Teachers Re-Hired

Teachers in the Pampa Public School system were re-hired at a special called school board meeting held Thursday afternoon, school superintendent Knox Kinard reported this morning.

Only four teachers were not re-hired after informing Kinard's office they were resigning. "All other teachers were re-hired upon the recommendation of their respective school principals," Kinard remarked this morning.

The four teachers who have submitted their resignations left two vacancies at Pampa High School, one at Robert E. Lee Junior High and one at Sam Houston Elementary School.

Resigning at Pampa High School after seven years of service was speech and dramatics instructor, Miss Helen Schafer; and choir director William Hunt, who will end his third year here at the close of the current school semester.

Resigning at Robert E. Lee Junior High after two years in the Pampa school system was Bill Anders, physical education instructor and head basketball coach. Anders was a math instructor during the 1957-58 school year at Pampa High School.

Resigning at Sam Houston Elementary School was Miss Betty Jo Curtis, a first grade teacher. Miss Curtis joined the Sam Houston staff last fall.

Other teachers were retained for the 1959-60 school year.

The regular monthly meeting for May, originally scheduled for Monday afternoon, has been postponed until Monday, May 18, Kinard reported. The May 18 meeting will be held in the conference room adjacent to Kinard's office at Pampa Junior High and will be open to the public.

Thursday's special called meeting was a closed affair, lasting only an hour and a half.

Registration Begins For Scout Camp

Registration began Thursday at the Girl Scout office in City Hall for the four summer sessions of Day Camp.

Girl Scout Executive Director Jane Kadingo announced that Day Camp folders and registration cards are being distributed to Brownie and Intermediate Girl Scouts, and urged that girls register soon, ahead of the May 29 deadline.

The Top o' Texas Council plans four camps this summer for girls in its three and one-half county area. The camp will be held at Camp Mel Davis near Lefors.

The first six-day session, June 8-13, will be for Intermediate Scouts or for girls in the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Mrs. Fred Wall, Skellytown, will be director, with Mrs. R. C. Heaton, also of Skellytown, is business manager.

The final two sessions, beginning "fly-up camp," will be for girls who have completed fourth grade and are "flying up" into the intermediate program. Mrs. Kadingo will be director.

The final two session, beginning June 22 and July 6, will be for Brownie Scouts or girls in the second and third grades. Directors will be Mrs. Ben Graham and Mrs. L. B. Paden.

Registration fees, said Mrs. Kadingo, is $2 for Brownies, $4 for Intermediates, and $3.50 for Flyups. The fees will cover costs and transportation, insurance, equipment, program supplies, meals during overnights and other smaller expenses. Each camp, according to Mrs. Kadingo, will be supplemented by profits from the sale of Girl Scout cookies.

Borger Has ½ Million Fire

BORGER, Tex. (UPI) — Fire destroyed a Hub Clothing store in downtown Borger early today, and damaged two flanking businesses. Damage was expected to be near half a million dollars.

The fire was discovered shortly before 3 a.m.

The entire 16-man fire department in this Panhandle town battled the blaze for two hours before bringing it under control. The fire was contained within the one building.

Store officials estimated the fire damage would run close to $500,000. The store manager said there was over $150,000 worth of suits in the building.

The M. E. Moses variety store and a local clothing store operated by Ollie Hare were extensively damaged by smoke and water.

Only two side walls at the Hub clothing store were left standing this morning. It was a one-story building with a balcony.

Fire Chief N. G. Leonard said it was too early to even guess what started the blaze.

FEET TOO MUDDY

PIERRE, S. D. (UPI)—A caller who wanted to discuss "solicitations for weather experiments about the rain" declined Wednesday to enter the office of State Agriculture Secretary Ray Fitzgerald.

"My feet are muddy," he explained.

West Plans Rapped By Commie Radio

Position Of Reds Set Before Talks

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press International

LONDON (UPI) — Russia accused the West today of going into the Geneva conference Monday with a plan "which has little to do with a peace treaty or a Berlin settlement."

The broadcast by Moscow Radio was one of a series of propaganda statements in recent weeks aimed at setting forth the Soviet position before the world and discrediting the West in advance.

It coincided with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter's speech in which he warned that the American people should not expect a quick and easy end to the cold war that the Soviets' past record of negotiating "does not warrant much optimism."

Moscow made no direct reply to Herter's speech. Tass carried a lengthy factual account of the speech but did not comment.

The Moscow broadcast said Russia realizes the conference "has some definite problems to settle, and it should help to normalize relations between countries."

Moscow said no Western plan has materialized for a Berlin and German settlement. There seems to be a complex plan which has little to do with a peace treaty or a Berlin settlement," it said.

Moscow Radio quoted a dispatch by this correspondent that Russia almost certainly will reject the Western plan, and one from the Paris Journal saying Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko would find the plan unacceptable. The broadcast asked: "What is the purpose?"

"Certainly it is not the aim of the conference to achieve nothing," it said.

It said Premier Nikita Khrushchev "has stated several times that the U.S.S.R. is also willing to examine other proposals concerning a German peace treaty and the Berlin problem, so long as the proposals are intended to relax world tension."

Herter Off To Geneva

By THOMAS J. FOLEY
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter held last-minute talks with President Eisenhower today prior to flying to Geneva for face-to-face bargaining with the Russians.

Herter, in his first tough assignment as the West's chief negotiator, was prepared to make concessions at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference if Russia will give ground, too.

He and the President conferred privately at the White House for 20 minutes. A brief hospital visit with former Secretary John Foster Dulles might be fitted into Herter's schedule before he departs this afternoon.

Flying to Geneva by way of Bonn, Herter was to stop off for discussions with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He was to arrive in Geneva late Saturday for Monday's opening session of the foreign ministers' meeting.

Herter leaves today for the conference after a morning talk with President Eisenhower and possibly, a brief visit with former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Doesn't Expect Much

Flying by way of Bonn, Herter was to stop off for discussions Saturday with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He planned to arrive in Geneva Sunday for the conference which opens Monday.

In his maiden address to the nation as secretary of state, Herter pledged the West "honestly and in good faith to seek some advance, even if small, toward a just peace" in bargaining with the Soviets.

Nevertheless, he candidly admitted, "I do not go to Geneva with great expectations. The past record of negotiating with the Soviets does not warrant much optimism."

"We should not expect quick or easy agreement," he said. "The best we can look for is slow progress toward the ultimate goal of international stability which only a just peace will bring."

Addressing himself directly to the Soviet Union, Herter dismissed as unfounded any Russian fears that a reunited Germany would be a threat to peace.

He tied reunification to development of measures to insure European security and said a united Germany "can and will play a constructive and peaceful role in the development of Europe as a whole."

"The Western Allies are hopeful," Herter said, "that the Soviet Union will see the wisdom of this approach. Surely it must become apparent to them that in the long run they face a greater danger from continuing the disunity of Germany."

Herter added: "We are convinced that as long as Germany remains divided, the peace in Europe will continue to be threatened.

"In the meantime, a precarious peace will live hand to mouth from month to month."

Panhandle Enjoys Needed Moisture

RAIN MEANS $$$ TO WHEAT FARMERS

Gray County wheat fields received approximately two inches of moisture Wednesday, according to Ralph Thomas, County agent. The downpour came too late to make the 1959 wheat harvest a bumper crop but it still saved Top o' Texas farmers thousands of dollars. More moisture has been forecast for tonight and Saturday with no important temperature changes.

Elmer McLaughlin, five miles east of Laketon, reported 2.2 inches this morning and Clyde Carruth, 15 miles northeast of Pampa had 2.3 inches. Dean Burger, three miles east of Lake McClellan, reported 2.2. The official reading in Pampa was 2.05.

Thomas pointed out that the farmers' rain gauges register in tenths of inches. The rain gauge on the roof of the Daily News building measures inches to the hundredth.

Farmers can expect two-thirds of an average crop, or at least seven bushels of wheat per acre. Last year the yield was

The Panhandle and South Plains rejoiced in the best rains of the year today and forecasters predicted that the rest of Texas will get its share of showers and thundershowers.

Tornadoes or tornadic - like winds were reported in at least five places in the Panhandle and South Plains Thursday night, along with near cloudbursts.

It continued to drizzle today over most of the Panhandle and forecasters predicted more rain today and Saturday.

A wind as strong as a tornado, if not a tornado, destroyed part of a cotton gin and damaged houses 10 miles south of Morton.

Other Tornadoes Reported

A tornado destroyed a barn, twisted trees out of the ground and knocked down power lines seven miles west of Pecos.

Another tornado was reported 10 miles northwest of Pecos and still another near Toyah, 17 miles west of Pecos, but neither of these did any damage.

A powerful wind or tornado ripped through a wide section of the South Plains near Lubbock.

Three inches of rain fell in Lehman community, 20 miles west of Levelland, in 45 minutes. The rain fell as far east as Fort Worth, but it was heavier to the west.

Pampa Gets Good Rain

Amarillo reported 2.18 inches of rain, Childress .94, Dalhart 1.37, Lubbock .69, Canyon 1.5, Hereford .46, Memphis .85, Wellington 1.5, Stratford 1.55 and Borger 1.22.

Pampa reported 2.05 inches, "the best rain of the year." Walcott school in Deaf Smith county had to close because buses could not bring the children in through up to three inches of rain.

Hart school in Castro county and other schools in the Panhandle were reported closed.

Although many thunderstorms were reported, much of the rain was gentle that soaked into the soil with little runoff.

The rain was caused by a weak front, that extends east to west along a line north of Tyler, north of the Fort Worth - Dallas area, north of Abilene and South of Lubbock.

It was cloudy to partly cloudy

LINDA SKEWES

Linda Skewes Wins Diploma

Miss Linda Skewes, president of the Pampa High School student body, has earned the High School Diploma offered by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, according to Mrs. Ellen Cannon, Guild adjudicator.

This diploma goes only to graduating seniors and requires the performance of an entire sonata, four Bach numbers and four more pieces in the romantic and modern categories, in addition to passing the required tests in five musicianship phases.

Miss Skewes completed these tests, making a superior plus rating, in a recent audition conducted here by Mrs. Cannon of Henderson.

Besides being a private piano student of Mrs. Fidelia Yoder for the past seven years, Miss Skewes has taken an active part in school musical activities. She is an accompanist with the A Capella Choir, which will perform in a Spring Choral Festival here tonight.

She has taken the lead in the Student Council, being the first girl president elected in several years, and in the youth program of the First Christian Church.

She is one of the piano students who will play in a recital Sunday in the Church of the Brethren. The public will be welcome at the 4:15 p.m. recital, according to Mrs. Yoder.

Miss Skewes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Skewes, 1612 Christine.

City Commission Eyeing Insurance Plan For Employees

By MARVIN OLSEN
Daily News Staff Writer

An insurance and possible retirement plan for city employees was suggested to the City Commission this morning in a proposal by Mayor Ed Myatt.

Myatt urged that a four-member committee be formed to look into existing personnel regulations and make recommendations that could be acted upon by the City Commission. The mayor proposed that committee members would be Leslie Hart, Floyd Watson, George Scott and Aubrey Jones.

"We haven't much to offer employees now," Myatt said, "no good incentives that might give us the best possible employee."

No concrete action was taken on the proposal, but commissioners were unanimous in agreeing that such a plan was "long past due."

In action that aroused long discussion among commission members it was decided to make a short-term loan from the bank to pay Ray Boswell $9,653 on a past-due paving bill.

This action, which has "two or three" precedents here, was undertaken, it was explained, because about $17,000 of the property owners' share had not yet been paid to the city. The city's share was met from the now-depleted paving fund.

The last such bank loan was negotiated for two percent, according to City Attorney Bob Gordon.

Turning to other matters the commission decided to withhold for another week its approval of a proposed change in the plat for E. Frazer Addition No. 3 in northeast Pampa.

Bill Frazer, developer of the plat, has asked for permission to block off 17th St. between Fir and Grape Streets, thus creating one long (760 ft.) block in Frazer addition.

Seventeenth St., although a dedicated street, would, under

DONALD QUARLES
... dies in sleep

Deputy Quarles Is Found Dead

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles, who was in line as President Eisenhower's next secretary of defense, was found dead at his home here today.

Quarles, 64, apparently died in his sleep.

He was found by his chauffeur who tried to wake him at 7:55 a.m. so that he could make an NBC television appearance.

He was pronounced dead 35 minutes later. His wife was in Chicago.

A police rescue squad and a physician rushed from Walter Reed Medical Center failed in efforts to revive him.

Eisenhower was "shocked and saddened" by Quarles' unexpected death.

In an expression of sympathy, the President said:

"As deputy secretary and prior to that as secretary of the air force, Mr. Quarles devoted his extraordinary talents to the service of his country. His contribution was of inestimable value to the security not only of the United States but of that of the entire free world."

Quarles was an engineer-industrialist who came out of the Ozark Mountain town of Van Buren, Ark. and once played in a hillbilly band.

He had been a member of the Eisenhower administration team since September 1953, and had served as secretary of the Air Force before taking over as deputy secretary on March 26, 1957.

Quarles has been mentioned prominently as the possible successor to Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy who is expected to resign later this year.

Quarles was reported in good health and spirits Thursday night when he attended a private dinner and an Air Force Symphony concert. He had returned to his home about 11 p.m.

When the chauffeur couldn't wake him this morning, police and a son-in-law, Col. Stanley Lewis, were notified.

Before coming to Washington as a government official, Quarles had a successful career with Western Electric and the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

He early showed a flare for brilliance. At 16, he was teaching mathematics in Van Buren High School to students as young as he was. He worked his way through Yale and was a Phi Beta Kappa. In World War I, he saw two years service as an Army captain in France and Germany.

Quarles began his career as an engineer with Western Electric in 1920 and studied theoretical physics at Columbia University at the same time.

In 1948 he was named vice president of the Bell Telephone Laboratories. He became a vice president of Western Electric and president of Sandia Corp. on March 1, 1952. The latter, a Western Electric subsidiary, carried out secret work for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Quarles helped to develop some of the world's most potent air weapons. He believed that having such weapons on hand was the best way to avoid having to use them.

BYARS TAKES BAND AWARD

James Byars, a senior member of the Harvester Band, received the John Philip Sousa Award at a band concert Thursday night.

Byars has played the oboe in the High School Band for three years. The Sousa Award is given every year to an outstanding, graduating bandsman.

W. E. "Bill" Tregoe, Harvester Bandleader, presented the award at an annual concert in the field house.

Byars is a member of the Amarillo Symphony. He also plays the alto sax in the High School dance and marching bands. "There aren't many musicians like him," Tregoe said today.

IGNORES WARNING SCREAMS

'Frisco College Student Slashed To Death By Shark

By JAMES J. HEALY
United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A "huge grey shape" swirled through the water near the Golden Gate Bridge Thursday and killed an 18-year-old college student swimming just 40 yards offshore.

Albert Cogler, a student at San Francisco State College, was pulled from the water barely alive by a daring girl who ignored his screams of warning.

But Cogler, one arm hanging only by a tendon and his back and chest slashed to ribbons, died three hours later despite emergency surgery.

Local authorites were sure the killer was a great white shark, very rare in the chilly bay area waters.

The girl, who swam ashore and then returned to help Cogler, was Shirley O'Neill, also 18 and a student at the same college.

Army M.Sgt. Leo Day, who witnessed the rescue said, "It was the greatest exhibition of courage I have ever seen, or am likely to see in my whole life."

Before being placed under sedatives Shirley sobbed out her story of the sudden attack.

She said she and Cogler were swimming at Bakers Beach, about two miles west of the Golden Gate Bridge "when a huge gray shape swirled out of the water."

"I heard Albert scream, 'Go back, go back, it's a shark!' Then blood gushed in the water."

As she headed for shore, Miss O'Neill said she saw the shark's tail whip across the surface of the water several times as it repeatedly struck the screaming youth.

Brings Him Back

The attractive student said she had just about reached shore when she heard Cogler cry, "Help me!"

She ran from the water to Joe Intersonne, a fireman fishing nearby. He tied a fishing line about her waist and she plunged back into the surf.

In a hesitant voice she said that upon reaching Cogler, "one arm seemed to be hanging by a thread."

"I grabbed him around his back, out it was all bloody and I could see his insides," she said. "He kept screaming and yelling so I finally told him to lie on his back and relax.

"He did that, though the pain must have been awful, and if he hadn't I would have never been able to get him back," she said.

Surgery Fails

Meanwhile other spectators had called police. Patrolman Harry Paretchen, first on the scene, realized no ambulance could travel on the sandy beach.

"I saw a Coast Guard boat off the beach," he said. "I fired three shots, then waved my arms for them to send a helicopter or a truck."

A short time lated, a Coast Guard weapons carrier rolled onto the beach. Cogler was placed on the bed of the truck and rushed to nearby Letterman Army Hospital.

Doctors performed emergency surgery, but the shock and the loss of blood were too much for the youth, who died shortly after the operation.

Kassem Has Not Given Iraq Government To Communists

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign Editor

There is a saying that in the Middle East nothing is as it appears.

So there are those who say that no matter how things appear on the surface, it is wrong now to say that Iraq is going or has gone Communist.

Center of the argument is Prime Minister Abdel Karim Kassem who, as an obscure brigadier general in the Iraqi army, led last summer's revolt which overthrew King Faisal's government and led to the killing both of Faisal and Nuri Es Said, his tough, pro-Western premier.

In the intervening months, Kassem has confounded his critics and at the same time shown no signs of losing his popularity with the Iraqi people. This last, despite the fact that he has done little for them and that living conditions now probably are worse than before.

Ask Britain For Arms

Latest development has been the disclosure that the Kassem government has asked Britain for arms and military supplies.

When the Baghdad government put down the Mosul revolt last March, it did so with British-built warplanes and with soldiers wearing British-supplied uniforms.

But those were remnants from an imperial past, with only an incidental connection with Kassem's revolutionary government which was importing Russian arms by the boatload and which contemptuously had ignored U. S. F86 Sabrejets shipped to the old Nuri Es Said government and now left rusting in a field.

Making the request for British arms doubly surprising is the fact that Britain, along with the United States and President Abdel Gamal Nasser's United Arab Republic, is under daily attack in the Baghdad press.

Rejects Execution Requests

The surprised British took the request under advisement, wondering what this latest development might portend for the mysterious Middle East.

There have been other indications that Kassem has not given himself wholly over either to Communist arms or to Communist philosophy.

He steadfastly has refused Communist requests for the immediate execution of former officials of the old regime or of those convicted of opposition to the new. He has resisted demands for the restoration of political parties, which would have meant legalization of the Communist Party, and he also has resisted demands for more and far-reaching purges of the army and administration.

And, so far, he has not given in to demands for arms for the "people's resistance" forces which in effect constitute a Red militia.

Red Influence Strong

Western observers do not believe that Kassem himself is a Communist.

But they, and this correspondent has been among them, have seen Bagndad street gangs in action and realized the potent power of the Reds among them.

Red influence inside the government admittedly is strong and there have been persistent reports of Red efforts to infiltrate the Iraqi army.

U. S. reports have said the Reds now are so strong they are already in a position to make a grab for total power.

The army and Kassem's own position remain the keys. Kassem's sympathizers have said that once he is sure of his position against Nasser's supporters and from the enmity of the UAR, he also will turn against the Communists. There may be a hope that Iraq has not or will not go Communist. But so far it is just a hope.

over all of the state at last report, except in the El Paso area. There was fog along the upper coast and in some parts of the northern Panhandle.

The five - day forecast, which was issued today, predicts moderate rain in widely scattered thundershowers for the eastern half of the state and locally heavy rain in scattered thundershowers for the western half.

Half inch rains Thursday night in the Pecos-Mentone area set off flash floods. Part of U. S. Highway 285 was under water Thursday night.

Hail fell north and west of Pecos, but farmers said cotton was so small it was hardly damaged.

Cotton and other small crops were damaged in areas where there were downpours.

over 23 bushels, which is the highest yield per acre on record.

"If this had come a week sooner, it would have made a couple hundred thousand dollars difference to the farmers," Thomas said this morning. He noted that the Amarillo area got a good rain Sunday but some of the farmers who did have rain, had everything hailed out.

The Gray County wheat crop has been damaged by green bugs and spider mites, some fields so heavily that they will not produce any wheat, Thomas reported.

With every dry day cutting down prospects of a money harvest, farmers rejoiced over Thursday's heavy downpour. "The rain last weekend covered a very small part of the county," says Thomas.

"The wheat harvest will start about the middle of June," Thomas said, "weather permitting the 15th of June for early varieties. Last year our wheat crop was worth around three million dollars. This year it will probably run a little better than a million."

This is based on 2,000 acres under cultivation.

Burglars Hit 2 Pampa Clinics

A burglar sometime Thursday night broke into the Kelley and Laycock Clinic, 516 W. Kentucky, and escaped with $25 in change and currency, police reported this morning.

An attempt to break into the neighboring Falkenstein and Elder doctors clinic failed when the burglar could not break open a door on the building's west side.

The Kelley-Laycock clinic was entered through a door at the east-rear of the building. Losses included a roll of quarters valued at $10, and $15 in loose cash and change.

Cause Of Baby's Death Determined

Robert Lloyd Norton, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Norton, 1420 Hamilton, died of an acute lung ailment, according to an autopsy performed in Amarillo.

The infant died Wednesday and at the time the cause of death had been speculated as suffocation. The autopsy, however, showed the cause of death to be of an internal nature.

Father Edward J. Cashman, C.M., conducted funeral services Thursday.

Frazer's plan, be curbed and guttered across both entrances.

It was explained that this move would result in a savings of $4,000 in paving and would partly compensate for a loss of land when the city straightened a bend in 16th St. The city would, under the new plat, retain its right to lay a sewer or water line along the closed-off portion of 17th St.

Truman Sorry He Did Not Wed Sooner

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former President Truman said today on his 75th birthday that there was only one thing he probably would have done differently during his lifetime — "I probably would have married younger."

Truman, hale and hearty as he started the day with a morning walk around the center of New York, said if he had one birthday wish it would be for "peace for the world and another son for my daughter, Margaret."

Truman was greeted in his hotel lobby by a huge birthday cake and blew out the candles as reporters and photographers sang "Happy Birthday to You."

His outlook for the future?

"I'm an optimist. I think someday we'll have a happy world," Truman said.

Truman's birthday will be celebrated in parties across the nation.

He was 35 when he married the former Bess Wallace.

An estimated 50,000 persons were expected to turn out to honor the former president at Democratic Party dinners in 16 cities, linked by closed-circuit television.

Truman was to join 1,800 guests at a $100-a-plate dinner in the Waldorf - Astoria Hotel here. Speakers at the cross-country party include Adlai Stevenson, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, House Speaker Sam Rayburn, former Secretary of State Dean Acheson and the jaunty, vigorous Truman himself.

Entertainers were to include Danny Kaye, Jack Benny, Leonard Bernstein, Jimmy Durante, Mort Sahl and Melvyn Douglas.

Thursday, New York's famed Times' Square was renamed Truman Square for a week. Mayor Robert F. Wagner presented the city's medal of honor to Truman.

In addition Wagner gave Truman a scroll granting him "the freedom of the city."

Such scrolls have been awarded only twice before — to Adm. Robert E. Peary in 1909 and to United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold last year.

Killer Hanged Despite Riot By Convicts

LONDON (UPI) — Cop killer Ronald Marwood was hanged today at Pentonville Prison despite a protest riot by fellow convicts and a demonstration outside the prison gates. A crowd of 1,000 prayed all night and jeered police this morning.

Marwood, 25, stabbed Patrolman Raymond Summers to death last December when the young constable tried to break up a fight. He was the first policeman slain after passage of a new act that makes the murders also are policeman a capital offense.

Multiple murders are punishable by hanging but many others including sex crimes and poisoning are punishable only by life imprisonment.

The last chance for Marwood was royal intervention, but a petition sent to Buckingham Palace and Queen Elizabeth II declaring "mercy is always the truer justice" went unanswered.

More than 1,000 men in Pentonville Prison rioted against the scheduled execution but were silenced by 100 policemen who rushed into the building. Some felons set fire to their mattresses, threw burning bits of papers out the window and banged in unison on cell doors.

"Marwood — Marwood — Marwood must not hang," the prisoners chanted.

RUTH MILLETT

If you want to stay young through the years here are a few temptations you'll have to fight—

The thought that things are just "too much trouble." It's easier to sit than to keep moving, but when you start sitting around you start growing old.

The conviction that young people are going to the dogs. Just remember what older people thought when you were young and you're bound to be more tolerant.

The morbid pleasure of talking about your troubles and your ailments. It will help if you will remember that you are making others less comfortable.

The tendency to become reluctant to make new friends. Only by making new companions through the years can you be sure of having friends as you grow older.

Becoming a talker instead of a listener. If you always carry the conversation you'll become a bore.

Believing that all change is bad. Unless you want to retire to the sidelines you have to be able to accept change without dismay.

You'll have to make yourself look forward instead of backward. Because unless you are looking forward to tomorrow and making plans for it you won't remain a vital, interesting person.

You'll have to look for new ways in which to be useful to others as the demands upon you become fewer.

It's easy to say "Nobody needs me any more." But there are countless ways in which you can help others if you fight the notion that your useful days are over.

GOOD NEWS FOR MOTHERS
For many years the "Health Team" has been researching the problems of childbirth. Did you know that in 1915, out of about every 165 live births, one mother was lost to us!

CHILDBIRTH IS NO LONGER TO BE FEARED
Better medical knowledge and hospital care, potent antibotics and the positive acting sulfa drugs make infections almost impossible. Since 1929 maternal mortality has been so reduced that ordinary accidents are three times as dangerous.

PRENATAL CARE HELPS FUTURE MOTHERS
Frequent examinations enable physicians to anticipate possible trouble. Prescriptions for special vitamins, hormones and minerals fortify mothers and help them bear strong, healthy babies.

COOK'S NOOK

As Gay As May Is Rhubarb Strawberry Fluff Pie

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Pink and fragile, as gay as the first young days of May, this pie will be a delight at any special party.

The filling is a blending of fresh, rosy rhubarb and sweet strawberries made fluffy with a gelatin and ice cream mixture. The tender crust is enhanced with rolled oats to make it even more flaky, and for a finishing touch, whipped cream rosettes march around the edge and a whole fresh strawberry marks the tip of each piece.

RHUBARB STRAWBERRY FLUFF PIE
(Makes 8 servings)

Crust: Three-quarters cup sifted enriched flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1-3 cup shortening, ½ cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked), 3 to 4 tablespoones cold water.

Filling: Four cups rhubarb, cut in 1-inch pieces, ½ cup sugar, 1½ cups water, 1 package strawberry flavored gelatin, 1 pint vanilla ice cream, whipped cream, few whole strawberries.

Heat oven to hot (425 degrees zero at Parshall, Geb. 15, 1936. flour and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs; add oats; mix lightly. Add water a little at a time, stirring until pastry can be formed into ball. Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas; knead gently a few seconds. Roll dough to form 12-inch circle; fit loosely into 9-inch pie plate. Fold edge under; flute. Prick bottom and sides well. Bake in preheated oven (435 degrees F.) about 15 minutes. Cool. For filling, combine rhubarb and sugar; cook over very low heat until it is of saucelike consistency. (This will make 2 cups of sauce.) Cool thoroughly. Heat water to boiling; add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Spoon ice cream into hot gelatin (with saucepan still over direct heat); stir until melted. Refrigerate until mixture mounds slightly. Fold in cooled rhubarb. Pour into cool baked pie shell. Refrigerate until set. To serve, decorate with whipped cream and whole strawberries.

TOMORROW'S DINNER: Lamb and spring vegetable stew with biscuit topping, hot biscuits, butter or margarine, lettuce, tomato and green pepper salad, French dressing, rhubarb strawberry fluff pie, coffee, tea, milk.

Officers Elected At May Meeting

WHITE DEER — May Fellowship Day was observed by a good attendance of church women in the First Presbyterian Church last week.

The theme for this meeting was "How Much is Enough," a revealing study of the fact that, around the world and even in America, there are multitudes of people who never have enough to eat and are lacking in many other areas of life.

Three officers were elected, under the guidance of Mrs. Edgar Hubbard, one of the four area vice presidents in Texas. Mrs. R. J. Sailor was elected president; Mrs. Floyd Ulrich, vice president; and Mrs. Horace W. Brooks, secretary-treasurer.

A devotional was led by Mrs. W. L. Potter, followed by a picture called "Together."

It looks like modern women would rather be breadwinners than bread bakers. ©NEA

DEAR ABBY...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife has a disease. Telephonitis. She can talk on the phone for two and three hours at a time. She puts things on the stove to cook and then gets on the phone. The food and the pot get burned up and she throws out the food together with the pot. She has already thrown out $135.00 worth of pots and pans that were gauranteed by the manufacturer to last a lifetime. She keeps buying new ones. What do you do with a wife like that?

FED UP

DEAR FED: If your wife is cooking on all her burners, she should be punished and disciplined like a child. She needs a stopwatch and a timekeeper . . . or just a plain keeper. There is no excuse for such behavior if a doctor says she is competent to be alone in the house.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and have never been allowed to go on a date with a boy. My mother says, "Parties with boys are all right at somebody's house if both parents are home" (and she drives me there and picks me up) but that is all! She is trying to make me an old maid and she's got a good start. That isn't all, Abby, she is trying to make me fat so no boys will look at me. I'm the only child and she bakes a chocolate cake, pecan rolls and strudle every week and tells me to eat it or she'll have to throw it out. Please help me, Abby, before I do something desperate.

OLD MAID

DEAR OLD (?) Maid: Invite the boy to your home and let your mother see him. If he's "nice" (and he probably is) she'll be more apt to let you go out with him. As for "making" you eat all those fattening things . . . use your noodle and pass up the strudle.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that everyone tells me I am a fool for being so plain when I could be (excuse me, Abby) "sexy." I don't like tight clothes, so I wear full skirts and my sweaters are two sizes bigger than the salesgirl says is my correct size. I am 22 and have a good job and go out on dates now and then, but the men don't exactly fall over themselves to date me. Do you think I should take a few tucks in my clothes? Not enough to cheapen me but enough to show that I have plenty of everything and where it is located?

PLAIN JANE

DEAR JANE: Compromise. A little tuck can change your luck.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are thinking of buying a GYM set for our children. My question is this: If I ask the mothers of the other children who will be using our swings to sign a paper releasing us from any liability should their child get hurt on our property, would it be legal? Our yard is not fenced in and it would be difficult to keep the other children out or to watch them constantly.

MRS. B.

DEAR MRS. B.: I have an agreement with the State Bar Association. They agreed not to write an advice column and I agreed not to practice Law. Your question is a very intelligent one. Ask a lawyer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO L. L.: I agree. Let a sleeping dog lie . . . but wake up your husband and ask him to tell you the truth.

"How can I get him to notice me?" Get ABBY'S booklet, "What Every Teenager Wants To Know." Send 25 cents and large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY in care of this paper.

For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this paper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Baptists Will Recognize Five Top Mothers

Five mothers will be recognized in morning services at the Central Baptist Church Sunday. Those mothers to be recognized will be the mother with the youngest child present, the mother with the oldest child present, the mother who has been married the longest and whose husband is present, the mother who has been a Christian the longest, and the mother who has most recently become a Christian.

For his Mother's Day sermon, pastor Therman O. Upshaw has chosen the title "A Mother's Choice." The youth council will meet in the education director's office for its monthly meeting at 4 p.m. Sunday. Training Union will begin at 6:45 with the evening worship following at 8.

The Vacation Bible School manual "Better Vacation Bible Schools" will be taught by Bob Callahan to all who will be assisting in the Vacation Bible School in Central Baptist Church. This study will begin at 10 a.m. Monday.

The Associational Worker's Conference emphasizing the work of the Training Union, will be held at the Immanuel Baptist Church, Fritch, beginning at 5:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Central Baptist Church recently voted to finance construction of a new building to provide a place for worship and instruction for the Baptists of Shungnak, Alaska. This is one of the communities visited by Rev. Upshaw on his recent trip to this state. Special offerings for this purpose will be started Sunday.

Eisenhower Irked By Slow Senate

WASHINGTON WINDOW
By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower sounds frustrated and unhappy about Senate delays in handling his nominees for federal jobs. He should brace himself for even rougher treatment in the election year of 1960.

He could learn what to expect by asking former Presidents Hoover and Truman what happened to batches of nominations they sent to a hostile Senate during the last year of a presidential term.

Eisenhower has grumbled about the Senate at his two most recent news conferences. He was miffed not only by attacks on Clare Boothe Luce, who later resigned as ambassador to Brazil, and Secretary of Commerce Lewis L. Strauss. He complained also about inaction on nominees for postmasterships, federal judgeships and U.S. attorney jobs.

The record shows only 15 of 990 postmaster nominees have been confirmed this session, but more will get Senate approval. Nominations for judgeships and U.S. attorneys are moving slowly but not as slowly as can be expected next year.

Lifetime Jobs

Democrats in the Senate will not be eager to let lifetime federal judgeships go to Republicans when they scent a chance to install a Democrat in the White House after the 1960 election. If they stall, they will merely follow a bipartisan custom.

A couple of pages in the Congressional Record for Dec. 14, 1932, tell the story. Although under nominal Republican control, the Senate then voted 44 to 37 against taking up nominations.

Sen. Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, then Democratic leader, said his side felt no appointees should be confirmed for jobs running beyond March 4, 1933, when the Roosevelt administration would be taking over. A Republican Senate did the same to President Wilson in 1920, he said.

Speaking for the Republicans, Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon confessed that he may have been an unwitting participant in the 1920 action but said it was a bad precedent.

"When his ox is gored, he regards it as a bad precedent," said Robinson.

Rejection Records

To that lame duck session of Congress, President Hoover submitted 1,662 postmaster nominations. None was confirmed. Of 128 nominees for other civilian jobs, 57 were not confirmed.

The GOP-controlled Senate in 1948 failed to act on 830 postmaster nominations and 277 other appointments of President Truman. However, Truman won the 1948 presidential election and kept the jobs for Democrats anyway. Eisenhower upset Democratic hopes in the same way by winning in 1956 after the Democratic Senate had failed to act on 628 of his postmaster nominations.

The Strauss nomination is something different inasmuch as Cabinet members do not have fixed terms and serve at the pleasure of the President. There have been Senate battles over Cabinet nominees, but only seven have been rejected when brought to a vote.

CONSCIENCE WINS OUT

NEW YORK (UPI) — William Vetter, 74, conscience stricken after reading about welfare chiselers, surrendered voluntarily and confessed to authorities he had nearly $20,000 in cash during the past seven years while he was on relief. He gave the Welfare Department $7,000 to cover the $4,186 he had accepted in relief checks plus interest on it.

'Adam and Fallen Man' Will Be Christian Science Lesson Topic Sunday Morning

The healing power of a correct understanding of God will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday, in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Adam and Fallen Man."

In addition to John's account of Christ Jesus' healing of the "man which was blind from his birth," (9:1-7) the Bible readings will also include this verse from Matthew (14:14): "And Jesus went forth, and saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the readings will include the following: "Entirely separate from the belief and dream of material living, is the Life vine, revealing spiritual understanding and the consciousness of man's dominion over the whole earth. This understanding casts out error and heals the sick, and with it you can speak 'as one having authority.'" (p. 14:25)

A sincere welcome awaits you at all the services in First Church of Christ, Scientist, Pampa. You may obtain information about Christian Science by visiting the Reading Room in the church building at 901 N. Frost, where the King James Version of the Bible and books and literature on Christian Science may be read, borrowed, or purchased. The Sunday School holds classes at 9:30 for young people up to the age of 20.

SUCCESS IN BUSINESS

The integrity of the upright shall guide them: but the perverseness of transgressors shall destroy them.
—Proverbs 11:3

Almost anyone engaged in a business or earning activity wants to be a success. The motives for this desire may vary greatly. And the methods for achieving success are even more numerous.

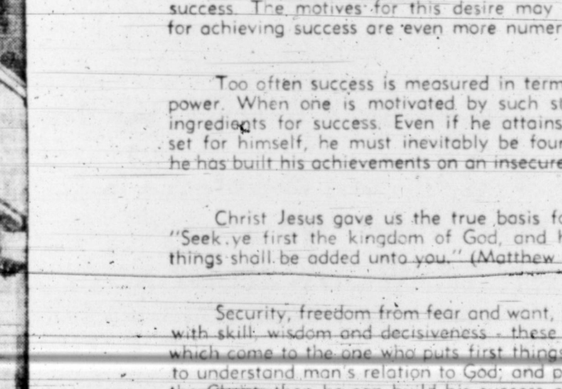

Too often success is measured in terms of material riches and human power. When one is motivated by such standards he lacks the essential ingredients for success. Even if he attains the materialistic goals he has set for himself, he must inevitably be found wanting in true security, for he has built his achievements on an insecure foundation.

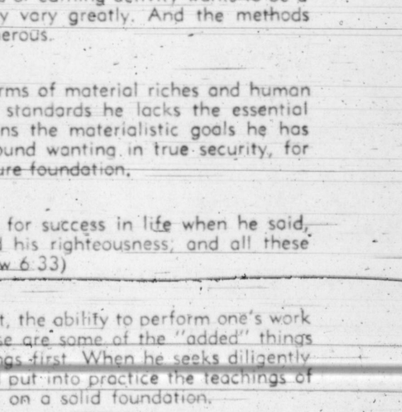

Christ Jesus gave us the true basis for success in life when he said, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matthew 6:33)

Security, freedom from fear and want, the ability to perform one's work with skill; wisdom and decisiveness - these are some of the "added" things which come to the one who puts first things first. When he seeks diligently to understand man's relation to God; and put into practice the teachings of the Christ, then he can build his success on a solid foundation.

Let each one ask himself: "In my work, do I recognize that God is my primary employer?" If we seek foremost to please the Father in our business motives and methods, we cannot fail to achieve a right degree of success.

This need for putting God first has been well expressed by Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Crristian Science, who writes (Miscellaneous Writings, p. 267) "The predisposing and exciting cause of all defeat and victory under the sun, rest on this scientific basis: that action, in obedience to God, spiritualizes man's motivies and methods, and crowns them with success; while disobedience to this devine Principal materializes human modes and consciousness, and defeats them."

Baseball Tilts Are Called Off

The Saturday game between the Pampa Harvesters and the Dumas Demons, at Dumas, has been canceled because of conflict with the championship race in Dumas' district.

Pampa Coach Deck Woldt was still uncertain whether today's scheduled game at Borger would be played, at press time. However, Woldt said he doubted that it will be played, since Borger received almost as heavy a rain as Pampa. In the unlikely event that the game is played, it will begin at 4 p.m.

The Pampa-Borger game has been posiponed until 2 p.m. Saturday, in Borger.

It also seems unlikely that the Amarillo - Palo Duro game will be played. Any combination of a Sandie win or a Borger loss will give Amarillo the District 3 - 4A championship so both the Pampa - Borger contest and the Amarillo-Palo Duro tilt would have been crucial contests.

The only other District 3 - 4A game scheduled today is the Monterey - Lubbock game in Lubbock. Tascosa and Plainview completed their seasons with a game Wednesday, won by Tascosa 6-4.

One of two left - handers, Keith Yager or Kippy Williams, was scheduled to pitch for Deck Woldt's Pampa crew today. Yager has a 5-3 record and a 1.40 earned run average, and Williams has a 4-2 mark and a 3.60 earned run average.

The batting order for Pampa was to be Ruben Strickland (.156), second base; Larry Stroud (.298), first base; Bobby Stephesn (.211), left field; Gary Wills (.328) right field; Gary Hill (.340), third base.

Wendell Ridgway (.127), shortstop; DeWayne Glover (.175), center field; Terry Haralson (.197), catcher; and Williams (.348) or Yager (.333).

Stan Musial Hits 400th Home Run

Becomes Sixth To Reach Mark

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press International

Hey ma, that man's here again!

You know which one, Stan (The Man) Musial, the fellow they said was gone for good.

All that talk about Musial being through resulted from his pitiful start this season, but the 38-year-old Cardinal slugger kept insisting that's all it was—all talk.

By way of proving his point, he smashed the 400th homer of his career in the ninth inning Thursday night to beat the Cubs, 4-3, and elevate the spirits of the last-place Cards somewhat even if he couldn't lift them in the National League standings.

The homer, struck off reliever Don Elston, was Musial's second in as many games and made him the sixth man in major league history to reach the 400 bracket.

Homers Abound

The five who hit more were Babe Ruth (714), Jimmy Foxx (534), Mel Ott (511), Lou Gehrig (492) and Ted Williams (482).

Musial's wallop traveled more than 400 feet and capped a game in which home runs accounted for all the scoring. Two homers by Jim Marshall and Ernie Banks' seventh of the season gave the Cubs a 3-0 lead but St. Louis tied the score in the sixth inning on George Crowe's pinch three-run homer. Reliever Howie Nunn shut out the Cubs over the last three innings for his second victory.

Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia, 5-4, in 10 innings, and Los Angeles nipped San Francisco, 2-1, in the only other NL games scheduled.

Baltimore took over undisputed possession of second place in the American League with a 10-1 triumph over Washington, and Detroit licked Boston, 3-1, in the only two games played in that circuit.

Klu's Homer Wins

The Pirates won their game from the Phils much in the manner the Cards did from the Cubs. Only instead of Musial, Ted Kluszewski did the honors when he stepped up and hit Jim Owens' first pitch in the 10th inning for his first homer of the year.

Norm Larker, subbing for Gil Hodges at first base after the Dodger veteran pulled a muscle in the third inning, belted a two-run homer off Jack Sanford in the fourth and that was all the Dodgers needed as Stan Williams set the Giants back on six hits.

Rookie Jerry Walker of the Orioles snapped the three-game winning streak of the Senators when he stopped them on five hits. Baltimore, on the other hand, rapped out 17 hits off loser Pedro Ramos and three relievers.

Frank Lary, aided by four double plays, won his third straight game in pitching the Tigers to victory over the Red Sox. Lary gave up eight hits.

Corpus Again Blasts Austin

United Press International

Corpus Christi, fighting to regain the Texas League lead it lost less than two weeks ago, overwhelmed front-running Austin for the second straight night Thursday.

Austin used four hurlers in holding Corpus Christi to 14 hits, but couldn't find the fire power to top an eight-run eruption in the third and lost the game 9-1. Dick Sovde tossed a five-hitter for the win.

Wednesday night, Corpus Christi won 12-8.

In other action Thursday night, Victoria walloped Tulsa 11-5. San Antonio was rained out at Amarillo.

Outfielder Frank Howard clouted a two-run homer in the third for Victoria that proved to be the winning run. The victory, coupled with Austin's loss, chopped the league lead to two games with Corpus Christi in fourth place only a single percentage point behind San Antonio.

Corpus Christi has another go at Austin tonight, but the rest of the league switches scenery with Victoria at Amarillo and San Antonio at Tulsa.

Red May Start Light Exercise

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Second baseman Red Schoendienst may begin his fight to return to the Milwaukee Braves next month with "light exercise" which could include throwing a baseball.

Braves General Manager John McHale said Thursday night the tuberculosis specialist attending Schoendienst has expressed cautious optimism about his recovery. The physician said the ballplayer has progressed sufficiently in his seven-month battle with TB that he may take on something more strenuous than the long walks" he has been taking with his young daughters.

"If throwing a baseball around is light exercise, then he may throw a little. It is natural for a ballplayer to throw a baseball when he is taking exercise. It depends on how hard and how far you throw it," McHale told United Press International.

"But that doesn't mean he is ready to play professional baseball. Red hopes to be ready to play sometime near the end of the season, but we are not counting on his coming back this year; though we would certainly be glad to have him back this season. We are primarily interested in his good health," McHale said.

Halter to Coach At Lubbock High

LUBBOCK — Jake Halter, a former Pampa High School football player, has been named assistant football coach at Lubbock High School. Halter recently resigned as B team coach at Borger.

The former Pampan played under Buddy Brothers, Lubbock head coach, at Tulsa University.

Coach Promoted

BRENHAM, Tex. (UPI) — Robert Turner resigned Thursday as head football coach at Navasota High School to become principal of Bellville High School. His successor had not been named.

'Unknowns' Lead In Oklahoma Links

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — Upstarts who evoked "Who's he?" comments in the opening round of the $25,000 Oklahoma City Open strove grimly today to hold leads against a determined but baffled band of the game's finest players.

Big money players, spraying course, foundered Thursday in a wake of sub-par rounds by neophytes and poorly paid oldtimers.

The opening round was packed with surprises.

The biggest was the six-under-par 66 posted by 23-year-old Tommy Jacobs, Whittier, Calif. And a veteran who has never won a tournament and hasn't made the shots into every nook of the tree-bedeviled Twin Hills Country Club official money list this year—Pete Mazur, Buffalo, N.Y., — came in second with a 67.

Jacobs, former USGA and Jaycee champion, played a near-perfect short game, hitting 15 greens. He hung up two eagles, one by rolling in a 20-footer on the eighth and the other by stroking in a 15-footer on the 16th.

Only 23 of the 148 linksters who started were under par, including one amateur. Eleven were even-par at 72 and two of them were amateurs.

Missing from the sub-par shooters were many of the biggest names in golf.

Glen Fowler of Oklahoma City and veteran Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., picked up 68s while playing as a two-some.

Ortega, Stitch In TV Fight

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Oddsmakers and the past record say tonight's televised 10 - round welterweight fight between Gaspar Ortega and Rudell Stitch should be a close one.

Ortega, full - blooded Indian from Mexcall, Mexico, rules a 6-5 favorite over the Louisville, Ky., church elder he decisioned in February by a single point.

When the two square away in the War Memorial Auditorium, Ortega will be out trying to improve on the narrow decision he posted over Stitch Feb. 6 in Madison Square Garden.

New York state's four - point scoring system prevented a draw when the three officials split their cards.

Ortega's records reads 48-13-2, with 20 knockouts to his credit. Stitch scored 9 of his 17 wins by knockouts. He has lost 5.

Record Crowd Honors Campy

By HENRY RIEGER

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Baseball's greatest crowd, in spirit and size, added today to the living legend of Roy Campanella.

A record crowd of 93,103 jammed Memorial Coliseum Thursday night to see the home-town Dodgers play the world champion Yankees in an exhibition game—and to honor a player most of his fans never saw in action.

The outcome of the game, won by the Yankees, 6-2, was of secondary importance for the Los Angeles fans, who waited more than a year to pay their respects to the partially paralyzed Campanella on his big benefit night.

The crowd was almost 7,000 greater than the previous baseball record—86,288 set at the fifth game of the 1948 Indian-Braves World Series in Cleveland.

"Will Never Forget"

"This is something I will never forget for the rest of my life," said Roy, after he was wheeled to second base for the pre-game ceremony. The crowd stood as one for a spontaneous cheer that lasted nearly three minutes as Campy, tragically injured in a 1958 auto accident, was wheeled on to the field by former teammate Peewee Reese, now a Dodger coach.

The former Dodger catcher, three times honored as the National League's most valuable player, sat silently as baseball officials—among them loop president Warren Giles — and civic leaders praised his courage and faith.

Then, as the crowd became quiet, Campanella spoke briefly, slowly, carefully.

Hold Lighted Matches

"I want to thank each and every one of you good people for this ceremony," he said. "This is something I will never forget for the rest of my life and I want to thank the Yankees and Mr. Del Webb for their part in it, and the Dodgers and Mr. O'Malley for making it possible.

"I thank God I'm here living to be able to see it."

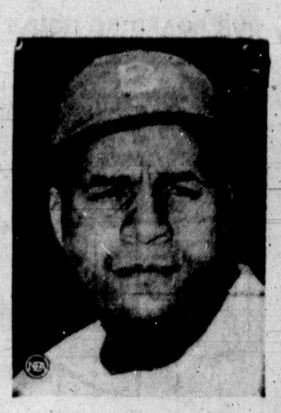

Later, in a strikingly simple ceremony, the lights were turned off and the public address announcer called on the spectators to light matches to "make believe" they were lighting candles for a cake for Roy. The tens-of-thousands of matches lit the huge stadium almost as brightly as if the field lights had been turned on.

In addition to the record crowd inside the Coliseum, another 15,000 persons seeking the last 10,000 bleacher seats put on sale Thursday night lost out in an attempt to see the game.

Shares In Proceeds

Campanella's wife, Ruth, and three of their children, Roy Jr., 10, Tony, 8, and Princess, 5, watched the ceremony and game from a box. Campanella, saddled with heavy medical expenses, gets a big share of the proceeds of the game. Another meeting of the Yankees and Dodgers for the same purpose will be held next year in New York.

The Dodger players voted to stage the game despite a considerable handicap in scheduling. The Dodgers played Thursday afternoon at San Francisco, beating the Giants, 2-1, and flew here for the exhibition. They faced an immediate return to San Francisco to complete the series there.

Boston Coach's Son Stricken

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Del Baker, coach of the Boston Red Sox, rushed to the bedside of his 18-year-old son Thursday night who was stricken while watching television.

Walter Baker was taken to Baptist Hospital in San Antonio with a chest condition.

The Red Sox coach first learned of the illness at Detroit during the first inning of the Boston-Detroit baseball game. He left immediately and flew to his home in Texas.

Mrs. Baker said Walter, known as "Smoky," suddenly became ill Wednesday night and she put him to bed. When he got worse Thursday, she took him to the hospital.

Doctors said the boy apparently is suffering from pneumonia, but said he was not in serious condition.

Abilene, Andrews Billed In Schoolboy Track Meet

By PAT CONWAY
United Press International

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—Abilene and Andrews loomed as the teams to beat in Class AAAA and AAA, respectively, today as hundreds of high school athletes gathered at Memorial Stadium for the 49th annual Interscholastic League track and field meet.

For the first time in history, the huge spring carnival will feature competition in five separate conferences.

Among the smaller schools, Wharton in Class AA appears to be the strongest entry. It's anybody's guess which of the Class A and B schools will walk off with championship honors in those divisions.

Weimer is given a slight nod in Class A, but a push is expected by Sundown, Anahuac and White Oak. Wink, Pflugerville, Masonic Home and Richland Springs appear to be the cream of the Class B crop.

Preliminaries for Class B track events got underway early this morning and so did the finals in pole vault, broad jump and discus. Class A and AA broad jump and discus finals are scheduled early this afternoon, and Class AAA and AAAA broad jump and discus finals later today.

Champions in both the A and AAA divisions will be crowned tonight. Windup events in Class AAAA, A and B will be Saturday afternoon.

Mighty Andrews is expected to dominate the AAA contests, but the Mustangs will have to share some of the limelight with Pat Mitchell of Gainesville.

AHL All-Star Squad Named

NEW YORK (UPI) — Four members of the Rochester Americans and two members of the pennant-winning Buffalo Bisons earned berths today on the 1958-59 American Hockey League All-Star team.

The Rochester quartet included a complete forward line of center Rudy Migay, left wing Gary Aldcorn and right wing Bill Hicke, plus player-coach Steve Kraftcheck at defense. The other defense berth went to Ivan Irwin of Buffalo while Marcel Paille of the Bisons won the goalie spot.

Despite all its talent, Rochester finished third in the regular season standings and was eliminated by Buffalo in the semifinals of the Calder Cup playoffs.

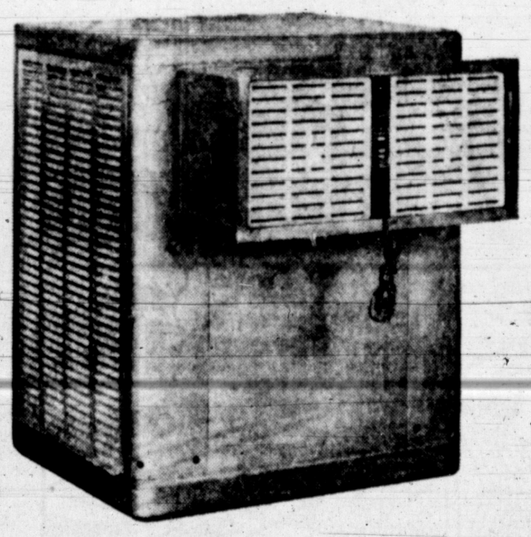

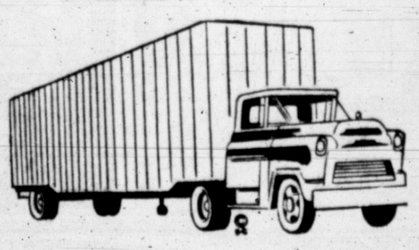

Goalie Bobby Perreault and defenseman Larry Zeidel, both members of the Calder Cup champion Hershey Bears, headed the second All-Star team. Rounding out the squad were defenseman Frank Martin of Buffalo, center Harry Pidhirny and right wing Ken Schinkel of the Springfield Indians, and left wing Eddie Mazur of the Cleveland Barons.

On Safety

The sight of the smashed bicycle lying by the roadside is one most of us have seen. It's a cruel reminder that bike riders, usually youngsters, are part of our terrible highway toll.

Every year between 400 and 500 bike riders are killed on the roads in this country, and a frightening 25,000 suffer disabling injuries. These are the figures of the National Safety Council.

Most disturbing is the council's report that in four out of five bike accidents the bicycle rider is violating a law. This conclusion emerges from a 42-state survey.

Among the violations are included riding on the wrong side of the street, riding more than one bike abreast, failing to observe traffic laws and signals, not keeping the bike in proper condition and adequately lighted for night use.

Most bike accident victims are under 16, are boys, and get into traffic trouble in the daylight hours from April to September. Every lad now shining up his bike for the busy season ahead should be pointedly reminded of these unhappy facts. You may save his life.

Privileges & Rights

Howard Lowry, president of the College of Wooster, has come up with a significant bit of prose. "The word 'underprivileged' may come to have a new meaning, for the underprivileged may be the fed, the sheltered, the secure, those who have all the rights and gifts save one — their own lives."

Dr. Lowry has turned the attention of his hearers upon a word that has carried more than its share of duties during the past three socialistically inclined decades. Before we comment on what may be a very shrewd observation, we'd like to take a look at the meaning of the word itself.

A privilege is, of course, something pretty special. It's a word that has an unusual workout whenever politics is discussed. Ideally, of course, privilege should be something unknown in politics, the concept being that all governments will be fair and equal and will never dispense such a thing as a privilege. But the working partner of privilege in political circles is patronage. And all patronage is privileged.

To understand the word best, we need another word against which we can compare and contrast its meaning. We will take for this other word, right. Now we are ready to examine these two words so that a clear distinction can be found.

A right is a universal sort of thing which applies to all persons and has no relation to government at all. For example, we can say that all persons have a RIGHT to live. Thus we see that life is not a privilege, but something that government cannot grant, which precedes government on every count. Rights would include the right to live, the right to sustain life, the right to own property, the right to keep what one has earned, the right to move about, the right to make choices freely (liberty) and so forth.

A privilege, in contrast, is seen as something that does not apply generally, but which is granted specifically to some one person or to a limited group of persons. For example, the receipt of a government subsidy check is a privilege. It might go to a farmer, for instance, because he agrees not to plant certain acres in any productive crop. Not all people, not even all farmers, would share in this subsidy. Therefore, it becomes a governmentally proclaimed privilege which applies only to a few.

Other instances of privilege would be: the privilege of voting (not all can qualify); the privilege of running a particular business when all others are barred (a license grant by government); the privilege of receiving welfare payments (not all receive them).

With this general approach to the meanings of these words, we come now to 'underprivileged.' Essentially, it ought to mean a person who was privileged less than other people; to wit: a person who had not received some special privileged from government. Actually, however, in modern usage, this word has been employed to mean anyone who has a smaller income than someone else.

The word has been applied to people in many foreign lands, to people in slum areas, to people out of work. Thus, it has come to be used as a word by means of which blame can be cast upon government. The implication is that if a person is not enjoying a high standard of living, the reason can be traced to the government's failure to provide adequate "privileges" to that person.

In other words, we are supposed to believe that it is the government's business to so divide and distribute privileges that governmentally-endowed right will ensue. Thus, a contradiction in terms looms.

This contradiction is found in precise terms, both in the Russian constitution and in the so-called United Nations Declaration of Human Rights which is patterned after it. "All persons have a right to a high (or a rising) standard of living."

What is actually said here is that governments will provide rights and that all human beings are dependent, not on themselves but upon their government. It is this semantic tendency so many have to confuse rights and privileges that spells trouble. It is the practice of suggesting, for example, that all persons above the age of 65 have a RIGHT to a pension, that brings us into serious difficulties.

Were we to confine ourselves to precise wording here we would say that all persons have a right to whatever kind of persion they might care to provide for themselves, and even the right to have no pension of any kind. This would be universally true and applicable. The suggestion that all persons have a right to something which is essentially in the realm of privilege is to confuse ends with means. All rights are found in the area of means. All privileges are found in the area of ends.

Now if we look at the statement by Dr. Lowry we discover that he has been unusually clear in his ability to see into the future. If government is to assume more and more responsibility for our food, our shelter and our security, it will follow that government will assume that it owns us, and that the only privilege it cannot grant to us will be the RIGHT we have originally to live our own lives and to make our own way.

The Bad Rap Is Put On The GAO Workers

If I had a son at the Air Force Academy, or even a second cousin, I'd write to those watchdog accountants of the General Accounting Office to go fall off their bookkeeping stools and crack their heads.

While these men pore over their ledgers, green eyeshades set at a non-jaunty angle, the kids at the Academy are preparing themselves to ride a missile to the moon, bareback, if Uncle Sam asks them to.

But — and may they drown in some of their own red ink — the GAO stalwarts are about to flip their sleeveholders over the money being spent at the Academy, saying dollars are being wasted on non-essentials, and that it is too plush.

The accountants are against such things as a golf course, a theatre, shoe racks, a hobby shop and a community library.

If my boy were readying himself to fly to outer space in defense of his country, I'd feel he were entitled to all the shoe racks west of the Mississippi if he wanted them. And not unvarnished ones, either, but shoe racks of solid mahogany, with mother-of-pearl inlay.

What's plush and non-essential about a good library for the cadets? What would the chair-borne accountants provide in the way of reading matter? A Mickey Spillane thriller and a batch of comic books? A treatise on double-entry bookkeeping, outlining the dangers of working with quill pens?

I visited the Air Force Academy a few months ago, and while a beautiful place in a superb setting, I didn't gather any impressions of plushiness or luxury. Ninety per cent of it was as functional as a windmill.

The cadets live in spartan rooms, liye a near-spartan life up in them thar hills, and walk and run to classes and meals at an altitude which makes the visitor long for a scooter or a motorized cart.

Indeed, after climbing up and down stairs at timberline height, I am inclined to believe one bit of luxury should be added to the Academy. And that is a handsomely appointed "fainting room," where visitors of middle - age could collapse and recover.

We build palatical mansions for rich ambassadors to loll and work in, so what's wrong in providing the last word in comfort for youngsters who are going to be called on to risk their necks daily for the United States?

We build community centers in all parts of the world, and parks, roadways, libraries, and just about everything else, so why not throw a little dough around at home for the boys who will serve us so faithfully?

Is Belief In Taxes A Holdover From Belief In Divine Right Of Kings?

Down through the ages people believed in the divine right of kings. It is difficult to tell where the belief started.

Sir James G. Frazer, in his "Golden Bough" has this to say:

"The union of a royal title with priestly duties was common in ancient Italy and Greece. At Rome and in other cities of Latium there was a priest called the Sacrificial King or King of the Sacred Rites, and his wife bore the title of Queen of the Sacred Rites."

Later in his book, Frazer observes:

"In the classical period of Greek and Latin antiquity the reign of kings was for the most part a thing of the past: yet the stories of their lineage, titles, and pretensions suffice to prove that they too claimed to rule by divine right and to exercise superhuman powers. Hence we may without undue temerity assume that the King of the Wood at Nemi, though shorn in later times of his glory and fallen on evil days, represented a long line of sacred kings who had once received not only the homage but the adoration of their subjects in return for the manifold blessings which they were supposed to dispense. . . ."

The World Book Encyclopedia has this to say:

"Under the divine right of kings the belief is that the soverigns derived their authority to rule not from the consent or desire of their subjects, but directly from God, whom they represent."

"In other words, they who subscribe to the creed believe the king can do no wrong. This doctrine reached its highest development in England during the reign of the Stewarts and in France during the reign of Louis IV.

"James I was the first Stewart king. He became king in 1603. James believed firmly, like the other members of the Stewart family, that the kings ruled by divine right."

It is only natural that James I, believing in the divine right of kings, should authorize the republication of the Bible, known as King James Bible. It also seems natural, believing he got his right to rule and interpret religion for the lives of all people by divine right, that he would select men who would interpret the Bible to give him, the king, more power and the individual less rigut to plan his own life.

St. Paul, of course, gave the divine right of kings a great boost when he contended, Romans 13:1:2: "...The powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God: and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation."

When a preacher quoted this statement to me, I asked him: "If that be literally true, then we should never have separated from England, and we should never resist any government." His only answer was, "That is a question."

A Shining Hope

A bright spot in history denying the divine right of kings having power of life or death over the individual was the Declaration of Independence which contended that all men "are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.—That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

That was a great step away from the divine right of kings and the divine right of taxation, because if that means what it says, and there seems to be no other rational meaning, then the government should render a service efficiently enough that people would voluntarily support the government. But the Constitution completely repudiated this great moral principle of the inalienable rights of man and gave the agents of the state the right to tax people against their will. Of course, the original document required equal taxation. But the Constitution gave the people the right to change, and now they have changed it so that the majority has a right to take any fraction of a man's income it wants to.

It is hard to tell much difference between this divine right to tax and the divine right of kings as far as the ultimate result will be. It will result in a regression, curtailment of individual initiative, and worshipping a government of men rather than a government of principles as set forth in the Ten Commandments. And by the way, the Ten Commandments as set forth by the Jews certainly did not recognize the divine right of kings or the divine right to force a man to pay for something he did not want. And the right to force a man to pay for something he does not want is the essence of taxation.

However, we're making progress up and down and sooner or later more and more people will come to believe that each and every man can govern himself better than anybody else can govern him and that he will voluntarily support the protection that he believes he needs. And that kind of right of choice is the freedom that develops integrity, responsibility and creative energy. It promotes material, intellectual and spiritual well-being.

Now, instead of believing in superhuman power that has the power of life or death over individuals, we have substituted the power to tax, and the power to tax is the power to rule and destroy.

Fair Enough

One Photo, Worth Nine Years Employment

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — One night of late, Jess Krueger, a veteran of 50 years in that which he still unabashedly calls "the newspaper game," broke through the service of some garrulous car's of the same background to claim the floor for a memoir. He then descanted about as follows:

In the office of the Chicago American, a loft building on West Madison Street, about November, 1904, a stranger hit the city desk for a job and was turned away by Jim Bicket, a baldish, fidgety man with a habit of marking blue lines on his scalp with his copy pencil. A few days later the man was back and Bicket, not looking up, poked a clipping at him on the end of his long shears and said: "Get me a picture of this girl!"

Mr. Bicket did not expect him back. All the papers in town, eight of them at the time, had been using the standard wiles and ruses of a time when "picture - chasing was one of the most important activities of our journalism. We chased pictures by sneaking into houses through open windows and unlocked doors, by masquerading as gas-meter readers and assessors of household furniture, which then was somewhat sketchily taxed, by starting commotions in the alley and drawing the household out onto the back porch, and by canvassing all known friends of the families involved and all the photographers in town. The picture was almost as important as the story itself and the beautiful girl in this case had become involved in an experience which made her, for the moment, as important in the Chicago circulation as Kaiser Wilhelm would be ten years later.

In about two hours, the young stranger was at Mr. Bicket's desk with a studio portrait of the girl, and the Chicago American office, in which uproar was normal, went stark, staring crazy. The artists left their boards over by the windows, Dean Cornwell, Karl Palenske and Fred Hoffman, all destined for fame, and joined the mad jamboree around the puzzed young stranger. Louie, the consumptive office boy, joined in, a waif from New York who was always cadging quarters for cough medicine.

The elevator boy, named Chicken Duffy, abandoned his mule-power lift. He was a fighter in stealthy productions held in barns and back rooms in Aurora, Peoria and Kewanee.

Amid all this, Mr. Bicket almost forgot to put the picture in the paper, but bethought himself in time to scoop the town in a coup which, in actual fact, has come down the ages as a classical if paltry triumph. When the madhouse had calmed down to its wonted fanaticism, Mr. Bicket took the new man into his private office to get his name for the payroll and to ask him, under seal of confidence, how he had got the picture. If he had found it necessary to murder or burgle, Mr. Bicket would not insist on knowing, but in view of prolonged failure by so many dedicated men unhampered by dictates of decency, he would just like to know for his own information.

"No objection at all," the young man said. "I walked up to the door, rang the bell, told the lady who I was and asked for it and she gave it to me."

Mr. Bicket put him on the payroll for $25 a week and two weeks later the new hand brought down his family from Minneapolis and began to hew out a career which, as Mr. Krueger and others have agreed, is still honored as one of the greatest in the aspects of our journalism which prevailed among us before Afghanistanism and cosmic cerebration set in.

Mr. Krueger and the other pickwickians present rose and quietly toasted Arthur James Pegler, who still writes letters of great beauty and spirit on his prehistoric double-deck Smith premier invisible with a ribbon as wide as a bathmat, at his place of retirement in Rancho Toda La Vista outside Tucson.

"Did he get a bonus for that?" Mr. Krueger asked.

"No," I said. "As a matter of fact he got fired. About 1913, in one of those flings at literature which reporters were always trying, he wrote a fiction version called 'That Hahnheimer Story' which he sold to Adventure, or Argosy, for $50. Jim Bicket and Moe Koenigsberg, the managing editor at the time of the coup, were grossly offended by the graphic and faithful protrayals of their features and antics, and so, nine years afterward, Bicket canned him."

Religion is necessary to human relations. How can you come to agreements with people who do not feel that it is wrong to break their word? How can you depend on the word of someone who does not believe that THERE IS A DIVINE JUDGEMENT AFTER DEATH? The prophets of Judaism, the saints of Christianity and the holy men of Buddhism did not convert the peoples to protect the rulers. They converted the rulers to protect the people. Ideological tyrants always have sought of set his principal in reverse. During the French Revolution, Robespierre, having sought to suppress all existing forms of religion, tried to institute the worship of a Supreme Being of his own creation. As a ruler he did not want his caprices limited by the organized conscience of mankind. But he wanted the protection of a "God" he could make his servant. Russia has control the Greek Orthodox Church (after liquidating many of it's priests). More strikingly, they have made the Dalai Lama of Buddhism a hunted refugee and now seek to elevate one of their stooges to his place.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON

NEW YORK—This reporter, in common with many others, makes a lot of mistakes. One of them is in the area of assuming that we live in a nation populated by luxury - loving, luxury - seeking human beings either totally unaware or unwilling to be aware of world conditions as they are. It is true that we seem to be that kind of nation.

Early in April, the assumption in print, nettled some Americans to the extent that they sat down and wrote letters about it. I like best the one from Emma Ciccone, of Nutley, N. J.:

"I am so darn tired of you and other writers stating that the 'general public' does not seem to be aware of just how serious is the situation between our country and Russia. Just how do newspaper writers and editors know how I and countless others like me feel?

"If a thing is on your mind the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night, if it lies in your subconscious mind all day long, if every news bulletin almost makes your heart stop beating — are you aware of the horrible things that could happen in the event of war?

"You can bet I am, and I'm not alone in my feelings. But tell me this: can I shout out my fears along the street? Can I discuss it with neighbors in the supermarket? When my son talks of his future and what he wants to be, and my daughter talks of her 'next' birthday party, do they know that I pray that there will be a future and a birthday party for them?

"And all like them, here and all over the world?

"No, I don't shout my fear all over the world. I tell my fears to my God. I live, as Father Keller says, one day at a time. I am thankful for that day and whatever it may bring.

"So please don't say that we aren't aware of the situation and all its dangers.

"Don't you or anyone else say that. Why don't you ask a mother with a small baby if she is aware of it?

"Might make a good column."

I have not asked a mother with a small baby, but I think it is the thing to do. I think Mrs. Ciccone must be right and that instead of a luxury-loving, convertible coupe, wall-to-wall rug and country clubbing nation we are, at heart, probably a nation of individuals like all its dangers.

The Doctor Says:

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

It is disturbing when a correspondent mentions a symptom as does today's first writer, and jumps to a conclusion about its cause.

Q— What kind of heart trouble is taking place when there is pain and discomfort in the upper left side of the body? This is in my left shoulder, left side of the neck, and throat, with occasional pain over the heart.—Mrs. W. P.

A— Pain and discomfort are merely symptoms and should simply be considered as warning signs and aids to the physician in making a diagnosis of what is responsible.

In this instance, for example, it is certainly not safe to conclude from the information presented that the discomfort is the result of heart disease, though this is one possibility. Such pain could be the result of injury or arthritis in the shoulder, of pleurisy, of acuritis, or of many other possible origins.

The proper procedure is to try to find out what really is responsible.

Q— What harm could result from taking excessive doses of vitamin D?—M. W.

A— This may result in an increase in the calcium in the blood and excessive deposits of calcium in some of the tissues. No one should take large doses of vitamin D for any length of time without careful medical supervision.

Q— Is there any particular reason why people want to have themselves tatooed?—S. A.

A— This was the subject of a recent report. As a result of a survey of 138 tatooed men it was concluded that a man's decision to be tattooed has nothing to do with whether or not he is a sailor, his educational level, or his being drunk at the time.

However, it was thought that the tattooed man does differ from others in some ways. He is more likely to have been divorced and the son of divorced parents. He is more of a rebel, has more trouble with authority, and is more likely to have been in jail.

These were among the differences thought to exist. But there are many with such characteristics who do not have themselves tattooed.

LET'S BE UNREASONABLE

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (UPI) —The real estate business in this city is getting tougher all the time, judging from a sign here that reads: "Property for sale. No reasonable offer accepted."

CAGNEY'S BOAT NOW KIDS' PLAYGROUND—Youngsters dive into the water at Newport Dunes, Calif., from the "Swift," an 18th century-design boat once owned by Jimmy Cagney. Jimmy's one voyage aboard her can be summed up in "Sail, Pale, Rail." Shortly afterward, he sold her.

LURE THEM IN

MONTEPELIER, Vt. (UPI) — Yankee logic has killed a legislative move to boost the Vermont fishing license fees for out-of-state anglers.

"Fishing in Vermont isn't good enough to raise the fees," said State Rep. Philip Chase (R-Putney), and the legislature voted down the hike.
