Rousing Greeting In Wichita Sample of Road Welcomes

Headed by a band, the 140 Wichita Falls trade evangels, dressed in their long tan dusters, colored feathers in their straw hats and sheltered from a drizzling rain by gaily-hued umbrellas, came home at 5 o'clock yesterday from a two-day trade trip into one of the richest sections in the southwest.

The home coming was just as rousing as the receptions given the party at more than a dozen Oklahoma and Texas towns.

Everywhere the business men stopped they were greeted more cordially and enthusiastically by officials of the towns or cities. And after spending all the way from ten minutes to two hours at the various stops, the residents had become warm friends with practically all members of the Wichita Falls party, by officials of the towns or cities.

Thus has what will today be described by the men as "the most successful trip ever undertaken" come to an end. It is the first venture into adjacent territory to strengthen ties that bind the people and business concerns of his city with those in the city's radius.

Procession Colorful

In detraining here the men came out of their cars in double file in squads of cans and marched to band music down Eighth street until they reached Indiana to Ninth and turned into Scott and went on to the corner of Eighth, where they formed a circle.

The procession made quite an impressive scene, the vari-colored umbrellas giving the parade a touch of the spectacular. As the men passed the thronged curbings they were recognized by those who came out to watch them pass and familiar greetings were passed.

While the excursionists were out only two days, every man on the trip

TWO MEN LURED FROM HOMES BY UNKNOWN CROWD

One Man Beaten; Another Reported Missing

By Associated Press.

SHREVEPORT, La., June 7.—Two men were lured from their homes in Shreveport last night, one of them flogged and the other up to late tonight had not returned. R. W. Waldron, aged 60 is the man who was flogged. Louis Abrams, often fined as a bootlegger, was the one who has not returned.

Waldron was accused by his abductors of having mistreated a 10 year old girl, it is said. According to local authorities, he is now under charges of perjury in Texarkana where his case is set for June 12.

Abrams has been a familiar figure about the local police courts on numerous occasions, the chief offenses charged against him being bootlegging. Court records show that he paid more than $1,100 in fines in the district court alone.

The alleged kidnapers were unidentified, being attired as oil field workers, it was said.

Barry Miller—
Printer's Devil—
On the Road—

By H. N. F.

CHARLES A. CULBERSON HAS been in public life 32 years. Judge Barry Miller has been his loyal friend 32 years. A most interesting character is Barry Miller. He was born in South Carolina. His father was a distinguished physician and surgeon in the confederate army Jimmie Byrne is the congressman from the district in which Miller was born and Jimmie, who looks like a boy and debates like a Jim Reed, has been a congressman for 20 years. Barry Miller was a page in the lower house of congress when James G. Blaine, Roscoe Conkling, Allen G. Thurmond and Ben Hill were among the elect of the leaders of the republic.

ALEXANDER H. STEPHENS OF Georgia was a member of congress when Miller was a page. As a boy the judge was not ambitious to become a lawyer. After he had been a page he served an apprenticeship as devil in the office of the old Washington Post. His mother rescued him from his perilous position and the family, which consisted of mother and son and daughter, the father having passed on, came to Texas and selected Dallas as their home. It has been their home ever since. Miller studied law and he has followed the law all his years under Lone Star skies. Charles A. Culberson moved to Dallas from Jefferson in 1887 and Miller, then a very young man, became his personal and political friend.

THEY HAVE BEEN FRIENDS ever since. Miller is a party man. He believes in organization. He has never scratched a democratic ticket. He served a term of four years in the state senate. This was away back in the days when John A. Reagan, James Stephen Hogg, George Clark and Alexander W. Terrell were the idols of the democratic party. He served as prosecuting attorney when a mere stripling. After his retirement from the senate he gave all his time to the practice of his profession and became prominent in the higher councils of the democratic party.

HE WAS ON THE ROAD AS A speaker in every campaign and in the bitter contests of old he was ever on the firing line. Many times the people of Dallas begged him to go as their representative to Austin as member of the lower house of the legislature and he acquiesced. He has presented the name of Senator Culberson to four legislatures in the last 24 years and he is confident that the honor will fall to a representative from Dallas county to present the name of Culberson for a fifth term.

SIX YEARS AGO HE DIRECTED the campaign for Culberson. Culberson won in the run off. Now he is directing the Culberson campaign again and his two sp[illegible] at

ARMY OFFICERS QUIZ ATTORNEY

Beck Case Well Under Way

By Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 7.—County Attorney Forrest L. Hughes, in whose hands rests the question of filing criminal charges against Jean P. Day, slayer of Lieutenant Colonel Paul Ward Beck, was interrogated today by a special army board investigating the death of Beck. Although the inquiry was secret, it was reported the army officers discussed with the county attorney the advisability of filing charges.

The county attorney was understood to have maintained his former attitude that the recommendation of the coonrer's jury, exonerating Day, should be followed, and that no charge should be filed.

The army officers, it was said, did not tell Hughes they favored prosecution, but neither did they say they were satisfied to let the case drop.

"OUSLEY'S PEAK IS COMING," HIS FRIENDS INSIST

They Point to His Home Newspaper Support

By H. N. F.

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 7.—Ft. Worth is the home of Clarence Ousley, one of the senatorial contenders. His followers were late in perfecting a state organization but now they are on with a rush. Ft. Worth has three daily newspapers—The Morning Record, The Star-Telegram and The Press, the two latter afternoon luminaries. The Record and the Star Telegram are newspaper exponents of the tariff gospel enunciated by the southern tariff congress and Col. John Henry Kirby. That is, these newspapers editorially oppose free raw materials and are for tariff protection or the products of the farm and the ranch. They remain silent as to a tariff on oil importation.

Now these publishers are whooping up the cause of Mr. Ousley.

They say that he is a home man, that he is the peer if not the superior of any man in the race for senator and that he is entitled to the support of all his home people who claim to be followers of Jefferson, Jackson or Cleveland or other God either living or dead of the democratic party. This double new support gave Mr. Ousley a big lift. After surveying the field for several days the Ft. Worth Press editorially declared for Cullin F. Thomas and now it is the Press against the Record and the Star-Telegram as to which can influence the most votes in Tarrant county on primary election day.

NEW SAND IN YOUNG COUNTY

South Bend Gets 3,900 Ft. Well

Drilled into a lime, slightly below 3,900 feet, the North American Oil & Refining company's No. 5 Scott, Smith survey, in Young county, is producing around 500 barrels daily, according to Wednesday reports from the field. The new well is not far from the No. 1 Scott, Smith survey, which was the discovery well in the 3,500-foot lime, for the South Bend field.

The new well opens up another producing strata for this pool, and one which gives indications of being important.

Two new wells are reported from the Bunger pool, one in the 3,500-foot lime, which so far, had not been opened up in the new pool.

The No. 1 Whittenberg of Dyer et al is reported flowing at the rate of 250 barrels from the top of the lime at 3,585 feet. It is being drilled deeper.

On the Lynd, the No. 1 of the Union Oil company of Nevada is reported flowing at the rate of 250 barrels daily, drilling into the sandy lime at 2,752 feet.

Daugherty Rates His Office High

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Attorney General Daugherty called on President Harding today about a matter of official detail and was asked when he came out for his view on various reports that he would resign office.

"You can say," he told newspapermen, "that there never was a time when I would have given 30 cents to get the office of attorney general, but that I would not take a million dollars for it now."

Wichita Falls Men To Fore In Trial Of Houston Promoter

Special to The Record News.

HOUSTON, June 7.—"You are the queerest witness I ever heard. You make a speech every time you answer a question. Make your answers more direct." Judge Hutcheson, presiding over the S. E. J. Cox trial on a barge of using the mails to defraud, Wednesday afternoon thus admonished A. J. Henderson, formerly identified with the General Oil company, for making such profuse explanations and descriptions of the wells on the Sparks lease in the Burkburnett country.

Henderson, who was the legal adviser for the General Oil company at Wichita Falls, told interesting accounts of the Sparks gushers. His word paintings of gushers going high over the derrick tops and covering the landscape for a great distance with a flimy coat of oil, did not suit Judge Hutcheson, so Henderson was ordered to confine his answers to the prosecutions questions in a brief manner.

Efforts were made at the trial to bring out evidence tending to show that the government, which is now prosecuting Cox, was in a great measure responsible for the failure of the General Oil company.

Through the testimony of Frank B. Wilcox, former vice president of the Lone Star refinery at Wichita Falls, the defense endeavored to determine that the Red river federal receivership prevented the General Oil company from operating its refinery on oil produced from the concern in the disputed territory.

According to Wilcox, the General, or any other company, could not obtain oil from this district unless it was purchased at the regular market price from the federal receiver.

"I know that the Lone Star bought between 500,000 and 750,000 barrels of Red river crude from the receiver and we had to pay the regular posted price," Wilcox declared.

"Then do you not think that the federal receivership abrogated and hindered the General Oil company from refining crude produced on the Sparks lease?" asked the defense.

"I do," Wilcox replied.

Assistant District Attorney Simmons, angered at the testimony of L. E. Aven, Wichita Falls, and former president of the General Oil company, Wednesday morning appealed to Judge Hutcheson to make the witness answer questions in a more direct manner. The judge stated that he had not the power to compel witnesses to answer questions in any particular way.

"I had to quit my job as driller with the General Oil company to take care of my money." Such was the testimony of F. J. Bissonet, Wichita Falls, a defense witness.

Bissonet told how he, as a driller, had faith in the Sparks lease of the Cox company and went out and purchased leases after oil was encountered and later sold these tracts for hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Bissonet is no longer a driller. He is now a drilling contractor.

Boom Justice For Governor

SENATOR REED SUDDENLY ILL

Stricken In Midst Of Speech

By Associated Press.

CARUTHERSVILE, Mo., June 7.—United States Senator James A. Reed, became suddenly ill here tonight while making a speech in his campaign for the democratic nomination for the senate. Mr. Reed, hardly able to talk when he began his speech, the second of the day, was taken to a hotel here and several physicians volunteered their service.

Physicians who attended him at his hotel later announced the attack was caused by gastritis and Mr. Reed himself declared he would be able to resume his campaign tomorrow, but the attending physicians declared this doubtful.

Hoarse from strain of the speeches delivered during the last four weeks and fatigued from a long automobile ride during the late afternoon hours, Mr. Reed was hardly able to talk above a whisper, and disregarding the advice of his friends accompanying him, insisted on ascending the stage.

The attack came in the midst of the senator's criticism of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat which has opposed him in favor of Breckenridge Long.

KU KLUX KLAN OFFICIALS DRAW INDICTMENTS

Grand Jury Also Bills 34 Alleged Members

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 7.—Three high officials and 34 alleged members of the ku klux klan were indicted by the Los Angeles county grand jury today on five counts of felony charges in connection with a raid at Englewood near here April 22.

The klan officers were William S. Coburn, grand goblin of the Pacific domain and supreme attorney of the order; G. W. Price, king kleagle for the state of California, and N. A. Baker, kleagle or organizer for the county of Los Angeles.

Baker is under arrest here while Coburn and Price are understood to be in the east.

Six other persons were indicted each as "John Doe." The charges are false imprisonment, two counts; kidnaping, two counts and assault with intent to commit murder, one count.

Three Officials Suspended

Although the three officials have been suspended, according to word from Atlanta headquarters of the klan, they have continued to function here and have been recognized by klansmen as having all the authority of their office.

Bail was fixed for each of the defendants at $1,000, except in the case of Nathan A. Baker, self-admitted leader in the raid, in whose case it was set at $10,000. He is in custody of the psychopathic ward of the county hospital, owing to a mental breakdown.

An attorney for the klansmen announced that the other indicted klansmen would appear in the superior court here tomorrow and in view of this no warrants were issued.

Raid on Winery

The Englewood raid was directed at Fidel and Mathias Elduayen, proprietors of a licensed winery. The Elduayens were taken from their home at night, bound and carried to the police station at Englewood and Redondo Beach, at both of which places the authorities refused to accede to a demand by the captors that the prisoners be locked up as bootleggers.

While the raid was in progress Frank Woerner, deputy marshal of Englewood appeared and ordered the raiders to disperse. Revolvers were leveled at Woerner and he emptied his pistol into the crowd. Constable M. B. Mosher, Walter Mosher, son of the constable, and Ruegg dropped. The constable died later.

TARIFF RATES FLAYED AGAIN

G. O. P. Measure Censored

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—While the finance committee majority continued today to recede from some of the tariff rates originally recommended to the senate, the administration measure came in for renewed assaults from both sides of the chamber.

Proposed duties on fire arms which finally were approved, led to discussion of wide range. Senator King, democrat, Utah, declared that the tariff measure already was being used as a means of advancing prices in this country. He read from published reports that the American woolen mills had made a second advance in prices and predicted that these raises would be extended to other commodities, including boots, shoes and cotton.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska ,discussing the duties proposed on shot guns, said the idea was to put up a high tariff wall behind which American manufacturers could advance prices to take care of their losses in invading the markets of the world and driving foreign producers out of business in their own countries. He asserted that this was not only true with reference to shot guns, but also with reference to sewing machines, paints, steel products and many other things included in the bill.

Gun Rates Approved

The rates on shot guns as approved by the senate range from $1.50 each and 45 per cent ad valorem to $10 each and 45 per cent ad valorem.

On pistols the senate approved duties ranging from $1.25 and 60 per cent ad valorem to $3.50 and 60 per cent. Duties of 50 per cent on sword blades and 25 per cent on muzzle loading muskets, shot guns, rifles and parts also were approved.

Supporting the rates on shot guns and rifles, Senator McCumber, republican, North Dakota, said the war left 30,000,000 arms in Europe and that he had no doubt the Europeans would be willing to sell them in this country at greatly reduced prices.

THREE STRIKE BALLOTS SENT OUT TO CRAFTS

Shopmen Clear All Decks For Action On Cut

By Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 7.—Three strike ballots were ordered dispatched to the 400,000 railway shopmen of the country today with an urgent appeal that the vote be returned to union headquarters in Chicago by June 25, leaving a margin of five days to clear the deck for action before the shop men's $60,000,000 wage cut ordered yesterday by the railroad labor board goes into effect July 1.

Following the release of the ballots by the executive council of the six federated shop crafts here today, international headquarters of the six unions were instructed to send out a letter to all locals urging immediate action on the ballots.

"This is time for action and not talk or unnecessary delay," the letter read. "Every ballot is desired to be in Chicago at the earliest possible moment, and in no case later than June 30. While the ballots are marked returnable June 30, every local lodge should rush the returns of the ballots as the vote is taken, and if it is humanly possible, all ballots should be in Chicago before June 25, 1922, thus making it possible to advise the membership before

MILITARY RITES FOR MRS. MOORE

Marines Will Carry Body to Grave

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—Borne by a detachment of United States marines, her comrades by virtue of her rank as sergeant during the world war, the body of Mrs. Alexander P. Moore, known to the world as Lillian Russell, will start from her late home tomorrow afternoon on the way to its resting place in the vault in Allegheny cemetery. A private service for the family will be held at the home at 1:30 o'clock.

The public service at Trinity will follow the simple ritual of the Episcopal church. A vested choir will march in silent procession through the church to the choir stalls. The hymns will be "Rock of Ages," and "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

In accordance with Mrs. Moore's oft expressed wish, the coffin will be unopened after it leaves the home and none but those closely associated with the family will look on the face of the former talented actress.

"Those who came back" of the 107th field artillery will meet the funeral cortege at the cemetery entrance and will conduct it to the vault. Officers and men of the American Legion who counted Mrs. Moore among their numbers will be represented and a firing squad will render the salute.

President Harding's cabinet will be represented at the services and Governor William C. Sproul is expected to attend. Representatives of the stage will also pay tribute to their former associate by their presence.

Holding Undoes Work December Jurors; Knocks 98 Bills

First round honors in the attacks on the last two grand juries—attacks which are promised again against the grand jury to be impanelled at the beginning of the June terms of the 30th district court—were won by the attacking forces Wednesday when the court of criminal appeals held the grand jury for the December term of the 30th district court illegal.

The holding was based on the failure of Judge Weldon, who was then judge of the 30th district court, to instruct Sheriff Fred Smith to select the grand jury. Instead Judge Weldon appointed three prominent local business men as a jury commission to select the grand jury. The law provides that the jury commission shall be selected at the term of court immediately preceding the one which the grand jury was drawn for. For the grand jury selected by the three commissioners to have been legal, the commissioners should have been appointed by Judge Weldon at the June, 1921, instead of the December, 1921, term.

With the holding of the grand jury illegal, 98 indictments including three against former deputy sheriffs and six weeks work have been nullified. All of the defendants whom the district attorney's office plan to prosecute must be indicted again, and those who have been tried and convicted must be convicted again. These include Hunter Russell, in whose behalf the appeal attacking the grand jury's legality was taken.

Officials of the district attorney's office Wednesday swore out new complaints in 97 cases—the indictment of Shields Hefner, local attorney, who waved the question of the legality of the indictment, having been tried and resulted in acquittal.

An attack against the same grand jury taken in the case of B. W. Acuff, convicted of felony theft, on the grounds that its selection was dictated and that it was controlled by the ku klux klan is still pending. It is not known whether the question raised in this appeal will be passed upon by the court, following its decision in the Russell case, or not.

Plans are already under way to attack the June term grand jury on the same grounds as the last attack on this grand jury, it was reported with seeming authority Wednesday.

M. S. Sanlter, who goes under a number of aliases, and who was given five years following an alleged attempt to defraud a local bank through a forged instrument, and who made an attack on the grand jury similar to that made by Russell, also secured a reversal and a dismissal of the indictment. Saulter is in jail in default of bond. Russell was out on an appeal bond, but was rearrested, and is making an effort to secure new bond.

YIELD PUT AT 12-15 BUSHELS IN THIS COUNTY

Crop May Be Best Of All Over Texas

Two months ago many Wichita county farmers were deeply discouraged—some even ready to pull up and sell out with a ruined wheat crop following the winter drouth staring them in the face.

Today they are intensely enthusiastic with a prospect for a crop which will far surpass the average yield of the last five years, seven bushels per acre—and may make 12 to 15 bushels to the acre, with banner fields making 30, and a crop which may prove the banner crop for all the counties in Texas.

The entire change of feeling is the result of water, and the wonderful crop improvement following two months of abundant rains, according to Guy R. Jones, county agriculture agent.

"The change is a wonderful object lesson in what wafer will do in the wonderful soil in this county," Mr. Jones declares.

"It was all due to the water, for fertilizers were not used at all."

The county has many fields into which a binder will probably not be sent, he says, fields where the crop was lost before the rain came. But the increased yield in the others will largely offset this, and the county's crop will bear comparison with the crop of last year. Last year's crop —nearly 900,000 bushels—was the third largest for any county in the state.

Gray county and sister counties in the panhandle which are big wheat counties have lost more in proportion than Wichita county, and this county's crop this year may take first rank.

Other Big Yields

Counties immediately adjacent to Wichita have also been in the same measure fortunate, and some may have ever larger yields per acre than this—some of the wheat in the counties across in Oklahoma being expected to average 20 bushels or more.

Cool weather of the recent past has been a big help to the crop, the county agent declared, adding thousands of bushels to the crop. The rains which have fallen around Wichita Falls have delayed the harvest only in the section immediately adjacent to the city, he said, outlying sections of the county not having so much rain.

Wichita county will have many banner wheat fields this year—Mr. Jones mentioned the wheat of J. D. Hudgins, north of Clara, which is expected to make 30 bushels to the acre.

Several fields in the prosperous Mt. Carmel community may make as much, he declared.

The cutting in the Red river section is about done now, and is about half done north of Electra. Around Wichita Falls and Iowa Park it is just getting under way, and has been lothered some with recent showers. Threshing, unless weather interferes, is expected to start in the Red river section next week.

ONE KILLED AS TRAIN WRECKS

Pennsy. Express Hops Track

YORK, Pa., June 7.—The north bound Express on the Pennsylvania railroad from Baltimore, due here at 9:10 o'clock, left the rails at Brillharts, three miles south of here, about 9 o'clock. The fireman was killed, another of the crew was probably fatally hurt and a number of others were injured.

The locomotive and three cars left the rails, the engine turning over on its side. The cause of the accident has not been determined.

Mother Identifies Youth Killed By Freight Train As Her Son and As Wichitan, "Buster" Medlin, 17

"Buster" Medlin, 17, is the name of the youth who lost his life Monday at 1:30 o'clock, when his body was mangled between two cars of a freight train on which he was stealing a ride near Waurika, Okla.

This became known late yesterday when a communication was received by the city police department from Mrs. F. M. Medlin of Wichita Falls, who, fearing that the boy killed near Waurika was her son, had journeyed to the latter place to make a personal investigation.

Upon viewing the body, the mother definitely asserted that it was that of her son.

The boy had been to Duncan, Okla., she said, to visit an aunt, and was evidently on his way back to Wichita Falls. No reason as to why the youth was riding the freight train has been learned.

Photographs of the body which had been received at the police department Tuesday had been examined by several members of the Medlin family, several of which disagreed as to whether the pictures were of "Buster."

FIRES SCHOOLMA'AM FOLLOWING "SINFUL" DANCE

"Trifled With Dignity Of Kansas," In Allowing Dance

By Associated Press.

EMINENCE, Kan., June 7.—Not counting prairie dogs and jackrabbits, this western Kansas village had 92 inhabitants at last count, most of whom do not consider dancing sinful. But because she permitted a dance to be held in the school house, the school marm, Mrs. Clara White, has had her teaching certificate revoked by Miss Lorraine Wooster, state superintendent of education.

Eminence is thirty miles from a railroad and though it is not as far as it was before the days of flivvers, still amusements are not exactly plentiful. What there are the community has to evolve for itself, and community dances were a favored form.

Mrs. White says, however, that since she allowed a dance to be held in the school house and attended it, she has been informed by the state superintendent of education that she has broken Kansas laws and trifled with the dignity of the commonwealth. For that reason she has been officially informed that her teacher's certificate will not be renewed.

Mrs. White has written the state board of administration protesting against the action. She says there wasn't a thing objectionable about the dance, and it was a perfectly proper use for a school house outside of teaching hours. Miss Wooster, the state superintendent, however, who is known as an inveterate foe of tobacco, takes a different view. Dancing, she says, is particularly heinous in a school teacher, and when the offense takes place within the very portals of the school, the offense comes pretty near being lese-majeste.

Meanwhile, there hasn't been so much excitement in Eminence since the town was the county seat of Old Garfield county, later abolished, and the citizens went to bed at night with shotguns propped conveniently close to repel attempts of rival towns to carry off the county seat during the night.

WHAT CORNHUSKER TEACHER CAN'T DO.

By Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., June 7.—The action of Superintendent Wooster is in accordance with regulations announced recently which prohibit teachers from smoking, dancing and card playing and direct them to wear moderate forms of dress. Recently she attempted to obtain the dismissal of Superintendent William Peck of Cimmron for dancing and card playing, but the board re-elected him.

BOOSTERS WIN WITH SINGING

They're Really Good At It

Songs make friends.

That is probably one reason why more than a dozen towns along the Fort Worth and Denver'll never forget the Wichita Falls men who made up the trade excursion.

With L. H. ("Sonny") Lawler's instrumental artists pinging as they had never played before and with Field Marshal Shepherd very much at home as "song leader" the train went through the songs like stage folk.

"Prosperity" the song about hard times coming again no more was generally the opening number. It was followed by "The Sheik," which was the favorite of the crowd. The men put more pep into this number than any other. They called for it repeatedly and when they came to the word, they were humming or whistling the tune.

"Old McDonald's Farm" was a close third to "The Sheik." This method rather wiggle produces evidently was familiar to the territory with the exception of Archer. There it was quite interesting to hear Mrs. Folk sing it for the first time.

MEXICAN WHISKEY IMPORTS TAXED

By Associated Press.

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, June 7.—Effective today a consular fee of $15 per gallon will be collected on all whisky destined for Mexico, Y. M. Vasquez, Mexican consul, announced here today. acting, he said, on instructions from Consul General Rui at Laredo. The fee will make whisky imports prohibitive, Vasquez said.

Anderson's Wife "Didn't Love Him"

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 7.—By Associated Press.

Declaring she "has not loved him for two years," and knew nothing of the cause, Mrs. Opal Anderson, wife of Frank Warren Anderson, who was shot and killed in a Kansas City hotel Friday night, gave out a brief statement through a friend, when an attempt was made to interview her again today.

BOOSTERS—

knew that C. C. McDonald was voicing the sentiment of the crowd when he declared at the ceremony before the Kemp hotel that: "We've seen good cities, have been royally entertained and have enjoyed the entire affair, but we are certainly happy to get back home."

Stayton Welcomes Men

Burton Stayton greeted the business men upon their return home. He explained the purpose of the journey as one to correct the erroneous impression held by some that merchants here were "through with the out-of-town customer after the merchant had gotten his money." He said that just such excursions as this one would bring about a better feeling, produce more business and better advertise the city.

McDonald, in replying to the greeting, told the crowd assembled that while the party had been enjoyable, every man in it had worked hard throughout the journey.

"Never once did they fail to answer the call when the band gave the signal for a march through a city," he said.

He told of the opportunities of thoroughly developing the territory traveled and of the hospitality shown the Wichita Falls people.

Burt Bean, who is generally credited with organizing the expedition, was the generalissimo of the outfit and is highly gratified over the potential value of the thing. R. E. Shepherd, field marshal for Mr. Bean, says that he is a veteran of many a similar engagement, but there has been none as successful as the one just finished.

Incidentally it might not be out of line to editorialize to the effect that Shepherd was the enthusiasm generator of the human glad-handing machine. He started injecting the well-known "pep" into personages of the trip the minute he reached the station here Tuesday morning and then the thing seemed to grow on him until it got to be a habit.

At the same time Shepherd had double A material to work on. Fellows responded to his suggestions or commands with pent-up war whoops. Every idea that buzzed under Shepherd's broad brimmed "Pancho" lid was a "corker" in the words of the trade boomers. He also had some able lieutenants to handle each car, but with due respect to these men, their services hardly were necessary with this class of man. That's that.

Towns visited Wednesday included Quanah, Chillicothe, Oklaunion, Vernon, Electra and Iowa Park.

Receptions at each of these places will remain long in the memory of the excursionists, according to their expressions to the citizens of these towns.

Quanah's Good Breakfast

After a night's rest in the sleepers at Quanah, the trade trippers marched single file down either side of the street until they reached the center of the town. After speech making by the mayor, the guests were treated to a very appetizing breakfast of ham and eggs, then some more eggs and some more ham.

Quanah is a good town and is as enthusiastic as it is friendly about and toward Wichita Falls. Quanah is a comer, in the minds of the travelers.

Chillicothe the Surprise

From Quanah the train rolled into Chillicothe. This town is the surprise among the Wichita Falls & Denver. Here they grow cotton and raise wheat and other grain. They have three good department stores, a fine hardware store, two drug stores and other establishments. The thing that impressed Wichitans about this place was the up-to-date manner in which the stores are operated and furnished. Editor W. L. Garner has the best equipped printing office for the size town to be found in Texas. By the double crop system—wherein they depend neither on wheat or cotton, but on both—has paid both the merchant and farmer.

Woman Greets 'Em

A woman greeted the boosters at Chillicothe. But she is an extraordinary woman at that. She is Miss Mary Roberts, general manager of the chamber of commerce of Chillicothe. She not only welcomed the men, but she tried her best to convince them that Chillicothe is the best town in the world. She had facts and figures about the wheat, cotton and other crops ready to prove her statements with. She did not burden her auditors by reading this lengthy paper, but distributed them to the crowd with the help of Editor Garner.

W. J. Townsend declared the ambition of Wichita Falls to be a big jobbing center in the best speech that he made on the trip.

He went further into his subject and won over these people for Wichita Falls with humor and strong argument, handled in a rather clever manner.

Vernon won the heart of many a Wichitan. This stop was made after the tourists had dropped out of their cars at other towns along the road between Chillicothe and Vernon.

Vernon Full of Pretty Girls.

Pretty girls in profusion seem to be just as principal a feature of Vernon as any of its other assets. While many had heard reports about business being dull in Vernon, merchants did not complain. On the other hand they seemed to think well of Vernon's prospects. Another oil test, an offset from the discovery well, is being made here. The Methodist ladies at Vernon entertained the "married" men at dinner while many of the "single" men dined at some of the good restaurants in parties with fair maidens of the town as their guests. Eric Schroeder, associate editor of the Vernon Record, said the people of Vernon were certainly well pleased because so many Wichita Falls business men had paid their town a call—and spent so much time in it.

General Manager Roy Arnold of the chamber of commerce introduced Mayor Harry Mason to the visitors, the mayor making a snappy talk. He said Vernon was glad to have as neighbors and friends such representative men as stood before him. He said Vernon folk had always felt akin to Wichitans and that now they would feel more so. McDonald reptied to the address for Wichita Falls.

Electra's Booming

Electra, boom city, didn't seem able to do enough, in their own estimation, to entertain Wichitans. Prominent citizens toured their guests in high-powered and high-priced machines. The growing oil field seen from a distance and the many new homes and other construction work was viewed with interest.

Mayor Calvert told Wichitans that Electra, thought a great deal of their city, would do a great deal for it and had done much for it. In behalf of this service, he thundered the request that the irrigation lake be named Electra in honor of the "city built on a hill and can't be hidden." McDonald spoke here and told the Electra people that Wichita Falls was right now in the "pitch of the game," that it was trying to build here a great wholesaling center. He urged their support.

No warmer welcome could have been given the visitors than that tendered at the hands of Iowa Park people. So enthusiastic did Mayor J. C. Hines become that he declared he hoped to see the time come when Iowa Park would become a suburb of Wichita Falls. He went further and predicted that before long houses would line the road so thickly that one could not distinguish the dividing line between the two towns.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

Wichita Falls were the beginning of a campaign tour which will last seven weeks during which time he hopes to cover Texas from the gulf to the mountains and from the Red river to the Rio Grande. He speaks for Culberson, which means that he is the authorized representative of the senior senator in the campaign now on. Not many years ago Murderers' Row in the Dallas county jail was crowded with men who had slain their fellows. A criminal district court was created by the legislature and Miller was tendered the appointment as its first judge. This was his reply to the governor:

"I SHALL ACCEPT THE APpointment, go home, organize the court, clean out Murderers' Row and a congested docket and then resign the job." He was as good as his word. He forced the lawyers to get down to business. Murderers' Row was cleared. A heavy docket was made a very light docket. Having performed the job to his own satisfaction and to the satisfaction of the people of Dallas county, Judge Miller resigned from the bench and returned to the practice of law. He has attended as a delegate every state convention for more than a quarter of a century. He was a delegate at large to the San Francisco convention and voted for McAdoo on every ballot.

DURING THE WAR HIS SONS were in France fighting for their flag and the father was doing his share here at home. He has a fine old country place near the city of Dallas, a magnificent private library as well as a law library and he has witnessed the growth of Dallas from a village to a city of magnificent proportions. He has not political ambition, but he loves Culberson as devotedly as if the senator were his brother and throughout all the years he has been on the firing line whenever a campaign comes for his friend.

There's Chick-Chick, Here, and Chick-Chick There, But Never Such a Chick As the One Ben Neal Gave Eli Morgan

Trade-trippers met many chickens on their excursion into neighboring towns, but so far as records go, Eli Morgan, somewhat of a chicken fancier, is the only man to bring one back with him.

The odd twist to the story is that Eli got his chicken from Ben Neal.

And Ben got said chicken by straddling a spotted horse and galloping like the fourth horseman down into the farming section of Oklaunion, Texas, after it.

Robed in the tan duster, his Parisian mustache never looking in better form, both feet speared far down into the stirrups, Ben certainly resembled the sheik of Arabia, when he returned from his gallop, accompanied by a chicken.

Ben's riding mate chirped soft notes to him during their return ride and when the pair dismounted and the farmer came along to reclaim his gallant steed, Ben's chicken readily made friends with other members of the party. This, in itself is unusual, because Ben never let any of the other chickens he met along the road know that there was anyone else in the party but Ben Neal.

Howsomever, the gallant sheik of the checkered mare, soon parted with his riding mate—she who had crooned such soft notes into her lover's ear.

Eli Morgan came along and won her love. He's still got her. Eli's going to raise her. He says he knows a lot about chickens—even more than any other man on the trade trip. And he's anxious to watch this little crooner blossom into young womanhood because theman from whom she was captured says she's the daughter of a genuine white leghorn hen.

Steamer Rams Oil Tanker

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCIECO, June 7.—The steamship Matsonia, enroute from San Francisco to Port Costa, rammed the oil tanker J. A. Moffitt, in a dense fog off Yerba Buena Island in San Francisco bay early tonight. The Moffitt was reported disabled and a tug steaming to her aid. The Matsonia is proceeding on her way.

INTERSTATE RATES CHANGED

New Basis Ordered For T.-O.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—A new basis for rates on grain, grain products, hay and straw moving from Oklahoma points to Texas consuming centers was prescribed today by the interstate commerce commission which held in deciding a case brought by the corporation commission of Oklahoma that the present schedules are unreasonable and prejudicial.

The commission in general found that rates from Oklahoma producing points on the commodities named were higher for equal distance to destinations in Texas than similar rates over similar distances entirely within the state of Texas. The commission also found that a group plan of constructing rates in effect on the commodities named was resulting in rates slightly too high for short distances and slightly too low for long distances in the traffic involved.

A detailed plan was laid down in the opinion for the railroads to follow in altering the rate schedules to prevent prejudice to Oklahoma shippers and preference to Texas shippers. The general effect of the decision will be to bring about small reductions in the Oklahoma-Texas rates. The commission remarked that "this proceeding is not sufficiently broad in scope for the accomplishment of exact justice and possibly there should be a general investigation of rates in the southwest."

Guinea Golf Tourney Opens

By Associated Press.

GLEN EAGLES, Scotland, June 7.—The qualifying rounds in the thousand Guinea golf tournament which begins tomorrow.

Joseph Kirkwood, the Australian open champion, turned in the best aggregate score, a 144, with George Duncan in second place with 145. They were followed by J. H. Taylor with 148, Fred Leach with 149, and Jock Hutchinson, holder of the British open titles, well up in the list, with a card of 152.

Tom Blair, the only other American in the tournament aside from Hutchinson, disgusted with his poor play, tore up his card and thus is out of the tournament.

BEAUMONT TRAFFIC HAMPERED BY RAIN

By Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Texas, June 7.—With rain still falling here at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the Southern Pacific rain gauge showed that there has been a precipitation of 6.45 inches since 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Traffic in the city has been hampered, a number of car lines being covered with water.

OUSLEY'S—

Ousley state campaign committee and he is very enthusiastic over the outlook. Speaking of the various candidates in the race Mr. Smith said:

"I am a plain business man without experience as a political manager or director. This job was thrust upon me, but I am going through to the finish for the reason that Clarence Ousley is head and shoulders above any man in the race when it comes to a knowledge of the needs of the people of this state, the producers of wealth who have made Texas a billion dollar agricultural commonwealth. Ousley never discusses isms or fads. He has been a student all his life and is capable of assisting in the solution of the problem which must be settled by the congress of the United States. We expect the thoughtful and serious men who love their country to enlist in his cause. He has all the qualifications and this is the Jeffersonian requirement of a candidate for office. Charles A. Culberson is my life long friend. Away back in Alabama my parents were the attendants upon the marriage of his father and mother and the Culbersons and Smiths were friends in Alabama as well as in Texas. Earle B. Mayfield is another close personal friend of mine. Earle and I were born in the piney woods of east Texas, but the making of a senator is not a matter of friendship. I am for Ousley because he is best fitted for the place. He has been campaigning for several weeks. He will continue campaigning until the day before the primary election. Other candidates have had their peaks of popularity. Now Mr. Ousley will have his peak of popularity, as the campaign is yet young."

Knight and the K. K. K.

R. E. L. Knight of Dallas, political campaigner, former president of the state fair of Texas whose parents were the third family to settle in Dallas county, visited the Ousley headquarters while the writer was here. Mr. Knight has taken up the cudgel for Ousley with Culberson as his second choice. He insists that certain Dallas newspapers made a great mistake when they declared war on the ku klux klan, as they only succeeded in giving the klan publicity at a time when publicity was needed and had it not been for this there would be no issue of the kind in Dallas or elsewhere today.

It is understood here that democrats of Texas, headed by Colonel Kirby and others who believe in protection for southern products are behind Mr. Ousley in his race as he comes near to representing their tariff views than any seeker for the senatorial toga.

Two years ago Mr. Knight fought and died in the cause of Joseph Weldon Bailey. His sons went overseas but the father had no use for Wilson's policies. All the Bailey followers are not going to Ousley. Edwin J. Kiest is the publisher of the Dallas Times-Herald. Mr. Kiest is for Culberson and his newspaper is for Culberson. He did not follow in wake of the Dallas News or the Houston Chronicle when the publishers of these newspapers declared war on the klan. He published all the news for all the factions and interests and let it go at that.

There is a local fight on in the city of Dallas that has aroused more interest than the senatorial succession. There is a state senator to be elected in the district which is composed of the counties of Dallas and Rockwald. This district was represented in the upper house for almost twelve years by the late James Clayton McNealus. When McNealus died a young lawyer, J. Hart Willis was elected to serve out the unexpired term. Willis declined to seek renomination and Dwight Lewelling and John Davis are the candidates who are seeking the nomination.

Dallas' Stormy Petrel.

Lewelling has a statewide reputation as an orator and political disturber. He has several legislative terms to his credit, served two terms as county attorney, ran for district judge and lost by less than a hundred votes and broke with Governor Neff because the latter refused to appoint him district judge.

John Davis is a prominent lawyer, a member of the Thirty-sixth and Thirty-seventh legislatures and six years ago was an unsuccessful candidate for United States senator. He is a single taxer and disciple of Henry George. Dwight Lewelling is the stormy petrel of Dallas politics, the bete noire of political machines and machine politics and the fight between Lewelling and Davis is certain to draw to the polls an extraordinarily large number of voters on primary election day.

Joseph Weldon Bailey makes his home at the Adolphus. He is "not in politics" but all his old lieutenants the state over make it a point to visit him when they are called to the city. There is a rumor afloat in the political haunts here that while all the leaders of the ku klux klan the state over are for Mr. Mayfield the rank and file in many North Texas counties refuse to be transferred en bloc to the Mayfield camp. This is said to be true in Grayson and Fannin counties and other places visited by Mr. Henry during the closing days of the month of May.

THREE STRIKE

July 1. This can and will be done if the membership will do their part as herein requested."

Regarded As Walkout.

The letter was regarded as a certain forecast of a walkout July 1, if the vote of the membership favors a strike.

To facilitate taking the vote, every local lodge was instructed to call a special meeting immediately on receipt of the printed ballots, which are now on the presses in Chicago. The letter was signed by the six international heads. William H. Johnston, of the machinists; J. A. Franklin, boilermakers; James Kline, blacksmith; J. J. Hines, sheet metal workers; James P. Noonan, electrical workers; Martin F. Ryan, car men and B. M. Jewell, president of the railroad employes department of the American Federation of Labor. The action of the shop crafts follows a decision yesterday by all the railway unions affected by wage reductions, issued and pending from the railroad labor board, to call an immediate strike vote on the new pay cuts.

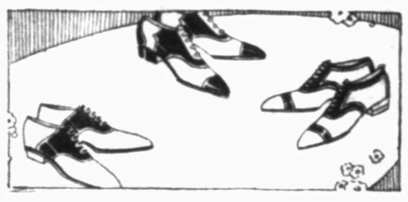

The triple-barrelled strike ballot of the shopmen resulted from notification today from the labor board that it had declined to order restoration of wages and working conditions declared to have been illegally changed on certain roads. Two ballots, recently authorized by the shop crafts convention in Chicago, but never sent out, were immediately ordered put in the mails.

AN IOWA SHOCK

COL. Smith Brookhart is the senatorial winner in Iowa. He ran away from the field. This must have been a rude shock to A. B. Cummins, one of the authors of the Esch-Cummins transportation act. In all his speeches Brookhart savagely denounced the act and pledged himself to vote for its repeal. In all his speeches he declared himself a supporter of the agricultural bloc. It must have been a rude shock to Charles A. Rawson, who was appointed by Governor N. E. Kendall to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of W. S. Kenyon. Rawson, when appointed, was chairman of the republican state committee and a life-long party worker. In Iowa the winning candidate must poll thirty-five per cent of the votes cast for president at the last general election. Otherwise the candidates must go before the state convention. Rawson did not go before the primary. He hoped that Brookhart would fail to poll the thirty-five per cent votes. Then Rawson planned to go before the convention and the organization leaders promised to put him over. Brookhart received more than forty per cent of the votes cast for president at the last general election.

North Dakota comes next where Senator Porter J. McCumber is a candidate for renomination. He is chairman of the senate finance committee, now engaged in the making of a tariff bill. He is neither a conservative, a reactionary or a progressive. He was the first western senator ever called to the chairmanship of the senate finance committee. He has for his opponent on primary election day Former Governor Lynn J. Frazier, a non-partisan leader who was recalled by the voters of his state last year. This was before the business slump came. This was before the prices of farm products were cut in half. Frazier is running as a republican non-partisan. He was recalled by a majority of four thousand but the democrats of North Dakota assisted in putting him away. Now it is a republican fight with non-partisan republicans backing Frazier and the conservative republicans in behind McCumber doing their best to win for him a renomination which is equivalent to an election.

People everywhere appear to be in a smashing mood this year. McCumber may be among the unfortunate who are smashed on primary election day.

POOR GEORGE

KING George of England is poverty stricken. He has many castles and only fifteen million dollars per annum to live on. Last year year he spent $200,000 more than the fifteen million dollars parliament allows him for general expenses and being very thrifty and very frugal he does not want it to happen again. He has sold fifty horses and discarded many carriages in his effort to live on the beggarly allowance. King George has numerous seats in England and Scotland and a large string of automobiles. But he is pinched, poverty stricken as it were, and he is saving a few pounds here and there when he has the opportunity. It must be awful to be forced to live on a fifteen million dollars a year allowance in times like these. George should be given a fat pension in addition to his allowance. He was born a king and never intended for the hardships of those who dwell in Poverty Flats.

ON TO RUSSIA

HENRY Ford must be an internationalist. He has recognized Soviet Russia. Henry Ford is a business man. He has Fords and tractors for sale. He does not care to be shut out of Russia. He has sent a delegation of his lieutenants to Moscow where they are to establish a large assembling plant. Henry is a great civilizer. He knows all about Russia. He knows of its vast undeveloped wealth. He knows that it is a reservoir of raw materials. He knows that the man who gets in on the ground floor has the best of it and Henry is in on the ground floor. Henry will have no trouble in Russia. He will get along with Dictator Lenine. He will mollify Dictator Trotzky. He will have all the sub-dictators eating out of his hand. Henry is a prince of peace evangelist and trader. He knows how to go about it. He isn't pushed for cash. He has one hundred fifty million dollars on deposit in Detroit and he is said to have the greatest working organization under the shining sun.

DR. CRANE'S EDITORIAL

THE MIND IN THE MAKING

"THE Mind in the Making" is a recent book by James Harvey Robinson. It is not a good title, but it is a good book, one of the best I have read in a long while, and worthy of a place side by side with John Dewey's "Reconstruction and Philosophy." Here is a sentence that gives you an idea of the theme of the volume:

"If some magical transformation could be produced in man's ways of looking at themselves and their fellows no inconsiderable part of the evils which now afflict society would vanish away or remedy themselves automatically. There would, for instance, be no likelihood of another great war; the whole problem of labor and capital would be transformed; national arrogance, race animosity, political corruption and inefficiency would all be reduced below the danger point. As an old Stoic proverb has it, men are tormented by the opinions they have of things rather than by the things themselves."

What Professor Robinson undertakes to do in this book is to show us some of the things that make our thinking confused and bad.

He points out how we have all taken advantage of the marvellous advance in inventions, but we go on thinking the same old errors that people thought centuries ago.

We are trying to manage politics by methods and with ideas that have long been exploded. The relation of nations to each other today is hardly at all like that relation was in the last century even.

All our civilization is but a thin skin of culture, overlaying thousands of years of ignorance and perhaps millions of years of incoherent animalism, and a lot of the traits of imperfect adolescence cling to us.

The workman prides himself on being up-to-date in the garage, while in the senate he uses methods that were outgrown a century ago. He shows us how our thoughts are vitiated by the tremendous momentum of tradition. How what we call our opinions are merely efforts to justify our own egotism, instead of efforts to arrive at the truth, and how the old heathen idea of taboo accounts for many of the things which we call convictions.

It is one of the most significant books I have seen recently, and one with which every thinker should be acquainted.

At least it will make him less cocksure and a little doubtful of his own wisdom, and doubt is the beginning of wisdom.

One great advantage is that he shows us the fluidity of truth. For instance, this sentence:

"We must look forward to ever new predicaments and adventures. Nothing is going to be settled in the sense in which things were once supposed to be settled, for the simple reason that knowledge will probably continue to increase, and will inevitably alter the world with which we have to make terms."

Altogether a most stimulating book, and written with no technical snobbery, but understandable of the people.

A DEAD WRECKER

RICHARD A. Ballinger is dead at his home in Seattle. He was one of the builders of the state of Washington, one of the distinguished jurists of the northwest and a pillar of the republican party. William Howard Taft made him secretary of the interior. This was a long time ago. Ballinger attempted to turn Alaska over to private interests for exploitation. Then something happened. Gifford Pinchot was a power then as he is today. He was Theodore Roosevelt's friend. Pinchot denounced Ballinger. President Taft sustained Ballinger. Theodore Roosevelt sustained Pinchot. Collier's Weekly was then a power and the Weekly trained its guns on Ballinger and the interests behind him. Ballinger was forced to resign. Taft and Roosevelt came to the parting of the ways. Then the bull moose party was born. Taft was renominated for the presidency. Roosevelt became the presidential candidate of the bull moose party. Woodrow Wilson was named by the democrats and he was elected. On the rocks went the republican party. To its grave went the bull moose party. After eight years the republican party came back. After ten years Gifford Pinchot came back. After twelve years in retirement Richard A. Ballinger died. If history repeats itself, Secretary Fall may wreck the Harding administration. He favors the policy which drove Ballinger from the cabinet of Taft and wrecked the Taft administration.

OVERWORKED JUDGES

AND now the supreme court of the United States has announced a recess until the first week in October. Really these nine grave, learned and exalted judges are overworked. They knocked out the child labor law. They handed down a decision that labor unions are suable under the provisions of the Sherman anti-trust law. And now they seek recreation for four long and hot months. Who can blame them? Man was not made to be a drudge. He was made for something better. If a supreme court judge is entitled to a four months vacation with pay then why not minor employees of the government? This isn't a criticism. It is a reflection.

What's the Use of Trying to Cure a Family Quarrel—

By Starting a Neighborhood Riot?

The Once Over

DOMESTIC SHOOTING AFFRAYS HIT JUNE BRIDEGROOM MARKET.

This is the month of all-American matrimonial adventures. June is here, the parsons are all working on twenty-four-hour shifts, extra help has been put on to answer the parsonage doorbell, Mendelssohn's Ball and Chain number is being played by thousands of conspiring organists, and the sale of $1.25 rings has reached an unprecedented height.

o o o

The Niagara Falls have been overhauled, renovated, and improved upon generally for the June bride trade. Ten (10) whirlpools, larger and better than ever before, have been added. On each side of the river men are now employed to cast great quantities of bromo-seltzer into the falls to make them foam according to the guarantee.

o o o

All the railroads and steamship lines are offering special inducements to honeymooning couples, but it takes only one look at the fares to give a bridegroom his first proof that there is nothing in the old adage that two can travel as cheaply as one.

o o o

The high cost of travel is making the honeymoon more and more difficult each June. Many a wise bridegroom is taking his bride to the movies for the travel views and letting it go at that.

o o o

Any enterprising movie picture house manager who advertises a continuous showing of Niagara Falls, the Great Lakes, Atlantic City, and the White Mountains throughout the month of June will make his own fortune and help many a young couple to start married life at a minimum expense.

o o o

A little mention that there will be a special showing of Reno views during the year will hold the customers.

o o o

Early returns from the license bureaus of the country show a slight falling off of applicants. This is attributed to the vast number of domestic shootings during the past few months. Somehow or other a person applying for a marriage license gets the idea it is the same as a shooting license.

o o o

The men are particularly scary this season. The recent newspaper announcement that the government is giving special instruction in marksmanship at federal rifle ranges to women applicants has driven thousands of prospective husbands to cover.

o o o

At Governors Island, according to government reports, enormous classes of women have been perfecting themselves in the art of shooting with precision for several months. Most of them are married women who have tired of firing at their husbands and merely nicking floor lamps.

o o o

There is nothing like accuracy in the home when it comes to shooting. It is, as a matter of fact, absurd for a young wife to start housekeeping without a reputation for good marksmanship. Be it ever so bullet marked, there's no place like home!

o o o

Juries have done much to encourage this schooling of women in the handling of firearms. In practically every murder trial during the past five years a wife who slew her husband at the first shot has been acquitted by the jury and given a sharp-shooter's medal by the judge.

o o o

In every case where the wife fired several times before hitting her Loved One the jury verdict has been the same, but the court has given her a rating of only 35 per cent in marksmanship and sentenced her to six months in a rifle range under a competent instructor.

o o o

All of which makes a single man feel decidedly like remaining so, despite the June lure. It is our idea that a youth considering the state of matrimony should first take the lady to a shooting gallery and let her take a dollar's worth of shots at the clay pipes.

o o o

If she doesn't hit more than two out of five he may feel reasonably safe in taking her from the shooting gallery to the parsonage.

o o o

But don't forget to make her give back the rifle, Ethelbert!

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

Clab Hancock says the postmaster is going to lose a lot of his most constant loafers if he does not bottom some of the chairs, as Sim Flinders got hung in one of them this morning.

The unexpected cool spell this week caused a lot of unfavorable comment among our citizens, and grave fears were entertained. However, Tobe Moseley, after an investigation, found that the fly crop is safe.

It sounds unreasonable, but once in a while a producer who "knows what the people want" really produces a good show.

Rippling Rhymes

By WALT MASON

THE CHEERFUL FRONT

"I'm feeling fine, my hearties, I am not out of whack!" I answer thus all parties who ask me how I stack. It may be I've a tumor, a boil that throbs and stings, but I would pull a bloomer by speaking of such things. For people hate to listen to stories of disease, to see my teardrops glisten and trickle to my knees. When younger I delighted in telling of my ills, of how my life was blighted by Dr. Highlow's pills. One day the fact came to me that I was much alone; old friends would sadly shoo me behind them with a groan. And when the day's work ended, I sought the blue front store, a sort of sigh ascended as gossips left the floor. Alone I walked and wandered, no friend in all the throng, and wearily I pondered, and wondered what was wrong. And then I asked my pastor how I had got in Dutch; he said, "You talk disaster and sickness too blamed much. There's nothing bright or cheering in any spiel you make, the men grow sick of hearing of mumps and stomach ache." And now when people hail me, and ask me how I stack, though forty aches assail me, I spring no cheap alack. And no one tries to shake me as in the long ago, but by the hand men take me, and tell me I'm a jo. — (Copyright, 1922, George Matthew Adams).

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"I'm goin' to make a break fer dat winder," announced the mucker, "and youse squat here in de tall grass wid yer gat an' pick off any fresh guys dat get gay in back here. Den, if I need youse, you can come a-runnin' an' open up all over de shop wid de artillery, or if I gets de lizzie outen de jug an' de Chinks push me too clost youse'll be here where yeh can pick 'em off easy-like."

"You'll be taking all the risk that way, Byrne," objected Theriere, "and that's not fair."

"One o' us is pretty sure to get hurted," explained the mucker in defense of his plan, "an' if it's a croak it's a lot better dat it be me than youse, fer the girl wouldn't be crazy about bein' lef' alone wid me—she ain't got no use fer the likes o' me. Now youse are her kin', an' so youse stay here w'ere yeh can help her after I git her out—I don't want nothing to do wid her anyhow. She gives me a swift pain, and," he added as though it were an after-thought, "I ain't got no use fer dat ransom eider—youse can have dat, too."

"Hold on, Byrne," cried Theriere; "I have something to say, too. I do not see how I can expect you to believe me; but under the circumstances, when one of us and maybe both are pretty sure to die before the day is much older, it wouldn't be worth while lying. I do not want that damned ransom any more, either. I only want to do what I can to right the wrong that I have helped to perpetrate against Miss Harding. I—I—Byrne, I love her. I shall never tell her so, for I am not the sort of man a decent girl would care to marry; but I did want the chance to make a clean breast to her of all my connection with the whole dirty business, and get her forgiveness if I could; but first I wanted to prove my repentance by helping her to civilization in safety, and delivering her to her friends without the payment of a cent of money. I may never be able to do that now; but if I die in the attempt, and you don't, I wish that you would tell her what I have just told you. Paint me as black as you can—you couldn't commence to make me as black as I have been—but let her know that for love of her I turned white at the last minute. Byrne, she is the best girl that you or I ever saw—we're not fit to breathe the same air that she breathes. Now you can see why I should like to go first."

"I t'ought youse was soft on her," replied the mucker, "an' dat's de reason w'y youse orter not go first; but wots de use o' chewin', les flip a coin to see w'ich goes and w'ich stays—got one?"

Theriere felt in his trousers' pocket, fishing out a dime.

"Heads, you go; tails, I go," he said, and spun the silver piece in the air, catching it in the flat of his open palm.

"It's heads," said the mucker, grinning. "Gee! Wot's de racket?"

Both men turned toward the village, where a jabbering mob of half-caste Japanese had suddenly appeared in the streets, hurrying toward the hut of Oda Yorimoto.

"Somepin doin', eh?" said the mucker. "Well, here goes—s'long!" And he broke from the cover of the jungle and dashed across the clearing toward the rear of Oda Yorimoto's hut.

CHAPTER XII.

The Fight in the Palace.

Barbara Harding heard the samurai in the room beyond her prison advancing toward the door that separated them from her. She pressed the point of the daimio's sword close to her heart. A heavy knock fell upon the door and at the same instant the girl was startled by a noise behind her—a noise at the little window at the far end of the room.

Turning to face this new danger, she was startled into a little cry of surprise to see the head and shoulders of the mucker framed in the broken square of the half-demolished window.

The girl did not know whether to feel renewed hope or utter despair. She could not forget the heroism of her rescue by this brutal fellow when the Halfmoon had gone to pieces the day before, nor could she banish from her mind his threats of violence toward her, or his brutal treatment of Mallory and Theriere. And the question arose in her mind as to whether she would be any better off in his power than in the clutches of the savage samurai.

Billy Byrne had heard the knock upon the door before which the girl knelt. He had seen the corpses of the dead men at her feet. He had observed the telltale position of the sword which the girl held to her breast and he had read much of the story of the impending tragedy at a glance.

"Cheer up, kid!" he whispered. "I'll be wid youse in a minute, an' Theriere's out here too, to help youse if I can't do it alone."

The girl turned toward the door again.

"Wait," she cried to the samurai upon the other side, "until I move the dead men, then you may come in, their bodies bar the door now."

All that kept the warriors out was the fear that possibly Oda Yorimoto might not be dead after all, and that should they force their way into the room without his permission some of them would suffer for their temerity. Naturally none of them was keen to lose his head for nothing, but the moment that the girl spoke of the dead "men" they knew that Oda Yorimoto had been slain, too, and with one accord they rushed the little door.

The girl threw all her weight against her side, while the dead men each to the extent of his own weight, aided the woman who had killed them in her effort to repulse their fellows; and behind the three Billy Byrne kicked and tore at the mud wall about the window in a frantic effort to enlarge the aperture sufficiently to permit his huge bulk to pass through into the little room.

The mucker won to the girl's side first, and snatching Oda Yorimoto's long sword from the floor he threw his great weight against the door, and commanded the girl to make for the window and escape to the forest as quickly as she could.

"Theriere is waiting dere," he said. "He will see youse de moment yeh reach de window, and den youse will be safe."

"But you!" cried the girl. "What of you?"

"Never yeh mind me," commanded Billy Byrne. "Youse jes' do as I tells yeh, see? Now, beat it," and he gave her a rough shove toward the window.

And then, between the combined efforts of the samurai upon one side and Billy Byrne of Kelly's gang upon the other the frail door burst from its rotten hinges and fell to one side.

The first of the samurai into the little room was cleft from crown to breast bone with the keen edge of the sword of the Lord of Yoka wielded by the mighty arm of the mucker. The second took the count with a left hook to the jaw, and then all that could crowd through the little door swarmed upon the husky bruiser from Grand Avenue.

Barbara Harding took one look at the carnage behind her and then sprang to the window. At a short distance she saw the jungle and at its edge what she was sure was the figure of a man crouching in the long grass.

"Mr. Theriere!" she cried. "Quick! They are killing Byrne," and then she turned back into the room, and with the short sword which she still grasped in her hand sprang to the side of the mucker who was offering his life to save her.

Byrne cast a horrified glance at the figure fighting by his side.

"Fer de love o' Mike! Beat it!" he cried. "Duck! Git out o' here!"

But the girl only smiled up bravely into his face and kept her place beside him. The mucker tried to push her behind him with one hand while he fought with the other, but she drew away from him to come up again a little farther from him.

The samurai were pushing them closely now. Three men at a time were reaching for the mucker with their long swords. He was bleeding from numerous wounds, but at his feet lay two dead warriors, while a third crawled away with a mortal wound in his abdomen.

Barbara Harding devoted her energies to thrusting and cutting at those who tried to press past the mucker, that they might take him from behind. The battle could not last long, so unequal were the odds. She saw the room beyond filled with surging warriors all trying to force their way within reach of the great white man who battled like some demigod of old in the close, dark, evil warren of the daimio.

She shot a side glance at the man. He was wonderful! The fire of battle had transformed him. No longer was he the sullen, sulky, hulking brute she had first known upon the Halfmoon. Instead, huge, muscular, alert, he towered above his pygmy antagonists, his gray eyes gleaming, a half-smile upon his strong lips.

She saw the long sword, wielded awkwardly in his unaccustomed hands, beat down the weapons of his skilled foemen by the very ferocity of its hurtling attack. She saw it pass through a man's shoulder, cleaving bone and muscle as they had been cheese, until it stopped two-thirds across its victim's body, cutting him almost in two.

She saw a samurai leap past her champion's guard in an attempt to close upon him with a dagger, and when she had rushed forward to thwart the fellow's design she had seen Byrne swing his mighty left to the warrior's face with a blow that might well have felled an ox. Then another leaped into closer quarters and she saw Byrne at the same instant bury his sword in the body of a dark-visaged devil who looked more Malay than Jap, and as the stricken man fell she saw the hilt of the mucker's blade wrenched from his grip by the dead body of his foe. The samurai who had closed upon Byrne at that instant found his enemy unarmed, and with a howl of delight he struck full at the broad chest with his long, thin dagger.

But Billy Byrne was not to be dispatched so easily. With his left forearm he struck up his hand that wielded the menacing blade, and then catching the fellow by the shoulder swung him above his head hurled him about the waist and lifting him above his head hurled him full in the faces of the swordsmen who were pressing through the narrow doorway.

Almost simultaneously a spear shot through a tiny opening in the ranks before Billy Byrne, and with a little gasp of dismay the huge fellow pitched forward upon his face. At the same instant a shot rang out behind Barbara Harding, and Theriere leaped past her to stand across the body of the fallen mucker.

With the sound of the shot a samurai sank to the floor, dead, and the others unaccustomed to firearms drew back in dismay. Again Theriere fired point-blank into the crowded room, and this time two men fell struck by the same bullet. Once more the warriors retreated, and with an exultant yell Theriere followed up his advantage by charging menacingly upon them. They stood for a moment, then wavered, turned and fled from the hut.

Then Theriere turned back toward Barbara Harding he found her kneeling beside the mucker.

"Is he dead?" asked the Frenchman.

"No. Can we lift him together and get him through that window?"

"It is the only way," replied Theriere, "and we must try it."

They seized upon the huge body and dragged it to the far end of the room, but despite their best efforts the two were not able to lift the great, inert mass of flesh and bone and muscle and pass it through the tiny opening.

"What shall we do?" cried Theriere.

"We must stay here with him," replied Barbara Harding. "I could never desert the man who has fought so noble a fight for me while a breath of life remained in him."

Theriere groaned.

"Nor I," he said; "but you—he has given his life to save yours. Should you render his sacrifice of no avail now?"

"I cannot go alone," she answered simply, "and I know that you will not leave him. There is no other way—we must stay."

At this juncture the mucker opened his eyes.

"Who hit me?" he murmured. "Jes' show me de big stiff."

Theriere could not repress a smile. Barbara Harding again knelt beside the man.

"No one hit you, Mr. Byrne," she said. "You were struck by a spear and are badly wounded."

Billy Byrne opened his eyes a little wider, turning them until they rested on the beautiful face of the girl so close to his.

Beauty Spots

Being One of a Series of Articles Appearing Daily on This Page Which Picture Some of Wichita's Attractive Gardens.

By MABEL CARTER

NO. 16 OF A SERIES

Among the many elaborate and beautiful homes in Wichita Falls, none is more conspicuous and occupies a prettier corner than the colonial home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Jackson on Ninth and Denver. The massive two-story white structure with large colonial posts decorating the entrance on the east side and with a large porch built of brick on the south side, is one of the most comfortable as well as one of the handsomest homes in the city.

Large grounds surrounded by beautiful sycamore trees in keeping with the size of the house add to the attractiveness of the place. Roses and spring flowers give color and fragrance to the yard while shrubbery of the privet hedge, soft cedar, and cosmos varieties furnish a fitting hedge covering from the view, the white lattice fence in the back.

A splendid fruit orchard filled with peach trees of a rare variety forms a homelike addition to this well arranged place.

The place is one of the "beauty spots" of Wichita Falls.

Milk Sellers Must Get City Permits

Are you selling butter and milk in Wichita Falls?

If you are, have you got a permit from the city to do so?

If you haven't, now is the time to get one and keep out of trouble, declared Dr. L. I. Lucey of the city health department Wednesday.

Dr. Lucey said that the attention of the department is being called to a number of persons who are selling butter and milk on the streets of Wichita Falls without the proper permit. The permit, he said, is issued for the protection of the customer. Those who have the permits have had their cattle properly examined by health officers, and have complied with the city laws which require that none shall sell such commodities here without having the milk of the cows tested and the cattle examined.

The permits can be obtsined at the city hall, Dr. Lucey said, and should be requested at once.

Persons found selling milk and butter who have no permit, he said, will be arrested and properly prosecuted.

The wedding to take place on Tuesday, June 27, at high noon at the home of the bride-elect's parents on Tenth street, with the Rev. J. Kem Keevil, pastor of the First Christian church, officiating.

Miss Moore's approaching wedding is the second among members of the younger set announced to take place during the month of roses.

FASHIONS

Gingham and organdy combine to fashion this hat and parasol.

Parasol and hat to match is a decidedly approved summer style. They may be of any material fancy may dictate. For a very practical set of this sort checked gingham is playing a strong role, and when this fabric is combined with organdy in white or color some very fetching things may be produced. The sketch indicates the possibilities when combining organdy and gingham in the fashioning of a parasol and chapeau for warm weather. The parasol, finished at the edge with a ruffle of self-fabric, is lined with organdy, and the little hat with slightly drooping brim has a band of organdy at its edge and is trimmed in front with a cluster of organdy flowers. One may go still further and trim the frock with which these accessories are worn in organdy if desired. Many of this season's organdy frocks are trimmed in bands or appliqued motifs of checked ginghams in vividly contrasting shades.

Parasols of chiffon, lace, organdy, and silks galore are featured this season, and all sorts of novel and interesting trimmings appear on these sunshades. One dainty parasol recently seen was trimmed at the edge, half way up and at the point where it was joined to the frame with curled ostrich. Another was fringed with monkey fur. A white silk sunshade was finished at the edge with a dainty garland of field flowers. Such a parasol could be carried very effectively by the bridemaid or maid of honor at a summer afternoon wedding, big drooping hats to be similarly decorated and field flowers to be used for the bouquets.

Fancy silks of all sorts, either in all-over or bordered patterns, are being used for more practical parasols or umbrellas for women.

There are ornamental handles galore.

TODAY'S POEM

The Healed

Time pours an opiate for all,
Pain fades—a dream, then nothing! Sleep!
Oh soft and kind the shadows fall,
Keen watch with care not long we keep.

Sweet slumber hides in acrid gall,
Lo, grief grows drowsy while we weep!
Time pours an opiate for all,
Pain fades—a dream, then nothing! Sleep!
How good that fragrant rest enthrall
That calm through every sense should creep;
But best, oh best the soundless pall,
The peace for any dream too deep!
Time pours an opiate for all,
Pain fades—a dream, then nothing! Sleep!

WHAT BECAME OF MR. BLACKSNAKE'S OLD SUIT

Cresty the Flycatcher was having no end of trouble. He had seized Mr. Blacksnake's cast-off suit right in the middle and started for home, thinking how tickled Mrs. Cresty would be when she saw what a prize he had found. He knew that it was just what she was looking for. Indeed, she had been very much worried that very morning because she had hunted and hunted for at least a piec of one of the old suits of Mr. Blacksnake or some of his cousins, and hadn't been able to find any. Now Cresty had a whole suit for her. Do you wonder that he was tickled?

But that old suit wasn't the easiest thing in the world to carry. You see, Mr. Blacksnake was a big fellow, big enough to have swallowed Cresty if he had caught him, and his suit was whole, for he had managed to get out of it without tearing it. So when Cresty started to fly with it he found that he had rather more than he could comfortably manage. It hung way, way down on both sides of his bill, and when he tried to take a short cut through the trees it caught on the branches. Once he thought of tearing it to pieces and taking it home little at a time, but he couldn't quite make up his mind to do that. You see he was so proud to think that he had found a whole suit that he wanted to take it home just as it was and give Mrs. Cresty a great surprise. So he tried to be patient, as he struggled to get it free, though I am afraid he did a little scolding under his breath. Two or three times he had to put it down to rest, and each time he sat and gloated over it with shining eyes.

"Mrs. Cresty says that I spend altogether too much time singing, and that I have left all the work of building our nest to her, but I guess when she sees this she won't scold any more," thought he.

And then, because he was so eager to reach home and show her his prize, he once more seized the old suit. Now it never pays to be in too much of a hurry. No, sir, it never pays to hurry too much. It is very apt to lead to carelessness. It was that way now with Cresty the Flycatcher. You see, he was almost home, and it seemed to him that he couldn't wait another minute to get there and show Mrs. Cresty his prize. So he was careless, and when he seized that old suit of Mr. Blacksnake this time he didn't get it in the middle. One end hung down very much farther than the other.

"Never mind," thought he. "It isn't much farther, and I'll soon be there."

Just then that long, swinging end caught in the branches of a tree and brought Cresty up so short that he had to drop the old suit to save himself from tumbling heels over head. This was a little too much for Cresty, and he lost his temper which was even more foolish than trying to hurry too fast. He darted down at that old suit and yanked and pulled, and the more he yanked and pulled the more it became tangled in the branches. Cresty didn't care now how much he tore it. My, my, my! He was in a dreadful temper! He would soon have torn it all to pieces had not Mrs. Cresty happened along just then.

"What under the sun——" she began, and then she saw the old suit of Mr. Blacksnake. She didn't wait to finish what she had started to say. She promptly pushed Cresty aside and went to work to untangle that old suit. Cresty sulked for a few minutes and then, looking rather ashamed, he began to help her. With two at work it didn't take long to get it free, and then each taking one end they flew over to the tree in which was the hollow where they were building their nest and dwhich was their most secret secret. And there Mrs. Cresty tore the old suit of Mr. Blacksnake to pieces to use in her nest. Can you guess why?

RAILROAD MEN WANT MORE RECOGNITION

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, June 7.—Desire of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for a wider representation in territory and railroad organizations, worked today against the election of a Houstonian to the vice-presidency. In the run-off for the eighth vice-presidency of the brotherhood, Fred Barr of Houston was defeated by F. L. Lewis of Hanover, Okla. Barr was placed in nomination for the ninth presidency, but lost after a series of ballots to J. A. McBride of New York City.

WIFE SAYS SHE WAS FISH

Mrs. June Griffith Hand.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Mrs. June Griffith Hand's husband, Edward Junior, just went on one fishing trip after another but she claims she was the biggest "fish" he ever caught.

In her divorce bill she charges that her husband's yarns of his fishing expeditions were the fishiest sort of fish stories.

She says he used tales of fishing expeditions as alibis for repeated absences from home.

The petition charges that he was always dressed in his best when he left to go on a fishing trip and returned with his finery "untarnished," despite his thrilling tales of battling with the finny denizens of the deep.

"Looks as though I was the biggest fish he ever landed for believing his fishy fish stories," Mrs. Hand said. "He certainly was handy when it came to telling them."

Mrs. Hand says her husband is a department manager in a brokerage firm with an annual income of $10,000 which he spent for the most part, on his "fishing expenditions."

She also charges cruelty, exaggeration of a $1,365 diamond ring and other personal property worth $5,000 which he once gave here.

Employes In Cafes Must Have Permits

More stringent enforcement of the city ordinances regulating cafes and restaurants was announced Wednesday morning by officials of the city health department.

Warning was issued to those employed in such institutions, health officers declaring that they must be examined by physicians and show certificates of health.

An employe of a local restaurant was arraigned in corporate court yesterday, charges having been brought against him by the health department that he had not been examined by a physician, and could not show that he is in a healthy condition. The trial was postponed until a later date.

In calling attention to the fact that waiters, cooks, etc., can not hold positions in cafes and restaurants unless they are normal and in an excellent state of health, health department officials pointed out ordinance No. 236, which regulates the preparing and sale of food products in restaurants, cafes and delicatessens, and which prohibits unclean persons from working in that kind of establishments.

Health officers declared yesterday that those who violate this ordinance will be arrested and brought before the city court.

Exporters Slip Another Notch Before Flying Spudders

TANNER'S TWO HOMERS HELP IN 11-7 WIN

Panthers Now Less Than Full Game In Front

By "Spike" Cooper

Spudder clubs were waved in profusion at the offerings of Lou Kraft, champion cat tamer, and chinked up their second way of the series which relegated the Exporters to third place. The final count was a pair of natures, but the Spudders shot first, 11-7.

Rain threatened to ruin what looked a perfectly good win in the fourth. The circuits were leading 6-0 in that round and three Spuds, two who are among the leading hitters of the league and one who has hit safely once this year sacrificed their averages for a win. Bischoff fanned, Adams batted perfectly into Kraft's hands and Perdue boosted an easy out to Strong.

Exporters Tie it Up

Then as the fifth opened, Perdue chunked 'em in as deliberately as possible in order to get the rain on but when the Exporters hit, they were all base hits over the infield and the count was knotted almost before one realized the fact. The shower was just a taste of the weather on which the visitors thrive, and seemed to bring life to them. Rain is drifting away, the Spudders resumed where they left off in the third and got the other five.

Buddy Tanner's eyes went bad when Tex appeared on the field again, and all he could do was two terrific wallops over the garden wall and these with two singles, gave him a perfect average for the day.

Bob Bescher and Homer Summa performed noon and each whaled away for three knocks. Tex Brennan of the Texas City gang was a contributor to the second Exporter defeat.

Beck Back in Game

Fred Beck brought his record a bit back into the game and in addition to getting his points and one assist, accepted a single and doing out of two more chances.

Then Summa and Bescher had a game of their own. Bescher had two scores, one in front with four on, and both came up in the seventh. Homer and Bob came up one after the other and each in the fashion of Adams singled in with two on.

Al White had a busy afternoon, according to records. 12 chances and he bobbled only one of them when he threw Kraft in front of Perdue at third. White Al had made a great stop of one that bumped away from Bescher. It is getting to be a habit of the scoring sacker to get behind first and rob some batter, and several knocks have been spoiled that way.

Adams went to work towards the end and stole a base from Brooks in the second. It was a pretty drive almost over the box but Beck two played it cleanly for a put.

Tex Shows Up Again

Tex McDonald was seen on the field for the first time since forced from the game at San Antonio. Although his foot is still sore and stiff, he is trying to get into condition. Big games he's got something before him to get back on third tanner's been going so good.

Hub got away to a good start, but the fifth was too much for him. After he got into a hole, he seemed unable to get back out and Steve Mokan went to his rescue and finally retired the side.

Mokan got by the sixth all right but went wild in the seventh and filled the bases before one was out. Babe was rushed from the bull pen and stopped the parade.

Big Crowd Again

The crowd were all back from the Tuesday game, and even though a shower dampened many, they sat tight until Jake Miller grabbed Strong's fly for the last out in the ninth. The crowd was true same loyal bunch who have stayed with the Spudders all the way, and hoped them move up another notch in the column. Anyway they're in there fighting just like the Spudders and those who had their checkers that the close of the present series would find the gang on top now have only the Panthers to pass. That Hub Northern's crew came within one long end of the running from over in Hefflinville yesterday, then the Spuds would have gone right on top. As it is, Hubs got to take one to get 'em out of there.

Spuds Score First.

The Spudders opened right in on the first. Adams singled to right and moved up on Biddy's perfect sacrifice. Bescher scored Sparks with a long smash into the same field and counted himself, when Brennan threw wild to first after Summa had beaten out a hit to second. Jake Miller thoroughly pulverized one that bumped the fence in left center and it went for an easy two, Summa counting. Beck grounded out to first.

The Exporters couldn't have any luck at all and registered only three hits in the first four rounds. Skipper Joe got a double and Stump Edington and Don Rader got singles.

Three More In Third.

Buddy beat out a hit to open the third and moved up when Bob sent a Texas leaguer over second. The hit-and-run was on and Bob hit one that was above his head. Summa fired one across second that looked a foot long as it raced out to Wetzel. Tanner and Bescher chalked up on the blow. Jake grounded out, Stansbury to Strong, and Beck's fly to center scored Summa from third. Al White well-roped one into left but was out at second on an attempted steal.

Visitors Get Six.

Nobody counted in the fourth as both teams rushed through the rain. But in the fifth, Strong beat out a hit to short and Brennan dropped one into short right. Kraft's blow to right filled the sacks and Don Rader got his with hit on two days here when he doubled to left, scoring two runners. Jack Stansbury grounded out, White to Beck and there was no advance. Mathes got a hit to center and the former scored. Wetzel singled to the same field and out went Perdue. Mokan took up the firing and Edington greeted him with a triple to right knotting the count at 6-6. Brooks topped to White and Strong went out White to Beck.

The Spudders came back in their half and got another. Tanner led off again with another single to center. Bescher grounded out Kraft to Strong, but Biddy advanced. Summa grounded out Brennan to Strong and Tanner moved to third. Miller hit a high hopper to Stansbury but the ball was slick and he pulled Strong off the bag with his throw and Tanner entered. Beck singled to center but was forced at second when White grounded to Rader.

Score Tied Again

The Exporters knotted the count again in the seventh. Mokan passed Stansbury, hit Mathes and walked Wetzel, filling up the bases. Right then Salm figured he had enough and Ruth went in. Edington flied out to Summa in deep right and Stansbury scored. On an attempted squeeze, Brooks bunted to Beck who played perfectly to Bischoff and Mathes was out at the plate. It was a beautiful play by both Spuds. Strong was out White to Beck.

Buddy Tanner put the Spuds in the lead again in the last of the seventh with his first homer of the game.

Bescher followed with a double against the fence in right center and Lou Kraft went to the bench. Gene Caldera, the Cuban wrong hander, took it up there and promptly passed Summa. Jake moved both runners up with a neat sacrifice and both counted when Beck poled a long double into right.

Tanner's Other.

The final counter came in the eighth when Tanner again caught the bases empty. His only chance to drive in runs seemed to do it all by himself, this he did. Another healthy cut, and the agate disappeared near the foul flag.

MAKING BALL PLAYERS —By Ripley

BY ROBERT L. RIPLEY

Ball players make a club, 'tis true; but it is just as much a fact that clubs make a ball player.

As a particular instance take young Whitey Witt, who just came to the Yanks from Connie Mack's Athletics.

Witt, now the regular right fielder of the New York Americans, is probably the greatest example of the presence of the psychological effect in the baseball world. Before coming to the Ruppert-Huston forces the fair-haired one was considered an ordinary type of performer, destined to go along from day to day, receiving only passing notice from the press and public, later to drop into the minors and finally into oblivion.

But a change for the better happened quite suddenly and unexpectedly. Dissatisfied with his berth on the Philadelphia Athletics, Witt made known his desire to be traded to some other club in the American league, and the tall tactician was forced to sell him. The Yanks bid the highest and got him.

Became a Sensation

An ordinary ball player with an ordinary club, Witt became a sensation with the Yanks over night. His hitting, fielding, base running featured a great many games in which the Hugmen took part at a time when the Ruppert-Huston forces were considered featureless because of the absence of Ruth and Meusel. Miraculous catches of balls that looked like sure hits, perfect days at bat, and clever base-running made his name a byword. So much so, in fact, that experts of our national pastime now consider him the most valuable lead-off man in either league. At the present time Witt ranks second among the American league batters, with a percentage of .407.

The Yankee ball club seems to be usually inspiring to ball players. Waite Hoyt became a star as soon as he became a Yank. Carl Mays achieved greatness after donning the uniform.

On the other hand, such players as Urban Shocker and Les Nunamaker became stars after leaving the New York folk.

Others who have benefited by changing clubs are Pratt, Ownie Bush, Meusel of the Giants, Jamieson, Clarence Walker, Ruel, Quinn, Snyder, catcher of the Giants; Stock, Maranville, Deal, Rawlings, Rapp, Douglass, and many others.

There is a great deal to that psychology thing!

Aged Woman Badly Hurt In Accident

Mrs. F. M. Tidwell, 61, of 2513 Grant avenue, suffered severe injuries early Wednesday when an automobile ran her down as she attempted to cross the street near her home on Grant. The injured woman was rushed immediately to her home.

Both front and rear wheels of the automobile, which was driven by M. G. Catter, marble and granite dealer, who lives at 300 Ohio street, passed over Mrs. Tidwell's body.

The driver explained yesterday that he was driving slowly along the street at the time of the accident, and that the elderly woman stepped in front of his car. He said her action was so sudden that he was unable to either throw on his brakes or turn to the side and avoid the accident.

SIXTH JAILED FOR ROBBERY

Postal Chiefs Still Working

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, June 7.—What is regarded by Chief Inspector George M. Sutton of the United States postal service as one of the most important arrests in the history of the service was made Tuesday when Paul Dolphus, charged with robbery in connection with the Dallas postoffice robbery on Jan. 14, 1921, was arrested in California. Dolphus is well known in the postal service and has operated in various states under nine different aliases.

He is the sixth man arrested in connection with the Dallas postoffice robbery.

A telegram about Dolphus' arrest was received by Chief Sutton Tuesday. He immediately ordered that a certified copy of the indictment for the Dallas robbery be sent to San Francisco and that Dolphus be held for return to Texas to await trial in the federal court. The telegram did not say where he was arrested but Mr. Sutton believes it was in San Francisco.

Dolphus is supposed to be one of the seven men who robbed the Jackson street station of the Dallas postoffice at which time G. W. Street, postal clerk, was fatally wounded, and Albert E. Smith, another clerk, was also wounded, but not fatally. His arrest leaves only one other man that federal officers are searching for, this being Johnnie Gibbs. The other five, including Albert L. Rowan, alleged master mind of the robbery, have been apprehended. Pat Murphy was killed in an automobile accident following the robbery.

Dolphus has operated in California, Colorado and Texas under nine different aliases, according to Mr. Sutton. He has been arrested several times previously and the last time gave his name as the "Chewing Gum Kid," and his occupation as bookkeeper. This arrest was made in Pittsburgh, Pa.

BASEBALL HANDS OVER SEA

That baseball has ceased to be simply "the great national game" and is now "the great international sport" is shown by this photo. The Indiana University baseball team recently played the University of Waseda, Japan, during its trip through the Orient. Before the game Captain Taniguchi of the Waseda team and Captain Walker of the Indiana squad, shook hands and wished each other luck. Then they faced each other in the pitcher's box.

LIONS ENDORSE CLEANUP DRIVE

Club Praises Police Officials

Heartily endorsing the clean-up program recently instituted in this city by the police department, Wichita Falls' Lions club went on record on Wednesday as being in strong accord and sympathy with the work of Police Commissioner J. B. Fitts, Police Chief J. W. McCormick, Judge W. B. Chauncey and E. H. Gipson, city prosecutor, of the corporate court.

Police Commissioner Fitts and the police chief came in for a great amount of praise during the comment passed by several of the Lions prior to the passage of the resolutions endorsing the entire police department and its "better city" campaign.

Dr. L. D. Parnell, president of tthe Lions, declared that reports of a recent petition being circulated in Wichita Falls asking for the recall of Commissioner Fitts "is a plot of the thieves, thugs, rags and other lawless characters of this city to run Commissioner Fitts and Chief McCormick off their jobs, and ought to be condemned by every civic organization."

The club went on record as believing that the work now being conducted by the police department is the "greatest that has ever been done in Wichita Falls, and deserves due credit." Resolutions endorsing the department and especially its head, J. B. Fitts, were authorized to be written and dispatched to the police officials at once.

One Lion, in calling attention to the fact that the city is being fast made clean, said that he was recently in Burkburnett and Electra, where he found the citizens crying: "Cut out that clean-up drive you're having in Wichita Falls; all your crooks are coming over here."

Rev. Groseclose, as a visitor, remarked that, "we have officers down there at the head of the police department who are fearless men and who aim to uphold the constituted laws." The minister called attention to a certain case arraigned before the corporate court Wednesday morning, in which certain of the defendants were believed to have given cognomens and alianses, a result of which was the each should be brought before the bar to answer for changing his name when he was arrested.

DEPUTIES CHARGED WITH BEATING JUDGE

By Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Texas, June 7.—Two deputies of Sheriff Tom Garner, whose impeachment trial opened here today, were named by Judge John A. Pelt testified that Deputy Sheriffs George (Red) Wallace and Artie Pollock were the men who participated in the affair.

LEWIS THROWS CADDOCK QUICKLY

By Associated Press.

BOSTON, June 7.—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, heavyweight champion, defeated Earl Caddock, former champion, here tonight, two falls out of three. The third and deciding fall came in 10 minutes 33 seconds on a headlock.

John Pesek of Nebraska defeated Dick Daviscourt of Texas in the semi-final bout, throwing him in 28 minutes 5 seconds.

Caddock displayed his old time speed and cleverness, but the champion's weight and strength proved too much for him. After 22 minutes, 2 seconds of wrestling Lewis got a headlock for the first fall. Caddock won the second in 7 minutes 8 seconds with a head scissors and wrist lock.

The champion brought the match to a close with a second headlock.

FORT WORTH, June 7.—Jabes White of New York, flashy bantamweight, from the stables of Sammy Goldman, through superior boxing, won the newspaper decision over Dick Griffin of Fort Worth, Texas, bantam king, in a 10-round bout here tonight. Griffin won but one round, the seventh, when he opened with rights and lefts to the face. White had much the better of the infighting swapping jabs to the midsection with the Texas bantam round after round and coming out in much better condition than Griffin.

A request that the case of Cleis Green et al vs. W. M. Priddy, to come before the supreme court of Texas on appeal, be expediter was made on Wednesday. A motion was made that the case be advanced.

This case has been in the courts for about two years. On first trial Green and associates won the decision. The court of civil appeals reversed and remanded the case and on second trial Priddy secured the verdict. An oil lease in the Burkburnett northwest field and a considerable amount of money is involved—the total at stake being several hundred thousand dollars.

Hoover Tells Of Strike Arbitration

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Efforts of the government to bring operators and miners together with a view to settling the coal strike now in progress were disclosed for the first time today by Secretary Hoover in a statement sent to the senate in compliance with a resolution of inquiry introduced recently by Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts.

"Quite informally and repeatedly," Mr. Hoover's statement said, "suggestions as propositions on which the disputants might well confer and hope for a settlement have been made through the department of labor and this department, or both, but thus far these suggestions have been without results."

Model Yachts Race at Bayside

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Where Sir Thomas Lipton with a man-sized yacht failed another Britisher, William J. Daniels, with a toy-sized boat will try tomorrow to regain for England some lost prestige in nautical competition by winning two out of three model yacht races in the quiet waters off Bayside, L. I.

England has lost a major of the International Athletic trophies to the United States and Mr. Daniels is stealing a march by challenging this country in an event practiced more by small boys than by tars is staunchly confident that he will defeat E. A. Bull, Brooklyn, the American defender.

Athletic Park to Soon Sport Gala Show For Circus

The Shrine circus committee has started work on the grounds for the circus which is to be put on at Wichita Falls between July 1 and July 8 and it will not be long before the circus grounds down at the ball park will assume a gala appearance.

The Shrine circus arch is being erected at the circus ground entrance, Athletic park under the direction of C. U. Daniels, chairman of the arch decorations committee and under the supervision of I. H. Roberts. It is expected that at least a hundred thousand people will pass under this arch during the first eight days of July, while attending the Shrine circus. The arch will stand 22 feet high when completed and will be illuminated at night so that it can be seen the full length of Seventh street, as it stands directly across that street at the entrance of Athletic park. Local decorators state that the arch will be a work of art when completed.

The attractions are being arranged and whipped into shape and the decorations for the city and advertising matter will soon be here.

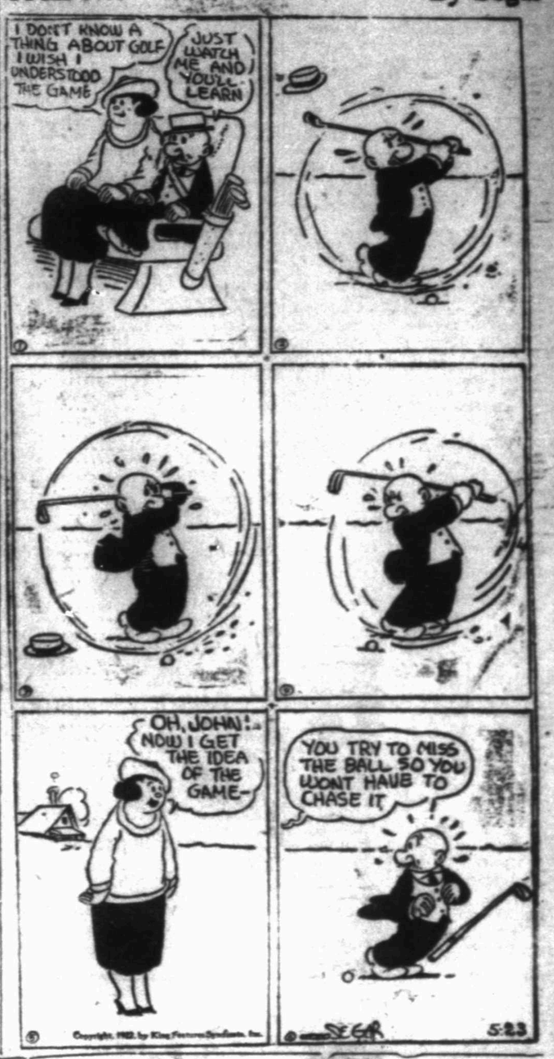

It is now the time for you to set down and write your relatives and friends to be sure and come and visit you on those days. The long unfulfilled promises of a visit from your relatives can be made to materialize by sending them the invitation and explaining to them the wonderful attraction to be here on that date and how they can be royally entertained. The business men are inviting their customers to come in during that time. The committee has sent out over a million tickets and we are estimating that we will have over a hundred thousand visitors during this circus. Remember the circus is enjoyed by the young and old. There will be lots of fun and merriment. July 1 to 8 of this yearswill long be remembered by the residents of Wichita Falls and the thousands of visitors.

STOCK ISSUES CALLED HIGHER

Oils and Steels Show Further Strength

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 7.—Higher quotations for various speculative issues dominated by pools or professional interests and further irregularity or heaviness among shares of recognized value featured today's broad but inconcinsive session of the stock exchange.

Apart from the lack of public interest, developments were mostly helpful to the market's constructive side. Call loans fell to last month's lowest quotations, supplies of time funds increased and commercial paper was in better demand.

As an indication of better industrial conditions still higher prices were quoted for finished products in the steel district and from West Virginia came word of the reopening of steel mills after a year of suspended operations.

Dealers reported a steady increase in the inquiry for copper at 14c for July and August deliveries and additional advances were announced in other base metals. In the oil trade predictions of yet higher prices for crude and refined products were current.

The major portion of the day's turnover in stocks encompassed the oils, motors, steels, minor rails, with a liberal admixture of coppers, shippings, secondary equipments, chemicals and the usual miscellaneous issues.

Individual features of strength among these shares included Cosden, Maxwell "A" and "B," Studebaker, which threw off its early heaviness, Lackawanna, Midvale and Republic steels, Lima Locomotive, Pressed Steel car, Chicago and Alton common and preferred and Iowa Central. Consolidated gas, Montana Power and Mackay Companies were among the strong utilities.

United States Steel eased in the later dealings and Mexican petroleum a majority of the domestic oils and numerous specialties closed at recessions of fractions of a point. Investment rails were sluggish, ignoring better earnings, as illustrated in the case of seaboard airline, where a heavy deficit in 1920 net was replaced by a large gain for 1921. Sales amounted to 1,050,000 shares.

Trading in foreign exchange was light and the British rate forfeited part of its recent advance on profit taking. German marks were better, although still considerably under their gain of last week.

NEW YORK BONDS

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 7.—Liberty issues were in the forefront of today's dull bond market, the tax exempt 3½s at $100.14 and the first 4¼s at $100.10 establishing new maximums with moderate advances for a majority of the entire group.

Mexican government issues continued to react to delay attending debt conferences here but most of the European war flotations showed firmness and occasional strength.

Many of the underlying domestic rails were higher by large fractions to almost 2 points, that division again being chiefly represented by Peoria and Eastern, Toledo, St. Louis and Western, Chicago and Alton and Atchison issues.

Industrials and utilities were inclined to react, especially Cerro de Pasco 8s, Armour 4½s, Southern Bell Telephone 5s and several of the local tractions. Total sales, par value, aggregated $13,843,000.

Easy absorption of new underwritings testified to the strong tone of the investment market. The day's offerings amounted to about $20,000,000 these including Consolidated Gas and Electric company (Baltimore) $10,000,000 6 per cent bonds and the city of Montevideo $6,000,000 7 per cent loans.

WHEAT VALUES MOUNT HIGH

Top Prices Prevail At Close

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Dry weather complaints from the northwest together with reports from Illinois and Ohio telling of chinch bugs did a good deal today to life the value of wheat. Prices closed firm 1⅜ to 2¼ net higher. July 1.13¾ to 1.14⅛ and September 1.13¾ to 1.14.

Corn finished ⅝c to ¾c higher, oats at ¼c decline to ⅜c advance, provisions unchanged to 27 cents off.

Nearly the top prices of the day were prevailing at the close in the wheat market and there was no time when prices were as low as yesterday's finish. Apprehension of less favor ble crop outlook was unaccompanied by any specific claim of actual damage yet, but it was generally conceded that rains were needed in parts of the northwest, and that sub-soil moisture was lacking in some sections.

There was a strong demand for wheat by exporters here, and they took all the hard wheat offered, which, however, in the aggregate was small. Offerings on the spot market were light, and the few cars which arrived in Chicago were said to be billed through to an eastern mill.

Corn sympathized and wheat advanced. There was talk current too that the after planting movement of corn to market was practically over. Prices of oats were inclined to drag owing to liberal stock in sight.

Provisions lacked support.

STATE FUNDS LIABLE FOR CASHIER'S CHECKS

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, June 7.—The supreme court today held that a cashier's check on a state guaranty fund bank is protected by the guaranty fund when the check is drawn in favor of a depositor whose funds in that bank are protected by the guaranty fund.

The decision was rendered in the case of Middle Kauff vs. the state banking board, in which the relator sought to force the banking board to pay a $3,000 cashier's check on the Leeray State bank, the board was ordered to pay the check out of the guaranty fund.

Middle Kauff, according to the records, gave a personal check for payment of the cashier's check and after the bank became insolvent the banking board refused payment of the cashier's check holding that it was not protected by the guaranty fund. In this case, where payment for the check was made out of deposits protected by the fund, the court held that it should be paid.

HER AILMENTS ALL GONE NOW

Mrs. Sherman Helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

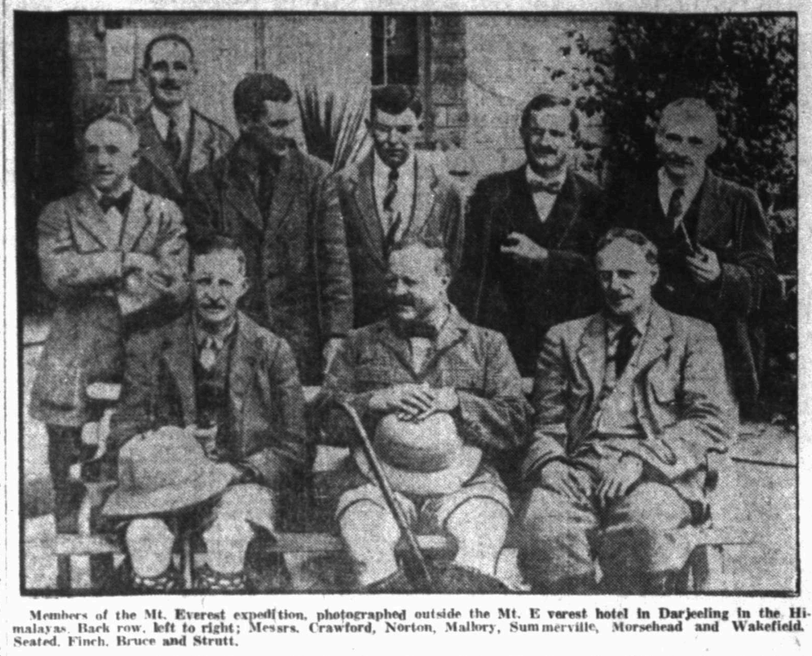

Lake, Michigan.—"About one year ago I suffered with irregularities and a weakness and at times was obliged to stay off my feet. I doctored with our family physician and he finally said he could not understand my case, so I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After I had taken the first bottle I could see that I was getting better. I took several bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am entirely cured of my ailments. You may publish this letter if you wish."—Mrs. M. SHERMAN, Route 2, Lake, Mich.

There is one fact women should consider and that is this. Women suffer from irregularities and various forms of weakness. They try this and that doctor, as well as different medicines. Finally they take Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound, and Mrs. Sherman's experience is simply another case showing its merit.

If your family physician fails to help you and the same old troubles persist, why isn't it reasonable to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound?

COTTON TAKES ON NEW LIFE

New York Market Shows Strength

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 7.—There was a sudden change from dullness and hesitation to activity and strength in the cotton market today. October contracts advanced from 20.28, he closing quotation of yesterday to 21.27 with all the new crop positions making new higher records for the season. October closed at 21.22 with the general market closing strong at a net advance of 82 to 93 points. The market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 16 points owing to relatively steady Liverpool cables and private reports of rains in the south. Liverpool bought a little cotton here, while there was a scatterling local and Wall Street demand but it was supplied by further liquidation of long accounts and there also appeared to be a little southern selling. The failure of the early rain news to promote more buying was evidently a disappointment to persons who bought at the opening and prices sagged off to within 2 to 5 points of yesterday's closing figures during the morning with July selling at 20.40 and December at 20.24.

The weekly report of the weather bureau was considered about a standoff and was without any immediate effect on the market but the detailed weather reports for the day confirmed the early rain news and after a very quiet morning the market became active and excited during the afternoon. Some of the larger interests who were credited with having taken profits on long cotton before the bureau were supposed to be rebuying. The started covering by recent sellers for a reaction which seemed to be further stimulated by bullish private crop advices and reports of firmer spot basis in the south. July was rather slow in following the advance but sold up to 21.43 while December advanced to 21.20 or 81 to 99 points net higher. The close was at very nearly the best on continued covering and rebuying. No exports were reported today. Exports so far this season 5,350,878. Port receipts 12,870. U. S. port stocks 857,632. Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to covering and said trade demand was restricted by the holidays in Manchester.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

By Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, June 7.—The rainy weather over the cotton region, combined with favorable cables, combined to put cotton higher today, although the advance was not rapid. In the first hour, prices went 9 to 14 points higher than the close of yesterday, to 20.35 for July. Private and official reports indicated that a great deal of rain had fallen in both the eastern and western divisions of the belt and the moisture was regarded as being against cultivation of crops and favorable to boll weevil activities.

Price movements were narrow for a while but toward 11 o'clock there was a sudden bulge due to buying on the unfavorable tone of the weekly crop reports from the government. July rose to 20.50 at which level the trading months showed gains of 24 to 34 points.

Heavy covering owing to the short interest started, apparently being aroused by the many complaints concerning the boll weevil that were coming from the belt and the advance became very rapid. In the trading up to 12:30 o'clock July rose to 21.03 and the active months were sent 80 to 93 points higher than the last quotations of yesterday.

The market closed steady at net advance of 81 to 104 points.

COTTON DEMAND QUIET ALL DAY

Wet Weather Slows Up Calls

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The cotton market opened at an advance of 5 to 16 points on reports of rains in the south, steady Liverpool cables and Wall street and scattered buying. There was also some Liverpool buying of new crops, but the advance was soon checked by New Orleans selling and light liquidation. After selling at $20.45, October eased off to $20.35 with active months generally showing reactions of 8 or 10 points from the best. Private cables said the Liverpool market was quiet, but steady on covering and that business was restricted by the holidays.

Wet weather and unfavorable private crop advices failed to inspire any fresh buying of consequence and the market was quiet later in the morning with prices showing a tendency to ease off under scattered liquidation, July sold down to $20.40 or 2 points net lower, shortly after midday and sold on about even terms with October, which held a few points above yesterday's closing figures. Later months were relatively steady, showing net advances of some 8 to 10 points. The weekly report of the weather bureau was without any apparent effect on the market.

The market became firmed during the afternoon on rebuying of recent sellers and covering promoted by the daily weather details confirming private rain reports of a stiff spot basis in the south. July sold up to $20.78 and October to $20.84, or 40 to 46 points net higher.

Cotton closed strong.

Burkburnett C. of C. Launches Campaign

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, June 7.—The chamber of commerce will open its community service week in this city Tuesday night with a get together banquet for its members. Captain C. S. Nusbaum, the noted community lecturer, will give his opening address, continuing to speak each night during the week at the big Methodist tabernacle, East Fourth and Avenue C. The purpose of the campaign is to secure 300 new members for the chamber of commerce, in special effort to make Burkburnett the best, most wide-awake little city in the southland. Not a boom, not a flush, but a "common sense build-up," morally, educationally and commercially. The community week slogan shall be: "Invest your life where you make your living."

Mrs. Bertha McCrory, age 31, died at Newtown, a few miles northwest of this city and was buried in Electra Monday afternoon. The family had lived there many years. She is survived by her husband, Earl McCrory, and a son, ten years of age. Deceased was a native of Lewisville, Denton county, Texas, and a member of the Baptist church. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vestal.

Her early death is deplored by a large circle of friends in this and surrounding communities.

The remains were taken by the Collier's Undertaking company to Electra where interment followed in the Electra cemetery from the First Baptist church of that city.

Dr. F. D. Shepherd left for Dallas Sunday to attend the post-graduate medical clinic for a few days this week. These clinics are being given under the auspices of the State Medical society.

Greetings from Dr. I. D. Russell, local physician, in Chicago, report a splendid session in medical interests in the various hospitals of the great cities. He will return about the 10th of June.

Mrs. Amanda Alford of is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. E. L. Cooper, on Fourth street.

Miss Mary Anderson returned this week from a short visit among relatives and friends in Lawton, Okla.

Eugene Spear of the Continental Supply company, has returned from a visit with his parents and other relatives in his home in East Texas.

Dr. D. R. Robinson, the new pastor of the First Baptist church, preached a splendid sermon Sunday morning on the Giddion Victory, making a striking application of the lesson to present day activities among Christian people.

Robert Harper, twin-son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Harper, age 3 months, died Saturday and was buried Sunday from the family residence on Block 85 on the Noble lease. The child was the victim of pneumonia, following whooping cough; interment was in the Burkburnett cemetery.

Mrs. Edith White, nee Mitchell, age 22, died at the Burkburnett hospital Sunday morning. She was the wife of W. S. White and was a native of Oklahoma, her parents being Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell. A large number of other relatives also survive her, many of whom are in this city. The funeral will be held in the Miller undertaking parlor, conducted by Rev. Hendricks of Bocheda, Okla., Monday afternoon. Interment in the Burkburnett cemetery.

Mary Elizabeth Waddell, age 4 months, died Saturday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Waddell at the Tidal Western Refinery, from whooping cough. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the residence, Rev. B. R. Robinson, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating. Burial followed at the Burkburnett cemetery. The mother, who is just recovering from an operation for appendicitis, is still confined to her bed.

URGES GREATER STUDY OF BIBLE

Protestants Lax Says Dr. Groseclose

Urging the laymen to read more of their Bible and declaring that the Holy Word is more often placed under the microscope today than it ever has been in the past, Rev. J. H. Groseclose delivered a short sermon to the members of the Lions club Wednesday at luncheon.

"There are two classes of persons who are scrutinizing the Bible closely," the minister said.

"The constructive class and the modernists. The latter hold to anything they can prove as the truth and often neglect the Bible."

The minister said there ought not to be antagonism between men who are seeking the same end, and applied the thought to both those who are trying to learn the teachings of God and those who are trying to succeed in the same business.

In comparing the number of hours given to the Bible each day in its study, Rev. Groseclose said the Hebrew children study the Bible 365 hours a year, the Roman Catholics 280 hours a year and the Protestants only 50 minutes a week.

He called attention to the daily Bible study clubs which the throughout this country during the churches are organizing to start summer months and said that he church will begin one next Monday. Many schools, the speaker said, are now requiring candidates for graduation to show credit for Bible work, the Waxahachie public schools being pointed out as having initiated the program there.

Mrs. Walter Robertson rendered two vocal selections, accompanied by Mrs. E. R. Collard at the piano, while Miss Bruce Dickson read for the Lions during the luncheon.

TO REPAIR JAIL

Another Heavy Police Court Fine Is Sustained When Heard On Appeal In Jury Trial In County Court-at-Law

Another conviction in which the limit was given by a jury that was out less than five minutes was obtained in the county court at law Wednesday morning on a case appealed from the corporate court.

Sam Duvall, charged by city authorities with vagrancy, was found guilty by a jury of six of his peers, and fined $200.

The case was begun Tuesday afternoon, and finished yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The defendant did not appear at any time during the hearing, his attorney explaining yesterday morning, out of court, that he is now in Oklahoma.

CLAY COUNTY ROAD VOTE TO BE CONTESTED

Action contesting the recent bond issue voted in the northwestern part of Clay county, for road improvements, will be taken by a group of taxpayers in the precinct voting the bonds, according to information received Wednesday. McDonald, Cummings and Weldon will represent the contesting voters.

Persons not qualified voters were permitted to vote in the election last month, when the bond issue of $104,000 was passed, will be the allegation of the contestants, it is understood. The contest will probably take the form of an injunction, restraining the Clay county commissioners from issuing the bonds.

The bond issue was voted for the purpose of building gravel highways from Byers, Charlie and Thornberry to the Clay county line.

LINDALE ASKED TO RETURN CUPS

Basketball Champs Censured

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 7.—The University Interscholastic league has revoked the state basketball championship award, the Lindale high school team at the state meet last March because a graduate of a military school of higher rank in the school was played. The school has been requested to return the trophy. The players college diploma was later revoked, but this was held not to affect the league's action.

In the finals held at Austin in March, among the sixteen bi-district champions of the state, Lindale won all of their preliminaries and in the final event swamped Waco high with goal after goal and were declared state winners. Clara, the Wichita county and Northwest Texas chosen five, fought their way into the semi-finals only to succumb to Waco, who was beginning to show some high class at the basketing game.

One of the league's purposes was to eliminate the use of professionalism in the high school athletics. By playing this youth in their lineup, Lindale H. is subject to being evicted from participating in scholastic activities until suitable reparations have been made by the school authorities.

The youth that has the distinction of graduating from a well known military school, has now had his college diploma revoked. This did not happen as a result of the scholastic league, but from the school that he attended before entering Lindale high school.

Heavy Damage Caused By Rain

Special to the Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., June 7.—About eight inches of water fell in three hours and thousands of dollars damage was done to crops and gardens as a result of a hail, wind and rainstorm which swept through a wide area of farming land east of this city Monday afternoon. An ominous cloud, approaching from the northwest, sent many persons scurrying to storm cellars, where they remained a greater part of the afternoon.

Deep Red creek, 10 miles east of here, is reported to be out of its banks and rising rapidly and it is said that the flood and high water will result in a great loss in poultry.

The path of the hail was about two miles wide and the rain extended from this city, where only a light shower fell, to points 10 miles east.

HIGH MARK IN OIL RUNS HELD

District Again Makes Over 140,000

Last week's high mark in production of 140,000 for the north and central Texas fields, was surpassed by 350 barrels by the daily average of the week just past. Slight losses in Burkburnett and Stephens runs were more than offset by the gains at Electra and the new Pioneer pool. Pioneer's gain amounted to 1,000 barrels, Electra gained 400 barrels. The Archer county-Texhoma pool also registered a gain of 400 barrels, due to cleaning out, and steadier operations, rather than new completions.

The production, based on pipeline runs, by pools, follows.

Burkburnett	31,600
Electra	16,100
Kemp, Munger, Allen and Iowa Park shallow	2,550
Archer county-Texhoma	2,100
Petrolia	300
Young county	9,700
Stephens	43,840

Comanche-Pioneer	16,986

Prisoners Sent To Fort Worth

Following the attempted jail delivery made at the county prison Tuesday evening, a large number of white prisoners were removed to the Fort Worth jail Wednesday afternoon for safe-keeping.

H. T. Scott, M. S. Saulter, Sewell Fields and Johnny Hinton were carried to Fort Worth at 3 o'clock in the custody of county officers.

The attempted wholesale delivery was discovered by Night Jailer Simmons when he made his rounds early Tuesday evening. The jailer discovered that the levers used in closing the doors to the cells in the negro "bear cage" on the third floor had been removed. An investigation revealed that the prisoners had removed the bricks in the side of the wall to the outer layer, preparing to make a large hole.

The negro occupants of the bear cage were immediately removed to a more secure place, and guarded by the jailer throughout the night with a sawed-off shotgun.

When daylight came, renovation of the prison was begun, men being busy at work on the inside of the jail all day yesterday.

None of the would-be escapers gained freedom.

Burdicks to Have Two Months Rest

Adjutant and Mrs. F. O. Burdick will leave within the next week or ten days, for Houston, where they will spend two months on the bay, while Mrs. Burdick is recuperating from a nervous breakdown, she has suffered recently. The order for the absence leave came Wednesday, when Lieutenant Colonel Wood made a visit to the local organization.

Mrs. Burdick has been ill for more than a week, her breakdown following a period of overwork extending back to the war days. This will be her first vacation since the war, and will likewise be her husband's first vacation.

In addition to the numerous duties of the Salvation Army, she has been active in both city, state and national American Legion auxiliary affairs. Her numerous friends will wait anxiously for news of her speedy recovery.

Captain Thelma Hicks will be in charge of army affairs in Wichita Falls during the Burdick's absence.

Radish Big Enough For Family Of 12 Is Product Of Local Garden; Gardens Over County Show Banner Production

One radish, weighing just one ounce less than a pound, and sufficient for serving 12 persons — has been received by the chamber of commerce. It is of the Chinese purple variety, and its meat is good and sound—not pithy as many radishes are when attained such size.

What is more to the point, it is a product of a Wichita county garden, and a Wichita Falls garden at that. A. J. Chambers grew it at his home at 1312 Fifth street. He grew it from home grown seed, and without the aid of any fertilizer or other agency. It was produced of the abundance of the Wichita county soil, plus plenty of water.

"There is another instance of what water on this soil will do," enthusiastically declared Guy R. Jones, county agricultural agent, who was in the chamber of commerce office at the time.

"Gardens all over Wichita county have been fine this year—they are growing practically anything that can be imagined this year. The reason is —plenty of water."

Hon. Cecil Storey of Vernon, Wilbarger county, was in the city Tuesday. Mr. Storey has filed as a candidate for flotorial representative from this district, which is composed of the counties of Wichita and Wilbarger. He has no opposition, hence he is losing no sleep concerning his political future. He is a graduate of the law department of the University of Texas and has held a number of important executive offices of a political nature in the few years that he has been a citizen of Wilbarger. "A place in the lower house appealed to me" said Mr. Storey to a representative of the Record News. "I have no long winded platform. I am not going down there to fill a long felt want or to reform the world. Nor have I drafted a vast number of bills. If elected and I have no opposition, I shall make it a point to vote against all the bad bills and do the best I can for the people of the west as well as the people of the entire state."

Seven Murder Cases Reviewed

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, June 7.—Seven murder cases were passed on by the court of criminal appeals today, four being affirmed and three reversed and remanded for a new trial. There were no death penalties in the list but it included two sentences.

The murder cases affirmed were those of John Steen, given the life sentence in Bexar county on conviction for murder of Albert Tips in December, 1919; Clyde Horton, 50 years in San Augustine county; Stephen P. Broom, 15 years in Taylor county, and Leon Pew, 15 years in San Augustine county.

The murder cases reversed and remanded on errors of the trial court were those of W. W. Willman, given the life sentence in Commanche county; Matthew Olison 50 years in Hunt county, and Newt Brookreson, 20 years in Taylor county.

"Time moves more rapidly of late, partly because we are growing older, but largely because there are so many income tax installments to meet," says F. F. V., in the New York Tribune.

BREAK FEARED IN CONFERENCE

South American Problem Grave

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The Chilean-Peruvian conference brought its differences to so delicate a stage today that some of those in closest contact with the negotiations conceded privately that only mediation by the United States could avert an open break.

Chile, replying at last to the Peruvian proposal for arbitration of the sovereignty of Tacha and Arica, maintained her traditional determination that a plebiscite must be held in the disputed provinces, as provided in the treaty of Ancon and consented only to arbitrate the conditions under which the election should be carried into effect.

The Peruvians not only flatly rejected that counter proposal, but declined to transmit it to their government. Charging again that the provinces had been denuded of Peruvians since the date in 1894 originally fixed for the plebiscite, a Peruvian spokesman declared that to accept the chilean plan would be nothing short of "a humiliating and shameful surrender for Peru."

Confronted thus with a situation which had all the outward appearances of a deadlock, the delegates adjourned their joint session without date, each side declaring it had nothing further to suggest now and that the next move must come from the other side.

The only point on which an agreement was reached was that the United States should be the arbitrator should a method of arbitration henceforth be found. That suggestion was made by Chile in her counter proposal and immediately was accepted by the Peruvians.

Mother-To-Be, Read This—

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers. From this moment on, cast from your mind all dread and fear, and feel every day as the months roll by that great freedom from much of the suffering which thousands of expectant mothers undergo, unnecessarily. And when the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used Mother's Friend and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes."

"Mother's Friend" is applied externally to the abdomen, back and hips. It aids the muscles and tissues to expand easily. It penetrates quickly. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is safe. There is no substitute. Avoid useless greases sometimes recommended by the unknowing. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all druggists.

NOTE—Write for valuable free Illustrated book, "Motherhood and the Baby," containing important authoritative information which every expectant mother should have, and all about "Mother's Friend," to Bradfield Regulator Company, BA-46, Atlanta, Ga.

Drunk Uses Tongue Freely; Fined $25

"The defendant is charged with being drunk and disorderly. What do you have to say in the matter?"

The police judge spoke in the corporate court Wednesday, addressing a man who had been arraigned before the bar on the above-mentioned charge.

"I guess I'm guilty, judge," was the reply.

"I guess you are, too," the court averred. "I was in here last night when the officers brought you in; I heard you use some very abusive language in addressing them—what have you to say about that?"

"I'm sorry, judge, if I did. I don't guess I knew what I was doing. I don't guess I know anything about it," the defendant said.

And then the judge assessed the defendant a $25 fine.

Officers who have been connected with the police department for a considerable length of time declared that it was the heaviest fine that has ever been placed on any man in Wichita Falls for getting drunk. But possibly it was because the police judge was at the police station when a typical case was brought in.
