United States Exports Hit High in September

WASHINGTON (AP) - The U.S. balance-of-trade picture improved in September when the United States sold more goods abroad than in any month in history, the Commerce Department said today.

However, the U.S. trade balance still showed a deficit for the month. But the deficit of $1.7 billion was a sharp drop from the $2.7 billion deficit for August and the smallest since a $1.2 billion deficit in May.

For the year, the United States has bought $19.2 billion more in foreign goods than it has sold abroad. The deficit could reach a record $30 billion for the year, administration officials have said.

The record exports for September totalled $10.9 billion, surpassing the $10.4 billion recorded in December 1976, the previous high. Most of the increase was in machinery and transport equipment, such as autos, manufactured goods, chemicals and food and live animals.

While exports rose 14.2 percent, imports increased by about 3.3 percent, mainly because of more imports of petroleum products.

The Carter administration has said almost all of the trade imbalance this year is caused by U.S. imports of oil from the Middle East. On his current Middle East trip, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal has been trying to persuade oil exporters to keep prices down, saying it is in their best interests.

Out of $12.6 billion in imports, petroleum accounted for $3.7 billion, an increase from $3.3 billion in August.

A growing trade deficit can often take away jobs from American workers and have a slackening effect on the economy. But U.S. officials say other countries have been unable to afford American products as the U.S. economy has improved more rapidly than the economy of purchasing countries.

Among exports, all categories increased in September, except aircraft, soybeans, grain sorghum and a few miscellaneous commodities.

In other economic news, Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns, criticizing the Carter administration's economic policies, has said the country needs less spending and more investment.

While Burns was noting the business sector's uncertainty that the economy will continue to recover, Bethlehem Steel reported a record $477 million loss for its third quarter Wednesday.

Bethlehem and the four other top steel producers have reported aggregate earnings for the first nine months of the year 69 percent below the same period last year.

In the auto industry, Chrysler said its profits dropped from $61.2 million in the third quarter of last year to $30.4 million this year. General Motors Corp. reported, however, that its profits were at a record $402 million for the third quarter.

Burns and the administration are at odds over the Federal Reserve's increase in the discount rate from 6 1/2 percent to 6 percent this week. The discount rate is what the central bank charges banks to borrow money.

The White House says the increase will stifle economic recovery. Burns says tightening up the money supply will help control inflation.

In a speech in Spokane, Wash., Burns defended the board's action, saying that the central bank will refuse to let "the money supply grow at a rate that will add fuel to the fires of inflation" but that it also will not let interest rates increase to the level that they deter economic growth.

Businesses, he said, "yearn for some solid piece of evidence that inflation will be tamed." Inflation the last three months has been running at an annual growth rate of about 5 percent.

Halloweeners Advised To Be Careful Monday

Trick-or-treaters on Halloween Night Monday should travel in groups of at least five or six youngsters and take along an adult, according to Lt. Paul Rameriz of the Hereford Police Department.

"It isn't that there has been any big problem or danger in past Halloweeners but Rameriz says it never hurts to be careful.

"We've never had any big problems here. Usually Halloween is pretty quiet," said Rameriz, who said that the police department may have a few extra cars out patrolling, mostly to assure driving safety.

"Kids need to be very, very cautious particularly in residential areas. There's usually a lot of youngsters out. We can't stress the point enough for them to be very, very careful when crossing the street."

The lieutenant said it is a good idea for youngsters to wear costumes which are colored with a fluorescent substance, one which glows in the dark.

"It makes them easy to see at night," Rameriz, who has lectured this week at some of Hereford's elementary schools on Halloween safety, advises youngsters to have candy and other goodies checked by parents.

"We caution them to have any candy or apples or anything checked by their parents. We have never had a problem here though with somebody putting something inside candy."

"That's one reason we want an adult to be with them. Someone might be more apprehensive about putting something in the candy if they see an adult."

One of the problems encountered on past Halloweeners has been older kids stealing candy, according to Rameriz.

Vandalism, he said, never has been a big burden for police on Halloween night.

"We've been pretty fortunate. Most of the vandalism is things like putting toilet paper on cars. This is done mostly by the high school-age kids."

"It may be harmless but we don't condone it. If an individual wants to file charges, they're within legal grounds to file charges."

School, Hospital Boards Reject Firemen's Bill

Both the Hereford Independent School District and Deaf Smith County Hospital District have voted to go along with the City of Hereford and Deaf Smith County by omitting themselves, at least for the time being, from a volunteer firefighters' relief and retirement fund.

The fund was established by Senate Bill 411 on Aug. 29. Governmental bodies have the option to approve or reject paying for firemen's relief and retirement.

The school district board of trustees passed a resolution this morning to be exempted from the fund. The action was a matter of formality since the board is only required to put the motion and resolution into its minutes.

The hospital district board placed the resolution in its minutes Wednesday night.

The law requires political entities to act on the option 60 days after its enactment. Today is the deadline.

The school board also today defined the word "employee" in relation to the health insurance program as all contracted professional employees and those auxiliary employees regularly working 27 1/2 hours of more per week.

The definition also included employees on leaves of absence who met those requirements prior to leaving work.

City To Watch KKK

DALLAS (AP) - If Ku Klux Klan members begin patrolling the Texas border Friday as they have promised, members of group pledged to protest Spanish-speaking residents from harassment may be out watching high school football.

A spokesman for the group said on Friday nights high school football reigns in Crystal City but his group will "be out there Saturday if the KKK is coming down."

Former mayor Arturo Gonzalez said, however, he does not believe Klan members would dare come into the area.

"If they go around bothering people in this area, they will get more than they can handle," he said.

Klan spokesman have announced plans to send more than 100 men to the Texas border Friday. A recorded telephone message in Houston referred to illegal aliens as the "single most important racial problem faced by white America." The message said the Klan "once again was called upon to perform a governmental function."

The Southern regional director of Immigration and Naturalization warned Wednesday that actions by the Klan in patrolling the border are "ridiculous if not provocative" and "could create a serious incident."

Armand Saturelli said his men would have nothing to do with the KKK patrols. KKK spokesman have said they would report all illegal aliens to Immigration officials.

"They have no authority to make any apprehension," Saturelli said. "If they do, people might have legal recourse on civil rights statutes. I question whether the KKK members are experts at determining who is an illegal alien. They aliens do not wear signs on their backs."

In Corpus Christi, attorney Ruben Bonilla, executive director of the League of United Latin American Citizens LULAC, said of the Klan patrols: "It is the height of stupidity, a reprehensible conduct that no longer has a place in the Twentieth Century. The KKK obviously

Historians Say Carter Wrong About Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, in defending the proposed Panama Canal treaty, has implied that the United States bought Texas from Mexico. And poduhn, them's fighting' words to Texas historians.

Speaking last week to an audience in Denver about the canal, Carter said:

"We have never bought it, it has not been ours. We are not giving it away. There is no semblance between the status of, say, the Panama Canal Zone and Texas or Alaska that were bought and paid for and over which we have always had sovereignty."

That statement has riled Texans who point out that the Lone Star State became a republic after winning its independence from Mexico in 1836.

The Republic of Texas, recognized by Great Britain, the United States and other countries, but not Mexico, was annexed by the United States at Texas's empitomizes the last bastion of racist and bigoted mentality that exists in America."

At the same time, Bonilla said he opposed the vigilant actions of Mexican-American groups against the Klan.

"We feel this is a matter that should be handled by the proper law enforcement agencies."

He said the Klan had succeeded in "sensationalizing and emotionalizing the issue of the illegal aliens, diverting it from Congress and taking it to the streets where nothing can be accomplished."

Bonilla said he had lodged a protest with Immigration and Naturalization.

Dr. Hector Garcia, founder of the G.I. Forum, an organization of Mexican-American veterans, said he had asked the Department of Justice to investigate the Klan.

"What they are doing is venting their hatred for Mexicans and Mexican-Amer-

Mayor To Crown Queen

In a special halftime ceremony Friday evening, Mayor and Mrs. Bartley Dowell will crown Hereford High School's Homecoming Queen in Whiteface Stadium.

The Homecoming crowd will see the Hereford Whitefaces battling the varsity squad from Lubbock High School. Gametime will be 7:30 p.m. and a capacity crowd is anticipated.

Vying for the queen's crown this year are three seniors, Miss Patti Hendon, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Hendon; Renee Russell, daughter of W.B. Russell; and Lori Steinkruger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Steinkruger.

Lee Ann Umsted, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Umsted will be the junior attendant and Jennifer Griffin, daughter of the H.T. Griffins will be the sophomore attendant.

Other halftime festivities will include a special program by the marching band, complemented by the twirlers and drill team.

Friday's football game will climax a long, high-spirited day of Homecoming activities, including a pep rally beginning at 1:50 p.m. and a parade, starting at 3 o'clock. Large crowds are expected for both events and Homecoming guests are urged to arrive early.

Prior to the gridiron clash, the seniors will stage their class supper from 5-7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Proceeds will determine which of the three high school classes will have their representative crowned as Annual Queen.

Senior Gridders

Senate Nears Vote On Industrial Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, which has yet to take a formal stand on President Carter's proposed energy taxes, is being urged to revive his plan for taxing factories using large amounts of oil and natural gas.

As the Senate moved toward a vote today on the industrial tax, opponents of the $40 billion, eight-year package of energy tax breaks recommended by the Senate Finance Committee sought to deny new government aid to the oil and gas industry.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said the committee's bill is a blank check for the oil companies, "drawn on the account of the American consumer."

Jewish Heads, Vance Meet Over Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jewish leaders who met with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance feel concern, frustration, anger and "a sense of outrage" over U.S. policy in the Middle East, the leader of the group says.

Their spokesman, Rabbi Alexander Schindler of New York City, told reporters after a two-hour closed meeting with Vance on Wednesday that many Americans, not just Jews, disapprove of the Carter administration's policy.

He said Israel had "practically bent itself into a pretzel" trying to accommodate the administration while the Palestine Liberation Organization remains "at the heart and center of a worldwide conspiracy of terror."

Enterprise Next Stop To Be Outer Space

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Aerospace's odd couple, the space shuttle Enterprise and its companion Boeing 747, have made their last test appearance together. Next stop: outer space.

The Enterprise, launched from the back of its jumbo carrier for the fifth and final time Wednesday, made a quick, steep swoop to a bumpy but safe landing.

Britain's Prince Charles, a former Royal Navy flier who had piloted a simulated shuttle earlier this week, was among those at the landing site who sighed with relief when the craft finally settled on the runway.

Fred Haise and Gordon Fullerton were in the cockpit for the one minute, 55-second flight, the shortest and steepest of the shuttle's five test runs. The flight was a test of how well the shuttle's landing and braking system would handle a concrete runway, the same type that will be used when the craft first returns from space in early 1979.

request in 1845. "The United States certainly did not pay for Texas," said Dr. L. Tuffly Ellis of the Texas Historical Association, when advised of Carter remarks.

A White House spokeswoman, Claudia Townsend, said Carter was referring to payments made by the United States to both Texas and Mexico after the Mexican War. "We paid Mexico for it," she said. Texas, in 1850, was paid about $12.7

million for approximately 73 million acres that became parts of New Mexico, Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming.

The payments to Mexico, totalling about $21 million, were part of the settlement that ended the Mexican War in 1848. In return, Mexico relinquished its claim to the American Southwest, land already lost in the war, and Texas.

But to say that Texas was purchased is incorrect, Ellis said. The compensation paid to Mexico in 1848 was for the land that became Colorado, Arizona and other southwestern states, not at all for Texas, he added.

"Texas won its independence and became a republic in 1836 after the battle of San Jacinto. It was recognized by Great Britain, the United States and other countries, even though Mexico never recognized it. Then it was annexed and joined the Union in 1845," Ellis said.

icans," he said. "They are taking police powers that do not belong to them. They have no way of telling who is an illegal alien and who is not. It is a threat to Mexican-Americans of South Texas. This is a conspiracy to violate the laws of this country. They should be arrested for it. The actions are an insurrection."

In Del Rio, Hugh Williams, chief Border Patrol agent, said: "It is highly unlikely that either group of the KKK of the Crystal City vigilantes would have access to the border in this area. Most of the land along the border is fenced off with locked gates."

In Austin, a spokesman of the Department of Public Safety said officers had been alerted to be on the lookout for any violations of the law.

Grass Battle Rages in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators who say marijuana possession should continue to be a federal crime hope they can reverse a Senate committee's vote cutting the penalty to a $100 fine.

"We are sending out a message that really should not be sent out," Sen. Orrin G. Hatch, R-Utah, said after Wednesday's judiciary committee vote to substitute the civil fine of $100 for criminal sanctions.

Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., supported Hatch, saying it would be "a terribly bad thing for us to indicate to the people of this country that we are legalizing marijuana."

Hatch said he may propose, as an alternative, that the possession of up to 10 grams still be classified as a criminal offense, although subject only to a fine of $100.

Under present federal law, marijuana possession is punishable by a fine of up to $5,000 and imprisonment of up to one year.

Under the bill the committee approved, the penalty would be $100 for possession of less than an ounce. Possession of more than an ounce could draw a maximum penalty of up to 30 days in jail and a $500 fine.

Ten grams is enough for about seven cigarettes. An ounce will make about 20.

The committee meets again Monday. Repealing the federal criminal sanctions would have little practical effect, as virtually all arrests for marijuana are made under state laws.

But backers of the move have said they expect it to be a model for the states in modernizing their own criminal laws.

The proposal to make possession of small amounts punishable only by a fine, much as minor traffic violations are now handled, was made by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

'We Want Out of the White Culture' Officials Fear Secession

PENOBSCOT RESERVATION

(NEA)—It has been a year of community discontent in this region of the continent. First it was Quebec discussing separation from Canada. Then, in order, it was Martha's Vineyard (Massachusetts), Salisbury Beach (New Hampshire) and Otisfield (Maine) reconsidering their geopolitical arrangements.

Now, according to rumor and official fears, it is the Indians who are about to secede. From the United States. The scenario is thus: if the Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes prevail in their current land claims of nearly two-thirds of the state of Maine, they will set themselves up as a sovereign nation of aboriginal peoples.

No less an observer than Maine's governor believes the separation is possible. James B. Longley says the Indian claim to 12 million acres of his state is merely "the tip of the iceberg." He insists that "citizens within the Indian community and some liberal extremists on the outside" are now seriously preparing for autonomous status.

What's more, Longley suggests, the Maine experience may be part of a grand design in America. That is to say: as Maine tribes go, so may those of the rest of the nation. A Longley aide says he wouldn't be surprised if cooperating aboriginals "tried to set up several nations, in New York, in the Dakotas, and in the Southwest."

An archipelago of independent Indian states? Most tribal spokesmen in Maine say the idea is absurd. A few, however, do not close their minds to it. Nicholas

Sapiel, tribal governor of the Penobscots, says that independence is probably the dream of most Indians: "I think most of us feel we are more Indian than we are American."

Sapiel says this feeling is especially true among the 512 aboriginals who live on this Penobscot reservation. And, he adds, if any tribes

Penobscot River. The tribe says its reservation exists from river bank to river bank, thus it "is not a piece of Maine or the Union." Technically, non-Indian access to the reservation is by permission only.

But the Penobscots' assertions of sovereignty are rooted more in history than in the location of their ing" the tribe is still a nation of its own. "I've researched the matter completely, and Sapiel is correct. The Penobscots were never conquered, they were never taken over, and they never agreed to become part of the U.S."

No doubt, says Thompson, the colonialists believed they had won the Penobscots. As example, one English governor led an expedition of troops into Penobscot country in 1758, telling the natives that he was there to "make the land English." But since the Indians did not understand English then, they couldn't very well accept subjugation.

Moreover, some years later, Thompson says the colonialists called for a powwow with the Penobscots to discuss treaty revisions. Thompson says the "great White Fathers" showed up at the appointed time, but the Penobscots didn't appear until one month later. "Does that sound like they were a conquered, groveling, assimilated people?"

Nick Sapiel says his tribe's independent attitude has continued to this day. For instance, "A lot of our members refuse to pay state income tax. We don't have to pay property tax, and since we feel we are our own people we don't like to have to pay income tax to anybody but ourselves. This is how we are, how we feel."

Increasingly, some Penobscots are also refusing to pay dues to the outside culture. There is ongoing schooling here regarding Penobscot heritage. Some homes now set aside rooms for Indian and spiritual artifacts.

IF THE AIMS of many Penobscots are realized, this sign will be changed from a welcoming billboard to a border station, an entry point into an independent nation.

were to withdraw from the United States, the Penobscot would likely and logically be among them. Actually, Sapiel shrugs, the Indians here have never considered themselves part of the U.S. anyway. At least physically, the Penobscots are totally removed from the mainland. Their curious preserve consists of 146 islands in the

Survey Shows Diet Habits

COLLEGE STATION— "What Americans Eat" is the subject of a United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) nationwide survey, says Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Results of the survey will provide a new guideline of the composition and adequacy of diets in segments of the population.

There will be 114 planning and sampling units in the United States—counties, cities and areas. In Texas, five planning and sampling units have been designated: Anderson and Tarrant counties, the Bandera-Medina area, Galveston and Houston.

Since the most recent survey (1965-66), there have been striking changes in relation to the national diet. For example, more convenience-types of equipment and convenience foods have appeared. Also, due to the increase of women in the labor force and the Women's Liberation movement, more women are employed outside the home, which has meant more eating away from home.

More and more new food products are available—soy-bean products, for example—and there has been a steep increase in food prices. Also, food programs have come into existence (food stamps, nutrition for the elderly, school lunch and breakfast, and Women, Infants and Children Nutrition—WIC—programs.)

There has been more interest in nutrition and food intake, weight control and general health. More are concerned about the safety of the food supply and have turned to natural and health foods. Also, manufacturers have seen a need to provide nutrition information on labels to satisfy this increasing interest in nutrition.

This survey will be helpful in determining the dollar difference in home food consumption and in meals eaten outside the home; the value of certain food programs; the effect of diets and safety of additives and pesticides; the forthcoming revised Basic Four Daily Food Guide; and for determining menus for the various school breakfast and lunch programs.

There has been concern that traditional family meal surveys are no longer realistic. Some believe that families seldom eat together, or that if they do, they eat out. Therefore, the food used at home is no longer a reliable measure for quality of diet in the country.

This is one of the major reasons that the food intake of the individuals is being expanded from one day's intake to three days' intake in the present survey.

The USDA survey will focus primarily on what food, and how much food, each member of the family eats at home. But it will also be concerned with food as it is presented in the marketplace, and the interrelationship of the two.

Results of the first part of the survey will become available in 1978, the specialist reports.

Wood-Burning Heaters Revive in Popularity

COLLEGE STATION—Wood burning heaters are back, says Sue Young, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

These heaters—the best quality are of heavy gauge sheet metal lined with firebrick—may help to answer your heating and energy needs, especially if you have access to relatively inexpensive supplies of wood.

Besides supplementing their heating systems, Texas families can enjoy the warmth that only a wood burning heater can give, says the specialist.

Prices for wood heaters begin at around $200. They are now on the market in attractive designs and are much more efficient than the traditional masonry or more modern freestanding fireplace.

Airtight wood heaters burn more slowly and evenly and the fire does not flare up when wood is added. When the heater has a flat baffle system, more heat is radiated into the room and not lost up the chimney.

Models which blow the heat into the room — by means of a small electric fan — utilize heat more fully.

A thermostat which controls the operation of the damper is desirable, Mrs. Young says.

It takes 27,154 gallons of rain to wet down an acre of ground with one inch of water, according to the U.S. Geological Survey. This means a one-inch rainfall in Washington, D.C. amounts to 1,200,000,000 gallons. For the city of New York, that's 5,220,000,000 gallons.

WIFE Meeting Slated Here

A meeting to determine local interest in the formation of a WIFE chapter in Hereford will be conducted at the Community Center Monday, Oct. 31 from 10-11:00 a.m.

WIFE (Women Involved in Farm Economics) is an organization of farm wives who support agricultural activities of their husbands through various functions.

Members of the organization traveled to Washington to speak on the needs of the farmer prior to the enactment of present farm legislation.

Speakers from the Tullia WIFE chapter will be on hand for Monday's presentation, and all interested women who are the wives of farmers or men engaged in agriculture-related businesses are invited to attend.

Marathon Veteran Just Likes To Run

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) - Wesley Paul finished the New York marathon last week in three hours, 31 seconds - about 48 minutes slower than the winner.

But for a third grader, it wasn't a bad time for a 26-mile run. It was 15 minutes better than his performance last month in the Chicago Marathon.

And Wesley, who is 8 years old, says he could have run the New York marathon faster if the field hadn't been so crowded at the start. He was the smallest - and youngest - of 4,800 entrants.

"It was very hard moving around at the beginning," Wesley said. "I guess I probably started almost at the back of the whole crowd."

He said, however, that the New Yorkers were very polite to him even if they were in his way.

"It was all right," Wesley said. "About the 20th mile my legs got really sore."

His father, Alio Paul, is a mathematics teaching assistant at the University of Missouri.

Paul said his son began following him as he jogged several years ago. "In fact he beats me all the time now," his father said. "He loves to run. He loves to talk about running with people he knows. And he likes to read a lot right now, especially books about dinosaurs."

Wesley ran his first marathon in Columbia on Labor Day in 1976. He turned in a time of five hours, 30 minutes.

At Edwardsville, Ill., he took a wrong turn and ran 33 miles instead of 26.

At the Columbia Labor Day marathon this year, he was knocked down by a car and needed 10 stitches.

"The car knocked him down but he said he wasn't hurt and he wanted to finish," his father said. "Of course, that was out of the question."

Wesley won't be eligible for the Boston Marathon, the nation's oldest, for 10 years. It requires its competitors to be at least 18.

Officials Head Favors Three Refs

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Norm Drucker, the National Basketball Association's new supervisor of officials, says he favors using three-man crews to referee NBA games.

"The way the game of professional basketball has changed, it really behooves the league to take a hard look at it this year," Drucker said of the switch from two referees a game to three, something a few college conferences will be experimenting with this season but which has never been tried by the NBA.

"The game has speeded itself up, but the referees haven't kept pace. Football went from two or three officials to six. Baseball started with two, then went to three, now has four and in the World Series has six. Basketball is getting to that point."

"I like three-man crews from a technical standpoint," Drucker added in an interview at NBA headquarters here. "It's easier to cover the complete floor. There would be other problems - personalities and things of that nature - but I think over-all, for getting the best job done, three referees would help."

Drucker, who joined the NBA as a referee a quarter-century ago and last month succeeded the retired John Nucatola as supervisor of officials, says he also favors some sort of no foul-out rule.

"The no foul-out rule in the ABA was my idea," said Drucker, who refereed for seven years in the American Basketball Association - also doubled as supervisor of officials part of that time - before rejoining the NBA last year.

Under the present NBA rule, a player must leave the game after committing his sixth personal foul. In the ABA, if a player committed six fouls he was permitted to remain in the game, but after each subsequent foul he committed, the other team received possession of the ball as well as its free throws.

"I think that penalty is too severe," said Drucker. "That could mean a five or six-point play, and not too many coaches are going to keep a player in under those conditions."

"There's a school that thinks if a player is that poor and fouls that much, he should be penalized. I really don't think so. I think whether he plays or not should be a coach's decision. It's like saying if a short-stop makes four errors, he has to leave the game. If he's making four errors, he's hurting his team, and it's the manager's problem."

One thing Drucker does not favor is the ABA's three-point goal, where a player got three points for a shot made from beyond 25 feet.

"The ABA did certain things for show business," observed Drucker. "I don't think the NBA really needs it. It's a gimmick, that's all. Why should that be worth three points, and if some guy drives through and makes a layup with people hanging all over him and that's only worth two?"

Renfro Overcoming Playing For Frogs

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - Mike Renfro, Texas Christian's unforgettable receiver, has made his way into the Southwest Conference record book - despite playing for the team the SWC would rather forget.

Renfro, who has snared 137 passes for a SWC-record 2,379 yards, has set seven school records in his three and one-half year career. TC's victories for that timespan number exactly four.

"I think the other record is within reach," Renfro said of Jerry LeVias' SWC career reception mark of 155. "It would be a great honor, but actually I'm more excited about winning two games in a row. We've never done that before."

Renfro, who broke LeVias' SWC career yardage mark this season, saw the hapless Horned Frogs win only one game in each of his first two years. They lost all 11 in 1976 and the first four of 1977 before winning their last two outings.

"It got very discouraging," said Renfro "After three seasons with only two wins, I got kinda used to it. I just tried to keep my individual pride."

Despite the Frogs' woeful record, Renfro, the son of former All-Pro receiver Ray Renfro, was named consensus All-SWC for the past two years. Some pro scouts predict he'll be drafted early.

"I think he ranks with some other great receivers I've had, like Drew Pearson and Howard Twilley," said new Frog Coach F.A. Dry, who coached Pearson, the Dallas Cowboys' star receiver and Twilley, former Miami Dolphin standout, at Tulsa.

"He puts pressure on the defender. If they make a mistake he'll catch it," added Dry. "He's been the big play guy for us."

"Renfro sees double coverage all the time and he still catches the ball," said Arkansas Coach Lou Holtz. "If there was a way to stop him, people smarter than me would have figured it out a long time ago."

Phoenix Only NBA Team Still Unbeaten

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

How's this for balance - the National Basketball Association season is only eight days old, and there's just one undefeated team left.

What's more, every team except one has at least one victory.

The defending champion Portland Trail Blazers fell from the unbeaten list Wednesday night, dropping a 111-108 decision to the Nuggets at Denver.

That leaves Phoenix as the only club in the 22-team league with an unblemished record. The Suns were idle Wednesday and do not play again until Friday night, when they put their 3-0 mark on the line against the Jazz in New Orleans.

The New Jersey Nets, meanwhile, dropped to 0-4 by bowing to the Atlanta Hawks 113-110 in overtime.

In other NBA games Wednesday night, the Detroit Pistons defeated the Golden State Warriors 123-107, the New Orleans Jazz beat the New York Knicks 123-106 and the Seattle Super-Sonics topped the Buffalo Braves 97-92.

Nuggets 111, Blazers 108

Denver took a 34-22 first-quarter lead by scoring 19 in a row but saw Portland chip away at the lead and finally go ahead in the fourth quarter. But Denver came on again, going ahead to stay on a jumper by Dan Issel with 1:57 left.

David Thompson led the Nuggets with 24 points while Bobby Gross had 22 for the Blazers.

The loss dropped Portland to 3-1, one-half game behind Phoenix in the Pacific Division.

Hawks 113, Nets 110, QT

The Nets blew a nine-point lead in the fourth quarter. Reserve guards Charlie Criss and Eddie Johnson led the way for the Hawks, Criss scoring six points in the final period and Johnson six in overtime.

The Hawks put the game away with nine points in a row in overtime, including four by Johnson.

Pistons 123, Warriors 107

Golden State trailed by only four at 107-103 with four minutes to play, but Detroit buried the Warriors with a closing 16-4 burst. Detroit's two big men paced the victory, Bob Lanier scoring 25 points and Marvin Barnes grabbing 19 rebounds, his NBA high.

Phil Smith scored 32 for Golden State.

Jazz 123, Knicks 106

Pete Maravich's hot shooting sent the Jazz in front early, and the Knicks were never able to assert themselves. Maravich forced 30 points and Gail Goodrich and Len Robinson had 25 each for New Orleans. Robinson also had 18 rebounds.

The game was halted twice when players passed career scoring milestones. Goodrich passed the 17,000-point mark, and New York's Earl Monroe surpassed 15,000.

Sonics 97, Braves 92

Fred Brown, who scored 37 points, put Seattle ahead 93-92 on a corner jumper with 56 seconds to play. He then hit a 30-footer with 24 seconds left and closed out the victory with two free throws seven seconds later.

Buffalo scored just 10 points in the first period.

Allison Improving, But Still Doubtful

Texas Tech Coach Steve Sloan says injured star quarterback Rodney Allison is still doubtful for Saturday's crucial Southwest Conference clash with No. 1-ranked Texas, but said Tuesday that Allison is improving.

"He was certainly better today than he was Monday," Sloan said after Allison worked with the team Tuesday in a two-hour drill. "He still has quite a bit to go before he could play, though."

Allison suffered a broken leg on Sept. 16 during Tech's 33-17

loss to Texas A&M.

Meanwhile, both of Texas' starting defensive ends, Henry Williams and Dwight Jefferson, missed practice Tuesday with injuries suffered in last week's 30-14 thrashing of Southern Methodist.

Williams has an ankle sprain and Jefferson is bothered with rib injuries. Texas Coach Fred Akers said Jefferson might not be ready to play against the Red Raiders.

Tim Campbell and Ron Bones replaced Akers and Jefferson in Tuesday's practice.

Akers said Jim Yarbrough will start Saturday at offensive right guard, replacing Craig Rider, who missed most of the SMU game with injuries.

A sellout crowd of 80,000 has been assured for the battle between the Longhorns, 6-0 for the season and 3-0 in the SWC, and the Raiders, who are 5-1 and 2-1.

Against Westerners

Harris Favors 'Herd Friday

By BOB NIGH
Brand Sports Editor

The Hereford Whitefaces have been labeled a favorite by the Harris Rating system for the first time of the season this week. The Herd is a four-point nod to take Lubbock High in the HHS Homecoming tilt Friday night at Whiteface Field.

The Whitefaces had been underdogs to all other teams they had played this year, including the 3A schools, Borger, Canyon, and Dumas. They come into the game with 3-5 record with wins coming over Pampa, Palo Duro, and Coronado.

Lubbock high owns a 1-5-1 record, having beaten only Caprock by a 23-6 count and tied Dunbar 14-14.

The game is an important one for the Whitefaces, who can get back into the thick of the District 4-4A race with a win against the Westerners. Such a win would leave the Herd with a 2-1 loop mark with only Monterey left on the schedule. A defeat of the Plainsmen would force a three-way tie for the league championship, providing Plainview wins the rest of its games and the Plainsmen defeat Coronado tomorrow night and Lubbock next week.

"The kids realize now that they have a chance to be playing for something when we go to Monterey," Herd head coach Fred Upshaw said Wednesday. "We feel like they're going to give a big effort and play with a lot of enthusiasm against Lubbock High."

On the other side of the fence the Westerners are probably going to be spurred by the thought that the Whitefaces might be the only loop team they have a chance to beat.

"They (Lubbock) are going to come up here and play hard," Upshaw said. "They always play well up here, and they've been getting consistently better the past few weeks."

The Coronado Mustangs took advantage of some critical turnovers by the Westerners to gain a 21-7 win in the two teams' district opener two weeks ago, and LHS has had two weeks since then to correct those errors with an open date last week.

The best thing going for the Whitefaces is that Lubbock is dead last among offenses in the loop with a 175.0 yards-per-game average. The Herd defense, while last in the league with 286.3 yards given up per game, came up with a big effort against the Mustangs last week, including one rushing marker in the second half.

Lubbock has just 859 yards rushing this year, 117 yards less than Herd Tailback Paul Bell has accumulated all by himself. They also rank next to last in passing yardage with 372 markers.

The Westerners have one super threat in Ernest Day, a touch competitor who started out playing quarterback for LHS this season, and changed to tailback a few games back. Day also plays safety on defense and was the loop's all-district selection at that position a year ago.

"Day throws, runs, and kicks well," Upshaw said of the LHS senior who also handles all the kicking chores for Lubbock. "He's without a doubt a quality player, and he's the one we'll have to stop."

Day ranks fifth in the district in total offense with 155 yards rushing and 157 more passing (11-31). He has scored only fourteen points this season (Lubbock has 72 as a team), but has a field goal and five PATs included in his total.

Bucks Bobby Mitchell and Larry Dupree head the Westerner rushing attack with 226 and 215 yards respectively. Tight and Kelly Roberts is the top receiver on the LHS staff with nine catches for 80 yards and one touchdown.

"Mitchell is an impressive kid," Upshaw said. "He is a big ol' kid, and runs tough while being pretty good blocker."

Defensively Lubbock counts on tackles Chris Smith (192) and Ricky Mendez (195) to lead the way in the line. End Roger Young and linebacker Danny Andrews lead the team in tackles with 80 and 76 stops respectively.

"They're just a bunch of young kids, who have finally begun to put it all together," Upshaw concluded. "They always play hard and come after you."

In the Whiteface camp two players will be out of action, with another to see limited play after coming back off an injury. Tackle Mike Kerr and nose-guard Alex Arrango are out this week, but tackle Doug Josseland will be back after coming off a dislocated elbow.

"Doug has been working out some, and will see some action this week," Upshaw reported.

The coach also said that sub tailback Greg Hennington will probably see a little more action this week to let regular Bell rest some. Bell has a bruised knee suffered against the Mustangs last week.

"Paul will still be sore some Friday night, and we were hoping that we wouldn't have to go so much with him, but it looks like we will," Upshaw said. "Greg proved what he can do last week, and we aren't a bit afraid to use him."

Hennington played well last week in the running-back slot as well as his defensive cornerback spot. He set up one Herd touchdown with a key pass reception in the final quarter.

His 19-yard run after catching a Kelly Kitchens pass paved the way for a touchdown pass to Greg Brockman and gave the Whitefaces their final 25-3 advantage.

The Whitefaces should be fired up due to the HHS homecoming Friday night. The game will be the last home appearance for 17 Herd seniors, including Kitchens, Brockman, Hennington, Josseland, Arrango, Daniel Olson, Mitchell George, Randy Marrs, Rick Gonzales, Tommy Clarke, Mark Moten, Warren Cornelius, Gerald Vaughn, Jim Fish, Charles Reyna, Chris Hill, and Cory Walden.

Kickoff time is 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Field.

AP Wire Roundup

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Approximately 50 tickets to the Southwest Conference clash between No. 1 Texas and No. 14 Texas Tech went on sale Wednesday and about 200 people were in line trying to buy them.

Ten had spent the night at Memorial Stadium, including University of Texas senior Peter Grant. He said he had told his San Antonio girlfriend he already had tickets for the game, and "I'd have been in big trouble if I hadn't got them."

Grant began his vigil at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. The ticket window opened at 9 a.m. Wednesday.

Memorial Stadium seats nearly 78,000 and bleachers can increase the seating capacity to 81,000.

Athletics business manager Al Lundstedt said, however, it had been decided not to put bleachers up, because "our grounds people told us there is no way to put them up at this late date and guarantee their safety."

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics has placed Prairie View A&M's baseball program on one year's probation for violating the organization's code of conduct.

"The probation came as result of an incident involving Prairie View A&M in the District 8 baseball tournament last spring," the NAIA said in a statement released Wednesday. Details of the incident were not released.

The probation, assessed Wednesday, will bar the school from participating in post-season play during the 1977-78 season. The team will also be excluded from the NAIA ratings and statistical services.

Also, Prairie View baseball players and coaches will be excluded from recognition at the NAIA baseball awards program.

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was today pondering possible action against Dan O'Brien, Texas Ranger general manager accused of tampering with the signing of free agent Minnesota outfielder Lary Hise.

"I gave at the office"

Good for you! When you give to the United Way at the office, it's no cop-out. It's something to be proud of. It stands for something. And it makes a lot of sense. It's the best, and the most economical way to give. United Way means efficiency, accountability, and intelligent allocation of your money, too. When you give at the office, you're helping to ease people's pain and misery. In all its forms wherever it's found and no matter who it's found in. In one way or another, all 12 agencies of the United Way are set up to do just that.

United Way agencies operate to provide important health and social services to anyone who needs them. Help with problems of family stress and alcoholism. With children's needs and problems and disaster-related needs. The list goes on and on... 12 agencies worth. The help United Way agencies give is available to everyone, regardless of race, creed or color. Or income. Say proudly, "I gave at the office."

JOHNSON LEADS MAJORETTES

Edna Johnson rolled to 60 pins over her average to be named Star of the Week in the Majorettes ladies' league last week, while Sheree Rampley claimed the honor this week with an identical feat of 60 pins over her standard.

Marlene Long topped games a week ago with a 165, while Rampley, did likewise this week with a 178. Joy Fowler took high series honors a week ago (1883), while Marlene Daugherty did the same this week with a 2164.

Earning splits this week were Mary Lopez, 5-10, and Debbie Keese, 5-10 and 1-3-7.

Mar-Lo Chemical leads the team standings with a 15½-8½ record. Skeets Diagnostic Center is a half-game back at 15-9, while the Pill Rollers are third at 14-10. Blakely's Exxon (11½-12½), Fowler Pump (9-15), and Warren Steel: (7-17) round out the league.

LOMENICK LAUDED BY STRIKETTES

Barbara Lomenick jumped to 100 pins over her average to claim Star of the Week laurels in the Strikettes, Monday night ladies' league. Pat Evans posted the high series with a 565, while Jettie Watts had a 524, and Chris Ivy a 520. Watts had the high game with a 235, while Evans had a 225, and Ivy a 211.

Split-earners this week included Carolyn Fulton, Evans, and Laverne Shultz, 3-10; Vicki Hawkins, 5-10; and Amy Schumacher, 1-2-6-8-10.

The Four C's lead the league this week, followed in order by West Friona Grain, Southwest Carpet, Branding Irons, Vernon Lewis Exxon, Honda Hawks, Warren Bros. Motor Co., Armour Railers, Ace Discount Liquor, HTFCU Delinquents, AVI Corp., Property Enterprise, Crown Auto, S&R Feeds, Buy Wise Beauty Supply, and John's Casing.

Pros Get One Last Shot At Exemption

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) - Considerably more than a $25,000 first prize is at stake this week in the Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

For a handful of players, their performance in the tournament that began Thursday will have a major effect on the conduct of their lives for the entire 1978 season.

As the last official event of the year, the Pensacola Open is the touring pros' last shot at a coveted exemption from qualifying for next year's tour. If they make the exemption, they can play in any regular tour event they want. If they miss, then they face the rigors and traumas of the Monday morning qualifying rounds, what they call "the Suicide Open," just to gain a spot in the tournament field.

"The first goal any player sets for himself is making the top 60 and getting that exemption," said John Mahaffey. "It's almost impossible to overemphasize the importance of having an exemption. It may be the most important thing on the tour; probably is the most important."

Mahaffey, slump-ridden and plagued by injuries most of the season, is in one of the two major races for an exemption. He's gunning for a position in the career top 50 money-winners. The other race involves the top 60 money-winners from the 1977 season. Both lists close with this tournament.

The current top 60 is unusually stable this season, with only a couple of players in the scramble for the No. 60 spot now held by Roger Maltbie with $51,462. Often, as many as 15 or 20 players come to the last tournament with a legitimate shot at the man in the No. 60 position.

Ed Sneed, 61st on the list, is recovering from surgery and isn't playing. Kermit Zarley, with $50,391, and Mike Hill, with $50,323, are next. As a tournament winner, Hill is exempt for most of 1978, but the veteran Zarley needs to win $1,072 more than Maltbie to go into the top 60 and get the exemption.

Mahaffey, who lost a playoff for the 1975 U.S. Open and led the 1976 American national championship for three rounds, has won only $7,430 this season.

He ranks 51st on the all-time money-winning list, however, and needs to climb one position to gain an exemption. Rod Funseth currently is No. 50 with $510,808. Mahaffey has $508,426. He needs to beat Funseth's winnings by $2,383 this week.

Jerry Pate, a winner last week in the Southern Open, was the favorite for the title in the 72-hole test over the 6,549-yard, par-71 Pensacola Country Club course.

His chief opponents included Johnny Miller, defending champion Mark Hayes, former champion Lee Elder, PGA king Lanny Wadkins, Arnold Palmer, Miller Barber and Ray Floyd, a two-time winner this season.

Keep your eye on the big chance so you'll be able to spot who's smart enough to grab it.

Egad, friends, the upset trend continues to sweep across the country and this week we have another startling prediction for you - Steve Sloan's Texas Tech Red Raiders will rise to superlative heights to corral the hard-driving Texas Longhorns and their super runner Earl Campbell.

Yes, dear readers, the Red Raiders will match Campbell and Erxleben point-for-point and then add three more to win, 27-24 - har-rumph!

Anywhere else you care to look across the country, there is sensational football on tap this week. In no particular order, here are some of the big ones: Brigham Young sophomore quarterback Marc Wilson, filling-in for the injured great Gifford Nelson, will lead the Cougars past Arizona, 42-21, as BYU continues its relentless drive toward the Western Athletic throne room. Farther west, Southern California will continue its drive to the Rose Bowl by stopping a very good California team, 28-22, at Berkeley.

In some interesting Big Eight matchups, we like Nebraska over Oklahoma State, 24-18, Oklahoma over Kansas State, 38-17, and Colorado to whip Missouri, 16-14, in a hard-hitting contest at Boulder.

Down south, Florida visits Auburn and will come home with a 22-12 triumph. And in an outstanding double-header at Jackson, Miss., the Rebels of Ole Miss will edge out LSU, 18-15, in the afternoon contest, while playing later under the lights, mighty Alabama will move another step closer to the Southeastern title by defeating Mississippi State, 35-13 - kaff-kaff!

Miami, of Florida, showing improvement each week, journeys to University Park to meet Penn State and will give the Nittany Lions a living up to our preseason assessment, will roll over the Virginia Tech Gobblers, 35-12, to the delight of their home stadium rooters.

The Big Two of the Big Ten, Michigan and Ohio State, will keep rolling toward their annual Big Ten showdown, which is scheduled this year for Nov. 19 at Ann Arbor. The Wolverines will have little or no trouble whipping Iowa, 38-7, and Woody Hayes' Ohio State lads will turn back Wisconsin 35-17, in their 47th renewal.

DALLAS (AP) - The eighth name drawn Wednesday for Cotton Bowl tickets was Richard Chaplin of Anchorage, Alaska.

"He wanted 10 tickets, too," said a Cotton Bowl official, who couldn't remember another Alaskan landing in the top 10 of names drawn for the annual classic featuring the Southwest Conference champions against a visitor at large.

The first choice went to Michael T. Scott of Carrollton, with Mel Carter of Lubbock second.

tussle before falling 31-24. Also in the east, Tulane will find Pitt to be rude hosts as the Panthers win by a 33-16 margin.

Two other big games set for the Southwest Conference will pit Texas A&M against troublesome SMU, and the up-and-down Houston Cougars against TCU. We see A&M winning 31-17, and Houston being on the upswing this week to take TCU, 42-20.

Ann Landers Halloween Suggestions

DEAR ANN: Please get this in the paper before Halloween. It could save one little life. I am addressing myself to the parents of children under 11 years of age.

If your kids want to go trick-or-treating, don't just let them run loose. An older brother or sister (at least 16 years of age) or YOU should stay close enough to keep an eye on them at all times. Instruct the children to ring only doorbells of neighbors who know them. A two-block radius of your own home should be the limit.

Impress on your children that they must not eat anything given to them until they get home. Then examine whatever they collect and decide what is safe. Every year children die because some nut put razor blades in apples or poison in the fudge.

If your children wear costumes, make sure they can walk in them without falling down. Several youngsters have been hit by cars because they tripped in the street on long skirts. Also make certain they wear something white so they can be seen by oncoming cars. Black costumes or all-dark clothes are hazardous.

The best idea of all is to have a Halloween party in your own home and invite the neighbors' kids in. It would eliminate a lot of worry and be a great deal safer. Believe me, it's worth the trouble. -- A Mother Who Learned The Hard Way

DEAR MOTHER: Here's your letter three days before Halloween -- and it's a good one. I especially like the last suggestion. There's no place like home.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A certain member of our family is a male homosexual. (I'll call him Greg.) We have all known for quite some time (he is now 32), but no one ever discusses it. Greg is an attorney, well respected, dresses conservatively (no flaming queen) and he is bright, witty and fun to be with.

Problem: My sister has a beautiful five-year-old boy. He just loves Greg. Sis dreads the day Greg asks to take the boy somewhere alone. How should she handle the situation? -- Also Worried

DEAR ALSO: If it's child molesting you are concerned

Teen Dance Scheduled Tomorrow

The music of "Mirroz" will be supplied for local teenagers Friday night during the Homecoming dance at the Community Center.

Admission will cost $5 per couple and $3 for singles.

The dance will begin at 9 p.m. and end at 1 a.m. Parents will serve as chaperones.

Junior High Party Friday

A guitarist will entertain local junior high school students Friday evening during a Homecoming party in the Fellowship Hall of First Baptist Church. The party will begin after the football game, lasting until midnight.

Other forms of recreation will include numerous games, such as ping pong and pool. Refreshments will be served and all junior high youth are welcome.

about, may I disabuse you of a common myth? The vast majority of males who go in for this sort of thing are heterosexuals. Some gays have been known to bother little boys but this is not their usual pattern.

If it were my son I would have no hesitation whatever about allowing Greg to be alone with the youngster. And -- while we're on the subject -- all children should be taught early (three years of age is not too soon) that they must never permit anyone to take off their clothing or touch their private parts. Moreover, if it is suggested, they should be instructed to say "no" and tell Mom or Dad immediately.

DEAR ANN: I am a 14-year-old girl and have a brother Buddy who is six years old. He is a pest and a troublemaker.

I am being grounded for one full week because I slapped Buddy yesterday at 4 o'clock in the afternoon when I caught him eating a peanut butter and jelly sandwich. When dinner time comes he is never hungry. How can he be when he is eating junk every ten minutes? I worry that Buddy might die early because of his terrible eating habits. Please say something to help me. -- Abused Sis

DEAR SIS: You are right to be concerned about Buddy's eating habits but apparently your mother doesn't approve of your slapping the kid and neither do I. Are you really worried about his health or did you use that as an excuse to belt him one for something else?

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

If there is any greater panic that grips a woman than when they open up a new register at the check-out line, I don't know what it is.

I have seen sweet little old ladies drive their carts over the bodies of small children, plow through gum displays, and suffer spark burns from cart-to-cart combat in an effort to get there first.

Last Friday, I was third in a check-out line when one of the stock boys opened a new register. Before I could back up my cart, a woman in a green warm-up suit, cut me off at the breath mints, leaped over the National Enquirer, and jockeyed into first place.

"I hope your Cornish game hen thaws," I said bitterly and could have bitten my tongue out. That is exactly the kind of a remark I deplore and is giving supermarkets a bad name. Where have all the manners gone?

Maybe what we need are guidelines. Possibly:

- TEN COMMANDMENTS OF SUPERMARKET SHOPPING
1. Though shalt not find humor in the woman who always gets the shopping cart with the two wobbly wheels that head for the door when the other two wheels are headed down an aisle.
 2. Thou shalt not separate only the good, firm bananas and leave the others to die alone.
 3. Produce managers shalt not make shoppers crazy by putting out 3,000 plastic bags and 27 wire ties.
 4. Women who have opinions on what sweetbreads look like in the meat case should keepeth it to themselves.
 5. Carry-out boys shall not pack bread and eggs under the ham and bird seed just to get your attention.
 6. People who do not declare coupons until the total should not be given over to a mob for lynching.
 7. Thou shalt not double park in the frozen food aisle lest those who are detained suffer from death by frost.
 8. Shoppers who realize they have bought too much and put milk and fresh fish aside at the checkout counter should be treated with compassion.
 9. There is goodness somewhere in women who have each of their five children go through the express line with six items each.
 10. Though shalt have patience with the shopper who cashes a check. On a bank in Leningrad. With no I.D. For 500 rubbles. At 5:30 in the evening. In the express line. Punch her out later in the parking lot.

Dance Class To Begin Here

Interested persons are invited to join round dance lessons, which will begin Nov. 3 at the Community Center under sponsorship of the Merry-Go-Rounders Round Dance Club.

Les Grumke of Amarillo will be instructor for the weekly classes, which will cost $25 per couple.

Psychology Background Advantage To Mother

By DIANNE BANNER
Brand Staff Writer

Having an in-depth understanding of psychology, Mrs. George Pratt uses this knowledge in raising her 18-month-old son Geody.

"Since I do have a degree in education, my specialty is working with children who have learning disabilities which can be traced back to an emotional problem. I want to help Geody to build a self-concept of himself and to think that he isn't anything less than a person."

Mrs. Pratt attended Phillips University in Oklahoma and received her bachelor's degree in secondary language arts. She then attended Oklahoma State where she received her master's in secondary reading, and her doctorate in education.

When asked how she felt about punishment and discipline she answered, "I don't like to think of spanking a child because of the parent's anger -- most of the time the child doesn't plan to do something in order to anger his parents. Spanking is needed at times when he knows he is doing wrong. A lot of children don't react to punishment but they do if you reason with them and discipline them."

Before coming to Hereford, Mrs. Pratt was employed by the Community Speech and Hearing Center in Enid, Okla. She was a reading specialist and head of the reading department.

Her husband George was a new car salesman in Enid, where they had their home. He is now the owner of Pratt Chevrolet.

The family of three resides at 300 Elm St.

Mrs. Pratt is a member of Hereford Newcomers Club and, as of yet, hasn't planned on joining any other clubs. "I want to spend as much time as possible with Geody. These are his most precious years and I can't afford to miss any of them."

"I'm not prone to leave him with a babysitter unless it is my mother."

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R.W. Tatro come to Hereford from Enid every other week to visit their only daughter, son-in-law and grandson.

Mrs. Ragsdale Joins Veleda Study Club

Fourteen members of Veleda Study Club met Monday night in the home of Mrs. Laurence Rutherford for their regular business session.

During business, Mrs. Mack Ragsdale was introduced as a new member. Also, a motion was approved to donate money to Friends of the Library.

Mrs. Frank Zinser introduced the guest speaker, John Gilliland, a paramedic who presented a program on cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR). Stating that most people in medical careers are trained in CPR, Gilliland stressed the importance of a layman's knowledge of the life-saving procedure.

Gilliland continued, saying that the American Heart Association sponsors CPR classes frequently in this community. Such a course is planned during the first quarter of the new year in Hereford.

Members present were Mrs. Howard Birdwell, Bill Brady, Gid Brown, Hugh Clearman, Lloyd Crume, Armon Lauderback, Ken McLain, George Olson, John Poindexter, Mack Ragsdale, Carol Tucker, Bill Walden and Frank Zinser. The next meeting is scheduled Nov. 14 in the home of Mrs. Walden.

Gift Bazaar Is Saturday

Handmade articles and baked goods will be the drawing cards Saturday when members of Westway Home Demonstration Club sponsor their Country Christmas Bazaar at the Community Center. Sale hours will be from 9 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.

A number of social clubs and civic organizations have rented booths to display their wares, suggested as Christmas gifts. One booth will feature fresh spudnuts and hot coffee.

The public is urged to attend the bazaar.

Upcoming Carnival Promoted by Lodge

The Halloween Carnival to be held Saturday evening at IOOF Hall was the main business considered by members of Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 728 Tuesday night when they met in regular session.

Beginning at 7 p.m. at 205 E. 6th St., the carnival festivities will include a fishing pond, cake walk, gift bazaar and bingo. Drawings will be held throughout the evening and prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

The public is invited and parents are urged to attend with their children for a family-oriented evening of fun.

In other business, members voted to give a $25 donation to the "Gift of Life" Kidney Foundation program being sponsored by the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs.

Past noble grand Bessie Lawrence presided at the meeting and was hostess.

Members in attendance were Verna Sowell, Ada Hollabaugh, Susie Curtsinger, Sadie Shaw, Faye Brownlow, Francis Parker, Blanche Williamson, Bessie Saulcy, Peggy Lemons, Guy Lawrence and Gene Bishop.

After a period of fellowship, several members remained to work on a quilt being made.

Selling Senior Tickets

Patti Hendon, at left, gives Dana Hutchins, a fellow senior, her quota of tickets to sell for tomorrow night's senior class supper, to be held from 5-7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. The public is invited to attend the supper before the Homecoming football game against Lubbock high school at 7:30 o'clock in Whiteface Stadium. [Brand photo]

Prices at Grocery Level Til New Year

COLLEGE STATION—Expect fairly stable supermarket prices for the rest of the year, says Gwendolyn Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. Pork is trending down, along with adequate supplies of fresh seasonal vegetables and a number of fresh fruits—with apples in the lead.

Pork—as the supply increases—costs slightly less: Boston butt and loin-end roasts, shoulder steaks, quarter-join cut into chops, liver and roll sausage. In beef, aside from ground beef, features are chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks and beef liver.

In poultry and dairy products: egg supplies are ample—at least until holiday baking time, and currently Grade A large eggs are the best buy. Prices on fryers are reasonable, and turkey parts are low priced in some markets. Also, some dairy departments feature yogurt, sour cream and a variety of cheeses.

In produce, dry onions—now in good supply—cost less, along with new-crop cabbage and potatoes in 5, 8 and/or 15 pound bags. Broccoli, cooking greens, sweet potatoes, and hard and soft shell squash are good buys. Also carrots, cauliflower and pumpkins. And in canned vegetables, features are corn and all tomato products.

Apples are the main attraction at most fruit counters. Cranberries—of excellent quality—are priced about the same as last year, and Texas grapefruit is increasing in supply and in sugar content. Oranges are generally best priced by-the-bag; red grapes are in good supply and have attractive price tags.

CONSUMER WATCH-WORDS: Here are some "apple figures":

One bushel - 42 pounds
One bushel - 96 to 144 medium size apples
One pound - 2 large, 3 medium or 4 small apples
6 to 8 medium size apples - one 9" pie or 3 cups sauce

MRS. C. L. HUTCHINS

Beautiful fall weather has prevailed over the area for the past week. Dryland farmers have been busy harvesting their milo crop with yields averaging 10-20 bushels per acre. Large semi-cattle trucks are hauling cattle to various auction markets, on account of dry conditions and no available wheat pasture.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Hutchins and daughters Jeanne and Karla spent Saturday through Monday in Midland, attending Mrs. Hutchins' family get-together. The family gathered in the home of her grandmother Ruby Vaughan.

Mrs. Clyde Shadix and her daughter Thelma Landsperg, visited with her mother and grandmother Jennie King, who resides at Prairie Acres Rest Home in Friona Monday afternoon.

Mrs. King a pioneer of the Bellview community will observe her 84th birthday November 1st and is listed in serious condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Burnett returned home Eriday from a week's fall vacation. The Burnetts enjoyed driving to North Platt, Neb. where they transacted business, then to Kansas, points in Colorado and on to Arizona where they viewed the Grand Canyon from the rim drive. They also spent two nights sightseeing at Las Vegas, Nev.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cross Jr. and children Joey and Susan were delighted to have as their guests last week, her mother Lillie Washburn and her sister Linda Vaughn, both of Pampa. Sunday dinner guests in the Arnold Cross Jr. home included his brother and wife Mr. and Mrs. Honel Cross of Hereford, a brother Mike Cross and his mother Lula Cross of Bellview. The group enjoyed a Mexican dinner.

The Rosedale Community Center held their October monthly meeting; Thursday evening with sixteen members attending and five guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Cross Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Burnett were host and hostesses for the social event. Leonard Mitchell, president, conducted the business meet-

Nov. 3, is the date of the next meeting with Ruth Ridley and Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs Rucker as hostess. A special welcome party will be given for Mr. and Mrs. Travis Stovall, who moved to the community this summer and a Farewell party for Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Burnett and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rierson, who sold their farms and moved to Clovis, N.M. last month. All residents are urged to attend, including friends from Hereford.

Lynn Hughes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Hughes of State-line road, received injuries to his left leg last week. Lynn was riding a horse in the pasture when another horse kicked at his horse hitting Lynn's leg. He was taken to Parmer County Community Hospital in Friona for emergency treatment. He received several bruises and lacerations. He is still recuperating at his home.

Garry Dee Reese of Haywood, Calif., arrived Tuesday to visit with his mother Mrs. Mollie Reese and sister Mable Hutchins.

Mrs. Reese is still suffering from a foot infection.

Marie Green of Seguin and her sister Dorothy Justus of Clovis, N.M., both former residents, visited Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Schell and daughter Jamie Lynn and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Burnett.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Pearce of Abernathy were weekend and family, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Mote and sons Wesley and David.

Glen Pulliam was in Friona Tuesday having dental work.

Mollie Reese announced the birth of her second great-great-grandchild, a son born to Jim and Tynetta Wetzel of Andrews on Oct. 8. The baby weighed 8 lbs. 14 ozs. and has been named Corey Wayne.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James Dee Reese of Amarillo and great-grandfather is Garry Dee Reese of Hayward, Calif.

Ruby Foster returned to her home Friday after having surgery on her wrist and arm recently at Lubbock Methodist Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Foster spent the night after her release from the hospital in the home of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wyatt and son Dennis in Lubbock.

Guests visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Foster this past week included Lois Foster of Clovis, Mr. and Mrs. Jordan Miller, Opal Potts, Mrs. C.L. Hutchins, Rev. Richard Clymer and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stockton of Clovis.

Retirement Insurance High-Priced Program

COLLEGE STATION—Some insurance policies "super endow" the retiree, says Lynn White, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Retirement Income Policies are fine for some—primarily, they save for people who would not save otherwise. But they are high priced insurance plans, the specialist says, and policyholders would realize greater income from other savings plans—if they could force themselves to save.

Although the cash value on a retirement income policy is high, so are the premiums. In fact, in later years, cash value is greater than face value.

At this point, the endowment policy is no longer protecting the policy holder. Instead, the

City Manager Not Reinstated

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court rejected efforts Wednesday by a city manager to get his job back and a young Republican to get the University of Texas student newspaper out of politics.

Julian Keaton had asked the supreme court to reinstate him as city manager of Kingsville, a position he held from 1970 to 1974.

Keaton was fired after he said he would not abide by an out-of-court settlement to reinstate Margaret Saenz as city tax assessor-collector.

The settlement was reached after Ms. Saenz - appointed on a temporary basis by Keaton - complained to the regional Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that Keaton later passed over her and chose a man for the assessor-collector's job.

The basis of her complaint was sex discrimination.

In the newspaper suit, Republican law student Howard Hickman, a supporter of Ronald Reagan for president in 1976, sued to stop The Daily Texan from editorializing on elections.

Hickman sued in 1976 after the Texan had published editorials favorable to Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign and endorsed Tom Lorange for the state supreme court and Republican Walter Wendlandt for railroad commissioner.

Hickman claimed the mandatory fee imposed by university regents to support the Texan "forces an association between" them that Hickman "does not care to enter or to continue."

The supreme court agreed with the Austin Court of Civil Appeals that a trial judge's refusal to grant Hickman a temporary injunction - pending a hearing on the suit's merits - would not cause Hickman to suffer any injury.

In other cases, the high court: Affirmed a $108,400 judgment against Lone Star Gas Co. for the family of Herbert Roach, whose head was torn in a 1973 gas well explosion in Leon County. The family had sought $501,410.

Affirmed a $35,100 judgment for William Davis against Wilson N. Jones Memorial Hospital in Grayson County. Davis sued after an orderly who was hired before his references were checked allegedly tried to remove a catheter improperly from Davis' bladder.

The Waco Court of Civil Appeals noted that if the hospital had checked references, it would have found that orderly Leslie Looman had been expelled after one month from Navy Medical Corps School.

-Stuck down a rule cited by appeals courts in 1933, 1934 and 1967 and held that Johnnie Slaughter could recover $49,300 from the Abilene State School.

Slaughter, a school employe, sustained severe back injuries when another employe backed a tractor over him.

The trial court allowed testimony of a doctor who had seen Slaughter only one time and based his opinion partly on what Slaughter said was his medical history.

Earlier cases had held that a doctor's testimony was inadmissible if he examined the patient solely for the purpose of testifying and his opinion was based in part on the patient's version of his medical history.

The appeals court reversed the trial court, but the supreme court overturned that ruling and affirmed the trial court decision.

Committees Approve Solar Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) - House and Senate energy conferees voted Wednesday to make moderate-interest loans of up to $8,000 available to homeowners who install solar energy equipment.

The conferees are working to compromise the non-tax aspects of energy legislation previously passed by each house of Congress. Meanwhile, the full Senate entered its second day of debate on legislation containing some $40 million in tax breaks but none of the energy taxes proposed by President Carter.

Conferees generally went along with the Senate approach that there should be a solar energy loan program in addition to possible tax credits for such equipment.

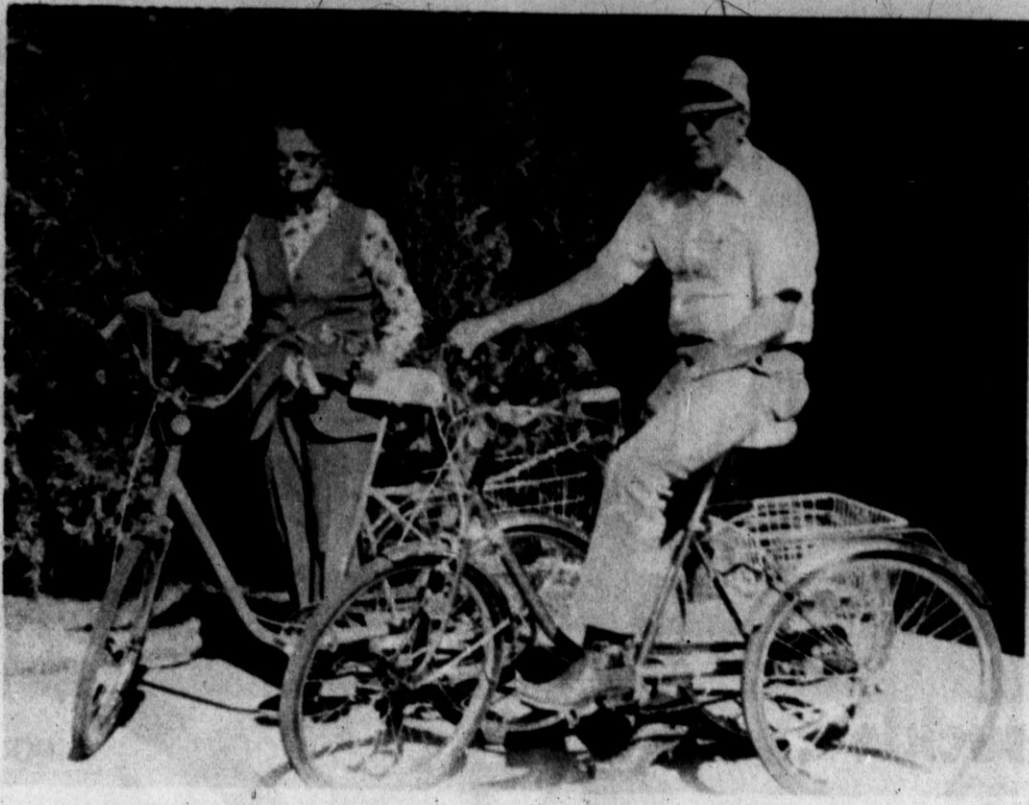

The House-passed bill allows tax credits of up to $2,150 for home solar improvements but does not contain a loan program. The Senate has yet to vote on the tax credits.

As a compromise, the conference committee agreed to the loan program but decided against the 4 percent interest government loans approved by the Senate.

Instead, it voted to have the government subsidize solar energy loans and offer consumers interest rates ranging from 7 1/2 percent to about 12 percent - higher rates than those under the Senate Bill but lower than those generally available from lending institutions.

Conferees also agreed that consumers could not take full advantage of both the loan program and the tax credits. The compromise provides that those wishing to receive a tax credit would have to subtract that amount from the $8,000 loan ceiling.

Opponents of the $40-billion package of energy tax credits in the bill now before the full Senate are about to get a chance to write their own energy bill.

They'd Rather Bike Than Switch to Walking

By KEITH RIBNICK Brand Staff Writer Biking is a big thing to Mr. and Mrs. P.H. Jayroe of Hereford.

The Jayroes, both in their 60's, try to ride their three-wheeled bicycles around town at least once a day; rain or shine.

"We began riding shortly after we moved to Hereford in 1973. We've been riding ever since," Jayroe said.

Since 1973, the Jayroes have chalked up many miles on their

"bikes." Mrs. Jayroe has logged more than 3,600 miles on her bicycle mile gauge, while Jayroe has topped the 4,000 mile mark. According to Jayroe, the mile gauges may not be accurate because the couple's individual totals are close to 5,000 miles each.

"It's definitely good for our health. Our doctor said to keep it up. These bicycles really help."

Originally from downstate Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Jayroe were both raised on farms and are "used to hard work." Their families moved to Lamesa in the early 1920's and the Jayroes met. They married in 1927 and moved to Amarillo. The Panhandle City was their home until Jayroe retired from the Postal Service in 1965.

They moved to Hereford in 1973.

Jayroe has arthritis and cannot walk around easily. Riding a bike is easier and faster than walking for Jayroe, plus it keeps him in good shape.

"I can make it to downtown and back in just 17 minutes. I usually pay bills and go to the bank on my bike. It sure saves gas."

"One day we rode 21 miles, but not without stopping. We usually ride three or four miles a day, but sometimes have ridden eight or more miles. It just depends on the day."

"We had to learn to steer them; it was like learning to drive a car. It didn't take too long."

The Jayroes have two sons - Melvin, a Hereford realtor, and Glen, a Houston industrialist. They have five grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

While active members of the First Nazarene Church, Jayroe is also active in a local organization for civil service retirees.

The Jayroes are looking forward to surpassing the 10,000 mile mark on their bicycles.

Jayroe summed up his feeling toward their newest pastime: "They're definitely not for sale."

Green Denies Allegations

PALESTINE, Tex. (AP) - Third District Attorney Bill Green, fighting to retain his law license, has denied at his disbarment trial that he engaged in a homosexual act in a peep show booth at an Austin adult bookstore.

Testimony continues today in the suit brought by the State Bar of Texas. The Bar alleges three counts of misconduct by Green, convicted last spring on a charge of public lewdness in connection with the bookstore incident.

Green, arrested in the booth with another man, testified Wednesday that he went to Mr. Peeper's Bookstore to learn what sex-related items Austin authorities would allow to be sold.

The trip, he said, was prompted by conversations with Palestine Police Chief Kenneth Berry regarding enforcement of pornography laws here.

But he admitted community standards in Palestine and those in Austin would vastly differ.

Green has appealed his conviction on the public lewdness charge.

He was also charged with escape from custody after he allegedly fled from arresting officers. He has not been tried on that charge.

The disbarment suit is based on the public lewdness and escape charges as well as aggravated perjury the Bar alleges he committed during his trial on the public lewdness charge.

During questioning Wednesday, Green said he fled police officers when they told him he was under arrest because "they didn't look like police officers."

He said he considered calling police from a room in the Stephen F. Austin Hotel where he escaped from what he said he believed were "hippies" who meant him harm. "I couldn't imagine how such a conversation might sound and thought the police might think I was drunk," he added.

Before resting its case Wednesday morning, the plaintiffs called Frank Miller, an Austin police sergeant who said he saw Green engaged in a homosexual act in the booth, and Ed Kohler, an Austin uniformed policeman who was present when Green was arrested.

In opening arguments, Carr told jurors he will show that Green's arrest was planned by political enemies.

Shuttle Passes Last Test

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) - With Prince Charles of England in the gallery, the Space Shuttle Enterprise passed its fifth and final test Wednesday - a short, steep glide to a bumpy yet safe landing on a concrete desert runway.

As it touched down, the 93-ton shuttle rocked on the landing strip, hopped back into the air and then set down again safely.

Today's one minute, 55 second flight was the last time the shuttle was to be dropped in flight by its Boeing 747 companion craft.

The test glide - shorter and steeper than the other four - was conducted to see how the shuttle handled landing on a concrete runway, which is what the ship will use as it returns from its voyages into space.

The next flight for the shuttle will be the real thing, a trip into earth orbit and back early in 1979.

Prince Charles, as part of his three-day visit to Southern California, flew by helicopter the 100 miles from Los Angeles to this vast desert Air Force base to watch the landing with NASA officials at a special viewing stand near the runway.

The shuttle's final test landing was more dramatic than the other four, all of which used a smooth, vast, dry lake bed for a landing strip on which a pinpoint touchdown was not necessary.

Much like a jet airliner landing during high winds, the shuttle's huge rubber tires struck the concrete and the craft jumped several yards back into the air, its stubby wings swaying from side to side.

There was a sigh of relief among NASA officials watching in a monitor room when the Enterprise stayed on the runway and rolled to a safe stop.

Astronauts Fred "Pete" Haise and Gordon Fullerton, who alternated during the tests flights with Joe Engle and Richard Truly at the controls, flew the final test, with Haise in command. It was the third trip for the pair.

After the flight, Haise and Fullerton climbed down from the cockpit and went over to Prince Charles, himself a pilot, to be congratulated.

The craft is now scheduled to be flown to the Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala. There it will be joined with booster rockets and tested for vibration and stability.

The booster rockets are used to shoot the craft into orbit. Returning from space, the shuttle will land in a manner similar to a glider.

Santa Rosa Seeks Funding for Plant

SANTA ROSA, Tex. (AP) - Following the example set by Crystal City, the mayor of this impoverished Rio Grande Valley town has asked Sen. Edward Kennedy to help Santa Rosa obtain federal funding for a new water and sewage plant.

Mayor James E. Cameron wrote Kennedy last month, calling the senator's attention to the $310,000 federal grant given Crystal City after that South Texas town had its gas cut off for refusing to pay its bill, and to the $630,000 granted to nearby Harlingen for a new city auditorium.

"Certainly you will agree that our water problems deserve just as much attention," read the Sept. 29 letter.

Santa Rosa officials said the town's predominately Mexican-American population is forced to pay $3.50 for bottled drinking water or drink the "salty, stink-tasting" water from the town's well.

"Our water well is in a sand formation and the previous well caved in," noted Carl Arnold, an administrative assistant to the mayor. "We're afraid this one will do the same."

Arnold added that in one month the town had been cited for 12 violations by the Texas State Department of Health Resources.

"The state will not approve another water well and the present well doesn't satisfy the state standards," continued Arnold. "It's not like we're not trying to help ourselves but we just don't have the tax base to fund a new water plant. And water without sewage is like talking about an arm of a man - they go together."

"It's not like we're not trying to help ourselves but we just don't have the tax base to fund a new water plant. And water without sewage is like talking about an arm of a man - they go together."

Santa Rosa officials said they need "about $350,000" to rejuvenate their water system.

"Santa Rosa is largely a migratory town," said Arnold.

"People come here to put their kids in school and the families leave during the summer. The latest census figure shows Santa Rosa with a population of 1,466 with a per capita income of $1,268. Our actual population is probably 2,500 but we are close to the border and a lot of people didn't want to be counted. The town is 99 percent Hispanic and that's a conservative figure."

Arnold also said the city needs funds to purchase a new garbage truck. "We have an old one that we bought second-hand and it won't last much longer."

The town received $6,202 in federal government revenue-sharing funds last year to compliment "about $10,000" in collected city taxes.

"Most of that money goes to street maintenance," explained Arnold. "You could call Santa Rosa a bedroom community because most of the people here have to travel to Harlingen or McAllen to work. We rely on them to make money so they can pay the taxes and it's expensive for them to get to and from work, particularly on our lousy roads."

Arnold said letters have also been written to U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, State Sen. Raul Longoria, and State Rep. Michoel Chavez.

"We don't expect much help from Sen. Kennedy," Arnold said. "But maybe our local, national and state representatives can help us."

Testimony Forces New Murder Trial

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) - Raymond Riles, sentenced to die, is entitled to a new trial because the state presented testimony of an armed robbery that occurred 40 minutes after the slaying, the Court of Criminal Appeals ruled Wednesday.

The appeals court said the state already had coupled the slaying with robbery of the deceased and did not need the later robbery to get the death penalty.

According to court records, Riles accompanied a friend to the John Henry Motors in Houston in 1974 where the friend complained about a car he had purchased there and demanded his down payment back.

John Henry told the friend he could not refund the money but would try to fix the car. Riles pushed Henry, who fell, and Riles and his friend, Herbert Washington, pulled guns.

Riles shot Henry in the back, the evidence showed. The bullet went into the brain but did not kill Henry immediately. Riles stood over Henry, straddling him, and demanded money. Henry gave him a roll of bills.

Washington and Riles fled. Forty minutes later, they entered Herby's Foods and asked for jobs. The manager said he had no jobs. They asked to fill out application forms. The manager said it would be useless.

Washington and Riles then pulled their guns and robbed the manager, his wife and store of a total of about $1,860 and fled.

Officers unaware of the offenses became suspicious because the holes in the rear license plate of Washington's car did not match and the men wore gloves. A chase up to 100 miles an hour followed.

Washington's car collided with a truck. He and Riles engaged in a gunfight with the officers and fled but were caught soon afterward.

The prosecution offered testimony on the food store holdup under an exception - the theory of flight - to the rule against presenting evidence of more than one crime against an accused at one trial.

The appeals court sent the case back for a new trial, saying, "We cannot conclude under these circumstances that flight is shown so as to justify the admission of extraneous offenses on that theory."

Powers Trade Lecturers

MOSCOW (AP) - The American and Soviet armed forces have quietly begun an exchange of lecturers as part of "confidence building" between the two super-powers, according to U.S. and Soviet sources.

The first lectures, which neither the American nor the Soviet side publicized at the time, took place Sept. 26 in Moscow and Sept. 28 in Leograd. Brig. Gen. John C. Bard, commandant of cadets at the U.S. military Academy at West Point, lectured two groups of high-ranking Soviet officers on American Pacific amphibious operations in World War II.

The Soviets will send a lecturer to U.S. military institutes next month, American sources said, but the topic of the talk is not yet known.

A Soviet Defense Ministry spokesman acknowledged the exchange program Wednesday and said the American talks "were very interesting but from the historical point of view there was almost nothing new. In our opinion the lecture of the Russian speaker to be given in the United States has been better prepared."

"An exchange of this type is very useful for Soviet-American relations and for detente in general." The Soviet spokesman said. "The speeches were given in good Russian."

Bard, a former student of Russian, read his speech in Russian from a prepared text.

American sources said Bard's 50-minute talk was politely received by the Soviet officers and several questions were asked. They said the speech revealed no current American military information.

Sources said the lecture exchange began with a proposal more than a year ago by Gen. George S. Brown, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff. The U.S. and Soviet armed forces have been moving cautiously toward a policy of exchanges, particularly since the signing of the 1975 Helsinki agreement on European security and cooperation.

A delegation of advanced students from the U.S. National War College visited the Soviet Union in May of this year and the Soviets sent a return delegation to the United States in September.

The United States also invited Maj. Gen. Alexander Knyrkev, the Soviet defense attaché in Bonn, West Germany, to attend American maneuvers in southern Germany last month. Knyrkev declined that invitation, but did visit West German maneuvers.

American sources said the exchange of lectures is a pilot program that eventually could become a regular fixture of U.S.-Soviet military relations.

Inheritance Battle Erupts over Singer

ATHENS, Greece (AP) - A legal battle over Maria Callas' uncounted inheritance has erupted between her estranged Italian husband and her mother, both of whom played key roles in launching the late opera singer's career.

Miss Callas' 74-year-old mother, Evangelia Calogero-poulos, said in an interview here Wednesday that she was challenging claims by Italian industrialist Giovanni Battista Meneghini, from whom the soprano won a divorce in 1971.

Meneghini, 80, is disputing the validity of the divorce, which was granted in Brescia, Italy, more than six months after Italy legalized divorce. He also claims Miss Callas, who died of a heart attack in Paris Sept. 16, wrote a will naming him as her heir.

Mrs. Calogero-poulos denied the 53-year-old singer left a will. "Maria never had time to prepare one because she died so suddenly," her mother said. "But she had already made quite clear to all lawyers concerned that my daughter and I were in effect the sole heirs."

She said Miss Callas left a "very large" amount of money and property that was still being counted.

Meneghini was not available for comment.

Miss Callas was raised by her mother in New York and Greece after her parents were separated. Mrs. Calogero-poulos started her on music lessons at age 8 and encouraged her to enter amateur singing competitions.

Meneghini met Miss Callas when she was a struggling, overweight performer in Italy and spent vast sums to make her a star. They were married in 1949, and two years later her career flourished with a break-through performance at Milan's La Scala opera house.

She left him in 1958 and began a long romance with Aristotle Onassis.

The legal battle got under way Monday when Meneghini took legal and Greek consular officials to the singer's Paris apartment and had it sealed. He is trying to get a French court to back his claim that the apartment and other property was willed to him.

Mrs. Calogero-poulos said she had hired "France's very best lawyer" and sent her other daughter Jackie, 47, to look after the case.

The mother said Miss Callas and Meneghini divided their wealth when they were divorced.

"What does this old man want now?" she asked. "With what right has he appeared out of nowhere to interfere with our family affairs? We hardly heard from the man since their separation."

Spindle Side

Females in Anglo-Saxon clans were called the "spindle side" of the family as they did all the spinning of flax into cloth. Women were not fit to marry until they had spun their dowry of flax. In 1685, the colony of Massachusetts passed a decree requiring every family to weave three pounds of cloth a week, and set up quotas based on the number of women in a household. Unmarried women were appointed as "spinsters" to meet the quotas.

4th Elderly Woman Killed in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP) - Police are withholding details of a murder in hopes of thwarting what they say may be a "publicity hungry" killer believed responsible for the sexual assault and strangulation of four elderly women.

The body of Martha Thurmond, 69, a retired elementary school teacher, was found Tuesday morning in her home. The only detail released was that Mrs. Thurmond, like the other victims, was strangled.

All four slayings have taken place since Sept. 16 in a one square mile area of a residential neighborhood where many widows and single women live, police said.

Muscogee County Coroner Don Kilgore said other information was being withheld because police believe the killer may "be a guy who's publicity hungry."

"There's been too much lit out about this case already and we're going to try something different," he said.

On Sept. 16, the body of Ferne Jackson, 59, was found in her home. Nine days later, Jean Dimenstein, 71, was found strangled in her home and, last Friday, neighbors discovered the body of 89-year-old Florence Sheible, who police say was almost blind.

Each lived alone and was found lying on her back in bed with a pillow over her face. Each appeared to have been struck in the face.

In each case, the woman had been strangled with a stocking and sexually assaulted.

After Tuesday's slaying, Gov. George Busbee offered to send Georgia Bureau of Investigation agents into the area to help local police. He also raised a state reward for information about the cases from $2,000 to $5,000 in an effort to stop what he called a "reign of terror" in Columbus.

Ancient Republic

Iceland's Althing is the oldest parliamentary assembly in the world, dating from 930. In 1262, Iceland united with Norway and in 1380, Iceland and Norway came under Danish rule. In 1918, Denmark recognized Iceland's independence but the Danish sovereign continued to be king of Iceland. In 1944, the Althing voted to dissolve this last tie with Denmark.

German Tourist Does U-Turn at East Coast

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — Erwin Kreuz will visit San Francisco. Really, San Francisco.

Kreuz is the West German tourist who got off a chartered plane when it stopped for fuel in Bangor Oct. 7. Believing he was in San Francisco, he wandered about town for four days before learning that he was on the wrong coast.

Kreuz accepted an invitation Tuesday by The San Francisco Examiner to fly him and an interpreter to the West Coast on Friday.

The 50-year-old brewery worker plans to head back home to Augsburg, West Germany, on Monday.

Examiner City Editor Jim Willse said the newspaper planned to put Kreuz and his interpreter up with a family that speaks German.

"We thought it would be a shame if Mr. Kreuz went back to Europe without seeing San Francisco," Willse said. He said the trip would cost the newspaper about $1,000.

Kreuz, who speaks no English, said during the first few days, he thought he was in a suburb of San Francisco, and when he dined in one of Bangor's two Chinese restaurants, it reinforced his belief. He said he had seen pictures of suburban California where the hills looked like those around Bangor. He's heard about San Francisco's Chinatown.

The red cheeked, smiling Kreuz realized something was wrong when he was forced to leave his Bangor hotel, which was booked full for an upcoming special college weekend.

Hotel personnel contacted the owners of a German-American restaurant who then befriended the tourist and have been showing him the sights of Maine.

College Student Charged With Family's Deaths

BRUNSWICK, Ohio (AP) — Michael Swihart jogs every day and lifts weights, say friends. But that may not have been enough for his father, whose heavy emphasis on sports reportedly touched off an argument that preceded his bludgeoning death and those of his wife and two other sons.

Michael, an 18-year-old college freshman, has been charged with aggravated murder in the slayings of his father, Donald, 41; his mother, Sue; and brothers Brian, 16, and Russell, 9.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer reported Wednesday that police sources said the killings followed a confrontation between the elder Swihart and Michael.

Swihart had encouraged his sons to participate in sports, the newspaper reported. The Plain Dealer said father and son argued in the family room of the Swihart house Sunday night.

Michael told police his father stood before him with a baseball bat in his hands and asked his son if he thought he would ever learn to use "one of these," the newspaper reported.

Michael allegedly beat his parents and brothers either to death or into unconsciousness with the bat, poured gasoline on the bodies and lit a match, the newspaper reported.

County Prosecutor Roger Ingraham said the blast literally blew Michael out of the house. He was uninjured. Autopsies are not complete, but Medina County Coroner Andrew Karson said all the bodies bore head injuries.

TACT To Investigate Salary Appropriations

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Association of College Teachers (TACT) said Wednesday it is launching an investigation into what it called questionable use of faculty salary appropriations by Texas colleges and universities.

TACT executive director Frank L. Wright said a consultant will be hired to study college budgets for evidence of diversion of faculty salary appropriations to administrative salaries and other unauthorized expenses.

"Previous research by our organization showed that faculty salaries have been declining proportionately while administrative salary ratios have been rising since 1968," Wright said.

"If some of current faculty salary allocations are being diverted to administrative costs the decline is even greater,"

Wright said faculty salaries declined from a 54.2 percent share of Texas public universities' budgets in 1968 to 44.9 percent in 1977. During the same period, allocation for administration rose from a 7.4 percent share to a 9.2 percent share.

President Carter on Balance

President Carter's public approval rating is now less than 50 percent. History says some decline is inevitable as any new President becomes more deeply involved in durned-if-you-durned-if-you-don't controversy.

Rosalynn Carter says Jimmy is "a very strong President, tough."

And she says that anybody who does not agree that her husband is "doing a great job" is "uninformed."

What do you think? Traveling somewhere two and three days a week gives me a pretty good feel of the political pulse in "Peoria."

Historically, President, theater producers and product promoters always guesstimated hinterland response by test-marketing Peoria, Ill.

I have a chance to visit two or three "Peorias" every week.

And invariably, recently, the questions about how President Carter is doing are greeted with more questions than answers.

Where there are special interests involved—such as oil and gas—his critics are more vehement.

But about the best you ever hear is a "so-far-so-good." Mostly, the electorate is withholding a verdict, awaiting more evidence.

Professional Republicans are becoming more overtly critical.

Two of the Republicans who have a fighting chance for the next GOP presidential nomination, Jim Thompson of Illinois and John Connally of Texas, are now calling the President "inept" and "inadequate" and "one of the poorest ever."

Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) urges the President to disentangle himself from foreign affairs and tend to the neglected homefronts.

And among the most vigorous opponents of the President's tax and energy and treaty proposals are fellow Southern Democrats.

Mr. Carter recently sought to nudge congressional Democrats back into line with a public declaration that he was "getting more help" from Republicans in Congress.

All that remark did was to chill some Republicans.

Nobody really has a clear understanding of Carter Administration objectives, partly because his decisions appear to be based more on expediency than on philosophy.

This is not necessarily bad—keeping your options open and subject to change—but it engenders no confidence and almost never enthusiasm.

President Eisenhower once said, "It takes a great deal more courage to walk alone down the middle of the road, being stoned from both sides, than to walk down either side in the comparative security of your extremist friends."

Perhaps for this while we need another President who is more catalyst than combatant.

House To Vote On Payroll Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is heading to ward passage of a bill to keep the Social Security system from going broke by drastically increasing the payroll taxes paid by American workers and their employers.

The House was to resume consideration of amendments today, with the final vote following.

In its most important decision during nine hours of debate Wednesday, the House voted 386 to 38 against immediately bringing more than six million government workers under Social Security.

Including the government workers would have reduced the tax bite needed to keep the system afloat because the additional wage earners would increase the tax revenues going into Social Security.

The House vote approved an amendment deferring for at least two years any decision on making Social Security mandatory for employees of federal, state and local governments and of nonprofit organizations. The House Ways and Means Committee had voted to bring the workers into the system immediately.

Under the bill as amended, the maximum Social Security tax for both employees and employers would go up during the next decade from the present $965 per year to $2,982. Without the amendment, the maximum tax in 1987 would have been $250 less.

The amendment, proposed by Rep. Joseph L. Fisher, D-Va., calls for a two-year study of bringing the workers, the last remaining major groups not under Social Security, under the program.

Federal workers now have separate retirement plans and employees of state and local governments and of nonprofit organizations have the option of forming independent plans.

Fisher argued, "The consequences of extending coverage to all workers has not been adequately studied."

Backers of the Fisher amendment said it would be unfair to phase out separate pension plans on which workers have made retirement plans.

"Imagine this situation," said Rep. Herbert E. Harris, D-Va., who like Fisher represents a district containing many federal employees.

"You have been contributing to a retirement program for 15 years. You have planned your family and retirement on that basis. Then Congress tells you that there will be drastic changes in the plan," Harris said.

Opponents of the Fisher amendment cited numerous studies dating back to the 1930s recommending including government workers in Social Security. They said another study is unneeded and said the real reason for the heavy lobbying by groups of federal employees for the Fisher amendment was the opportunity they have for "double dipping."

"Double dippers" collect two government checks. For example, a person can retire from a government job and then accept a job covered by Social Security to qualify for a second pension.

Opponents of Fisher's amendments said 45 percent of retired government employees also collect Social Security pensions. They said that a person can collect a pension of $114 per month after paying as little as $111 into Social Security during his working life.

Nurse Testifies In Davis Trial

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A British-born nurse goes back on the stand today as attorneys for millionaire murder defendant Cullen Davis slash away at the credibility of shooting victim Gus Gavrel Jr.

Two defense witnesses testified Wednesday that Gavrel told them minutes after the 1976 shooting spree at Davis's Fort Worth mansion that he did not know who shot him.

And, testifying outside the presence of the jury, nurse Paula Cockrum said she overheard Gavrel say he knew the man who shot him was Davis because he "recognized his voice."

But, she added, "he said he couldn't see him because it was too dark."

She was expected to repeat that testimony for the jury today.

Gavrel, 22, one of four gunshot victims that night, testified he recognized Davis in the split-second the gunman whirled and fired a bullet that remains lodged in his spine.

Gavrel's teen-age girlfriend Beverly Bass and the defendant's wife Priscilla also identified Davis as the trigger man in the murderous midnight assault.

Mrs. Davis was wounded and her lover Stan Farr killed in the gunfire but it is the slaying of the defendant's 12-year-old stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn for which Davis is on trial.

A Fort Worth policeman and a former ambulance driver testified Wednesday they knelt over the prone, gravely wounded Gavrel that night and asked who shot him.

"I don't know..." they both quoted him as saying.

Paul Goheen, 21, one of two attendants in the first ambulance to arrive at the scene, said he entered the mansion and saw Gavrel lying on the floor clutching a telephone receiver.

"The son-of-a-bitch doesn't work," he quoted Gavrel as saying. Goheen said he leaned over and asked him where he'd been shot and Gavrel answered:

"I don't know where I've been shot. Just get me out of here. He's going to come back and get me."

"Who?" Goheen asked.

"I don't know who. Just get me out of here. He's going to come back and shoot me."

Goheen said he and an aide loaded Gavrel into the ambulance where, at some point, Gavrel reached inside his pants and pulled out two plastic bags. "He handed them to me, saying 'get rid of this stuff,'" Goheen recalled.

"I looked at it for a second and decided to throw it out the window."

Asked if he could identify the leafy substance, Goheen replied, "It was marijuana."

Gavrel had testified he did not use nor did he have drugs in his possession that night. Prosecutors did not ask Goheen why he disposed of the marijuana, explaining that some questions are more effective with a jury when they are left unanswered.

Goheen said he also saw Gavrel's girlfriend Beverly Bass at the mansion and that her eyes were dilated and glassy and "very consistent" with a person who had taken drugs.

Prosecutors pointed out on cross-examination that a person who was extremely frightened and had been crying would have similar symptoms and Goheen conceded that was true. The witness also was asked if Miss Bass told him who shot Gavrel but a defense objection precluded a response.

Officer Jim Soders, the first policeman at the mansion, said he twice asked Gavrel who shot him.

"I don't know the man," he quoted Gavrel as saying. The second time, he said, Gavrel replied by saying, "get the ambulance."

Prosecutors contended Gavrel was in shock and did not know nor does he recall what he said at the time.

"Getting shot's a sobering thing," Goheen contended. "He knew what was going on. He knew he was hurt."

Meanwhile, Soders told the jury of responding to a radio call that night and encountering an excited Miss Bass at a convenience store near the mansion.

"She told me that her boyfriend had been shot," said Soders, who first told his story several weeks ago outside the presence of jurors.

"Who shot your boyfriend?" he said he asked the teenager. "Cullen Davis did," he recalled her saying. "I saw him do it. I know him."

Lava-less

Though an erupting volcano brings to mind pictures of flowing rivers of boiling lava, not all active volcanoes emit lava. Mount Taal in the Philippines, with a history of death and destruction, has spewed forth noxious gases, steaming hot ash and ash and white-hot rocks—but never lava.

Dusty Wavelengths

A good supply of dust can prevent a glowing sunset. When sunlight, comprised of light from various colored wavelengths, bumps into the atmosphere's dust particles, the component parts are scattered and deflected. The shorter wave lengths, especially the blue, spread more than the longer waves like red and yellow.

TCGA Plays Role In Move

Democratic Leaders Petition For Higher Supports On Grain

By JIM STEIERT
Brand Farm Editor

Leaders of the Texas Democratic Party voted to petition political leaders for higher price support loan levels and target prices for Texas grain during a recent meeting in Amarillo.

A resolution concerning the matter was presented by Carl King of Dimmitt, president of the Texas Corn Growers Association and district committeeman of the 31st district. The resolution calls for the Texas Democratic party to petition President Carter, Governor Dolph Briscoe, Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, Deputy Ag Secretary John White and the entire Texas congressional delegation in an effort to secure aid for grain producers.

A portion of the resolution calls for the implementation of "the greatest possible grain reserves and diverted acres, the highest price support loan levels, the highest allowable target prices, and a greater amount of funds made available in emergency FmHA low interest rate loans to farmers, so that this period of grain prices, far below cost of production, will be the shortest-lived possible so as not to financially ruin the grain producers of Texas and in turn the related livestock and other industries."

The resolution noted that "the best consumer interests of Texas and the United States have been served by a prosperous and bountiful agriculture, making possible the best quality and cheapest priced food in the world."

In presenting the resolution for consideration, the TCGA president commented, "The farm economy is at a very low ebb, so in the best interest of not only the farm economy but the economy of the nation as well, I present these resolutions to you, as in my judgement, this is one of the top priorities in our country today."

King continued, "Our balance of trade depends more on agricultural products than any other industry in the United States. When farmers are forced to leave the farm and the large corporation farmer eventually takes over, the consumer will be forced to pay a much, much higher price for food; and without agricultural products, the balance of trade deficit will be much greater, therefore creating a devaluation of the dollar all over the world."

The resolution introduced through the efforts of the TCGA and passed by the committee states: "Texas is a leading state in the production of grain sorghum; food grade corn and wheat; and other feed grains that support a leading U.S. cattle, lamb and swine feeding and slaughter industry, making available quality Texas-produced agricultural products for the U.S. and the world. Texas grain producers are having to produce at much less than cost of production and this cannot be sustained for long."

Low Refined Sugar Prices Result in Loss For Holly

COLORADO SPRINGS, Continued low refined sugar selling prices resulted in Holly Sugar Corporation's reporting a loss for the six months ended Sept. 30.

The beet sugar processor announced an estimated loss of $3.2 million, or $2.03 a common share, on sales of $82.7 million compared with an estimated net income of $3.1 million, or $1.93 a share, on sales of $103.5 million for the same period last year.

Bunker said that since then neither the Administration nor the Congress has been able to develop other than interim, stop-gap solutions.

"The Administration's rejection of the ITC's recommendations and its subsequent efforts to implement so-called 'support' programs, the first of which was abandoned as illegal, have been principally political charades which have served both to confuse the industry and the taxpayer with uncertainty and to astonish seasoned observers by offering a magic cure for the wrong ailment," Bunker said.

He pointed out that regulations for implementing the Farm Bill have not yet been proposed. The bill provides a loan and purchase provision for sugar.

He said that until final regulations are published and the result of the International Sugar Agreement conference in Geneva is known, "uncertainties and confusion will continue."

"Under these unsettled and difficult operating conditions, we believe that Holly's decisions earlier this year to enter into the related areas of corn sweetener production and cane sugar refining will serve the corporation and its shareholders well," Bunker said.

He also reported that these two California projects were proceeding on schedule.

Ban On Imported Liver Announced

All imported liver pate (paste) products bearing foreign establishment numbers "6707-C" and "6707-D" should be considered potentially harmful and should not be eaten warns, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA).

All ports in Texas and Louisiana have been notified of the ban by the Food Safety and Quality Service (FSQS), the USDA agency in charge of meat and poultry product inspection.

The imported items—all produced by Feyer, a meat and poultry processing plant in Strasbourg, France—are sold under various product names such as "Smoked Goose Pate," "Bloc De Foie Gras with Truffles," "Wild Boar Filets with Foie Gras and Truffles," and "Liver Pate."

Some 20 companies distribute the products from the Feyer plant in the U.S. The products are usually concentrated in large consuming centers where they are sold by gourmet and other specialty food shops, delicatessens, department stores and some supermarkets.

No future shipments of pate from Feyer will be passed for entry until corrective processing procedures have been developed and the plant recertified to assure commercial sterility of product for export to the U.S.

FSQS officials are searching for any of the products which may have slipped by before the ban was started. They are being removed from retail shelves and delicatessens.

Corn Stockpile Larger Than Predicted by USDA

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's stockpile of corn is slightly larger than Agriculture Department experts have been estimating, meaning that unless domestic and export demand rise more than currently projected, the surplus a year from now will be even larger.

As of the start of the new corn marketing year Oct. 1, the inventory was 878.8 million bushels, compared with 398 million a year ago, the department said Tuesday in a quarterly grain stocks report.

The department had been estimating the Oct. 1 corn carryover at 876 million bushels, the most since it was 1.13 billion on that date in 1972.

The 1977 corn harvest, currently estimated at 6.3 billion bushels, is more than experts say will be needed in the 1977-78 crop year. Thus, the corn reserve next Oct. 1 could rise to around 1.35 billion bushels, the most since nearly 1.54 billion bushels were left over on Oct. 1, 1964.

The report showed that the Oct. 1 corn inventory was about equally divided between grain stored on farms and in off-farm facilities.

A new supply and demand report based on the Oct. 1 information was scheduled to be released by USDA today. It was to include domestic use and export projections for the 1977-78 corn marketing year.

The quarterly report said the Oct. 1 stockpile of the four major feed grains - corn, sorghum, oats and barley - totaled 43.1 million metric tons, up 59 percent from a year ago. Besides corn stocks being more than double, sorghum reserves were up 77 percent, oats 27 percent and barley 8 percent.

The report also showed that stocks of wheat on and off farms were a record high of almost 2.4 billion bushels, up 10 percent from less than 2.19 billion a year ago.

The wheat marketing year runs from June 1 through the following May 31. By next June 1, when the 1978 wheat harvest will be ready, the wheat stockpile currently is expected to be about 1.2 billion bushels, the most since the early 1960s. Last June 1 the wheat reserve was 1.1 billion bushels and on June 1, 1975 it was 664 million bushels.

Ag-safety Tip

Members of farm and ranch families are the most susceptible to agricultural accidents, analysis of farm accident statistics by Sperry New Holland reveals. Some 88 percent of all farm and ranch accidents happen to family members, while eight percent to employees and three percent to guests and visitors.

BIG WHEEL around Iowa farm areas is Steve Boender of Oskaloosa with his tractor. It's a combination truck-tractor that he fashioned with the cab of a truck and the rear end and tires of a tractor. Boender put it together for some $600, which he says beats the $10,000 price tag on a new tractor.

Provision for federal and state income taxes is a credit of $4.1 million compared with an expense of $3.3 million last year.

These results are unaudited. The cost of producing sugar is based on the estimated effect of future refined sugar selling prices on the cost of sugarbeets and on estimates of the cost of processing sugarbeets yet to be harvested and delivered.

The company emphasized that for these reasons substantial adjustments with respect to the cost of sugarbeet and related processing costs may be necessary in future quarters and that the reported results must be considered with those uncertainties in mind.

In a letter to stockholders, Chairman John B. Bunker reported that there has been no improvement in domestic refined sugar selling prices from the level announced to stockholders in August.

"In fact, the market price of bulk sugar has declined from approximately $15.50 a hundredweight in early August to a present level of about $13.50," Bunker said.

He reported that during the first eight months of this year foreign sugar imports in this country were more than 16 percent ahead of last year.

"This homeless sugar sold in the United States at distress prices has continued to depress refined sugar selling prices in this country," Bunker explained.

He pointed out that the seriousness of this problem and the necessary corrective measures were reported to President Carter by the U.S. International Trade Commission last March.

Vega Young Farmers Will Host Candidates

The Vega chapter of the Young Farmers of Texas will host the five candidates for the 31st state senatorial seat in a special program at the Oldham County Barn Monday night at 7:30.

Candidates include Bob Price, Burk Whittenburg, Mel Phillips, Jim Brandon and Bob Simpson.

Each of the candidates will present his views concerning topical issues.

All interested persons are invited to attend.

I haven't made a determination, you can't decide, he can't make up his mind.

Ag-safety Tip

Consider any "close calls" a warning. After any near miss, review the events that caused it. Then, take appropriate action to prevent it from happening again.

When operating self-propelled farm equipment, Sperry New Holland safety engineers advise its operation be geared to the terrain. Reduce speed when turning, crossing slopes and on rough, slick or muddy surfaces.

"Arrogant, Aggressive and Ridiculously Stubborn" Maasai Are Africa's Problem Tribe

NAIROBI—(NEA)—One of their representatives to the Kenyan parliament recently threatened to resign if they, his constituents, didn't stop smearing themselves with red ochre and sauntering down the streets of Nairobi virtually naked.

"They are the proud, slender, handsomely regal and vain Maasai, the famed lion-killing, cattle-rustling warriors of Kenya and Tanzania, whose tribal death knell was sounded 60 years ago in a now-classic study

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Thursday, Oct. 27, the 30th day of 1977. There are 65 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1806, an army under Napoleon Bonaparte occupied the German city of Berlin.

On this date: In 1651, the Irish city of Limerick surrendered to the British after a long siege.

In 1659, two Quakers, William Robinson and Marmaduke Stevenson, were hanged for returning to the Massachusetts Bay Colony after being banned.

In 1858, the 28th American President Theodore Roosevelt, was born in New York City.

In 1920, the League of Nations transferred its headquarters from London to Geneva.

In 1942, during World War II, the U.S. government set a ceiling on salaries of $25,000 after taxes.

In 1973, a United Nations peace-keeping force arrived in Cairo to try to set up a lasting cease-fire between Israeli and Arab forces.

Ten years ago: The United States and Mexico formally settled a boundary dispute which had defied solution for nearly a century.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon announced the first sale of American corn to China.

One year ago: U.S. government sources said a sweeping investigation of South Korean political influence in Washington was under way, and a number of congressmen might be involved.

Today's birthdays: Actress Ruby Dee is 53 years old. Actress Teresa Wright is 58.

Thought for today: Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be. President Abraham Lincoln, 1809-1865.

entitled "The Last of the Maasai."

Yet despite this pessimistically premature and moving epitaph and despite all the current political, social and economic pressures which often take the form of veiled racism on the part of Kenya's politically potent Kikuyu tribe, the Maasai stubbornly continue to exist today as one of the most visible and tourist-attracting tribes in all of East Africa.

Exist? Yes. But the Maasai nevertheless are still a growing embarrassment to their own political leaders, who the Maasai do not trust, and to the central Kenyan and Tanzanian governments, to which the Maasai pay as little attention as possible.

"They are arrogant, aggressive and ridiculously stubborn about accepting the fruits of economic development and enterprise—such as the plunder of wildlife on their well-stocked land," John Eames, who is writing a book on the Maasai, observes with bitter irony.

The piercing and progressive stretching of Maasai children's ear lobes has been labeled "disgraceful" by a Tanzanian official. The Maasai males' refusal often to wear much, if anything, under their traditional short, red cloaks has been termed "primitive" by official Kenyan government edict. And the Maasai "morans"—the young, unmarried warrior class—are considered to be a useless and pitiful anachronism in most of modern Africa.

Even older Maasai, after graduating from the moran class into settled married life during their middle 20s, refuse to breed and raise cattle for the greater good of the Kenyan economy, but rather as a measure of personal or clan wealth and prestige and for the mixture of curdled milk and fresh, whole blood which still serves as a staple of the Maasai diet.

Maasai cattle are as seldom slaughtered for meat as they are sold on the open market. And occasionally they are set to graze on the laws of surprised and indignant Nairobi suburbanites when drought hits the vast and valuable lands set aside by treaty for the Maasai.

That Maasai elders control valuable land in a country hard pressed by a booming birth rate and a shortage of adequate grazing land for conventional herds is creating still another pressure on the Maasai. It is a pressure that the ambitious and sometimes avaricious Kikuyu, the tribe to which Kenya President Jomo Kenyatta belongs, are quite ready to take advantage of. Terrorized for centuries past by marauding Maasai warriors, whose ancient, complex and rigid traditions include the belief that all the cattle in the world are theirs to appropriate at will, the Kikuyu are not exactly agonizing over the prospect that Maasai culture may vanish from the face of Africa.

For some Kikuyu, "progress" means doing to the Maasai by edict what they were never able to do to them on the field of battle.

Recently, on the pretext that large numbers of cattle were being rustled, Kenyatta's elite internal security police, the General Services Unit, rounded up and arrested a large group of moran. The GSU, noted for respecting neither tribal traditions nor the niceties of Anglo-Saxon legal procedures, cut off the moran's elaborately braided hair, which had been carefully styled with animal fat and red ochre in a helmet-like fashion first described by the Greek historian Herodotus in the fifth century B.C.

To these and other insults and pressures the Maasai have reacted in a variety of ways, both noble and ignoble.

Unfortunately, most visitors observing Africa out of windows of tour buses see only the less noble aspects of what remains of Maasai culture. At the entrance to game parks and other tourist areas poorly dressed children, old Maasai women and even older Maasai men line the road, aggressively offering to pose for pictures (for a price, of course), selling beadwork made of gaudy plastic beads from Hong Kong rather than the traditional, softly hued, glass beads, or simply panhandling for a "shilling"—a Kenyan shilling worth about 13 cents.

These sad, cardboard replicas of a proud people should remind tourists, especially Americans, of the unhappy fate of the American Indian.

But other serious researchers, such as Eames, have made the effort to travel deep into Maasailand to witness more authentic and wholesome vestiges of ancient Maasai culture, such as the "enuota," the joyous coming out of the moran into the state of junior elders. Like many Maasai traditions the enuota is not approved by the government, since so many Maasai ceremonies are equated with acts of civil disobedience such as cattle rustling or the killing of lions with only a spear and shield for protection.

Eames was both impressed and distressed by what he saw: impressed by what had been preserved, distressed by what had been lost.

"They (the soon-to-be-elders) wore the Roman chiton, but lengthened to cover bare buttocks and other embarrassments by order of the government," he later reported. "For this reason, the short-worsts were not evident and sticks substituted for spears as the moran danced in their battle square formations."

Still, Eames found "it was an impressive military display ... with battalions of moran stirring the dust with their undulating or high-jumping to the drumming cadence of a war chant."

Between these two extremes—the mendicant peddlers and the anachronistic moran—many young Maasai males (women are still treated as chattel) are struggling to strike a dignified balance between their heritage and the demands of an emerging Africa.
