Sniper Looks For Victims

Liked By Everyone, Was Called Charlie

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Around the campus they called him "Charlie." It was hard to find anyone who knew him who didn't like him.

"Charlie" — Charles Joseph Whitman, 25, engineering student — rained rifle slugs over the University of Texas campus Monday from 28 floors up, killing 13 persons.

The noon-hour sniping rampage ended when police bullets and shotgun pellets cut him down.

Then it was learned that in the predawn hours he had knifed his pretty blonde wife to death and fatally shot and stabbed his mother.

Friends, neighbors, faculty members, job associates and university records drew this picture of Whitman, an ex-Marine and former scoutmaster:

LIKEABLE

He was a likeable "nice guy" who joked with passengers in his car on the way to classes.

He "seemed more mature than most people his age."

Once a border-line student, he was making good grades and working hard toward his degree in architectural engineering.

He and his wife were regarded as a happily married couple who shared a love for children, although they had none.

"There wasn't a person around there who didn't like Charlie," said Frank Greenhaw, a fellow student and close friend. "As far as I'm concerned, it wasn't Charlie up there. He had gone to the breaking point, and it had to be somebody else."

HANDSOME

Photographs, apparently taken for the university annual, show Whitman was a handsome, blond, crew-cut youth with eyes that crinkled down at the corners when he smiled, and a cleft chin.

He was six feet tall, weighed 198 pounds.

In 1959 he joined the Marines and was stationed for 1½ years at Guantanamo Bay Naval Base in Cuba.

University records show Whitman was born in Lake Worth, Fla., June 24, 1941. A university job application form states he attended Sacred Heart grade school and junior high school in Lake Worth and St. Ann's High School in West Palm Beach, Fla.

BEAUTY QUEEN

Whitman enrolled in the university in September of 1961 and shortly afterward met pretty, blonde Kathleen Leissner of Needville, the local beauty queen daughter of real estate man and rice grower.

They were married Aug. 17, 1962, in the rectory of St. Michael's Church at Needville.

"They were just as sweet as can be. They were two of the nicest young people I had met. He was the nicest person I knew at the university," said Judy Nowotny, 19, who rode to her sophomore classes with Whitman, a neighbor.

ALWAYS JOKING

"Charles was always kidding and joking (but) he seemed a little worried sometimes."

Mrs. D. W. Nowotny, Judy's mother, said the neighborhood children liked to play in the Whitmans' yard. "He loved children and they loved him."

Mrs. Whitman was helping her husband through school, working as a junior high school biology teacher and holding a summer job at the telephone company.

Whitman also was working, besides carrying a heavy summer school load of 14 credit hours.

Dr. Clyde E. Lee, research engineer at the university's Bureau of Engineering Research, said he hired Whitman as an assistant because he needed money.

HEAVY LOAD

"He was carrying a rather heavy course load, but said the courses were important to him and he wanted to get them out of the way," Lee said.

"He was an unusually good

CHARLES JOSEPH WHITMAN

May Be Indirect Cause Of Carnage

AUSTIN (AP)—An autopsy on the body of Charles Joseph Whitman, the campus sniper who killed 15 persons Monday, revealed a small brain tumor that could have caused intense headaches that may have indirectly contributed to his shooting rampage, Justice of Peace Jerry Dellana said today.

The autopsy was performed by Dr. C. DeChenar.

Dellana said DeChenar is performing further tests to find out if the tumor is cancerous.

PECAN SIZE

"He found a small brain tumor close to the brain stem, about the size of a pecan—this is the term he gave me," Dellana said.

"He (DeChenar) did say this: "The tumor itself did not directly affect the frontal lobe—or the thinking part—of the brain. He said it did affect the sensory passages that you feel pain with. There was pressure there that could have caused intense pain — headaches — that could have indirectly caused or contributed to his actions."

Dellana said that Whitman's brain, which had been penetrated by at least one large shotgun pellet between the eyes, was "in such bad condition we didn't think at first we could find anything."

However, the autopsy proved different, the official said.

Dellana said that pathologists' oral report to him did not include any material as to whether there was alcohol in Whitman's blood stream.

REQUESTED AUTOPSY

At a news conference, Police Chief Robert Miles said notes Whitman left beside the bodies of his wife and mother, whom he killed before dawn Monday before going to the University of Texas tower for his shooting spree, requested that an autopsy be performed on Whitman's body so it could be learned why he did the things he had done.

Miles said that on the advice of lawyers, Whitman's notes would not be disclosed.

"The investigation is not complete. They (notes) may never be released," Miles said.

Strike Is LBJ's Baby, Says Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson — not Congress — should decide whether the nation's interests demand a forced end to the 26-day airline strike, the Senate Labor Committee said today.

"The President is not required, nor is he necessarily expected to exercise that authority," the committee said in a report to the Senate urging passage of the joint resolution which would give Johnson authority to end the walkout for as long as 180 days.

The report filed by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., was a preview for debate in the Senate later today.

The basic issue in the Capitol Hill battle over the strike: Should Congress act on its own, or simply hand Johnson the power, to end the walkout.

The Labor Committee chose the course of delegated power by a 10-6 vote. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield indicated he would prefer a congressional order, and said floor leaders of both parties on both sides of the Capitol, agree.

President P.L. (Roy) Siemiller of the striking International Association of Machinists met with Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz for 1½ hours and said afterward there is no possibility of getting the men back on the job prior to a contract settlement.

Some of the five big airlines grounded by the walkout have been talking about putting pay raises into effect now, getting back into the air and then negotiating on fringes.

Asked whether the airlines strike is likely to damage the system of collective bargaining, Wirtz said the main problem now is to do whatever is necessary to end the strike with the least possible damage, but "there will be some" damage.

The Johnson administration prefers a bill which would have Congress itself halt the walkout. Organized labor strongly opposes any back-to-work order—whether it originates on Capitol Hill or at the White House.

The debate was on even before the politically explosive strike measure reached the Senate floor.

"They passed the buck to the President of the United States," said Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., of the joint resolution which would authorize Johnson to force 35,000 striking machinists back to work on five major airlines.

Under its terms, Johnson could halt the strike for up to six months.

Altar Boy Raised In A House Of Guns

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP) — Charles Joseph Whitman, a former altar boy who killed at least 15 persons Monday, was raised in a "house full of guns" by a God-fearing mother and generous but domineering father.

Neighbors said the three sons of Charles A. Whitman, a prosperous Lake Worth plumbing contractor, got everything they wanted—but when their father said "Frog," they jumped.

SPOILED

"You might say they were spoiled," said Charles Abrams, 17, whose family has been intimate friends of the Whitmans for years. "But they were all-right boys."

Charles and his brothers Pat, 21, and John, 17, were raised in a yellow middle class home in a modest Lake Worth neighborhood about eight blocks from the business section.

Neighbors and friends recall Charles differently.

NICE, POLITE

"He was the nicest, politest, kindest kid in the whole neighborhood," said Mrs. Judy Sprague, who used to play with Charles when they were younger. "It may sound silly, but his best quality was just that he was nice, extra nice."

"They were wild people," said Mrs. Anna Hamalainen, a long-time neighbor of the Whitmans. "I'm not surprised at all."

She said the three Whitman boys always had guns, first as toys and then real firearms as they grew older. Charles, she said, once shot up the roof of her house.

FULL OF GUNS

"Their house was full of guns," said Glenn Miller, 18, a friend of John Whitman. "Their father is an enthusiastic hunter. . . . I believe there are guns in every room."

Started Off With His Mother, Wife

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — First he slaughtered the two who were closest to him, chronicling the deeds with macabre exactness:

"12:30 a.m. — Mother already dead."

"3 o'clock — Wife and mother both dead."

Then he climbed with his guns to the highest place around, where the world — with all its pressures he said he couldn't understand — was visible as far as the eye could see, and where he was determined, as he wrote, "to fight it out alone."

Alone, he fired his weapons with deadly precision for an hour and a half at the terrified humans dashing for cover on the broad campus below, and when it was finished he had killed a dozen more people and wounded 31 others. And he lay dead in his own blood in the bullet-pocked sniper's perch.

That was the way police and eyewitnesses reconstructed the broad outlines of Monday's massacre at the University of Texas.

The day's carnage left a total of 16 dead including the sniper and the unborn child of a woman he wounded who was in her eighth month of pregnancy.

The sniper, Charles Joseph Whitman, 25, an architectural engineering student at the university and a former Marine, pciked off his victims from the observation section atop the school's library tower.

Gunned Him Down

The terror ended when two policemen and a university employe crept to a platform above the sniper's position and gunned him down at close range.

A Texas landmark, the library tower is a slender, four-sided shaft rising 307 feet above the center of the campus. Its observation section, above the 26th floor, commands a view of the entire city and the rolling hill beyond.

Whitman, who qualified as a sharpshooter in the Marine Corps, dropped some of his victims at distances as much as two blocks away.

Others fell on the broad campus mall surrounding the tower and lay untended in the 98-degree heat as Whitman kept rescuers at bay with his riddling fire. Police crouching behind trees and buildings answered with blistering rifle and shotgun volleys which left the tower pitted and marked. The gun battle lasted from 11:48 a.m. until 1:20 p.m.

Posing as a repairman, Whitman had hauled to his perch on a workman's three-wheeled cart a footlocker containing his arsenal: Two rifles, one equipped with a telescopic sight; a sawed-off shotgun which police said he had purchased that morning; a highpowered pistol; a semiautomatic pistol; a hunting knife. The locker also contained a supply of food and water, a plastic container of gasoline, and hundreds of rounds of ammunition.

Found His Wife First

When police identified Whitman after the slaughter ended they received a telephone request from the sniper's father-in-law to check the Whitman home, a small duplex some distance from the campus.

They broke in through a window and discovered Whitman's wife, 23, stabbed t odeath.

Then they went to his mother's fashionable apartment near the campus and found her stabbed in the chest and shot in the head. His mother was the estranged wife of C.A. Whitman of Lake Worth, Fla.

Detective Lt. Merle K. Wells said Whitman had left notes at both residences revealing something of what h eplanned to do and why. A notice saying "Please do not disturb" was pinned to his mother's door.

One note was left on his wife's blood-soaked bed, the second with his mother's body.

Police did not reveal their exact contents but police reported that the notes said Whitman "hated his father with a mortal passion," and that his mother "gave the best 25 years of her life to that man."

The notes said Whitman couldn't understand "the pressures bearing down" and had "decided to fight it out alone."

Police said the notes showed Whitman "was very definitely mentally disturbed." They also disclosed that he had talked for two hours with a psychiatrist.

The note found in his mother's apartment, police reported, said he killed her to "relieve her of her suffering, that he didn't want her embarrassed by all of this."

Postscripts To His Notes

As postscripts to the notes, police said, Whitman had written:

"12:30 a.m. — mother already dead.

"3 o'clock — Wife and mother both dead."

Shortly after 9:30 a.m., he went to Sears, Roebuck and Co., bought a shotgun on credit, took it home and sawed off the stock and barrel.

At 11 a.m., officers said, Whit-

Running Fights Could Be Building To Major Clash

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U. S. infantrymen and North Vietnamese clashed near the Cambodian border today in a series of running fire fights that could be building up to a major engagement.

U. S. military headquarters reported four sharp actions throughout the day in the rugged central plateau region 10 miles east of the Cambodian border and 235 miles north of Saigon.

BROKE OFF

Three of the clashes broke off after short fire fights but at last report the fourth was continuing toward nightfall. All of the actions, a U. S. spokesman said, involved company-size units of the 3rd Brigade task force of the U. S. 25th Infantry Division. The size of the enemy forces was not known.

Field reports earlier said several regiments of North Vietnamese regular army troops were known to be operating in the area, 20 to 30 miles southwest of Pleiku City.

The infantrymen killed 26 North Vietnamese in the mountain region Monday after a Communist attack. This raised enemy dead to 648 in three months of Operation Paul Revere against light American casualties, a spokesman reported.

LITTLE ACTION

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, there was little ground action.

On the political scene, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, 35, promised South Viet Nam an elected government by November 1967 and said he would devote himself exclusively to his job as air force commander after that.

The premier made the pledge at the start of a campaign to spur interest in elections for a constitutional assembly on Sept. 11. The assembly will be given six months to write a constitution under which South Viet Nam can change over from military to civilian rule.

Ky had previously indicated he expected to remain in power until the middle of next year but avoided commitment to a precise date, citing the difficulties of establishing civilian government in a nation torn by war and political dissension.

In the air war Monday, a spokesman said U. S. pilots ran through a barrage of 17 surface-to-air missiles during raids on nine petroleum depots, trucks, barges and bridges in North Viet Nam. But the forays cost two Air Force F104 Starfighters, and both pilots were reported missing.

Violence Flares On Riot Fronts

By The Associated Press

Nebraska Gov. Frank Morrison returns to Omaha today to discuss what action might be taken to return peace to the city's North Side where racial violence has erupted for three straight days.

BOMBS THROWN

Even as the governor planned the return, gasoline bombs hit half a dozen stores early today. No one was injured and no serious damage was done. Some merchants stood guard with shotguns through the night seeking to prevent the looting which occurred Sunday and Monday.

The fires, lootings and vandalism which took place in the predominantly Negro neighborhood early Monday resulted in the arrests of 24 adults and seven juveniles. Mayor A. V. Sorensen, after visiting the area, said city officials would not "tolerate any more of this."

Morrison, who sent the National Guard into Omaha during racial violence last month, was to meet with Sorensen.

LARGE PATROLS

In Chicago, larger police patrols prevented another potential racial explosion in a Northwest Side neighborhood after 1,500 residents, mostly Puerto Ricans, poured into the streets.

Isolated disturbances began Monday night after two officers attempting to quell a domestic quarrel in the area, shot and killed a 37-year-old man.

When residents swarmed into the streets, more than 200 policemen moved in and prevented the crowd from breaking up into smaller groups.

The crowd pelted policemen with rocks, smashed squad car windows and started a fire in one building with homemade bombs. However, most of the residents were off the streets by 11 p.m.

Police in Providence, R.I., were struck by stones and bottles Monday night as they broke up a disturbance involving 100 young Negroes after a civil rights rally.

POLICE INJURED

Two policemen were injured, not seriously. They made several arrests to quell the disturbance. They wore helmets and carried plywood shields to ward off missiles.

LEFT BEHIND A MYSTERY

AUSTIN (AP) — Charles Joseph Whitman left a mystery for the police — two cameras with color film in them and a note saying: "Have the film developed in these cameras. Thank you."

The cameras and the note, which was addressed to no one and signed "Charles J. Whitman," were found in his home.

Police sent the films to a firm in Dallas for processing and hoped to receive prints sometime today.

LBJ Presses For Gun Law

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, deploring the "shocking tragedy" on the University of Texas campus, said today "we must press urgently" for a federal gun control law.

In a statement, Johnson said Congress has been considering such legislation for many months.

"The time has come for action," he said.

Johnson, who personally knew one of the victims of the campus sniper, joined Mrs. Johnson in sending a telegram to the university's chancellor, Harry Ransom, saying:

"We want to assure you of any personal or official assistance that would in any way be helpful."

Bill D. Moyers, White House press secretary, said the administration will push for a gun control law stronger than one approved in March by a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

Moyers said the President wants the legislation to encompass controls on rifles and shotguns as well as hand guns.

The President knew Paul Sonntag, 18, grandson of Paul Bolton, news editor of Austin television-radio station KTBC, which is owned by the Johnson family.

First Three Victims Fell Inside Spectacular Tower

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Paul Sonntag, 18, was tanned from a summer as a lifeguard in Austin's hot sun. He had a fresh paycheck in his pocket and was in good spirits.

Mark Gabour, 15, had come to Austin with his family from Texarkana, Tex., to visit his aunt, Marguerite Lamport. She wanted them to see Austin and the surrounding hill country that Texans brag about from the best possible vantage point — the top of the 30-story University of Texas Tower.

Thomas Ashton, 22, a college graduate from Redlands, Calif., had only about a month of training left at the university before he left to teach English with the Peace Corps in Iran. He was taking a lunch break in his busy 10-12-hour day.

It was a lazy-type Texas day, 98 degrees with a few puffy clouds pasted in the sky. No one was rushing to get anywhere in the midday heat.

In the air-conditioned tower, the school's main administration building, Edna Townsley, 51, of Austin was enjoying the coolness before her replacement as an elevator operator showed up.

Then brutal, high-noon terror struck — terror that observers could hardly imagine in their most horrible dreams.

And before the 90-minute nightmare was over, 13 persons lay dead or fatally wounded in the tower and outside by bullets from powerful rifles handled by one man, Charles Joseph Whitman, 24, an ex-Marine who had learned to drill bullseyes from as far away as 500 yards on a firing range.

Three — Gabour, Mrs. Townsley and Mrs. Lamport — died in the tower, probably Whitman's first victims.

Sonntag, Ashton and the others fell outside on the hot pavement and grass.

University Chancellor Harry Ransom, pale and shaken, described what he saw from his 17th-floor office in the tower: "I have never seen or ever met anything like it."

He called off classes today and said the school's flags will be flown at half staff during the week.

Also killed before two city police officers gained the tower runway and blasted Whitman with pistol and shotgun fire from close range were:

Roy Dell Schmidt, 29, a city electrical worker making a routine call a couple of blocks away.

Patrolman Billy Speed, 22, on the force for just over a year, racing up some steps in front of the tower.

Harry Walchuck of Austin as he talked to a newsstand employe across the street from the campus at the small book and newspaper store.

Claudia Rutt, 18, an Austin girl who had dated Sonntag.

Dr. Robert H. Boyer, former University of Texas mathematics teacher who was in Austin for a visit after a month teaching in Mexico.

Thomas Karr, 24, a Fort Worth, Tex., native who died in the operating room.

Thomas Eckman of Barcelona, Spain.

The unborn baby of Claire Wilson, in her eighth month of pregnancy, who was wounded.

Police said notes left by Whitman showed he killed his wife, Kathleen, 23, and his mother, Mrs. C. A. Whitman, in their apartments before the shooting spree.

"It makes me feel kinda sick," said Jimmy Welder, 17, Victoria, Tex., who was caught inside a building opening onto the mall where the sniper brought down several of his targets.

Mass Murder Could Be Worst In Nation's History

NEW YORK (AP) — The Austin sniper slayings, the latest in a grisly series of American mass murders, may be the worst in the nation's history.

A spokesman for the FBI in Washington said it kept no records on such matters, but recalled only one incident that could rival the Texas slayings.

That was when quiet, Bible-reading Howard Unruh, methodically killed 13 persons in 12 minutes on a Camden, N.J., street in 1949. Using an automatic pistol, he chose victims who were strangers to him.

Unruh was judged mentally unfit to stand trial and is now in the Trenton, N.J., State Hospital.

A dungaree-wearing killer accounted for 11 deaths in a two-state shooting spree in 1958.

Charles Starkweather, 19, killed three members of the family of a girl friend, then drove through Nebraska and Wyoming in 1958, leaving eight bodies behind him. Starkweather was executed and his girl friend, Carol Ann Fugate, sentenced to life in prison.

Last month, a man gained entrance to a nurses' residence in Chicago, and slowly knifed or strangled eight of them. A tattooed drifter, Richard Speck, was arraigned Monday, charged with the killings.

Another Chicago case that captured international attention was the 1929 St. Valentine's Day massacre in which seven members of the George (Bugs) Moran gang were lined up against a garage wall and machine-gunned by what was believed to be a rival underworld faction. The killers were never caught.

Six robbery victims died at the hands of Connecticut's "mad dog" killers, Joseph Taborsky and Arthur Culombe, in 1956.

Taborsky died in the electric chair and Culombe, who successfully appealed his first-degree murder conviction, is serving a life term.

Another mass murder case, that of Perry Smith and Richard Hickock, who killed four members of a well-known Kansas farming family, became the basis of Truman Capote's best-selling book "In Cold Blood."

Smith and Hickock were hanged for the crime in which Herbert Clutter, his wife and their two children lost their lives.

Other killings terrorized cities over long periods. In Boston, a man strangled 11 women over a two year period. And in Chicago in 1946, William Heirens, 18, a student, confessed to at least three of a series of seven connected murders.

A team of killers, John C. West, 22, and Robert Daniels, 24, left seven persons dead in northeastern Ohio in 1948. Their victims included a farm family of three.

West was killed in a shootout at a police roadblock and Daniels was later executed.

Astonished With Deadly Accuracy

EDITOR'S NOTE — Associated Press newsman Robert Heard, 36, an ex-Marine officer, was assigned to cover the University of Texas sniper shooting. Trying to reach the best vantage point, he followed two officers across an open space and was dropped by a sniper rifle bullet in his left shoulder. He dictated his story from a hospital bed. Doctors said he suffered a fractured shoulder bone and a severed nerve in the shoulder.

By ROBERT HEARD

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — That guy was an incredible shot.

He hit me in the shoulder about 150 yards away while I was trying to run as fast as I could. I know from Marine training that hitting anything moving from a point high above the target is difficult.

Six inches more to the right and I would be dead with the rest of them.

(Heard did not know that some officers speculated the sniper deliberately aimed for the heart of his victims. Several were hit in the chest, neck and head.)

We got the tip at the office that a sniper was in the tower and I was told to rush to the campus. I remember Jack Keever, another AP staffer, yelled to 'be careful, don't get shot.'

When we got to the university campus we could hear a popping noise. There were spurts of dust now and then as bullets hit the pavement or a building.

Another reporter, Ernest Stromberger of the Dallas Times Herald, and I saw two highway patrolmen putting their rifles together. They started to run toward the tower and we followed close behind.

Then we came to a wide-open space where there was no protection. The two patrolmen ran across the open area safely and I said to myself, 'That gunman probably saw them and he will be waiting for me.'

I waited about five seconds before taking off.

I was almost across the open space when something hit me, whirled me around and knocked me to the hot pavement. My left arm was numb but I remember feeling how hot the pavement felt. It seemed like just a few minutes until a bunch of men ran out and dragged me back to the shade under the trunk of a car.

I remember I was still astonished that he could hit me while I was running. Then pretty soon the ambulance came and took me to the hospital.

(Late Monday he talked with his brother, Dow Heard, a Houston lawyer, by telephone.)

Dow said something about 'they can't hurt an old Marine like you," and I told him, 'They damn sure hurt this Marine today.'

University Tower Has Sadder Side Of History

AUSTIN (AP) —The 28-story tower of the University of Texas' main building stands tall in this state capital, the highest structure in a community of 212,000 population.

Monday it was an execution platform for Charles Joseph Whitman, 25, as he methodically shot and killed 13 persons, nine on the ground 27 stories below.

The tower is the most outstanding feature that the 26,000 students see when they throng the campus during fall terms. The observation platform and the carillion tower above the 27 floors of offices and classrooms are lighted a brilliant orange each time a University of Texas athletic team wins.

The four-faced clock is visible from most of the campus and provides the time for students. Chimes mark the quarter hours. At Christmas time there are carols during the noon hour.

But the tower has a sadder side of history.

There have been at least four suicide leaps from the tower top. A workman fell to his death during construction.

Last August a fire swept the upper stories of the building, sending plumes of smoke from the upper windows.

The flames were confined to the top four stories but smoke and water damaged all 27 floors. Some valuable items of manuscripts, art and book collections were destroyed and others damaged.

Learned From Phone Call

AUSTIN (AP)—The father-in-law of slain sniper Charles Whitman, shaken and near tears, learned the details of his daughter's death Monday in an emotional conversation with an Austin policeman.

Whitman plunged a knife into the chest of his pretty blonde wife, Kathy, 23, in a predawn fit of fury at the couple's Austin apartment.

The former Marine, 25, also killed his mother before climbing atop the University of Texas tower and with telescopic weapons, converting the campus into a field of death.

His wife's father, Raymond Leissner of Needville, telephoned police Sgt. Donald Kidd shortly after Whitman was cut down in a flurry of police bullets. He asked Kidd to check on his daughter.

"Evidently he had been listening to the radio in Needville . . . shortly after Whitman was killed," Kidd recalled today. "When he was unable to reach his daughter be became alarmed.

"At first he called her place of employment and was advised that the husband had called at 9:15 a.m. stating that his wife would not be in that day.

"When he was unable to contact his daughter by phone, he called here and asked that we go check the house. He said to call him back and let him know."

When the police sergeant discovered the apartment slaying, he telephoned Leissner.

"He had just heard it over the news," Kidd said. He said the father was terribly upset, although he did regain his composure.

Assault Charge

Charges of assault with intent to murder have been filed on Herman Fenix, accused of knifing Willie Fanner last Wednesday night. Sheriff A. N. Standard said that report of the stabbing was received belatedly by his office. Fanner was in the hospital and failed to make a report. Investigation led to the arrest of Fenix. Fanner is recovering from a slash wound in the throat.

Hopes Shootings Will Spur Firearms Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief Senate sponsor of an administration bill to control the sale of firearms says he hopes passage will be spurred by the fatal shootings in Austin, Tex.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., said in a statement:

"The incident. . . in Austin is an extreme example of what has been going on for much too long in this country.

"Rifles are used t o murder and wound tens of thousands of people annually.

"I hope these shootings in Austin will cause those who have fought controls over the sale of rifles to any criminal or deranged person to have second thoughts."

Police found two rifles, a carbine, a shotgun and two pistols with the sniper, Charles Joseph Whitman, 25, after he was killed Monday by police atop University of Texas Tower. They said three more rifles and two Derringer pistols were found in his home.

It was not learned immediately where Whitman obtained the weapons. Police said the 12-gauge shotgun had been purchased on credit Monday at a department store.

Dodd is chairman of the Senate Juvenile Delinquency subcommittee which last May 19 approved 6 to 3 an administration bill to put controls on the mail-order and over-the-counter sale of firearms. The bill was referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee where a fight is expected to exempt rifles from these new controls.

The House also has received several bills to curb firearm sales. But it has taken no action since July 1965, when its Ways and Means Committee held a hearing on the subject.

In the wake of the Austin shootings, Dodd said:

"For my part I will continue to fight to keep controls on the sale of rifles in my amendment to the Federal Firearms Act."

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough, a Democrat who lives in Austin, said "This horrible deed must lead to some thought of the promiscuous handling of dangerous arms. . ."

The Senate bill would:

1. Ban the interstate mail order of concealable firearms — such as pistols and revolvers — to individuals.

2. Regulate the interstate sale of sporting rifles and shotguns through an affidavit provision.

3. Restrict the import into the United States of military surplus firearms and certain other foreign-made firearms.

4. Bar the sale of pistols and revolvers to persons under 21.

5. Bar the sale of rifles and shotguns to persons under 18.

6. Ban the over-the-counter sale of concealable firearms to persons who are not resident of the state wherein the licensee conducts his business.

7. Place special regulations over the acquistion of destructive devices.

Whitman Had More At Home

AUSTIN (AP) — Charles Joseph Whitman had an arsenal of three rifles, a shotgun, two pistols and a knife for his shooting spree Monday that left 13 persons dead on the University of Texas campus.

He had bought the 12-gauge shotgun on credit at a department store less than three hours before the shooting began.

The rifles included a 6mm Remington Magnum with a 4-power scope, a .35-caliber Remington pump rifle and a .30-caliber reconditioned Army carbine.

Whitman also had with him atop the University Tower a 9mm Luger pistol, a .357 Magnum pistol and a large hunting knife.

Police found three more rifles and two Derringer pistols at his home.

Connally Coming Home To Direct Investigation

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Gov. John Connally of Texas left for home today to take personal command of the investigation into Monday's sniper slayings in Austin.

Looking drawn and haggard after an almost sleepless night, the governor, himself a sniper victim less than three years ago, left aboard Pan American Flight 442 for Miami.

He said he expects to transfer to a private aircraft there for the flight to Austin.

He described the multiple slayings as "the actions of one deranged individual."

Comparing the rash of sniper slayings to the kidnaping wave of the thirties, Connally said "unfortunately one crime of a certain nature begets others of the same nature.

"I, of course, am unable to analyze or account for the actions of a crazy . . . a deranged individual."

Connally's departure cut short a scheduled three week trip through South America to publicize the 1968 San Antonio HemisFair.

Whitton Returns To Sheriff Staff

Bill Whitton, formerly a deputy on the staff of Sheriff A. N. Standard, has returned to his old job. He left Standard's office seven months ago to take a deputy post in Scurry County.

Standard said he went back to work here on Aug. 1. He replaces Claude Morris, who resigned recently, to become a civil service worker with the Webb AFB.

Whitton will work out of the office as a field deputy for the time being Standard said. Later he may be assigned to special work. Sheriff Standard said that his staff is again complete with the return of Whitton.

Fatally Hurt

RUSK, Tex. (AP) — A car slammed into a bridge abutment 15 miles east of here Monday and killed to Rusk High School students. They were Tony Lee Bobbitt, 17, of the nearby Ponta Community and Ronald Gunter, 16, of the Lilbert Community.

Servicemen Get Fast Mail Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — When it comes to priorities in getting the goods to the GI in South Viet Nam, the mail is right up there with bullets, beans and bandages.

And if Post Office and Pentagon accounts are accurate, letters and packages are reaching U.S. servicemen in Southeast Asia with a speed and efficiency that makes the mail service of World War II and Korea look like the Pony Express.

Vietnamese postal service is something else again. For instance, some Christmas cards mailed in the United States last December were delivered in June. Instances of lost or undelivered mail are too numerous to count. Airmail from the United States averages six or seven days but is erratic.

The mail volume is increasing monthly. Last year the Army and Air Force alone accounted for more than 40,000 tons of mail between Viet Nam and the United States and within the Pacific Command area. It cost the Defense Department $34 million to move that mail between Asia and the U.S. West Coast—and that figure doesn't include the costs for moving military mail within this country.

It's a slow boat to Viet Nam for larger packages. Unless the sender is willing to pay the relatively high cost of air parcel post — although it's cheaper than it used to be — he must expect a delay of 40 to 65 days for the over-five-pound parcel to reach its desitnation.

These heavier packages cross the United States by train or truck, and then wait in San Francisco until a ship leaves for the 21-day trip across the Pacific.

When the ship reaches the harbor at Saigon, it runs into a huge logjam. Finally the packages are distributed in Saigon, then in the field.

A Post Office Department official said: "If you can break those shipments into separate mailings of five pounds or less, you're at least a month ahead of the game."

Every effort has been made to streamline military mail service, with these results:

— A five-cent stamp will take a letter by air all the way — across the nation, across the Pacific, and within Viet Nam, where road networks are poor or don't exist,

— For the parcel post rate to San Francisco, a package weighing up to five pounds will get a free jet ride across the Pacific.

— Servicemen in Viet Nam need only write "free mail" on their letters to have them flown to the United States, its possessions and Canada. For parcels, servicemen pay postage from their local postal unit to Saigon.

— U.S. Servicemen in military hospitals in Japan or the United States also have free-mail privilege if they were wounded or became ill in Viet Nam.

Frequent complaints:

— When a serviceman is killed in Viet Nam, all mail that was destined for him is held until the Army has verified that relatives have been officially notified. Only then is it returned to the senders.

"We've had complaints about this," Col. Charles Azevedo, a Pentagon mail officer, said. "But we just don't want the family, ignorant of what's happened, wondering what's wrong when the mail comes back.

— "When a man is wounded and evacuated into the hospital system, we take the time to see that his mail follows him all the way. This causes some delays, and we do get complaints.

— "We do have losses. Planes crash and burn. But considering the volume we handle, our mail losses are no greater than those in the domestic postal service."

He said the Pentagon investigates every complaint, even if this takes a special radio message.

The Pentagon has these suggestions for Viet Nam mailers:

— Use a five-cent stamp for letters. They'll go by air. But use a plain white envelope and don't write "air mail" on it or you'll be charged the usual eight-cent air mail rate.

— No matter how you feel about zip code numbers, don't fail to use the five-digit APO number in the San Francisco address. It's a locater number that can save days.

— If you can break up shipments into parcels of five pounds or less, it's much to your advantage to do so.

"We think we know what the men in Viet Nam really want from home," Azevedo said, "and that is letter mail.

"One veteran has suggested this: Perhaps a daily short note on little things like what you had for dinner, your shopping trip, what the family is doing.

"And maybe twice a month, a longer letter with news about the house, some snapshots, how the garden is growing, how his friends are. And don't forget to write about the family financial status if he is the provider.

"Once a month, perhaps a package — under five pounds, of course — with cookies, some peanuts or other snack. But no candy — it's too hot.

"No weapons, please. It's against service policy for our men to have personal weapons. We think we supply them adequately."

Gemini More Successful Than Was Previously Hoped

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP—"Gemini has done much more to open the way to the moon that we could have hoped for five years ago."

Thus, Dr. Robert Seamans, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics andSpaceAd - ministration, summed up Monday contributions of America's two-man Gemini project, now heading for rapid completion with two more flights this year.

Gemini 11, a rendezvous and space walk flight, will be next off the launching pad Sept. 9, to be followed by Gemini 12 in seven or eight weeks.

Seamans, speaking at a news conference on the Gemini 10 flight, which ended July 21, noted that in addition to paving the way for the Apollo man-to-the moon program, Gemini had "given this country an operational spacecraft important to national defense."

He spoke specifically of the historic three-day Gemini 10 mission during which Navy Cmdr. John W. Young and Air Force Maj. Michael Collins scored a host of accomplishments, including linkup with an Agena rocket they used to propel them to a record height and the world's first dual rendezvous.

It was rated "the most complex mission to date, in the Gemini series."

After catching a second Agena, powerless after four months in orbit, Collins walked over to it to retrieve an experiment that collected data on micrometeorites in space. Seamans said this proved man's ability to get out and "inspect other objects in space."

Three Are Seeking Vacant Seat Left By Rogers

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — Three West Texans, including veteran Texas Sen. A. J. Rogers and state Rep. Walter Knapp, said Monday they will seek the Democratic nomination to succeed retiring U. S. Rep. Walter Rogers.

The third person is Wales Madden Jr., 38, an Amarillo lawyer who said state Democratic party leadership told him they hoped he would seek the nomination.

The Democratic nominee will face Republican Bob Price Nov. 8.

The congressman, no relation to the state senator, jolted his 18th District by saying he would retire after his term expires this winter. He had won Democratic nomination to a ninth term in Congress in the May primary.

Knapp, 35, unopposed for a third seat in the Texas House, predicted there is "going to be a wild scramble for the spot on the ballot." He is from Amarillo.

Rogers, a Childress rancher and insurance man, has served in the Texas House and Senate for 18 years. He said he will withdraw from the Nov. 8 general election as a senate candidate to try for the congressional nomination.

Pleads Guilty

ATHENS, Tex. (A:) — Willie Upshaw of Brownsboro was sentenced to 100 years in prison Monday after he pleaded guilty to shooting to death a Malakoff grocer, Roland Leon Jordan.

Jordan 55, was killed and his wife, 53, fatally injured Jan. 28 as they opened their store for business.

Zone Used As Entryway

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara says Communist forces are using the demilitarized zone "as an entry way to South Viet Nam."

Defending U.S. bombing raids in the zone separating North and South Viet Nam, McNamara said: "We have reason to believe as many as three North Vietnamese regiments have infiltrated through the demilitarized zone in recent weeks."

McNamara, talking with newsmen after a closed session with a Senate Appropriations subcommittee, added that there is no indication Communist troops are massing for a large-scale invasion of South Viet Nam.

Concerning U.S. troop commitments in Europe, he repeated that the United States does not plan to reduce its "present capabilities" or its share of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces.

Student Wins Waitress Honor

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The "prettiest waitress of 1966" is Ellen Singer, 21, of Toccoa, Ga., a college student working here for the summer.

Ellen, who is 5 feet 7 and weighs 125 pounds, won out over 34 other waitresses. She is a senior history major at Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa.

Opening lead: Jack of ◇

East's commendable silence during the auction deserved a better fate; however, his opponent South manipulated the cards with considerable skill to overcome an adverse trump break and bring his four spade contract safely home.

South opened the bidding with one spade and North barely qualified for his one no trump response—holding the minimum six points. South has 20 gilt-edged points counting high cards and distribution, and is therefore warranted in making a forcing jump shift rebid of three hearts. When North showed a preference for spades, South proceeded to game in that suit.

West opened the jack of diamonds and East overtook with the queen to continue the suit for three rounds. South ruffed in with the six of spades. The ace of spades revealed the bad news in trumps and it appeared that declarer must go down to defeat. The diamond force had reduced him to one less spade than held by his opponent and, the loss of a club trick appeared inevitable.

South's only chance was to find favorable distribution in the side suits. He played the king of hearts and then crossed over to the king of spades to take a heart finesse. East covered North's jack of hearts with the queen and declarer put on the king. He cashed his two high trumps; led the ten of hearts next and was gratified to see East follow suit.

South continued with the four of hearts which East ruffed with the ten of spades. The latter was left with the king-deuce of clubs and, the forced club return enabled South to take the last two tricks with the queen and ace of that suit. He limited his losses to two diamonds and one spade.

We don't sell status.

Just a car. One that gets about 29 mpg, averages 40,000 miles on a set of tires, and hardly uses oil between changes.

Of course, the fact that it's practical is no secret.

And everybody is going to know that you're saving money. But that's the price you pay for Volkswagen.

August Brings Top 104, Showers Drop Mercury

August made its debut with the hottest day of the 1966 summer season.

U.S. Experiment Station reported the maximum temperature Monday was 104 degrees. The mercury still clung to 101 at 6 p.m. — which is most unusual in this area.

The low for the night was 71 — the lowest reading reported for the West Texas area for the day.

Clouds which moved in at dawn on Tuesday brought showers along with a sharp break in the temperature. The experiment station gauge showed only .05 inch at 8 a.m. but there were additional sprinkles after that hour. A gauge in southwest Big Spring showed .18 inch at 11 a.m. The heavy clouds were still in evidence at that hour.

The 104 on Monday was not a record for the community. The hottest Aug. 1 in the 66 years that records have been kept was in 1910 when it was 109.

July wound up as a very dry month. Total rain was only .95 inch. The 65 year average rain for July is 2.6 inch. Total rain for the first seven months as gauged at the station is 12.38 inches which is well ahead of 1965 when only 9.73 inches had been measured through the same months. It is also nearly two inches ahead of the average for the first seven months over the 65 years the records have been kept. The average is 10.68.

This doesn't mean that rain is not needed. Farmers are becoming increasingly alarmed over the hot dry weather. Showers are not enough — real rains are the only salvation if the promising sorghum crop is to be saved and cotton will soon begin to suffer if moisture is not received.

The hottest day this year, until August smashed the record with its sizzling 104, was a 102 some weeks ago. Only eight previous days this summer has the temperature hit 100 degrees.

SNIPER

man carted his footlocker to the tower's elevator and rode to the 27th floor, as high as the elevator can go. Then he dragged the heavy three-wheeled cart up four short flights of stairs to the foyer of the observation section.

There he killed four persons — the woman custodian of the tower, and a younger woman and her two children who were sightseeing.

Later, Vera Palmer, who works in the observatory, rode up on the elevator. When the door opened, a man in a white shirt said: "Lady, don't you dare get off this elevator."

Shaken, Mrs. Palmer took the elevator back down.

At 11:48 a.m. university police received a trouble alarm from the tower. Two unarmed security officers rode to the top.

When they heard shots and saw three bodies they went back down.

"They carried no weapons," A. R. Hamilton, university police chief, said.

"We told people to stay in their offices. Then we called the police."

Rushed Out, Then Felled

When the shooting began a number of persons rushed outside the campus buildings to see what it was about. The sniper's deadly fire felled some of them. Others dashed back inside and behind trees and buildings.

Witnesses said the sniper's bursts were at times spaced about half a minute apart, at other times rattling off in staccato fashion. At one point police even suspected there might be more than one man firing at them. The sniper dashed from place to place in the observatory and his fire came from all directions.

The blistering fire pinned down rescuers. Finally armored trucks were pressed into service as ambulances scurried about the no-man's land picking up the wounded.

One of the wounded was Robert Heard, Associated Press reporter, shot through the shoulder as he tried to dash across open ground to a better vantage point.

For more than an hour Norman Barger of Dallas sat at a library window where she had been working. She could see six persons lying on the cement near the building.

"We could see the people moving a little bit but they never could get up and walk away," she said. "The sniper would shoot at them again.

"Once I saw a policeman running across the open area and you could see the sniper's gun kicking up the cement dust right behind him."

Miss Barger also watched the rescue work.

Use Body As A Guard

"A policeman would run out shooting and use his body as a guard for the others, who crouched while they ran. You could see the (police) bullets ricocheting off the tower."

Walter Embray, a junior from San Antonio, said he had a simple reaction to the shooting: "I just wanted to get the hell out of there."

The victims were taken to Brackenridge Hospital, operated by the city. Many were treated in hallways on stretchers as the emergency room facilities became overtaxed with the arrival of each ambulance.

Volunteer blood donors also flocked to the hospital as news of the massacre spread about the city.

Police Chief Robert Miles said that during all the shooting there was no concrete plan for capturing the sniper.

At one point Whitman's accurate fire drove away a light plane carrying a police sharpshooter who wanted to pick off the sniper from the air.

Then Ramon Martinez, 29, a five-year police veteran, arrived on the scene from his home, where he had been relaxing off duty.

Alternately crawling and running, he reached the main entrance of the tower, followed by George McCoy, 26, another officer. They gave a rifle to Allen Crum, a university employe.

The three men made their way to the observation section, where they separated. As Martinez rounded a corner he saw the sniper and fired.

The sniper wheeled then snapped back one shot. Martinez emptied his pistol at the sniper as McCoy rushed onto the platform firing his shotgun. One of Martinez' bullets hit the sniper in the neck. A buckshot pellet from McCoy's shotgun hit the sniper between the eyes. The battle was over.

Word To The Wise

Fred Creech, representing the National Automobile Theft Bureau, left, and Jay Banks, Big Spring police chief, pose by one of the "Lock Your Car" stickers being put on meter posts around town in a campaign to cut down on auto thefts here. (Photo by Tom Barry)

LOCAL CAMPAIGN STARTS

Helpful Advice: 'Lock Your Car!'

Local police, in cooperation with the National Automobile Theft Bureau, began a campaign Tuesday morning to reduce car thefts in the city.

Police began at 10 a.m. putting stickers asking motorists to lock their cars on all of the more than 600 former parking meter posts around town.

"In the first seven months of this year," Jay Banks, police chief, said, "there have been 22 cars stolen. During the same period last year 19 were stolen. We would like to cut down on the number stolen."

Bumpers of all police cars will get larger versions of the signs, all of which are colored with a red which will glow in the dark when hit by light. Fred Creech, special agent for the NATB's southwestern division, supplied them to Banks.

Records of the Federal Bureau of Investigation show that a least 42 per cent of all cars stolen have the key in the ignition or the ignition is unlocked.

"To make matters worse," Banks said, "car theft is frequently a teenager's crime — often a young person's first step toward a life of crime. Persons under 18 accounted for 64 per cent of all auto theft arrests last year."

"If everyone locked his car whenever it is left unattended," Creech said, "the number of car thefts would be considerably reduced. Results from cities where the campaign has been conducted prove this thesis."

In Chicago, where an intensive campaign was conducted last year, auto thefts in the period July 22-Aug. 18 were down 20 per cent from the same period in 1964.

The Insurance Information Institute noted that auto theft is one of the easiest crimes to commit.

"All vehicles left unattended are vulnerable, and widespread prevention by police surveillance is a physical impossibility," the institute stated.

In some of the campaigns in larger cities, Creech said, the procedure includes window displays in stores, notices in display advertising of local merchants, stickers on parking meter posts, leaflets to be mailed with utility bills, handbills for windshields of cars, posters on police vehicles and seminars on the auto theft problem for high school students.

Banks said today that the Big Spring campaign has just started and asked for the cooperation of all Big Springers in helping to cut down on car thefts.

"The best advice I can give is given by the stickers we put on the meter posts," he said. "Lock Your Car."

Chicago Has 268 Murders Through July

CHICAGO (AP)—Police say the 72 persons murdered in July 1966 made the most violent month in Chicago's history. The massacre of eight student nurses helped swell the total.

Police said Monday 268 persons have been murdered in Chicago during the first 212 days of 1966, well above Chicago's normal average of a murder a day.

Of the 72 murders last month, police said arrests have been made in all but 10.

The exceptionally hot weather was blamed by Capt. Francis Flanagan, commander of homicide, for the higher number.

Milch To Ask Zoning Change

Al Milch will ask the Planning and Zoning Commission today at 5:15 p.m. to change zoning on his property at Twenty - Fifth and Birdwell Lane from 'One Family" to either a "Retail" or "Multiple Family District."

The property is a one-and-a-quarter acre tract and a two-and-a-quarter acre tract. In the past three years, Milch has asked five times for a zoning change, and has been denied each time.

Otto King will ask for a zone change on the west 70 feet of a lot at 509 Young from "One Family" to Neighborhood Service."

Another request, by Omar Jones, for a zone change will be withdrawn, according to Ernest Lillard, director of public works.

Measures Quakes In Living Room

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — It was a hearth-shaking event the day Dr. Charles F. Richter moved the seismograph into the parlor, but now, he says, Mrs. Richter "wouldn't be without one."

"She was a little upset at first," the famed earthquake specialist recalls, "but it was received enthusiastically by her girl friends. It makes a wonderful conversation piece at parties."

Dr. Richter, 66, developer of the Richter scale of earthquake magnitude, has been with the Seismological Laboratory here — now run by the California Institute of Technology — since 1927.

He's the scientist who is called when an earthquake strikes. His instruments, including the one at home, help give quick clues to the earthquake's strength and location.

Seismographs, the primary tools seismologists use in studying earth tremors, have become increasingly important for detecting underground nuclear explosions.

The Seismological Laboratory, nestled among trees and shrubs in an elaborately manicured setting, looks like anything but a laboratory. It is housed in an old mansion overlooking the Annandale Country Club above Pasadena.

Dr. Richter received his PhD at Caltech in 1928. Work at the laboratory eventually led, in 1931, to the Richter scale, a method, using readings from seismographs, for determining and comparing the magnitude of earthquakes.

The siesmographs seen at the laboratory come in threes, one for recording east-west ground movement, another for north-south motion, and the third for vertical movement.

Dr. Richter said seismographs at the various stations in Southern California record the movements on film, which is later developed, printed and analyzed at the laboratory.

The instruments at the laboratory use special ink pens that record on paper, giving quick access to first clues of an earthquake.

If there are no quakes — or other sources of jiggling — the pens make straight lines on the turning roll of paper. But comes an earthquake, or perhaps an underground nuclear blast at the Nevada atomic test station, the pens move sharply — moved by sensitive apparatus secured to bedrock — according to how strong the quake was.

This method gives precise graphs indicating the time of the quake, its magnitude, distance and, usually, direction.

Water District To Ask Higher Rating On Bonds

Officials from the Colorado River Municipal Water District will make a trip to New York Aug. 18 in ar. effort to secure a higher rating for the district's bonds.

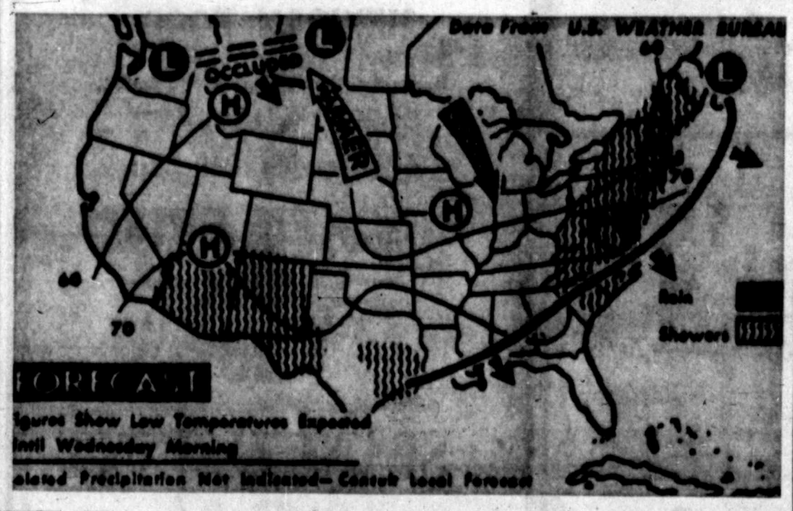
Currently the district holds a BAA rating on its issues, virtually the same as it has enjoyed when it began its operating history in 1951. With an outstanding record of pre-payment as well as expanded operations, Charles Perry, Odessa, president, is hopeful that Moody's and Standard and Poore will consider upping the district's bond standing. A new 60-year contract to furnish water to Midland should add strength to the district's rating, Perry and other board members have contended.

Perry will head the CRMWD group in presenting the case, and he will be assisted by O. H. Ivie, Big Spring, general manager, and S. W. Freese, Fort Worth, consulting engineer, as well as one director from each of the member cities.

Reason for pressing for an upgrading of the rating at this time is that possibly within a month or more the CRMWD may be offering a $30,000,000 issue of revenue bonds for sale to finance a lake project at Robert Lee, together with pump stations and pipelines.

Relations Get Clift Estate

NEW YORK (AP) — The bulk of actor Montgomery Clift's $200,000 estate has gone to his sister and mother.



Weather Forecast

Tuesday night's weather will be rainy over parts of the North and Middle Atlantic States, the Southern Plateau and portions of the western Gulf Coast region. It will be cooler in the Lakes and Ohio, Tennessee and mid-Mississippi valleys. It will be warmer in the Carolinas and portions of the Northern Plains. (AP WIREPHOTO MAP)

Gin Granted A Location To Handle Burrs

City commissioners in a special meeting last Friday evening granted a license to the Co-Op Gin, 511 NE 2nd, to erect a burr bin straddling the alley adjacent to the gin, according to Larry Crow, city manager.

The gin requested the licensing so that it would be able to drive trucks under the bin, which is to be mounted on 14-foot stilts, and carry away the burrs.

Presently the gin burns the burrs, Crow said, and the new procedure will alleviate the air pollution problem caused by the burning.

At the same meeting, Crow said, permission was given to draw up a new deed for right of way on FM 700 with the Edwards Estate.

The estate had previously given a route for FM 700 through the property, but the Texas Highway Department did not want the exact route as specified in the deed. The estate agreed to modify the deed. There will be no cost to the city, Crow emphasized.

worker, was prompt, and asked real mature questions concerning the objective of the project — not just his job.

"The boys working with him Friday said he was in good spirits. There were no signs he was depressed."

But notes left near the bodies of his wife and mother told of depression, repressed violence and severe headaches, police said.

Whitman had a spotty scholastic record, mostly C's, with an occasional D and one F in his first two years at the university. But he made all A's and B's on a heavy load of math and engineering courses in the 1965-66 fall semester and two A's, two B's and two C's in the spring semester

NO RECORD

Whitman had no police record and no university record of disciplinary action.

Defense Department records show a Marine special court-martial sentenced him to 30 days restriction and hard labor, but no confinement, and reduced his rank to private for violation of orders.

Whitman's university job application form said the court-martial convicted him of "loaning money for profit and gambling." Before the court-martial, he had earned the good conduct medal.

BRUSH ON, BEAT RUGS
Using No-Roach is as simple as the picture shows

No-Roach Ruins Plans Of Crafty Cockroaches

Cockroaches have ways — hiding, running, making themselves scarce. That's how they "beat the system" . . . defying day-to-day use of bombs, powders, aerosols, etc. designed to exterminate them.

But there is one proven system they can't beat — because it works safely, invisibly, all the time, every day, for months.

That's the Johnston's No-Roach system! Simply brush this odorless, colorless liquid around baseboards, sinks, tablelegs . . . behind cabinets and appliances . . . on shelves and inside cabinet doors. Use Johnston's No-Roach in bathrooms and anywhere cockroaches may be found breeding.

AMERICA'S FAVORITE AND FRUSTRATING PASTIME

Gnus, Emus Roam Through Crosswords

By SID MOODY

NEW YORK AP) — There are gnus in the zoo — and emus, too.

But they are more likely found roaming through what may be America's favorite and frustrating pastime, the crossword puzzle.

They are but two of the printable but perplexing four-letter words that regularly pester the more than 30 million Americans who play at crosswords.

TIMELESS

The crossword has become a timeless time killer. It has been used in advertising campaigns and for marriage proposals. It sells newspapers, books and magazines by the millions.

It is the great leveler of our time. The office boy and the boss, the commuter and the housewife, the jeune fille — young girl, french, and the old termagant — shrew, all stand equal before the challenge of Daedalus's maze — labyrinth, of the English language.

Crossword cultists live in a world of two-letter words such as oe — a whirlwind of the Faroe Islands, and longer ones McGuffey never put in his readers such as schwa — the upside down 'e' in pronunciation symbols, and aposiopesis — not finishing a sentence or thought. Across or down, puzzlists live for today's "ancient people of Gaul" and tomorrow's answer — remi.

CONTROVERSY

The crossword has raised controversy: the New York Times, in a puzzle featuring examples of figures of speech, once chose as a definition for "anticlimax" the phrase "For God, country and Yale" and heard a lot more than Boola-Boola from some old Elis.

And it has raised moral crises: Margaret Farrar, the Times' crossword editor, once received a call from a girl asking for a few hints on next Sunday's puzzle so she could impress her boy friend who was a whiz at words. Mrs. Farrar was stricken by demur — uncertainty, n., but finally acceded — agreed, to divulge several words.

"I just hope," she said the other day, "I haven't saddled some bright boy with a dumb girl for life."

GIVES CLUES

Mrs. Farrar, one of the genro — elder statesmen, Japan, of the crossword since she took them up in 1920 after graduation from Smith College — "I can see my obit now: 'Queen of the crosswords passed out today' — is permissive about giving clues to stumped Sunday puzzlers.

"No use their getting ulcers waiting for the answers next week."

Purists, on the other hand, do puzzles in pen, start at the upper left hand corner and work numerically across and consider dictionary users pariahs — outcasts.

Mrs. Farrar feels dictionaries are mete — allowable. "Puzzles should be fun, not work. Besides the solvers may learn something."

CONSCIENCE

An editor at Dell Publishing Co. agreed dictionaries are a matter of one's own conscience. And a matter of over 300,000 of its crossword dictionary Dell sells yearly.

Dell also puts out three puzzle magazines — there are over 40 others — the last nine issues of which sold 550,000 copies. Simon & Schuster has printed over 100 crossword books since it put out the first in the Dec. 21, 1913, issue. The first word down was a synonym for "to govern" — u — "and fans have been moving over and down ever since.

In 1924 Richard Simon and Max Schuster began their publishing house. Simon's aunt asked if they wouldn't put out a crossword book because a sick friend of hers liked to do them. S&S took the gamble but printed the book under the name of Plaza Publishing Co. to avoid possible damage to their reputation. They needn't have feared.

BECAME FAD

The book took off like a simoom — violent desert wind, and the crossword became a fad, nationwide and worldwide. Almost every American paper now has one. During World War II when newsprint shortages cut British papers down to four pages, editors tried to drop the puzzles. Readers waged a minor battle of Britain. The puzzles stayed.

Besides the 30 million solvers the Gallup Poll has estimated in the United States there are an uncounted number of constructors, or puzzle-makers. They include a lifer at the Ohio State Penitentiary who sold 250 last year. There are so many the price for a daily puzzle in the Times, for instance, is only $10 and $25 and up on Sunday.

"Puzzles are like poetry, low paying," says Mrs. Farrar.

MAKES LIVING

But at least one man makes his living constructing puzzles. He is Jack Luzzato, who wanted to be a cartoonist until he sold a puzzle to the World 40 years ago and thought, "Gee, there may be money in this."

Luzzato, who lives in the Bronx, takes three to five hours to make a 21x21-square puzzle. First he lays out the black squares in a symmetrical pattern. Then he fills in the longer words and finally the shorter ones. Finally he picks out definitions for the completed words.

"When you're constructing, for every word you use you should have 1,000 words you could have used. You need instant and total recall of words."

Luzzato is always on the lookout for new words from the space age or television or politics such as A-OK, gobbledegook, orbit or adman. History also turns up new words or definitions for old ones. "About all we had for essene, a very handy word for constructors, was 'Hebrew ascetic' until they discovered the Dead Sea scrolls," said Mrs. Farrar. "It opened up a whole new field."

Luzzato does crosswords for books — his sell up to 300,000 each — for house organs, for promotional campaigns, and even did one for the welding industry. "I didn't know anything about welding, but they sent me a glossary."

Luzzato knows so many words if he sees a new one "it startles me." When Esquire magazine had Mrs. Farrar construct what it called "the world's hardest crossword" recently — it just about was — it allowed readers eight months to finish. Luzzato took three hours.

He aims his puzzles at high school graduates who like to read. "If they are nonreaders, what you think are everyday words are completely lost on them."

British puzzles, on the other hand, are so arduous people sometimes feel they have reached their day's apogee — high point — if they fill in one word.

ORDER

Psychologists, constructors and solvers seem generally agreed people do puzzles to pass time, to learn words, because of the challenge and because "a completed puzzle represents order in a chaotic world."

Whatever the reason, puzzlists seem to have a common bond. One man wrote out a proposal on a crossword to his puzzle-loving girl. Another husband inserted an affectionate ad to his wife on their anniversary right next to the puzzle where he was sure she would see it.

The puzzlists are loyal. A woman in California keeps reordering Luzzato's books even though she has done them all just because she likes them. A Buffalo, N.Y., man pays 50 cents for an out-of-town paper just because he likes the puzzle.

The puzzle populace is wordy, all the time writing and phoning. A student begged Mrs. Farrar to keep the daily puzzle off the center columns so he wouldn't have to fold the paper. His professor could hear the pages rustle in the back of the classroom.

INDIGNANT

She once heard from an indignant woman who said the four-space word for "letters" simply must end in an 's' even though it didn't fit.

"Did you open your mail today?" Mrs. Farrar hinted. The caller sputtered in embarrassment. "It's things like that that make my day," said Mrs. Farrar.

Luzzato once suffered the extreme embarrassment of the constructor, a typographical error. He was choosing definitions and misread his handwriting. The correct word was "dope" but he mistook the "d" for a "p" and the definition he made up was "Catholic chief."

"The bombs really fell on that one," he said.

While crossword has become an institution, it is not unmindful of change. Solvers in the '20s were up to their elbows in gnus and emus, rocs and theas. Today puzzles are more topical. Eugene Maleska, a constructor, poet and New York school administrator, has been credited with the step-quote puzzle, in which a long quotation wanders down and across and down and across the squares.

NEW DEFINITIONS

What keeps Mrs. Farrar up nights, she says, is thinking up new definitions for old crossword standbys such as aria — solo, and erne — sea eagle, and snee — knife.

But one cliche has gotten too much for her: anoa — Celebes ox. "I've decided to put him out to pasture. For good."

So, in the world of the crossword at least, the anoa is as dead as the dodo — extinct bird of Australia.

Johnson's Record Tarnished By Airline Machinist Vote

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's venture into the role of copilot for an airlines strike stetlement that never got off the runway is being chalked up as a political miss.

The contrast between Johnson's current refusal to give Congress any advice on a legislative solution and his exuberant televised announcement of the proposed settlement Friday night has become a hot topic for cloakroom discussion among members of both parties.

The consensus seems to be that the President, who had remained at arm's length while the negotiations wore along, decided only after he had been advised an agreement was possible that it was time to step in personally.

But the machinist union members' rejection of the settlement terms tarnished Johnson's record of being able to knock union and industry heads together and come up with an agreement the public accepted as in its interest.

It seemed that even a can-do President couldn't always prevail, even when the public was being inconvenienced to a point where some members of Congress wanted a national emergency declared.

The airlines strike has been a touchy political affair in which neither the Prseident nor Congress wanted to become involved in an election year.

There is the definite feeling in Congress—and obviously at the White House too—that other big unions are watching the outcome of this dispute to gauge demands for increases in an economy where the cost of living has risen sharply in the last six months.

The administration's anti-inflation guidelines for wage and benefit increases were all but abandoned in the rejected settlement, although the President pointed to increased productivity in the airline industry. If the union now gets an even greater increase, the ceiling for other unions' demands are expected to move up.

This could put every politician on the spot, from the President on down. They would be caught between the organized political might of the unions and an unorganized protest by householders against soaring costs of things they buy.

In this situation, Congress members who lean heavily on union support for re-election wish they didn't have to pass any strike-ending legislation. But if they do, they want the President to put it into effect and thus share with them the political onus that labor will attach to the action.

Johnson evidently has other ideas. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, obviously acting under White House instructions, told the Senate Labor Committee Monday the administration was neither advocating nor opposing legislation to end the strike.

Hospital To Release Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is expected to be released Wednesday or Thursday from Walter Reed Army Hospital here, the hospital reports.

He has been undergoing a routine checkup for more than a week.

"Examinations and studies are now being completed," said a medical bulletin issued late Monday. "He (Eisenhower) is getting along very well.

"He came to Walter Reed for a general checkup of his heart and arthritic conditions and no new diagnoses were found," the bulletin continued. "The examinations were of a routine nature."

Eisenhower, who suffered a major heart attack in 1955 and another last fall, entered the hospital this time July 25.

CESENATICO, Italy (AP) — Six men were fatally burned Monday when liquefied gas burst into flame as it was being pumped into an underground storage tank from a delivery truck.

Drop Listed In Payments Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler reports preliminary figures indicate a substantial drop in the U.S. balance of payments deficit during the second quarter of this year.

Fowler declined at a news conference to cite any figures but said "we are holding our own" despite outlays required by the Viet Nam war. The deficit last year was $1.35 billion, about half that of 1964.

Republican Candidates Challenge Demo Seats

By MIKE COCHRAN
By The Associated Press

Vowing to campaign night and day Republican George Bush and five other GOP members are poised for a November challenge to the Texas Democratic stronghold in the U.S. House of Rrpesentatives.

The eloquent Houston oilman faces former Dist. Atty. Frank Briscoe of Houston in one of six contested congressional races sprinkled across the state.

"I am real serious about this,' Bush declared this week, saying that he already is campaigning full time.

"We have organized our headquarters and we're in the process of raising money."

The campaign tempo will pick up even more momentum after labor day, he said.

Bush staged a robust, expensive race against Sen. Ralph Yarborough in 1964 but was swept under in the Johnson landslide.

Briscoe defeated former Houston City Atty. John Wildenthal Jr. in the Democratic primary, contending he wanted to represent the "silk stocking" 7th District "because the makeup of the district is particularly appealing to me."

"I tend to share their political philosophy," he said. "They are Democratic yet conservative."

He has been making personal contacts and speeches and mailing out literature but his campaign has not shifted into high gear.

The South Texas duel is among the features of a Texas political campaign dominated by the Senate race, matching Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr against Sen. John Tower.

Tower is the lone Republican from Texas in Congress, the darling of state GOP leaders and a prime target of Texas Democrats.

A Democratic spokesman charged recently that GOP generals have pressured certain Republican congressional candidates to withdraw from their races and devote their energies to Tower's re-election.

Republicans responded with a flurry of denials.

But generally it's been politically peaceful this summer with most of the campaigns still in the planning stages.

This is particularly true in Dallas, where Republicans James Collins and Duke Burgess are opposing incumbents Joe Pool and Earle Cabell respectively. Collins stickers have appeared on cars, and Burgess has made a few speeches, but the political activity, if any, is being conducted quietly and privately.

Austin lawyer Jane Sumner said she hasn't started campaigning yet but hopes soon to start an active campaign—"as active as I can." She opposes Rep. Jake Pickle in the 10th Congressional District, a seat once held by Lyndon Johnson.

Pampa rancher Bob Price got his campaign under way with a televised theme that the "Price is Right." His television commercials appear periodically across the Panhandle district where he is seeking the seat of Rep. Walter Rogers.

Rogers has withdrawn from the race.

D. C. Norwood of Wichita Falls, an independent oil operator, has climbed aboard the Tower bandwagon in an effort to oust Rep. Graham Purcell in District 13.

Farm Bureau Queen To Be Chosen Here

District Farm Bureau Queen will be selected here on the night of Aug. 27 at the Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

Queens from this and from nine other counties will compete for the honor of representing this district at the State Farm Bureau Queen competition in Corpus Christi in November. Winner there goes to Las Vegas for the national competition.

Some of the counties have already selected their queens. Midland, Dawson and Concho held their county competitions recently. Cole County selects its queen tonight. Scurry and Gaines have set their contests for Aug. 12, Mitchell for Aug. 9, Tom Green for Aug. 6, and Howard County Aug. 20.

Eight competitors have entered the county contest.

Latest to enter is Carolyn Ford, 16, Rt. 1, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ford. Other entrants will be welcome. Deadline could be as late as Aug. 19 but the Farm Bureau office urges that contestants not wait that long.

Wants Realistic Election Laws

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP)— Rep. Jim Wright, Fort Worth Democrat, wants Congress to make election laws more realistic on campaign spending.

The Texan has first-hand knowledge. He ran for the Senate and lost, then subsequently did a lot of statewide campaigning while pondering whether to run again.

He outlined his views in testimony to the House Administrative Committee.

"I dare say," Wright told the committee, "that there is not a member of Congress—myself included—who has not knowingly evaded its (the law's) purpose in one way or another."

"The law provides that a candidate (for the House) can spend no more than $5,000 in his bid for election, and a candidate for the Senate no more than $25,000."

Wright said upwards of a million dollars is spent now in gubernatorial and senatorial races in many large states.

"Just one first-class letter to every family in Texas would cost—in production and postage—approximately $300,000," he added.

Search Expanded For Missing Woman, Baby

Search of West Texas, under way since July 27, has failed to reveal any trace of Mrs. Shirley Jeane Anderson, 29, and her 3-year-old daughter, Sheryl Lynn.

The woman, wife of B. L. Anderson, 1708 Owens, was in Stanton on the morning of July 27. She was looking for work and was carrying the child in her arms. She was last seen leaving Stanton, on foot, headed toward Big Spring at mid-morning. Since then she has not been seen or heard from.

The husband said he had reported missing the woman and his daughter to officers on the day she disappeared. Sheriff A. N. Standard of Howard County and Sheriff Dan Saunders of Martin County, have conducted a hunt for the two since that date. The hunt is now spreading to other areas. Mrs. Anderson is originally from Des Moines, Iowa, and officers there have been alerted to look for her.

Mrs. Anderson, at the time she disappeared, was wearing blue slacks and a yellow blouse. She had only about $15 in her purse, her husband said. The baby was wearing a blue panty suit. Mrs. Anderson is pregnant.

Anderson asked that anyone who has information call the sheriff's office or get their message to AM 3-3953 or AM 3-2187.

Local Boys Are Held In Sonora

The Sonora sheriff's department reported Monday night that three Big Spring youths are being held in that South Texas city for being under the influence of drugs.

Officers said that Sonora Sheriff James Huff reported that the three youths had been to Old Mexico and were under the influence of marijuana and had drugs in their possession as well as a "large amount of change."

One of the youths is 17, police said, and the other two are juveniles. The father of one of the three youngsters reported that his son took his father's car without permission Sunday.

Juvenile Officer Bob Wakefield and the youths' parents were notified.

A Devotional For The Day

"He who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." (John 8:12, RSV)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy Son, our Lord and Master, who walked the dusty lanes and through the crowded marketplaces, ever seeking to serve Thee and make Thy love known. Give us faith and courage today to walk with Him in our community. In His name we pray. Amen.

To Alleviate The Squeeze

One reason why state colleges and universities have lagged in capacity and quality and been financially squeezed during the current and continuing era of rapidily rising enrollments is that the Texas Legislature has appropriated state aid on the basis of existing enrollments. The two-year appropriations thus become inadequate for the subsequent collegiate terms to which they apply.

The Coordinating Board, Texas Colleges and Universities, consequently is recommending an important budgetary change in this state's system of higher education. It is asking the Legislature to base state aid on anticipated, rather than previous, enrollments.

As it is difficult to predict exactly enrollments for each and all of the 22 senior colleges and 30-plus public junior colleges, the Coordinating Board suggests that it be given an extra 10 per cent of the college-aid budget to allocate among the colleges and universities to cover their actual enrollment increases over the coming two years. The board figures that would be $37.8 million for senior colleges and universities and $6.7 million for junior colleges.

That would be in addition to the recommended increases in college and university budgets to improve the quality of Texas' higher education. It would also be in addition to the funds in the new plan for greater state aid to junior colleges.

The board also is asking for $10 million extra to allocate for matching grants not foreseeable at biennium budget - making time. This is in line with the board's welcome pledge to try to make full use of all available federal aid to public and private colleges.

The board's proposal will necessarily further increase the higher - education costs which are already expected to require a major state tax increase. However, that seems essential if Texas is going to catch up and keep up with other states now leading in higher education, and thus improve this state's ranking in nationwide economic development and social progress. Higher education appropriations should anticipate future needs, not merely cover past needs.

Firm Mandate

Clean air and clean water are getting to be good politics. Recently, the Senate by an 80 to 0 roll-call vote passed and sent to the House a bill expanding the existing program of federal grants for state, local and regional air pollution control activities. Then it passed by a 90 to 0 roll-call vote the Federal Water Pollution Control Amendments and Clean Rivers Restoration Act of 1966, authorizing a six-year, $6 billion program of aid to the states to pay for cleaning up streams.

Meanwhile, Wisconsin in June joined seven other states in adopting a water pollution control measure. The program is scheduled to go into effect on Monday. The new law is expected to be of major significance in the campaign for re-election this fall of Gov. Warren P. Knowles. The Republican governor had called the bill the most important measure before the legislature and had actively sought passage.

The measure allows the state to borrow up $300 million over 28 years to provide loans so that communities can build antipollution facilities. It also appropriates $6 million annually to pay the interest on the loans. To date, 42 states have left the whole burden of water protection to their municipalites. As a result, numerous towns and cities are pouring raw sewage into streams already befouled by industrial wastes and oil.

Someone has estimated that ridding the nation of water pollution alone might cost as much as $100 billion if, indeed, the job can be done. But the mandate for clean water and clean air seems to be growing in impressive proportions.

They Spoiled Our Wedding

WASHINGTON — My wife and I were absolutely furious at Women's Wear Daily for revealing the description of Luci Baines Johnson's wedding dress. For weeks we had eaten up every word that was written about this exciting marriage, and we knew more about Luci and Pat Nugent than we did about our own children.

We knew, for example, that Pat's favorite dish was fried chicken which Luci loves to cook with French bread slices fried in butter. We knew that Luci would do her own housework without the help of a maid. We knew Pat was going to work for a master's degree and that Luci said she hoped he would be the boss in the family.

WE STUDIED pictures of Luci's dream house which they had rented for $165 a month in Austin, and we had not only read up on how they would furnish their bedroom, but also where the Secret Servicemen were going to sleep.

The women reporters attached to the White House had spared us no details about the young couple, and as the day of the wedding approached my wife and I were so excited we could hardly sleep.

"I wonder what she'll wear on her wedding day?" I said.

"I'd rather not know," my wife replied. "Her dress will be the only surprise left and it's going to be so much fun to see it on the day of the wedding on television."

"I AGREE," I said. "If you knew what her wedding dress looked like, it would hardly be worth staying home."

"I wonder if it will be lace," my wife said.

"Now you're just teasing yourself," I warned her.

"Well, it's fun to speculate. Did you know there were going to be live lilies of the valley on the wedding cake?"

"I didn't, but I could have guessed it," I said. "What are you doing there?"

"I've made up a list of all the bridesmaids and the ushers, so we'll know who is who."

"THAT'S A GOOD idea. It will be like watching a football game with a program. What's that?"

"It's a newspaper photo of the wedding invitation. I thought it would be nice to have it in front of us while we were watching."

I looked at my wife with pride. "You've thought of everything."

She was cutting out some more newspaper clippings.

"What are you doing now?"

"I'M CUTTING out something old, something new, something borrowed, and something blue. The something old is President Johnson's latest statemen on Viet Na.n, the something new is Marshal Ky's decision to invade North Viet Nam, the something borrowed is the country's latest deficit, and the something blue is Sen. Dodd's opinion of Drew Pearson."

"You're in fine shape," I said.

But our happiness was short-lived. Wednesday I walked into the house and found my wife in tears.

"What happened?"

"WOMEN'S WEAR Daily has revealed all the details of Luci's wedding gown. We have nothing to look forward to."

"Oh, the dastardly press!" I cried. "Is nothing sacred? What are we going to do now?"

"I don't know about you," she said as she started putting on her long rubber boots, "but I'm going fishing."

Billy Graham

Must we repent before we can receive God's forgiveness? E.P.

Salvation is by grace. This means that it is unearned and unmerited. But the whole trend of Scripture teaches that man must be willing to be rescued and forgiven. In a court ruling at the turn of the century it was decreed that a pardon, even though signed by a governor of a sovereign state, is not effective unless it is accepted by the condemned.

God cannot forgive you unless you want to be forgiven. He cannot pardon you unless you wish to be pardoned. He cannot rescue you unless you want to be saved.

This is why the promise of redemption is always accompanied by a condition. The Bible says: "Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and let him return unto the Lord . . . for he will have mercy upon him and he will abundantly pardon." It is not that God requires any sort of human effort. But in the Divine ethic, grace is not imparted unless it is sincerely desired. Christ stands at the door of our hearts, knocking. But we must open the door. He offers forgiveness, but we must desire forgiveness, and the evidence of this desire is sincere repentance. It was the man who said: "God be merciful to me a sinner," who went up to his house justified.

ALWAYS A BRIDESMAID . . .

James Marlow

Also The Talkingest War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Vietnamese war is not only one of the nastiest wars the United States ever got into, but one of the talkingest. The talk has probably carried a heavy price tag.

President Johnson has been urged to get tough and to back up. The war, or America's role in it, has been denounced and considered necessary.

IF YOU WERE a North Vietnamese Communist listening to this division of opinion in the United States, it wouldn't be hard to imagine that at best this country could be expected to wage no more than a half-hearted war.

Just how much this divided American opinion induced the Communists to refuse negotiation and to vow to fight 20 years may never be known unless, some time after the war is over, they reveal their thinking in these days.

To add to the confusion, the realists among the Communists could not believe the limited kind of war this country fought, bombing only carefully selected targets, was entirely due to divided thinking here.

THEY KNOW PERFECTLY well that the United States must consider, among other factors, that recklessness or carelessness in its bombings might incite the Red Chinese into getting into the war, thus starting perhaps a world war.

But if the divided American thinking both baffled and encouraged the North Vietnamese, it must certainly have baffled and discouraged many among the South Vietnamese for whom this country is fighting.

PERHAPS PREMIER Nguyen Cao Ky's decision not to run for the presidency in next year's elections in South Viet Nam is a product of the noise coming from this country.

South Viet Nam has produced very few men who could be honestly called leaders of their people, although Ky gradually is becoming one of them.

In his early days as premier he still looked pretty much the flamboyant air force general, and even impulsive, as when he first sent troops to crush the Buddhist uprising in Da Nang and then hastily backed off.

Wasted On That Figure

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Anyone who can crack and eat a broiled lobster in public is more likely to have a superiority than an inferiority complex.

Professional wrestlers are more literate than professional baseball players. A wrestler never gets as much satisfaction out of reading a comic strip as does the average second baseman.

Butterfly sunglasses with sequins are wasted on a girl with a 38-24-36 figure.

FAT WOMEN give money to blind street beggars more often than do skinny women.

The only drivers worse than doctors are traffic cops. Doctors are poor drivers because they don't keep their minds on the road. The trouble with traffic cops at the wheel is that they unonsciously still think they are in command of every other motorist.

Economics professors are more often henpecked than any other college teachers. The least henpecked are those who teach foreign languages.

I AUTOMATICALLY distrust a man if my cat runs up and rubs against his legs the first time he enters my home. I suspect they are both in league with the devil.

A woman will remember you with warmth forever if you pay her a compliment on the first day she wears bifocal glasses. At no other time in her life is she more vulnerable, and in need of human kindness.

Men are most likely to propose marriage to a girl on a picnic if she is wearing a yellow dress. Any girl who wears purple dresses in summer deserves to be an old maid.

YOU RARELY find a miser among forgers or bank robbers. They generally like to spend their money as fast as they acquire it.

Brunettes willingly become blonds, but a girl with red hair always hates to dye it any other color when time begins to turn it gray. She feels that to do so is betraying nature, which set her apart from others.

Restaurant waiters seldom wear black neckties on their days off.

IF A MAN enjoys walking, he should date only ballet dancers. They are the only ones left who really enjoy going for a stroll.

When a secretary really goes for a guy, she usually writes him letters in longhand. When she is ready to brush him off, she starts writing to him on the typewriter.

No one knows more what is going on in an office than a charlady who reads what she finds in the wastepaper baskets.

When a woman isn't sure how a dish she is cooking is going to turn out, she always winds up by serving it in a casserole.

Optimism Warranted With Sarcoidosis

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a skin disease called sarcoidosis which affects only my eyes. They become bloodshot and swollen. — MRS. C. C.

Dear Doctor: What follow-up treatment is required after hospitialization for sarcoid? MRS. G. W. M.

Sarcoid isn't — as I pointed out yesterday — a skin disease. It can attack any part of the body, including skin, eyes, internal organs.

The outlook is generally good. While the disease may run its course and subside spontaneously, it also can be treated effectively with steroids (drugs of the cortisone series.)

With some mild cases, treatment may be unnecessary, but when the lung, eye or skin is involved, treatment is to the point — to minimize symptoms, prevent lasting complications, and (in the case of skin involvement) shorten the time during which the patient has to explain the disease to curious friends and relatives.

For the most part, hospitalization is not necessary. The principal exception to this remark is that, since sarcoid can look like so many other diseases, some of them dangerous, hospitalization may well be ordered until there is diagnostic proof of the ailment, and that it is not cancer or tuberculosis, for example.

If tissue can be obtained from the skin or from an affected lymph node, the diagnosis can be made definitely by microscopic examination.

Otherwise diagnosis may involve the painstaking process of eliminating other diseases which it resembles, proving that it is NOT T. B., or whatever.

There is a skin test (Kveim test) which gives significant data in identifying sarcoid. The trouble is that this requires about four weeks to interpret the results.

Thus, while it may take some time to pin down sarcoid, the patient frequently can vent a sigh of relief, knowing that it is NOT one of the deadly or disabling diseases.

The duration of steroid treatment depends on the speed with which the disease subsides. Follow-up treatment, aside from that, is primarily a matter of examination to make sure that the lesions and the scar tissue which may result are not interfering with the eyes or other organs of the body.

A mysterious ailment.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a diabetic and must lose weight. I am at my wits' end to know how to prepare meals that both my husband and I can eat. Where can I get information on how to prepare meals? — MRS. D. G.

The easiest answer which will help the most people in the most places, is to suggest that you get in touch with your local (usually state) Diabetes Association, or with your Visiting Nurse Association. Both encounter this problem often, and can suggest cook books and meal plans.

One simple rule of thumb is for you and your husband to eat the same things, but he can eat more, and you can add, for his plate, succulent items like butter, cream, gravies and sweets.

New Tricks For Hunt-And-Pecker

I am told that there is a movement under way to redesign the keyboards on tyepwriters. In fact, the revision plan has gone along, it seems, to the point where it may soon be given a trial on model machines.

THE SPONSORS say that the keyboard as it now is (QWERTYUIOP etc.) was deliberately designed to slow the finger movements of the typist. It works perfectly, in my case, if that is the end intended. If the system made it possible to go slower, I'd never get anything written. As it is, I can turn the stuff out ultimately, even though the copy is filled with "x-ed" words where the machine outdistances my fingers.

As I understand it, the keyboard as we have known it all these years was arranged in order to slow the typists fingers so the pioneer machines could have ample time to respond. I wouldn't know whether that is true or not. I do know if they come out with a new keyboard I'm a goner. I have never been able to master the one we now have but at least I have become sufficiently familiar with it to get by. Bring me face to face with a new design to learn at my age and I've had it.

ONCE, A LONG time ago, I was in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. I had spent a long day climbing stairs, walking along lengthy corridors, plodding through huge rooms. All around me were mementoes of the past. From the dinosaur, whose ponderous bones made me feel like a pygmy, to Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis" which made me feel ever littler. They were all there.

I finally wound up far up in one of the old red brick buildings. The room was a sort of catch-all, I think. Here the curator put miscellaneous items which somehow didn't fit in any of the exhibits down stairs.

OVER TO ONE side, for example, I saw a horse—a very old horse, apparently. His ears had dried out and were merely wrinkled pieces of hide. His hair had begun to slip away in places. The dingy placard informed me that this was the horse Gen. Sheridan had ridden that day when he had dashed 20 miles to rally his troops and wrench victory from what seemed certain defeat.

IN ANOTHER corner was a weird machine. It seemed to be about half sewing machine and half something else. I examined it at close hand. This, I found, was a wooden model of the first typewriter. The part that looked like a sewing machine was a way the inventor had of shifting the carriage back when a line had been written. You used your feet. There were, as I remember, individual keys for each letter and each symbol and figure. In other words there was no "shift" you had a bank of keys for capitals and another identical bank for lower case letters.

I WAS USING a beat up old typewriter in those days manufactured by Woodstock. I personally regarded it as the great - great - great - granddaddy of all typewriters—even older than three-row keyboard Oliver I once owned.

But when I saw the first typewriters model I realized how much progress we had made even to the day they made my battered Woodstock.

Somebody Must Get To The IWW's

WASHINGTON—"I see where the President is taking his weekends to go campaigning," observed Vernon J. Veritas, the old truth-teller. "He was out in Indiana, Kentucky and Illinois the other Saturday. He talked about the war and the Great Society—but there wasn't a word in his speeches about the IWW's."

MR. VERITAS must be getting his Democratic administrations mixeded up. It was Woodrow Wilson who had all that trouble with the IWW's, the Industrial Workers of the World.

"Back in the postwar days of World War I," said Veritas, "the IWW was such a strike-prone union that people called it 'I Won't Work.' It is a fact that the union has faded away, but its spirit lingers on. Today's IWW's are not unionized. They are not strikers. They just 'won't work.'"

MR. VERITAS, who cannot tell a lie, probably had in mind the recent rioters in the Lawndale area of Chicago. They battled the police and the National Guard with great vigor, but could not summon the energy to go out to Calumet, a Chicago suburb, where they could have earned money to buy whatever it was they were fighting for. No less an authority than Frank H. Cassell, Director of the U.S. Employment Services, told this reporter: "There are plenty of common labor jobs at the Calumet steel plants, but we can't get the Chicago unemployed to take them. Precisely the same situation exists in the Watts area of Los Angeles."

"THEY JUST WON'T work," asserts Veritas, a compulsory truth-teller. "Today, in the U.S.A., the open jobs outnumber the unemployed. Hardly a man, woman or child is now alive who cannot obtain gainful employment."

Mr. Veritas must know that the Offices of Economic Opportunity, the Labor Department and the HEW Department, are spending money at job-training, job-mobilization, job-placement and every form of job-education. But somehow the mighty arm of the American government cannot overcome the IWW's. Somehow there is always an immovable impediment between the worker and his work.

"SHOW ME AN IWW," declared Veritas, "and I'll show you an alibi artist. He can't catch a taxi, he can't leave the old homestead, he can't desert his gray-haired mother."

Mr. Veritas was told that this same Frank Cassell, a most pleasant and competent man, has explained it all. The mid-city idlers won't take suburb jobs because there is no adequate transportation. The non-working Appalachians don't want to go to the urban areas because they get homesick. Family men are afraid to get off relief, and the young men don't want to leave Momma.

"THEY ARE samples of the modern IWW's," declared the man who cannot tell a lie. "I know that Mr. Cassell told you there was little use writing columns about the IWW's. They don't read newspapers. But there's one person the IWW's will listen to—if he would only speak out."

Mr. Veritas was asked whom he had in mind.

"Lyndon B. Johnson," replied Vernon J. Veritas, who cannot suppress the truth.

Another Way To End The Fighting

WASHINGTON — Talking about eventual peace in Viet Nam would seem an exercise in total futility as each day's headlines report the fighting in the elephant grass, growing casualty lists and the roar of falling bombs. Yet at the top level of government the word is the same—we are waiting for the slightest sign that Hanoi is ready to negotiate.

BUT DOES NOT that mean negotiate to surrender? Secretary of State Dean Rusk answers this question with a determined no. The 14 points summarizing the American negotiating position are still wide open for any overture Hanoi might make.

The greatest mystery in this war in which so much is obscure and mysterious is why—if only for tactical reasons to confuse opinion around the world—the North Vietnamese have, without fail, rejected offers to meet at a conference table.

THE FAINT GLIMMER of hope today is in Point No. 1 of the 14 points. It states: "The Geneva agreements of 1954 and 1962 are an adequate basis for peace in Southeast Asia."

Red China rules out the Geneva agreements as no longer having any validity. But Hanoi stands publicly on the accords as a basis for peace. A slender reed, it could nevertheless signify a willingness to use the document signed at Geneva ending the French-Indochina war as the starting point for peace talks.

THERE IS, however, a big catch here. In spite of a parade of pleaders, led by Prime Ministers Harold Wilson and Indira Gandhi and including United Nations Secretary General U Thant, the Soviet Union refused to join in a call for a conference under the Geneva accords. As co-chairman under the agreement Soviet approval of another meeting is essential along with that of Britain, the other co-chairman.

So with a stalemated war the hardening stand of Moscow casts a longer and darker shadow threatening a wider conflict. The Soviets have resisted a separate conference on Cambodia and the fear is that the Viet Nam war will spill over into this neighboring state. But even Southeast Asia, in the more somber view, is not necessarily the boundary for a greater war.

WITH CONTINUING diplomatic contacts, Rusk points out, it is not necessary for Hanoi to announce to the world that organized regiments and divisions are no longer being sent into the South. One of the diplomatic contacts would simply have to be told something like this: suggest to the Americans that they can with their exceptional reconnaissance facility verify that troops are no longer being sent into the South. Yet, Rusk says with the deep feeling that has grown as the war intensifies, they send the full 324th Division across the demilitarized zone, in clear violation of the accord covering that zone. This division was forced to retreat across the zone by American Marines in one war.

RUSK IS coming to the view, which American military and diplomats in Saigon have held for several months, that no peace negotiation will be initiated. The Communist guerrillas as they are pressed harder and harder will fade away. Hanoi, perhaps even with the sanction of Peking, will decide to wait two or three years in the conviction that American troops will depart and will not be returned when the Communists resume the attack. That may not be peace as defined by diplomacy but it could mean an end of the fighting.

Shaky Outlook For Japanese Town From Earth Tremors

MATSUSHIRO, Japan (AP) — On Wednesday this rural Japanese town marks an anniversary it would rathe: forget — a year of shaking, a year filled with half a million earth tremors.

Its residents are understandably nervous. The earth under them has twitched, rumbled and trembled for so long that some say they would just as soon have one big quake to "get it all over with."

Experts say there isn't much prospect of that, although the outlook is a shaky one.

"The tremors will probably last another six months," predicts Mineo Takehana, director of the Matsushiro Earthquake Observatory, "But I don't think there will be stronger shocks than before."

Almost every wood and plaster house in this town of 22,600 has been damaged. Wooden props keep many standing.

The quakes have brought death to one resident, injuries to several and insomnia to many. The tremors also have hurt business.

Situated 112 miles northwest of Tokyo, on a plateau covered with rice fields and apple orchards, this once was a favorite spa.

About 60 families whose homes have been severely damaged are sleeping in prefabricated tin plate huts. Classes are held in one-story prefabricated steel buildings because seven schools are dangerously damaged.

Most of the tremors have been slight, showing up only on seismographs. But the observatory has counted 3,540 shocks of force 2 — capable of causing a slight movement of doors — on the Japanese scale of 7. There have been 333 of force 3 — makes windows rattle — 36 of force 4 — enough to shake houses — and 7 of force 5 — violent enough to crack concrete walls.

Shigeo Maruta, the town's tourist division chief, says "business is down 20 per cent and production is also low since the workers are nervous and can't keep their mind on their jobs."

Flag Raising At Ackerly

Patrol leader Robert Herren and his assistant, Freddie Green, raise flag on historic mast. Looking on, back to camera, is Pat Savell, scoutmaster of Troop 701.

Ackerly Scouts Given Flag Pole

ACKERLY—Vealmoor's post office flag pole, which served that community for 32 years, has been moved a few miles to the west of its original location and started on a new career.

It now graces the front of the Ackerly Scout Hut in downtown Ackerly and a ceremony was staged last Saturday night to put the pole back in active service.

Pat Savell, scoutmaster for Troop 701, Boy Scouts of America, directed the project after he had been given the old flag pole by Mrs. Margie Middleton. Mrs. Middleton now operates the old Porter Hanks grocery in Vealmoor, which until about two years ago, housed the Vealmoor Post Office.

Assisting him in the flag raising ceremony Saturday night was a man who had a major role in another famous flag raising — Pat Gathright, formerly with the U.S. military forces who made the flag pole used atop Mt. Suribachi on Iwo Jima in World War II. This famous episode was widely depicted and is the theme of a spectacular bronze statue group in Washington.

The ceremony Saturday night was attended by Mrs. John Rudeseal, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Herron, Mr. and Mrs. Billie Massingill, Miss Ila Herren, Walter Froman, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Green, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Gathright, Mrs. Margie Middleton, Miss Marcy Middleton and Mrs. Pat Savell. Also on hand were Scouts Robert Herren, patrol leader; Freddie Gray, assistant patrol leader; Dale Froman, Steve Herren, Bennie Green, Mark Massingill and Stanley Smith.

The flag pole will continue to serve the Scout troop from now on.

Cool Front Kicking Up Some Showers

By The Associated Press

A weak cool front drifted slowly southward across Northeast Texas today, kicking up a few thundershowers along the way.

By early morning, the front had moved most of the way through the Panhandle, and promised to bring a little cooler temperatures to that section of the state today.

But another sizzling day was in store for most of the rest of Texas.

Early morning lows ranged from 89 degrees at Lubbock just ahead of the front to 75 at Dalhart, where the cool air had already moved through.

Some clouds built up ahead of the frontal system, and early morning showers were reported in the Wichita Falls area and northeastward along the Red River.

August came in with record high temperatures Monday. Presidio was tops, as usual, with 110 degrees. Wichita Falls and Brownwood had 108, Lubbock and Childress 106, Wink 105, Kermit and San Angelo 104 and Abilene, Laredo, Midland and Waco 103.

Temperatures were high and the rain was scarce during July in Texas.

The Weather Bureau said Del Rio, San Angelo and San Antonio received less than .10 of an inch of moisture all month long.

NUMBER FIVE ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 8, 1966.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 4 proposing an Amendment to the Constitution of Texas by adding to Section 62 of Article XVI a new subsection to be denominated subsection (c), of said Section 62; authorizing the Legislature to enact laws establishing, subject to the limitations stated, a State-wide System of Retirement, Disability and Death Compensation benefits for the officers and employees of the counties and other political subdivisions of the state, and of the political subdivisions of any county.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Section 62 of Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended by adding thereto a subsection (c) which shall read as follows:

"(c) The Texas Legislature is authorized to enact appropriate laws to provide for a System of Retirement, Disability and Death Benefits for all the officers and employees of a county or other political subdivision of the state, or a political subdivision of a county; providing that when the Texas Legislature has passed the necessary enabling legislation pursuant to the Constitutional authorization, then the governing body of the county, or other political subdivision of the state, or political subdivision of the county shall make the determination as to whether a particular county or other political subdivision of the state, or subdivision of the county participates in this System; providing further that such System shall be operated at the expense of the county or other political subdivision of the state or political subdivision of the county electing to participate therein and the officers and employees covered by the System; and providing that the Legislature of the State of Texas shall never make an appropriation to pay the costs of this Retirement, Disability and Death Compensation System.

"The Legislature may provide for a voluntary merger into the System herein authorized by this Constitutional Amendment of any System of Retirement, Disability and Death Compensation Benefits which may now exist or that may hereafter be established under subsection (b) of Section 62 of Article XVI of the Texas Constitution; providing further that the Texas Legislature in the enabling statute will make the determination as to the amount of money that will be contributed by the county or other political subdivision of the state or political subdivision of the county to the State-wide System of Retirement, Disability and Death Benefits, and the Legislature shall further provide that the amount of money contributed by the county or other political subdivision of the state or subdivision of the county shall equal the amount paid for the same purpose from the income of each officer and employee covered by this State-wide System.

"It is the further intention of the Legislature, in submitting this Constitutional Amendment, that the officers and employees of the county or other political subdivision of the state or political subdivision of a county may be included in those systems regardless of whether the county or other political subdivision of the state or political subdivision of the county participates in the Retirement, Disability and Death Benefit System authorized by this Constitutional Amendment, or whether they participate in a System under the provisions of subsection (b) of Section 62 of Article XVI of the Texas Constitution as the same is herein amended."

NUMBER ELEVEN ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 8, 1966.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 19 proposing an Amendment to Section 49-d, Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas, declaring state policy regarding optimum development of water reservoirs; providing for the use of the Texas Water Development Fund under such conditions as the Legislature may prescribe by General Law in the acquisition and development of storage facilities and any system of works properly appurtenant thereto; providing for the sale, lease or transfer of such facilities under General Laws; providing for long-term contracts for water storage facilities; authorizing the issuance of an additional $200,000,000 in bonds by the Texas Water Development Board upon a two-thirds (2/3) vote of the elected members of each house; providing that anticipatory legislation shall not be invalid because of its anticipatory character; providing for the necessary election, form of ballot; and proclamation and publication.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Section 49-d of Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended to read as follows:

"Section 49-d. It is hereby declared to be the policy of the State of Texas to encourage the optimum development of the limited number of feasible sites available for the construction or enlargement of dams and reservoirs for conservation of the public waters of the state, which waters are held in trust for the use and benefit of the public. The proceeds from the sale of the additional bonds authorized hereunder deposited in the Texas Water Development Fund and the proceeds of bonds previously authorized by Article III, Section 49-c of this Constitution, may be used by the Texas Water Development Board, under such provisions as the Legislature may prescribe by General Law, including the requirement of a permit for storage or beneficial use, for the additional purposes of acquiring and developing storage facilities, and any system or works necessary for the filtration, treatment and transportation of water from storage to points of treatment, filtration and/or distribution, including facilities for transporting water therefrom to wholesale purchasers, or for any one or more of such purposes or methods; provided, however, the Texas Water Development Fund or any other state fund provided for water development, transmission, transfer or filtration shall not be used to finance any project which contemplates or results in the removal from the basin of origin of any surface water necessary to supply the reasonably foreseeable future water requirements for the next ensuing fifty-year period within the river basin of origin, except on a temporary, interim basis.

"Under such provisions as the Legislature may prescribe by General Law the Texas Water Development Fund may be used for the conservation and development of water for useful purposes by construction or reconstruction or enlargement of reservoirs constructed or to be constructed or enlarged within the State of Texas or on any stream constituting a boundary of the State of Texas, together with any system or works necessary for the filtration, treatment and/or transportation of water, by any one or more of the following governmental agencies: by the United States of America or any agency, department or instrumentality thereof; by the State of Texas or any agency, department or instrumentality thereof; by political subdivisions or bodies politic and corporate of the state; by interstate compact commissions to which the State of Texas is a party; and by municipal corporations. The Legislature shall provide terms and conditions under which the Texas Water Development Board may sell, transfer or lease, in whole or in part, any reservoir and associated system or works which the Texas Water Development Board has financed in whole or in part.

"Under such provisions as the Legislature may prescribe by General Law, the Texas Water Development Board may also execute long-term contracts with the United States or any of its agencies for the acquisition and development of storage facilities in reservoirs constructed or to be constructed by the Federal Government. Such contracts when executed shall constitute general obligations of the State of Texas in the same manner and with the same effect as state bonds issued under the authority of the preceding Section 49-c of this Constitution, and the provisions in said Section 49-c with respect to payment of principal and interest on state bonds issued shall likewise apply with respect to payment of principal and interest required to be paid by such contracts. If storage facilities are acquired for a term of years, such contracts shall contain provisions for renewal that will protect the state's investment.

"The aggregate of the bonds authorized hereunder shall not exceed $200,000,000 and shall be in addition to the aggregate of the bonds previously authorized by said Section 49-c of Article III of this Constitution. The Legislature upon two-thirds (2/3) vote of the elected members of each House, may authorize the Board to issue all or any portion of such $200,000,000 in additional bonds herein authorized.

"The Legislature shall provide terms and conditions for the Texas Water Development Board to sell, transfer or lease, in whole or in part, any acquired storage facilities or the right to use such storage facilities together with any associated system or works necessary for the filtration, treatment or transportation of water at a price not less than the direct cost of the Board in acquiring same; and the Legislature may provide terms and conditions for the Board to sell any unappropriated public waters of the state that might be stored in such facilities. As a prerequisite to the purchase of such storage or water, the applicant therefor shall have secured a valid permit from the Texas Water Commission or its successor authorizing the acquisition of such storage facilities or the water impounded therein. The money received from any sale, transfer or lease of storage facilities or associated system or works shall be used to pay principal and interest on state bonds issued or contractual obligations incurred by the Texas Water Development Board, provided that when moneys are sufficient to pay the full amount of indebtedness then outstanding and the full amount of interest to accrue thereon, any further sums received from the sale, transfer or lease of such storage facilities or associated system or works may be used for the acquisition of additional storage facilities or associated system or works or for providing financial assistance as authorized by said Section 49-c. Money received from the sale of water, which shall include standby service, may be used for the operation and maintenance of acquired facilities, and for the payment of principal and interest on debt incurred.

"Should the Legislature enact enabling laws in anticipation of the adoption of this Amendment, such Acts shall not be void by reason of their anticipatory character."

Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1966, at which election all ballots shall have printed thereon the following:

"FOR the Constitutional Amendment authorizing the issuance of an additional $200,000,000 in Texas Water Development Bonds and providing for further investment of the Texas Water Development Fund in reservoirs and associated facilities."

"AGAINST the Constitutional Amendment authorizing the issuance of an additional $200,000,000 in Texas Water Development Bonds and providing for further investment of the Texas Water Development Fund in reservoirs and associated facilities."

Organizational meeting of a new Community Opportunity Team — revamped to come under stipulations of the Economic Opportunity Act — is scheduled for Thursday evening. It will be in the Community Room of the Pioneer Natural Gas building, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Milton Talbot said that consideration will be given to adoption of articles of incorporation and to a set of by-laws. There will also be election of officers. Dr. Talbot as served as president during the formative period.

It would ask for a state charter as a non-profit corporation.

It is proposed that the governing body would consist of 45 persons, from local taxing agencies, from areas primarily served by the community action program, and from the community at large. These divisions are broken down as follows:

Big Spring School District, four representatives; City of Big Spring, four; Howard County, four; Howard County Junior College, three. Cedar Crest School District, five; Bauer School, six; Lakeview, two; Kate Morrison, two.

OTHER MEMBERS

Those from the community at large would represent the following:

Webb Air Force Base, news media, Salvation Army, labor unions, YMCA, Bar Association, Medical Association, City Council of P-TA, Dental Association, Rehabilitation Center, Chamber of Commerce, Catholic Church, Big Spring Pastors Association and American Legion Post.

Purpose of the organization is said to be "dedicated to the exclusive purpose of promoting the public interest of Howard County and Big Spring by providing services, assistance and other activities of sufficient scope and size to give promise of progress toward elimination of poverty or the causes of poverty, through developing employment opportunities, improving human performance, motivation and productivity, or bettering the conditions under which people live, learn and work.

The governing body will be the one to initiate various programs and policy decisions which will benefit the community under the Economic Opportunity Act.

Rites Set For Mystery Pilot

CAMARILLO, Calif. (AP) — A funeral service is set Wednesday for Raymond M. Torick, a Lockheed Aircraft flight engineer whose death during a secret military flight remains a public mystery.

Torick, 30, drowned in the Pacific after parachuting from an unidentified aircraft last weekend. His body was recovered at sea. No one else was killed, the company said.

Company and military spokesmen declined further comment. A Torick family spokesman said, "We've been given absolute instructions that this is of the highest security.

"We feel we have to honor that. We will not be talking. Everything will have to come from Washington," he said. The Pentagon had no comment.

Torick, with Lockheed since 1963, is survived by his widow, Louise; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Torick, Pittsburgh, Pa.; and a brother, Emil, Norwalk, Calif.

DEAR ABBY

Marriage Vows Sacred

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for a number of years, and I would call ours a very happy marriage. We are compatible in every way. Recently, the matter of having affairs outside marriage came up. My husband feels that as long as we love and respect each other, and each rates first with the other, an occasional affair is harmless.

Although I admire his above-board approach, I find it hard to accept. Should I go along with my husband's thinking, hoping it will not hurt our relationship even though I don't accept it?

HOW TO ACT

DEAR HOW: Married couples who behave as lesser animals should tear up their marriage certificates. At least they're not making a mockery of marriage.

Tell your husband that you intend to keep your marriage vows to forsake all others, and if you catch HIM breaking his, he will have a battle on his hands.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago a young girl wrote to you and said she was the unhappiest girl in the world. I was 12 then and I had her same problem. Now I realize that my mother wasn't so goofy after all. Please print this girl's letter again with your advice. I found it very helpful. K. H.

DEAR ABBY: Whoever said the teenage years were the happiest didn't know what they were talking about. I am 13 and I am not the least bit happy. Let me explain:

I can't date.

I can't wear heels.

I can't wear lipstick (even pale pink).

I can't wear nail polish (any kind).

I can't shave my legs.

I can't wear shorts or slacks.

I can't wear low-back dresses.

I can't listen to the radio or watch TV when I want to.

I can't stay overnight at anybody's house.

Had enough? Well, I have. I told my mother that she will regret it some day. And she will, too. I've been thinking of running away. I would but I don't have any place to go. Please tell me what to do. I don't deserve this.

SICK OF BEING BOSSED

* * *

DEAR SICK: Your mother is probably sick, too—of being battled. The things you would like to do are privileges teenagers earn by showing they are mature enough to handle them.

One of the first signs of maturity is the ability to accept a decision without putting up an argument. Accept your mother's decisions for a while, and see what happens.

Seeking Homes For Refugees

MANILA (AP) — Relief workers are trying to figure out how to resettle 10,000 villagers driven from their homes by the spewing lava from Taal volcano, which killed 300 persons last September.

The villagers brought along only a few personal belongings and are living in makeshift huts, tents and schoolhouses while they wait for the eruption to subside.

Taal is the most deadly of 11 active volcanoes in the Philippines. In 1911 it killed 1,500 persons living in the villages around the lake.

Third Psychologist Added To State Hospital Staff

A recent graduate of North Texas State University has been appointed to the psychology staff of the Big Spring State Hospital.

John W. Carley, who received both his bachelor of science and master of science degrees in clinical psychology, came to the Big Spring facility July 18, directly upon graduation.

The 23-year-old Dallasite's new duties include testing and talking to new admissions. His addition increased the psychology staff to three.

"Previously," he said, "I've been mostly involved with retarded children," a field toward which he has a definite bent, "so the work here is both new and interesting to me."

He served his internship in 1965 at the Denton State School for Retarded Children.

A golfer, he is interested in getting to play Big Spring golf courses. Presently commuting from Midland, the psychologist expects to move into bachelor quarters in a local apartment house shortly.

After BS and MS, what is left? A PhD, which Carley hopes to earn in the near future.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Michigan Demos Pickin' 'Em Today

By The Associated Press

Michigan Democrats decide today between former Gov. G. Mennen Williams and Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh for their Senate nominee, wary that Republicans may mix into their primary.

In other primaries:

Kansas—Sen. James B. Pearson is battling for Republican renomination against Rep. Robert Ellsworth who gave up his House seat to make the race.

Idaho—Gov. Robert E. Smylie, asking an unprecedented fourth four-year term, is in what appears to be a close contest with Don Samuelson, a state legislator, for the Republican nomination.

Missouri—Three incumbent house members have opposition for renomination. They are Republican Durward G. Hall and Democrats Richard Ichord and Paul C. Jones.

Michigan has an open primary and Republicans, with no major contests in their own party, can vote in the Williams-Cavanagh race.

There is speculation that Cavanagh might pick up some votes from the GOP but Republican leaders counseled party members against getting into the Democratic primary.

The winner will meet Republican Sen. Robert P. Griffin, who has no primary opposition, in the fall. Griffin was appointed to the seat by Gov. George Romney after the death of Democratic Sen. Patrick V. McNamara.

Williams, 55, was installed as a favorite early in the campaign. He has the same broad labor union support that helped him occupy the governor's chair for 12 years that embraced the 1950s. He resigned as assistant secretary of state to seek the Senate nomination.

Cavanagh, 38, tried to generate a late surge with an extensive broadcasting and circular broadside.

Michigan also elects a governor this year but neither party had primary contests over this office. Zolton A. Ferency, the state Democratic party chairman, will make the run against Romney, a Republican.

Though the Kansas contest over the GOP Senate nomination generally is regarded as a Pearson-Ellsworth race, two others also filed candidacies. They are former Wichita Mayor William D. Tarrant and Mrs. Ava A. Anderson, wife of a Concordia dentist.

Bidding for the Democratic Senate nomination are former Rep. J. Floyd Breeding, State Sen. Harold S. Herd, J. Leigh Warner, an insurance executive, and K. L. Smith, who was the party Senate nominee in 1962.

There also are primaries for nominations for governor but neither Gov. William H. Avery nor his prospective Democratic challenger, Robert Docking, faces more than nominal opposition. Docking, an Arkansas City banker, is a son of former Gov. George Docking.

Tennessee voters go to the polls Thursday in their primary.

Change Comes By Extremes

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Change comes to Hollywood by extremes—very fast or very slow.

The instant success of ABC's "Batman" last season immediately turned television's attention to other cartoon and old radio characters. Next season ABC will follow up with 'The Green Hornet," and NBC is preparing a TV version of "Dick Tracy."

Other similar properties, including "Orphan Annie," are available.

The same thing has happened before—"The Man From U.N.C.L.E." unleashed a rash of shows with James Bond heroes. And it will happen again with "The Girl From U.N.C.L.E." on NBC next season.

The fantasy fad, kicked off two seasons ago with "Bewitched," appears to be waning.

Its last vestige will be "It's About Time," a CBS comedy about a couple of astronauts caught in a space mishap that lands them back on earth a million years ago. The show will bid for laughs by contrasting modern men with their ancestors.

Space adventure and science fiction will figure prominently in next season's scheduled, undoubtedly because "Lost In Space" and "Voyage To The Bottom Of The Sea" have done pretty well. Upcoming: "Star Trek" on NBC and "Time Tunnel" on ABC.

NBC, obviously upset by ABC's last-minute decision to launch most of its new programs a week ahead of the planned three-network premiere week, announced Monday it would have "sneak previews" of three new programs a week early, too. Thus on Thursday, Sept. 8, we can get our first look at "Star Trek," "The Hero," a comedy about a TV star, and "Tarzan."

CBS News will present a news special tonight (10-11 EDT) on the airline strike, pre-empting a rerun of a "CBS Reports" show about unidentified flying objects.

School Budget Hearing Aug. 16

The public hearing on the Big Spring Independent School District budget for the 1966-67 fiscal year will be held at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 16.

A typographical error previously had this shown erroneously as Aug. 6.

The budget calls for an outlay of $4,565,572 in revenues, including $1,887,775 from local taxes, $1,812,162 in state aid, and $260,000 in federally - supported programs. Included also is an anticipated $605,085 balance.

Expenditures are pegged at $4,097,557, which is around $58,000 less than for the current fiscal year ending Aug. 31. This will leave the district with an anticipated $422,000 balance.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 79 proposing an amendment to Article VIII, Constitution of the State of Texas, by adding Section 1-d to provide that all land owned by natural persons designated for agricultural use shall be assessed for all tax purposes on the consideration of only those factors relative to such agricultural use.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Article VIII, Constitution of the State of Texas, be amended by adding Section 1-d to read as follows:

'Agricultural use' means the raising of livestock or growing of crops, fruit, flowers, and other products of the soil under natural conditions as a business venture for profit, which business is the primary occupation and source of income of the owner.

"(b) For each assessment year the owner wishes to qualify his land under provisions of this Section as designated for agricultural use he shall file with the local tax assessor a sworn statement in writing describing the use to which the land is devoted.

"(c) Upon receipt of the sworn statement in writing the local tax assessor shall determine whether or not such land qualifies for the designation as to agricultural use as defined herein and in the event it so qualifies he shall designate such land as being for agricultural use and assess the land accordingly.

"(d) Such local tax assessor may inspect the land and require such evidence of use and source of income as may be necessary or useful in determining whether or not the agricultural use provision of this article applies.

"(e) No land may qualify for the designation provided for in this Act unless for at least three (3) successive years immediately preceding the assessment date the land has been devoted exclusively for agricultural use, or unless the land has been continuously developed for agriculture during such time.

"(f) Each year during which the land is designated for agricultural use, the local tax assessor shall note on his records the valuation which would have been made had the land not qualified for such designation under this Section. If designated land is subsequently diverted to a purpose other than that of agricultural use, or is sold, the land shall be subject to an additional tax. The additional tax shall equal the difference between taxes paid or payable, hereunder, and the amount of tax payable for the preceding three years had the land been otherwise assessed. Bargain Phil Wins Again

By The Associated Press

It's been a most productive week for Phil Regan, who used to worry about his share in baseball's pension plan and now thinks about a World Series share instead.

Regan won his third game in six days Monday night when Los Angeles rallied for four runs in the ninth inning on homers by John Roseboro and Jim Gilliam and defeated Pittsburgh 5-1.

The victory kept the Dodgers in first place in the National League, three percentage points in front of San Francisco and a full game up on the Pirates, who lost their fourth straight.

It raised Regan's season's record to 10-1. The veteran right-hander, who virtually dealt himself to the Dodgers last fall, has saved nine games and has an earned run average of 1.52, best on the pitching rich Los Angeles staff.

A year ago Regan was toiling with Detroit's International League farm team at Syracuse, hoping to pitch his way back into the majors. He needed just 14 more days on a major league roster to qualify for the pension plan.

"I was really disappointed," Regan recalled. "I thought seriously of going home. But I remembered I only needed 14 days to complete five years, so I reported to Syracuse."

BARELY IN TIME

It was while pitching there that Regan learned the Dodgers were interested in him. "I called Jim Campbell (Detroit's general manager) and asked to be traded."

The deal was made last November, just 30-minutes before the inter-league deadline, with the Dodgers swapping utility infielder Dick Tracewski for Regan.

It wasn't the biggest bargain ever. The Indians got only $24 for Manhattan Island.

Elsewhere, San Francisco kept pace with the Dodgers by downing New York 4-2, Philadelphia edged Houston 6-5 in 10 innings and Cincinnati topped St. Louis 3-2.

Pirate starter Tommy Sisk protected a 1-0 lead against Sandy Koufax for seven innings but the Dodgers tied it in the eighth. Gilliam, pinch hitting, walked, and came around on singles by Jim Barbieri and Maury Wills.

Dick Stuart opened the Dodger ninth with a walk and then Roseboro connected, snapping the tie. After Jim Lefebvre singled, Gilliam gave Regan the extra cushion with his first homer of the year.

Bob Priddy worked eight innings of scoreless relief as the Giants bounced back to defeat the pesky Mets.

The Giants bunched six hits for three runs in the fourth and moved past the Pirates into second place.

Rich Allen led off the 10th inning with an inside-the-park homer that gave the Phillies their victory over the Astros.

Johnny Callison walloped a pair of homers and Clay Dalrymple drove in three runs for the Phillies. Wynn homered for the Astros and Bob Aspromonte tied the game with a three-run clout in the ninth inning.

Cincinnati won its 12th game in the last 15 by whipping the Cardinals with four pitchers limiting St. Louis to four hits. Gordy Coleman homered for the winners.

Hi-Junior Tilt Wednesday

The two-team Hi-Junior district baseball tournament begins here Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock between ABClub of Big Spring and Sammon's Sporting Goods of San Angelo.

This is a two-of-three affair, and the second game is set for Friday evening. If a third is necessary, it will be played Saturday evening.

Managing the San Angelo team is Charlie Spieker, San Angelo College basketball star, with Charles Lusby as coach. The team has an 8-3 record. Mike Gill, boasting 5-0 in his pitching stint, is due to start for the San Angelo lads. The ABClub, however, boasts some advantage in being at home for the tournament.

Astro Hurts Astronomical

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Little Jim Wynn is the latest on a Houston Astros' casualty list that Manager Grady Hatton says borders on the ridiculous.

"This is my 21st year in baseball," said the veteran Hatton 'and I've never seen the likes of the injuries we suffered this year."

Wynn, running full tilt, crashed into the center field fence at Connie Mack Stadium Monday night and suffered a dislocated left elbow and wrist. He was sent to St. Joseph's Hospital for X-rays, which revealed no broken bones.

A dejected Hatton shook his head in disbelief over the Astros' misfortunes of 1966.

He said second baseman Joe Morgan, the National League All-Star second baseman who has been out for 1½ months with a fractured knee, was working out and appeared ready to return to action when the club got home from its present trip.

"We thought we could come back," said Hatton, indicating he meant a first division finish for Astros.

Inside Park Homer Wins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A lead-off, inside-the-park home run in the 10th inning brought the Philadelphia Phillies a 6-5 victory over Houston Monday night.

Rich Allen delievered the game-winning blow to the center field wall after Houston's Bob Aspromonte hit a three-run homer in the ninth to tie the game.

Jim Wynn, Astro center fielder, was apparently knocked unconscious when he crashed into the wall chasing Allen's blow. Wyn., who earlier had homered, was carried from the field on a stretcher.

Chuck Harrison and Lee Maye singled off Philadelphia starter Ray Culp in the ninth. Then Aspromonte hit his homer off reliever Larry Jackson.

Philadelphia's Johhny Callison, wearing glasses for the first time, slammed two home runs. Clay Dalrymple batted in three runs for the Phillies.

Coach Consults Stars' Captain

Red-Hot Rookie Puts Hex On Yanks With Three Hits

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jay Johnstone has played only three major league games, but already he's displayed two things he learned in the minors—how to hit and how not to be helpful.

Johnstone, called up by California last Friday night to fill in for Rick Reichardt, stroked three hits and drove in the winning run Monday night as the Angels edged the New York Yankees 4-3.

The 20-year-old Johnstone joined the Angels Saturday after hitting .338 for Seattle of the Pacific Coast League. He was promoted after the Angels learned that Reichardt, their leading slugger, had kidney trouble and might be lost for the rest of the season.

In three games, the left-handed hitter has collected six hits in 12 at-bats, including five hits in his last six trips to the plate.

But shortly before coming to the Angels, the center fielder learned why he shouldn't be helpful.

He was batting in a game against Portland July 4 when he hit a foul which bounced up beside him. Trying to be helpful, he caught the ball and held it out for the umpire to take.

Instead of putting his hand out for the ball, though, the umpire put his arm in the air and signaled Johnstone out for interference.

So the Yankees couldn't have expected the rookie to do anything that would help them when he came to bat in the seventh inning with the bases loaded and the game tied 3-3.

He already had beaten out two infield hits, and this time he drilled a single to center, driving in his first major league run and helping the Yankees to their fourth straight defeat.

In the only other American League games, Minnesota defeated Boston 6-2 and Washington trimmed Kansas City 6-4.

While the 20-year-old Johnstone won the game with his bat, 39-year-old Lou Burdette pitched two perfect innings of relief, saving the 10th victory for 37-year-old Jack Sanford.

Coaches Pick Angelo As State AAAA Favorite

HOUSTON (AP)—It will be San Angelo and Spring Branch Memorial in the Class AAAA schoolboy football finals this fall.

Dumas will clash with Bridge City for the Class AAA title.

These were the selections Monday when coaches of the two top classes were interviewed at the Texas Coaching School.

San Angelo has been one of the rated teams for several years but each time failed in the clutch. This year it has 22 lettermen and the team appears to have everything necessary to go all the way.

Spring Branch Memorial's coach, Charles Churchill, had no objection to putting his team on the spot. "We like the challenge," he said.

Memorial has 15 lettermen and is led by 216-pound end Ken Pearson.

DUMAS AGAIN

Dumas, which has won the state title twice in the last five years and advanced to the semi-finals last season, has six offensive and eight defensive starters and is regarded as comparing favorably with its championship teams of 1961 and 1962.

Bridge City, which lost to Brownwood in last year's finals, has 20 lettermen and is headed by fullback Steve Wooster. It has eight offensive and five defensive starters on hand.

The consensus favors Dumas for Class AAA title.

In Class AAAA San Angelo gets the favorite's spot.

The district champions were selected as follows:

Class AAAA—1, Ysleta Bel Air; 2, San Angelo; 3. Amarillo Tascosa; 4. Wichita Falls Rider; 5, Fort Worth Arlington Heights; 6, Dallas Adams; 7. Richardson; 8, Longview; 9, Houston Jones; 10, Spring Branch Memorial; 11, Beaumont South Park; 12, Brazosport; 13, Austin McCallum; 14, Corpus Christi Miller; 15, San Antonio Highlands; 16, San Antonio Brackenridge.

Class AAA—1, Dumas; 2, Andrews; 3, Lamesa; 4, Brownwood; 5, Weatherford; 6, McKinney; 7, Henderson; 8, Athens; 9, Bridge City; 10, Conroe; 11, El Campo; 12, Dickinson; 13, San Marcus; 14, Beeville; 15, Del Rio; 16, Donna.

Grappling Is Set Thursday

A three - event card has been arranged for the wrestling matches Thursday at the City Park.

Featured in the event will be Iron Mike versus Ricky Romero, while Dory Funk Jr. and Jack Cain will be matched. Based on previous appearances here by young Funk, this might easily be as popular as the top-billed contest. A female match will round out the card.

Wrestling returned here about two months ago after a long absence, and it has been drawing hefty crowds. One offering attracted some 3,000 through the turnstiles at the City Park Amphitheatre.

Thursday's matches will get under way at 8:15 p.m.

Casper Leading Golf Winner

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Billy Casper, the Speedway Golf Festival winner, leads PGA top money winners with a total of $103,200 so far this year. That includes the $16,400 Speedway top prize.

Falcons Won't Be Patsies

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Falcons came through their National Football League initiation confident they won't be everybody's patsy this fall.

"We'll whip somebody, you can count on that," Coach Norb Hecker promised Monday night after the Falcons turned back every touchdown threat but were beaten 9-7 by the Philadelphia Eagles on three field goals in the opening exhibition game of the season.

"Our defense played a helluva game," Hecker said. "It's a shame to hold a team without a touchdown and still lose."

THREE GOALS

Sam Baker booted field goals of 28, 24 and 25 yards for enough points to keep Philadelphia from becoming the first team ever to lose to the Falcons, who sparkled on defense in their NFL debut.

Sauer Long On Outlook For His College Stars

CHICAGO (AP) — Coach John Sauer, claiming it takes one or two standout performances to beat the pros, likes his College All-Stars' chances against the Green Bay Packers Friday night.

"I think our chances are as great as they have been in other years when we have won," said Sauer. "But it does take a standout performance to do the job.

"We have a great squad which has worked hard but I think our greatest strength this year is in our backfield."

Sauer, who was a member of Coach Otto Graham's staff the last seven years and is getting his first shot as head coach, said his backfield strength is collective.

"I don't mean to say the backs are individually great," said Sauer. "I mean they are the best we've had as a group. They can all run, block and catch passes.

PLENTY BACKS

"One thing we plan to do against the Packers is have fresh backs in their all the time. We have no injuries and everyone is eager to go."

Among the backfield corps are Donny Anderson of Texas Tech and Jim Grabowski of Illinois — both high-priced rookies who will join the Packers following the game.

Then there are Mike Garrett of Southern California, the Heisman Trophy winner, Walt Garrison of Oklahoma State and Roy Shivers of Utah State, who made a fine showing in last week's scrimmage against the Chicago Bears.

Linebackers Tommy Nobis of Texas and quarterback Steve Sloan of Alabama were named co-captains by their teammates Monday.

In addition to Sloan, Sauer can call upon Bill Anderson of Tulsa and Gary Lane of Missouri.

The only possible position in which the stars are hurting is at linebacker since Carl McAdams of Oklahoma will not play. McAdams suffered a fractured ankle stepping off a curb Saturday night.

No-Hitter Ousts Locals From Play

Anthony Boxell threw a no-hitter at Newsom's Giants of Big Spring here Monday evening to give Gibson's of Odessa a 1-0 squeaker in the first game of the Sophomore Teen-Age District 7 playoff.

In spite of this perfect performance, it took a double error and stolen base, followed by a double to give the Odessans their narrow margin. This put Big Spring out of the tournament, which continues in the second round at 8 p.m. today between Basin Machine and El Paso Natural Gas of Odessa. Winner for this game will meet Gibson's here at 8 p.m. Thursday at Johnny Stone Memorial Park.

Boxell was invincible, even if a bit wild at times. He struck out 15 Big Springers but walked five. Charlie Rodriquez, pitching well enough to win most games, scattered three hits, all of them with two out. He struck out 11 and walked only two Odessans.

This evening's game bids to be a close one. Since Odessa Natural has been under the management of John Chance, the team has won the Lone Star League title four consecutive years, and by the same token this is the fourth time in District 7 Tournament play. In 1958 this team (then OAC) won the state Sophomore title. Last year the boys beat Saunders' Angels of Big Spring 5-4 in the district finals at Midland. This year the team won 12 games, lost three. Two games were won on shutouts, one was a no-hitter, and of two games that went extra innings, the Gassers won both. Dale Harrington with a 8-2 record, may be the starter.

Not much information was available on Basin Machinery, but getting to the district tournament is testimony enough.

Morton's And Tiremen Win

Big Spring Tire's big last-inning rally gave it a 3-2 victory over Montgomery Ward while Morton's bunched its hits to plaster Pepsi-Cola 7-0 in the first round of the American League softball league playoffs Monday evening.

Wards and Pepsi square off at 7:30 p.m. today at City Park, while Morton's and Big Spring Tire meet at 8:45 p.m. Loser of the first game will be out of the double-elimination tournament.

Ward's appeared to be headed for victory until Donnie Gooch walked to open the last inning for the Tiremen. Tommy Young singled, and then with two out, Joe Mathis singled home two runs. Herb Sorley doubled in Mathis with the winning run. Joe Jackson singled for Ward's in the bottom of the game, but Thelbert Camp got Jerry Barron on strikes. Roy New had a couple for the winners, Tex Mainord a homer in the fourth and Tommy Roger a triple for the losers. Troy Wetsel was the losing pitcher.

Pepsi-Cola was hitting the ball, but it couldn't put its safeties together. Only in the third when Francis Johns and Danny Valdez hit safely did they get two in one inning.

Morton's took the lead in the second when D. A. Miller walked and came home on singles by Charles Boadle and Cotton Mize. Jack Buzzard knocked in Jim Roger in the third, when Morton's scored four runs on Jim Roger's three-run homer. Buzzard had a double for Morton's. All the Pepsi hits were singles. Mize struck out nine Pepsi batters, while Gigson whiffed seven Morton swingers.

Hank Gowdy Called Out

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hank Gowdy, old-time National League catcher celebrated for his batting feats in baseball's 1914 World Series, an untimely tumble in the 1924 Series, and as the first major leaguer to volunteer for World War I service, is dead at age 76.

The gangling fellow who hit .545 for the Miracle Boston Braves in the 1914 classic succumbed to a long illness after two weeks hospitalization here in his hom ecity.

Gowdy banged a home run—the only one of the Series—a triple, three doubles and a single in 11 times at bat in the '14 Series.

He went into the set with Connie Mack's heavily favored Philadelphia Athletics after, in his first season as a regular, helping Manager George Stallings' Braves come from eighth place July 4 to win the National League pennant.

Boston swept the A's in four games.

He was born Harry Gowdy and his dad, Horace (Pop) Gowdy, wanted him to get into something with a future.

LONG CAREER

As it developed, Gowdy lasted 10 season with the Braves and didn't wind up his major league playing days until 1930 when again with the Braves he bowed out with a 4-for-5 day against Cincinnati.

In that memorable 1914 season, Gowdy caught 128 games and hit .243 in the regular season before breaking out in the World Series.

Ironically, his biggest heartbreak came just 10 years later in the 1924 classic with the Giants against Washington.

In the 12th inning of the seventh and deciding game, Muddy Ruel popped up what appeared a routine inning-ending foul.

But Hank's foot became entangled with his discarded mask as he went after the ball, and he couldn't hold it.

Ruel then doubled and came home with the Series-deciding run as an infield roller took an unexpected jump over third baseman Freddie Lindstrom's head.

Olympic Heavy Is Scheduled

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Madison Square Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner Monday signed Argentine heavyweight Oscar (Ringo) Bonavena to fight Joe Frazer in New York, Sept. 21.

Frazer, the Olympic champion from Philadelphia, has an 11-0 record as a heavyweight.

Bonavena, who upset Canada's George Chuvalo last June, is reported to have been offered $20,000 for the fight at Madison Sqare Garden.

I Say There, But It's Jolly Hot Old Boy

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — The strength-sapping heat of this island in the sun has sent the 1,400 British Empire Games athletes running for cover and even has the Englishmen avoiding the noon-day sun.

Prince Phillip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, is scheduled to open the games Thursday. Teams from 36 countries are entered in track and field, badminton, boxing, cycling, fencing, shooting, swimming, weight lifting and wrestling.

South's Chances Hurt With Pat Sheehan Out

HOUSTON (AP) — "We're down but not out," said Coach Pete Sultis of Baytown as he pondered the fate of his South team without Pat Sheehan in the all-star football game of the Texas Coaching School.

Sheehan, a great runner from San Antonio Lee, hurt a knee so badly in practice that he withdrew from the game. He also is expected to miss the Big 33 game between Texas and Pennsylvania schoolboy teams at Hershey, Pa., Aug. 13.

Sultis built his offense around Sheehan, depending on his sweeps to make the fullback-up-the-middle plays work better. Now the North, which has become the favorite, won't have to worry about it—unless somebody is developed in a hurry.

That one might be Barney Harris of San Antonio MacArthur, a versatile lad who has been used at about every position in workouts for the game Thursday night at Rice Stadium.

"We lost the greatest back I ever coached," said Sultis, "but I told the boys one player didn't make a team, that they were all-stars and for them to act like it."

Jack Woodward of Crockett, a South back, also is lost because of a bad knee. South's Robert Hall, Port Neches tackle, may not play due to headaches caused from a head injury he suffered last fall.

North Coach Don Orr of Denver City let his squad go in early Monday afternoon. Orr liked their work on offense as much as defense and singled out James Vanderslice of Wichita Falls Rider.

Basketball squads that clash in their annual game Wednesday night held two workouts today, emphasizing defense.

Lacy Word From Paris

HINTS FROM HELOISE

New Way To Spark Meals

Dear Folks:

Stop, look, and listen!

I discovered something four months ago and have tested it many times since. It's out of this world and is something you cannot buy. But it will add a little zip to your meals.

HELOISE

It's a new way to use those chopped, instant, dehydrated onions (and be sure to compare ounces when you buy them as some are about half the price of others).

You know those little bottles of pickled cocktail onions which we sometimes put in our lettuce salads, our canned green peas, etc.? If you don't, you certainly should try them — cloud nine.

Well, when we use the onions, there's all that good, hot, seasoned juice usually goes down the sink.

Here is what to do with the juice:

Just pour some dehydrated onions in the juice (don't fill the jar too full), cap the bottle, and set it aside for a week or so.

The dehydrated onions swell and absorb that good, spiced pickle juice. You will have one of the best condiments you ever sunk a tooth into and can use it for many things.

This is absolutely delish when tossed in tomato-and-lettuce salads.

Also, when a spoonful is dipped out and put into canned peas — it's scrumptious.

Mix some of them in oil and vinegar dressing for any kind of salad, or pour them into your pickled beets. And it's extremely perk when a spoonful is dipped out and mixed with green beans just before serving them.

So, don't throw any of that good pickled onion juice away again. And the dehydrated onions are best as they absorb the juice. We tried small, fresh onions and they just didn't . . . Heloise

• • •

LETTER OF THOUGHT:

Dear Heloise:

My pet peeve is a person who asks, "Are you a working mother?"

What other kind IS there? . . . Jean McCreight

• • •

Dear Heloise:

When I cut out material of any kind, whether on a bed, table or cutting board, I use a wooden yardstick underneath my material, sliding it up and down as I run my pins through the pattern and material to the yardstick.

In this way my fingers don't get prickled, and my material stays "put" better. . . . Mrs. T. F. W.

• • •

Dear Heloise:

Nylon net scraps do a good job in cleaning the holes in the toothbrush holder above the bathroom sink.

Just poke a narrow strip of net through the hole and while holding both ends, pull back and forth a few times. . . . Mrs. W. Ford

• • •

Dear Heloise:

Wash old wool rugs with broom, detergent and water hose.

When completely dry, cut it up for your car floor.

Carpeting won't cause the car floor to rust from dampness the way rubber matting usually does. The rug pieces can easily be removed and dried if they do get wet. . . . Mrs. Owen Hulet

• • •

Dear Heloise:

After being very frustrated trying to get my lacy curtains to go on the curtain rod without catching, I thought, "What would Heloise do?"

So I cut the toe off an old nylon stocking and slipped it over the end of the curtain rod.

The lacy curtain slipped on smoothly without catching or snagging. . . . Lela Schwartz

• • •

Dear Heloise:

One of the most useful things in my home is the toothbrush.

When cleaning my windows (with have small panes with grooved mouldings), I use a toothbrush for washing the mouldings.

It fits into the grooves and corners very well. . . . . Mrs. Eloise Ewing

'ROUND TOWN

By LUCILLE PICKLE

It may take the next few months for us to recover from the exhausting delights of our vacation trip but every moment was worth it. In spite of the airlines strike, our reservations were not interferred with, and the only hitch was a slight delay in Dallas en route to Washington, D. C., and when we returned, several pieces of luggage weren't changed at Dallas, but all in all, for the whole two weeks all connections were made; and when we changed to our car as a mode of transportation, it purred along like a contented kitten to and from Colorado. Also, we visited relatives at both ends of our journey so we had a wonderful vacation.

During our trip we saw people who live in Big Spring, who had lived in Big Spring, or who knew people who live in Big Spring.

The first day we were in Durango, Colo., at the MILLER HARRIS ranch, they were visited by the WALKER BAILEYS, who were on a trip through the western states. The Baileys spent some time with the RAY ADAMSES of Ackerly who have an attractive home at Vallecito. We drove over to Cortez to see the C. M. BOLES family who have lived there for seven years. They had made their home here for six years before the transfer by Phillips Petroleum Co. Mr. Boles had been admitted to a hospital the night before our arrival with a slight coronary attack. He was doing well when we left.

In our nation's capital we attended a reception where we had a fine time visiting Texans. One of the first couples we saw at the Frank Ikard party were the WALTER HORNADAYS who are the son-in-law and daughter of MRS. DELLA AGNELL. The Hornadays are readying themselves for a trip to Europe in September. I chatted at length with MRS. ARTHUR PERRY who is a relative of MRS. PEARL GAGE. Of course we saw CONG. and MRS. OMAR BURLESON, who were most gracious, and CONG. and MRS. GEORGE MAHON, who were our hosts for lunch in the congressional dining room where we all had a bowl of the famous bean soup. We visited Cong. Mahon's office where one of the decorations on his wall is an oil reproduction of a postage stamp by MRS. MYRTLE LEE, who was Mrs. Mahon's roommate at Simmons University in Abilene. JP visited with the GRAHAM PURCELLS at a party that I had to pass up. The congressman and his wife lived here several years after WW II before moving to Wichita Falls.

During our visit to the eastern part of the nation we experienced another first. This was a ride on a commuter train, an experience everyone should have if he is in good health and can take rough treatment. I would not want it as a steady diet.

JOE DUNCAN of Newport, R. I., is here with his grandparents, MR. and MRS. D. C. DUNCAN, prior to entering Texas Technological College in Lubbock. The senior Duncans spent three weeks in Newport with their son, Navy Lt. Pat Duncan, and Mrs. Duncan in July and Joe returned here with them.

We had some anxious hours Monday during the tragic shooting in Austin. Our son, Gary, a news cameraman for KTBC-TV, took the pictures of the massacre that were distributed by Associated Press. He and his friend, Charlie Ward, KTBC-TV announcer, were again teamed on the assignment. They took a first place award early this year in a contest sponsored by United Press International for their feature on the James Cross case.

Visiting with RALPH LaLONDE are his daughter, Mignonne, and husband, BILL PETERSON, who are just back from a tour of duty in Europe. They met in Heidelberg while he was with the Army intelligence and she with the Red Cross. He is retiring from service and they will make their home in Oregon where he will be a chemist for Weyerhauser Timber Company.

MRS. J. T. ISBEL of Ballinger is visiting friends here including the CHARLIE STAGGSES and the JOHNNY STEWARTS.

Following a fall Tuesday, MRS. DEWITT DAVIS is confined to room 203 at Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital with a broken hip.

Remember Sizes In Home Project

When you're buying lumber for do-it-yourself projects, remember that actual widths and thicknesses are slightly less than the measurements specified. For example, a 1x10-inch stock board is actually ¾x9½ inches. Seasoned 2-inch lumber is actually 1⅝ inches thick.

For after sunset hours . . . . . Friedmonte two piece and jacket of radiant worsted and silk. Piped pockets and jewel trim. Sizes 10-20 in the season's newest colors.
