Carter wins round

Senate OKs factory tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate handed President Carter a surprise victory today by approving a scaled-down version of his proposed tax on factories that use large amounts of oil or natural gas.

In its first vote on energy taxes, the Senate approved, 51 to 37, an amendment by Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, aimed at forcing industries and utilities to switch from oil or gas to coal or other boiler fuels.

The vote seemed to indicate Senate discontent with the way Carter's package of energy taxes had been rejected by the Senate Finance Committee.

Instead of the President's tax approach to energy conservation, the committee had approved a $40-billion, eight-year package of tax incentives to reward conservation and increase energy production.

The Metzenbaum tax would apply only to the estimated 11 per cent of American factories whose boilers can be converted to coal, and to all new boilers installed in the future. The tax of $6 per barrel of oil is double that proposed by Carter, but it would apply to far fewer plants.

However, Metzenbaum cited estimates that his tax still would save the equivalent of 1.2 million barrels of oil per day — compared with 1.5 million barrels for Carter's plan — at a far lower cost to the nation's economy.

Some of the $5 billion that the Metzenbaum tax would bring in between 1979 and 1985 would be rebated to factories and power plants to help finance the cost of converting to coal.

The House has approved an industrial tax that is broader than the one backed by Metzenbaum but not as tough as proposed by Carter. The Senate vote means it is almost certain that the final version of the energy bill will contain some such tax.

The Senate planned a vote later in the day on efforts to trim the tax incentives approved by the Finance Committee. The key question is whether more federal aid will be allowed for the oil and gas industry.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said Wednesday that the Finance Committee bill is a blank check for the oil companies, "drawn on the account of the American consumer."

Pneumonia vaccine could halt killer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A pneumonia vaccine may be available by the end of the year that would, for the first time, catch America's fifth biggest killer before the infection sets in, researchers said.

If the vaccine is approved by the federal Food and Drug Administration, it will be given nationally to three groups of people highly susceptible to pneumonia: the elderly, children with missing or defective spleens, and the estimated 50,000 persons — mostly blacks — who suffer from sickle cell anemia, the researchers said.

The results of a two-year study of 77 San Francisco Bay area black children with sickle cell who had been immunized by an experimental vaccine were announced at a news conference Wednesday by a team of researchers from the University of California at San Francisco.

"We have not seen adverse effects other than some local pain and fever," said Dr. Arthur Ammann, a UCSF director of pediatric immunology. "We feel it is a very safe vaccine."

Ammann suggested the vaccine eventually could join the arsenal of traditional immunizations, like polio, given all children.

Joining Ammann at the conference were Dr. William Mentzer and Dr. Joseph Addiego, both of UCSF. Results of their study were published today in The New England Journal of Medicine.

The vaccine is an "effective preventive treatment for one of the most important causes of death for children with sickle cell," Mentzer said. "We believe that cause of death can virtually be eliminated by prior immunization."

Despite antibiotics, pneumonia kills an estimated 25,000 Americans annually, doctors said. For some persons, the infection spreads through the body too quickly for drugs to be effective.

Heart disease is the most frequent cause of death in the United States, followed by cancer, accidents and cerebrovascular disorders.

The UCSF study found for the 77 children tested, the vaccine was 100 per cent effective in guarding against the "pneumococcus" bacteria, which causes pneumonia and other diseases.

Doctors said they also found the vaccine effective in 19 children whose spleens were missing or defective and were easy targets for the infection.

A similar vaccine was found effective for older adults in a series of tests just completed by Dr. Robert Austrian at the University of Pennsylvania, Ammann said.

The vaccine awaiting FDA sanction is a refinement of one introduced in the 1940s and was produced by Merck, Sharpe and Dohme, he said. It acts against 14 different types of the pneumococcal organism which account for some 90-95 per cent of the infections, he said.

ONE WILL BE QUEEN — Debra Hayworth, Andra Hobertz, Irene Little, Connie Jackson and Denise Young, left to right, are the five finalists competing for Homecoming Queen. One of the senior girls will be crowned at ceremonies at 7:30 p.m. prior to the Homecoming football game.

Klan begins border patrol

DALLAS (AP) — If Ku Klux Klan members begin patrolling the Texas border Friday as they have promised, members of a group pledged to protect Spanish-speaking residents from harassment may be out watching high school football.

A spokesman for the group said on Friday nights high school football reigns in Crystal City but his group will "be out there Saturday if the KKK is coming down."

Former mayor Arturo Gonzalez said, however, he does not believe Klan members would dare come into the area.

"If they go around bothering people in this area, they will get more than they can handle," he said.

Klan spokesmen have announced plans to send more than 100 men to the Texas border Friday. A recorded telephone message in Houston referred to illegal aliens as the "single most important racial problem faced by white America." The message said the Klan "once again was called upon to perform a governmental function."

The Southern regional director of Immigration and Naturalization warned Wednesday that actions by the Klan in patrolling the border are "ridiculous if not provocative" and "could create a serious incident."

Armand Saturelli said his men would have nothing to do with the KKK patrols. KKK spokesmen have said they would report all illegal aliens to Immigration officials.

"They have no authority to make any apprehension," Saturelli said. "If they do, people might have legal recourse on civil rights statutes. I

Don't need their help, border patrolman says

Kermit McKnight, head of the local Border Patrol, said today that no special preparations were being made, to his knowledge, to deal with the proposed patrol of the border by Klan members.

"As long as they don't try to apprehend anyone, they are within the law," commented McKnight. "They don't have the authority to detain anyone, however."

"I don't think we need their help, and I don't think their help will amount to much."

McKnight said that the only way the Klan could be prevented from their voluntary patrol would be by court injunction. He declined to offer any projections of what could happen on the border, and he declined to comment on the actions of the Mexican-Americans who have threatened to form vigilante groups.

"We feel this is a matter that should be handled by the proper law enforcement agencies."

He said the Klan had succeeded in "sensationalizing and emotionalizing the issue of the illegal aliens, diverting it from Congress and taking it to the streets where nothing can be accomplished."

Trans Regional's plane used to haul contraband

Sheriff A.N. Standard pointed to evidence found aboard the missing Trans Regional airplane as indicative that the plane had been used in carrying contraband, possibly on an international scale. The plane was recovered in Greenwood, Miss. Wednesday.

Standard said that the seats had been removed and replaced, which indicated the plane was used for hauling, and extra fuel tanks had been added, according to Standard, increasing the cruising range of the plane to 2,000 miles.

Standard said that the plane was ready to be picked up, and that the insurance company had been notified that the plane could be returned to Howard County.

According to the sheriff, investigators believe that the plane might possibly have been involved in a contraband operation which operates through Florida, Louisiana, Illinois, Texas, and possibly South America, transporting drugs and firearms.

A Greenwood, Miss. man has been arrested by federal and state authorities, who seized the $180,000 airplane.

Leflore County Sheriff Wayne Freeman said William Gilmore Sims, 59, was jailed Wednesday in lieu of $25,000 bond on charges of receiving stolen property. A spokesman said Sims was freed later on a reduced bond of $20,000.

Authorities said the case remains under investigation by state and federal officers.

A spokesman said the twin-engine plane, a Piper-Aire Navajo Chieftan, was reported stolen at Big Spring on September 16 and that an investigation indicated it had been in the Greenwood area since Monday.

The spokesman said the arrest and seizure at a dirt airstrip west of Greenwood was made by county deputies, Highway Patrol investigators, FBI agents and federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents.

Five compete for homecoming queen

Five finalists were selected from the 23 girls nominated for Homecoming Queen with one to be crowned queen at 7:30 p.m. Friday night.

The finalists include Debra Hayworth, Andra Hobertz, Irene Little, Connie Jackson and Denise Young.

The Homecoming Parade will be held downtown on Main and Scurry streets starting at 4 p.m. Friday with the crowning of the Homecoming Queen at 7:30 p.m. Friday night prior to the football game with Abilene Cooper.

At 6 p.m. today, there will be a torchlight parade down Main Street to the east side of the courthouse where there will be a pep rally at 6:15 p.m.

The Homecoming celebration will extend through Saturday and will include honoring 103 past all-state choir and all-state band members from Big Spring High School. This will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the high school, when the names will be inducted in the school Hall of Fame.

"Say it with Music" is also the theme of tomorrow's parade which will include a freshman float called "We've Only Just Begun"; a sophomore float "Somewhere Over the Rainbow"; junior "The Monster Mash"; and Senior "Blue Suede Shoes."

The band's float is "Stars and Strips Forever", the Goldiggers float, sponsored by the Sonic is "Saturday Night" and the Astronomy Club features the "Theme from Star Wars."

The Future Homemakers will highlight "Remember the Days at the Old Schoolyard" and the Bible Class will feature "Standing on the Promises" featuring the promises from the Bible and Noah's Ark.

The Future Science Club will feature "Jaws" and the Meister-singers "That's Entertainment." The shorthand club car will feature "I Write the Songs" and the Speech Club "We're Still the One." Other decorated cars will be featured by the Cosmetology, Spanish Club and Latin Club.

There will be several class reunions Saturday, an open house at the high school Saturday afternoon and dances Saturday night, with one for students and one for the exes.

Other nominees included Angie Fulgham, Reina Hamby, Maria Jara, Linda Holland, Cassandra

Green, Beverly Adams, Molly Ballos, Paige Grisham, Penny Nichols, Linda Bassham, Shawna Henry, Tracie McElyean, Robin Newsom, Mandy Hitt, Lisa Loudamy, Clara Brown, Shannon Mullen and Mariella Wise.

Action/reaction: Don't land at Webb

Q. Aren't illegal training flights being made by pilots of some private business concerns in and out of Webb AFB?

A. Col. Harry Spannaus, wing commander, of Webb AFB says Webb officials are concerned about such flights. Lt. Col. Ron Miller, Webb base commander, reemphasizes that all Webb runways are closed to all types of aircraft traffic and that pilots who use the air base's closed runways are in violation of Federal Aviation regulations and Air Force directives. Currently, it is unknown as to when Webb runways will be available to private aircraft. City officials are working diligently with federal agencies to convert the base into a city airport as soon as possible. Until such conversion, it remains illegal for any type of aircraft to land at Webb unless prior approval is obtained from the wing commander.

Water problem

'Our mayor will end up in Jimmy Carter's peanut patch'

SANTA ROSA, Texas (AP) — A Santa Rosa official says, "our mayor will end up in Jimmy Carter's peanut patch," if this impoverished Rio Grande Valley town fails to obtain federal funding for a new water and sewage plant.

Following the example set by Crystal City, Santa Rosa Mayor James Cameron wrote a letter to Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., requesting help in obtaining federal funds.

In the letter, Cameron called the senator's attention to the $310,000 federal grant given Crystal City after that South Texas town had its gas cut off for refusing to pay its bill, and to the $630,000 granted to nearby Harlingen for a new city auditorium.

"Certainly you will agree that our water problems deserve as much attention," read the Sept. 29 letter.

Santa Rosa officials said the town's predominantly Mexican-American population is forced to pay $3.50 for bottled drinking water or drink the "salty, stink-tasting" water from the town's well. "Our water well is in a sand formation and the previous well caved in," noted Carl Arnold, an administrative assistant to the mayor. "We're afraid this one will do the same."

Arnold added that in one month the town has been cited for 12 violations by the Texas State Department of Health Resources.

"The state will not approve another water well and the present well doesn't satisfy the state standards," continued Arnold. "It's not like we're not trying to help ourselves but we just don't have the tax base to fund a new water plant. And water without sewage is like talking about an arm of a man—they go together."

Santa Rosa officials said they need "about $350,000" to rejuvenate their water system.

"Santa Rosa is largely a migratory town," said Arnold. "People come here to put their kids in school and the families leave during the summer. The latest census figures show Santa Rosa with a population of 1,466 with a per capita income of $1,268. Our actual population is probably 2,500 but we are close to the border and a lot of people didn't want to be counted. The town is 99 percent Hispanic and that's a conservative figure."

Arnold also said the city needs funds to purchase a new garbage truck. "We have an old one that we bought secondhand and it won't last much longer." The town received $6,202 in federal revenue sharing funds last year to complement "about $10,000" in collected city taxes.

"Most of that money goes to street maintenance," explained Arnold. "You could call Santa Rosa a bedroom community because most of the people here have to travel to Harlingen or McAllen to work. We rely on them to make money so they can pay the taxes and it's expensive for them to get to and from work, particularly on our lousy roads."

Arnold said letters have also been written to U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, U.S. Rep. Kika de la Garza, and State Sens. Raul Longoria and Melchor Chavez.

"We don't expect much help from Sen. Kennedy," Arnold said. "But maybe our local, national and state representatives can help us."

Outer space next for odd couple

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Aerospace's odd couple, the space shuttle Enterprise and its companion Boeing 747, have made their last test appearance together. Next stop: outer space.

The Enterprise, launched from the back of its jumbo carrier for the fifth and final time Wednesday, made a quick, steep swoop to a bumpy but safe landing.

Britain's Prince Charles, a former Royal Navy flier who had piloted a simulated shuttle earlier this week, was among those at the landing site who sighed with relief when the craft finally settled on the runway.

Fred Haise and Gordon Fullerton were in the cockpit for the one minute, 55-second flight, the shortest and steepest of the shuttle's five test runs. The flight was a test of how well the shuttle's landing and braking system would handle a concrete runway, the same type that will be used when the craft first returns from space in early 1979.

While the other landings took place on a broad, dry lake bed, Wednesday's landing was to have been a pinpoint touchdown on the 15,000-foot landing strip. But the shuttle hit the concrete runway and bounced back into the air, its stubby wings wobbling from side to side.

After another little hop, the 93-ton craft touched down smoothly and rolled quickly to a stop with 2,000 feet of runway remaining.

Prince Charles, who had met Haise and Fullerton during his visit to Houston, "was a little tense" when the craft bounced on landing, said NASA official Stan Miller, who watched the landing with the prince. "But he's a pilot, and I think he understands those things."

Haise, who piloted two of the other test flights, said Wednesday's bumpy landing made the test "somewhat of a personal disappointment, because you always want to do the right thing, and in this case, the right thing was to put it down right on the line."

"Overall, however," Haise added, "I'm very happy because we got the vehicle on the ground safely."

Fullerton, Haise and testing project manager Donald Slayton termed the test a success. Slayton said further tests are unlikely.

So the next time a shuttle flies on its own—in 1979—it will be boosted like a rocket into space bearing two astronauts who will orbit the Earth, then pilot the craft back down to an airplane-like landing here.

FINAL DESERT TOUCHDOWN—The Space Shuttle Enterprise touches down on a concrete desert runway as it completes its fifth and final test here Wednesday. It was the last time the shuttle was to be dropped in flight by its Boeing 747 companion craft. Further testing will be in Alabama at the Space Flight Center at Huntsville.

JIGGS DINWIDDIE
...one of the real cowpunchers

We went out to Leland Wallace's annual Hereford Sale last week and there was an old friend.

Jiggs Dinwiddie from Jal, New Mexico has lived for 60 years within a quarter mile of where he was born.

That is, except for the years that he went into Barstow, Tex. to school.

Jiggs is a rancher. He doesn't know any other way of life, and he doesn't want to find one.

He loves the outdoors. He raises Herefords. That's why he was at Wallace's sale.

He likes ranch folk. He recalls that his mother decided they weren't getting enough "schoolin'" out in the country miles from anywhere so she moved to Barstow and put them in school over there.

But as soon as he could, he went right back to Jal and ranching. He and his wife are kin to a lot of the really older ranch families around Reeves, Ward, and Winkler Counties.

His wife had a relative named Joe Hollebeke who years ago came over from Denmark and became one of the early cowboys in West Texas.

Joe's one claim to fame was that he shot out the first neon light that ever was put up in West Texas.

"We went into Midland one night," he used to drawl. "There wasn't much there in those days. But one of those saloons had put up a neon sign."

Quite a story teller, he would stop and look around at his audience, and then continue. "That thing looked alive. I decided to kill it. I did."

"And that saloon keeper came running and screaming out in the street. I told him I'd pay for it. But the darn thing cost $90 and I only made $18 a month cowpoke pay. It took me a year to pay for that fool sign."

Jiggs has a family of colorful tales about like that. One of his in-laws, Jimmy Cooksey, used to live out at Orla. Jiggs tells me he's dead now.

Well, one night when I was living in Pecos, the San Angelo paper called me about 9:30 p.m. and said they had gotten word there was a train wreck in Orla. They asked me to try to find out about it.

Well there's no depot in Orla, and there's no sheriff's department. There's just a couple filling stations and a store and a few houses. I called Cooksey. "Jimmy, has there been a train wreck out there?"

"Hell, Marj, I don't know. The train only comes through here once a week." I waited. "Could you go see?" I asked. "Doesn't it run right behind your house?"

There was a long silence.

Jimmy came back. "Well, what do you know?" he related. "That train came chugging in and somebody was just sitting up there waiting to run right into the side of it." "Are they hurt?" I asked. "Hell no," Cooksey added, and paused. "They're dead."

I ended up driving 50 miles to Orla.

Jiggs and I had a good time reminiscing a little bit last week as we ate a little barbecue and then listened to the auctioneer — out by Leland Wallace's fence.

Adair will try to snuff burning geyser

TAFT, Calif. (AP) — Red Adair, who has battled raging oil fires around the world, will try to snuff a burning geyser of oil and gas today by using explosives to stop the flow of oxygen into the well.

Adair was called in Tuesday after an explosion at Elk Hills Naval Oil Reserve near here sent oil and flames spewing more than 100 feet into the air and killed three workers dangling helplessly in a basket above the wellhead.

Adair, who brought only one assistant with him from his Houston headquarters, planned to set off plastic explosives in an attempt to cut off oxygen to the fire long enough to stop the burning and blow away a mass of mangled metal.

"No two jobs are alike.

Two killed in accident

ELDORADO — At least two persons were killed and three injured in a vehicle accident seven miles east of Eldorado at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Killed were Mrs. Mary P. (Mickey) Mobley, 28, wife of the Presbyterian pastor in Eldorado and Paul David Mobley, 60, of Decatur, Ga., father of the pastor. The Rev. Lyman Mobley, 30, driver of one of the two vehicles, was in extremely critical condition this morning at Shannon Hospital with massive head injuries.

Mrs. Pauline M. Mobley, 57, of Decatur, was in guarded condition in the intensive care unit with head, chest and neck injuries. Mrs. Marion Vasquez, Sr. of Fort McKavett, who was driver of the second vehicle, received minor injuries, was treated and released.

The Rev. Mobley apparently lost control of his vehicle when sighting a deer and went over the center stripe and struck the other vehicle, according to the report from the Department of Public Safety in San Angelo.

The Rev. Mobley was ordained as a new Presbyterian minister in August with many West Texas Presbyterians attending and taking part. Among those from Big Spring who took part in the ceremony were the Rev. William Henning and Glenn Guthrie. Several other Big Spring Presbyterians attended, to help welcome the Rev. Mobley as a Presbyterian minister and welcome him to West Texas, where he had come for the first time.

Services for the two killed are pending at Kerbow Funeral Home.

'Peanut fares' to Angelo nixed

SAN ANGELO — The Civil Aeronautics Board has rejected plans by Texas International Airlines to take lower priced "peanut fares" to San Angelo.

David Brown, TIA regional vice president, said that the CAB turned down the plan because the airline had not proved conclusively that the reduced fares would generate additional air traffic to and from San Angelo.

TIA had hoped to start the new fare schedule Nov. 13.

Welk 'stars' to perform

LUBBOCK — Guy and Raina Hovis of the Lawrence Welk Show will be the guest performers at the Texas Tech Century Club dinner at 6:30 p.m., Friday, Nov. 4, in University Center.

Membership in the club is based on an annual gift of $100 or more to the Texas Tech Loyalty Fund.

Mrs. Hovis is a graduate of Lubbock High School and a former Texas Tech student. Her husband is a native of Mississippi.

There are a million little tricks to it, and I guess some of it is instinct," said Adair, who has extinguished more than 1,000 well blowouts and fires since 1938.

"He's going to have to work his way into the wellhead with the fire still burning and set charges to sever the wellhead to give him access to the equipment which is stuck," said Navy Cmdr. Roger Martin, chief of operations at Elk Hills.

Despite efforts by the Kern County Fire Department to cool the area, flames continued to shoot high into the air, Martin said.

He estimated the fire was burning oil at the rate of 12,000 barrels a day. Elk Hills is the nation's third largest oil reserve behind fields in Alaska and Texas, with an estimated one billion barrels underground.

"It could burn from here to eternity," Kern County fire dispatcher Charles Connor said.

If the fire is blown out, Adair planned to try to manually free a packer which workers were putting into the well when the explosion occurred at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The packer, a doughnut-shaped device placed into a well to keep gas from escaping around the outside of the drilling rod, is part way down the 7,000-foot well.

Martin termed the explosion "an extremely rare incident in this day and age.

Likely raise in rates 14 per cent

The Big Spring City Council made no decision Tuesday on how much rate increase to grant Texas Electric Service Co.

But that doesn't mean that Big Spring residents don't have a pretty good picture of how much their electric rates will be going up.

The likely answer is that rates will go up 14 per cent, or the amount deemed "fair" by the Public Utilities Commission in Austin.

Apparently, it is going to make little difference what per cent of increase an individual community desires.

SINCE A NUMBER of area cities, including Big Spring, went together and hired a consulting firm, some of these cities have voted to give the electric company only the 8.33 per cent increase which the consultants recommended.

But this seems unlikely to stand, since the utility commission has already said the company should receive 14 per cent.

Texas Electric Service Co. will appeal the 8.33 per cent decision of other cities to the commission, and it appears obvious that the rates will be raised to 14 per cent.

However, this is all new ground to be plowed. This is the first rate increase by Texas Electric Service Co. since the Public Utilities Commission was formed. No one can be certain what will happen.

That's why City Manager Harry

Nagel sought the commitment from TESCO District Manager Jack Redding that Big Spring's electric rates would not rise above those of other area cities while appeals are in progress.

Redding assured the council that they would not.

The Big Spring City Council, in tabling the decision, resisted the temptation to play politics with the issue.

THE COUNCILMEN could have tried to harvest some political hay by making a show of granting the electric company a smaller rate increase, knowing all the while that the state utilities commission would overturn their decision.

Some cities have done this. Their councilmen can vote little or no increase and not have to take the blame from the voters or face the consequences of weakening the power company because their decision will not stand.

While the 14 per cent that the electric company is likely to get is quite a bit below the 23.6 per cent it requested, there's nothing for the electric consumer to cheer about.

The reality is that the days of dirt cheap energy are over. There is no way Americans can avoid paying more for electrical power in the years to come.

Making do

Around the rim

James Werrell

"If that's the Woistfest, then that's the worst I've ever seen!" I said to Danny "Early Bird" Reagan, doing a bad Groucho imitation.

We, the Reagans, my wife and I, had spent months of intensive planning for the weekend of Oct. 22 which Danny had pinpointed as the date of 'ze world famous Wurstfest' in New Braunfels. And we all caught Deutch fever in expectation.

Visions of stein after stein of beer, sauerbraten, strudel, knackwurst, bratwurst and wiener-schnitzel goose-stepped in our heads. But ach! Das was nicht to happenize!

YOU SEE, HERR Reagan had undershot the mark a bit (by about a month). The Wurstfest is scheduled for Nov. 4 through 13 and we were up the Rhein without a paddle.

We had risen only to fall like the Third Reich. But, if I do say so myself, we Germanic souls are a hearty and superhuman bunch.

Within minutes after the mistake was learned Friday afternoon, we regrouped, and took off for a blowout in Alamo City. If you have nothing better to do than eat and drink ("And, believe me, there's almost always nothing better to do than eat and drink," Groucho again) then you could pick a much worse place than San Antonio to do it in.

Here are a few tips for future carousers. When you arrive take a deep breath and look around. That's city air, boy, which those of us who are accustomed to it every once in awhile have learned to enjoy. And those are city dwellers pushing and shoving, and crossing against the lights, and holding hands with members of the same sex.

Now that you have appreciated the aura of the big city, duck immediately down one of the many flights of steps to the San Antonio Riverwalk. It is difficult to describe the tranquility of sitting at a wrought iron table outside a small cafe there on a fine fall afternoon.

The river and people flow quietly by as you sit, gin and tonic in hand, the sunlight filtering through an Autumn-yellowed Oak tree. Few deep thoughts are expressed; one gin and tonic leads to another; and the city hurries on without you a few feet above.

NEXT STOP for us was the Tower of the Americas which is a cinch to spot from anywhere in the city. Where the Riverwalk offers quaint quiescence, the tower offers a plentitude of plush.

It is shaped like a giant pillar with a flying saucer stuck on top, and rises about 20 stories above the plaza below. An elevator with two glass windows hauls the customers up the outside of the tower to a bar in the clouds. To be found there are soft seats and exotic elixirs.

Danny won the prize for drinking a concoction called the "Shooting Star." The thing was a reddish-orange color, and actually bubbled and shot off little puffs of smoke. If you have ever seen "Dr. Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde," you know what it looked like.

The drink gave Danny the urge to overtip the waitress, so we left. But the view had been spectacular, the atmosphere warm, and, all in all, it had been a wonderful place to watch the sun go down.

PERHAPS THE PEAK of the weekend was reached as we passed through the portals of the Magic Time Machine, discotheque and restaurant par excellence. It is truly a trip to another world.

If you arrive, as we did, on a Saturday night the wait for dinner is about three hours. If you are wise, as we were, you will spend the wait in one of the many cubbyholes provided in the Time Machine lounge.

Waitresses in every costume imaginable (a Boy Scout, a prehistoric woman in leopard skins, a good fairy, a munchkin, and on and on) are there to guide you to your seat. And your seat could be in the style of a jail house, a French brothel, an island hut, or even hanging from the ceiling. If that isn't clear, all I can say is, you had to be there.

To make a long story a little less long: We got our salad out of the 1953 MG. We asked Jungle Jim to bring us succulent shrimp, crab legs and steak; and, when we were finished, Fritz the Cat brought us Brandy Alexanders, B&B and coffee.

Who needs the Wurstfest anyway?

South Korea, gifts

William F. Buckley Jr.

WASHINGTON — I don't believe that the House Ethics Committee can truly understand the Korean investigation unless they read a book entitled, "Korean Patterns," by Dr. Paul Shields Crane, distributed in this country by the University of Washington Press.

Dr. Crane has spent most of his life in Korea and wrote the book as a guide for Americans and other foreigners who are not acquainted with the customs of this Far Eastern ally.

The chapter that is relevant to the Korean scandal is called, "The Problem of Gifts."

IT BEGINS, Koreans are among the most gracious and generous people one will meet. They are thoughtful and considerate, and try by every means to establish personal relationships before they conduct any business. The giving and receiving of gifts are considered the normal operating commission for services rendered. In this context, every gift-giver expects something in return.

Dr. Crane says Koreans are very friendly and have the ability to work their way into the affections of foreigners which, at some later date, might prove embarrassing. "Many Koreans," he writes, "expect to use their friendships and connections for personal advantage and see nothing amiss in this approach as long as they are the main recipients of the favors." The only time a Korean becomes truly angry is when another Korean gives a foreigner a better gift than he does. Then he becomes critical of the foreigner "who has been so stupid as to allow himself to be taken in by a group of thieves."

The part of Dr. Crane's chapter that should be studied by the House Ethics Committee has to do with the manner in which Korean gifts are dispensed.

FOR EXAMPLE, it is a Korean custom, after a death in the family, to present the grieving relative with a white envelope stuffed with cash.

It seems to me that, since the main thrust of the investigation in the House has to do with congressmen accepting white envelopes of cash from the Koreans, Leon Jaworski should investigate to find out how many U.S. legislators had deaths in their families at the time they accepted the money from the Korean CIA.

This is what could have happened. A Korean agent on instructions from his government could have met a congressman in the halls of the Capitol and said, as he handed him the white envelope, "I'm sorry your mother died."

"My mother didn't die," the congressman might have replied, giving him back the envelope.

"Well, has anyone in your family died recently?"

"I had a second cousin in Canoga Park who died a month ago."

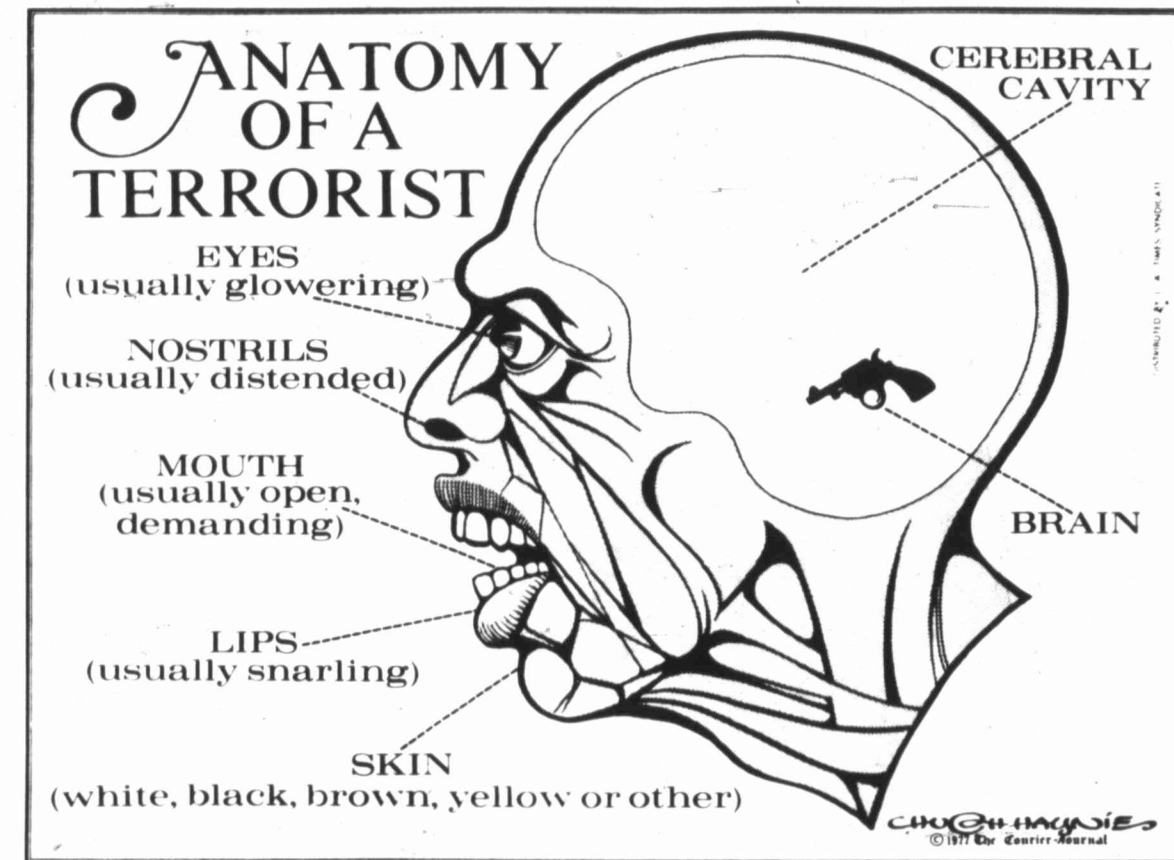

The Korean agent would hand back the envelope. "Then please accept this with President Park's personal condolences."

"I wasn't too close to my second cousin."

"IF YOU were, the envelope would be twice as full."

I'm not saying this happened, but it's worth looking into. If any congressman or aide accepted a white envelope at the time there was a death in the family, I believe he should be given immunity from prosecution.

For the bereaved to refuse condolences in the form of a sealed white envelope is the worst insult you can inflict on a South Korean, and could not only make him lose face but destroy an endearing friendship forever.

Bitter fruit histamin release

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please explain body histamine?

My daughter was diagnosed as having vascular motor instability at about a year of age. She broke out in welts after being exposed to cold. She doesn't seem to have the problem anymore. But she does have bad sinus attacks, and seems to have gas in her bowels. Is all this connected to her body histamine? She's active, and except for these problems almost perfect. Should I have listed these conditions when enrolling her in school? What about sports participation? — A Mother Histamine is a chemical in all cells of the body. It's produced from the amino acid histidine. In many respects it is still a mystery substance, but appears to be one of the body's important protective mechanisms. When cells "recognize" an "enemy" in the environment, histamine is released. Some people are more sensitive than others and produce more of it.

It is a powerful dilator of blood vessels, hence, the welts when she was exposed to cold (cold allergy). Dilating the tiny blood vessels allows liquid to escape to the skin surface, causing welts.

There can be an indirect histamine relationship to the sinus problem (allergies). If she has specific ones they should be listed when enrolling her in school. A food allergy can be involved in digestive problems, also.

There is no apparent reason to forego sports participation. The histamine problem often takes care of itself as the child grows older and each of the potential "enemies" is met and warded off. For example, your daughter is no longer sensitive to the cold, as she once was.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it wise for a person who gets leg cramps after going to bed to get up and walk around? Can it do any damage? Would massaging the leg be more helpful? The walking seems to help me. — T.Y.

Poor circulation often causes nighttime cramps. The blood pressure and pulse rate decline when we are at rest, and with that the general circulation. The legs, being farthest from the source of blood (the heart), are the first to feel the effects.

Anything that helps stimulate circulation will be beneficial, either massaging or walking. There are also medications that can be taken before retiring to help the circulation. Other steps you can take are listed in my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me care of the Big Spring Herald.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain trench mouth. I have heard nerves will cause it. Is that true? Are antibiotics of help? — E.R.

Trench mouth is a disease that affects the gums and mucous membranes of the mouth. It got the name when it became common among soldiers in trenches in World War I. Various germs lurking in the mouth cause it. These germs normally give us no trouble, but under certain circumstances they can. The chief culprit is poor dental hygiene. Heavy smoking, poor nutrition, heavy metal poisoning, gum injury, and various blood disorders are others.

The gums become red and swollen, with bleeding (pink brush), and a foul mouth odor. Worry and emotional disturbance may be factors, but these are usually secondary to faulty dental care.

Antibiotics are not effective. Plaque (tartar) can be removed, the gums massaged, and dental floss used to clean crevices between teeth. It's a matter of care of the teeth, first by the dentist, then by the individual thereafter.

The disease is not transmitted by contact.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've been told that alcohol kills the male sperm and that you can't get a girl pregnant while drunk. — J.E.

You have been told wrong.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a 10-year-old girl and my breasts are starting to grow. How soon should I start wearing a bra? — C.W.

Whenever you feel more comfortable with one than without.

"You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of Dr. Thosteson's booklet, explaining what sinus trouble really is and what can be done about it. For a copy write to him in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

This is just to express our appreciation publicly for the very rapid and efficient response of our police department.

Last week we received a telephone call from an alert neighbor who saw two young men prowling around our house and forcing open a door.

This was about 1 p.m. I called the police immediately and the young lady who answered the phone was very prompt in relaying the message to the dispatcher. At 3 p.m., Patrolman Richard Johnson called to report that he and Detective Avery Faulkner had already caught the burglars and recovered the articles they had with them.

We are most grateful for this promptness and for the courteous treatment we received. We particularly would like to thank Richard Johnson, Avery Faulkner, David Spilman and Gwen Fair, who answered the phone.

Thanks also to our neighbors who were concerned enough to call us when they saw something unusual.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a teenager who accepted Christ as my Lord several months ago. I hear people at church talking about "claiming the promises of God." What does this mean? — T.J.

DEAR T.J.: Although this expression is not found in the Bible, it certainly summarizes a great truth of Scripture. God has made many promises to the believers in Christ, and we should trust His Word and live in accordance with those promises. When I "claim" a promise of God, I accept the truth of God's promise and then live my life in the light of this truth.

Let me give you an example. Let's say you are facing some decision in your life—about where you will go to college, for instance. Now God has promised in the Bible to guide us if we will but trust Him as we make a decision. For example, Proverbs 3:5-6 says, "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge him, and he shall direct thy paths." I am told to trust God, rather than my own wisdom. (That doesn't mean that I do not think things through, but simply that I do not trust myself alone to make the right choice.) God has promised to guide me, and must be trusted to do so. I claim that promise when I actually trust Him with my decisions.

Begin to search God's Word, the Bible. You might want to underline the promises you find there, and ask God to help you apply them to your life. This is an important part of our Christian growth. Christ has "given unto us exceeding great and precious promises," that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature" (II Peter 1:4).

Keeps probers out

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — Sly, old Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., has the relaxed air of a man who has power and knows how to use it. His is not the ennobling power to shape bold national policies but the negative, petty power to frustrate and delay the proposals of others.

Eastland is against most of the legislation that passes over his desk. He uses his power to kill laws, stall appointments and bog down the Senate when it tries to override him. "It requires really the entire Senate to budge him," confided a colleague.

—Jim Eastland reigns as head of the Judiciary Committee, which handles 60 per cent of all Senate legislation (counting private bills). The committee has jurisdiction over federal courts and judges, civil liberties and most things constitutional and judicial.

THE SLIGHTEST rumble from Eastland, therefore, registers high on the Justice Department's Richter scale. He communicates through an almost imperceptible process of grunts, raised eyebrows and knowing smiles. A snort will send top Justice officials scurrying.

No other state is treated by the federal prosecutors with such delicacy as Mississippi. Usually, it isn't necessary for Eastland even to open his mouth; Justice officials react to what they fear he might be thinking. Any Mississippi case that might have political significance is handled with extreme caution.

Complained a federal strike force official: "As long as Eastland remains as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, federal investigations into Mississippi corruption will run into severe problems."

A Justice Department strike force, for example, identified Leo Hall as a major organized crime figure in Mississippi and successfully prosecuted him for counterfeiting. U.S. Attorney Robert Haulberg followed up with another case against Hall for possession of a firearm.

During the trial, Hall obtained the list of prospective jurors and, in effect, handpicked his own jury. This outrage was exposed and a district court clerk, Bob Thomas, was convicted of jury tampering.

But there were some bigger fish who were never fried. Strike force investigators charged, for example, that the racketeer's banker, Herman Heines, persuaded Thomas to slip the jury list to Hall. Heines is the respected president of the Mississippi Deposit Guaranty National Bank.

Investigators also alleged that Southern District Court Judge Harold Cox, who presided over the jury tampering trial, met several times with Heines to brief him on the case. In fact, strike force lawyers complained to U.S. Attorney Robert Haulberg that the judge's actions might constitute obstruction of justice.

There is no evidence that Eastland intervened in any way. Yet it was known in the backrooms of the Justice Department, our sources say, that these people were close to Eastland.

Our sources recall that Eastland pushed hard for Judge Cox's appointment. He finally made a deal with the late President John F. Kennedy, who appointed Cox in return for Eastland's approval of Justice Thurgood Marshall for the Supreme Court.

Heines is a political backer of Eastland, who owns a small amount of stock in his bank. For that matter, the senator also recommended Haulberg to be U.S. attorney.

IT IS INTERESTING to see what happened to the strike force when it began investigating Eastland's friends. After the accusations were made against Judge Cox, our sources report, Haulberg withdrew his support from the strike force, which was instructed not to press the investigation of Judge Harold Cox or Herman Heines.

A few months later, the strike force was disbanded and its functions were turned over to the new Public Integrity Section.

Former Assistant Attorney General Richard Thornburg, who had the responsibility for organized crime investigations, told our reporter Hal Bernton that the decision to disband the strike force did not result from political pressure.

It is true enough that Eastland's influence upon the Justice Department is often invisible. The top officials just instinctively avoid displeasing the powerful Mississippi senator.

Eastland's influence has increased with age. He will be 73 next month. In his inner sanctum, he usually slouches in his chair so only his head and shoulders appear above the desk. Round-faced and close-mouthed, blinking through glasses, he has the knowing look of a stuffed owl. But he is one of the most shrewd old owls on Capitol Hill.

Footnote: Heines flatly denied the strike force's charges against him. Judge Cox refused to discuss the charges over long-distance telephone. Haulberg did not return our phone calls.

CORRECTION: In a recent column about the Federal Trade Commission's efforts to crack the walls of corporate secrecy, we incorrectly identified Econo-Car as belonging to the Westinghouse Electric Corporation. This was true until 1975 when the company changed hands. We regret the error and apologize to Westinghouse.

Death penalty no deterrent, study indicates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death penalty rarely if ever deters murder, according to a new statistical study.

The report in the University Minnesota Law Review disputes the widespread belief that some potential criminals will change their minds about committing murder because they fear execution.

Washington researcher Brian Forst concluded in the latest statistical analysis of the issue that "capital punishment does not, on balance, deter homicides."

However, the report said there was some evidence that a high murder conviction rate and prison sentences for murders have a deterrent effect.

Forst, a senior research analyst at the Institute for Law and Social Research, studied murder statistics for 32 states between 1960 and 1970 a decade when the murder rate was rising nationally and the number of executions was declining. His study was published last summer.

Between 1967 and last January, there were no executions in the United States because of court challenges to the constitutionality of capital punishment.

But after the Supreme Court ruled in 1976 that the death penalty for murder is constitutional under certain circumstances, many states passed new death penalty laws. Utah became the first state in the new era to carry out an execution when Gary Mark Gilmore was shot by a firing squad Jan. 17.

Forst wrote that if capital punishment deters murder, the murder rate should have increased the most in states where the risk of execution went down the most.

Instead, Forst said in an interview, "The states that ended the death penalty had smaller increases in the homicide rates. The homicide rate went up more in states which did not have the death penalty in 1960."

As he described the findings in the report, "It is apparent that those states in which the actual use of capital punishment ceased during the 1960s experienced no greater increase in the murder rate than did the states that did not use capital punishment in the first place."

"Under the theory that capital punishment deters murder, one would have predicted the opposite."

In its opinion affirming the constitutionality of capital punishment, the Supreme Court speculated that for many murderers, "the death penalty undoubtedly is a significant deterrent."

Polsters have found a widespread public belief in the deterrent value of capital punishment, Forst noted.

He measured what happened to murder rates in states that abolished the death penalty before 1960, those that still had a death penalty law but carried out few if any executions and those that used the law more frequently until court decisions forced an end to capital punishment.

Though he found no connection between capital punishment and the murder rate, Forst did find a link between the murder rate and convictions and prison terms.

"This finding of a deterrent effect of imprisonment of persons convicted of murder is more real than spurious," Forst wrote. The largest murder rate increases tended to occur in states with a poor record of capturing and convicting killers, he said.

Legal scholar Hans Zeisel called Forst's analysis "the final blow" to the theory that capital punishment deters murder.

Zeisel, professor emeritus of law at the University of Chicago and a senior consultant to the American Bar Foundation, wrote in a recent article that "Forst's analysis is superior" to other statistical studies which concluded that capital punishment deters murder.

Tracing the history of those studies, Zeisel wrote: "This then is the proper summary of the evidence on the deterrent effect of the death penalty: If there is one, it can only be minute, since not one of the many research approaches—from the simplest to the most sophisticated—was able to find it. The proper question, therefore, is whether an effect that is at best so small that nobody has been able to detect it justifies the awesome moral costs of the death penalty."

He noted, however, that the resumption of executions in some states will provide "another opportunity to see whether the capital crime rate in these states will decline compared to the states that still have no executions."

So far, there's little evidence on which to base a judgement. There has been only one execution—Gilmore—and few statistics available about Utah's crime rate in the nine months since.

FBI statistics show that

Salt Lake City had five murders in the first six months of 1977, compared with six for the same period in 1976. No statistics were available for the entire state, nor were there figures on other factors that may have influenced the crime rate.

College budgets quiz

AUSTIN, Tex. AP — The Texas Association of College Teachers TACT said today it is launching an investigation into what it called questionable use of faculty salary appropriations by Texas colleges and universities.

TACT executive director Frank L. Wright said a consultant will be hired to study college budgets for evidence of diversion of faculty salary allocations to administrative salaries and other unauthorized expenses.

"Previous research by our organization showed that faculty salaries have been declining proportionately while administrative salary ratios have been rising since 1968," Wright said.

"If some of current faculty salary allocations are being diverted to administrative costs the decline is even greater."

Wright said faculty salaries declined from a 54.2 percent share of Texas public universities' budgets in 1968 to 44.9 percent in 1977. During the same period, allocation for administration rose from a 7.4 per cent share to a 9.2 per cent share.

He said TACT also was asking its local chapters to study distribution of their college budget allocations into salaries and other costs.

Attorneys slash away at credibility of gun victim

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A British-born nurse goes back on the stand today as attorneys for millionaire murder defendant Cullen Davis slash away at the credibility of shooting victim

Gus Gavrel Jr. Two defense witnesses testified Wednesday that Gavrel told them minutes after the 1976 shooting spree at Davis' Fort Worth mansion that he did not know who shot him. And, testifying outside the presence of the jury, nurse Paula Cockrum said she overheard Gavrel say he knew the man who shot him was Davis because he "recognized his voice."

But, she added, "he said he couldn't see him because it was too dark."

She was expected to repeat that testimony for the jury today.

Gavrel, 22, one of four gunshot victims that night, testified he recognized Davis in the split-second the gunman whirled and fired a bullet that remains lodged in his spine. Gavrel's teen-age girlfriend Beverly Bass and the defendant's estranged wife Priscilla also identified Davis as the trigger man in the murderous midnight assault.

Mrs. Davis was wounded and her lover Stan Farr killed in the gunfire but it is the slaying of the defendant's 12-year-old stepdaughter Andrea Wilborn for which Davis is on trial.

A Fort Worth policeman and a former ambulance driver testified Wednesday they knelt over the prone, gravely wounded Gavrel that night and asked who shot him.

"I don't know..." they both quoted him as saying. Paul Goheen, 21, one of two attendants in the first ambulance to arrive at the scene, said he entered the mansion and saw Gavrel lying on the floor clutching a telephone receiver.

"The son-of-a-bitch doesn't work," he quoted Gavrel as saying. Goheen said he leaned over and asked him where he'd been shot and Gavrel answered: "I don't know where I've been shot. Just get me out of here. He's going to come back and get me."

"Who?" Goheen asked. "I don't know who. Just get me out of here. He's going to come back and shoot me."

Goheen said he and an aide loaded Gavrel into the ambulance where, at some point, Gavrel reached inside his pants and pulled out two plastic bags.

her eyes were dilated and glassy and "very consistent" with a person who had taken drugs. Prosecutors pointed out on cross-examination that a person who was extremely frightened and had been crying would have similar symptoms and Goheen conceded that was true. The witness also was asked if Miss Bass told him who shot Gavrel but a defense objection precluded a response. Officer Jim Soders, the first policeman at the mansion, said he twice asked Gavrel who shot him. "I don't know the man," he quoted Gavrel as saying. The second time, he said, Gavrel replied by saying, "get the ambulance."

Prosecutors contend Gavrel was in shock and did not know nor does he recall what he said at the time. "Getting shot's a sobering thing," Goheen contended. "He knew what was going on. He knew he was hurt."

Meanwhile, Soders told the jury of responding to a radio call that night and encountering an excited Miss Bass at a convenience store near the mansion. "She told me that her boyfriend had been shot," said Soders, who first told his story several weeks ago outside the presence of jurors. "Who shot your boyfriend?" he said he asked the teenager. "Cullen Davis did," he recalled her saying. "I saw him do it. I know him."

Castro jabs Uncle Sam

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro says the United States remains a "potential danger" to Cuba and is still trying to foment rebellion in his country.

In brief remarks, he told a Massachusetts trade delegation Wednesday that problems between the two countries persist. But he added that President Carter's policies make the United States appear less threatening.

Castro said the United States is encouraging terrorism aimed at Cuba by exiles. He said the U.S. government is aware of activities against Cuba conducted by CIA-trained terrorists.

He also called the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo Bay "an instrument of humiliation" and said the United States should leave foreign bases it occupies against the will of the people.

Castro said he planned to release no more U.S. political prisoners from Cuban jails, but added that lifting the U.S. economic embargo against Cuba "would facilitate further releases."

But Castro said he doesn't expect relations to improve dramatically overnight. "After 17 years of confrontation and bad relations," said Castro, "the situation cannot be changed in a few months."

"The U.S. government needs time. I believe there are various problems the U.S. administration faces, such as the treaty with Panama. Time is not important because we have totally consolidated ourselves."

He said he doesn't consider the United States a potential threat "as long as President Carter's policy is maintained."

"But the United States," he added, "is a powerful country. It has adopted different policies at different times. It is potentially a danger," Castro added.

Racial dispute threatens jobs plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — A dispute over racial quotas threatens to delay $4 billion in federally-funded jobs and could have an important impact on black businessmen trying to break into the construction industry. The dispute, now moving through the courts, also affects millions of dollars of public works projects in several states and cities which have rules to assure that a share of the work goes to businesses owned by blacks and other racial minorities. "This is hard to explain but it's of interest to every working man," said a Justice Department official familiar with the issues.

The argument involves a $4 billion public works program approved by Congress last spring. Congress earmarked 10 per cent of the federal money for businesses owned by racial minorities. This was designed to compensate for the past discrimination which kept blacks and other minorities out of the construction industry.

The Justice Department, which now is defending the constitutionality of the program, calls the 10 per cent requirement a proper goal. Department officials note that the 10 per cent rule can be waived if no qualified minority firms are interested in a particular project.

But the requirement angered the Associated General Contractors, a national trade association which represents about 8,000 general contractors across the country. The association's 400-member board last month voted unanimously to challenge the restriction as an unconstitutional quota.

Association chapters in California, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Montana have brought suits in federal courts in those states. John Ellis, assistant executive director of the organization, says suits are planned in at least five other states.

Both sides agree that the case is likely to wind up in the Supreme Court. And that would mean it could take several months before a final judgment on the program's constitutionality.

Meanwhile, the government is likely to be blocked from awarding the construction money, at least in some parts of the country. Congress had intended the program as swift medicine for the economically-depressed construction industry. The Commerce Department, which is in charge of passing out the money, was supposed to make sure all of the contracts were awarded and construction had started by the end of December.

"Our contention is that this is an illegal requirement," Ellis said. "It's much more than affirmative action. This is essentially a racial quota, and it means that the non-minority segment of the construction industry is precluded from competing for 10 per cent of the work."

On the other side, Justice Department lawyers note that blacks and other racial minorities make up 17 per cent of the U.S. population, yet minority-owned construction firms account for barely more than 1 per cent of gross receipts in the industry.

The law "does not require a contractor to meet the 10 per cent goal where it is in fact unattainable," government lawyers have said. "It merely requires that he make a good faith effort."

French paintings Theft ring leader or innocent dupe?

HOUSTON (AP) — A magistrate has reduced bond for a Paris resident charged with interstate transportation of stolen French paintings.

U.S. Magistrate Norman W. Black reduced bond Wednesday for Harry Wachs, 45, from $500,000 to $20,000, cash or surety, on the condition Wachs would surrender his passport and report twice weekly to the U.S. probation office here.

Black said he was very concerned "about probable cause in this case."

"But he (Wachs) will have to stand trial," Black said. "I don't know whether he's an innocent dupe, the leader of a theft ring or there was a falling out" with others.

FBI agents arrested Wachs Friday at a Houston hotel where they said three paintings, including a purported Renoir valued at $85,000, were recovered. Authorities said two other paintings were recovered at a Houston store, bringing the total alleged value of the five to more than $100,000.

Inspector Robert Feugas with the French National Police testified that Mme. Danielle Artar of Paris, owner of the paintings, had filed a complaint charging Wachs with abuse of trust in disposing of the paintings. He claimed Wachs had been given the paintings to obtain an evaluation of their authenticity, not to sell.

Wachs said he had been given them to sell through his brother-in-law, who knew a friend of the owner.

Black said the weakest story of all is the owner's, "that she gave them the paintings for appraisal when for a modest fee she could have an appraiser come to her house."

Campus radar tracking bikers

ELLENBURG, Wash. (AP) — Cars are banned on the tidy campus of Central Washington University, but college police are peering into a radar screen and planning to issue tickets. Student bicyclists are speeding.

"We had a hit-and-run just last night," CWU police chief Brickley said Wednesday. A 64-year-old man suffered cuts and a bloody eye when a bicyclist knocked him down and then disappeared into the darkness.

Two students have been injured in collisions over the past two weeks. One sustained a broken collar bone. Brickley said there have been numerous bump-and-bruise accidents in the past, but the hit-and-run forced the crackdown.

The radar program, two weeks old, is just in the "warning" stages on the one-and-a-half square mile campus, Brickley said, but in another week police will begin handing out tickets. "We want to publicize it pretty well so there won't be any claims of a trap," Brickley said. "We want to use it as a deterrent, to slow people down, just like you lift your foot off the gas when you see a police car parked along I-90," he said. The radar unit is in police cars parked on campus.

Although the campus population is only about 9,000, including faculty and staff, Brickley said bicycles number at least 2,000. Only university and emergency vehicles are allowed on campus, and the uniform speed limit is 5 miles per hour.

"Short of banning bikes on campus all together — which I don't like doing — I think we must regulate their speed," said Brickley. "We have clocked riders moving as fast as 22 miles per hour during the first week we experimented with the unit. "When you are going that fast the impact can be pretty drastic on a two-wheel vehicle."

Brickley said citations and bail schedules will carry the same penalties on campus as with any other moving violation occurring on public streets. For example, a speed of 10 m.p.h. over the posted limit carries a $30 fine.

DA Green denies homosexual act

PALESTINE, Texas (AP) — Third Judicial District Attorney Bill Green, fighting to retain his law license, has denied at his disbarment trial that he engaged in a homosexual act in a peep show booth at an Austin adult bookstore.

Testimony continues today in the suit brought by the State Bar of Texas. The Bar alleges three counts of misconduct by Green, convicted last spring on a charge of public lewdness in connection with the bookstore incident.

Green, arrested in the booth with another man, testified Wednesday that he went to Mr. Peeper's Bookstore to learn what sex-related items Austin authorities would allow to be sold.

The trip, he said, was prompted by conversations with Palestine Police Chief Kenneth Berry regarding enforcement of pornography laws here. But he admitted community standards in Palestine and those in Austin would vastly differ. Green has appealed his conviction on the public lewdness charge.

He was also charged with escape from custody after he allegedly fled from arresting officers. He has not been tried on that charge.

The disbarment suit is based on the public lewdness and escape charges as well as aggravated perjury the Bar alleges he committed during his trial on the public lewdness charge.

During questioning Wednesday, Green said he fled police officers when they told him he was under arrest because "they didn't look like police officers."

Housing workshops

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Housing workshops to encourage economic development in South Texas are scheduled for Corpus Christi, Harlingen and San Antonio next month.

The workshops are "especially for builders, developers and investors," said a statement from Gov. Dolph Briscoe's office.

Speakers will concentrate on what federal housing programs are available, the statement said.

The workshops are scheduled for Corpus Christi Nov. 7, Harlingen Nov. 8 and San Antonio Nov. 21.

Sponsoring the workshops are the Greater South Texas Cultural Basin Commission; Housing Division of the Texas Department of Community Affairs; Coastal Bend Council of Governments; Lower Rio Grande Valley Development Council; and Alamo Area Council of Governments.

For the record

In the Publisher's Corner editorial in the Oct. 20 issue of the Big Spring Herald, it was incorrectly stated that the vote on seven Texas amendments and the vote to authorize Howard County commissioners to contribute county monies to the industrial effort would be Nov. 5. The right date for this vote will be Tuesday, Nov. 8.

In the front page story on the Veterans Day holiday in the Oct. 24 Big Spring Herald, a local savings and loan association was mistakenly listed as a federal agency. First Federal Savings at 500 Main St. is not a government agency. It is an independent association chartered by the federal government and serving the citizens of Big Spring and the surrounding area.

GOT ANOTHER ONE! — Big Spring defensive standout Byron Harris (89) holds up the football after recovering a Midland Lee fumble during last Friday night's game in Midland. Steer linebacker Wade Cobb also had four fumble recoveries for the locals. This Friday, the Bovines host the Abilene Cooper Cougars in a Homecoming bash at 8 o'clock in Big Spring's Memorial Stadium.

Steers working towards Homecoming win

By DANNY REAGAN

Friday night's game in Memorial Stadium against Abilene Cooper will be an assortment of experiences for a host of different people.

"Cooper likes to consider this one a break in their schedule, like many other teams," said Abilene sportswriter Ken Brazzle.

"It's going to be a heckuva game," said Cooper Coach Ray Overton.

"We're going to do what we have to do," said Steer Coach Don Robbins.

"I'd rather win the game than be crowned Homecoming Queen," said one of the nominees.

"It's the first one I'm going to win in over 10 years. I expect them to win it for me," said an alumnus in town for the Homecoming festivities.

The game stacks up in pre-play print much like the other seven the Steers have played this season: "Undermanned Steers are Underdogs!"

The Cooper Cougars, perhaps the cleanest-playing corps of high school gridders in West Texas, prowl into town extremely healthy, a negative image of the injury-laden Bovines.

"We didn't have anyone hurt in the Permian game," said Cooper Coach Overton, "but the kids were a little disappointed in losing to the Panthers after such a good game."

Overton doesn't take the locals lightly: "The team has been working real hard this week in practice, they know it's going to be a tough game and I expect them to snap back," the Coog coach concluded.

A Steer squad, sliced apart in the past few weeks by injuries, has been shored up somewhat by the addition of junior varsity players, more than a half-dozen of the better prospects. In fact, the JV ranks have been cutback sufficiently to cancel this week's sub contest.

The Steers scrimmaged offensively and defensively Wednesday against a JV squad that simulated Cooper's antics on the field.

"It was a hard practice," said Robbins. "They looked real good in places, indicating that they're learning what to do against Cooper, but we had some breakdowns in other areas."

Breakdowns in assignments led to the Lee disaster a week ago, according to the Steer coach, and consistency in performance is being stressed this week.

"If we learn our responsibilities and live up to them, it'll make a difference in the outcome of the ballgame. We'll do what we have to do," Robbins emphasized.

With the loss of some of the more beefy players on defense, the Steers will face an offensive lineup that slightly outweighs them.

"Defense" is expected to be the Password in Friday night's contest. The Steers, despite their thinned ranks, have fielded a gutsy defensive unit all season long. Cooper, the team that held Permian to only 14 points last week, will show a likewise light defense, but a highly effective one.

A large crowd is expected at the Homecoming game, which, by the way, is the next-to-the-last home game for the locals this season. The Longhorns will host Odessa next week before ending their season on the road to San Angelo.

Kickoff is slated for 8 p.m., and weather conditions should be near perfect.

NBA shows more balance

By the Associated Press

How's this for balance — the National Basketball Association season is only eight days old, and there's just one undefeated team left.

What's more, every team except one has at least one victory.

The defending champion Portland Trail Blazers fell from the unbeaten list Wednesday night, dropping a 111-108 decision to the Nuggets at Denver.

That leaves Phoenix as the only club in the 22-team league with an unblemished record. The Suns were idle Wednesday and do not play again until Friday night, when they put their 3-0 mark on the line against the Jazz in New Orleans.

The New Jersey Nets, meanwhile, dropped to 0-4 by bowing to the Atlanta Hawks 113-110 in overtime.

In other NBA games Wednesday night, the Detroit Pistons defeated the Golden State Warriors 123-107, the New Orleans Jazz beat the New York Knicks 123-106 and the Seattle Super-Sonics topped the Buffalo Braves 97-92.

Nuggets 111, Blazers 108. Denver took a 34-22 first-quarter lead by scoring 19 in a row but saw Portland chip away at the lead and finally go ahead in the fourth quarter. But Denver came on again, going ahead to stay on a jumper by Dan Issel with 1:57 left.

David Thompson led the Nuggets with 24 points while Bobby Gross had 22 for the Blazers.

The loss dropped Portland to 3-1, one-half game behind Phoenix in the Pacific Division.

Prairie View on probation
KANSAS CITY (AP) — The National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics has placed Prairie View A&M's baseball program on one year's probation for violating the organization's code of conduct.

"The probation came as a result of an incident involving Prairie View A&M in the District 8 baseball tournament last spring," the NAIA said in a statement released Wednesday. Details of the incident were not released.

The probation, assessed Wednesday, will bar the school from participating in post-season play during the 1977-78 season. The team will also be excluded from the NAIA ratings and statistical services.

Cotton Bowl's scouts fanning

DALLAS (AP) — Cotton Bowl scouts will fan out to the Notre Dame-Navy game, the Ohio State-Wisconsin contest and the Iowa-Michigan clash in search of a team for the annual Cotton Bowl game.

Notre Dame has been prominently mentioned as the team most likely to play against the host Southwest Conference champion on Jan. 2 — if the Fighting Irish keep winning.

Texas speed gives UT favored status

NEW YORK (AP) — It was back in January and the American Football Coaches Association was holding its annual convention in Hollywood, Fla.

Texas Tech's Steve Sloan wandered up to Lost Tree Village, Jack Nicklaus' course, and a rumor began making the rounds that he sandbagged the Golden Bear in an 18-hole shootout.

"Naw, I didn't sandbag anyone," Sloan says. "I hadn't played in about six months and I shanked a few off the practice tee so Jack gave me 10 strokes."

Sloan would like to sandbag Texas, the nation's No. 1 team, come Saturday, but he'll probably be forced to go without clutch quarterback Rodney Allison, who suffered a broken bone in his leg Sept. 24.

"He can't run," Sloan said earlier in the week. "He can't even jog and we haven't figured out any plays where he doesn't have to run."

Running doesn't present a problem to Texas. "I'm a little surprised by their record," Sloan admits. "We didn't realize they had such team speed. If they're not the fastest team in the country, they're certainly in the top three."

Sold ... Texas 20-10. Last week's score was 52 right and 24 wrong for a .684 percentage. On the season, it's 350 right, 146 wrong and 10 ties for .707.

Alabama at Mississippi State: "I think if we win the rest of our games we'll win the national championship," says Bear Bryant. "We've got to worry about the teams we play, though, and Mississippi State is the next one." The Bulldogs apparently have been looking ahead to Alabama for three weeks while losing to Kentucky, Memphis State and Southern Mississippi. That's long enough. Upset Special of the Week ... Mississippi State 24-229.

Wisconsin at Ohio State: Michigan walloped the Badgers 56-0 and Woody Hayes likes to think that anything Bo Schembechler can do he can do better. Uh-uh ... Ohio State 33-14.

Oklahoma at Kansas State: When Oklahoma hired Barry Switzer, they were warned he'd lose a game every so often. He's already lost one this year ... Oklahoma 38-14.

Navy at Notre Dame: The Midshipmen almost upset the Irish last year, losing by only 27-21. The folks in South Bend were so impressed that George Welsh's name is the latest one in the ND coaching sweepstakes. Dan Devine's looking better, though, after last week's 30-point shellacking of Southern Cal. so don't look for the expected post-SC letdown ... Notre Dame 35-7.

Iowa at Michigan: When the Wolverines lost to Purdue last year, they bounced back by trouncing Illinois 38-7. Now, they're coming off a loss to Minnesota, so ... Michigan 38-7.

Virginia Tech at Kentucky: VPI was supposed to be one of stronger Southern independents, but it hasn't worked out that way. Meanwhile, Tennessee's Johnny Majors says he "wouldn't be a bit surprised" but what "OI"

Kuhn looks at O'Brien

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was today pondering possible action against Dan O'Brien, Texas Ranger general manager accused of tampering with the signing of free agent Minnesota outfielder Larry Hise.

Kuhn held a two and one-half hour hearing Wednesday on the tampering charge made by Calvin Griffith, president of the Twins. Griffith maintained O'Brien's remarks about Hise hindered his effort to sign Hise, who led the American League in run-batted-in.

O'Brien mentioned Hise during a meeting of Dallas-Fort Worth media Sept. 19, prompting Kuhn to look into the matter.

Kuhn did not reveal when a decision would be returned.

Howard College Hawk Coach Harold Wilder has denoted Nov. 7th's home opener against Laredo's Golden Palominos as "Pack Poverty Pavilion" on "Night of the Dedicated Player."

There are 12 Hawks on the roster this year, and an unprecedented one-third of them are local and area players.

JIM RAY, 6-2 sophomore, has been entertaining Big Spring roundball enthusiasts for years with his all-out, fanatical style of play. "Without regard to his own bodily safety," said Wilder, "Ray dives for loose balls, takes the charge, makes the defensive play or fills the fast-break lane."

Ray's fiery approach to the game turned several

Allison? Who knows

By the Associated Press

Texas Tech Coach Steve Sloan says injured star quarterback Rodney Allison is still doubtful for Saturday's crucial Southwest Conference clash with No. 1-ranked Texas, but said Tuesday that Allison is improving.

"He was certainly better today than he was Monday," Sloan said after Allison worked with the team Tuesday in a two-hour drill. "He still has quite a bit to go before he could play, though."

Allison suffered a broken leg on Sept. 16 during Tech's 33-17 loss to Texas A&M.

Meanwhile, both of Texas' starting defensive ends, Henry Williams and Dwight Jefferson, missed practice Tuesday with injuries suffered in last week's 30-14 thrashing of Southern Methodist.

Williams has an ankle sprain and Jefferson is bothered with rib injuries. Texas Coach Fred Akers said Jefferson might not be ready to play against the Red Raiders.

Tim Campbell and Ron Bones replaced Akers and Jefferson in Tuesday's practice.

Akers said Jim Yarbrough will start Saturday at offensive right guard, replacing Craig Rider, who missed most of the SMU game with injuries.

A sellout crowd of 80,000 has been assured for the battle between the Longhorns, 6-0 for the season and 3-0 in the SWC, and the Raiders, who are 5-1 and 2-1.

O'Brien mentioned Hise during a meeting of Dallas-Fort Worth media Sept. 19, prompting Kuhn to look into the matter.

Kuhn did not reveal when a decision would be returned.

Howard College Hawk Coach Harold Wilder has denoted Nov. 7th's home opener against Laredo's Golden Palominos as "Pack Poverty Pavilion" on "Night of the Dedicated Player."

There are 12 Hawks on the roster this year, and an unprecedented one-third of them are local and area players.

JIM RAY, 6-2 sophomore, has been entertaining Big Spring roundball enthusiasts for years with his all-out, fanatical style of play. "Without regard to his own bodily safety," said Wilder, "Ray dives for loose balls, takes the charge, makes the defensive play or fills the fast-break lane."

Four locals in 77-78 Hawk ranks

Keep in mind that footballs still fill the air in the West Texas area, but also be notified that season tickets go on sale today for Howard College home basketball games.

The ducks, good for all home games (both men and women's), are $12 for adults and $6 for students. There will not be any reserved tickets sold this year, as the opening of the new coliseum isn't anticipated until very late in the season (January 78).

Howard College Hawk Coach Harold Wilder has denoted Nov. 7th's home opener against Laredo's Golden Palominos as "Pack Poverty Pavilion" on "Night of the Dedicated Player."

There are 12 Hawks on the roster this year, and an unprecedented one-third of them are local and area players.

JIM RAY, 6-2 sophomore, has been entertaining Big Spring roundball enthusiasts for years with his all-out, fanatical style of play. "Without regard to his own bodily safety," said Wilder, "Ray dives for loose balls, takes the charge, makes the defensive play or fills the fast-break lane."

Ray's fiery approach to the game turned several yards per game this season.

The Raiders are averaging 237 yards on the ground and 116 through the airways. "Akers Breakers" have been rolling up an incredible 425 yards per outing total offense. The Horns read 314 by ground and 110 by air.

The two teams have had one common opponent this year — poor Rice. UT burned the Owls 72-15, while the Raiders merely over-baked them, 42-7.

Here's what Tech Coach Steve Sloan has to say about the game: "Considering that we haven't tackled Earl Campbell in two years and that Texas' first-team defense hadn't given up a touchdown going into the SMU game, I'd say we're going to have our hands full."

"What makes Texas so tough is their offense centered around Campbell and their defense is superb. Brad Shearer is undoubtedly one of the finest defensive players in college football."

"In the films I've seen, no one has blocked him effectively yet. Back to Campbell, I think so much of him that I went out and got me a truck just like him — a Ford Bronco with four-wheel drive. We're going to have to play as well as we possibly can to win," Sloan concluded.

Speaking of Earl Campbell and Rodney Allison, the two have performed almost evenly in their two previous meetings. Campbell gained 52 yards in 16 rushes in 1974, while Rodney did not play in the Raiders' 26-3 victory in Lubbock.

In UT's 42-15 win in 1975, Campbell rambled 150 yards on 18 carries, while Allison rushed 46 yards on nine carries and passed for another 40. In 1976, Allison gained 106 markers on 25 rushes, hit an amazing 10 of 11 passes for another 87 and was named "Offensive Player of the Week" in the SWC.

In that game, Campbell was forced to leave the game in the first half with an injury, but before he left, he had picked up 65 yards on seven rushes. Therefore, the sheet reads 279 total yards for Allison and 277 for the "Tyler Rose."

More about this all-important game tomorrow.

games around in the Hawks' favor last season. "His fans can be confident that he has not slowed down his pace this year," said Wilder.

CASEY WILDER, 6-4 freshman, is also a former Big Spring Steer and all-district player in 5-4A. Wilder moved his sneakers a few blocks down 11th Place from Steer Gym to Poverty Pavilion after an extraordinary senior season.

Wilder led the district in scoring average, had a high game of 37 against San Angelo and was named all-tournament at Snyder. He is a steady floor general and a crafty passer important role as a penetrating guard.

RALPH MIRANDA, 5-10 freshman, is no stranger to the sports fans of Forsan. His heroics on the football field, and comeback from knee surgery to play on the hardwoods, proved his dedication to athletics.

"Ralph has tremendous athletic ability," said his coach. "He's quick, and ever since he's been emphasizing basketball, he's been improving. He has natural talent."

Look for introductions of the remaining Hawks and Hawk Queens soon.

Can history repeat itself for Steers and Raiders?

In keeping with this week's theme of "Why not Homecoming?" I thought we'd flip through the pages of yesteryear and relive the evening of Nov. 1, 1974, when the Big Spring Steers upset the Abilene Cooper Cougars.

Big Spring went into the contest, away from home, with only two wins out of the last 17 conference outings. Cooper was 5-2 on the season and 2-2 in loop play, with still a chance to share a piece of the conference crown, during a year when upsets reigned as top dog.

The Bovines weren't given a Slurpee's chance in Hell to even notch a point on the scoreboard, much less, win the game.

Here's the way it went, more or less: Cooper scored first in the initial frame on a sustained drive that was capped by a one-yard glory plunge by Scott Ritchey. Ricky Lewis converted the PAT for the Coogs, and "Same song, second verse" time appeared to be in the offing once again.

But Steer Doug Robison, on the local's first possession of the night, took the pigskin 92 yards across the double stripe in one galloping return of the ensuing kickoff. The PAT failed.

On the Steers' second "real" possession of the night, the winning points were tallied. The Bovines took the ball from their own 37-yard line, and marched it down the field. The coup de grace came on an eight-yard TD heave from quarterback Mark Moore to 130 pound Ken McMurtrey.

The Steer defense also blocked a punt in that contest and kept the Coogs from crossing the 50-yard line more than twice in the second half. The Coogs were held to only three plays during the third period.

In the fourth quarter, Cooper quarterback Trey Deen completed a 49-yard pass to the Steer four-yard line, but a determined brick wall of Steers held the hungry cats at bay.

That's about how it was. I wasn't there and the story in the files is a little sketchy, but it must have been one heckuva sweet trip home for the Longhorns.

The surprising fact about that last district win by the locals is that they were out-offended, out-first-downed and out-statted in just about every category. But they weren't out-played. Guts, determination and a "to-Hell-with-I'm-supposed-to-lose" attitude prevailed over superior numbers and talent.

The Steers this year have had all sorts of bad luck. If it wasn't injuries, "reverse-homer" or shortage of numbers, it was turnovers at only the worst possible times.

There isn't a player on the Steer squad that has won a varsity league battle. Many of them have only three more chances to change that. If the locals have any hopes at all this Friday, before a Homecoming crowd, they must rely on the hunger of their seniors and the brass enthusiasm of a youthful corps of newly-graduated JV players. That just may be the right combination.

Danny Reagan

...Let's hope so!

SPEAKING OF UNDERDOGS
Seems like both alma maters are to be packed in there with the ghosts this week.

Texas Tech, with or without Rodney Allison, ventures into UTland with less chance than the Big Spring Steers of copying a victory.

Texas leads 21-5 in a rivalry begun in Austin in 1928. Burnt Orange leads the SWC headons with a 13-5 mark. Tech whipped Texas 31-28 last year.

Unless the Scarlet and Black get stage fright and fold early, the game should be an exciting one. Both the Raiders and the Longhorns field explosive offenses. Tech employs the split back veer that is averaging right at 343

EXPRESSIONS - Kathy Birdwell (15) and Sherri Kelly (20) seem to be enjoying themselves in Tuesday's victory over the visiting Permian volleyball team. Rose Magers seems to be giving someone in Mojoland the evil eye, while visiting player (35) appears to be having Excedrin headache number 11. Even the ref wears a pensive look on her face, no doubt caused by the surprising score.

WEPNER GRUNTS, GROANS, AND YIELDS — Japanese pro wrestler Antonio Inoki clamps leg holding on boxer Chuck Wepner of Rayonne, N.J., who once faced Muhammad Ali, during sixth round of a bout at Tokyo's Budokan Hall Tuesday night. Wepner yielded in that round of the fight, which was billed as a contest to determine the world's strongest man in the martial arts.

Houston's Cotton rotted in the field

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Cougars feasted on the Southwest Conference last year with a 9-2 regular season record and topped it off with a Cotton Bowl victory for dessert.

When the Cougars returned for seconds this year, they discovered the cuisine had soured.

Quarterback Danny Davis, the heart and soul of the UH offense, went out for the season with a shoulder separation in the second game against Penn State.

Then on Oct. 4, three days after Houston had opened defense of its SWC co-title with a victory over Baylor, the Cougars were placed on probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) for recruiting violations.

Speaking of...

DALLAS (AP) — The eighth name drawn Wednesday for Cotton Bowl tickets was Richard Chaplin of Anchorage, Alaska.

"He wanted 10 tickets, too," said a Cotton Bowl official, who couldn't remember another Alaskan landing in the top ten of names drawn for the annual classic featuring the Southwest Conference champions against a visitor at large.

The first choice went to Michael T. Scott of Carrollton with Mel Carter of Lubbock second.

The Cotton Bowl game is Jan. 2 next year.

The Cougars haven't won a game since, losing to Southern Methodist in the final 39 seconds and to Arkansas in a 34-0 rout. They'll take a 3-3 record into Saturday's match against rejuvinated Texas Christian.

But Coach Bill Yeoman says Houston's probation can't be blamed for the Cougar's demise. It goes back farther, like to January.

"It's hard to sit there and tell a guy he's hungry when he's just finished a 16-ounce serloin," Yeoman said, referring to his team's frame of mind following its Cotton Bowl triumph.

"If your frame of mind isn't very firm from about January all the way through it's not enough to sustain you," said Yeoman. "With teams getting closer and closer, it's becoming more important."

"It's just like two years ago we declared war on the Southwest Conference. Okay, this year they declared war on us. That's what makes it so much fun—I thought."

The Cougars were placed on probation for violations surrounding the recruiting of Odessa quarterback Darrell Shepard, who played for the first time last week against Arkansas. Houston is barred from post season play this year and can't play on television during regular season next year.

"Everybody would like to think that our probation is responsible for us not playing like they think we're supposed to but I'm sorry, I can't subscribe to that," Yeoman said. "I think what it was, quite possibly our frame of mind wasn't firm enough last January."

Asked about the University of Texas improving from a 5-5-1 record last year to the No. 1 ranking in the nation, Yeoman said attitude also could have been a factor with the Longhorns.

"Evidently, and I don't know what their situation was, with all the great athletes they have, it would surprise they weren't quite as firm in the head as they should have been."

Yeoman said he first became concerned about UT this year when he heard UT's Brad Shearer say the Longhorns didn't care about the Cotton Bowl or national championship, they would play one game at a time.

"You just don't like for people you have to play to be talking like that," Yeoman said. He's glad however, that the Longhorns have brought the No. 1 ranking to the SWC.

"I think it speaks well for the competition in the altitude."

conference," he said. "Everything is leveling out and it appears to be leveling out at a pretty good altitude."

SOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Lots of National Football Leagueers can remove teeth, but only New England Patriots center Bill Lenkaitis washes his hands first.

And when Chuck Fairbanks barks at Lenkaitis to run a drill again, the 250-pounder's first impulse is to check the coach's molars.

Drill has a double meaning for Lenkaitis, a practicing dentist who thinks filling a cavity can be tougher than pass blocking.

"Dentistry is hard work, harder than football," he says in his plush suite of offices off the quiet town square in this suburb where the Patriots play. "You're always craning your neck. Your whole body tightens up."

Lenkaitis, 31, is the Patriots' team dentist who practices dentistry "in a fun way."

"It's completely separate from football," he says. "I'm in my own world, like the guy who comes home from work and does sculpture."

During the season, Lenkaitis is a dentist all day Tuesday, the Patriots' day off, and on Thursday nights. In the off-season, it's full-time, although the ambitious entrepreneur is opening a racquetball court in the Boston suburbs with ex-Patriots receiver Randy Vataha, now with Green Bay.

"It's a fallacy that we (professional football players) are always involved in football," Lenkaitis said as soft rock stereo music wafted through his offices.

"I just take it as a game that I'm lucky enough to get paid to play. It's a damn kids game."

Lenkaitis, a Penn State graduate, took six years — double the usual — to get through the University of Tennessee dental school. He opened his Foxboro office a year ago.

The reception room in the unobtrusive medical building gives little hint that the doctor is a Sunday afternoon bruiser.

Froggie Renfro snares a record

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Mike Renfro, Texas Christian's unforgettable receiver, has made his way into the Southwest Conference record book — despite playing for the team the SWC would rather forget.

Renfro, who has snared 137 passes for a SWC-record 2,379 yards, has set seven school records in his three and one-half year career. TCU's victories for that timespan number exactly four.

"I think the other record is within reach," Renfro said of Jerry LeVias' SWC career reception mark of 155. "It would be a great honor, but actually I'm more excited about winning two games in a row. We've never done that before."

Renfro, who broke LeVias' SWC career yardage mark this season, saw the hapless Horned Frogs win only one game in each of his first two years. They lost all 11 in 1976 and the first four of 1977 before winning their last two outings.

"I got very discouraging," said Renfro. "After three seasons with only two wins, I got kinda used to it. I just tried to keep my individual pride."

Despite the Frogs' woeful record, Renfro, the son of former All-Pro receiver Ray Renfro, was named consensus All-SWC for the past two years. Some pro scouts predict he'll be drafted early.

"I think he ranks with some other great receivers

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Wesley Paul finished the New York marathon last week in three hours, 31 seconds — about 48 minutes slower than the winner.

But for a third grader, it wasn't a bad time for a 26-mile run. It was 15 minutes better than his performance last month in the Chicago Marathon.

And Wesley, who is 8 years old, says he could have run the New York marathon faster if the field hadn't been so crowded at the start. He was the smallest — and youngest — of 4,800 entrants.

"It was very hard moving around at the beginning," Wesley said. "I guess I probably started almost at the back of the whole crowd."

He said, however, that the New Yorkers were very polite to him even if they were in his way.

"It was all right," Wesley said. "About the 20th mile my legs got really sore."

His father, Alio Paul, is a mathematics teaching assistant at the University of Missouri.

Paul said his son began following him as he jogged several years ago. "In fact he beats me all the time now," his father said. "He loves to run. He loves to talk about running with people he knows. And he likes to read a lot right now, especially books about dinosaurs."

Sheriff's Posse sets note afire

The Howard County Sheriff's Posse burned their paid-off note at a ceremony Saturday night.

In addition to the Note-Burning Ceremony, a Halloween Chili Supper was held at the new clubhouse with 30 members in attendance.

Longtime Posse members Cecil and Ruby Allred, T. Willard and Melba Neel, Red and Ruth Harrison, Lloyd and Elvie Murphy, Ed Cherry and Kenneth Williams had the honor of burning the note on the clubhouse and of making speeches.

Williams and Cherry told how the Posse was first formed.

Harrison thanked each and every member who had a hand in helping with the completion of the clubhouse.

Posse members played a Halloween Word Mixup Game with prizes going to the winners, Mrs. R.D. Carpenter and Gerald Harrison.

President A.D. Nanny gave a special thanks on behalf of all club members to the Clubhouse Furnishing Committee for the tables and chairs that they have provided for the clubhouse.

Members of this committee are Laura Duke, Ruby Allred, Frances Cherry and Melba Neel.

The next Posse event will be an Open Steer Roping and Barrel Race to be held in the Posse Arena Sunday; registration will begin at 1 p.m.

Elderly Widow Will Appreciate Kindness

DEAR ABBY: We are a retired couple living next door to a very nice elderly woman who recently lost her husband.

I remarked to my husband yesterday, "That little widow seems to be getting so thin and frail lately. I suppose living alone as she does, she doesn't bother to look for herself. Perhaps when I make something special, I should take some over to her."

My husband surprised me with the following observation: "Heavens, no. That would give her the notion that we think she's not able to look after herself."

Abby, that notion never crossed my mind. Do you think my husband is right? Or am I?

GOOD NEIGHBOR

DEAR NEIGHBOR: You are. But people who live alone miss much more than food. They miss companionship. If you feel generous, do something for the widow's spirit as well as her stomach. Invite her to join you sometime. The simplest meal with company will be more appreciated than the finest delicacy alone.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl. I met a boy the other night at a party. We go to the same school. We liked each other right away, and before I knew it, we were in the bedroom making out. (Nothing serious happened.) There were about 10 other kids there, including some football players from our high school.

This boy is a key club member and is neat up at school. Abby, whenever I see him in the hall now, he doesn't even speak to me. You would think he never saw me before. This has me confused. What's wrong with him? Or is it me?

MIXED-UP

DEAR MIXED-UP: You were foolish to "make out" with a boy you had just met at a party. He either (a) is ashamed of himself, (b) doesn't want anyone to know he knows you, or (c) doesn't recognize you in the light.

DEAR ABBY: I am sure other wives of traveling men have this same problem. When my husband is out of town, a long-distance call will come in for him. The operator asks, "Is Mr. So-and-So home?"

I say, "No, he isn't."

She asks, "When do you expect him?"

I say, "Not until next Friday."

She asks, "Where can he be reached?"

I reply, "I don't know. He's on the road now."

Well, Abby, as you can see, it could be someone right around the corner, trying to find out if I'm home alone, and how long I will be alone. With the crime rate so high, shouldn't something be done about this? Maybe someone at the telephone company has the answer.

ALONE

DEAR ALONE: When someone calls for your husband and he is out of the city, you need only ask, without revealing that your husband is out of town, "Who is calling Mr. So-and-So, please?"

If you don't recognize the name, say, "If your party will leave his name and operator's number, I will have Mr. So-and-So return the call." That way you disclose NO information whatsoever.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope please.

LET'S SEE A BIG SMILE — Members of Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 77 all smile widely after an exciting day at Comanche Trail Park Saturday. The girls went to the park for an investiture ceremony for new members in the Rose Garden, and then the fly-up ceremony at the Big Spring. After that the girls attended the Big Spring

Arts and Crafts Festival, followed by a cookout. Since they weren't tired yet, they trooped over to the amphitheatre and each patrol of seven girls acted out its favorite fairy tale. This is a citywide troop of 33 fourth-graders, and their leader is Debbie Burrow.

Women's Forum discusses need for new industry

Mrs. Johnny Lou Avery presented a program on the need to bring industries to Big Spring at the October meeting of the Women's Forum.

The 18 members of the group met at the Dora Roberts Community Center.

Mrs. Jack Johnson and Mrs. Omar Jones were hostesses.

Mrs. D.D. Dyer presided over the business meeting.

Mrs. Avery, assistant to the president of Howard College and member of the Chamber of Commerce, gave a background of what and how the industrial foundation operates, and how limited they are in funds to promote Big Spring.

She complimented the citizens of Howard County on how well they have all worked together since the closing of Webb A.F.B., and said what a good impression they have given people from out of state.

A slide presentation was then given on the high points of interest in Big Spring. This show is the same one viewed by prospective industries of Big Spring.

Mrs. Avery urged all members to vote Nov. 8, and to seriously consider the issue of granting the county power to use five cents of the general fund revenue to help bring industry to Big Spring; this would not increase the tax base and will be for the good of the town.

Pep Squads to reunite

The Big Spring High School Pep Squad of the years 1935, 36 and 37 will have its annual reunion at a coffee Saturday.

The coffee will be at 10 a.m. in the Holiday Inn Party Room.

Lillian Shick and Nell Brown were sponsors during those years.

Midland club tours Big Spring

Polly Mays hosted the Texas Garden Club of Midland on a tour of Big Spring Oct. 20.

The tour began at the Dora Roberts Community Center, then went on to the Heritage Museum and the Pottan House. The tour proceeded on to the State Park to view the prairie dog homes and to overlook Webb Air Force Base and Big Spring proper.

The group returned to the D.R.C.C. for a lunch catered by Mrs. Russ McEwen and Mrs. Darrell Fellows.

The Texas Garden Club plans to return to Big Spring soon and complete their tour.

Future places of interest include Comanche Trail Park, the historical Big Spring, and the Pottan House when it is completely restored.

This tour is to be set up under cultural, community affairs and tourism in Big Spring, which is a part of attracting people to the town. The area Chamber of Commerce heads all of this type of affairs.

The Garden Clubs in District I Texas Garden Clubs Inc., National Council of Garden Clubs Inc., Kansas City, Mo., are all on the tour list. Each club consists of 25 or more members.

Mrs. Mays and Mrs. O.S. Womack hope to tour the city of each club that visits our town.

HEAVE HO — The largest group of animals brought to the shelter are female puppies. This friendly pup, who spends her day squeezing through the cage, could have been spared if the owners had only taken the time and responsibility to have her mother spayed.

Animal Shelter blames owners for fate of these animals

By EILEEN McGUIRE

On an average day, the Big Spring Animal Shelter picks up 10 stray dogs in addition to the 135 dead animals they scrape off the streets each month. On some days, they've been known to pick up as many as 150 stray animals and of those, only five or six were claimed by their owners or provided with new homes.

Located in a small building behind the City Garage on East 2nd, the shelter is maintained and operated by two city employees, Eddie Hernandez, and Joe Pesion. According to Hernandez, every year there is an attempt made to bring the Humane Society into Big Spring, but the proposition is never passed.

What happens to these animals once they are impounded? According to Hernandez, the animals are kept for three days, a week if it's a good animal that has a chance of being adopted. If the animal is not claimed within that time, they are taken to the city dump where they are shot and buried.

"Shooting healthy animals is not a pleasant task," Hernandez said, "but you get used to it — someone has to do it."

Of the 18 dogs that are presently at the shelter, Hernandez estimates that three may find a home, that is if the prospective owner is willing to pay the $10 fee in addition to $5 for rabies shots, plus 50 cents per day for each day the animal was impounded, plus city tax.

Those with the best chances for finding a home are the younger dogs, up to a year old.

"A lot of the animals we get here are family pets," Hernandez said. "When an animal has tags, we get in contact with the owners to let them know their pet is here, but most don't even show up to claim their animal. Some do, but when they find out there's a $15 citation in addition to the other charges, they turn around and walk away without the animal."

"All of the money we charge for these animals is put back into the care and feeding of other animals at the shelter," he said.

"If people would learn to keep their dogs tied or penned up, this wouldn't happen," he added. "The dogs we get here are only a small percentage of those running loose — a lot of owners let their dogs loose at night when we aren't working."

Most of the animals collected at the shelter are picked up by Hernandez and Pesion while out riding up and down city streets at random, some are reported by concerned citizens, others, particularly female puppies, are brought to the shelter by people who can't or won't find homes for the animals. Once there, the animals face a very slim chance of finding homes.

"We feed them, walk them, and clean their cages daily," said Hernandez, "but other than that, there's not much we can do. There's such a high turnover rate down here, that we have to keep weeding them out to make room for more."

Hernandez and Pesion, who make up Big Spring's Code Enforcement team, are also called on in the event that a wild animal or snake is sighted in the community. Occasionally, they also bring in stray horses and cows which are always returned to their owners.

During his career as animal warden, Hernandez

MAN'S BEST FRIEND? — Boxers are known for their intelligence and gentle ways. Evidently, this one didn't know that it was against the law for him to run loose even if his owner thought it was okay. What a great watchdog or pet he would make...

NO WAY OUT — There's not much hope for this St. Bernard due to the fact that he's no longer a cute little puppy. He may be given a few days stay of execution over the mutts, but that probably won't be enough time for him to find a home.

CAPTURED! — Wardens Joe Pesion (left) and Eddie Hernandez try to coax a frightened stray dog out of the truck and into the animal shelter. Like many of the dogs impounded each day, this one has a collar and is probably someone's pet. The big question is will he be claimed?

has only been bitten by a dog once, and that was just recently. "Usually we catch the dogs by hand," he commented, "occasionally we have to use tranquilizer guns."

these dogs will be destroyed," Hernandez said regarding the shelter's eighteen current boarders. "And it's not even their (the dogs') faults — it's their owners' lack of responsibility that's to blame."
