NOPE! PERRYTON IS THE BIGGEST "CRANK" TOWN

We are going to take issue with Editor Paden of the Shattuck paper, who claims that Shattuck is the biggest "Crank" town in the country. We claim that the signal honor (?) belongs to Perryton. Guess Paden just didn't know that we're just naturally a bigger town than Shattuck or that our telephone system is so antiquated that we still use the old crank telephone. Yep! Brother Paden, Perryton joins right in with Shattuck in the ranks of the "Out-of-daters". Behind the timers, and admits that we lack a whole lot of having self starters on these talking boxes of ours. Wouldn't be surprised but what that we have another thing in common and that is that we've been promised a central energy plant next year.

Big Airplane Coming

Tri-Motored Ford Plane of Kenyon Transportation Co. Here Sunday, April Sixth

J. M. Kenyon, general manager of the Kenyon Transportation Co., was in Perryton Tuesday making arrangements for his big tri-motored sixteen passenger Ford plane to come here next Sunday, April 7, for one day only. This is the big plane that so many local people rode in last April, when it was here under the auspices of the Johnson Motor Co.

This gigantic plane, which is the largest manufactured in the United States, is flown by Thunder Johnson, one of the world's most renowned pilots. Johnson holds the world's record for endurance in mileage and holds second place in number of hours in the air on an endurance flight. He made these records last year in an endurance record flight at Minneapolis.

The big plane will carry passengers while here, making a fifteen to eighteen mile air tour. Short trips can be made by special parties also.

Poultry Expert Busy

Many Avail Themselves of Expert Advice of R. B. Galloway, Panhandle Lumber Co.

R. B. Galloway, of the poultry extension department of the Panhandle Lumber Company is being kept busy with interested poultry breeders of the Perryton country. He finds more and better poultry here than ever before, and that folks are more interested in improving their flocks.

Two new hatcheries that were established in Perryton during the past winter are aiding in the development of the poultry industry here, but of course, increasing the industry means an increase in the problems of breeding, housing, etc., hence the work of Galloway is more in demand than ever before.

Miss Bessie Lee Jackson who has been visiting relatives and friends in Perryton for the past two weeks, returned Saturday to her home at Dodsonville, Texas.

FREE! FREE! FREE! TRASH
CANS AT ONLY $96.00 EACH

Another high powered advertising promoter is in Perryton. This time, they are actually giving us something free, with the usual strings attached to the offer. Their proposition is this: they entered into contract with the City of Perryton to furnish free of charge eight trash cans to be placed at convenient points in the business district, where waste paper, etc., could be placed and then collected by the city garbage wagon. All this is very fine. We need the trash containers and need them badly. Now comes the string. Their proposition is to sell advertising space on the sides of the containers for a period of two years at the rate of $2.00 per month for each side of the containers. Figure it out for himself. One side of the containers will bring the out-of-town promoter, $24.00 for one year or $48.00 for two years. The four sides of the container will net $96.00 for one year or $192.00 for two years. The eight containers will bring in $768.00 for one year or $1536.00 for two years. Rather expensive trash containers for our business men, after all, is it not? The proposition was submitted to the advertising committee of the Chamber of Commerce and was promptly rejected by them without their endorsement, in fact the Chamber of Commerce mailed cards to all business houses, stating that they considered the cost entirely too high, for the benefits to be derived from the advertising. It is the opinion of the Chamber of Commerce advertising committee that these containers can be furnished by local hardware dealers and painted by local sign painters at a saving of many dollars to the business men of Perryton.

H. M. HOOD FOR
DIST. ATTORNEY

COUNTY JUDGE OF HUTCHINSON ANNOUNCES FOR NOMINATION AS DISTRICT ATTORNEY OF SIXTH

H. M. Hood, county judge of Hutchinson county, has tossed his hat into the ring as a candidate for nomination to the office of District Attorney of the 84th Judicial District, subject to action of the voters in the Democratic primary to be held next July. Judge Hood is very popular in Hutchinson county and has made an outstanding record as a county official. His administration has never been under fire, and he has given a great amount of time to straightening out the financial chaos which developed under previous officials during the boom oil days.

Judge Hood is a young man, only thirty-three years of age. He is a native of Mississippi and is a graduate of the law department of the state university of Mississippi. He came to Hutchinson county in 1926 from Oberlin, Kansas, where he lived for several years after graduating from college. Judge Hood is well known to many Perryton citizens for he has been very active in promoting the hard surfacing of State Highway No. 117, running northeast from Stinnett to Spearman and Perryton.

Judge Hood makes the following announcement concerning his candidacy for the office:

"If elected to this office, I expect to give my entire time and attention to the prosecution of the violation of the criminal laws of the state. I have been an official in Hutchinson county since June of 1927 and during this time I have had filed before me as a Justice of the Peace, Magistrate and County Judge, between two and three thousand criminal cases, involving practically every violation of law known to the criminal statutes of Texas, which have brought me in close touch with the work of the District Court of Hutchinson county and the Grand Jurors, and the application and administration of criminal law. I have also had occasion to work with and observe practically every character of peace officer in the performance of their duties in connection with law enforcement.

"I feel that this experience gives me a fair background of the duties of the District Attorney's office, and a realization of the responsibility that goes with this office. I believe that laws should be fearlessly, vigorously and fairly enforced without delay and to this end, I shall dedicate my time, energy and ability if elected as District Attorney of the 84th Judicial District.

"I am also in sympathy with a public opinion that demands of officials that they should and must literally and morally obey the laws that they themselves swear to enforce and uphold."

Carter Pens at the Herald office.

Several members of the Perryton Lions club attended the charter night program of the new Higgins Lions club on Thursday night of last week. Over two hundred Lions and their wives were in attendance, representing every club in this section of the Panhandle and a splendid program was given.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Callaway, Mrs. J. M. Bull, Mrs. W. B. LaMaster and Mrs. P. H. Sebastian left Wednesday for Childress where they will attend the Panhandle district convention of the Texas Parent-Teachers Association. They will also make a fight to land the 1931 convention for Perryton. Invitations have been sent to the executive committee, asking that they come to Perryton in 1931, from B. B. Kent, president of the Perryton Chamber of Commerce, from Mayor C. E. Forbes, from W. B. LaMaster, president of the Perryton Lions Club, from the ministers of the town and from the American Legion.

The next meeting will be chosen by the executive committee composed of the president and the eight vice-presidents. Perryton is very fortunate in having two of the district vice-presidents for citizens, Mrs. J. M. Bull and Mrs. W. B. LaMaster. It is understood that the president, Mrs. J. M. Crain, is also very friendly toward Perryton as the next convention city. Over forty Panhandle counties are in this district and it attracts from two hundred and fifty to three hundred delegates.

Fine Church Building

Baptists Will Have One of Finest in Panhandle When New Home is Completed

Construction work is at a standstill at present on the beautiful new church which Contractor Clyde Cofer is building for the Baptist people, on account of a tie-up in the delivery of structural steel. The steel has been shipped and its arrival is expected every day. This church, when completed, will be one of the outstanding church homes of the entire Panhandle area.

The basement was completed about a year ago at a cost of $10,000 and since that time has been used for holding church services and Sunday School. The building faces the west with entrances on both the west and south. The seating capacity of the main auditorium is approximately 500. Sunday school rooms, about thirty in all, will be in the basement. On the main floor, is the auditorium, two class rooms, baptistry and pastor's study. The auditorium ceiling will be of celotex. The estimated cost of the work now under construction is $17,000, exclusive of seating and other fixtures. This brings the total cost of the building to almost $30,000. June 1 has been set as date for completion.

WATER MAIN EXTENSIONS WILL REDUCE INSURANCE

Work has already started on the water mains extension program in Perryton. A part of the pipe has been unloaded, two cars are in transit here and more is to come in. The plans call for the laying of 8,500 feet of four and six inch mains, mostly in the residence district and when the project is completed, Perryton will be eligible for a seven cent reduction on the key rate for fire insurance, bringing the key rate well under forty cents and placing this city among cities of the first class. It will mean a big saving on all insurance written in Perryton.

PERRYTON GETS FIRE RECORD SIXTH IN NATION

Perryton tied for sixth place in the National Fire Waste contest which was conducted by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, for Class Six representing towns under 20,000 population, according to a wire received from William Butterworth, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. This place won second place in 1928 and had a better fire record for 1929, but competition was keener than ever before.

Wheat Prospects Good

Apparent Heavy Yield and Large Increase in Acreage Will Make County Leader

Prospects for a big wheat crop in the Perryton country are exceptionally bright, and with the increased acreage it looks as though Ochiltree will again be the leading county of Texas in the total production of wheat for 1930. This county produced between five and six million bushels of wheat in 1929, and there is at least 50,000 more acres in wheat than was sown last year, due to the sod land that was put in. Perryton will have two new elevators, with an added storage capacity of 60,000 bushels, to help handle the big crop. Business here has been good all through the winter and should increase as the wheat harvest season approaches.

Three Aldermen Elected

Stump, Richardson and Bryan Returned to Office With no Opposing Candidates

The city election held Tuesday was the quietest in the history of the town and a very light vote was cast. Jno. N. Stump, J. W. Richardson and W. C. Bryan, all at the present, members of the city council, were returned to office with no opposition, not a single vote being cast for any other candidate.

These were the only four offices to be filled at this time. Mayo, C. E. Forbes, City Clerk J. C. Beever, and Aldermen M. R. Coffee and Clyde Cofer, have another year to serve.

MOVING FRAME
STRUCTURES

THREE MORE FRAME BUILDINGS DISAPPEAR FROM MAIN STREET IN PAST WEEK

This week will see the disappearance of three more frame buildings from the Main street business section, all of them to be replaced by modern new fireproof structures.

The Rifenberg building that was damaged by fire last January was moved last week end and is to be replaced by a new brick building in the very near future. This old frame building was built twenty years ago and served as Ochiltree's first pool hall. It was one of the first buildings that was moved to Perryton when the new townsite opened.

The old Meade building just south of the Plainview Hardware & Furniture company which was purchased by that firm recently is now being moved and will be replaced with a new two story modern building with a full basement, work to start immediately and rushed to completion, the first unit of the Plainview's ambitious building program.

The Stansberry Electric & Hardware company that was occupying the north part of this structure has moved to the building occupied by the Perryton Recreation club. Crisp Jewelry Shoppe is taking the south front part of this building with Stansberry.

Work was started this week on breaking ground for the new Lamaster building under construction just south of the Browning Hardware. The three new store buildings being constructed by T. W. Johnson and W. B. Irvin just north of Purcell's Store are nearing completion and will soon be ready for occupancy. The new John N. GOLDENROD

Goldenrod is a beautiful flower and a pestilent weed. It grows all over the country and so comes as near as any to being our national flower. Modern medical science says it is not goldenrod but ragweed which causes hay fever. If Henry Ford's experimental goldenrod farm in Georgia succeeds in commercializing Edison's discovery that goldenrod contains rubber, we may see goldenrod farming becoming as widespread as wheat farming is today that is not impossible, though hardly probable. Yet every crop the farmer grows was once a weed and has been made into a crop by somebody's discovery that it is useful to humanity.

BUILDING

Plans already developed for new buildings to be constructed in 1930 call for an expenditure of nearly double that of 1929. And this does not include private residences. States and municipalities have raised more funds by bond issues in the past three months than in any similar period, and the proceeds of those sales will be used for new roads, public buildings and other improvements. Every thing points to a greater volume of construction work under way in the near future than we have seen since the first year or two following the war. And that means employment for everybody, money freely in circulation again, renewed prosperity for all sorts and conditions of men.

ARLINGTON

The great National Cemetery in Virginia, across the Potomac River from Washington, where William Howard Taft, President and Chief Justice, was laid to rest, is one of the most beautiful spots in America. It was the estate of Robert E. Lee, and was confiscated by the Federal Government when Lee threw in his lot with the Confederacy. Only men who have served their country in war may be buried there.

From the Lincoln Memorial in Washington the great new bridge over the Potomac leads directly to this ancient home of the Lees, tying the memory of the great Civil War leaders together and bridging the gap between North and South with a final gesture of reconciliation.

Arlington is to America what Westminster Abbey is to England, the burial place and shrine of our devoted dead. No one has truly seen America who has not seen Arlington.

BRITISH

Thirty years ago, in 1900, the Boers of South Africa gave up their unequal war against the British. American sympathy was completely with the Boers in that conflict and against the British. It looked to all of us like a parallel to our own Revolution. We expected reprisals and oppression of the conquered on the part of the British, but on the contrary the new government set up in South Africa proved to be for more liberal than the old one which the Dutch Boers had operated. The U. S. A.—meaning in this case the Union of South Africa—is today an independent nation, a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, to be sure, but in every respect a self-governing state. Dutch and British participate on even terms in its government, as do the French and British in Canada. General Smuts, greatest of the Boer war leaders, has served as Prime Minister.

This object-lesson, proving that the British government of our time is not the tyrannical monster which it seemed to be under George III, has done more than anything else to establish the friendly feeling toward Great Britain which now prevails almost everywhere in America.

TREES

When Admiral Byrd's returning explorers reached New Zealand, the sight which stirred them most deeply was trees. For nearly two years they had not seen a tree. It is difficult for most of us to imagine a world without trees, though in Iceland a hundred generations have lived and died without ever seeing one.

We are cutting down trees faster than we are planting new ones. We do not think of trees as a crop, but as a natural resource to be mined without replacement. The Federal Farm Board's chairman lately made a plea for the restoration of the "woodlot" as an important part of every farm. Trees as a crop do pay. They take longer from seed to market than any other crop, but every sound tree adds its little to the value of any farm, and with the inevitable reduction in acreage devoted to money crops and pastureage there is no better use to which surplus land can be put than growing trees for the future. Moreover, many states now exempt reforested land from taxation.

Here, Too

I'm for the man who sells balloons. The kind the little kiddies buy. All day he tramps the dusty street. Beneath a hot and cloudless sky. But for him at night are dreams so sweet. And through the dream-streets, vague and dim, Come little baby faces—and They smile and coo at him.

If we are not mistaken, old Jake Messimore wrote that little "balloon man" poem. And old Jake surely lived up to his name, because he could mess more stuff than any man we ever heard of. He worked in a pie factory.

Can You Beat It?

Instead of hanging your carpets on a clothesline and beating them, why not spread them over a bed spring that has been laid out in the yard? In this way (which is easier) you can do a better job.

An umpire is no jeweler but he is a high authority on diamonds.

Did you ever try reopening the door, then closing it gently after you had slammed it in an explosion of anger?

WHY "OLD GARDENER" FERTILIZER GIVES THE BEST RESULTS

Old Gardener contains just the right amount of plant food elements in proper proportions to give plants a quick, vigorous start and hasten maturity. While it acts quickly, it is of lasting benefit. Read what Mr. Alex Laurie, Floriculturist of Michigan State College, one of America's foremost agricultural colleges says: "Comparative tests on Old Gardener show that the results are very satisfactory. It is a safe material to use and almost 'foolproof' providing that directions for its use are followed." Comes in five sizes, each bag with full directions: 5-lb.; 10-lb.; 25-lb.; 50-lb., and 100-lb. Bags ready to use.

DO YOU NEED A GOOD LAWNMOWER?

You take pride in a pretty lawn. A smooth cut is the finishing touch to the attractive lawn.

The CLARINDA line of mowers illustrated in this letter carry new and attractive features that make it easier for you to mow your lawn and give it a smoother appearance. CLARINDA mowers are easier to push and they have quality construction throughout. They are built to give years of service.

If you have had experience in adjusting the older type mowers with two set screws on either side you will appreciate the ease and convenience of the CLARINDA adjustment with only one set screw on either side. You turn the reel while you adjust the blades. Keeping your mower in adjustment means that it pushes easier and it cuts more smoothly.

Best of all about the CLARINDA mowers, they are priced low in comparison with their high quality. An easier adjustment, tool tempered blades, a raised lip on the lower cutting bar blade, re-inforced reel construction, easily adjustable bearings, two cross bars and expert workmanship throughout assure you of the highest quality obtainable at attractive prices. Just look at these prices! JAC, $14.75; BLUE BIRD, $13.75; RACER, $11.75; LITTLE DAISY, $9.75.

Call and look over these mowers. We will be glad to show them to you regardless of whether you are ready to buy. Here are mowers that we recommend to you and that we stand behind with a guarantee that they will give satisfactory service. Just drop in any day and say, "I want a mower" and we can show you the latest and best.

So long, see you next week.

State Treasurer Hatcher Announces for Governor

San Antonio, Texas, March 31.—A six-page platform, containing six planks, outlining the principles and measures advocated by him in campaign for nomination as the official candidate for Governor, has been given to the press by Gregory Hatcher, who is now in his third term as State Treasurer. Hatcher begins his platform with the following statement: "I am a rule of my life to be at right in the frontline trenches, ready to die for the principles of the life of a God-loving man, and attested by the seal of God-fearing father, has guided me up to this hour, in life, in business and in politics. Since entering the arena of public life, January 18th, 1923, as Treasurer of the State of Texas, I have been the rule and guide for all I have done, and while the rule of that rule has inspired me by some state officials, and by many small politicians, I have continued to guide every act of my administration." Hatcher's platform is as follows:

1. Honesty, efficiency and economy in government. Says that he will be first consideration of voters in choosing Governor.

2. Letting all Democrats, who make the statutory pledge to support the nominees of the party, vote and have their names on the ticket, if they desire to run, without respect to how voted in the last general election.

3. Reduction in taxes by abolishing useless jobs, boards and commissions. Says more of these created in the past three years than in fifty years previous and that abolishing the useless ones and cutting out extravaganzas will save $10 million dollars biennially in state government.

4. Cuts all schemes for increasing taxes and those intended to tax the tax burdens to the backs of poor people and exempt corporations and individuals having real estate holdings, especially in the big cities from taxation.

5. Proposes 350 Million Dollar State Bond issue. Says pay-as-you-go plan of building roads, out of tax, is best and quickest plan will save six million dollars a year in interest.

6. Measures to prevent murder. Says it is a leading crime in Texas and that nothing has been done to lessen it during the past five years. Suggests nine months in legal procedure which would lessen, if not prevent the crime.

7. Enforcing all prohibition laws. Says he would have every power reposed in the Governor to break up the big bootlegging, especially those engaged in interstate and international bootlegging.

8. Enforcing all anti-trust laws, especially those against chain stores, chain merchandising and oil companies. Says that "business" will soon get all papers and then we will have "government", if unhindered, the people might as well be in prison.

9. Modern prison system, and efficient management of same. Says that two-thirds of prisoners will be engaged in farming and building, and one-third in various forms of manufacturing. Legislation, not the Governor, should choose location on which to build prison factories.

10. Favors electing heads of important state departments, as provided for in the constitution, and says Banking Commissioner and Highway Commissioners should also be elected by the people. Opposes all forms of bureaucracy and autocracy in government and wants the people to rule.

11. Favors limiting of the legislature to one regular 60-day session, as provided for in the constitution, and says no special session should be held except upon the call of the Governor, joined in by majority of Senate and House members; or by three-fourths of Senate and House members, in case of emergency and Governor refuses to issue call. Would limit number of special sessions to one of 30-day length in any calendar year.

12. Favors better public schools, and longer terms for those in rural sections. Says State Teacher Colleges are most important in bringing about improvements in schools and that these colleges, the State University, the A. & M. College, with its branches, and the College of Industrial Arts for Young Women, should all receive liberal support.

13. Favors increasing pensions paid to Confederate soldiers and Confederate widows. Would render every assistance possible to veterans of the World War, in prosecuting their claims for compensation from the Federal Government. Would make liberal appropriation for all State Eleemosynary Institutions.

14. Favors giving full credit to labor organizations for their splendid work in bringing about better working and living conditions among our people and in reducing working hours for all classes of society. Thinks 5-day working week for laborers, farmers, merchants, bankers and all engaged in useful employment has been hastened by the efforts of labor unions in bringing about shorter working hours.

15. Favors building up the State Agriculture Department to the high standard maintained by the United States Department of Agriculture, so that farmers, cattlemen, dairymen and poultry raisers may be assisted by the State Government, in making their employment more profitable. Hatcher concludes his platform with this statement:

"If I have served you well as State Treasurer, I should be able to serve you even better as Governor. Here is the record I have made during the past five years, which speaks for itself. On February 25th, 1925, 40 days after I assumed the duties of Treasurer, the State went on a cash basis and from that day to this has remained on a cash basis and every warrant has been paid when presented without discount. Several hundred thousand dollars have been saved the State of Texas during this period of time, because those selling to the different State Institutions and Departments, realizing that they would receive a warrant in payment for their merchandise that could be cashed without discount,

Found a New Planet
Clyde Tombaugh, young scientific student at Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Arizona, with the telescope which he made himself and with which he discovered the previously unknown planet which Professor Percival Lowell, before his death fourteen years ago, predicted would be found in the skies. This is the third planet to be discovered in 2000 years, and is farther from the sun than Neptune, found in 1846, or Uranus in 1781.

sold at a lower price. Several million dollars have been saved to the employees of the State Government in Austin and scattered over the State, including the Governor heads of the State Departments, Judges of all our Courts, County Officials, school teachers, heads of colleges and State Institutions and all State employees. The credit of Texas, at home and throughout the United States (wherever these warrants had in previous years been discounted) was re-established, and her good name redeemed. State funds that had previously been deposited in Austin banks, at times amounting to as much as 15 million dollars, were distributed throughout Texas, and the farmers, ranchers and business men in every part of the State assisted by making money more plentiful in their community. Over 4 hundred million dollars have been received by me and a like sum paid out during this period of time, and the trust three times reposed in me by the people has been kept inviolate. If elected Governor I will apply to that office the business principles I have applied to the office of State Treasurer. I will continue to regard "a public office a public trust," and keep my campaign pledges and stay on the job, giving the people of Texas a business administration that will protect and conserve the State's finances, enforce its laws, and promote the welfare and happiness of its people."

SCRUBS EAT THEIR HEADS OFF

"One day at the National Dairy Show, a city-bred chap and his best girl came along to see the exhibit on dairy-herd-improvement-association work. I judged that he was a city-bred chap from some of the remarks he made, and that she was his best girl from some of the remarks they both made.

These young folks became very much interested in one of the pictures that showed some scrub cows pasturing in a beautiful field of clover. The cows were headless and the picture was entitled: "They ate their heads off."

After studying the picture for some time, the young man remarked: "I don't get that. I don't see how cows can eat their heads off." "Oh," replied the young lady, "don't you understand that? It means that they don't produce enough milk to pay for their feed."

"Well," remarked the young man, "that is pretty good, isn't it?" And then they passed on.

When they were gone, one of the department specialists remarked: "That young man had better freeze on to that young lady—he needs her."

Cows that eat their heads off should be fed neither up nor down; they should be put out. A very good way to avoid the danger of a surplus of dairy products in this country is to dispose of low-producing cows."—The Farm Journal.

Keep young chickens away from turkeys and from areas occupied by turkeys if you want to avoid losses by gapes. Turkeys commonly harbor gapeworms even though they show no sign of gapes. Adult chickens are practically immune and do not carry the parasites. Chicks are highly susceptible. The worms are deadly to chicks.

Sheep, poultry, and pigeon manures make excellent fertilizer for the garden. They are very strong however, and should be used sparingly. Pulverized sheep manure is handled commercially by seedsmen and dealers in garden supplies. Sheep, poultry and pigeon manures lose their value rapidly if exposed to the weather. Lime should not be used as an absorbent in the poultry house as it liberates the nitrogen of the poultry manure.

Farnsworth School Party

Entire Community Expresses Pride in School for Winning the County Championship

The Farnsworth spirit of community pride, loyalty and fellowship was notably expressed last Friday when practically every home represented in the school, in fact, about everyone in the community, gathered at the school house with well filled baskets and boxes of good things to eat.

In a few well chosen remarks, C. L. Burns, principal of the Farnsworth school, expressed the sense of pride and appreciation which prompted the parents and patrons to arrange for this happy way of honoring the school that, for the second consecutive time, had won the County Cup. It was also recalled that the school had also won highest awards in basket ball for both boys and girls in the All-County Tournament last winter.

After the big dinner, there were games of tennis and playground ball. Nowhere but at Farnsworth, probably would be seen the fathers, older brothers, uncles and just men friends of the school boys, playing ball on the school playground. The fact that the boys, who had won the championship in the recent County meet, were defeated by the men in the game Friday, will not be surprising when you see the names: L. R. Conner, Merton Smith, Ray Chase, C. L. Burns, Herman Hargrove, John Powell, Dean Conner, E. W. Rogers, George VanArsdale and Albert Dear. With dads like this, what would you expect of the youngsters, but winners?

A happy coincidence was the good fortune of the John Deere Company whose field demonstration on L. R. Conner's place north of the railroad track, had been announced for two weeks to be held on the date later selected for the party at the school house. W. L. McDivitt and Mr. Harlan, with others, were on hand to assist Mr. Conner, the Farnsworth manager, with the demonstration, which was a marked success.

With the school election just a few days off, it is to be hoped that voters over the entire district will demonstrate the same interest in school matters that has so recently been manifest, by turning out with a good vote, carefully selecting those who will be charged with the task of carrying on the excellent work that has given us schools that reflect credit and in which we all take pride.

Any suggestion of radical interference with the school activities that have done so much to build morale, school and community pride such as has been so recently demonstrated, should be properly accredited to those who, unfortunately, have not been able to realize the benefits, not alone to the school itself, but to the whole community. What could be more wholesome and what do we as a whole need more, than to have the activities that serve to unite in prideful fellowship, everyone who has spirit enough to appreciate the truth of that old adage: "All work and no play, makes Jack a dull boy." Let us not be content to be known only as a great wheat producing section (there is too much wheat anyway) but a community of outstanding schools.

Mrs. John Gerber has been quite ill the past week. Medical service was received at the Perryton hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wilson has as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Wilson and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Allen, Mrs. Margaret Evans and daughter, Jim Eng-land and Harvey Wilson Jr.

Conoco Travel Bureau

Continental Oil Co. Offers Free "De Luxe" Travel Service to Motor Tourists

Denver, Col., April 1—(Special)—When the millions of Americans who annually take to the open road for their vacation period begin to make plans for their 1930 motor journeys they will find for the first time a unique free service in connection with their tours offered by the Continental Oil Company.

The service has to do with the planning of motor journeys from any section of the United States into "Conocoland," the great Western domain which is America's vacationland, extending from Canada to the Gulf, and from the Mississippi to the Continental Divide.

The Conoco Travel Bureau is the agency which offers the service. Its main office is in the Continental Building in Denver, and every Conoco service station in the country is a sub-office.

A family desiring to make a motor trip utilizes the service of the bureau by simply writing the Travel Bureau suggesting the places which it is desired to visit. In return, a "Conoco Passport" is received, together with a travel map, on which is marked the best and most convenient route for the projected journey, with full cognizance taken of all road construction, detours, weather conditions and other factors which affect motor travel. Conoco stations throughout the territory make this up-to-the-minute road service possible by constantly reporting to the Travel Bureau such changes as affect motor travel, by mail, wire or telephone.

The Conoco Passport, in addition to the map service, entitles the holder to many other services, such as checking of parcels, forwarding of mail and telegrams, local information and numerous courtesies and services all along the route at all Conoco service stations. Hotel reservations, side trips, hunting and fishing and camping information, and a score of other useful services are proffered, the aim being to take all the worry out of the trip. The service is rendered entirely without cost to any motorist who writes the Travel Bureau and asks for it.

From the hundreds of applications which have already been made by forehanded summer tourists, it seems probable that motor touring will be done on a "de luxe" basis this season by thousands of motorists who will utilize this individualized service instead of starting out on a journey with an out-of-date road map, and finishing up by asking road directions at corner stores or roadside garages.

*AMERICAN LEGION URGES LEGISLATION FOR DISABLED

Washington—Every one of the hundreds of thousands of veterans who have helped strengthen The American Legion this early in 1930, through their enrollment, in the hope that it would show congress the concern of veterans in legislation for the relief of disabled comrades, is vitally interested in the situation over the Johnson bill, now pending.

This bill, which is the House of Representatives' Veterans' Committee Omnibus bill 19,381, was introduced by the chairman, Royal C. Johnson, following the approval by the committee and The American Legion after thorough study and much testimony. It has been declared by O. L. Bodenhamer, national commander, as one of the best pieces of legislation for the disabled that has ever come out of a committee hearing. One provision, alone, would relieve 84,000 disabled cases. The national commander has urged that no further delay be permitted in the passage of this bill. In general, the bill conforms to the legislative program of the Legion, which also meets the approval of veterans in general. It grants important additional benefits, and it cures sundry administrative defects that experience has disclosed. The national commander urges that this legislation be enacted upon its own merits without delay by debate.

The interest and sincerity of the veterans throughout the United States is shown by the continued increase in membership, which up to date has far surpassed any other year in Legion history for early results. During the week ending March 14, alone, more than 16,000 names were added to the list of several hundred thousand already paid up for 1930. This report has been received in Washington to be available for the information of Representatives and Senators.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Hurn Higgins, and Mrs. Claud Hatchett, San Antonio, parents and sister of R. P. Hurn, visited Tuesday with him.

Elmer Stephens and daughters of Roswell, New Mexico, visited Tuesday and Wednesday with his sister, Mrs. H. B. Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Fleck, Booker, were Perryton callers Wednesday.

MEATS TO SERVE
AT CHURCH SUPPER
Recipes for meat dishes to serve at the church supper must be such that they may be cooked without too much trouble; they must be reasonable in cost, and they must be attractive to the taste. Miss Inez S. Willson, home economics specialist, says that the following recipes meet all the requirements.

Meat Loaf (50)
3 pounds beef
4 pounds lean pork
4 pounds veal
1 quart bread crumbs
2 finely minced onions
Slices of salt pork
1 quart milk
8 eggs
4 tablespoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Have meat ground. Mix thoroughly with the other ingredients. Shape in loaves and lay slices of salt pork over the top. Bake for 15 minutes in a moderately hot oven (425 degrees F.); then reduce the heat to very moderate (300 degrees F.) and continue roasting for 1 1/2 to 2 hours. The loaves will cut to better advantage if made in the ordinary size, although they may be longer and two or more of them baked in a dripping pan.

Hungarian Goulash (50)
24 pounds lamb
12 cups onions, cut small
8 cups drippings
Water
4 tablespoons salt

Paprika
Flour
12 lumps of sugar
6 quarts of potatoes, quartered
Have shoulder of lamb boned and cut into 1-inch pieces. Cook the onions slowly in the drippings for 15 minutes, then add the paprika. Put in the meat, salt and sugar and stew slowly until the gravy is well reduced. Brown the meat a little, sprinkle with a little flour and add some water; adding more now and then so that when the meat is done it will be covered with a rich brown sauce which is not thick. Add the potatoes and more water. Cook until the potatoes are done.

New England Dinner (100)
60 pounds corned beef
40 pounds cabbage
10 pounds turnips
10 pounds carrots
5 pounds parsnips
40 pounds potatoes
Wash corned beef well and place in a large kettle with 15 gallons of water. Bring to the boiling point, then simmer for 3 hours. Cut the cabbage into eighths. Peel the vegetables and cut in quarters. Add all except the potatoes. Add the potatoes 30 minutes before serving time. When done, season with a little pepper and serve.

Chop Suey Hash (60)
4 pounds fat bacon, chopped fine
1 gallon onions, chopped fine
10 pounds cooked beef, coarsely ground
10 pounds turnips cooked and chopped
3 cans corn
1 ounce Chili powder
1 gallon soup stock
2 cans tomatoes
Place the bacon in a large bake pan and put in the oven until well rendered; add onions and fry until half done; add other ingredients and bake for one hour.

FOR THOSE WHO LIKE FIGURES
If a nation's consumption of world products were strictly in proportion to her population, the United States would absorb only seven per cent of those products. If production were proportionate to area, we would supply only six per cent of the world's output. How tremendously we deviate from any such procedure is illustrated by some bare figures.
Uncle Sam, representing 7 per cent of the world's population, consumes 42 per cent of the world's iron production, 47 per cent of the copper, 69 per cent of the crude petroleum, 56 per cent of the crude rubber, 36 per cent of the coal, 53 per cent of the silk and upward of 80 per cent of the automobiles.
With six per cent of the world's area, we supply the gigantic mass of universal demand with 39 per cent of its coal, 35 per cent of its hydro-electric power, practically all of its natural gas, 71 per cent of its oil, 80 per cent of its wheat and cotton, 55 per cent of its timber, 38 per cent of its lead and phosphates, and 50 per cent or more of its copper, iron and steel.

Moreover, we have the world's largest favorable trade balance. No wonder other nations feel reticent over our tariff program.

ICE THAT WON'T MELT
The prospect of obtaining ice from desert stretches of the West is no fabulous dream. True, the product is "dry ice" derived from carbon dioxide wells, but it possesses a refrigerating efficiency almost twice that of water ice.
Men prospecting for gas and oil on certain public land areas in Utah and Colorado discovered the carbon dioxide gas. Owners of the permits to prospect sent a representative to the Department of the Interior at Washington to ascertain what protection would be accorded them on their "find," and Secretary Wilbur ruled that all rights were fully covered by the original permits.
This very same carbon dioxide which causes soda water to fizz may be found underground by natural processes and stored in domes and anticlines. A pressure of some 1,100 pounds to the square inch will convert it into a liquid which, if released in a spray, will change into snow. This snow may then be compressed and used as ice.
A queer characteristic of "dry ice" is that it passes directly into gas instead of melting into water as ordinary ice does. It is especially satisfactory for shipments of fresh meats, fish and ice-cream.

Mrs. O. E. Bruner and daughter, Doris, recently returned from Greensburg, Kans., where they have been several weeks visiting with relatives.

DR. CALDWELL'S
• THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.
The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drugstore and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. WORLD WAR VETERAN MUST FILE COMPENSATION CLAIM BEFORE APRIL 6, 1930.

Washington, D. C.—The National Rehabilitation Committee of The American Legion, in a special bulletin to all Department officials of the Legion, calls attention to the fact that April 6, 1930, is the final time limit for filing claims for compensation for disability incurred during World War Service. It is also the final date for the submission of evidence to support claims on disabilities other than nervous and mental diseases, spinal meningitis, active tuberculosis, paralysis agitans, encephalitis lethargica and amoebic dysentery, unless there is an official record of the injury during service or at the time of discharge.

These limitations are provided in the World War Veterans Act as it now stands. The Johnson Bill, sponsored by the Legion, now pending in Congress for amending the World War Veterans Act, provides for striking out these limitations. The passage of this bill at the present session of Congress, however, is not yet a certainty, and the Legion is therefore urging all World War veterans who believe they are entitled to compensation for service connected disabilities to get their claims on file with the United States Veterans' Bureau. Doing so now will protect their rights under existing laws should Congress fail to strike out the limitations now imposed.

Every play they will present here next week is a Broadway success, picked by Art Names, especially to suit his company. The opening play next Monday night is the big New York success, "The Patsy"—called the greatest American comedy-drama. The admission is 35c for adults and 25c for children, but on Monday night only, all children of 12 or under will be admitted FREE at the front door. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BANQUET AT LIBERAL

W. B. LaMaster, R. T. Shindler and C. E. Woods attended the banquet and annual meeting of the Liberal Chamber of Commerce on last Friday evening. They report a very successful affair with many out-of-town guests present. Plans were discussed for entertaining the annual convention of the Great Plains Highway Association in Liberal the latter part of May or the early days of June. A big delegation from Perryton will attend this convention.

When you see a play produced by Art Names' company you are always certain of seeing a play worth while. Art Names is a well-known member of the Kansas Author's club and author of many successful plays such as "That's Where the West Begins," and "Are You a Monkey?" etc. When Art Names' company played Perryton four years ago every play presented here was written by Art Names himself. This season Art Names personally selected to fit his company six famous Broadway plays, plays which were marked successes in New York City. Art Names himself enjoys comedy and so in picking these plays he picked those which were brimming full of laughter and comedy and yet at the same time were really worth while. 10-11-c

TWO BRILLIANT STARS IN FILM

SUE CAROL AND JACK MULHALL IN "THE GOLDEN CALF" MOVIE TONE COMEDY

Two brilliant performers, undoubtedly destined for stardom before this year is ended, are included in the cast of "The Golden Calf," coming next week to the Ellis Theatre, in addition to Sue Carol and Jack Mulhall, who already have scaled the heights in audible pictures.

These players are El Brendel, famous comedian who specializes in Swedish roles, and Marjorie White, vivacious blonde comedienne, recently of the Broadway musical comedy stage.

Brendel scored his first audible picture success in "The Cock Eyed World," following with even greater honors in "Sunny Side Up" and "Hot for Paris." His popularity, following the showing of "The Golden Calf," a Fox Movietone comedy with music, is expected to bring him to the top of the heap in short order.

Miss White's screen debut was made in "Sunny Side Up," in which she pushed Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, the stars, closely for leading honors. She again scored heavily in "Happy Days," her second Fox Movietone production, and in her present production she has the best chance yet.

"South Sea Rose," in play form, was Miss Ulric's choice for her next Manhattan stage role, but Fox Movietone bought the story for a talking picture version. It is an adaptation of "La Gringa," an original stage play by Tom Cushing.

Plays New Talkie Role

Lenore Ulric, Celebrated Belasco Star, Stars in "South Sea Rose" Talkie

Once she attained the heights of stardom behind the footlights, Lenore Ulric, celebrated Belasco star, who comes to the Ellis Theatre next Monday and Tuesday in "South Sea Rose," her second Fox Movietone, determined that no unworthy play would remove her from the top.

While her first notable hit is credited to "Bird of Paradise," each successive vehicle won wider acclaim on Broadway and throughout the nation. During the period her plays were running, Miss Ulric explored every manuscript she could lay her hands on, conferred with scores of playwrights and exercised other energies to insure a fitting successor.

When she concluded a sensational engagement in "Heart of Wetona," Miss Ulric had in mind two other plays she regarded as suitable. One was "Tiger Rose," and the other "The Son Daughter," both of which ran many months in New York. Her most spectacular and notable productions were "Lulu Belle," "The Harem" and "Mima."

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

A Word to the Wise
It was during last summer that a fine little mother told me she might need my services along about Thanksgiving. Such things happen, you know, else this old world would be a mighty lonesome place, now wouldn't it? The point I am making is the engaging of a physician so far ahead of the expected need. I promised the service. My first step, however, was to request her to come to my office at her convenience, that I might look into her health condition closely; one should be fully advised, when he is called to look after the matter of two lives. . . I found her in excellent condition.

I had her come in every four weeks at first; then, as the time approached, every ten days. Imagine my surprise and apprehension when, two weeks before the expected event, I found ten per cent of albumin in my usual test-making! Here was a dilemma—all of which I kept to myself—in which I acted quickly—intelligently; I put her at once on an appropriate diet, and required daily sweet-baths to remove a dropical condition that developed rapidly. Under the very best of care, we came out of it with a fine little girl, and the mother in good condition. Both are now fine and well.

But, suppose this patient had waited to call her physician until the hour for delivery was at hand; I would have been totally ignorant of the kidney-condition, with no time for making intelligent tests; I might have had convulsions to deal with—possible severe hemorrhages, uraemic poison, maybe death for the mother—possibly the child too. Being fully advised however, we came through happily for all concerned.

The moral is: There is no graver mistake, than waiting right up to the hour to call the doctor—in cases like this, where the physician does not know you thoroughly.

DALLAS LADY GLAD TO PRAISE FAMED KONJOLA

Neuritis and Stomach Troubles Seen Banished By Power Of New Medicine

MRS. E. M. FITZGERALD

"I never had the least idea Konjola would help me as it did," said Mrs. E. M. Fitzgerald, 4533 Worth street, Dallas. "My stomach gave me a great deal of pain and trouble. Gas accumulated in my stomach after meals and the pressure against the heart cavity caused that organ to beat wildly. Neuritis attacked my side and my right arm and shoulder. These pains were often so severe that I could not do my housework. I did not sleep at night and became very nervous. Konjola is far bringing me back to health again. My stomach is in excellent shape and I can eat almost anything without distress. The neuritis pains are gone, my sleep is normal once again, and my nervous condition has greatly improved. I shall always recommend Konjola to anyone suffering as I did."

Konjola works with the important functionary organs of the body.

DRESSING UP THE DAILY MEAT DISH

Meat may be dressed up just as attractively as any salad or dessert you can imagine, using the very foods which are on the menu. Choose an accompaniment that will contrast the meat in flavor, texture, and color and you have the requirements for a good garnish, for it will appeal to both the taste and the eye. The accompaniment may be arranged in a very attractive way on the platter with the meat and served with it.

The National Live Stock and Meat Board suggests some accompaniments for meat that are also garnishes:

Beef. With roast beef serve spiced raisins, tomato piccalilli, spiced peaches or pear, canned quinces or spiced kumquats. Horseradish sauce with a pot roast. With boiled drives the poisons from the system and regulates the organs of digestion and elimination. In this way glorious and abundant relief is brought about. It is recommended that Konjola be taken from six to eight weeks for the best results.

Konjola is sold in Perryton, Texas, at the Perryton Drug Company, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

steak serve fried mushrooms, grilled tomatoes, stuffed potatoes. Pork. With roast pork serve currant jelly on fried apple rings, cranberry sauce, or apple sauce or baked apples.

Lamb. With roast lamb serve circles of baked orange topped with mint jelly, canned quinces or kumquats. With lamb chops serve currant jelly on fried rings of pineapple or slices of fried tomato, or apricots or sweet potato puree and sauce bernaise or mint ice.

Ham. With baked ham serve baked pineapple, mustard pickles, baked orange slices, spiced raisins or fruit in jellied syrup. With broiled ham serve scalloped crushed pineapple and glazed carrots.

Veal. With veal chops serve spiced gooseberries, tomato pickles or spiced peaches. With pressed veal serve hard cooked eggs.

Liver. With liver serve bacon curls.

Cold Meats. With cold meats serve canned prunes with ginger or fruit preserves.

Apple Standby
It happens that there are apples in the house than immediate use for. Even a good cold cellar in which apples are stored, it happens that the apples do not keep as well as they should. Moreover, there are a surplus of apples in the house that can be bought for a real bargain or a motor trip in the country may make it possible to buy a bargain in apples. If you have a surplus of apples, you may want to preserve them. Here are some that you can use to you:

Apples and Pineapple
Four pounds of apples and one pound of pineapple. Pare, core the apples, and mix with the skin and eyes. Grate the apples and pineapple. Mix a quarter of sugar and water, stir over the fire until dissolved, add the apples and bring to the boil. Carefully slip in the pineapple and have been previously in water and drained (a few moments). Boil a few minutes.

Apple Jelly
Wash and slice them with the skin and seeds. Put the fruit with water in a large kettle and boil until the apples are soft. Drain them through a cloth. To one pint of juice add one pound of granulated sugar. Seal in jars in a place until wanted. Boil the juice until the point is reached, put in a well-greased mould, and seal.

Apple Preserves
Wash and quarter. Weigh one pound for pound of sugar and apples. To one pound of apples allow a cup of sugar and two lemons. Grate the rind of one lemon and water, add the apples and simmer until tender. Seal in jars in a place until wanted. Boil the juice until the point is reached, put in a well-greased mould, and seal.

Apple Dumplings
Take tart apples, one tea-spoon cinnamon, one tea-spoon nutmeg, one cup of stale bread crumbs. Pare and chop the apples and mix with the crumbs. Add to the crumbs, cinnamon, and nutmeg. Boil the dumplings in a well-greased mould, three hours. Serve with sugar and cream.

HOME TOWN THOUGHTS

Community life is called a partnership. To draw dividends of progress, invest time and effort in home town causes.

Our home town gives most of us our prosperity. Look out how you injure that prosperity by spending money elsewhere.

Backward Neighborhoods

Ambitious folks don't like to live in backward neighborhoods. They get busy, and ash-heaps and piles of litter vanish as the damps of night disappear before the morning sun.

Careless neighbors see the contrast, and it makes them uncomfortable. Before long you also see them agitating rake and spade. They may not alter their habits as the results of argument, but they are moved to action when they see a neighbor outshine them.

Which illustrates the recent remark of the head of the Ohio Building and Loan associations, that "when you put a progressive family on a backward street, you raise the level of living of the whole street." Many of our folks in Perryton would admit that the sight of improvements made by their neighbors had induced them to beautify their own home places.

The Inquiring Mind

The world is full of good talkers, who keep conversation going whether they say anything or not. There are not so many good thinkers, who inquire into the facts about everything. Being scarce, these folks are valuable.

Don't hush up your son on the railroad train, when he asks what those steel rails are for and what that locomotive is doing. The passengers may laugh at his shrill voice and serious face, but he may be a future railroad manager. Boys who seek real knowledge are scarce. Encourage them.

Don't silence your young daughter, when she asks you to define some word you have used. She may be a future college president. Her desire for absolute truth is a trait that lands people in high positions. There are many impressive looking folks who do not know the real facts about anything. They are not much in demand. The quiet person, with an inquiring mind stored with information, is the one who does the big work.

Argatane is a Wonderful Medicine and Has Restored My Husband To Strength and Health. Says Amarillo Woman

"About all that is left of my husband's five years of suffering is the memory of it," said Mrs. J. H. Holston of 305 N. E. Fourth, Amarillo, Texas. Mr. Holston is a butcher.

"My husband would have been a different man today, if he had gotten hold of Argatane five years ago," she continued, "and it would have saved him a world of suffering. He had a chronic case of stomach trouble and nothing he took seemed to help him. He would have frequent attacks of acute indigestion, which would leave him weak and worn out for several hours. He could hardly eat anything without a sour gas forming on his stomach and cause the sharpest kinds of pains all through his chest. He often had dizzy spells and he was very restless and hardly got a real good night's rest. He always had a very sore, tender spot in the pit of his stomach. He would get up in the morning feeling just as tired as when he went to bed."

"We read so much about Argatane in the local papers where it had helped so many people here, he began taking it. We had just taken three bottles, for I have taken it too, for a general condition and find it to be very good in my case. My husband eats anything and everything he wants, without the slightest disagreement whatever. He is feeling better and has more strength than he has for the past four years. We both think Argatane is just a wonderful medicine, and are very thankful that we started using it."

Genuine Argatane may be bought in Perryton at the Shindler Drug Co. 10-11-c.

GUNMAN'S BLUFF

Edgar Wallace
COPYRIGHT BY EDGAR WALLACE

She was stunned, bewildered, she could only shake her head in feeble protest.

"It couldn't have been the same man," she said at last.

"Do you know him—the fellow who was here?" The detective looked at her keenly.

"No, no," she said hastily. "I only thought... it would be such an extraordinary coincidence."

"I've got an idea. Mr. Gorton knows him." The detective shut the door behind her as she walked out of the room. "I heard him telling the sergeant that he might be the fellow who was knifed the night a man named Lewing was killed. If that's the case, he's only been out of the hospital a few days."

She offered the official some money; he refused it with great firmness and escorted her to her taxi. She was reminded by the fare, when she reached her house, that she had been two hours absent.

She was not shocked; it was too tremendous a discovery to produce emotional phenomena of the commonplace kind. She accepted Luke Madison, banker, burglar, hold-up man, companion of questionable ladies, with the calmness of a scientist who had happened upon a new and interesting discovery.

Here was an immense happening. To display anger or humiliation would be absurd. One has no regard for a sense of decency when fleeing from an earthquake and its tumbling walls.

She went to bed; and such is the serenity of a resolute mind that she slept dreamlessly. In the morning while she was sitting at breakfast came Inspector Gorton; she listened calmly to his confession of failure.

"The fellow ran like a hare. He must have been a trained athlete," he said. "I'm pretty sure now that he is the fellow who was knifed in a gang fight in South London. Lewing was killed."

"Who was Lewing?" she asked. Gorton shrugged his broad shoulders.

"Nobody in particular, although he gave his name to a gang. The real leader of that crowd is a gentleman named Danton Morell—though he hasn't taken any very active part."

She had put down her cup. He saw how white her face was.

"Danton Morell? You don't mean Mr. Danton Morell who lives in Half Moon Street?"

Gorton smiled.

"Perhaps I oughtn't to have said that, but I thought Mr. Bird had told you. You know Mr. Bird? I hope you don't know Mr. Morell."

"I know him very well," she said; her voice was steady and she was smiling. "But you may rely on my discretion, Inspector—I feel almost like a Scotland Yard officer myself."

She had her hands folded in her lap so that he could not see how they were trembling.

"He may, of course, have turned over a new leaf," said Gorton, uneasily conscious that he had said the wrong thing. "Some of these fellows do. I know there's been no complaint against him at the Yard for a very long time. Morell isn't his name, of course—I forget what it was, but the Sparrow—I mean Mr. Bird knows. Wonderful fellow, Danton. He can talk the hind leg off a donkey. They say he's the cleverest confidence man that ever operated in Europe. Perhaps he's made enough money to retire."

Danton Morell! How had she come to know him? She tried to trace back the friendship. Of course, it was her brother—her poor brother—who had introduced him. Rex knew so many queer people. She trusted him—she had trusted Danton. She had believed him implicitly, believed him when he told her that Luke had hounded her brother to his death, believed him when he had produced that pitiable note written on two small sheets of notepaper—that at least was genuine, for she knew her brother's writing.

She was viewing a new world, or viewing it from a new angle; and somehow she was able to cope with problems which the day before would have terrified her. Of that new gift she was unconscious—she could only feel the effect.

During the hours which Luke Madison had spent in his prison house, it was curious that he should think so little on serious topics. He was face to face with death in its most hideous aspect—it was impossible to mistake Connor's intention—and yet for the main part his mind was occupied by the veriest trivialities. If he thought of Margaret at all it was only in a detached and impersonal way and to find an explanation for her presence with the police at his flat night.

She must have had the key; the police went to her—but why? Two blocks of rock salt were put on the floor under Luke's legs and with a knife one of the men scooped a deep depression in two of the corners. The other blocks were laid on top. Connor lifted the heavy chain, wound it carefully around and around the salt, fastening the last two links with a piece of wire.

They discussed their grisly work without emotion.

"You want to be careful it doesn't slip over his feet, Harry," said Connor. "Tighten that chain a bit—not too tight or you'll break the salt."

At last it was finished and Connor straightened his back.

"Get that old plank to lay him on," he commanded, and the bigger of the two walked to the door and pulled it open.

Connor saw him start back and his face wrinkle.

"Who's that?" he asked sharply. The man who was in the passage walked into the room at his leisure. Connor saw him and showed his teeth like an angry dog.

"Hello, Gunner! What the hell are you doing around here?"

Gunner Haynes looked from Connor to the unconscious man on the floor.

"Ingenious but not original," he drawled, his thin lips curling in contempt. "You're dropping him in the river, of course, and the water will dissolve the salt, the chains will fall off, and the verdict will be 'Death from misadventure.' What a pity."

"What's the pity, Gunner?" asked Connor.

"That I happened to butt in," said Haynes. "Who's the victim?"

"There's no victim," said Connor loudly. "This poor fellow is ill and we're taking him off to the hospital."

The Gunner nodded.

"I thought you might be picking him," he said, shook his head and repeated: "Ingenious but not original. No marks of violence on the body, nothing to show that he did not drown, as people do drown, by accident. I'm sorry to have spoiled your amusement, but you'll have to let him go."

"Why?" asked Connor.

"Because," said the Gunner, deliberately, "I'm in it! You don't catch me as accessory before, after, or in the fact of murder. It's not my graft, Connor. Remove that interesting apparatus."

Connor smiled. His hand dropped quite naturally out of sight below the level of the table.

"If you pull a gun on me," said the Gunner, not a muscle of his lean body moving, "I shall shoot you through the stomach. It'll take you five days to die, and it's a very painful death by all accounts. I shall then go out and explain to the police why I shot you, and there will be no flowers from Scotland Yard."

One of Connor's assistants moved a step toward him.

"Look here, Gunner—" he began, mildly enough.

Haynes's fist shot out so swiftly that the man could not counter the blow. He went down with a crash. The Gunner stood motionless, watching.

"Both hands in sight," said Haynes. "Lay 'em on the table, Connor."

He had no weapon in his hand, but none knew better than the vivid man on the other side of the table how quickly the Gunner could draw, with what devilish accuracy he could shoot.

"What's the fuss?" he growled. "This bird doesn't mean a thing to you."

"Unlace him," smiled the Gunner. "I'm sorry to butt in, as I said before."

"What did you come here for, anyway?" asked the other savagely. The Gunner looked up at the ceiling.

"I forget exactly," he said untruthfully. And then: "Who is this man?"

"Man named Smith. He squealed on me to-night, and then tried to carry it off with a tale about being a banker—he's got a nerve! Luke something or other."

Gunner Haynes bent down and peered into Luke's face.

He recognized the sleeping man instantly.

"Luke something or other, eh? Where did you pick him up?" As he spoke he beckoned one of the men. "Take that chain off," he said.

The man glanced uneasily at his chief, but Connor nodded.

"The trouble with you, Gunner, is that you will interfere with other people's graft. If you want to know who he is, he did that job today in Bond Street."

He related "Smith's" biography; Gunner Haynes knew that he was speaking the truth. He was puzzled, but not greatly. He had lived too long on the seamy and shadowy side of life to be surprised at anything. Men had lived double lives before; but this was the kind of double life which Haynes thought belonged to the realm of imaginative novelists. A banker who amused himself in smash-and-grab raids was widely fictional—but possible.

There might be, he thought, a woman somewhere in the background. Where women touched life, the inexplicable became almost daylight-clear.

"What are you going to do with him?" asked Connor, as the man stooped and with scarcely an effort lifted the unconscious Luke onto the chair.

The Gunner did not answer the question. Instead, he propounded one of his own.

"Have you any slush in this place?" he asked and saw a look of alarm come into the imperturbable face of the other.

"Slush?" said Connor quickly. "No—why should we? I don't deal in that kind of stuff?"

"No forged French banknotes?" The Gunner shook his head in anticipation of the answer.

"What do you mean, Gunner?" A smile lit up the saturnine face. "You asked me why I came here, and I'm telling you. They're raiding your place tonight. I only got to know it an hour ago. I don't know why, but that's my nature—helping poor crooks!"

He saw the three men glance at one another, and the alarm in Connor's face was patent.

"We had a parcel over from Paris the other day," he said uneasily. "Harry, get it up."

He looked at the huddled figure of Luke.

"You're making a big mistake about this bird," he said. "You let him get into the hands of the police, and he'll put up a squeal that'll make you deaf!"

Stooping, the Gunner put his arm about Luke Madison and lifted him bodily. He turned and strode through the door, down the narrow passage and into the untidy yard.

He had already located Connor's van and he was on the point of hoisting his burden into its interior when he heard a stealthy scraping against wood. It was the sound that a man makes when he is climbing—somebody was getting over the gate.

He sat Luke on the ground, propped him against a wall, and went noiselessly toward the entrance of the yard. Stooping to get a skyline, he saw the head and shoulders of two men above the gate. It was enough; he need see no more.

TIPS FOR THE MOTORISTS

Cars with two-wheel brakes are getting fewer and fewer, but there are still a good many left on the roads. When you notice a very old automobile, therefore, make extra allowance for the distance in which it can be stopped.

Watch your distance when following a car equipped with chains. It can make a quicker stop than a car without chains.

If you would increase the mileage you get out of gas, don't race the motor when standing in traffic. Turn off the engine when you stop for more than a minute, don't drive with the choke out longer than necessary, be sure that your brakes are not dragging, and make sure that your engine does not idle faster than it should.

The driver who makes an abrupt stop and slides on his tires not only wears out rubber, but takes a chance on a puncture. A sudden stop on a road with no nail or glass, but when it's likely to pick up a nail.

But by the end of April, when the reports of the Census enumerators are all in, the Government and the heads of the nation's business will know exactly how many regular workers haven't jobs, and where they are located.

What good will that do?

It will stimulate every agency of the government and every industry which depends for its existence on the purchasing power of the wage-earners, to go ahead with undertakings which will put the unemployed to work faster. Nobody but a lunatic believes that the business interests of the country want people to be out of work. The man out of work can't buy groceries or automobiles. Yet there are agitators who will tell you that employers want hard times so they can reduce wages!

The most striking thing about the depression out of which the nation is just emerging is that there have been no wage cuts. The heads of industries who met in Washington for the President's conference last November promised him they would not reduce wages, and he has been keeping tab on them. Not only have there been no wage reductions, but there have been some actual increases. This is the first time in our history when a business crash has not been followed by wage reductions.

The situation which existed in November was a great deal more serious than appeared at the time. It was the same kind of a situation which caused the tremendous business depression which lasted from early 1920 to late 1922, though arising from different causes. And the only thing that saved us from another two-year period of hard times was the President's action and the response of the nation's business and financial leaders.

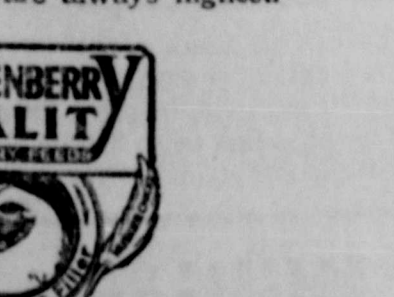

Public utilities and railroads responded so vigorously that by mid March they had swamped the manufacturers of supplies and materials with orders and were using every man they could find room for. Road building and other public works are now beginning to get under way, with assurances that a program for 1930 larger than of 1929 will be carried out. There is no doubt whatever about the earnestness of the men and institutions responsible for carrying on the country's affairs, when they say they intend to put every man and woman who is willing and able to work, at a productive job as fast as the tools and materials to work with can be assembled. And the banks are already prepared to finance this work. They have plenty of money and the Federal Reserve banks are ready to lend them more, at the lowest rate of interest since the present banking system was established.

"All the evidences indicate," President Hoover said the other day, "that the worst effects of the crash upon unemployment will have been passed during the next sixty days, with the amelioration of seasonal unemployment, the gaining strength of other forces, and the continued cooperation of the many agencies actively cooperating with the Government to restore business and to relieve distress."

When you answer the question about your own job, then, to the census enumerator, you will be doing your share toward bringing about a recovery in a few months which might easily have taken two or three years. Don't resent the questions you will be asked. Nobody wants to pry into your private affairs, but the Government is entitled to complete and exact information. There are 24 questions in all which will be asked at every home in the United States. Number 20 is: "Occupation of each gainful worker." Number 21 is: "Industry in which employed." Number 22 is: "Whether employer, employee or working on own account." And then comes the important question, Number 23: "Whether actually at work."

If the answer to this is "No," then the census enumerator will ask more questions.

If you have a regular job but are temporarily out of work, he will ask:

1. How many weeks since he (or she) has worked on his present job?
2. Why was he not at work yesterday? (Or in case yesterday was not a regular working day, why did he not work on the last regular working day?)
3. Did he lose a day's pay by not being at work?
4. How many days did he work last week?
5. How many days in a full-time week?

If you are usually employed, but have no job now, these are the questions which you, or some member of your family for you, will be asked:

1. Is he able to work?
2. Is he looking for a job?
3. For how many weeks has he been without a job?
4. Reasons for being out of a job or for losing his last job?

When all of that information, about everybody in the United States, has been gathered together in Washington, counted, classified and tabulated, then we shall know for the first time the exact facts about unemployment and the reasons for it. And then under President Hoover's direction, a system has been set up whereby, using these facts as a base-line, a check-up can be made every three months or so and Uncle Sam will have a guide to go by in planning how to keep every one of his nephews and nieces busy and prosperous.

For, after all, that is what the Government is for.

THE LAW OF THE CROSS
Matthew 16:13-26

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.
Changed plans required different methods. When Jesus refused to become the bread-making king for the multitude after the miracle of feeding the 5,000 when only five loaves were in sight the people turned against Him. When the period of popular favor was over the Kingdom-builder gave more attention to the training of the Twelve for the ministry that they must take up the following year. That He might have more time with the apostles a retreat was sought in the region of Tyre. This was interrupted by the mother who begged that her demonized daughter be healed. Shortly after the return to the sea of Galilee another quiet time was sought in the vicinity of Caesarea Philippi, about 35 miles north of Capernaum. Up there was snow-capped Mount Hermon and the head waters of the Jordan river were close at hand.

Intensive training was taking place as they walked, when they had the noon siesta and when they camped for the night. The Teacher sought to give them a clear understanding of Himself. They knew He was so different. His companionship was always a blessing. His works were like great signs to seal the testimony of his addresses. It is likely that the recent instruction was a preparation for the startling question that He asked them. They had been under instruction for about two and a half years. Now was the time for a very definite quiz class.

"Who do men say that I the Son of man am?" This is the very thing they had been discussing and they could tell Him what the people had been saying. Herod, for example, thought He was John the Baptist raised up to torment him. Others were sure that such wonders as He performed must be related to one of the well-known prophets who had come to earthly life again.

"But who say ye that I am," was the question that followed. Now answer must be given of their personal opinion. They had been asked as a group and Peter answers for the company. They may have been slow in reaching the conclusion but now they were ready to affirm "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God."

By this testimony Jesus was greatly heartened. We know what it means to be understood and the situation was no different with Him for this recognition which was possible through the guidance of the Holy Spirit. This confession stated by Peter for himself and for all the others was declared to be the foundation of the church that would be established during the ages to come. So sure was Jesus of the final outcome that He declared that all the powers of the evil spirits world would not be able to overthrow this church, or as called elsewhere—the Kingdom of God. Today there are about one-third of the earth's population believing in Jesus Christ as the Son of God.

When Jesus followed His teaching by declaring that He must die in Jerusalem, Peter sought to dissuade Him from going forward. Without taking an instant for meditation, Peter is called an emissary of Satan. Further, all are told that the way of life is the way of service. Duties may be called crosses but they must be taken daily by those who follow with Jesus in this work of building up the Kingdom. A "cross" always looks more terrifying at a distance. When we lay hold of it much of the terror is gone and soon we find that the task is being accomplished. The older readers will remember the worsted worked mottoes that hung in the parlors years ago—"No Cross—No Crown."

THE UNEMPLOYMENT CENSUS

The Census of Unemployment to be taken in April, 1930, is the fifth such canvass made by the Federal Bureau of the Census. Such a census was taken in 1890, 1899, 1900, and 1910. The results were not published in 1890, nor in 1910, and no canvass of unemployment was made in 1920. As in all census work, the information given by individuals regarding their own unemployment is entirely confidential. The enumerators have taken oath not to "disclose any information contained in the schedules, lists, or statements obtained for, or prepared by, the Bureau of the Census, to any person or persons, except those designated by the Director." All persons, therefore, in answering questions regarding their unemployment may do so with full confidence that their identity will not be disclosed, nor will the information given be used for any other purpose than to compile the statistics of unemployment in the United States.

The prime purpose of Congress in directing the Bureau of the Census to take a Census of Unemployment was to obtain the facts regarding this pressing problem. No effective plans for the relief and prevention of unemployment can be made until we have specific information regarding its extent, the industries seriously affected, the periods of time during which employees in these industries are idle, with the causes in each case. Such information is almost entirely lacking. President Harding's Conference on Unemployment, in 1921, assembled the men best informed on this problem. They canvassed all available sources of information, but were compelled to report that the number of unemployed might be as few as three and one-half million, and might be as many as five and one-half million. While our ignorance of the extent of unemployment is so great, planning for its control is impossible. The Census of Unemployment taken in April will give us a fairly definite measure of its extent if answers to the questions asked are freely and carefully given. It will then be possible to consider plans for the control of the evil of unemployment.

The Unemployment Census is to be taken as a part of the Census of Population. In connection with the population inquiries the enumerator will ask questions as to employment of all persons who are usually employed at some gainful occupation. This will include in particular all persons who usually earn wages. The question will apply also to persons who carry on, or who have carried on, independent businesses of their own, though it is not expected that very many unemployed will be found in this group.

The names of all gainful workers who were not at work on the day preceding the enumerator's call will be recorded on a special Unemployment Schedule. Not by any means all of those persons, however, will be counted as unemployed. Several additional questions will be asked with regard to each of these persons, the most important of which is this: "Does this person have a job of any kind?" On the basis of the replies to this question the returns will be separated into two parts. Those persons who report that they have no job will be asked whether they are able to work, whether they are seeking a job, and what is the reason for their being out of a job. Those who report that they do have a job will be asked why they are not at work and whether or not they lose pay by not being at work.

Questions are to be asked, both of those without jobs and those on layoff, as to how long they have been idle. It is of great importance that the answers to these questions be correct and complete. For the extent of unemployment depends quite as much on the length of the period of idleness as it does on the number idle. There are also a number of other supplementary questions designated to assist the Census Bureau in classifying and analyzing the returns on the Unemployment Schedule.

The sow needs plenty of good feed while nursing her pigs. Corn or ground barley should be the main feed, supplemented by shorts or middlings, tankage or fish meal, or old-process linseed meal. The corn may be fed on the ear or shelled. Other feeds may be given dry or in slop. When a change of feed is necessary, it should be made gradually. A simple mineral mixture should be available at all times in a box or self-feeder.

For spraying a few peach trees in the yard or home orchard, a bucket spray pump will do the work. It should be made of brass or some other metal that will not corrode, and have a 4-foot extension rod and at least 15 feet of hose. If the trees are to be dusted, a hand duster consisting of a cylinder with piston rod for making an air blast, can be used, although a larger hand duster, in which a fan is operated by cogs or belt from a crank, is more satisfactory and durable.

cows in his herd, but should get rid of the three-teaters, kickers, hard milkers, switchers, and fence jumpers. There can also be found in nearly every herd an occasional cow subject to bloat or indigestion. These cows will bring a fair price on the market and relieve the overloaded butter market. Also, where there is a shortage of feed a few cows might better be sold, rather than skimp on the feed that should go to the heifers you intend for future dairy cows. Anyone with experience in milking knows that a certain cow or two in the herd always causes an aggravation and broken milk stools. The Way of Life

by BRUCE BARTON

Worrying Doesn't Pay

On his way back to a college reunion, one of my friends stopped off in the little town where he had spent his boyhood.

"How is business?" he asked a local merchant.

"Awful bad," was the reply. "And what's more, I don't like the outlook."

"Why not?"

"Well, there's elements in the situation that might develop a lot of trouble. At least that's the way it looks to me."

My friend lighted a cigar, and leaned over the counter.

"George," said he familiarly, "those are almost exactly the same words I used to hear from the storekeepers when I was a kid here twenty-five years ago. I've been a subscriber to the local paper ever since I left, and most of those old storekeepers have died. I have taken special notice of the size of their estates. How much money do you think they left? Between a hundred thousand and two hundred thousand dollars each. And here's the funny thing—every penny was made out of businesses which were always bad and always on the verge of getting ever so much worse."

I suppose that as gravestones told the real truth, nine out of ten of them would bear a line to this effect: "This man's life was shortened several years by the fear of bad developments, most of which never occurred."

Even very wise men, as their years have increased, have suffered from the evil habit of fearing the worst. The Rev. Dr. Cotton Mather, who died two hundred years ago in Boston, was the most eminent graduate of Harvard and virtually the founder of Yale. He had courage and a wonderful mind.

Yet in his old age he viewed the future disconsolately. He concluded that God had brought the Pilgrims across the ocean to "a New England desert" for a very special purpose, but that this purpose had obviously been accomplished and that the whole colony would "soon come to naught."

The colony shows no sign of coming to naught, but there are doubtless a million in it today who are losing the fun of their current suc-
