Well Capping Efforts Delayed

CIUDAD DEL CARMEN, Mexico (AP)-Efforts to contain oil spilling from the runaway Ixtox 1 well have been delayed at least two weeks by damage to a derrick caused by high winds and heavy seas from two recent hurricanes.

Engineers of the Mexican oil monopoly PEMEX said they noticed the damage Monday as they were lowering a 310-ton steel cone toward the test well, 190 feet beneath the surface.

PEMEX spokesman Jorge Diaz Serrano said the equipment was apparently damaged by Hurricanes David and Frederic, and would be returned to port for an estimated 10 days of repairs.

Senate To Act Fast On Raise

WASHINGTON (AP)-A 5.5 percent pay raise for members of Congress and top-level bureaucrats appears headed for quick action in the Senate now that the House has finally passed the legislation.

The Senate Appropriations Committee scheduled a session today to mark up the legislation for action by the full Senate.

Quick action is necessary because the bill to which the pay raise is attached contains funds to keep the government running after Oct. 1, the start of a new fiscal year.

RR Ordered Back To Work

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered a resumption of service on the strikebound Rock Island railroad, and Vice President Walter F. Mondale predicted that snarled grain shipments on the line "will start moving early next week."

The ICC issued an order directing the Kansas City Terminal Co. to operate the financially beleaguered carrier's 13-state rail network for 60 days because the Rock Island lacks the money to resume service on its own.

Mondale made a personal appearance at the White House press room to announce the rare ICC action, which would end a 31-day-old shutdown triggered when two unions staged a strike.

2nd Mistrial In Newton Case

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)-The jury couldn't reach a verdict, but Black Panther co-founder Huey Newton believes a second mistrial is as good as acquittal on charges he killed a 17-year-old prostitute.

"I'm very happy that I was acquitted even though there was one person on the jury who was not fair," a jubilant Newton said Tuesday after a panel of eight women and four men deadlocked 11-1 in favor of acquittal.

The result was almost identical to that of Newton's first trial on the charges. That jury deadlocked 10-2 last March 24 in favor of acquittal after four days of deliberations - the same length of time the second jury stayed out.

There are about 144 million motor vehicles registered in the United States, and they use an average of 800 gallons of gasoline per year, which is one reason there has been a shortage.

Keeping up with these vehicles is something else. Recently there have been complaints around this area that car owners failed to receive notices that their license tags had expired. In some cases, this resulted in tickets being issued for the offense of operating a vehicle with an expired license.

It helped when they decided to use the little stickers each year to update the metal plates, and even more when the state began sending out notices that tags were about to expire.

But, like many other chores these days, the mailing of the notices is computerized, and apparently the computer got off track in August, causing a lot of car owners in Scurry County to miss their notices.

The catch is that the state is not required to send out these notices. They represent a service that is not mandatory, which means that car owners still have the final responsibility for keeping up with their license tags.

We learned some time ago that you can't always count on computers. In the first place, computers are no more reliable than those who push the button. Someone reminded the other day that huge corporations have been known to spend millions on computer equipment and then turn their operation over to a $3.30 per hour employee.

There's no such thing as perfection, however, in humanity or machinery. But we can always work for the best. Like the youth who was enrolling in a business administration course in college. The admissions counselor asked why he selected that field.

"I dream of making a million dollars in business like my father," said the youth.

The counselor was impressed. "Your father made a million in business huh?" he asked.

"No," replied the youth. "But he dreamed of it."

COWBOY CHEERLEADER ---Geni McKelvey, a Dallas Cowboy Cheerleader, spoke yesterday at the noon meeting of the Snyder Lions Club. She noted that each year about 1,600 women try out for the squad, and of that number around 40 are selected. She has been a cheerleader for two years. Roaring Lions Tamed By CowboyCheerleader

The Lions fairly roared yesterday at their weekly feeding as Geni McKelvey, a Dallas Cowboy Cheerleader, addressed the usually boistrous organization.

It was during the noon luncheon meeting of the Snyder Lion Club that Miss McKelvey spoke to the group. She was in town to promote an open house of Colony Homes, which is developing a subdivision in southeast Snyder. She was accompanied by Randy Culver, vice president of the firm, who said the open house will be held in about two weeks.

Miss McKelvey talked about herself and the Cowboy cheerleaders.

She said she had no previous cheerleading experience before joining the Cowboy cheerleading squad. She was prompted to try out because "my sister and a friend of hers were trying. I thought it would be a good way to meet some girls, plus I had never tried out for anything in my life."

Miss McKelvey, 22, has

Drawing Due For More Buckle Sets

Drawings for more numbered sets of a collectors' belt buckle will be conducted next week, Bill Warner, Chamber of Commerce manager, said this morning.

Numbers through 10 were drawn at the chamber banquet last week, and several others have reserved the buckle sets, said Warner.

A set includes a solid Sterling silver buckle, a solid brass buckle and a numbered lithograph of the buckle design. The buckles come in a solid walnut case.

The design depicts Scurry County historical eras, beginning with the prehistoric period and progressing to the time of the buffalo and Indian, the coming of the ranchers and farmers and finally the development of extensive oil production. The buckles are hand cast by Norman Cutliff, the designer.

Warner said the silver in the buckle sets had appreciated by around $90 per buckle since the contract was negotiated. Cutliff has an option for acquiring silver for buckles ordered prior to Oct. 15 and these sets are priced at $300 each. After the original option expires, the price likely will be adjusted unless the price of silver declines.

The No. 1 set will be put on permanent display Monday at the Scurry County Courthouse. Numbers two through 10 were drawn at the banquet and others will be drawn in the future. The edition will be limited to 350 numbered sets and they are expected to become valuable collectors' items, Warner said.

Tax Equalization Board Session Set

The Snyder School district's board of tax equalization will go into session at 9 a.m. Thursday in the school administration building, and the Scurry County Taxpayers Association held a session Tuesday night to acquaint taxpayers with proper procedure to follow if they feel there may be errors in their valuations.

Billy Huddleston, president of the association, told the group that if "you don't think your home or property is being appraised fairly, confer with the school tax assessor-collector, Ray Peveler."

Then, he said, if the taxpayer still isn't satisfied with his tax situation he should go to the board of equalization. After that, there is only one recourse, and that is in the courts, Huddleston said.

He said the equalization board is expected to clear up some complaints that were lodged in a suit filed several weeks ago by Jonisue and Lawson Stiff. The suit was withdrawn pending a hearing by the board of equilization, and Huddleston said school officials conceded to a revaluation of utilities and had agreed to put undivided profits of banks on the tax roll.

Huddleston also told taxpayers they should prepare to deal effectively with a county-wide appraisal board that will be named and take office the coming year.

However, he said, "Until we get the budgets under control, it will not matter how fairly we are taxed." He said the Snyder School system spends more per pupil than any other system in the state, except Andrews, "And the taxpayers are raising sand over there, too."

Some 35 persons attended the taxpayers' meeting.

Panel Dismantles, Oil Tax Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee, confirming President Carter's fears, is beginning to take apart the House-passed "windfall-profits" tax on the oil industry.

The committee, which may complete action on the bill this week, is weighing a series of exemptions from the tax after voting unanimously Tuesday to allow all "newly discovered" oil to escape the tax.

The exemption would cut an estimated $14 billion from the $104 billion in net revenue that the tax as passed by the House would bring to the treasury from 1980 through 1990.

Moreover, calculations by Donald C. Lubick, an assistant secretary of the treasury, indicate earlier actions by the committee had alrady reduced the $104 billion total to $36 billion.

Approval of additional exemptions from the tax would cut into the revenues available for financing Carter's proposed energy plan, which includes programs for developing alternative fuels, improving mass transportation and helping poor Americans pay their energy bills.

The panel, which has no jurisdiction over most of the president's energy spending plans, has its own ideas on what kind of program is needed.

The action on "newly discovered" oil would trim the total anticipated tax revenue to $22 billion. And several proposed amendments awaiting committee action could practically erase the remaining $22 billion if all are adopted.

Under projections used in the bill passed by the House, newly discovered oil, which basically is any from a field that was not in production in 1978, would account for 43 percent of the nation's oil

Ask Us

Q--Can I keep a horse inside the city limits? I have plenty of room and I kept a horse in town in Fort Worth.

A--It is possible to keep a horse inside the Snyder city limits, provided you comply with regulations. One animal may be kept on a lot of at least 12,000 square feet, provided the animal is enclosed in a pen or corral of at least 800 square feet including a stable under a roof of at least 100 square feet. The enclosures must be at least 20 feet from the property lines. Manure must be removed daily and deposited in a fly-proof container, and the container must be removed from the premises at least once a week. You should check with the city zoning officer at city hall to make certain that everything is in order.

API To Hear Chairman Of Commission

John Poerner, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, the agency that regulates the energy industry in the state, will be the speaker Thursday night at a meeting of the local branch of the American Petroleum Institute.

The API meeting will be held at the Snyder Country Club, with a social hour set for 6:30 p.m. to be followed by dinner and Poerner's address.

The Railroad Commission Chairman is due to discuss the current energy picture in Texas. Arrangements for his trip here were made by State Rep. Mike Ezzell.

Weevil Control Sign-Ups Urged

Scurry County cotton farmers were being urged today to sign up for the boll weevil control sprayings scheduled by the Scurry County Producers Association.

Two sprayings are scheduled in October, but farmers must sign up and pay their fees in advance so that insecticide can be ordered and spraying contracts can be awarded.

"We need them all by Friday," said Johnny Richardson, president of the association.

The association has an office set up in the Snyder Chamber of Commerce-BCD building. Nearly 35,000 acres had been accounted for in fees paid through this morning. However, some 129,000 acres of cropland are included in the potential.

The two sprayings will cost farmers $3 per acre.

"This is a lot cheaper than waiting till the next growing season and going it alone," said Richardson.

Billy Roach, county extension agent, said that boll weevil traps are stationed throughout the county and that during the past week, all have caught some weevils. These are coming off too late to appreciably affect this year's crop, but if they are left to over-winter, they could produce enough weevils to cause a serious problem, the county agent said.

Two spraying last fall are credited with a low weevil count during the growing season this year. However, Richardson and Roach said the program could suffer a severe setback if the weevils coming on now are allowed to over-winter here and reproduce in the spring.

Young Homemaker Wins Microwave At Cooking School

A large crowd attended the cooking school in the auditorium of the high school last night. The grand prize, a microwave oven donated by Roe's, was won by a young homemaker, Nancy Slay of 3602 40th.

Sixteen dishes were prepared by Gayla Jennings as the crowd followed in recipe books provided in complimentary packets. The Cooking School was a joint effort of the Snyder Daily News and Progressive Farmer Magazine.

The drawing was held at the close of the program. Other winners of door prizes were Ollie Vernon, 2306 30th; Helen Hood, 300 34th; Johnnie McCright, 3011 Ave. V; Mrs. Grant Groves, Hermleigh; Jean Black, 2605 30th; and Cynthia Grinslade, Hermleigh.

Receiving baskets of groceries were Ruby Clark, 2512 26th; Belinda Foster, Hermleigh; Mrs. Frank Osborn, 3001 Austin; Nina Salhiers, 2201 Ave. Z; Lisa Bowman, Hermleigh; Faye Culp, Hermleigh; Suzanne Jackson, 3726 Highland; Dale Neves, 3203 Ave. T; Mrs. Eugene Schattel and Karen Loftin, 3609 Irving.

GRAND PRIZE WINNER-Mrs. Nancy Slay, right, is looking over the microwave oven, the grand prize she won at the cooking school held in the auditorium of Snyder High School Tuesday night. a freedom preserved

When the Congress re-convened recently after its month-long August recess, a good thing happened. This was unusual, for it has come to pass that when the Congress is in session the people of the country - at least those who pay the government's bills - feel a bit nervous and are afraid to look at the papers in the mornings lest they are made shockingly aware of what else their lawmakers are doing to them now.

But in this instance, we repeat, something good happened, and it should be noted that both the Texas senators participated for the better.

In one of its first actions after the recess, the Senate voted to retain language in the Treasury-IRS appropriations bill blocking the Carter Administration from implementing proposed IRS regulations threatening the tax exempt and tax-deductible status of thousands of private and parochial schools.

The House of Representatives already had passed the same language - before the recess - and the Senate's majority action (54 to 31) was the final step needed to assure that the private schools will not be unfairly harassed by the IRS during the coming fiscal year.

The defeated IRS regulations were designed in theory to deny tax relief to the so-called "segregation academies" founded for the sole purpose of excluding blacks. But, the fact is the proposed ruling, both as originally published on Aug. 22, 1978 and amended this year, would have endangered the tax status of schools in all parts of the country, the creation of which had nothing at all to do with the racial issue and which actually welcome minorities.

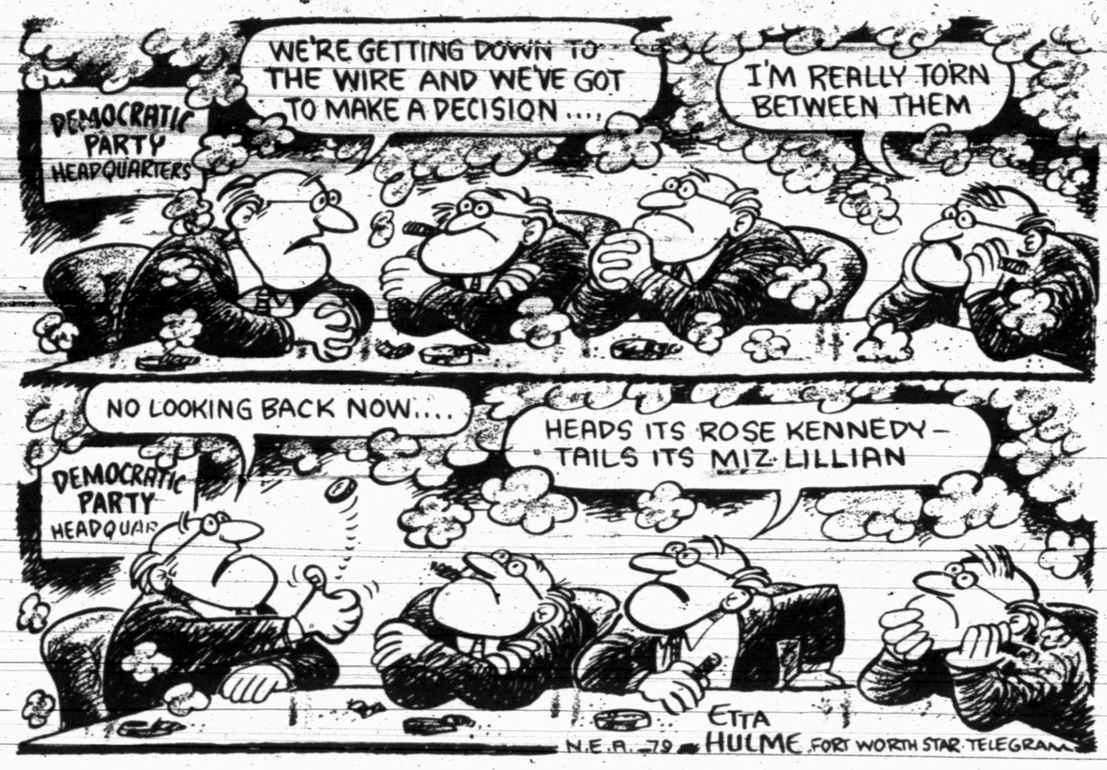

The proposed ruling quite arbitrarily asserted that schools should be presumed guilty of racial discrimination until proven innocent because they fail to meet a quota of minority enrollment, and because they were either founded or substantially expanded at about the time that public-school desegregation plans were being effected in the same communities.

In that light, such so-called "reviewable" schools would then be compelled to meet an array of costly affirmative-action requirements, or else lose their tax-exempt status and their right to receive tax-deductible contributions, the lifeblood of many such schools, Human Events magazine reported in this week's edition.

In an effort to put an end to the regulations, the House adopted, in July, an amendment by Reps. Robert Dornan of California, Larry McDonald of Georgia and Phil Crane of Illinois, forbidding the use of any appropriated funds to implement the proposed procedures or "parts thereof."

But liberal Senate lawmakers were pressured by the Carter Administration and such left-wing groups as the big teacher-union, the National Education Association and the American Civil Liberties Union, and under the leadership of Sen. Jacob Javits of New York they moved to strike the Dornan language from the Senate bill. The move, if successful, would have put the burden of proving their innocence back on the private schools.

Then, the good thing happened. When the Senate voted, the Javits move was defeated, and in essence the private schools were saved from what could have been some oppressive harassment by the IRS. Both Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen (Democrat) and John Tower (Republican) of Texas voted on the side of the private and parochial schools. Not only did the majority reject Javits' proposal, but the next day they agreed to an amendment by Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina stating that no funds could be used "to formulate or carry out any rule, policy, procedure, guideline, regulation, standard or measure which would cause the loss of tax-exempt status to private, religious or church-operated schools ....unless in effect prior to Aug. 22, 1978." It was adopted 47-43. Thus a threatened freedom was preserved.

donald f. graff

A deficit is a deficit is a deficit, except in the U.S. Postal Service where they are currently calling it a surplus.

The service recently came out with the good news that it anticipates winding up operations for the current fiscal year some $400 million in the black.

That certainly looks like a surplus, and a healthy one. But the books will be showing it only because of the $920 million federal subsidy the service has received this year.

Looking at the fiscal year from this angle, the public as taxpayers, is still underwriting service to the public as stamp buyers by better than half a billion dollars.

Still, that public has cause to be grateful that it is only a half billion out of pocket since it does mark a definite improvement in postal finances. This will be the first year since 1945 that the service has not had to go back to the Treasury for additional funds above and beyond the legislated subsidies.

The improvement is a consequence in part of the latest rate increases and in part of strenuous efforts to restructure the service, trimming payroll costs which account for more than 80 percent of annual expenditures and boosting productivity.

But it also may be in part at the expense of service. Horror stories of mail delay and nondelivery abound. Individually they may be subject to some exaggeration and fail to allow for occasional acts of God or other agencies that can stay the couriers where weather can't. But there is evidence of a perceptible slowing of delivery.

Under American circumstances, a system delivering 90 percent of first-class mail within one day would be considered more than efficient. It would be reckoned a near miracle.

That is the achievement of the British system, which nevertheless is under critical fire and about to be reorganized. Like the U.S. service, Her Majesty's Mail has a monopoly on delivery and has been a financial loser. The new Tory government hopes to shake it up and improve efficiency with a dose of private competition. Among other measures being considered, metropolitan London may be opened up to private carriers.

That experiment, if it comes to pass, could be of particular interest on this side of the Atlantic where the postal service vigorously opposes similar private operations. It has gone to court to close down would-be competitors in some cities, the reasoning being that experiences of many city dwellers to the contrary - mail delivery in areas of dense population is not the real problem. But the back country is another matter. Without urban profits to offset losses in rural areas where there is no possibility of reasonably priced service paying its way, a national system would be immensely more costly in public funds.

The British experience may thus be interesting and envied. But whatever similarities there are between the two systems, their problems and prospective solutions, they are overshadowed by one continental difference - the size of the United States.

The U.S. service sees its hope for the future in electronics. And it is vigorously opposing private competition in the less labor intensive and potentially vastly profitable area of communications that technology is opening up.

The electronic future is still long term, however. The short term is another story, and a familiar one. It may appear ironic that just as the postal service reports breaking even, at least by its bookkeeping methods, Congress is considering boosting the subsidy.

There's politics involved, since it involves reasserting political control over a service only recently made semi-autonomous, but there also could turn out to be foresight. Rising costs in the next few years are expected to mean losses on the books again despite likely new rate increases.

Once more a deficit will be a deficit will be a deficit.

at wits end

by erma bombeck

Every Christmas when I get a card from the Nelsons showing their entire family gathered in front of the fireplace in their ski sweaters and their capped-teeth smiles, I make a vow that next year the Bombecks will be on a Christmas card.

We took the picture last weekend and if we send the card at all, I want a black strip over my eyes to assure anonymity.

The call was for 10:30 on a Saturday morning. At 10:15, my husband's tripod was in position and the kids began to drag in.

"How did you get them all here?" he asked.

"I told them we were reading the will."

My husband looked through the lens.

"What does it look like?" I asked.

"It looks like a group of illegal aliens hauled in for questioning. What are you doing in a tennis dress?" he asked our daughter.

"Playing tennis," she said dryly.

"This is a Christmas card, for crying out loud. Go get in something appropriate. Come on, boys! Stand up straight!"

"I can't," said our son, "I don't have shoes on."

"What do you mean you don't have shoes on?"

"I can't find them."

"Then stand behind your mother. No, that won't work. The marijuana plant on your T-shirt looks like it's growing out of your mother's head. Good grief, what are you doing in a T-shirt with a marijuana plant growing out of it?"

"I was washing my car."

"Go change. Now where's your sister?"

"She's washing her hair."

Is this going to take long?"

"His feet smell."

"Where's the dog? We can't have a picture without the dog in it."

"I'm not standing by you. Your hair's wet."

"Quit shoving!"

"I'm telling. Mom!"

We got the pictures back yesterday. Our daughter has an orphan-wish on her face. One son has his eyes closed. The other one is displaying a part of the dog's anatomy that does not exemplify the spirit of Christmas. There are two blurs. One is of my husband's backside trying to beat the self-timer to get into the picture. The other is of my front-side trying to get out of the picture.

spirit revives town

YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO (AP)-The downtown streets and plazas are clean and busy, if not bustling, and the north-south highway through the suburbs is strung with seemingly prosperous fast food restaurants and motels.

Compared with two years ago, employment and personal income is up, property values are higher, building activity is healthy. It is no more difficult to measure the area's spirit: It too is higher.

In September 1977, this Mahoning Valley city midway between Pittsburgh and Cleveland was described in terms of tragedy and desperation, a symbol of what happens when industrial plants become obsolete.

The climax came, it was believed, on "Black Monday," Sept. 17, 1977, when Youngstown Sheet & Tube abruptly closed its outmoded Campbell works and laid off 4,100 workers.

Many in the area felt it was the beginning of the end. The message spread about the death of a steel-town, and the entire area became in the national consciousness a symbol of industrial decay.

It was, instead, like a beginning - of renewed cooperation among labor, management, education and government; of federal aid; of efforts to diversify; of attempts to control rather than be victimized by change.

New companies, including aircraft assembly plants, are settling into the area, and older concerns, some of which had considered leaving for newer facilities and fewer labor problems, are expanding.

"We now have as much cohesiveness as it is possible to have in any business, labor and political community," says J. Phillip Richley, mayor president of the Mahoning Valley Economic Development Corp.

"When I became mayor in January 1978 I was depressed," said Richley. "I expected we would have a fantastic tragedy."

To begin with, said Richley, the "tragedy" really wasn't one at all, a discovery he made many weeks after taking office.

He blames the national media. "They buried us and put a 10-ton stone over our heads," he says. "They created a whole series of tear-jerker stories about a dying town wedded to one industry."

But the valley had become more than steel; for a quarter-century it has been diversifying. Now, says Laird Eckman, associate director of the corporation, 78 percent of manufacturing is unrelated to steel.

Conceding a great deal of industrial obsolescence and, in the past, official apathy about correcting it, Richley says the valley still was able to absorb the plant shutdown with unexpected ease.

He cites a Youngstown State University study. Of 4,100 workers laid off, he says, 1,500 found work in the valley; 1,000 retired; 800 moved; 800 are being retrained, looking, or have dropped from the job market.

For those who lost jobs, he says, it was indeed a tragedy. But for the valley as an economic entity, he maintains, the real damage was done by the myth of a "debilitated, distressed situation."

Next: Cooperation helps overcome economic adversity.

Another cooking school has come and gone. The show was delightful again this year from the curtain raising to the finale, the giving away of the microwave oven to Nancy Slay of 3602 40th. The oven was donated by Roe's Furniture and Appliance.

For those who saw the show, you missed the buzzing around backstage by those doing the dishes and etc. Some of those included in this group were Kathy Roberts, homemaking instructor at high school, Sharon Farmer, Pearl Wheeler and Freda Cook, all members of the Patchwork Home Extension Club, Wayne Burney, Lori Ellington and Linda Warner of Snyder Daily News, and Ola B. Delce.

According to the two groups of lucky people who got to sit at the table on stage and eat all the dishes prepared by Gayla Jennings and served by Joan Powell, the dishes were scrumpscicus and will be tried in their own kitchens.

Unlike a year ago, the weather cooperated beautifully. Last year's participants came unprepared for showers and found something more like a downpour as they departed the premises following the show.

The new Farmers' Almanac predicts a better winter ahead this year. Harrie Buie predicted a colder and snowier winter for 1979-80. How right he turned out to be, with record breaking blizzards and snowy artic blasts from coast to coast. Last winter's miserably cold weather made three bad winters in a row.

According to his forecast, he foresees a warming trend for us ahead. This is a most welcome prediction.

The past Sunday ushered in the first day of autumn.

The prediction of a milder winter sounds great, but nevertheless, the perpetual "common cold" makes its way into any season.

Since there is no immunization against the inevitable illness, it's time to stock up on essentials necessary to survive the seven-day bug. It's always good to have on hand: three boxes of tissue, two or three tins of aspirins, one bottle of nighttime medicine, one bottle of daytime medicine, a bottle of 12-hour capsules, an 8-hour bottle of cough medicine, a dozen lemons, couple of rolls of throat lozenges, boxes of cough drops, salve or poltice makings, and nose spray.

It would be nice to have a place where all cold sufferers could congregate together to exchange all the miseries caused by the condition, since most are not sick enough to be hospitalized but are too ill to mix and mingle with the well. Misery loves company.

The question that personally I'm wondering about at this point is, is all this orange juice I'm drinking worth it? Is it better to be sick or take care of the sick?

According to the Insurance Information Institute, nearly 2 million people have died and 132 million have been injured in 672 million highway accidents in the past 50 years. The loss to the nation economically from these accidents amounts to some $508 billion.

To The Daily News:

Re SDN Sept. 23, column 7, coal conversion here in Texas --seems damn foolish. Our state produces a surplus of petroleum. It would seem logical--coal-wood usage for rail transportation nationwide and percentagewise much increase-rail. For area's energy short--coal-wood usage seems prudent, depending on distance-necessity transportation costs. Sounds like another Fed. Gov't. mandate hoax being taken seriously.

Re-SDN Column-cockroaches--not well researched. Cockroaches may be world's oldest non-evoluted animal, preceding the human animals considerably in time.

Your Birthday

September 27, 1979

You are likely to do a lot of weeding-out this coming year regarding situations and ventures that have proven to be of little worth. Your new projects will be hopeful and promising.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Self-defeating thoughts are the only things which could hold you back today. Think positively instead of worrying about that which will never happen. How to get along with others' signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph Letter which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll treat persons in need compassionately and considerately today. Someone you're really indebted to might be unintentionally overlooked, however.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Too much time may be spent today on things you enjoy rather than on a serious matter needing attention. Reverse the order. Take care of duty first.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Goals you hope to achieve are well within your reach today, but even after you accomplish your aims you may still have some doubts as to whether you handled things right.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Before asking favors of any new acquaintance, take the time to build good will or you may scare them off. Once they know you, it's a different matter.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're very self-sufficient today and capable of doing what needs doing on your own. Associates could prove to be more of a hindrance than a help.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Making an important agreement today? Be sure all the terms are exactly what you want before signing or you may later have remorse.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You are a good worker today, up to a certain point. If you feel you've been at something too long you may stop before the task is completed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your charm and winning ways will make you popular with your peers today, but you must be careful to treat everyone equally, or you'll offend a friend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Others will be willing to help you today, but you mustn't expect them to do all the work. Should you become too demanding they're apt to lay down their tools.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Seek enjoyable outlets today that cost you little or nothing. You tend to be a trifle extravagant and will later regret spending too much.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your possibilities for gains today look very promising, yet for some reason you may feel you're entitled to more. Be glad, not greedy.

Ira PTA Plans Festival

Ira PTA met in the school library Sept. 19 at 3:35 p.m. with president Mrs. Donnie Dunn presiding.

The group was welcomed by Mrs. I.E. Maupin. Mrs. Ron Plumlee gave the devotional on "Attitudes."

The executive committee recommended that the PTA purchase and serve all food for the upcoming Harvest Festival with the exception of pies and cakes.

Mrs. Maupin reported on the recent get acquainted supper held at the school. Mrs. Jimmy Wilson announced that 167 guests were registered at the supper with 97 joining PTA. Mrs. Wilson concluded that local membership now totals 102.

Mrs. Calley told members that the 1979-80 PTA yearbooks were ready for distribution. She said that each of the 97 school families would receive one yearbook.

Mrs. O.B. Truelock gave the treasurers statement and presented the audit on the treasurer's books. The coming year's budget was read by Mrs. Ray Sorrells.

Mrs. Dunn read rules for the Harvest Festival to the group.

Crown bearers for the Harvest Festival were elected by written ballots. They are Amanda Sorrells and Kory Clark, high school representatives; Jennifer Clark and Jay Martin are grade school representatives.

Harvest Festival committee chairmen were named. They are Ron Plumlee and Mrs. Dunn, gym; Mrs. Jim R. Brown, lunchroom; Mrs. Bill Murphy, Mrs. June Middlebrooks, Mrs. Barker Head and Mrs. Bob Barbee Wilson coronation; Mrs. C.E. Foster, grades kindergarten through four; Mrs. Jackie Smith, grades five through eight; Ms. Bonnie Kruse, grades nine through 12; and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Denson, bingo. Lunchroom committees are Mrs. Larry Richards, cakes and pies; Mrs. Jake Autrey, hot dogs; Mrs. Maupin, chili; Mrs. George Beaird, sandwiches; and Mrs. Tommy Sterling, coffee and tea.

The room count was won by the fifth grade.

Mrs. Dunn announced that the Fall Workshop for District 18 would be held Oct. 10 at the Ira Baptist Church. Mrs. Maupin urges all members to attend and bring a congealed salad for the salad bar.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

You are in a normal four-spade contract and win the first trick with dummy's ace of hearts.

You need to ruff a club in dummy so the simple line of play is to duck a club at trick two. Then if everyting goes well you lose one club and two diamonds.

Suppose trumps don't break? Can you do anything about that? That five of hearts looks like a fourth-best lead. If it were a short lead, East would undoubtedly have bid some number of hearts during the auction so maybe you can get 10 tricks in spite of a bad trump break.

You start this campaign by ruffing a heart at trick two. Now you lead a low club. East wins and leads a trump. You rise with your ace, cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club with dummy's last trump, ruff another heart, cash your last two high trumps, setting up West's jack, lead a diamond to dummy, ruff dummy's last heart for your 10th trick.

West wins the last trick with his jack of trumps but he has won it against his partner's high diamond.

You won a lot of IMPs here. At the other table, your West partner opened the jack of diamonds and declarer couldn't bring 10 tricks home. He was short one entry to dummy for those three heart ruffs.

Rose Kennedy Has Surgery

BOSTON (AP)—Rose Kennedy, the 89-year-old matriarch of the Kennedy family, underwent surgery for an intestinal hernia today at New England Baptist Hospital, her personal physician said.

Dr. Russell Boles Jr. of Wellesley said the operation, which he said would last about 45 minutes, was intended to correct an inguinal hernia.

"Whenever you have this sort of operation in a person in her age group, it certainly has serious overtones," Boles said before the operation.

1st Time In Nearly A Year...

NBC Winner Of Ratings Race

NEW YORK (AP)-A pair of movies featuring some of Hollywood's biggest stars helped NBC win the networks' rating race for the first time in nearly a year, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

NBC began its fall prime-time season the evening of Sept. 17 with "Coming Home," the widely acclaimed motion picture starring Jane Fonda and Jon Voight.

"Coming Home" finished No. 4 for the week ending Sept. 23, and NBC went on to place four other programs in Nielsen's Top 20 and win the networks rating race for the time in nearly a year.

It's offering of the Clint Eastwood movie "The Outlaw Josey Wales" finished fifth.

NBC's rating for the first week of head-on competition in the new season was 20.6, followed by ABC at 18 and CBS at 16.9. The networks say that means in an average primetime minute during the week, 20.6 percent of the homes in the country with TV were tuned to NBC.

Ratings are vital to the networks. A highly rated show demands more of the advertising dollar than its lower-rated competition.

It was the first time since 1972 that NBC began a season No. 1, and the rating was NBC's highest for a premiere week in 10 years.

NBC finished the 1978-79 season dead last and was given little hope of improving its standing this fall. ABC, the front-runner all of last year, entered the new television year a strong favorite to repeat.

ABC's research department described the period ending Sept. 23 as "a week marked by atypical programming by the competition."

But there was more to the story. Three of NBC's returning series were listed among the 16 highest-rated - "CHiPs" sixth, "Little House on the Prairie" eighth and "Diff'rent Strokes" 16th.

The quick start was particularly significant for NBC, which carries the major league baseball playoffs in prime-time starting Oct. 2. NBC's best week last season was during its broadcast of the World Series.

ABC airs the World Series this year, but NBC is counting on the playoffs for an early season shot in the arm.

ABC found strength in the first week of head-to-head competition in its regular series. "Eight is Enough" was the week's No. 1 show, followed closely by "Charlie's Angels." And ABC's "Benson" was the week's highest-rated new show, No. 15.

The rating for "Eight is Enough" was 28.3 Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 28.3 percent saw at least part of the show.

CBS was quick to note that "Archie Bunker's Place," successor to the long-running hit, "All in the Family," beat ABC's "Mork and Mindy," in direct competition. CBS' "60 Minutes" was the week's third-rated program.

NEW OFFICERS -- The WTC chapter of the Office Education Association (OEA) has elected these new officers. Left to right, they are Stephanie Johnson from Seminole, president; Janice Bradbury from Post, vice president; Carla Moyers from Lubbock, secretary-treasurer, and Lera Brinkley from Irving, historian. Formal installation ceremonies are planned for Oct. 9. OEA membership is open to all Office Occupations students.

Clements Jostled By Chicano Demonstrators

EL PASO (AP)—Gov. Bill Clements, who was shoved and taunted by Chicano demonstrators here, has called for an improved good neighbor policy with Mexico.

Clements was pushed back by pickets when he tried to shake hands with some of the 23 persons demonstrating outside a reception hosted by the League of United Latin American Citizens.

The protestors, members of the Chicano Coalition for Economic Justice and the Campaign for the Preservation of the Barrios, carried signs calling Clements a "racist" and contended some LULAC officials had "prostituted" Chicano interests.

Coalition member Carmen Felix said the group was protesting Clements' ties with the Southwest Border Commission. She said the commission looks out for industries that exploit poor Chicanos.

Clements, in his first speech since his return from his Eastern European tour, spoke at a Chamber of Commerce banquet later Tuesday, commenting on Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt's recent remarks on the Alamo.

"It's time we started talking about things like undocumented workers, the drug traffic, exchanges of agricultural products and industrial development - instead of bad mouthing Texans and the Alamo as the governor of Arizona seems so intent on doing," said Clements.

Clements said he would meet the governor of Arizona in Los Angeles today and "I guarantee you I'll tell Gov. Babbitt that when I see him."

"I would just say that the heroes of the land - anglo and Hispanic alike - were fighting for the kind of freedom that allows Gov. Babbitt to say what he likes."

Babbitt had said the Alamo symbolizes everything that is wrong in U.S. and Mexican relations.

Babbit said for Texans the Alamo symbolizes the cradle of liberty, but to Mexicans it is a symbol of a nation "plundered by overbearing gringo neighbors."

However, he said later his remarks only served to show that while to him the Alamo is a sacred symbol of freedom, to Mexicans it could be viewed differently.

Clements also commented on Texas Attorney General Mark White's threat of a lawsuit. White has said he will sue PEMEX, Mexico's state controlled oil monopoly, and SEDCO, an oil well drilling firm founded by Clements, for damages connected with the oil spill from an offshore well in the Bay of Campeche.

"If our attorney general has a lawsuit then I think let him go ahead and sue and whatever liability is involved - if any - let him prove it in court and quit all this loud talk," Clements told 100 persons at the LULAC reception.

The governor said he plans to call a special session to act on measures a wiretapping bill, as well as the question of initiative and referendum.

Grain Workers Back On Jobs

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—Grain clogging elevators and storage bins in the Upper Midwest is again pouring into the holds of ships in Duluth-Superior harbor as grain handlers today return to work after a costly two-month strike.

Striking members of Local 118 of the American Federation of Grain Millers voted 344 to 86 Tuesday to accept three-year contracts with the eight elevator companies in the Twin Ports.

Diver's Bodies Will Stay In Jacob's Well

WIMBERLEY (AP)-The bodies of two divers who became the latest drowning victims in a water-filled Texas Hill Country cavern will not be brought out of the deep hole.

Divers who tried for a week to reach the trapped bodies of Kent Maupin, 20, and Mark Alan Brashier, 21, have decided the mission was to risky.

"They said it was too dangerous for anyone to go in," Mary Maupin of Pasadena, the mother of one of the victims, said Tuesday.

"We couldn't live with that if anyone got hurt," she said.

The two Pasadena men died in Jacob's Well during the early morning hours of Sept. 9. They ventured through a narrow underwater opening to explore beyond the Cavern's dangerous third chamber. They died after apparently failing to bring their breathing apparatus through the opening, officials speculate.

Commercial divers worked in the well for a week before deciding the recovery effort was too dangerous. They had planned to use powerful pumps to clear the way of loose silt.

One rescue diver was briefly trapped in the well. Two others were injured during the aborted recovery attempt.

The well has long been a popular spot for divers. Several have drowned in the cavern in recent years.

A spokeswoman for Hays County Sheriff Alton Smithey said stainless steel bars will be installed to prevent divers from going into the hazardous area. A Pasadena diver who was with the two men when they went into the well said a memorial plaque will be placed at the site - perhaps underwater near the third chamber.

"I don't know what went through Kent's head," said Mary Jane Jones of Neptune's Locker Dive Shop. She said the divers knew of the cavern's reputation.

"We've gotten letters from everywhere," Mrs. Maupin said from her home Tuesday. "I don't know how to tell you ...he had friends in the hundreds in the diving world."

"Say! You look great with your hair up!"

FOR 2¢...

I can do a great many things with power from the rural electric cooperative to lighten my load, brighten my day and keep me within my budget. I use power a hundred different ways. Here are some examples of what 2 cents will buy from my electric cooperative. And when I think about the higher cost of electricity I'm impressed all over.

MIDWEST ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE

No. 6 America's energy problem is complex. This is the sixth in a series in which we will discuss each of the individual factors affecting the energy situation.

Gasoline allocations: How more can mean less.

The Federal Department of Energy's (DOE) gasoline allocation program was instituted during the 1973-74 Oil Embargo, seeking to provide a fair distribution of limited gasoline supplies under price control. It became critically important again earlier this year when the Iranian revolution created a new shortage.

Priority Users.

The program gives preference each month to the needs of "priority users" such as farmers, police and fire departments. Another portion is "set aside" for State governments to use in emergency or problem situations.

More supplies but less available at service stations.

So far in 1979, Chevron has delivered a total of 8% more gasoline to all of its customers than in the same period in 1978. But because of the requirements of priority users and other DOE adjustments, many service stations actually received less gasoline than a year ago. So — under Federal allocations, more can mean less.

Because we have less, all of us must do an even better job of conserving energy.

Thank you for listening.

Truck Driver Suffers Burns

One man received burns about his face and arms in a truck trailer fire Tuesday afternoon west of Ira.

Injured was Larry Lynn. He was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital and this morning was listed in good condition.

Lynn was the driver of an 18-wheeler transport truck rig that caught fire near the Ira cemetery. The fire occurred about 4:45 p.m.

The fire was confined to the trailer portion of the rig and resulted in moderate damage.

Fire Chief Alfred Kohl said he is still checking on the origin of the blaze.

The rig was owned by Hank's Oilfield Service.

Record Set By Rehab Roundup

The 20th annual Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children grossed $180,050.19 for the West Texas Rehabilitation Center to set a record for the annual cattle sale.

Of this, $136,502.45 came from the sale of cattle eartagged for the auction, while $43,547.74 was generated directly from donations.

Jim Alexander of Abilene, general chairman of the CRCC, expressed great satisfaction in the record sale which represented both the largest cattle and cash amounts ever for the annual cattle sale. The cattle sale always represents the first, and the largest phase of the CRCC, which also includes a horse sale, sheep and goat sale and special sale at later dates.

Alexander was also optimistic that additional cattle will be sold during the future Rehab sales in coming weeks. Alexander said there are still cattle to be picked up from throughout the state which means this year's Round-Up "was certainly a success."

Shelley V. Smith, Rehab Center executive director, expressed deep gratitude to all who played a part of the sale's super success.

Meanwhile, the second phase of the Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children will be the annual horse sale, Saturday, Oct. 6, also at Abilene Livestock Auction.

Other sales include sheep and goat sale Oct. 15 at Junction and special sale Oct. 17 at Coleman.

Oil Tax

production by 1990.

Carter proposed the windfall tax to take away some of the billions of dollars in additional revenues that will flow to the oil industry as a result of his decision to phase out federal price controls on domestic crude oil. The tax would apply not to profits but to a portion of the price increase caused by decontrol.

The House passed a tax that gave Carter most of what he wanted. But as the Finance Committee began work on the measure in July, the president cautioned that efforts would be made to weaken the tax. He urged Americans to write their senators in support of a tough tax.

The committee, with a heavy concentration of representation from oil-producing states, agreed with Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, that each dollar taken away by a tax is a dollar denied the oil industry to increase exploration and production.

Refugee Cities To Be Helped

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Carter administration is going to "move forward very quickly" to help cities where large number of Indochinese refugees are settling, says the mayor of Peoria, Ill.

Mayor Richard Carver and other mayors met with Dick Clark, the president's special ambassador for refugees, Monday to seek more federal aid. Carver said the influx of refugees is straining the resources of some cities.

Cheerleader

been a Cowboy cheerleader for two years. Each year, she said, approximately 1,600 girls try out for the squad, and of that number only about 40 are chosen.

The current cheerleader squad is composed of 36 members who range in age from about 20 to 28. Several are married and one has two children.

She said the cheerleaders are paid per appearance, and that she made $7,000 last year. To supplement her income, she noted, she also sells insurance.

At one point in the discussion, Miss McKelvey was asked what the highlight of being a Cowboy cheerleader has been for her. She replied she wasn't certain, but that she had enjoyed doing a television special last year. That, she guessed, had been one of her favorite episodes.

Miss McKelvey said the Cowboys' chances of competing in the Super Bowl are "pretty good, I think."

Furrier Likes Raccoon Pelts

By BILL SCHULZ
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—If you shoot or trap a raccoon, fox, beaver or mink, there's a pretty good chance Chris Plott is going to get the skin.

"We buy for some of the finest fur houses in the world," said Plott, who heads the Plott Hide and Fur Co. in Griffin, Ala.

He said he purchased more than 100,000 raccoons last year, as part of about $7.5 million in business with hunters, trappers and fur dealers in 27 states.

Raccoons make up about 40 percent of his business, he said.

"The pelt of a good, big, adult male raccoon is worth about $20 on the carcass," said Plott.

Professional trappers know how to skin an animal, Plott said. The amateur shouldn't try it if he hopes to sell the hide.

The hunter who bags a fur-bearing animal should freeze it whole and bring in the carcass to a fur dealer to avoid damaging the pelt with improper skinning, he said.

Furs bought last year ranged from bobcat pelts at $50.62 each to squirrel tails at nine cents each.

A carcass brought into the factory at Griffin, a few miles south of Atlanta, is skinned, the hide scraped and the pelt stretched on a frame to dry and cure in a room kept at 90 degrees, Plott said in a telephone interview. A fast worker can have the animal skinned, fleshed and on the drying frame in five minutes.

That part of the job is over for the year, and the pelts now are being stored in bundles at 34 degrees, to prevent infestation by hide beatles.

Georgia raccoon pelts make good coats, said Plott. North Carolina, South Carolina and Texas also produce good coat raccoons, he said.

Skins from the northern states are heavier "trimming coons, used in collars, cuffs and borders," he said. "They come from a colder climate, so naturally, the animal has to have more fur. That's not necessarily desirable in a coat. A heavier skin makes a heavier garment, which can be uncomfortable to wear."

A good pelt has no holes in it, from bullet, knife or "coon dogs" teeth, he said.

"In a raccoon, you are looking for a dark coon with bluish, silvery sides, which, when put into a garment so the silvery sides meet, produces a dark stripe, then a silvery stripe," said Plott, the third member of his family to run the business.

Pelts are sorted by quality and color and shipped to different garment makers.

"One manufacturer may work with a lesser quality raccoon, while another might work with a better quality," Plott said. "We break up the lots to a manufacturer's specifications."

Plott said he deals with about 2,500 trappers, most of whom trap in the winter and farm in the summer.

"There are a heck of a lot of pepole who otherwise can't make a dollar," he said.

Angels Clinch AL Western

By The Associated Press

This just hasn't been Frank Tanana's year.

But Tuesday night was Frank Tanana's night.

"This takes a little bit of the sting out of a sub-par season," said Tanana after pitching the California Angels to the American League West Division title with a 4-1 victory over Kansas City. "It's like a trip, really. There was long while where I didn't think I'd pitch again this season."

Saddled with arm problems most of the year, Tanana hadn't pitched more than 6 2-3 innings in a game since early June. But Tuesday night, he went the full nine, pitching a five-hitter to lead the Angels to their first title of any kind in the club's 19-year history.

Tanana, 7-5, was making his fifth start since being reactivated three weeks ago after missing nearly three months because of tendonitis in his pitching shoulder.

Baize Downing slugged a pair of run-scoring singles in support of Tanana's fine pitching. Downing singled in the game's first run in the second inning, when the Angels scored three times to knock out loser Craig Chamberlain, 4-4. The California catcher singled in another run in the fifth for the final run of the night.

Richard Gets 300th Strikeout...

Houston Closes On Cincy

ATLANTA (AP)-J.R. Richard gave Houston a needed boost Tuesday night and the Astros retured to the National League West pennant chase after a near fatal collapse the previous night.

The 6-foot-8 Richard put the skids to a three-game Astros' losing streak with a powerful 13-strikeout performance and Houston's bats exploded for a season-high 19 hits in an 8-0 rout of the Atlanta Braves.

The victory, coupled with Cincinnati's 8-2 loss to San Diego, left the Astros only 1½ games behind the first place Reds. Houston has four games remaining while Cincinnati has five.

"I wasn't concerned about last night," said Richard of Atlanta's 5-4 and 8-1 sweep of a doubleheader, dampening Houston's pennant hopes. "That was past history. This was a new day and I went out to do my job and did it."

Indeed, he did, scattering only four hits while surpassing the 300-strikeout mark for the second consecutive season and coming within one strikeout of the NL record of 303 for righthanders he set last year.

"The strikeouts are definitely an accomplishment but the win was more important than the strikeouts," said the 29-year-old Richard, now 17-13 after his fourth shutout of the season. He will make his final start against Los Angeles Saturday.

"It's definitely not over yet but I do feel we can't lose any more games. If we win the rest, we have a darn good chance of winning it," he said.

Richard said the Astros were "more relaxed and calm tonight," than Monday and erupted for the 19 hits which "was the most I can ever remember us getting."

Four Astros had three hits apiece, including Enos Cabell, Rafael Landestoy, Denny Walling and Terry Puhl while Landestoy and Luis Pujols drove in three runs apiece and Cabell two.

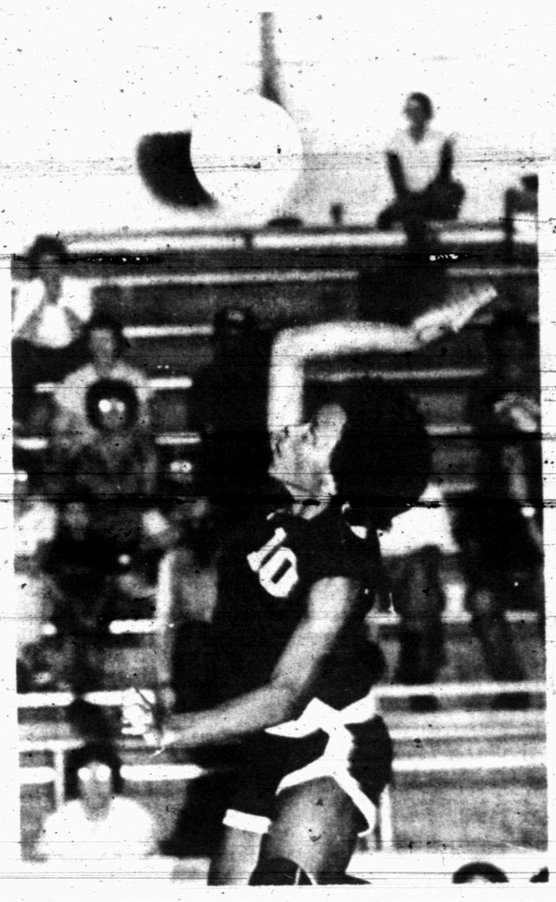

Tigers Gear For Action

Snyder freshmen gridders play their first home game of the season here Thursday evening, while the junior varsity and eighth grade Gold teams hit the road.

The frosh, 1-0-1, will open a four-game home stand at 5:30 against Andrews, Snyder's varsity opponent here Friday. A-team and B-team games will be held. Because of the varsity game scheduled, tomorrow's freshman games will be held at Travis Field.

Meanwhile, the junior varsity will fight the Mustangs in their own yard, beginning at 7 p.m. Snyder JV is 2-1 on the season.

Snyder's eighth grade Gold team will get its first taste of action Thursday, playing in Stamford at 5:30.

PLAY THURSDAY--Snyder's freshman, junior varsity and varsity volleyball squads will play host to Kermit at 4, 5 and 6 p.m. respectively Thursday in the SHS Gym. Netters Notch Fourth; Sack Big Spring, 11-2

Snyder's varsity boys defeated Big Spring in tennis action here Tuesday, 11-2. Next week, girls from the respective schools will play here at 3:30, Oct. 2.

The matches are played at 3:30 due to UIL rules which prohibit playing more than eight matches per year which take up school time.

Yesterday's win was the fourth in as many outings for Snyder, and its second over Big Spring. The Steers had won over teams from Lubbock and Borger since playing Snyder Last.

In boys' singles, Neal Paige won over Kip McLaughlin, 6-2, 7-6; Jon Smith lost to Aubrey Weaver, 6-7, 4-6; Jeff Wesson defeated Cavan McMahon, 6-3, 6-2; Jimmy Fowler lost to Brent Pearce, 6-7, 5-7; Mark Cypert won over Greg Franklin, 6-4, 6-1; Richard Derrick defeated Todd Gilbert, 6-1, 6-1; Davey Brown won over Scott Nelson, 6-4, 6-1; Mitch Stone defeated Russell Hodnett, 6-1, 6-7, 6-2; and John Melott won over Rusty Williams, 6-0, 6-1.

In doubles, Paige and Jimmy Fowler defeated Weaver and McLaughlin, 6-2, 6-4; Smith and Wesson won over McMahon and Pearce, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1; Cypert and Derrick bested Franklin and Gilbert, 6-3, 6-3; and Trey McWilliams and Jeff Fowler won over Nelson and Patrick, 6-3, 6-4.

Pirates Win, 10-4; Take Slim Lead

By The Associated Press

Pittsburgh Manager Chuck Tanner called Tuesday night's 10-4 victory over Montreal "the most important, pivotal game of the year."

Till tonight, that is.

"From now on each of them will be the most important," conceded Tanner, whose Pirates take on the Expos in Pittsburgh tonight in the concluding game of their fourgame series. The clubs split a two-night doubleheader Monday.

The Pirates climbed one-half game ahead of Montreal on the strength of veteran Willie Stargell, their inspirational leader, who slugged two home runs.

"I like for them to mean something," Stargell said of the home runs, which gave him 31 for the season and 460 for his career. "If they're meaningful, then I'm excited about the contribution."

Meanwhile, the West Division race tightened up as Cincinnati lost and Houston won. The front-running Reds dropped an 8-2 decision to the San Diego Padres and saw their lead trimmed to 1½ games as the Astros blanked the Atlanta Braves 8-0.

In other NL action, the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-1, the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the San Francisco Giants 11-2 and the Chicago Cubs split a double-header with the New York Mets, the Cubs winning the opener 11-3 and the Mets taking the nightcap 4-3 in 10 innings.

Pittsburgh's Bruce Kison, 11-7 will start against Montreal's Steve Rogers, 13-10, when the clubs square off tonight for the NL East lead.

Stargell hit a two-run homer in the first and a solo shot in the fourth.

O'Brien Nixes Knicks Desire

NEW YORK (AP)—NBA Commissioner Lawrence F. O'Brien rejected the request of the New York Knicks that Seattle return Lonnie Shelton, Vinnie Johnson and $450,000 as a result of Judge Robert Carter's decision last week in the Marvin Webster compensation case.

The NBA is appealing Judge Carter's ruling that the compensation ordered by O'Brien was excessive.

Norman Hitting Portside, Guides Texas Around A's

ARLINGTON (AP)-Nelson Norman has won games for the Texas Rangers on defense before, but it's seldom that his prowess with a bat has contributed much.

Norman hit three singles, all from the "strange" left side of the plate in leading Texas to a 5-3 victory over the Oakland A's Tuesday night.

As a right-handed hitter, he is only .199 for the season and for much of the year he held the dubious honor of having the worst batting average in the American League, but since being persuaded to become a switch hitter, Norman has gotten better and better.

He is .266 for the year as a left-hander and has hit .290 for the last 30 days.

"I was taking a big cut from the right side, from the left side I'd just been trying to pop the bat," said the young shortstop from the Cominican Republic.

Oakland greeted Texas starter Doc Medich with two singles and a double for two runs before he got his first out in the first inning Tuesday night.

Joe Namath threw 49 passes an AFL playoff game in 1968 between the New York Jets and Oakland Raiders.

Week Four, District Outlook.....

'Toughs' Tested Friday

If last week's outings were a breeze for District 3-AAA toughs Snyder and San Angelo Lake View, Friday's contests may seem like walking from an ice box into a steam bath.

Snyder, a 28-0 victor over 5-AAAA Big Spring, takes on undefeated Andrews at Tiger Stadium, while Lake View, which strangled Lubbock Dunbar 41-0, will try sixth-ranked Brownwood.

Other games involving 3-AAA teams this week include Brownfield at Monahans, Lamesa at Hobbs, N.M., and Sweetwater to host Graham.

The conference had its best effort of the season last week, going 3-2 as a unit. The overall record is now 6-9.

Andrews will come into Friday's 8 p.m. contest with a 3-0 record, averaging 33 points per outing while allowing 9. Snyder, 2-1, has averaged 14 offensively, and given up 8 2-3 a game. The Tigers won last year - via a blocked punt - 6-0.

The game is important for both teams, though loop wars are still at least three weeks away. Expectedly, the meeting will be each teams' toughest test thus far this season.

Andrews has won by scores of 40-6 over Big Spring, 30-0 over Lamesa, and 29-21 over the Indians.

Meanwhile, Snyder got off to its normal shakey start, falling to Midland Lee 13-0 and edging Monahans 14-13, before dumping Big Spring 28-0.

Friday's game could possibly give the victor an edge towards future state rankings.

Lake View proved it could play with the big boys two weeks ago when Kerrville Tivy had to scramble to exit the Chiefs 15-14. Lake View has chalked wins of 25-0 over Del Rio and 41-0 over Lubbock Dunbar.

Brownwood, tops in the state until AAAA powerhouse Abilene Cooper zapped the school 50-14, has slipped to 6th, but still promises to give the Chiefs all they want. Brownwood smacked De-Soto, 34-7, and downed Round Rock, 29-0.

All of which means a steady eye will be surveying Friday's meeting between the two.

From the toughs to the not-so-toughs, 0-3 Lamesa will travel to 0-2 Hobbs, N.M. Lamesa has lost to Pecos, 26-0, Andrews, 30-0 and Levelland 18-10 (Snyder's next three opponents). Hobbs fell to Big Spring, 7-0, and to Odessa High, 35-0.

Brownfield and Monahans, which vie at Monahans on Friday, both registered their first wins of the season last week. Brownfield, which had lost 14-13 to Levelland and 15-7 to Seminole, nipped Denver City 7-6. Monahans, after falling 13-6 to Seminole and 14-13 to Snyder, got past Canutillo, 35-0.

Finally, Sweetwater will be looking to better its 1-2 record by hosting Graham on Friday. Graham, though only 1-2, has averaged 30 points a game by losing to Stephenville, 36-34, and Breckenridge, 38-28, and beating Fort Worth Castleberry, 28-6.

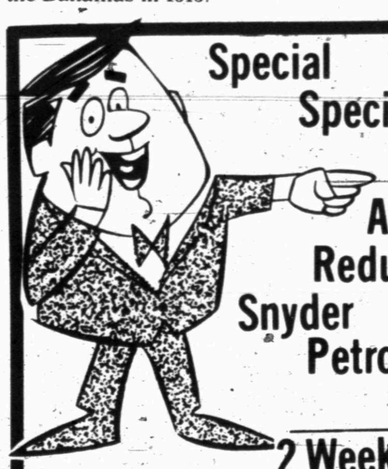

The Mustangs also lost to Breckenridge, 40-8, and to Stamford, 28-6, and defeated Colorado City, 27-14.

County Wants Troopers Out

By GREG THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

JOURDANTON (AP)—Atascosa County officials say they want Earl Conaway and Albert Rodriguez out of their county by Monday, or there will be dire consequences.

That presents somewhat of a problem. Conaway and Rodriguez, you see, are top-notch state troopers credited by their superiors with a crackdown on drunk drivers that has trimmed the county's traffic accident rate in half.

But Monday, if the two young troopers are still on duty, county officials vow in an official resolution that they'll heave the entire six-man Department of Public Safety operation out of its county-owned command post.

The county judge and commissioners also want Sheriff Tommy Williams to refuse any prisoners brought in by the two patrolmen if they continue to work. Williams has said he intends to comply.

DPS officials said Tuesday they do not plan to transfer the two officers, but will simply work from the six troopers' homes if the threat is carried out.

"We'll just take our equipment, clean up the building, lock the door and take the keys over to the judge," said Capt. Randol Gilmore, district commander.

The crackdown by the two troopers has led to drunk driving charges this summer against Plez William Hall, the son of Pleasanton Mayor Travis Hall, and Thomas James Tausch, the son of County Commissioner Smith Tausch, who introduced the resolution last week.

DPS officials feel the arrests probably prompted the eviction threat. "We can't prove it, but the circumstantial evidence is obviously there," said a top DPS official who requested anonymity.

Conaway, who arrested both men, is black, leading some to say the episode in the rural South Texas county has racial overtones. "His being black has a lot to do with it. But you can't go out and prove it," said Patrolman Johnnny Abrego, Conaway's partner.

But County Judge O.B. Gates and Tausch deny those two arrests or racism prompted the ultimatum. They said numerous residents have complained to them about "harrassment and abuse" from the two officers, but refused to offer specifics.

"It's just these two particular patrolmen, no others," said Tausch. "They have harrassed and abused people." He then refused further comment and shoved past reporters.

"It's harassment and the methods that they apply when they arrest a person," said Gates, who unsuccessfully met Tuesday with the DPS region commander.

The resolution did not specify any allegations.

Hall alleged Tuesday that Conaway had repeatedly followed his son the night of his son's arrest July 19, but Gilmore said an investigation disproved that charge.

"I agree with this resolution because of the harassment. I don't want a drunk driver on the highway, not my son or anybody else," said Hall. "But I've gotten complaints from other people. It seems to me that the DPS should respect the wishes of the county judge and commissioners on a mere transfer."

Conaway had the day off Tuesday and could not be reached for comment, but Rodriguez denied he and Conaway harassed anyone.

"We've done what we can call non-selective law enforcement. Anybody we stop, if they are driving while intoxicated, they'll come in. We don't make any exceptions whatsoever," he said.

TESCO Selling Plant In East Texas To HL&P

Negotiations are underway for the sale of an electric generating plant in East Texas, owned in part by Texas Electric, to Houston Lighting & Power, TESCO president Bill Marquardt announced today.

The negotiations involve the Forest Grove power plant, now under construction near Athens in Henderson County. The plant, planned as a lignite coal-fueled unit, now is scheduled for completion in 1984.

Texas Electric owns 60 percent of the plant. Other owners are Dallas Power & Light and Texas Power & Light, with 20 percent each. If a sale agreement is reached, the three companies, all subsidiaries of the Texas Utilities system, would sell the 750,000-kilowatt plant at its current stage of construction. The unit is now about 2 percent complete.

Marquardt said the companies will not sell the lignite fuel which has been dedicated for use in the plant. If the sale goes through, HL&P will make its own arrangements to transport fuel to the plant site. Also, any agreement reached will contain a provision whereby the companies may repurchase the plant at a later date.

Marquardt said current projections show the company will not need the Forest Grove plant to serve its customers during the time period when it will first be in operation.

The plant's completion date already has been postponed twice. Preliminary construction work began in 1976.

The company's load growth will be less than originally expected through the mid-1980's, Marquardt said. Therefore, he said, there are short-term and long-term advantages to TESCO customers from a sale of the plant during that time period.

For the short term, TESCO's construction costs can be reduced, thereby helping hold down the amount of future rate increases. Meanwhile, Marquardt said, the plant can be built on its current schedule. And in the future, when TESCO does need its generating capacity to serve customers, it can be bought back at a price based on today's construction costs.

"For our customers, this will be much less expensive than building a new plant, when needed, at tomorrow's inflated construction costs," he said.

In addition to Forest Grove, TESCO is co-owner of eight operating lignite generating units in East Texas. Another unit, the fourth unit at the Martin Lake plant near Henderson, is under construction.

Some 5,000 servicemen killed in World War II are buried in the American Cemetery in the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. Gen. George S. Patton Jr., who died after the war, has a grave at the head of the grounds.

President Will Report To Nation On Russians-In-Cuba Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Carter says he will report to the nation probably within a week on American attempts to get the Soviet Union to "eliminate the combat capability" of its brigade in Cuba, a nation he says has become a "puppet" of Moscow.

Of negotiations with the Russians, Carter said: "I don't know whether we will be successful. If we do not succeed, we will take appropriate action to change the status quo."

Carter, addressing a "town meeting" in New York City on Tuesday, disputed Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's curt dismissal of American statements that the Russian troops in Cuba represent combat forces.

"It is a combat unit," the president said.

He said intelligence reports indicate the brigade numbers about 2,500 troops with about 40 tanks and "some field pieces." But there are no indications, the president emphasized, that the troops possess any weapons that could threaten the United States.

Gromyko, while not specifically mentioning the troops, told the U.N. General Assembly earlier in the day that "all sorts of falsehoods are being piled up concerning the policies of Cuba and the Soviet Union. It is high time that you honestly admit that this whole matter is artificial and proclaim it to be closed."

The Soviet Union, he said, "shall not allow anybody to meddle in our internal affairs." Neither his nation nor the Cubans, he said, has ever "threatened anybody."

Carter's view of the Cubans differed. He said Cuba is dependent on Russian aid and "acts, in effect, as a Soviet surrogate in areas around the world." The Cubans "act completely in accordance" with Moscow's policies, he added.

In 1960, Canadian army units were formed for service in the Congo on behalf of the United Nations.

Tetracyclines can help

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 50-year-old male and have sugar diabetes. About three years ago I started getting a lot of pimples on my face and the doctor had me on insulin. I asked him if it was causing the pimples and he said no. He put me on some other tablets but they didn't help much so I discontinued them and just stayed on my insulin for diabetes.

Later I broke my leg and the doctor treating my leg put me on tetracycline as an antibiotic to help my bone heal. After taking tetracycline for a while, my face cleared. I have been taking them several months, but if I quit taking them my face starts to sprout pimples again. My question is, does tetracycline have any effects on my health if I continue to take them daily? I only take one a day.

DEAR READER — You have reinvented the wheel. It's well known that tetracyclines are very helpful in treating acne. There are little tiny bacteria that live in the pores of the skin and they break down the fatty materials formed by the oil glands in your skin. It's these broken-down fatty products that are chemically irritating and they cause the red pustules you're talking about.

Your case also points out that you don't have to be a teen-ager to have acne. Many people have acne throughout their life and, of course, it's easier for a diabetic to develop skin problems and infections than it is for a nondiabetic.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated, so that you'll have a full understanding of the problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents in check or coin with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As the letter I'm sending you explains, you can take tetracycline on a continuous basis. Usually they're taken in larger doses at first and then the amount is decreased for a maintenance level to control acne. One or two tablets a day is the usual maintenance amount.

Unless you develop any symptoms from taking them, there's no reason why you shouldn't continue them, particularly if they protect you against acne.

It usually takes three to eight weeks for tetracyclines to have any noticeable effect on acne. They won't cure the red pustules that are already there. That's caused by irritating chemicals that have already been formed. The tetracyclines will help prevent the breakdown of the oily sebum into irritating products. That helps prevent the development of more red pustules.

Skin peeling agents prescribed by your doctor are also helpful in some cases when needed. Then you can help cut down on the oily sebum accumulation by soaking and washing the areas involved two or three times a day with rather warm water. Wiping the area clean with alcohol sponges also helps. Alcohol will mix with the oily-waxy material and help dissolve it whereas water will not.

Dear Abby

Her 'In-Law' Is an Outlaw

By Abigail Van Buren

(c) 1979 Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I was married last week, and just prior to the wedding I was introduced to a cousin of my soon-to-be husband. What a shock! I couldn't believe it. This cousin was the SAME man who, a year ago, tied me up and robbed the gift shop where I worked. I spent 90 minutes bound and gagged by this man, and now he is a relative. I am not guessing. I am absolutely positive!

"Cousin" gave no indication that he had ever seen me before, and I said nothing. So, Dear Abby, if you were in my place, would you tell your husband, or remain . . .

FOREVER GAGGED

DEAR GAGGED: I would tell my husband first. Then I would tell the police.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl, writing this letter at 9:45 on a Sunday morning. I have been awake since 6:30 a.m. and am very tired. The reason? The dog next door has been barking loudly and nonstop since 6:30 a.m.

This is nothing new. Our neighbors put their Doberman pinscher out on their tiny back porch, which is very close to my bedroom window, and when the dog is out there he barks incessantly!

Yesterday I was awakened at 7 a.m., but not by the dog. This time it was the entire family (mother and three kids) having one of their knockdown, drag-out, screaming arguments. There is yelling, slapping, cursing, crying and door slamming very often over there.

My mother talked to the lady next door once about all the noise, but it did no good. Please tell me what to do before I get put away for poisoning a dog.

READY TO KILL

DEAR READY: There are laws against disturbing the peace. Call the police. And keep calling them until you get some action. Noisy neighbors and barking dogs are low on the list of law-enforcers' priorities, but if at first you don't succeed, try, try again. And don't give up.

DEAR ABBY: I was heartened by your column devoted to the many virtues of walking.

As you pointed out, walking aids in weight loss, improves health and conserves gasoline. But bicycling has the following added advantages over walking:

- It takes less time.
- It does not cause blisters, aching arches or other foot problems.
- It expands one's travel range. Not many people live within walking distance of their jobs, but one can easily bicycle 5 to 10 miles a day.
- The bicycle carries loads too heavy to carry while walking.

With so many advantages, bicycling can become an effective alternative to automobile travel.

ELLEN F. IN PALO ALTO

DEAR ELLEN: Right on! Our AFFluence has INfluenced our waistlines. We can learn a lot from our European and Asiatic cousins.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.M. IN MPLS: No one said it better than the late Justice Louis D. Brandeis: "The right to be left alone is the most comprehensive of rights, and the right most valued in civilized man."

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

The earth is apparently the only planet of the sun's family that has an ocean. This may explain earth's position in the solar system. If the earth circled as close to the sun as Mercury, its water would probably boil away and become an atmosphere of steam. If it circled at Jupiter's distance, the ocean would probably be a mass of ice.

C/F Plans Local Door-To-Door Drive

Many volunteers for the 1979 Kiss A Baby, Campaign will call on their neighbors, Thursday to encourage them to kiss their babies and to ask their help in the fight for the millions of children across the nation who suffer from lung-damaging diseases, said Bonnie Hodge, chairman of the local cystic fibrosis drive.

The campaign's door-to-door drive will be conducted in Snyder for the C-F Foundation as part of the annual effort to raise funds for programs benefiting children with cystic fibrosis and other lung damaging diseases.

"Our cause is a very important one. Lung diseases kill more children in this nation than any other disease except cancer," said Mrs. Hodge. "Cystic fibrosis is the number one genetic killer of children, and approximately 40 percent of persons suffering from C-F are not yet diagnosed."

According to Mrs. Hodge, contributions to the Kiss-A-Baby campaign will help support a national network of over 100 various educational programs.

Cystic fibrosis centers, mostly located at teaching hospitals affiliated with leading medical schools and universities, provide diagnosis, treatment, and referral to children suffering from cystic fibrosis, asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectases, (childhood emphysima) and recurrent pneumonia.

Hospitals dealing with gastrointestinal disorders related to C-F are located in Dallas, Houston and San Antonio.

"Through research we hope to find a cure and control for cystic fibrosis," said Mrs. Hodge. "Another goal of the research program is developing better methods of treating children for all types of lung diseases."

"Most of the funds that are raised in the Kiss-A-Baby Campaign go to these very important national programs," she said. "But almost 50 percent of the monies stay in this chapter area to support services for local children with cystic fibrosis and other lung diseases."

Cystic fibrosis affects one out of every 1,500 infants born each year. Although incurable, cystic fibrosis can be effectively treated.

"Since the C-F Foundation was established in 1955, remarkable progress has occurred in treating children with cystic fibrosis," the campaign chairman said. "At that time, most children with this disease died early in life. Today, more than half of the children with cystic fibrosis live past their 19th birthday, and that is a beautiful 20th anniversary gift of life."

Training Is Completed By Pvt. Clayton

FORT SILL, Okla.—Pvt. James E. Clayton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Clayton, 3008 Avenue K, Snyder, recently completed training as a cannoneer under the One Station Unit Training (OSUT) Program at the U.S. Army Field Artillery School, Fort Sill.

OSUT is a 13-week period which combines basic combat training with advanced individual training.

Students learned the duties of a howltzer or gun section crewman and received instruction in handling ammunition, setting fuses and preparing charges, communications and maintenance.

Churchill Sees Missle Installations

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) —Sounding like a voice from the past, Winston Churchill, a member of British Parliament, says he's impressed with America's missles but has some grave concerns about U.S. defense policy.

The great-grandson of the late British prime minister inspected missile installations at Warren Air Force Base here Monday as part of a six-week tour of U.S. bases by 10 members of Parliament.

Churchill said he thinks it is unfortunate the West is far behind the Soviet Union in development of mobile MX-type missiles. He noted there has been a "dramatic escalation" in Soviet missile strength.

Jimmy Dykes managed major league baseball teams for 21 seasons without winning a pennant.
