Chicago, discussing "chronic fatigue intoxication."

"The tired business man," originally an expression of ridicule, steadily becomes more actual. What makes him tired? Answer: Heavy lunches, not enough exercise, stuffy air in badly ventilated offices, also lungs full of tobacco smoke-carbon. The remedy is obvious.

SLIPPING

Uncle Sam's income drops—steadily, alarmingly. Tax money received during September totaled only about $384,000,000, against $631,000,000 in September a year ago.

The old line, "Give until it hurts," should be changed to "Save until it hurts," and pasted in every congressman's hat.

More bond issues and a mounting of the national debt are inevitable unless economy is the first aim of Washington.

FAMOUS

Philadelphia, barring unexpected rescue, will tear down two historic houses, famed as homes of Ben Franklin and Edgar Allen Poe. Some think "The Raven" was written in the Poe house. The other dwelling is where Poor Richard lived when he arrived from Boston.

So it goes all over the country, little respect for historical relics, especially old buildings. Ford has the typically American idea—that today and tomorrow are the really important, yesterday is gone and might as well be forgotten.

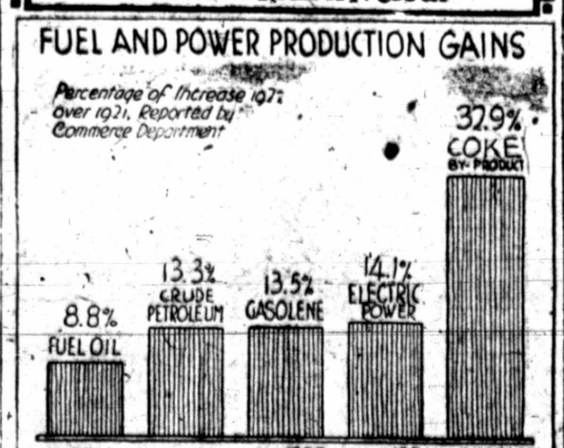

Luckily, the destroyers cannot tear down "The Raven" of Ben Franklin's homely philosophy.

EPISODE ELEVEN
The Place of Pines
CHAPTER I

The last sound that Mike Clinch heard on earth was the detonation of his own rifle. Probably it was an agreeable sound to him. He lay there with a pleasant expression on his massive features. His watch had fallen out of his pocket.

Quintana shined him with an electric torch; picked up the watch. Then, holding the torch in one hand, he went through the dead man's pockets very thoroughly.

When Quintana had finished, both trays of the flat morocco case were full of jewels. And Quintana was full of wonder and suspicion.

Unquietly he looked upon the dead—upon the glittering contents of the jewel-box—but always his gaze reverted to the dead. The faintest shadow of a smile edged Clinch's lips. Quintana's lips grew graver. He said slowly, like one who does his thinking aloud:

"What is it you have done to me, l'ami Clinch? . . . Are there truly then two sets of precious stones?—two flaming jewels?—two gems of Erosite like there never has been in all theses worl' excep' only two more? . . . Or is one set false? . . . Have I here one set of paste facsimilies? . . . My frien' Clinch, why do you lie there an' smile at me so ver' funny? . . . like you are amuse? . . . I am wondering what you have done to me, my frien' Clinch. . . ."

For a while he remained kneeling beside the dead. Then: "Ah, bah," he said, pocketing the morocco case and getting to his feet.

He moved a little way toward the open trail, stopped, came back, stood his rifle against a tree.

She Unhooked the Largest and Started Back.

For a while he was busy with his sharp Spanish clasp knife, whittling and fitting together two peeled twigs. A cross was the ultimate result. Then he placed Clinch's hands palm to palm upon his chest, laid the cross on his breast, and shined the result with complacency.

Then Quintana took off his hat.

"L'ami Mike," he said, "you were a man! . . . Adios!"

The night had turned frosty. Quintana, wet to the knees and very tired, moved slowly, not daring to leave the trail because of sink-holes.

What he had to have was a fire; he realized that. Somewhere off the trail in big timber, if possible, he must build a fire and master this deadly chill that was slowly paralyzing all power of movement.

At last he came to a place of pines, first growth giants towering into night, and, looking up, saw stars, infinitely distant, . . . where perhaps those things called souls drifted like wisps of vapor.

When the fire took, Quintana's thin dark hands had become nearly useless from cold. He could not have crooked finger to trigger.

For a long time he sat close to the blaze, slowly massaging his torpid limbs, but did not dare strip off his foot-gear.

Later he ate and drank languidly, looking up at the stars, speculating as to the possible presence of Mike Clinch up there.

What a chase Clinch had led him after the flaming jewel. And now Clinch lay dead in the forest—faintly smiling. At what?

In a very low, passionless voice, Quintana cursed monotonously as he gazed into the fire. In Spanish, French, Portuguese, Italian, he cursed Clinch. After a little while he remembered Clinch's daughter, and he cursed her, elaborately, thoroughly, wishing her black mischance awake and asleep, living or dead.

Presently Quintana slept after his own fashion—that is to say, looking closely at him one could discover a glimmer under his lowered eyelids. And he listened always in that kind of sleep. As though a shadowy part of him were detached from his body, and mounted guard over it.

The inaudible movement of a wood-mouse venturing into the fire-lit circle awoke Quintana. Again a dropping leaf amid distant branches awoke him. Such things. And so he slept with wet feet to the fire and his rifle across his knees; and dreamed of Eve and of murder, and that the flaming jewel was but a mass of glass.

At that moment the girl of whose white throat Quintana was dreaming, and whining faintly in his dreams, stood alone outside Clinch's Dump, rifle in hand, listening, fighting the creeping dread that touched her slender body at times—seemed to touch her very heart with frost.

Clinch's men had gone on to Ghost Lake with their wounded and dead, where there was fitter shelter for both. All had gone on; nobody remained to await Clinch's home-coming except Eve Strayer.

It was not yet dawn, but the girl could endure the strain no longer.

With electric torch and rifle she started for the forest, almost running at first; then, among the first trees, moving with caution and in silence along the trail over which Clinch should long since have journeyed homeward.

But nowhere could she discover any impression resembling her step-father's—that great, firm stride and solid imprint which so often she had tracked through moss and swale and which she knew so well.

Once when she got up from her knees after close examination of the muddy trail, she became aware of the slightest taint in the night air—stood with delicate nostrils quivering—advanced, still conscious of the taint, listening, wary, every stealthy instinct alert.

She had not been mistaken; somewhere in the forest there was smoke. Somewhere a fire was burning. It might be distant. Whose fire? Her father's? Would a hunter or men build a fire?

The girl stood, shivering in the darkness. There was not a sound.

Now, keeping her cautious feet in the trail by sense of touch alone, she moved on. Gradually, as she advanced, the odor of smoke became more distinct. She heard nothing, saw nothing; but there was a near reek of smoke in her nostrils and she stopped short.

In the faint, pale luster she saw a tiny rivulet flowing westward from a spring, and, beside it, in the mud, imprints of a man's feet.

The tracks were small, narrow, slimmer than imprints made by any man she could think of. Under the glimmer of her torch they seemed quite fresh; contours were still sharp, some ready to crumble, and water stood in the heels.

As she stole along, dimly shining the tracks, lifting her head incessantly to listen and peer into the darkness, her quick eye caught something ahead—something very slightly different from the wall of black obscurity—a vague hint of color—the very vaguest tint scarcely perceptible at all.

But she knew it was firelight touching the trunk of an unseen tree.

Now, soundless over damp pine needles she crept. The scent of smoke grew strong in nostril and throat; the pale tint became palely reddish. All about her the blackness seemed palpable—seemed to touch her body with its weight; but, ahead, a ruddy glow stained two huge pines. And presently she saw the fire, burning low, but redly alive. And, after a long, long while, She saw a man.

He had left the fire circle. His pack and belted mackinaw still lay there at the foot of a great tree. But when, finally, she discovered him, he was scarcely visible where he crouched in the shadow of a tree-trunk, with his rifle half lowered at a ready.

She strained her eyes; but distance and obscurity made recognition impossible. And yet, somehow, every quivering instinct within her was telling her that the crouched and shadowy watcher beyond the fire was Quintana.

And every concentrated instinct was telling her that he'd kill her if he caught sight of her; her heart clamored it; her pulses thumped it in her ears.

Had the girl been capable of it she could have killed him where he crouched. She thought of it, but knew it was not in her to do it. And yet Quintana had boasted that he meant to kill her father. That was what terribly concerned her. And there must be a way to stop it short of murder—a way to render this man harmless to her and hers.

No, she could not kill him this way. Except in extremes she could not bring herself to fire upon any human creature. And yet this man must be rendered harmless—somehow—somehow—ah!—

As the problem presented itself its solution flashed into her mind. Men of the wilderness knew how to take dangerous creatures alive. To take a dangerous and reasoning human was even less difficult, because reason makes more mistakes than does instinct.

Stealthily, without a sound, the girl crept back through the shadows over the damp pine needles, until, peering fearfully over her shoulder, she saw the last ghost-tint of Quintana's fire die out in the terrific dark behind.

Slowly, still, she moved until her sensitive feet felt the trodden path from Drowned Valley.

Now, with torch flaring, she ran, carrying her rifle at a trail. Before her, here and there, little night creatures fled—a humped-up raccoon, dazzled by the glare, a barred owl still struggling with its woodrat kill.

She ran easily—an agile, tireless young thing, part of the swiftness and silence of the woods—part of the darkness, the sinuous celerity, the ominous hush of wide, still places—part of its very blood and pulse and hot, sweet breath.

Even when she came out among the birches by Clinch's Dump she was breathing evenly and without distress. She ran to the kitchen door but did not enter. On pegs under the porch a score or more of rusty traps hung. She unhooked the largest, wound the chain around it, tucked it under left arm and started back.

BERTON BRALEY'S POEM

Top-Heavy Odds

By BERTON BRALEY

Sid old Jim Budd, the gambler: "I've often staked my wad,
And watched the wheel come even, when I have backed the odd;
I've played the racin' ponies, I've plunged a heap at stud,
There wasn't any game of chance that frightened Jimmy Budd.
I like the thrill of gamblin', it's breath of life to me,
I'll take a shot at anything an' bet my money free,
I'll shove my stack across the board if there's a chance to win,
But I won't gamble on this stuff they're sellin' now as gin!

"I've bucked the faro outfits, I've rolled the bones as well;
I've won an' lost more heaps of jack than I would care to tell;
I've took my losses smilin', the way a guy should do,
At any game I've ever seen that's either old or new.
My limit was the bright blue sky, an' people used to say
I never moved an eyelash when my pile was swept away.
I had my bouts with Barleycorn before the land went dry,
But I don't take no chances now on Prohibition Rye!

"I never was no piker, I ain't no piker now,
But every guy has limits, an' this is mine, I vow;
I will not bet my years of life against a little drink,
An' any time I get the stuff I pour it down the sink.
An' though I've seen most everything, I somehow ain't inclined
To relish going to a home for people who are blind.
Name any game you wanta play, you'll find I won't refuse,
But I won't bet my two good eyes against a shot of booze!"

DO YOU PAY YOUR BILLS?

"SETTLE"

Prompt Pay Creates Credit

The bills you incurred last month are due NOW. Bills you made before last month and which still remain unpaid ARE OVER-DUE—if you do not pay them you are imposing upon good nature. The only reason the goods were charged to you—was for convenience—YOUR CONVENIENCE.

The merchant thought you were as GOOD AS YOUR WORD. He trusted you implicity. He allowed you to take the merchandise out of his house.

NOW IT'S YOUR TURN to make good. Prove to him you're HONORABLE—that you are as good as your word—AND SETTLE.

"HONOR"

Prompt Pay Creates Credit

A man can be worth millions, yet so slow in settling his obligations as to make merchants hesitate in trusting him with their wares

A ditch digger, laboring daily for a mere pittance, realizing the importance of PROMPTLY MAKING GOOD HIS WORD, can buy, unquestioned, from the same merchant.

It's not their only Fate—It's just HONORABLENESS—a full realization of the word "HONOR."

PROMPTNESS

"A Stitch in Time Saves Nine"

An old saying, but a truer one was never said. It applies to everything where promptness counts—and promptness counts in everything. It's the stitch in time that saves credit.

It also saves honor, embarrassment and self respect.

The man who pays his bills can look the whole world in the face. And better still—the man who pays his bills can buy again—and say "charge it."

Prompt pay, creates credit, and credit is the most valuable thing in the world.

To weed out the men and women who do not pay their bills—who do not value their honor—The Retail Merchants' Association was formed. This association consists of practically all the retail merchants, business, and professional men in the city. They have a clearance house, through which they clear credits. In an instant it is possible for any member of this association to find how a customer has been paying his bills with any other member. This eliminates the undesirable customer who makes it a habit of buying first from one merchant, then another, without meeting his obligations. If you pay your bills, or you don't, every merchant in this association knows it—and credits you accordingly.

SELF DEFENSE TO BE PLEA IN CASE MRS. PAT WALLIS

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—Self defense will be the plea of Mrs. Pat Wallis, who shot and killed her husband in her apartment here early this morning. She said he had torn practically all the clothes off her before she shot. Mrs. Wallis, a nurse, had been caring for a patient at the apartment. Her husband entered her room early in the evening and the shooting followed soon after midnight.

Following the filing of a murder charge this afternoon against Mrs. Wallis, friends made $5,000 bond for her and she was released.

ANOTHER FIFTY MILLION TO BE PAID BY ENGLAND

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—The British government has directed the further payment of $50,000,000 to the United States November 15 to apply on the interest due on the war debt, pending an agreement between the two governments for the funding of the debt.

This measure was made necessary by the unavoidable delay in sending a British debt mission to America, caused by the resignation of the Lloyd George ministry.

CHARGED WITH MURDER MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

STERLING, COLO., Nov. 7.—Guy Bray of Merino, Colo., charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff B. J. Wilson, slashed his throat in the county jail here this morning and died almost instantly.

'Makes Me Sick' States Merchant As Women Vote

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—"Women in politics make me sick," ruminated Eugene Komanski, dry goods merchant, as he surveyed the line of feminine voters in front of a polling place on upper Broadway.

The next thing Komanski knew he was in a West Side court, his face bruised and scratched, his clothes torn and collar missing, answering a charge of disorderly conduct preferred by one of the women.

"The worst of it is," said Komanski, after he had told his story and been dismissed by the court as sufficiently punished already, "they called me a 'big Tammany cheese' when I'm a straight republican."

GENERAL ELECTIONS ARE HELD THROUGHOUT POLAND

WARSAW, Nov. 7.—Unofficial results of the general elections held throughout Poland last Saturday were obtainable today for only 40 of 444 seats to which deputies are elected. These results gave 19 seats to the right party, seven to the national minority, six to the socialists.

The labor, populist and populist radical groups each obtained two seats, while the communists and Jewish populists returned one deputy each.

FROM GIRLHOOD TO WOMANHOOD

Woman Relied Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Emporia, Kansas.—"I began using Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines years ago, when I was a girl. For several years I had severe pains at menstrual periods, making me very weak and interfering with my regular duties. I tried several remedies without obtaining relief. I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by friends and it restored me to normal health. I often have occasion and do recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to my own. You may use these facts as a testimonial."—EVA ALDRICH, 218 Union St., Emporia, Kansas.

There are many women who first used our Vegetable Compound during their girlhood days. They found it a valuable help during trying periods. In later years they use it whenever they feel those annoying symptoms which women often have.

It is prepared carefully from medicinal plants, whose properties are especially adapted to correct the troubles women have.

OFFICERS EXPLORE MYSTERIOUS "GRAVE" BUT FIND NO CORPSE

A grave out in the middle of a big pasture remains just as mysterious as it did before a spade and shovel were placed in it Tuesday afternoon. The loosely packed ground was taken out but not a thing was found.

The hole in the ground, five feet ten inches long and thirty-two inches wide was four feet and four inches deep before bottom was found.

The grave was discovered by a tenant on the old Fuller farm eight miles directly south of Wichita Falls. Sheriff Fred K. Smith was notified Monday night that a grave had been discovered in a pasture about a quarter of a mile from the house.

Mexican Charlie, whose real name was Charlie Garcia, who was a renter on the farm for nearly a half year, mysteriously disappeared last June. No one knew where he had gone and no one had seen him later nor has anyone heard from his since.

Just a week or so before he mysteriously disappeared a Mexican laborer who had been employed by Garcia and who had had some trouble with Mexican Charlie also disappeared from the farm.

When the grave was found by the tenant on the Fuller farm, he felt positive that he had found a solution to the disappearance of at least one of the men and accordingly he notified Mr. Smith.

The hole gave the appearance of having been dug probably five months ago and the earth had been loosely thrown back into the hole in the ground. The recent rain had caused the loose ground to settle approximately four inches.

Sheriff Smith assisted by several men of the neighborhood dug down to the bottom of the hole but found no trace of anything.

Garcia had been arrested once for manufacturing and possessing liquor. Sheriff Smith stated that probably this had been one of the hiding places of the still that was seized by officers a month before Garcia made his disappearance.

AMERICA MAY HAVE TO SUSPEND RELIEF EFFORTS NEAR EAST

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—It is feared that all American relief efforts in the near east may have to be stopped if the nationalists insist upon the imposition of the customs duties prescribed by the Angora government. Two million pounds of miscellaneous relief supplies belonging to the near east relief on board the United States shipping board steamer Saugus cannot be landed from the harbor here because the nationalists demand duties aggregating almost the total value of the cargo, which is about $200,000. More than half the cargo is flour.

The American relief organizations have asked Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, the American naval chief here, to intercede with the Angora government.

WILL NAME SUCCESSOR TO JUSTICE DAY WHEN CONGRESS REASSEMBLES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—A successor to Associate Justice Day of the supreme court whose resignation becomes effective on November 14, will be nominated by President Harding as soon as congress reassembles, it was said today at the white house. Officials added, however, that it had not yet been determined whether the nominee will be a democrat or a republican, or from the north or south.

Should Associate Justice Pitney also retire from the supreme bench on account of illness, however, it is expected in some quarters the president will name a democrat for one of the two vacancies.

SOUTH AMERICAN CABLE IS OFFICIALLY OPENED

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 7.—The cable connecting New Orleans with the Central and South American republics was officially opened here yesterday by the All-American Cable company.

Messages of greeting exchanged between presidents of the various countries to the south and to state and city officials were read at a banquet at which consular representatives of all that Latin-American countries, heads of the state and city governments and commercial organizations and officials of the cable company were present.

AFRAID SOME ONE MIGHT THINK HIM A REPEATER

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—A news photographer today prevailed upon John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to submit to a picture while he deposited his vote. But when the photographer asked for another Mr. Rockefeller objected: "They might think I'm a repeater."

He agreed to a second exposure after a promise that the first plate would be destroyed."

BELIEVE KEMALISTS WILL CLIMB DOWN

ships has ceased, the dispatches say.

The London newspapers, while asserting that the allies do not wish to interfere in any way with Turkey's internal affairs, call for strict adherence to the Mudania armistice terms and appeal to the allies to stand firm against any unwarranted Kemalist demands.

ALLIES DEMAND THAT EDITOR BE RELEASED

By Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—Ali Kemal Bey, editor of the Constantinople anti-nationalist newspaper Sabah, has been arrested and condemned to death by the Turkish authorirties here, the allies have been informed. Late last night the allied representatives gave Rafet Pasha, the new civil governor of the city, 48 hours in which to release the editor.

Rafet replied that he was unaware of the arrest but would investigate. It was reported here today that Ali Kemal Bey had been hanged at Ismid after a crowd had half lynched him, but this was not confirmed officially.

The allied high commissioners felt that if the arrest were allowed to stand it might lead to the imprisonment of hundreds of other residents of the city, Turks, Greeks and Armenians, who enjoy the confidence and respect of the allies.

The allied action with regard to Ali Kemal Bey had been preceded by appeals from hundreds of Turks to the British authorities here to accord them safe conduct so they might join in the great exodus of Greeks and Armenians which has been in progress recently since panic set in over the possibility that the nationalists were about to take control in Constantinople and send in their troops. The arrest and condemnation of Ali Kemal gave the signal for all the remaining prominent Turks to seek cover.

All day yesterday the allied high commissioners held frequent conferences over the threatened wholesale invasion of the capital by the Kemalists and the menace of an anti-Christian uprising.

The British armed patrols about the city meanwhile exercised the greatest vigilance in protecting life and property.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT HAS ABOUT LOST PATIENCE

By Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—The French government appears to have reached the limit of its patience in dealing with the Turks and is tending more and more to stiffen its attitude toward the Angora government.

This is the interpretation given in political circles here to the sailing today of the dreadnought Jean Bart from Toulon to join the allied fleet at Constantinople in the face of the Angora government's demand that allied warships seek permission before entering Turkish ports.

It was said in official circles that the French high commissioner in Constantinople has been induced to act in full accord with the other allied commissioners in their demand that the terms of the Mudania armistice be complied with in every respect.

The feeling here is that the representatives in Constantinople of the Angora government may be pursuing their present tactics with the idea that it is possible, little by little, to undermine the authority of the allies in advance of the decision of the Lausanne peace conference.

The allied troops now in Constantinople are regarded as sufficient to maintain order unless there should be a general uprising of the Turks which is looked upon as improbable.

BOURGEOIS PARTIES LOSE TWO SEATS FIRST TRYOUT

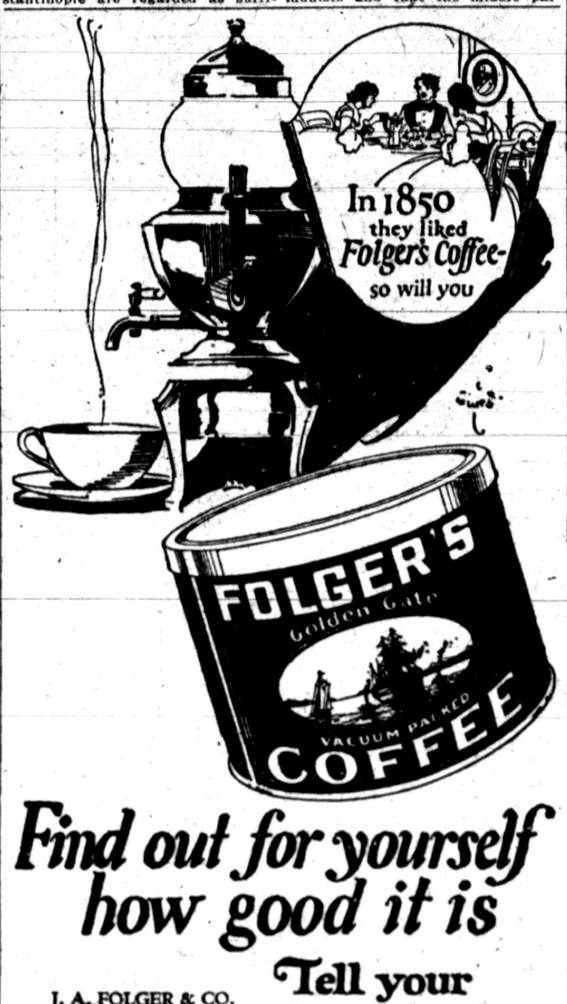

BERLIN, Nov. 7.—Loss to the bourgeois parties of two seats in "red" Saxony's diet in the first tryout of the republic's new initiative referendum has caused little more than a ripple in political circles. The socialists and communists together now hold 51 mandates against the bourgeois parties' 45.

The Allgemeine Zeitung asserts that the balloting in Saxony cannot be taken as a criterion of the sentiment throughout Germany, since that state has long been recognized as a radical stronghold.

The outstanding feature of the vote, the newspaper declares, is that it shows the socialists are holding their own against the communists and that the middle parties are evidencing consolidation in the face of the nationalist opposition.

ALL THE NEWS OF ALL THE SPORTS ALL THE TIME

Coyote Fans Wait Action of Coaches on Coming Contest

Coyote followers are all agog today over the announcement that Cleburne was awarded the protested game against the North Side team. And with the victory went the right to meet the Coyotes for the title of this district.

Particularly grateful are the fans because it is known throughout the state that Coach Erney is one of the cleanest coaches in the league and does not permit anything not above par.

"Jim" Jones has demonstrated the same characteristic. He positively will not tolerate play not of the highest type, and it has been frequently commented already this season that his athletics are as clean a bunch as ever drove across chalkmark after chalkmark.

Then with two teams of this class meeting, what can be more attractive to lovers of real, clean sport?

Whether the game be brought here or played in Cleburne, neither team need fear anything but a "square deal" from the start. Officials for the game will be chosen from competent, disinterested and well qualified men of the state who will see the game from an impartial viewpoint.

All Wichita Falls wants the game here, Jones wants it here and the team wants it here, but so do Cleburne, Enney and his team.

Cleburne brings forth the argument that the Electra-North Side game last year was played in this district, and though it really was, again it was not, for Dinsmore and Farrington failed to agree on either home ground and were finally ordered to play on some neutral ground.

The Coyote-Cleburne game is not going to be that way. It doesn't mean as much to either team if played away from home, and with both teams on foreign soil, it means still less. In all probability the proposition will be made to Cleburne like this: Since Cleburne has had three intra-district games with Abilene, Comanche and a championship go with Houston, it should be conducive to the success of the league to grant Wichita the game at a figure or agreement which would deduct all expenses and split the remaining part of the gate between either club. If that fails, and it probably will, Coach Jones is going to ask for a flip of a coin to determine the location on the same kind of a proposition.

Whether the game is played here or not, though, this much is known, the contest will be clean and the coaches will try to do all possible to agree without argument. Announcement of the location should be made some time today.

CLEBURNE TO ASK FOR COYOTE GAME

Erney Gains Protest After Long Session; Says Team in Excellent Condition

CLEBURNE, Nov. 7.—Coach Erney returned last night from Austin, where he has been fighting for a week to disqualify the North Side team for ineligibility in the recent game, which would have eliminated the local aggregation from the race toward a state championship.

After a four hour session with officials of the interscholastic league, Erney gained his point and was awarded the victory which carried with it the right to meet Wichita Falls for the championship of district 4, a step toward the state title.

Coach Erney will immediately get in touch with Coach Jones of the Wichita Falls team with a view toward bringing the club to Cleburne for the game since that half of the district had the elimination game in 1921.

With possibly one exception, the local team is in excellent condition following the terrific battle with North Side.

Announcement of the location of the game is expected some time today.

New Favorite Not To Start in Jocky Club Stake Today

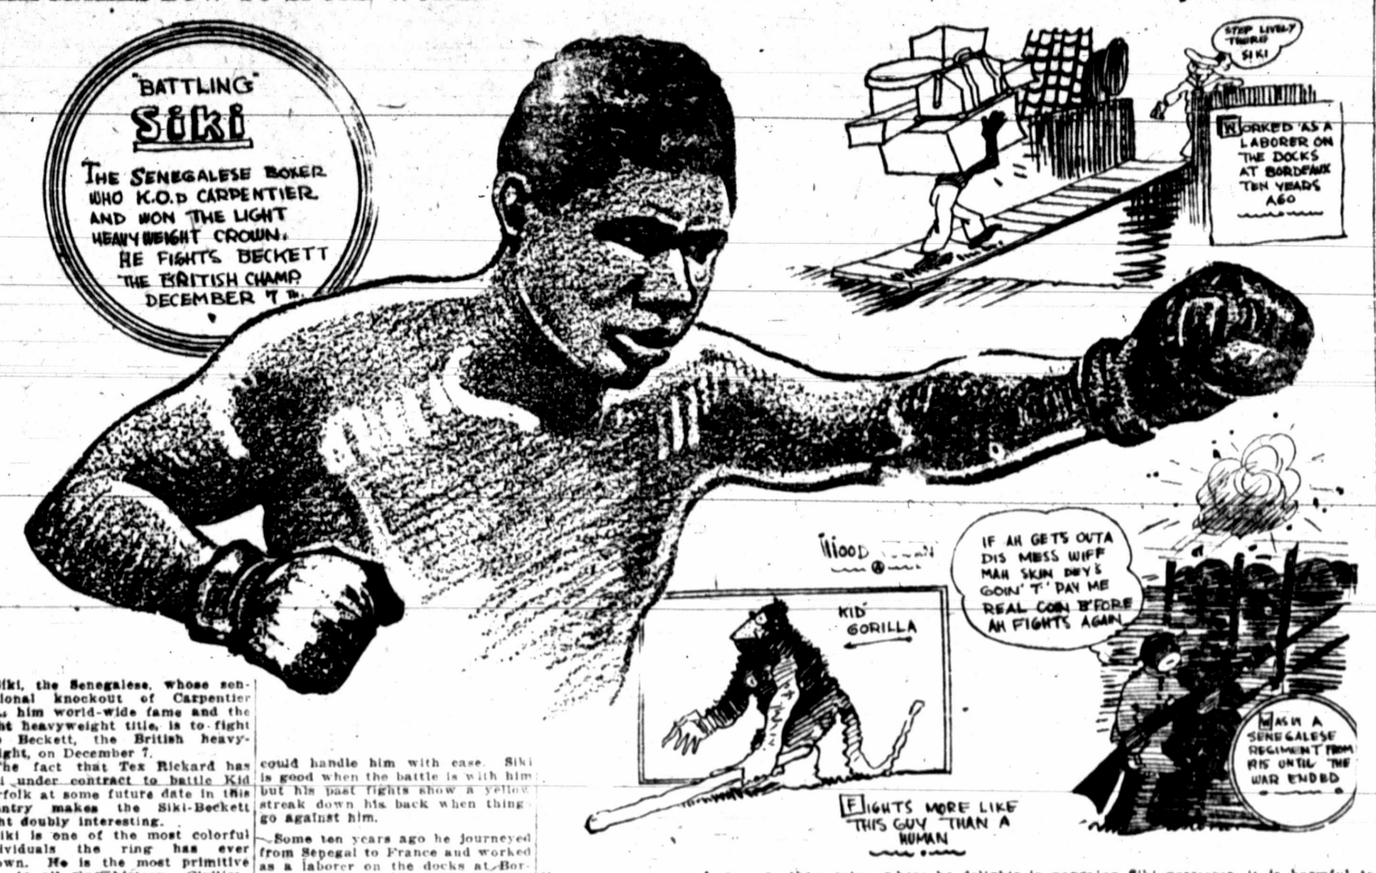

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7.—Blossom Time, E. R. Bradley's entry from the Idle Hour stock farm and winner of the division in the $80,000 Pimlico Futurity last Saturday, will not start in the special mile race today at Primlico, for the gold cup offered by the Maryland Jockey club.

Sandy McNaughton's Little Celt, who ran third to Blossom Time, also will be out of the race. Both were reported to have gone lame following the running of the Futurity.

Sally's Alley of the Wilmer & Klimer stable, and winner of the second division of the event, is regarded as favorite in the race. There will be no purse offered to the winner. Six horses will start today and the winner will be generally regarded as the 3-year-old champion of the season.

SIKI MAKES BOW TO SPORT WORLD

-By Wood Cowan

Siki, the Senegalese, whose sensational knockout of Carpentier won him world-wide fame and the light heavyweight title, is to fight Joe Beckett, the British heavyweight, on December 7.

The fact that Tex Rickard has Siki under contract to battle Kid Norfolk at some future date in this country makes the Siki-Beckett fight doubly interesting.

Siki is one of the most colorful individuals the ring has ever known. He is the most primitive man in all ring history. Civilization has failed to place her imprint upon him to any noticeable degree. This applies especially to his fighting methods.

His science is crude. Possessed of a powerful punch and an ability to absorb punishment without losing his tremendous vigor, Siki fights best at the give and take variety of scrapping. Mixing it with him is very much like mixing with a gorilla. A skillful boxer not disposed to take chances with him could handle him with ease. Siki is good when the battle is with him but his past fights show a yellow streak down his back when things go against him.

Some ten years ago he journeyed from Senegal to France and worked as a laborer on the docks at Bordeaux. Where he wandered and what he did between that time and the outbreak of the war no one knows, save Siki himself; and it is doubtful whether even he could tell. But up he turned in 1915 as a member of a Senegalese regiment where he served through the war.

Becoming a handler for white fighters, then a sparring partner, Siki soon learned the rudiments of boxing. Tiring of swinging towels and carrying water buckets, he branched out as a fighter himself. Few men were good among the heavies and he soon attained some prominence. Last year this dusky warrior began throwing challenges at Carpentier from tables in the montmartre cafes where he spends most of his time.

Siki, primitive in thought, has no conception of business methods. At one time he had signed six contracts with six different men to manage him. He would fight anyone to get money to spend his nights in merry making on Montmartre, where he delights in negro jazz and champagne that sparkles at 80 francs per bottle.

Every now and then he would disappear to turn up after a lapse of a few weeks with tales of adventures in the South Seas or wherever his wandering steps had carried him.

Training holds no attraction for him. That, no doubt, is why Carpentier held him so lightly.

With an irresponsible nature such as Siki possesses, it is harmful to our nation to import him into this country where the game is already guttered up with bad talent, and where the average citizen is less inclined to look with favor upon the rampages of a fame drunken colored fighter than people of Europe. "Lil" Arthur Johnson, at his worst would seem like an angelic figure alongside of this Senegalese (should he be successful here) judging from his life in France.

SIKI TELLS STORY OF RISE AS A FIGHTER

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Staff Correspondent.

ROTTERDAM, HOLLAND, Nov. 7.—Louis Phal—"Battling Siki"—conqueror of Georges Carpentier, may be many things, but he is not the "fighting chimpanzee" sporting writers describe him.

He is a typical Senegalese negro, nearly six feet tall, well built, with kinky hair and forehead an inch high. He would never shine as a beauty in America, but in Senegal, he would be rated handsome.

Siki fought all through the war, was wounded and won medals and honors. He speaks fairly good French, reads it and writes it, but can't be called a profound scholar. In his contact with British troops during the war, he learned many English words, can say some sentences in English and understands a great many more. He has also picked up enough Dutch to make himself understood in Holland.

Battling Siki might become a braggart if he wins more big fights and considerable money. At present, though, he is just a scrapper—modest, friendly, talkative and poor in purse.

By BATTLING SIKI
As Told to Milton Bronner, NEA Staff Correspondent.

CHAPTER ONE.
His Life in Senegal.

I was born in St. Louis, capital of the French colony of Senegal, 25 years ago. My true name is Baye Phal.

Baye is a Senegalese name corresponding to Louis, so I am Louis Phal.

Entering the ring, I called myself Battling Siki. Siki is a Senegalese word parents apply to their children—a "love word" like "darling" in English, or "cherie" in French. I adopted it because I thought white men could easily remember such a name.

I make this clear because recently a professor of languages, living in Paris, wrote one of the papers saying Siki was a title of nobility in Senegalese, and Phal was the name of the former kings of a province of Senegal. If I am descended from kings, I never knew it before.

Parents Poor.

My parents were working people. They didn't have time to think about educating me and my four brothers. We just grew up. I wrote the following description of my early life for a Paris paper:

Senegal is a city of 23,000. We wear clothes like you. We are French citizens and elect a member to the French parliament. We are either Christians or Mohammedans. Me, I am a Mohammedan.

I used to go to the docks and watch the ships. One day a big ship came in, en route to Marseilles, and as it was to remain some days, the passengers came ashore. Among them was a German woman who called herself Mme. Fauquenberg, a dancer, who had lots of money.

She saw me, a kid of eight, looking up at the ship. She took my hand, and had me show her about the city. Then she asked if I wanted to go on the ship and sail to France and see other lands and have a good time.

Leaves With Dancer.

I didn't take time to tell my family goodby, for I feared the dancer would change her mind.

In France the dancer got me nice clothes, and daily taught me to read and write. She danced in many European cities, and I would go on the stage as her little servant, dressed in red velvet.

The dancer went to Germany, but couldn't take me without a passport. She left me in Marseilles with money to care for me. I never heard from her again.

SIKI SHADOW-BOXING

I tried repeatedly to get in touch with her, and have written since the war, but to no avail. She was kind to a black boy. Only for her, I would be slogging away in Senegal's hot climate.

PLAN THREE WELLS INGLESIDE DISTRICT IN YOUNG COUNTY

OLNEY, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—After an exhaustive geological survey of the Ingleside district six miles southwest of here, the Monroe Production company is seeking to close up contracts with land owners calling for the drilling of two wells. Three thousand acres is involved in the deal. This acreage is to be divided into two blocks with a separate drilling contract on each 1,500 acres. An official of the company stated that with the exception of one or two signatures which he hoped to obtain this week, the transaction was complete.

The geological report on this territory tallied so closely with that of the Miller shallow field northeast of here as to lead officials of the company to believe that shallow production could be obtained. The contracts call for a thousand foot test unless oil is found at a lesser depth, with the privilege of drilling deeper should conditions warrant it.

TWO GRID GAMES IN GOTHAM FOR BIG DAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Two college gridiron contests today are scheduled as an election day attraction in New York. The most interesting is the one between Louisiana State university and Rutgers at the Polo grounds. The other is between Gotham rivals, New York university and Fordham.

Somebody Just Envious—It Wasn't A Pet Deer at All

It wasn't anybody's pet deer that J. H. Gardner killed in Karr county last week. It was a wild one, big and fat, with 11 points. Somebody told that yarn about it being a pet deer because they were envious of Mr. Gardner's prowess and marksmanship.

Mr. Gardner was the only member of the party to even get a shot at a deer.

Mr. Gardner, W. E. Norton, T. B. Noble, Orville Bullington, W. M. McGregor, F. M. Gates and B. J. Shaw returned from the Karr county property Monday. It is expected that another group of members of the club will go down later in the month.

S. M. U. GETS LINE ON HARD STRUGGLE WITH TEXAS AGGIES

DALLAS, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Baylor's 13 to 1 victory over the Texas Aggies at Waco Saturday gave Southern Methodist university a line on the hard game that faces it in the coming Saturday game at the stadiumm at Fair park when they celebrate Armistice day by meeting these same Texas Aggies in a game that promises to be fully as hard fought as the classic at Waco. It is the big game for the Mustangs as they are unbeaten in the conference and must win to retain a crack at the title, while th Aggies, losers of their first game after a magnificent battle, must win over the local team in order to figure on a high rating in the conference.

Up to Saturday's game, the Aggies were not held in high esteem as a prospective victor over the Mustangs. The Baylor game gave a new line on Bible's men. It showed them a hard fighting squad with a suprisingly effective line plunging offense and in an overhead game matched only by the Longhorns this year among conference teams. For one thing, the elements that defeated the Aggies Saturday do not exist in the S. M. U. attack. They have no powerful Blalock and Williamson on the tackle around formations, huge aggressive runners—and yet practically every other Baylor attacking method except the elusive Bradshaw's smashes at the right end, were stopped.

Ray Morrison who scouted the Saturday game undoubtedly saw a flaw in the Aggies defense in the work of Evans, Chifflet, and Allison on right end. But while this will be taken note of, there is little doubt at College Station this week, Bible will be putting these three young men through pretty intensive training on the way to stop that end running game. Yet in the Waco game, this was the one outstanding defect of the Farmer defensive play. With few exceptions, line plunging did little.

WELL ON GRAHAM STEWART FARM IS ESTIMATED AT 30

OLNEY, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—The well on the Graham Stewart farm which was brought in by the Monroe Production company several days ago at a depth of 830 feet, swabbed 30 barrels in two hours and tested 40. Production is estimated at 30 barrels per day.

Prognostication

Figuring the Coyotes winning straight through to a state title, the Saturday game will likely be the toughest of the entire route. Figuring the possibilities of the two teams, if they were in far separated districts, they would likely play the finals instead of for district honors.

There are now more than 30 teams undefeated, but of the lot, Houston Central, Austin, Amarillo and Abilene look best, but none of them are to be feared.

They have swept through undefeated thus far and represent the best of their district, but that doesn't necessarily mean that they have championship calibre.

Abilene has Guitar and Moore, two all state men of last year, but the flashing Pat Murphy is gone and with him went half the strength of the team.

Fort Arthur is still in. Palmer and LeCoq are two of the fastest backs in the state, but they compose the main threat of the light gulf team.

Thompson and Wylie are Houston's faith men and should not afford more than casual resistance.

So, looking the clubs over for their actual strength, the Coyotes look best right now, particularly with the wealth of material at hand and in reserve.

Yes, the Saturday game will likely be the "hard" game.

Right Earful

He was her college hero,
Worshiped as a saint;
The ball slipped through his fingers—
Now he ain't.

Who Will It Be?

The showing of Cameron at end in Saturday's game brought about another question, "Who must forfeit a uniform for the brilliant end?"

Although unable to participate in the early games, Cameron had studied all the while and when called upon Saturday was ready to go. And "go" he did too. Not another Coyote got into as many single plays as did the short, stocky wing-guardian.

Jones could not answer the question for himself, but was emphatic that a uniform would have to be "pulled" somewhere. Cameron was in Waggoner's unie Saturday while that flashing end was resting for the coming contest.

It means a bit of work on the part of some of the older men or else—

Then there was another new face presented. Jenkins went into the backfield for minutes toward the close of the game and showed enough stuff to warrant retention. In that instance, where is the second uniform coming from?

Farewell, Dopesters

When Alabama won from the University of Pennsylvania Saturday and at the same time Syracuse threw a wrench into the reputed Nebraska machine, there was not enough left of original "picks" to find a scribe who had predicted results for the day.

The season thus far has seen more upsets than any of the past 10 years, but still they persist in announcing "probable winners" until the last minute.

Even in Texas circles, "Driftwood" said " and at that Baylor may not win," and "The Horned Frogs will likely have little use for their razors for several days yet."

But doping 'em out is all a joke anyway. If you guess 'em, you're lucky, if you don't you're a "chump," if you miss you're a "joke" and an "I-told-you-so" afterwards is worst of all.

Left Earful

They had to have a referee,
The game must start and stop.
They chose one with experience,
The corner traffic cop.

The Saturday Crowd

Officials of the local gun club are showing much interest in the registered Armistice day shoot to be held here Saturday.

Personal letters have gone forward to 150 of the leading gunners of the state urging them to attend the attractive program. Many have signified their intention of coming. Others will just arrive unannounced.

Chief amongst the notable invited is Tris Speaker, Hubbard City, known as one of the best trap gunners of the country. President A. G. Deatherage extended the invitation, and since no reply has been received, it is hoped "Spoke" will be here.

Woodward, Phil Miller, Wallace Miller, "Bill" Herr and many other champions both past and present, are expected for the shoot which looks bigger now than ever before.

New Bosses Signed.

Hunter Hill is returning to what might be called his "native heath" with his signing of a contract to boss the Houston Buffs during the 1923 Texas league campaign.

Not since 1911 has Hill been associated with the Houston team, and not since 1909 did he really guide its destinies when in that year he copped the flag after one of the most thrilling races of the loop.

Ens. Bridwell and Whiteman have all tried to give Houston a winner since Hill's time, but there has been little success. But that is the history of the league, for with the exception of Ham Patterson, no outside manager has shown a winner from the start.

So Hill has been called back and signed for the job again. He will have full control from the start and begin his work at the Louisville meeting.

Then San Antonio has signed a new pilot, too. Robert "Bob" Coleman who sent the Terre Haute club of the Three-I league to a pennant in 1922.

Coleman is reported to be a second "Possum" Moore and will carry the heavy end of the receiving in 1923.

The new Bear pilot was property of the Browns and though slated for a job as an assistant to Lee Fohl, but with Benson's offer was released to San Antonio.

EXPERTS HERE TO MAKE SOIL SURVEY IN THIS DISTRICT

W. T. Carter Jr., chief of the division of soil survey at A. & M. college, and W. W. Strike, assistant, arrived in Wichita Falls Monday to conduct a soil survey of the lands to be irrigated.

This survey is one of the preparatory steps in the development of the irrigated area, the officials being sent here at the behest of the district officials. They plan an exhaustive and detailed story of soil conditions, and their report is expected to be a guide to farmers in determining what crops can be grown successfully and marketed profitably.

In connection with the soil survey, an economic survey of the district has also been started, with a view to obtaining the greatest possible amount of information in advance of the opening of the project.

SENATORIAL RACE ONLY TEXAS ISSUE

early today. Only a few persons were at each box when the polls opened but it was expected that the numbers would increase materially as the day went on. Mayfield's name is printed on all ballots in this county.

LARGE VOTE REPORTED FROM TAYLOR COUNTY

ABILENE, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Snappy autumn weather here today brought out a large vote, with the expectation that the usual democratic majorities would be returned. Earle B. Mayfield's name was on the ballots in Taylor county.

LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN IN ELECTION AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Nov. 7.—Scant interest is being shown in the election here today, voting in the early hours being unusually light. Mayfield's name appeared on the Travis county ballot.

NO NAME FOR SENATE ON McLENNAN BALLOTS

WACO, Nov. 7.—Neither candidate for United States senator is printed on the ballot in this county. Weather is ideal and a large vote is expected. Republicans are urged to write Peddy's name, while Mayfield's friends are active.

TEN PER CENT OF VOTE IS CAST IN GALVESTON

GALVESTON, Nov. 7.—After a brisk start, voting fell away rapidly and at noon it was estimated that only about 10 per cent of the voting strength had been cast in Galveston.

UNUSUALLY HEAVY VOTE INDICATED AT AMARILLO

AMARILLO, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Ballots were distributed to local election boards of Potter county last night bearing the name of Earle B. Mayfield as democratic nominee for the senate. The weather is clear and cool today and indications point to an unusually heavy vote for general elections.

VOTERS RECOVER FROM EARLY MORNING APATHY

HOUSTON, Nov. 7.—By afternoon voters in Harris county had recovered from their early morning apathy and a good sized vote, comparable to that in the July primary was being polled.

HARDING WILL NOT MAKE POST-ELECTION STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—President Harding will make no post-election statement, it was said today at the white house, because he believes the opinion rendered today in the ballot boxes regardless of their nature, need no interpretation from the president.

VOTING HEAVY IN ALL TARRANT COUNTY BOXES

FORT WORTH, Nov. 7.—Voting is heavy in all 80 Tarrant county boxes; in fact the heaviest ever known in a general election. Interest is almost as lively as in the average primary.

SWEETWATER REPORTS LIGHT VOTE IS POLLED

SWEETWATER, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—The vote in Nolan county was light, only about 150 ballots having been reported cast up to noon. Mr. Mayfield's name was on the ballot.

CONGRESSIONAL RACE IS THE CENTER OF INTEREST

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 7.—Little interest except in the congressional race was manifested in Bexar county voting today. Democrats, to the surprise of many, were voting the straight party ticket. The vote is exceedingly light and with a slight drizzle falling throughout the county and district the vote may be small.

MEXIA, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Voting here today seemed nearly twice as heavy as that cast in the last general election. Mayfield's name was on the ballot in Limestone county except at Groesbeck.

Sheep, 250; lambs 7.50@12.50; yearlings 7.00@11.00; wethers 5.00@7.00; ewes 3.50@5.75; culls 1.00@2.00; stocker sheep 5.50@6.50; feeder lambs 6.50@11.50; goats 1.50@3.00.

Kansas City Livestock.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 7.—Cattle, receipts 19,000; steady; early top beef steers 9.00; cows 3.50@4.50; heifers 6.00@7.50; canners 2.25; cutters 2.00@3.25; stockers and feeders 5.00@6.35; vealers 8.50@9.00.

Hogs, receipts 11,000; dull; top 8.15; lights 7.75@7.95; heavy butchers 7.90@8.10; mixed 7.70@7.85; bulk of sales 7.70@8.10; packing sows 7.10@7.25; stock pigs 7.50@8.00.

Sheep, receipts 4,000; active; fat lambs 25 to 50c higher; fat sheep 25c higher; best native lambs 14.00; fat ewes 6.00@6.50.

ELECTION INTEREST IN MANY STATE

dicial state offices will be filled throughout the territory.

LIGHT VOTE EXPECTED IN SOUTHERN STATES

ATLANTA, GA., Nov. 7.—Rainy or cloudy weather over a majority of the southern states, together with a general lack of interest due to the fact that nominations in state primaries made election practically certain, was expected to bring out a light vote in the general elections today in this section of the country.

Only in Tennessee and those districts in Alabama, North Carolina and Virginia where the republicans were offering real opposition to the democratic nominees was interest reported keen and a heavy vote predicted.

Unitd States senators were being voted on in Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi and Virginia, while governors were being voted on in Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and Tennessee.

MISS ROBERTSON EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE IN ELECTION

MUSKOGEE, OKLA., Nov. 7.—As voters swarmed to the polls here today Miss Alice Robertson, of the second Oklahoma district, only woman member of congress, sat quietly at her desk at campaign headquarters toying affectionately with messages expressing confidence in her victory. She said she believed she would win "by an overwhelming majority" in her race for reelection on the republican ticket.

"Regardless of victory or defeat, however," she said, "under no circumstances will I ever seek office again."

Her opponent is W. W. Hastings of Tahlequah, whom she defeated two years ago when he was seeking a fourth term.

OKLAHOMA INTEREST IN GUBERNATORIAL CONTEST

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 7.—Election day in Oklahoma dawned clear and cool, bringing predictions that one of the heaviest votes cast in an off election in the history of the state would be polled. Chief interest centers in the gubernatorial race. Eight representatives to the national congress are to be elected as well as an entire state ticket.

CLEAR WEATHER PREVAILS THROUGHOUT NORTHEAST

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Clear weather prevails throughout most of the northeastern states, the government weather bureau here reported today. Boston, Portland and New Haven were the exceptions where light rains were in progress with prospects for clear weather later in the day. Western New York state was reported cloudy. Clouds today hung over portions of eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and parts of New England.

Clear weather prevails over western Pennsylvania, Indiana and Ohio.

BITTERNESS HAS MARKED CAMPAIGN IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—Violence in connection with the election broke out early today in Chicago when J. H. Clancy, a republican precinct worker in the eighteenth ward, a west side river ward, was fired on as he was leaving his home. None of the shots took effect and the attackers escaped in a motor car.

Bitterness has marked the campaign for Cook county offices in which the republican factionalism, religion and to a small extent, the Ku Klux Klan, have been injected as issues.

HEAVY EARLY VOTE IS POLLED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The spirited campaigns waged by Governor Miller and former Governor Smith for the executive chair at Albany and by Senator Calder and Health Commissioner Copeland for a place in the upper house at Washington, bore fruit throughout the state today in heavy early balloting.

Reports from upstate up to 1 o'clock were that over 20 per cent of the registered vote had been cast in the municipalities with rural sections following closely.

In New York City the vote got an even earlier start, particularly in the Bronx where fully 25 per cent of the vote was reported to have been polled in the first three hours.

TO LAY 8,000 FEET ADDITIONAL WATER MAIN THIS WINTER

As soon as material arrives the city water department of this city will begin extending mains in various sections of the city. Over 8,000 feet of pipe will be added to the city's water system at a cost of $10,027. This action was taken at a meeting of the city council Monday night. Manager Lawton was authorized by the council to begin work on laying the additional mains as soon as the material can be secured; it was stated at the meeting that the equipment would be on hand January 1.

In addition to this improvement in the water system of the city, six new fire plugs will be installed. Fire Chief McClure asked for some of the plugs called for in this allowance some time ago; the lack of water and sufficient plugs in the residence section has been the chief cause of the enormous fire losses in the past.

The mains to be extended are: Lee street between Fourth and Sixth, 852 feet of 6-in. main, $1,010; Avenue E between Kemp and Buchanan, 400 feet of 6-inch and 800 feet of 4-inch main, $875; Virginia between Jalonick and Fort Worth, 736 feet of 6-inch, $710; Dallas between Virginia and Kentucky, 336 feet of 6-inch, $350; fire plug at Fort Worth and Virginia, $125; Jalonick between Virginia and Kentucky, 336 feet of 2-inch main, $125; fire plug at Avenue E and Buchanan, $125. Total, $3,670. This project at present will serve 42 customers. Pearl between Brook and Grace, 2,160 of 6-inch main, $2,900; fire plug at Pearl and Marshall, $125; fire plug at Pearl and Birdwell, $125. This extension will serve 40 customers at the present time. Total $3,150. Houston between Lincoln and Madison, 2,272 feet of 6-inch main, $2,887; Houston between Wichita and Lincoln, 400 feet of 2-inch main; fire plug at Houston and Carolina, $125. Total $3,207.

Permission was given Dr. J. L. Reed, park commissioner, to begin work on the fencing of Riverside cemetery to protect the property from stock. It is claimed that at present the cemetery shrubs and other property is being destroyed by loose animals. Commissioner Shepherd was instructed to take up with owner the matter of preserving and replanting trees on Pearl street. The council agreed that the city would water and tend the trees next summer if the owner would replace the dead trees and give the others the necessary attention.

A complaint concerning the obstruction of a sidewalk on Indiana where the owner is using the passage for a loading platform was received. Commissioner Pitts was instructed to investigate the matter and give pedestrians the proper protection.

1923'S FAIR DATES WILL BE FIXED AT TORONTO MEETING

C. H. Verschoyle, secretary of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair association, will leave November 22 for Toronto, Canada, to attend the meeting of fair association executives.

Dates for the 1923 fairs will be agreed upon at that meeting. It is thought likely that substantially the same dates as this year will be fixed. It is also likely that a five day fair will be decided upon, sentiment among the directors here being against a longer period.

As soon as the dates are known the association will start active planning for 1923. It is strongly hoped that finances will permit the erection of a grandstand, so that races and football may be added to the attraction. In recent weeks a considerable portion of the unpaid stock subscriptions have been collected, and this work is still going on.

MERCURY SHRINKS UNDER SPELL OF COLD NORTH WIND

The mercury in the thermometer bulbs all over the district touched by local railroads shrank during the night Monday under the spell of a cool north wind. Locally the lowest point reached was 47 degrees while the agent at Woodward reported the lowest minimum temperature with 38 degrees.

Conditions were ripe for a frost during the night but the temperature remained too high. The skies, which were clear throughout the night remained spotless Tuesday morning. There was a heavy deposit of moisture on the grass Tuesday morning.

Agents from all points reported clear skies, light north wind and cool temperatures Tuesday morning.

The maximum point reached by the thermometer Monday afternoon was 78 degrees.

READJUST PRICES OF FATIMA CIGARETTES

One of the season's most important announcements in the post-war readjustment of prices is the news that the price of Fatima cigarets has returned to 20 cents for twenty.

Smokers and dealers alike have naturally waited for Fatima, as the quality leader of the "Turkish blend" type of cigaret, to give the most authentic indication of the trend of cigaret prices, so that this announcement, just made by the Liggett and Myers Tobacco company, is perhaps the most authoritative development since the price-cutting movement among the cheaper brands was started some months ago.

At Fatima's price, it is difficult to imagine the smoker who cannot afford to be discriminating, for after all it is doubtful if there is another cigaret on the market so highly respected by so many men. In fact, the claim is made, and justified repeatedly in ever-increasing sales, that there is "no other cigaret of such quality at such a price."

It is true that even at its new price, Fatima still sells for a few cents more than the ordinary Turkish blend cigaret, but the slightly higher price is more than compensated for by the extra amount of Turkish tobacco used in its blending, which gives the cigaret its famous "balance"—that rich aroma balanced with body, that smoothness and delicacy of flavor that have set Fatima apart since the first from all other cigarets.

CHRIST'S WILL AND TESTAMENT THEME IN REVIVAL SERMON

At the Church of Christ Monday Foy E. Wallace Jr. took for his subject "The Last Will and Testament of Jesus Christ," taking for the text Hebrews 9:15-18 inclusive.

Taking a will made by a man leaving his property to his loved ones and friends as an illustration, the speaker sought to show that the last will and testament of Christ was made by Christ, that Christ died, that His will was probated in heaven; and that power was sent from heaven to the executors of His will so they could enforce it.

"Differing from a will made by a man, leaving his property to a few, Christ's will is world wide, offering salvation to the whole world; Christ's will is universal, and all who will avail themselves of its terms may have salvation," he said.

Reasoning from analogy the speaker showed that as a man may make gifts while he is alive, so Christ while He was on earth before His death could make gifts.

"Christ had the power on earth to forgive sins. (Mark 2:1-7. The last man to have his sins forgiven unconditionally was the thief on the cross to whom Christ said: 'Today shalt thou be with me in Paradise.' Paradise being the department of hades where the spirits of saved people go after death to await the judgment. Hence, when Christ died his will went into effect when power came from heaven in the shape of the Holy Spirit, giving the apostles power to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature; and he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved."

Seven made the good confession Monday night. There will be baptizing Tuesday night. Preaching twice daily, at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. The subject Tuesday night will be "A Model Conversion."

PASTOR AT ELECTRA IS "POUNDED" BY MEMBERS

ELECTRA, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Rev. R. B. Curry was given concrete proof Thursday night of the pleasure with which his parishioners welcome his return as pastor of the local Methodist church. More than a wagon load of groceries were taken to the parsonage. Included were a quantity of home-made preserves and canned fruits. A number of pieces of needle work were taken to delight the minister's wife. A social hour was enjoyed following the pounding.

Mr. Curry will preach a special sermon Sunday morning to his board of stewards, who will have seats reserved for them and go to church in a body.

SAYS I. W. W. IS GETTING READY TO INVADE OIL FIELDS

The I. W. W. organization is getting ready to invade the oil fields of the southwest, and "show those scissor bills what organization means," according to Wm. F. Webber, "anti-red" speaker, who is now in Wichita Falls, and who is being heard by large numbers of Wichitans in street corner addresses.

Webber, who is a former secret service operative, and who claims to have first-hand knowledge of I. W. W. and "red" activities generally, said Monday that plans are now under way by the oil and gas workers' division of the I. W. W. for organizing the Texas and Oklahoma oil fields, that being part of a general program for the southern states.

Mounting a step ladder at some downtown point where he can be heard, Webber launches into a vigorous attack on I. W. W. methods and plans, and it is usually not long before he has a growing and attentive audience. He declares in his talks that he has taken it on himself to inform and warn the public against the growing activities of radical organizations, and he makes a very clear case against such bodies.

NOTED SHAKESPEAREAN READER GIVES RECITAL AT IOWA PARK MONDAY

IOWA PARK, TEXAS, Nov. 7.—Miss Norma Dickson, dramatic interpreter of Shakespearean and classic repertoire, of New York City, favored an audience at the Park theatre in Iowa Park with a two hour program Monday evening. Her repertoire consisted of two numbers from Shakespeare and three classic numbers. Her costumes were gorgeous and her delivery splendid.

Miss Dickson has studied in Denver, Colo., and New York City and has given dramatic recitals in some of the larger eastern cities and well known colleges. She will tour the southern states this winter. Her manager is now in Florida on the Atlantic coast.

Miss Dickson is visiting her brother, W. Dickson, editor of the Wichita County Promoter in Iowa Park, and will leave the latter part of November for San Antonio for the first engagement of her southern tour.

Several Wichita Falls people enjoyed Monday night's program.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS ARE USED AS VOTING PLACES WHILE CLASSES CONTINUE

Two public school buildings were in use as election voting places Tuesday, while school kept as usual. The high school and Alamo school buildings were in use as voting places, the fact that such an arrangement conflicted with tudy not being remembered until it was too late to change. No election was held in the Fannin school, voters of that precinct using a nearby building instead.

It is expected that other arrangements will be made hereafter so as to avoid having voting places in school buildings while classes are in progress.

Your Bank and Family Finances

Banking service can mean just as much to your household or personal finances as it does to your business affairs.

Provided, of course, that you give it the opportunity.

Are you among these thousands?

THOUSANDS of people keep on trying, year after year, to build health from food that has been robbed of certain elements required for perfect nutrition.

If your food doesn't contain the mineral properties that go to build up nerve, tooth and bone structure, there is no other means by which you can get these vital elements.

This is one reason why so many well-informed people eat Grape-Nuts —the food that enriches the blood, and builds sound, healthy bodies.

Grape-Nuts is made from whole wheat flour and malted barley—baked for 20 hours, which develops the natural richness of the grains and makes for ready digestibility.

And Grape-Nuts is perfectly delicious—served with milk or cream, or made into an appetizing pudding for dinner.

Get a package of Grape-Nuts from your grocer today, and give the family a help to health.
