Russians Rip Nazi Lines On 20-Mile Front

Twenty-One More Cities Taken In Soviet Onslaught

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor

Soviet quarters reported today that Russian troops had advanced within 75 miles of the great German base at Rostov, pivot for all Nazi operations in the Caucasus, and ripped through German lines on a 20-mile front along both sides of the lower Don river.

Front-line reports said Russian troops sweeping westward along the Don had pushed forward 50 miles since capturing the Don bridgehead of Tsimlyansk two days ago.

RUSSIA—Reds smash on to within 75 miles of Rostov, key to Nazi salient into Caucasus.

NEW GUINEA — Patrols grope through swamps as Allies regroup for assault against Jap-held Sanananda point.

Soviet dispatches said the triumphant Red armies of the south had captured at least 21 more cities and towns and listed 339,150 Axis soldiers killed or taken prisoner since the start of the Russian winter offensive Nov. 19.

Nazis Claim Successes

Adolf Hitler's high command, still giving the German people no hint of the disastrous turn of events, asserted flatly that Nazi infantry and tanks "repulsed all Soviet attacks in continued fighting in the Don and Kalmyck sectors."

A Soviet war bulletin said the Red armies, hotly pursuing the retreating Nazis, had advanced 25 miles northwest of newly-recaptured Prokhladnenski to the railway station at Apolonskaya, almost halfway to Mineralnye Vody, the hub of a network of central Caucasus railways.

Paralleling this drive, another Russian column raced northwest from Nalchik, advancing 15 miles to a cluster of towns.

Hitler Expects New Red Drive

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Jan. 7—Germany is expecting a Russian offensive on the Black sea coast of the north Caucasus at any hour, neutral sources in Stockholm reported today, and a Berlin radio report said that fighting had already broken out in the Tuapse-Novorossisk area of the coast.

Informants, quoted in a United Press Stockholm dispatch, said that it was believed the Russians would attack in a combined land, sea and air operation, using their powerful Black sea fleet.

Stockholm said the German position was even more dangerous in the coastal area than in the eastern area of the Caucasus because of the fleet.

Rome Admits Retreat

Radio Rome admitted that "to avoid serious losses" the German high command had ordered evacuation of a number of "advanced" positions both in the Caucasus and in the middle Don area.

A Daily Express Stockholm dispatch quoted rumors that some Rumanian, Hungarian and Slovak troops in the Caucasus had mutinied, putting down their arms and refusing to fight on.

The dispatch reported that the mutineers had shot some officers,

German Armistice Group In Britain

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP)—An authoritative British source said today that "certain members" of the German armistice commission, who were captured in French North Africa by forces under American command, had been brought to Britain.

This source added that they were being held in custody in Britain "pending clarification of the general position in regard to them."

Nazi Chiefs Using Psychology Of Fear To Keep Residents Of Germany United In War Effort

(By The United Press)

ON THE GERMAN FRONTIER, Jan. 7—The psychology of fear is sweeping Germany, and the Nazi warlords are using it to keep the German people united in the Axis war effort.

There is little doubt that the Axis' military setbacks have damaged the prestige of the Nazi party and aided in the deterioration of civilian morale. But Paul Joseph Goebbels, preaching "conquer or perish" has successfully propagandized fear of the day of reckoning.

The German people fear the swelling Allied military power. They fear coming events on the battlefields. They fear that the day of vengeance for the Russians, Poles, Czechs and other Nazi victims is coming. But most of all they fear the Gestapo.

United By Fear

Observers reaching the frontier believe that Adolf Hitler's gift of fear to the Germans has united them for the country but they're certain that eventually it will result in swift and complete collapse on the home front when the Axis armies are beaten decisively.

There are undercurrents of unrest apparent already, Goebbels' slogan, "wheels roll for victory," has been distorted into a popular cynicism, "heads roll for victory."

There is no sign of a real military or popular uprising against Hitler yet, but observers agree that Munich, the birthplace of Naziism, is the center of outspoken grumbling and complaining.

Threat Questionable

It is questionable whether this is a serious threat of revolt or merely a Nazi-approved "blowing off steam," giving an illusion of freedom and providing an outlet for futile opposition that the Gestapo easily could quench.

In Munich Hitler is criticized openly without respect for the swarming Gestapo, and "the dirty Prussians" are blamed even for the deterioration of the famous Munich beer. Some travelers report the existence of several embryonic peace movements there, but more reliable sources agree

New Restrictions On Mail To Boys Abroad

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. (U.P.) — The large volume of mail and packages sent to troops overseas will make new Army postal restrictions necessary, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced today.

Effective Jan. 15, no package may be sent to a soldier overseas unless it contains an article requested by the soldier, and the request has been approved by his commander. The packages will not be accepted by the postoffice unless the written request bearing the commander's approval is presented, Stimson said.

The only exception will be in the case of soldiers sent abroad while packages addressed to them were in transit. Magazines and newspapers may be mailed only by the publishers.

V-mail will continue to be welcomed, Stimson continued, but ordinary letters bearing air mail stamps will be handled like regular mail.

New Sorghum Is Grown Here

A Lubbock man, R. E. Karper, has developed a sorghum grain that may soon have amazing potentialities as a war crop.

The plant originally was imported to Texas from the Philippines, and is known as Batad. Karper said it produces a waxy form of starch, not necessarily more starch, but a different starch, from any other grain sorghum.

Cross breeding has been under way at the state experiment station near Lubbock and at other places since 1930. The waxy starch the plant yields in abundance makes a base for glue used by the government on the backs of postage stamps and on envelope flaps. It also is used as a sizing material for textiles, and is an edible starch like that in many food products.

This starch heretofore has been imported from Java, now in Jap hands, and cut off from the United States.

Don Jones, manager of the experiment station here, said today the plant at first did not thrive not develop any too well, but after being cross-bred with acclimated types of sorghums here, has improved over a period of years and the result now seems promising.

Karper said today he plans to go to New York next week-end for consultations with government men and industrial leaders, on having the discovery adapted to

U. S. Draft Objectors Total Only 6,277

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Selective Service headquarters said today its latest compilation showed only 5,194 men out of the millions classified under the draft act had been sent to camps for conscientious objectors, and 250 of them had transferred to the Army.

Besides the number already sent to the camps, where discipline is maintained along military lines, 1,083 others have been ordered to report to these camps, making a total of 6,277 classified as conscientious objectors.

East Facing Serious Fuel Oil Shortage; Pleasure Driving Out

Theaters, Restaurants, Stores And Even Some Schools May Have To Be Closed

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Millions of Easterners took their last legal pleasure ride in automobiles today and prepared for partial closing of some theaters, restaurants, department stores and schools because of a serious fuel oil shortage in 17 Eastern states and the District of Columbia.

In two moves to meet the Eastern petroleum crisis, Price Administrator Leon Henderson:

1. Outlawed after noon today—at least for the duration of the shortage—all pleasure and non-essential driving.

To Define "Pleasure"

2. Slashed fuel oil rations for non-residential buildings a further 25 per cent, bringing rations for such consumers down to about 45 per cent of normal consumption.

The OPA expects to issue a detailed definition of "pleasure driving" and "non-essential driving" today but, in general, after this noon it will be illegal to use private automobiles to travel to race tracks, athletic events, theaters, concerts, movies or even to friends' houses for social visits.

May Confiscate Coupons

Drivers caught using their cars for such purposes are liable to have all their gasoline coupons confiscated for the duration.

OPA officials said the type of driving still permitted would include: driving to work when no other convenient means of transportation is available; driving to the nearest shops to make necessary purchases; driving to church, school and the doctor; driving on essential business if there is no other means of transportation.

Few Exemptions

The new 25 per cent cut in fuel oil rations for non-residential buildings, also effective today affects all non-residential buildings in the area, including theaters and other places of amusement, department stores, office buildings, factories, barber shops, supermarkets, beauty parlors, garages, restaurants, schools, colleges, museums, churches and government buildings.

Hotels, asylums, old folks' homes and prisons are exempt from the restrictions since they are regarded as mainly residential.

Committees To Curb Shortages

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—Civilians were promised quick relief today from local shortages of meats, butter and other scarce foods.

Food Administrator Claude R. Wickard began organizing local and state food committees to deal with the shortages, which he said arose mainly from maldistribution of food supplies.

MODERATE AMOUNTS ALLOWED

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Housewives who register for war ration book No. 2 next month won't have coupons deducted for moderate amounts of canned or frozen foods they may have on hand.

Harold B. Rowe, director of the food rationing division of the Office of Price administration, revealed the plan to allow a small carry-over at a discussion of the new point rationing system last night.

Rowe said he was not ready to disclose what the government would consider a moderate amount of canned or frozen food.

May Apportion Supplies

Wickard and other food officials said there was little they could do to answer complaints of housewives that restaurants and hotels are serving beefsteaks while grocery meat counters have no beef. Meat distributors may apportion their supplies among local customers as they wish, they said, and public eating places—always preferred customers—probably are being favored by some distributors.

"Organization of the food committees, however, does not mean that everyone will be able to go to the grocery store and buy all of every food that he would like," an official said.

"It does mean that we will meet

Germans Claim Sub Goes Up Mississippi

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP)—The German radio, in a broadcast beamed to the United States but heard here, reported today that a German submarine had traveled 90 miles up the Mississippi river "to within a few miles of New Orleans" in the hope of destroying a bridge.

The raider was detected, however, and forced to return to the Gulf of Mexico, the broadcast declared.

(There was no confirmation of the German report from any other source.)

New War Fund Drive Mapped

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—The Treasury having just scored the great at money-raising triumph in history, is turning its attention to plans for another huge war fund drive expected to be undertaken in the spring.

No financial goal has been mentioned for the new borrowing campaign, which Secretary Morgenthau said would start probably in April, and officials declined to predict whether it would be higher, lower or the same as that of the record-breaking victory loan campaign in December.

Collected 4 Billion More

In that drive, the first of this war, the treasury sought $9,000,000,000 and actually collected $12,906,000,000 or nearly $4,000,000,000 more than it sought.

Both the original goal and the subsequent sum collected shattered all previous financial records of this or any other country, the nearest approach being the fourth Liberty loan of the last war, when $6,900,000,000 was raised in three weeks.

A series of conferences which Treasury officials expect to hold with bankers and financial experts concerning the new drive began Tuesday and continued yesterday.

Second Arrest Made In Hale Bank Robbery

FBI Apprehends F. G. Gilbert In Tallahassee, Fla.

(See Picture On Page 7)

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 7—R. G. Danner, agent in charge of the Dallas office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, announced today the arrest in Tallahassee, Fla., of Flavis Godfrey Gilbert, 27, as a second suspect in the Nov. 27 holdup of the First National bank of Hale Center.

Telford Jackson Layman, 33, previously was reported arrested in Los Angeles in connection with the robbery, which netted two men $9,486. The robbers scooped the currency up in a pasteboard box as bank employes and customers were held at bay with pistols.

May Be Tried Here

Danner said charges of bank robbery were on file against the men in federal court at Fort Worth and that they would be returned to Texas, probably to Lubbock, where trial would be held. He said Layman yesterday waived a removal hearing at Los Angeles and was held under $50,000 bond, but that no hearing had been held for Gilbert at Tallahassee.

Danner said Gilbert was sentenced in New Mexico for armed robbery Feb. 23, 1939, was conditionally released Sept. 22, 1942, and two days later began working at the Inspiration Consolidated Copper mine at Miami, Ariz.

Gilbert worked there, Danner related, until Nov. 24, when he

President Tells Congress War Is On The Offensive

Roosevelt Cheered Thunderously Today In Aggressive Speech To New Congress; Solons Asked To Put Bickering Aside

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—President Roosevelt confidently told the new Congress today that he saw 1943 as a year of "very substantial advance" toward Berlin, Rome and Tokyo, and he said a "miracle of production" at home was backing the country's 7,000,000 fighting men.

"I do not prophesy when this war will end," the commander-in-chief said, but elsewhere in a thunderously-applauded speech he declared:

"The Axis powers knew that they must win the war in 1942—or eventually lose everything.

"I tell you it is within the realm of possibility that this Seventy-Eighth Congress may have the historic privilege of helping greatly to save the world from future fear."

Must Make Right Peace

Speaking from the platform of the House chamber of the guarded Capitol, Mr. Roosevelt summed up progress so far toward victory, called the United Nations "the mightiest military coalition in history" and said that, still united, they must stamp out any attempt after the peace to rearm in Germany, Italy, Japan, "or in any other nation which seeks to violate the Tenth Commandment—'Thou shalt not covet.'"

Loud cheers and yells punctuated his aggressive passages.

Have 1,500,000 Abroad

Mr. Roosevelt was reporting on the state of the world as well as the state of the union and sitting in front of him as he talked were commanders of the United States armed forces, whose men abroad, the President said, already total 1,500,000.

Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, sat listening intently, hand to chin, as Mr. Roosevelt praised Winston Churchill, Joseph Stalin and Chiang Kai-Shek. The applause was greatest at the mention of the Chinese generalissimo's name.

Mr. Roosevelt called on Congress to put aside bickering over economic measures, and to strive to contribute to national unity.

The President's address on the state of the nation was divided into three major sections:

A review of the progress of the Congress Split Over Places On Committees

Animosities Of Old Congress Not Yet Dispelled

BY TONY SMITH
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—A Congressional tussle over division of places on House committees and a noticeable Republican coolness to appeals for support of President Roosevelt today reflected the uneasy temperament of the one day-old Congress.

There were many indications that the animosities which developed in the "Fighting 77th" Congress have not been dispelled.

Declare Open Warfare

Republicans in both the Senate and House declared open warfare on "arrogant bureaucracy," nonessential government spending in war time, and "promiscuous granting of blank checks and blanket powers."

Opening day speeches by Republicans and Southern Democrats were aimed at administration of war agencies through executive orders by the president. Rep. Eugene E. Cox, D., Ga., called for re-assertion of the rights and prerogatives of Congress in this session. In this he echoed the sentiment of House Republican Leader Joseph W. Martin, jr., of Massachusetts and of House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas.

Demand Greater Representation

The unsettled committee situation in the House, where the Republicans are demanding greater representation because of their increased strength, was shown in the failure to elect sitting members of top committees at the first day's session.

It was understood that the Democrats are amenable to granting the Republicans a fair share of representation on such committees as ways and means, military and naval affairs, rules and for-

German Leadership Change Is Reported

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 7 (AP)—Another change in German military leadership was reported today by dispatches from Berlin which said that General Walther Nehring had been superseded by Col. Gen. von Arnim as commander in chief of the Axis forces in Tunisia.

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Svenska Dagbladet, who reported the change, described von Arnim as "one of Hitler's favorite panzer commanders" but offered no comment on the significance of the appointment.

Diaper Cloth Will Assume War Role

ATLANTA, Jan. 7 (AP)—It might be interesting to know how the government found it out, but anyway the Army and Navy have discovered that diaper cloth is just the thing for polishing gun sights and certain glass parts of an airplane.

So, there are fewer new diapers for babies made from the cloth.

Mrs. Cal Steed, manager of a commercial diaper service, reported today time was when an order for 500-dozen diapers would be filled in 10 days. Now she's happy to get 96-dozen in six weeks.

New Blows Hit Japs In Pacific

(By The Associated Press)

New American blows against Japan's far-flung supply lines, ranging from the Solomons to the Aleutian islands, were reported by the Navy today even as President Roosevelt told Congress that U. S. warplanes would strike at Japan's home islands "and bomb them constantly from the air."

The Navy said American Flying Fortresses, escorted by Lightning and Tomahawk fighters, attacked a Japanese transport off the Shortland islands, in the Solomons, and scored a "possible hit."

Other U. S. aircraft bombed the Japanese airfield at Kahili, near Buin, on Bougainville island, and the air field at Munda, New Georgia island.

Jap Cargo Ship Sunk

In the Aleutians, the Navy announced that American bombers sank one Japanese cargo ship 110 miles northeast of the enemy base at Kiska and scored a direct bomb hit and two near-hits on another enemy vessel 185 miles southwest of Kiska.

The presence of the Japanese ship 110 miles northeast of Kiska was not explained, but possibly it was en route to the bleak U. S.-owned Pribilog islands, 275 miles north of Dutch Harbor, where the Japanese have been reported scouting about.

Meanwhile, Australian government circles declared that aerial reconnaissance over Japan's big base at Rabaul, New Britain, 800 miles northeast of Australia, disclosed that the massing of Japanese shipping there had been increased since Tuesday.

Earlier this week, a high Australian government official asserted that Japan was concentrating the biggest armada ever sent into the southwest Pacific war theater in the Rabaul area.

PATMAN OFFERS BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. (AP) — Among resolutions offered in the House on the first day of the 78th congress yesterday was one by Representative Patman (D-Tex) to levy an excise tax on retail chain stores, ranging from $25 a unit up to 15 units, to $500 each store on chains of 500 or more units.

RAF 'Brother Officers' Turn Out To Be Escaped Nazi Pilots

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Officers of a certain Royal Air force mess discovered after they had wined and dined two "brother officers" that they weren't brother officers at all, but two Nazi pilots just escaped from a prison camp, it was revealed today.

Furthermore the Nazis had stolen a British plane from another RAF base, had taken off in it, and, if it hadn't been for the weather, would have easily escaped to Germany.

The Nazis spoke perfect English. In prison camp, they altered their German uniforms by unstated means to resemble Royal Air force uniforms and covered the buttons with tinfoil in which they had worked the RAF insignia. They escaped from the camp and went to the nearest RAF base where they picked out a plane on the runway and told the ground crew to make it ready for flight.

The crew serviced the plane and they were off well in advance of the first alarm from the camp. But they ran into a headwind, ran out of gasoline and landed in

View From House Gallery Is More Barren This Congress

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—As the new House of Representatives received the President and the Senate in joint session today, the gallery gogglers got together and admitted there's been some changes made.

Not only were there more Republicans when the new House was sworn in yesterday, but also there was less hair.

It may seem like a terrible reflection, but by actual count there were 45 of the billiard ball type shiny pates, 32 of the semi-bald boys and 53 of the comb-it-carefully-and-nobody-will-notice tops. Old-timers said that not since the big drouth of the middle 30's, when none of the crops did well, has the view from the House gallery been so barren.

One dyed-in-the-wool Democrat blamed it on the Republicans, and the resurgent GOP's glittering domes did slightly outnumber the New Dealers'—but the be-ribboned crowning glory of Clare Booth Luce made up for a lot. The guys with gray hair—some 65 in all—were parted pretty well in the middle.

Meat Shortage Laid To Ceiling

(By The Associated Press)

Beef may soon be more plentiful in some sections of the country, but reports indicated today that there will be no general alleviation of the civilian undersupply.

A spokesman for the American Meat Institute in Chicago declared that the Army is taking very large quantities of beef and that "Army needs come first."

Can't Kill Any More

A cause of the civilian undersupply, some meat packers asserted, is that the government has placed a ceiling on prices without a balancing ceiling on livestock.

"There is a terrific loss in most beef and to remain in business we can't afford to kill any more animals than we have to," one Pittsburgh packer said.

Slaughtering of local herds was advanced as a chief means of relieving the shortage in many communities.

Situations Are Different

In Los Angeles a packer spokesman said the situation was "greatly improved" today. He said that although delivery facilities were not adequate, "consumers will be able to get their share."

In Mississippi, on the other hand, Assistant State AAA Administrator Fred Hurst said there were more beef cattle in the state than ever before and that local packing houses were getting all they were allowed to handle under OPA regulations.

The supply in the southeastern section of the country was estimated at 50 to 60 per cent below the demand.

Beef, though not always the cut desired, was reported sufficiently plentiful in most sections of Texas, and a Houston packer said that while the red meat supply was "still short," more was expected when new packer quotas take effect.

Civil Service Exams Are Liberalized

Liberalized examination requirements in engineering, drafting, and radio, for applicants for federal jobs, were announced today by Charles I. Waller, local secretary of the U. S. Civil Service commission. People who wish to become federal engineers (any branch), junior engineers, engineering draftsmen, or radio inspectors should apply to Mrs. Lesta Boles at the postoffice. There are no written tests and no maximum age limits, and applications will be accepted in the commission's Washington office until further notice, Waller said.

Positions to be filled include engineers ($2,600 - $8,000), for whom experience or education in some branch of engineering is required. Women particularly are wanted for junior engineers ($2,000), and college students who have not majored in engineering the tuition - free, government-sponsored 10-week course offered in many colleges. Three to four years' education or experience, including ability to use the Morse code, are required for radio inspectors ($2,000-$2,600.) Drafting experience of training is required for engineering draftsmen, ($1,440 to $2,600.) Unless seeking positions calling for higher skills, war workers should not apply.

Applications for air safety investigator will be received until further notice.

It's 'Testing Time' In The Parlor . . .

Government Isn't Taking Any Chances On Poor Furniture

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—The government isn't taking any chances on new-fangled love seats and such.

The Office of Price Administration has announced it was setting up testing stations throughout the country to make sure that wartime furniture would stand up to severe punishment and wouldn't let you down in the wrong places at embarrassing moments.

So it's "testing time" in the parlor, and it goes like this:

Must Undergo Attack

A love seat can graduate from the manufacturer to the sales floor only after it undergoes a rigid attack simulating a junior commando raid.

Actually in the test, a 40-pound sandbag is suspended eight inches above the seat and allowed to drop 100,000 times at the rate of 30 times per minute—for about six hours.

If the seams aren't sprung, the fabric torn or the uprights bowlegged by this time, a pendulum weight of 20 pounds is rigged up to strike the back of the seat 10,000 times from a distance of two and two-thirds inches.

A Gentler Test?

This little inquisition into durability, of course, has been preceded by a gentler test.

A 12-inch disc is placed on the seat and a 50-pound weight placed on top. Then a 150-pound weight is added. Later 100 pounds more are piled on top.

This will be the standard "quality test" for most upholstered furniture items, the OPA said.

An OPA official said the springs were expected to "give a little" under such a test—but he didn't say how much.

Lax Parents May Face Indictments

BECKLEY, W. Va., Jan. 7 (AP)—Parents who spare the rod will do so at the risk of criminal indictment if the next grand jury in this populous mining county follows Judge Clay S. Crouse's advice.

Judge Crouse said he was striking at what he considered the root of juvenile delinquency by announcing that he would ask the next grand jury to return indictments against lax parents.

"Indictment of parents is the major way of combatting" the war-inspired increase in juvenile crime, he said. "It is a known fact," he continued, "that children as young as 10 years of age have been apprehended in the act of crimes. Who else but parents could be responsible for ones of such tender age?

"We must rely on what we can do to get at the cause of juvenile delinquency and I think indictment of irresponsible parents is the means."

Machinery Quota In County Not Revealed

Farm machinery quotas for Lubbock county during 1943 set by members of this county rationing panel are so small that they refuse to reveal just how small they are. Members of the panel are R. A. Boyd, R. L. Hooten and N. A. Payne.

Walter Y. Wells, secretary of the Agricultural Conservation agency, administrative officer for the Triple-A, and secretary for the rationing panel, said today he did not believe the figures should be made public. Asked why, he said "the amount of machinery allowed Lubbock county is so small it just doesn't look good for anyone concerned."

Hooten, as a member of the committee and a teacher at Lubbock high school, said board members had agreed there would be no information given out, except through the secretary, Wells. Wells would not make the figures public, although he admitted he had not been instructed not to do so from any source.

ONE FEED MILL IS QUOTA FOR JANUARY

Lubbock county's hardware and implement stores may sell one farm feed mill in January. That is the county's quota under drastic rationing of farm machinery, one implement dealer in Lubbock said today. He had no information, he said, about quotas of other farm machinery.

This dealer had three feed mills in stock. He had them all sold, tentatively, waiting for information from the rationing committee before deliveries were made.

This one Lubbock store normally sells over 200 feed mills in the Lubbock area every year. Total sales of farm machinery and implements, he said, had dropped as much as 75 per cent since rationing began.

PLAN INITIATION

Army Handbook Proves Big Help In Carrying Out African Invasion

Book Growing In Importance

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — When American forces stormed ashore in North Africa along with their other necessary equipment including tommy-guns and grenades, they carried handbooks telling them how to get along with the North Africans.

Such handbooks are becoming "must" equipment for American forces in foreign lands.

"The twin purposes of the combat soldier—or of any American—are to destroy or immobilize all of our enemies and make friends of all who are not," said a recent Army Orientation poster urging American soldiers to make the most of their guidebooks. "Both purposes call for study. In one case, the study of weapons, tactics and the elements of self-protection. In the other, the study of human nature, race characteristics, national customs, religions, taboos and the simple rules of decency which are about the same in any language."

The poster said American expeditionary forces must not only be able to fight in battles, they must also be the "best informed army in the world." By winning the confidence of peoples with whom they come in contact, and convincing them of their goodwill, American soldiers will find many shortcuts to success over the enemy and lay the foundation for international understanding essential to a worthwhile peace.

The above explains why the Army has issued several such booklets and is now publishing several more. Those now being printed or distributed include booklets on New Caledonia, China, New Zealand and a revised booklet on North Africa. Another book, on India, will be issued shortly.

Books on Britain, Northern Ireland and Australia were distributed previously. They were received with approval by the peoples of the countries they concerned, and won enthusiastic reviews in the local press.

Many persons have collaborated in preparing the handbooks, including Americans who know the countries concerned and citizens of those countries in the United States, including diplomatic and military representatives. An American officer who had been on duty several months in New Caledonia was of great assistance in preparing the book on that country, because he had first-hand experience with many of the problems that confronted the soldiers as a result of their ignorance of local customs.

The Special Service Division, Services of Supply, has summarized the suggestions contained in the various booklets prepared to date in the following rules for getting along in foreign countries:

1. Make it easy for the other fellow by being friendly.
2. Shun political and religious discussion.
3. Learn as much as possible about local customs and regulations, and don't boast that "we know how to do it better back home."
4. Be careful what you drink. Better take water boiled.
5. Learn the local laws and treat them with respect.
6. Treat tradesmen courteously, learn money values, and don't get overcharged.
7. Treat allies with respect, speak fairly of their achievements and express confidence in the common cause.
8. Act with the dignity that is expected of an American soldier, even when it hurts.
9. Pick up the new language just as quickly as possible and speak it.
10. Get fun out of duty when-even opportunity offers.
11. Become interested in native taboos, rituals, etc., but never make light of them.
12. Learn to bargain where bargaining is the local custom.
13. Never go bareheaded in a tropical country.
14. Learn local landmarks and terrain.
15. Fraternize with allies and give them a good opinion of the United States.
16. Lend a hand to the local inhabitant and so win friendship.
17. Don't compete with local inhabitants for merchandise in short supply.
18. Learn how the other fellow eats, and when invited out, follow his lead and respect his customs at the table, "regardless of Emily Post."
19. Be generous with cigarettes because they will open a door almost anywhere.

No "Peculiar" Accents

20. Remember, every American soldier is an ambassador of goodwill.
21. In English-speaking countries believe that the other fellow's accent is not more peculiar than your own.
22. Remember that a smile, a salute, a friendly gesture towards a youngster speaks the same language in every country.
23. Recognize the equality of all men working and fighting together in one cause.
24. Treat women with respect.
25. Refrain from boasting about your superior food or the lack of privations in America.
26. Avoid putting hands on any native peoples, as they aren't accustomed to it and are apt to react violently.
27. Learn the rules and customs surrounding the privacy of women and the home, especially in Moslem countries, and obey them to the letter.

Masonic Home Out Of Football League

Lack Of Players Inspires Action; Many Enlisting

(By The United Press)

FORT WORTH, Jan. 7—A lot of the color has dropped out of the Texas Interscholastic league football race.

Gone—for no one knows just how long—are the Masonic Home "Mighty Mites," who yesterday announced withdrawal from the league because of a lack of players.

Supt. Tom Fletcher, announcing the decision to withdraw "until we grow some more boys," said that the Masons, members of the league for 20 years, would be back some day, but that there just weren't enough boys to put a 11-man team on the field.

The Masons, one of the best drawing cards in the state due to its large fraternal (and maternal) following and to their popularity for sheer color, have never won a state championship, but they came close their first year in AA competition. That was in 1932 when they tied Corsicana in the finals, but lost on penetrations.

A major portion of the 1942 Mason squad was to have graduated this year—and yesterday seven of those joined the Marines en masse. Only three lettermen are left in school.

Coach H. N. (Rusty) Russell, given much credit for the down-the-years' record of the Mites, always powerful contenders and consistent winners, left the team last year to take over coaching at Highland Park, but doubled up during the latter part of the campaign, coaching the Mites into a triple tie for the Fort Worth district crown while placing the Highland Park eleven in the quarterfinals of the state race.

Steers Take 55-36 Decision Over Owls

AUSTIN, Jan. 7 (AP)—The Texas Longhorns opened their Southwest conference basketball campaign with an unexpectedly easy victory over the Rice Owls here last night 55-36.

Working the ball around smoothly, the Longhorns ran up a 16-0 score in the first 11 minutes and were never in danger despite some long-range goaling by Rice's Willie Croucher and Harold Lambert.

Lambert scored Rice's first basket after 11:20 of the first half. The Longhorns led at the intermission, 26-15.

John Hargis, Texas' junior center, was the game's outstanding player. Not only was he high-point man wih 19, but he also held Rice's Bill Tom Closs to a single free throw and blanked Closs's successor after the towering Owl star fouled out with 11 minutes to play.

Cuban Rallies To Win Tennis Match

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 7. (AP)—After being within a point of elimination, Gustavo Vollmer, veteran Cuban, won a fight against exhaustion today and eliminated a game young Mexican player in first round match of the Pan-American tennis tournament.

Vollmer defeated Flavio Martinez, tenth ranking Mexican, 6-2, 3-6, 4-6, 14-12, 6-4.

In other first round matches today, William Talbert of Cincinnati, seeded second in the tournament, eliminated Raul Fernandez, eighth ranking Mexican, 6-1, 7-5, 6-0; Armando Vega, third ranking Mexican, defeated his compatriot, Francisco Arcocha, 6-4, 9-7, 6-4, and Anselmo Puente, Mexican, defeated Pedro Hernandez, Mexican, 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

In the first match of the women's tournament, Doris Hart of Miami, Fla., seeded second, defeated Carmen Christlieb of Mexico City, 6-0, 6-4.

Horse And Buggy Plan Is Proposed

NEW YORK, Jan. 7. (AP)—Herbert Bayard Swope, the debonair New Yorker who holds so many turf positions that he sometimes is called "Mr. Racing," has come through with the most sensible suggestion since the war began to question the necessity for racing's existence.

Crisp-clad Swope, with the flower in his lapel, suggested that horse-drawn vehicles be used to haul fans to race tracks, thereby modifying the ban on pleasure driving.

Deal On Auker May Hit Snag

Veteran Hurler May Quit Game

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 7 — The St. Louis Browns, it appeared tonight, may attempt to cancel the deal which transferred Eldon Auker to the Washington Senators in exchange for Paul Dean—if Auker definitely gives up baseball.

"Off hand, right now, I'd say it would," said the Browns' vice president, William O. De Witt, tonight after he was asked if the Auker-Dean trade would be canceled in event Auker went through with announced intentions to quit baseball.

(Auker said he intended to quit baseball in an interview today in Detroit.)

Would Block Gamble

Auker's retirement thus would block a gamble by the St. Louis club, which harbors pennant ambitions, that Dean would make good on his second attempt to come back as a major league pitcher.

It was strictly a gamble, for to get the younger brother of the colorful Dizzy Dean, the Browns gave up the veteran mainstay of their hurling corps. Auker won 44 games and lost 39 in three seasons with the Browns.

Donald L. Barnes, Brownie president who engineered the deal at the Chicago major league meeting, was confident the 30-year-old righthander would have been a valuable acquisition.

Sports Roundup

Uncertainty Marks Baseball Leaders' Plans For Training

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—Mel Ott was a visitor in our town yesterday and re-enacted the scene of a year ago, when he was introduced as the new manager of the Giants. . . . A double-row of sports writers gathered around Eddie Brannick's big desk while Mel took over the club secretary's chair, tilting far back and looking with steady eyes at each questioner as he tried to come up with the answers . . . What you noticed the most was the way he rubbed his chin before replying to the hard ones and his quick smile and the wrinkles around his eyes—the only noticeable sign of his profession . . . The questions were mostly about training sites and Ott's answers weren't as definite as last year, when he could talk about the makeup of his club. . . He was sure the Polo grounds wouldn't be suitable for spring training, even though one scribe pointed out that it would be handy to the Stevens kitchen. . . . The Giants have just begun to look for a nearby site and when someone pressed for a definition of "nearby," Mel parried: "I don't quite know the boundaries of the Potomac."

Before the meeting broke up as photographers' flash bulbs started popping all over the place, 'someone thought of phoning Branch Rickey and reported that Yale still is 1-2-3 on the Dodgers' list of training sites and that they'll likely stay in New Haven until the last week-end before the season opens.

Across the street at the Yankees' offices Ed Barrow whose appearance gives you the exact meaning of "beetle-browed," was able to give a more advanced report on the training situation . . . He had spent the morning telephoning various places along the New Jersey coast and the pine belt and had arranged for Scout Paul Kirchell to inspect them today . . . "I've trained at Lakewood and Atlantic City and even at Paterson," he explained, "and I know the weather can be all right . . . But I'm not sure of it. That's why Joe McCarthy will have to come down from Buffalo before we make a final decision. If I was sure of the weather, I'd take the responsibility myself, but in that case I'd prefer to train at Yankee stadium."

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Gordon Gilmore, St. Paul Pioneer-Press: "Right now the small (baseball) owners are like so many bathers shivering on the edge of an icy pool, dreading the plunge, knowing it will be torture yet none daring to back out for fear of being called a sissy. If a cop should come along and say no swimmming allowed, they'd all scram and be glad for the chance."

Frogs Defeat Baylor 35-31

Close Score Is Biggest Surprise

(By The United Press)

The favorites won the opening games in the Southwest conference basketball race last night, but both games ran contrary to expectations as Texas Christian nosed out Baylor, 35-41, and Texas walloped Rice, 55-36.

Pre-game dope pointed to a comparatively easy Christian victory and to a close, hard-fought contest at Austin, but it didn't turn out that way.

The Fort Worth entry, figured by many as the club most likely to knock Arkansas' rangy Porkers from the top, found the going rough all the way and had to dig deep into their bag of scoring plays in the final moments to turn the trick on the battling Wacoans.

Undaunted by newspaper stories of the prowess of their opponents, the Bruins uncorked a tight defense that matched that of the Horned Frogs and unleashed a bit of scoring ability of their own. They kept the score close throughout and at half-time it was 17-all.

The Baptists forged ahead briefly, but TCU worked it into a tie at 26-all with only five minutes to go and then managed to hold a slender lead as a frenzied crowd of 1,500—the largest to see a TCU home game in 10 years — went wild.

It was Floyd Chronister who drove the final nail in the Bears' coffin—his only goal of the game incidentally—but it was the fine shooting of Max Humphreys and Capt. Floppy Blackmon who kept the Frogs in the ball game with 12 and 14 points respectively.

Sophomore Frankie Edwards, ably abetted by lanky Van Sweet, were the scoring hot-shots for the Bears with 15 and 11 points, respectively.

In the only other game involving a Southwest conference team last night, the Texas Aggies dropped the second tilt of their series with Sam Houston 44-43, after winning going away the night before. Huffman led the Aggies with 12 points, while Mitchell was high-scorer for the winners with 11 points.

Larry French To Be Lieutenant In Navy

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers' pitcher, Lawrence (Larry) French, 34, is going back to Brooklyn, wearing a new kind of uniform.

French will be sworn into the Naval reserve Friday as a lieutenant, junior grade. Assigned to Brooklyn Navy yard, he expects to leave Sunday.

Grid Equipment To Be Problem In 1943

CHICAGO, Jan. 7 (AP)—The National Interscholastic football committee, more concerned with preserving equipment than with rules deliberations, will open a three day meeing today.

H. V. Porter, secretary of the National Federation of state high school athletic associations, said only a limited number of footballs could be manufactured because of priority limitations on materials but added that a survey indicated there would be no serious shortage for 1943 if proper care were exercised by the various schools.

PUPILS TO FIGHT

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 7 (AP) — Sgt. Joe Louis will second his Fort Riley, Kas., boxing pupils in Kansas City Saturday night, against picked fighters from Fort Leavenworth, Kas., and local athletic clubs. The heavyweight champ has been giving lessons to the Fort Riley boxers.

Florida Horse Racing Season Joins List Of War Casualties

(By The United Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 7.—Florida's horse-racing season went on the war-time sports casualty list today as a direct result of the latest gasoline restrictions.

Both Hialeah and Tropical parks will be shut down until the gasoline ban is lifted or eased.

Gerald Brady, director at Tropical which has been operating since Dec. 21, announced the decision after a telephone conversation with track president Harry L. Straus, who is in Baltimore.

"Orders Are Orders"

"We are all soldiers and orders are orders," Straus was quoted by Brady.

John C. Clark, president of the elaborate Hialeah racing plant which was scheduled to run from Jan. 13 to March 6, announced:

"It being the desire of the government, as expressed through the Office of the Price administrator, that all motor transportation to race tracks cease, Hialeah will fit into the war pattern by suspending until such time as there is full approval for the continuance of the sport."

Navy's Training Is Benefit To Wolcott

HOUSTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—Lt. (JG) Fred Wolcott, undoubtedly the greatest trackman in Southwest conference history, is a photostat of what the Naval aviation training program is accomplishing for American youth.

The purpose of pre-flight schools is to condition and harden boys for combat duty.

One would believe Wolcott, the perfect athlete, holder of nearly every world hurdles record in the book, an exception. No college athlete, Rice institute men will tell you, ever trained more conscientiously than did Freddie.

Lt. Wolcott today is leaner, harder, tougher in appearance than ever was Wolcott the hurdler. Freddie has lost seven pounds and his leanness is obvious to the most cursory observer.

For six months Freddie has been instructor in military track at the Athens, Georgia, Naval pre-flight school. As a commissioned officer, Lt. Wolcott was not subject to the gruelling regimen of the cadets. But teaching military track each day to more than 400 boys has left its mark on the blond Snyder product.

Always a great competitor on the cinderpath, Lt. Wolcott wants to be a combatant in the war.

So he will soon be transferred at his own request to Naval aviation. He entered the service as a specialist in physical education.

Freddie several months ago joined three Georgians in purching a plane and took flying lessons from an instructor at the Athens CPT school. Wolcott already has 70 hours solo flying to his credit.

TEXAN IS WINNER

ELIZABETH, N. J., Jan. 7 (AP)—Marvin Bryant, 154, of Dallas, gave Harry Serio, 161, of Newark, a bad beating in the last three rounds after weathering a hard right to the jaw in the third and gained a six-round decision tonight in the featured boxing bout at Scott hall.

Search On For Training Sites

Locations Sought In A-Card Range

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Major league baseball's biggest searching party since Joe DiMaggio lost his favorite bat was on today as officials scattered in all directions to find spring training sites within an A-card's distance of their home grounds.

Undaunted and apparently unaffected by the OPA ban on pleasure driving in eastern states, the clubs proceeded on the theory that enough customers can get to the ball parks in public conveyances to make the 1943 season worthwhile.

Carrying out the plan adopted Tuesday to hold spring training without any unnecessary travel, officials of most of the clubs began beating the brush for practice facilities that will be close enough for convenience and still warm enough for comfort.

Paul Krichell, New York Yankee scout, crossed the Hudson to New Jersey to look over prospective camps at Asbury Park, Lakewood and New Brunswick. Yankee President Ed Barrow preferred one of the first two, in spite of the handy Rutgers university gym at New Brunswick.

Mel Ott, manager of the Giants, came all the way from his New Orleans home to discuss the situation with President Horace Stoneham.

President Branch Rickey of the Dodgers has an eye on the field house at Yale university.

The World Champion St. Louis Cardinals and their American league neighbors, the Browns, are considering several cities in Missouri.

The Detroit Tigers will pitch camp at Evansville, Ind.

Westerners To Play New Home Tonight

After successfully opening their season with a 24-14 victory over a student detachment team from South Plains Army Flying school last night at the high school gymnasium, Lubbock's Westerners invade New Home tonight for two games with the New Home High school teams.

Pacing the Westerners in the triumph over SPAFS were Hubert Bechtol, who took scoring honors with six points, and Doug McCurry, who played a brilliant floor game while scoring four points. Cope, Snodgrass and Downing also garnered four points each for the schoolboys.

Miller paced the SPAFS pointmakers with a six-point total.

At halftime, Lubbock High led by 14-16 in the game, in which both teams turned in ragged shooting exhibitions.

Brothers Enter Golden Gloves

Curtis Lebow Not To Enter Tourney

Lubbock's 1943 district Golden Gloves boxing tournament at Tech gymnasium January 29-30 will not be without at least one "brother act."

That much was assured yesterday when entries were received from J. D. and Howard Kirkpatrick of Petersburg, bring to three the total number of entrants thus far for the annual Gloves event sponsored by Texas Tech's Double T association and the Avalanche-Journal.

J. D., at 18 the elder of the two Kirkpatricks, participated in last year's Golden Gloves tourney here, winning one bout in the Class AA middleweight class. This year, however, he intends to compete in the 175-pound light heavyweight division.

Howard, 16 years old and without previous Golden Gloves experience, has entered the 147-pound welterweight class.

The only other fighter already entered in the 1943 district tournament, whose winners will go on to the state meet at Fort Worth early in February, is Loyd Belk, Plainview lightweight.

Word was received yesterday from S. H. Lebow of Abernathy that his son, Curtis, who for the past four years has held the distinction of being the first entrant in each Gloves tourney here, will not be able to compete in this year's event, as he is now serving as a boxing instructor in the Army Air corps at Perrin field, Sherman.

Morley Jennings, Tech's athletic director and one of the co-directors of the tournament, said that arrangements are progressing satisfactorily and said that full details concerning the tourney would be announced shortly.

FDR Confident In Talk To Congress

war, a report on America's mighty arms production, and a general outline of his hopes for the peace to follow the conflict and for guaranteeing freedom from want and fear.

"By far the largest and most important developments in the whole strategic picture of 1942," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "were the events on the long front in Russia: first, the implacable defense of Stalingrad; and, second, the offensives by the Russian armies at various points which started in the latter part of November and which still roll on with great force and effectiveness."

Unusual Precautions Taken

The Capitol was the scene of unusual precautions taken to safeguard the chief executive.

Hours before his arrival time police, secret service men and regular army personnel threw a cordon around the hill.

Steel - helmeted soldiers, bayonets affixed to Garand rifles, stood at attention all around the Capitol and in its plaza.

Special Capitol police, their numbers augmented by metropolitan police, were on guard at all entrances and were stationed throughout the Capitol. No one was permitted to enter the building without a special pass or identification. Admission to the House galleries was by special card only.

Mr. Roosevelt told the lawmakers that the period of "our defensive attrition in the Pacific," was passing, adding:

"Now our aim is to force the Japanese to fight. Last year, we stopped them. This year, we intend to advance."

In the African theater, he predicted the last vestige of Axis powers would be driven from the south shores of the Mediterranean.

"I do not prophesy when this war will end," the chief executive said. 'But I do believe that this year of 1943 will give to the United Nations a very substantial advance along the roads that lead to Berlin, and Rome and Tokyo.

This Congress May Have Role

"I tell you it is within the realm of possibility that this 78th Congress may have the historic privilege of helping greatly to save the world from future fear.

"Therefore, let us—all of us—have confidence, let us redouble our efforts."

The President opened his address with his summary of war operations, and, in it, said that "we are going to strike—and strike hard—in Europe."

Can't Say Where

"I can not tell you," he said, "whether we are going to hit them in Norway, or through the low countries, or in France, or through Sardinia, or Sicily, or through the Balkans, or through Poland—or at several points simultaneously.

"But I can tell you that no matter where and when we strike by land, we and the British and the Russians will hit them from the air heavily and relentlessly. Day in and day out we shall heap tons upon tons of explosives on their war factories and utilities and seaports."

Jap Strength Declining

The eventual outcome of the fighting, in the Pacific, the President said, can be put on a mathematical basis, since it is known that Japanese strength in ships and planes declines daily and American strength rises. He said this would become evident to the Japanese people "when we strike at their own home islands, and bomb them constantly from the air."

Near the close of his address to the new Congress, Mr. Roosevelt said that all the United Nations wanted a "decent peace and a durable peace." He added that our fighting men want not only a lasting peace, but permanent employment for themselves, their families and neighbors when they are mustered out.

The people on the home front, he said, do not want a post-war America suffering from undernourishment, slums or the dole.

Youth Wants Assurances

The young men and women of this country, he said, want assurances "against evils of all major economic hazards—assurance that will extend from the cradle to the grave." He said the government can and must provide this assurance.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no particulars on any new social security legislation. He said he had been told it was no time to speak of a better America after the war and that it was a grave error for him to do so.

"I dissent," he declared flatly.

"If the security of the individual citizen, or the family, should become a subject of national debate, the country knows where I stand."

Security No Issue

He said he trusted that providing freedom from want would not be regarded as an issue during the coming two years of the 78th Congress, but as a task for all to study sympathetically.

Mr. Roosevelt said he could report with genuine pride on the strides of war production in 1942. And, while achiveing a miracle of production, he said, we have increased our armed forces from a little over 2,000,000 to 7,000,000.

On production, he cited specific figures.

Last month, he said, 5,500 military planes rolled out of American factories and the rate is rising rapidly. But he conceded that the 1942 plane output, and tank production fell numerically short of the goals set a year ago. His goal last January was 60,000 planes and 45,000 tanks for last year. Actual production of planes was 48,000, but he emphasized that bigger planes with more striking power were being built now.

Tank production schedules were revised because of battle experience, the President said, and a portion converted to the output of new, deadly field weapons, especially self-propelled artillery. Last year, he said, America's factories turned out 56,000 combat vehicles, including this artillery and tanks.

The 1942 output of machine guns, he said, was 670,000, six times greater than in 1941, and three times the figure for the whole year and a half of our participation in the first World war.

In anti-tank guns, the 21,000 units turned out last year were six times more than in 1941. This compared with a goal he announced last January of 20,000.

Arsenal is Making Good

The 1942 production of small arms ammunition, the President said, was 10,250,000,000 rounds, five times the total for the year before. In artillery ammunition, he continued, production was stepped up twelve times over 1941 and aggregated 181,000,000 rounds.

"The arsenal of democracy is making good," he said in summary.

"These facts and figures will give no aid and comfort to the enemy. On the contrary, I can imagine they will give him considerable discomfort. I suspect Hitler and Tojo will find it difficult to explain to the German and Japanese people just why it is that 'decadent, inefficient democracy' can produce such phenomenal quantities of weapons and munitions—and fighting men."

Concedes Mistakes Made

Mr. Roosevelt conceded mistakes had been made and that there had been too many complicated forms and questionnaires. The latter, he said, represented an honest and sincere attempt to see to it that supplies of food and other essential civilian goods were distributed on a fair and just basis and that living costs were held at a stable level.

"Our experience," he continued, "will enable us during the coming year to improve the necessary mechanisms of war-time economic controls and to simplify administrative procedures. But we do not intend to leave things so lax that loopholes will be left for cheaters, for chislers, or for the manipulators of the black market."

Appetite Above Patriotism?

Civilians, he said, will feel increasingly the sharp pinch of total war, but he said there were few Americans who placed appetite above patriotism.

"The overwhelming majority realize," Mr. Roosevelt asserted, "that the food we send abroad is for essential military purposes, for our own and allied fighting forces, and for necessary help in areas that we occupy.

"We Americans intend to do this great job together. In our common labors we must build and fortify the very foundation of national unity—confidence in one another."

Praise for Farmers

We take off our hats, he said, to those responsible for production records, to farmers, facing a task of feeding much of the world, to those in private life and in government who have endured rationing and other stringencies with good humor and good will.

The President said it was of little account to talk of essential human needs and security if we run the risk of another world war in ten or twenty or fifty years. He said he shuddered to think what would happen to humanity if the conflict ended in "an inconclusive peace."

"Undoubtedly a few Americans, even now," he said, think that this nation can end this war comfortably and then climb back into an American hole and pull the hole in after them.

"But we have learned that we can never dig a hole so deep that it would be safe against predatory animals. We have also learned that if we do not pull the fangs of the predatory animals of this world, they will multiply and grow in strength—and they will be at our throats once more in a short generation."

Germany, Italy and Japan, he said, must be disarmed and kept disarmed, and must abandon a philosophy which has brought suffering to the world. If they remain armed, he said, or are permitted to rearm, inevitably they will embark again on a career of world conquest.

Must Remain United

The United Nations can and must remain united for the maintenance of peace, the President asserted, by preventing any attempt of the Axis trimuvirate to rearm.

"The issue of this war," Mr. Roosevelt said, "is the basic issue between those who believe in mankind and those who do not—the ancient issue between those who put their faith in the people and those who put their faith in dictators and tyrants. There have always been those who did not believe in the people, who attempted to block their forward movement across history, to force them back to servility and suffering and silence.

"The people have now gathered their strength. They are moving forward in their might and power—and no force, no combination of forces, no trickery, deceit or violence, can stop them now. They see before them the hope of the world—a decent, secure peaceful life for all men everywhere."

Praises Fighting Men

In his war review, the commander in chief praised the great qualities of our fighting men and called their spirit unconquerable.

Behind the battling in Russia, he listed these other events as major ones of 1942: the Japanese advances in the south Pacific and Indian oceans, Britain's successful defense of the eastern Mediterranean areas, and the American-British entry into North Africa. Also important, he said, were the unending battles of the convoy routes and the gradual assumption of air superiority by the United Nations.

The British counter attack through Egypt and Libya he linked with the successful prior defense of the eastern Mediterranean area.

Our most important victory in the Pacific in 1942, the President said, was the air and naval battle off Midway island because it secured communication lines stretching thousands of miles in every direction.

The battles of the Coral sea, New Guinea and the Solomon islands were described as essentially defensive and part of a delaying strategy that characterized their phase of the war, when steady losses were inflicted on the Japanese in planes, naval vessels, transports, and cargo ships.

On the question of aid to China, Mr. Roosevelt said we are flying in as much lend-lease material as ever rolled along the Burma road. He promised that we shall "get the battle equipment into China to shatter the power of our common enemy," and prophesied that China would come out of the war with the security, prosperity and dignity which Japan had sought ruthlessly to destroy."

He paid tribute to Allied leaders, Winston Churchill, Joseph Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, and spoke a word of welcome to French Army and Navy forces which joined the United Nations forces as a result of the Allied occupation of North Africa.

TREND IS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—A number of stocks edged forward in today's market, after the President's address to Congress but many leaders continued to suffer from neglect.

The list was hesitant at the start and while scattered recoveries appeared in the final hour, declines of fractions to 2 or more points predominated. Dealings, slow the greater part of the day, picked up at intervals and transfers for the full proceedings were around 700,000 shares.

Stocks contesting the downward trend with mild success included Houston Oil, which touched a new 1942-43 peak; Consolidated Edison, North American, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, General Motors, Yellow Truck, U. S. Rubber, Kennecott, United Aircraft and Northern Pacific.

Loew's and Dow Chemical dropped 2 points or so each. Falterers at intervals were Bethlehem, American Telephone, Western Union, Southern Pacific, N. Y. FALSE TEETH

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Record Class Given SPAFS Glider Wings

The largest class yet graduated from South Plains Army Flying school received diplomas and wings this morning in impressive ceremonies in the post theater.

As principal speaker, Lieut. Col. Edwin S. Chickering, director of training, warned that the enemy is formidable, strong and cunning, that this is total war and the enemy holds almost all the vantage points. Another speaker was Col. Norman B. Olsen, commanding officer.

The silver glider pilots wings were presented by Major E. V. Robnett, director of flying, while Capt. Clay D. Ellis, director of ground school training, presented the men their diplomas. The oath of office was given by Lieut. Harry M. Davis, school secretary.

Invocation and benediction were given by Lieut. John F. McKenna, Catholic chaplain at the school.

The SPAFS band, under direction of Warrant Officer Harry Dunham, played.

Ten graduates were Texans, another Texan receiving a staff sergeant's rank.

Nazis Using Fear

the unrest is mainly harmless grumbling.

Germany's intellectual life has reached a new low level. Almost no books are printed because of the paper shortage. Allocations of paper supplies to the churches has been suspended and prayerbooks are unobtainable. The Swedish Protestant church offered to provide prayer-books for Germany, but the government refused the offer.

Male Students Rare

Male students in universities are rare, although there are more women students then ever before.

Fear and unrest are reflected in widely separated sections.

Discontent is reported in Austria, where Catholic church is unfriendly to the Nazi party and the strong socialist workers movements never have been completely crushed. Austria is described as "the Germans' bomb shelter," because of the hundreds of Nazis who have fled there from Royal Air force raids.

Mysterious fires and breakdowns have been reported in factories in the Ruhr valley and even in Berlin. A few strikes against the 70-hour work week have been quickly and ruthlessly suppressed in the Ruhr.

Fear Penetrates Army

Fear has penetrated even to the army ranks. It is reflected by repeated official appeals to the German people to "write cheerful letters to the troops and avoid any depressing remarks."

The constant fear and uncertainty has created a sort of escapist gaiety in Berlin and other cities where an effort is made to escape the strain.

There was a splurge of enthusiasm for horse-racing last autumn and a rush for the most expensive seats in the theaters and movies, which were sold out weeks in advance. The over-priced luxury restaurants turned aside all but their oldest customers. The less expensive eating places likewise were crowded, although dancing has been banned since the start of the Russian campaign.

Cocktails of Wine

Cocktails usually are made of wine and fruit juices.

The legitimate stage and motion picture offerings are heavily propagandistic, but they also are largely escapist. One movie hit was billed as "giving the most lovely illusions of love and happiness." The state theater presented Salome. The winter garden advertised a dance review with a "dozen real shetland ponies." Scala has burlesque, which like many other stage shows, presents the greatest degree of feminine nudity.

The feminine question itself has presented a major problem for the Nazis, with 8,000,000 foreign workers within the Reich. Drastic penalties, including death, recently were instituted for war prisoners who have relations with German women. Travelers, quoting Italian diplomats in Berlin, said statistics showed that at least 8,000 illegitimate children had been born to Berlin women alone during the past year.

Letters Reflect Worries

Letters found in possession of Germans taken prisoner on the fighting fronts reflect the home-front worries of the soldiers. A Rumanian in Germany, writing a friend on the Russian front, said:

"The German women are losing control of themselves. They are very depressed. Karl, home on leave, divorced his wife because she was with child by a war prisoner."

Another letter, written by a German woman to a soldier relative, said:

"Berlin is a city of internationals speaking every language. Many women are overcome by loneliness because their husbands are gone. I must refuse to think of this."

Women Can't Travel

The Nazis increasingly refuse women permission to travel outside Germany because, officially, "they talk too much."

Travelers describe Berlin as a city where mostly women and foreigners are seen on the streets. There are few soldiers. Italians predominate, but there also are French, Poles, Rumanians and Czechs.

"The Jews steadily become fewer. Not many are seen now during the "Jews' hour" after 4 p. m., when they are permitted to shop in certain areas.

Jews constantly are being shipped to the East. They are given 10 marks (nominally about $4) and a suit of clothes. Their other property is sold and the proceeds given to the Nazis' winter relief campaign.

told his employers he was "resigning to take a better position."

The bank robbery occurred three days later.

Layman and Gilbert returned to Miami for a week after the robbery, Danner said, then the loot was split and Layman went to the west coast and Gilbert to Florida.

Danner said Gilbert had accounted for about $4,000 to FBI agents in Florida and added that "he must have been patriotic because $400 was in war bonds." He said $1,500 was in a bank account, $1,100 had been spent on an automobile and that Gilbert said he planned to open a night club.

Danner said an Arizona girl with whom Gilbert had kept company in Florida was being held pending filing charges of either harboring Gilbert or as an accessory after the fact in the robbery.

WOMAN SAID LIVING WITH ROBBERY SUSPECT

Miss Margaret Sprinkle was living with Flavis Godfrey Gilbert when Gilbert was arrested Wednesday in connection with the Hale Center bank robbery investigation, according to information supplied by the United Press and through a Federal Bureau of Investigation telephone call relayed from Dallas to Avalanche-Journal publications through C. E. Luce, U. S. deputy marshal here.

She, held in Miami, Fla., jail by the FBI for possible charges, was said by the FBI to have accompanied Gilbert from Arizona to Florida after the robbery. Gilbert had bought watches, whiskey, an automobile and other property for her and himself, it was related.

Gilbert and Telford Jackson Layman, who was arrested on the west coast earlier, both were former inmates of the New Mexico state penitentiary, Layman for murder.

Both men were held today under $50,000 bonds pending removal to the northern federal district of Texas.

R. G. Danner, Dallas FBI agent in charge, and D. M. Brightman, FBI resident agent of Lubbock, said from Dallas this afternoon that Gilbert had not resisted arrest, and that numerous witnesses had identified photographs of Layman as one of the robbers.

Both agents highly praised cooperation of Capt. Maney Gault and his Lubbock district rangers and of the sheriffs' and police departments of Lubbock and Hale counties.

an open field. A curious crowd gathered and one of the Nazis sent a bystander off for enough gas to get them to the nearest RAF base.

Invited To Officer's Mess

There they ordered a ground crew to refuel their plane, but the field's operations officer told them the weather was too bad, that they'd have to wait over to return to their own base. He invited them to the officer's mess. They were introduced, the British found them charming, and soon they were in the midst of a party.

After food and drink, a RAF officer suggested that in view of their buffeting by the weather, they might enjoy a hot bath. Soon they were splashing in tubs, attended by RAF orderlies. One of the orderlies noticed tinfoil peeling off the buttons on their coats. A short while before, all fields had been asked to watch for a stolen plane.

Authorities quickly arrived to take them back to camp.

"Sorry, old man," said one of the RAF men, "but we had to turn you in. Duty and that sort of thing, you know."

"There's no reason why we can't have one more drink," said another Briton.

Reds Pressing Nearer Rostov

on without pause, overrunning in hours great stretches of territory which the Germans took weeks to capture last fall, it began to appear that Hitler had ordered a general withdrawal or that the Nazi Caucasus front was collapsing on a wide scale.

The 25-mile advance to Apolonskya indicated a 55-mile gain for the Russians since the fall of Nalchik Monday night.

Overshadowed by the magnitude of the German setback in Russia, were land clashes in the battle for Tunisia.

Reuters, the British news agency, reported from Allied headquarters in north Africa that the Germans had recaptured Hill positions on both sides of an important crossroads west of Mateur, 20 miles below the big Axis-held naval base at Bizerte.

The heights, 15 miles west of Mateur, had been captured Tuesday in a dawn assault by a British infantry brigade and commando troops. One report said U. S. rangers also engaged in the attack.

"German counterattacks yesterday morning took the topmost heights away from the Allies defenders," said a CBS correspondent.

Position Untenable

"Fighting went on all day, but by last night the position was decided to be untenable and the commandos and rangers went back to the positions from which they had started."

The German high command, evidently referring to the same action, said counterattacking Axis forces had thrown the Allies back "beyond their former positions."

A Nazi broadcast, heard in London, asserted that 30 American parachute troops were dropped behind the German lines in north Africa last Sunday night with order to blow up a large bridge. The broadcast said 20 of the sky troopers were killed and the rest captured.

Nazi Debacle Seen

On the Russian front, the headlong Nazi retreat appeared rapidly assuming the aspects of a debacle.

Along with the apparent crumbling of Nazi resistance in the Caucasus and lower Don, Soviet headquarters reported sharpening attacks in the new Russian offensive "west of Stalingrad" where the remnants of 22 Nazi divisions were described as hopelessly trapped.

In this sector, 400 Germans were reported killed in a battle for a hill, but the Russians admitted that the beleaguered Nazis were fighting with desperate fury.

Meanwhile, the German propaganda machine began to break the bad news to the German people, with the elite guard organ, Schwarze Korps, admitting that "belief in a fast, cheap victory was given up in 1942" and warning the nation it should "realize the danger threatening."

The terrible price paid by the Nazi invaders was illustrated in Soviet dispatches reporting some 1,300 Germans killed in individual actions during the last 24 hours.

and that many men had been executed.

It was said that the reported mutiny had started because the troops were poorly fed, demoralized by defeats and bad weather, and fearful that they would be cut off by the Russians.

The United Press Stockholm dispatch said the German command, in desperation, had ordered officers to carry out strictly an order by Adolf Hitler that any units in the Caucasus which retreated without orders should be decimated, and its officers degraded.

(Decimation means in military language that one man in every 10 is shot.)

Stockholm said because of this, German resistance was stiffening in some Caucasus areas and rear guards were often fighting to the last man.

It was said that the Germans were determined to defend Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus, at any cost.

Karper, formerly manager of the experiment station here, now resides on the Plainview-Lubbock highway north of the city, where he operates his own farm, buf he still retains his connection with the state experiment station. He discovered the waxy character in certain sorghums and by careful selection of plants has produced a pure, waxy seeded kafir. The grain closely resembles ordinary white kafir.

The supply of seeds has been increased to about 40,000 pounds, which is sufficient to plant 15,000 to 20,000 acres this year. Karper said the United States has been importing annually from Java about 350 million pounds of the film-forming, waxy type of starches, retrieved there from the cassava root. The new sorghum grain is expected to supplant the cassava root as the source of supply of this important product.

Chemists have advised Karper, he said, that his newly-developed sorghum grain starch is more readily converted into alcohol than any other so far utilized.

That Girl on Broadway says of all liars, the smoothest and most convincing one is Memory.

"Know" thyself," all the great philosophers have advised. But we still doubt the wisdom of this suggestion because, as has often been pointed out, "familiarity breeds contempt!"

SINCE a great many other people these days are giving way to wishful thinking and to toying with sweet theory, The Plainsman sees no reason why he shouldn't do the same thing—in the interest, of course, of a Brighter World.

Along with various and sundry suggestions for post-war operation of this mundane sphere, we bid bold to offer an idea that could be put to work right now—before victory is won. It is:

Why not all of us dedicate ourselves to divorcing politics from government?

Of course, we, the people, couldn't do much in the way of actual divorcement. That would have to be done by the gentlemen in Washington and in the various state and county capitals of the land; and in all the city halls from Walla Walla to Key West, and from the northernmost tip of Maine to a point a few yards north of Tijuana, Mex.

But we, the people, could lend the idea our moral support and cheer loud and long any and all officials who might, by error or on purpose, aim their actions at serving the rank and file of all the people, rather than the rank and file of any of too many organized groups.

SINCE the early 1930's, when playing around with Utopian ideas of various forms, shades and descriptions became the No. 1 pastime in these United States, The Plainsman, like everyone else, has cogitated numerous pretty ideas. But in the whole kit-and-kaboodle, from "elimination of entrenched greed" to a U.S.-paid-for quart of milk daily for all the world's millions, we haven't seen one yet that offers the possibilities held out by divorcing all politics from government right here at home.

Anyone with one whit of imagination quickly can grasp the potentialities of a government which actually is by, of and for the people, as compared to one by, of and for the perpetuation in power of individuals and parties.

If all politics could be thrown out of the window in one fell swoop, we'd have little short of a heaven on earth. And winning the war, which should be everyone's major aim right now, would be accomplished in an unbelieveably short period of time.

Of course, we don't expect to ever see the day when politics is divorced from government here in the United States—or anywhere else in the world where more than two people live side-by-side.

But neither do we expect to see the day when any of the other Utopian ideas can, or will, be made to work.

However, it ain't no sin to dream, even if you're not a stalking horse sending up a trial balloon for the boys in the back room; the head of a party trying to remain in power, or the head of another party trying to get into power.

Therefore, we'll stick by our guns in insisting that all other grandiose schemes could be forthwith junked if all the officials of all the national, state and city governments of the world would run their jobs without thought of personal or party politics.

HAVING admitted the impossibility of our suggestion ever being tried—which is just another way of admitting to its complete impracticability — we never-the-less do claim that the new Congress can do the next best thing. It can immediately and bravely take a stand against being dictated to by the numerous pressure groups which for more than a generation have forced minority, rather than majority, rule in this country.

If the new Congress, almost perfectly balanced between the two great parties, will dedicate itself to the service of the majority of Americans, it can and will go down in history as the greatest of all our Congresses.

Furthermore, its members will be evidencing a patriotism and a love of country almost comparable to that of the soldier or sailor who lay down his life in defense of his fellow citizens.

The oft-referred to "Man-in-the-Street" has become aware of the power of highly organized minorities only in the last few years.

But the pressure groups, in one form or another, have been with us a long, long time and their selfish triumphs—which have stretched across numerous administrations—cannot be chalked up as a by-product of the New Deal.

The pressure groups which have flourished under the Roosevelt regime have been different ones than those which waxed fat under previous administrations. But the system has been the same old system—and it is the system, rather than the groups, themselves, that is bad.

ASIDE from a sound and thorough defeat of all the Axis nations, topped by stern punishment to fit their crimes, we can't think of a thing so important as the adoption by the new Congress of a policy of government in the best interests of the majority of Americans, rather than to suit this, that or the other collection of pressure groups.

We can't think of a nobler policy than that which would base the passage of all new laws on their service to the majority of the people; and the rescinding of all present laws which were passed for the benefit of the organized few and to the detriment of the unorganized many.

Furthermore, the makeup of the new Congress is just right for that sort of policy, since the House and Senate are almost equally divided by liberal Democrats on the one hand, and conservative Democrats and Republicans on the other.

Even this may be too much to wish for as long as human nature remains human nature.

But the thought isn't entirely impractical—if, indeed, it is impractical at all.

Is It Love?

BY MARGARETTA BRUCKER
(Copyright, 1942, For The Journal)

Chapter 26
Johnny Returns

Ginny opened her eyes wide, then smiled. "Not entirely. Although it's no more to be condemned than marrying for a fine plantation home."

"So that's what people are saying?"

Ginny shrugged. "Why should you care? Toby says that your Johnny's a swell person and I've made up my mind that Toby's a better judge of character than I am. I don't see why he picked me — but then," Ginny decided shrewdly, "Toby likes nice people and I do have family."

"You're leaving one important thing out of this arrangement, aren't you?" asked Sue Ellen quietly.

"You mean love?' Ginny leaned over and patted the hand which wore Johnny's diamond. "What about you? You told me over and over that you couldn't stand Johnny Harris, but you married him when he asked you. I knew that he'd bought Belle Acres the day we went out there and the sign was down in front of the house, remember? I knew who had started to tear down those tumbled stables. I knew long ago that he loved you. I'd rather marry a man who loved me too much than to have too much loving on my side. I'll make Toby happy—see if I don't. And you married a man you weren't in love with. Do you know, Sue, that's why I had the courage to marry Toby."

She felt like a cheat. Suppose Ginny had made a mistake and she was responsible. Ginny was wrong; she did live the man she married. It might be days—possibly months—until Johnny would know; he would guess, he must see. But Ginny — could she love plain, clumsy, honest Toby enough to be happy with him?

Ginny ran on and on and then said curiously: "You haven't heard a word. Honey, are you still upset about Riv and Deedora?"

"Why should I be."

Ginny stared thoughtfully at the carpet. "It must be odd for you to be married to a Yankee."

"A Yankee is no different from any other man."

Ginny pondered this. "Well, a northern girl is certainly no different from one of us. Look at Deedora Waller. She went off the deep end about Riv Moore and now she's in a jam."

"You know."

"Everyone in Tyler Springs knows. I wonder she came back here. Do you know what I think." Ginny rushed on to answer her own question. I think she's sentimental."

"Deedora?"

Ginny nodded. "All that brusque manner is so much camouflage and underneath she fell for Riv because she's much more romantic than you or me, who have married for a plantation and a grocery."

"Ginny!"

"It's the truth. Deedora came down here with one idea: to marry a handsome southern gentleman to manage the estate her father bought for her. She had a romantic picture of southern life. Stately old home with white columns and magnolias. Riv fitted into the picture, and being engaged to another girl made him more fascinating and desirable. She saw Riv as another Rhett Butler, just as these Camp Shelby soldiers see a Scarlett O'Hara in every pretty girl. Underneath the skin, a Yankee is twice as susceptible as a southerner."

Secret Out

The conversation might have gone on and on, for Ginny loved to talk and was just warming to her subject, but Aunt Car appeared and settled herself at the window, and with a warning glance, Sue Ellen hinted that they had better change the conversation.

They talked about the newly formed Red Cross unit and whether or not the carpet should be cleaned at the Episcopal Church, and finally Ginny declared she must go. As Sue Ellen followed her out into the hall, she whispered: "Don't mention what I told you."

"About Deedora?"

"About me, goose. If mamma should find out my plan, she'd shut me up on bread and water until I came to my senses. And don't forget, you've promised to go over tomorrow afternoon and break the bad news to her."

"I wonder if that news about Deedora is true," said Sue Ellen as she and Ginny moved toward the street door.

"How your mind runs to Deedora Waller. She made plenty of trouble for you."

"If I could do anything to help her. . . ."

Ginny said: Ha! Help her? Better not offer her any pity, she doesn't hestitate to tell everyone how much she dislikes you."

Sue Ellen stood and watched through the window as Ginny bobbing, rubbers sloshing, her red raincoat the one bright spot in the sullen sodden landscape.

When she went back to the library, Aunt Car said: "What's Ginny Fairchild hatching now?"

"Why?"

"Because mischief is written all over her face."

Before she remembered her promise, Sue Ellen said: "She's marrying Toby Tyler tommorrow".

"The Lord bless us and save us." Aunt Car's tapestry fell to her lap. "What's the South coming to, when a Fairchaild marries a common crossroad grocer?"

"Waking up," said Sue Ellen briefly. "This generation of southerners is changing its sense of values. We get no satisfaction out of clinging to outmoded ideas which were all right for our great-grandfathers. We're emancipated." She smiled, then sobered an dadded earnestly: "I promised Ginny not to tell her plans. Don't say anything to anyone about it, will you?"

Aunt Car promised. "Ginny know anything else?"

Sue Ellen came across the room and bent and kissed her. "The whole town thinks I married Johnny to get possession of Belle

ANOTHER CASE OF LAX THINKING

Unimportant in itself was a statement from the War Production board the other day relating to bread knives.

But the statement was important as an illustration of why the good judgment of government agencies is in such widespread disrepute.

Substance of the statement was that there will be "plenty of bread knives" when the ban on the sale of sliced bread goes into effect Jan. 18. Why, says the WPB, it has authorized the manufacture of 60 per cent of the number of bread knives produced in 1941.

This type of reasoning is plain silly. The demand for such knives was almost non-existent during 1941. Few families needed bread knives then. Practically every family will have good use for one after Jan. 18. Yet the WPB thoughtlessly offers a statement that 60 per cent of the 1941 production will insure "plenty of bread knives."

True, the lack of such knives won't work any terrifying hardships. People will get along. Few will complain.

But how in Heaven's name can any agency expect respect for its judgment and claims relative to matters of real importance when it evidences such incompetence in recognizing the facts of those that are trivial?

Arthur Murray keeps in step with his hobby, Broadway idiom. And he tells me the latest lingo is like this:

To shake a bore you snap, "Get lost," or "That's all, Brother." When anyone says something startling (anything said in a saloon by the man who buys the drinks is startling) you answer, "Are YOU kiddin'?" But if you agree, you nod and add, "You can say that again, Brother." (Brother is the loud pedal, the emphasis, the exclamation point.) Sneering at one, you exclaim, "What's with YOU?" A hit song is "fabulous," a hot performance is "murder," a good song is a "killer," anything that has promise "can't miss."

A taxi is a "caberoo," a $5-bill is a "finola," a Mickey Finn is a "mickola," a good looking girl is a "piperoo"—get the idea? You add "eero" or "ola," and you're on the beameroo—"but definitely." You're hipola ("Hep" is out—it's "hip" now). Why? Well, a Broadwayite will explain it like he does everything that can't be explained —"just for laughs." And if you want to double the weight of anything you've said, add "I mean."

* * *

To pervert common English into Broadwayese, you translate and distort around "make with—." Pay, therefore, is "make with the checkbook"—to listen is "make with the ears" —to dance is "make with the puppies," and a new vocabulary can be constructed around "give it the —." For example, to bow formally is to "give it the El Morocco—." To rush a girl is to "give it the wolfola"—and to marry a girl is to "give it the Lohengrin" or "make with the wasserman diploma."

* * *

YOUR blown - in - the - bottle Broadwayite no longer says "twenty-five"—it's "two five"; and five hundred is "two five oh," instead of the date "five c's" or "five yards." And when you mention a strange name, the comeback will be, "who dat?" D'you dig us brother?

Some Automatic Pay Increases Can Be Given Under "Freeze"

Here's The Dope On Who Can Get Pay Raises

By PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

IF there is an unusually heavy fall of what looks like snow all over the United States this winter, a large part of it may turn out to be stuff that doesn't melt but will burn. They will be letters from workers asking in effect, "How do I go about getting a raise?" Or they will be letters from employers saying, "It is next to impossible for us to keep old workers or get new ones at the existing wage levels which have been put under control by government order. How do we go about increasing wages to meet these conditions?"

EDSON

All such letters and variations thereof will be queries for more information on the government's wage stabilization program—one of the least understood of all the wartime controls, yet the one which will affect every wage earner in the country. Indirectly it affects every member of every family right down to the sub-deb's allowance.

The reason wage stabilization isn't yet fully understood is that it has been in effect only since Oct. 3, and hasn't given enough time for people to want pay raises.

Briefly stated, the reason wage stabilization is necessary is that wages represent the biggest single item in the total cost of the war. The government is now spending for war at the rate of $6 billions a month, or $200 million a day. Since approximately 70 per cent of the national income is wages and salaries, it is fair to say that 70 per cent of the war costs is wages. That amounts to $4.2 billion a month, or $140 million a day.

LESS WAR COST

IF the total cost of the war runs to $300 billion, $210 billion will be wages and salaries, not just to the men in the armed services, but to every man, woman and child who does a lick of war work. If the cost of the war is to be kept down, if taxes which go to pay those war costs are to be kept down, wages must be stabilized.

The principal reason for keeping wages and salaries under control, however, is to prevent inflation. If wages are permitted to rise without limits, the cost of the goods produced by labor and the services rendered by labor must rise with them. That's inflation. To prevent it, the government is actually interested in seeing that you have no more money to spend than there are goods and services to spend them on.

By last September it was apparent that everything which had been done up to then in the way of price control and wage adjustment was still not sufficient to check inflation. On Oct. 2, Congress therefore passed an amendment to the Price Control act authorizing the President to take this drastic wage control step. Moving rapidly, the President created the Office of Economic Stabilization, with ex-Supreme Court Justice James F. Byrnes at its head.

Under the President's order, however, the major part of this authority was delegated to the War Labor board, which had been set up previously to handle wartime labor disputes. Director Byrnes divided the responsibility further.

THE JURISDICTION

CONTROL over farm wages of less than $2400 a year was assigned to the Secretary of Agriculture.

All other wages—workmen's pay calculated on an hourly, daily, or piecework basis—was left with the War Labor board. Salaries—under $5000 a year, except for executive or professionl employes not covered by a union wage agreement—were also left under the jurisdiction of WLB.

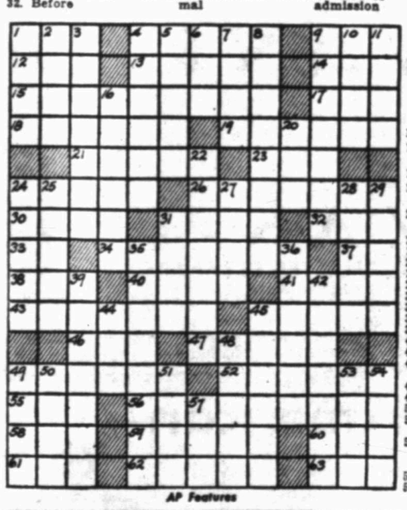

All other salaries—pay computed on a weekly, monthly or annual basis—were assigned to the control of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in the Treasury department.

General orders, rulings, regulations and interpretations of the War Labor board, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and the Secretary of Agriculture will therefore govern actions on wage stabilization for the duration of the war. What those regulations are and how they affect your wages in wartime will be explained in a series of short daily articles to follow this general introduction.

Ten To Fifteen Per Cent Less Civilian Goods Seen In '43

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7.—America's civilian economy won't go down to bedrock this year, but there will be 10 to 15 per cent less goods and services for stay-at-home to buy. This was the prediction today of Joseph L. Weiner, civilian supply director.

Citing prospects for disappearing metal gadgets, for normal supply of baby carriages and for such substitutes as glass frying pans, Weiner commented:

To Be Above Bedrock

"The civilian standard of living in this country in 1943 will depend, to a degree, on the fortunes of war. The bedrock civilian economy which has been talked about is not expected to be reached in 1943 except in respect to civilian goods made from critical materials, such as steel and copper. But how much our civilian economy will be above bedrock will be determined largely by the extent and success of our military operations in 1943."

From a production standpoint, Weiner said, 1943 output for consumers will be at least 15 to 20 per cent less than last year, however, stores and dealers still have fairly large supplies of goods made in previous years, and the amount of goods on the market therefore will drop only 10 to 15 per cent.

Other Goods To Be Less

On durable goods—electrical appliances, radios, and other big civilian items—Weiner estimated 1943 purchases at 35 per cent less than 1942, following a 45 per cent decline from 1941 to 1942.

He figured that purchase of non-durable goods, including clothing, would decline to 15 per cent less than in 1942. Last year purchases were 5 per cent above 1941.

The public will be able to spend about the same in 1943 as in 1942 on civilian services, such as beauty treatments, transportation, recreations and medical aid, he calculated.

Expansion Of Social Security Is Proposed

DETROIT, Jan. 7. (AP)—A greatly expanded federal social security program providing grants to families at the birth of children, hospital and medical care, and other added benefits was proposed by the CIO's United Automobile Workers today.

The union, contemplating a program costing seven billion dollars a year, advocated its adoption as a "wartime measure" to give the people of the United States "a sense of future security which in turn will give content and meaning to the war objectives."

Present state laws relating to workmen's compensation, unemployment benefits, old age and other grants would be incorporated under the federal setup. All wage and salaried workers would be covered, with participation optional to farmers and "self-employers."

Discrimination On Texas Cited

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, Jan. 7—Telegrams sent Texas Senators and Representatives charged that Rubber Administrator W. M. Jeffers had refused to conduct surveys in the state for suitable sites for industrial plants which would convert grain sorghums into alcohol and that Texas was being discriminated against.

The messages, sent by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and delegations from several West Texas cities, declared that the state could produce, with full utilization of its grain sorghums, one fourth to one half the nation's synthetic rubber requirements, but that the state was not being considered in selection of conversion plant sites.

Plant In Colorado

D. A. Bandeen, general manager of the WTCC, and M. C. Ulmer of Midland, its president, signed the messages sent by the chamber.

Bandeen said that Jeffers had announced that a new plant would be located in Lafayette, Colo., and "Colorado does not produce more than one thirtieth of the grain sorghum grown in Texas."

Discrimination Charged

"We feel that Texas is being rankly discriminated against in not having our possibilities surveyed and investigated while at the same time a plant location is being announced in Colorado, far removed from the water and grain belt," the messages said.

They contended also that the cost of transporting alcohol from Central West Texas to New Orleans in grain sorghum form was fully 50 per cent greater per gallon of alcohol than the transportation cost of alcohol processed in Central West Texas.

O'DANIEL MAKES CAUSTIC COMMENT ON SITES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Commenting on the location of new grain alcohol plants being constructed by the government, Senator W. Lee O'Daniel (D-Tex) yesterday said, "It is interesting to note that two of three points already selected are served by the Union Pacific railroad, headed by Mr. Jeffers when he took the job as rubber director. The two points are Kansas City and Omaha."

O'Daniel said he had been informed by the Office of Rubber Director W. M. Jeffers that none of the plants would be in Texas. The reason given him, O'Daniel stated, for rejection of applications for plant locations in Texas, was to the effect that the Baruch report had recommended that plants be built in the Midwest grain belt and on inland navigable waterways.

The Texas Senator said he was told by Jeffers' office that "they would not even send a man to Texas to investigate the advantages of establishing plants in our state for the production of alcohol from grains and processing the alcohol into synthetic rubber."

O'Daniel added that he would continue to press for the selection of Texas for one or more of the plant sites yet to be chosen.

Acres."

"And does that worry you?"

"It isn't true," said Sue Ellen softly. "You know that."

Aunt Car's slender hand caught Sue Ellen's fingers and held them closely. "When are you going to let your husband know that you love him?" she asked, gently.

"When I'm sure that he loves me," was Sue Ellen's answer.

The rain continued throughout the day. About two in the afternoon, Johnny called from Camp Shelby. "I may have to go away for a month," he told Sue Ellen. "I'm coming over this afternoon to wind up the signing of those papers. I want everything to be settled and Belle Acres in your name before I leave. These are uncertain times." His tone was troubled.

"There's no danger that you won't come back?"

"Try to keep me away," said Johnny, and something in his voice made her heartbeat quicken.

He would be over about four, he must drive back soon after dinner. Sue Ellen left the telephone to announce that there would be a guest for dinner. "A very important guest," she told Aunt Jennie, whom she found ambling about the low-ceilinged kitchen. "My husband is coming and I want to have everything just right—"

"Funny kind of a husband," muttered Aunt Jennie, who had known Sue Ellen from the day she took her first step and never hesitated to express hr opinion on anything which concerned her. "You stay heah — and he stay theah. Whoever heard of such nonsense."

"That's the modern way," Sue Ellen teased her.

Aunt Jennie tossed her kinky head. "That's what all these trifin' no-account gran'chillun of mine says. I ain' modern." She rolled her eyes. "I ain' nevah hear of a husban' that don' want to make love to his wife. It ain' decent—it ain'—"

"Maybe things will be different soon," said Sue Ellen demurely. "You must remember that my husband is a soldier."

Aunt Jennie grumbled. "Soldiers! What we fightin' foah this time?"

Unmasked Guest

Aunt Pleas' announcement that Riv was downstairs and wanted to see her annoyed Sue Ellen, upset her and made her slightly uneasy. The talk with Riv earlier in the week should have convinced him that their relations were ended. She had told him flatly that she did not want to see him. Now, he had come again.

"He looked terrible. I think he has been drinking. I you don't care to see him, I'll tell him you're out or resting. I'll make some excuse."

"Then he may rush off and say or do something rash and create a lot of gossip." Sue Ellen was already slipping out of her housecoat and into a dark wool dress. "Tell him I'll be down in a minute and make some excuse to interrupt us if you hear that he is becoming loud and unmanageable."

"I don't think you should see him," Aunt Pleas insisted.

She did not tell her aunt that she was afraid not to see Riv. Always high-tempered and reckless, he might rush off downtown and express his opinion about Johnny Harris and start a new flood of gossip. Once and for all, Riv must understand that he should go about his own business and leave her alone.

When she came downstairs, she found him pacing the hall, staring up the staircase and rushing to meet her before ever she reached the last step. He caught her arm and drew her quickly into the front parlor.

He arose, strode back and forth a minute, his breath coming stormily, his black eyes flashing. "So you married the man who could give you Belle Acres," he jeered. "I've just come from the bank and learned that you were to have the place for your own while this Yankee soldier goes back east to show off his uniform. What kind of marriage is that?"

"Is that your business, Riv?"

"Yes, it is. You run off to marry me and then turn up in Tyler Springs married to someone else and the whole town is guessing why and imagining all sorts of things."

Challenge Of More Teamwork Issued By Congress To FDR

Rayburn's Statements May Be Carried Through If Trouble Begins To Appear

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON Jan. 7.—The New Congress has issued its first challenge to President Roosevelt.

This came, almost by way of ultimatum, in the opening remarks of Speaker Sam Rayburn to the effect that henceforth there must be more teamwork between the executive and legislative branches, and, specifically, that Congressional leaders must be consulted about proposals before they are thrust up-on Congress.

This, coming from Sam Rayburn, was news. Hitherto he has shown few fur-raising tendencies, but he seemed to be in real earnest, for he not only said these things behind closed doors at a party caucus the day before, but reiterated them in open session, before a full House.

Words Not Idle

It was not news, of course, when House Minority Leader Joe Martin said them too, though it was clear his words were not idle when one looked down from the gallery upon such a sea of hard-boiled Republican faces as has not met the gaze for ten years.

Joe, as a matter of fact, came in for some ribbing from colleagues at a gathering the night before, with accusations that he had let the Democrats steal his thunder—all this of course, in good fun.

May Make Challenge Good

What these ultimatums amount to, as far as Democrats are concerned, is a warning to the downtown "bureaucrats"—and the President It is hoped the warning will suffice. If the bureaus persist in their hand-made legislation, Congress will have to make good its challenge.

It is generally understood that this dictum also applies to future rationing plans.

Typical of what Sam Rayburn and his leaders are talking about was the recent bill proposing to give the President blanket authority over immigration—powers far beyond the immediate war needs, many members thought. That bill was flatly rejected, even before the new House came into being with its side bulging with Republicans.

Won't Attempt It

It is too early to predict a clear-cut victory for Congress in its attempt to reassert itself, since complaints about ready-made legislation have roared to the ceilings of the Capitol ever since Mr. Roosevelt called his Congressional leaders about him one morning five years ago and read them his message about the Supreme court packing bill, with the blunt announcement that it was going up to Congress at noon, three hours later. it was the first they had heard of that far-reaching measure.

Mr. Roosevelt is smarter than to attempt that with his new Congress.

His likely course is to pull in his horns somewhat, pick his issues carefully, and then give them everything he has, including the rallying of public opinion.

Public Opinion Is Factor

This all relates, of course, to measures having to do with extension of the social and economic phases of the New Deal, and not to strictly war measures, for Congress will go along on the latter.

That public opinion can be aroused quickly for the executive and against Congress has been demonstrated time and again, and frequently on picayunish matters—only so recently, for example, as the pension and gasoline X-card ruckuses of last session. Congress found itself the butt of jibes clear across the country, and unfairly so.

Rayburn Is Handicapped

Speaker Rayburn is handicapped because of the divided House over which he rules. It has been divided before between New Dealers and conservatives, but that did not matter so much when his ranks were large. Now it matters very much.

There are at least 25 Democrats, mostly Southerners, who are likely to break off at any time and join Republicans on New Deal issues.

A speaker, even a strong one, finds it difficult to deny a President a hearing for a measure on which the chief executive insists. He must indeed be a strong man and a wise one to know when to resist the president and to be able, once he has accepted an assignment, to whip into line such a diverse party as that over which Mr. Rayburn rules. For with his thin majority he can not lose even a handful of votes.

Normalcy Is About Regained In Local Gasoline Business

Most motorists are following the policy of driving into the first filling station convenient to replenish gasoline supplies, a survey Wednesday indicated.

One station in Lubbock, believe it or not, reported more business in December than was done in the previous month of November, or even in December a year before. J. O. Pope, operating on Ave. Q, said his place quickly recovered from the slump right after Dec. 1, and his December sales showed an increase.

John Gammill, 1602 Broadway, said he dealt mostly with farmers, and sales for December showed a drop of about 35 per cent. He said sales now are picking up daily.

Halted By Hoarding

Numerous other filling stations where contacts were made said hoarding of gasoline by drivers at the beginning of rationing virtually stopped the sale of gasoline at service stations for two weeks, but now as tanks become empty sales are almost back to normal. One station said business for the last 10 days has been "just as brisk" as it was before rationing. Every retailer said Lubbock motorists did a lot of hoarding of gasoline here.

The manager of one wholesale oil company said sales are off about 40 per cent, but he believed November's all-time record of high sales was partly responsible.

Still another wholesaler said December showed a business totaling about two-thirds of what it had been normally. One other dealer said 1942 was his best year. "Frankly," he said, "I have made more money in the oil business this year than I ever did before." He declared mileage rationing isn't going to cause anything like the hardships many at first thought it would.

Swabbing Underway At Leaverton Well

Shell Oil No. 1 D. N. Leaverton, new producer in northwestern Gaines county, is being swabbed after re-acidization with 4,000 gallons, according to reports Wednesday.

The last nine hours it recovered 200 barrels of oil diluted 15 per cent acid water and four per cent basic sediment. The well now has 2,500 feet of oil in the hole. It previously had been washed with 500 gallons of acid and pressure-treated with 2,000 gallons. On last test before the 4,000-gallon treatment, the well swabbed five barrels of pipe line oil in three hours. Total depth is 7,772 feet in dolomite and 5-inch casing is set at 7,480. The strike is 660 feet out of the southwest corner of section 458, block GCCSD and RGNG survey, four miles southwest of the Wasson field.

Wildcat At 4,820 Feet

Barnsdall Oil company's No. 1 H. D. Heath, section 315, block D, J. H. Gibson survey, scheduled 7,500 foot wildcat six miles northeast of Plains in northeast central Yoakum county, is drilling below 4,620 feet in San Andrews lime. It logged base of sand in the Whitehorse and top of San Andrews at 4,545 feet. First solid lime in the San Andrews came in at 4,570 feet. The well still is running slightly higher than Gulf States Oil corporation and Hershbach Drilling company No. 1 E. A. Graham San Andrews failure two and one-half miles east and slightly north.

Harry C. Hawkins No. 57-A Mallet Land and Cattle company, scheduled 6,500 foot wildcat more than a mile north of the Hockley county portion of the Slaughter field, cemented 7-inch casing at 5,102, eight feet off bottom, and is standing while cement hardens.

One mile farther north, the same owner's No. 14-B Mallet is standing at 4,929 feet in lime after cementing 5 1-2 inch casing at 4,836 feet with 175 sacks.

Dekalb Agricultural association, inc., Lubbock, No. 1 A. C. Means Estates, Andrews county wildcat

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Tarbox Explains His Wounds Not Serious

Assurance that injuries he received during a raid on Japanese installations Dec. 27 were not serious were contained in a telegram from Capt. Elmer Tarbox Wednesday.

Captain Tarbox piloted a bomber in a flight that severely pounded Lashio, Burma, Japanese installations in a swing that took the American group into western Yunnan province, in China, as well. He was shot in the legs at the thick of the engagement, which saw anti-aircraft, tracer and Jap cannon fighters doing their worst—and his co-pilot flew the bomber back.

The cablegram, sent in answer to two from Harry Morris, Tarbox' employer when the former Texas Tech grid star was selling automobiles here, said:

"Cablegram received. Many thanks. All well and safe. Illness not serious." It was signed Elmer.
