MOB KILLS ANOTHER TEXAS BLACK

TUG WILSON, 'BOOTLEGGERS' DARK HORSE ENTRY IS VOTED AS MOST POPULAR SHRINER

Man From Burk Walks Away With Both Saul and Norris Ewing in Balloting at Big Ceremonial Following Long and Colorful Parade Thru Streets of Wichita Falls.

"Old Tug" Wilson of Burkburnett, hailed as the "bootleggers' choice" and dark horse entry into the Shrine ring race, won the distinction going to the most popular novice at the Tuesday evening ceremonial of Maskat temple, besting the two local candidates, Saul Lebenson and Norris Ewing.

Preceded by a parade through the downtown streets early in the evening, Maskat Temple Shriners lead 106 novices across the hot sands of the desert of Texas last night in an evening ceremonial at the Call Field auditorium—the first evening ceremonial to be held by the local temple, and attended by a large number of Shriners from points throughout northwest Texas.

The parade was headed by Potentate Walter D. Cline and Divan, in evening dress, by the Maskat temple band and patrol in the Oriental regalia of the order, and followed by about 300 Shriners in the red fez, with the line of novices bringing up the rear.

Candidates Attract

The candidates for the Shrine ring, in the line of novices, featured the parade, which made its way through the principal downtown streets.

"Tug" Wilson, Burkburnett oil man, who was a dark horse in the Shrine ring contest, attracted particular attention, with his silktop hat, long coat, brilliant red tie and nose of as brilliant hue—"Old Tug Wilson, the Bootlegger's Choice," the banner on his back proclaimed him.

Saul Lebenson and Norris Ewing, local candidates, disported themselves on a truck. Ewing, dolled in a child's sailor hat, white blouse and skirt, vociferously begged votes along the line of march by reason of his opposition to the Ku Klux Klan, while Saul, garbed in klan regalia with an immense red cross across his breast, appealed for votes through propaganda all over the truck.

The parade came as a welcome relief to the novices, particularly the candidates, who had undergone a full day's torment at the hands of the red-fezzed initiates who crowded the streets throughout the day.

Officers of the temple and members of the Divan include: Walter D. Cline, potentate; Frank Collier, chief rabban; Livingston G. Hawkins, assistant rabban; William W. Mainly About People

Give Texans Seed— If There's Any Left— Loan It to Liberia—

By H. N. F.

CONGRESS IN WAR TIME voted to loan billions of dollars to European governments. These governments were the allies of the United States. Congress in peace time voted a hundred million dollars as a present to buy food for starving Europeans.

Congress authorized the Wilson administration to make a loan of $200,000,000 to the Kerensky government after the downfall of the Romanoffs. Congress, the quick congress and the dead congress, made loans to foreigners or presents to foreigners without number. Of course the war loans had to be made to make the world safe for democracy and large donations had to be made to save the war victims from death by starvation.

IT PAYS FOR A GREAT PEOPLE to be generous and it pays for a great people to lighten the load of those who are in distress on this side of the Atlantic as well as those over sea.

Now it is said that the sub-appropriation committee of the house of representatives voted unanimously not to report the Rhodes bill, proposing an expenditure of $2,000,000 to purchase free seed for sufferers in flooded areas of the South to replant the devastated sections. Secretary Wallace of the Department of Agriculture recommended it.

REPRESENTATIVES BRIGGS and Buchanan of Texas appeared before the committee and urged relief and a telegram from Governor Neff urged that prompt action be taken. Representative Martin B. Madden is the chairman of the committee. He represents the largest negro district in the North. After the committee had taken action, Multi-millionaire Madden told the press correspondents that it was not thought best to embark upon a free seed policy such as the Rhodes bill proposed.

Just the other day the little negro Republic of Liberia requested a loan of $5,000,000 and many of the eminent statesmen representing the American people in the city of Washington favored the granting of the loan. Thirty-three billions to make Europe safe from the talons of the Black Eagle of the Rhine; millions to buy supplies for Russians and Armenians and Turks and Balkan mountainers but when $2,000,000 is asked to buy seeds that the Texas flood sufferers may replant and escape wholesale disaster, these solons of the American congress speaking through the Hon. Martin B. Hadden decide that it is not best to embark upon a free seed policy for American farmers who had been ruined by the spring flood. Is it true that charity begins at home? If it isn't then the mighty Madden should revise and reconstruct the venerable saying.

ATRHUR C. BURCH MUST face another jury. This will be his third. It was a close call for Burch at the first trial as the jurors stood nine to three for conviction. His trial resulted in a vote of seven to five for acquittal and the four women jurors voted for acquittal. Arthur C. Burch is accused of the murder of J. Belton Kennedy and Madalyne Obenchain is said to have lured him from Chicago to Los Angeles that Kennedy should be sent

GEORGIA NEGRO ESCAPES FROM MOB

By Associated Press.

MACON, Ga., May 23.—Jim Denton, the negro who was seized today by a mob in Irwin county, escaped from the mob, according to information received here. He is now being hunted by officers of several counties and by posses of citizens.

Details of the escape of the negro became known when officers of this county were asked to aid in the search. Denson was being taken in an automobile from the jail, which had been stormed to the place where he was accused of attacking a white woman three years ago, when the automobile crashed into another machine.

Two men were thrown through the windshield and the others thrown out with such force that they were stunned.

Denson also was thrown out but was not injured and escaped.

PORTLAND, Oregon, May 23.—Efforts were made today to bring in from remote Oregon counties, the returns from last Friday's primary to clear up the contest for the republican nomination for governor, the lead in which has see-sawed between Governor Ben W. Two Men Held for Murder of Texan

DALLAS, May 23.—Police here are holding two men for further investigation in connection with the killing of R. C. Means of Dallas, in Oklahoma. The men were picked up here by city detectives and Sheriff Taylor of Lead, Oklahoma.

3 SHRINERS COME IN ON FREIGHT CAR

The Katy freight local pulled into the yards yesterday just as any other day.

A couple of men dropped off at the yard limits just as all hoboes do, but instead of heading for the sand house or some other logical "bunking place" headed straight for town.

M. K. & T. side door pullman No. 82,196 had lost its shipment of contraband human freight.

J. S. Wood and H. E. Fletcher of Nocona had been highly desirous of attending the "sand treading" of the Maskats.

Transportation suitable and becoming ambitious novices was conspicuous through its absence. A freight train pulled in, then pulled out. The candidates for qualification as "camel jockeys" were on their way.

And thus did they arrive, tramps in one sense of the word, but eligible and on-time novices for the ceremonial in reality.

RAILWAYS TELL HARDING WAGE SCALE IS HIGH

President Is Hoping For Freight Rate Slash

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Administration intervention into railroad rates problems as instanced most recently in President Harding's dinner conference with carrier executives has disclosed the close relationship between these and problems of railroad pay scales and railroad financing, it was indicated today at the White House.

Railroad managements, it was said while voicing approval of the general proposal that rates be brought down in the interest of general business betterment and expansion of enterprise have taken the opportunity to tell of their own troubles with wage scales which they consider too high, with the financing of new equipment and repair of old, and the maintenance and betterment of their lines.

The result is said to leave President Harding hopeful, however, that tangible immediate reductions can be obtained.

Railroad executives were told by the president and Secretary Hoover at the Saturday night conference if they would leave class rates practically unchanged at existing levels they could go into session with the interstate commerce commission and at once cut sharply existing charges on coal, iron ores, brick, paving materials and other heavy tonnage low unit priced commodities.

This, in the administration view, would remove burdens which have acted to retard the wheels of commerce and at the same time leave high rates on traffic which can bear the burden because of its high unit price.

Many roads regard the proposal with favor, but others took with concern on the plan as comprising a reduction in their chief source of revenue. Among the latter are listed the "coal roads."

Rail earnings in the east have developed a recent tendency to rise, it was argued by railroad managers while western roads are still at low earning points indicating a necessity for treating the rate problem regionally.

"Woman Angel" Clew to Blackhanding Murder Plot Denied by Youth Who Battled Gang on Demand For $50,000

By Associated Press.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 23.—The slaying of Clarence Peters, ex-marine, last Tuesday by Walter S. Ward, son of George S. Ward, millionaire head of the Ward Baking company, followed the elder Ward's refusal to give his son $50,000 to pay his alleged blackmailers, it was learned today.

Young Ward had sent a radio message to his father, who was returning home from Europe on the Majestic, explaining his predicament and asking for funds to meet the blackmailers' latest demands, said an official working on the case.

When he received by radio the curt response "Not one cent for blackmail," he resolved to meet Peters and his two companions and tell them he was "through," this official said.

The young scion of the house of Ward already had paid his blackmailers sums aggregating $30,000, according to Sheriff Warner.

All information as to the nature of the strange hold the blackmailers had upon Ward was withheld by officials handling the case.

Answering hypothesis put forward by newspapermen, however, Elwood Pavenold, Ward's lawyer, denied categorically that there was a "woman angel" or that the blackmail plot was built upon the race track wire tapping or bootlegging.

Ft. Worth Man Has Real Organization Thruout State

FORT WORTH, May 23.—This is the home of Clarence Ousley, one of the senatorial contenders. He has had a long and brilliant career as an editor, a writer on economics, a director of farm movements, official connection with the departments of agriculture of Texas and the nation, a traveler and student in foreign lands and in other years was a member of the higher councils of the democracy of the state. He has established headquarters in this city at the old Metropolitan hotel and Jule G. Smith has been named state chairman of his organization.

Pleads for Farmers.

Chairman Smith was a leader of the Wilson forces in the fierce campaigns of 1920. He is a native Texan and one of the best known business men in the southwest. He insists that our most vital problem in Texas is essentially that of agriculture, as directly or indirectly it touches every home and institution and involves the welfare of every business enterprise in Texas. He holds, and wisely, that it involves legislation as to proper marketing conditions, adjustment of transportation rates, distribution facilities, farm credits, economic financing of production all along the line, industrial progress and development of our natural resources.

Mr. Ousley's friends declare that he has devoted practically his entire life to a study of these important issues, and for this reason and many others they feel that he is better qualified to represent the people in the United States senate than any other candidates now offering. This former editor and publicist is making a speaking tour of Texas and his friends declare that they are in be-

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Continuance of the administration's present policy toward international economic problems was indicated today at the White House.

President Harding was reported as being emphatically opposed to any international conference of banks of issue at Washington in preference to the proposal for such a gathering at London and to be equally disinclined towards the negitiations of a trade treaty with Russia as has been mentioned in some press dispatches from Russia.

PHYSICIANS ASK UNCLE SAM TO PASS OUT HOOCH

Whisky Upheld for Medical Purpose By Doctors

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—Resolutions asking government distribution of whiskey for medical purposes, condemning the Sheppard-Towner maternity bill as "socialistic," providing for congressional investigation of the narcotic trade, and establishment of a bureau to crystallize public sentiment on federal legislation relating to the medical profession, were adopted by the house of delegates of the American medical association, which is holding its 73rd annual convention here.

The use of whiskey in any given case is a matter of scientific therapeutics, the resolution explains, and is not 'to be determined by any legal or arbitrary dictum.'

The resolution states that the experience of physicians as shown in a referendum conducted by the association, indicates that the present method of control constitutes a serious interference with the practice of medicine by those physicians 'who are convinced of the value of alcohol in medical practice.'

Under the resoltuion the government would distribute whiskey at a fixed price, which would be written on the label of the package.

The resolution providing for the appointment of a congressional committee of 15 would include all physicians who are members of the lower house, for investigation of the narcotic trade. The resolution on the Sheppard-Towner bill, as contrary to the interest of public health, as an intrusion on state rights, was adopted unanimously.

SHE QUIT HER HUSBAND AND THEN REMARRIED

Love For Partner Lures Her Away From Him

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, May 23.—Examination and cross examination of Mrs. D. E. Soderman, wife of D. E. Soderman, star witness in the defense of Soderman's trial for the alleged murder of Jay Clay Powers, brother of Tom Powers, New York theatrical manager, occupied the principal part of the second day's proceedings in the case before Judge C. A. Pippen in criminal district court here.

Soderman is charged with murder in connection with the shooting of his former associate in the hotel business in the lobby of the Waldorf hotel here April 18.

Mrs. Soderman's testimony this morning under direct examination was a story of Powers forcing his attention upon her until she yielded to him, got a divorce from her husband in order to marry Powers, and then went back to her former husband when she learned he was ill at Hot Springs, Ark., remarried him, and told him of her former relations with Powers, whom he killed shortly afterwards.

Mrs. Soderman's testimony this afternoon, under cross examination, detailed her life from the time she was born in Nauvoo, Illinois, 33 years ago, married to Soderman in Kansas City, in 1913 and traveled with him over the country, finally settling in Fort Worth, Texas, where her husband and Powers formed a business relationship.

She Tells Life Story

Under the questioning of special prosecuting attorney, Jed Adams, the state witness said she lived in Nauvoo until she was 18, when she went to Detroit for about four years during which time she was not employed, returned to Nauvoo for about three years, went to Davenport, Iowa where she first met Soderman, where he was employed in a restaurant as a cook and she as cashier, remained there two or three years, went to Kansas City where she and Soderman were married, where they lived six months, went to Edmonton, Canada, for a year, where Soderman was chef at a hotel and she kept rooms, then to Great Falls, Montana, for two years where Soderman had a restaurant and she was his cashier.

He sold out, and they returned to his home town, Waukegan, Illinois, for a month, then traveled to Arizona, Los Angeles, and El Paso, finally locating at Casper, Wyoming, where they stayed three years, she said.

Several questions by the prosecution as to the witnesses knowledge of drinking brawls, frequent trouble with relations over Soderman's alleged neglect and mistreatment of his wife, were ruled out by the court, sustaining objections of the defense.

"Did you get along well?" she was asked.

"Yes."

"Did you discuss the matter of getting a divorce?"

"Not until we were in Fort Worth."

Firemen to Fight For Friends and Against Enemies

HOUSTON, Texas, May 23.—The action today of the convention of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen in indorsing political activity on the part of the organization as a unit regarded by brotherhood officials as one of the most important steps taken in the history of the brotherhood. The action of the convention will necessitate a change in the brotherhood laws as political activity and indorsement of candidates for office by lodges or by the national body has been forbidden.

The motion passed today embodies entrance into both state and national politics and provides for the expenditure of funds "to elect friends and defeat enemies."

PREACHER ATTACKS HERO GUNMAN OF MOVIELAND

He Wouldn't Let Snake Bite Woman on Breast Either

By Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 23.—Waving a leter from William "Bill" Hart, two gun motion pictture star, in the faces of 800 Presbyterian commissioners of the 134th general assembly here this afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Gustav Briegeleb of Pasadena, charged that film interests are ridiculing protestant pastors in their pictures in retaliation for the censorship campaign being conducted against them by protestant denominations.

Hart's letter was in reply to one from the California pastor protesting against a picture in which a pastor is portrayed as robbing a stage coach in order to complete the construction of a small church.

The "grim hero of the studios," is himself the author of the scenario in question, replied to the criticism that he admires "a man brave enough to go ahead with his good work althought it envolves robbing a stage coach."

Later in the pictture the pastor is caught by a posse and Hart saves him hanging only by cutting the rope with a well-directed shot from his trusty pistol.

Show me a film which ridicules or insults a Cattholic prles or a Jewish rabbi, in this manner," shouted Dr. Briegeleb. "Their insuits are aimed at us." Dr. Briegeleb described a scene from a pictture now showing in Des Moines, in which a woman, stooping to pick something from the ground, is bitten on the breast by a viper. The hero, undaunted by convention, tears of fher bodice and sucks the poison from the wound.

"Why, if the motion picture men's intentions are so moral, did the director not have the viper bite the woman on the wrist?" asked Mr. Briegeleb.

Boycott of theaters showing objectionable films, and national censorship at the point of production, based upon a federal law, were urged by a resolution adopted.

Approval of the Dyer anti-lynching bill, now before the senate was expressed in another resolution adopted.

GASOLINE RATE CHOPPED DOWN

Cheapen Haul From Burk Here

Requests for freight rate reductions on gasoline between Wichita Falls and Burkburnett have been granted by the Texas state railroad commission.

Information received by H. G. Smith, division freight and passenger agent of the M. K. & T., announced a reduction of from 19 to 11 cents per hundred on naptha and casing head gasoline, between the two points.

Mr. Smith said that the reduced rates went into effect May 20, which was last Saturday, but that the change had not been made known until Tuesday.

It was his opinion that refineries in Burkburnett will now be able to ship more raw material between the two points affected, for blending purposes, than they have heretofore, as the reduction means a large saving to them.

The refineries and casing head plants have been shipping approximately 35 cars of gasoline per month, he said. He believes they will now be able to ship around 75 cars each 30 days.

SOUTHERN BAPTISTS ARE for the enforcement of the written law in the court house. This year the Southern Baptist Convention held its annual session in the city of Jacksonville, Florida. Rev. Dr. A. J. Barton of Louisiana is chairman of the social service committee of the convention. He is a former Texan and was prominent as a prohibition leader and speaker for many years under Lone Star skies. President Harding is a Baptist. Governor Neff is a Baptist and the Baptist denomination is numerically the strongest of all the denominations in Texas.

THE CONVENTION CLOSED Monday after declaring itself as unalterably opposed to individuals or organizations taking the enforcement of law into their own hands. The Barton report declared the Southern Baptists believe in the principles of Americanism, of giving every man charged with crime the right of a fair trial by jury with the power of calling witnesses. The report, which was adopted without debate, declared that any other method of administering justice was mob rule and if adopted generally would ultimately undermine and overthrow everything that Americans hold dear.

ALSO, THE CONVENTION urged pastors of the South not to become aligned or to give approval to any movement or organization that violates or tends to violate the sacred and fundamental principles of the American government. Other declarations of the report adopted were against Sabbath desecration and an appeal for better law enforcement, especially in the suppression of the liquor traffic. There is a straight road for all Americans to take. It was blazed by the pioneers. It leads to the court house and calls for the impartial enforcement of the written law of the commonwealth and the nation. It is the path of safety and sanity and in the long run in this land of ours the ones who are there forever control and directs the affairs of government and upholds the majesty of the written law.

Prisoners Walk Out When Jailer Goes For Pound of Butter

By Associated Press.

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, May 23.—Two prisoners, one sentenced to two years and the other to eight years in the penitentiary opened two doors of the jail here and walked out at 6 o'clock this morning while the jailer was gone for a pound of butter.

The sheriff was to leave at 8 o'clock for Dallas with eight prisoners sentenced to the penitentiary for safe keeping on account of fear, expressed yesterday, that the local jail was unsafe. Twenty other prisoners slept while the jail doors were open.

The escape was discovered when the jailer returned twenty minutes after the walkout.

Klan Is a Factor

There is said to be a klan organization and an anti-klan organization in this city. Hon. William A. Hanger is said to be the grand kleagle of the klan. Former District Judge Tom Simmons is the leader of the anti-klan organization. Hanger in other years was a power in politics with an ambition to be governor of his native state. He defended James E. Ferguson in the impeachment trial and never deserted Ferguson until the latter had been thrown out of office and ditched.

Men who are close to Hanger say that he has buried all ambition of a political nature and his hopes for the future are centered in his young son Captain Rober Hanger, who is a candidate for district attorney.

This is the home of Mr. Ousley. He has many powerful friends here. They are determined to build up an organization state wide and push his cause. Senator Culberson has many friends here. Cullen F. Thomas has strong backing. Earle B. Mayfield has pushed the freight rate issue to the front and many of the leading klansmen are for him. R. L. Henry has some support.

Mr. Ousley's friends say that he will get a plurality in his home county and political observers say that Culberson, Thomas and Mayfield will run in the order named. The vote for Henry and Strong will be scattering. Although Mr. Ousley is a life-long Baptist he is a most vigorous opponent of religion in politics or a union of church and state and never hesitates to express his convictions.

Will Be Warm Here

Two of his closest personal friends are Rabbi Cohen and Rev. Father Kirwin of Galveston and on his committee are the names of prominent Baptist preachers and the beloved Bishop Garrett, the old lion of the Episcopal church under Texas skies.

There is to be a terrific scramble for the county offices here, the rich plums the local politicians seek, and Hanger is backing his son to the limit.

It is a pretty kettle of fish all round and the wisest of the local politicans are up in the air, but from now on the friends of Ousley in his old home town say they are in behind him and they are going to give all the aid and encouragement that it is possible for men to give a fellow citizen who has their respect as well as their admiration. Rev. J. Frank Norris is not an Ousley man. There is a reason for it.

YOUTHFUL CRIMINAL FACES FOURTH TERM

(By International News Service)

INDIANAPOLIS, May 23.—With three prison terms already written upon the history of his brief career, 19-year-old Ernest Fulp faces a fourth term behind prison walls. Standing before Judge James Collins in criminal court, when he was sentenced to serve from 2 to 14 years in the Indiana State reformatory on a charge of burglary, Fulp recited the story of previous offenses. He was sent to the Missouri State prison for highway robbery, to Oklahoma State prison on a charge of receiving stolen goods, and to the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., for selling government property, he said. In each case part of the sentence was commuted.

MEDICAL SPLIT IS THREATENED

Question of Ethics Causes Break

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—The possibility that a group of physicians and specialists of the rank and file of the American Medical association in convention here, would withdraw and form a separate organization which would not place any restrictions on the practice of "group medicine" was indicated late today when a conference headed by one member of the house of delegates and a number of specialists considered the question of withdrawing from membership.

Their action was prompted by the report of the comitee on amendments to the constitution and by-laws in which the discussion of ethical questions led to several amendments being proposed against certain classes of clinics and physicians practicing group medicine. Under the constitution of the association, any amendments proposed must lay over for one year before being voted upon by the house of delegates.

CHURCH PUTS OUT NO ADMISSION SIGN

(By International News Service)

BOSTON, May 23. — "Church crowded. No Admission."

A sign bearing these words was placed outside the door of the Park Street Congregational church on Easter Soundav, so dense was the crowd that occupied every seat and every inch of standing room before the services commenced. Officers stood near the sign and pointed out to churchgoers who still sought to crowd into the building.

MISSOURI CO-EDS LEARN TO USE GUN

(By International News Service)

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 23.—Pretty Missouri university co-eds are becoming expert markswomen.

Regular classes are conducted in rifle shooting, under the tutelage of Capt. John P. Lake. Field practice also is held at intervals.

The young women have become highly adept in handling their rifles, according to Captain Lake, and declare they also have found the practice shooting to be a recreation more interesting than either golf of tennis.

FIRST PRINTED MAP IN NEWBERRY TRIAL

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 23.—What is reputed to be the first map ever printed is contained in a rare volume of Isadore of Seville's "Etymology," printed in Strassburg in 1742, and one of last year's additions to the collection in the Newberry library here.

The map is a woodcut, crude in design, but with the "Mare Magnum" (Mediterranean sea), River Nile and continents of Africa and Asia and plainly drawn. The book in which it is contained is the 401st printed prior to 1500.

WOMAN—

prosecution apparently aiming to bring out a standing state of "drunken sprees" on the part of Soderman was ruled out by the court.

From Casper Soderman and his wife went to Seattle, where her husband was unemployed she said. Her husband next went to Shreveport, La., while she remained at Seattle with a sister, she continued.

"I joined Mr. Soderman at Wichita Falls, Texas. We went to Amarillo, Texas, soon afterward," she continued, answering questions of the prosecution.

"I met Mr. Powers at Fort Worth in March or April, 1920. My husband and Mr. Powers took over the Terminal Hotel there on July 20, 1920.

"Mr. Powers began making love to me."

"Did you not resent it?"

"Yes, I did."

"Did you not mention it to your husband?"

"No."

"Nor to Mrs. Powers?"

"No."

"You resented it and you asked him not to keep it up didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Why didn't you tell your husband."

"I didn't think he was strong enough to bear it."

"Were you consenting to this illicit relation or was it being done without your consent."

"No, without my consent."

"Then, after being ravished, you did not tell it to anyone until April 7 or 8 of this year?"

"I did not."

"And you continued to receive his attention?"

"Yes."

"Then you yielded to him for two reasons, first because he loved you and second, because he did not love his wife?"

"Yes."

The cross examining continued in the hot, crowded courtroom until almost the close of the afternoon, with obvious attack by the prosecution on the credence of the witnesses story of her alleged undoing by Powers, and with questions purporting to show the confession made by Soderman was prearranged between herself and her husband.

Mrs. Soderman was dismissed toward the close of the session and four defense witnesses examined and cross-examined. Benton J. Baker, assistant manager of the Texas Hotel, Fort Worth, Mrs. Louis Bond of Fort Worth, dressmaker to Mrs. Soderman, Weston William, formerly clerk in the Terminal Hotel, Fort Worth, at present hotel clerk at Austin, Texas, and Mrs. W. F. Box, of Dallas, formerly of San Antonio and Cisco, Texas.

The court was adjourned until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning when the taking of testimony will be continued.

SUBORDINATE DRAWS MORE PAY'N CHIEF

WASHINGTON, May 23.—A bureau chief getting paid less than one of his subordinates is the unusual situation revealed in appropriation reports for the bureau of navigation in the department of commerce.

The navigation commissioner, head of the bureau, is paid $4,000 a year, while the port commissioner at New York, his subordinate, gets an annual compensation of $5,000. The chief's salary is equalled by the port commissioner at San Francisco, who also gets $4,000 a year.

THE 30 x 3½ tire situation today is just this—

The man who buys an USCO at $10.90 is justified in believing that his money is going farther in tire value than it ever has gone or could go before.

Naturally he appreciates the quality of USCO. That was established long ago.

It is still fresh in his mind that USCO led the national market into the $10.90 price range.

The makers of U. S. Tires always intended the 30 x 3½ USCO to be the highest value in its field.

At $10.90 it creates a new classification of money's worth.

ALCOHOLIC BLUES BECOMES REALITY

(By International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del., May 22.—"Blues" of a physical variety, are a setback to drinkers of "bootleg" liquor in this city. Persons who can "get it" generally turn a pale blue, thus making the song version of post-Volstead times, "The Alcoholic Blues" a reality.

According to Robert H. Elliott, prohibition director of Delaware, booze confiscated in raids here shows a high percentage of fusel oil when analyzed. This ingredient causes the lips and body to turn ghastly bluish color. Chemists say this is due to the removal of oxygen from the blood by the oil.

JITNEY JAUNTS TO BE CHECKED

Fitts Wants Tab On Trips Made

Thorough investigation of jitneurs, dance halls and pool halls will be made by the city police department.

Commissioner of Police J. B. Fitts announced Tuesday that a probe to ascertain whether the jitney cars are being operated out of the city for improper purposes will be made.

On reports to the department that much noise is being made at the public dance halls in Wichita Falls, the commissioner stated that these, too, will be looked into with a view to putting an end to "rowdism" and boisterous conduct in places that should be conducted "more decently," he said.

"If necessary, we will request them to keep a policeman in their halls to keep peace," Chief J. W. McCormick said when asked about the investigations.

The jitneurs will probably be requested to furnish the department with a list of their drives, and they will probably be checked up on from day to day.

POPPY SALE HERE SATURDAY

Proceeds Will Go to Hospitals

"Buy a poppy?"

That will probably become a popular slogan here Saturday when the women of the Ladies' Auxiliary American Legion, invade the streets selling poppies.

The women—wives, mothers and sweethearts of the former service men—have been very industrious during the past month, in their efforts to prove of public worth. Tuesday they completed a large number of pajamas which are to be distributed among the hospitals of the city, and now they have planned a poppy campaign to raise money.

Proceeds of the sale will be used by the auxiliary to add to the hospital fund.

The poppy sale is a national affair, the local auxiliary having already made a large advance sale to the Wichita Falls merchants.

30 Busy Selves At Pajama Party

All day long needles crept through nice new cloth.

All day long new white thread was pushed through the smallest needle eyes by trieless fingers.

The ladies of the American Legion Woman's Auxiliary were sewing.

Headed by the officials of the auxiliary, thirty industrious women who had ten legionnaires as their guests put small pieces and larger pieces together in their pajama picnic. The picnic was held Tuesday, in the headquarters of the Salvation Army.

During the noon hour, the women were addressed by Post Commandant Wilson, who discussed the importance of the auxiliary.

The pajamas made by the women will be distributed among the hospitals of Wichita Falls.

NOT GUILTY IS PLEA TO CHARGE OF TOOL THEFT

"Not guilty" was the way Roy Collins, charged with theft in connection with the disappearance of drilling tools valued at over $300, answered the charge when it was read in open court Tuesday afternoon.

The case will be completed this morning, court having been recessed by Judge P. A. Martin, in the 89th district court, at 5 o'clock, just when Collins had completed his direct testimony in his own defense.

Several witnesses were placed on the stand by the state, a Mr. Weaver of Electra claiming that he found the tools which Collins is accused of having stolen in Johnson's junk station the day after they were believed to have disappeared.

The manager of the junk station recited in court that Collins had come to the station with two other men, and that they had left the car, which was filled with the tools at his place of business.

Collins intimated from the stand on direct examination that he knew nothing of the origin of the tools, which, he said, were in the car "when I got in to go to Electra."

DEFENDANTS WIN IN LEASE SUIT

An instructed verdict for the defendant on the plaintiff's cause of action and for the defendant on the defendant's cause of action in the sum of $4,800 was the result of the D. P. Taylor et al vs. W. M. McGregor et al hearing held before Judge P. A. Martin in the 89th district court.

Judge Martin instructed the jury to return the verdict Tuesday morning.

A. H. Carrigan, L. T. Burns and John F. O'Donohoe were also named in the litigation as defendants.

Plaintiffs asked for cancellation of a five-year lease on the old Northwestern railway offices, and claimed that $5,000 which they had originally put up on the lease was deposited as forfeit money in case they should desire to cancel the lease.

POLICE DRIVE IS ENDORSED

Citizens Committee Sounds Approval

Hearty indorsement of the "clean-up" in progress by officers at Wichita Falls and Burkburnett was voiced by the executive committee of the Wichita County Citizens' association, meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday afternoon. The Burkburnett drive was reported as proceeding along lines similar to those employed here, and to be meeting with equal success.

Consideration of organization affairs and plans occupied the rest of the meeting.

New Instructions Issued Cops For Vagrancy Drive

Instructions to policemen to bring all vagrants to the station who are found on the streets were issued Tuesday morning by Commissioner J. B. Fitts.

One week of employment work conducted by the bureau, it was pointed out, has obtained employment for over 100 men. Sixty-five positions are now on the records at the police employment bureau, and it is the opinion of the police commissioner that if the men who are still idle really wanted employment, they would readily take some of the jobs still open.

Chief of Police J. W. McCormick stated Tuesday that irrigation, concrete, plastering, farm work and road work are inccluded in the list of 65 jobs open.

Those arrested, he pointed out, will be punished as severely as the vagrants brought before the court during the past week.

Judge W. C. Morrow, presiding judge of the court of criminal appeals, has promised to be present at the Memorial day banquet of the Wichita County Bar association, and to introduce the speaker of the evening, former Chief Justice Nelson Phillips of Dallas. This information was contained in a letter mailed to members of the bar Tuesday by Judge Edgar Scurry, president of the bar association.

Special musical numbers will also feature the meeting, which is expected to be the last held by the association until fall.

Local Masons will be in charge of the services and pallbearers will include N. O. Monroe, R. R. Fisk, Ralph Maricle, E. V. Lesley, R. H. Bawawsky and Dr. J. D. Parnell. Master Masons are asked to meet at the Masonic temple at 2:30 today.

Burial will be in Rosemont cemetery.

Fix Program for Launching Dredge

Launching of the big dredge to play a part in the building of the irrigation storage dam was set Tuesday for one week from the date—Memorial day—and a program, including band music and speeches arranged for the event.

The finishing touches on the big dredge are being imparted this week, and everything is being gotten in readiness for the ceremony which is expected to draw many visitors from the surrounding territory.

The dredge is to be called the "T. B. Noble," in honor of the vice president of the irrigation district board, who has ungrudgingly given time and service to the priject during the past year.

Work on all parts of the project under construction was in full sway Tuesday—negroes and Mexicans having been transported to the storage dam to do the concrete pouring work under protection of a member of the ranger force.

The first negroes taken to the project were chased off by a mob. A crew of white men tried on the work Saturday wilted, whereupon the contractors assembled another force and asked for detail of a ranger to prevent threatened violence.

"Chief, send a man with me—I think I have located a stolen car."

And Jack Miller, detective chief, went along with the citizen who appeared at the police station Tuesday morning, returning some half an hour later with a young white man, who was later placed in the city prison pending an investigation into the ownership of the car, a new Dodge.

Chief Miller said that the man was attempting to dispose of the auto at a second-hand automobile garage. When the car was examined, its mortor numbers had been tampered with, while other parts had been changed and mixed to cover up identification.

AN OBJECT LESSON.

"BANKERS of the south and particularly of Texas are overwhelming in favor of a protective tariff on southern products and particularly on the raw materials raised on farm and ranch, writes Editorial Executive Leonard Withington of the Fort Worth Record.

"Lest there should be any charge that the big banks are influenced by eastern financial interests allied with industrial concerns it should be noted that the signatures of banks and bankers affixed to the Southern Tariff association resolutions are overwhelmingly those of the country banks, which are close to the producer, the farmer and stockman and which have plenty of cause to know and understand his needs. The large banks are also signers so that banking sentiment seems to be strongly defined as in favor of protection along the lines advocated by Hon. John Henry Kirby and his associates in the tariff movement of the south."

Editorial Executive Withington must have skipped the returns from the thirteenth congressional district. There were 29,000 votes cast. There were three democrats in the race and one independent, and the independent had the backing of all the republicans and all the protective democrats in the district.

This is not an assertion. It is a fact. All the organizers and publicity agents of the Southern Tariff congress admitted it on the eve of election. It was an awful slaughter of the protective tariff innocents. Their candidate received less than 2,000 votes. And who won the race? Hon. Guinn Williams, running as a Woodrow Wilson democrat, polled more votes than all the others in the race. And, speaking of banks, Mr. Williams is president of four banks and vice president of a fifth, and he is a farmer and a stockman.

Congressman Williams is a citizen of Decatur, Wise county, and Decatur is only 39 miles away from Fort Worth. These facts and figures are submitted for the edification of the amiable gentleman who is the editorial executive of the Fort Worth Record and who insists "that the south is being woefully misrepresented in congress on this subject (the tariff) and merely because it is used for the gaining of political vantage ground."

There is a republican administration. There is a republican congress.

There are many counties in the thirteenth district which are petroleum producers. Mexican crude is on the free list. It was placed on the free list by the Wilson administration. It was retained on the free list by the Harding administration. Petroleum in the thirteenth district is a product of "the farm and ranch." Why is Mexican crude on the free list?

Why is the president of five banks a tariff for revenue only democrat? Why is it the republican vote for Harding in 1920 was 7,000 and the vote for the candidate who was indorsed by the republicans and the independents in the year 1922 was less than 2,000?

DR. CRANE'S EDITORIAL

THE ENGLISH SPEAKING UNION.

THE English Speaking union has its chief value in the fact that it is an effort to think of ourselves in larger terms. One cause of the wars which periodically impede the progress of the world by their outbursts of destructive mania is provincialism. We get too hot nationally.

The nation is a good thing, but it is not the best thing. The family is a good thing but for the sake of our own common interest there are times when our obligations to the family must be superseded by our obligations to the nation. In the same way our patriotism should always be subject to humanity.

This does not mean a gluey internationalism. It means that we should preserve all national traditions and identities, but that we should recognize them as subservient to the highest end, which is the welfare of the human race.

I welcome the English Speaking union as a significant step forward in the progress of human thought.

At bottom the American is seeking precisely the same thing as the Britisher is seeking. He wants to get on and to do business with the world. That's all.

There is no love of conquest in the English speaking people. All the conquering we do is simply enough to make a nation behave itself and become fit to trade with. We want other nations to quit loafing and murdering and go to work. Unfortunately it is sometimes necessary to fight them in order to make them do this.

The spirit that actuates the English Speaking union is not empire, which means control over other nations, but federation, which means an understanding with other nations.

The other side of the federation is independence. The more independent and self-governed and self-determined a nation is, the better integer of a federation it becomes. This is a truth that has never been sufficiently recognized.

People object to the league of nations and to other efforts to get the nations together because it seems to be a sacrifice of their independence. As a matter of fact, federation is the only possible way to preserve the independence of state.

I like the expression used by the premier of Great Britain when he referred to his country as "the British commonwealth of nations." That's what it is.

I know there is no desire to dominate the United States on the part of Great Britain, just as I know there is no desire in the United States to dominate any other country. We are not in the dominating business. We are traders. We are workers. And the business of workers is not to rule the world but to serve the world.

The English speaking people, the more they prosper and the stronger they become, stand for the elevation of the plane of living all over the world, because they stand for making every other nation better customers with which to carry on commerce.

I love my family because it is natural; I love my country more than my family because only in an orderly state can families exist in peace; I love the great English speaking race, of which my country is a part, because it is a guarantee of my country's security; and I love the human race best of all and put it above the claims of any lesser group because, as Elihu Burritt said, "Above all nations is humanity."

James Speyer, New York financier, in a recent address on American cooperation in Europe's rehabilitation, said:

"We are naturally concerned in the improvement of conditions abroad, inasmuch as we are a buyer and seller on a large scale in international markets, and are interested in outlets for our great natural resources, surplus crops and increasing output of manufactured goods. The importance of foreign commerce to us should, however, not be exaggerated. Our entire foreign trade before the war is estimated at about 10 per cent of our total trade, and it is doubtful whether, with Europe improverished by the war, our foreign commerce for some time could be relatively as important as before the war.

"We are not dependent upon foreign markets for feeding our population or for keeping our industries fairly occupied. Undoubtedly, foreign commerce materially enhances our prosperity, and for this reason, if for no other, we follow with sympathetic interest every effort or suggestion for better trade conditions abroad which might result in increased purchasing power of Europe. This should not, however, justify us in embarking upon any scheme of European cooperation which involves unnecessary entaglements for us."

HAS A MODERN SOUND.

Twenty-two hundred years ago Socrates wrote, "The children now love luxury, they have bad manners, contempt for authority, they show disrespect to elders and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the slaves of their households. They no longer rise when an elder enters the room, they contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up the dainties at the table, cross their legs and tyrannize over their pedagogues. Alcibiades even smacked a literary master."

Well, Greece fell, you remember.

LOVING OUR NEIGHBORS

I try so hard to love my neighbors! I strive, yet I must say, I find it harder than the labors by which I earn my pay. There's jinx, who lives in yonder dwelling, a tuneful man is he, and early in the morn he's yelling wild songs of land and sea. It's then that I would sleep and slumber, with folding of the hands; and jinx his voice like sawing lumber, beneath my window stands. I try to love James Towhead Baker, whose house is one door west, but he's a sad and tiresome faker who has one ancient jest; it is a bald and hectic story that Noah shooed away; and that old yarn, so stale and hoary, James tells me twice a day. I try to love old Thomas Title, but I loathe politics, and hate discussing topics vital with chew-and-argue hicks. And Thomas never tries to twitter of any other theme; so loving thoughts grow sadly bitter, and sympathy's a dream. I thought one time I was succeeding in loving Hiram Jones, and then he had me pinched for speeding, which cost me fifteen bones ($15). My heart is full of loving kindness, with impulse high and strong, but neighbors, in their willful blindness, all get themselves in wrong.—(Copyright, 1922, George Matthew Adams.)

BODIES OF MARLIN VICTIMS RECOVERED

WACO, May 23.—The body of Dr. W. H. Allen, drowned in the Brazos river when the Marlin bridge collapsed a week ago, was recovered last night near Calvert in the river. The body of Mrs. Carrie B. Moseley of Beaumont, was recovered the day of the accident, making three victims recovered. Three others are missing but their names are not known.

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"You don't like Ward," he continued, "and you may be almighty sure that Mr. Ward ain't losing any sleep nights over love of you. If you stick to that bunch Ward will do you out of your share as sure as you are a foot high, an' the chances are that he'll do you out of a whole lot more besides—as a matter of fact, Byrne, you're a mighty poor life insurance risk right now, with a life expectancy that's pretty near minus as long as Bender Ward is on the same ship with you. Do you understand what I mean?"

"Aw," said Billy Byrne, "I ain't afraid o' that stiff. Let him make any funny crack at me an' I'll cave in a handful of slats for him—the piker."

"That's all right, too, Byrne," said Theriere. "Of course you can do it if anybody can, provided you get the chance; but Ward isn't the man to give you any chance. There may be shooting necessary within the next day or so, and there's nothing to prevent Ward letting you have it in the back, purely by accident; and if he don't do it then there'll be all kinds of opportunities for it before any of us ever see a white man's port again. He'll get you, Byrne; he's that kind.

"Now, with my proposition you'll be shut of Ward, Skipper Simms, and Divine. There'll be more money in it for you, an' you won't have to go around expecting a bullet in the small of your back every minute. What do you say? Are you game, or shall I have to go back to Skipper Simms and Ward and tell them that I caught you eavesdropping?"

"Oh, I'm game," said Billy Byrne, "if you'll promise me a square deal on the divvy."

The Frenchman extended his hand.

"Let's shake on it," he said.

Billy took the proffered palm in his.

"That's a go," he said; "but hadn't you better wise me to wot's doin'."

"Not now," said Theriere, "someone might overhear just as you did. Wait a bit until I have a better opportunity, and I'll tell you all there is to know. In the meantime think over who'd be the best men to let into this with us—we'll need three or four more besides ourselves. Now go on deck about your duties as though nothing had happened, and if I'm a bit rougher than usual with you you'll understand that it's to avert any possible suspicion later."

"I'm next," said Billy Byrne.

CHAPTER IV.

Piracy

By dusk the trime little brigantine was scudding away toward the west before a wind that could not have suited her better had it been made to order at the special behest of the devil himself to speed his minions upon their devil's work.

All hands were in the best of humor. The crew had forgotten their recent rancor at not having been permitted shore leave at Honolulu in the expectancy of adventure in the near future, for there was that in the atmosphere of the Halfmoon which proclaimed louder than words the proximity of excitement, and the goal toward which they had been sailing since they left San Francisco.

Skipper Simms and Divine were elated at the luck which had brought them to Honolulu in the nick of time, and at the success of Theriere's mission at that port. They had figured upon a week at least there before the second officer of the Halfmoon could ingratiate himself sufficiently into the good-will of the Hardings to learn their plans, and now they were congratulating themselves upon their acumen in selecting so fit an agent as the Frenchman for the work he had handled so expeditiously and so well.

Ward was pleased that he had not been forced to prolong the galling masquerade of valet to his inferior officer. He was hopeful, too, that coming events would bring to the fore an opportunity to satisfy the vengeance he had inwardly sworn against the sailor who had so roughly manhandled him a few weeks past—Theriere had not been in error in his estimate of his fellow-officer.

Billy Byrne, the arduous labor of making sail over for the time, was devoting his energies to the task of piecing out from what Theriere had told him and what he had overheard outside the skipper's cabin some sort of explanation of the work ahead.

As he pondered Theriere's proposition he saw the wisdom of it. It would give those interested a larger amount of the booty for their share. Another feature of it was that it was underhanded and that appealed strongly to the mucker. Now, if he could but devise some scheme for double-crossing Theriere the pleasure and profit of the adventure would be tripled.

It was this proposition that was occupying his attention when he caught sight of "Bony" Sawyer and "Red" Sanders emerging from the forecastle. Billy Byrne hailed them.

When the mucker has explained the possibilities of profit that were to be had by entering the conspiracy aimed at Simms and Ward the two seamen were enthusiastically for it.

"Bony" Sawyer suggested that the black cook, Blanco, was about the only other member of the crew upon whom they could depend, and at Byrne's request "Bony" promised to enlist the co-operation of the giant Ethiopian.

From early morning of the second day out of Honolulu keen eyes scanned the eastern horizon through powerful glasses, until about two bells of the afternoon watch a slight smudge became visible about two points north of east. Immediately the course of the Halfmoon was altered so that she bore almost directly north by west in an effort to come safely into the course of the steamer which was seen rising rapidly above the horizon.

The new course of the brigantine was held as long as it seemed reasonably safe without danger of being sighted under full sail by the oncoming vessel, then her head was brought into the wind, and one by one her sails were lowered and furled, as the keen eyes of Second Officer Theriere announced that there was no question but that the white hull in the distance was that of the steam pleasure yacht Lotus.

Upon the deck of the unsuspecting vessel a merry party laughed and chatted in happy ignorance of the plotters in their path. It was nearly half an hour after the Halfmoon had come to rest, drifting idly under bare poles, that the lookout upon the Lotus sighted her.

"Sailin' vessel lyin' to, west half south," he shouted, "flyin' distress signals."

In an instant guests and crew had hurried to points of vantage where they might obtain unobstructed view of the stranger, and take advantage of this break in the monotony of a long sea voyage.

Anthony Harding was on the bridge with the captain, and both men had leveled their glasses upon the distant ship.

"Can you make her out?" asked the owner.

"She's a brigantine," replied the officer, "and all that I can make out from here would indicate that everything was shipshape about her. Her canvas is neatly furled, and she is evidently well manned, for I can see a number of figures above deck apparently engaged in watching us. I'll alter our course and speak to her—we'll see what's wrong, and give her a hand if we can."

"That's right," replied Harding; "do anything you can for them."

A moment later he joined his daughter and their guests to report the meager information he had.

"How exciting," exclaimed Barbara Harding. "Of course it's not a real shipwreck, but maybe it's the next thing to it. The poor souls may have been drifting about here in the center of the Pacific without food or water for goodness knows how many weeks, and now just think how they must be lifting their voices in thanks to God for his infinite mercy in guiding us to them."

"If they've been drifting for any considerable number of weeks without food or water," hazardly Billy Mallory, "about the only thing they'll need'll be what we didn't have the foresight to bring along—an undertaker and a preacher."

"Don't be horrid, Billy," returned Miss Harding. "You know perfectly well that I didn't mean weeks — I meant days; and anyway they'll be grateful to us for what we can do for them. I can scarcely wait to hear their story."

Billy Mallory was inspecting the stranger through Mr. Harding's glass. Suddenly he gave an exclamation of dismay.

"By George!" he cried. "It is serious after all. That ship's afire. Look, Mr. Harding," and he passed the glass over to his host.

And sure enough, as the owner of the Lotus found the brigantine again in the center of his lens he saw a thin column of black smoke rising amidships; but what he did not see was Mr. Ward upon the opposite side of the Halfmoon's cabin superintending the burning by the black cook of a bundle of oily rags in an iron boiler.

"By Jove!" exclaimed Mr. Harding. "This is terrible. The poor devils are panic-stricken. Look at 'em making for the boats!" and with that he dashed back to the bridge to confer with his captain.

"Yes," said that officer, "I noticed the smoke about the same time you did—funny it wasn't apparent before. I've already signaled full speed ahead, and I've instructed Mr. Foster to have the boats in readiness to lower away if we find that they're short of boats on the brigantine.

"What I can't understand," he added after a moment's silence, "is why the didn't show any signs of excitement about that fire until we came within easy sight of them—it looks funny."

"Well, we'll know in a few minutes more," returned Mr. Harding. "The chances are that the fire is just a recent addition to their predicament, whatever it may be, and that they have only just discovered it themselves."

"Then it can't have gained enough headway," insisted the captain, "to cause them any such immediate terror as would be indicated by the haste with which the whole ship's crew is tumbling into those boats; but as you say, sir, we'll have their story out of them in a few minutes now, so it's idle speculating beforehand."

The officers and men of the Halfmoon, in so far as those on board the Lotus could guess, had all entered the boats last, and were pulling frantically away from their own ship toward the rapidly nearing yacht; but what they did not guess and could not know was that Mr. Divine paced nervously to and fro in his cabin, while Second Officer Theriere tended the smoking rags that Ward and Blanco had resigned to him that they might take their places in the boats.

Theriere had been greatly disgusted with the turn events had taken for he had determined upon a line of action that he felt sure would prove highly remunerative to himself. It had been nothing less than a bold rersolve to call Blanco, Byrne, "Bony," and "Red" to his side the moment Simms and Ward revealed the true purpose of their ruse to those on board the Lotus, and with his henchmen take sides with the men of the yacht against his former companions.

As he had explained it to Billy Byrne the idea was to permit Mr. Harding to believe that Theriere and his companions had been duped by Skipper Simms—that they had had no idea of the work that they were to be called upon to perform until the last moment and that then they had done the only thing they could to protect the passengers and crew of the Lotus.

"And then," Theriere had concluded, "when they think we are a band of heroes, and the best friends they have on earth we'll just naturally be in a position to grab the whole lot of them, and collect ransoms on ten or fifteen instead of just one."

"Bully!" exclaimed the mucker. "You sure got some bean, mate."

As a matter of fact Theriere had had no intention of carrying the matter as far as he had intimated to Billy except as a last resort. He had been mightily smitten by the face and fortune of Barbara Harding and had seen in the trend of events a possible opportunity of so deeply obligating her father and herself that when he paid court to her she might fall a willing victim to his wiles. In this case he would be obliged to risk nothing, and could make away with his accomplices by explaining to Mr. Harding that he had been compelled to concoct this other scheme to obtain their assistance against Simms and Ward; then they could throw the three into irons and all would be lovely; but now that fool Ward had upset the whole thing by hitting upon this asinine fire hoax as an excuse for boarding the Lotus in force and had further dampened Theriere's pet scheme by suggesting to Skipper Simms the danger of Theriere being recognized as they were boarding the Lotus and bringing suspicion upon them all immediately.

They all knew that a pleasure yacht like the Lotus was well supplied with small arms, and that at the first intimation of danger there would be plenty of men aboard to repel assault, and, in all probab'lity, with entire success.

Jewish Women Greeted Here at Their Annual Luncheon by Wichitans

Proving even more elabarote and enjoyable than those given in previous years 54 members of the Council of Jewish women a few local and out of town friends, enjoyed the annual luncheon given at the Kemp hotel Tuesday. The affair, always looked forward to with much pleasure, was, indeed, one of the most delightful events of the spring and early summer season.

The table was a veritable bower of spring loveliness, a basket of yellow poppies and nasturtium, the handle tied with bows of pink and yellow tulle forming the centerpiece. Numerous bunches of Dorothy Perkins roses, honeysuckle, columbine and other fragrant spring flowers wreathed with greenery extended the full length of the table, which was arranged in banquet style in the ball room. A rainbow color scheme was carried out, the pastel shades being further noted in the dainty rose shaped nut cups formed of crepe paper, the stems tied with fluffy bows of tulle. Old-fashioned girls featured the decorations of the quaint place cards, which also contained an appropriate piece of poetry.

A delightful and cleverly arranged program interspersed the five-course luncheon with Mrs. Alvin Horwitz, the president, acting as toastmistress. Mrs. I. Fine gave the council prayer, which was followed by the council song, an original group of verses and chorus sung to the tune of "Keep the Home Fires Burning." Mrs. J. L. Art played the accompaniment and afterwards gave a piano number. Mrs. Sam Kruger gave an original poem, "A Council Member's Dream," which proved an entertaining number, and also showed to advantage her clever ability as a poetess. Every member of the council was given recognition in the verses.

Informal talks were given by Mesdames Harry Karlsberg of Bowie, Paul Green of Electra, Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, John T. Carter and Misses Irene Davidson and Elsie Cohen. Greetings were extended in original verse by Mrs. Ban Kaufman, vice president of the council. Mrs. Alvin Horwitz gave as the president's message, an interesting talk on "The Club Woman." The "Ten Commandments," a revised arrangement of the Biblical commandments, arranged by Mrs. Sam Kruger for the benefit of the needs of the council, was given by Mrs. S. Brettler. Preceding the program, a telegram of interest to all was read by the president from Mrs. Maurice Letterman of Oklahoma City, who will be remembered here as Miss Rose Riesenberg, in which greetings were sent to those attending the luncheon and expressing regret that she was unable to be present this year.

Following the luncheon, a vaudeville featured the entertainment for the remainder of the afternoon.

The program given follows:

Welcome song, Mrs. George Gordon.

"From Long Ago to Now," Mesdames Charles Greenberg and H. Shack.

(a) "When Polly Puts the Pepper in the Tea;"

(b) "I Can't Do a Thing With My Hair Since It's Washed," Mesdames George Gordon, H. L. Goldstucker Max Shain and David Goldberg.

Bridge Playlet

Mrs. Ben Kaufman (hostess) Mrs. Abe Marks.

Mrs. David Goldberg (guest) Mrs. Sam Kruger.

Mrs. Phil Kleinman (guest) Mrs. H. Katz.

Mrs. Dave Paul (guest) Miss Marjorie Shuster.

Mrs. L. Cohen (guest) Mrs. Sam Swatt.

Mrs. S. Lebenson (stranger) Mrs. I. B. Pusty.

Elsie Cohen (niece) Miss L. Ginsberg.

Shmul (police woman) Mrs. J. Spitz.

Shmooz (police woman) Mrs. N. Morentz.

Mr. Ben Kaufman (husband) Mrs. S. M. Smith.

The playlet, arranged by the members themselves, was one of the most laughable skits ever given in this city, also one of the most original. The entire plot centered around a bridge party in which the council women were impersonated by the atrists.

Those present at the affair included: Mesdames S. Brettler, B. Brettler, S. Kruger, S. Swatt, M. Shain, A. Blank, A. Horwitz, Eugene Liepold, D. Paul, L. Cohen, W. Besker, H. Pink, J. Emold, A. Marks, A. R Wolfson, G. Gordon, J. L. Art, P. Kleinman, H. Katz, A. Lyons, L. Goldberg, L. Wolfson, A. Zundelowitz, C. Tobolosky, S. Riesenberg, M. Wolt, I. Fine, L. Lovey, H. N. Fitzgerald, H. Karlsberg of Bowie, Ben Kaufman, J. Spitz, J. Persky, M. A. Zeff, M. Harirs, Paul Green of Electra, J. Lieberman, P. Meyer, A. Marcus, N. Mcranz, S. H. Smith, D. Goldberg, C. Greenberg, W. S. Shack, M. S. Kaufman and Misses Eva Blank, Lillian Ginsberg, Irene Davidson, Elsie Brettler, Marjorie Schuster, Elsie Cohen and Eva Cohen of Dallas.

Preceding the luncheon, Ben Neal, in an appropriate talk, introduced Norris Ewing, of the University club, candidate for the shrine ring. Mr. Ewing, dressed in white, with a red sailor hat and streamers, graciously accepted the introduction to the council, Saul Lebenson, in a K. K. K. costume, and stating that he was running on the K. K. K. platform, introduced himself. Both candidates requested the women to talk to their husbands in their behalf for votes for the ring.

MRS. FOX HOSTESS TO CIRCLE SIX

Mrs. J. L. Fox was hostess to Circle No. 6 of the Woman's Auxiliary of the First Baptist church at her home Monday evening when devotionals were led by Mrs. Bert King. Mrs. George Sowden led in prayer and Mesdames E. W. Carter and George H. Watson gave interesting talks on the mission study, "The Call of the South."

Miss Frances Carter gave two piano solos. A contest featured the diversion for the afternoon in which Mrs. W. E. Miller had the most correct answers.

During a short business session, forty-two dollars was donated by the circle to the Buckner Orphan's home.

At the close of the afternoon, refreshments were served to Mesdames E. H. Browning, James King, Gene Lynsky, W. E. Miller, E. V. Lesley, Jr., George H. Watson, W. Daniel, O. W. Smith, J. C. Walker, Bert King, A. E. York, C. C. Davis, J. H. Martin, George M. Sowden, E. W. Carter, E. R. Donnell, W. P. Ferguson, W. B. Beach, Ray Carter, F. D. Stout, J. G. Dixon and Miss Frances Carter.

Thursday evening, a dinner dance will be given in the dining room from 6 to 9 o'clock, and from 9 to 12, a dance will be given in the ball room. Good music and good service is promised.

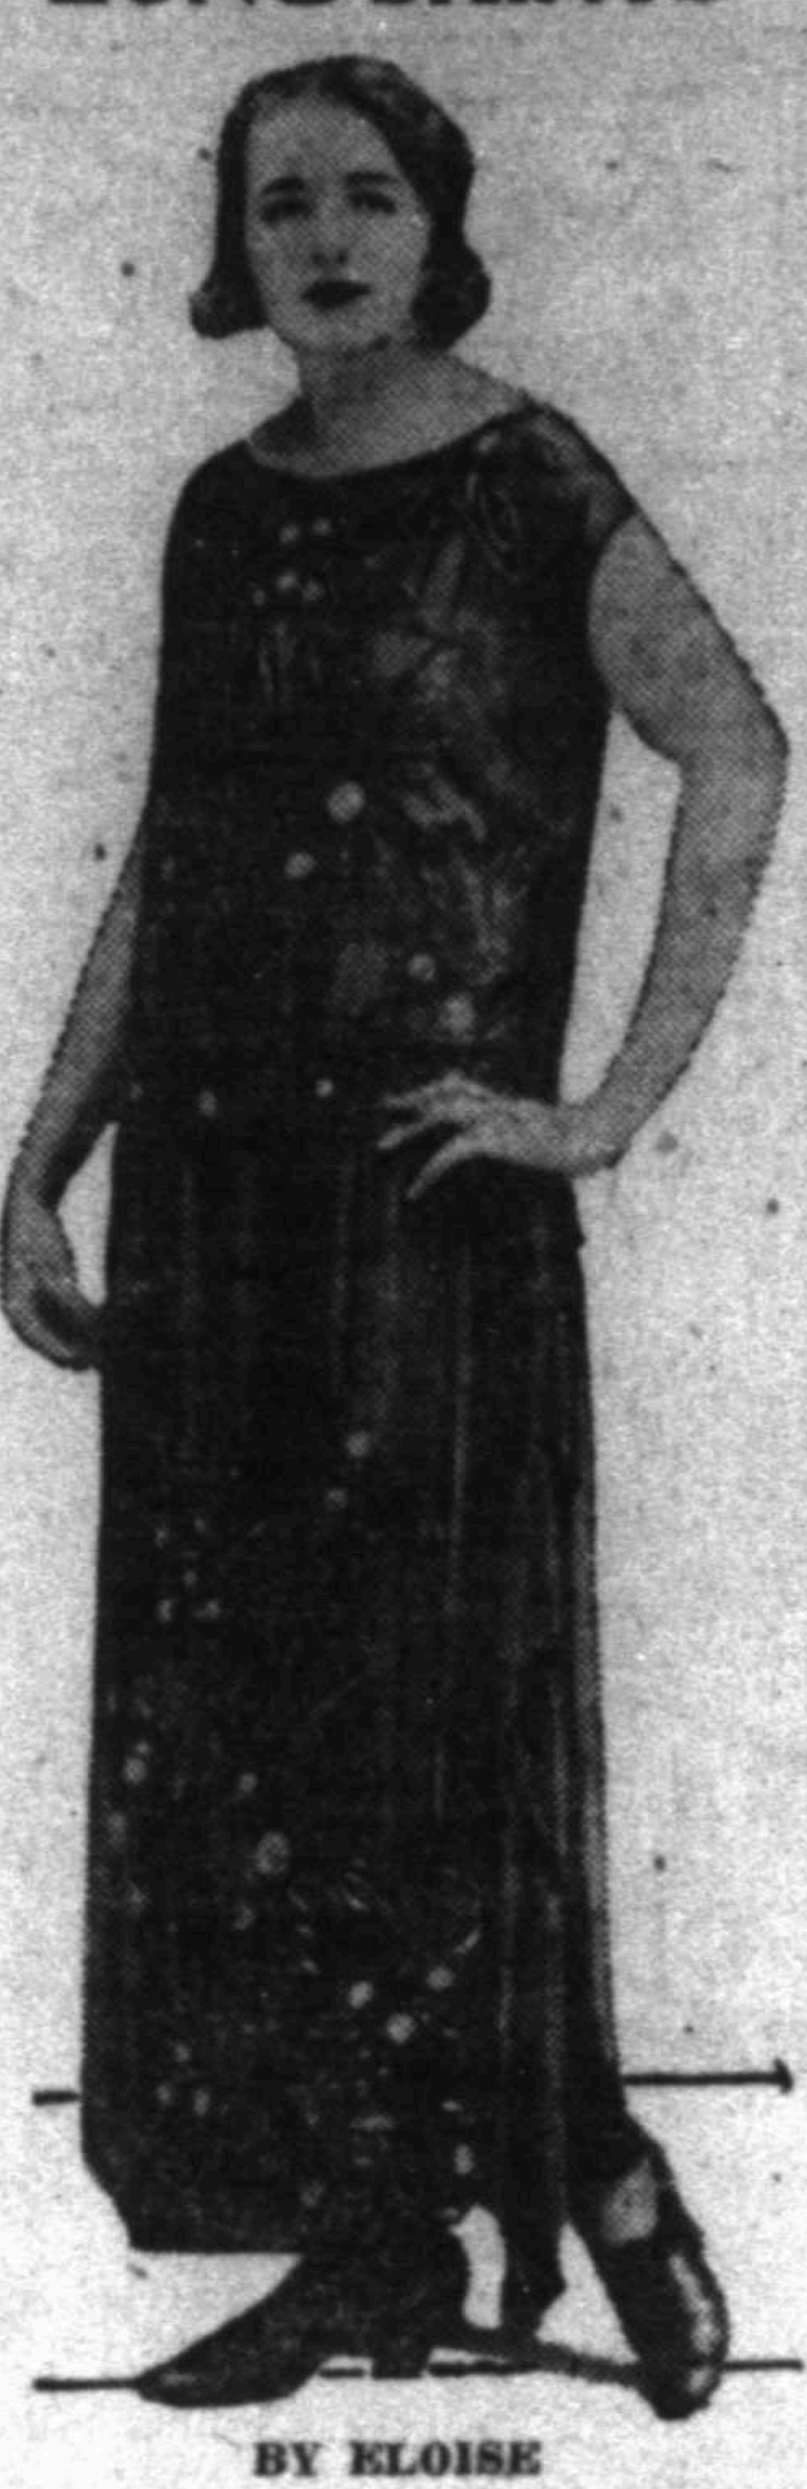
LONG SKIRTS



BY ELOISE

For several months Paris has been crying "Let 'em down, let 'em down," meaning skirts, of course. American designers, however, are paying but little heed to the cries with the exception of a very few extremists. It is true fall coats will be about two inches longer than they were last year, but that will still keep them far from the ankle length which Paris is sponsoring.

Here is a gown which shows its Paris origin in the long straight-line skirt which just escapes the ground. It is fashioned of black silk and made on straight lines which are unbroken from neck to hem. The dropped shoulder line forms a diminutive sleeve effect. A web of gold and steel flowers has been worked on the entire dress to form the only trimming and a band of the gold and steel girds the waist without changing the straight lines.

WHAT THE BIRDS SAID

In Dickens' story, "Dombey and Son," little Paul asks pathetically "What are the wild waves saying?" A West side woman after a prolonged tussle finally got her young hopeful to take his regular afternoon nap. About the time she was sure he had dropped off, she heard him calling and went up. He was sitting bolt upright and wide-awake. "Mamma, mamma," he exclaimed greatly impressed. "I did hear the birds talking. I heard one say 'Nothing doing! nothing doing'! Another one said, 'Don't do it, Peter! Peter! Peter'!" No nap that day.

Woman's Ills Make Unhappy Home

There is no question but what the ills of women conspire against domestic harmony. The husband cannot understand these troubles and the physician finds it hard to cure them; therefore the overworked wife and mother continues to drag around day in and day out with headaches and backache, fretful and nervous.

Such women should be guided by the experience of women whose letters we are continually publishing in this paper. Many of them declare that they have been restored to health, strength and consequent happiness by Lydia E. Pinkman's Vegetable Compound after doctors and all other medicines had failed to help them. It will surely pay women who suffer from such ailments to try it.—Adv.

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, May 23.—The work of organizing a permanent Texas branch of the Southern Tariff association was begun this morning when delegates representing various southern products met at the Texas. While such an organization has functioned in Texas, it has never been permanently organized, it was explained.

The new body will begin procuring names of petitions, for a protective tariff on southern products.

Peanuts and peanut oil, hides, cattle, wool, mohair, cottonseed oil and other products are represented at the meeting.

A telegram was sent to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Annual convention now being held in Plainview asking that a resolution opposing the free raw material tariff doctrine be passed.

Ed Wodall of Hillsboro, was elected permanent chairman of the Texas division of the tariff association, George H. Colvin of Fort Worth, treasurer, and Mrs. Ida Darden of Fort Worth, secretary.

GASOLINE PROBE GOES QUIETLY ALONG

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, May 23.—Investigation by the attorney general's department as to the violation by oil companies of the anti-trust laws following the recent sudden increase in gasoline prices is continuing quietly, according to Attorney General Keeling. As yet there is "nothing to report," however.

A. W. Taber, special investigator for the department, is visiting the larger cities of Texas in the probe of the matter. The recent rise in gasoline prices without an according rise in crude oil prices brought about the investigation, it was said.

TWILIGHT TO PLAY TODAY

The Twilighters are booked to play the sixth game of their schedule today.

Today the Ponders are to play the Varsity club. Neither has lost a game up to date and this contest will leave one of the teams with a clean slate and tip the other a notch down the percentage column.

The Millers, after their comeback against the Christians last week are all set for a tilt with the Shriners. The Legionnaires are determined not to let the Methodists emerge with the long end of the score, as was their unfortunate lot last week. The Baptists are entering a few new ones that play a rare brand of baseball that will make the Christian crew go the limit to get the best of them.

CHAMP EGG EATER

(By International News Service)

LAMAR, Mo., May 2[illegible].—Missouri is a state of "champeens." There's the champion horse shoe pitcher, the champion hay pitcher, the champion hog (quadruped), mule, pancake eater, rail splitter and almost, one might say, the champion "hootch maker."

Now comes a new "champeen"—Logan Rector, whose modest claim to fame lies in his ability to consume raw eggs.

At a recent demonstration before the Owls' club Rector, to win a small wager, swallowed six dozen raw eggs in 20 minutes.

SCORED IN 189 GAMES

Minneapolis, in the American association, has played 189 games without a shut out, probably a world record for consecutive scoring. The Millers began it about 20 days before the 1920 season closed, kept it up through 1921 and have scored so far in every game played this spring. Would that statesmen could do as well.

RAILROADERS COP THRILLER FROM SO. BEND

Conally Outpitches Lefty Smith Sunday

The Railroaders of the City League made a trip to South Bend Sunday and defeated the fast aggregation of that place 5 to 1.

The South Benders had lost only one game this season, that being to Jacksboro two weeks ago.

The game was fast and well played, only two errors being charged during the play, both of which were miscues by the village team. These errors came at opportune time for the Railroaders and enabled them to count five runs of four hits, all of which took place in a single inning.

The game was a pitchers battle between Connally and Smith.

Connally allowed only two hits and struck out 14 hitters. His support was perfect, including two unassisted double plays by Trice, second sacker.

The South Benders sent Smith, a left-hander, to the hill and he had only one bad inning, but the visitors collected five runs to win that frame.

Score by innings—

MILLIONS TO SINK FEW HULKS

The navy department asks for 70 million dollars from congress to pay the cost of destroying 20 old battleships. The Germans sank their new war fleet at Scapa Flow, you remember, without a cent of appropriations and very little preparation. Why not bore a few holes in each bottom and let nature do the rest?

DANGEROUS BABE, THE RUTH

By H. I. PHILLIPS

(After—and with no chance of overtaking—R. W. Service.)

WERE you ever out in the Great Alone when the day was sweet and clear
And a heartless sentence kept you there in a sadness bleak and drear;
With only the clicks of the sickly hits, and you camped there in the cold,
A useless thing in a grandstand seat just because you'd sought the gold.
While out on the field the poor Yankees reeled, braving each wound and scar—
Then you've a hunch what the feeling meant—hunger to get out and star!

And hunger not of the belly kind that vanquished with bacon and beans,
But the gnawing hunger of lonely man for the game and all that it means,
For a swing at the bat, for a chance to mawl—a place on the batting list—
And, oh! for the feel of a heavy bat in the clutch of a sturdy fist!
(Look how nervous he seems up there, note how shakey his hand it!
Gosh, how fiercely he looks around at the fellow known as Landis!)

Then on a sudden the Babe he rose so softly you scarce could hear
And he shook his head and his eyes went red and he charged like a maddened steer;
But you knew that sumpin was coming off on the part of the King of Klout,
And you didn't know for a minute or so quite what it was all about
Came the crowning cry of a heart's despair and it thrilled you through, forsooth—
"I guess I'll get in the game right now," said Dangerous Babe, the Ruth.

The murm'ring almost died away—then it burst like a pent-up flood;
And it seemed to say, "Repay! Repay!" and my eyes seemed full of mud.
The Babe he strode to a grandstand seat and he grabbed a feller there
And he dragged him out to the pitcher's box by the locks of his snow white hair.

The Babe he turned and his eyes they burned, and his body seemed to sway,
And he said, "Just toss this bird to me and I'll knock him far away!"
Then his lips went thin in a kind of grin and he spoke, and his voice was calm
And "Boys," said he, "you all know me and MOST of you GIVE a dam.
And I want to state, toss him o'er the plate and I'll bet my very soul
That I'll swing my trusty bat and knock hizzoner for a goal!"

Then a crash was heard and the fans they yelled and a form flew o'er the park.
Full on his head on a distant shed landed Landis—that's the truth—
(We thought at the time it wouldn't land till well long after dark)
While around the bases there trotted the form of the Swatter that's known as Ruth.
These are the simple facts of the case as they linger in my head—
And I'd like to tell you the distance from that home-plate to the shed—
But the truth is, boys, at this point in the dream, I FELL RIGHT OUT OF BED!

HELPS PHILLYS

Cy Williams

By NORMAN E. BROWN

One of the few veterans left on the Philly team is playing his usual consistent game these days, unsung and unapplauded. He is Cy Williams, center fielder. Alexander, Killefer, Bancroft, Emil Meusel, Gavvy Cravath, George Whitted and other stars have gone to the highest bidder or have been allowed to go their way while Williams has been plodding along.

Williams is everything that could be asked as a hitter and he is sure death to fly balls. But he has two shortcomings that may have caused other big league club owners to pass him up. These are his inability to throw accurately and his failure to run head-up on the bases. But even these faults have failed to keep him out of major league baseball because of his likeable personality and his dependability in the garden.

SPIKING 'EM

Top o' the Morning Musings At Mush With One Joseph Cooper, Esq., Otherwise Known As Just Plain Spike.

The only reason Danny Clark didn't win a ball game for the Tygers Monday was because there were only two runners on the bases when he went in to hit for Topper Rigney, pride of Fort Worth. 'Twas the ninth inning and the Detroit Felines three runs behind. The former Spudder promptly walloped the agate far afield and the score was tied. Rain broke up the contest in the 14th inning.

The Spudders have recently taken fancy to the offerings of the portsiders and dismissed "Lefty" Swartz, Cliff Hill, the man of a thousand deliveries, and Harry Lee, all in as many days. The worm did turn.

And now the Coyotes are going to win the state championship. Coach Henderson has had an offer from Paris, suggesting that a series be played here which will eliminate one or the other (preferably the Paris club) of the north Texas teams. The winner will then in turn tackle the strong Temple Red and White nine for the title.

It's going to cost a little money to get the series here, but local fans can't afford to let the chance slip.

Let's put the Red and Black over the top and set the crown on their head, "State Champions, 1922."

Al White is stepping right on through the Spudder contests in fine style of late. He is averaging eight chances each game without a bobble and larruping the pill in a manner which is soon going to send him up amongst the "Texas Ten."

And the Bambino has started his drive toward the 44 mark. He realizes his handicap and is not shooting too high, he says, in his 1922 aim.

Baylor slumped in the moment of golden oportunity Friday and Saturday when the Texas Longhorns completely buried Bridges' Bruin machine under an avalanche of runs. The Bears went into the final series, seemingly on even terms with the protegees of Billy Disch, but the Texas team rallied when the issue was forced and copped their 15th Southwestern Conference championship.

And Rabbit Darrough tore into the Western League with a two hit contest. Here's wishing Jumbo Ramsey the same success.

Wichita trap gunners are looking forward to the big two day meet here May 29-30. Prominent shooters from several states have signified their intentions of competing for valuable prizes which will be offered. It ought to be a big time for everybody.

Members of the local club state that a gallery of several thousand people saw the three day meet in Ardmore last week. Just as many will be on hand here when Pate, Adams, Deatherage, Dempsey, Nabb and all the rest of the boys steo out to show up some of the would-be champs next Monday.

BRIDGEPORT, Ohio., May 23.—All-night fishing is the latest here. Police said four men spent all of one night recently fishing in Wheeling creek, using bonfires to attract the fish.

TEXAS ATHLETE BEATS WAY TO CHI

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Jim Draper, a high school athlete of Georgetown, Texas, arrived here today after beating his way from Georgetown in order to participate in the interscholastic track and field tournament to be staged under the auspices of the University of Chicago, May 27.

According to Draper, his school did not feel that it could spend the money to send him here because of extensive damage in the community in the high water. So he decided to come by freight instead of passenger train. He will not be compelled to beat his way back, however, for he received word from Georgetown today that a fund had been raised to pay his way home. Draper has done the 100 yard dash in 10 seconds. Entries for the tournment closed today.

Oil Companies Fight To Dodge Big Tax

By Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kans., May 23.—The injunction application of three Kansas oil companies to prevent Internal Revenue Collector H. H. Motter, collecting income tax from them, will be argued in the federal court in Kansas City, Kans., tomorrow. The collection of between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 from eight Kansas oil companies hinges on the outcome of the case, it is said. The companies contend their property is subject only to a direct tax.

Money Flares Prove Groundless

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Trading in the stock market today fell away sharply from extensive operations of the preceding session and the drift of prices became increasingly uncertain, several leaders developing pronounced heaviness in the later period. Sales amounted to 1,275,000 shares.

Although fears of a money flurry proved groundless, technical conditions seemed to invite professional pressure. Moderate calling of loans was reported, but call money held at 4 per cent throughout, as against yesterdays maximum rate of five per cent, and time funds continued easy.

The general tone of the foreign exchange market was more reassuring. Buying of British and French bills was larger than at any recent time, and was thought to represent covering of speculative accounts, this also applying to the recovery of German marks.

Independent steels were the strongest features of the early dealings, notably crucible, Midvale and Republic. All but the latter reacted, however, Republic featuring the confusing movements of the final hour at a gain of 4 5-8 points.

Firmness to strength marked the domestic oils, but the foreign division was erratic. Selling of Mexican petroleum was attended by news of the failure of a financial institution in the Tampico district. Motors, equipments, coppers and chemicals embraced the other irregular stocks.

Erie common and the first and second preferred issues overshadowed all other transportations with Chicago and Alton at gross advances of 1 to 2 points.

Leading commodity markets held the better part of their recent advances. Export prices for coppers were raised to 14 cents, but the domestic quotations was unchanged. Other base metals held ifrm, as did raw and refined sugars, but crude rubber weakened.

BOND MARKET

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 23.—Movements of prices in the bond market today followed the uneven changes in the stock list, but the trend was mainly higher, especially for speculative issues.

Among government loans liberty issues were featured by the rise of 3 1-2 to a small fraction over par, but the fours and 4 1-2's were irregular.

Mexicans were most unsettled of the foreign offerings. The fours and fives falling back all the way from large fractions to 2 points as a result of developments which indcate further delay in the settlement of Mexico's foreign obligations. Moderate reactions occurred among French municipals, Belgian 7 1-2s and San Paulo 8s and republic of Chile 8s.

Erie prior fours and the several convertible issues were the outstanding features of the railroad group, emulating the rise in Erie common and the first and second preferred shares. Other coalers, also the St. Paul, St. Louis and San Francisco, Missouri Pacific and Seaboard issues hardened. Total sales, par value, aggregated $16,769,000.

The most important new underwriting of the day was the offering of a large block of bank of commerce stock by a local banking syndicate. This was readily sold, interests connected with the bank being among the largest purchasers.

WHEAT BRINGS HIGHER PRICE

Sales Are Based on Europe Prospect

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 23.—Decidedly higher prices for wheat today resulted largely from suposed indications that wheat accumulated in Chicago would be prompttly moved out, with Europe furnishming a good outlet. The market closed unsettled, 3-4 to 4 1-2 net higher, May 1.37 3-4 to 1.38 and July 1.26 5-8 to 1.26. Corn finished unchanged to 3-8 higher, oats up 3-8 to 1 cent and provisions unchanged to 12 cents off.

On the extreme advance in the wheat market, May delivery showed an overnight gain of 5 cents a bushel, but only for a moment. Gossip about expected loans to central European countries to purchase suplies including grain was curren during the advance in prices. More attention, however, was attracted to messages telling of a renewal of export demand at the seaboard, and asserting that vessel room to Europe was being engaged for shipments from Chicago.

Shorts in the wheat market scrambled for limited offerings available during the last half of the day. Earlier, the bulls were at a disadvantage for the time being, inasmuch as deliveries here on May contracts were heavy, 711,000 bushels, and receipst in Chicago totalled 389 cars. Corn and oats were governed by the action of wheat, but kept within narrow limits.

Provisions averaged lower with hogs.

WEATHER FAILS TO AID BUYING

Cotton in Steady Close at 19.90

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 23.—Bullish weather and crop reports failed to stimulate any general or aggressive buying in thecotton market today, and after advancing to 20.18, October contracts broke to 19.86, closing at 19.90. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 9 to 23 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 11 points on steady Liverpool cables, favorable reports from Manchester, and private reports of rains in Texas and the Mississippi valley. Prices eased off several points right after the call under scattered realizing, but steadied up again around midday on the weather map confirming private rain news, the forecast, for unsettled and showery weather in the south and a private crop report making the condition 65, the indicated increase in acreage 8 per cent, and the indicated yield only 10,990,000 bales.

Liquidation became more active during the afternoon and the lowest prices of the day were touched in the late trading when May sold at 21.25, July at 20.01 and December at 19.81, or about 15 to 28 points net lower. There were rumors that the final May notices tomorrow would represent fully 40,000 to 50,000 bales of cotton, and some narrowing of the May-July difference had rather an unsettled influence on the general list.

Closing prices were within 3 or 4 points of the lowest. Private condition report of 65 compared with a preliminary report of 73.8 published by another authority last Saturday. Exports today 1,435 bales, making 5,102,013 so far this season. Port receipts 19,768. United States port stocks 894,942.

Edge and Borah Clash on Russia

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 23.—Recognition by the United States of the Russian soviet regime would be tantamount to tearing down by one act "all that Chritsainnity has accomplished in two thousand yers," Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, declared in the senate in opposing the Russian recognition resolution recently ofefred by Sentaor Borah, republican, Idaho.

Senator Borah, replying in a brief address, said there had been such "constant and persistent propaganda of misrepresentation in regard to Russia" that he was not surprised that there was a general misunderstanding in the United States as to the present government.

REMOVAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

On or about Thursday, May 25, Mick's Furniture Co. will move their stock of furniture and household goods from 908 Indiana to the Harrison-Everton building, 716 Seventh street, where we will be pleased to meet our old customers as well as new ones.

In the old location lack of floor space prevented carrying a large stock and we were unable to accommodate customers who desired installment terms. However, a steady growth of business compels us to move to larger quarters, and in our new location we will carry a larger stock and can give credit terms to customers when so desired.

Thanking our customers of the past, we invite you to call on us at our new location, where we will be pleased to see you whether you are buying or not.

D. 1922, the same being the 19th day of June, A. D. 1922, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 16th day of May, A. D. 1922 in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 12788A, wherein B. N. Ferguson is plaintiff, and the parties above summoned are defendants, said petition alleging that on or about January 1, 1922, plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed of the following described land and premises situated in the county of Wichita, state of Texas, holding and claiming the same in fee simple, to-wit:

All of survey No. 129, in the name of William S. Kennard, issued by virtue of warrant 4-25 and containing 640 acres;

All of Donato Leona survey, issued by virtue of certificate 33-40;

27½ acres of land in name of Day Land and Cattle company, certificate 29-122;

315½ acres, John T. Lewis survey, issued by virtue of warrant No. 91;

422 acres in name of Day Land and Cattle company, being survey No. 4, certificate No. 153;

771 acres, G. P. Meade survey, known as section No. 2, H. T. & B. R. R. Co., certificate 19-128;

That on the day and year last aforesaid defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom and unlawfully withhold from him the possession thereof, to his damage, $200,000. Plaintiff alleges that he has good and perfect right and title to said land and premises, that he has held peaceable and adverse possession of same, using and enjoying and cultivating the same, for a period of more than 10 years before the filing of this suit. Banker Says Deposits Are Doubled

Conditions at Archer City and in Archer county are greatly improved over those of the recent past, P. J. Hayes, Archer City banker, who was here on business Tuesday, declared.

"The cattlemen in the Archer City district, are in much better shape," he said, "and Archer City bank deposits are twice what they were a short time ago."

Mr. Hayes spoke of a recent visit of C. B. [illegible], vice president of the Drovers National Bank at Kansas City, to Archer City and Archer county and of his being carried away by the cattle and the cattle country.

"He pronounced one bunch of cattle which I showed him in the case of an all-day drive as fine as he had ever seen," said Mr. Hayes, "and was immensely surprised when I told them that they were the 'tailings' of two herds from which the tops had been shipped."

"They were fine cattle, at that," he added.

Mr. Hayes is cashier of the Peoples Exchange Bank at Archer City in addition to which he makes loans for the Drovers National and the Drovers Cattle Loan Co., of Kansas City, probably [illegible] as many cattle loans as any other banker in this part of the state.

WOMEN ELECT 6 NEW HEADS

Other Board Members Re-elected

Election of six new members on the board of directors and re-election of 6 of the 12 members of the present board featured the last meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club until the fall season, held Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A.

Annual reports were given by the club officers and chairmen of standing committees, and plans for a picnic to be given at Lake Wichita Tuesday evening as a closing social event were discussed.

A nominating committee composed of Misses Ethel McDowell, Bettye Garrison, Katherine Brothers and Mrs. Grace Higgins selected the new names, and those chosen included: Mesdames Stella Mason, Mildred Packer, Edna Vogt, Sadie Carter and Misses Bessie Mae Coger, Irene Davidson, Rhea Gardner, Evelyn Coffield, Era Dawson, Florence Jackson, Ethel McDowell and Carrie Webster. New officers of the club will be selected from this list, a meeting to be held Monday evening at the Y. W. C. A.

A splendid report given by the membership committee revealed the fact that the club had increased its membership exactly treble since the beginning of the session in the fall when the enrollment was 71 and now shows to be 213 paid up members.

A handsome gown and piece of lingerie, a gift from Saul's store, was displayed at the meeting and will be given Tuesday as a prize to the member who has brought the largest number of new members this year. It was also announced that Martin's Book store will give a prize to the member who has the best attendance record.

Miss Evelyn Coffield, chairman of the committee appointed to investigate the advisability of the club purchasing a radio set, reported that according to her investigations, it was not advisable at this time to make the purchase on account of the large number of improvements made almost daily in the new sets, and the club voted to wait until fall before going further with the matter.

About 75 members enjoyed the weekly luncheon.

Windhorst Wants Market for Milk

Wanted: A milk market.

That is what Windthorst farmers are telling Wichita Falls business men.

Representatives of the farmers who were here Tuesday stated that approximately 600 gallons of milk are produced daily at Windthorst, which cannot be marketed as rapidly as it should. It was stated here that the farmers are anxious to devise a rapid marketing scheme.

Chamber of commerce officials are understood to have taken up the matter with an idea of perfecting some marketing plan.

The disposition of produce has occupied much time in the chamber of commerce council discussions, and it is highly probable the members will take the matter up at the next regular meeting.

ELECTRA BOOM REAL; EXTRA TRAIN NEEDED

Electra's boom is real.

This was evidenced Tuesday when a special train of 40 cars, loaded with oil well and city supplies departed for the oil town over the Denver line.

The regular "local" freight, which carries supplies to points along the Fort Worth & Denver from Wichita Falls, was overloaded with supplies for Electra itself, it was stated by railway officials this accounting for the special train.

NEIGHBORS MAKE COMPLAINTS AND BOTH ARE FINED

"Your honor, he was in my yard."

"No, your honor, I was in my own yard."

"Your honor, he was—I can prove it."

"Your honor, the old man's feeble—he doesn't know whose yard I was in."

"One at a time," snapped the court, and a domestic row which started in "somebody's back yard" was brought to an abrupt halt in the corporate court Tuesday morning, where an aged man and a younger one had come to prefer charges against each other.

The older man contended that the young man had been infringing on his property rights, and that he was cursing and using abusive language to him—"and I'm a man 65 years old, judge; and I pay $60 a month rent for my place, judge; and I have a big yard, and I know it was in my own yard and he didn't have any business there, judge. And he only pays a dollar a month, your honor, and he's got no room at all on his property—the idea! why it couldn't have been on his territory——"

"I find you both guilty of abusing each other and assess your fines at $5 each," the court interrupted, and with that the apparent family row was ended in police court.

SUES FOR RETURN PURCHASE PRICE OF REAL ESTATE

Testimony in the case of Carrie E. Stephens vs E. D. Jefferson, suit to recover the purchase price of property, was begun in the 78th district court before Special Judge Hardwicke Tuesday afternoon.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant made fraudulent representations to her regarding certain property which she purchased.

All allegations are denied by the plaintiff.

NEGRO GETS THREE YEARS WHEN ASKS SUSPENDED TERM

Three years is the penalty given Arthur Gray, negro charged with burglary, when the latter pleaded guilty in the 89th district court Tuesday afternoon before Judge P. A. Martin.

Gray was accused of the burglary of W. W. Anderson's store here September 9, 1921. He was found in the place when Jack Hamilton, manager of Anderson's Burkburnett store, had entered the place at an early hour.

Gray was carried immediately to the police station and placed behind the bars.

SCHOOL BOARD PUSHES PLANS FOR BUILDINGS

Plans for the new ward buildings to be erected here are being rapidly pushed forward.

Decision to hurry up the work so that the schools can be in use by the time school opens in the fall was made at the recent meeting of the school trustees. The membership feels that by the use of expediency, the buildings will be available for usage in September.

Although sites for the new buildings have not been chosen yet, it is understood that these will be announced within a short time.

Among the plans for ward buildings is the announced intention of the board to erect ward schools both north and south of the Wichita Valley railway tracks. Sam Houston school will receive renovations, this being urged by the Sam Houston School Mothers' club.

Voelcker-Dixon, architects of Wichita Falls, have been chosen to draft the ward building plans.

VETS TO PLAN MEMORIAL DAY

All Members Called To Meet

Former service men are urged to attend the regular meeting of Pat Carrigan post, American Legion, tonight at 8 o'clock.

The meeting will be held in the legion hall, on Ohio street.

Many matters of importance will come before the body, according to announcements made Tuesday evening by A. L. Taylor and other legionnaires. Especial attention will be given to discussion of plans and arrangements for memorial day, May 30.

According to the officers of the post, Pat Carrigan Legionnaires are planning to hold a monster celebration here. Last year, Memorial day was celebrated by less than 150 men this being one of the reasons why extensive plans for a big celebration are now afoot.

Dr. L. I. Lucey, post adjutant, stated Tuesday that Judge Phillips of Dallas would address the post members during the day, his speaking to be preceded by a parade. The post officers hope to have a parade that will fill the streets.
