Mrs. Fred Standefer Is Triangle Club Hostess

Mrs. Fred W. Standefer entertained the Triangle Club yesterday afternoon at her home, 226 16th St. Games of bridge were played with Mrs. H. L. Johnston receiving high score among club members and Mrs. W. F. Schenck scoring high among the visitors. A salad course was served. Mrs. Standefer was assisted in entertaining by her sister, Mrs. John W. Richards. An attractive decorative table was struck through the use of new ideas.

Members and guests in attendance were Mesdames L. B. Creath, Ames Howard, Lewis Howard, R. B. Hutchinson, J. T. Hutchinson, H. L. Johnston, Herbert Maxwell, Glen Hess, R. D. Benson, Sam C. Arnett, W. F. Schenck, Carl Patton, James S. Garfield, Sam Denman, Homer Phinizy, Alvin Stewart, Floyd Lawson, C. G. Ingalls, Earl Sargent, L. E. Miller.

Kathryn Barr Honored On Twelfth Birthday By Mother

Mrs. I. E. Barr, 1501 Main Street, entertained Tuesday evening for her daughter, Kathryn, observing the latter's twelfth birthday. Games were played with Misses Lucille and Alice Barr assisting their mother, and the birthday cake was served with sandwiches and hot chocolate.

Guests were Misses Ethel Murray, Frances McKee, Joan Sears, Rachel Campbell, Mary Virginia Ballinger, Mrs. Frances Kelly, Tommie Jo Pence, Myrtle Dean Cook, Charlotte Hopkings, Kathryn Barr and Mrs. C. C. Reed.

Pioneer Study Club To Entertain Foster Organizations

The Sorosis and Junior Twentieth Century clubs, organizations which were formed under the sponsorship of the Twentieth Century club, will be entertained by the parent society on April 1 in the home of Mrs. Paul W. Horn. This decision was voted at a meeting of the Twentieth Century club Tuesday afternoon at the First Methodist church.

The lesson on "Nature, Practice and History of Art" was led by Mrs. J. C. Street and current events topics were given by Mrs. H. E. Kille. The first topic discussed was "What is Art?" by Mrs. George C. Wellfirth and Mrs. J. S. Johnson continued the presentation with "Art as an Index to Races and Nations." The life story of Elizabeth Ney, a Texas woman sculptor, was given by Mrs. T. R. Fritchoux. Primitive works of art were discussed by Mrs. W. H. Mendor and "Oriental Art" was the topic of a talk given by Mrs. James L. Dew.

Miss Hilda Goff Is Gracious Hostess Tuesday Evening

Miss Hilda Goff was gracious hostess to a few friends Tuesday evening at the home of her aunt, Mrs. W. B. Price, 1768 Broadway. Two tables were arranged for games of bridge and a salad course was served after several games had been played. Guests were Mrs. Allen Truesell and Misses Kate Pressly, Ruth McKee, Cecil Phillips, Almada Murray, Annette Barnhart and Blanche Dean.

Letter From Mrs. W. S. Ferguson Interesting Part Of Program

A description of the mural decorations in the Lubbock public library as seen by Mrs. W. S. Ferguson is added particular interest to the Athenaeum study-club lesson on American art yesterday afternoon at the First Baptist church.

Mrs. R. Q. Pierce read the letter which was written after Mrs. Ferguson had visited the library during her visit in Boston with her sons. Mrs. Ferguson is making an extended stay in Boston and New York this spring.

Jolly Dozen Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. J. M. Bishop

The Jolly Dozen forty-two club met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. M. Bishop with Mrs. D. H. Mansell as hostess for a pleasant afternoon of games, after which, cherry pie was served with whipped cream and coffee. Mrs. Bishop was to have been the club hostess but she was called to Whiteoak by the illness of her husband.

Guests for the afternoon were Mesdames C. A. Paulger, Ed Allen, Oles English and J. T. Ashford. Club members were Mesdames R. L. Good, J. C. Biffle, A. E. Herring, A. B. Hankins, T. J. Tracy, B. B. Ater, A. H. Travis and J. C. Levens.

Music Festival To Be Inaugurated Here Tomorrow

The annual music contests fostered by the South Plains Music Teachers' association are to begin at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the high school auditorium and continue through Saturday evening. Approximately 450 pupils of teachers in surrounding towns have entered these contests, competing for prizes that have been offered.

Contests in theory will be conducted from 1 until 4 o'clock tomorrow and from 4 until 6 o'clock tomorrow and Sunday school of choice will sing.

"District School" Is Enacted By S. S. Group

"The District School," a comedial play, was given by members of the First Christian church by members of Mrs. R. A. Miller Sunday school class. Mrs. Miller impersonated a school teacher and class members, some of whom dressed as boys, were the pupils. Harroll Rice, Jean Shelley Jennings and Precilla Watson were visiting relatives and Mesdames Hattie O'Hair and G. P. Kaykendall, known in old-fashioned dress, were school patrons.

The girls who participated were Misses Annie Lou Barber, Lou Alice Watson, Helen Robertson, Peggy Whipp, Etta Mae Green, Mildred Brown, Georgia Green, Nancy O'Neal, Grace Jennings, Elizabeth Adams, Lucille Barr, Willie Pearl Decker, Jacquelyn Edwards, Katherine Mills, Junetta Mills, Lillian Nelson and Eleanor Nelson.

Start Radio Teas For Club Women
OMAHA, Neb.—Bridges and other forms of indoor recreation have a rival in radio since the sudden popularity here of the radio tea where guests do not play games, but instead listen in on programs broadcast by the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. A. S. Harrington, drama chairman of the federation, inaugurated the custom, at first the clubs throughout the state met in the homes of members. Later the studio tea developed. Now clubwomen who furnish the program numbers gather at the broadcasting studio and make a special event of appearing before the microphones.

Bookworms At Smith
EVEN DEHAUPTON, Mass.—"Consider the bookworm" seems to be the slogan of many Smith College students who banish the notion that Smith girls are all fed up on books. They can't bear the sight of one. Known as the Bookworms' Club, a group of undergraduates is devouring them, bindings, title pages and all.

Members are elected on the basis of their interest in the outside of the volumes on their shelves as well as the intellectual content.

The club is addressed weekly by Miss Marian Dool, manager of a local bookshop. Miss Dool speaks on bindings, editions, type, purchasing from catalogues and from second hand bookshops, and on how to build and how to care for libraries.

Facilitate Women In Welfare Work
ROME—Even the regime of Fascism is affected by the American talent for social reform. An Italian woman, Princess Cristina Ghibellini Bandini, receiving praise from Benito Mussolini and the Pope for her work in behalf of the helpless women of Italy acknowledged that her education in this field was acquired while she was a member of the League of Nations committee to investigate the white slave evil.

This committee was suggested to the League by Miss Grace Abbott of the children's bureau of the United States department of commerce and is supported by the American Bureau of Social Hygiene.

Women Artists Have Own Salon In Paris
PARIS—An art exhibition at the Grand Palais in Paris, at which only women's work was shown was viewed by a large and curious crowd of male visitors.

The salon was opened by M. Edward Herriot, minister of public instruction, who commented on the number of male subjects chosen by the women artists.

Lawmakers Fined Apples
TOPEKA, Kan.—Vivacious members of the Kansas House of Representatives "pull a legislative lever" or smoke in the house they are fined a box or barrel of apples.

Enough fines were collected from the session that repealed the Kansas anti-cigarette law to supply each member with an apple a day.

There are four times every twenty-four hours at the Isle of Wight, England.

VICK GRANTED BAIL

AUSTIN, March 23. (AP)—Charged with murder J. T. Vick, Wichita Falls physician, was granted bail of $3,500 by the court of criminal appeals today.

The case is in connection with the death of Mrs. Ross Touchstone, 19, after an alleged operation by Dr. Vick.

Vodka Sold Head Price
MURMANSK, U. S. S. R.—The local soviet has selected a worker named Petroff from 500 contestants as the balded man in the province. Petroff has a few straggling hairs on the back of his neck.

The competition was lively and took place before 700 spectators. The prize was a gallon of vodka.

Education for Cats
ROCHESTER, N. Y.—The Rochester Humane Society thinks it might be worth while to undertake the education of cats in free clubbing. In a single month it was called upon to save seven cats that climbed trees and couldn't get down. In some instances it had to call on the fire department for help.

"Inside" Pictures of New White House By One Who Knows

Miss Genevieve Hendricks

BY GENEVIEVE HENDRICKS For NEA Service

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 23. President and Mrs. Coolidge displayed rare taste in selecting the Patterson mansion as their home while the White House is undergoing repair. Inside and out it is a masterpiece of imposing though quiet and dignified beauty.

When he designed it, Stanford White's architectural genius took advantage of the singular contour of the plot on which it stands where, south Massachusetts avenue joins Dupont Circle from the east. And its interior fulfills all the aesthetic anticipations of exterior arouses.

One of the most striking rooms is the ball room. Unlike most chambers of great size, it has a rare quality of chamber. It expresses as well as any other room in the house a perfect harmony of color and design.

Hard to Replace
The furniture is Louis XV and Louis XVI in design and the majority of the pieces are original. Some of the tapestries are original. Some of the tapestries are painted soft outlines, others delicate scenes, still others are scenic color. The original coverings of all pieces in this room have been replaced.

For decorative tones and proper accents we have used on other pieces and accessories a soft, rose and blue. However, I desire to be delicate through blue brocade. The outlines of rose brocade, although 30 years old, are still lovely and will not need to be replaced for years to come. Against the soft gray of the paneled walls they offer a perfect background for the pastel shades of the furniture. The arrangement of furniture in the

Sorosis Club Studies Little Theatre Of Texas

A program on the Little Theater of Texas was conducted by Mrs. J. H. Murchough at a meeting of the Sorosis club Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. A. W. Evans, Miss Vera Murfee, Mrs. L. S. Harkey and Miss Ruth Horn making talks on the Little Theater, directors and the general work of the organization. Mrs. Evans served strawberry short cake and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Hosts To Forty-Two Club Members

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Stanton pleasantly entertained the Jolly Sixteen club, a newly formed organization, on Tuesday evening at their home. Games of forty-two were played during the evening and a salad course was daintily served by the hostess. Those who were in attendance were Mesdames E. W. Camp, O. E. Trinkle, Sam T. Davis, W. C. Rylander, J. B. Maxwell, J. F. Hankins and J. C. Hardgrave.

Rev. J. H. Ague and Mrs. J. W. McDonald attended a Baptist association meeting in Lorena Tuesday.

Jessie Laird Kerby Is Given Party Tuesday Observing Birthday

Celebrating his eighth birthday, Jessie Laird Kerby was given a party yesterday afternoon by his mother, Mrs. J. S. Kerby, 1411 9th Street. Seven little children were invited in for an afternoon of games after which they were served cake, ice cream and punch. James Laird received many gifts. Guests were John Dowell Lawson, Manuel and Quinton Brooks, Elizabeth Makelike, Bobby and Ann McKinley and Nita Pearl Kerby.

EAGLE BATTLEE BASS

NEWARK, Ohio—A bald eagle, the first seen in this country for many years, was seen to swoop to the surface of Buckeye Lake and fly off with a fish in its talons. The fish, weighing slightly more than the bird's claws and feet, Charles Park and Henderson Jones recovered it and found it to be a 3-pound bass.

The Latest In Banditry

Dynamite "planted" in a country road by myrror bandits wrecked these two cars. It happened near Pittsburgh. The bandits got off with $102,000. The robbers waited for the cars to come along, then set off the "plant" by electricity, batteries being hidden in a nearby tree. Five men in the payroll party were injured.

Shopping is convincing

It is easy to choose just the rib most you want when you compare one with another. How convincing, how satisfactory to first compare when buying.

So with coffees. They differ widely in quality. Only by comparing their flavors can you choose the one coffee you like best. And after that, it is an easy matter to order by brand name the coffee you want.

Thousands and thousands of people would be glad to tell you how Folger's Coffee delights and satisfies and is the most entirely satisfactory article on their breakfast table.

But we ask you to take nothing for granted. Simply compare Folger's Coffee with the brand you are now using, by making the Folger Coffee Test. It is the logical, easy way to shop for coffee.

The Folger Coffee Test: Drink Folger's Coffee tomorrow morning; the next morning drink the coffee you have been using; the third morning drink Folger's again. You will decidedly favor one brand or the other. The Best Coffee Wins. That's fair, isn't it?

TRADE BETWEEN BROOKLYN AND CINCINNATI IS RUMORED

Matador Stars Leave For Texas Relay Track Meeting

WALLY PIPP AND HUGH CRITZ MAY GO TO ROBBINS; SPEAKER ADDED TO RANKS OF INJURED

SAM RICE IS ALSO INJURED WHILE BEATING OUT A BASE-HIT; 'ALEX THE GREATER' SHINES ON MOUND AS CARDS SENATORS

NEW YORK, March 23.—There is talk in the Brooklyn Dodgers stronghold at Clearwater of an impending trade with the Cincinnati Reds. Manager Robinson would neither affirm nor deny that negotiations were on to swap one of his fine pitchers for Wally Pipp, field's first baseman, or Hughie Critz, sparkling of the Cincinnati infield.

Ruby was welcome to the New York Yankees at Petersburg Tuesday, for it saved possible defeat. Cincinnati had scored three runs in the sixth inning to break a 0-0 tie when the game ended.

The New York Giants, recuperating at St. Augustine, from 13 exhibition games in two weeks, took an easy training workout. An afternoon storm forced abandonment of a game.

Alex Inspiration to Cardinals
Cleveland Alexander, who for nearly 20 years has vied with Walter Johnson for pitching honors, is still a very active young man.

Scr Pitches Easy to Handle
"Great pitchers always are the easiest to handle," said Manager-Catcher Hob O'Farrell, when I mentioned the name of Alexander.

Friendly Words to His Record
While Alexander admits he has occasionally broken training, it has been as a result of the hard grind, the fear of going stale.

Has Hopes for Big Season
There is no doubt as to the important part Alexander must play if the Cardinals are to repeat.

Teaching Rookies
Veteran catchers can teach rookie batters many tricks. That's why Jack O'Donoghue, never a pitcher himself, has had a good success with rookie pitcher.

May Be Regular
The Chicago White Sox camped in the Chicago White Sox camp caused by the removal from the past of Johnny Mostil, sensational outfielder, has shown a silver lining. To offset in a measure the loss of the giant outfielder, spring indications are that the club will have two competent left-handed pitchers.

Robins' Manager Has Big Problem To Remould Infield; Two Holes Yawning
he will play many games, or parts of games, his first year. The starting outfield will probably be, Bill Falk in left, Bill Barrett in center and De Jhone in right. This will leave young Moore the only reserve available but some likely outfielder will probably be taken on from another club suffering from an excess of talent.

Two more Washington Senators, Tris Speaker and Sam Rice, have been added to the injured list along with Manager Bucky Harris and Walter Johnson.

Word of the injury of Speaker and Rice in the 1-0 struggle the St. Louis Cardinals handed the Washington club at Avon Park, Tuesday was received at the Tampa training camp just after President Clark Griffith had announced Speaker would pilot the team until Harris returned to the lineup.

Griffith's decision had been reached after x-ray pictures disclosed that the injury Harris sustained to the index finger of his right hand would keep him on the side lines for at least ten days.

Speaker probably is out of the game for a week having severely twisted his right ankle and right knee by stepping in a hole. Rice strained his right hip while running out a hit and is expected to be laid up for several days.

Athletics Banished
Again the Philadelphia Athletics have had a jam with umpire Frank Wilson. Fifteen A's were busted from the park at Fort Meyer, Tuesday when Wilson thought sounds from the dugout were insulting. The Mackmen beat the Boston Braves 15 to 4.

Medgie Beats Sox
The Chicago White Sox encountered an old comrade, Shovel Hodge, on the mound in an exhibition against the Texas Leaguers at Wichita Falls, and for old time sake, he let them have a run. It was the only one the Sox scored Tuesday, while the Sox ace, Ted Lyons, suffered severely in his first spring exhibition game, a home run and four safeties accounting for four runs in four innings. Homer Blankenship was similarly treated and the Sox were trimmed 8 to 1.

Grover Cleveland Alexander, St. Louis Cardinal pitching hero of last October's world series blazed with an undimmed luster after pitching six brilliant innings in Tuesday's 8 to 6 game with the Washington Senators. He has not been scored on in fourteen exhibition innings pitched so far in the south.

Line Is Razed
All the thanks Carl Lind got for his unassisted triple play against his regulars in the Indians-Yanigan game at Lakeland, Tuesday, aside from the cheers of his comrades, was "lucky stiff," you had to put up your hands to keep your face from being caved in, and similar comments from the old timers.

TARFON SPRINGS, Fla., Mar. 23. (AP)—Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, is not a member of the Kiwanis Club but he has adopted the organization's building slogan for his own. He expects to start a three year program of baseball architecture on the Browns.

Howley comes to the Browns after winning a pennant for Toronto in the International League but he knows the major league and its ways. He was a pretty good hitting catcher in his day and he did good work as coach for Detroit before going out to manage on his own account. He succeeded Sisler, a great first baseman and smash-

MYLES THOMAS

EVERY time Miller Huggins looks over his pitching aspirants at St. Petersburg, Fla., he gets more enthusiastic over Myles Thomas, a youngster in camp. Thomas has made his major league debut, but has not been listed as a regular moundman yet. Huggins regards him as one of the successors to the veterans now on his staff who may crack at any time.

QUIGLEY MAKES 'EM PLAY RIGHT

Famous Official In All Kinds Of Sports Loves To Hear The Roar Of Crowds

ST. MARYS, Kas., Mar. 23. (AP)—The roar of the crowd, sweeping out of countless stadiums and grandstands, plays a constant tattoo against the eardrums of Ernest Quigley.

For virtually 12 months in the year for nearly 25 years Quigley has been identified with some form of sport. He is a football referee in the fall; he is a National League umpire in the summer; he is a basketball referee in the winter, and a student of sports rules the year around.

Each year Quigley referees the National A. A. U. basketball tournament; every other year he "works" in the world series; for five years straight he has refereed the Yale-Harvard gridiron battle, and for 12 years he has dropped other matters and rushed back to Kansas to preside over the Thanksgiving Day game between the College of Emporia and Emporia State Teachers' College.

In between he works Missouri Valley and Big Ten conference football games, and usually has time left to work in one or two other eastern engagements. Quigley's methods are unique. Gentle and soft-spoken, he is the antithesis of the popular conception of an umpire. He will call a foul on a basketball player in a whisper audible throughout the gymnasium. "You can't do that!" He disciplines the crowds as well as the players and time-keepers. He has given a fabled basketball player a half-dozen successive freethrows because a crowd howled, standing beside the free-throw circle and saying quietly: "Take another, take another."

Dan Howley Starts Three Year Drive To Rebuild Faltering Brown Machine
NEW SKIPPER SATISFIED WITH HIS EFFORTS IN THIS WAY SO FAR

TARFON SPRINGS, Fla., Mar. 23. (AP)—Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns, is not a member of the Kiwanis Club but he has adopted the organization's building slogan for his own. He expects to start a three year program of baseball architecture on the Browns.

CHI-SOX PLACE HOPES IN GOOD PITCHING CREW

INJURY TO MOSTIL WILL BE HARD TO OFFSET IN THE OUTFIELD

(By Associated Press)
SHREVEPORT, La., Mar. 23.—A dark cloud in the Chicago White Sox camp caused by the removal from the past of Johnny Mostil, sensational outfielder, has shown a silver lining. To offset in a measure the loss of the giant outfielder, spring indications are that the club will have two competent left-handed pitchers.

The two Teds, Lyons and Blankenship are being counted on strongly, and the veteran Urban Faber will lend a hand once a week. Connelly and Thomas are brought over from last year and the experienced Elmer Jacobs may assist. Joe Brown, who had a trial with Pittsburgh and Homer Blankenship, brother of Ted, are seeking places. There are other candidates, but these have the most votes at the moment.

Righthanders Are Strong
There is ample righthanded talent available. The two Teds, Lyons and Blankenship are being counted on strongly, and the veteran Urban Faber will lend a hand once a week. Connelly and Thomas are brought over from last year and the experienced Elmer Jacobs may assist. Joe Brown, who had a trial with Pittsburgh and Homer Blankenship, brother of Ted, are seeking places. There are other candidates, but these have the most votes at the moment.

Ray Schalk is having his first fling as a manager but has fitted comfortably into the niche so far. He will do a great deal of the catching when an injured finger heals. He has no worries behind the plate. Harry Mcurdy and Clyde Crouse are both competent craftsmen.

The Yankees and Senators were called upon to complete the White Sox infield, Aaron Ward and Roger Peckinpaugh coming in trades.

Ward will play second with Peck starting at short. If the veteran shortstop's knee troubles him, Willie Huenefeld is available to take his place. Earl Sheely will be back at first with Captain Kamm taking care of third. John Clancy, hard hitting first baseman from the Southern Association, will fill in for Peck and Mcurdy. Moore, former Princeton infielder, will join the club when he has completed some post graduate work at Columbia University.

Mostil's attack on himself with knife and razor blade left a serious outfield problem. The Sox had only five outfielders and are expected to keep them all. Falk and Barrett were brought over from last season and Ike Boone and Randolph Moore added. Boone is a hard hitter with a good throwing arm, who does not always make the necessary arrangements to catch fly balls. Moore, only 29 years of age, is making a long jump from Longview, of the East Texas League, to the majors and still has something to learn. Moore, however, has shown enough in the training period to convince Manager Schalk that he is a prospect and "take another" until the crowd subsided.

Quigley began his athletic career at the University of Kansas. In 1902 he came to St. Mary's College as athletic director. In his early days here he played summer baseball in various Kansas and Missouri leagues, returning each fall to pound football into his "boys."

In 1910 Quigley became a successful umpire in the Wisconsin-Illinois League. In 1912 he went to the International League, but before the season was half over, Thomas J. Lynch, president of the National League, called him into place behind the National League bats in the Polo Grounds.

Quigley is absolutely certain to have a great year. Howley said as he talked of his material. "He is a really great first baseman and with nothing to think about but base hits he will get a lot of them. I think he has an excellent chance to lead the American League in hitting."

"There's a lot of interest in Fred Schulte, the young outfielder for whom we paid Milwaukee a fancy price. My verdict on him is that he will do and will prove worthy of every cent Mr. Ball (owner of the Browns) paid for him. He will fit in nicely in an outfield that has four experienced, good hitting men already available."

UNCLE WILBUR SEES TWO OF THREE SACKS YET MINUS GUARDS

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 23.

Wilbert Robinson says he has a big infield job on his hands for there are two places to fill there, but the rest of the team should adjust itself rather well.

"I have plenty of catchers, four of them experienced," mused the manager of the Brooklyn Nationals. De Berry, O'Neil and Hargreaves were brought over from last year and "Butch" Henline added since the close of last season. Henline will add a lot to the club. He has a world of pepper and he can sock the ball.

"The outfield is all right. Max Carey will be a good man for us, he was not in the 'best of health' last year but he is all right now. He knows a lot about baseball too and that will be helpful. We have added some needed speed in Harvey Hendrick and Arnold Stutz. Both these lads can run."

Robinson believes he always has a good pitching staff.

"Vance Perry, McWeney, Barnes, McGraw and Ehrhardt were with us last year and Bill Doak has come back after a period of retirement. Bill doesn't know yet how good he is now but I have a lot of confidence in him. We have some likely looking youngsters but there are enough experienced men to carry the load if necessary."

"The infield is the problem. Herman will play first and Butler short but I don't know who will take care of second and third."

"The Giants have a great club, Robinson agrees, but he does not "string" with the boys who see a pennant guaranteed for them before the season opens."

"The Pirates will cause all of us a lot of trouble if Wright can stay in the game. The Cardinals are still title holders and you can't count the champions of the world out."

"No, I have no idea of getting back in uniform. In the first place my physique is not one lending itself readily to baseball and I am too old to have the fans yelling you big fathead what did you let him get caught off that base for?"

"Uncle Robbie" was asked about Burelich Grimes and Zach Wheat two of his stars of other years who will wear other uniforms this year.

"Grimes will be a good man for the Giants. He will probably win 20 games maybe more. Buck will do a lot of good hitting for Connie Mack. He will play better ball for the Athletics than he could have for Brooklyn."

TECH ENTRY TO CENTER EFFORT AGAINST STARS

SOME OF GREATEST TRACK MEN OF SOUTH TO BE IN BIG MEET

The Texas Tech Matadors will leave today for Austin where they will participate in the annual Texas Relay game held by the University of Texas at the Texas Memorial Stadium. The Matadors in entering the annual relay games are placing themselves against some of the greatest elite path performers in the Southwest.

Many U. S. record holders will be present for the third relay carnival including: Fred Aikman, record holder in the 200 yard dash; Grim, who has tied the record in the 75 yard dash, and will enter the 100 yard dash; Joe Wagoner, of Minnesota, who clips off the mile in 4 minutes 25.6 seconds; and Lancaster, of Missouri University, who is outstanding among the pole vaulters of the Southwest.

Among the members of the Matador club that will make the trip are: Percy Walker, who will enter in the 100 and 200 yard dash, the 220 low hurdles, and the broad jump; Elmer Moore, 440 yard dash and the relay; Clyde Brown, high jump and 1 mile relay; Neal, half mile; Davis, pole vault; Reed, discus and shot; Vaughn Carley, 440 and relay; and Cannon, relay, and Charlie Christian, 120 high and 220 low hurdles.

After taking part in the Texas relay games, the Matadors will leave Austin for Houston where the team will enter into the Rice Institute games.

"The Pirates will cause all of us a lot of trouble if Wright can stay in the game. The Cardinals are still title holders and you can't count the champions of the world out."

"Grimes will be a good man for the Giants. He will probably win 20 games maybe more. Buck will do a lot of good hitting for Connie Mack. He will play better ball for the Athletics than he could have for Brooklyn."

School Bells Ring For Dry Detectives They'll Respect Homes And Get Big Boys

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Picked prohibition agents are going to school here—with classrooms, teachers, desks, blackboards, ink, winks and everything.

They're being taught good manners with special emphasis on the constitutional sanctity of the home—though the home be a humble one.

They're being taught, too, to get the "higher-ups" in big liquor-making and liquor-selling conspiracies.

General Lansford K. Andrews and his aids started the school. Andrews wants his graduates to rate 100 per cent in both capability and gentlemanliness.

The students are being schooled particularly to avoid all high-handed and illegal tactics of which prohibition officers have been accused in the past.

Harsher Punishment

Looking to move adequate punishment for the "boys" behind liquor-selling joints the school will endeavor to turn out experts at both legal and scientific inquiries having to do with such cases.

With its first semester just opened, the Prohibition Inspectors' school will have 26 students for each period of three weeks. During the next eight or nine months, 260 men probably will be trained.

The chief of the Training Division, as this school is officially designated is Webster Spates, a lawyer with seven years' experience in the attorney general's office, six years' private practice in Miami, Fla., and now legal adviser to Colonel James C. Waddell, supervisor of alcohol and brewery control.

Ideas May Spread

Schooling will be confined for the present to Waddell's alcohol and brewery division, which handles perhaps the two most important phases of prohibition enforcement. Later the idea of educating prohibition agents probably will spread.

Inspectors will be brought here for schooling from all over the United States. They will be taught principally the intricacies of alcohol and brewery supervision, but will be tutored in all-round prohibition work, also.

They will be taught to conduct raids with polish and poise.

Expert Faculty

The faculty, selected by Spates and Waddell, comprises the best experts under General Andrews, who approved the school after Colonel Waddell had conceived the idea. The "professors" will lecture and otherwise function as might a college instructor in mathematics or Greek drama.

Incidentally, there will be examinations. The schooling is to be a selective process, but new agents will be under close scrutiny of course, and if any bad eggs find their way in, they are likely to be eliminated.

"The idea of this school," said Headmaster Spates, "is first to promote efficiency and second, to raise the standard of the personnel, so that we may command the respect of the public by the conduct of our officers."

What They'll Learn

The course, he explained, is divided as follows:

- 1—Regulations governing alcohol plants and breweries.
- 2—Search and seizures; how to get warrants and how to execute them so the law will be enforced in a lawful manner.
- 3—Conspiracies: what makes conspiracies and how to investigate and get the evidence on them.
- 4—Elements of evidence: how to get evidence and how to submit it in proper form.
- 5—General investigation: how to meet circumstances and emergencies and how to conduct one's self on the witness stand.
- 6—Authority and general conduct of officers in the field.

Nothing like this has been attempted before. The students will spend six hours a day in the classroom and probably will have to do homework.

"We don't want to deprive anyone of his constitutional rights," says Spates in speaking of the ethical part of the curriculum. "We want them to be a credit rather than a reflection on us. In the past, men sometimes have been hired and put in the field without any idea just what was expected of them. Now they will know."

Many people may be interested to hear that the prohibition officers will be taught they must have a search warrant in every case before raiding a private home.

To get warrants they will be instructed that "probable cause" for search must be established before a federal judge or commissioner. In other words, presumptive proof of a violation of law must be advanced. There must be reasonable ground to believe a crime is being committed before any place whatever is raided without a warrant. Use of their noses may be one subject for instruction of the inspectors, as the courts have held prohibition agents may act on other senses than that of sight.

Price Of Gasoline Cut In California

LOS ANGELES, March 22 (AP)—A two-cent reduction in the retail price of gasoline went into effect today at Southern California stations of the Pan-American Petroleum company. The new price is 14 1/2 cents a gallon, state tax of two cents included. The slash followed a general reduction by leading companies Saturday which brought the retail price down from 18 1/2 to 16 1/2 cents. In announcing the cut the Pan-American company said the reduction was not the result of economic conditions but because of "bitter competition."

Doctor Held After Woman's Body Found

WASHINGTON, March 22 (AP)—After finding a woman's body in the Potomac river today the Washington police telegraphed to Madison, Wis., authorities to take into custody for investigation, Dr. Knute Houck, formerly a physician at S. I. Ellis' hospital here, whose wife disappeared several months ago. The police said the body had been identified as that of Mrs. Gladys Houck by calling cards or her person. The woman had been missing from her home here since December 17. Dr. Houck was found in an extremely nervous condition at Horrell, N. Y., two days later and was brought back to Washington where he was placed under observation at a hospital. He was never able to throw any light on his wife's disappearance, although he had expressed confidence that she was still alive. After undergoing treatment he went to Wisconsin to join relatives.

MURDER ALIBIS ARE SHATTERED

Corset Salesman And Illicit Love Subject To Wiles Of Police Officers

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Mar. 22.—Police today set about to test Henry Gray's piece the elaborate alibi they say Henry Gray erected for himself while he and Mrs. Ruth Snyder planned the murder of the woman's husband. Hadden Gray, an insurance agent unrelated to the defendant, and Harry Platt, an adjuster, were brought from Syracuse for questioning. Both men today told District Attorney Newcombe that the corset salesman had asked them to "give up" for him at Syracuse Sunday, according to information coming from the room where the two men were being questioned.

He Tells Of "Date"
Henry Judd Gray, the police say, told the two friends that he had an engagement in New York with a "girl friend" and that his office might check up on him and be "puzzled" at him for leaving Syracuse, where he was supposed to be working his sales territory.

Hadden Gray, according to the attorney of the district attorney's office, is said to have declared it was he who used the telephone from Henry Judd Gray's room in the salesman's absence, and who rumpled the bed making it appear the salesman had slept there Saturday night. Hadden Gray and Harry Platt were released later by District Attorney Newcombe, who said he was convinced that the two had no guilty connection with the establishing of an alibi for Henry Gray.

ELECTRICITY

Numerous electric connections in your home provides your wife with the most dependable, economical and satisfactory services that may be had—regardless of cost.

The "hum" of an electric motor in industrial concerns indicates the progressive management employed and is a source of the most dependable power known.

The Texas Utilities Company plant in Lubbock from which you may secure electric current is among the largest in the State of Texas and is as modern as any without limitation by State lines.

This plant's record of dependability over a period of years goes undefeated and the manner in which we constantly improve and enlarge this record should be continuous!

This company, therefore, feels that its services are of such a nature that you should give it your interest when uses of electricity may be made. It will be to your advantage to do so.

DAILY MARKET

Cotton Markets

NEW YORK FUTURES
NEW YORK, March 23.—Cotton futures opened steady. March 13.74; July 14.18; October 14.33; December 14.47.

NEW ORLEANS FUTURES
NEW ORLEANS, March 23 (P)—Cotton futures opened steady. March 13.74; July 14.18; October 14.33; December 14.47.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON
NEW ORLEANS, March 23 (P)—Cotton prices were up and down in today's early trading, and at the end of the first half hour were pointing upward. Opening with gains of 2 or 3 points they soon eased off when the weekly weather report proved more favorable than expected. After May dropped to 12.25, July to 14.07 and October to 14.15, eight or nine points under the opening bids, a rally set in and four or five points were recovered.

Anticipation of the past two days had strengthened the technical position of the market and this steadiness, accentuated by short covering, brought an advance which carried May to 14.05, July to 14.20 and October to 14.25, 19 or 20 points above the early lows and 5 points above the previous close.

NEW YORK COTTON
NEW YORK, March 23 (P)—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 5 points in response to relative Liverpool cables, but there was considerable selling attributed partly to the south. After advancing 14.00 May reacted to 13.85 later settling up to 13.95 or to about yesterday's closing quotations.

The market was quiet later, but the buying seemed to leave comparatively few contracts for sale and prices held steady. At midday May was selling around 13.37 and October 31 or about 1 to 2 points net higher.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, March 23 (P)—Prices moved within narrow limits at the opening of today's stock market with the trend generally downward. St. Louis and Southwestern fell off a point on the initial sale, while Baldwin displayed early strength.

Further selling pressure brought recessions in the early trading, due to the Chinese situation and the outlook in Mexico. Talk of the possibility of an automobile price war also undoubtedly had an effect on the trading in the first half hour. However, there was a sign of a rally when a number of stocks went up 1 to 3 points, following leadership of Lackawanna, which soon scored a notable advance of 6

Much Interest Manifested In Recent Treaty Cancellation Of U. S.-Mexico

UNOFFICIAL CIRCLES OF WASHINGTON ALL AGOG OVER THE QUESTION

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 23.—Interest was manifest in unofficial circles today over the effect, if any, that termination by the United States of the smuggling convention with Mexico will have on the attitude of the American government toward lifting of the presidential embargo on arms shipments into the Central American republic.

Even into the fact of authoritative information from the state department that Coolidge, in recent conferences with department officials, has given no consideration to the advisability of lifting the embargo, the subject bubbled up in information conversations and press dispatches, from Mexico upon this point were read with interest.

No Light Is Seen
Emanating from Mexico City the dispatches threw no positive light on the situation. They said, however, that the decision of the Washington government to terminate the smuggling pact at the end of its first year of operation, next Monday, had given rise to the question of whether this move would be followed by the lifting of the arms embargo. Many think one dispatch said that removal of the embargo would result in increased revolutionary activity against the Calles government.

In this connection, Senator Norris of Nebraska, chairman of the senate judiciary committee, interpreted termination of the convention as an invitation to revolution and gun-running, declaring that "it simply means that we are going to permit the shipping of arms and ammunition into Mexico without any restriction." Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, also viewed termination of the treaty as an act that would be regarded by the Mexican people as an unfriendly gesture.

Mexican Side Given
MEXICO CITY, March 22. (AP)—In making formal announcement that the United States government through its embassy had notified Mexico of the abrogation of the anti-smuggling convention, the foreign office declares that the treaty was entered into at a special request of the United States, and that Mexico gave hearty co-operation to fulfillment of its provisions during the time it was effective. "As the initiative for this treaty lay with the United States, also is denunciation," the foreign office says. "Mexico must consider the pact concluded in accordance with the terms thereof, as from the twenty-eighth of the present month."

BOUNDARY SUIT

determined and laid out on the ground. Southeast Corner Named
The petition charges that the southeast corner of Lubbock county, established in 1852 by J. H. Jones, which corner was used as the point of beginning by Garza county in the survey recently undertaken, is 200 varas south and 700 varas west of the true north-west corner of Garza county, which is the common point, as specified in the northeast corner of Lynn when measured from the twelfth mile post on the 100th meridian, as is alleged to have been specified in the act of the Legislature.

It is charged that the northwest corner of Young county, as called for by the plaintiff, Garza county in the original petition, is not the proper place of beginning because there are two well established corners about 500 varas apart.

"Proper Point" Is Set
The proper point of beginning, the petition claims, is the twelfth mile post on the 100th meridian, and the court is asked to issue an order for a true survey to be made of all the counties affected, in order to definitely establish the true boundaries as specified by the Legislature act.

The case grew out of an injunction granted in district court here recently in favor of Garza county, restraining Lynn county and Sylvan Sanders from proceeding with a boundary survey then under way, in which petition it was charged that if the survey were completed as started, Garza county would have been deprived of approximately twenty sections of land.

The case is considered one of the most wide spreading ever filed in West Texas, and before it is finally decided may call for a survey definitely establishing the boundary lines of all counties in the northwestern part of the state.

ROTARY HEARS HARLEY WOODS

He Tells Of Word Of BCD And Its Benefit To Lubbock In Weekly Meeting

Despite the fact that some ten or twelve members of the local Rotary club were absent from the city, en route to Waco to attend the District convention, there was good attendance and a good program. In the absence of the president, Herbert Allen, J. A. Bix presided. The program was in charge of Dean J. M. Gordon, of the Tech college, and appearing on the program was H. D. Woods, local insurance man and a member of the Board of City Development. Mr. Woods spoke along the line of the work of the Board of City Development, reviewing some of the things that body has accomplished, and setting forth some of the difficulties of the organization, and also outlining the work that body has in mind for the future.

He stressed the idea that the members of the board want at all times suggestions from the people of Lubbock, and the civic clubs of the city, and will welcome at all times the suggestions of people along lines that will help to develop Lubbock, and her true territory, and to foster the good will of the neighboring cities.

President of the Board of City Development, Spencer Wells added brief remarks to Mr. Woods' talk, and further urged the importance of the people of Lubbock and the surrounding country in cooperating with the members of the board by bringing before it anything of importance, as it is nothing more or less than a small group of men organized to carry out the wishes of the community in general as best they know how.

FOUR ARE HELD

last week when J. P. Currie appeared in court. Federal Judge Higginbotham asserted he had been driven out of Wilsey county because he had taken the stand against Tolles and other defendants in the Corpus Christi trial.

Ordered To Leave Town
H. B. Hart, who alleges he was informed on March 12, that he had 35 hours to leave Raymondville, is now at the home of his son at Harlingen. "I was approached on the streets of Raymondville by two men," Mr. Hart said. "One of them accosted me. 'Some of the boys are in their graves,' he said, 'some will soon be on their way to the penitentiary, and we are having too much agitation around here. You have been pretty active. You have thirty-six hours to leave town.'"

"Isn't that a pretty raw proposition?" was Hart's query, "what are you going to do if I don't leave town?" The reply to the query was a blow in the face which smashed his nose, and according to his version the men proceeded further punishment unless he obeyed orders.

Has Belief in Snow
Mr. Hart appeared at Brownsville the following day with his face bruised and cut. He stated that he was not inclined to start action at that time. "I have considerable confidence in Sheriff Snow, the newly appointed sheriff," he said, "and I believe Snow will right matters in Wilsey county. I do not think it would be advisable to bring outside interference. Such matters can usually be better adjusted from the inside."

Mr. Hart stated he had made no complaint to Sheriff Hutchinson, and had not communicated with the judge relative to the affair. "The only action I have taken personally," he said, "was to seek the aid of Judge A. W. Cunningham of the criminal district court and Judge A. M. Kent of the civil district court, suggesting that they take the matter up with the new sheriff in an effort to adjust conditions in Wilsey county."

gus. Naturally, he does not accept such stories without careful inquiry.

Borah never mentioned to anyone, even casually, that he was grappling with the Spanish language to facilitate his studies of foreign relations problems. He kept it to himself, just as he did his refusal of the $2500 senatorial increase—until someone discovered it.

IN HIS READING HE DOESN'T FORGET THE OTHER SIDE
From week to week a changing procession of books dealing with the Spanish-speaking peoples and their relations passes over his desk. With his correspondence, his visitors, and his reading, few Americans are better informed on Mexico and Central America. Incidentally, Borah hears from many prominent Americans who come out of these countries, although he cannot publicly reveal the contents of their letters.

On a recent occasion, piled on Borah's desk were "The Mexicans and Their Struggle for Freedom," by L. Guiterrez de Lara and Edgum Pinchon; "The Oil War," by Anton Mohr; "Land systems of Mexico," by McBride and "Latin America and the United States," by Elihu Root, one of Frank Kellogg's predecessors as secretary of state.

"You can't say I don't look at both sides of the question," said Borah with a grin as he pointed to the Root volume.

SAINT AND SINNER

COPYRIGHT 1926 NEARY ANNE AUSTIN

BEFORE Bob could answer, Mr. Churchill was on his feet, shouting his objections. "Your honor, I object to all this questioning by the district attorney into the social life of this defendant, on the grounds that any testimony along these lines is incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial."

"Your honor," Banning retorted heatedly. "It is my purpose with these questions and their answers to paint a character, portraiture of this defendant, and I can quickly demonstrate to your honor will have the jury withdrawn. That all such testimony is extremely relevant to this case."

"Objection overruled," Judge Gimshaw rapped out. "The witness is instructed to answer the question."

From the press tables a sigh of relief went up. Western Union boys, scolding in a big moment, hovered over the chairs of frenzied busy reporters.

"I did escort Mrs. Wiley, then Miss Cherry Lane, to a dance at the Marlboro Country Club on Saturday, October 1926," Bob answered slowly but distinctly.

But to the acute disappointment of press and audience, Banning dismissed Bob without another question. Cherry leaned back to grasp his hand as Bob took his seat. "Don't feel badly," she whispered, smiling on her lovely little face for the benefit of the watchful reporters. "You did splendidly and I wouldn't have had you tie me up for the world."

"Oh, Bob," Faith quivered, as her cold fingers closed over his outstretched hand. "Banning's going to rake up everything that Cherry ever did. He'll have Mrs. Albright testify to what happened at the Country Club—she and other witnesses were allowed by the rapping of the judge's gavel, which preceded the calling of the next witness."

"Dr. Enos Paxton! Dr. Paxton!" When the thin, middle-aged, soft-spoken doctor had taken his place on the witness stand and had been sworn, Banning, after a few preliminary questions allowed him to describe the wound which had caused the death of Ralph Winston Cluny.

"Then, in your opinion, doctor, death resulted from one blow upon the back of the skull, made by a blunt instrument?" Banning summed up the medical examiner's testimony.

"That is correct," Dr. Paxton nodded. "Would you say that such a blow could have been administered by this vase?" and Banning passed the broken Chinese vase to the doctor's outstretched hands.

"I would." Further examination of the witness brought out the fact that human blood had been found on the broken lip of the vase, thus dispelling any possible doubt that the vase had been the instrument of death.

"Are you able to fix, approximately within a few minutes, I mean, the time of death?" Banning asked, and every ear in the courtroom was strained for the answer. Upon his answer, Cherry's very life might depend.

"By certain tests, which I will describe if you so direct, I fixed the time of death at approximately one half hour before my arrival, that is, at approximately eight forty or eight forty-five, and Banning passed the broken Chinese vase to the doctor's outstretched hands.

By not a flicker of an eyelash did Cherry betray fear or surprise at this fixing of the time of death so that it coincided with her confessed visit to Ralph Cluny's bedroom. By her own admission, she had asked Chris Wiley the time when she had stepped into his coupe, parked in the driveway close to the house, and had learned the hour to be nineteen minutes of nine.

"Four witnesses, Mr. Churchill," Banning smiled triumphantly, as if his case was clinched.

Don't Try to Breathe Your Way To Health; It Can't Be Done

AMONG the peculiar follies of the physical culture movement none has seemed so completely preposterous as the notion that systems of breathing of one type or another are important in the causing of any disease or in curing the majority of complaints.

While breathing is not automatically regulated by the human body in the same manner as the beat of the heart may be, it is, to a large extent, an automatic function controlled somewhat by reflexes.

One can breathe as deeply or as fast as he wishes to, but when he is running or engaged in feats of strength, the lungs automatically take in as much air as they can to equal the demands made upon them for supplying oxygen to the blood.

Normally a person inhales air through the nose, which removes dust and dirt and warms the air. When a person breathes through his mouth he has not these safeguards.

Systems of breathing that have been proposed include "vitalic breathing," abdominal breathing, rhythmical breathing and other schemes for controlling the breathing rate and volume. All of these systems are irrational and cannot possibly benefit the general state of the body. One does not live for the lungs alone.

Recently a promoter of a breathing system, who visited my office, said that according to his notion the secret of health was rhythmical deep breathing, while engaged in long walks. He showed a body which was largely a barrel-shaped chest, but unfortunately a brain that was not developed in proportion.

Actually it is possible through breathing too rapidly to produce a stopping of the respiration, and it is possible by breathing in too shallow a manner to produce changes in the blood that are not healthful. Overbreathing results in introducing too much oxygen and a sink of alkalosis due to reducing the amount of carbon dioxide in the blood. The carbon dioxide in the blood is the regulator to some extent of the breathing rate.

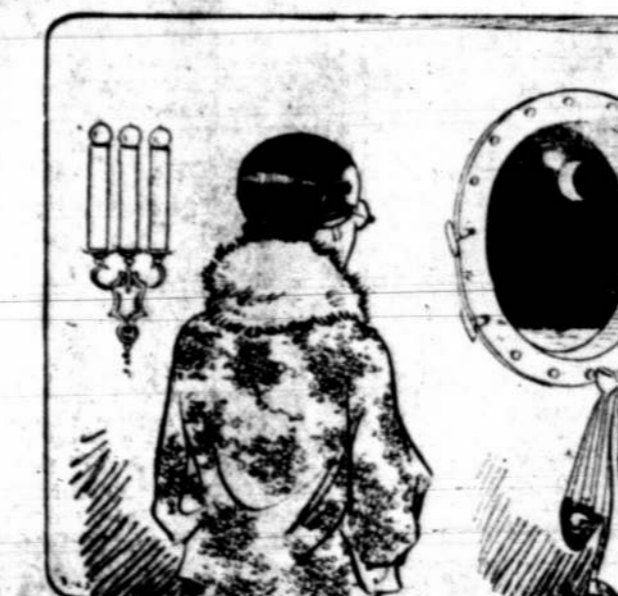

Oxygen cannot be kept in the body in quantities to be used as occasion demands; the amount is regulated by the nature of the blood. A person should develop as much lungs as he needs for his normal life, exactly as with the heart or with any other organ.

One of the greatest dangers of too much athletics is the overbuilding of certain tissues which are not called on later and hence degenerate. Enough exercise should be taken to see that the lungs have a certain amount of regular ventilation and development, but breathing systems should in general be deprecated.

As A Woman Sees It

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

IT'S HONESTY TO YOURSELF THAT COUNTS THE MOST. THERE is an honesty that is not matter of dollars and cents, or a matter even of telling the truth. It is honesty of self.

Often think of an old song in "Ermine," if any of you remember that opera. Two "lilvees" sing it and it goes something like this:

"Things are seldom what they seem. Skimmed milk masquerades as cream. Jackdaws strut in peacock's feathers"—and so on. I forget the rest.

But it is so true today as it was then—truer indeed, in an age when material things mean too much and real things mean too little.

In the house with the Queen Anne front and the Mary Ann back, the fine car at the curbstone, while the mattresses in the children's beds are hard and uncomfortable. The fur coat with theater tickets in the pocket and insufficient food on the table.

Expenditure is entirely a personal affair. It is not the world's business if one wishes to have at the spigot and waste at the bung-hole. (Except about the children, I shall always reserve the right there to criticize.)

But it is not honesty to one's self. That is the point I would make. It is like cheating one's self at solitaire. There—they say—is the world's meanest man.

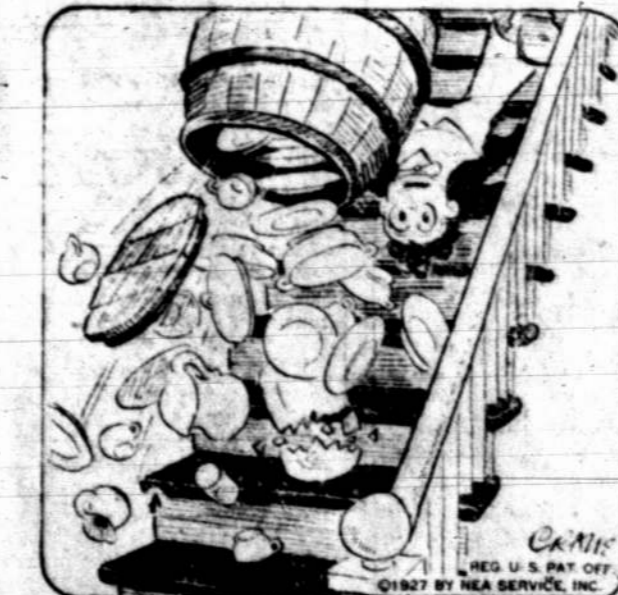

There is camouflage of place for instance. That is important. Why do people try to pretend that they are different? Why conceal their birthplace and the manner to which they were born?

The true gentleman or gentlewoman who has sealed the ladder and has made good as we call it, will not conceal the identity of his forebears.

Not Entirely

The twentieth century, especially this particular decade of it, is a highly materialistic age, as everyone knows in magazine, from lecture platforms and in books this statement is consistently being hurled at us.

With it always comes a sneer that our materialism is of an unusually safe and repellent kind, steadily to the high-er virtues.

One of the phenomena of today is the radio.

Every Sunday morning, in every city, town and country hamlet in the land, the dial is twisted and turned and adjusted so that millions of people may hear sermons and hymns, sent through the air from near or distant places of worship.

Through this highly materialistic medium, the church is able to reach untold numbers of people with whom previously it had been out of contact.

A new opportunity has been opened to the church; a whole new field of service has been presented to it, and the church is making the most of it.

Well, to be sure, that "one doesn't answer the charge. Let's look a little further.

What sort of books are we materialists buying?

Trash is selling well as it always did of course, but never before did Americans turn to serious literature as they are now.

Tragedy is sold enormously. "Dante's Story of Philosophy" has brought him a million dollars over the counter.

Stieglitz-Lewis pictures are best sellers. Five lives of Christ have in recent years had amazing sales. Only a few years ago few, if any, of these books would have had a wide circulation.

We have our materialism, to be sure, but the people who cry that materialism ruins the nation in the exclusion of finer things are sadly mistaken. Think it over and see, if you don't agree.

"Criminal Type"; A Myth

There is no such thing as a definite "criminal type," says Edwin J. Cooder, professor of criminology at Fordham University, who has just finished a two-year survey of more than 2,000 New York criminals.

He holds that the common supposition that most criminals are subnormal mentally is erroneous, that there is no single, specific cause for the prevalence of crime and that the correction of crime is primarily a problem of dealing with the person, since 62 per cent of the criminals tried in New York were under 25 years of age.

"Sentimentality," blind rage, hysteria or dramatic punishment will not cure youthful delinquency," he declares. He goes on to say that our entire legal and correctional machinery must be overhauled, and we must approach the problem from an entirely new angle.

His report is worth thinking about sooner or later, we will have to devote ourselves to the subject scientifically; it is to be hoped that his findings will help to advance that day.

Responsibilities

Heavy are the responsibilities of the high official in war time.

Winston Churchill, British statesman, has just published his memoirs of the last two years of the war. In them he throws an interesting light on Admiral Jellicoe of the British navy.

Jellicoe, he points out, was criticized for failure to annihilate the German fleet at the battle of Jutland.

Was in a few weeks' time, Jellicoe did one man who could have lost the whole war in a single battle. By choosing with the German battle fleet Jellicoe probably would have sunk it; but there was a "but" and that was, "if it had, Germany would have won the war in a few weeks' time. Jellicoe did not take the chance, and though it was.

An unenviable position, Jellicoe's Churchill's book helps us to understand the weight of responsibility that rested on him.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

The Plainsman wishes to take this opportunity to praise the ladies—and the men, too, if there were any, who have through their unselfish labors, assured the success of the benefit lecture which will send representatives of Lubbock high school to the inter-scholastic scholarship meet at Amarillo.

The Plainsman wishes to offer congratulations to Mrs. Charles F. O'Neal in particular, the Plainsman wishes to offer congratulations to her for her work—and worked hard—in putting it mildly and the men's enthusiasm of the city event on her many a lesson from her and her aides.

The Plainsman does not particularly approve of the plan adopted by the Parent-Teachers association in starting the lecture but that has nothing to do with the success of the measure. He certainly does think that the people whose untiring and unselfish work have made it success a regional conclusion deserves honorable mention.

The man who said that two could live as cheaply as one was an optimist all right but he was also a bum mathematician.

The Plainsman wants to add his solemn amen to the opinion of Col. Clark M. Mulligan, and others, who in a recent meeting of the Lubbock post of the American legion, held an evening of an amusingly light second invasion of France this summer by the American legion. I can see a great many good and sound reasons for the boys who "went over" at a most unpleasant time to wish to return and believe that in some future year the plan might be entirely feasible.

The present time, however, does not seem to be the time to make the trip, for countless reasons known to all. France doesn't like us and doesn't want us except for the business which will accompany the visit. All Europe is smoldering with war and the entire matter is fraught with danger. The legion, in the Plainsman's opinion, would do well and wisely to put off the trip to Paris until the French debt has been paid and until a better feeling exists between the two countries. He invites stated opinion from ex-service men along this line—said opinions to appear in later editions of the Journal.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce today held the first of its group meetings as a part of the "thought campaign" to benefit Lubbock county and the territory. The plan is desirable and in addition looks practical. A new opportunity has been opened to the church; a whole new field of service has been presented to it, and the church is making the most of it.

Well, to be sure, that "one doesn't answer the charge. Let's look a little further.

Flapper Fanny

What Dr. Norris says is that if the patient were taught to realize that nothing was to be gained by his incessant tongue-flacking, he would have any more of those spells. He has proposed in a constitutional amendment passed three times by the Senate, to abolish the short session and bring in a new Congress on the January after its election. He points out that a case of filibuster is quite harmless to the patient except during a short session.

Responsibilities

Heavy are the responsibilities of the high official in war time.

Winston Churchill, British statesman, has just published his memoirs of the last two years of the war. In them he throws an interesting light on Admiral Jellicoe of the British navy.

Jellicoe, he points out, was criticized for failure to annihilate the German fleet at the battle of Jutland.

Was in a few weeks' time, Jellicoe did one man who could have lost the whole war in a single battle. By choosing with the German battle fleet Jellicoe probably would have sunk it; but there was a "but" and that was, "if it had, Germany would have won the war in a few weeks' time. Jellicoe did not take the chance, and though it was.

An unenviable position, Jellicoe's Churchill's book helps us to understand the weight of responsibility that rested on him.

WASHINGTON LETTER

DR. DAWES IS MORE MODERN, BUT THE SENATE PREFERS DR. NORRIS

BY RODNEY DUTCHER (NRA Service Writer)

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Now that the Senate generally admits that it is suffering from an organic ailment, sometimes called a filibuster, it will have to decide whether to take treatment from Dr. Dawes or Dr. Norris.

Following the adjournment of Congress, the die after the patient's incapacity had been plainly exposed to the public gaze and after even the patient himself had admitted that something apparently was wrong, the loudest recommendations were for the Dawes treatment.

Outside experts seem to be in more or less accord that Dr. Dawes will get the case and that he will prevent the illness from recurring, which the patient will follow religiously, even though it kills him.

But your correspondent, being acquainted with the patient, begs to suggest that the case is more likely to go to Dr. Norris, the old family doctor.

Of course there is no question about the diagnosis. The trouble is, that the poor fellow, on the most embarrassing occasions, sometimes completely loses control of his tongue. He jitters of this, that and the other thing, all day, and all night, and for the painful duration of this malady—the medical term for which is filibuster—he is unable to move hand or foot. And by the time he gets over it he frequently finds that he has let his business affairs go all to hay and that people are laughing at him.

Now the objection to Dr. Charles G. Dawes is that he favors a "kill or cure" method. The patient would be forcibly gagged.

Dr. Dawes is one of these smart, dapper young city fellows, and has been in town only a couple of years. Recently quite a few folks have come to the conclusion that he has a distinct edge on the old-fashioned general practitioner, Dr. George W. Norris.

But some of the old-timers are suspicious of his new-fangled ways. They say the patient was gagged with three or four clutches this spring and now look at him. Worse than ever!

Dr. Norris, on the other hand, has grown up with the town. He came here goodenough knows how many years ago from Nebraska and has built up a good, solid practice. He has treated the patient in question for various illnesses in the past and the patient survived. He is kind and gentle and abhors the rough stuff to which Dr. Dawes is addicted. He calls a common cold a cold, instead of "coriza," he hasn't invented any new diseases, and his fees are moderate.

Neither does he violate the ethics of his profession by publicly advertising himself and his cures as Dr. Dawes has done ever since his arrival here.

What Dr. Norris says is that if the patient were taught to realize that nothing was to be gained by his incessant tongue-flacking, he would have any more of those spells. He has proposed in a constitutional amendment passed three times by the Senate, to abolish the short session and bring in a new Congress on the January after its election. He points out that a case of filibuster is quite harmless to the patient except during a short session.

By passing the Norris measure, the Senate has indicated that it knows what is good for it and that it prefers the Norris medicine. The trouble is that the chief pharmacists of the House of Representatives drugstore have refused thus far to mix the dose, although most congressmen favor it. Nevertheless, the patient is hardly likely just now to desert the old family doctor just so that he can be gag-

SHAKESPEAREAN REVIVAL

The movement to revive Shakespeare as an endeavor at purifying the stage suggests some such method might be employed in literature to make possible house cleaning within its borders. Things are about as badly off in the latter field as it is possible for them to become—but the likelihood seems to be for their growing worse. Therefore, action against the situation is urgently needed.

And why might it not readily be taken in a campaign for revival of good old book reading? Of course, we buy the classics today—for our library shelves. But who sits down for a visit with Scott or Dickens or Charles Reade or Verne or Irving or Cooper or Hawthorne or Thackeray or Melville?

Not even the high school class in English, which pores over lessons having to do with these great writers of the past, but has little real joy in the experience.

It would bring sweet refreshment to the world of books if people who read could unite to turn from the trashy novels now being digested by publishers' presses and for a five-year period find new and larger delight in the works of those old masters—delight in and in finding that the master craftsman paints real life upon the pages of his novel, making that story as fresh and appealing as on the hour it first was given to the world.

And the present crop of spurious authors? Well, they would go back, no doubt, to keeping accounts or writing advertising stuff, all of which they did much better than they or their kind ever will do in adding to the output of alleged literature.—Kansas City Post.

THE NEWS HAS WIT

While the Texas Legislature is adopting the mocking bird as the official state warbler, shades of Crockery Chicago is deciding to buy an armored car in which to fight crime.

Sufficient for the wit of the day is the news thereof. Kansas retains her chivalrous glory when the supreme court decides that a man should not beat a woman even if she is trying to take his seat in a street car.

Mr. Ruth is paid $70,000 a year, while Mr. Coolidge gets slightly more $75,000. But then Mr. Coolidge puts in a longer season, you know. Mr. Coolidge, by the way, is seeking a cool place in the west for his vacation. If he has to do so knock at any farmhouse door.

For the next perfect figure contest we nominate Andy Mellon. He pays off 4-5 per cent loans with 1-4 per cent notes.

The dollar is worth 60 cents compared to its 1914 value, says a statistician. So Chaplin can save $400,000 if he pays Lita promptly.

Flappers are painting designs on their knees. You wouldn't know the old joints now.

A Thought

It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.—Matthew xix:24.

Common sense among men of fortune is rare.—Juvenal.

ged or have his tongue amputated. Some day the House will mix and deliver the medicine, whereas the Dawes cure, he suspects, is worse than the disease.

Journal Jobs

Two girls introduced as "business girls" to John D. Rockefeller were presented with shimmering dresses. They are good business girls.

A New York judge decided that two drinks do not make every man drunk. The coroner can tell you about some of the others.

IN NEW YORK SEE SAVING AND BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Mar. 22.—One of the fascinating indoor sports of Manhattan is watching the ever-increasing flash of new names into prominence and wondering from whence they came.

Invariably each has a romance, written oftentimes in terms of struggle and, again, saturated with fictional flavor.

Not long ago the critics began to sing the praises of Frank Wilson, a neuro actor, who appeared in the obscure Little Provincetown Playhouse, wherein Eugene O'Neill got his start. No one seemed to know where or how he had been discovered, or where he had been hiding. The Emperor Jones, the drama in which Wilson appeared, dealt with "the negro."

Investigation showed that for years he has been a mail carrier in Harlem, struggling to become an actor and a writer. Several plays are in his trunk and his status as an actor is established.

In a building on Madison avenue there is a Cascha Slavtchen elevator man. The other day a young lady of my acquaintance happened to mention, while riding down to lunch, that she needed a costume for a fancy dress ball.

The elevator man, overhearing her remarks, casually asked if she had seen his exhibition of costumes in a leading art gallery.

Her inquiries revealed the fact that the elevator man has one of the finest collections of Czech blouses and costumes now to be found in America. He has been attending night school at Columbia and expects to enter the diplomatic offices of his homeland within a year or so. Importance of the sale of his importations and needling money for his studies, he has worked as an elevator boy for more than a year.

On Broadway there are as many tales as there are notables heading the casts. This season it has been Lee Tracy, who burst into the spotlight in a role in song and dance acts, carved trails to the agents' offices and was finally accidentally discovered because of the unusual demands of a dramatic role. Success and fame came overnight and, no doubt, will linger with him for many a month.

The other Sunday afternoon at a tea I met a Russian, whose skin showed the leathering of many suns. His conversation was of art and of artists. He is an expert on the stichings of a celebrated Englishman and has been handling a big American collection.

Suddenly someone charged to mention Mongolia in connection with the Chinese rebellion. At once he was off on a strange Conzandian tale of a hunt in mountain fastnesses between Russia and Mongolia. Fifteen years ago he had been a great explorer for the old Russian government, plunging into every part of the world for museum trophies.

Such fictional adventures he about every corner in New York, and the people are as varied as those who appear in the above few paragraphs. A certain word, a casually dropped remark or the mention of a place and up pops a romance.

Court Crowded With DeValera's Patrons

NEW YORK, March 22.—A group of 50 middle-aged women, many of them buyers of bonds in the drive for funds of the now defunct Irish Republic, took their lurches to court to guard against missing any of the testimony of Eamon De Valera in the suit of the Irish free state to obtain $2,500,000 of the money raised in the drive.

The Irish republican leader occupied the stand during the entire day, with a recital of his part in the struggle for complete independence for Ireland and the campaign which resulted in the raising of $6,000,000 in the United States.

Clever Man... LONDON—Clever, these, Chinese. Prime Minister Baldwin says that General Pei Shu-chan is trying to cope with mobs in Shanghai at a safe distance from them. He is in the Tator House, in the international settlement.

Must Play Golf... SHANGHAI—Stray bullets are nothing to dubs accustomed to dodge wild shots of other dubs. Foreigners are insisting on playing golf, come what may. One bug's bag has been pierced by a distant native rifleman.

A Change... NEW YORK—The modern politician has golf clubs instead of gum shoes. At least that's the case with him, says Charles Miles, back from a tour to size up Coolidge sentiment.

Hot Dogs!... AUSTIN—Three Tarahumara Indian runners from Mexico who are to race here Friday, have swished from leaving them on steam pipes in Pullman cars. The three men and three women in the party wore no socks.

New Contest... ST. LOUIS—Politest folks seeking public patronage are barbers and other beautifiers. Undertakers come next. So a survey by the National Association of Retail Clothiers has determined.

U. S. Wins... NEW YORK—Helen Eakin is more beautiful than the Countess de Percamps. For a white tulip, shown at a flower show, the Coolidge Gold medal was presented by Secretary Jardine. The winner, a pure white flower with jet black stem and leaves, was named promptly after a Washington girl. The runner up was a blood red rose named after the countess.

No Mutt... CHICAGO—Steve is an alley dog of uncertain ancestry, but he's no mutt, take it from his boy owner, Frank Brown. "He's a self-made pedigreed dog. He caught a robber and saved a policeman." And he crashed the gates of the exclusive kennel club's show, and after a special ribbon and a gold medal.

CATS ARE FAIR GAME... ST. PAUL, Minn.—Minnesota dogs have a right to chase Minnesota cats, so far as the Senate Committee on Live Stock is concerned. When it was sent a bill allowing any person the right to kill a dog found chasing that person's domestic animals or poultry, the committee amended the bill to read "live stock or poultry." A dog has an inalienable right to chase a cat. It was explained.

OPEN NOSTRILS! ENARRH... A COLD OR CATARRH... How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up... Count fifty! Your cold in head or nostrils disappears. Your stuffed nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffing, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Heavy colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.
