Question Of The Week

Will Texas Senators Vote McCarthy Slap?

We have a double exposure for you this week.

"Do you think Texas senators will vote to censure Senator Joseph McCarthy?" And "Do you think they should?"

Some people are always hesitant to voice an opinion where politics or politicians are concerned, but the replies of 10 persons, asked the above questions, show five believed Texas senators would vote to censure McCarthy. Four made no prediction, and one person believed they would not vote for censure.

The comments:

Leon Crump, 1145 Neel Rd., insurance salesman: "There is really no way of knowing. Senator Joe has not been too popular with the public these past few weeks. I feel they will, and think they should censure him whether they do or not."

Coleman Williams, 709 N. Wells, dry cleaner: "I believe they will vote to censure him, and I definitely feel they should. I didn't think he was right to jump on the army the way he did. They just spent a lot of tax money and accomplished absolutely nothing."

J. C. Payne, 535 S. Ballard, retired carpenter: "Well, to tell the truth about it, I don't know. I don't think they will, though. I don't think he had good reasons to jump on the army. I think the public is against him and I am too. He has done some good things."

Mrs. Fred Meyers, 1017 Duncan, housewife: "I just don't know since I haven't been following the issue too closely. But I think and hope they do. I didn't fully approve of some of the tactics he and his staff used during the hearings but the same goes for the army."

Mrs. Dale Ladd, 1718 Williston, service representative: "I really don't know whether they will vote to censure Joseph McCarthy or not. I have lost track of that issue since the hearings. I work most of the time and don't have time to worry about those things."

Mrs. Creel Grady, 1221 Charles, housewife: "Heavens, I don't know. I had almost forgotten about Senator Joe since he isn't on television every day. I believe they will, though. They shouldn't censure him. I think Senator McCarthy has done a lot of good things that no other man or group of men had the backbone to do."

Robert Teague, 729 E. Denver, student: "Yes, I think Texas senators will vote to censure McCarthy. By the way everyone is talking, and from the newspapers, the public is against him and so are most of the senators. I definitely feel that he should be censured."

Mrs. Ruth Smith, Bruno Apts., ales lady: "I imagine the Texas senators will go along with public opinion and vote to censure him. You could have asked a lot of things I would have known more about. In a way I don't think they should censure him because he is trying to rid this nation of communists and should have a relatively free hand."

Bill Higdon, 531 S. Wilson, high school student: "The Army-McCarthy hearings were too much of a 'rat race' for me to understand or get interested in. I think they should censure the whole bunch."

Tom Willis, 436 Crest, driller: "I believe they will vote to censure the Wisconsin senator. He needs it for the good of the nation. The men in the White House know more about that than I do, though. Working people don't have time to think those things out like the men who are paid to do it."

Be on hand next week when another subject of interest will be discussed by citizens on the streets of Pampa.

Leftwing Press Brainwashing US, Says Priest

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 8—UP—A Roman Catholic priest, Dr. William A. Nolan, believes "leftwing" newsmen and broadcasters are "brain washing" Americans.

Father Nolan, a Jesuit on the faculty of the Foreign Service School at Georgetown University, Washington, said Thursday the leftwingers were in the minority, but their work was "influential" and their danger to the country "more than imminent." He singled out Time magazine as a "retarded, adolescent smear sheet."

The priest was in San Antonio to lecture at the International Relations Institute at St. Mary's Institute.

"The average American citizen has enough common sense to resist this brain washing," Father Nolan said, "but he can be affected if he reads it often enough. Straight-thinking Texans and Midwesterners are less susceptible to this snake talk."

Drive Total Is $24,907

The intake for the 1954 Pampa community United Fund drive — both cash and pledges — totalled $24,907.29 late this morning.

Mrs. Emmett Gee, fund associate, spent a good part of the morning getting the exact total for the drive.

Johnny Campbell, overall drive chairman, today said that a new deadline of 5 p.m. Wednesday had been set for the receipt of all cards from volunteer workers. Campbell had hoped to get all the cards, with the names of potential contributors, turned in by 6 p.m. Thursday when the last "report coffee" came to an end.

The 1954 goal is $45,150. A year ago, the goal was the same, a total of about $47,000 was collected during the campaign, and the immediate weeks afterward, Campbell recalled.

3,000 Singers Due Tomorrow

Some 3,000 members of the Texas-Oklahoma Singers association will gather at 2 p.m. tomorrow in the Junior High School auditorium for the opening of their annual two-day convention, Elmo Hudgins, chairman of the local arrangements committee announced today.

Among the groups featured in the four sessions will be the Wills Family Quartet of Arlington.

Other singing sessions are scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday, and two Sunday get-togethers at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m.

New Bridge In Path Of Water Wall

It's either too little or too much.

A report that a "headwall" of water was coming down the Canadian River toward the site of the new bridge over Texas Hwy. 70, between Pampa and Perryton, sent Deputy Sheriff Buck Haggard out to investigate this morning.

Highway engineers, however, did not appear to be particularly concerned — little, if any, equipment was throught to be in the actual river bed.

For weeks the river bed has been relatively dry. But the recent rains in New Mexico have filled up parts of the river, resulting in the reported "headwall."

The same thing — too little or too much — was true at the site of the Lefors bridge while under construction. Several times the parallel by-pass road on the river bed washed away in rainstorms.

US Gives Chiang Warning

'Avoid Drastic Military Moves'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—UP—The United States wants Nationalist China to avoid any drastic military moves that could spark a major war in the Far East, high administration officials said Friday.

They took the position, however, that the Nationalists have the right and duty to pursue "sensible military actions" to neutralize sizable Red forces on the China mainland that could invade Nationalist islands.

The State and Defense Departments shied away from any official comment on widespread reports from Formosa that Generalissimo Chiang Kia-shek's forces had quit bombing the Communist China mainland at the suggestion of the United States. But there were signs the United States may have dropped some broad hints to the Nationalists to take it easy.

The official silence may involve domestic politics as well as strategic considerations. There is no disposition at his time, in advance of the November elections to bring up the politically hot Far Eastern issue which has found the two parties at odds since World War II.

Informed sources pointed out that a recent "Democratic fact book" charged that President Eisenhower had a secret agreement with Chiang which specified that "Chiang's troops must stay put on Formosa." The Democratic national committee said this proved the President's Feb. 2, 1953, order for the U. S. Seventh Fleet to quit shielding Red China from Nationalist attacks "was a phony, designed mainly for domestic applause."

This was a reference to an understanding between the United States and Nationalist China which has been in effect for about 15 months.

Pampa Bus Line Folds

Now you see 'em, now you don't.

That has been the story of the Pampa city bus line.

This time, though, operation of the city buses has stopped for good, according to Mrs. A. C. Howell, wife of the owner-operator of the line.

Last runs throughout the city were made Wednesday, Mrs. Howell reported. City Mgr. Fred Brook said he would request that the Pampa City Commission Tuesday morning cancel the franchise and inform Howell of the action.

Inability to make enough money has been the cause of the cessation of operation in the past. During Howell's tenure, he decided to halt operation, then changed his mind and kept them going, then asked the commission for permission to cut his schedule and now to quit entirely.

Jay Nichols, former operator of a city bus line, sold out about a year ago for the same reason. Then, later, Howell and Bill McClellan decided to take over, with Howell buying McClellan out shortly afterward.

Motorist Killed Near McLean

MCLEAN, Tex., Oct. 8 —UP— Curtis Watson Estep, 25, was killed Friday when his car ran into the rear of a truck-trailer a mile east of McLean on U. S. 66.

Authorities said Estep was discharged from the Air Force on Sept. 14. His wallet gave his address as Lake Charles, La., but police said they had been unable to find anyone in Lake Charles who knew him.

He wore a wedding ring and police said he was believed to be from West Virginia.

The driver of the truck, Earl C. Price, 46, of Oklahoma City, was not hurt.

'Honest' Smuggler Says:

He Doesn't Plan To Kidnap Sultan

LONDON, Oct. 8—UP — Eddie Chapman, retired safeblower, wartime spy and a gentleman who likes to keep the record straight, said Friday it wasn't true he planned to kidnap the deposed sultan of Morocco.

"My mission to the Mediterranean was to pick up a few honest dollars as a smuggler. That's all," he said.

The 39-year-old soldier of fortune was telling of his most recent adventure, a foray into the Mediterranean smuggling racket. Smuggling out of Tangier is legal, he explained, or he wouldn't even have considered it.

"I gave up crime when Scotland Yard washed my record clean because of my war experiences," Eddie said. "But I still like excitement, and the Mediterranean is the place to find it."

Sought Excitement

Eddie has been seeking excitement, legal and otherwise, all his life. He was the master cracksman of the notorious "Gelignite gang" of safeblowers in pre-war London. His assaults on the nation's valuables were officially excused after he played a dangerous cloak and dagger role during World War II —posing as a German spy while working for British intelligence. He was described by the British war office as "one of the bravest men of the war," and even got an Iron Cross from the unsuspecting Germans.

But that is history. The question at hand is, what was Eddie up to

School Strike Leader Gives Up Campaign

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—UP—A student leader of the strike against mixing Negroes with whites in Washington public schools here gave up his fight Friday and said he would do his best to make integration succeed.

"I still don't want to go to school with Negroes," Robert Dean, 18, Anacostia high school senior, said in an interview.

"But we talked with a lot of city officials yesterday and they really convinced us we can't win. They explained that when they say 'Supreme Court' they really mean supreme."

Dean spoke for a committee representing more than 300 Anacostia high school students whose demonstration against de-segregation of schools touched off strikes at eight other of the city's 168 schools.

After conferring with city officials Thursday, the group decided to advise students to return to class. The strikers' committee also came up with a plan for establishing a complaint box at Anacostia school with a committee of white and Negro students to handle any grievances that arise.

A similar bi-racial committee already has been established at McKinley school where strikers returned to class Wednesday.

Friday was the deadline set by School Supt. Hobart M. Corning for absentee students to return.

PLF Board Officers Re-elected

The three officers of the Perry LeFors Field Board have been re-elected to new terms.

D. E. Holt, president; Hugh (Buck) Burdette, vice president; and Ed Simmons, secretary, were re-elected Thursday afternoon at the October board meeting.

Two new members of the board Frank Culberson and Paul Kennedy — were appointed earlier by the Gray County Commissioners' Court. Kennedy was not present at this meeting.

A discussion of the proposed hangar for the airport took up most of the session; but little substantial could be accomplished as the commissioners' court will not open bids on it till Oct. 18. No bids have been received to this time, Simmons reported.

Approval of routine bills took up the remainder of the time at the meeting.

Rain Ends, Search Made For Victims

ROSWELL, N. M., Oct. 8 —UP— Rains abated and flash-flooded rivers receded in this southeastern New Mexico farming region early Friday, but authorities feared that 14 persons had perished.

Four bodies had been recovered from the muddy waters which roared through the channels of the Rio Felix, Pecos and Berrendo Rivers. There appeared to be no hope for four children and six adults missing from their homes.

At Hagerton, an agricultural community south of Roswell, Deputy Sheriff Charles Troublefield organized a party of 300 to 400 men to search along the banks of the Rio Felix and still rising Pecos Rivers to recover bodies early Friday.

Forty-eight hours of heavy rains in the Pecos Valley built up a flash flood crest in the Rio Felix Thursday which swept down upon a Spanish American home 300 yards from the center of the channel.

Troublefield said two elderly men, two women and three children were in the house when the flood crest smashed it apart.

Two Bodies Recovered

The bodies of Willie Salas, 71, and Manuel Hernandez, 55, were recovered. Mrs. Minnie Juarez and her three young children and a Mrs. Persons were missing.

"We can't say absolutely that they are all dead until we recover the bodies," Troublefield said. "But I don't see how any of them could have survived. Parts of the house were found two miles apart."

The body of Ben Tolliver, 9, was recovered near Hagerman but that of his infant brother, three-month-old Tony Roy, was washed away. Troublefield said the two Negro children were members of a Celina, Tex., family.

Three Mexican nationals working on the farm of Clarence Harshey of Hagerton were also missing and presumed dead.

Caught in Flash Flood

James P. McCutcheon and Frank Thomas of Roswell set out together Thursday in an eight-mile draw along the normally dry channel of the Berrendo River to check on buses headed for Roswell. They were caught in the Berrendo's flash flood.

McCutcheon's body was found on the flooding bank and state police said Thomas, traffic manager at Roswell for the New Mexico Transport Co., surely had died in the torrent.

Only a few light sprinkles were reported in the region after midnight, and all rivers except the Pecos were receding. The Pecos was not expected to go much higher.

The Rio Felix and the Rio Hondo empty into the Pecos. More than four and one-half inches of rain have deluged this farming area since the storm began Tuesday, swelling the rivers and mountain streams that feed them.

Declares State of Emergency

Gov. Edwin Mechem declared a state of emergency in Chaves and Eddy counties and a National Guard detachment was set to sandbagging the Rio Hondo banks north of Roswell. The Red Cross set up refugee centers to care for 150 and more families driven from

Ike Readies Hard-Hitting Party Speech

DENVER, Oct. 8—UP—President Eisenhower put the finishing touches Friday on a "hard-hitting" speech he hopes will stir top precinct workers into turning in a party victory in the Nov. 2 congressional elections.

The President, surrounded by House and Senate leaders and campaign lieutenants, will speak at 7:30 p.m. mst (8:30 p.m. est) Friday, highlighting the Republican party's "Precinct Day." His speech will be televised and broadcast nationally.

The chief executive will meet with the GOP House and Senate leaders in a luxurious, paneled suite of the Brown Palace hotel here then go to the Denver municipal auditorium for a joint appearance with Vice President Richard M. Nixon. After their speeches, the President, the vice president and their campaign lieutenants will return to the hotel for dinner and another strategy conference.

The President's speech Friday night will be carried by 158 television stations of an augmented Columbia Broadcasting System and 534 radio stations of the National Broadcasting Company and the Mutual Broadcasting System. The GOP national committee estimated that 2,150,000 party workers on this, the Republican "Precinct Day," would be gathered by their TV sets and radios to hear the President's call to battle.

Soviets Get Chance To Prove Sincerity

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 8—UP—First major test of Russia's sincerity in its latest disarmament proposals was expected Friday at a meeting of the United Nations main political committee.

The 60-nation committee was to hold an organizational meeting Friday afternoon at which a technical question of procedure would provide a test of Soviet sincerity.

Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky demanded in the General Assembly's steering committee that the disarmament proposal he unveiled a week ago be put on the agenda for debate as an item separate from the omnibus listing of the entire disarmament question.

The steering committee, with later approval from the assembly, voted the proposals onto the agenda but left it to the political committee to decide whether they should be debated as a separate item or included in the overall debate on disarmament.

Western diplomats felt no point save propaganda would be served by keeping Vishinsky's proposals separate. They argued that any embracing debate on disarmament must include mention of them and that to book a separate debate on them would simply provide Russia with a chance to reap propaganda value twice.

Thus, they argued, the sincerity of Russia's professed desire for disarmament can be judged by the attitude Vishinsky takes when the political committee decides how to handle debate on his proposals.

The assembly's special, or ad hoc, political committee designed to handle the overflow of political items from the main committee's agenda—also swings into action Friday.

'Champion' Of Whites In Trouble

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 —UP— Troubles piled up Friday for Florida-born Bryant W. Bowles, the 34-year-old ex-Marine who founded and heads an organization called the National Association for the Advancement of White People.

Bowles, a champion of racial segregation, was:

1. "Under observation" by the Department of Justice.

2. Threatened with revocation of the NAAWP charter by the State of Delaware.

3. Warned by Philadelphia authorities to stay out of the city of "Brotherly Love."

4. Under fire from two former officials of the NAAWP.

But Bowles appeared undaunted. And business at his NAAWP headquarters here appeared to be booming.

Chartered in Delaware last December, the NAAWP was little heard of until protests against the end of school segregation broke out this fall in Milford, Del., Baltimore and Washington.

X-Ray Total Now At 455

A total of 455 persons had received free chest X-rays by late this morning in the American Legion-Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, Russell and Foster.

Marion Medina, Texas Health Department technician who is operating the unit in Pampa, said that 364 were processed Thursday, the first day, and the remainder were cleared this morning.

The X-ray unit will be in Pampa till 1 p.m. Thursday, then will move on to Lefors and McLean.

Johnny Campbell, drive chairman for hte Gray County chapter of the National Tuberculosis Association, has set a goal of 3,500 to be X-rayed.

Demos Plan To Block Power Deal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—UP— Democratic foes mapped plans Friday for a hard-hitting campaign to block a quick congressional go-ahead for the controversial Dixon-Yates power contract.

All signs point to a long and noisy battle when the House-Senate Atomic Energy committee launches hearings—tentatively next Wednesday—on the administration's bid for immediate action on the contract.

The Atomic Energy Commission wants the committee to waive a 30-day wait period so the contract can be put into effect without delay. Without the waiver, the contract would have to lie over in the committee for a month while Congress is in session and this would hold things up until early next year.

The aim of Democratic opponents is to try to block the waiver so the whole issue can be kept alive until Congress returns and can debate it fully.

Lost Co-Ed Just Strayed

HOUSTON, Oct. 8—UP—A petite 19-year-old coed who apparently disappeared Wednesday while en route to Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va., to enroll, was found at a Washington, D.C., hotel Thursday.

The disappearance of the brown-eyed brownette, Barbara Croom, was reported Wednesday night by her father, prominent attorney Samuel G. Croom.

Croom said his daughter left here by plane Tuesday and he talked to her by telephone at the Statler hotel in Washington Wednesday morning. Then she checked out and apparently disappeared.

Croom received word from college officials Wednesday night that Barbara had failed to arrive. Croom flew to Washington at 1:15 a.m. Thursday to begin a search.

Miss Croom, meanwhile, called her home here early Thursday and found that her father was in Washington. She caught him by telephone at the Statler hotel.

She said she had missed the 11 a.m. train to Staunton Wednesday and had checked in at the Mayflower hotel for a rest. She said she overslept and missed another train.

Army Plans To Use More Milk Products

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—UP—The Army has offered to help ease the government's surplus butter headache by doubling milk rations at many military posts, a reliable source reported Thursday.

The Agriculture Department would subsidize the Army's extra milk purchases under the proposal at the rate of $4 per 100 pounds. The Army, which used 16,258,850 pounds of milk last year, now pays about $7 per 100 pounds for its supplies, the source said.

Administration farm officials also are urging the military to ease pressure from another direction by putting more chickens and eggs on mess hall tables.

Poultry and egg prices have been low recently and prospects for the months ahead are poor. Increased military purchases might drain some of the surplus supplies from civilian markets and lead to better farm prices.

Until last March, the standard service ration for milk was half a pint per person daily. At the urging of harassed federal farm officials, the Army then told its local commanders to serve more milk wherever possible within their budgets.

The proposal to give soldiers still more milk was made under the terms of the new farm law which gives the Agriculture Department authority to give its surplus dairy products to veterans hospitals and the military services. The gifts could be made only for consumption above usual service and hospital levels.

Nixon Would Keep Ike 'Simon Pure'

DENVER, Oct. 8—UP—Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Thursday after a major political strategy conference with President Eisenhower that the chief executive should stay out of individual congressional campaign fights this fall and concentrate on national appearances in behalf of the basic administration program.

Nixon said he thought the Democrats now were "swinging wildly and starting to get hysterical."

He said he thought the President's participation in the campaign thus far had been "absolutely right" and that any effort by Mr. Eisenhower to defeat individual congressional opponents would "backfire."

The President now has two definite speeches scheduled for the future — one to be made from here Friday night and a second on Nov. 1, an election eve speech, Nixon said the chief executive would make at least one other political speech in the Washington area, probably late in October.

The President has so-called non-political speeches scheduled in Connecticut and New York on Oct. 20 and 21, and Nixon said the third political address probably would be set for some location near Washington after Oct. 21.

The vice president, who went to play golf with Mr. Eisenhower after their conference at the Denver White House offices at Lowry Air Force Base, has been on the political road for the past three weeks. He reported to the President that as a result of his trip so far, he is convinced that the Republicans would carry the Senate in November.

NANCY and Miss Wister sat on opposite sides of a small sunroom that overlooked the lake. Dunn was not at all sure he liked the changes in Miss Wister. Certainly contact with the Carlsons had made her quite different from the efficient fixture in the outer office of the Pine Detective Agency. Perhaps his past opinions had been colored by Miss Wister's past performances. He could never forget her loyalty, the things she had done.

Yet her obvious lying, the viciousness of her temper in the attack on Mrs. Gelstrap, made her an obvious suspect if the death of Angelica proved other than accidental.

Sheriff Agnes said, "Do you want to add anything to your previous statement, Miss Wister?" She had reassumed her formal, sheriff's role.

"No. I don't think so."

"Perhaps you will change your mind when I tell you the Denver police have searched your apartment?"

A flood of color crept up Miss Wister's neck, made her ruddy cheeks even redder. "You had no right to do that." She did not raise her voice, looked down at the clenched hands in her lap. Yet even without bodily motion it was evident that every muscle was tense, that she waited for a blow she still hoped would not come.

"The Denver police were very much interested in your photographs," Agnes went on inexorably.

Miss Wister shot an agonized glance in Dunn's direction.

"Perhaps Mr. Dunn can tell us more about them?" the sheriff went on. She looked across the room toward Nancy.

He said, "Miss Wister had not discussed her taste in photography with me."

"Odd," Sheriff Agnes snapped, "because you are the subject of them all."

"Not odd at all," Jim said modestly. "I'm really remarkably photogenic." He risked a wink at Nancy, saw the answering twinkle in her eyes. He found time to feel a little sorry for Agnes. Because for the first time since their meeting, Nancy looked at the sheriff with speculation. Jim was happy. He felt that the beginning of a barrier had been blasted away, that he was no longer walled away from complete understanding with his wife.

Miss Wister said softly, "You don't have to torment me. My personal life has nothing to do with this. It's none of your business."

Agnes Argyle realized she had lost, instead of gaining, ground with Nancy by this attack on Miss Wister. But she hurried to reveal the reason for the attack, sure that would bring Nancy back under her influence.

"You're in love with Jim Dunn," she accused.

Miss Wister stared at her hands again. Jim watched Nancy's face, kept his own expressionless.

Nancy got to her feet, walked over and put her arm around Miss Wister's shoulders. She faced Agnes Argyle.

"Even at the risk of making my husband much more bigheaded than he is, I do have to say this. Why shouldn't Miss Wister be in love with him? It shows her good taste."

Jim saw the appreciation, the relief in Miss Wister's face, the disappointment in Agnes Argyle's. He saw Miss Wister square her shoulders, stiffen her whole body. She had fought for him once that day, and Jim knew the signs. Miss Wister was getting ready to fight again.

JIM and Nancy walked down past the boathouse to the edge of the lake. Nancy stopped when they were in a sheltered position, held up her arms. "You haven't kissed me at all today."

That omission was easily and pleasantly remedied.

Nancy pulled away, smiled and sat down on a rock. She said, "What a stinker!"

"Now you've spoiled it. But you did say Miss Wister was in love with me. Of course I knew it all the time, but I'm much too modest for my own good."

"Jim, what's going on around here?"

Dunn sobered instantly. "We're caught in the middle of a family mess."

"I don't see how. Agnes—the sheriff?"

"You haven't seen old Mrs. Oswald yet, have you? Put Agnes Argyle alongside the old lady and you know they have a great deal in common, including blood."

"Stop looking so smug, Jim, what was Agnes trying to do with me?"

• • •

"THE way it looks," Jim went on, "Agnes was to make friends with you, influence you into seeing only one point of view. You were to turn to her, believe her, trust her, instead of me. Of course that was supposed to infuriate me. Soften me up, so to speak, so I would be ready to fall into Mrs. Hilton's trap. And a nicely baited trap, I must say."

Understanding flooded Nancy's face. "But what does she think I'd be doing?"

"Don't forget Mrs. Hilton was watching through glasses. She saw you in that dark and dowdy outfit of yours. Why should she expect competition from such a frump? She didn't even recognize you at first as the same woman, and she didn't like it a bit when she found out. Let that be a lesson to you to always look your best."

"A nice family," Nancy said. "But all this planning and effort, Jim. That must mean they know it was murder."

Republicans Seem To Hear The Gong Of Election Doom

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8—UP—There is some support for the belief that President Eisenhower has been told that the Republican party already is licked in this year's congressional election contest — barring the occasional miracle.

Private advices from Denver strongly suggest that Rep. Charles A. Halleck (R-Ind.) gave the President such a report last weekend. For publication and after seeing Mr. Eisenhower, Halleck did not go so far. But he did concede that the Republican party was in a very difficult position.

Halleck is the House majority leader, close to and trusted by Mr. Eisenhower. Whatever else Halleck may have said privately to the President, he certainly made an earnest plea for more active presidential participation in this campaign. Republican party leaders by now are seriously worried. The appeals for some hell-for-leather Eisenhower campaign speeches reflect their anxiety.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon arrived in Denver Wednesday for the political powwow which will end Friday night in an Eisenhower-Nixon radio and TV appearance. Nixon already is on public record with the repeated statement that the political trend right now is against the Republicans.

Both Nixon and Halleck also have said for publication that a stepped-up campaign would win this year for the administration. But when Halleck was asked about Republican National Committee Chairman Leonard Hall's prediction of a 25-seat gain for his party in the House, the majority leader replied:

"That's more than I would predict."

The GOP is running scared in this campaign. The party's professionals are genuinely scared, and they show it plainly. Mr. Eisenhower seems less alarmed.

Some of the reporters at Denver with the presidential party are speculating that Mr. Eisenhower may be holding back a bit from the campaign to avoid identifying himself too much with a possible party defeat. It has been impossible so far to obtain from the President or his staff here or in Denver any solid statement of how much campaigning he intends to do this month. Election day is November 2.

Lions See SW Conference Football Teams In Action

Lions Club members were treated to a film on 1953 football highlights in the Southwest Conference at their Thursday luncheon.

Lions Sweetheart for October, Pat Reynolds, was introduced to the members with H. V. McCorkle treated to the honored position of welcoming her with a "fatherly" kiss. Miss Reynolds is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Reynolds, 1132 Charles.

Announcement was made that there would be a board of directors meeting Monday night at 7:30 in the Chamber of Commerce Room in City Hall.

Ham Luna was appointed program chairman for November. He recently returned from a trip to Hawaii, and brought the best wishes of Honolulu's Lions Club, 160 strong, to the Pampa brethren.

A leading manufacture of dictation equipment recently anounced that executives can now have centralized equipment for as little as $115 each, about one-third of the cost three years ago.

The First National Bank of Pampa will publish a statement of condition within the next few days in compliance with a call from the Comptroller of Currency in Washington.

Citizen's Bank and Trust Co. will adhere of a similar call from the Commissioner of the State Banking Department in Austin, who usually issues "what amounts to a simultaneous call" from Washington, according to Floyd Watson, vice-president.

Statements of financial conditions are generally called for four times a year in both state and national banks. Though there are no definite dates, set calls are almost always issued on June 30 and Dec. 31. The two "surprise calls" are generally made in the spring and the fall, Watson said.

The Comptroller of Currency has not failed to issue a call for a statement of conditions on the two "set dates" since 1914.

"National banks are given five days from receipt of official notice to publish and mail their financial report to Washington," according to C. M. Carlock, cashier at the First National Bank.

State banks are generally given 10 days to comply.

SMUGGLER

last summer when Interpol — the international police network of 50 nations trailed him and the yacht Flamingo to Tangier?

"Wild rumors preceded the arrival of the yacht," he recalled with relish. "We were there to rob banks. . . we were going to burn the boats of the other smugglers . . . we had come to murder someone."

One rumor was that Eddie was going to help kidnap the deposed sultan of Morocco from Madagascar so he could lead a rebellion against France and unseat his successor.

None of these rumors were true, of course, Eddie said. He had merely teamed up with Billy Hill, the Al Capone of the London underworld, to make a few dollars in the smuggling game.

Billy furnished the yacht, a converted twin-screw motor vessel with a capacity of 65 tons. The crew was one of the most awesome ever to arrive at the tough port of Tangier.

It consisted of Georgie Walker, a contender for the British light heavyweight championship; Frannie Daniels, ex-member of a well-known smash-and-grab mob; little Georgie Ball and Fred Watson, lanky experts at street-fighting, and Richard Antine, a tough Belgian.

"We agreed to run 800 cases of cigarets up the coast to another country. Cigarets bought in Tangier for five cents a pack would sell for 56 cents there. Each case contains 100 cartons and each carton contain 10 packs, so our profit would figure out about $13 a case or $10,400 for the lot."

Loaded with cigarets, the Flamingo traveled 800 miles to its destination without incident and when they were a few miles off shore a boat pulled alongside and a scruffy looking individual climbed aboard the Flamingo.

"He produced a roll of banknotes and I counted them. The total was $840 short," Eddie said. "Something else caught my eye. The money was in hundreds and fifties and six of the hundreds obviously were counterfeit.

"I reached in my pocket and pulled out a spring knife. Frannie Daniels did likewise. I stuck mine against the supercargo's throat.

"Both he and his mate let out squeals like frightened rabbits."

The supercargo fished in his pockets and pulled out a few more dollars. Because they were still short, Eddie held back 20 cases of cigarets, and the transaction was completed.

Back in Tangier, all was not well. Moroccan authorities had approved an order banning Eddie and his cohorts from the country because they were "likely to provoke a breach of public order."

62 Boys Given Awards By Little, Pony Leagues

Sixty-two boys participating in the Pampa PONY and Little Leagues, sponsored by the Optimist Club, were presented belt buckles in a special ceremony at Sam Houston Auditorium last night.

Boys receiving belt buckles were members of the championship and runnerup teams in each of the two leagues.

Sixteen members of the First National Bank, champions of the PONY League, and the Pampa Druggists, PONY League runnerups, received buckles. The Bankers received gold buckles and the Druggists silver buckles.

John Schoolfield, PONY League president, presided over the PONY League presentation ceremonies.

Deck Woldt managed the champion Banker team while Dr. Nick Kadingo was the Druggist manager.

In the Little League, 15 members of the champions and runnersup were awarded buckles. Hoffman Oil, managed by Lloyd Summers, were the Little League champs. Each member of the Hoffman team was awarded a gold buckle.

The Spokesman, managed by Joe Fortin, were the Little League runnersup, each member of the team receiving silver buckles.

Buck Francis, Little League president, presided over the Little League presentation ceremonies.

In addition to the buckles, individual certificates were awarded to the graduating members of the PONY and Little Leagues.

A Little League movie was shown to the large group of the kid baseballers and their parents and friends attending last night's ceremony.

4 Clean Sweeps In Lone Star

Four clean sweeps were recorded in the Lone Star Women's Bowling League last night at Pampa Bowl.

Recording clean sweeps were Jax over Shamrock Service Station; Cabot Engineers over La-Bonita Beauty Shop; Malone's Pharmacy over Cabot Carbon; and C. A. Husted over B&B Pharmacy.

Elaine Riddle of Shamrock Service won both individual scoring honors, turning in a 187 for high game and 478 for high series.

LaMaster Pays Visit To Pampa

LeRoy (Pete) LaMaster, of Perryton, Republican candidate for U. S. representative from the 18th Congressional District, was in Pampa Thursday for a get - acquainted campaign.

This week end LaMaster, who visited President Eisenhower several weeks ago in Denver, will be in Amarillo.

The candidate passed out cards listing 21 accomplishments of the GOP-controlled 83rd Congress, in conjunction with Ike's administration.

Pampan Wins $100 In Contest

Miss Billie Hollingshead, a Pampan who teaches school at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, has been named a winner of $100 in a best recipe contest by the Quaker Oats Company.

John Schlumbohm, manager of Ideal Food Store Number 2, where Miss Hollingshead entered the contest, said the Pampa woman won fifth place in the contest, and that her check would be forwarded to her.

Early Mailing Emphasized By Postmaster

Business firms are urged to have their mail in the post office as soon as possible after 5 p.m. daily, according to Postmaster O. K. Gaylor, in order to facilitate departure.

"Two mail departures in a matter of 15 minutes beginning at 6:45 p.m., cause an extremely heavy load on the dispatching section of the post office. Actually, more frequent mailings throughout the day will ease the taxing of our facilities," Gaylor said.

Main bulk of each day's mail east and west is carried by the two early evening dispatches. Closing time at the post office on both is 6 p.m. Star route at 6:45 p.m. handles the mail west, with the crack eastbound train, Santa Fe 24, at 7 p.m. carrying the mail east to Chicago.

"Eighty-five per cent of all outgoing mail leaves in these two dispatches, and that makes for nearly 20,000 pieces. The department wants to make sure of connecting with both, and only through an easing of the pressure on the dispatching section, can we be reasonably sure of doing so," Gaylor said.

Recommended to business firms is sorting the mail for local and out of town delivery, and handing it to the clerk at the Superintendent of Mails window.

"Early and often is the important thing for proper service," Gaylor reemphasized.

Future Citizens Meet Today

J. C. Pattillo, Jr., Pampa Junior High School instructor, will speak to the Pampa Lions Club Americanization class tonight on "How the Congress in Our National Government is Organized."

This second meeting of the class for the fall will be held at 6:30 p.m. today in Sam Houston School, according to Homer Craig, course instructor. Meetings are being held at the early hour during the Harvester football season.

A written lesson will follow Pattillo's talk.

Only five class members were on hand a week ago to hear Truett Ross, the first speaker of the fall season. They were Mr. and Mrs. Otto Specht, Mrs. Rosa Brewer and Mrs. Anita Lantau, all natives of Germany. Others who expected to be present were Mrs. Patt Bissell, Canada, class president; Mrs. Angela J. Burdick, Austria; and Mrs. Helen Brister, Belgium.

Any alien in the area is invited to attend the weekly sessions of the group, Craig pointed out. There is no charge.

The present class will end its activities in late December. Then those who have lived in the United States long enough to comply with regulations will take their examinations in Federal Court, Amarillo, in February.

their farmland homes in the Pecos Valley.

There was water in the streets of Roswell, Artesia, Hagerman and Dexter. Typhoid serum was sent to Dexter, a community of 800 between Hagerman and Roswell, to guard against an epidemic.

A heavy cloud cover darkened the skies of southeast New Mexico through the night, and the United States Weather Bureau at Denver said scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected during the day. This could mean nothing, or much, depending on whether two or three heavy thundershowers center on the flooding valley.

The cloudy weather is not expected to break up before Saturday of Sunday.

Gray Ladies Plan Meeting

Gray Ladies will meet at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Red Cross office in the City Hall to orient a new class in the group's work in local hospitals and the homes of the chronically ill, Mrs. Libby Shotwell said today.

Chet Lander, administrator, Highland General Hospital addressed 15 members of the group at a Wednesday meeting at the home of Mrs. C. E. High, 921 N. Somerville. He spoke on the value of Gray Lady work in the hospital.

Expressing appreciation, Lander said it would be a wise idea were the Gray Ladies to place a placard in the entry to Highland General so patients would know of their visiting service.

PHS Band To Select Sweetheart

Ten Pampa High School seniors are nominees for Harvester Band Sweetheart who will be presented at half time during the Pampa-Midland football game Oct. 29.

Senior girl nominees are Carol Waggoner, Johnnie Dauer, Pat Ward, Peg Ward, Shirley Allen, Jennie Collins, Dorothy Johnson, Janie Lewis, Avanelle Hogsett and Nancy Presnell.

Five of these 10 girls will be selected by the band on Monday. Tuesday one of the five will be named band sweetheart.

Band council met recently to select the 10 girls. Council members are, Penny Eads, Wayne Griggs, Alvin Dauer, Jerrel Richardson, Larry Cox, Carol Waggoner and Pat Ward.

The school is giving emblems to members of the band who have attended 95 per cent of their activities for two consecutive semesters.

The band will perform at all of Pampa's remaining football games including those at Abilene and Odessa. They will march in the Oil Progress Parade Oct. 13 and on Oct. 16 the group will participate in the West Texas State College homecoming parade, and will play at half time in the WTSC-New Mexico A & M football game.

The band will make a trip to Canyon, Nov. 4, to hear the U.S. Navy Band.

Doctor Billed On Dope Counts

HOUSTON, Oct. 8—UP—A federal grand jury has indicted a Houston physician on 26 counts of narcotics violations, including 13 counts that he gave codein to former Police Chief L. D. Morrison.

The physician is Dr. Julius McBride, who was Morrison's personal doctor. He was also indicted by another grand jury last August. Assistant U.S. Attorney John Snodgrass said the new indictment takes the place of the old one.

The new counts charge McBride with dispensing the codein to the former officer "not in regular course of professional practice, not for legitimate medical purposes, and not in good faith."

Each of the 26 counts carries a penalty of a $10,000 fine, five years imprisonment, or both. Morrison resigned recently as police chief.

Economist Blushed

Has unemployment reached a dangerous level in our country?

Bales of political hay have been made over that question this season. But it's a phony issue, a high-ranking government economist reports.

Monthly U. S. unemployment statistics made headlines when they rose to more than three millions in a recent month. But the information that would have given flesh to those naked numerals did not rate even a bottom paragraph in the stories that went out to the country's news journals.

That whopping figure, with all its zeros, was based on census bureau interviews which showed that 700 households, spread through 430 counties all over the United States have people not working but "willing to take a job."

The jobless figure was part of a larger survey of labor conditions.

New high school graduates still looking for the "right job"; retired workers; housewives who work once a year in local seasonal industries . . . these were some of the "unemployed" reported in that survey.

When the interviews were interpreted, back in the Washington bureau, each unemployed person was multiplied by a projection factor — and the result of that arithmetic was labeled "Unemployment in the Nation."

Our government economist blushed at the weapon this well-meant estimate has become.

But the political warriors who are swinging it like a battle-ax didn't notice.

Need Silent Tires?

Take the mail order catalog down from its shelf—there's a surprising new product in it this fall.

One of the large firms is featuring a tire that doesn't squeal on turns.

Is that really important, except to people who live beside winding roads? Was it worth the company's expense of thousands of dollars on what might have been called "Operation Eardrum," developing the new tire?

The question, stripped to its bare bones, is really one of standard of living. American merchants offer dozens of tires to millions of people who take quality for granted. They're shopping for extra features, like white sidewalls, or silent turning, or puncture-resistance.

In other countries, however, an offer to a similar population group would have to be in bicycle tires — or donkey saddles — or wheelbarrow handles.

What that fat catalog says, if you listen, is that we live in the only country where working people have money to spend on luxuries like silent-turning automobile tires.

THE NATION'S PRESS

HOW TO BE ANTI-ANTI-COMMUNIST
JAMES GILLIS
(The Tidings)

There has been much talk about the method of anti-Communists. It is supposed to be wild, violent reckless. But it is really not one-two-three in that respect with the anti-anti-Communist method. When it comes to invective, virulence, vituperation, the anti-anti's are out front.

For a recent sample consult an article "The 'Liberals' of Smith College," in the August number of The Freeman.

Mrs. Aloise Heath a graduate of Smith tells of an experience she had when as a member of a committee she suggested—gently and politely—that the alumnae, called upon for contributions to their Alma Mater, should refrain until certain members of the faculty, of whom the committee named five, should be cleared of the suspicion of membership in organizations "cited as Communist or Communist front by the Attorney General of the United States and the Committee on Un-American Activities."

Mrs. Heath's letter went out to some 3200 graduates. Came the deluge, the tidal wave, the volcanic eruption.

On the first day Mrs. Heath's telephone rang from 6:45 in the morning until 1:15 the next morning.

There was no sweetness and light, nothing lady-like, about the returns.

They ran along this line:

"How dare you," "lying accusations," "fascist propaganda," "tearing down your own college," "ashamed to be a fellow alumna of yours," "your mind must be ossified," "you smear the character of several people," and (without this particular epithet the list would be unique) "witch hunt!"

"If Smith College doesn't sue you, I will," "why don't you go to h——?" And—crowning insult of all—"You should like Vassar."

None Asked For Proof

When news of the internecine rumpus reached the newspapers the "liberal" sheets, with the New York Post in the van, declared the Heath Committee's suggestion a boomerang. So, in one way, it was.

Graduates who had never given a cent to Smith before, declared that now they would contribute. One alumna declared in a burst of perfervid enthusiasm, "if I had a million dollars I would give it all to Smith."

Apparently not one among all who kept the telephone wires hot from early morning until after midnight even so much as thought of asking proof, or of challenging the reliability of the Attorney General or the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

There was indeed one woman who declared, "Have you any proof," but she answered her own question, "you have not."

Those who have observed the anti-anti method will recognize that these uncouth and vicious replies are strictly "in the groove." They follow the norm.

They are stereotyped.

Who was it that introduced the theory of conditioned reflexes? Pavlov? The ringing of a bell when the dogs in the experimental laboratory were to be fed, then the ringing of a bell when they were to get no food; the drooling of saliva in the dogs' mouths and the flow of gastric juices in their stomachs. Purely mechanical. We might say psychological if there is such a thing as canine psychology.

There certainly is a psychology of the anti-anti-Communists.

Ring the bell—that is to say—accuse someone of Communistic affiliations or Communist sympathy, and the revulsion will occur with mechanical exactitude.

In place of the flow of saliva and gastric juices (perhaps that occurs also) there will be vomit of epithets, "Smear!" "fascist," "witch hunter" and all the others.

How Naive Can You Be?

In the case of Mrs. Heath and her committee, it did finally dawn upon the mind of the president of the college and chairman of the board of trustees to say something not utterly irrelevant.

In an official letter they explained: The Heath Committee had not been submitted to their inspection (!); the professors named had taken the Teachers' Oath of the state of Massachusetts; had declared that they are not now Communists and that they "do not attempt to influence their students in the direction of any political doctrine."

To which, of course, the answer is, how naive, or how seemingly naive can the intelligentsia be?

It reminds one of General Eisenhower's assurance, when he was president of Columbia, that no one in his faculty would indoctrinate the students with Communistic ideas.

Stock Piling Other Than Farm Commodities To Keep Politicians In Power

Voters should commence to realize what politicians, both Republicans and Democrats, will do to keep themselves in power.

It is pretty well conceded that buying farm commodities is for the sole purpose of getting the farm vote. It is pretty well believed that the $6,000,000,000 tied up in farm products as of June 30, 1954 will be increased to $9,800,000,00 early next year.

Other Commodities.

In the Wall Street Journal, Henry T. Simmons reports how the present Administration is continuing the policy of the Truman Administration in stock-piling other commodities. He reports as follows:

"Early last year control of the stockpile was shifted from the Pentagon to the White House, and soon people here regard that as the beginning of a greater political interest in the stockpile."

He writes:

"'Once the civilians get their hands on the stockpile,' predicted a former defense official at the time the shift was made, 'you'll find them subordinating military motives to political and business considerations. When materials are plentiful they'll raise stockpile goals to give business a lift. When supplies are tight, they'll cut the goals to make more available to industry.'

Stepped-Up Buying

"The budgeteers attributed the increase mainly to the new 'long term stockpile policy' enunciated by President Eisenhower last March, when he ordered stepped-up stockpiling of 'from 35 to 40 metals and minerals.' Ostensibly the new scheme was designed to further eliminate U. S. dependence on foreign sources in the event of war.

"But it also seemed clear there was a strong urge to support domestic prices. As Mr. Eisenhower put it, purchases would be made 'ordinarily at such times as the Government decides that purchases will help to reactivate productive capacity and in other ways to alleviate distressed conditions in connection with domestic mineral industries that are an important element of the nation's mobilization base.'

"In response to the President's order the General Services Administration in June began buying lead and zinc. Producers of these metals were in a bad way; demand was down, prices were low, and they had big inventories on hand. But the lead and zinc people, still unhappy despite the Government buying, were pushing for higher tariffs to protect their industry against foreign metals.

"'Mr. Eisenhower last month rejected the tariff demands. Instead, he ordered vastly stepped-up Federal buying — at least doubling the rate, according to best estimates. At present prices the increased goal would cost taxpayers up to $125 million for lead and zinc alone in the current fiscal year.'

$1,700,000,000 Deficit In Two Months

The deficit doesn't seem to worry the present Administration, that promised to balance the budget in the fiscal year of 1955. In the first two months of the fiscal year of 1955, that is in July and August, the federal government spent $4,700,000,000 more than it took in. And this is an increase of $1,700,000,000 more than the deficit for the same two months in the fiscal year of 1953-54.

Costly Commitment

Mr. Simmons points out what is happening under the inherited program:

"To see what's happening under the inherited program, take a look at just one tungsten buying scheme. Uncle Sam is committed to buy this metal from domestic producers at $63 a short ton unit (20 pounds) until mid-1958 unless the government accumulates three million short ton units before that date. The present private market price for tungsten ranges from $34 to $38 a short ton unit. Naturally only foreign tungsten is being sold for commercial use in the U. S. Naturally, too, about all domestic production is flowing into Uncle's hands. The same is true in varying degrees with respect to other commodities in the program.

"While it's true that the Democratic Administration originated the 'supply expansion' schemes as part of the Korean mobilization program, the Republican Congress voted two-year extensions to all the programs which had been scheduled to run out in 1956. There is no evidence that the Eisenhower Administration actively supported the extensions; neither are there any signs it opposed the stretch-out.

"Even though the 'supply expansion' program was conceived at first to meet prospective wartime needs, officials who administer the project freely agree in private conversation that it's little more than a federal subsidy. As such, it's hard to distinguish between it and the strategic stockpile.

"Since the government started the expansion drive under the Defense Production Act, taxpayers have shelled out over $3 billion to keep it going. They're committed to dig into their pockets for another $4 billion under promises already made.

"As for the strategic stockpile itself, the latest estimate is that taxpayers have $5 billion invested in it, including transfers from the General Services Administration expansion board acquired under the Defense Production Act. The ultimate stockpile goal is $6.9 billion — unless, of course, the goals are jacked up again."

One wonders why the government does not stockpile automobiles and other items if it is going to subsidize farmers and metal and mineral producers. When the government interferes with a free market it invariably becomes a device to buy votes to keep either party in power.

GOP To Contend Ike Has Brought A Stable Economy

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — A major Republican contention in the wind-up weeks of the current Congressional campaign will be that the Eisenhower Administration has built a "stable economy" which is not based on war costs, vast military expenditures of boondoggling programs. Statistics on third-quarter activity and 1955 prospects have been compiled to support this politico-economic thesis.

Indeed, the Democrats seem to agree with this analysis of business and industrial conditions. In his more recent speeches, Adlai E. Stevenson has pounced on the key word in the GOP slogan — "stable." The Democrats' 1952 Presidential nominee now insists that stability means only "standing still."

In his opinion, the Eisenhower policies do not provide for the "expansion" required by an increasing population and future demands on the industrial and agricultural plant. He wants to return to the "forward-looking and imaginative" outlook of Roosevelt-Truman days.

The Republicans, however, consider it a remarkable achievement to have maintained high-level production and consumption in the face of reduced Government spending at home, a heavy cut in foreign aid and commitments and greater reliance on individual and private enterprise.

Aside from and more important than statistical evidence of stability, Ike's spokesmen believe that the principal gain has been the disappearance of a depression psychology. Plans for industrial expansion, a high rate of retail purchasing and installment credit buying, in their opinion, prove that national confidence has been restored.

White House advisers have given the President a new set of figures, not yet released publicly, in support of the stability and confidence issue. As soon as they have been checked and rechecked, they will be turned over to national and local ghost writers for Party candidates.

Although there is spotty unemployment, September-October figures are not expected to show any sizable increase over the present total of about 3,200,000 out of work. This is considered a favorable development, in view of the number of employed youngsters who have returned to school. Their places have been taken by 1954 graduates.

Businessmen show continued confidence. New orders placed with producers total $22.5 billion a month since March, as against less than $22 billion a year ago. New construction is running about $3 billion a month, of which $2.2 billion represents private undertakings. New plants costing $26.8 billion will be built in 1954, comparing with about $27.5 billion for 1952-53.

Consumer spending is at record levels, due largely to the high rate of personal income, which is estimated at $286 billion annually. The customers will buy about $230 billions of durable and light goods, or $2 billion above the prosperous year of 1953.

At the same time, savings have hit a new top. They are increasing at the rate of $12 billion yearly. The aggregate is now figured at $212 billion, or the equivalent of $4,500 for every household in the country.

Deferred improvements by the Federal, state and local governments will provide additional employment in all lines and increased purchasing power. A record-breaking highway construction program, the building of new airports and enlargement of existing fields and maritime growth will plough more than $2 billion into factory pay rolls and profit sheets.

Finally, the full effects of the 1954 tax reductions will not be felt by corporations until next year. They will combine with developments already listed to increase the amount of money available for investment, purchasings and savings.

They should insure that the current level of business and industrial activity will persist through 1955 and into 1956, with some improvement in presently depressed industries, such as steel.

With the prospect of global war removed through apparent agreement on a Western European defense force, the immediate future looks bright.

...with JAMES C. INGEBRETSEN
President, Spiritual Mobilization

The Hon. Clement R. Attlee, British Socialist leader, apparently is finding it somewhat confusing trying to adjust his theories to the results of those theories as exemplified in Red China. (As you know, Attlee and several other left wing Britishers recently spent a few days making a highly publicized visit to Communist China.) Writing in the Sept. 9, 1954, issue of THE NEW YORK TIMES, Atlee said, "Of course, the convinced Marxians are a small minority of the population. . . ." The following day's issue of the same paper quoted Attlee as saying in a speech at Melbourne, Australia, that "the Government (of Red China) had the support of the great majority of peasants and intellectuals."

Apparently you don't have to be a "convinced Marxian" to support a Communist government. You have, according to Attlee (Sept. 9 issue of N. Y. TIMES), the help of "a party member . . . in control" "at every key point." Which means, apparently, that you either bow — or you bow out. No doubt this is a great aid to the Chinese in making up their minds to "support the Government."

Arrogance Of Big Wealth Was Target Of 'Philip Dru'

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — The fictional armed revolution of "Philip Dru: Administrator," which expressed the "ethical and political faith" of Colonel E. M. House, was a protest against the arrogance of massive wealth. Woodrow Wilson and F. D. Roosevelt consulted House as a political sage and, between them, put through most of his program of circumventing the constitution. The period was 1911 when a nickel bought a loaf of good bread or a quart of milk with cream on top. A soupbone or knee-joint of beef also was a nickel and calves' liver was free, in discreet amounts, as food for the customer's cat. The 1911 dollar was worth about four of today's dollars in purchasing power.

Colonel House, who became the political architect of the Wilson and Roosevelt-Truman administrations, was a rich man himself by inheritance. He was sent abroad for his preliminary education and later sent to a private school in New Haven and to Cornell. He never had to work a day in his life.

Yet, like Roosevlet, who was similarly subsidized all his life, House cried out against the power of wealth, a seductive note to the ears of the object of their patronizing contempt known as the Common Man.

It is true that massive wealth was ruthless and arrogant then. But the political powers and adventurers of today, some of them represented by "foundations" left over from the 'nineties and the first 20 years of this century, are equally impudent and smug in their assumption of a duty to make over the United States, indeed the world, according to a master plan whose origins are all European. Oddly, much of this stuff is from Marx and much of it comes from Andrew Carnegie and the idle bureaucrats of the foundations which exist beyond reach of public opinion, law and even Congress.

Twice in the last two sessions of Congress, Committees of the house, directed to investigate foundations, were thwarted by organized opposition. Carroll Reece, of Tennessee, who was chairman of the latest unsuccessful inquiry, complained that a democratic minority member openly sabotaged the investigation. His description of the conduct of this interference with the function of the committee makes Joe McCarthy's most vigorous conduct seem demure.

There is absolutely no doubt that a "job" was done on this committee for the purpose of concealing information which would have aroused public indignation. The frustration of two committees preserved at least for a time the hidden power of an invisible government.

It is ironic to find a man who inherited an incalculable fortune from stock market manipulations, palmed off as railroad development, so high in the councils of the Democratic party that he is nominated for governor of New York. Yet, Averell Harriman is one of the richest men in the country and his record in lend-lease during the war reflects a concept of the American constitution and the role of the United States in the world which are closer to the Carnegie design than to the traditional understanding of Americans of more representative background. Harriman's old man has been represented as a "builder" of railroads. Actually he only traded shrewdly in stocks, backed by Schiff and Warburg, both from Hamburg. The work was done by ignorant Irish and hunkie greenhorns and Harriman himself, if he knows anything about it, must admit that they were neither overpaid nor lavishly pampered in their boxcar quarters and their hobo campfires.

Great as they are, Harriman's inherited wealth and the power thereof, alone, would be unimportant. But when it is considered that Sidney Hillman's union now boasts of a treasury of more than $200 million, that David Dubinsky's treasury is about three-fourths of that, and that the treasuries and welfare funds of many other unions aggregate billions, the power of arrogant wealth over the American people becomes more apparent and alarming. Dubinsky's union of needleworkers, most of them in low income brackets and subject to seasonal lack of income, has the effrontery to maintain its own foreign relations division operated by two unregenerate Communists of the anti-kremlin faction called Lovestonites.

The Central Intelligence Agency of the national government collaborates with Dubinsky's foreign agents in meddling in european affairs. Their work is covered by official secrecy and is frankly held to be none of our business. We may surmise the results of that work, however, from the definite loss of France to the comumnists in the last few months.

There are many foundations and no authority claims to know how much money they have or what they do with it except to the extent that they are willing to say to serve their own interests. However, it is not excessive to say that there never was such a great mass of money immune to all regulation and inquiry in the history of the country.

Most of the activity of this wealth is political, though disguised as "social" and "educational." And the constant purpose is dilution of the sovereign character of the United States.

Time was when the average American family could not scrape together $100 even by borrowing. That was the day of the nickel loaf and the nickel quart of milk. But the time came way back in Roosevelt's day when a charge of $100 for a $4 blue-plate dinner to raise money for political activities became routine. This is a form of blackmail or shakedown, but our morals have become calloused so we never question the purposes for which the boodle is spent.

The Doctor Says

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M. D.

Each year several people who are either afflicted themselves with shingles, or have friends or relatives who are, write and ask for a discussion of this strange disease. First, I should say, that shingles or herpes zoster, as it is known medically, in all probability results from a virus infection.

For some peculiar reason this virus attacks the nerve roots of the nerves of feeling. It also, for some unknown reason, is almost always on one side of the body only.

The first sign of the disease is generally pain or a burning sensation on one side of the body. Tingling or other peculiar sensations are frequent. It is common around the chest, the hips, the abdomen and the face. Serious complications occur if it effects the eyes.

Herpes may come with, or immediately after acute infections like pneumonia or meningitis; it can come in epidemics or without any cause which can be identified.

There seems to be some relation between herpes and chicken pox. Small epidemics of herpes have arisen at the same time as epidemics of chicken pox. Occasionally a person will develop chicken pox from contact with a patient with shingles. This is a most unusual relationship.

Many different kinds of treatments have been used for shingles. Soothing lotions or other preparations help a little. X-Rays have been used with variable success. Antibiotics also may have some value. Anything which improves the general health is considered desirable. But there is no truly specific remedy.

In elderly people, or those who have been weakened by illness, poor diet or the like, herpes is often a particularly serious thing because it hangs on so long. When nothing else seems to work, cutting the nerve by surgery or other procedures on the nerves may have to be considered.

Older people with nerve pain following shingles deserve our deepest sympathy. Eventually, even in these discouraging situations, recovery is likely to come.

The Leftists said, "Give internationalism a chance."

Well, we've given it a chance to the tune of 40 billion dollars in the past eight years.

We're still givin' it a chance to the tune of fourteen and a half billion of American taxpayers' dollars this year. And what have we got?

We're almost certain to get Red China in the United Nations. Korea is almost certain to remain divided. The European army we wanted, we aren't going to get. The Indo-Chinese war was settled in favor of the Communists. Britain, France, and Italy are anxious to trade with Red China and Red Russia. We've traded our dollars and the lives of our sons and got nothin'. Malenkov traded a little soft talk and got the chance to consolidate the conquests of the new Russian Empire.

We've given internationalism a chance. Now, if it ain't too late why don't we give ourselves a chance?

BID FOR A SMILE

A man who lived in the West was very fond of fox hunting. He owned a pack of hounds and the nights he spent following the hounds in the chase were not a few. He wrote to his brother who lived in the East, urging him to make him a visit and enjoy a fox hunt with him. The brother finally made the visit. A hunt was soon planned. The Westerner got all his hounds together, the neighbors came in with their hounds, and altogether, there was a great company of men and dogs. The party was soon off on horseback for the hunt. The hounds struck a warm trail, and each began to bark and howl in true hound fashion.

After a few minutes, when the howling and prolonged Joe Westerner sound from the dogs was particularly loud, the somewhat practical Easterner, after listening a minute, replied. "I turned to his brother and said, 'Just can't beat anything for the trifling.' When a girl says 'No' to a proposal, she often expects to be held for further questioning.—D. O. Flynn

OUR CONTEST is nearing to a close — only one more column before the announcement of the winner! Midnight Sunday is the deadline so if you haven't sent in your vote yet, you'd better hurry. I'll announce how things are going Monday and the winner will be revealed Tuesday.

DR. M. C. OVERTON, JR. is in first place, with F. E. Imel in second. Dr. E. Douglas Carver is one vote behind Mr. Imel. Dr. R. M. Bellamy is fourth and Ed Myatt, fifth. Latest nominee is Fred Thompson. Other candidates, in no particular order, are Dr. Lloyd M. Hicks, E. Roy Smith, Frank Fata, Bob Clements, Frank Smith, J. R. Stroble, Edgar J. Cralle, and Dr. J. Edmund Kirby.

The votes are still coming in each day, and I've even had cards from Miami and Lefors. It's really gratifying to know so many people read my column.

ARE YOU having trouble with your waistline? Here is an article by Alicia Hart, NEA beauty editor, giving exercises to slim it down.

"The older woman, even if she's slender, is likely to develop that unattractive "spart tire" look around the waistline, unless she exercises faithfully each day to prevent it.

"If you've been doing general exercises regularly, but not specific waistline exercises, you may also encounter excess flesh under the shoulder blades which means you need exercise for the trunk as well as the waistline.

"For the waistline, try these two exercises: First, clasp your hands over your head. Bend the trunk to the left and then to the right. Then, with hands still clasped over your head, make a circle with the upper part of your body. At the same time, lean forward and to the right, then as far back as possible, then lean to the left.

"This is a good waistline-whittler, too. Lie on your face with a pillow under your stomach. Place your hands behind your head. Get someone to hold your feet down. Then, raise your head and shoulders slowly, and as far as possible off the bed. Hold it there and then slowly lower your head and shoulders.

"Now for the trunk exercises. Stand erect, and on your toes with one foot in front of the other. Hold a stick in both hands and raise it high over your head. Stretch the stick as high above your head as you can manage and stretch your body up and walk slowly about the room on your toes.

"This next exercise is good for both the trunk and the waistline. Stand with your feet slightly apart, your arms outstretched. Swing your arms and upper part of your body as far to the right as possible, then to the left. Do this ten times, keeping feet flat on the floor. And don't move your hips."

Twentieth Century Allegro Given Talk On Meeting Laws

The Twentieth Century Allergo club met recently in the home of Mrs. John Frisby, 2137 N. Russell, with Mrs. Bill Waters as co-hostess. It was the group's first meeting of the year.

Mrs. Carlton Nance was guest speaker, introduced by Mrs. Robert Karr, program leader. During her speech on parliamentary procedure, she pointed out that parliamentary law is based on the assumption that rights should be recognized. Meetings will move faster and each member will feel free to express herself if parliamentary law is practiced correctly, she advised. Mrs. Nance concluded by outlining the basic rules for procedure and explaining their execution.

The program was followed by a discussion period.

During the business session, led by Mrs. J. W. Graham, president, it was decided to enter the Beta Sigma Phi table setting contest again this year.

Members present were Mmes. Joe Black, Don Cain, William Craig, George Cree, Jr., Bill Davis, Price Dosier, Jr., James Evans, Creel Grady, Raymond Harrah, Jr., Charles Hickman, Jr., Sam Pruitt, J. E. Thompson, G. M. Walls; and Mrs. William Greiner, a new member.

Baby-Fine Hair Needs Proper Styling For Neat, Well-Groomed Appearance

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Baby-fine hair is fine on babies. But women who possess it lament it as a real problem. It won't stay put, won't hold a curl, rarely looks neat and well-groomed.

Yet, very fine hair need not be a major problem, according to James Ceasar, New York hair stylist, who suggests making the most of what there is. The right cut is very important to any texture of hair, but especially to fine hair to make it appear fuller.

Proper shaping and blending of the ends will create a feeling of thickness and body. The stylist who cuts your hair must study each strand of hair in order to decide what length he will cut the hair to encourage a natural curl. He believes that the proper length of fine hair is from an inch to an inch and a half.

Mr. Caesar has an important tip for fine-haired woman whose hair is limp and really needs a permanent — don't get one with a curl that's too tight. Be certain the permanent you are getting is one that's suited to the texture of your hair.

According to Mr. Caesar, the most important thing a woman should know in reference to her hair is what to do after she leaves her hair stylist. To fluff out fine hair, he suggests running the comb lightly over the hair, keeping it in the same direction it was set. Follow this by simply patting the hair, lightly, all over.

Treble Clef Group Has Music Meeting

Miss Edith Kral was program leader for the meeting of the Treble Clef Club recently in the City Club Room. Her subject, "Music and the Dance," was illustrated with recordings and piano selections.

Piano selections were "Turkey in the Straw," Guron, played by Mrs. H. A. Yoder; "Suite No. 2 in B Minor" by Bach, played by Miss Judith Baer; and "Mountain Valley Memory" by Kilpatrick, played by Mrs. John Gill.

The music presented shared at least two basic elements, Miss Kral pointed out. They were a melody that would catch or hold attention, and a definite rhythm.

"Since dancing and singing are such deeply-rooted human impulses, and among all people are so close to the life of the folk, it was natural that each nation should develop its own musical idiom, as characteristic as its own spoken language," she advised. "The great composers often drew inspiration from this source."

During the business meeting preceding the program, Ray Luper of Lefors was elected director of the choral group of the club. Mrs. Bob Getty and Miss Carol Lawrence were voted in as new members. Two visitors, Mrs. Al Metz and Mrs. E. L. Hawkins, were introduced to the group.

Hostesses were Mmes. A. H. Doucette, John Hankins, John Branham, and Fay Dellis Adams.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Roger's Uncle Fred got married last winter. This fall when he brought his bride to visit Roger's parents, it was their first chance to get acquainted with her.

Though his parents liked her, Roger didn't have much use for his new aunt — and this feeling in him made the visit rather difficult for everyone.

What happened was that soon after Aunt Marge arrived, she offered to read Roger a story. It was about a dragon, a princess and a poor gardener's son.

When Aunt Marge read the description of the princess's beauty, she made her voice go all awed and impressed. When the gardener's son talked, she assumed a baritone for his words.

Finally, she arrived at the story's climax. In a sepulchral voice, Aunt Marge said, "There was no sound. But Lance could smell smoke. He knew that the fire-breathing dragon was close at hand. . . ."

It was at this point that Roger lost all use for Aunt Marge. He pushed her to get off her lap. He said, "I hafta go and see my rabbit."

Does his reaction seem ungrateful? ?It won't if we think about it a minute.

We object to someone's telling us how they feel about the movie or the book or the program we are trying to concentrate on, don't we? Of course. We feel that the other person should keep his feelings to himself, so that we can have a chance to experience our own.

Well, that's what Roger felt when Aunt Marge was reading him a story. He felt it was intrusion to impose her own feelings about the story upon him in the form of overdramatization.

When we strain to exaggerate the dramatic values of a story we are reading to a child, it is because we are uncertain of ourselves with him.

We overdramatize because we fear we can hold his interest in no other way. Like Roger's Aunt Marge, we want him to like us. We are reading to him, not to give him pleasure, but to get his admiration.

He always knows this. And very much resents being distracted from an interesting fictional situation. He finds our need for admiration tiresome. He doesn't want to be bothered by it at tense moments in enchanted forests.

The simpler we are when we read to children, the better they like it. In our refusal to overstress the story's drama, they sense respect for them. They know that our refusal is recognition of another imagination quite capable of stressing drama for itself.

Mayor Tom Rose Signs Proclamation For B&PW Week

According to an official proclamation by Mayor Tom Rose, Business and Professional Women's Week will begin Monday. The event will be celebrated throughout the nation.

The proclamation states that "the organization of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., is contributing much toward the development of business and industry," and "the Pampa B&PW Club, as an affiliate of the National Federation, is likewise contributing much toward the improvement and progress of business, industry and civic needs of the community."

Present at the signing was Mrs. Frank Lard, chosen Business Woman of the Year by the executive board of the local club.

A charter member of the club, Mrs. Lard helps her husband run the El Ranch motel. President of the Pampa B&PW Club in 1940, she is serving as educational chairman this year. She has been treasurer four times and has held every position in the club.

Her other activities include being a past president of the American Legion Auxiliary, vice-president of Altrusa Club, serving two years on the Salvation Army board and one year on the Tuberculosis Association board, being active in Girlstown work and in working for the First Christian Church and Sunday School.

RUTH MILLET

Quote from a magazine article by Mercelene Cox: "Harmony between mother-in-law and daughter-in-law may be gaged by the number of recipes each uses from the other's files."

That is one way of telling if mother-in-law and daughter-in-law are really friendly, but I believe there are other ways this friendship can be gaged. Here are some of mine:

If the two can speak of each without adding a belittling phrase. Remarks such as: "Jennie is a dear sweet girl, but . . ." or "Mother Green is a remarkable woman, but. . ." are examples of what I mean. They are give-aways of jealousy.

If mother-in-law can pinch-hit as baby sitter without complaint from either side. Sometimes daughtre-in-law tells her friends how mother-in-law spoils the children, and mother-in-law tells her friends how much better the children mind her. All signs the two don't get along as well as they should.

If both are generous with their praise in front of the male members of the family. Husband and son must often bear the brunt of disagreements between his mother and his wife.

If they take obvious pride in each other's accomplishments, the way a mother and daughter do naturally.

If they can be frank with each other so that each feels she really knows the other.

If they enjoy shopping together. They won't if they are afraid of each other. Then they don't want it known where they bought this or how much they paid for that.

In just such small ways as those does the true relationship between a mother-in-law and daughter-in-law come to light.

Deena Ann Francis Has Birthday Party

Miss Deena Ann Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buck Francis, 1121 Neel Road, was complimented with a party in her home on her fifth birthday Wednesday.

Decorations were clusters of balloons, and each guest was presented a crepe paper party hat as a favor. For entertainment, the group watched television.

The serving table was covered with a ruffled blue crepe paper cloth. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. The cake was covered with pink icing and decorated in blue, with five blue candles.

Attending the party were Hope Cliett, Carolyn Gobin, Dennis Jones, Diane Ellis, Darla Ellis, Bruce Francis, the honoree and Brenda Joyce St. Pierre of Floydada.

New Hair Shades Have Depth, Tone

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK — UP — Hair-coloring has come a long way since the first woman dared to use a henna rinse. Now, her crowning glory has taken on the colors of something to eat or drink.

The National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists is out with a long list of new shades — some bold, some subtle, but all a far cry from nature.

Start with one of the bolder colors — called iced lime. It's pale green, reminiscent of a soda fountain concoction. It is recommended only for the self-assured woman who has both time and money to spend on upkeep, according to Miss Bernice Corbet, a Kansas City, Mo., beautician and member of the association's hair fashion committee.

Pink Another Shade

Miss Corbet, who at the time of this interview, wore pale blonde, also mentioned a new shade called pink champagne.

This looks like the bubbly beverage, and also about the same shade as the pink cotton candy you buy at carnivals. This, too, is suggested only for the woman with daring.

"The new colors have more depth and tone," Miss Corbet said. "So do the new fashion colors. . . so the days of the pale and wan blonde are gone. The beiges and golden tones are back."

Among the gold tones is one called golden apricot. More along the lines of burnished orange is another shade — called mango, and the shade of the ripe fruit.

Still in the edible class is eggplant, a deep hue for the woman who's bored with plain black or brown locks but doesn't want to bleach.

Jewels Into Act

The association didn't get all the new colors from the fruit and vegetable world. Some were inspired by jewelry — star sapphire, topaz, amethyst, and smoldering oriental ruby. This last tone is deeper than auburn, but minus any trace of orange seen in some of the red shades.

There are two colors left for the woman who insists on soft color—moonlight mist, a gray-blue shade, and orchid mist, which leans to the lavender.

Incidentally, the hairdressers, have their own variation of Dior's "flat look." They are pushing the "plateau look" in new coiffures—hair arranged with height and bulk at the temple, but flat as a mesa across the top of the head.

Newest Cosmetics Give Dracula Look!

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 — UP — These are the times that try woman's credulity, when she is asked to believe that her cold cream was tested with a Geiger counter and that her face powder is turning green.

Don't you believe it? Well, as they say on the party line, we're only repeating what we heard. Also, in some cases, what we saw with our very own eyes.

The Geiger counter test, aimed at making us all radiantly clean, not radioactive, was conducted in the cosmetic laboratories of Dorothy Gray.

Shows Cleaning Power

They simply added a radioactive solution to a batch of dust, make up and other particles inclined to cling to the skin, the chemist who supervised the tests said nonchalantly, as if it happened every day.

A girl who obviously was instilled with the spirit of this atomic age volunteered her face, and the tests began. The Geiger counter showed which cream took off the radioactive dust most thoroughly.

Now about that green face powder. That's been seen in the flesh, so to speak. Lilly Dache, a dynamic French designer, is behind this. At her latest fashion show she not only had models wearing green face powder. But also mauve and gold.

More Seductive?

The reaction varies considerably. Miss Dache thinks green face powder gives a girl a lovely translucent look.

"It makes her look much more seductive," she said enthusiastically.

A spectator described the effect as "a very pretty Dracula look."

Newly-Wed Couple Feted With Shower

A miscellaneous shower held recently in the home of Mrs. John Harnly, east of city, complimented Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nelson Jr., recently married. Co-hostesses were Mmes. C. W. Bowers, Eunice Holland, Clara Gunn, Carl English, Albert Cook, Herbert Coker and Harnly.

The bride was presented a corsage of blue and white carnations by the hostesses. Guests were registered by Miss Mary Ann Harvey, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss Jeannine Harvey, another niece, served the punch. Assisting with the serving and background music were Misses Sarah Lou Harnly, Caroline Ford, Jowannah English and Mary Ann Kelly.

Guests attending and sending gifts were Messrs. and Mmes. George Philpott, Roy Jones, Frank W. Kelley, J. K. McKenzie, Lona Talley, John Arrington, Henry English, W. R. Holland, Jim Philpott; Jay Evans, Floyd McLaughlin, Sam Bowers, Paul Bowers, G. M. Walls, Sam Arnett, Martin Stubbe, W. L. Rowntree, Arch Chism, Chess Terry, Lewis W. Tarpley, Clyde Gray, Raymond V. Johnson, Oscar Johnson, Laurence Berry, D. D. Payne, Marvin Stevens, Lloyd Harvey, Albert Cook, Carl English, Herbert Coker and John Harnly; Mmes. John B. Williams, W. D. Stockstill, C. C. Stockstill, Hettie Seiber, C. B. Bond, Clara Gunn, Eunice Holland and C. W. Bowers; Messrs. Robert Pickens and Harry Nelson Sr.; and Sammy, Jimmy and Jerry Bond.

Veal Casserole With Biscuits Gives Delicious Meal And Is Economical

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Veal is more plentiful now. We in our house enjoy it and perhaps you'd like to have two of our recipes.

Veal Loin Chops

Four veal loin chops, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 cups cranberries, ½ cup honey, ¼ teaspoon cloves, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg.

Brown chops in a heavy skillet. Season. Mix cranberries with honey and spices. Pour over chops. Cover and cook slowly, for 35 to 40 minutes.

Veal Casserole With Biscuits
(Yield: 2 to 3 servings)

One cup diced roast veal, 1 cup cubed, raw potatoes (1-2 inch), 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoon chopped onion, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 1 can condensed cream of celery or mushroom soup, ½ teaspoon salt, pepper.

Brown potatoes lightly in butter. Add onion and continue browning. Add green pepper, veal and soup. Heat. Season. Pour into a casserole. Cover with drop biscuit dough, shredded cheese, buttered crumbs, or crushed cornflakes. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes to bake biscuits or brown topping.

Drop Biscuits

One and one-half tablespoons shortening, ¾ cup sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 5 tablespoons milk.

Cut shortening into flour which has been sifted with baking powder and salt, until the mixture is the consistency of corn meal. Gradually mix in enough milk to form a soft dough. Drop by tablespoons onto top of veal mixture.

Women In The Church

Miss Evangeline M. Thillayampalam, one of the leading women educators of India, holder of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy degrees from Columbia University, New York, has been elected principal of Isabella Thoburn College, Lucknow, India. In this post she succeeds the late Dr. Sarah Chakko. Currently Dr. Thillayampalam is principal of the noted Lady Doak College in Madura, India, and previous to that she had been principal of Chundukuli Girls College in Jaffna, Ceylon; and in 1932 an exchange lecturer in biology at Wellesley College, Mass. Dr. Thillayampalam, the daughter of Indian Christian parents, was educated at missionary secondary schools, and then at Isabella Thoburn College, Muir College of Allahabad University. From Allahabad she won the degrees of Bachelor of Science and Master of Science, earning a scholarship and the Queen Victoria Jubilee Medal. She then joined the faculty of Isabella Thoburn College as professor of biology, serving there for three years until she was named a Fisher Fellowship Scholar and came to the United States for graduate studies.

Among the newer phases of the Young Women's Christian Association program trying to meet changed social conditions in America is the development of family participation in line with the present trend which finds men and women working shoulder to shoulder in factory and office and in the home, too. In one YWCA, family in the summer teen-age camp swims grew out of parent interest These were followed by family sings and a refreshment hour. In some Associations Y-teens themselves were the initiators of family participation in the Association program. In others the teen-agers sponsored panel discussions on parent-child problems. Emphasis is given too, to employed women, in the YWCA program. The YW points out that more women are working than ever before, 55 per cent of thest 19,000,000 being under 35 years of age, 22 per cent under 25. Of those who work, only 30 per cent are single — thus creating new avenues of service by such organizations as the YWCA, it is explained.

GLANCING BACKWARD

(From the Files of The Pampa Daily News)

ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

Mrs. F. W. Shotwell and Mrs. Helen Bonninger, Borger, Red Cross executive secretaries, left for Austin and a meeting with their colleagues from all communities in Texas participating in federated fund drives.

Junior Fullback Harold Lewis moved to within two yards of the lead in individual rushing among the Pampa Harvesters squad.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Pampans were called on by Mayor C. A. Huff to take an active part in the nation's observance of Fire Prevention Week.

Women from the Central Baptist Church who attended the school of instruction at the River Road Church in Amarillo were Mmes. A. P. Holligan, Sam Batters, G. C. Stark, Vera Key and Roberta Wood.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Pampa police were searcing for clues regarding the robbery of the D. V. Burton filling station on South Cuyler.

A covered-dish luncheon was held for members of the Fidelis Class of the Central Baptist Church in the home of Mrs. C. L. Reeves, 211 Nelson.

One of the few consumer items not affected by high prices is the book match. Today — as 50 years ago — most tobacco shops hand them out "free" to customers.

Heroic Pilot Credited With Saving Crew

FT. BRAGG, N.C., Oct. 8—UP—The pilot of a crippled C-119 Flying Boxcar and an heroic Army medic Thursday were credited with keeping down the death toll in the crash of the plane into a barracks construction area.

The pilot and co-pilot were killed and 12 others, including two civilian workmen, were injured when a burning engine exploded Wednesday as the pilot attempted to land the disabled plane in a street.

Survivors of the crash said they believed that only the skill of the pilot, 1st Lt. L. W. Wyatt, 36, of Sedgewick, Kan., kept the death toll as low as it was. They said he did a "miraculous job" of bringing the plane down.

Other survivors said they owed their lives to Pvt. Gerald E. Wilson, of Lancaster, Pa., who escaped from the flaming wreckage and then returned to rescue his fellow passengers.

Killed with Wyatt in the crash was Lt. F. M. Fulton, 25, of Southern Pines, N.C.

Tug Of War Looms Over German Arms

BONN, Germany, Oct. 8 —UP— A gigantic East - West tug-of-war for control of Germany's potential military power developed Thursday.

In London, Paris and Bonn Western statesmen opened their drives for parliamentary approval of the London conference decisions. These would rearm 500,000 West Germans for the defense of West Europe in what British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden warned is the continent's last chance to shore up its defenses and assure continued American support.

Against their efforts were arrayed Russia's powerful propaganda appeals to the Germans themselves, and to opposition elements in Europe, to abandon the London agreement, discuss free German elections, end the occupation of Germany and reunify the country — all on Soviet terms.

The developments in the growing struggle for control of Europe's future included:

1. A warning by Eden that Europe must carry out the London agreements on German rearmament or face American withdrawal of its troops from Europe.

2. In Paris Premier Pierre Mendes-France went before a special session of the national assembly prepared to stake the future of his government on his appeal for approval of the London decisions.

3. In Bonn the strong Socialist opposition called for a new Big Four conference with Russia on reunification of divided Germany before West Germany ratifies the London agreements.

Margaret To Stump For Demos

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8 — UP— Margaret Truman, daughter of the former President, will campaign in behalf of the Democratic nominee to Congress from her home district, it was announced Thursday.

A spokesman for George Christopher, Amoret, Mo., running for Congress in the fourth Missouri district, said Miss Truman would head the "Youth for Christopher" campaign and was expected to make several appearances at party rallies in Christopher's behalf.

William Poindexter, district chairman of the Young Democrats, said Miss Truman accepted the post by telephone from New York. Recently she had been quoted as saying no candidate had asked her help in the campaign.

Church News

The official board of ST. PAUL METHODIST CHURCH will meet Tuesday. The commissions will meet in separate groups from 7 to 8 p.m., followed by a meeting of the entire board.

The church has been chosen by KGNC-TV as a studio church for Oct. 17. There will be no church or Sunday School in the church that day. A letter will be mailed this week to all church members and friends with an information card to be mailed back stating if they will go to Amarillo to the studio for the telecast.

Tickets are now on sale for the second annual mission banquet. Bennie Waller, Bill Matejowsky and Mrs. John Walton are in charge of ticket sales, which can be purchased in church office. All proceeds go to the missions. The nursery will be open, and special entertainment is planned for the children.

The meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of ST. MATTHEW'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH has been postponed until 10 a.m. Oct. 20.

The Bishop Seaman Guild will hold a rummage sale from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 15 and 16, at 514 S. Cuyler.

Mrs. R. R. McCartor has been appointed new directress of the Altar Guild. The position was formerly filled by Mrs. Carl Johnson.

The church will remain open each day from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and the tower and entrance lights will be on each evening from 6 to 10 p.m.

Plans are underway for the annual School of Missions of the FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH to be held Oct. 17-22. "Home Missions" will be the theme. There will be a night devoted to the following missionary work: Hazel Green Academy, All - Peoples' Church, Jarvis Christian College, Yakimaw Indian Mission, and Mexican Christian Institute.

Robert Payne, high school music teacher and director of the A Cappella Choir, will serve again this year as choir director.

Coming events include Layman Day, Oct. 17; Appreciation Banquet for Church School Teachers, Oct. 25; and International Convention Disciples of Christ, Miami, Fla., Oct. 25-31.

Harvest Week at the CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH will end Sunday. Theme for the event is "These Two Go Together," with emphasis on stewardship and evangelism. Rev. W. F. Vanderburg of the Hobart Street Baptist Church is teaching an adults' study course, "Found Faithful," and stewardship study courses are being held for all age groups.

In addition to the courses, Rev. Ennis Hill has been preaching each evening at 8:15. Saturday a stewardship film, "All For Him," will be shown at 7 p.m. The public is invited to these programs.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of HARRAH METHODIST CHURCH will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Fellowship Hall. The third lesson on "Jesus' Teachings Concerning Women" will be taught by Mrs. Annie Neel.

Several WSCS members plan to attend a district meeting in Shamrock Oct. 15.

An Intermediate Methodist Youth Fellowship group was organized Sunday with 12 young people present. Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Travis Hunter will be sponsors.

Officers of the Senior MYF were installed by Rev. R. T. Dyess during the adult service Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cooke will be sponsors.

A young missionary, Bill Dyall, who has just completed a year in language school in Costa Rica, will speak during daily services this week in the CENTRAL BAPTIST CHURCH. Time for services is 7:30 p.m. He will also preach at both services Sunday.

The missionary completed his studies at Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville, Ky., in May, 1953. He and his wife, Edith, were appointed by the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board to serve in Guatemala and will leave for there in a few weeks. While in the States, they are visiting college campuses and student conventions enlisting other young people for mission work.

During the morning worship service the church will formally present the couple with an automobile for their work in Guatemala.

Sunday will be Layman's Day at the FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH. During the 11 a.m. service, Dr. E. Douglas Carver will preach on "God Looking For A Man."

For the 7:30 p.m. service, C. G. Humphries, an Amarillo lawyer and president of the Amarillo Associational Brotherhood, will speak. Special music will be provided by a men's quartet, under the direction of Mack Hiatt.

Attendance for the Sunday evening service is sponsored by the men's classes and the brotherhood. Teachers of the men's classes are Dr. Carver, Everyman's; Calvin Whatley, fishermen's class; D. M. Scalef, fellowship class; Gordon Bayless, YMBC; J. W. Flynt, triangle; Harold Cradduck, Berean; and Clifton McNeely, friendly fellows.

Brotherhood officers are J. E. Thompson, president; Don Cain, program vice-president; H. A. Doggett, activities vice-president; John Pitts, membership vice-president; and Reuben Hilton, secretary.

The Training Union revival begins Sunday. Guest teachers will be Mrs. Hudmon Taylor, Mrs. Marguerite Davis, Mrs. P. R. McMeans, Mrs. J. F. Collings, all of the State Training Union department, Dallas. It will be a week of study for the entire membership with classes from 7 to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday for every age group.

Rev. Ronald Hubbard of Snyder will fill the pulpit of the FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH for the 11 a.m. service Sunday. Rev. Hubbard is a candidate to fill the vacancy created by the resignation in July of Dr. Douglas Nelson, pastor.

An open house will be held from 3 to 4:30 p.m. Sunday in the educational building to give the congregation an opportunity to meet Rev. and Mrs. Hubbard and family.

The monthly covered-dish supper will be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday followed by a congregational business meeting at 7:30 to consider the calling of a minister to the pulpit. The supper has been changed from its previously scheduled day of Wednesday so Rev. William Everheart of Amarillo, moderator, can be present to lead the meeting.

"God Calls the Signals" will be the sermon topic of Rev. Woodrow Adcock at the 8:45 a.m. and 10:55 a.m. services Sunday at the FIRST METHODIST CHURCH. At the evening service, his topic will be "God Calls You To Serve."

A special anthem, "This Is My Father's World," will be presented by the Junior Choir at the 8:45 a.m. service. "Oh Thou the Central Orb" will be sung by the Sanctuary Singers at the 10:55 a.m. service, and "Lift Every Voice and Sing" by the Chapel Singers (intermediate choir) at the evening service, which is broadcast from 7:45 to 8:30 over station KPDN.

The Official Board, which met Monday, approved the launching of a "Go to Church" campaign in co-operation with "Go to Church Campaign" sponsored by the Kiwanis Club for all of the churches of the city. A goal of 1000 people at the four services each week was set. Fifty-four members of the board were present. Dr. E. S. Williams, chairman, presided. Reports were received from the four commissions and from committee chairmen.

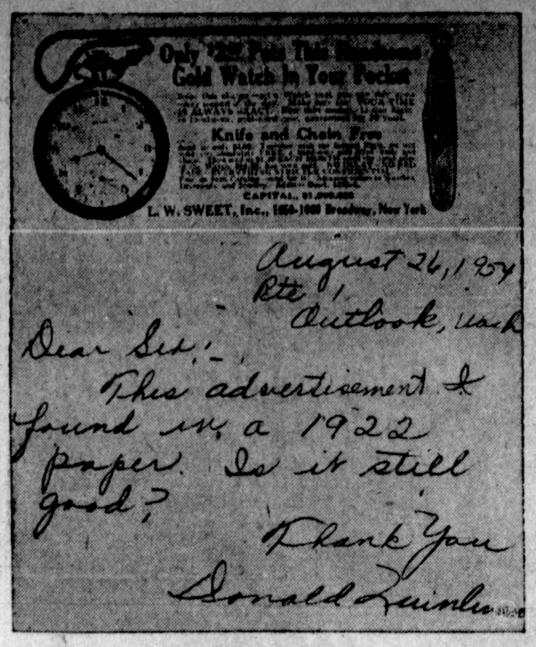

Some of the achievements for the past four months were as follows: (1) the Church Sanctuary has been air-conditioned; (2) an increase in Sunday School and church attendance; (3) four services of worship being conducted by the pastor each week; (4) $3,400 has been paid on the Educational Building Debt, reducing the balance to $8,000; (5) 44 new members have been received into the church; (6) the church has increased its 'giving to World Service and has adopted its own missionary, Boyd Reedy, who is in Japan; (7) all financial obligations are paid to date; (8) total contributions amounting to $23,000 for the first four months, of the church year. Dr. W. Calvin Jones was commended for his work as chairman of the Commission on Finance, and he was instructed to lead the "Go to Church Campaign" during October.

The ever-availability of the healing power of the Christ, Truth, will be brought out at CHRISTIAN SCIENCE services Sunday.

"Are Sin, Disease, And Death Real?" is the subject of the lesson-sermon. Selections to be read from the Bible include the account of Christ Jesus' healing of the leper as given in Matthew (8: 1-3):

"When He was come down from the mountain, great multitudes followed Him. And, behold, there came a leper and worshipped Him, saying, Lord, if Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean. And Jesus put forth His hand, and touched Him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately his leprosy was cleansed."

Among the passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (142: 31): "Truth is God's remedy for error of every kind, and Truth destroys only what is untrue. Hence the fact that, to-day, as yesterday, Christ casts out evils and heals the sick."

OLD AS GOOD AS NEW

Donald Quinewan, of Outlook, Wash., spotted the ad, top, in a 1922 New York paper. It showed an Elgin watch, priced at $14.98, which could be purchased for $2 down, with the knife and chain thrown in free. Donald wanted to know—"Is the ad still good?" Finlay Straus, New York jewelers, successors to L. W. Sweet, decided the ad was good. They sent the watch, knife and key chain to Donald with their best wishes. The cost—$2 down and $1.30 for 10 months.

Polio Spreads In Tallahassee

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 8 —UP—Acting Gov. Charley E. Johns sought emergency federal aid Thursday to fight a polio epidemic which has stricken 227 persons and possibly hundreds more here this year.

Thirty-nine new cases were reported within a 24-hour period Wednesday, among them a physician who was the fifth member of his family to become ill. There have been no reported deaths.

Dr. Bernard Rosenblum, who helped give gamma globulin shots to some 20,000 persons earlier in the epidemic was admitted to the polio ward of the Tallahassee Memorial hospital where his three children are being treated. His wife had the disease but returned home Sunday.

Johns wired U.S. Surgeon Gen. Dr. Leonard Scheele, "new cases of polio are being reported daily at an alarming rate. Our resources are not adequate to cope with this . . . rapid and spreading epidemic."

Prison Guard Strike Flops

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Oct 8 —UP—Indiana state prison officials called a guards' strike a "flop" Thursday and told National Guardsmen they wouldn't be needed to handle 2,300 convicts.

The walkout appeared near collapse after only 16 hours, when prison officials announced that 44 guards showed up for work on Wednesday night's shift—three more than are ordinarily needed.

Leaders of the independent guards union, however, retorted that only 12 men had reported for work and that the strike would keep going.

Santa Fe Chief Continues To Be Plagued By Mishaps

GENE AUTRY, Okla., Oct. 8 —UP— The Santa Fe Texas Chief struck a stalled truck at a crossing near here Thursday and four diesel units and three baggage cars left the tracks but no one was injured.

Occupants of the truck jumped to safety before the train reached the crossing. The truck was carrying a bulldozer. The locomotive knifed through the truck, knocking the truck cab to one side and the bulldozer to the other.

A passenger in the second car behind the baggage cars, Mrs. Ola Shockley of Beaumont, Tex., praised the engineer for bringing the train to a smooth and safe stop.

"We couldn't even feel the jolt, although the locomotives were off the track," she said.

She said none of the passengers was injured and the railroad promptly arranged transportation by bus to Fort Worth. Air Force buses from the nearby Ardmore air base shuttled passengers to Ardmore.

Mrs. Shockley had been visiting relatives at Ada and boarded the Texas Chief at Pauls Valley.

The mishap was the second in the past year for the Texas Chief in this area. The train collided with an oilfield truck near Moore, Okla., Nov. 13, 1953 and several persons were injured.

Another Santa Fe train was derailed at Gage, Okla., about 210 miles from here on another Santa Fe route, Wednesday.

Come to Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

WESLIE MICKEY, Preacher
Church of Christ, Mary Ellen at Harvester

WHY BE A CHRISTIAN?

Man is a religious being. The soul must have an object of adoration. It is hungry for the devine, thirsty for the heavenly, and yearns for the immortal.

This interest is suppressed or distorted in many. Satan perverts the truth, deceives people, and supplants holy desires with sensual appetities. But Satan cannot save. His rule is ruin. Christ alone can save and satisfy. Unto this end He came, lived, taught, died, revived, and is glorified. "Neither is there salvation in any other; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts 4:12. Become a Christian and CONQUOR SATAN.

Why be a Christian? One may say, "Can not one keep clean, enjoy many blessings, and render much service without being a Christian?" Yes, but what of the judgment? It is not all of life to live, nor all of death to die. If man was a mere beast and never sinned, perhaps he could be content to live in pleasure and die as an animal. But man sins and must face the judgment. "It is appointed unto men once to die, and after this the judgement." Heb. 9:27. Man's life is in need of cleansing. Therefore, HE OWES IT TO HIMSELF TO BECOME A CHRISTIAN.

Then, too, every man has an influence. Society is moved, molded and controlled by the thoughts, words and deeds of individuals. "For none of us liveth unto himself, and no man dieth unto himself." Rom. 14:7. No man has given his best service unto others until he has first given his soul to God by Christ. Therefore, HE OWES IT TO SOCIETY TO BECOME A CHRISTIAN.

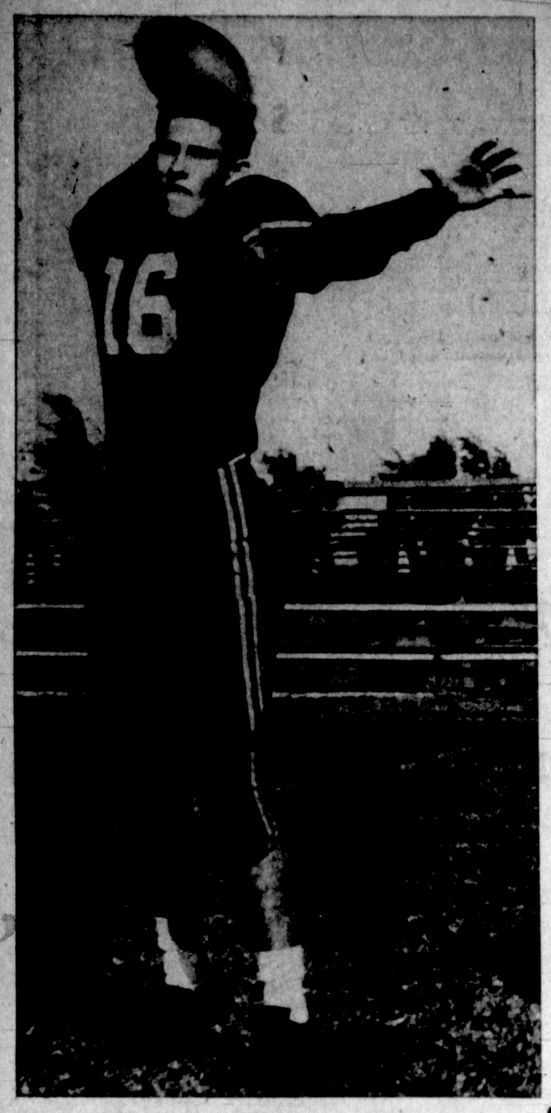

In spite of man's waywardness, God has always loved him. The Bible relates how he sent holy men again and again with messages of love, warnings of disaster, and exhortations to repentance. Finally, God made the supreme sacrifice in sending His own Son, the Lord Jesus Christ, to live and die for fallen man. Think of the price He paid that you might be a Christian. Try to understand something of the length and breadth, the height and depth of the boundless love of God and you will know that MAN OWES IT TO HIS GOD TO BE A CHRISTIAN.

Harvesters Seek 6th Straight Over Sandies

PROMISING PASSER—Buddy Sharp, who'll start at quarterback for the Fighting Harvesters tonight against the Amarillo Sandies at Amarillo, may fill the air with footballs as the Green and Golders seek to make it six in a row over the Sandies. Sharp is a junior and scales 145 pounds. (News Photo)

Rivals Clash In Amarillo Tonight

By BUCK FRANCIS
Pampa News Sports Editor

The Fighting Harvesters will be gunning for their sixth straight victory over the Amarillo Sandies tonight at Amarillo Stadium, kickoff time being 8 p.m.

A capacity crowd of more than 15,000 fans are expected to witness the District 1-AAAA contest. The crowd will include about 3,000 fans from Pampa.

The Harvesters will go into the game as underdogs. Amarillo has the home field advantage, more experience, more depth and will outweigh the Harvesters slightly.

But the Green and Golders aren't being counted out and a nip-and-tuck contest looms.

Amarillo hasn't beaten the Harvesters since 1948, the Harvesters having won the last five games played between the two arch rivals.

Both clubs are in fair physical shape. Only one off each squad will be missing tonight, tackle Ben Sturgeon of the Harvesters and tackle Tommy Pace of Amarillo.

Sturgeon, one of five returning Harvester lettermen, has been out all season with a broken foot suffered in a pre-season workout.

Pace received a knee injury two weeks ago that has failed to respond to treatment.

Both the Harvesters and Sandies will carry 2-1 records into tonight's contest.

The Harvesters own victories over Austin of El Paso (32-13) and Paschal of Fort Worth (25-6). The lone loss was a 20-13 verdict to the Vernon Lions.

The Sandies have won over Paschal (25-7) and Plainview (32-21). The only loss came at the hands of Capitol Hill, 6-0.

Two of the fastest backs in the state will be seen in action tonight in the Harvester-Sandie meeting. Bobby Crump is the Sandie speed demon while Harold Lewis is the Harvester speedster.

Both have been clocked under 10 seconds in the 100 yard dash. They have raced against each other several times in track, with each beating the other about the equal number of times.

The Sandies will pin a lot of hopes for victory with a passing attack featuring Bobby Powell.

SEASON RECORDS
HARVESTERS

The Harvesters also are apt to throw the ball a lot with Buddy Sharp doing the tossing. Sharp's passing has been improving since the start of the season. He has been hitting his receivers with pretty good consistency most of the season.

The Amarillo-Harvester tilt is one of the featured games of the District 1-AAAA slate tonight.

The feature game is the Odessa-Lubbock clash at Lubbock. In the other two games, Midland goes to San Angelo and Borger to Abilene.

The Midland-San Angelo game will pit two unbeaten 11s. These two teams are the only 1-AAAA teams left with unbeaten records.

Locke Wins Golf Tourney

SANDWICH, England, Oct. 8—UP—South Africa's Bobby Locke won the unofficial title of "champion of champions" Thursday when he won the Dunlop Masters professional golf tournament with an aggregate of 291. Harry Bradshaw of Portmarnock, was second at 294, while Peter Thomson, Australian holder of the British Open and match play titles, was third at 297.

RECKON THE HARVESTERS WILL DO what the Yankees failed to do when they take on the Amarillo Sandies tonight?

You'll recall the Yankees recently struck out in their bid for a sixth straight American League pennant.

Now, the Harvesters face a similar situation, that of making it six in a row over the Sandies.

The Harvesters, of course, will go into the game tonight as distinct underdogs. This department is about the only source that we've been able to find that is favoring the Harvesters.

But the Green and Golders have been the underdogs before and it doesn't seem to bother them. In fact, it's much better to be the underdog than the favorite.

Victories aren't based on forecasts, anyway. It's much better, of course, to be rated the underdog by every sports scribe in the country and then win the game.

If the Harvesters can pull the trick tonight, they'll be the first team in history to beat the Sandies six consecutive times. The Harvesters were the first to make it five in a row over the Sandies and here's hoping they'll be the first to make it six.

Prospect of a muddy field is out now. At least at this writing the sun was shining brightly which will likely dry the Amarillo Stadium turf off by tonight's kickoff time.

So, it looks like Sandie coach Bill Defee is going to get what he asked for — a dry field.

Well, we're anxiously awaiting the kickoff tonight as are thousands of other Harvester backers, including some 3,000 who'll be in the stands for the contest.

A COUPLA' NOTES ON EX-Harvesters:

We always like to pass along notes on ex-Harvester athletes who continue to do good upon leaving PHS.

Ed Dudley scored the only touchdown Thursday night to lead Texas A&M freshmen over TCU's frosh, 7-0. Dudley picked up 55 yards in 3 carries against the Wogs. His touchdown jaunt was a six-yarder. Dudley also added the point conversion.

Another 1953 Harvester gridder, Bob Prigmore, will start at a tackle slot for the Baylor freshmen against SMU's frosh tonight in Dallas.

DISTRICT 1-A STARTS its conference race tonight and before the first kickoff is made, here is our prediction of the race:

1. McLean.
2. Lefors.
3. Canadian.
4. White Deer
5. Memphis.
6. Clarendon.
7. Gruver.
8. Panhandle

In Wisconsin Battle

TV Fans To Keep Eye On Moegle

HOUSTON, Oct. 8—UP—If Rice has any luck at moving the ball against Wisconsin in the NCAA's television game of the week Saturday viewers are sure to be seeing plenty of the Nos. 47 and 60.

They are worn by Rice's talented All-America backfield candidate Dicky Moegle and the chunky little guard, Kenneth Paul, whose deadly blocking has sprung Moegle on most of his breakaway scoring junkets.

Moegle's No. 47 will be the one for TV fans to watch for as John (Pinky) Nisbet or Atchley Proctor engineer Coach Jess Neelly's standard T-formation attack.

The slender left halfback with the deceptive loping gait isn't any stranger to rabid TV grid fans. Many of them saw him personally score three touchdowns and pile up 265 yards on 11 plays—including the 95-yard run so rudely interrupted by the 12th-man, off-the-bench tackle by an Alabama player in last New Year's Day Cotton Bowl game.

Moegle's specialty is a sweep to the right with the 185-pound Paul pulling out of the line to open the gates to freedom with his blocking. It's up to Paul, usually, to decide whether the play is to go inside or out—depending on which way he can best take out the opposing end.

Although Rice splits its line occasionally, the quarterbacks never slide in split-T style.

If the ball isn't fed to Moegle, the man most likely to wind up with it on sweeps to the left or on quick-opening plays at the line will be Morris Stone (No. 31), who can and does any of the three positions across the top of the T.

The power play, which Rice exploited with Kosse Johnson a year ago, will be in the hands of either Jack Throckmorton, a crashing 210-pound sophomore, or Mac Taylor, a stocky 185-pound veteran who came into his own as Johnson's sub in the Cotton Bowl victory over Alabama.

Rice has used the forward pass only sparingly in its first two games, but Neely anticipates heightened aerial use against the touted Wisconsin forward wall. If so, Nisbet probably will be on the firing end and Moegle the target.

Cubs, Ponies Meet Tonight

By UNITED PRESS

Yearling gridders from Baylor and the University of Texas take the spotlight Friday night in the Southwest Conference's freshman competition with an 8 o'clock game at Temple.

Southern Methodist's Colts chalked up an impressive 31 to 7 victory over Paris Junior College Thursday at Dallas. The win was in contrast to the 1953 SMU frosh eleven's record of five losses.

Texas A&M's Fish opened the week's play with a 7 to 0 victory over Texas Christian's Wogs at Fort Worth Wednesday night, and Arkansas' freshmen will see their first action tomorrow night in an invasion of Little Rock Junior College. Rice will be idle until next Friday night, when the Owlets host SMU.

Southern Methodist displayed an awesome amount of backfield strength, with the five touchdowns being scored by as many players. Ray Masters ran 89 yards for one tally and Charley Jackson scampered 72 yards for another.

Lon Slaughter, Raleigh Harvey and Willard Dewveall notched the other six-pointers for the Colts, with Larry Beadle of Artesia, N. M., kicking one extra point.

Paris' Weldon McCord converted a sixth SMU scoring drive into the Dragons' only touchdown. He intercepted a pass in his own end zone and raced 94 yards before being caught from behind by Curtis Smith. A penalty put the ball on the one and Marvin Lay sneaked over.

Texas' Shorthorns will be banking on Walter Fondren, Houston Lamar's 1953 star who has been switched from a single wing tailback to a quarterback in Coach Ed Price's split-T formation.

Baylor beat five conference foes last year, knocking off the Shorthorns 21 to 7.

Bert Bell Issues Warning

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 8—UP—Commissioner Bert Bell, obviously nettled by cries of "dirty football," announced Thursday that National Football League players must abide by the unnecessary roughness rule or face disqualification. Bell, in a special directive, ruled that "any use of the forearms, elbows or knees shall be penalized under the unnecessary roughness rule or any striking of an opponent or malicious unnecessary roughness shall be penalized under the same rule and the player disqualified."

Chiefs Pull Even In Little Series

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 8—UP—The Syracuse Chiefs and the Louisville Colonels, tied at two victories each in the best-of-seven Little World Series, are expected to start John Sanford and Ike Delock, respectively, Friday night in the big fifth game.

The Colonels scored victories in the first two games at Louisville and appeared ready to sweep the series, but the Chiefs, their pitching staff all jumbled from the drawn out International League final playoffs, staged a fine comeback and scored two victories in a row to deadlock the series.

Thursday night, playing in their own backyard, the Chiefs scored only one run, but Jim Owens, the "rookie of the year" in the International League, hurled a brilliant two-hitter to gain the equalizer, 1 to 0.

Cards Trade Pitcher

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 8—UP—The St. Louis Cardinals announced Thursday they have traded pitcher Ben Flowers to the Cincinnati Reds for pitcher Ken Raffensberger.

Marciano Starts Tour

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Oct. 8—UP — Heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano begins an extensive tour of Midwest cities Monday during which he will referee and speak. A tentative trip to the Far East has been laid out for the champ when he returns from the Midwest junket. Manager Al Weill plans to take the champ to Manila, Sydney, Melbourne, New Zealand and the Fiji Islands.

Harlan Wins $34,717

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 8—UP—Charles Provost's Harlan, 18 to 1 in the betting, took the winner's share of $34,717 Thursday when he scored straight heat triumphs in the Kentucky Futurity of the Lexington trots. The victory raised Harlan's 1954 earnings to over $64,000. Pronto Boy finished second in both heats.

Liddle To Be Honored

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill., Oct. 8—UP—Lefty Don Liddle, New York Giants' pitcher who received credit for the Giants' fourth game triumph in the recent World Series with Cleveland, will be given a flashy automobile by home town friends and fans in brief ceremonies Saturday. The local city council announced it will name the city ball park "Don Liddle Park" in his honor.

Grandmother's trick with stale bread: put it in a paper bag, sprinkle it with water, twist the top closed, and put it in a warm oven. While it's warm, it will seem fresh. When it cools, it will turn, like Cinderella, back to its stale self.

Civic Club Golf Tourney To Be Unreeled Sunday

The Annual Civic Club Golf Tournament will be unreeled Sunday on the Pampa Country Club course.

The Kiwanis Club, defending champions, is ram-rodding this year's tournament.

A fee of $3 for each player will cover the green fees and the banquet to be held Wednesday night, Oct. 13, at 7:30 p.m., at the Pampa Country Club.

Johnny Austin, Country Club pro, would like to have a tentative list of those who plan to participate in the tournament by Saturday night.

Clubs expected to take part in the tournament are the Lions, Rotary, JayCees, Kiwanis and Optimist.

Various handicaps and the rules have been set up:

A. Prizes for high and low net, high and low gross, and for certain designated other events will be awarded.

B. The Calloway Handicap System as follows will obtain: Gross 75-80, subtract worst hole; 80-90—subtract two worst holes; 90-100, subtract three worst holes; 100-110, subtract four worst holes; and 110-up, subtract five worst holes.

The following holes are prize holes:

No. 1 — longest fairway drive — move flag and write name at bottom.

No. 3 — closest ball to pin — move flag and write name at bottom.

No. 7 — more than three water balls receive a prize.

No. 14 — closest ball to pin — move flag and write name at bottom.

D. The following regulations are in effect:

No. 7 — All golfers over 60 may use the ladies' tee.

No. 9 — Tee up ball anywhere with wooden tee, except on green.

No. 10 — Tee up ball anywhere with wooden tee, except on green.

No. 15 — Talking and any ruse to disturb the oponent short of physical violence is permitted.

No. 16 — This hole will be played from tee to hole-out with the putter.

No. 18 — All putts are to be left-handed for right-handed golfers and right-handed for left-handed golfers.

The team trophy will be awarded the team with the lowest net score.

Tee-off time Sunday has been set for 12:30.

Kilgore Rallies To Nip Tarleton

KILGORE, Tex., Oct. 8—UP—The Kilgore Rangers, at one time trailing by 13 points, beat Tarleton State Thursday night 21 to 13 in a junior college football game.

The Rangers were troubled by fumbles, but their ground game proved decisive after they started holding onto the ball. They fumbled five times in the first half and lost the ball four times before their attack started clicking.

USC 13-Point Choice Over Frogs In Tonight's Feature

By JOHN GRIFFIN

Unbeaten Southern California is a solid 13-point favorite over Texas Christian, the team that almost upset national leader Oklahoma, in the feature of Friday night's arc-light program that starts off a big weekend of college football.

Miami of Florida, also unbeaten, is the pick by a whopping 20 points over winless Holy Cross in another intersectional battle Friday night, while other top games include Boston University - Fordham, and Denver-Montana.

Virtually all the big-name teams will swing into action Saturday when Oklahoma and Texas are rated even-money and Purdue, conqueror of Notre Dame, is a seven-point favorite over Duke in two of the best games, and Wisconsin is a 13-point choice over Rice in the nationally - televised intersectional game.

Southern California, one of the three unbeaten teams left on the Pacific Coast, rides into Friday night's fray with three wins in three starts and a growing reputation as a Rose Bowl possibility.

Upset Quite Possible

Texas Christian, on the other hand, will come under the lights at the Los Angeles coliseum with a record of only one win over Kansas against two defeats by Oklahoma and Arkansas. But folks remembering that the Horned Frogs had mighty Oklahoma beaten until Buddy Leake's 50-yard punt return set up an Oklahoma touchdown with only five minutes remaining must admit the possibility of a big upset.

Miami of Florida opened the season with a rout and then proved its class with an upset of Baylor. Holy Cross, however, lost to Dartmouth on a last-second pass and then went down before Colgate.

Oklahoma, which lost star quarterback Gene Calame in the Texas Christian game with a broken shoulder, appears for the first time without him in the big clash with Texas and thus the game is rated a toss-up. Texas has lost only to Notre Dame in three games.

Wisconsin, fresh from an upset of Michigan State, is unbeaten in two games and so is Rice. This one could be decided by the personal duel between All-America candidates Alan Ameche of Wisconsin (No. 35 on your TV screen) and Dickie Moegle of Rice (No. 47).

Other Games

Otherwise, here is how the Saturday program is shaping up:

Intersectionals—Rose Bowl hopeful Stanford and Lambert Trophy hopeful Navy, both unbeaten, are rated a toss-up in their first meeting in history; Southern Methodist has walloped Missouri five consecutive years but the odds-men call the once-beaten clubs even-Stephen; Alabama a heavy choice over a Tulsa team that is 0-3 and has given up 102 points; young Coach Terry Brennan is a 20-point pick to bring Notre Dame back from the Purdue disappointment to beat Pittsburgh.

Big Ten—Ohio State and Iowa ((each 1-0 in the league) will try to jump ahead by beating Illinois and Michigan respectively, while Michigan State (0-2) faces Indiana (0-1) without ace back Leroy Bolden, and Minnesota meets Northwestern in the first league game for each.

Southeastern — Once - beaten Sugar Bowl champ Georgia Tech heavy favorite over winless Louisiana State, while Auburn is a narrow seven-point pick over Kentucky and Mississippi State 13-point choice over Tulane.

Big Seven — Nebraska (1-0) a six-point pick to jump ahead of loop by beating Kansas State; Iowa State favored by one over Wichita in only game.

Skyline — Wyoming and Colorado A&M (each 1-0) meet with winner jumping ahead of league; Brigham Young faces Utah.

Southwest — Arkansas (1-0 after win over Texas Christian) is only even money against Baylor.

NOBODY MOVES THEM—Jack Ellena, left, 212 pounds of UCLA tackle, and Sam Palumbo, Notre Dame's 230-pound guard, are two linemen who pull the brick wall act whenever blockers try to shove them out. (NEA)

Stan The Man Put On Trading Block

By FRED DOWN
United Press Sports Writer

The Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates joined the Milwaukee Braves as "interested parties" Friday if Stan Musial, the National League's six-time batting champion, is up for trade or sale.

General Manager Dick Meyer of the St. Louis Cardinals revealed Thursday that he would consider including Musial in a deal — although he warned the "offer would have to be overpowering." Meyer also disclosed that Musial's name "was mentioned" in recent trade talks with the Braves.

The news that the 33-year-old slugger might be obtained brought immediate expressions of interest from Sid Mathews, director of player personnel for the Cubs, and Branch Rickey, general manager of the Pirates.

"If Musial is for sale, the Chicago National League ball club is interested," Mathews said. "I would consider either a cash or settlement."

"I would be surprised if any manager in the league would not be interested in Musial," Rickey said. "I don't want to comment further, however, until I hear from Meyer personally that Musial can be had."

Musial's name was tossed into the trade mart when the Braves approached the Cardinals in search of a left-handed hitting outfielder.

Musial, who hit .330 and drove in 126 runs last season, refused to be drawn into the discussion.

The Braves, with their pitching depth and the ability to toss either Andy Pafko or Hank Aaron into the deal for an outfield replacement for Musial, seem best equipped to tie up the most attractive package. In addition, the Braves are financially able to carry Stan's estimated $80,000 as a result of two consecutive record years in Milwaukee.

The Cubs, however, could lure the Cardinals with fireballer Bob Rush as the chief bait and the Pirates have two good young pitchers in Bob Friend and Vernon Law to interest the Cardinals.

The Cubs were the only club active Thursday, purchasing shortstop Ed Winceniek and outfielder Solly Drake from their Des Moines farm club in the Western League. Both hit .282 last season.

Huntsville Eyes 'Santa Claus Bowl'

HOUSTON, Oct. 8—UP—A Texas millionaire was scouting around Friday to see if he could send a high school football team to Alaska to play in a "Santa Claus Bowl."

The man considering becoming a Texas Santa Claus is William A. Smith, one of Houston's 132 millionaires. He said he figured he could send the Huntsville, Tex., Hornets to Anchorage for a game Oct. 23 for "about $10,000 or $15,000."

He was checking air transportation costs Friday to see if he was right.

The Huntsville team won the state Class AA title last season after 15 straight victories, but this season has a 2-2 record. The team has an open date Oct. 23 and Superintendent Joseph Griggs told sports columnist Frank Godsoe of the Houston Press the team could go to Alaska if somebody paid the bill.

The game was first proposed by a promoter, George Byer, who wrote to Godsoe. He said Anchorage had a fine team, but has only one rival in "Big Alaska" and wanted to tackle some team from "Big Texas" in the "first annual Santa Claus Bowl."

The Anchorage team is coached by Jim Cooper, formerly of Odessa, Tex.

Giants, Tribe Divide Biggest Series Melon

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—UP—The New York Giants and Cleveland Indians sliced up the biggest World Series melon in history Friday with a full share of $11,147 for the winners and $6,712 for the losers.

Commissioner Ford Frick revealed that the total players' pool for the 1954 series amounted to $881,763, including $83,000 from the pre-game television shows. The Giants and Indians split up 70 per cent of this sum on a 60-40 basis while the remainder was divided among the other first division teams in each league.

This year's winning and losing shares surpassed the previous record set last year when the New York Yankees received $8,230 each and the Brooklyn Dodgers got $6,178.

The Giants voted 30 full shares, three half shares, two one-third shares and voted 11 money gifts to players who were with the team only a short time. The Indians voted 34 full shares, one half share, four one-third shares and nine money gifts.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, who trailed the Giants to the wire, received full shares of $2,103 while the third-place Milwaukee Braves received full shares of $1,224 and the fourth-place Philadelphia Phillies $648.36.

No Southwest Conference 11 In Favorite Role This Week

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

Not a single Southwest Conference team will be in the favorite's (each 1-0 in the league) will try to gram that has Texas, Rice and Texas Christian going against three of the nation's top 10 teams and a tell-tale title game on the home front.

Wisconsin and Southern California were made 13-point favorites over Rice and Texas Christian, respectively, and 'ds were even on all other [illegible] involving conference teams.

Texas vs Oklahoma at Dallas.

SMU vs Missouri at Columbia, Mo.

Baylor vs Arkansas at Fayetteville.

Texas A&M vs Houston at Houston.

TCU, which scared the daylights out of Oklahoma, now the No. 1 team in the nation, two weeks ago, gets activities under way Friday night at Los Angeles against the nation's No. 8 team—Southern Cal.

The other games, including Texas' big date with Oklahoma in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, will be afternoon affairs on Saturday, except Texas A&M and Houston will be playing under the lights.

While the intersectional games will be of special interest, the other loop clubs will watch with more than usual interest that Baylor-Arkansas get together at Fayetteville.

Arkansas got away on a winning stride in its title schedule against TCU last week and a second victory—especially over as strong a foe as Baylor is touted to be—would boost the Porkers' stock considerably.

Baylor, on the other hand, showed a decided letdown in losing to Miami last week and observers will be anxious to see if the Bears can bounce back or whether they were overrated.

Coach Ed Price sent his Longhorns through a general review Thursday and said halfback Chester Simcik, who has been suffering from a severe shoulder bruise, "probably will be all right" by Saturday. The Longhorns will fly to Dallas at 5:30 p.m. Friday after an afternoon workout in Austin.

Coach Bowden Wyatt was skeptical about Saturday's game with Baylor, but he said his team was in "excellent" spirits and that injuries were still minor. A sellout was predicted for the game.

The Bears went through a defensive scrimmage Thursday while Coach George Sauer alternated backfield combinations. Sauer said Billy Hooper probably will start at quarterback, Del Shofner and Weldon Holley at halfback and Reuben Saage at fullback.

Refresher Course for Busy People

Said the gal with the lofty I. Q.
"I commend Coca-Cola to you—
When you're feeling the pressure,
It's such a refresher
And a bit of quick energy, too!"

Yes, ice-cold Coke has a wonderful way of giving you satisfying refreshment—renewing your energy for busy hours ahead. And Coke has as few calories as half an average, juicy grapefruit. Have a Coke.

Four generations have made Coca-Cola by far the most asked-for soft drink in the world.

Teenagers Arrested In Morals Case

HOUSTON, Oct. 8—UP—Police disclosed Thursday that two youths have been arrested and a teen-age "call girl" service catering to Ellington Air Force Base officers broken up.

The youths, James Chagolla, 19, and Aubrey Bohannon, 17, were charged with contributing to the delinquency of two girls, one of them a 14-year-old runaway. The other girl was 15.

Cubs To Have Parents Night

Cub Scouts and leaders of Pack 22, Horace Mann School, will have a Parents Night and Maverick Roundup Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Registration and assignment to dens will be the main event on the program.

3 Million New Bibles Sold

Over 3,000,000 copies of the Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible have been sold since it was "given to the people" September 30, 1952.

The phenomenal sale has broken all publishing records in the U.S. No other regular book edition, religious or otherwise has ever come close to this two-year record, according to press releases from the National Council of Churches of Christ in the USA.

The RSV Bible is the product of 15 years labor by a committee of 32 distinguished biblical scholars under the leadership of Dean Emeritus Luther A. Weigle of Yale Divinity School.

Saccharin is a chemical compound 300 to 500 times as sweet as ordinary sugar. It was first prepared in 1879 by Remsen and Fahlberg, chemists at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore.

New Model Studebakers Coming Here

New models, the 1955 Studebaker line, will be on display Saturday at the Gunter Motor Co., 200 E. Brown.

H. L. Gunter, owner of the motor company here said he would have four models on display Saturday including the new President State, the new four-door luxury model.

There will also be a Commander Station wagon, a Champion four door and a pick-up truck.

In announcing the 1955 line, Studebaker officials in South Bend, Ind., revealed that factory list prices on the new models would range from $37 to $287 below those on similar models for 1954.

Mental Patient Hunt Spurred

HOUSTON, Oct. 8—UP—FBI agents redoubled efforts Thursday to track down Allen Bodine Scott, a former mental patient suspected of murdering his grandmother, after receiving a report Scott was seen here Wednesday.

J. P. Daily, 52, a filling station operator, said a man resembling Scott was in his station Wednesday trying to borrow money on a Texaco courtesy card.

"He looked just like the man whose pictures are in the papers," Daily said.

Scott has been sought over the nation since the fatally shot body of his grandmother was found near Camden, N. J., last July. He was last seen with her in a car.

Scott has been sought in this area since a letter signed by him was mailed from here last week to a Camden, N. J. newspaper.
