Answerline

(Q) Who is responsible and why do they dump all the rocks and dirt in Ruddick Park at the low water bridge? Doesn't the city have a better place for such rubbish than our public park? The park is in bad enough shape as it is.

(A) The rocks and dirt hat have accumulated at the water bridge crossing have been from an effort to stop the dirt and soil from eroding away from underneath the southside of the cement apron, said a member of the Colorado City Parks and Recreational Board.

The spokesman said he did not know why the area has not been leveled off with the existing rocks and dirt.

Calls down for CCPD in March

The number of calls received by the Colorado City Police Department dipped below the 1,400 mark for the first time in several months, according to the monthly report from the CCPD for March.

January and February were high months in the number of calls received. Over 1,470 calls were received in January and 1,410 calls were received in February.

The number of crimes investigated in March was 74 compared to 85 in February and 90 in January. The number of crimes investigated for 1984 totals 249. The CCPD made 25 arrests in March, according to the March report.

The major crimes also showed a decrease; five burglary calls were answered by the department.

The number of calls answered by the CCPD to date is 4,231. Of the 74 cases investigated last month 32 were cleared and 15 were filed in either District or county court.

The CCPD, in what appeared a slow period, investigated a theft at Dairy Queen, said interim CCPD Chief Steve Collier. The department saw a busy Tuesday, making nine arrests.

The department answered a call at Delaney Circle where the CCPD along with assistance from the Mitchell County Sheriff's Department took five women into protective custody, Collier said.

The police department is currently investigating a burglary of a vehicle that occurred at 505 Cherry Street on April 11. Taken from the vehicle were several items. They included a case of apples, four jugs of apple cider, two cans of jalapeno peppers, four jars of honey and two watermelons.

The estimated cost of the loss was approximately $74. The case is still under investigation by the department, Collier said.

POOR OLE TREE—Colorado City's famous oldest tree yielded to progress last week and was bulldozed off the city parkway at Sixth and Oak Streets. The tree, reputed to be over 100 years old, will be replaced by a circle drive which will be in front of a dwelling to be moved in this week. The old tree, planted about 1883, was a mulberry and had hundreds of berries on it at the time it was dozed over. It was, at one time, in the front yard of Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee. Mrs. Lee became Mrs. Hester Keeling after the doctor's death. She had many tales to tell about the tree. Pretty Boy Floyd stood under the tree for a last puff from his cigarette before entering the house to play poker with Don Lee and his friends. "Pretty Boy was a good lookin' man," she said, "and he had a girl friend in Colorado City." Pretty Boy went on his way, however, and died in a shootout with the FBI a couple of years later.

Memories of the good old 'Col-Tex days'

Editor's Note: The history and reflections by Rose Ella Ball of the Col-Tex Refinery will be a two-part series. The second part will be included in the Thursday edition of the RECORD.

There will be no featured or celebrated speaker present, no Philharmonic orchestra to play, certainly no Hollywood stars.

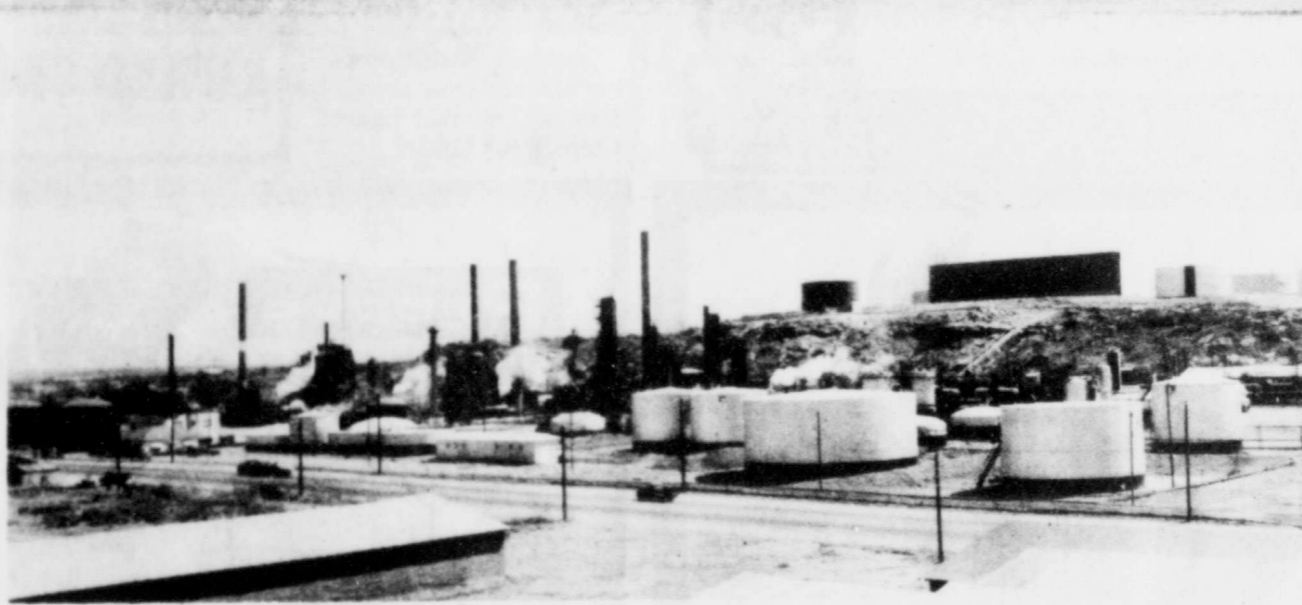

However, this celebrated gala will be the reunion of the former Col-Tex employees, families and friends April 21 at the C. C. Thompson Room. The annual gathering in Colorado City will honor people from Big Spring, Abilene, Fort Worth, San Angelo and surrounding cities and communities.

To the new residents in town and the younger generation this perhaps has little meaning, said Rose Ella Ball, whose husband was a Col-Tex employee. But to those of the employees and family who were here in the Thirties through the Sixties, Col-Tex was a word known by all; symbolic of the town's largest payroll at one time, she added.

Mrs. Ball vividly recalls the "old" refinery and the period of time that it was in operation in Colorado City. She recalls the people that worked there and who made the Col-Tex refinery an integral part of Colorado City and the community.

The "old" refinery skeleton, located just outside the city limits on west old Highway 80, are the only remains of Col-Tex. But every See COL-TEX, Page 2

Cross-country chase leads to arrest

The Mitchell County Sheriff's Department received a call at 11:56 a.m. from the Nolan County Sheriff's Department about a man who had taken a car from a residence at Roscoe. He was on I-20 going westbound heading toward Colorado City at the time of the call.

Arrested and arraigned before the justice of the Peace Charles Ray Watlington was Wayne Curtis Thomason, 22, of Ontario, California. He was charged with two counts of illegal use of a motor vehicle. Bond was set at $5,000 for each count he was charged with, Bryant said.

The chase which actually ended five miles west of Westbrook, began on I-20 at 12:04 p.m. The pursuit ended at 12:14 p.m. on the north service road off I-20. Thomason was taken into custody at 12:16 p.m. The suspect sped through downtown Westbrook during the chase.

It took three Mitchell County patrol units, a Texas Highway Patrol unit from Colorado City, a Nolan County law enforcement officer, a Howard County THP and the Coahoma Chief of Police to actually contain Thomason within the Mitchell County limits.

The suspect has been transported back to Nolan County where he may post bail or stay in custody until his trial, Bryant said.

RIBBON CUTTING CEREMONIES were held recently at Gulf Coast Construction Co.'s new housing subdivision located at Sheppard and 9th Streets. Joining in the ribbon cutting were J. O. Dockrey, Bob Ratliff, Denise Stoffer, Nick Dockum, Linda McCombs, Jack Hollis and Porter Richardson.

Retired teachers district meeting set Wednesday

The Annual District XVIII National Retired Teachers Association-Texas Retired Teachers Association Workshop for new officers and Committee Chairmen for local units will be held at the Wallace Community Education Center in Colorado City on Wednesday, April 18.

The opening program is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. following a 30-minute registration period which begins at 9 a.m.

Special guests will be Mr. Lloyd Bell, Assistant Executive Director for Texas Retired Teachers. He will be the Team Leader in charge of Consultants including the following: Dr. Loraine Clark, Area Vice-President for AARP, Dallas; Mr. Fred Murphy, First Vice-President of Texas Retired Teachers Association, Fort Worth; Mrs. Marie McCollum, former Assistant State Director

The announcement of the closing of Col-Tex came like doomsday, wrote Mrs. Ball in a history and personal reflection to the RECORD. The dreaded day was September 1967. The employees at the refinery were told Col-Tex would be officially closed by 1968.

Driving west on old Highway 80, just before crossing the railroad to the left you see several old large oil tanks surrounded by sand-drifts, tumbleweeds and debris.

It is a lonely sight and a painful reminder of what used to surround and abound the tanks.

Once, not so long ago, there was the refinery with its crude stills, small tanks to receive the gasoline from the tanks, asphalt stills, asphalt storage tanks, the two-story laboratory, large office building, the thermo cracker, sulfurizing plant, water treating tower, loading racks, and a boiler belching out smoke producing steam to keep the pumps running.

In and around these structures was where the men could be found working round the clock, "days," "evenings" and "hoot owl" shifts doing the work that eventually produced the gasoline, fuel oils, and asphalt to be shipped out by pipeline to the commercial and industrial users.

The refinery had its beginning January 24, 1925 with a work crew of ten or twelve men expanding several times in later years. It was bought by Cosden in 1956 and during the course of its operation provided livelihood for hundreds of Mitchell countians.

BOGSAT - the method of presidential appointments

"If, after the inauguration, you find Cy Vance as secretary of state and Zbigniew Brzezinski as head of national security, then I would say we have failed."
—Hamilton Jordan, 1976

Of course, when Jordan's boss, Jimmy Carter, won the election, he appointed Cy Vance as secretary of state and Zbigniew Brzezinski as head of national security.

We had seen it all before. A presidential candidate talks of bringing new people to Washington—of changing the direction of the national government. Then, once elected, he fills most jobs with the same sort of people responsible for the failed policies of the past.

In staffing their administrations, most presidents use criteria accepted by the establishment—a degree from an Ivy League school, membership in a prestigious law firm, experience as a top executive in a large corporation, and/or service in a previous administration. By those standards, few people with working-class backgrounds have any chance of being selected.

Don't misunderstand me. It is not a good idea to fill high government positions with unqualified people. Qualified, intelligent, experienced people should hold those jobs. The problem is that the credentials accepted by the establishment are not always held by the people best suited for important positions.

Instead of conducting an intensive search for the right kind of talent to fill important positions, most presidents fill the top jobs by the traditional, elitist method known as BOGSAT—a Bunch Of Guys (the president's buddies) Sitting Around a Table. It is not surprising that a few groups are wildly overrepresented in policy-making positions, while other groups are hardly represented at all.

People from a president's home state are usually present in large numbers in an administration. Although there may be good reasons for a president to appoint his friends—people he can trust—to certain top White House jobs, there is no reason for him to surround himself with cronies. Rather than an "Irish Mafia," a "Georgia Mafia," or a "California Mafia," the president's staff should include people of diverse backgrounds who have different perspectives (but who share his general philosophy).

Where are the men and women of earned, as opposed to inherited, wealth? Where are the leaders who started out as laborers before their talent elevated them to positions of power? There are a few, but very few.

At a White House staff meeting you should see plenty of black faces, brown faces, and skirts. You should see a group that reflects the wide range of ethnic backgrounds of the citizens of this country. In making appointments, a president should reach out to groups that have been largely overlooked. A president should seek out intelligent, capable people who are philosophically in tune with him but who do not necessarily have establishment credentials on their resumes.

I don't want to sound overly critical of President Reagan, because he has done a better job of reaching out than most other Republican presidents. For some reason, though, Democrats tend to be more open to people of different ethnic backgrounds and cultures. Clearly there is a reasonable limit to "group" politics—a line Mr. Mondale has crossed—but at least the Democrats recognize that ours is a pluralistic society. They work very hard at representing the wide range of cultures and interests of our society. Maybe that's why they have won the vast majority of elections at all levels for more than 50 years.

GOVERNOR MARK WHITE

Good teachers leaving system

Kay Harding, a public school teacher in Clayton County, Ga., taught the nation a hard lesson about the future of education.

At the same ceremony where she accepted her state's highest "Teacher of the Year" award, Kay Harding submitted her resignation after 13 years of teaching high school mathematics.

Low pay was only part of the problem. She worried that this nation could spend billions of dollars on defense without committing enough time, attention and money to achieve educational excellence. "It's dangerous," she said, "to trust this nation's defense to young people who don't possess basic skills in reading, writing and arithmetic."

Her warning was no exaggeration. According to a recent report released by the U.S. Navy, more than a quarter of all naval recruits cannot read at the ninth grade level.

Kay Harding's ultimate decision to stay in the classroom speaks to the dedication of many of our teachers who, as a group, too often are made the scapegoat for failures of an educational system with misplaced priorities. Texas teachers do not clock out when the last school bell rings. They take home papers to grade and lesson plans to organize. In their summers "off," our teachers are asked to return to college to update their skills and complete another degree or additional certification.

For too long, a talented female-dominated teaching profession subsidized our educational system through low salaries. As more higher-paying career opportunities opened to women, the classroom came into competition with the board room—and school districts found themselves in a lopsided tug of war with industry for the brightest college graduates.

It is time to pay teachers what they are worth and replace Texas' antiquated pay step plan with a "career ladder" system that will raise significantly entry-level teacher salaries, while paying more money to retain our most experienced, highly trained teachers.

Higher standards and improved training programs for prospective teachers should be part of any plan for educational excellence, but I am encouraged to see growing public support for more far-ranging improvements in our public schools.

Agape Circle has meeting

The Agape Circle of the First United Methodist Church met Monday, April 8th at 7 p.m. in the fellowship hall with Billie Martin and Juanita Coker as hostesses.

Refreshments served were chicken salad sandwiches, chips, cake, drinks of special hot tea, coffee and cold punch. While eating, the members enjoyed fellowship, reporting of good deeds and visits made since the last meeting.

Peggy Ratliff, president called for a business session to hear reports from the officers. A short report was given about "Getting to know your workshop" the first bi-conference sharing event, April 6-8 at Camp Butman.

This was an opportunity for sharing to enhance understanding of Blacks, Anglo and Hispanic cultures. Nelda Garrett, Blanche Feathers and Peggy Ratliff attended this meeting.

A report from Rochelle Smith was given on the McCurdy School Española New Mexico. They are asking for more stamp books. To date the church has collected 74,744 books. This would be a total of $149,488. This money is being placed in a special fund to some day build a badly needed gymnasium. It will cost at least $800,000. Campbell soup labels can also be used along with others. Trading stamps of any type can also be used.

The members reported enjoying the last study, "Central Africa," given by Nelda Garrett in February and March. It explained how the people of Central Africa are journeying from colonial domination toward freedom. Announced date for the next Big Spring District, United Methodist Women will be "Time Apart" at Midland St. Lukes Church May 19th.

At this meeting Monday night, a spiritual growth study of Luke on "wholeness and healing" by the author Lindsey P. Perigo was introduced by the president by showing printed posters of scriptures to read in Luke and to relate them to Christian living today. On hand were several books to read to coordinate with the title. There are no simple answers about the nature of wholeness and healing. For more introduction to the spiritual growth study of Luke, the Luke slide set was presented and shown to members.

The program was dismissed by the Circle members joining hands and each giving sentence prayers for friends and neighbors who are sad, sick and lonely.

Present were Frances Godwin, Lonie Pruitt, Ann Brown, Della Fox, Wilma Reynolds, Billie Martin, Rochelle Smith, Juanita Coker, Phyllis Glover, Nelda Garrett, Dera Winn, Betsy Davis and Peggy Ratliff.

Have you heard the one about the cowboy who came upon a hat in the middle of his pasture? He picked the hat up and there was the top of a head. He started to dig the man out, soon tired. The man said, "Keep digging sir, I'm a horse back."

Or the one about the gophers digging their hole three feet in the air. As bad as our sand storms are, Mrs. Mary Rogers and Mrs. Mattie Hines tell me they are not as bad as the ones they had at the beginning drought that began in 1917. In April of 1918, the sand was so bad they had to light their lamps between three and four p.m. in order to see.

Mrs. Hines said she had to dismiss her school children early in the day. As they walked home, they had to look down to see if they were staying on the road.

There is hope. The ladies tell me the drought ended in May 1919 with the biggest rain they have ever witnessed.

Next week we begin our preparation for Easter week. We have a full calendar of events to celebrate the Holy Week.

Our April birthday party will be April 18. Time is 2:30 p.m. Wind without rain in West Texas, simply means windmills began to turn.

District director speaks to B&PW

Nila Gay Barfknecht

The Colorado City Business and Professional Women's Club, Inc., met for the regular dinner and business meeting, Tuesday evening, April 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the Civic Center.

The Young Careerist Committee hosted the meeting with Eddie Barclay as chairman. She led the pledge of allegiance to the flag and later read the club collect. She was assisted by Ernestine Stubblefield.

Guest speaker was Juanita O'Conner, District Director, from Ballinger. She also serves as Runnels County Extension Agent and a member of the Ballinger B&W Women's Club.

She outlined in detail the characteristics that make a good B&PW member—the most important being leadership—that members need to develop leadership qualities. She stated that members need to be helpful and cooperative in their own club as well as in the community and that we learn by doing that we gain knowledge from books, but that wisdom comes from experience. Also that we need to set goals, then carry them out. Also we need to share information, knowledge, and experience with others. In keeping with our club theme "Women Helping Women," we can give support and work with others. She was given a round of applause.

Mildred Free talked on her trip to England that she had recently made saying that it was most enjoyable and informative that she is ready to make a return trip.

The business meeting was called to order by Club President, Juanita Schafer. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Virginia Dearen gave the treasurer's report. Reports of Standing committees were heard. It was moved, voted and carried that a memorial to Mary Lee Moore, former club member be made to the First Christian Church. A nominating committee was elected. Molly Bruce was elected chairman with Nelda Garrett and Margaret Ann Conaway serving with her.

Guests introduced were Jo Reed of Ballinger, Allene Hallmark of the Loraine Club and Sharon Hammond. Members included Eddie Barclay, Molly Bruce, Margaret Ann Conaway, Christine Cooley, Virginia Dearen, Annie Dixon, Mildred Free, Nelda Garrett, Elhel Hardegree, Ida Kirchbaum, Erdine Morgan, Velma Moseley, Margaret Oyler, Lona Pritchett, Sallie Rogers, Juanita Schafer, Faye Spivey, Anna Staats, Ernestine Stubblefield, Thelma Tidwell, Judy Winkle, Wilma Womack, Jean Holbert and Geneva Redwine.

The Self Culture Club discusses district meeting

Dona Reed was hostess to the Self Culture Club on April 16th.

The pledge of allegiance to the U.S. Flag and prayer were led by Lil Brown.

Eddie Barclay presided over a business session. Members described the early day work of the pioneers as compared to today.

The events of the 24th Annual Federation Convention were discussed by the members who attended the convention. Eddie Barclay, club president; Elizabeth Elliott and Linnie Williams. Lil Brown and Pearl Watson sponsored the hospitality hour—serving refreshments to the Mesquite District Convention in Abilene, March 29-30th. Ninety-eight members attended.

The club members, who desire, are urged to contact their congressmen and ask that religious organizations be given the same opportunity to meet in school facilities as any other organization on tax payers money. The average tax payer's taxes has increased 246 percent in the last 30 years. Also, members should express their opinion to their congressmen on instituting cuts in spending as set forth by the Grace Commission. One member of the commission stated that if these cuts in spending were made by congress, there should be no raise in taxes; no cuts in social spending; no cuts in defense spending. One member of the Grace Commission stated that unless the tax payer demanded it of our congressmen, these wastes would not be taken off your taxes.

Fertilization essential for good garden

Planting date set as May 21

May 21st has been selected in both Mitchell and Scurry Counties as the Uniform Delayed Planting Date in cotton for 1984. The Mitchell County Pest Management Steering Committee set the date for Mitchell County.

This committee is composed of Dean Oliver, Ronald Bruce, Jim Petty, Ronnie Feaster, Alton Raschke, D. M. Smith, Bill Parks, Bobby Lemons, Donald Smith, Carl Guelker, Floyd Lee Ritchey, Mac Morris and Curtis Shaw. Jim Petty, Floyd Lee Ritchey and Donald Smith were elected to the board by county producers at the Cotton Information Day.

The Uniform Delayed Planting Date is used as a control measure against the cotton boll weevil. By delaying the appearance of one-third grown cotton squares many weevils emerging from overwintering sites will die before they will be able to successfully reproduce. A weevil egg must be laid in a one-third grown square or larger for the egg to develop into an adult weevil. Weevils emerging from overwintering sites can survive for approximately two weeks once emerging. If one-third grown squares are not present by that time they usually die. Therefore with a May 21st planting date, one-third grown squares should appear around July 1st. Weevils emerging after June 15th will probably be able to live until one-third grown squares appear.

In the spring of 1981 97 percent of the weevils came out before June 15th. In 1982, 60 percent emerged before June 15th and in 1981 67 percent emerged before June 15th. So, a lot of weevils died without colonizing fields. (Some of these weevils may have colonized your "neighbor's field" who planted early.) The 1981 three percent spring emergence after June 15th is probably the closest to normal. The past two springs have been unusually cool so that may account for the increased number of weevils emerging after June 15th.

We are expecting a light emergence of boll weevils this spring. Leaf litter was examined from across the Scurry County area for boll weevils. The two areas are very similar habitat and weather wise so information gathered there, can be applied to Mitchell County. A three percent infestation was found. No live weevils were found. This does not mean that the cold, dry winter we had killed all the weevils but it did kill a large amount of them. Trash or leaf litter sampling was also done in Tom Green-Runnels Counties (Ballinger-San Angelo) and only one live weevil was found out of 100 samples. The dry, cold weather was just what we needed to kill cotton boll weevils. The Uniform Delayed Planting Date is extremely effective in 'light' years since it further decreases the number of weevils which will damage your cotton.

Mitchell County cotton producers are encouraged to plant their cotton with the May 21st date to help protect their cotton against the destructive cotton boll weevil.

Fertilization is important in your gardening efforts.

Currently 16 nutrients are considered essential to plant growth and development. Thirteen of them must be furnished by the soil.

Under natural conditions plant nutrition is not a problem (note the forest, woods and plains). However, for a successful and productive vegetable garden, some type of fertilizer must be added.

But what's in fertilizer that makes it important? And what do those three numbers mean? The numbers stand for the three major nutrients—nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium, in that order. They tell how much of each nutrient is present as a percentage of the total weight of the fertilizer.

Thus, a 50-pound sack of 10-20-10 contains five pounds of nitrogen, 10 pounds of phosphorus and five pounds of potassium or their chemical equivalents. That's only 20 pounds total—the rest of the fertilizer is simply inert carrier or filler such as sand, perlite or rice hulls.

Nitrogen is necessary for all vegetative growth—roots, leaves, stems, flowers and fruits. Among other functions, it is partially responsible for the green chlorophyll and is essential to protein formation. A nitrogen deficiency causes lower leaves to turn yellow.

Phosphorus is essential to cell division, root formation, flowering and fruiting. It's also involved in the storage and transfer of energy vital to all growth processes. Consequently, phosphorus deficiency causes stunted growth and poor flowering and fruiting.

The role of potassium is not well defined, but experience shows that plants cannot grow properly without it. Potassium deficiency symptoms vary, but stunted growth and dark or purple discoloration are common symptoms in many plants.

Iron, another problem element in many areas, is essential to chlorophyll formation and growth processes. New growth on plants with iron deficiency have yellow leaves with green veins.

Compost is a mixture of decomposing and rotting debris used to add fertilizing elements in fertilizing elements to the soil. Composting is a process which returns plant and animal matter to the soil and completes the life cycle. This cycle begins when the seed is planted. As the small plant grows it takes nutrients from the soil to make cells and metabolites. The larger the plant grows the more minerals are required. When the plant dies it decomposes and the "borrowed elements" return to the soil. Thus, the cycle is completed.

The advantage of using organically released fertilizer elements is mainly one of economics. They are free! These elements do not differ from the fertilizer elements you purchase.

The organic combinations of elements must be reduced to some soluble organic form before they can be absorbed by plants again. These inorganic forms also are found in commercial fertilizers. With this information, one can readily recognize the fallacy in the claim that vegetables and other food products fertilized with inorganic chemical fertilizers are harmful to human health as compared to those fertilized with compost or other organic materials. Compost added to the soil also improve tilth, fertility and moisture-holding ability. These factors encourage optimum plant growth and maximum yields if proper cultural practices are followed.

Some nitrogen is readily washed out of the soil and plants by rain and irrigation so there's usually not much there. Phosphorus, potassium and iron are generally present in large quantities but very little is available for most plants because the soil ties them up. This is particularly true in alkaline soils.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

OVERGRAZED rangeland—Mike Squires, SCS range conservationist, examines a pasture that has been overgrazed for years. All of the desirable grasses have been grazed out. A small amount of red grama and a few annual weeds and forbs are about the only vegetation left. The condition of this pasture cannot be blamed on the drought. Even when the rain comes, most of it will run off because there is not enough vegetation to hold it on the land. Grass plants can be maintained, even during a drought, if they are properly grazed and receive occasional rest. A rancher's profits depends upon how much grass he produces and how much is harvested through his livestock. The grass plant lives off its own food which is manufactured in the leaves. Continuous close grazing will cause the plant to die of starvation.

TEXAS GARDENER TIPS

Chili Peppers: A Hot Addition to the Garden

Mexican food is a hot item these days, both in popularity and taste. The ingredient responsible for Tex-Mex food's hot taste is chili, which comes from the chili pepper.

You can spice up your garden by growing your own chili peppers. Chili and bell peppers are botanically related and have the same general growing requirements—they like a warm, sunny spot in the garden, with a well-drained soil that keeps their roots from getting overly wet.

Chili peppers may be eaten as green chilis by harvesting the green pods from summer through early fall. These green pods can be used in sauces or made into chili rellenos. By early fall, the green pods turn red and will begin to dry on the stalk if they are in a relatively dry climate. To complete their drying, pick the red pods and place them in trays on rooftops, on the ground, or wherever it is dry and there is good air circulation.

You can also finish drying chili peppers in the oven. The dried red pods can be used whole to flavor cooking oil, or they can be ground into a bright red powder.

While the bell pepper pod is wide, blunt-ended, thick-walled, and apple-shaped, the chili pepper pod is generally long, thin-walled, and tapered with a sharp point. Most chili pods are 5 to 7 inches long and 2 inches in diameter at the stem end.

What is it that makes a chili pepper pungent, or hot? It is a naturally-occurring compound called Capsaicin. And the heat in a chili pepper lies not in the walls nor the seeds of the pepper, as commonly believed, but in the cross-walls inside the pod.

The pungency of a given variety varies with the year and climate. Weather conditions, such as heat waves, can cause stress,

Cook's Corner

Cooking was child's play

While most children, at the age of five, are usually playing with toys or playing outdoors, Jean Morris was cooking.

"I would stand on a wooden box so I could reach the cabinet or stove. I knew how to make cornbread from scratch when I was five."

Her sister was younger than Mrs. Morris was, but she still wanted to help.

Mrs. Morris said, "when my sister wanted to help me, I let her grease the pans."

When you're that young and trying to cook, there are accidents and miscues that are bound to happen.

Mrs. Morris remembers an incident when she was going to make roast gravy.

"I had everything ready and I was going to pour the milk in. My mother didn't tell me you slowly poured it in. I just poured it in the drippings and it splashed up and burned me on the arm. I was so afraid when mother saw it she would make me quit cooking, but she didn't."

Her husband, Preston, farms in the Cuthbert Community, so she tries to have a big lunch fixed and then have enough left over for supper.

Mrs. Morris' favorite dish to prepare is casseroles.

"If I see any recipe or paper with casserole on it, I want to try it."

So while all the other kids were having fun outdoors and playing, Jean Morris was having fun cooking.

Today she is sharing three of her recipes with RECORD readers.

Semi pro baseball storms C-City

By TONY FRANCO

Football? Basketball? Baseball? Yes! Semi-pro hardball as a matter of fact.

That's the score of the Colorado City Pirates' victory in their first and only game of the young 1984 season.

Who are the Pirates?

The Pirates, 17 players strong, are actually a combination of two hardball teams that disbanded following a ho-hum 1983 season and represent the only game in town for hardnose baseball players too old for Texas Teenage League play.

"We have come a long way since last year," said coach and manager Manuel Molina. "They're looking better and better every practice."

Included on the Pirates' roster are David Salazar, Tony Turner, Tut Marcom, Nolan Russell, Franky Molina, Henry Reyna, Andy Franco, Weldon Walker, Kent Ruth, Lupe Lopez, Steve Walker, Manuel Molina, Jr., Fred Salazar, Franklin Marsh, Michael Luera, Manuel DeLoera and Marcos Molina.

Coach Molina said the best thing about having such a large roster is that he has plenty of what every baseball team needs—pitchers.

The black and gold uniformed Pirates count eight hurlers in their arsenal of hardballers.

In the 23-19 scoreboard tilting win at Sterling City a few weeks ago, Franco was the winning pitcher.

In the game, the Pirates fell behind by as many as eight runs early in the game before a homerun by Pee Wee Russell and a game-saving catch by DeLoera pulled the local team through after 10 innings.

When not pitching, Franco splits catching time with F. Molina and Ruth.

Working the infield are S. Walker and Turner at first; Manuel Molina, Jr., and Marcom at second; W. Walker, F. Salazar and Turner at third and F. Molina, Russell and Turner at shortstop.

In the outfield are Luera and Marcos Molina in left; DeLoera and Reyna in center and Lopez and D. Salazar play rightfield.

This year the Pirates are hoping to play in a West Texas League headquartered in Midland. Should they enter the league, the team would play against the likes of the Hobbs A's, Midland Drillers, Odessa Colt 45's, Odessa Orioles, Big Spring Cardinals, Big Spring Red Sox, Andrews Braves and Odessa Astros.

Today, the Pirates are scheduled to play Roscoe there. Starting pitcher for Colorado City will be Turner. The Pirates first home stand will be a doubleheader against Midland April 29 then they in turn will travel there the following Sunday.

Tuesdays and Thursdays are the teams official practice days, but their work goes even further.

The team worked on the field Wednesday and after practice Thursday, players helped in fertilizing and watering the infield and on-deck areas.

Two questions remained unresolved for the Pirates.

First and foremost is always the question of money.

The team, currently in search of a sponsor or sponsors, held a fund-raising cake sale at Safeway yesterday (Saturday) in which players had to bring two cakes or ten dollars.

"We would appreciate any donations," said coach Molina. "Contributions can be made at C. C. Athletics."

The second question is why was Ken referred to as a Cracker Jack? Turner said it had something to do with his swing.

CHS golfers place third

By TONY FRANCO

Breckenridge's Kent McHaffey took the medalist honors, but the all-Hispanic Sterling City team, led by medalist runner-up George Rodriguez's 18 hole total of 81, had four linksters in the 80's to capture the team title of the Colorado City Invitational golf tournament held last Tuesday.

In third place in the individual standings was Colorado High School junior Jay Piland.

Piland got through the second nine holes of the Colorado City Country Club course in a blistering 37 strokes, but his 45 for the front nine was too much to overcome.

McHaffey recorded a 40 for both the front and back nine holes while Rodriguez opened with a 40 but then followed with a 41 to fall out of the lead.

Besides Rodriguez and their three other sub 90 scores, the Eagles of Sterling City also had the lowest low-ball total and finished the tournament with a 340 team total to the Buckaroos 346.

The Wolves finished third in the team standings with a 353 and recorded a low-ball 71, one stroke behind the Eagles.

Following Colorado City in the team standings were Hamlin at 369, Bronte at 404, Roscoe at 428 and Colorado City's second team at 445.

Joining Piland on the first team were Jardy Powell 44-90, Blake Bingham 45-90, Kevin McLean 46-91 and Gary White 51-97.

For the Wolves' second team, Lonnie Clary shot 52-107, Robert Lemons 58-107, Blaine Lemons 57-113 and Marty Davila 62-118.

The CHS golf team, currently fourth in district 6-3A standings, concludes the district schedule Tuesday at Coahoma (Big Spring).

Piland leads the medalist race by seven strokes over Todd Rogers of Crane and has his sights on the regional tournament to be played at Midland May 1 and 2.

RULES — There are three parts to THE WORD CAGE: (1) clues and (2) quiz, which lead to (3) the final answer, the MYSTERY WORD. The clues and quiz are hidden in the grid — up, down, across, backward or diagonally. First circle the clue words (we've found the first word for you). You may find the same letter in more than one word, so circle each letter clearly. Next, circle the quiz words; the first letter and number of letters are given for each. When you have circled all the clue and quiz words, the remaining uncircled letters will spell out the answer to this week's WORD CAGE.

Senior Update

BY VIVIANNE BODEAU

SENIORS CARRY TORCH

When the Olympic Flame arrives in New York from Greece on May 8, 92 year old Abel R. Kiviat from Lakehurst, N.J., will carry the torch for one kilometer through the streets of Manhattan.

This will be the beginning of the Olympic Flame's transcontinental journey that will end 82 days later in Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum on July 28, 1984, signalling the opening of the XXIII Summer Olympiad. Thousands of men and women from 150 nations will compete this year.

Kiviat will be reliving his days of Olympic glory when he carries the Olympic Flame for in 1912 he won a silver medal for the 1,500 meter-race at the Stockholm Olympics. A former world record holder, he ran competitively for several years and officiated from 1915 to 1976 as a volunteer press steward for Madison Square Garden track events. That is a record 61 years.

And then there is Pat Tambolero, 70, of Huntington Beach, California, who says she's in training for participation in the torch relay race.

She says, "I'm getting ready to run my kilometer by training six days a week. I also work with barbells to develop my arm muscles so that I can carry the two-and-one-half pound torch without tiring."

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company

(AT&T) is sponsoring, underwriting and managing the 1984 Olympic Torch Relay. Proceeds from the sponsorships will be disbursed by the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee to local Boys Clubs, Girls Clubs, Y's, the Special Olympics and other youth groups.

William M. Ellinghaus, AT&T president, has said, "In many ways, this nationwide Torch Relay links up America in the same way as the national telephone network we have built and maintain every day... We find the challenge of the Torch Relay irresistible."

"Citius, Altius, Fortius," the Olympic motto, means "Swiftest, Highest, Strongest," ideals that symbolize the Olympic Games. This year people of all ages can participate in the Olympics by running a Youth Legacy Kilometer (as they have been named) in the Olympic Torch Relay. Or they can sponsor a kilometer for a tax-deductible $3,000.

Kiviat expresses his feelings by saying, "I wouldn't give up the opportunity to carry the torch for anything in the world," and he sums up the feelings of all the senior torch bearers when he says, "We won't be the fastest runners in the 1984 Games but we will be a part of the Olympics. That's the important thing!"

Your Stars Above

BY EVE EWING

ARIES (3-21/4-19) You don't like to take orders, but now is a good time to at least consider a friend's advice. Your lack of tact, though without malice, leads you into deep waters.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20) Overcome your dread of change and meet a challenge boldly. You have everything in your favor — except courage and a fear of the unknown. Conquer that and you won't regret it.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20) The top of the world is your favorite place, and the only thing that could knock you off is over-confidence. Attend to details as they arise, and you'll keep your place in the sun.

CANCER (6-21/7-22) A personal relationship needs a lot of attention right now. Your natural kindness should see you through this spot of trouble. Share your courage and confidence with another.

LEO (7-23/8-22) Your tendency to do things in a big way may offend others occasionally. Use your abundant charm more often. There's no point in making enemies needlessly.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22) Your business know-how will be called upon by an associate soon. Give it generously and you will be repaid a thousand times in years to come.

LIBRA (9-23/10-23) You will be called upon to use your tact and judgement to settle an argument between two friends. Walk an even line regardless of your feelings, or risk losing both friends.

SCORPIO (10-24/11-22) Living at the top of your emotions can make you ill. No one wants you to become a zombie, but cooling it is in order, and soon. You have too many good traits to be destroyed by excessive emotion.

SAGITTARIUS (11-23/12-21) Wanderlust is getting the best of you again. Make time for an exciting trip, even a short one. It will be easier to settle back into your work if you give in to the urge every now and then.

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19) Take a romantic interest on trust and stop testing it to the limit. No relationship can survive constant suspicion. Some things are worth a gamble.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-19) You will always find it difficult to stay in the confines of one relationship. But if you want someone badly, you must curb your urge to break free when the mood moves you.

PISCES (2-20/3-20) The passing parade will always draw you, but you cannot always join it. There is excitement and challenge right at home if you will only stop and look for it.
