Casa de Amigos surpasses fundraising goal

By Kathleen Petty
Staff Writer

Casa de Amigos' campaign chairman Sean Low announced Friday the organization had met and surpassed its fundraising goal, raising $260,930.52 between April and mid-June.

Money raised go to support about 20 percent of the non-profit's annual operating budget, Low said. Those who donated are helping to provide tutoring services, GED courses, health and dental care, social service support and senior programs.

"We just had a great deal of support both from our board, from all of the employees and from the Midland community," Low said.

In 2011, Casa de Amigos provided services to more than 10,700 people. Of those, 471 received health screenings, more than 1,000 children were tutored, 171 people were assisted through the Take 2 Job Skills program and 460 adults took part in GED courses, said Lynn Rogers, director of public relations.

Going forward, the organization expects to serve even more people.

"As the government cuts back on other social service agencies, a lot of people turn to the community center," Rogers said. "We're going to see more clients in the future."

Low added that with the increased population in Midland, the need for services already is growing, which is why it was so crucial to meet the $260,000 fundraising goal.

Cactus and Crude bike ride to raise money for MS research

■ Officials hope as many as 200 participants ride in two-day event next weekend.

By Amanda Moreno
Big Spring Herald

For 20 years, people and organizations across the Permian Basin have participated in the Cactus and Crude Bike Ride to help those with multiple sclerosis (MS). On July 21 and 22, it will happen once again.

"This is something that gets people together helping people who can't help themselves," said David Ham, owner of Peyton's Bike.

Riders will leave Midland and make the ride to Big Spring. Upon arrival — with the first leg arriving at about 10:30 a.m. and the last leg at about 3 p.m. — riders will be treated to a luncheon provided by the Howard County Volunteer Fire Department. Halliburton will provide dinner, and riders will have the option of staying in a hotel or being housed at the SouthWest Collegiate Institute for the Deaf campus.

On the morning of July 22, the Rotary Club in Big Spring will provide breakfast before the riders get back on their bicycles for the final 75-mile stretch to Post.

"We have learned you get better participation if you have a destination," Ham said. "This is two 75-mile rides, not necessarily a 150-mile ride."

The first Cactus and Crude Bike Ride started with 25 participants and has continued to grow. Last year, there were 180 participants.

Texas: State voter ID law does not discriminate

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Lawyers for the state of Texas argued Friday that a contentious voter ID law should go forward because it doesn't limit minorities' right to vote and, therefore, does not violate the federal Voting Rights Act.

Justice Department attorneys argued just the opposite, saying the law requiring voters to show valid, government-issued photo identification at the polls is exactly the type of statute that the act, passed in 1965, was designed to prevent.

Both sides gave closing arguments Friday after a weeklong trial about the Texas law, passed last year by the state's Republican-controlled Legislature. Texas currently only requires voters to show their voter registration cards, which do not have photos, or another acceptable alternative form of ID such as a driver's license or utility bill.

Texas' voter ID law is similar to laws passed by GOP-controlled legislatures in Georgia and Indiana.

The Justice Department blocked the Texas law in March, citing the Voting Rights Act. Texas sued the Justice Department, sending the case to federal court in Washington. A three-judge panel is set to decide the fate of the law.

It's not clear when the judges will make a ruling. The presiding judge, Rosemary Collyer, said they would try to have a decision in "quick order." The judges have said they would like to rule before November's elections.

Attorney John Hughes, who argued for Texas, said the state had met its burden, showing through expert witnesses, social science studies and its own

Fire burns balcony

James Cannon/Reporter-Telegram

Midland firefighters inspect the damage after extinguishing a balcony fire Friday evening. Firefighters were dispatched to the Trinity Place Apartments on the 3600 block of North Midland Drive at 6 p.m. after a passerby noticed a balcony fire and called 911 operators.

After calling dispatch operators, the good Samaritan alerted the residence of the apartment to the blaze. There were no injuries, and the cause of the fire is under investigation by fire marshals. The fire was contained completely to the balcony and will not displace the residents.

Historic Houston rainfall floods homes

Associated Press

HOUSTON — Historic rainfall levels that drenched the Houston area this week flooded dozens of homes and caused widespread street flooding, but the rain also is likely to result in the end of drought conditions in Southeast Texas, officials said Friday.

Officials estimated that fewer 100 homes were flooded after Cypress Creek, located in the northwest part of the Houston area, rose above its banks after getting about 14 inches of rain over the past couple of days, said Francisco Sanchez, a spokesman for the Harris County Office of Homeland Security and Emergency Management.

County officials were still trying to reach flooded neighborhoods on Friday to better assess the damage, but initial reports had homes affected anywhere from a few inches to a couple of feet of water, Sanchez said.

"Some areas along Cypress Creek got more rain in the last 24 hours than in Hurricane Ike (in 2008) or from major flooding in 1998," Sanchez said.

Gary Whitaker Jr., who lives in one of the areas affected by Cypress Creek, said street flooding in his neighborhood had started to recede on Friday, but a nearby subdivision still had streets that were impassable. Water from the creek was flowing "like a waterfall" across one street and into a golf course, he said.

"Quite a few people in our subdivision couldn't go to work today. They couldn't get out (due to flooded streets). It was pretty risky," he said.

Whitaker, 36, who lives in Cypress, an unincorporated area in northwest Harris County, said there were no reports of flooded homes in his neighborhood.

The American Red Cross in Houston sent out workers Friday to affected neighborhoods to assess the flooded homes, said spokesman Cameron Ballantyne. The agency had not opened any shelters.

Associated Press

Vehicles try to pass through a flooded intersection on Friday in Houston.

In Montgomery County, located just north of Harris County, officials reported seven to eight flooded homes.

A shelter had been opened in Montgomery County at Living Stones Church in Magnolia, but church secretary Linda Arnold said no residents had used the facility.

In Waller County, located west of Harris County, less than 10 homes had been flooded with 1 to 4 feet of water, said Brian Cantrell, the county's emergency management coordinator. Authorities also conducted three water rescues of people who got into high water with their vehicles. He said no one was injured.

Victor Murphy, a climate expert with the National Weather Service, said one rain gage on the border of Harris and Waller counties recorded 10.3 inches of rain in a 10 hour period.

Murphy said that amount of precipitation within that short period of time suggests that area experienced a "100-year rainfall event," which caused Cypress Creek to overflow.

Other areas in Southeast Texas also got large amounts of rain, including just west of Bay City in Matagorda County, which received about 18 inches this past week.

"Rainfall in the entire (Southeast Texas) area this week was in the 8 to 10 inch category," he said. "The average weekly rainfall for this time of year is about 1 inch or so."

While the current U.S. Drought Monitor shows some parts of Southeast Texas as being abnormally dry, that does not include this week's rainfall totals.

"When the next U.S. Drought Monitor comes out Thursday, there will not be any drought in Southeast Texas," Murphy said. Most of the rest of the state was expected to remain in drought conditions.

Even if Southeast Texas only experiences average rainfall or dry weather the rest of the summer, drought conditions should be kept at bay until at least the fall, Murphy said.

Sanchez said officials were hopeful Cypress Creek, which was still rising Friday, would eventually recede if the area was not inundated with more rain. Water levels at two other nearby creeks which had also flowed out of their banks, had started to fall.

Rain was forecast for this weekend but the chances of showers were expected to be lower than earlier this week.

FROM WIRE REPORTS

MCKINNEY

Peruvian nanny gets life term in toddler's death

A Peruvian nanny has been reconvicted of capital murder and sentenced to life imprisonment without parole in the 2005 beating death of a 14-month-old North Texas boy.

A Collin County jury deliberated almost six hours Friday before finding Ada Betty Cuadros-Fernandez guilty. Since prosecutors weren't seeking the death penalty, the 33-year-old woman received an automatic life sentence.

Cuadros-Fernandez had been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment once before in the death of Kyle Lazarchik. Prosecutors said she had banged the child's head against a kitchen cabinet door over and over until the door cracked at his family's home in McKinney, 30 miles north of Dallas.

However, a state appeals court in Dallas reversed the conviction in 2009, finding two errors in her 2006 trial.

GROESBECK

Central Texas suspect killed by deputy's gunshot

A burglary suspect has died after a Central Texas deputy shot him during a struggle while being arrested.

Steven Wayne Thompson died early Friday at a Waco hospital after the 2 p.m. Thursday shooting outside a tire shop in Groesbeck, 90 miles south of Dallas.

Limestone County Sheriff Dennis Wilson said his deputy first tried to use a Taser to subdue the 41-year-old Groesbeck man but resorted to lethal force when Thompson resisted and said he wouldn't be taken alive.

Wilson said the deputy, whom he wouldn't identify, was treated at a Groesbeck hospital for bite wounds and was discharged. Texas Rangers are investigating the shooting.

DALLAS

Police: Naked man crashes through Texas mall

Police say a naked man crashed a pickup truck into a Dallas mall, then drove over a few kiosks before stopping to try on clothes.

Dallas police were called to the Southwest Center Mall around 7:30 a.m. Friday.

Officers said the man apparently was covered only in a blanket when he drove his truck through the glass entrance doors, then crashed through several kiosks before driving into a Champs Sporting Goods store.

Once inside the store, police said he left his blanket in the truck and started putting on clothes and a pair of Air Jordan shoes.

No one was injured.

A police statement identifies the man as 35-year-old Arthur Walker, of Dallas. He's jailed without bond on a burglary charge. Dallas County Jail records list no attorney for him.

EL PASO

Trial move sought for teen accused of fake cancer

The attorney for a West Texas teenager accused of faking cancer to steal $17,000 in donations wants his client's trial moved.

An El Paso County grand jury indicted 19-year-old Angie Gomez, of Horizon City, in April on a charge of theft by deception. Investigators have said that Gomez collected $17,000 in donations from hundreds of people after pretending she was dying of leukemia.

Horizon City police later determined there was no evidence that Gomez had been diagnosed with cancer.

Now, defense attorney Sheldon Myers contends that extensive news coverage of the Horizon High School student's case makes it unlikely that she can get a fair trial in El Paso. No ruling has been made on the change-of-venue motion.

DALLAS

Paroled one-time death row inmate arrested

A former death row inmate on parole from a life sentence for the murder of an Abilene woman has been arrested and charged with having sex with a child.

The Abilene Reporter-News reported a federal appeals court commuted Wayne Edward East's death sentence for the 1981 killing of 77-year-old Mary Eula Sears, of Abilene, to life in prison in 1999. That's after he admitted guilt under a plea deal.

He was paroled last August but ordered by a judge not to return to Abilene. He was re-settled in Glenn Heights, near Dallas, where police allege the latest incident occurred. The 56-year-old is charged with indecency with a child by sexual contact and is jailed without bond on a parole violation. No attorney is listed for him in jail records.

WEATHERFORD

Parker County family adopts tortured dog

A dog found in North Texas with a muzzle taped shut on her severely swollen tongue will have a new home.

Parker County Sheriff Larry Fowler said Friday that the female pug mix, which caregivers named Hope, will be adopted by the family who owns the ranch she was found wandering on Monday. He said Hope should be released from medical care within the next week.

Hope, who underwent surgery requiring 100 internal and external stitches, is expected to make a complete recovery with little loss of her tongue.

Fowler said he "can't think of a better family for Hope to belong to."

Officials still are seeking the suspect or suspects involved.

The dog was found about 10 miles southeast of Weatherford.

Famed producer Zanuck dead at 77

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Film producer Richard Zanuck, who won the best picture Oscar for "Driving Miss Daisy" and was involved in such blockbuster films as "Jaws" and "The Sting" after his father, Hollywood mogul Darryl F. Zanuck, fired him from 20th Century Fox, died Friday. He was 77.

Zanuck's publicist said he died of a heart attack at his Beverly Hills home.

Zanuck's run of successes as an independent producer rivaled the achievements of his legendary father who reigned over 20th Century Fox from the 1930s until age and changing audience tastes brought him down.

The production company the younger Zanuck founded with David Brown produced "The Sting" in 1973, as well as Steven Spielberg's first feature film, "The Sugarland Express," in 1974 and Spielberg's first blockbuster, "Jaws," in 1975. "The Sting" also won the best movie Oscar, although Zanuck and Brown were not listed as its producers. "Jaws" was nominated for best picture, as was the Zanuck-produced "The Verdict."

"In 1974, Dick Zanuck and I sat in a boat off Martha's Vineyard and watched the mechanical shark sink to the bottom of the sea," Spielberg recalled in a statement Friday. "Dick turned to me and smiled. 'Gee, I sure hope that's not a sign.' That moment forged a bond between us that lasted nearly 40 years. He taught me everything I know about producing. He was one of the most honorable and loyal men of our profession and he fought tooth and nail for his directors."

Zanuck most recently produced the big-screen adaptation of the cult classic TV series "Dark Shadows," directed by Tim Burton and starring Johnny Depp and Michelle Pfeiffer.

Other Zanuck films include "MacArthur" and "Cocoon."

In 1976, Zanuck and Brown announced a much-publicized deal with the estate of novelist Margaret Mitchell to produce a sequel to "Gone With the Wind." A book and script were prepared, but the project never materialized on film.

In 1988, Zanuck and Brown dissolved their partnership amicably, and Zanuck formed a new venture with his third wife, Lili Fini Zanuck. They won the Oscar with their first movie together, "Driving Miss Daisy."

"Richard was a good and longtime friend," said Morgan Freeman, who costarred with Jessica Tandy in the 1989 film. "A very fine producer who was wonderful to work for and with."

The contrasts between Richard and Darryl Zanuck were many and led to father-son clashes throughout their respective careers.

Dogs, dead people get election docs from nonprofit

Associated Press

OLYMPIA, Wash. — The voter registration form arrived in the mail last month with some key information already filled in: Rosie Charlston's name was complete, as was her Seattle address.

Problem is, Rosie was a black lab who died in 1998.

A group called the Voter Participation Center has touted the distribution of some 5 million registration forms in recent weeks, targeting Democratic-leaning voting blocs such as unmarried women, blacks, Latinos and young adults.

But residents and election administrators around the country also have reported a series of bizarre and questionable mailings addressed to animals, dead people, noncitizens and people already registered to vote.

Brenda Charlston wasn't the only person to get documents for her pet: A Virginia man said similar documents arrived for his dead dog, Mozart, while a woman in the state got forms for her cat, Scampers.

"On a serious note, I think it's tampering with our voting system," Charlston said. "They're fishing for votes: That's how I view it."

Every presidential election cycle brings with it a variety of registration drives targeting people who typically are underrepresented at the polls, and Republicans long have seized on sloppy or questionable registrations as a sign of potential fraud on the part of Democrats.

It's an issue that is particularly sensitive this year. GOP political leaders have used fears of fraud to successfully push laws across the country that could make voting more difficult by requiring voters to show identification. Democrats have fought the laws, arguing that they can disenfranchise citizens, minorities in particular.

The group at the root of the questionable mailings — the Voter Participation Center — acknowledged that the databases it uses to contact possible voters are imperfect because they are developed from commercially collected information. The group also said it expects people who receive misdirected mail to simply throw it away.

Several election officials said they believed the voter registration systems were secure enough to catch people who might improperly submit the misdirected documents because registrants typically have to furnish ID and election managers use databases — such as death records — to see if someone should be disallowed.

But administrators in New Mexico, a potential swing state in the presidential race, warned that ineligible voters who complete the documents could make it onto the rolls.

New Mexico is one of two states in which noncitizens can qualify for a driver's license by simply proving residency and state elections officials have no way of verifying the legal status of those who file registration documents.

Ken Ortiz, the chief of staff at the New Mexico secretary of state's office, said some noncitizens have contacted the state asking why they received the forms when they'd previously been told that they could not vote.

"We fear that some of these individuals who receive this mailing may feel that they are being encouraged to vote by our office or county government," Ortiz said.

The mailings appear official, arriving in privacy envelopes with the headline "VOTER REGISTRATION DOCUMENTS ENCLOSED." Some information already is completed on the voter registration papers, and recipients also get an envelope to send completed forms to local elections officials.

The Voter Participation Center works with a vendor that has access to multiple commercial databases that could include people who subscribe to magazines or junk mail using names of their pet, said Page Gardner, the group's president. She said the nonprofit tries its best to target only eligible and unregistered voters but that some other names inevitably get on the final list.

"Is it a perfect process? No," Gardner said. Ultimately, she said they rely on the integrity of people and the security of the system and notes that the same forms are available to anyone at county offices or on the Internet.

On Wednesday, Brenda Charlston, of Seattle, holds a photo of her long-deceased dog, Rosie, and a voter registration form for "Rosie Charlston" that arrived in the mail for the canine last month. Perry makes trip for Romney

Associated Press

AUSTIN — Gov. Rick Perry is putting his months of attacks on Mitt Romney behind him and rallying to the presumptive Republican presidential nominee's banner.

The Texas Republican made his first campaign trip on behalf of Romney on Friday when he visited Elko, Nev. He made two evening stops there Friday evening, with visits to the Silver State Stampede Rodeo and a Romney campaign office.

Romney, a former Massachusetts governor, didn't appear.

Today in history

Today is Saturday, July 14, the 196th day of 2012. There are 170 days left in the year.

On this date:

In 1881, outlaw William H. Bonney Jr., alias "Billy the Kid," was shot and killed by Sheriff Pat Garrett in Fort Sumner, N.M.

In 1972, the State Department criticized actress Jane Fonda for making antiwar radio broadcasts in Hanoi, calling them "distressing."

FMH Foundation donates harps to Lee orchestra

By Meredith Moriak
Staff Writer

> "It still feels like a dream because we're getting two concert harps and everything that comes with them. It's going to be really magnificent to see 120-plus string players and this grand harp playing."
> —BEAU GARZA
> Lee High School orchestra director

When the new school year begins, orchestra students at Lee High School will have the opportunity to learn and play the harp for the first time, thanks to a large donation from the FMH Foundation.

Having a harp program at Lee has been a decades-long goal, going back to Karen McAfee's tenure as director, said current orchestra director Beau Garza.

"(McAfee) was adamant about getting students to play the harp, but we didn't have any to play on," said Garza, who became director in 2010. "When she retired and passed the torch on, she made me promise to keep trying."

During a parent meeting last fall, Garza said he shared the desire to start a harp program with his booster club and asked club members to explore various avenues for funding.

Booster club members got busy and started conversations with the newly formed FMH Foundation, which supports higher education, health, performing arts and community and cultural agencies in the Permian Basin.

After a visit to hear students play and learn more about the program, Eileen Piwetz, FMH Foundation executive director, said the foundation decided to make a donation to the MISD Education Foundation that will cover the cost of two harps, lockers, cases, travel cases and a dolly.

"It came to our attention there was a deficit and the equipment was not available to young people at Lee High School," Piwetz said. "Because we do promote the arts, we felt this was a good investment to us."

When it was announced the foundation would purchase not just the one requested harp but a second and the accessories, Garza said he was stunned.

"It still feels like a dream because we're getting two concert harps and everything that comes with them," Garza said. "It's going to be really magnificent to see 120-plus string players and this grand harp playing."

Though a delivery date for the harps is not set, Garza and Piwetz said they're hopeful to have them by September so students can begin learning. Six students have expressed an interest in learning, Garza said.

Ector County ISD harp program director Ricky Rasura has volunteered to help Garza and assistant orchestra director Bill Zauner with the instruments.

"(Rasura) understands exactly what it entails to move the harps, change the strings, tune them and use the pedals on the bottom to change keys and sharps," Garza said.

ECISD, according to Rasura, has one of the nation's largest public school harp programs with 40 students enrolled in harp classes at Milam and Reagan elementary schools, Ector Junior High School and Odessa High School, and instruments on four other campuses.

"It's great that Lee is getting harps and will be able to start a program," Rasura said. "I think they'll have a lot of students interested in learning."

Eventually, Garza said he would like to see MISD have a harp program comparable to ECISD's.

"It'd be wonderful to have that many students to where we need to make a class of harp," Garza said. "These harps are the stepping stone to getting there."

A harp dedication concert with guest performers, and McAfee conducting a harp piece and Broadway tunes from "Les Miserables," "Phantom of the Opera" and "Wicked" with harp features is in the planning stages for the fall, Garza said.

"We'll be able to play music people know and show them this is the reason we needed the instrument," Garza said.

All credit for McAfee's dream becoming a reality goes to the orchestra's booster club, Garza said.

"I have an incredible booster club that backs me up for anything I need for the kids," Garza said. "I told them at the beginning of the school year we need harps and a harp program, and they made it happen."

GOAL

From 1A

"We have expanded needs and expanded services with the growth in our community," he said.

Low said while he hoped that Casa would reach the campaign goal, he was a bit apprehensive when it started fundraising.

The campaign is in its third year. Under the board leadership of Alan Krenek and David Henry, the nonprofit had succeeded in surpassing its goals of $200,000 and $250,000 during those first two years, he said.

But Midlanders were receptive to the needs again this year, Low said.

Donations were received from 100 percent of Casa de Amigos' staff and board. Gifts also came in from those who'd been involved with the nonprofit in the past, and donations were made by some who'd never heard much about the organization until this year.

The strong economy also "didn't hurt" the campaign effort, he said.

"A lot of it is just getting in front of people and telling your story," Low said.

Work from Beki Moorehead, who served as campaign director, also was instrumental, as were efforts by Rogers and board member Alisha Brown Hudman, who both spread the word about the campaign through advertising, letters and other media, Low said.

VOTER

dissection of the Justice Department's evidence that there was little cause to believe any eligible voter would be unable to vote because of the ID law.

"People who want to vote already have ID or an ability to get it," Hughes said.

He said if the Justice Department's argument that thousands would be disenfranchised by the Texas law were valid, the courtroom would have been full of witnesses testifying in support of that point.

Hughes also reiterated other arguments Texas had made throughout the week: that public opinion backs voter ID laws, that Texas lawmakers had the integrity of votes — not the suppression of minority voters on their mind — when they passed the law, and that other states that have passed ID laws have not seen a drop in turnout.

The three judges hearing the case seemed skeptical of Hughes' arguments, interrupting him repeatedly with questions.

Judge Robert Wilkins asked Hughes how Texas could require some rural voters to drive more than 100 miles to get a new voter ID card when under current law a person cannot be required to travel more than 100 miles for a subpoena.

Matthew Colangelo, in the Justice Department's closing argument, said Texas' law should be thrown out under the Voting Rights Act because of a number of factors, including the atmosphere in which the law was passed, statistical evidence about its effects and the fact that it creates new barriers to voting.

"It's exactly the kind of law Congress had in mind when it passed the Voting Rights Act in 1965," he said of the act, which was passed as a safeguard.

RIDE

From 1A

This year, Ham is hoping for 200.

Registration for riders is $30 with a $250 minimum donation. Funds raised during the ride will go toward the assistance of educational programs, scholarships, finances and research.

"Since the beginning of this ride, there has been a lot of progress made. When we started, we didn't have the medicines that we do now," Ham said. "Now, with all the medications that are available, people with MS can live a somewhat normal life.

"Right now, we are trying to control MS and at this point slow it down. The long-term goal is to find a cure."

Last year, the ride brought in around $200,000 for the MS Society. The Cactus and Crude Bike Ride is the largest fundraiser of the year. There are 52 counties serviced by the MS Society, extending from El Paso to Sweetwater and Lubbock to San Angelo.

MS is a neurological disease that affects the spine and the brain stem. There are several symptoms associated with the disease, but the most common and noticeable are the effects on walking ability and loss of sight. There is also a low heat tolerance. According to statistics, there are 10,000 people in the United States diagnosed with MS.

"We are always needing volunteers and riders," Ham said.

Developers pull plans for New Mexico ghost town

Associated Press

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — The company behind plans to build a scientific ghost town says it is pulling out of a deal to develop the make-believe city near Hobbs.

Pegasus Global Holdings in May announced with much fanfare its selection of a 15-square mile site in Hobbs and Lea County near the Texas border for development of the Center for Innovation, Technology and Testing. Officials said they had hoped to break ground by the end of June.

Last month, Robert Brumley, managing director of the project, said groundbreaking likely would be delayed until August because of problems closing on the land. On Friday evening, he said the group was pulling out "due to some very complicated and unforeseen issues with acquiring the land." The deal involved both public and private parcels.

The group said it would begin reviewing proposals from 15 other New Mexico communities that had expressed an interest in the project. Hobbs and Las Cruces were the two finalists in the original site selection process.

"We are still very committed to locating in New Mexico if a site can be identified," Brumley said in a statement Friday evening.

New Mexico initially was selected for the project because of its abundance of land and its federal research facilities like White Sands Missile Range in southern New Mexico and Los Alamos and Sandia national labs.

CITE officials insisted the land deal — not other problems with investor funding — was behind the decision.

"While the acquisition of the land has taken more time than expected, the CITE project itself continues to move forward and the design and lab development is currently ongoing," Brumley said.

CITE's plans call for a $1 billion city without residents to help researchers test everything from intelligent traffic systems and next-generation wireless networks to automated washing machines and self-flushing toilets.

The town will be modeled after the real midsize American city of Rock Hill, S.C., complete with highways, houses and commercial buildings, old and new. No one will live there, although they could as houses will include all the necessities, like appliances and plumbing.

The point of the town is to enable researchers to test new technologies on existing infrastructure without interfering in everyday life and communications networks.

Teen gets 99 years for robbery at party

Associated Press

FORT WORTH — A North Texas jury has sentenced a 19-year-old man to 99 years in prison for infiltrating a high school Halloween costume party and robbing the partygoers at gunpoint.

The Tarrant County jury deliberated about 1 1/2 hours Friday before assessing the maximum punishment on Pedro Dominguez.

A statement from the Tarrant County District Attorney's Office said the sentence came a day after jurors deliberated about an hour before finding him guilty of 11 counts of aggravated robbery and one of burglary.

Man guilty for enticing teen girl, child porn

By Audrie Palmer
Staff Writer

A federal jury on Friday found guilty a second man connected with an Odessa child prostitution case.

Trevin Rounds, 27, was found guilty of one count of possession of child pornography and one count of coercion and enticement of a minor to engage in sexual activity.

On March 17, deputies in Concho County stopped Rounds, who was en route to Houston, for a minor traffic violation. According to an arrest affidavit, he did not have a valid driver's license and his passenger, a 14-year-old girl, was listed as a missing juvenile.

Authorities searched Rounds' iPhone and found photographs and a video of Rounds and the girl in bed together and engaged in sexual relations. Calls and messages used in the distribution of narcotics and prostitution also were found on the phone, authorities said.

The girl was transported to Shannon Medical Center in San Angelo where she underwent a Sexual Assault Nurse Exam and was treated for a ruptured ear drum.

On Wednesday, Brian Terrell Phea, 25, was found guilty of sex trafficking of a child and promotion of a business enterprise involving prostitution involving the same girl.

On March 12, she boarded a bus from her home in Houston to meet Phea in Amarillo, where the two slept together before he drove her to the Quality Inn in Odessa to work as a prostitute for him.

Phea slapped the girl and ruptured her eardrum when she told him she didn't want to sell her body, authorities said. She then was forced to work with one male client before Phea had Rounds come to Odessa to drive the girl home to Houston.

Rounds faces a maximum sentence of 10 years imprisonment for the child porn possession count and a minimum of 10 years to life in prison for the enticement count; Phea faces between 15 years and life in prison for the sex trafficking count and a maximum of five years in prison for the promotion count.

Both men are scheduled to be sentenced on Sept. 27.

Penn State to renovate areas where boys abused

Associated Press

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. — Penn State plans to renovate the building where Jerry Sandusky sexually molested boys.

University spokesman David La Torre said Friday that Penn State plans to remodel the football shower and locker room area as a direct result of Sandusky's crimes. The former defensive coordinator was convicted of assaulting some of his victims in the team shower.

La Torre said renovation plans to the Lasch Football Building were drawn up shortly after Sandusky's arrest in November. But Penn State can't move forward until all legal proceedings in the case are over, he said.

Penn State President Rodney Erickson said there have been discussions about Lasch building renovations between Athletic Director David Joyner and new Penn State football coach Bill O'Brien.

Reminders of the Sandusky child sex abuse scandal — and the senior school officials accused of covering it up — are all over Penn State's campus and State College. School officials said they are still weighing how to deal with the other imagery associated with the scandal.

A statue outside Beaver Stadium served as a focal point for mourners of late coach Joe Paterno, but it has turned into a target for critics angered by former FBI director Louis Freeh's findings that Paterno and other university administrators concealed allegations against Sandusky in 1998 and 2001 to avoid bad publicity.

Some newspaper columnists and former Florida State coach Bobby Bowden have said the statue should be taken down.

"You go to a Penn State football game and there's 100,000 people down there and they got that statute and you know doggone well they'll start talking about Sandusky," Bowden told The Associated Press. "If it was me, I wouldn't want to have it brought up every time I walked out on the field."

DA: No word from Alamo Bowl victim

SAN ANTONIO — San Antonio prosecutors say they haven't heard from Pennsylvania authorities or the person who accused former Penn State coach Jerry Sandusky of abuse at the 1999 Alamo Bowl.

Prosecutors in Pennsylvania have alleged that Sandusky brought a person known as Victim 4 to San Antonio for his final game as Penn State's defensive coordinator.

Bexar County District Attorney Susan Reed told the San Antonio Express-News that Pennsylvania prosecutors wouldn't give them the identity of Victim 4. Bexar prosecutors also asked officials there to tell the victim they would open a case with his cooperation. They said they haven't heard from him.

A report released Thursday claims former coach Joe Paterno and other top Penn State officials covered up what they knew about claims that Sandusky had abused children.

ENERGY BRIEFS
FROM WIRE REPORTS

HOUSTON

Weekly US oil, gas rig count down by 12 to 1,953

The number of rigs actively exploring for oil and natural gas in the U.S. is down by 12 this week to 1,953.

Houston-based oilfield services company Baker Hughes Inc. reported Friday that 1,427 rigs were exploring for oil and 522 for gas. Four were listed as miscellaneous. A year ago, Baker Hughes reported 1,905 rigs.

Of the major oil- and gas-producing states, New Mexico gained seven rigs, North Dakota and Wyoming gained three and Oklahoma gained one.

Texas lost 17 rigs, Louisiana lost five, Colorado lost three and Alaska and California each lost one.

Arkansas, Pennsylvania and West Virginia were unchanged.

NEW YORK

Oil prices rise for a third day on supply concern

The price of oil climbed Friday for a third straight day as traders fretted about declines in supply in key areas around the world.

A series of reports this week showed that oil supplies from Iran, the North Sea and the U.S. have declined. Continued decreases would likely squeeze global supplies, while demand is expected to rise to a record of about 90 million barrels per day this year.

Benchmark U.S. crude rose by $1.02 to finish at $87.10 per barrel in New York, while Brent crude increased by 35 cents per barrel to $101.42 per barrel in London.

Iran continued to spar with the West over its nuclear program on Friday. State-run media reported that recent military exercises in Iran showed that its military has improved the accuracy and firing capabilities of its missiles. The reports, which confirmed a Pentagon assessment last month, followed new U.S. sanctions announced Thursday.

Basic Energy: Softer demand will affect 2Q results

Associated Press

Basic Energy Services Inc. said Friday that it expects second-quarter revenue to fall slightly more than previously forecast because of softer demand for well site services.

The Midland-based company forecast a 2.5 percent decline in revenue from the first quarter's total of $370.9 million. Last month, it had predicted a 1 percent to 2 percent decline in revenue.

Ken Huseman, president and CEO, said in a statement that demand weakened late in June because several jobs were postponed until after the July Fourth holiday.

"In addition to a flattening of activity, we are still seeing more equipment being repositioned into the more active markets, causing competitive pricing pressures," he said in a statement.

Huseman expects U.S. land drilling rig counts to decline in the latter part of the year, which means the company's services related to well completion will decline.

Basic Energy provides well site services for oil and gas wells across major producing regions. In June, the company's well-servicing rig utilization rate was 76 percent. That compared with 72 percent in May and 74 percent in June 2011.

Shares of Basic Energy rose 30 cents, or 3.3 percent, to end at $9.35 Friday.

Oklahoma producers talk to Congress

Associated Press

EDMOND, Okla. — Federal regulations on the oil and gas industry, particularly for hydraulic fracturing, are slowing a potential nationwide economic boom and keeping the country from gaining greater energy independence, Oklahoma producers told congressional leaders Friday.

Several officials with ties to the energy industry in Oklahoma, including newly elected Oklahoma Corporation Commission Chairman Patrice Douglas, testified during a field hearing of the U.S. House Committee on Oversight and Government Reform at the University of Central Oklahoma.

U.S. Rep. Darrell Issa, R-Calif., the chairman of the panel, said new drilling techniques, including hydraulic fracturing, have dramatically increased the nation's supply of oil and natural gas and provided an opportunity for a national economic recovery. But Issa said oppressive regulations from the federal government, often supported with manipulated or inaccurate scientific data, are choking that opportunity.

"We all understand that America is the Saudi Arabia of natural gas," Issa said. "We do have an abundance of very clean fuel, one that if we used should please both the left, who want us to reduce our carbon footprint, and the right, myself included, who want to know that America can feed itself the energy that changed the Stone Age."

Mike McDonald, the co-owner of Triad Energy, an Oklahoma City-based oil and gas production company, described hydraulic fracturing as "the current bogeyman used by environmental activists to scare ordinary citizens."

RockHounds' offense lights up Missions

From staff reports

SAN ANTONIO — Michael Choice and Miles Head combined to drive in seven runs and the Midland RockHound pitchers recorded a shutout in a 10-0 victory over the San Antonio Missions Friday night at Nelson Wolf Stadium.

One night after both teams combined for 23 runs and 30 hits, the RockHound offense took center stage all by itself as it had 11 hits, led by Choice, who was 3 for 4 with a double, home run and three RBI. Head, Josh Horton and Anthony Aliotti each had two hits with Head adding a home run and four RBI.

Also, the 23 runs scored by the RockHounds over the last two nights are the most they've scored in back-to-back games since the 20 runs they scored in two wins against Northwest Arkansas in late May.

The RockHounds scored single runs in the first, second and third innings and then made it 5-0 in the fourth on an RBI groundout by Aliotti and an RBI single by Head.

That cushion was more than enough for Midland starter Sonny Gray (3-7), who pitched 5 1/3 scoreless innings and scattered four hits to get the win. Gray also struck out six and walked four.

In addition to Gray, relievers James Simmons and Shawn Haviland were just as impressive as they combined to pitch 3 2/3 scoreless innings and allowed a combined three hits.

After a Choice solo home run in the sixth that made it 6-0, the RockHounds added a four-run eighth inning as Choice added an

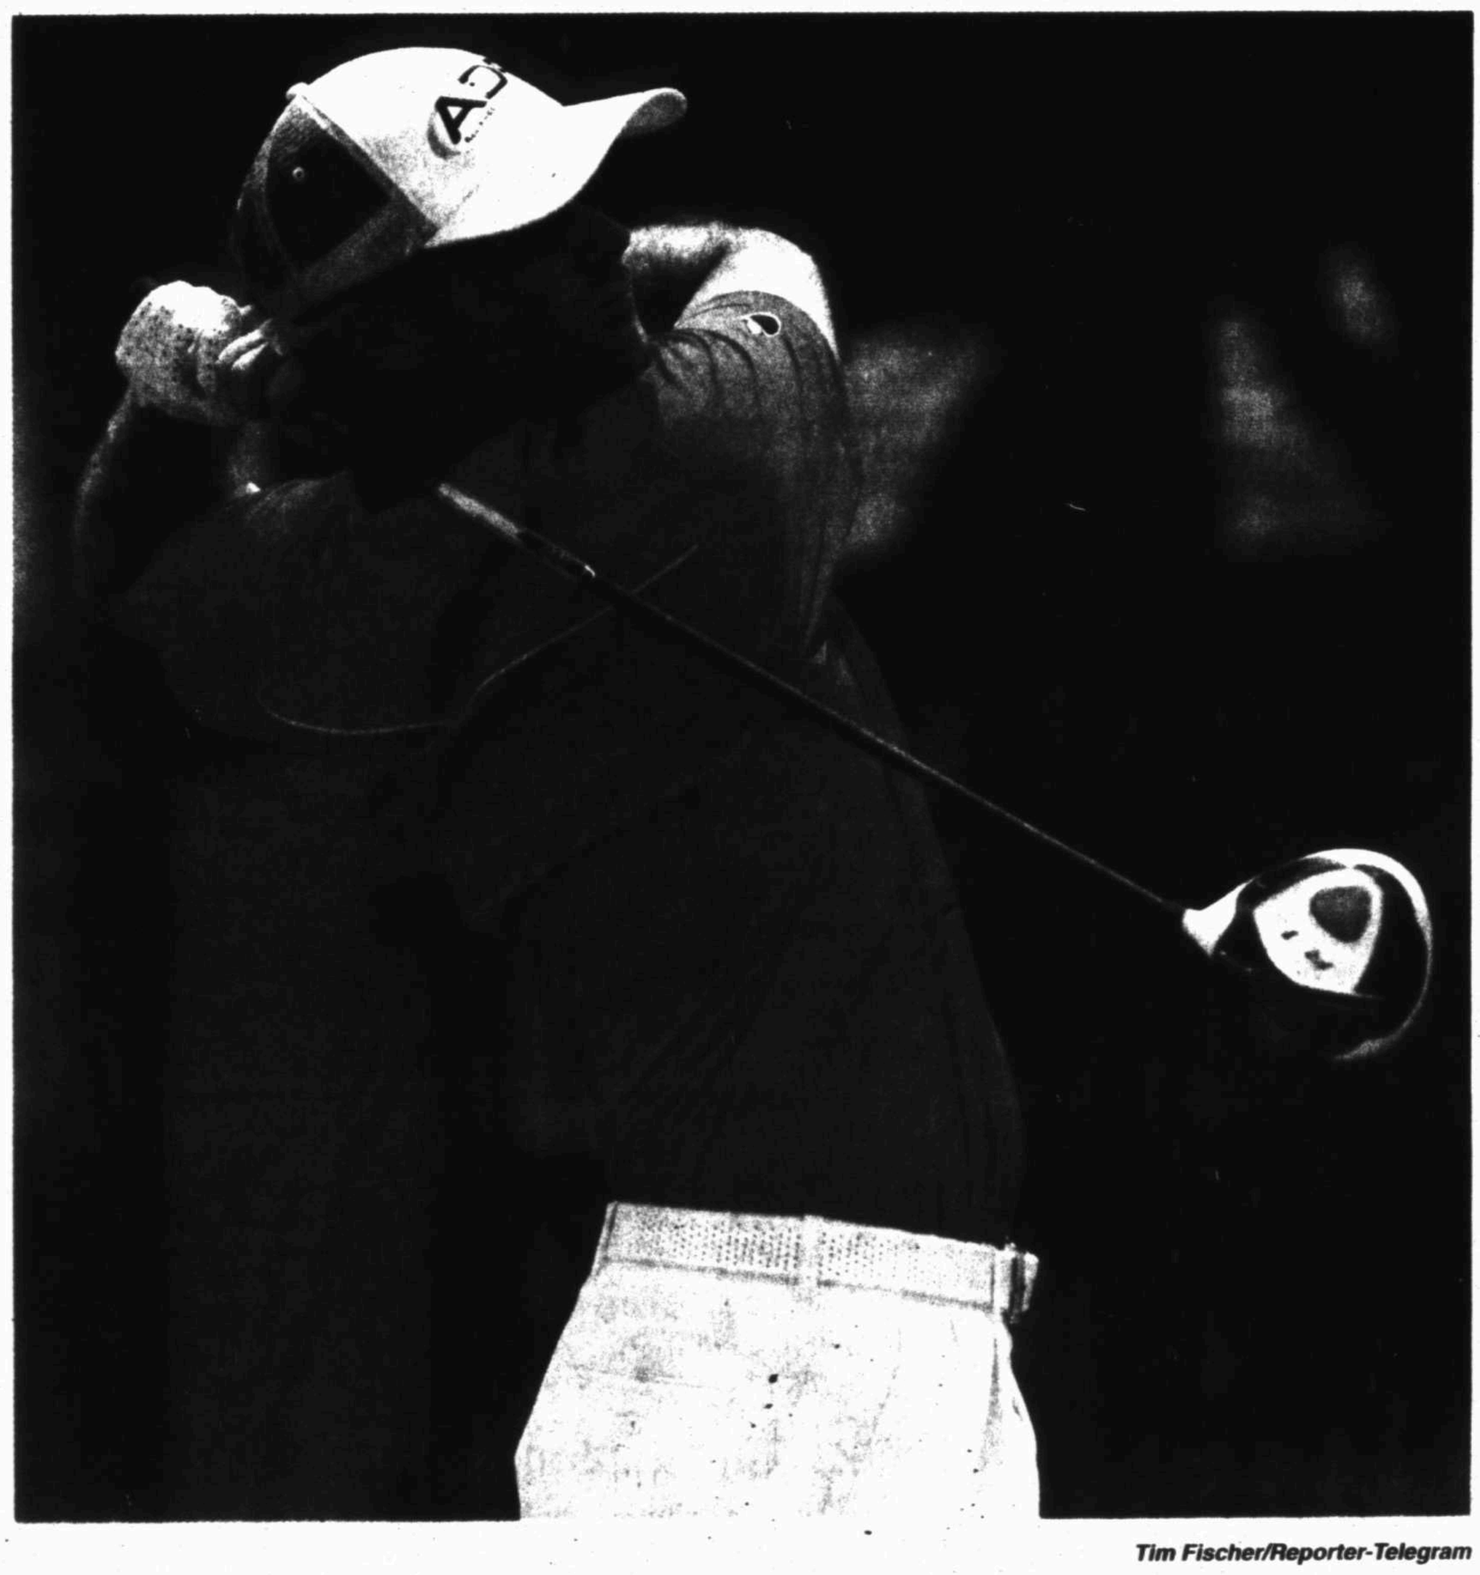
Rebel duo rolling



Tim Fischer/Reporter-Telegram

K.T. Livingston follows his shot Friday during the first round of the Green Tree Jamboree at Green Tree Country Club. Livingston and partner Bobby Whiteside have the lead after posting a 13-under 59.

Team of Livington, Whiteside take 3-stroke lead at Jamboree

By Len Hayward
Sports Editor

K.T. Livingston and Bobby Whiteside have wanted to win the Jamboree at Green Tree Country Club long before they were even eligible to compete.

This year the two former Lee High School golfers teamed up for the first time, and on Friday they showed they will be formidable pair this weekend.

Livingston and Whiteside shot a record-setting 13-under par 59 on the East and North Courses and have a three-stroke lead over the duo of Robert House and Jay McHugh heading into today's second round.

The two have competed in the tournament for the last couple of years but with different partners, including pairing up with their fathers in previous years. But shortly after last year's Jamboree, the two decided to team up and take a shot at winning together.

"It means a lot, and we are not on tour and this is the equivalent of our Masters or something like that," Livingston said. "It's a big deal, and we've been kind of looking forward to this for a long time."

Whiteside and Livingston's round was one of a number of rounds that were low at Green Tree on Friday as the lack of a trademark West Texas wind gave the Championship Flight players a chance to go at pins.

Livingston and Whiteside's round didn't quite start like they wanted, though, after missing some make-able birdie putts on the first three holes on the East course.

But Whiteside, whose home course is Green Tree, sank a shot from off the green on No. 4, and then a hole later Livingston holed a shot out on No. 5, and

Drew Brees agrees to $100 million deal with Saints

By Brett Martel
Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — Drew Brees and the Saints reached a deal on par with the quarterback's record-setting play, giving New Orleans' fans some news they can celebrate after an offseason rife with turmoil.

The team announced Friday that it had agreed to a five-year contract with Brees. A person familiar with the deal said it's for $100 million, with $60 million guaranteed.

The deal will also pay the quarterback $40 million the first year, the person told The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because financial details had not been publicly announced.

Brees posted a note on his Twitter page reading, "Deal is Done! Love you, Who Dat Nation. See you soon!"

He had been tagged as the Saints' exclusive franchise player and could not negotiate with other teams.

Had a deal not been reached, the tender for a quarterback was worth $16.3 million. Brees would have had to play for that amount or hold out for a better one-year deal, which would have left his long-term future in New Orleans uncertain.

Brees skipped the Saints' offseason practices while holding out for his new long-term contract, which now gives him the highest average annual pay ($20 million) in NFL history. Buffalo defensive end Mario Williams also has a $100 million contract, but for six years.

Now Brees is set to report for the opening of Saints training camp on July 24, a needed dose of good news for a club whose offseason has been plagued by the bounty scandal that resulted in the season-long suspensions of head coach Sean Payton and linebacker Jonathan Vilma, among other sanctions.

"Congratulations are in order for our organization, our city, Drew and (his wife) Brittany and certainly for (general manager) Mickey Loomis and his staff," Saints owner Tom Benson said in a written statement. "Now we must turn our focus to getting ready for the start of training camp and to keeping with our goal of being the first team in NFL history to play a Super Bowl on its own field." New Orleans is hosting the Super Bowl this February.

Brees' teammates quickly took to the social media website Twitter to congratulate him.

Safety Malcolm Jenkins wrote "Congrats bro ... You've changed the game on and off the field!!! No one deserves it more than you ... See u on the 24th."

Tight end Jimmy Graham tweeted: "Congrats (at)drewbrees ... very happy for you, your family and all the Who-dat Nation .... let's go get the trophy."

Even LSU coach Les Miles chimed in, tweeting: "It's a great day for New Orleans and the state of Louisiana. Congrats to both Drew Brees and the Saints on reaching a deal. Who Dat!"

The contract, which includes a $37 million signing bonus, also gives the Saints more flexibility under the NFL's salary cap. Because bonuses count against the cap on a pro-rated basis over the life of the contract — $7.4 million per year in Brees' case — the quarterback will cost the club only $10.4 million against the cap in 2012. That gives Loomis nearly $6 million more in wiggle room to manage the entire roster than if Brees had played for the franchise tag.

Withrow delays pro baseball, will play for Tech

■ The Midland Christian grad was drafted in the 37th round by the Texas Rangers.

From staff reports

Former Midland Christian pitcher Matt Withrow said he is turning down the Texas Rangers and will play for Texas Tech next season, the school announced in a release on Friday.

Withrow, a right-handed pitcher, was a 37th-round pick of the Texas Rangers in last month's Major League Baseball first-year player draft and is the younger brother of current Los Angeles Dodgers farmhand Chris Withrow.

Withrow

"Once I signed with Tech I knew I had that option and that was a good feeling," Withrow said in the release. "I knew if it didn't work out in the draft I would go to Tech and have another chance at pro ball later on."

Withrow finished his senior year at Midland Christian with a 7-0 record and 2.49 earned run average with 79 strikeouts and 35 walks in 59 innings, leading the Mustangs to the school's first state baseball championship in 2012.

Withrow was the last of the Tech signees that decided to play at Tech as three other signees inked professional contracts.

"I think Matt understands the value of going to school for three years and where his development will put him at the end of his third season here," new Texas Tech head baseball coach Tim Tadlock said. "I think he has a chance to be a starter for us right away."

Sockers hope to end 4-game skid today

■ The Sockers lost to Laredo on Thursday and host the Texas Dutch Lions today.

From staff reports

The West Texas Sockers will look to close their season on a winning note today when they take on the Texas Dutch Lions at 8 p.m. at Grande Communications Stadium.

West Texas (2-7-6, 12 points) is trying to snap a season-high four-game skid with its most recent loss, a 3-1 set back on Thursday against Laredo. The Sockers' last win was June 9 on the road against El Paso.

West Texas visited the Dutch Lions (5-7-2, 17 points) a week ago and fell behind 3-0 en route to a, 5-3 loss.

Goalkeeper Alonso Jimenez, who had seven saves in the loss to Laredo, continues to battle a knee injury but is expected to play.

Defender Sergio Ross left the Laredo game in the first half after colliding with Heat forward Juan Nava, and his status for today is unknown.

The first 500 fans at the game today will receive a free hat.

Mavs win bid to get F Brand, let go by 76ers

Associated Press

DALLAS — The Dallas Mavericks won the bidding Friday to obtain two-time All-Star forward Elton Brand off waivers, the latest in a series of moves to build their roster after a frustrating start in free agency.

Brand was available after the Philadelphia 76ers this week used the one-time amnesty provision in the new CBA to let him go and not have the $18.1 million he is owed in the final season of his five-year deal count against their salary cap or luxury tax.

Dallas also completed a one-year deal with 7-foot center Chris Kaman, who had tweeted two days earlier that he reached an agreement with the Mavericks.

A year after winning their first NBA title, the Mavericks couldn't sway Deron Williams to come play for his hometown team. Williams stayed with the Nets for their move to Brooklyn and signed his new deal early Wednesday, the first day new deals could be finalized.

Plus, guards Jason Kidd and Jason Terry are leaving Dallas in free agency.

The Mavs acquired point guard Darren Collison and wing player Dahntay Jones from Indianapolis in a trade Thursday for center Ian Mahinmi.

Brand will still get the full $18.1 million he is owed, with Philadelphia paying any difference. Any team under the salary cap was eligible to bid for the 6-foot-9 forward.

The winning bid wasn't revealed by the Mavericks. ESPN, citing anonymous sources, reported it was $2.1 million.

Lin signs offer sheet with Rockets

By Chris Duncan
Associated Press

HOUSTON— The Houston Rockets want Jeremy Lin back, and they're hoping to see him throw a few post passes to Dwight Howard.

Lin has signed an offer sheet with Houston, according to a person with direct knowledge of the move. The person spoke to The Associated Press on Friday night on condition of anonymity because the agreement with the New York Knicks' point guard was not announced.

Another person familiar with the negotiations said it's a three-year deal worth about $25 million. The person, who spoke on condition of anonymity because the terms had not been announced, says the third year is worth about $15 million.

FROM WIRE REPORTS

AMERICAN LEAGUE

YANKEES 6, ANGELS 5

NEW YORK — Mark Teixeira homered twice and drove in five runs, Russell Martin hit a go-ahead single and the New York Yankees overcame yet another homer by Mark Trumbo to rally past the Los Angeles Angels 6-5 Friday night.

Teixeira's three-run shot and Martin's two-out single in the eighth inning overcame the Angels' 5-2 edge.

Trumbo homered in his fifth straight game against the Yankees, a three-run shot in the seventh.

INDIANS 1, BLUE JAYS 0

TORONTO — Justin Masterson pitched seven sharp innings, Travis Hafner homered and Cleveland beat the Blue Jays.

Vinnie Pestano worked the eighth and All-Star closer Chris Perez finished for his 25th save in 27 chances save as the Indians wrapped up their sixth shutout of the season.

Hafner provided the only run Cleveland would need when he led off the second with a towering drive to right off Ricky Romero (8-5), his eighth.

RED SOX 3, RAYS 1

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — David Ortiz hit his 23rd homer and Pedro Ciriaco had three hits and drove in two runs, helping the Red Sox beat the Rays.

Franklin Morales (2-2) allowed two hits over five scoreless innings to win for the second time since the left-hander was moved into the starting rotation last month. The left-hander walked three and struck out five before being replaced by Scott Atchison, who yielded an unearned run in the sixth.

Ortiz hit a solo homer off Jeremy Hellickson (4-6) in the first inning to extend his hitting streak to a season-best eight games.

TIGERS 7, ORIOLES 2

BALTIMORE — Miguel Cabrera and Jhonny Peralta homered, Doug Fister pitched seven innings of three-hit ball and Detroit beat the Orioles for its sixth straight victory.

Brennan Boesh had two RBIs for the Tigers, who moved three games over .500 (45-42) for the first time since April 24, when they were 10-7.

Fister (3-6) gave up one run, struck out eight and walked none to earn his first road win in seven tries this season.

ATHLETICS 6, TWINS 3

MINNEAPOLIS — Jonny Gomes' grand slam helped the Athletics overcome a career-high 15 strikeouts from Francisco Liriano and beat the Twins.

Liriano's 15 strikeouts were the second most in Twins' history and most since Johan Santana fanned 17 Texas batters at the Metrodome on Aug. 19, 2007.

Josh Willingham hit two home runs for Minnesota which has lost five of six.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

NATIONALS 5, MARLINS 1

MIAMI — Ryan Zimmerman hit a two-run homer, Jesus Flores drove in two runs, and the Washington Nationals beat the Miami Marlins 5-1 on Friday night in the first game after the All-Star break for both clubs.

Jordan Zimmermann (6-6) pitched six scoreless innings allowing four hits and striking out six for the Nationals, who have won six of eight.

REDS 5, CARDINALS 3

CINCINNATI — St. Louis first baseman Allen Craig's throwing error in the seventh inning helped the Reds rally for their fourth straight win.

Craig fielded Ryan Hanigan's slow grounder with the bases loaded and threw wildly to first base, allowing two runs to score for a 3-2 lead off Adam Wainwright (7-9). Zack Cozart's sacrifice fly completed a three-run rally.

CUBS 8, DIAMONDBACKS 1

CHICAGO — Alfonso Soriano homered twice, doubled twice and had five RBIs in a game that was delayed at the start nearly four hours by rain.

Soriano hit a solo homer in the fourth inning and a three-run shot in the fifth off Ian Kennedy and added a run-scoring double in the seventh off Brad Ziegler.

BREWERS 10, PIRATES 7

MILWAUKEE — Cody Ransom hit his first career grand slam with two outs in the eighth inning to lift the Milwaukee Brewers to a 10-7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates on Friday night.

Ryan Braun hit two home runs as Milwaukee improved to 40-6 against Pittsburgh at Miller Park since 2007. Martin Maldonado finished with a career-high four hits, all singles, to hand Pittsburgh only its third loss in the last 13 games.

BRAVES 7, METS 5

ATLANTA — David Ross homered and drove in four runs, Chipper Jones also connected and the Atlanta Braves survived a crisis at shortstop to beat the New York Mets 7-5 on Friday night.

The Braves started the day thin at shortstop. They chose to wait to replace rookie Andrelton Simmons, who broke his right little finger on Sunday and will be out at least one month. Atlanta then lost shortstop Jack Wilson with another pinkie injury.

ROCKHOUNDS

From 1B

RBI double and then Head launched a three-run home run to right field for the 10-0 advantage.

Donn Roach (1-1) suffered the loss for the Missions.

The RockHounds now look to win the series in the third game of a four-game set at 7:05 p.m. today.

Millar wins longest Tour stage; Wiggins keeps lead

By Jamey Keaten
Associated Press

ANNONAY, France — David Millar, a reformed "ex-doper," won a stage at the Tour de France on Friday, saying his victory is proof riders can win cleanly.

His British compatriot, Bradley Wiggins, is of like mind. Wiggins, who holds the overall lead, is looking to not only win the race when it ends July 22 but win over cycling fans troubled by the sport's long history with drugs.

"I do want to start building bridges to prove that I'm doing this off bread and water. ... So if I can be as open and as honest as possible, then hopefully that will go some way to gaining people's trust," he said.

Millar's victory and Wiggins' assertions came exactly 45 years after Tom Simpson, the first Briton to wear yellow, died on the slopes of the Mont Ventoux after using a lethal mix of amphetamines and alcohol.

"It's particularly poignant that I win the day of this anniversary because I'm an ex-doper, I made mistakes," Millar said. "It's a nice kind of full circle that I've now won today a clean rider — after making the same mistakes that Tommy made."

He added: "I hope that today I've shown where cycling has come in the last 45 years, and even in the last five years."

Millar, who rides for the U.S. Garmin-Sharp team, has been cycling's most vocal critic of doping for years. The 35-year-old Scotsman said he learned hard lessons after "making a mess" of his life through drugs.

He won the Tour's 12th and longest stage Friday by leading a five-rider breakaway as the race left the Alps. The 140-mile ride from Saint-Jean-de-Maurienne to Annonay-Davezieux featured two big climbs, but did not change the top of the standings because Wiggins and his main rivals finished together.

Wiggins, a three-time Olympic track gold medalist, is trying to become Britain's first Tour winner. His Team Sky has controlled the Tour in a style reminiscent of Lance Armstrong's former US Postal squad.

Armstrong, a seven-time Tour champion, is battling charges from the U.S. Anti-Doping Agency that accused him of using performance-enhancing drugs. He denies any wrongdoing.

Millar, while riding for the French team Cofidis, was banned from cycling for two years in 2004 after using the banned blood booster EPO — once the drug of choice for cycling cheats.

"I'm an ex-doper and I'm clean now, and I want to show everyone that it's possible to win clean on the Tour," Millar said.

Wiggins also rode for Cofidis. He has said he threw his jersey into the trash and swore never to wear it again after Cofidis pulled out of the 2007 Tour following Italian rider Christian Moreni's positive test for testosterone.

This year, the French team has been at the center of a doping case. Remy Di Gregorio, a Cofidis rider, was placed under investigation Thursday following his arrest two days earlier as part of a French doping inquiry. He is suspected of illegal possession of doping products or equipment.

Busch wins first pole of season

By Howard Ulman
Associated Press

LOUDON, N.H. — Kyle Busch was the last driver to go in Friday's Sprint Cup qualifying, and he made the most of the opportunity.

Busch posted a lap of 133.417 mph to capture his first pole position of the season for Sunday's race at the New Hampshire Motor Speedway. Kasey Kahne, who drove 133.403 mph on the fastest of his two laps, will start alongside Busch.

"It was a good lap for us, but I thought I was probably going to be third or fourth," said Busch, who won the 2006 NASCAR race at Loudon and will be starting on from the front row for the third time this year.

Busch nearly brushed the wall near the end of his qualifying run when "the car slipped right at the last second," he said. "There's no mark on the car, so all is good there." He went on to his ninth career pole.

Denny Hamlin was in line for the top position with a lap of 133.399 mph until Kahne pushed him back a spot in the 44-car field.

Hamlin had back spasms last week that cause him to skip the Nationwide Series race at Daytona International Speedway and shelved him for practice for the Sprint Cup stop. But he felt better Friday.

"Back spasms come and go. Obviously, last week was a bad week for it," Hamlin said. "(I) don't feel any lingering symptoms from it."

Rounding out the top 10 were Martin Truex Jr., Clint Bowyer, Ryan Newman, Jimmie Johnson, Jeff Gordon, Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Tony Stewart.

The top 10 qualifying times were very close, from Busch's lap of 28.548 seconds to Stewart's of 28.651. And only .047 seconds separated the top eight.

"As far as the times, everyone is really close, so you have to go for all you can get," Kahne said. "I was aggressive on the first lap."

Matt Kenseth, who leads the Sprint Cup series in points, was 27th with a time of 29.023.

Lubbock Christian moves to NCAA Div. II

Associated Press

LUBBOCK — Lubbock Christian has been accepted for candidacy to move its 11 varsity athletic programs from NAIA to the NCAA Division II level.

The school said Friday that it will remain in the Sooner Athletic Conference for the upcoming academic year, followed by a two-year transition and provisional period. The Chaparrals hope to gain official NCAA Division II status for the 2015-16 academic year.

Lubbock Christian has men's and women's teams in basketball, cross country, golf and soccer. The school also has a baseball team along with softball and volleyball squads for women.

Shawn Reeves looks at his ball after teeing off on Friday during the first round of the Green Tree Jamboree at Green Tree Country Club.

JAMBOREE

from that point on the Rebel duo began rolling.

Along with Livingston's five birdies and two eagles, Whiteside carded five birdies and had an eagle. Livingston's final eagle came on the final hole of the round, No. 9 North, as he sank about a 20-foot birdie putt to card the sub-60 round.

The 13-under par is a tournament record for one round under par.

"No way this is even close to over," said Livingston, who carded five birdies and two eagles. "We've still got a lot of work ahead of us, but you'd much rather have a great start than a bad start."

All 22 teams in the Championship Flight shot under par as only two teams shot 70 or above. McHugh, who was battling a back injury on Thursday, and House put together a 10-under 62 on the strength of 10 birdies and an eagle to go with two bogeys.

"We didn't hit it close, but we made a bunch of 15-footers and 10-footers," House said.

McHugh said if the weather conditions persist with no wind over the weekend, there will be plenty of scores like what was seen on Friday today and Sunday.

"This is a birdie-fest tournament, and usually 22 or 23 (under par) wins it, and when we are already at 13 this could be a record-breaking year," McHugh said. "With it being so hot, it's not going to get firm, and it's going to be pretty go-gettable."

The Waco pair of Cory Bull and Colby Harwell and Mark Terry and Beau Davis are tied for third after each shot a 63.

Defending champions Shawn Reeves and J.D. Dickerson combined for a 67 on Friday and are tied for 12th spot.

Championship Flight teams will begin teeing off at 8:24 a.m. today.

PROGOLFROUNDUP

FROM WIRE REPORTS

Champions

U.S. SENIOR OPEN: At Lake Orion, Mich., Lance Ten Broeck shot a 68 at the U.S. Senior Open on Friday at Indianwood.

His 6-under 134 gave him a one-shot lead over first-round leader Tom Kite.

Tom Lehman and Corey Pavin were in a pack that will go into the weekend two strokes back.

The 56-year-old Ten Broeck finished tied for 71st in June at his only other Champions Tour event this year. He has a 36-hole lead for the first time in his playing career. The Chicagoan had a share of the lead after two rounds at the PGA Tour's Hall of Fame classic in 1982 and he finished tied for 12th.

PGA European

SCOTTISH OPEN: At Inverness, Scotland, Phil Mickelson broke out of his slump with an 8-under 64 at the Scottish Open, leaving him five shots off the second-round lead shared by Alexander Noren and Francesco Molinari.

Noren used another round of 66 to move to 12 under alongside Molinari, who couldn't match his blistering 62 on Thursday but managed a 70.

Mickelson charged up the leaderboard in an overcast but largely wind-free round at the Castle Stuart links. The three-time Masters champion broke par for the first time since May, with an eagle and six birdies putting him in a strong position for the weekend and improving his confidence before the British Open.

PGA

JOHN DEERE CLASSIC: At Silvis, Ill., Troy Matteson shot a 3-under-par 68 for a one-stroke lead over Jeff Maggert and Brian Harman after two rounds of the John Deere Classic.

Matteson was at 13-under 129. Maggert's bogey-free round of 9-under 62 moved him from 39th place after the first round to a tie for second. He birdied half the holes at TPC Deere Run, including five of his last nine.

Harman had a second straight 65, the last two of his seven birdies coming after a 48-minute thunderstorm delay.

Blake Griffin off Olympic team with knee injury

By Brian Mahoney
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Blake Griffin has officially withdrawn from the Olympics and Anthony Davis has been added to the U.S. basketball team's roster.

Griffin needs surgery to repair torn cartilage in his left knee and joins a lengthy list of American stars that are sidelined this summer.

Davis replaced him in the Americans' 113-59 exhibition victory over the Dominican Republic on Thursday in Las Vegas, scoring nine points in the fourth quarter. The No. 1 overall draft pick couldn't be put on the 12-man roster for London until Griffin had withdrawn Friday.

"Blake worked extremely hard in our training camp and certainly would have been a valuable contributor," USA Basketball chairman Jerry Colangelo said in a statement. "This is another unfortunate injury, but we have to continue to move on and we're very fortunate to have Anthony Davis available. Anthony offers our team additional height and length, and this will be an incredible experience for him."

Davis sprained his ankle during a workout with the New Orleans Hornets and was unable to scrimmage when the Americans opened training camp last Friday, ruining any chance he had of making the original 12-man roster. But Colangelo, intrigued by Davis' skills, asked the 6-foot-10 forward to stick around with the select team of young players that was training against the national team, knowing he could be called upon as a replacement if there were another injury.

The college player of the year at national champion Kentucky last season brings rebounding and shot blocking to a team that has lost Griffin, Dwight Howard and Chris Bosh from its frontcourt.

"Whatever Coach K wants me to do I am going to do," Davis said. "I am going to look forward to the challenges, and I'm looking forward to going overseas and my first time out of the United States. I am looking forward to that and getting to mingle with some of the guys and getting to know them and their workout routines and how they get ready for each game. They are superstars and they are here for a reason, so I'll just try to emulate what they do."

Davis made a quick impression Thursday in his nine minutes on the floor, highlighted by a 3-pointer he hit while being fouled just in front of the U.S. bench.

Griffin hurt his knee during the playoffs and played through the pain before the Clippers were eliminated. He was playing well in camp and being counted on as an option at center before experiencing pain in the knee following practice Wednesday. He flew back to Los Angeles on Thursday and an MRI exam revealed the extent of the injury.

"I'm disappointed I can't be with the guys in London," Griffin said. "I want to wish them all the best in their pursuit of the gold medal."

LOCAL FORECAST

Expect sunny skies, a high near 96 and east winds around 5 to 10 mph. Tonight, the forecast calls for partly cloudy conditions and a low around 70.

On Sunday, sunny skies and a high near 94 are in the forecast.

On Monday, expect mostly sunny skies and a high near 93. There's no rain in the forecast until Thursday when a slight chance of showers is expected.

The high on Friday reached 97 while the low dropped to 68. The record high for July 13 is 107 set in 1933. The record low is 49 set in 1936.

Additional rounds of drenching and gusty thunderstorms are in store for the South today. High humidity and plenty of Gulf of Mexico moisture will not only bring the area more drought relief, but can also bring urban and flash flooding.

In the West, extreme heat will begin over the Northwest as a dip in the jet stream develops and begins to funnel Pacific air inland. Heat will be a bit more stubborn to leave the Southwest. In general, late-day, spotty storms will flow over the interior West due in part to recycled moisture and a flow of tropical moisture from Mexico.

Long-distance relationship may become uncomfortable

DEAR ABBY

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 17 and hopelessly confused. I'm currently in a long-distance relationship with someone I haven't seen in person for several months. At first, I wasn't "into" him, but after we began talking over Skype and emailing, he told me he liked me, so I said I liked him, too — even though I'm not physically attracted to him. I figured that since he lives so far away and there's no one at my school I could see myself liking, why make him feel bad by telling the truth?

Now he's coming to visit for a few days, and I'm worried that I won't like him. I'm his first girlfriend, and I think his parents are excited to see that he finally found someone. My mom tells me that he's a very nice boy and won't leave me like the rest of my egocentric exes. He's just very immature and socially awkward.

I thought I might eventually fall for him because he's smart, motivated and sweet — three things I value in a guy. What do I do about this? Is there something wrong with me? — HOPELESSLY CONFUSED IN SALT LAKE CITY

DEAR CONFUSED: There is nothing "wrong" with you — you are 17 and not experienced. When the young man said he liked you, you should have told him that you like him for all the qualities you mentioned, but as a FRIEND.

When he comes to visit, if he tries to make the encounter romantic, level with him. If you're not attracted to him, it would be cruel to lead him on. You're both still young and have many dating experiences ahead of you. In the future, please remember that honesty is the best policy.

DEAR ABBY: My recently divorced, beautiful, intelligent daughter, "Glynnis," is an executive with a global firm and has a high net worth. During her divorce, she reconnected with a high school friend who moved in with her.

This "friend" is a jobless, obese, coarse man who has been divorced three times. Glynnis uses him as an errand/houseboy, chauffeur, bodyguard, handyman and general flunky. He will do anything she asks of him at any time. One can only assume he thinks he has won the lottery.

This man is an embarrassment of monumental proportions. We live in another state and go to visit them. I am extremely uncomfortable with the bizarre image of a couple they present. At lunch, dinner or out shopping with them, people actually gasp when they realize the two are together.

I cannot relate to him. Conversing with him is hopeless. Of course, it's my daughter's business who she wants in her life. But I'm disgusted with the entire scenario. I don't want to damage my relationship with my daughter. Any suggestions? — GLYNNIS' DAD

DEAR DAD: Yes. Try harder to find SOMETHING you have in common with your daughter's companion, and you may start to understand what she sees in him. Right now he's serving a purpose.

Having been through a divorce, she may want a man around who can perform all the jobs you listed. She may just want someone she can control. If you're serious about his function as a bodyguard, suggest that if she feels threatened, she should talk to the police, who are trained to handle such matters.

As you said, your daughter is intelligent. It's unlikely she'll remarry anytime soon. So calm down and try to be less judgmental.

JACQUELINE BIGAR'S STARS

The stars show the kind of day you'll have: 5-dynamic; 4-positive; 3-average; 2-so-so; 1-difficult

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, July 14, 2012:

This year you will want to clarify appointments, statements and meeting places. If ever there were a year where confusion could occur, it is this one. As a result, your communication will improve. You also will opt for a lot of downtime to re-energize. If you are single, you could attract someone who could be emotionally unavailable. Make sure you know this person well before giving away your heart. If you are attached, the two of you will gain, especially if you take weekends away together from your normal lifestyles. You need this bonding time. GEMINI understands you better than you would like.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) ★★★★★ You happily dart from spending time with a favorite friend to the gym, or perhaps a meal with a loved one. You seem to be playing catch-up with others and enjoying every moment. Do choose your words with care. You could be misunderstood easily. Tonight: You don't have to go far.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) ★★★ Remain sensitive to others, and understand that money might not solve the problem or be the vehicle to express your caring. In some sense, you realize the importance of your actions. You cannot underestimate this self-expression. Tonight: Your treat.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) ★★★★ You beam in much more of what you want. Others are highly responsive to your energy and inquiries. A child or loved one could be creating a lot of uproar. Talk about your feelings, and allow the other party to clear the air. Tonight: It is your call.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) ★★ Know when to pull back and do little. Sometimes it is more appealing to allow the other party to make the first move; you might be a lot happier that way. The unexpected occurs when you are out and about or dealing with a respected person. Tonight: Add some mystery to the mix.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) ★★★★★ Whatever you touch seems to work, whether it is just getting together with friends or playing softball. A conversation might have a harsh tone to it, but ultimately you discover that no ill will was intended. Unexpected news might be pivotal. Tonight: Till the wee hours.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) ★★★ Pressure to do something becomes more and more important as time goes on. You could think there is a problem surrounding the request or demand. Still, you need to respond. A confusing message needs clarification. Make no judgments yet. Tonight: To the wee hours.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) ★★★★★ You have an ability to see the big picture. Surprising events could cause you to rethink a certain commitment. Detach, and look at the long term. Do not forget to call a loved one at a distance. Tonight: Let the good times roll.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) ★★★ Be willing to have a long-overdue discussion. You could feel uneasy, yet you may need to experience this discomfort if you want to root out a problem. Your sense of caring is pivotal to a loved one. Let your feelings show. Tonight: Add in some fun or flirtation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) ★★★★ You need some quality time with a friend or loved one. Whether it is a low-key visit or traveling somewhere together, you could be surprised and delighted by this person. Nix an invitation to join friends if you want to. Tonight: Doing only what you love.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) ★★★ A project needs to be taken off the back burner. You could be drawn and tired from the past few days, which most likely were spent socializing. Take advantage of a need to catch up on rest, and also make sure to handle this project. Tonight: More R and R.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) ★★★★★ Your lighthearted manner attracts both children and adults. Where you direct your energy is your choice. Make calls to someone at a distance; you'll see life in a much different light as a result. Tonight: Let the fun begin.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) ★★★ If you can, stay close to home. Invite family over if you are due for a visit. You will enjoy all the chatter and fun — far more than you ever thought possible. You'll feel fortunate by the day's end because of what happens. Tonight: Lighten the mood.

TRULY TEXAS

Let's explore common misconceptions about Texas

Helen Anders
Cox Newspapers

When I'm traveling and I'm asked where I'm from, whether I'm in next-door Louisiana or across the ocean in Paris, I almost always answer "Austin" rather than "Texas."

Everybody smiles when they hear "Austin." The world loves Austin. Austin, they say with authority, is cool.

"So, you've been there?" I ask.

"No," is the usual response, "but I want to go there." They say they've heard it's full of music, food trailers and good bars. And they're right. Austin, it seems, is the one part of Texas that is allowed to wear its own identity without being forced into a cowboy hat.

If I'm asked where I'm from and I happen to answer "Texas," I typically get a response involving cows, oil wells or, if we're in another country, J.R. Ewing. The return of J.R. in this summer's new TNT "Dallas" TV series is bound to increase that response, as well as pump up the longstanding myth that oil gushes out of the ground in Dallas. It doesn't. Hasn't. Won't.

It's one of many misconceptions about Texas. Another is that we all go around saying "Yee-haw." A Los Angeles person actually put that in an e-mail to me the other day, hoping to strike a chord. I have never uttered those words. Yet, they surfaced ceaselessly when "Top Chef Texas" aired on Bravo. Give it a rest, Burbank.

My husband, John, who was raised in Texas (I've been here merely 28 years), runs into Texas stereotypes more than I do because he has the accent. The bar tab came at a Manhattan drinkery, he offered to settle up, and the delighted bartender exclaimed, "Saddle up! Coming right up, Tex." John is no Tex. He has never worn boots or a cowboy hat. He doesn't chew on

Prairie dog town returns to Caprock area

From staff reports

QUITAQUE — There's a new town along the Texas Panhandle Plains.

And much like the pioneer predecessors who arrived hundreds of years before, the residents of this new unincorporated settlement arrived with little fanfare, minimal provisions and will build meager, basic living accommodations for their families. Likewise, they come seeking only a new frontier of freedom and embody a primal spirit of survival.

On June 28, 29 black-tailed prairie dogs were reintroduced to Caprock Canyons State Park's Honey Flat area as part of a prairie restoration project to return the park's landscape and wildlife back to its appearance before European settlement.

"This is the latest phase in our attempts to restore this prairie ecosystem," said Donald Beard, park superintendent. "Restoring the Texas state bison herd into the park will probably always be the flagship of our effort, but our plans also include bringing back other animals and native plants to make the land more complete. Adding a straw. He likes musicals, for gosh sakes.

Not that there's anything wrong with cows, hats, boots, oil wells, straw-chewing, yee-hawing or being named Tex. We're mighty proud of Texas oil (The Permian Basin -- think Midland -- produced 282 million barrels of oil in 2011) and cows (Deaf Smith County, west of Amarillo, boasts 600,000 head). It's just that Texas is ... not a whole other country, but a whole bunch of other countries. And there are misconceptions about nearly every one. Let's take a tour:

DALLAS

Perception: Oil wells, cowboy hats and big, blond hair.

Reality: Nary a drop of oil has emerged from Dallas County, nor from Collin County, to the north (home of Southfork Ranch). In neither place have I ever seen a cowboy hat except as an affectation or at the Cattle Baron's Ball, the annual American Cancer Society fundraiser, often held at Southfork. The hair part's right, though.

FORT WORTH

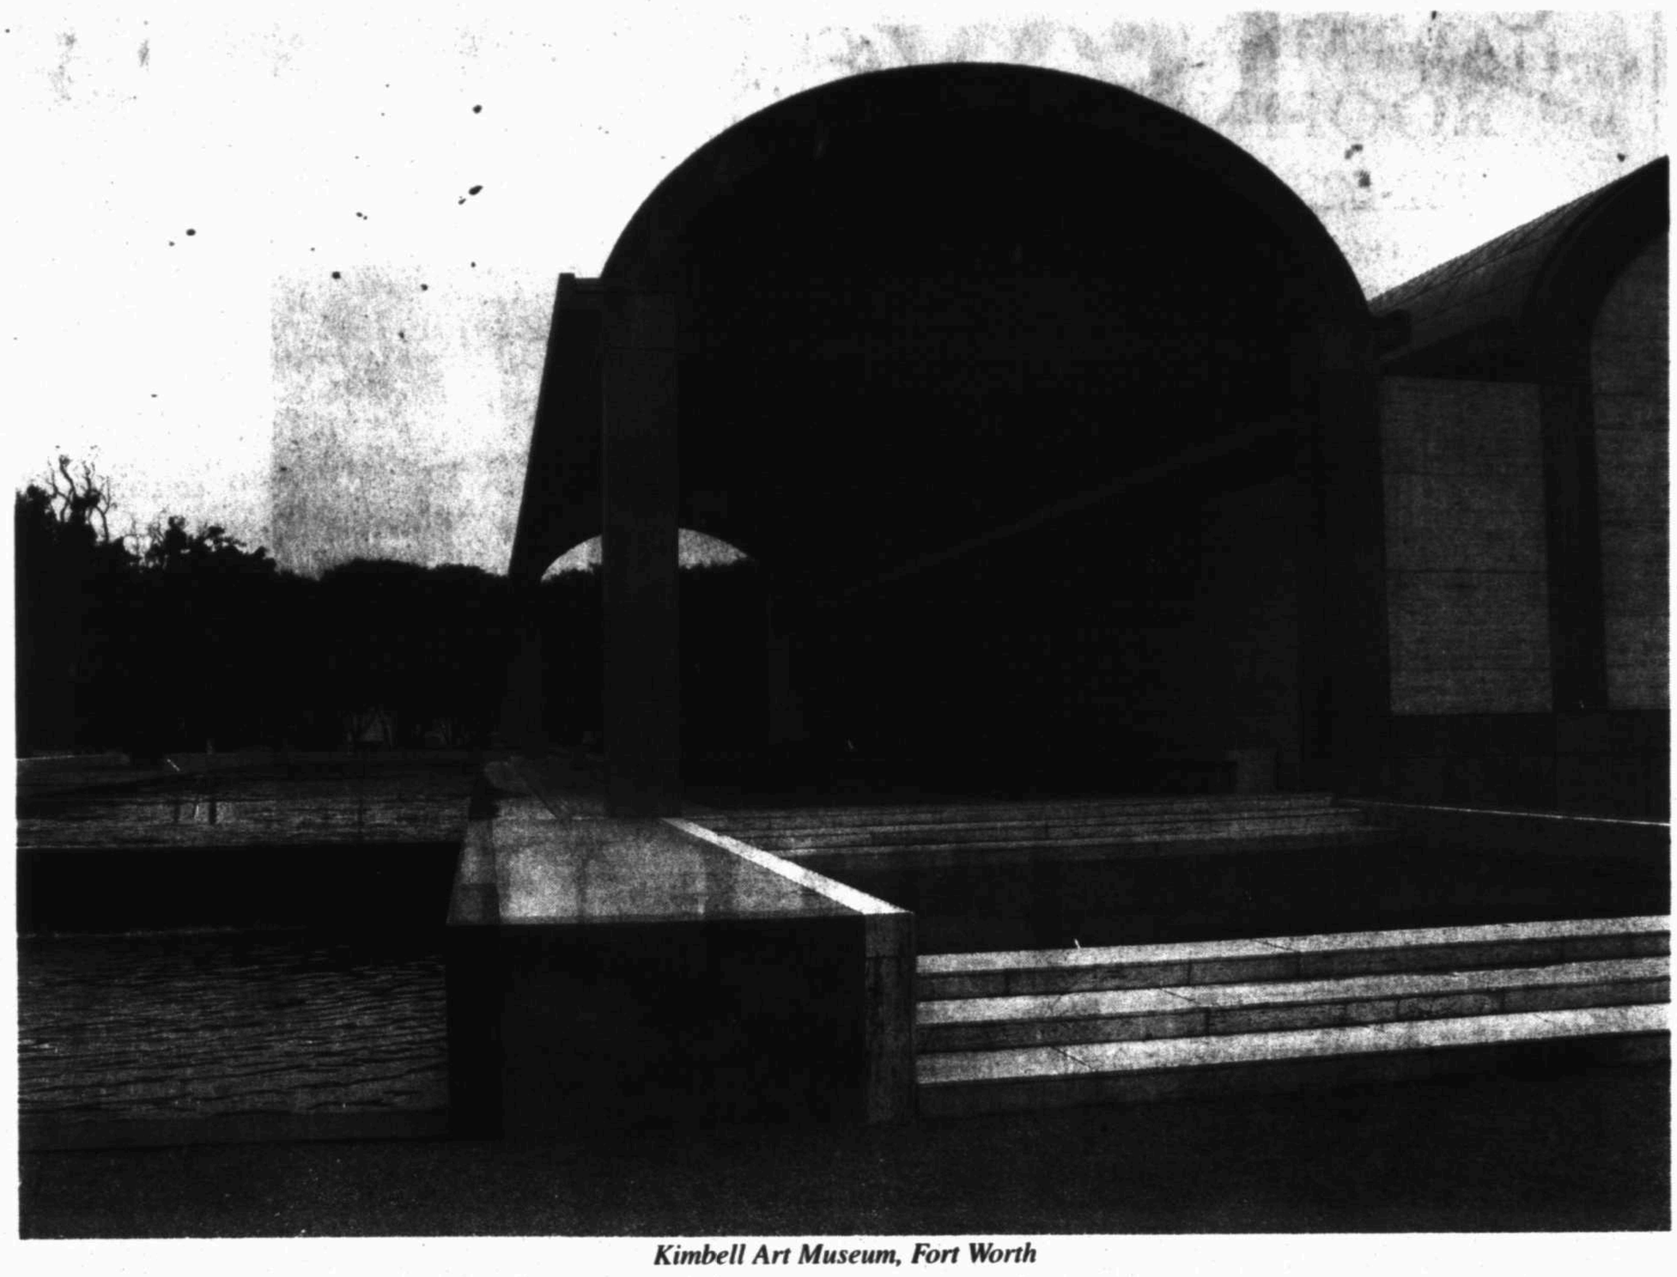
Perception: Nothing but cowboys.

Reality: It certainly does have cowboys, because it's Cowtown and still has a stock exchange of a literal nature. However, it's also one of the most culture-rich cities in Texas, with the Kimbell, Amon Carter, Fort Worth Modern and other museums.

HOUSTON

Perception: Stodgy and humid.

Reality: If you think Houston's stodgy, hunt down chef Chris Shepherd at his restaurant, Underbelly, on Westheimer Road. Then walk three blocks west to Anvil Bar & Refuge. Not. Stodgy. But humid, it is.



Kimbell Art Museum, Fort Worth

THE PANHANDLE

Perception: Tumbleweeds and prairie dogs.

Reality: Tumbleweeds and prairie dogs, check. Both are sort of cute, but the former get stuck under your car and the latter dig annoying holes, so the Panhandle's sort of over them. Amarillo's not exactly hip, but it's coming along to the point where you should make reservations (though not wear a jacket) to dine at the upscale OHMS.

SAN ANTONIO

Perception: The Alamo, sitting out in the desert amid cacti.

Reality: The Alamo, smack in the city amid high-rise hotels. Remember it and see it. Then drive 2 miles and nosh at Il Sogno, Sandbar and La Gloria in the Pearl Brewery development.

TEXAS COAST

Perception: You can drive from North Padre Island down the island to South Padre Island.

Reality: Many have tried. None have died, but their spouses have wanted to kill them for wasting time. North Padre Island's beaches are part of Corpus Christi, which adds to the confusion by naming one of its main streets South Padre Island Drive. To get from North Padre Island to South Padre Island, you must go back to the mainland and drive down boring U.S. 77. It takes three hours.

AUSTIN

Misconception: It's weird.

Reality: That concept is so overdone that other cities are now declaring themselves weird — including Louisville, Ky., which is excruciatingly normal. It's not weird to be a cool, music-driven foodie haven. Everybody in the world knows that about Austin. Even if they haven't been here.

Amarillo is on a roll with free RV Museum

Helen Anders
Cox Newspapers

AMARILLO — They rumble through the Texas Panhandle by the thousands to get to New Mexico and Colorado, and now, recreational vehicles have their own museum, right off Interstate 27.

Jack Sisemore and his son, Trent, opened the RV Museum this spring behind their Amarillo RV dealership, Sisemore Traveland, at 4341 Canyon Drive. It showcases RVs they have bought and lovingly restored over the years, just because they wanted to. The museum's free, and they won't even try to talk you into buying an RV while you're there. (They didn't me, anyway.)

Inside a 6,000-square-foot metal building, the RVs are staged with picnic tables and other camping paraphernalia, so that the museum has the surreal feel of an overnight trailer park but with air conditioning.

"We've been restoring RVs for about 25 years," Trent Sisemore, a former two-term Amarillo mayor, says. "We just love doing it."

Most of these campers, trailers and motor homes are so beautifully restored that they actually gleam, though a few have been intentionally left in the condition in which they were found (although they've been cleaned). About 15 of the Sisemores' 25 vintage RVs are on display at any time.

The first RV you see when you walk in is a 1948 FIxible bus used in the 2006 Robin Williams movie "RV," which plays in a constant loop on a TV screen near the long red-and-white bus that Trent Sisemore hunted down in a Hollywood studio.

Nearby is a 1953 Fleetwood that the Sisemores found in bad shape at a gas station 15 years ago. It took two years to restore, they say. A cute little 1936 Alma trailer had been sitting in a barn since 1955 until the Sisemores recently found and restored it. There's also a 1937 Kozy Kamp tent trailer, one of the first built.

With the exception of a 1937 Elkhart Traveler the Sisemores recently acquired, all the RVs have steps at their doors, and you're welcome to go inside and look around. Each is staged with appropriate kitchen gadgets, books, games and other knickknacks from its period.

A 1975 Itascain mint condition with only about 6,000 miles on it reminded me of the RV my parents bought after my father retired. My kids and I took a lot of trips in that one.

A 1946 Kit Manufacturing aluminum teardrop trailer is a real charmer. It's small but efficient, with a mattress inside the trailer and a kitchen in its "trunk." The trailer was built with Army surplus aluminum after World War II.

The RV Museum has picked up a lot of buzz among RV-ers, and on the day I visited, there were about a dozen people there, wandering around fairly reverentially, talking softly about their own RV experiences.

Along with RVs, the museum displays about a dozen vintage motorcycles, because Jack Sisemore loves motorcycles. His favorite is a 1952 Blue Harley.

"My father had one like it, and he gave it to my brother, who rode it all through high school," he says.

A replica gas station in the museum is a tribute to Jack Sisemore's career. With money he borrowed from his grandmother, he opened a Chevron station in 1963. In the '70s, he wanted to travel with his family, so he rented an RV. He later started renting RVs to other people, and that eventually led to the opening of his own RV dealership. Now, the family's involved in RV manufacturing as well.

Oddly, the Sisemores still find time to vacation in RVs themselves.

"I leave here usually the last Saturday in September, and I'm gone for three to 3 1/2-weeks to Maine," Jack Sisemore says. "That's where the majority of these things have come from. We go junkin', I call it."

PRAIRIE DOG

prairie dog town is one more part of that, and it will add another popular wildlife viewing opportunity for park visitors."

These transplanted animals were donated by Lynda Watson, a private prairie dog advocate and relocation specialist from Lubbock, who had held the animals in a three-week quarantine before they were released into the park.

Typically, prairie dogs settle in large family groups — called towns — with a labyrinth of interconnected burrows and holes. In preparation for their arrival, park staff predrilled several holes to encourage the animals to begin making their dens. Bottomless cages filled with hay and food were placed over some of the holes to provide temporary shelter and protection from predators.

Black-tailed prairie dogs are an indigenous, keystone species to the Texas Panhandle. A few hundred years ago, these oversized ground squirrels roamed some 700 million acres across the Great Plains of North America with a population estimated to be more than 5 billion animals, according to the Texas Park and Wildlife Department.

At one time, they were hunted, even exterminated to reduce competition for cattle and other livestock. However, the animals actually can play a useful role in the fragile prairie ecology. The grazing by prairie dogs decreases annual and non-native vegetation, such as mesquite trees, while at the same time increasing beneficial perennial grasses such as buffalo grass and blue grama.

The transplanted prairie dogs at Caprock Canyons will be confined within the interior of the 15,000-acre nature preserve to prevent the animals from leaving the park borders, Beard said.

Environmental boundaries such as heavy brush, steep canyon cliffs and natural funnels, along with constant monitoring and population management practices, will assist park staff in containing the town within the 200-acre defined habitat enclosure.

"Another part of having prairie dogs on site here in the park is for education for the visiting public," he said. "Although prairie dogs can compete with cattle and livestock, it has been found that in healthy pastures, there is sufficient forage available for cattle and dogs, even under heavy grazing pressure."

For more information, call the state park at 806-455-1492.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the PIONEER NATURAL RES. USA, INC., [RRC Operator No. 665748] has made application for a density exception permit under the provisions of Railroad Commission Statewide Rule 38 (16 Tex. Admin. Code section 3.38). Applicant seeks exception to the DENSITY requirement of the field rules for the NEW DRILL permit in Sec. 2, Blk. THROCKMORTON CSL Survey, A-543, SPRABERRY (TREND AREA) Field, UPTON County, being 18.6 miles NW direction from RANKIN, Texas.

PURSUANT TO THE TERMS of Railroad Commission rules and regulations, this application may be granted WITHOUT A HEARING if no protest to the application is received within the deadline. An affected person is entitled to protest this application. Affected persons include owners of record and the operator or lessees of record of adjacent tracts and tracts nearer to the proposed well than the minimum lease line spacing distance. If a hearing is called, the applicant has the burden to prove the need for an exception. A Protestant should be prepared to establish standing as an affected person, and to appear at the hearing either in person or by qualified representative and protest the application with cross-examination or presentation of a direct case. The rules of evidence are applicable in the hearing. If you have any questions regarding the hearing procedure, please contact the Commission's Docket Services Department at (512) 463-6848.

IF YOU WISH TO REQUEST A HEARING ON THIS APPLICATION, AN INTENT TO APPEAR IN PROTEST MUST BE RECEIVED IN THE RAILROAD COMMISSION'S AUSTIN OFFICE AT THE ADDRESS, FAX NUMBER OR E-MAIL ADDRESS SET OUT ABOVE BY Aug 17, 2012 at 5:00 p.m. IF NO PROTEST IS RECEIVED WITHIN SUCH TIME, YOU WILL LOSE YOUR RIGHT TO PROTEST AND REQUESTED PERMIT MAY BE GRANTED ADMINISTRATIVELY.

Open House Sunday 1:00-3:00

A golfer's dream home is ready and waiting by the number 8 tee box on the East nine (4549 Shady Oak Court) at Green Tree Country Club. Located right on the golf course, you have the advantages of close proximity to the club house and a beautiful view of the greens right out your back window! Grab your clubs and hit the links as this house comes with a transferrable Green Tree Golf Club membership! Built in 1982 of neutral brick, the two-story home has gray trim, is situated on a cozy cul de sac and is surrounded by live oak trees just as the street name implies. With 3,914 square feet (per appraiser), it features three bedrooms three full baths one half bath, two living areas, two dining areas and a three car garage. Schools for this area include Greathouse Elementary, Abell Jr. High and Lee High School.

Doors open to a tiled entry and a large family room with beautiful new wooden floors! An arched ceiling adds to the spacious feel, but the focal point is a wood burning fireplace. The home has been updated with wood flooring as well as new carpet in the bedrooms and game room.

Open doorways lead to a large kitchen with walls of rich stained cabinets for storage, Corian countertops, a tile backsplash, large pantry, a wide island in the center and a built in desk to help keep you organized. At the sink, you will be able to see the golf course and enjoy your surroundings! You have your choice of seating for dining. In one direction is the breakfast nook with a bay window or turn the other way to formal dining with built in china cabinet complete with glass display shelves. Both rooms enjoy the same view as the kitchen. A door leads to the brick-floored screened in porch where you can sit and enjoy the evenings. The backyard has a short brick fence with iron railings so as not to restrict your view and nearby is a hot tub which stays with the house. The laundry room is by the informal dining and features cabinets, a sink and fold down ironing board.

To the left of the entry are the bedrooms, all with ceiling fans and new cozy carpeting. One bedroom has a view of the front yard and a large closet. It is connected to the second room by a Jack and Jill bathroom where you will find built-in cabinets, an oversized tub and dual sinks. This bedroom has a walk-in closet with a built-in dresser and shelves for storage. The hallway has a cedar closet for keeping things carefully tucked away and a door leads to the master bedroom.

Spacious and roomy are the words for this area and with the arched ceilings, it looks even larger! The master bathroom is a storage dream with abundant areas for keeping things in place and a wrap around walk-in closet with chest of drawers and cabinet. A jetted tub and a separate shower in addition to dual sinks and a dressing area provide an inviting destination at the end of the day.

Back in the formal dining area is a staircase leading to the game room. This room features a wet bar with a refrigerator and sink and a huge area for just having fun! Windows provide views of the golf course in three directions and a full bathroom is here as well. A door leading to the attic (where a large portion of the space has flooring for storage) leads to a bonus room! It is a great get-away room and is totally air-conditioned!

Additional amenities to this home include: Green Tree Golf Club membership, tall ceilings, three car garage, wood/tile/carpeting, new paint inside and out, 2 ½ ton HVAC upstairs, new duct work upstairs, automatic sprinkler and cul-de-sac. Here's the hole-in-one you have always wanted! This house is for golfing enthusiasts or those enjoying beautiful unrestricted views! Listed at $387,500, more information may be obtained today at the open house from 1:00-3:00 or by calling Jo Braden, Broker Associate, RE/MAX 1st Choice, The Doss Team, LP at (432) 352-5046. Ask the Guys

Dear Classified Guys,
My neighbors love animals but it's getting to be too much. At first it was two little kittens they found advertised as "Free to Good Home". They were cute, and as outdoor cats they roamed the neighborhood and chased squirrels from my yard. Then my neighbors adopted a seven-year-old dog from the classifieds. He was good too, often coming over to lie in the sun on my porch. Unfortunately, he passed away last year and now they brought home two dogs that run around my yard causing problems. Every time I go to mow the lawn, I'm guaranteed to step in dog poop! Worse, the two dogs bark non-stop. I turned a deaf ear in the winter when my doors and windows were closed, but during the summer, it's too much. My neighbors are kind people, but I don't think they know how to control their dogs. Any ideas on how to fix this situation without creating tension between us?

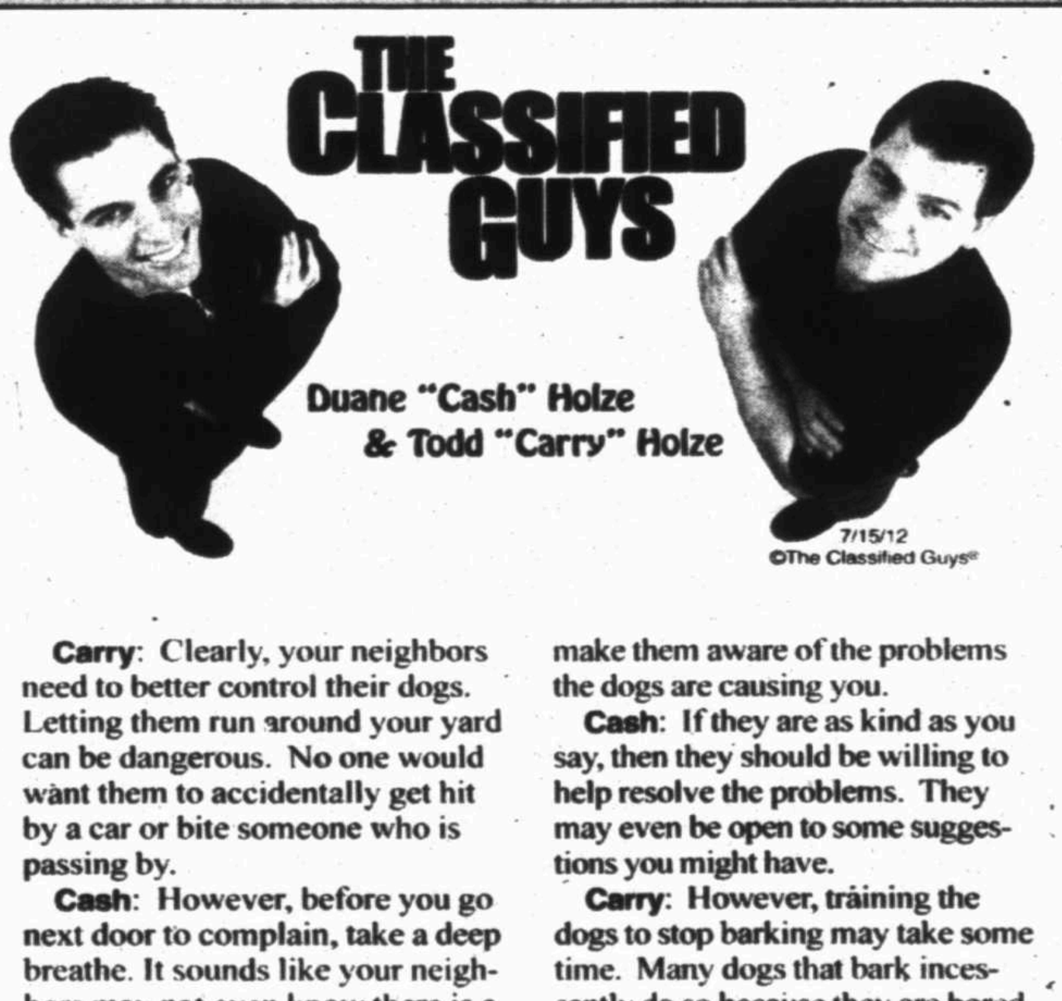
Cash: Sounds like you could use a good pooper-scooper. Or maybe you should just hire your neighbors to mow your lawn!

THE CLASSIFIED GUYS



Duane "Cash" Holze & Todd "Carry" Holze

7/15/12
©The Classified Guys®

Carry: Clearly, your neighbors need to better control their dogs. Letting them run around your yard can be dangerous. No one would want them to accidentally get hit by a car or bite someone who is passing by.

Cash: However, before you go next door to complain, take a deep breathe. It sounds like your neighbors may not even know there is a problem. Their previous animals worked out fine for you, chasing squirrels and lying on your porch. Since no one ever spoke up before, they probably don't realize that anything is wrong now.

Carry: Fortunately if you're friendly with your neighbors, this situation is very easy to resolve. Next time you see them, simply make them aware of the problems the dogs are causing you.

Cash: If they are as kind as you say, then they should be willing to help resolve the problems. They may even be open to some suggestions you might have.

Carry: However, training the dogs to stop barking may take some time. Many dogs that bark incessantly do so because they are bored or have too much energy. Your neighbors will need to take the dogs on a long walk, exercise them in the yard or come up with an alternative behavior to help keep them from barking.

Cash: And remember, when you go over to visit your neighbors, check the bottom of your shoes before entering their house!

Fast Facts

Wasted

Not many of us like the task, but picking up after your dog is the right thing to do. Surprisingly, all that waste can add up. In San Francisco, roughly 4% of residential garbage (6,500 tons per year) is dog waste. In a 4-mile watershed area of Arlington, Virginia, officials determined that 5,000 pounds of daily dog waste has been contributing to water contamination. With over 70 million dogs nationwide, you can imagine how the problem just keeps piling up.

Over the Top

Let's face it. Many pets today are pampered. To keep them fed, healthy and adored, we'll spend over 40 billion dollars this year. One walk down the pet store aisle and you'll realize there's everything from customized pet bowls to Hawaiian shirts & sunglasses. So while you may not know what you'll be getting for Christmas this year, your pet can rest easy. Roughly 56% of dog owners admit to buying presents for their pets during the holidays. With all this pampering, it's tough to tell which one of us has been trained!

Silence is Golden

Our golden retriever barks at everything. It's been driving me and the neighbors crazy. So after flipping through a catalog, I bought one of those citronella anti-bark collars. Every time the dog barks, the collar sprays a small amount of citronella. Since dogs don't like the smell, they stop barking.

It worked great. Then one day I noticed my husband working in the garden with the citronella collar around his neck. He explained that whenever the bugs got annoying, he would just bark for the citronella spray.

"That's clever," I laughed. "Does it work?"

"It sure does," he replied. "Except our neighbors keep telling me to stop barking!"

(Thanks to Jenny K.)
