Deadlock Blocks Path Of Relief For Unemployed

Former Husband Of Ann Harding Waves Goodbye To Hollywood Romance

Harry Bannister Visits Lubbock Saying Report Of "Love-Match" Is Ridiculous

By GORDON WEBB
Avalanche Staff Writer

UNCHARTED airlanes over New Mexico sent the former husband of Ann Harding to Lubbock for the first time late Thursday.

Bronzed Harry Bannister, enroute from Hollywood to New York, sat his trim Travelair Sportsman down at Municipal airport at 7 o'clock yesterday evening. "A nice landing, too," airport attaches declared.

A nice chap, this stage and motion picture actor from whom Ann Harding obtained a divorce because "he is losing his identity."

HARRY BANNISTER

A likeable fellow, tall, tanned, dressed for dinner at Hotel Lubbock in dark gray coat, lighter gray trousers, and sporty white and black oxfords. Blue eyes, black hair, a faint trace of moustache. He is six feet, one inch tall and superbly built.

Is Very Much A Man

Very much a man, Bannister went to dinner last night with shaving soap lather in one ear, and a few unruly locks of his hair misplaced on the top of his head.

The actor, who is signed for a stage play in London, was "very tired" when he arrived after eight hours fighting cross-winds on the hop from Tucson, Arizona.

A beautifully tinted miniature of Miss Harding must have been one of the first things Bannister unpacked from his two pieces of luggage here. The picture was placed on the dresser.

"Love-Match" Ridiculous

Miss Harding?

"Oh, we're very fine friends you know."

And that reported "love-match" between Bannister and 18-year-old Nanci Lyon of Los Angeles?

"That's funny, ridiculous. She's a grand little girl, a lovely little girl. But it doesn't look as though I'm getting married, on my way to England, does it?"

Nearly four months ago Bannister and Miss Harding announced, unexpectedly, they had been "placed in position which is untenable." Has four months time and a divorce changed this view?

Independence Quite A Job

"I'd rather not discuss anything about Miss Harding. It is hard to

Father Kills Blind Son As "Act Of Mercy"

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, July 14. — A despondent father who had lost his life's savings and saw no way to care for his blind son, shot to death the son, Lawrence Shutt, 30, today, police said, and then turned the revolver upon himself inflicting fatal wounds.

The father was E. M. Shutt, 61, Glendale, Cal., twice sheriff of Morrow county, Oregon. He used the revolver he carried as an Oregon sheriff to kill his son, blind many years, and himself. Authorities described it as a "mercy death."

Jury Commission To Be Ordered And Grand Jury Drawn To Investigate Slaying May 30 Of Frank V. Brown

A SPECIAL term of 99th district court preparatory to calling of a grand jury to investigate the fatal shooting May 30 of Frank V. (Leather Hat) Brown at Woodrow will be opened Friday morning by Judge Clark M. Mullican.

A jury commission will be ordered and a grand jury will be drawn. The jurors probably will be empaneled Monday and an investigation of the case will be renewed.

Three Men Held

Three men are being held in Lubbock county jail, facing a charge of murder in connection with Brown's death. They are B. L. Richardson, who officers have said has been identified by members of the T. B. Hilton family, witnesses of the shooting; Hugh Walker, and Jess Covington.

Should the grand jury return an indictment naming the trio, a trial probably would not be held until a regular term of 99th district court, it was said yesterday.

The district attorney's office has announced, that should the men now held be tried, the gun which the state claims killed Brown would be introduced as evidence and identified.

City Salaries To Be Slashed

Reductions In Day Labor Also Ordered; Cut Of $21,000 In City Operating Expenses Is Announced For Year

Salary slashes and reductions in day labor made by City commission Thursday afternoon resulted in an additional cut of about $21,000 in city operating expenses for the 1932-33 fiscal year. Previously announced reductions amounted to $19,000, making a total of about $40,000.

Although a public hearing had been advertised several weeks prior to yesterday, no Lubbock citizens appeared in the City hall to protest or offer comment on adoption of the city's budget by the City commission. The budget, as drawn, was approved.

Slash Is Ordered

A ten per cent salary slash was ordered Thursday. City officials said the reduction would amount to about $12,000. The additional saving is expected in cuts in day laborers.

The adopted budget calls for operating expenditures of $225,000 for

Cities Of Eastern Panhandle Join In Gala Affair Today As Thousands Flock Toward Childress And Pampa

Denver Northern Line Opening New Branch; WTCC President And Party First To Arrive Thursday Night

(By The Associated Press)

CHILDRESS, July 14. — Cities of the eastern Panhandle tonight were ready for the coming of thousands of visitors tomorrow who will join them in celebrating the opening of the last major unit of this area's 1,200 mile railroad building program, the Denver Northern.

With pride in the knowledge that no other section of the nation could celebrate a similar event, and that the Panhandle is now amply served by railroads, cities along the route have prepared a fitting celebration for the opening of the new Fort Worth and Denver branch from Childress to Pampa.

Hawk Heads Group

The first delegation arrived here late this afternoon when Wilbur C Hawk, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and Ross D. Rogers, new mayor of Amarillo, came in with a party of 20 from that city. They made the trip in the motor car that will see regular passenger service over the new road after tomorrow. Tonight they were guests of the Crews Brothers ranch at a chuck wagon dinner.

J. W. Mode, superintendent of the Denver at Amarillo, under whose direction the new line will be operated, accompanied the party to Carey, then returned by way of Amarillo to Texline where he will meet Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington system, early tomorrow.

Others Are Expected

John D. Farrington, general manager of the Denver, and Gen. John A. Hulen, vice president, will arrive during the night as will special coaches from Fort Worth and Wichita Falls. Governor Ross Sterling will be one of the passengers on the Fort Worth coaches.

A special train from Pampa will leave that city over the new line at 4:25 a. m., bringing delegations from towns along the route. All of the visitors will return to Pampa over the new road on two special trains, one for delegations and an-

Marines Guard Bonus Seekers

Soldiers Are Dispatched To Maintain Order At Capitol But Are Quickly Recalled By Police Order

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 14.—A series of mind-changing acts by congressional and police authorities this evening resulted in a company of marines being dispatched to keep order on the capitol grounds where hundreds of bonus-seeking veterans trudged wearily back and forth, but in the end the ex-soldiers were left as before.

The marines were withdrawn almost immediately, and their presence was called a misunderstanding. Vice President Curtis, Speaker Garner, Rear Admiral Henry V Butler, commandant of the local navy yard, and Police Superintendent Glassford then conferred at length. The upshot was that Glassford ordered the capitol grounds cleared.

Before he could get reinforcements to put the order in effect Senator Bingham (R., Conn.), interceded, Glassford reversed the order and permitted the long, weary trudging of the demonstrators to continue as it has for two nights and two days past. The men were not allowed to lie down but were kept on the move by bluecoats.

Death Blow Is Dealt Norbeck Farm Measure

Proposal Is Reconsidered By Senate And Opponents Are Allowed Vote; Was Designed As Stop-Gap Plan

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Death was dealt the Norbeck farm relief bill today by the senate, which only yesterday had passed the measure and dispatched it to the house for final action.

The measure was reconsidered by a vote of 30 to 25, on motion of Senator Bingham (R., Conn.), to permit several opponents of the plan who were absent yesterday to vote.

That this was the end of the bill for the session was agreed upon generally. The action came while word circulated at the capitol that President Hoover would veto the measure if passed.

Emergency Measure

Sponsored by Senator Norbeck (R., S. D.), it was an emergency one-year measure, designed as a stop-gap to serve until congress could enact a comprehensive farm relief plan.

Under it wheat, cotton and hog growers would receive for their production going into domestic consumption, sums equal to the tariff or amounts set by the bill, in addition to their sales price. The bounties would be taken from processors of the products.

Ten Members Of Carnival Troupe Wounded In Affray

MECHANICSVILLE, Md., July 14. (AP) — Ten members of a carnival troupe were wounded, three seriously enough to require hospital treatment, early today when a band of men described by police as "drunken hoodlums" fired on them from ambush.

The trouble started last Saturday, members of the troupe said when citizens of Mechanicsville complained they were being "gypped." There was a fight and William Stanley, 21, operator of a bucket game, was shot in the abdomen. He was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Officials said the question of the Italian debt to the United States would be approached only in the most friendly manner.

Secretary Of War Launches An Attack Upon Pledge Offered By Roosevelt For "New Deal" To American People

Democrats Lashed For Lacking Program; Declares Roosevelt May Give A New Deal But One From An Old Deck

(By The Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., July 14.—Deriding Franklin D. Roosevelt's pledge of "a new deal for the American people," Secretary Hurley opened the presidential campaign in Ohio tonight with an address to the Republican state convention in which he extolled President Hoover as the champion "of American principles and ideals."

Patrick J. Hurley

In a quick follow-up of this week's Boston speech by his fellow cabinet member, Secretary Mills, the head of the war department said the Democratic party lacks a program.

"It lives only by the criticism it is able to direct against the leadership and constructive program of the Republican party," he said. "In many essentials it always follows Republican leadership."

"Just what is this new deal," he asked of the promise made by Roosevelt in his acceptance of the Democratic nomination.

Subsequently Hurley ventured:

Youth Confesses Slaying Of Pair For Inheritance

Two Are Beaten And Stabbed By Four Young Robbers

(By The Associated Press)

BIRCH TREE, Mo., July 14.—Earl Raymond Phelps, 19, confessed here today that he and three other youths last night murdered his father and stepmother when they resisted an attempt to rob them of a $2,000 inheritance.

Phelps said he and another youth held his father and stepmother as they struggled, while two other youths beat them with a hammer and stabbed them with a butcher knife. The hammer was found this morning in the back yard of the Phelps home a quarter of a mile south of Birch Tree; the butcher knife, its blade broken, was discovered in the house.

Mrs. Felix O. Phelps, who married about a year ago after answering an advertisement by Phelps for a housekeeper, died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital in West Plains. Her husband, Felix O. Phelps, a state highway maintenance man, expired in the West Plains hospital this afternoon.

Earl Phelps, the son, said in his confession that his stepmother had inherited $2,000 a short time ago, and that last Monday he went to Trask and proposed the robbery to a friend, who "took in" two other Trask youths.

They met last night near his father's home, he said, and went into the house to get the money but not intending to murder. His father and stepmother put up a fight, however, and some of the youths grabbed weapons while he and another held them until they quit struggling, he said.

Canyon President Denies That He Will Support Tech Protest

Dr. J. A. Hill Declares That He Has No Cause To Meddle In Granbery Affair And Is "Ignorant Of Matter"

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, July 14. — Dr. J. A. Hill, Canyon, president of the Texas State Teachers association, denies here today a statement from Fort Worth which quoted him as saying that he would support the protest of Dr. John C. Granbery, of the faculty of Texas Technological college, against his recent dismissal by the board.

"When interviewed at Fort Worth I expressed then and still maintain my ignorance in the matter," Dr. Hill said. "I have had no cause to investigate the differences of Dr. Granbery and the Tech board, and I don't express opinions on things that I know nothing about. I am not meddling in the affairs of other schools."

Dr. Hill was quoted at Fort Worth as saying that Dr. Granbery "sacrificed because he dared to display what was interpreted as radicalism."

Whitehorn said Armstrong, who was arrested Wednesday night, had been taken out of town to evade "lawyers." Police reached Wednesday night denied any knowledge of the arrest.

Reporter Dizzy From Heat And Replies But He Knows How One Should Go About Keeping Cool

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, July 14.—While a heat wave softened the city's asphalt streets, a reporter set out today to learn from citizens the most popular methods of keeping cool. He returned a little dizzy, both from the heat and the answers, which included:

Harold Waters, railroad engineer: "Put a few lettuce leaves inside your hat. If you can't get lettuce, a strip of beefsteak will do just as well."

John Demas, restaurant chef: "Drink hot coffee. The more hot coffee I drink the cooler I get."

Harold Lichenstein: "Take a Turkish bath. That makes the streets seem cool by contrast."

Police Inspector Gustave Schink: "Work harder than ever. The idle person is the only one who notices the heat."

John Andrews, truck driver: "Eat bananas."

Joseph Salzman, aviator: "Take an airplane ride. I went up 15,000 feet today and it was 50 above zero."

The reporter favored the method of Henry Markham, unemployed, who sat in the shade at the edge of a park fountain smoking his pipe and dangling his bare feet in the water.

Two Branches Standing Pat On Proposals

Conferees Break In Disagreement Over House Provision Requiring Publicity For All Future Loans

Break Is Sought

Adjournment On Saturday Now Appears If Agreement Can Be Reached; Good Results Are Wiped Out

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 14. — The modified unemployment relief bill was jeopardized today by a new conflict between the two branches of congress which threatened to prolong the session.

The $2,122,000,000 bill became ensnarled in a dispute between the house and senate out of which some of the congressional leaders were fearful a measure would emerge that President Hoover might veto, preventing congress from adjourning this week.

Insist On Provision

The house by a vote of 172 to 150 insisted upon its provision in the bill requiring publicity be given to all future loans by the Reconstruction Corporation.

Senate conferees, reported to have been informed this provision was not acceptable to the president, insisted upon its elimination, and the senate upheld their stand.

Despite frank references in the senate to possibility of a veto, there were indications tonight the senate representatives would yield to the house when the conferences are resumed tomorrow.

Leaders Are Hopeful

Weary leaders were hopeful, in the absence of definite word from Mr. Hoover he would not veto the bill even if it went to him with publicity clause, thus permitting adjournment Saturday.

The senate sent the bill back to conference tonight with instructions to insist upon elimination of the publicity clause on the motion of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, who said he was trying to "avoid a veto."

Interest Centers In Weddings Of Lubbock Pair And Former Students

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

DURING the last few years we have had occasion to borrow pictures from time to time in order to have newspaper cuts made. In looking through my desk I find that a number of these photographs have never been returned. Several have been here so long that I had forgotten they were here and the owners may have forgotten, also. They have been "put away" all this time. If one belongs to you, I shall be glad to return it if you will drop by some time when you are in town.

SUMMER RECIPES

PERHAPS you have been looking for some hot weather recipes to tempt the appetites of your family. Many of these things can be made early in the morning, placed in your refrigerator and left so that they are ready to serve at noon. Here are some suggestions.

One cup whipping cream, one-fourth cup powdered sugar, one-half teaspoon vanilla and one egg white. Whip cream, add powdered sugar, vanilla and fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Pour into tray and allow to freeze without agitating.

TOMATO JELLY SALAD

One quart tomatoes stewed and strained, one teaspoon salt, one teaspoon sugar, gelatin. Measure juice after straining. Allow two teaspoons gelatine to each cup. Soak gelatine in cold water 10 minutes add to juice; bring to boiling point; pour into molds and chill. Serve with mayonnaise or boiled dressing.

FLAPPER'S FROZEN CAKE

Line bottom of freezing tray with vanilla wafers. Cover with sliced peaches and dots of lime jello. Then cover with whipped cream to which sugar has been added to taste. Add another layer of the wafers, peaches, jello and whipped cream and place in freezing compartment to freeze. When ready to serve, slice in diced servings and place on dessert plate.

For each place use a large leaf of crisp lettuce then place in circle around edge of plate one-half pear, one-half peach, one slice pineapple, one slice orange, one inch thick. In the center put one heaping tablespoon cottage cheese. Place thin slice of green pepper on top of cottage cheese. Serve with toast sticks. Dressing may be used if desired.

FROZEN FRUIT SALAD

One cup sliced pineapple, one cup diced oranges, 16 dates cut in sixths, 2 cups mayonnaise, 12 marshmellows, one cup apricot pulp, 2 tablespoons gelatin soaked in three tablespoons cold water, one cup whipped cream. Melt gelatin over hot water. Beat in salad dressing. Add prepared fruit. When mixture is cold, add whipped cream and freeze.

SUMMER GARDEN

IF you haven't a back-yard garden or lawn, the chances are you are planning to acquire one for next year, if you have spent much time visiting in one this summer.

One of the greatest improvements that I have seen in Lubbock in the last few years is the growth of these outdoor living rooms. There was a day when Lubbock did not have a park and when there were few yards in which people could spend much time of summer evenings.

It is true that one could sit on the front porch with more comfort then. Cars were not rushing by every few minutes, all the hullabaloo of city traffic and activity did not encroach so much on the peace of the residential district and most houses were surrounded by fences and hedges to give them privacy. Now most front porches are almost as public as the down-town streets and one has little rest and peace seated there on summer evenings.

Surrounded by hedges or fences, one has both quiet and privacy in a back yard and has, too, the advantage of the cool summer breeze.

These things probably have given the greatest impetus to these gardens. These things, in all probability have added to the popularity of Lubbock's parks. And if you think city parks are not being used, ride around some night and look at the crowds. Shannon and City parks draw the largest numbers, although parties and individuals go to the other places for supper and other recreation.

Just physical tornadoes! That's what children are. Never still; never relaxed 'til the last ounce of energy is gone. Then sudden, sheer exhaustion . . . that weak, wobbly, faint feeling that prompts the wail for food. Strict mothers make 'em wait 'til meal-time, contrary to nature's law. Others indulge 'em with solid sweets which may bring on digestive upsets. Wise mothers give Dr. Pepper at 10, 2 and 4 o'clock. . . .

Eminent authorities recommend a small ration of sugar for children at mid-meal hours. In liquid (invert) form, as they get it in Dr. Pepper, it is practically predigested and goes right into the blood. The dilution of pure water (5½ to 1) makes excess impossible. The fruit juice and blended flavors make it a treat that children love. Truly, here's one confection without an objection. And it builds good health to boot. . . . . .

Local Men Are Used For Jobs

No Out Of Town Men Receiving Aid From Unemployment Council Here; Meeting Of Body Carded Tonight

"Out of town men are not being used, we are using only unemployed Lubbock men and there are enough of them," W. H. Jones, in charge of the Lubbock Unemployment council's work of securing jobs for present unemployed men, said last night. "We have turned down men from Lamesa and Brownfield. We had to.

"We also need work for men in town. There will be 30 men who have been on jobs and who have finished their tasks. They will need work."

Call Is Issued

A call for 30 men from the Sneed ranch, between Post and Ralls, yesterday morning, gave promise of using a large group. Later in the day a man from the council reported he found Mexicans were at work on the ranch.

Tonight the council will meet at the hall, 708 1-2 Thirteenth street. "We are asking all churches to be represented and to have as many as can attend to discuss local work for the men," Mr. Jones said. "The meeting is at 8 o'clock.

Chairs Are Needed

"We need some chairs for the office here as we do not have any. Persons who can give us chairs or loan them, are asked to do so."

Business men have been assisting by giving milk, food, vegetables and other items. Some of the workers helped out by making and putting up screens for the office to keep out flies from where the milk and food is stored.

Workers placed yesterday in town included carpenters and painters and paperhangers. Some men also went out to do yard work and two men were to clean a chicken house.

"Some of the people who are wanting workers are offering a dollar a day," said Mr. Jones. "That is good and we appreciate the desire to help."

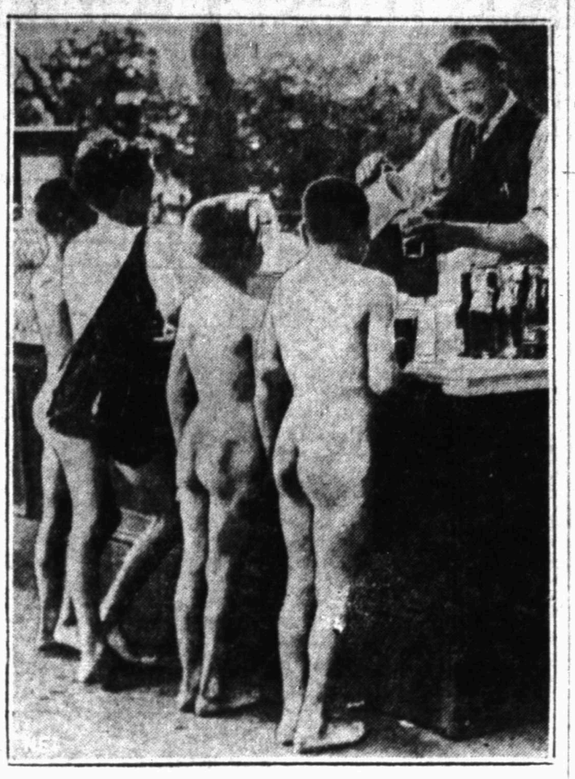

Illness Reported

The milk committee, composed of Mrs. Bessinger, Mrs. Mae Parker and Mrs. D. C. Young reported a number of cases of illness. "We find a great many children under three years of age are sick," Mrs. Parker said.

Mrs. Young said several women secured nursing work and others work in houses. She reported a gift of 10 gallons of milk from the Strawn dairy.

A committee of negro women after a survey of the people of that race, reported 40 families, with 58 children, were in need of aid. Six of these have sick members. The committee included Virginia McDowell, Nancy Gonzales and Hattie Bracy and they made a tour of the "flats" to see what was needed.

DON'T BE SLOWED DOWN BY STALE GAS

YOU PAY FOR POWER···GET IT!

Only FRESH gas gives you all the power you pay for. Why? Because as gas gets staler, it gets weaker. Loses volatile "easy starting" elements. Falls victim to a chemical change—and gets sluggish and feeble.

Another thing. The staler the gas, the stickier it is. And the more apt it is to make a motor knock.

That's why Gulf is pleased to announce a system that assures you of getting FRESH-MADE gasoline—packed with power. Two important developments make this possible...

First, Gulf refines out of its fine gasoline the complex elements that cause rapid deterioration. Hence, Gulf gas stays FRESH longer.

Second, Gulf speeds you this FRESH gas in a hurry!

Huge Gulf refineries are located in many parts of the country—so that every Gulf station is close to a source of FRESH gas. A vast fleet of tank trucks rushes FRESH gas to Gulf pumps every day.

Don't let stale gas deaden your motor! Get FRESH-MADE gas—packed with power. Get Gulf—for a faster, cleaner, quieter motor.

Athletics Show Warner's Play In Field Work

Moving Pictures Of Stanford Games Shown To Coaches At Tech School; "Fun Nite" Is Scheduled For Tonight

Tackling dummies and uniformed athletes and coaches came into the spotlight yesterday as Glenn S. "Pop" Warner continued the introduction of offensive plays peculiar to his own ideas of football, and the "four hundred" at Tech's second annual coaching school might almost as well have been watching the Stanford Indians rehearse their plays the day before the game with U.S.C.

Five reels of moving pictures, showing Stanford teams in action against rivals of the West Coast, with West Point and other big schools were projected before the large congregation early in the afternoon, with Warner explaining certain details pictured on the screen. Another series of movies will be given this afternoon in the auditorium of the engineering building.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE

9 o'clock—New Football Rules, Ray Morrison of S. M. U.

10 to 12—Football, Warner and Thornhill.

1:30 o'clock—Continuation of Warner movies, Engineering building.

3 to 4—Final lecture on track and field, Clyde Littlefield.

4 to 6—Football at Matador Field, Warner, et al.

8:30—Fight program at gymnasium.

Littlefield Gives Lecture

Clyde Littlefield of the University of Texas gave his fourth lecture on track and field work yesterday afternoon, using some of his star athletes in demonstrations.

A feature of today's program will be the lecture by Ray Morrison of S.M.U. on the subject of the recently framed football rules which go into effect this season. Morrison is a member of the National Rules committee, representing the southwest section, and is said to be qualified to talk on the new rules from the standpoint of the rules committee. His lecture is scheduled for 9 o'clock this morning.

Visiting coaches were treated last night by the Tech athletic department at a watermelon feast at Matador field. Following the feast, King Laughter rules supreme as first one and then another coach took the improvised platform to recite favorite stories of more or less questionable nature. It was a "bull session" of huge proportion, and it was late when the body adjourned until today.

Clyde Littlefield will conclude his track and field lectures this afternoon.

Another presentation by the Tech Athletic department is scheduled tonight when Coach Dutchey Smith of Tech presents his boxers and wrestlers in a "Fun Nite" program similar to those held at intervals through the winter.

Visiting coaches, or a large delegation of them, will leave Saturday afternoon for New Mexico where on Sunday they will go through the famous Carlsbad Caverns.

Gressette Shoots 70 For Medalist In Coach Tourney

Tatum Grissette, coach at The Citadel, Charleston, S. C., fired a par 70 over the Meadowbrook course yesterday for medal honors in the coaches golf tournament, held annually in connection with the Tech coaching school. Forty-two visiting coaches qualified for the four flights of medal play which will be held today.

Bill McMillan, manager of Meadowbrook, announced last night that players qualifying yesterday should play in three-somes or four-somes any time today, with each player in his particular flight. First flighters are those who shot a qualifying round of below 82; second flighters from 82 to 90; third flighters from 91 to 97, and fourth flighters from 100 on up. The tournament is for coaches only, it was said.

Prizes will be awarded first and second place winners in the three top flights and to the winner of the fourth flight. The qualifying score will be counted in on the total medal score.

Golfers and their qualifying scores and the flight in which they will play are as follows:

". . . . So I've quit trying to predict what sort of team I'll have from one summer to the next September. The older I get, the less I know, it seems, about the type of team I'll have. Sometimes when they look the worst before the season starts, they turn out to be the best. Now, you take those 1925 and 1927 teams for instance. . . . . "

Paul Tyson, dean of Texas high school football coaches, around whose Waco High school teams football history has been made, was doing the talking, and we were asking a few questions and listening. . . . that's one coach the writer could listen to as long as he cared to talk. He's here attending Pop Warner's coaching school, and there's scarcely a man in Lubbock today who claims a closer friendship and fellowship with Warner than Tyson.

"You are the first to ask me about that, but I've had my answer ready for a long time," Tyson said when asked his opinion relative to the new eligibility rules for high school athletes.

Favors 8-Semester Rule

"From a totally unselfish standpoint, I say that the eight-semester rule is one of the best things that has happened to football in the last decade. Many coaches will disagree with me, but they'll soon find what a vast benefit will be derived by putting the eight-semester rule into effect. Before it was passed, I gave birth to an idea along the same lines. Mine was to make a player ineligible who had passed his 19th year of age. I think, perhaps, the eight-semester rule is better. Certainly it covers the points aimed at in my idea.

"The standardization of high school football in Texas demands that age and service be limited. It is my sincere belief that if coaches will check back over their teams, that several times out of ten they'll find that players who had been with the club for more than four years were more hindering than helpful.

"A football player is like an apple. When an apple is green, it has potentialities of getting ripe; when it's ripe, further handling or age will make it decay.

Transfer Rule Good

"As for the one-year transfer and residence rule, I think it is a good one. Personally, it will make no difference in my work. Some will think I'm selfish in putting my stamp of approval on the rule, but, like the eight-semester rule, it is just another step toward the standardization of the game."

Coach Tyson, showing slightly the effects of a recent illness which was an added inducement to his year's "lay-off" at Waco, but still tall, straight and unbroken; dignified and solemn but friendly and talkative withal, is a favorite at the coaching school with high school and college mentors alike. He comes back to Waco High this fall to take over the Tiger reins after a year's leave of absence, a big part of which time was spent at the home and in the neighborhood of Pop Warner at Palo Alto. He was there during Warner's spring training, and tells many interesting stories about the "grand old man" and his colorful work.

Not To Change Jobs

When he was granted the leave of absence after "just another year" of football at Waco High in 1930, Tyson laid himself open to comment pertaining to a supposed move, possibly to a university coaching position.

"There was nothing to that. I needed a rest. My health required it and it had been my ambition for a long time to spend a year with a good coach. I am not at present considering a move, however, if the opportunity to coach a college team presented itself, I would consider it with more or less avid interest.

"Of my 1932 team at Waco High, I would say that it has winning potentialities, there will be strong competition in the district from Corsicana, Temple and Cleburne, and it will be tough going. I am hopeful, however, of coaching a winning team this fall."

Talks On Rules

—Ray Morrison, above, head coach at S.M.U., is here today to lecture to the coaches assembled at the Tech coaching school on the subject of the new football rules. Morrison's lecture starts at 9 o'clock this morning.

Olympic Trial Heats To Open In West Today

Stanford Stadium Scene Of Anticipated Hectic Rivalry Between The Nation's Best Sprinters Today

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

PALO ALTO, Cal., July 14. — Although well "seeded" in the draw today for heats, favorites in the battle for places on the American Olympic track and field team face a sharp fight to survive the preliminaries tomorrow.

In this assembly of the nation's athletic great and near-great, most of the fields are so strong and well-matched the experts anticipate a flock of upsets as well as record-smashing performances, before the final tests of speed, skill and brawn have decided the best three performers and, automatically, the shield-wearers in each event.

There will be trials tomorrow in 13 of the 18 olympic events, leading up to the finals Saturday at Stanford's stadium. These, with three non-olympic contests in the low hurdles, weight throw and three-mile walk, also will make up the national senior A. A. U. track and field championship program for 1932.

The New York Athletic Club's collection of super-stars, headed by Gene Venzke, George Spitz, Leo Sexton, the Lermond brothers and Percy Beard, appears certain to romp off with the national team title, despite strong West Coast opposition. The A. A. U. affair, however, is strictly a side-show to the main Olympic circus.

Among the sprint aces, although Emmett Toppino, Frank Wykoff and Ralph Metcalfe have been "seeded" in separate heats of the 100-meter trials, there will be only six survivors by the time the semi-finals for this classic are concluded later in the afternoon. If, as is generally expected, Eddie Tolan, Wykoff, Metcalfe and George Simpson come through the 100 safely, all they will have to do then will be to run one 200-meter test each.

In the 400-meter aces, Ben Eastman of Stanford and his intercollegiate conqueror, Bill Carr of Pennsylvania, are "seeded" in separate trial heats and cannot meet before Saturday.

Slemp Pays Visit To GOP Nominee

WASHINGTON, July 4. (AP) — Leaving the White House this afternoon, C. Bascom Slemp—former secretary to President Coolidge — said he had advised President Hoover to take an "unequivocal stand" on prohibition in his forthcoming speech accepting renomination.

Slemp said he suggested that the president declare approval of an amendment to replace the eighteenth amendment.

Although Slemp declined to give Mr. Hoover's reaction, he said he believed Mr. Hoover would follow this line.

Slemp, who is on the committee which notified the president formally of his renomination, said the chief executive had told him the ceremonies would be held early in August, certainly before the middle of the month. Slemp quoted the president as saying the acceptance speech would be delivered in Washington. The south portico of the White House has been suggested.

He's Too Optimistic!

WHILE few Texans doubt that Mrs. Miriam Amanda Ferguson will receive a thumping big vote on July 23—in all probabilities enough ballots to send her into the run-off election—few will take seriously the claims of her husband that "my wife will win in the first primary." Knowing Jim Ferguson as we do, we feel that his claims are being made to catch a few extra ballots—those of citizens who would vote for anything or anybody to "ride a winnin' hoss".

Mr. Ferguson is also a bit off base, we think, in opining that "my wife may get a half million votes. Don't be surprised if she does." We do not believe she'll get many more votes on July 23 than she got in the first primary of two years ago when she led the gubernatorial ticket. We say that fully remindful of the fact that the third candidate in the present race can hardly hope to get as many votes as were accorded the third candidate in 1930.

Forecasting Texas elections is always a hazardous business and this year, with the average voter "sawing wood" and keeping his political business to himself, it is even more hazardous than usual. "Farmer Jim", who is wise in the way of campaigns, realizes this fact fully and his early claims of victory in the first election must be taken with considerably more than one grain of salt.

A GREAT FORTUNE FAILS

The tragic story of the death of young Smith Reynolds can, if we'll only permit it, serve as an object lesson to many of us to whom money has become the last goal. It proves, more than any recent case, that a person may hold right to a major fortune yet at the same time fail in the human search for happiness and contentment.

Most of us are prone to believe that if we had millions of dollars the world would be an "open sesame". But the youthful heir to tobacco millions apparently discovered, too late, that money isn't everything. Whether he died by his own hand or at the hands of another, testimony offered in the investigating trial disclosed that Reynolds was unhappy—much more unhappy than many a youth of his age who has no money at all and little hopes of ever having very much.

There are still some fundamentals of human existence that repulse the assaults of a money-mad age.

There is still more to living happily than the mere fact that an individual has enough money to purchase an empire.

Young Reynolds found that out too late. When he relied entirely upon his bank balance to bring him happiness he overlooked the fact that life makes demands upon us all—rich and poor alike.

LABOR STRIKES OUT

Decision of the American Federation of Labor to rid its ranks of racketeering and an accompanying investigation of lawless activities by President William Green comes as welcome news to Americans at the present time. It is no secret that certain of the metropolitan unions have been used as a cloak for thugs, who lined their own purses at the expense of honest workingmen, and that the time for a clean-up has long since arrived.

The American Federation of Labor has performed a patriotic duty in standing as the front line defense against the advance of communism during the past few years. In times fraught with economic difficulties the American artisan has refused to permit his sensibilities to be dislodged by agitators who sought to use him only as a tool.

Now the federation is in a position to strike a blow against the racketeers who have used the organization as a smoke screen and it is good to see its leaders prepare for battle.

We hope President Green and his executive council will not rest until they have purged their ranks of all vermin.

The missionary who is trying to make others just like those at home needs a sense of humor.

Woman's place may not be in the home. Some women don't know. They haven't looked there lately.

Has Exalted Opinion

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The congressional atmosphere is filled with speculation as to the reason for Speaker Garner's willingness to exchange his presiding officership of the house of representatives for the vice president's gavel in the senate.

The concensus seems to be that the Texan thinks he can invest the vice presidency with an importance it never has possessed hitherto.

John Garner

If so, it is understandable that an ambitious statesman should prefer the post of White House understudy to the speakership, on the off chance that the former may land him directly in the executive mansion.

On no other supposition are the associates of the Lone Star lawmaker readily able to account for his acceptance of second place on the Democratic national ticket. His transfer of his voting strength in the Jeffersonian convention to Governor Roosevelt is regarded by them as explicable enough, as a sacrifice of his possibilities of personal advantage in the interests of party solidarity, but they do not see that it was essential for him to relinquish the speakership also—as he must do in the event of a Democratic victory next November—for a traditionally far less influential post, unless he believes he can give it a rating at least comparable with the one he will have to surrender in its favor.

THE SUGGESTION is advanced from some sources, to be sure, that Garner views the vice presidency as a highly honorable and tolerably well paid form of political retirement, which it is assumed that he perhaps welcomes with advancing years, and expects to enjoy—not unmindful of the executive mansion as a contingency in the background of accident.

This consideration undoubtedly did weigh four years ago and certainly still weighs with Vice President Curtis.

Anyone who confuses Speaker Garner's attitude with Vice President Curtis', however, assuredly fails wholly in his reckoning to allow for the utter dissimilarity between the respective motivations of the Texas veteran and the likable old Indian from the Kaw country.

Curtis, in the first place, is 72; Garner not yet 63, and temperamentally as far from the instinct of retirement as the average man 20 years his junior—in fact, he omits to mention the date of his birth from his autobiographical sketch of himself in the Congressional Directory, due to an actual disinclination to admit how old he is.

THE TEXAN, moreover, quite frankly loves power. Probably Curtis also has liked it, but not as Garner unmistakably does.

The Kansan, odd as it may appear, is inordinately fond of "society"—as was sufficiently proved by the whole-heartedness with which he shared in the prolonged fight waged between his half-sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann, the head of his household, and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, during her late husband's last term in the speaker's chair, over the issue of drawing room precedence in the capital.

In his day an exceedingly shrewd politician, the vice president yielded his senate leadership evidently without a pang, to take over the duties of social representative of the administration in his present office.

Politics was a business with him; as he grew old he tired of it.

With Garner it is a passion. For the social whirl he has an indifference amounting to unconcealed contempt. Compelled, as speaker, to dip into it occasionally, his only recourse has been to treat his as-infrequent-as-possible ventures out of an evening in full dress regalia, in the light of a joke on himself—which he makes the best of, but laughs at with the only too obvious air of a man who wishes someone else were its victim.

CURTIS, then, took the vice presidency as he found it, and has made it an end in itself.

Garner, to find it endurable, unquestionably will have to transform it into something suited to his tastes and long training—or, rather, to change it back into what it originally was intended to be, a position second only in political importance to the presidency itself.

Whether or not he can accomplish this, if elected, remains to be demonstrated.

He will not, assuming that the opportunity to make the experiment is accorded to him, be the first incumbent to make the essay. General Dawes, it will be recalled, tried it, and merely elicited guffaws of raucous laughter in response to his attempt to lay down the law to the senate on the day he was inaugurated. Long before his time the same thing was tried in much the same way and with substantially the same result by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, at the beginning of President McKinley's brief and tragic second administration.

DUE ALLOWANCE must be made, however, for the fact that Speaker Garner is perhaps the most adroit politician of his generation, with three decades of congressional experience behind him—a background possessed by neither the late T. R. nor by the not overly tactful Chicago banker.

The Texan, besides, is a man of singular openness of mind. He has decided ideas, but he has likewise an adaptability to which General Dawes at least is a stranger.

Garner generally is spoken of, indeed, as a conservative, but his conservatism by no means is as deep-seated as, for example, the Chicagoan's.

That is to say, it has no basis, like that of some conservatives', upon the influences of early education—if for no other reason than that the Lone Star statesman had practically no education whatever of an academic nature. It has no basis, either, as with still other conservatives, upon personal interests calling for maintenance of the political and economic status quo. Presumably it rests upon a canny caution, an unwillingness to risk readjustments which have not been fully tested—but by no means upon ingrained prejudice or selfish considerations.

The speaker, in brief, is wary of radical changes but can be converted by sound reasoning.

FROM THE STANDPOINT of the schools, he is downright ignorant.

From the standpoint of practical experience, there is not a better informed man in the public life of today.

Naturally exceedingly keen of mind, his odd combination of poverty in book learning and wealth in knowledge of the ways of the world and particularly of government gives a remarkable elasticity to Garner's mental processes. "They are all his own—completely independent.

If he believes he can "manage" the senate, and is given the opportunity to put his belief to the test, the mere circumstances that others have undertaken to do so and failed proves nothing at all in so far as John N. Garner is concerned.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A LITERARY MARVEL:

Joseph Conrad, whose true surname is Korieniowski, was a native of Poland, whence he wandered to Marseilles, France, to enlist as a seaman at the age of 17. Until 1878, when he came to England, English was a tongue totally unknown to him. He was over 21 when his lips uttered the first English word.

But this Polish youth was destined to attain to so masterful a command of matchless English prose as was only rarely attained by a native English author. He published his first novel at the age of 39.

TOMORROW: "THE SHORTEST FIGHT ON RECORD."

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

By Laura Lou Brookman

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CHERRY DIXON, pretty 19-year-old daughter of wealthy parents, falls in love with DAN PHILLIPS, newspaper reporter. She quarrels with her father about Dan, leaves home and, taking advantage of Leap Year, asks Dan to marry her.

They are married and for the first time Cherry finds out what it means to lack money. Her struggles with housework are discouraging. DIXIE SHANNON, movie critic of the News, is friendly with Cherry. She meets handsome MAX PEARSON, who also works on the News.

Cherry receives a letter from her mother enclosing a check for $500. She returns the check because pride will not let her keep it. A young woman who lives in the same apartment building attempts suicide. That evening when Dan arrives he tells Cherry he has something for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII

Dan grinned down at her. "I'll give you three guesses," he announced. "What do you think I have?"

"Is it something for me?" Cherry asked.

"Yes."

"But I haven't the slightest idea!"

"You can guess, can't you?" Dan insisted. "What would think it's likely to be—a Rolls-Royce or the crown jewels of England or—"

A faint cry, plaintive and high-pitched, interrupted him. It came from Dan's coat pocket. It was repeated, this time louder. An unmistakably kittenish "Meow!"

"A kitten! Oh, let me see it!" Cherry cried. "Where did you get it, Dan? Oh, you little darling, you—!"

This last was addressed to the wriggling ball of gray fur that had emerged from Dan's pocket. The kitten, balancing in Dan's two hands, looked about on this new world in which it found itself and emitted another "Meow!"

"Cute, isn't it?" Phillips asked.

Cherry had taken the kitten and was holding it nestled against her shoulder. The warm, soft fur touched her cheek. The girl's eyes were bright as a child's.

"It's adorable!" she told him. "Did you know I've always wanted a kitten? That's another thing I could never have at home. But where did you get it? Can we really keep it?"

"We can if you want to. I stopped at the drug store on the corner for cigarets. There were four of these little fellows there with their mother. One was black and the others were sort of gray striped. I thought this one was the cutest and the man said he'd be glad to give it to us. It's not quite a month old yet."

The kitten seemed eminently contented with its perch on Cherry's shoulder. It was purring now—a miniature sing-song that could barely be heard.

"Do you hear it?" Cherry demanded. "It's singing. Oh, of course we'll keep it! And it was sweet of you to bring it, Dan." She began to laugh. The kitten had raised one velvety paw and with experimental gestures was investigating Cherry's ear.

"Put it down," Dan suggested. "Let's see what it thinks of the place."

Cherry set the kitten on the floor. It was completely gray except for a white line down the center of its forehead, rounding out in a symmetrical arc of white about its nose and mouth. As though aware of their scrutiny the little animal backed slowly away from Cherry and Dan, stopped and gazed up at them.

"Well, I'll be darned!" laughed Dan. "Would you look at the little beggar giving us the once over?"

Cherry was down on her knees beside the kitten again. "I know what I'm going to call it," she announced. "Did you ever see anything so pink as that nose? I'm going to call it 'Pinky'."

"That's a swell name for a gray cat!"

"Why, I think it's a grand name—and anyhow that's what it's going to be."

Their own meal was forgotten in their interest in the new pet. Presently, however, the kitten was left curled up on a pillow on the floor and Cherry and Dan sat down to dinner.

Dan broke a roll and buttered it. "Well," he said, "I had a piece of welcome news today."

"What was it?"

"Your husband, Madam, is the winner of the $5 bonus for the best written news story of the week."

"Oh, Dan, I'm glad!"

"So'm I. That five bucks will help out considerably in our financial status. But that's not all. Two of the fellows who have been owing me for the last six months kicked in with $12 more. I'd forgotten about both of them! Yes, it looks as though we can pay our bills and stay out of debtors' prison after all. My check Saturday will pay the rent for another month and this $17 will carry us over the week."

"It's worked out wonderfully, hasn't it?" Cherry asked. She said it so fervently that the young man across the table looked up.

"I—had some news today too," the girl went on. She told Dan about the check from her mother and about sending it back. When she had finished Dan leaned across the table and took her hand. His eyes were troubled.

"You're sure you wanted to do that?" he asked. "Of course I couldn't have let you spend any of that money for our living expenses or for me but you might have bought something for yourself. Clothes maybe. Or—whatever girls buy."

Cherry laughed. "Of course not, silly. What could I be wanting?

Advanced Classes To Begin Monday

Advanced swimming classes will begin next Monday at City swimming pool, under auspices of City pool and the Avalanche-Journal newspapers, with Eugene Adair, Red Cross instructor, as chief of the teaching staff.

Persons less than 16 years old will be taught every other morning, girls' classes beginning at 10 o'clock and boys' at 11. Adult classes will meet at 7:30 o'clock for women and 8:30 for men.

"In swimming, as in golf, bad form and habits are easily acquired by the self-taught," Mr. Adair said. The advanced course is to teach or improve widely used strokes.

Enrollment in the course may be made either personally or by telephone either at Avalanche-Journal offices or at City pool.

The earth is belted with more than 300,000 miles of submarine cables, over 100,000,000 miles of telephone wires, and 5,000,000 miles of telegraph cables.

LEAP YEAR BRIDE

by Laura Lou BROOKMAN

Oh, Dan, you and I do have so much! We ought to be so thankful—!"

* * *

She told him about Miss Jamieson who had lived on the top floor and was now at the City Hospital. The recital of the story sobered both of theb. For some time after the meal had ended they sat in silence.

All at once Cherry cried out, "It's the kitten! It must be hungry!".

Little Pinky's front paws pressing against her ankle had startled the girl. She filled a saucer with milk but the kitten was not interested. Try as they would they could not make Pinky drink until Dan filled a teaspoon and poured it down the kitten's throat. Pinky coughed, licked the milk from his whiskers and decided to try a gulp for himself.

The kitten's antics kept them amused most of the evening. It chased paper balls attached to a string. It climbed into boxes and out of them and once, when Dan threw down a newspaper, the kitten crawled under it and had what must have been the most exciting adventure of its brief life getting out.

"It's going to be company for me when I'm here alone," Cherry said. "I don't see how I'll ever have a dull moment with that little rascal around."

"You'll probably wish that little rascal was 100 miles away a good many times."

The girl was sure that she would not. The kitten finally went to sleep in her lap and Cherry transferred it to its pillow so gently that it did not awaken.

It had been an eventful day. She and Dan sat in the window seat and looked out on the night. Moonlight streamed over the patch of ground below that by day was nothing more than a weed-grown space where laundry flapped in the breeze. Tonight it might have been a garden. Ugly buildings took on grace from the black shadows. The faint scent of plumb blossoms came from a tree across the alley.

Cherry put up a hand and touched Dan's cheek "We've so much to be thankful for," she whispered.

It was the middle of the next morning and Cherry was frowning over the cookbook when there was a knock at the door. She arose and opened it.

"Oh — good morning!" Cherry said. "Won't you come in?"

Mrs. Moreau, from the floor above, stood in the hall.

"I haven't time to stop," she said. "But I thought you'd like to know Miss Jamieson is going to get well. I've just been talking to the janitor. He said the hospital found she had an aunt in Chicago and they got in touch with her. She's coming—the aunt, I mean — and if she has money enough to do that it probably means she can take care of the girl and see her through."

"I'm so glad!" Cherry said fervently. "And thanks for telling me. I've been thinking about her all morning."

"It's bad business to be sick and alone in a city," Mrs. Moreau said, shaking her head. "Well, I must be getting upstairs—"

Bad business indeed! After she was alone again Cherry got out her purse and examined its contents. There was $2.75 inside.

On impulse she hurriedly changed to street clothes. Pinky, the kitten, was dozing on the window seat as Cherry softly closed the door behind her and went down the stairs.

She boarded a downtown car and rode to Twelfth street. Lawrence's flower shop in the corner of the Wellington Hotel was where Cherry had always bought flowers. She reached the shop and paused before the window display.

Tall, long-stemmed roses and exotic lilies filled three huge vases that stood on black velvet. They were beautiful roses. They must cost a great deal—

Turning, the girl walked down the street. There were other florist shops. She would find one less expensive than Lawrence's. Cherry stamped for half an hour and finally was satisfied. She came to a small shop flaunting price marks all over its windows. "Roses 75 cents." "Lilacs 50 cents a bunch." "Iris 75 cents."

Cherry entered and paid 50 cents for a large bunch of lilacs.

"We don't deliver, Ma'am," the clerk told her. "That's extra. It'll cost 25 cents to have them delivered."

Cherry paid the extra quarter. She wrote Miss Jamieson's name on a white card and the address of the hospital. On a separate card to be enclosed with the flowers she wrote, "Best Wishes from a Friend."

There was less than $2 in her purse (car fare had taken 10 cents) when she left the shop.

"That means we'll have eggs again for dinner," Cherry told herself. "Dan won't mind when he knows why it happened. Wonder whether he'd like 'em fried or in an omelet?"

She was considering this problem and had almost decided to undertake an omelet when she recognized a young man coming toward her. Cherry stopped. There was a stationery store ahead. In another moment she would have entered it but the young man called out her name.

"Well, Cherry!" he exclaimed. "This is certainly luck. Haven't seen you for days!"

"I—I've been shopping," she told him. "It's nice to see you again."

"You don't say that any too convincingly," Max Pearson laughed, "but I've got a test. If you really mean it come and have lunch with me."

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 14. (AP)—Influ-enced mainly by continued good weather, cotton ruled easier today and lost 20 to 21 points in fairly active trading.

The census bureau reported domestic mill consumption during June totaled 320,-782 bales as compared with 332,436 in May this year and 483,901 in June last year. Mill stocks decreased compared with the previous month but were still consid-erably larger than a year ago.

The report was considered bearish and the detailed weather map showed gener-ally high temperatures which traders thought would check the spread of wee-vils. Prices made new lows for the day in the late trading at 5.62 for October and 5.78 for December or 24 to 25 points below the early highs. The close was at or near the bottom the two most active months showing net losses for the day of 21 points.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans to-morrow 5 penny points down.

Port receipts 3,348, for week 20,181, for season 9,980,644, last season 8,961,231. Ex-ports 21,400, for week 65,660, for season 8,378,896, last season 8,600,010. Port stock 3,625,823, last year 2,866,899. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galves-ton and Houston 64,182, last year 33,581. Spot sales at southern markets 1,882, last year 1,342.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 14. (AP)—Yesterday's advances were lost in the cotton market today under liquidation and scattered selling promoted by a continuance of fa-vorable weather for boll weevil control in the south and weakness of the wheat mar-ket.

October contracts closed at 5.67, with the general market closing steady at net declines of 20 to 22 points.

July contracts sold off to 5.53 and De-cember to 5.80 and closing quotations were at the lowest of the day on most posi-tions.

The census report placing domestic con-sumption for June at 320,783 bales against 483,901 last year was about as expected. Temperatures were again very high in the south leading to some talk of shedding, but the prevailing view of the weather was evidently favorable with respect to its effect on weevil activity.

Liverpool cables reported covering and trade selling in that market. Exports to-day 24,400 making 8,571,041 to far this season. U. S. port stocks 3,804,955.

discuss for publication."

Can both husband and wife seek independent "futures?"

"It's quite a job, you know," he admitted. "But it depends entirely on the people and their personalities."

Bannister had just completed his shaving and was ready for the bath-tub when he received his interview-er. The clothing he had worn on the flight was strewn about the room on chairs. Six sox-supporters and his gold wristwatch were on the bed; his tortoise-rimmed glasses on the table.

Drink Is Offered

"Have a drink," he invited, before returning to the bathroom.

"I was lost in New Mexico two hours," Bannister explained in a gurgling tone from the bathroom He was using a toothbrush.

"I'm not much of a navigator and unless you are you go up against it in New Mexico. There's nothing to chart your course by.

"Probably I was on the course but when I didn't see any towns, I got fussy. I turned off, hunting for a railroad or a river. That's where I made my mistake.

Former Wife Wishes Luck

"Funny thing, about Hobbs. I landed there for gas. It's an oil town, but I couldn't get any avia-tion gas. I took on only enough to make Lubbock."

The biplane had only about five gallons of gas in the tanks when it reached Lubbock. The ship was re-fueled with 28 gallons last night.

The actor left home Tuesday noon. Miss Harding was one of the group to wish him luck on the trip, he explained.

Strangely enough, Bannister was the first to mention his former wife.

"This is my first solo flight across," he explained. "I've made the trip several times in the Bel-lanca. The ship is Miss Harding's now."

Flying Is Tiresome

She flies, too?

"Oh, yeah," in a matter-of-fact voice. "Most everyone flies out there."

For a time the splashing of water was the only sound in the suite. Then, from the bathtub:

"Oh, boy. Ahh, oh boy."

He turned on the shower, ex-plaining:

"After eight hours in one of those damned planes, just sitting there, y'get awfully tired."

Will Sail July 30

Bannister, who sails July 30 for England, planned to hop off from Lubbock airport at about 5 o'clock this morning. He believed last night that he would reach Indianapolis by Friday night.

He does not know how long he will remain in England, "depends on the play, you know.

"Just as soon as you leave Holly-wood, they begin trying to get you back. Had a wire in Tucson from an independent producer; wanted me to come back and make a picture. I told 'em to go to hell."

Bannister was interested in the airports here, and termed the small monoplanes at both ports as "fly-ing bathtubs."

Stocks Make Dignified Withdrawal To Lower Ground Following Flurry

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, July 14. (AP)—After a buying flurry in the first half hour, stocks made a dignified withdrawal to lower ground today.

Obviously, the market was unable to move counter to reactions in wheat, cot-ton and livestock, the commodities whose advance had stimulated them on Wednes-day.

Net losses averaged small. The setback was of minor proportions, on the basis of net changes, although many favorites had been a point higher during the early rise. Transactions again approximated the million share mark, actual turnover being 999,205.

The market's hopes have recently been based mostly on the performance of lead-ing raw materials; but is being pointed out that after three years of deflation it can hardly be expected that commodities will make an abrupt about face and some quarters prefer to wait awhile before de-ciding that a real turn has come. It ap-pears, nevertheless, that a better under-tone in sentiment is developing.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, July 14. (AP)—All future de-liveries of wheat smashed down late to-day, and out did the season's previous bottom price record.

Stop loss selling and general liquida-tion set in, with trade attention focused on warnings dispatched to President Hoo-ver and congressional leaders that a breakdown of commodity market machin-ery was threatened during the heavy crop movement of wheat. The warnings which came from the principal commodity ex-changes of the country, said a grave sit-uation had resulted from "the utterly pro-hibitive tax of 5 cents on each $100 value of future commodity transactions a 400 per cent increase."

Wheat closed shaky at the day's low-est figures, 1 5-8 to 2 cents under yes-terday's finish, corn 3-4 to 1 1-8 down, oats 1-2 to 1 off, and provisions showing 2 cents to 10 cents decline.

deck, — the same old deck from which William Jennings Bryan gave the American people so many 'new deals' and from which he dealt himself so many Democratic nomi-nations for president—the same old deck that contains all the radical phrases — all the language of dis-content—all the futile attempts to capitalize disorder and arouse class prejudices for political purposes. Beware for the governor, Mr. Mc-Adoo, Mr. Hearst and Speaker Gar-ner may have stacked the deck on you.

"Let us contrast the vague ref-erences of Franklin D. Roosevelt to a new deal with the accomplish-ments of President Hoover.

Fought For Standard

"From the very beginning of the depression, the president of the United States continuously has fought for the maintenance of the American standard of living.

"He insisted upon proper tariffs to meet the flood of cheap goods from demoralized Europe. He upheld the rate of wages.

"He inaugurated a program of federal construction to stimulate in-dustry and increase employment. He sponsored a building program by state and local governments and private industry.

Conciliated Groups

"He stopped immigration and ex-ecutive order.

"He conciliated capital and la-bor. He prevented strikes and acrimony between employer and employee that have been the uni-versal accompaniment of all for-mer panics and depressions. He de-feated the dole. He mobilized the public opinion to take care of dis-tress. He directed the farm board to take and hold surplus until bet-ter markets could be obtained. He bolstered up confidence in the fi-nancial world and stopped the on-rush of bank failures by organiz-ing a private bank pool of $500,000,-000.

"He extended a moratorium — which has nothing to do with the cancellation of debts, and prevent-ed the spread of financial panic to the United States.

"The three major policies of the president stand vindicated," he said.

"We have prevented disorders riots and social upheavals. We have cared for the needy."

Farmers Disarmed After Big Battle

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Chi., July 14. (AP)—Federal troops today were rushed to western Chihuahua with orders to disarm all farmers follow-ing a battle at Zapalopan Bustillo, mountain village 50 miles west of here, in which nine civilians and one federal soldier were killed and one soldier was wounded.

The battle, which lasted 25 min-utes, occurred when 60 farmers re-sisted a small detachment of soldiers sent from here to disarm agrarians.

The battle had no political signif-icance, General Antonio Guerrero commander of the northern military zone, said today. He said the order to disarm agrarians was not an out-growth of the recent political up-heaval in Chihuahua during which Col. Roberto Fierro, Mexico's here aviator, was ousted as governor.

"I ordered the agrarians disarmed in line with the general policy of disarming farmers to insure peace," he said.

Directors Of Empire Meet

Imperial Economic Conference To Open At Ottawa On July 21; Great Britain Seeking New Income Sources

By O. L. MORRISON
Associated Press Cable Editor

NEW YORK, July 14. (AP) — The imperial economic conference which opens at Ottawa July 21 is really a meeting of the board of directors of the British empire.

Things have changed since the days before the war and, like every other large corporation, the empire must seek new sources of income and new markets for its goods.

Once Open Mart

In the old days the mother coun-try could count on a large income from loans made abroad. She sold her goods where she could and bought where the price was best. The dominions also bought in the open market and sold wherever they could find a buyer.

But now England is paying in-stead of collecting. It is harder to find a market for goods. The do-minions have shown a tendency to assert a larger measure of inde-pendence. They, too, are having their troubles in keeping out of the red.

Make Big Deal

So Great Britain is going to Ot-tawa in the hope of making a busi-ness deal with Canada, oldest of the dominions; South Africa, Australia, New Zealand and Newfoundlands. India, hoping to learn something to her advantage, will be represented although she is not yet of dominion status. The Irish Free State also will attend.

The most important thing which came out of the last imperial con-ference, at London in 1930, was the statute of Westminster, an act of parliament which renounced for-ever the right of the mother country to veto or override legislation of the dominions. It severed almost the last formal bond which bound the dominions to Great Britain, leaving only the oath of allegiance to the king. Now the free state wants to abolish that, in its pres-ent form.

For many years 70 per cent of the imports into the British isles have come from countries outside the British empire. If the dominions will buy more from the mother country, England can return the fa-vor by taking a greater part of her imports from the dominions.

The idea is for Great Britain to give the dominions, and to receive from them, either low tariffs or no tariffs at all, but that is not so easy as it sounds.

At this conference Great Britain will be in a position which she never has occupied before. She is a tariff country now, having aban-doned the traditional free trade policy in a heroic effort to straighten out the financial condi-tion at home.

TAXI DRIVER REFORMS FARE

Robbed by a passenger at the out-skirts of Madrid, Spain, a taxi driv-er so convinced the robber that he was doing wrong that he got his money back, and also was present-ed a revolver as a gift. According to the testimony in court the fare pointed the revolver at the driver and demanded his money. The taxi man complied by giving $1.24, all he had. He then persuaded the holdup to return half. Later in the day the driver saw the man, invited him to ride, and gave him a heart-to-heart talk on the evil of stealing from those who worked hard for a living. The man apologized, said he was "hard up," but returned the other 60 cents. "Take my gun too," he begged. In the interval between the rides the taximan had reported the holdup to the police. The culp-rit was arrested, but the driver's story freed him.

LEAVES MANY BUTTERFLIES

James John Joicey, who died re-cently at Witlet, England, left 1,-500,000 butterflies. It is the second largest private collection in the world and was valued at $250,000. It is expected to go to a national museum. In accordance with Joicey's reported desire. Included is one of the only two known speci-mens of the butterfly Charaxes Fournierae. This is the most valu-able insect in the collection, and was acquired by Joicey in the Con-go Forest a year ago. Joicey, ac-cording to a statement in court some years ago, was unable to live on $100,000 a year, but he spent about $50,000 annually in butterfly collecting.

Man Held For Club Robbery

Marvin Wells Faces Charges At San Antonio; Officials At Houston Seek Prisoner For Bank Job

SAN ANTONIO, July 14 (AP)—Marvin Wells, alias Slim, was remanded to the county jail without bond today on a charge of robbery by assault in connection with the holdup of the Southern Club last Thursday night.

Detective Lieut. George Peyton of Houston was at the court house immediately after Wells waived preliminary hearing making an effort to get custody of Wells whom he wanted to take to Houston in connection with the Harrisburg National bank robbery there.

Officers refused to give him custody of the man, however. Louis Schlesinger, attorney for Wells, said he would not seek a writ of habeas corpus for his client's release at this time.

Earl Ramsey, proprietor of the Southern Club, reported that 20 patrons were held up by three masked robbers and locked in a wash room after the robbery. He said $3,000 was taken from a club safe. Two other men also were charged with robbery by assault in the same complaint connected with the Southern Club robbery, but they have not been arrested.

The complaint charges the men with assault on Ray Thompson, Otho Walker, Al Bliss and Earl Ramsey.

Lieut. Peyton left for Houston shortly before noon leaving a warrant for Wells' arrest with Sheriff Hauser. The sheriff said that the warrant would be served on Wells if he should be granted bond at a habeas corpus hearing and that the defendant would be held on the Houston charge of robbery by assault with fire arms which was filed Monday in connection with the Harrisburg National bank robbery. Wells was arrested here yesterday by Sheriff Hauser and two deputies.

Battle For Life Lost By Officer

NEW YORK, July 14 (AP)—Jack Kennedy of the Nassau county police, who submitted to thirteen operations to fight off paralysis which resulted from a bullet wound he received in 1928, has lost his long fight for life.

On April 29, when he went to the operating table for the thirteenth time, doctors warned him he had a 1,000 to one chance for recovery.

He took the chance because, he had to think of his wife and little boy, believing the pension of $1600 he was to receive would not be sufficient for their support. Apparently winning the gamble he was removed to his home in New Hyde park and was planning to be out on crutches within a few weeks. Last night he died.

Kennedy was shot from ambush near Woodmere, N. Y., as he approached a car parked on a thicket without lights. The bullet pierced his spine.

Dallas Officials May Face Ouster

DALLAS, July 14. (AP)— Removal from office of County Judge Fred H. Alexander and Commissioners G. W. Ledbetter, J. W. Gill, W. C. Lemmon and Charles A. Tosch was asked in five separate civil ouster suits presented to the district clerk for filing this afternoon by the 12 citizens comprising the special grand jury which has been investigating the administration of Dallas county's affairs.

The suits were presented by the 12 men as taxpaying citizens and not in their capacity as grand jurors. Their action was taken after several weeks of investigation. As grand jurors they found themselves in a quandary as to what course to follow, principally on account of the Texas libel laws bearing on criticism of public officials.

Allegations set out in the petition for removal were based primarily on facts which were disclosed to the jurors in their investigation of the respondents activities as public officials. The suits specified numerous acts of the commissioners and the judge.
