

Goodfellows effort takes healthy step

After some initial concern that donations were down to aid the local Goodfellows effort this Christmas, the drive appeared off and running again Thursday morning.

The effort received a substantial boost from Snyder High School students, who annually compete by classes to see who can raise the most donations of both money and food.

The SHS junior class won it this year, breaking a tradition of the past six years when seniors have won the competition.

With all SHS donations turned in, the Goodfellows effort received some $4,200 in cash and another 642 pounds of canned goods.

The high school effort is coordinated by members of the SHS Student Council.

Snyder elementary students will contribute to the effort as well, although the count is not yet complete for this giving.

In addition, the first reports were noted Wednesday of donations to the Goodfellows from customers at city financial institutions.

These contributions amounted to another $2,031 in funds.

The donations of both money and food will help finance a nutritious Christmas meal for some 230 Scurry County families.

These were identified by a Goodfellows screening committee Tuesday and cards have been mailed to those qualifying.

The distribution of food will be conducted this Saturday from 9 a.m. until noon at the ag annex on the east end of Snyder County Coliseum.

To receive their food package, individuals must bring their Goodfellows card.

The following is a list of individuals who have made money donations to the Goodfellows Christmas effort in Scurry County at local financial institutions.

Donations may still be made at four city locations, West Texas State, Snyder National, First National Bank and First Federal Savings and Loan. Those giving include:

Mr. and Mrs. Renal Rosson, $25; Mr. and Mrs. Graham Smith, $50; Mr. and Mrs. Alton L. Judicial probe yields indictments

CHICAGO (AP) — A bugged cowboy boot, FBI moles, a "Boy Scout" prosecutor and wired judges' chambers were all part of the plot as the biggest court corruption probe in U.S. history climaxed with the indictment of 10 men, including three judges.

"We cut across the entire operation and function of the system from full circuit judge down to clerk," U.S. Attorney Dan K. Webb said Wednesday, announcing the indictments handed down by federal grand jury. More indictments may follow, he said.

They were the first charges stemming from Operation Greylord, a 3½-year investigation of corruption in Cook County's court system, the nation's largest. Webb said it was the most ambitious court corruption investigation ever attempted in the United States.

The charges included conspiracy, racketeering, extortion and mail fraud, and involved cases ranging from fixing traffic tickets for $20 to felony narcotics cases and such civil matters as accepting up to $30,000 for influencing divorce cases and trust funds.

Named for the ceremonial wigs worn by British jurists, Operation Greylord became public last summer when Brocton Lockwood, a southern Illinois judge who served a stint in Chicago's Traffic Court, disclosed that from 1981 until last summer, he was an undercover agent for the Justice Department.

He said he wore a microphone under his robe and carried a tape recorder in his cowboy boot while befriending crooked lawyers.

There also have been reports of FBI "moles" posing as corrupt prosecutors and reports that a "Boy Scout" former state's attorney, Terry Hake, became so disgusted with corruption he offered to go undercover. He worked with the FBI and posed as a shady lawyer to snare crooks.

Tuition hike, lake fishing final vote due

Two college-related items prompting earlier discussions — including a proposed tuition increase as well as a proposal to limit or eliminate fishing at the WTC golf course lake — are due final action Thursday.

The decisions are slated during the December meeting of the WTC board of trustees. It is to begin at 4:30 p.m. in the administration building conference room.

Regarding the tuition proposal, WTC trustees will consider a recommendation that it be increased from $4 to $6 per semester hour of class work. The change would go into effect next fall semester.

It has been noted that the change would place WTC "about in the middle" of tuition fees charged by area colleges.

Action related to fishing at the lake was tabled at the November meeting of trustees pending further staff study and a recommendation from WTC President Dr. Don Newbury.

Alternatives considered in November ranged from completely eliminating fishing there — since it often conflicts with golfing activities — to allowing fishing only on the two mornings when the course is otherwise closed.

Other items due consideration at the December meeting include:

—Consideration of the college's annual audit of federal student financial aid funds. This audit has been completed by the Snyder accounting firm of Anderson, Anderson and Vestal.

—Formal acceptance of the resignation of Diamond M Museum Director Jan Parker, who has resigned to accept another museum post in Santa Fe.

—Discussions of both space needs for college-offered physical education classes and possible repair to a campus water chiller system.

—Consideration of bids for typewriters for secretarial science classes at WTC.

Holiday at hand for college, ISD

The Christmas holiday break is imminent for both students at Western Texas College as well as the Snyder public schools.

Finals ended Wednesday and the dormitories at Western Texas College closed at 10 a.m. Thursday as the fall semester drew to a close.

Public school students in Snyder will begin their Christmas break at 2:45 p.m. Friday with the dismissal of classes.

The public schools will resume classes on Jan. 3, a Tuesday.

At the college, dormitory residents are not due back until Jan. 16. The dorms will reopen at 10 a.m. that day.

Administrative offices on campus will close for a holiday break at 2:30 p.m. next Wednesday. These offices will resume operation on Jan. 3.

A mid-winter session will be conducted on campus Jan. 3-11 with three classes offered. Most of the college faculty will be back on campus for instruction Jan. 11.

Registration for the spring semester at WTC begins Jan. 16.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Did you hear about the guy who suffered near fatal electric shock. He opened his power bill."

Phil Fortune, service rep for Texas Electric, got married on Dec. 2 up at Colonial Hill Baptist Church. Fortune is a regular at Stinson Drug and the coffee klatch wondered aloud why members weren't invited to the ceremony.

When Fortune and his new bride, Betty, returned from a honeymoon in Ruidoso, Fortune explained that an invitation had been sent to the group, addressed to Dean Floyd.

The invitation to the Dec. 2 wedding arrived Monday (Dec. 12) at Stinson Drug. It contained a footnote urging the group to "be on time."

The evidence was turned over to the klatch's legal minds, Renal Rosson and Dan Cotton. An examination of the evidence showed that the invitation was postmarked Dec. 7 and mailed from Ruidoso.

Despite the absence of the coffee gang, Colonial Hill minister Miller Robinson got in one parting shot. Midway through the ceremony, there was a pause for a song.

During the rendition and without changing his somber expression, Miller handed Fortune a card which read, "Are you sure you want to go through with this?"

Betty strained to read the card, but Fortune just smiled and slid it into his suit pocket. Betty, a bride from San Angelo, is getting a proper introduction to Snyder and her hubby's friends.

Speaking of weddings, today is the 60th anniversary of Luther and Sally Blythe. Sally is well-known in Snyder for her many years in the restaurant business and serving the Snyder Lions Club.

It was love at first sight for Luke who was a young cowboy in the area. About 63 years ago he stopped by the Polar school to talk with his sister.

While there, Luke met a girl named Sally. After she had walked off, Luke turned to his sister and predicted, "There goes your future sister-in-law."

"But Luke," his sister said, "she is only 14."

"That's alright, I can wait," Luke replied.

They were married three years later, and 60 years is a good indication that it was worth the wait.

'Major Barbara' honor list grows

"Major Barbara," the Western Texas College entry in the American College Theatre Festival held recently at Texas Tech University, has received additional recognition with three Amoco Awards.

The announcement came Thursday morning from Jim Rambo, WTC fine arts instructor and director of the play.

Individual awards went to WTC players Robert Lovelace of Snyder and Duncan Joys of Lubbock.

Loveless, a sophomore, appeared as Andrew Undershaft and Joys, also a sophomore, appeared as Charles Lomax.

Loveless was nominated for an Irene Ryan Award at the festival and is now eligible for regional competition in Fort Worth in January.

The third award was given for costume design.

Deborah Billow, costume designer for Casa Manana in Fort Worth, planned costumes for "Major Barbara" and assisted WTC students in making costumes for the female characters in the show.

The Amoco companies are the corporate sponsors at the American College Theatre Festival, Rambo said. From the local campus to the regional level, more than 400 productions and 10,000 students compete for awards, scholarships and special grants for actors, playwrights, designers and critics.

A national festival will be held in the spring of 1984 in the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

The Amoco awards are given for excellence and recipients are selected by the critic judges at each festival.

In Brief

Reagan cannot quiet furor

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's remarks that the majority of soup kitchen clients are needy has failed to quiet congressional criticism that his administration is insensitive to the needs of hungry Americans.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said Wednesday, "The president's statement of concern does not square with the Reagan administration's own actions."

Earlier in the day, Reagan met briefly with reporters in the White House press room and volunteered that some people who eat at soup kitchens may be undeserving, just as there are welfare cheats, but that most of them are truly needy.

The president's comments were prompted by presidential counselor Edwin Meese's statement on Dec. 8 that he has never seen any "authoritative figures that there are hungry children" in America and that some people go to soup lines "because the food is free and that's easier than paying for it."

Soviet Union has largest plane

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union has the world's largest airplane and the significance of its ability to carry SS-20 nuclear missiles seems to have escaped U.S. arms negotiators, Jane's All the World's Aircraft said today.

The authoritative guide, published in London, also said new supersonic Soviet fighters carry advanced electronics and weapons that enable them to shoot down cruise missiles and engage Western fighter jets on an equal footing.

The developments pose grave problems for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, already outnumbered 2-1 in the air, said Jane's editor John Taylor. He said while the West is improving its jets, NATO — unlike the Soviets — is hampered by political and financial constraints that have held up production.

Jane's said the Antonov-400 aircraft, known to NATO forces as the Condor, was specifically designed for the rapid deployment of SS-20s as well as tanks and other heavy equipment.

"What does not seem to have occurred to statesmen discussing missiles at East-West arms limitation talks is that an aircraft of this size can just as easily ferry mobile strategic missile systems like the SS-20," Taylor wrote in the book's foreword.

"There is little point in withdrawing such weapons in forward launch sites when they can be replaced speedily in East Germany or deployed to a conveniently located Grenada-type island."

U.S.-Soviet talks in Geneva to limit intermediate range nuclear weapons in Europe broke down Nov. 23 when the Soviets walked out after the West German Parliament voted to accept U.S. Pershing 2 nuclear missiles on its soil.

Talks on long-range missiles ended earlier this month with no date set for resuming the negotiations.

U.S. negotiators at the talks had sought to persuade the Soviets to pull back their SS-20s targeted on Western Europe.

The Pershings are part of 572 Pershing 2 and cruise missiles NATO has agreed to deploy in West Germany, Britain, Italy, Belgium and the Netherlands to counter SS-20s.

Jane's said the Soviets were reported to have begun flight development testing in the first half of this year.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Small spider veins

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please tell me what causes or aggravates spider veins on the legs? I'm 35 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall and weigh 118 pounds. I have noticed several spider veins on my upper thighs this year. I am a teacher and I try to exercise 10 to 15 minutes every day.

I use weights. Is this a cause of the veins?

DEAR READER — A lot of people have these and sometimes they mistakenly are called varicose veins. They are small veins that come to the surface of the skin, not large dilated veins of the typical varicosity.

I don't think the cause is actually known, but probably some of the same factors that cause prominent veins on the nose cause them elsewhere. Hot spicy foods, drinks or anything that dilates blood vessels may be a factor. Age and exposure to sun are factors.

While a lot of attention has been given to prominent veins over the nose and cheeks, very little attention has been given to those on the thighs and knees.

If they are superficial enough they can be treated the same way prominent veins are sometimes treated on the face. Dr. Jonathan Zimor, Chief of Dermatology at St. Vincent's Hospital in New York City, suggests touching the unsightly capillary with an electric needle for a second or two. The surface cells are killed and the capillary destroyed.

When he does this on the face he refers to it as an electronic facial. Some dermatologists inject a salt solution into small veins on the legs but not larger ones.

Using weights will not cause these little veins. But you might be wise to take measures to avoid subsequent development of real varicose veins from standing. Walking, running and active exercise do not cause varicose veins or the small spider veins either. I am sending you The Health Letter 5-8, Varicose Veins, as you may wish to know more about them. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 35 years old. A month ago I was diagnosed as having an overactive thyroid. My doctor told me I could do one of three things to alleviate my problem: I could take radioactive iodine and possibly develop thyroid cancer; I could have surgery and take a chance on having too much thyroid removed and have to take thyroid pills the rest of my life; or I could take pills for six months to a year unless side effects occurred.

I'm very concerned about this. Could you give me any advice?

DEAR READER — Your doctor has summarized your options, but I would not be quite as pessimistic as your letter suggests. The chance of cancer from the large dose of radioactive iodine is quite small, less than what could occur with the small doses. While many patients treated this way eventually may require thyroid pills — this is not so bad. The same applies on that point to surgery.

If you take anti-thyroid pills they may control your symptoms. Reports indicate that from 10 percent to 50 percent of patients have a remission within six to 18 months after treatment is started.

All things being equal, I usually would advise trying the medicine route first. You can always elect one of the other choices if you need to.

Your Birthday

Dec. 16, 1983

Substantial material gains can be made this coming year, provided you are more concerned with cash than with the spotlight. Be pragmatic regarding the types of hoped-for rewards.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It will prove unwise today to procrastinate about things that must be done. Time that you think is at your disposal will fly like darkness before the dawn. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Do not underestimate the caliber of your competition today. Persons you think you can vanquish in the opening rounds may go the limit.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21) It's important to try to keep an open mind today. Having preconceived negative ideas will work to your detriment and cause avoidable problems.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Promises made to you today should not be too heavily relied upon, especially if they are from persons who have let you down previously.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be on guard early in the day or you might do things which do not serve your best interest. By late afternoon, you're not apt to repeat this process.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If possible, do not become involved in social situations today that are replete with boring types. Instead, seek fun-loving companions.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unless you are truly motivated today, you're apt to have trouble getting into high gear. Success will be denied you if you just use half-measures.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) For reasons known only to you, there's a chance you might view yourself as the underdog today. Negative thinking produces negative results.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The family budget will suffer today if either you or your mate buy something that you both had agreed to do without for the present.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Try not to be uncooperative today. If you are, there's a likelihood others may not want to include you in their activities.

Marino chosen to start for AFC Pro Bowlers

NEW YORK (AP) - Dan Marino of the Miami Dolphins has been chosen to start for the American Football Conference Pro Bowl team, making him the first rookie quarterback to start since the game began in 1950.

The team was announced today by AFC President Lamar Hunt and the NFL Players Association.

Marino, the rookie out of Pittsburgh, is the top-rated passer in the AFC with 173 completions in 296 attempts for 2,210 yards.

The game will be played Jan. 29, 1984 in Honolulu, Hawaii (4 p.m. EST, ABC-TV). Joe Theismann of the Washington Redskins was named Wednesday to start at quarterback for the NFC.

The Los Angeles Raiders placed the most players on the squad, seven. The Dolphins had six. Raiders picked to start were tight end Todd Christensen, defensive end Howie Long, outside linebacker Rod Martin and cornerback Lester Hayes.

Another rookie, Seattle's Curt Warner, was chosen to start alongside Marino in the AFC's backfield. Earl Campbell of Houston will be the other AFC running back.

The NFC running backs were rookie Eric Dickerson of the Los Angeles Rams and William Andrews of the Atlanta Falcons. Dickerson was one of two rookies named to the starting NFC team. The other was New York Giants placekicker Ali Haji-Sheikh.

Selection was on the basis of balloting by the conference coaches and team player representatives, with no voter allowed to vote for a player on his own team.

One spot remained open on the NFC squad, the third defensive end position. Voting for the spot produced a tie. The tiebreaker is the overall record of the player's team, but because the two teams could tie in the standings with one game left in the season, that spot will not be announced until next week.

Skins load up NFC pro team

NEW YORK (AP) - Seven members of the defending Super Bowl champion Washington Redskins and two rookies were named to the National Football Conference Pro Bowl team, the NFC and the NFL Players Association announced jointly.

Five of the Redskins' players will be starters, including quarterback Joe Theismann, the top-rated passer in the National Football League this season with 260 completions in 431 attempts, according to the announcement Wednesday. The other Redskins' starters are center Jeff Bostic, guard Russ Grimm, tackle Joe Jacoby and safety Mark Murphy.

The two rookie selections were Los Angeles Rams running back Eric Dickerson and New York Giants place-kicker Ali Haji-Sheikh. The other starting running back is William Andrews of the Atlanta Falcons.

The NFC-AFC Pro Bowl game will be played in Honolulu on Jan. 29 (4 p.m. EST, ABC-TV).

Late-breaking column

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

This is a late-breaking column. That means it's broken up because I was so late in sitting down to write it. Some of it may not have to do with sports, but you can skip those parts if you want to.

Some observations:

...Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry said it was fine with him that a couple of his players tried to break up a touchdown celebration by Washington during Sunday's game. Seems to me the 'Pokes should have been concentrating more on stopping the touchdown in the first place.

...I'm getting a little sick of Coca Cola and their ads, especially the one with Bill Cosby where they supposedly have their cameras zoomed in on somebody picking Coke at the Pepsi Challenge Booth. Cosby then tells us that those taste tests prove nothing, and more people still drink Coke.

So what's wrong with it? Stay tuned later in the show. You'll see a commercial telling you that a study shows more people prefer Sprite than 7-Up. So who makes Sprite? The people from Coca Cola. Yes, Virginia. You are being taken for an idiot.

...SHS Athletic Director David Noble has no new news concerning the search for a head football coach. Well, I guess it would be a little soon, wouldn't it? He said it probably would be after the first of the year before something definite is determined.

...Don't be overly concerned that the Tigers are 2-8 right now. It's taking time, but Coach Larry Scott is molding the squad into an efficient unit and they'll be tough when time for district play arrives.

...According to the latest WJCAC statistics, Duster sophomore Mary Nell Clayton is the second-leading scorer in the conference with a 21.4 average. She is also first in freethrow percentage, hitting the hoop at a .814 clip, and second in steals with 53.

...Mary Nell's teammate, Clara Campbell, is seventh in scoring with a 15.7 average, sixth in rebounding with an 8.2 average, third in steals with 45 and first in blocked shots with a whopping 61. Not bad for a freshman, huh?

...A friend of mine says he's found a way to get even with Christmas looters - once he gets the gifts home and under the tree (No one has found a way to keep from being looted at the check out line.). He says he simply wires an explosive in the biggest, most brightly wrapped package and...well, you can figure out the rest.

Unfortunately it's been hard for the family to retain their usual Christmas spirit ever since Grampa came to visit and tried to sneak a peek back in 1976.

Well, I told you it was a late-breaking column.

Steeler's Bradshaw gone to the birds

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw has used the powers of acupuncture and a $12,000 machine to help aid his ailing right elbow. Now, he's turned for healing help to a myna bird insured for $12 million.

Bradshaw met the bird, named Rajah, for 30 minutes Wednesday in a meeting that resulted from a phone call to a radio sports talk show by the bird's owner, Collin Kerr of Toronto, Canada.

Kerr claims Rajah, insured by Lloyd's of London, has helped numerous sports teams and is a football fan because the bird "loves the movement."

To be eligible, a player must be a regular performer and have at least a 3.2 GPA (on a 4.0 scale) during his career. Hostetter, a finance major, has maintained a perfect 4.0 GPA, while Dawson compiled a 3.24 GPA in petroleum engineering.

Harmon, who rushed for 1,276 yards, had a 3.5 GPA in engineering physics. Guthrie, second in Division 1-AA in receiving, had a 3.1 GPA in engineering systems management.

Frank, second-leading receiver in Ohio State history, had a 3.82 GPA in chemistry. Humphries had a 3.77 GPA in engineering science, Hamilton a 3.60 GPA in pre-law, and Bergen a 3.54 GPA in biology-mechanical engineering.

Two pass receivers led the college division Academic All-America Team.

Marc Knowles of Millikin College of Illinois and Bob Stefanski of Northern Michigan accounted for almost 1,800 receiving yards.

Knowles carried a 3.86 GPA in personnel management and Stefanski compiled a 3.80 GPA in computer mathematics.

Repeaters from last year's team included running back Jim Donnelly of Case Western Reserve College of Ohio; tight end Tom Schott of Canisius, and defensive backs Kenny Moore of Indiana of Pennsylvania and Kirk Hutton of Nebraska-Omaha.

On Sept. 10, 1963, the Alou brothers, Felipe, Matty and Jesus, playing for the San Francisco Giants, made all three putouts in one inning in a game against the New York Mets.

with a player who's injured," Kerr said. "But he will accept any challenge. All the players Rajah has worked with have always been healthy and have always done well."

"We have a ritual we perform with quarterbacks before the game. The bird talks, and I say things to the quarterback, and they will play much better than other quarterbacks," Kerr said.

Kerr said he got the bird from an Indian boy in 1956.

Meanwhile, Bradshaw hasn't thrown the ball this week, further clouding his status for Sunday's game against the Cleveland Browns.

"I might now not until game time," Bradshaw said when asked about his status. "But I don't know if Chuck (Noll, the Steelers' coach) wants to wait that long."

Bradshaw didn't throw the ball or take any snaps during the Steelers' workout, as Cliff Stoudt handled most of quarterbacking duties. Bradshaw reinjured the elbow during the second quarter of last Saturday's 34-7 victory over the New York Jets and hasn't thrown the ball since.

The Steelers said there was about "a 50-50 chance" that Bradshaw would play in the regular season finale. But Noll is likely to give the starting assignment to Stoudt, who started the team's first 14 games, if Bradshaw hasn't thrown the ball by Friday.

Knaus to coach for San Antonio

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Texas Tech linebacker coach David Knaus has resigned to accept an assistant coaching position with the San Antonio Gunslingers of the United States Football League, according to Tech head coach Jerry Moore.

Knaus' appointment with the Gunslingers was effective immediately,

Moore said.

"We hate to lose David," Moore said. "He has been a tremendous asset to our football program and I know that he will be an asset to San Antonio as well."

Knaus, who won all-conference honors for the 1973 Tech team that won the Gator Bowl, has been on the staff of the Southwest Conference school since 1980. He served as defensive line coach under Rex Dockery during the 1980 season and was moved to linebacker coach by Moore the next year.

Knaus, who began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Tech in 1975, served as defensive line coach for the University of Wyoming for three years before returning to the Red Raider staff.

He will be coaching at San Antonio under former Tech defensive coordinator Jim Babes, who joined the Gunslingers' staff last month.

Dear Abby

Loving Parents Yearn To Reach Gay Daughter

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Our 20-year-old daughter is gay. Don't ask me how I know, I just know. My husband and I love her and can accept her as she is without reservations.

Our question: Should we confront her and say, "We know you are gay, and it's OK, we love you," or should we wait until she tells us she's gay? I have suspected it since she was 15. When she was 17, I confronted her, but she cried and denied it.

This girl has always been very tense. She is often rude, especially to her father and people in authority. She has a poor self-image, although she is tall and very beautiful.

Her high school years were a nightmare. She smoked pot, skipped school and drank. We offered counseling to her, but she refused. Our home was always open to her friends, but she rarely brought anyone home. I've met some of her friends (girls) and I genuinely liked them.

How should we handle this? We want her to be open with us, but don't know how to go about it.

WITHHOLD OUR NAMES

DEAR WITHHOLD: Don't make an issue of her sexuality. Just let her know by your actions that you love her unconditionally. She may never "open up" and disclose her sexual orientation—which is her right. Let her know you'll foot the bill for counseling if she wants it, and pray she takes you up on it. Only when she feels comfortable with herself will she feel comfortable with you. All gay children should have such understanding parents.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 24, very athletic and health-conscious. We have a good marriage, but there is a slight problem. My husband does not want to make love as often as I would like to. He is able, and even willing, but he has it in his head that sex saps a man's strength and makes him weaker. He says that men who engage in sex too often "age" faster.

I believe that just the opposite is true—that sex is healthy, and makes a man stronger and keeps him young longer.

Who is right? Sign me ...

"TIGER"

DEAR TIGER: You are.

DEAR ABBY: I have become friendly with a woman who recently moved into my apartment building. We have much in common—we are both middle-aged, divorced women who grew up in the Middle West. We visit each other quite often, but on invitation only—no dropping in.

I enjoy her company, but she has a habit that I find very irritating. When I'm visiting her and her phone rings, she leaves me sitting while she carries on a lengthy conversation. She doesn't apologize to me; she just talks on and on as though I weren't there. Last evening she got three calls. (I finally found a magazine to occupy myself.)

When I have a guest and my phone rings, I tell the caller that I have company and will call back tomorrow.

How should I handle this without offending her?

LA JOLLA

DEAR LA JOLLA: Let your friend know that you are offended when she engages in long telephone conversations while you cool your heels. And if she does it again, interrupt her conversation just long enough to say, "I can see that you're too busy for company. Bye!" Then walk out.

(Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Security is increased after incident

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Officials have stepped up security at the Port of Beaumont after a man walked aboard a Soviet ship recently and berated the crew for their government's downing of a Korean airliner.

Guards said the unidentified man seemed harmless enough when they waved him through the port's main entrance on the morning of Nov. 17. He said he wanted to board the Kapitan Panfilov, a Soviet carrier in port to load grain at the Continental Grain Co. elevator.

By the time port and shipping officials learned that the man had gone through the gate, he had spent about two hours aboard the ship, gotten into his car and driven away. But not before he had offended the crew, wandered the ship from top to bottom, and tape-recorded the entire episode, according to Seamen's Center Chaplain Bill Bauer, who spoke to crew members afterward.

"He was asking why they had come to America to buy grain after killing people on the Korean 007," Bauer told the Beaumont Enterprise, referring to the Soviet downing of Korean Airliner 007 and its 269 passengers over the Sea of Japan on Sept. 1.

"He left a real impression with the men. He was obnoxious and running them down. My impression was that he was basically calling them killers," said Bauer, who worries about what the Russian crew now thinks of Americans.

A man, describing himself as a resident of nearby Vidor and a Navy veteran, called the Enterprise about noon on Nov. 17 and said he had just finished a visit aboard the Kapitan Panfilov, the newspaper reported Wednesday.

The man told the newspaper he had gone out of curiosity and enjoyed himself. He said he asked crew members about the whereabouts of Soviet leader Yuri Andropov, who had in recent months not appeared in public. The sailors replied they didn't know, he said.

The man added several comments that were derisive of the intelligence of the crew members, saying on a scale of 1 to 10, they rated about a 2.

South wasn't proud of his one-heart opening bid and less proud of his two-heart rebid, although 11 high-card points including two aces with a good six-card major suit are an opener for anyone who wants to be a winner.

Then North took off for the stratosphere in his Blackwood 747 and South found himself in a slam. It wasn't a bad one. North had his values, and with any lead but a trump South would have been able to ruff two clubs in dummy and breeze home.

As we have noted, defenders have a penchant for finding the best lead and West opened a trump. South saw that his chance to ruff two clubs had flown away, but there were lots of other possibilities. In any event, the best play was to start on spades.

At trick two South cashed dummy's spade ace and ruffed a spade. Then he led a club. West rose with the ace and led a second trump. South noted the 3-1 trump break as he won in dummy.

He led another low spade and ruffed. Both opponents followed, and South had found a 4-3 spade break, which was all he needed.

He ruffed a club, came to his hand with the diamond ace, drew trumps and eventually discarded a low diamond and his last club on the king and seven of spades.

CHOCOLATE COOKIES
They are easy to bake.
1 cup fork-stirred unbleached all-purpose flour
1/4 cup Dutch-process cocoa
1/4-pound stick butter (1/2 cup), cut in thin pats
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup walnuts, chopped medium-fine

On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour and cocoa. In a medium bowl, with an electric beater, cream the butter, sugar and vanilla; at low speed, gradually beat in the flour-cocoa mixture until blended. With a spoon, stir in the walnuts. If necessary, cover tightly and chill until firm enough to handle. Using 1 level measuring tablespoon of dough for each, shape into balls; place about 1 inch apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until set looking and lightly browned — 12 minutes. Let stand several minutes before removing with a wide spatula to a wire rack to cool completely. Cookies will flatten. Store in an airtight container. Makes about 2 dozen.

Don't want Arafat to leave as hero

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel is creating an uncertain and threatening atmosphere around plans for PLO chairman Yasser Arafat's evacuation from Lebanon in an effort to strip him of international protection and force him to flee in humiliation.

Israeli officials said Wednesday that Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's government has refused to reply to a U.S. request to allow Arafat to leave his besieged stronghold of Tripoli in northern Lebanon. It has said publicly it will not guarantee Arafat's safety.

"We do not want Arafat to leave like a hero. If he leaves, it should be like a dog with his tail between his legs," said one official who requested anonymity.

Israel has appealed to the United Nations to withdraw its promise to evacuate Arafat on ships flying the U.N. flag, but Cabinet ministers have issued contradictory statements on what Israel might do if the U.N. plan went forward.

Energy Minister Yitzhak Mordechai and former Defense Minister Ariel Sharon both have said Israel "should not let Arafat leave Tripoli alive," but other ministers have said Israel would not interfere once Arafat was safely aboard a U.N.-protected ship.

These statements, coupled with military pressure on Arafat's trapped forces, were intended to camouflage Israel's plans, derail the evacuation scheme and prevent Arafat from scoring a propaganda victory, Israeli officials said.

Israeli naval vessels in the Mediterranean Sea have shelled Arafat's positions around Tripoli three times this week, blocking Arafat's only avenue of escape. He is surrounded on land by Syrian-backed rebels who challenge his leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The U.N. plan called for Arafat and his 4,000 fighters to leave aboard Greek ships, but Greece insisted on guarantees of safe passage from the four countries contributing troops to the Beirut-based multinational peacekeeping force. Israel's refusal to go along with such guarantees has apparently stalled the evacuation, though no departure date was officially announced.

"It's a matter of certain arrangements," said Ehud Olmert, a member of Parliament close to the Shamir government. "Israel has made it clear that it doesn't want Arafat to leave under U.N. protection or with his heavy weapons."

Olmert said Israel also was taking the opportunity to strike back at the PLO, which claimed responsibility for bombing a Jerusalem bus, killing five people and wounding 45.

No one has openly suggested attacking the U.N. ships, and any threat was always implied. But some Israeli leaders have given public reassurances that the ships would be safe.

There was no guarantee, however, that Israel would not stop the ships and try to capture Arafat. More than 10 years ago the Air Force diverted a Lebanese civilian airliner and forced it to land in Israel after being tipped that radical Palestinian leader George Habash was aboard. He wasn't, and the plane was released with all its passengers.

Woman likes to help teens

LUFKIN, Texas (AP) — Teen-agers who are in trouble with the law or who have family problems seem to drift toward Gerry Simoneaux.

It's not unusual for the East Texas woman to wake up and find several teen-age kids — not her own — sleeping on her living room couch or on the floor.

"My heart goes out to these kids who have no place to go, no place to sleep and no money," Mrs. Simoneaux said. "I can't do much for them on my salary except give them a few hot meals, a place to sleep and a friend to talk to."

"I really care what happens to them. I love kids, especially teen-agers. They seem to be seeking adult friendship — someone they can trust."

When her 18-year-old son, David, was arrested for stealing from a local store this summer, Mrs. Simoneaux decided to organize interested parents and teen-agers for the purpose of helping troubled youngsters. Thus, Teens-N-Trouble was born.

"I asked the kids why, why, why do they do things to get in trouble?" Mrs. Simoneaux questioned her son and his friends. "Their responses varied from boredom to bad home environment to poor peer influence. Most of them can't get jobs, so they end up stealing what they want."

TNT meets at 8 p.m. each Monday.

"The name of the organization is a play on words — teens 'and' trouble and teens 'in' trouble," she explained. "Some of our kids haven't been in trouble with the law; they just want to help other teens and to make Lufkin better for everybody."

During the meeting, which is basically run by the teen-agers, they discuss things they want to have, do or change in the community, said Richard Dowthitt, an active TNT teen.

"We need a place to hang out," Dowthitt said. "We don't care all that much about, cruising up and down (the street), but there is nothing else to do."

"We want a place where we can play pool, dance, exercise, play video games, talk, watch TV, listen to music or study."

"My dream is a halfway house for teens who need a temporary home," Mrs. Simoneaux added. "Many of these kids have been kicked out of their house by their parents, or the parents moved away and left them to wander the streets alone with no money. Hopefully, then we could find someone to provide much needed counseling."

The teen-agers run the show, Mrs. Simoneaux said.

Car battery, vacuum reported stolen here

Investigations were begun Wednesday related to two misdemeanor theft reports filed during the afternoon.

Richard Dupree of Jack's Used Cars on 25th St. filed Wednesday's first misdemeanor theft report at 5:43 p.m.

He told investigators that a battery valued at $50 had been stolen from a car at the dealership sometime between Dec. 5 and 9 a.m. Monday.

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures No. 2 were mostly lower at midday dealings today.

The average prices for strict low middling 1 & 1/2 inch spot cotton declined 6 points to 73.73 cents a pound Wednesday for the eight markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were 25 cents a bale higher to $1.30 lower than the previous close. Mar 79.62, May 80.75, Jul 81.40, Oct 76.10, Dec 74.55, Mar 76.06 and May 76.10.

More violence reported

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanese troops clashed with Syrian-backed Druse rebels south of the U.S. Marine base today, after sporadic fighting overnight killed a French peacekeeping soldier and wounded two Italian troops.

The latest violence came a day after the battleship USS New Jersey turned its big guns on Syrian positions for the first time, blasting anti-aircraft emplacements deep inside Syria-held Lebanese territory.

The destroyer USS Tattall and the guided missile cruiser USS Ticonderoga joined in Wednesday's bombardment after U.S. F-14 reconnaissance flights were fired on over the Upper Metn mountains.

In the latest clash, state-run Beirut Radio said army positions in the beach resort of Khalde and the nearby hills of Aramoun "silenced" Druse mortar and rocket fire with a 40-minute barrage of artillery and tank cannons at 6 a.m. (11 p.m. EST).

Officials said the shrapnel killed the French soldier and the two Italian soldiers were slightly wounded by stray bullets. The latest casualty was the 79th death in the French contingent since the peacekeepers were deployed in Beirut in September 1982. During the same period, 256 U.S. peacekeepers have been killed.

Marine spokesman Maj. Dennis Brooks, 38, of Detroit, said "all is quiet" at the base of the 1,350 Marines serving with the multinational peacekeeping force. The base at the Beirut airport is about 1.2 miles north of where the clash occurred.

In Washington, President Reagan said Wednesday he would bring the Marines home if all Lebanese authority collapses, but that a premature withdrawal would renew "full-scale hostilities."

The other condition for withdrawing the Marines, Reagan said, would be the departure of all foreign troops and the restoration of the authority of the Lebanese government.

Meanwhile, a convoy of Israeli tanks and armored vehicles arrived today in the besieged town of Deir el-Kamar, 12 miles southeast of Beirut, to help evacuate thousands of Christians encircled by Druse fighters for nearly three months, Israel Radio reported in Tel Aviv.

Israeli officials said the army was assisting the Red Cross in the operation as a humanitarian gesture.

The Israeli army radio said 10,000 civilians and 1,700 rightist Christian Phalange fighters would leave the town, where they have been since the fierce Druse-Christian warfare erupted after Israel's pullback to the Awali River.

The army radio said some of the evacuated fighters would be driven to the Israeli-held port at Sidon and would sail from there to the Beirut area 25 miles to the north along the Mediterranean coast.

In Tripoli, PLO chairman Yasser Arafat was quoted by Beirut radio stations as saying "all is set for our departure" from his last stronghold in Lebanon once Greek ships arrive.

His aides said an Italian ship was expected to arrive today to take out 97 critically wounded guerrillas before his evacuation from Lebanon's second largest city with 4,000 trapped loyalists.

In Brief

Quake follows Chilean blast

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A strong earthquake shook Chile early today, hours after saboteurs dined six major power lines with dynamite and cut off electricity to half the population.

No casualties were reported in either the quake or the explosions, which represented the most widespread sabotage in the decade of military rule.

No group claimed responsibility for the Wednesday night blasts. The government of President Augusto Pinochet has been the subject of growing popular unrest.

Police said three of the explosions toppled high-tension electricity towers in or near Santiago, while three more were blown up outside the Pacific port of Valparaiso. The 10 p.m. blasts caused a chain reaction of power outages in the two cities and a strip of central Chile 650 miles long, police said.

The 1:22 a.m. earthquake, centered 30 miles north of the capital, shook a similar area of central Chile, from La Serena in the north to Chillan in the south.

Agencies will not lift aid

HOUSTON (AP) — Two welfare agencies have withdrawn threats to cancel the benefits of a woman who received $835 in gifts after a newspaper reported she was trying to care for a dying son, a U.S. senator's aide says.

But Ann Martin says she won't rejoice about any concessions until she sees the promises in writing.

"I won't take a verbal agreement," Ms. Martin said.

"With the government, you have to have it written." Officials of the Social Security Administration and of Aid to Families with Dependent Children have taken back their threats to withdraw Ms. Martin's $368 in monthly benefits, Jack DeVore, chief spokesman for Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said Wednesday.

The Department of Agriculture has not budged from its position that the gifts represent income and make Ms. Martin ineligible to receive her $180 a month in food stamps, DeVore said.

Dioxin control plan released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal environmental agency unveiled a nationwide plan today to combat deadly dioxin contamination, which the agency called "one of the most perplexing and potentially dangerous chemicals ever to pollute the environment."

The Environmental Protection Agency plan calls for soil testing at hundreds of sites where dioxin could be found and for simultaneous research on how best to clean up such sites.

In announcing the plan, deputy EPA administrator Alvin Alm conceded that any final solution will be years in the making, but he said the coordinated clean-up strategy would ensure that the agency was addressing the most dangerous risk first.

"None of us have all the answers to the dioxin problem. And it will take a long time before all of the contamination is cleaned up and properly disposed," Alm said. "What is important now is how we muster and use our resources in this effort."

TDC prison guard is fired

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Texas Department of Corrections guard has been fired for refusing to take a polygraph test in connection with the 1982 beating of a death row inmate, says Daniel V. "Red" McKaskle, interim prison director.

Jeffrey W. Langley, a sergeant at the Ellis Unit, was fired this week. Langley was one of several officers linked to the Sept. 10, 1982, beating of inmate Paul Rougeau, 35, of Houston. Rougeau was convicted in the January 1978 murder of a Harris County deputy constable.

Prison officials have agreed to use polygraph tests for inmates and guards in investigations of brutality complaints. Under an agreement with U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice, prison employees must submit to a lie detector test or be fired once an inmate has passed it.

Rougeau, a carpenter, claimed at least four TDC officers — including Langley — beat him because he had a dispute with an inmate building tender.

Suit negotiations continue

AUSTIN (AP) — Despite numerous published reports that a settlement has been reached in the $1.7 billion Mobil Oil Corp. suit, Attorney General Jim Mattox says it is still in negotiations.

Other reports, from sources that would not be quoted, said the settlement likely would be announced today in Houston by Mobil.

"It has not been finally resolved," Mattox said Wednesday, "but we're working on it in an intense fashion. It's conceivable that it could settle. It's also conceivable that it could not."

South Texas Rancher Clinton Manges charged in his lawsuit against Mobil, later joined in by the state, that Mobil had violated its lease by allowing drilling to lapse for more than 90 days several times during the more than a half-century the company and its predecessors held the lease on the land. Together, the state and Manges sought more than $1.7 billion from Mobil.

Ma Bell seeks increased hike

AUSTIN (AP) — Southwestern Bell says it needs more money, but a critic says the company already is getting "an early Christmas gift."

Both sides filed appeals Wednesday complaining about a $653 million temporary rate hike approved last week by a Public Utility Commission judge. The company wants at least $292 million more.

But Public Utility Counsel Jim Boyle says Southwestern Bell is entitled to $653 million less than the $653 million — nothing. "I am very concerned that the PUC is setting a precedent for granting rate increases without a hearing," said Boyle, the state lawyer who represents consumers at PUC rate cases.

He called the $653 million an "early Christmas gift for a monopoly whose budget has been fattened up at ratepayers' expense."

Company officials said PUC Administrative Law Judge Jacqueline Holmes' order "would make Southwestern Bell a second-class citizen during the period in which the temporary rates are in effect," according to a company news release.

Southwestern Bell has a $1.3 billion rate hike request pending at the commission. However, a ruling in that case is not expected until spring. Company officials say they need more money as of Jan. 1, when the American Telephone & Telegraph divestiture takes effect.

Ms. Holmes' $653 million award was scaled down from the $978 million interim hike sought by the company. Southwestern Bell's request would have added $2.60 to monthly bills for basic home service.

The Holmes plan would get most of the money from long distance companies. About $53 million comes from higher prices for toll calls.

PUC Chairman Al Erwin said Wednesday no decision had been made on whether the commission would consider the appeal. The matter was tentatively placed on the commission's Dec. 21 agenda.

"We have the prerogative of acting on it or ignoring it. I don't know what we'll do," Erwin said.

The company says it faces a New Year's Day financial crunch when it becomes independent and loses long distance business. Spokesman Dale Johnson said Southwestern Bell will lose $900 million in long distance business.

Boyle said the company has not pointed out that it also loses expenses as a result of the divestiture.

Car battery, vacuum reported stolen here

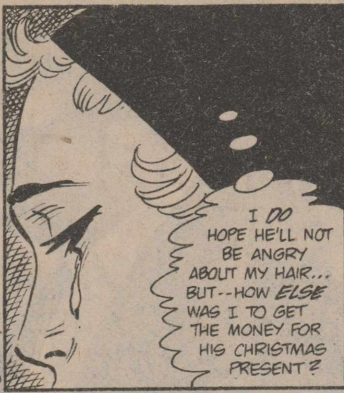

Investigations were begun Wednesday related to two misdemeanor theft reports filed during the afternoon.

Richard Dupree of Jack's Used Cars on 25th St. filed Wednesday's first misdemeanor theft report at 5:43 p.m.

He told investigators that a battery valued at $50 had been stolen from a car at the dealership sometime between Dec. 5 and 9 a.m. Monday.

Transfers almost done

CLARKSVILLE, Texas (AP) — George Lackey hitched his brown suspenders, dropped some tobacco juice into a spittoon and prepared to get pushed around for the first time in his 87 years.

By Thursday, Lackey and a few of his neighbors will have been moved from the white portion of a small public housing project in Northeast Texas to the black portion under a federal court order.

In legal terms, U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's order is intended to integrate the 104 publically operated apartments in Clarksville.

But in human terms, Lackey said, forcing 25 white elderly residents to trade apartments with 25 black elderly residents two weeks before Christmas is "criminal."

"The judge says I got to move, so I'll move. I don't understand why," Lackey said, boxes of his belongings stacked in his living room for the move. "But they ain't going to run me out of Clarksville. I've been here 57 years."

Clarksville Housing Authority director Rosemary Caviness said only five white families chose to move to the black sector. The 20 others opted for more expensive private housing or moved to relatives' homes, nursing homes or public housing projects in other towns. All of the blacks chose to move to the white section by the Dec. 15 deadline, she said.

"I haven't started to fill the vacancies yet. To fulfill the judge's order, I'm going to have to try and find white families for those vacancies," Ms. Caviness said. "Whether I can find whites to move in remains to be seen. They'll get preference for housing, but I've got to keep occupancy up to keep my rents up."

Two black families filed a civil rights suit against the housing authority in 1980 claiming they had been denied housing in the white section even though apartments were available.

Clarksville attorney Pat Beadle, representing the housing authority, said a full hearing on case's merits is pending.

Justice, who has previously sparked controversy in Texas with orders revising prison standards and requiring public education for the children of illegal aliens, issued the order without a trial, Beadle said.

The judge's order, however, has already been upheld by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Beadle said the case is probably headed for the Supreme Court.

Implementation of Justice's order, apparently the first of its kind for public housing projects, is being closely watched by other public housing associations in Northeast Texas who are now a part of a class action suit.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington said this could become a test case for 40,000 public housing units in the country.

Lackey said he chose to make the move because he had no where else to go.

"This is the first time in my life that I've been pushed around," he said.

Embassy had warning

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Embassy in Kuwait was warned about one month in advance by the CIA to expect a terrorist attack, but failed to take enough safeguards to avert this week's truck bombing, intelligence sources say.

The bombing left six people dead. A seventh person died in one of five other bombings that rocked Kuwait on Monday.

One source said both the country and the target were predicted by the CIA in late October. The source also said that warnings to Marines in Beirut went largely unheeded prior to the Oct. 23 bombing that killed 241 servicemen.

"Once again we have a situation where a warning with substantial lead time was provided," said the source. But Marine officials have said the Beirut warnings were too vague to be helpful.

Two other intelligence sources confirmed that warnings were sent to the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait about a potential attack. One source said warnings also had been sent to U.S. embassies in Cairo, Egypt, and Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

The sources, all of whom spoke only on condition they remain anonymous, said some evidence exists that links the Kuwait bombing to Iran, but it is not clear that the attackers were operating on orders from the Iranian government. Iran on Wednesday denied responsibility for the attack.

A group called the Islamic Jihad or "Holy War" claimed responsibility for the bombings. Little is known about the group, but it is believed to be based in Lebanon and consist of fundamentalist Shiite Moslems loyal to the Iranian revolution. The group also claimed responsibility for the Marine headquarters bombing in Beirut.

State Department officials, who described the Monday attacks as "highly organized and orchestrated," predicted there would be retaliatory strikes against the group's main base in Lebanon if its involvement is proved.

One U.S. official said the likeliest place to retaliate would be in the Baalbek region in Lebanon, the group's base which is behind Syrian lines. He said it is highly unlikely there would be a direct attack against Iran because it would be almost impossible to say whether orders come from the government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

"Nobody is even sure who is the government in Iran," this official said.

Meanwhile, the department voiced doubts that one man, injured in the Kuwait embassy bombing and previously believed to have been aboard the bomb-laden truck, had actually participated in the attack.

"There are some doubts about that and I think the doubts may be growing," said department spokesman Alan Romberg. "I'm not sure that individual is necessarily involved."

If the injured and hospitalized man, said to be between 25 and 30 years old, can be linked to the truck, this would mark the first capture of a participant in this year's string of suicide bombings.

Leftists hold army base

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist rebels claim they killed 60 government soldiers in capturing a strategic army base, while the armed forces high command denounced rightist death squads and urged Salvadorans to help identify and capture them.

In Caracas, Venezuela, Henry Kissinger, heading a U.S. Bipartisan Commission on Central America, said Wednesday the region should undergo a process of demilitarization so its countries can live peacefully without foreign intervention.

The clandestine Radio Venceremos said the Salvadoran rebels took the army base on Cacahuatique Volcano, 100 miles northeast of the capital, after nine hours of heavy fighting Tuesday.

The broadcast, monitored here, said the guerrillas killed 60 government soldiers, wounded 75 and took nine others prisoner. Fourteen guerrillas were killed, it said.

Army spokesman Lt. Col. Ricardo Cienfuegos on Wednesday claimed he could not confirm if the rebels held the base, saying "communications were cut" and that "fresh troops have been sent to the area, but I don't know whether to retake positions or to consolidate the old ones."

The army had heavily fortified Cacahuatique, a 5,000-foot volcano, because control of the area put the rebels in position to attack San Francisco Gotera, 10 miles to the east. That city is the capital of Morazan province, long a guerrilla stronghold.

Sunday, Vice President George Bush visiting here warned that the Salvadoran government would lose American support unless it eliminated death squads that human rights groups blame for 39,000 of the 47,000 deaths since civil war began in October 1979.

In an apparent response, the armed forces high command Wednesday issued a statement which endorsed a Dec. 2 statement by Defence Minister Eugenio Vides Casanova that "the death squads must disappear forever."

The statement, signed by 31 officers, also urged people "to report to the proper authorities any information which would contribute to the identification and capture of the death squads."

The New York Times, quoting Salvadoran political sources, today reported that Washington has demanded that El Salvador exile or expel a number of civilians and military officers involved in right-wing death squads. In exchange, the United States promised to increase military aid.

Directors tour cotton facility

RALEIGH--Texas Farm Bureau Directors Billy Huddleston of Snyder and Roy Johnson of Desdemona, recently visited the Cotton Incorporated Research Center to pick up ideas on market expansion.

Also participating was newly elected TFB president S. M. True, Jr. of Plainview.

In their fact-finding mission to boost markets for Texas commodities, the group met with Nick Hahn, president of Cotton Incorporated which conducts research, product development and advertising for U.S. cotton growers. Hahn told them that cotton's share of market at retail except for carpets and tire cord, is expected to be 39 percent by the end of 1983, based upon the first eight months of the year, up from last year's 38 percent.

During the visit, the group also visited the research center, which houses the agricultural, textile and economic divisions and where many of cotton's new products and applications have been developed.

During the tour, Texas leaders saw spinning, weaving and dyeing machinery like that used in textile mills.

Panel says state must transfer all witnesses

HOUSTON (AP) — Six Texas prisoners who were abused after they testified for an inmate accused of killing a warden have been ordered transferred to federal custody, an attorney says.

A two-man panel appointed by a federal judge also called upon Texas officials to immediately release two other men because they would have been freed long ago if not for their testimony, attorney David Vanderhoof said.

The order must be implemented in 10 days, Vanderhoof said.

Texas Department of Corrections officials have not received the order, filed Wednesday, but they will abide by the decision, said prison spokesman Rick Hartley.

"Certainly we did agree to the binding arbitration in the matter," Hartley said. "Obviously we will agree to the resulting order."

The panel found that the prisoners who testified for inmate Eroy Edward Brown were abused, Vanderhoof said.

Brown, 32, was found innocent of a capital murder charge filed in the April 4, 1981, slaying of Ellis Unit Warden Wallace M. Pack. Brown testified he drowned Pack because the warden and another official were preparing to torture him.

Brown is to go on trial in April 1984 on a capital murder charge filed in the death of the second man, prison farm manager Billy Max Moore.

Robert Reed, an inmate serving a 15-year sentence, had the warden's last name — "Pack" — carved on his stomach, Vanderhoof said.

Another witness for Brown, Joe Peacock, "was assaulted while he was asleep," Vanderhoof said.

"He was stabbed in the back three times," he said. "They were small puncture wounds, somewhat deep. The TDC contends they were self-inflicted."

Peacock is serving a 20-year term.

The panel met privately with prisoners and prison officials at Sam Houston State University, beginning Oct. 11 and concluding last month, Vanderhoof said.

At Wit's End

by erma bombeck

For years it has never been farther from me than the telephone.

It holds more drama than a soap opera, stores more data than a computer and records my past, my present and will record my future.

It's a little red plastic Rolodex listing names, addresses and phone numbers.

It's much more than that. Especially at Christmas.

Each card reflects change during the past year.

A mate dies and he gets a line drawn through him or her.

A child is born and the name, sex, and date are recorded. (Who spells Debye with a YE?)

Marilyn gets a new card because she is divorced and has a new address and next to her former husband goes the name of the new wife, Robin.

A child goes off to school and rates a card of his own.

A whole family moves to another state because Dan's job dried up.

Beside your own child's name are five phone numbers all crossed out and a new one that is added that barely fits on the card. (Will they ever settle down?)

Your friend who was always so independent now has a nursing home address.

A relative has left the convent, and has to be refilled under her real name.

The guy you called at the service station who understood your car left eight months ago. (They never have last names.)

An old acquaintance has a note penciled in beside it, "Christmas card returned in '82," so you tear it up and discard it.

There are riddles. Who is Father Debrosky of Wisconsin and what is he doing in your Rolodex?

Did the woman you met on the cruise die? Should you take a chance of sending her a card? (The worst that could happen is it could be forwarded.)

Is the butcher married? Does he deserve a 50-cent card just because he has great rolled ramps?

Change is supposed to be vital to our growth ... our very existence. I know that.

Yet, every Christmas as I slowly weigh each card in the Rolodex, I experience some sadness and fear that things are moving along too fast and I am in control of nothing.

It's like a giant poker game where I discard, try to match up what I have, take a chance on an inside straight, shuffle again, deal, and hope to come up with a winning life.

I know what you're going to say. I came to play.

Teenager gets wish at last

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "I've always wanted to see Neil Diamond," said 17-year-old Jacquelyn Manzi of Webster, Mass., who has leukemia. And with the help of others she was flown here so her wish could come true.

"I'm real excited about the concert," said Miss Manzi after she and her mother settled into a room at the fashionable Alameda Plaza Hotel in advance of the Tuesday night performance.

They were flown to Kansas City and given a hotel room at no charge.

Lashaway is honored

Roy Lashaway was honored for outstanding volunteer service to the Scurry County Museum Tuesday night at a dinner in the museum.

Lashaway began giving volunteer time to the museum when it was housed in a single room in the Learning Resource Center at Western Texas College, and it is estimated he has given 1,350 hours of service in the ensuing years. He volunteers his services on Sunday afternoons to keep the museum open.

Dalton Walton, outgoing president of the museum's board of directors, presented Lashaway a plaque in appreciation of his work. Eunice Irwin, director of museums for WTC, added a note of appreciation for Lashaway's assistance.

The Tuesday dinner was also a farewell to outgoing members of the museum's board of directors and a welcome to incoming directors.

Those who will be leaving the board in addition to Walton are Jean Everett, Anita Talbott, Dorothy Downing, Roy Baize and Margaret Birdwell.

Incoming directors are Mike Dennis, Helen Feinsod, Drew Bullard, Phil Guerry, Cheri Thomas and Murray Anne Ray.

Send same card again

COMSTOCK PARK, Mich. (AP) — A Christmas card, bought "two for a nickel" 50 years ago, is still beating inflation.

Charles Lamoreaux avoided having to buy another card by sending it — again this year — to his friend Claude "Elmer" Host.

Surgeon wins huge award in suit

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — A plastic surgeon — who complained that 48 of 80 breast implants he performed began deflating within six months — has been awarded more than $11 million in damages from the manufacturer.

An eight-man, four-woman jury deliberated for about three hours before returning the verdict against McGhan Medical Corp., a division of the 3M Co., which manufactured and marketed the breast implants.

The suit, filed by Dr. Jack Conlee of Corpus Christi, was the first of 90 suits filed against McGhan to go to trial. Conlee's evidence included depositions from four other plastic surgeons who testified of their problems with implants manufactured by McGhan.

McGhan removed the implants from the market in May 1979, according to testimony.

The company contended that Conlee was to blame for the failures. It said Conlee used improper operating techniques and failed to follow directions regarding inflation of the implants.

Los Angeles was founded by Spanish settlers in 1871.
