Space station program explained to OJH students by Van Shoubrouek, McDonnell Douglas engineer

by Scotty Moore

All Ozona Junior High students attended a program given by former Ozona High School student and graduate engineer, Fred B. Van Shoubrouek, on the Space Station, Monday, Dec 19.

Mr. Van Shoubrouek, a native Texan, moved to Ozona and finished school here. During his junior and senior high school years in Ozona, he participated in the school sports programs, and was a member of the varsity football and track teams. Upon graduating from Ozona High School, Mr. Van Shoubrouek entered the University of Oklahoma, where he earned his Bachelors and Masters degrees in Mechanical Engineering. While working toward his Masters degree, he was hired by the University to teach introductory engineering courses.

After receiving his engineering degrees, Mr. Van Shoubrouek accepted a job with Douglas Aircraft Company (later McDonnell Douglas) in Santa Monica, California. He has worked on a variety of missile and space programs for the past 30 years at McDonnell Douglas including four years at Vandenberg Air Force Base, where he was involved in the launching of 75 Thor-Agena and Delta Rockets. He is presently McDonnell Douglas' Director of Structures, Mechanical and Fluid Systems for NASA's Space Station Freedom. He was been a part of the McDonnell Douglas and NASA Johnson Space Center Space Station Freedom team for six years, and has helped to formulate the present Space Station configuration.

Mr. Van Shoubrouek, responsible for the boom section containing the data-communications and propulsion systems, explained the physical characteristics of the 470' space station and its specific purpose.

The program is an international project including the United States, Canada, Japan and Europe, each of whom will have their own module as a part of the complete unit.

The station will have to be held in orbit approximately 250 miles above the earth and will require a boost of approximately 50 miles each day in order to maintain its orbit.

Mr. Van Shoubrouek explained that the station is designed to house eight astronauts, five from the United States and Canada, two from Japan and one from Europe. The station will include a living quarters module, exercise room and laboratory module.

He explained the specific problems that the astronauts will encounter in everyday activities including sleeping, bathing and using the bathroom. Special bathtubs and toilets will have fans installed, which will be needed to keep the water and bodily wastes from entering the station atmosphere and polluting their lungs. The astronauts will have to sleep in sleeping bags to keep them stationary, otherwise they would float around like balloons in the weightless environment.

Mr. Van Shoubrouek told the students that the main purpose of the space station program was scientific and that one half of its entire area will be used for scientific experiments in plant growth, crystal growth for electronics, oceanographic and astronomical studies plus many other scientific experiments.

The station will be built in sections from the shuttle, the first to be launched in 1995 with the last launch scheduled in 1999. The station will be later used to launch a manned Mars mission.

The congress first budgeted 30 million dollars for the program over a 10 year period, but later this year cut the purse by 10 million.

Mr. Van Shoubrouek said as his closing comments, "space is our final frontier, and the space station is one of our first steps in mastering that final frontier."

Van Shoubrouek is married to the former Jan Jones of Ozona. He and his wife plan to live part time in Ozona a few years from now after his retirement from McDonnell Douglas.

Lights go up in park

The downtown park in Ozona will glow from lights of year's gone by when 12 old-fashioned streetlights are turned on in a special ceremony Dec. 1 at 6 p.m.

The lights, paid for by memorial donations from citizens, were installed Monday. The lighting is a project of Ozona Chamber of Commerce with assistance from Crockett County.

Christmas lights outlining the courthouse windows, also a chamber project made possible by donations of private individuals with the assistance of South Texas Lumber Company and WTU, will be turned on at the same time as those in the park. Downtown merchants will also be lighting their buildings as part of this project.

Merchants in the Village Shopping Center are participating with the assistance of Perry Brothers.

Caroling will follow the lighting ceremony in the park.

Keith Shoush last pick'em winner

Keith Shoush turned in first and second place winning tickets to end this year's football contest, defeating Ray Boyd on tiebreaker. H.O. Hoover also made the slot, but failed to fill in his tie breaker scores.

His & Hers

by Linda & Scotty Moore

His

Even as a small boy, I have always held dear to my heart the fact that Crockett County was the sixth largest county in the state of Texas, and finding out that it wasn't so was like learning that Santa Claus delivered his gifts in a 1948 Ford instead of a sleigh with reindeer.

A good friend of mine who is a gentleman, scholar and a member of the banking community of Ozona called me to correct a statement that The Stockman made in one of its special editions. In the article we stated that the county was the sixth largest, but in fact it is actually eighth.

After a long period of tedious research using the public library and a Macintosh computer (Land commissioner Garry Mauro's campaign map and a piece of scratch paper, to be specific), I listed all the counties and their total acreage that appeared to be bigger than Crockett. I found out that anyway you look at it Webb County is sixth, Val Verde is seventh and we are eighth.

Oh, well, we could be last, like Rockwall County with only 111,754 acres. The fact still remains that we are almost twice the size of Sutton, and that's all that counts.

Have a wonderful and tasty Thanksgiving day and be thankful that we still live in a county which makes that possible.

Toys needed

The annual Child Welfare Board Christmas toy drive has begun. Anyone with new toys or toys in good condition may drop them off at the fire station. If you need to have your toy donations picked up, call 392-2749 afternoons.

Cash donations to be used for purchase of toys and gift wrap are also welcomed.

Ozona servicemen in Saudi Arabia this Thanksgiving

A number of Ozona servicemen are currently in Saudi Arabia as part of Operation Desert Shield. In their letters home they talk of such things as boredom, lack of reading material, writing paper and current news and of their need to hear from those at home.

While they work and wait in the sands of a far away desert, those at home wait also.

In Ozona last week, family members of some of these servicemen gathered on the town square to tie yellow ribbons and American flags on the large pecan trees.

Columns at the front entry of the courthouse also bear the yellow ribbon and flags, symbols that Ozona awaits the return of its own and other U. S. servicemen and women.

He attended Ozona schools for a number of years and graduated from Lamesa High School in 1987.

Dunn has been stationed at Great Lakes, IL, and is homeported at Norfolk, VA. He entered the Navy in the summer of 1987, and works on gas turbine engines aboard ship.

Chris has yet to see his new daughter, Megan, born in September. He and wife Barbara also have a son, Jamie.

Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Forehand of Hobbsville, N.C.

ment that reaches his unit. At present he is working with British troops and says they get along well. The biggest battle right now is boredom according to Robert.

Even though he misses his 2-year-old daughter, Elena Michelle, and all his family he is proud to be serving his country and a cause he strongly supports.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Linda & Scotty,
We would like to explain the purpose and goals of the local Saudi Arabia Support Group.

Our main purpose as a group is to be supportive of each member who has a loved one stationed in the Gulf. We all have similar concerns. By expressing these concerns to other people in the same situation, we can comfort one another.

We are also trying to get everyone together to come up with ideas for fund-raisers to raise money to send care packages and greetings from the town of Ozona as a whole and not as individual persons. Donations, monetary or otherwise, would be appreciated, however, we are not seeking these.

We would like to express a special thanks to Lillian Tijerina for making all of the bows we have placed in the Square and at the Courthouse and to Kathryn Mayfield for donating the yellow ribbon.

If anyone has any questions or suggestions, please call Connie Sessom at 392-2371, Kala Longoria at 392-2021 or Vicky Sanchez at 392-3355.

Sincerely,
Members of the Local Saudi Arabia Support Group
Connie Sessom

Dear Editor,

My husband and I read the "Letter to the Editor" in the Nov. 7th issue signed M. E. Garcia, and we agree with this person. Unfortunately, this is the way we Mexican Nationals or Mexican-Americans are treated.

My son had a 10:30 appointment two months ago with Dr. Sims. He missed a whole day of work waiting and never was seen by the doctor. He had to ask for another day off work to travel to Sonora, where he was treated.

How unfortunate it is that the color of our skin matters in when we will get medical attention. The hospital staff should have a policy to see the patients in the order that they come in since appointments seem useless. I believe we should be told if we are going to be seen according to our race, nationality, or ability to pay.
Mrs. A. C. Trevino

EDITOR'S NOTE:

The Stockman contacted Bill Boswell, administrator/consultant at Crockett County Hospital for information on the procedure for seeing patients at the clinic.

Upon arriving at the hospital for treatment at the clinic, patients should go through the waiting room and register at the desk in the hospital area.

Even patients with appointments must register.

Walk-in patients see the doctor in the order they register. Persons with appointments are seen as close to appointment time as possible and before non-emergency walk-in patients.

Emergencies are treated in the emergency room as they arrive. This sometimes causes an unforeseen delay in seeing clinic patients.

Frequently patients come to the hospital clinic for blood pressure checks or allergy shots and do not see the doctor. These people go directly to the back and are attended by a nurse and then leave, possibly giving the impression to those in the waiting area that they have seen the doctor, Boswell explained.

Crockett County Hospital does not practice discrimination in the treatment of patients, Boswell said. Mr. Boswell said that anyone who believes he or she is being discriminated against at the clinic should immediately ask to speak with him.

To the Citizens of Ozona:

For several years the Crockett County Sheriff's Office has administered a fund to assist stranded motorists who break down in our county. This fund has allowed us to help numerous stranded motorists and assist the less fortunate people who come to us for assistance.

The Crockett County Welfare Fund has been funded by the generous donations from citizens, civic groups, churches and businesses in Crockett County. That fund is now getting very low and will not be enough to carry us through the coming holiday season. Your contributions are needed to keep the Welfare Fund in operation.

Contributions can be sent to the Crockett County Welfare Fund, P. O. Box 1931, Ozona, TX 76943.

Sincerely,
Jim Wilson

Men's Bible study group welcomes all

A little over a year ago a men's Bible study was begun in Rex Fenton's kitchen on Tuesday evenings. At first there were only a small number of men, from two to six each night, but they came each night to listen to the Bible on cassette tape and to discuss their questions, experiences and understandings of what they heard.

The small group began to attract others who found the idea of Bible study and fellowship.

In May of this year, the group moved out into the open air on a covered patio beside Fenton's water station north of town near the veterinary clinic. The group soon grew to about 25 men from the Baptist, Methodist, Church of Christ and Templo Bautista Jerusalem churches.

Now that the weather has turned colder, the study moved back to the Fenton home at 902 6th Street at 7 p.m. each Tuesday evening.

The coming together of so many men from so many churches is unique in Ozona and rarely found anywhere. The success is due primarily to the emphasis on scripture, the importance of each man's opinion and an avoidance of any doctrine from any particular church.

The class is called the "Open Door" Class to let every man in Ozona know he is welcomed there.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe David Williams Jr. of Roswell, NM, are the parents of a daughter, Lyndsey Allison, born Nov. 14, 1990, in Roswell. The baby arrived at 3:55 p.m. weighing six pounds, one ounce. She was 20 1/4 inches long.

Joining her parents in making her welcome is a sister, Lori.

Grandparents are Mrs. Joe D. Williams of Ozona and Mrs. Mary Martin of Silverton. The baby's great-grandparents are: Mrs. Merle D. O'Neal of Silverton, Mrs. Adele Reeves of Graham and Mrs. M. A. Martin of Childress.

A Preacher's Pondering

By Ralph O. Moore

Co-operation

As did many others from Ozona, I went to Austin to watch our band perform in State competition. Hearty congratulations to the directors and each member for a superb performance. It has always amazed me how so many different members and instruments can combine for a great show. So many different feet going in every direction - yet, a unified display. Various instruments and sounds - yet, one sound. The harmonizing of many different people and things into togetherness is a splendid adventure. There is no doubt about it, it takes co-operation!

I think that there is a powerful lesson in the preparation, performance, and production of a group, like the band, for all of us. We need some harmonizing in society. Different people, views, and abilities should seek togetherness if a good result is desired. We need to learn how to "toe-the-mark" and "line-up together" in several ways as far as I'm concerned.

Governments could stand a lesson in co-operation. So could different races and cultures. So could religious groups. Different political groups, various ethnic clusters, and distinctive religious heritages could enjoy a higher degree of success in many things - if they would line up together. No doubt about it, it takes co-operation!

Since I'm a preacher, not a politician, I have no pleasure in propagating advice to governments - other than to say, it is God that rules in the affairs of nations. The best I can do in this realm is to strive for conscientious citizenship and pray for all rulers.

Neither am I a sociologist to address all the complicated issues that arise between races and cultures. My best effort there is to remind every one, regardless of color or language, that we are all made in the image of God.

But, being a minister of the gospel, I can feel comfortable in heralding the need for all religious groups to "toe-the-mark" in fighting sin. In order to combat evilness, there is a clear need for co-operation. At the foot of the cross, soldiers divided up Christ's clothing and cast lots to see who would get what (Mark 15:24). I find many today who are still tearing the seamless robe of the Holy One into shreds of their own desires. It doesn't make too much sense to me for those who profess Christ to gamble over His belongings and claim that they are better dressed than others who stand at the feet of Jesus.

I think that all who desire compatibility with the Lord must learn to co-operate. Didn't Jesus pray and plead for unity? Who is to say that one is more important than another? If you want a real lesson in humility, read 1 Corinthians 12:12-26. That passage has dependence and co-operation stamped all over it.

When the world sees believers in Christ fighting, they see a band in disarray. While flutes and flags are different, and drums and batons are variants - they all combine for harmonious enterprise. Co-operation is essential for production. When people who say, "Jesus is Lord" spend more time pouting than praising, a scene of rampant disorder is viewed. If believers are to march for the Master, there must be more feasting than fighting. Co-operation is imperative!

The problem of disarray in religion is there, I believe, for a number of reasons. For one thing, Many believers in Christ see themselves as the only ones doing what is right in the sight of God. They view biblical truth as something they, and they alone, are holding. I'm certainly not minimizing the need to hold steadfastly to God's Word above all - regardless of the cost. But, while Truth is absolute, it is not sectarian, and no religious group has a monopoly on it.

Jesus is the Way, the Truth, and the Life. His body, the church, is not a field for battle, but a haven for peace.

God blesses peacemakers. Truth, the very same Truth, can be viewed from different angles and can have different sounds. We must not think that one line in the band is the only line that marches to the director's directions, and we dare not think that only one group is the only group that holds to the Master's Message.

Religious co-operation is also hindered by pride. Proud people go in their own direction and to their own tune. As the Scriptures say, "Pride goes before destruction." When all believers in Christ march only to His commands, the warmth of His grace melts the ice of their pride, and then the world sees Jesus and Him alone! Co-operation is vital if the world ever sees and hears the saving message of the Redeemer.

Co-operation doesn't mean compromise. Love is the standard and obedience the key to believers showing the world Jesus Christ and Him crucified. God will bless all of those who seek Him; I pray that we will all share in those blessings.

Think about it!

Reason Enough To Give Thanks

By Dr. Tim Brewer
Ozona United Methodist Church

On the first Thanksgiving, the Pilgrims and the Indians gathered to share a common meal and give thanks to God. Life had not been easy nor were all their problems behind them. They were not even sure if they would survive until next year. But they did know that God had brought them this far and would continue to be with them. This was reason enough to give thanks.

This year in Ozona there has been an abundance of rain which brings words of thanksgiving to the lips of many. There have also been days of sorrow when illness and death have invaded our midst. There have been days of pain as people cry out in many ways in meetings of the various governing bodies and organizations and in letters to the editor as well as conversations on the corner or over coffee.

Still, with all its ups and downs, life is good as God declared it to be at the beginning. God sustains our lives and our spirits. He gave us each other to live in community, to love and to care for each and every neighbor. He even gives us the hard times through which we are challenged, and, hopefully, grow; remembering on Whom we depend. Most of all, God gives us His presence now and always. Reason enough to give thanks.

The proclamation notes the cooperation between the county government and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in providing programs to families.

In the next twelve months, classes for parents, programs on teen sexuality, foods, nutrition and health, and life skills development for youth will be offered by the Extension Service.

County Extension agent Tedra Ulmer said "We urge all residents to take advantage of these opportunities in 1991, and to let us know ways to serve them better."

Texas 'Orphans' to gather

Over 4,000 orphaned, abandoned, homeless children were brought to Texas from New York City and Boston orphanages from the mid-1800s until as late as 1929.

Children were brought in groups traveling with two or more adults in charge, and placed out with new families. Since the children came on trains, today this era in history is known as the "Orphan Trains Era" and stands out as the beginning of foster parent care in America.

During the 75 years of this mass movement of children in America, at least 150,000 children were relocated.

Odesa has been chosen as a place for a one-day gathering of these children who today are in their 70s and 80s. Wednesday, Nov. 28th from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. Orphan Train Riders, families, friends and interested persons are invited to meet and share information.

Austin has been chosen as the site for a meeting the following Saturday, Dec. 1.

Mary Ellen Johnson, a family historian as well as founder of the 785-member organization, Orphan Train Heritage Society of America (OTHSa) will be in charge of the meeting.

Johnson travels around the country speaking to groups such as the National Foster Parents Association and historical/genealogical societies about the Orphan Trains. Gathering and preserving Orphan Trains history is the purpose of OTHSA. Johnson also assists the Orphan Train Riders and their descendants with family research.

A quarterly publication, Crossroads, gives useful information in seeking biological family and has tree or more Orphan Train Riders stories per issue. Subscriptions are available.

For more information about attending these two Texas gatherings, or to share information write to: OTHSA, 4912 Trout Farm Rd., Springdale, AR 72764.

Extension Connection

What is a strong family?

During holidays, families tend to spend more time together, to bring back cherished traditions and rituals, and to be more generous with time and money to be with other family members.

What is it about some families, though, that makes them enjoy being together—laughing and hugging, telling old family stories and dreading to leave after the holidays are over? Often, we think of such families as "strong families," and research studies have identified characteristics of those families who seem to withstand both the good times and bad times of everyday life.

Strong families work constantly to strengthen family ties. They have definite, clear values and all family members know what they are. Parents are the leaders in strong families and take their responsibilities seriously.

Of course, parenting today is different than in past generations. Stephen Glenn and Jane Nelsen, in their book Raising Self-reliant Children in a Self-indulgent World, state that "for the majority of our children, it is performed by one inexperienced biological relative; for the minority, it is performed by two inexperienced biological relatives who work full-time and parent part-time."

The collective knowledge and experience of the extended family are no longer readily available to most parents. Today, at a time when parenting faces more challenges than ever before—in the form of sex, drugs, alcohol and the media, there are fewer people with fewer experiences and opportunities who are trying to do the job.

Most parents do the best job they can, given what they know. Most parents would also agree that they're not perfect and that they've made mistakes. Even the "experts" don't know all there is to know about parenting. How, then, can parents like you and me do a better job?

By joining together with other parents to share experiences and learn from each other. Parenting support groups and parenting education classes such as our STEP/Teen classes are springing up everywhere these days.

Parents are realizing they need support and reassurance in the hard, and often thankless, job of parenting. Just knowing other parents have similar concerns and feelings can help.

In parenting groups, parents hear other parents talk about the ways they guide and discipline their children, and as a result learn new techniques to try. They learn new and more successful ways to communicating with their children, and they also learn how they can help their children develop their full potential.

Strong families work constantly to strengthen family ties. They have definite, clear values and all family members know what they are. Parents are the leaders in strong families and take their responsibilities seriously.

Strong families are optimists—when trouble hits, they're flexible in looking for solutions. When faced with a crisis, a strong family rallies together and grows from the challenge.

Laughter and fun are important to strong families—they accept all members for their uniqueness. Parents have high self-esteem and build self-respect in their children. Strong families—and yours is probably one—accept responsibility for both their successes and their failures.

If you're interested in beefing up your own parenting skills—and in helping your own family become even stronger—give us a call at the Crockett County Extension Office. We're planning a new series of "STEP/Teen" classes for parents of pre-teens and teens beginning Dec. 3rd at 7 p.m., meeting once weekly for 6-10 weeks. There is a $10 registration charge per couple, or you may certainly attend as an individual or single parent. The charge is for the workbook used in the class. We will need at least four couples or eight people for the class to make.

Deadline to sign up for the class is Thursday, Dec. 29, at 5 p.m. You can sign up by calling the Extension Office at 392-2721, or coming by the office. Registration for these class is on a first-come, first serve basis. I know this material has been helpful to me as the parent of a teenager, and I'm sure you'll find it's true for you as well. As I mentioned earlier in this column, just hearing other parents talk about the same problems you're having is really helpful—and heartening; it's proof you're not alone!

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages, regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, national origin or handicap.

Rabbit Club prepares for show

Members of the Crockett County Rabbit Club held their regular monthly meeting last week. President John Hignight led the group in a discussion of details for preparing for the Triple Rabbit Show in San Angelo in March. Judges, sanctions, show tables and workers were all a part of the preparation.

The upcoming 4-H stock show was discussed. Members were encouraged to visit youth with rabbits to give them help.

The youth conducted their part of the meeting with Jason Hignight winning the revolving trophy. Members then made plans for a Christmas party in December.

Attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Ray D. Myers, Chad and Baylor; Mrs. Spencer Morris and Brent; Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Nicks, Michael and Casey; Mr. and Mrs. John Hignight, Jason and Amanda; and Shelly Sullivan.

Gas. It's A Natural Way To Protect Our World.

Leading scientists tell us that increased use of natural gas could dramatically improve the quality of our environment. Gas is the cleanest burning of all fossil fuels. So, unlike other fuels such as oil and coal, natural gas doesn't emit high levels of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere.

These pollutants are believed to be a major cause of many of the environmental problems facing us today.

One way in which natural gas is now being used to help reduce air pollution involves the injection of gas into coal burning facilities. This procedure can result in reducing nitrogen oxide emissions by as much as 60%.

So, when it comes to heating your home this winter - or cooking your food or heating your water - natural gas is the way to go.

Natural gas. It's clean. Dependable. And environmentally friendly. That's why, gas is a natural.

Ozona rabbits bring home trophies from the National ARBA Convention

Eight rabbits from the Texas Rabbit Patch were entered in the National A.R.B.A. Convention and Show Nov. 12-17 in Tampa, Florida. These rabbits owned by Jason and Amanda Hignight were judged on Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 13 and 14.

Results of the judging are as follows:

In the MIWI Rex Division, Jr. Buck-Tortoise Shell received a Best of Variety and first place; Jr. Doe-Seal received a Best of Variety and first place; Jr. Doe-White won first place; Sr. Buck and a Sr. Doe-Broken each received a second place.

In the American Chinchilla division a Jr. Buck received a third place.

Approximately 15,000 rabbits were judged in this year's show with rabbits from every state in the union. Next year's show will be in California.

Being "good rabbits," they brought Jason and Amanda T-shirts from the show. Showing under the names of J & A Hignight, they are in fourth place in the state of Texas for wins in the Mini Rex Class.

Plans are now being made to attend the Texas Rabbit Associations Show in Dec. and the National Mini Rex Show in April. These rabbits will be shown by J & A at these shows, but were shown by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Clark, Russell and Amy of Eldorado in Florida this past week.

Employers to see $300 million tax credit

Texas employers are going to get a $300 million TEC tax credit in 1991 according to Commissioner Mary Scott Nabers of the Texas Employment Commission.

"This is without a doubt the best news we have been able to announce in the past six years," Commissioner Nabers said. "Every Texas employer will realize a tax credit of approximately 34 percent." This amount will not be an actual refund but will be applied to taxes owed in 1991.

"This will provide some much needed relief to business," Nabers said, and then added, "It's long overdue."

The tax credit is a result of lower unemployment and a trust fund that has reached capacity. The trust fund is the account from which benefits to unemployed workers are paid. According to Nabers the fund will total approximately $1.3 billion by the end of November. "That is more than is needed so the overage can be credited back to taxpayers," Nabers said.

When asked if this was a major indicator of a better economy, Commissioner Nabers was cautious, calling it a positive sign but describing the economy as simply stable rather than great.

The amount of credit to be received by employers will vary depending on their tax liability. For example:

*A large employer with a tax liability of $5 million will receive a tax credit of approximately $1.7 million.

*A mid-sized employer with a tax liability of $29,000 could receive a tax credit of $9,900.

*A small employer with a tax liability of $261 might expect a tax credit of $88.77.

Nabers also pointed out that the tax credit cannot be applied to delinquencies. All taxpayers must be current on taxes to receive credit.

Stop using Servel gas refrigerators, safety commission warns consumers

Government safety experts are warning consumers to stop using Servel gas refrigerators manufactured in the 1930s, 40s and 50s due to the risk of carbon monoxide poisoning.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) said there have been at least 14 carbon monoxide deaths nationwide over the past decade involving these old Servel gas refrigerators. In Ontario, Canada, some 60 fatalities associated with these refrigerators have been reported in the past 20 years.

CPSC said old model Servel gas refrigerators continue to be used in hunting cabins, vacation cottages and remote areas of the nation where there is no electricity, or where propane gas is a preferred energy source.

Over a period of time, especially if the refrigerator has not been used recently, the gas burner can be fouled by dust, dirt, rust, or other obstructions. Any gas refrigerator with an improperly adjusted or partially plugged burner can produce carbon monoxide in deadly quantities.

The Commission has arranged for consumers to receive $100 in exchange for their old Servel refrigerators. A Servel toll-free hotline, 1-800-782-7431, has been established for consumers to call for instructions regarding this recall. Information packets are being mailed to LP-gas dealers and service technicians around the country. Any dealer or technician who has not received a packet should call the toll-free hotline or write to Servel Rebate, P.O. Box 14874, Cleveland, Ohio, 44114.

The Commission called for those consumers who insist on keeping their old Servel refrigerators to move them to an outdoor shelter, shed or garage not connected to the house or cottage. To prevent children from getting trapped and suffocating inside refrigerators, the CPSC urges owners to secure or restrict access to refrigerators kept outside and, when discarding any refrigerator, to remove its door.

Under any circumstances, to assure safe operation, all gas refrigerators require regular servicing by licensed technicians, CPSC advises. Refrigerators should be inspected whenever they are moved and before they are turned on after a seasonal shutdown. Burners and flues should be checked for blockages.

No longer in business, Servel manufactured gas refrigerators between 1933 and 1957. The Servel refrigerators in question are no longer being produced and are in no way associated with the Domestic Corporation, the current manufacturer of Servel brand name products.

The First Thanksgiving Proclamation

Issued by President George Washington

Whereas,

it is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey His will, to be grateful for His benefits and humbly to implore His protection and favors; and

Whereas,

both Houses of Congress have, by their joint committee, requested me "to recommend to the people of the United States a day of public thanksgiving and prayer, to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many and signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity peaceably to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness;"

Now, Therefore,

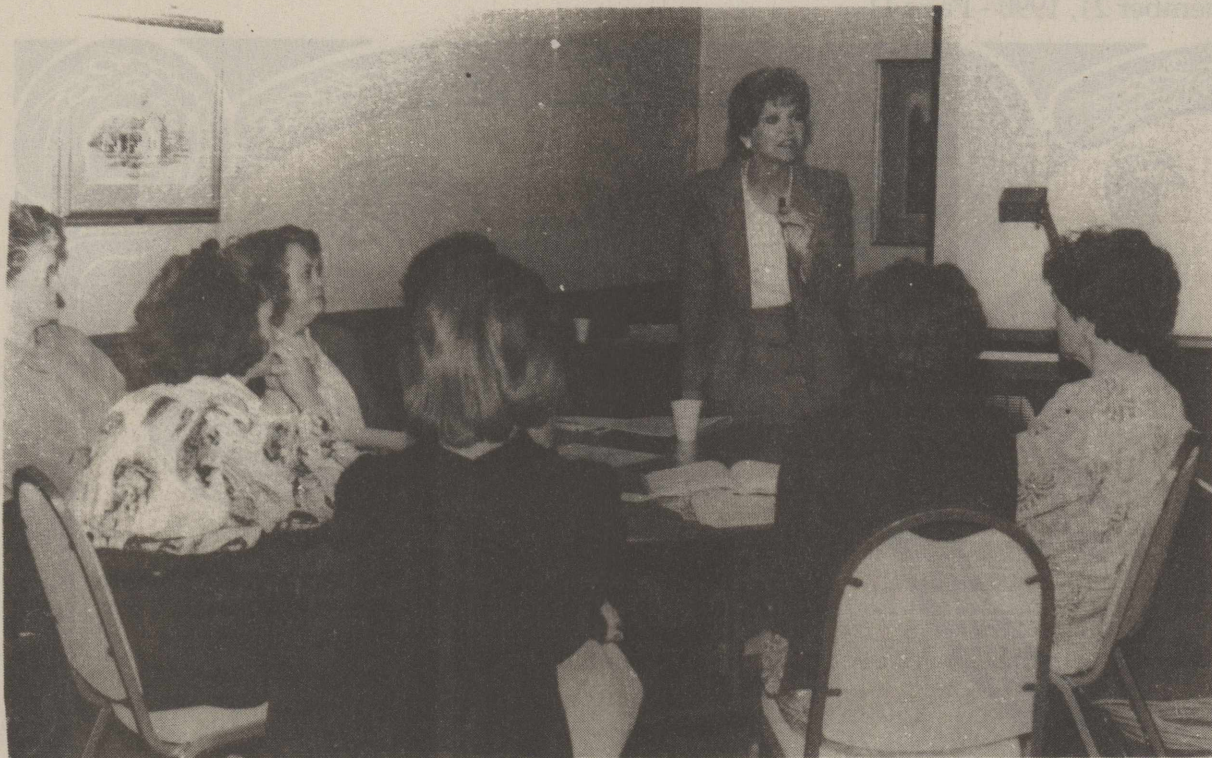

I do recommend and assign Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of November next to be devoted by the people of these States to the service of that great and glorious Being who is the beneficent author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be; that we may then all unite in rendering unto Him our service and humble thanks for His kind care and protection of the people of this country previous to their becoming a nation; for the signal and manifold mercies and the favorable interpositions of His providence in the course and conclusion of the late war; for the great degree of tranquility, union and plenty which we have since enjoyed; for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed, and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful knowledge; and, in general, for all the great and various favors which He has been pleased to confer upon us.

And also that we may then unite in most humbly offering our prayers and supplications to the great Lord and Ruler of Nations, and beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions, to enable us all, whether in public or private stations, to perform our duties properly and punctually; to render our National Government a blessing to all the people by constantly being a government of wise, just and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed; to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science among us; and, generally, to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as He alone knows to be best.

Given under my hand at the city of New York, the third day of October, A. D. 1789.

Farmers' share of Thanksgiving dinner declines over six years

(AUSTIN)--"Texas farmers can expect to receive 2.2 cents as their share of this year's average Thanksgiving dinner, the second lowest net return in the six years that the Texas Department of Agriculture has tracked holiday meal prices," Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said today.

"The farmers' net return has declined nearly five cents in six years from a total of seven cents per serving in 1985, the first year that TDA examined the consumers' cost and farmers' return for an average Thanksgiving dinner.

"This follows an overall trend toward a declining farmers' share of the consumer food dollar during the past six years. In 1985, the average farmer received just 26 cents of every consumer food dollar. In 1990 farmers received an average of less than 24 cents of every consumer dollar.

"Further declines are likely next year, as rising fuel prices triggered by the current international situation cause farmers' input costs to skyrocket and as drastic cuts in farm subsidies and a freeze in the federally mandated target prices for many farm products take effect," Hightower said.

"Consumers, on the other hand, will pay an average of $2.52 each for their Thanksgiving dinner, eight cents more than last year but 36 cents less than six years ago.

The TDA Thanksgiving Dinner Survey annually examines 10 common food items produced in Texas and found on typical holiday dinner plates. The cost to consumers is calculated by a series of market basket surveys conducted across the state by marketing specialists. The return to farmers is calculated on the basis of crop prices gathered by the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Big Bend Ranch SNA to open for tours

Portions of Big Bend Ranch State Natural Area will open in January 1991, officials of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department announced earlier this month.

"Big Bend Ranch is one of the most important natural and cultural resources in the state, and I am delighted that the people of Texas will soon be able to enjoy its outstanding beauty and grandeur," Andrew Sansom, TPWD executive director, said after the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission approved the initial use program for the site.

The Commission also authorized acquisition of inholdings of more than 42,000 acres of Public School lands held by the General Land Office. "It is one of the pleasures of my job to be able at one time to raise nearly $3 million for the school children of Texas and help create a vast park for the enjoyment of all Texans," said Land Commissioner Gary Mauro.

Beginning Jan. 19, 1991, TPWD will offer bus tours of the natural area, highlighting its prehistory and biology. Permits for 25 to 35 miles of backcountry trails and river use also will be available.

Also beginning on Jan. 19, canoeists and rafters can get permits to access the portion of the Rio Grande River that runs through the park. The three put in/take out points are Madera Canyon, Colorado Canyon and Grassy Banks. Madera Canyon will have a primitive camping area and self-composting toilet. Trailheads at Rancherías and Panther canyons will link up more than 25 miles of backcountry trails.

Department staff will start taking reservations for the bus tours on Dec. 15. Call 915 424-3327 (Warnock Center) or 915 229-3613 (Fort Leaton) on or after that date for more information and reservations.

Energas donates $5000 for natural gas vehicle research

Energas Company announced last week that it had donated $5000 to the Mechanical Engineering Department of Texas Tech University in Lubbock for research to improve the efficiency of natural gas vehicles.

Energas' donation helps sponsor the department's participation in the national 1991 Society of Automotive Engineers' Natural Gas Vehicle Challenge, a student alternative fuels engineering design competition. The university was notified Aug. 31 that the department's proposal, which required extensive research, had been selected. The department will receive a GMC Sierra pickup from General Motors to convert to run on compressed natural gas (CNG).

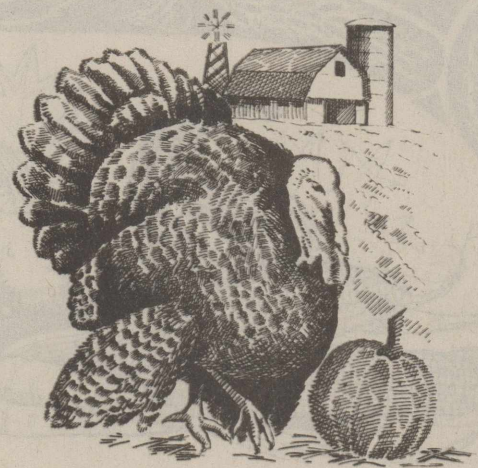

In making the announcement, Energas president Gene Ehler commented, "We are very proud of Texas Tech. To be one of the 24 universities in the nation selected to participate in the 1991 Challenge is quite an honor."

Ehler continued, "The use of natural gas in vehicles can help solve the environmental and economic challenges facing this country as well as reduce our dependence on foreign oil. The new technologies developed during the 1991 Challenge will be extremely valuable to all of us. On behalf of Energas, I would like to express my appreciation to Texas Tech and to the other sponsors of this project."

Energas has been using natural gas as a fuel for its fleet since 1982 when the company installed its first CNG fill station at its Amarillo service center. Fill stations were installed at the Lubbock service center in 1983 and in Midland in 1985. At present, Energas has 96 vehicles using compressed natural gas.

Energas Company, headquartered in Lubbock, is a division of Atmos Energy Corporation in Dallas and serves over 310,000 customer in West Texas.

Second grade project brings China to classroom

Mrs. Virginia Cotton's second grade read the story The Five Chinese Brothers by Claire Bishop last week during reading class. As an extra activity, the class drew pictures of the imaginary sixth Chinese brother.

The class had a surprise visitor thanks to Mrs. Beverly Evans who arranged for Josh Tambunga to dress like a real Chinese boy and visit the class. Josh told the class about each of the special Chinese souvenirs that Mrs. Evans brought back from her visit to China a few years ago.

Members of the class also enjoyed eating fortune cookies.

Lady Lions open season 51-41

By Ann Trull

The Ozona Lady Lions opened the 1990-91 basketball season with their first victory of the year by besting the Lady Hornets of Irion County 51-41 Nov. 13 in Ozona.

The Ladies began the game rather sluggishly, shooting only 8 of 28 for 29% in the first half, and also shooting 10 of 16 free throws for 63%.

The pace of the game picked up in the second half as the Ladies shot an excellent 11 of 22 for 50% from the field, and 3 of 7 from the line for 43%.

"It was a good start for the season, and we hope to build off that," said head coach Frank Hughey.

The Ladies hit the boards early, grabbing a total of 10 offensive rebounds, and 13 defensive rebounds. Leading rebounders for the game were: Teena Tambunga 6, Sandra Fuentes 4 and Myra Sanchez 3.

Heading up the team with the most steals were Tambunga and Haley Carson 4, Ofi Rios and Kimberlee Coy 3.

The Ladies had their ups and downs, accumulating 10 turnovers. None were in foul trouble, but the fouls did total 16 as the buzzer sounded.

"We've worked hard with Coach Hughey the past three years, and now we plan to make it pay off," senior captain Leticia Dominguez said.

Leading scorers were: Coy 16, Carson 8, Tambunga 7, Rios 6, Myra Sanchez and Tricia Hartnett 4, Fuentes, Claudia Avila and Dominguez 2.

The team chose captains recently, and they are seniors Leticia Dominguez, Teena Tambunga and Kimberlee Coy.

Band 8th at state contest

By Ann Trull

The Pride of Crockett County, the Ozona Lion Band, traveled to Austin Nov. 12 to compete at the University Interscholastic League State Marching Band Competition.

The band placed eighth out of the 14 competing. Although they did not compete in the finals, they were awarded the honor of being the eighth best marching band out of approximately 300AA bands in Texas. This was the first time that Ozona has ever earned a spot at the state contest.

Top honors in the division went to Iraan with Sundown placing second, Howe third, Henrietta fourth and Clifton fifth.

Texas parents need to take advantage of plus loan program for college expenses

Texas parents have been slow to take advantage of a federal loan program designed to help them pay their child's post-secondary educational expenses, according to Joe McCormick, President of the Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation.

The Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS) loan program is one of three federal loan programs offered by the U.S. government to assist students and parents in paying for college or vocational school expenses. Unlike other federal financial aid, parents applying for these loans do not have to be certified as being financially needy.

"This program is available to all Texas parents, regardless of income," McCormick said. "Loan proceeds can be used to help pay your child's tuition, room and board, books and supplies and other related school expenses."

The current interest rate for the PLUS loan is 11.94%, set by the Department of Education. Other attractive features of the PLUS loans are a repayment period of up to ten years and the ability to postpone payments during the time the child is in school. Also, a PLUS loan does not require collateral.

Parents may borrow up to $4,000 per year for five years for each dependent child enrolled at least half-time.

Roughly 5% of the guaranteed student loans guaranteed by TGSLLC this year were in the PLUS program, McCormick said.

"We believe that there are more

Texas parents that could benefit from this program," McCormick said. He added that parents can apply for PLUS loans at any time during the student's enrollment — it does not have to be before school starts.

The Texas Guaranteed Student Loan Corporation (TGSLLC) is a non-profit public corporation created by the Texas Legislature in 1979 to administer the federal guaranteed student loan program for the State of Texas. The loans are funded by participating private lenders and guaranteed by TGSLLC.

TGSLLC has guaranteed more than $3 billion in loans to Texas students and parents helping members of more than half a million families attain post-secondary education.

To receive an informational packet on the PLUS loan program, or other guaranteed student loan programs, contact the Borrower Services department at TGSLLC at 1-800-252-9743. Information is also available through financial aid officers or participating lenders.

Baylor College of Medicine warns against athlete reinjuries

No pain, no gain, can be a dangerous rally for students who participate in athletics, according to a sports medicine expert at Baylor College of Medicine in Houston.

"I would rather they consider the motto, 'no work, no gain,'" said Dr. Albert C. Hergenroeder, an assistant professor of pediatrics who treats patients with sports-related injuries. "This emphasizes that hard work is necessary to improve performance and to rehabilitate injuries. However, working to the point of pain may result in an injury or reinjury resulting in a poorer performance or delayed recovery."

Too often, young athletes push themselves beyond their physical limits in an effort to please their team, coach or to appear "tough enough," Hergenroeder, who says that young women are injured just as often as young men in athletics, advises his patients to make sure that injuries are completely rehabilitated before returning to sports activities.

"One misconception that athletes and coaches sometimes have is that if there is no sign of pain, then the athlete must be recovered," he said. "The truth is they may only be partially recovered."

Three keys to rehabilitating injured muscles and for keeping uninjured muscles in top form include proper stretching for flexibility, endurance training such as cycling for leg muscles or swimming for arm and shoulder muscles, and weight training for strength.

"Working the muscle to recovery involves determination, patience, a supportive coach and a physician's care," said Hergenroeder. "The doctor should play an important role in determining when the patient is ready to play sports again but input from the coach and athlete should be encouraged."

Football continues to be the number one sport for injuries, followed by wrestling and gymnastics, he said. The most common chronic injury is patellofemoral dysfunction or overuse of the knee, which is seen in almost all sports.

"Above all, kids should learn that while sports are fun, good health is more important," said Hergenroeder.

Third graders have holiday feast

Mrs. Judy Probst's third graders had Thanksgiving dinner in their classroom Tuesday, Nov. 20. Several students volunteered their parents to help furnish the food for this occasion.

The students have been studying the Pilgrims, their voyage to America and their first year here. Within this study they have learned what the Pilgrims brought with them and used in their daily lives. They have learned what was available to feast on in 1621.

Tuesday's menu included venison, turkey, potatoes, corn and pumpkin bread. The students broke tradition or true history by using butter. They've learned the Pilgrims brought hens and roosters and two dogs, not a cow or goats for milk products.

Students give reasons to be thankful

Students in Mrs. Cookie Worthington's homeroom class offer the following reasons for being thankful:

Thanksgiving is a day when we thank the Lord for the nourishing food we have to eat. Some people don't have any food to eat. They wish they can eat with us.

Ryan Ramos, Nicole Perez, Brenda Talamantez, Jesse Marshall

We are thankful for the food we eat, and we are hopeful for the homeless we feed. That's not all, because best of all is the turkey we eat on a special Thursday Thanksgiving.

Anthony Ortiz and Fernando Rios

Thanksgiving means to me a time to be with family and friends. It's a time to thank the Lord for everything He does for us. We say thanks to the first settlers.

Audrey Michelle Young

I am thankful for my family and relatives and my friends. I am grateful for the food we eat and the church and education.

Samantha Tambunga

I am thankful for the turkey we eat and wish the homeless people could have the same Thanksgiving that we can have. I hope that the older people have a Happy Thanksgiving, too.

Chad Myers

Thanksgiving is to celebrate about Jesus that He gave us food and life. I am thankful, too, that there is no school Thursday and Friday.

Freddy Fernandez

Thanksgiving is a time we give thanks for relatives who spend this holiday with us. We wish others could share with us. We hope you have a very good Thanksgiving like us.

Robin Tambunga and Yvonne DeHoyos

Thanksgiving holidays are fun. We welcome hunters and wish them good luck. We hope to go hunting, too, like the first ones to have Thanksgiving. The food is good.

Young people at high risk for brain and spinal injury

Every day about 100 to 200 Texans suffer some type of head or spinal cord injury, says Texas Medical Association.

Those at greatest risk are young people 15 to 24 years old. A serious injury could mean a lifetime paralysis from the neck or waist down.

"We've made great advances in diagnosis and treatment of head and back injuries," says TMA member Mark J. Kubala, M.D., "but once you've damaged the brain or spinal cord, there's not much we can do."

Consequently, "prevention is the key," explains the Beaumont neurosurgeon. During October, National Spinal Health Month, he urges parents, teachers, coaches, school administrators and others who have influence with young people to educate them about preventing head and spinal cord injuries.

Dr. Kubala emphasizes these precautions:

-Use safety belts. About half of all head and spinal cord injuries result from not wearing a seat belt in a motor vehicle accident.

-Avoid high speeds. Abide by the speed limit.

-Don't drink and drive.

-Wear a helmet when riding a motorcycle, dirt bike, bicycle or all-terrain vehicle.

-Avoid recklessness in sports and recreational activities.

-When swimming in an unfamiliar location, don't dive head first until you know how deep the water is and whether any rocks or logs lie below the surface.

-When not in use, keep guns unloaded. Use caution when hunting.

To promote prevention education in Texas, Dr. Kubala organized the Texas Head and Spinal Cord Injury Prevention Program in 1988. It's part of a national effort sponsored by the American Association of Neurological Surgeons and the Congress of Neurological Surgeons. The program is active in 10 Texas cities.

Program coordinators meet with students during school assemblies. The program includes a demonstration about how accidents affect the brain and spinal cord. Often, paraplegics or quadriplegics speak about their experiences and emergency medical personnel demonstrate what to do and not do at an accident scene.

TMA is a professional organization of more than 29,000 physician and medical student members. It is based in Austin and has 119 component county medical societies around the state. The Association represents 82 percent of the doctors of medicine licensed and residing in Texas and its goal is to improve the health of Texans through the professional and personal development of its members.

A parental review of safety guidelines for children

Recently, the citizens of Texas were made acutely aware of the fact that evil is at work in the land as we heard of the kidnapping of Erica Botello and Heide Seeman, and as we learn more of the grizzly truth of their deaths. Now that our children are back in school, we would be wise to remember the tragic events of August and review with our children the rules that will help protect them from individuals who do not have their best interest in mind. Discuss the following guidelines with your children.

1. Give your child a healthy suspicion of strangers. A stranger is anyone the child does not know, even if the person acts like a friend or knows the child's name.

2. Children should never accept food or an automobile ride from a stranger.

3. Children should never play around a public restroom.

4. Your child should never open the door to a stranger and never enter a stranger's home. If your child is selling a product door-to-door, make sure he or she is accompanied by at least one friend.

5. If a stranger bothers your child, teach your child to remember the stranger's description, his clothing, and the color and license number of his car. Call the police IMMEDIATELY.

6. Know the length of time it takes your child to walk to and from school. Immediately check any delay in your child's arrival at home.

7. Know the safest route to and from school and instruct your child to follow that route. If your children are to arrive home after dark, arrange to meet them.

8. Know your children's playmates and where they congregate. Visit the school and become acquainted with the teachers and school officials.

9. Give the school instructions to release your child only to persons you have designated in writing.

10. Tell your children never to admit over the telephone or at the door that they are at home alone.

11. Be sure your baby-sitter is a responsible person and capable of acting in any emergency.

12. Children should be encouraged to talk with their parents any time they have a problem, whether the problem is with a stranger, friend, or relative.

13. Do not give your children a large amount of money to carry to school.

14. If a stranger grabs your child, teach your child to scream; sit down, or take action that will draw attention.

Our children deserve our care and protection. Please review these rules with your child to insure that he or she will enjoy a safe and productive school year.
