Third Try To Try Woman On Murder Count

WICHITA FALLS, Jan. 24 (AP)—The state begins Monday a third attempt to try Mary Jean Parsons, 21, on a charge of murdering her husband.

Two previous attempts to try her ended because of technical errors in the way special venires were chosen.

Mrs. Parsons, 21, Tulsa socialite, is charged with murder in the shooting of her husband, Lt. Richard O. Parsons, 24, in their El Paso apartment last February.

He was shot to death as he lay in bed. The couple had been married less than a month earlier in a big Tulsa social event.

Mrs. Parsons told officers she shot her husband in the head following an argument. She was ruled sane in a hearing May 27. Since then, her parents have kept her in a private hospital for mental patients except for her two court appearances here.

The trial first was called for Sept. 29. It was broken off when Dist. Judge Arthur Tipps granted a defense motion to throw out the special venire, which the defense said was improperly drawn.

Another panel of 300 prospective jurors was drawn for the second trial date, Oct. 13. The defense argued that jurors who served less than four days on four previous venires were not returned to the jury wheel for this venire, as required by state law. Judge Tipps again stopped proceedings.

For the trial scheduled Monday, he personally supervised drawing of the venire this month.

Regan To Sing At Chamber Of Commerce Fete

Official verification that Phil Regan, singing star of radio, television and screen for the past 21 years, will sing at the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce banquet Feb. 13 was received here this week.

Principal speaker at the banquet will be Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Airlines.

Regan, who is now the personal representative of A. von Gontard, vice president and director of sales of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., will be the guest of C. T. McLaughlin, Snyder oil operator, during his stay here.

In his early life, Regan was a clerk with an oil company and traveled widely in the United States with that company. Later he served as a court clerk in New York.

He left this work to become a detective with the New York City police force. He studied voice during this time and later signed a contract with Columbia Broadcasting System, giving up his police work.

He also held movie contracts with Warner Brothers and made many pictures. Among these were "Stars Over Broadway," "Sunbonnet Sue," "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," and "Sweet Adoline."

He has appeared in numerous national network television and radio programs and last year traveled over 50,000 miles visiting armed forces installations with his own radio program.

He was born in Brooklyn May 28, 1908. He has four children and four grandchildren, and he is now living in New York.

Actress To Be Tried Monday For Espionage

BONN, Germany, Jan. 24 (AP)—A former German actress whose career was ruined by air raid wounds will go on trial before five German judges here Monday on charges of spying for Communist Poland. Three persons from the Frankfurt police department are co-defendants.

It is the first postwar espionage case to be heard by a West German court. Many others have been decided by Allied judges.

The chief defendant is Maria Anna Kuth, 46, her face partly paralyzed since she was injured in an Allied bombing in 1943 and forced to give up the stage.

The prosecution charges she was hired in Berlin in 1948 by the Polish intelligence service at a monthly fee of 400 marks ($95.20), plus bonuses for "good work." In 1949, she moved to Cologne, began collecting and transmitting information on West German security matters, and clandestinely got new orders on a short-wave radio receiver in her apartment.

Navy Ready To Start Blockade Of China Coast

YOKOSUKA NAVAL BASE, Japan, Sunday, Jan. 25 (AP)—The U. S. Navy is ready to slap "an almost 100 per cent" blockade on the Red China coast at short notice if President Eisenhower gives the signal, the top naval commander in the Far East said today.

Vice Adm. Robert P. Briscoe, commander of Naval Forces Far East made the statement in answer to a series of questions submitted by The Associated Press.

"The Navy is prepared to execute any such order on short notice to the limit of forces available," Briscoe said. There was no indication here such a presidential order was in preparation.

The only requirement, he added, would be quick reinforcement of the U. S. Seventh Fleet to give it enough warships for the blockade and the Korean War. Briscoe continued:

"There are various kinds and degrees of blockades. If the Seventh Fleet were ordered to establish a close blockade without diminishing its present efforts in the Korean War, more naval vessels of various types would be required.

Houston Men Due Subpoenas

HOUSTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Mayor Roy Hofheinz, Capt. George Seber and other Houstonians will be subpoenaed to appear before the next grand jury of Fort Bend and Brazoria Counties, Dist. Atty. R. A. Bassett of those counties said today.

They will be asked to tell the grand jury all they know about any vice or gambling in the two counties, Bassett declared angrily.

"I'm tired of the Houston mayor, Seber and others in Houston shooting off their damn mouths about gambling over here," Bassett told the Houston Chronicle today.

Committee Urges Hiking Total Amount Allowed On Campaigns

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — A Senate elections subcommittee proposed today that the limit on spending by a national political campaign committee be increased from three million dollars to 10 million dollars a year.

The subcommittee, since replaced in the new Republican-controlled Congress, said in a report that the ceiling on spending by senatorial candidates should be raised from the present $25,000 to $250,000.

The report, signed by Senators Hendrickson (R-NJ), Hennings (D-M) and Hayden (D-Ark), also recommended tightening of the laws dealing with circulation of scurrilous campaign literature, and extension of federal election law regulations to primaries for federal offices.

The committee said it hadn't been able to figure the total cost of the campaign which ended with last November's election, but added that estimates had placed the cost as high as 100 million dollars.

The group did find, however, that candidates and their supporters paid out $6,062,000 for radio and television time, of which the major share, $3,111,000 went to radio.

The committee said that the present three million dollar limitation on the expenditure of any one national political committee "is unrealistic under present-day conditions." It said the limitation merely led to the creation of additional committees, each working under the fund limitation.

It suggested either a $50,000 limit, or a total representing no more than 10 cents for each vote cast in the last primary or general election for the office, with a top limit of $250,000 in any event. The present limit is $25,000.

Half-Texan Climbs To 2nd Place As Jet Ace

SEOUL, Jan. 24 (AP) —An Air Force jet pilot claimed by Texas as its own ran his Communist MIG-killing toll today to nine—a tie for the second highest mark of the war.

Capt. Cecil G. Foster downed his eighth and ninth MIGs to move into top place among active flyers.

He trails only Maj. George A. Davis of Lubbock, Tex., now missing in action, who bagged 11 MIGs and three propellor-driven planes.

Foster originally comes from Michigan but married a San Antonio girl.

Recently, Foster and relatives in Michigan objected to his being listed from San Antonio—saying he was a "Michigander." But Mrs. Foster, as San Antonio, stoutly maintained her husband is now a Texan.

William Howard Taft III, son of Senator Robert Taft (R-Ohio), is seeking support of senators for appointment as Ambassador to Ireland.

19 Migs In Five Days Is Allied Record

SEOUL, Sunday, Jan. 25 (AP) — Outnumbered Sabre jets blasted four Communist MIGs to destruction Saturday in raging high altitude battles over Northwest Korea that produced two new jet aces and brought a double kill to a third ace, the Air Force announced.

Another MIG was probably destroyed and two more damaged in the fifth straight day of furious air flights just south of the Yalu River, boundary line between North Korea and Red Manchuria. At least 19 Red jets were shot down during that time.

Fifth Air Force fighter bombers, under the protective mantle of the Sabres, meanwhile dumped high explosives on a Red rail bridge crossing the Taeryong River near Sinanju on the main Red supply route from Manchuria.

Other Allied warplanes blasted a Red troop concentration area near Tongchon on the Northeast Korean coast and bombed and strafed Red front-line positions on the Western Front.

Aground, a bright sun and warming weather for the second day brought out Allied raiders. The Eighth Army reported 50 Chinese killed or wounded in an early morning assault on a Chinese held knoll northwest of Porkchop Hill on the West-Central Front.

Allied infantrymen also threw back three light Communist probing attacks along the front, driving off Chinese squads southeast of Kumsong, and against Capitol Hill in the same area and smashing a North Korean platoon west of Punchbowl on the Eastern Front.

One of the two new jet aces, Capt. Dolphin D. Overton III of Andrews, S. C., bagged his fifth MIG to become an ace only four days after getting his first. It was the greatest number of MIGs destroyed by a single pilot in a short period of time in the Korean War.

Previously Overton had flown 100 missions in Thunderjets and 45 in Sabres without touching one of the swift Russian-built fighters.

"I was scheduled for one more flight," said Overton, "but they have ordered me home, now."

He admitted he was a little worried that he would miss becoming an ace.

"I figured if they were flying and if I could get into their formation I could hit them," he said. He did.

Overton was the 24th jet ace of the war. Lt. Harold E. Fischer Jr., of Swea City, Ia., became No. 25 when he shot down his fifth MIG in a whirling dogfight.

Capt. Cecil G. Foster of Midland, Mich., whose wife lives in San Antonio, Tex., racked up his eighth and ninth MIGs Saturday to become the leading jet ace still flying in Korea. He got one Red jet in a morning fight and returned to down another in the afternoon.

Foster trails Maj. George A. Davis of Lubbock, Tex., now missing in action, who downed 11 MIGs and three propeller-driven Red planes.

The Air Force reported that in the week ended Friday midnight it downed 16 MIGs and lost one Sabre in air combat for the best record in two months. Three other Allied planes were lost to other causes during the week, including a Shooting Star jet, a Navy Corsair and a Panther jet for a total of four lost.

The Army reported 2,202 casualties were inflicted on the Reds during the week, including 1,321 killed, 870 wounded and 11 prisoners. It was the highest casualty claim in more than a month.

Young Blond Held As Witness In Compulsory Prostitution Case

NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (AP)—A beautiful young platinum blonde, described as an acquaintance of ex-Egyptian King Farouk's "official procurer," was arrested today as a material witness in the forthcoming trial of millionaire playboy Minot (Mickey) Jelke on compulsory prostitution charges.

Glittering with jewels and garbed in mink, blonde Diane Harris, 21, sobbed unceasingly as she was arraigned in General Sessions.

She wore a mink stole and a silk and rayon suit adorned with diamond clips as she was led, crying, into the chambers of Judge Louis J. Capozzoli for arraignment. A gold bracelet adorned with diamonds and pearls glittered on her wrist.

The judge held her in $25,000 bail as a material witness in the case of Jelke, the oleomargarine heir who is scheduled to go to trial Feb. 2 on charges of forcing girls to become prostitutes.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Anthony J. Liebler turned from the sobbing blonde to the judge and said that Diane Harris "is the golden girl of cafe society." He went on to tell this story about her:

"In 1951 she was a prostitute in New York County. In the spring and early summer of that year she met a wealthy foreign tycoon who took her to Europe and to France where she later met a wealthy man and toured the continent with him.

"She is the owner of an Alpha Romeo car (of Italian manufacture) worth $8,000.

"At Deauville she met an Egyptian by the name of Pulley Bey. He was the official procurer for King Farouk, now in exile."

Liebler said that she had passport trouble in Egypt and finally got back to France.

"She got back to New York in October and is again acting as a prostitute," Liebler said.

He said that Minot Jelke's brother, John, conferred with her in Paris last summer after Minot Jelke's arrest here.

"She has a great deal of information and is of value," Liebler said. "She turned over proceeds of prostitution to Jelke and she has other important information to assist the people."

At that point the sobbing girl cried, "That's a lie! I never gave that boy a cent. I am not a prostitute and I had only one wealthy boy friend."

When the judge asked her if she had registered in various hotels under various names she said she had "because I didn't want to become involved in this case."

Liebler said that when arrested today she was registered at a hotel as "Mrs. Fogel."

Liebler told the judge, "I want to give you an idea of the wealth that surrounds this girl," and went on to say:

"She has a small fortune in jewels in Zurich, Switzerland. She has cash in Paris. She has this Alpha Romeo auto in Rome and she even had a chauffeur in Rome at $600 a month."

[illegible] away, Miss Harris cried:

"I'm supposed to be married next month. This will ruin the rest of my life. The statements are all untrue."

No Action By Bar Directors On Two Judges

BROWNSVILLE, Jan. 24 (AP)—Directors of the State Bar Assn. took no action today on a member's request that the governor be petitioned to remove two South Texas district judges from office.

A committee to study the question further was appointed by J. Glen Turner, Dallas, State Bar president. He then adjourned the directors' quarterly meeting.

"Just more politics," said Dist. Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Alice yesterday when a reporter asked him for comment on the complaint against him and Dist. Judge E. D. Salinas of Laredo.

"My comment at this time is no comment," Judge Salinas said.

J. T. Canales, Rio Grande Valley attorney, had asked the bar directors to petition the governor to remove Laughlin and Salinas from office.

Canales said his complaint stemmed from two indictments returned Dec. 28 by a Jim Wells County [illegible] Laughlin. He was charged with defrauding the county while county judge by selling it his law books for more than they were worth.

Suicide Ruled In Death Of State Official

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) — John C. Montgomery, 41, a State Department official known to his friends as a happy, church-going man, was found hanged in a fashionable Georgetown home early today.

Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, District of Columbia coroner, said he would issue a certificate of suicide. Police said no notes were found.

The nude body was found by A. Marvin Braverman, Washington attorney and frequent social escort of former President Truman's daughter, Margaret.

Braverman, in whose home Montgomery lived, told police he found the body on a second floor landing about 4 a.m., EST, when he returned from an engagement.

Homicide detectives said Montgomery had hanged himself from the third floor railing by a bathrobe sash and a hempen cord. The body tumbled down a flight, they theorized, when the cord broke. They fixed the time of death at between midnight and 1 a.m., EST.

The State Department said its security division would investigate, a usual procedure in such cases. Press Officer Lincoln White said Montgomery, as chief of the department's Finnish desk, handled secret documents.

State Department associates told reporters Montgomery "appeared all right" at a party last night. The affair, at the Chevy Chase country club, honored George Perkins, retiring assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

An engagement book in Montgomery's neat third-floor room indicated he expected to attend a party tonight and to usher at church Sunday.

Montgomery's pastor, Dr. C. Leslie Glenn of St. John's Episcopal Church in Lafayette Square, said he was "completely dumbfounded." Only yesterday, he said, Montgomery led prayers at the church's noon service for business men.

Traffic Pattern East Of City Planned By Highway Dept.

Preliminary surveys have been made and plans are now being drawn for a $100,000 traffic safety pattern at the intersection of the Roby, Sweetwater, and Colorado City highways just outside the southeast city limits, Homer Ray, highway engineer here said.

The new traffic pattern for the intersections will feature separated traffic lanes for vehicles moving all directions through the intersections to eliminate the dangerous situations which now exist, Ray stated.

Ray said that the State Highway Department has appropriated $100,000 for the project, and has included the improvements in its 1953-54 development program.

"That means construction will have been started or at least contracts will have been let before September 1954," Ray said.

"However the project can be started as soon as plans can be completed and approved by the district office in Abilene, and the State Highway Department in Austin, so that it may be completed before September 1954," he added.

Widening of the highway to four lanes from the city limits to the intersection, and widening of the bridge just south of the city limits to four lanes is included in the plans, he said.

Although the traffic pattern being designed for the intersections is not a traffic circle, it is intended to accomplish a similar purpose.

The highways will all be divided into two lanes before entering the traffic [illegible]. Tentative plans call for there to be no stop signs for outbound traffic to any of the three highways, and no stop signs for inbound traffic entering from the Roby highway.

Jilted Groom Gets Hamlet Read To Him

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Jan. 24 (AP)—George Duffy, 21, "jilted bridegroom" who admitted slaying his successful rival for the hand of 18-year-old Shirley Arnold, today was sentenced to a 21-year prison term by a judge who quoted from Shakespear's "Hamlet."

In accepting Duffy's offer to plead guilty to second degree murder in the shotgun death last Oct. 9 of James Hackman, 18, District Judge Charles Penningroth said the slaying was the outgrowth of "three adolescents enmeshed in a triangular love affair."

Duffy and Miss Arnold had obtained their marriage license and sent out invitations for an Oct. 11 wedding when the girl told him she had decided to marry Hackman instead.

Duffy said he was planning to kill himself when he encountered Hackman who taunted him over losing Shirley. He said the next he remembered was seeing the shotgun blast holes in Hackman's car.

Judge Penningroth, quoting Hamlet's "To be or not to be . . ." soliloquy, said Duffy may well have been in the same deep despondency as Shakespeare's ill-fated character.

Freighter Blows Up Near Red Sea Port

KHARTOUM, Sudan, Jan. 24 (AP)—The 3,957-ton Finnish freighter Tirrenia, blew up in the Red Sea off Port Sudan early this morning but her crew was reported safe aboard a Norwegian vessel.

Port Sudan port authorities said the explosion occurred at midnight 110 miles off Port Sudan. They added the explosion awakened Port Sudan inhabitants and shook windows in the city.

Ship's agents in Port Sudan said the 37 crewmen were taken aboard the 9,829-ton Norwegian tanker Olav Ringdal Jr., now en route to Aden.

Ike Makes Appointments To Secondary Positions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP) President Eisenhower today picked Allen W. Dulles as director of the Central Ingelligence Agency.

He also intends to designate Lt. Gen. Charles P. Cabell, now director of the joint staff of the joint chiefs of staff, as deputy director of the CIA, a post now held by Dulles.

Russian Jet Bombers Close Enough To Hit Any Jap Point

A U. S. AIR BASE, Eastern Japan, Sunday, Jan. 25 (AP)—Russian jet bombers which travel at almost the speed of sound are based in strength within easy striking distance of every major Japanese city, it was learned today on highly qualified authority.

The source who asked not to be identified said the Russian IL28 medium bombers have been observed visually by U. S. pilots and recorded on U. S. radar screens.

He said the best estimates are that the Russians have perhaps 1,000 fighter and bomber planes, or more, in dozens of bases on Sakhalin Island and the Kuriles chain just north of the Japanese island of Hokkaido.

The IL28s have a speed of about 650 miles per hour and are capable of carrying the atomic bomb. Their range could take them to any corner of the Japanese islands and back to their bases.

These medium bombers are regarded as the real Soviet threat by Japan's air defenders.

Hundreds of MIG15 fighters, also are based on the Russian-held islands would be only the screening force for this bomber fleet were Russia to strike this empire.

The Reds have been parading the IL28s back and forth between Sakhalin Island, 30 miles north of Hokkaido and the Kurile Island Russian bases, just a step northeast of Hokkaido, the source said.

In addition to the IL28 jets, the Russians also have quantities of conventional light bombers, TU2s on both Sakhalin and the Kuriles. The TU2s are two-engined, propellered craft, similar to the U. S. B26 now being used extensively in night forays against the Reds in Korea.

In Japan, as in Korea, the U. S. Air Force, which is charged with defense responsibility, is greatly outnumbered.

Guarding the northern outposts of Japan is a spreading chain of lonely, frozen radar stations, backed by alert Sabre jets, slower F84 Thunderjet units, and by radar-directed anti-aircraft guns.

Col. Curtis R. Low, commander of the northern division of the Japan Air Defense Force (JADF) said:

"There isn't an aircraft that flies into our area of responsiblity which is not seen by our radar equipment.

"I cannot praise too highly the result these men are achieving under all kinds of adverse conditions—cold, snow, and privation," Low added.

A train trip to cover all the radar sites on Hokkaido would take the traveler a distance of 6,300 miles.

Supplies are dropped by parachute to some radio-relay stations.

Temperatures in Northern Hokkaido range far below zero. At one radar station there is a security fence 10 feet high. Snow is already so deep you can walk over the fence.

When Russian planes approach Japanese territory—as they do almost daily—the radar warning touches off a defensive alert. Thunderjets and Sabrejets streak down icy, snowy runways of northern air bases and soar skyward on missions of interception.

Besides such frequent alerts, U. S. jets patrol Hokkaido skies by day and night.

On many occasions, by accident or design, Russian MIGs have crossed the line into Japanese territory.

"Some crossings may have been accidental," said Low, "But I know, from the path and direction, that others were not accidental."

U. S. Sabre jets have been patroling Northern Japan since December 15, ready to shoot down any intruding MIGs. The Japanese government warned this month that hostile aircraft violating Japanese territory would be shot down.

The nearest of the Russian-held Kurile Islands is only 4½ miles from Northeastern Hokkaido. At the jet speed of 600 miles per hour, that distance is covered in about 26 seconds.

This and other Northern U. S. airbases in Japan are well defended by anti-aircraft artillery. Fuel storage tanks are underground, as are vital war rooms and equally important radar centers.

Col. George R. Sutherlin of Alexandria, La., commanding officer of the aircraft control and warning group for Northern Japan showed a reporter the workings of a principal radar and communications center, deep under the ground.

"A direct hit by a 1,000 pound bomb wouldn't bother us here," he declared.

The darkened room, with many radar sets and Air Force personnel talking into radio phones, was a communications center for the Ground Control Intercept (GCI) system built to protect Japan.

"Here," said Sutherlin, "we can keep our fighter planes in touch with the enemy. When you are in a jet traveling 600 miles an hour, you can't see much—especially if the enemy is coming at you at 600 miles per hour. That adds up to 1,200 miles per hour."

Anti-aircraft units in Northern Japan also receive quick word on any unidentified aircraft.

"If anything broke we would get the full force of the first blow," said Col. George W. Pardy, commander of one of the bases. "In the absence of an actual war, I suppose we are as close to being front-line troops as you can get."

More Shifts In Army's High Command Are Made Necessary

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, hero of the Battle of Bastogne, ppeared today headed for a top-level post in the Army made vacant by the shift in the Korean command.

A planeside huddle between Army Chief of Staff Gen. J. Lawton Collins, who left today for a Korean inspection tour, and McAuliffe strengthened speculation that the latter would succeed Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as deputy chief of staff for operations and administration.

Taylor will take off Monday for Korea to become commander of the Eighth Army, replacing Gen. James A. Van Fleet who is being retired after nearly 38 years of service next March 31.

McAuliffe was the acting commander of the 101st Airborne Division in World War II when Nazi forces broke through Allied lines and surrounded his division. When an arrogant German commander called on McAuliffe to surrender, "Tony" sent back the historic answer: "Nuts."

Taylor went to the White House today to discuss the Korean military situation with President Eisenhower. In talking to newsmen later, Taylor preferred to give no details of his White House discussion.

However, it was assumed that as the battle commander of all fighting forces in Korea, he would have prime interest in learning Eisenhower's views about a way to bring an honorable conclusion to the 2½-year-old war. It was partly to seek first hand information on that point that the President made his dramatic flight to the war zone last December, after his election.

Other questions obviously hanging fire included the matter of ammunition availability in Korea (about which Eisenhower has raised some questions during recent months) and progress in speeding up replacements to keep the troop rotation program going at the desired pace.

The office of deputy chief of staff for operations and administration has become one of the three most important posts in the Army, rated along with that of the chief of staff and vice chief.

The deputy chief is responsible for all current activities of the Army at home and abroad, including operations of forces as well as the management of the military business of the huge organization.

He keeps current with situations in the Far East, Europe and elsewhere by attending daily briefings of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He represents the Army at formal meetings of the JCS when the chief and vice chief are absent. It also is his duty to make frequent personal trips to the field, at home and abroad.

Since the end of World War II, Washington - born McAuliffe has been given a variety of Army assignments to provide him with wide experience in both operations and administration. He was commander of ground forces in the Bikini atomic bomb tests in 1946, then became direct of the Army's research and development. He had another tour of overseas duty, as commander of division in Japan in 1949, then was brought back to Washington to head the Chemical Corps.

THE SNYDER SCHOOLS

Citizenship Is Considered Very Important To Schools

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the sixth article in a series by Dr. Cecil Yarbrough, superintendent of schools, in response to questions submitted by the Snyder Daily News.

By DR. C. L. YARBROUGH

Sixth Question:.. How is citizenship taught in Snyder Schools? Is any change planned in teaching this subject or subjects closely related to it?

No one can deny that the teaching of citizenship is of great urgency today. The problems of a complex society create internal conflicts and the persistant threats which confront freedom loving people throughout the world require trained voters and statesmen. For this reason, citizenship has become one of the most vital fundamentals of education.

In its broadcast sense citizenship is taught in relation to every subject offered in the Snyder School and in every activity planned under its supervision. Our public school is an agent of a democratic society and its primary purpose is to train its children for productive citizenship. Every subject that is offered and every activity of the school has for its purpose in some way to develop as fully as possible the many productive capacities of all its children.

The school, however, has a responsibility not only to train its children for productive adjustment to a democratic society, but it has the solemn duty to indoctrinate its pupils with an understanding of the principles upon which our government is based and upon the essential of democratic living in the home, in the community, and in the state. Each student should develop a knowledge of the history and traditions of our country, of the principles of the Constitution and the Declaration of Independence, of those cardinal principles of freedom, individual rights, and responsibilities which are so much a part of the American ideal and which have been the stake in many national and international conflicts.

It is necessary also for the student of today to understand his country's strengths and weaknesses for he must improve the bad and cherish the good. Each student must come to realize the responsibilities which rest upon his shoulders as well as the rights which are his as an individual citizen in a Christian democracy. Each student must learn a sense of values so that he can make intelligent choices in exercising his voting privileges. Democracy is based upon the belief that an educated people who have been given the facts will make intelligent choices. We do not fear Communism or Fascism in an atmosphere of open, free pursuit of truth. Our only fear is that our students will not learn the techniques of effective democratic living or will not understand the issues at stake between the conflicting idealogies of Christian Democracy and Facism on whatever brand. I am convinced that the modern high school student can distinguish the true from the false if given the facts. Our job is to help develop their understanding of these issues, instill loyalty to the principles of our representative government, and we must also help in the development of their innate capacities for productive participation in a democratic society.

The Snyder school offers subjects which have for their major purpose to develop an understanding of the traditions and ideals of our government. In the social studies program, for instance, which begins in the elementary school, children learn facts concerning the history and geography of our country, its important leaders and events, its achievements, and the problems it faces if it is to survive as a dominant nation. All students are required to take these basic courses in social studies. Civics, an elective course, is a part of the the social studies program which deals with the organization and leadership of our national, state, and local governments. In this subject, the students learns an academic knowledge of the mechanics of government. This is one of the purposes of both American history and of civics, one of which is required of all students.

Every student gets practical experience as a participating citizen in addition to specific subject offerings. The methods of teaching citizenship through school activities are both indirect and direct. Someone has coined the phrase that "democracy is caught, not taught" just like measles or chicken pox.

Many everyday school problems are typical of practical situations in our community which require a usuable kit of citizenship tools. For instance, in the elementary school, the cooperative planning of projects such as Thanksgiving or Christmas programs and room decorations is a practical demonstration of democratic living. Each child has a job to do. Respect for authority and for group laws is learned. Self discipline is taught particularly through practical experiences. In the average classroom, students are given certain tasks for which they are held responsibile. The cafeteria is utilized to teach co-operation and good manners. It is the purpose of the school to help each person develop his capacities so that he can enter into a world of competition. This is a primary reason for testing and guidance for all students.

The junior and senior high school student councils, which were organized for citizenship training, go more deeply into the problems of representative government. Through the student councils, among other things, assembly programs are planned and student morale and personal responsibility are taught. Also, students receive experience in leadership functions and in practical politics. The student council does not govern the school policies, rather it is a device through which students participate in finding the best solution to their problems and in promoting understanding between teachers and the student body. Acceptance of individual reponsibility commensurate with privileges is a basic principle of a democratic society. The home, school, churches and the community at large must do a better job than ever before to maintain the spirit of initiative and ingenuity which is needed by every student for present day adjustment.

The school teaches an appreciation of our country and its heritage through appropriate ceremonies in connection with special dates. Armistice Day, American Education Week, Election Day, are all utilized for discussion among students and teachers. They educate our students to the importance of governmental processes and principles in the United States. For example, the recent presidential election proved to be a lively and stimulating topic for study. The Snyder schools, during the months of October and early November conducted discussions of the history of our national government with time out for heated discussions of the issues at stake and the merits of the two leading presidential candidates. They were carried on in good fellowship under the teacher's guidance. It should be noted that teachers felt free to express their own opinions without attempting to impose them upon their students. This was permitted in the belief that only in an atmosphere where ideas can be discussed freely and frankly on the basis of facts and principles can we expect to develop the type of responsible voting citizenship which is essential to the perpetuation of our democratic process.

While the school cannot successfully promote partisan issues, one of the basic principles for teaching in a democracy must be to provide the atmosphere which assists its students to discern the good from the bad, the truth from the untruth. Any other school program must eventually become sterile.

We are faced today with the problem of subversives. The Congressional Committees now focusing their attentions upon educational institutions may find a few examples of disloyal teachers and textbooks which should be banished from our schools. This will not detract from the fact that the large portion of our teachers are loyal American citizens. Some are liberal, some conservative in their political ideologies. Disloyal Americans, teachers or otherwise, should be punished but we must not lose faith in the loyalty of the majority.

Within recent years, as the challenges to our government have become greater, more attention has been given to the teaching of practical citizenship. No one would say that this job is the sole responsibility of the school. Many homes, communities, churches, and other related agencies must carry their fair share of the load if the total job is to be done. It is difficult to teach practical citizenship to a youngster who has learned improper attitudes and habits at home or in the back alleys. The lessons a youth learns in the teenage gang are more effective for good or bad than some of the lessons in citizenship he learns at school.

While much is being done, we have at times been content at school, at home, and elsewhere, to ignore or accept the tragedies of small children in our community who are deprived of a wholesome family environment, church associations, play ground facilities, and all the ingredients which promote child adjustment. The principles of individual rights and responsibilities of citizenship are as important in the home and community as in the school.

Citizens and teachers alike realize the urgency of making democracy work. The dignity of the individual and the place of freedom throughout the world is dependent upon this. The school can do little to instill principles of good democratic living, develop a sense of values, respect for law, acceptance of responsibility and recognition of individual rights unless it is aided and abetted in the home and community. It is in the early concepts, co-operation, and responsibility. The home environment is, perhaps, the most vital factor in determining the childs attitude toward his fellowman, his government and his God. The Snyder school dedicates itself to doing a better job in the future by improving and expanding the methods which have been described. Results will be greater however, when the entire community in all its phases dedicates itself to this task.

Utility Connections Indicate City Is Still Making Progress

Snyder the boom town, settled into an orderly city last year, but continued to grow at a rate which would be envied by other West Texas cities.

Practically all growth indicators here showed an upswing, with one exception which is attributed to the drought which has continued through three years.

Net gains in the number of city water meters, sewer customers, gas meters, electric meters, telephone connections, and postal receipts were recorded during the year.

The only growth indicator to show a net loss was the number of students enrolled in public schools.

The greatest utility gain was made by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., which gained 596 new telephone customers during the year to a new total of 4,230 users here on Jan. 1, 1953, compared to 3,634 the same date one year before.

Some of that gain was in the company's installations catching up with requests for telephones, and some was in new customers who had not applied for service before.

Water connections increased 256 from 2,891 to 3,147 during the year.

Sewer connections increased 198 from 2,272 to 2,470 in 1952, Ralph Eades, city superintendent, said.

J. A. Callaway, manager of Lone Star Gas Co., said gas meters in service here increased 150 during 1952 from 2,850 to 3,000.

J. E. Blakey, manager of Texas Electric Service Co., said his firm's meters in the Snyder area, which includes both customers inside and outside the Snyder city limits, increased 74 meters during the year from 4,513 to 4,587.

Postal receipts showed a net gain during 1952 of $4,636.55, J. P. Nelson, member of the post office staff, said. Nelson said total postal receipts for 1952 were $115,434.44 compared to $110,797.89 for the year 1951. However rates for certain classes of post were increased by the government during 1952.

The number of students in public schools here showed a net decrease of 281 during the year. M. E. Stanfield, assistant superintendent, said. Stanfield said there were 3,154 students enrolled here Jan. 1, 1952, compared to 2,873 enrolled Jan. 1, 1953.

"However, I believe that good rains would bring an increase of from 250 to 300 students almost overnight," Stanfield stated.

He said that much of the loss of students could be directly traced to the fact that farmers are working at other forms of employement during the drought.

Many farmers are working at industrial and commercial jobs here in town, and many others are working at oil field jobs around here, he said.

"Those farmers are taking the place of workers who would be here if the drought had not driven the farmers to other persuits of livelihood," he said.

The minister, Maurice Bourges-Maunoury, told the National Assembly "the government solemnly promises to maintain the value of the franc, inside the country as well as outside."

To Our Civic Leaders!
There have been others — such as Benjamin Franklin — who healed family troubles as well as those of the commonwealth. Today, the fine, efficient men who guide the civic destinies of our community do not have time to personalize their talents. But they work assiduously for the good of the greatest number . . . and they do a most commendable job. They do their utmost—give of their time and effort—to make our community—Your Neighborhood—your life more abundant. Give them your support. Show them you appreciate their goals and achievements!

Thousands Of Korean Kids Are Roaming City Streets

SEOUL, Jan. 24 (AP) — She was curled up on the snow-swept steps of one of the peddler's shacks by the Seoul post exchange.

The military police making their final rounds of the deserted, icy streets had overlooked her as another tiny shadow in the snow. Her sobbing was so soft.

It was 1 a.m. but Sgt. Krenzer of the UNCACK (United Nations Civil Assistance Korea) welfare department called for a jeep and we returned to the street where my chance late walk had discovered the child.

Sgt. Krenzer laid a hand on the crumpled form. The child whispered something as he lifted her gently into his arms."

"Look for her shoes," he said. I felt through the snow and found a tiny pair of Korean slippers.

"What will you do with her?"

He held the burlap-wrapped bundle close as we struggled over the icy sidewalk toward the jeep. "If she is sick, I will take her to one of the UNCACK-sponsored hospitals. If she is not sick, I will leave her with an orphanage."

Krenzer slid into the back seat and wrapped his arms about the child to keep her warm.

"Children . . . children . . . thousands of children. How long can people continue to ignore them?"

He pulled back the shaggy hair and pressed his cheek to her face. "She has no fever. I'll take her to Mr. Shim at the Samae Orphanage."

Samae is in an old temple. Our jeep lights lit up the big "Welcome" sign on the gate. A sleepy-eyed, elderly Korean in a pair of GI drawers padded barefoot into the snow. He clutched his sagging underwear with one hand and battled the frozen lock of the ancient gate with the other.

Krenzer carried the limp package into Mr. Shim's office and placed her on a bench near a pot-belly stove.

Krenzer massaged the ice limbs, the leathery little hands. The girl continued to tremble convulsively. As she slowly unbent, we were amazed at how tall she really was.

Mr. Shim patted her shoulder and tried to raise the bowed head.

"What is your name?"

"Paik Chong Soon." The voice was low and frighteningly mature. The voice continued in a broken murmur:

[illegible]

[illegible] the tiny child. Mr. Shim smiled and [illegible] her face again.

"She is a pretty child. Isn't she?" he said. "With a bath and her hair cut and combed and clean clothes . . ."

She tumbled in embarrassment at the shawl. "You are very kind. I thank you."

"It was nice and thoughtful of you for bringing her here. I am happy it is raining for we have an extra ration. We will be able to feed her."

Many authorities believe there is no reason for thinking that the Vandals resorted to objectless destruction in their great raid on Rome in 455, which modern use of the term "vandal" implies.

Peddler Picked Up By Police

One man was fined $25 in corporation court Friday afternoon on a charge of magazine peddling in the residential districts of Snyder, city police reported.

Miss Bernell Sinclair, police secretary, said Craig Edens, who listed his address as "anywhere," was arrested in Parkway Addition after a housewife had called police complaining about the salesman.

Miss Sinclair stated that a number of other complaints were phoned to the police department about a second magazine peddler who was not apprehended, but police believed both men were working for the same firm, and left town together.

An ordinance passed last year by the city council prohibits soliciting, peddling, hawking or any other type of door-to-door selling in the residential areas of Snyder, except sale of farm products produced in the adjacent farming area.

Tigers Edge Out Lamesa For Season's First District Win

The Snyder Tigers established a foothold in the District 1-AAA cage race Friday night when they moved from behind and barely edged the Lamesa Tornadoes, predicted district champs, 64-60.

The game was a thriller for the 700 persons attending, with the Tornadoes leading off with a field goal by Robert Weaver. Other field baskets followed Weaver's immediately, and it looked as if the Tornadoes were going to run over the Tigers without much trouble.

While the Tigers were having trouble getting their goal attempts to pan out, Lamesa was moving ahead. The only scoring made by the Tigers for the first seven minutes of the game was in free tosses, but Guard Joe Cargile finally put in Snyder's first field goal as the last few seconds of the first period were ticking off.

The Tornadoes, at one time during the first quarter, held a nine-point lead, their largest of the night. By the end of the first period, the Tornadoes were ahead 15-8.

As the second quarter opened, Forward Deanie Floyd tossed in a field goal to begin the Tigers' uphill climb to overtake Lamesa. At the half, Lamesa led by only four points and a score of 32-28.

The fast play began in the third period, when the Tigers caught up and tied the score 34-34. From that time, the game was tied up six times during the quarter, with Lamesa leading 46-45 when the period ended.

TIGERS HOLD LEAD

The teams exchanged leads several times in the final period, but about three minutes deep in the quarter the Tigers took a one-point lead and gradually built it up to the four-point lead they had at the end of the game. The biggest lead they had during the entire game was six points just before the tilt ended when Guard Douglas Ayers put in two free throws. As the final horn sounded, Tornado John Jones sacked up a field goal.

Center Ned Underwood and Cargile led the Tigers' offensive game. Each team led six times. Underwood led scoring with 24 points, followed by Cargile with 20. Weaver, Stevens, and Carlos Berry paced the Torndoes with 12 points each.

Bill Boyd, defensive standout who was under the goal practically every time a Torndo attempted to shoot, was held out of a part of the game when he lacked only one foul having his limit. Weaver fouled off the court during the third period, and the Lameas team lost Stevens on fouls during the fourth.

The B game, which Snyder won 53-52, was the same kind of fast and close contest, with the teams going into a three-minute overtime to break a 47-47 tie.

That game was tied four times, and each team led six times. Score at the end of the first period was 11-9 with Lamesa ahead, then Snyder held a lead of 29-21 at the half and 39-34 at the end of the third.

The game was tied up again twice during the overtime. Jimmy Bennett put the Tigers ahead with a field goal, then Ray Courtney tossed in one free throw to give Snyder a threepoint lead near the end of the overtime period. Just as the time lapsed, Lamesa's Fancher put in a field goal, but the Tigers still held a one - point margin.

Bennett was top scorer of the B game with 29 points, while Sherrod Dunn led Lamesa with 20.

Notre Dame-Army Games To Start Again

WEST POINT, N. Y., Jan. 24 (AP)—The colorful Army-Notre Dame football series, abruptly suspended five and a half years ago, will be resumed in 1957 with arrangement for home-and-home dates on the two campuses.

A joint announcement by the athletic directors, Earl (Red) Blaik of Army and Edward (Moose) Krause of Notre Dame, said the two teams would meet Oct. 12, 1957 at Notre Dame and Oct. 11, 1958 at West Point.

There was no official word of what will be done after that but Krause remarked, "we hope to continue negotiations when this series ends."

In the last several years preceding the break in relations, the game, annually the highlight of the collegiate campaign, was played in New York's Yankee Stadium.

Krause said the resumption of play between the two teams was discussed on a two-game, home and home scale only and he added: "We do not know at this time if the Army-Notre Dame games ever will be shifted to a large city, such as New York or elsewhere."

Coaches Start To Work With Teams Under Their New Rules

Associated Press Staff

Baylor University, Wednesday becomes the first Southwest Conference school to start finding if its football specialists can become jack-of-all trades.

Spring training starts then. Other conference schools wait until February to start and Arkansas, with a new coach, probably won't get around to spring practice until March 1.

Conference schools this year are limited by rule to 18 practice sessions over a 25 day preiod.

Probably no spring training period in years has been filed with so much uncertainty as this one will be — for coaches and players alike.

COACHES OPPOSE RULE

The ban on almost unlimited substitution means the return of "60" minute men, players who can perform both on offense and defense.

Most Southwest Conference coaches have come out strongly against the rule.

A squad of 60 or 70 players will greet Baylor Coach George Sauer, who when asked for comment on the "two platoon" ban, figured the new rule would certainly be "challenge to the coaches."

Every one of the seven conference schools expect to have big squads on hand when spring training starts. And most coaches expect to keep them during the regular season.

One of the reasons most generally conceded behind the two platoon system ban was the idea that it would reduce squads and cut the expense of maintaining a big team.

COODY TO QUARTER

H. N. (Rusty) Russell, coach at Southern Methodist University said he didn't think squads would be cut too much.

Texas still has 70 players on football scholarships, including fresh men. At the approximately $560 each of these scholarships costs, that means the Cotton Bowl champion has an investment of around $39,200 in its football team.

What each of the coaches plan to do about making scat halfbacks into defensive aces is matter that probably won't be known until they get into their spring workouts.

Sauer said he was going to try halfback Jerry Coody—a good defensive player—at quarterback and last year's quarterback, Francis Davidson—another defensive standout — at halfback.

Texas starts spring training Feb. 2; Rice Feb. 9; Texas Christian Feb. 2.

Pro Football Moguls Arguing Over Organization Of League

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 24 (AP)—The National Football League began to uphold its reputation as a long-winded debating society today when the club owners tangled with the problem of divisional re-alignment.

Going into the third day of their marathon meeting, the NFL leaders re-affirmed their stand on restricting television, borrowed a rule from baseball to put into player contracts, then settled down to argue whether they should change the membership of the two divisions and the system of scheduling games.

The odd thing about it was that nobody expected any major changes to come out of the discussion, but everybody wanted to have his say.

This situation came about when the Baltimore Colts were re-admitted to the league and given Dallas's place in the western division. Not all the clubs were happy about that, although Washington dropped its demand that a place in the eastern group be a condition of Baltimore's admittance.

The Redskins' head, George P. Marshall, wanted to build up a neighborhood rivalry with Baltimore by playing the Colts twice each season but indicated he would be satisfied if that was accomplished by making an exception to normal schedule arrangements. The two Chicago clubs, the Bears and Cardinals, already have such a setup.

Pittsburgh and Philadelphia both were willing to switch to the west to make a place for Baltimore in the east. That way they'd get to play the clubs that are the best gate attractions, but they'd add to their own travel costs and those of the clubs that had to come east to play them.

Tangled with this was a proposal by the New York Giants for an entirely new system of schedule making which would enable each club to have a home game against every other team within a three-year period. Giant President John V. Mara's plan was to require home-and-games against only four members of the same division, instead of all five, each season, plus two home and two road games a year against members of the other group.

Pittsburgh's Art Rooney proposed wiping out the divisional scheduling setup and requiring each team to play every other club in the league once each season.

Before expending their breath on these controversial subjects, the club owners decided to drop the American and National conference designations and just call the divisions eastern and western.

They voted that under future player contracts, no player's salary can be cut more than ten per cent when he is signed for the next season. That follows the baseball rule limiting salary cuts to 25 per cent.

They also voted unanimously to leave the television rule unchanged. They couldn't do anything else without weakening their case in the anti-trust suit against the league, which goes into court Monday.

The government instituted the suit on the grounds that the rule barring television of an "outside" game in a club's territory when that club is playing at home or televising a road game in its home city constitutes illegal restraint of trade.

The league's attorneys have indicated that, unless they can get the suit dismissed on the grounds that football clubs aren't engaged in interstate commerce, their entire defense will be based on the contention that such restraint is "reasonable" and necessary to conduct business, and hence legal.

Bulla may be hard pressed to hold the lead, however. There are 36 holes remaining to be played and such challengers as Lloyd Mangrum, Jimmy Demaret, Doug Ford, Cary Middlecoff, Jack Burke Jr., and one or two others are charging toward the front.

Mangrum shot a 68 for 139 and two-time winner Demaret mastered the course with a 66, the lowest score of the tournament thus far and has a total of 140.

Fabulous Man In Boxing Dies

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 24 (AP)—Michael Straus Jacobs, 72, a fabulous figure in the boxing world until his retirement 3½ years ago, died of a heart attack today in Mount Sinai Hospital.

His passing cut off one of the few remaining links with Tex Rickard, promoter of fights in the grand manner in the turbulent 20s, and the man who helped Mike to success in the fistic field.

Both died in the greater Miami area. Rickard came here in 1929 for the opening of the Miami Beach dog track and the Sharkey-Stribling fight and died at St. Francis Hospital of gangrene and a burst appendix.

"Uncle Mike" in failing health gave up the boxing empire he built and ruled for more than a decade when he resigned from the Twentieth Century Sporting Club in 1949.

His rule was established through his control of Joe Louis during the latter's reign as heavyweight champion and his interest in sports remained to the end.

"Uncle Mike" was attending the races at Hialeah Park yesterday when the first sharp pains of an old heart ailment disturbed him.

"He'd been feeling great right up to about 3 p.m.," said his widow, Mrs. Josephine Jacobs, in a quiet voice.

"It didn't seem like anything at first. We took him home from the track and then called a doctor."

The doctor took immediate action. Jacobs was rushed to the hospital and admitted at 5:40 p.m., EST. He was placed in an oxygen tent, but grew worse gradually through the night and died at 6:15 a.m.

Bulla Leading Phoenix Meet

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 24 (AP)—Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh captured the lead with scores of 69-67—136 today as the nation's better known professionals surged toward the top at the midway mark of the $10,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

Bulla, familiar for years on the tournament trail but for years a non-winner, clipped four strokes off par for the day.

He was on well-known grounds. Bulla lives here, but plays out of Pittsburgh, and is no stranger to the 6,578-yards and the par 36-35

4 Teams Tied With Snyder For District

The Snyder Tigers now rank among contenders in District 1-AAA as all the six teams ready for their third games in district play.

The Tigers, after edging strong Lamesa 64-60 Friday night, now hold a 1-1 district record, along with Sweetwater, Lamesa, and Plainview.

Only Vernon, which had already downed Big Spring and dropped Plainview 58-49 Friday night, has a perfect record in district play. Vernon's record and its season record is 15-3. Lester Dye paced the Lions in their victory over Plainview with 27 points. Plainview held an early lead and led 13-12 at the end of the first quarter, but Vernon picked up a 28-22 halftime led and had it to 41-29 at the end of the third.

Led by the 26 points of Carl Anderson, Sweetwater downed Big Spring 57-44. The Mustangs grabbed the lead from the beginning and held the Steers 158 at the end of the first period and 30-21 at the half Steve Kornfeld tallied 13 for the Steers.

Vernon's lead will be challenged by Lamesa Tuesday night, while the Tigers will attempt to cut Sweetwater down in a game at Plainview in a try for a first district win.

While Plainview's B squad remains undefeated in district play, Snyder's B is in the same shape as the A squad, tied with Vernon, Big Spring, and Lamesa with a 1-1 record. Sweetwater's B team has lost two contests.

Cosden Petroleum Corp. has completed its No. 2 Guy Guffee as a small pumper in the Coronet 2,900 field in Northeast Howard County. The new producer is three miles east of Vincent.

It is reported a 24-hour pumping potential of 10 barrels of 24.8 gravity oil and no water. Gas-oil ratio was estimated at 501.

Top of the pay is at 2,735 feet. Total depth is at 2,865 feet. The 5½ inch casing is cemented at 2,761 feet. The production is from open hole which had been treated with 1,400 gallons of acid.

Location is 330 feet from south and 1,661 feet from east lines of section 58, block 20, Lavaca Navigation survey.

Devonian Wildcat In Upton County Staked To Drill To 10,700

Gulf Oil Corp. has staked location for a 10,700 - foot Devonian wildcat in Central - West Upton County as its No. 2 McElroy Ranch Company - State.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 182 - E - CCSD&RGNG and four miles northeast of Crane.

Rotary tools will be moved in and drilling will begin at once.

The venture is one - half mile north of Gulf No. 1 McElroy Ranch Company - State, indicated Dea mile east of the shallow McElroy pool.

Gulf No 1 McElroy - State is preparing to test the Devonian through perforations. It flowed oil on four drillstem tests of that section while being drilled to the Ellenburger.

Drillstem Test On Dawson County Wildcat

Ponder Oils, Inc., of Midland No. 1 M. C. Lindsey, wildcat in Northwest Dawson County, unloaded oil on a drillstem test in the Pennsylvanian reef lime.

Interval tested was from 8,564 to 8,579 feet. Tool was open two hours. Gas surfaced in six minutes. Oil started unloading from drillpipe when 4,119 feet was still in the hole. It continued to unload as the rest of the pipe was pulled.

No other details of the test have been received.

No. 1 Lindsey is 18 miles northwest of Lamesa and 660 feet from south and east lines of the north-BL&RR. It is one and one-half miles northwest of Pennsylvanian production in the Mungerville field.

Top of the reef has not been reported.

Andrews County Well

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-AU State of Texas is a new project in the Block 11 (Devonian) field of Southwest Andrews County.

Location is 330 feet from north and east lines of section 33, block 11, University survey.

It is to use rotary tools to drill to 8,250 feet and will start operations immediately.

New Howard Location

Sun Oil Co. No. 2A C. L. Jones is a new project for the Coronet 2,900 field in Northeast Howard County.

It is 22 miles northeast of Big Spring and 990 feet from north and east of the southwest quarter of section 10, block 26, H&TC survey.

It is to use rotary tools to drill to 3,000 feet or a test of the Coronet field pay, at a lesser depth. Work is to start immediately.

GOP Attitude About Suits Against Oil Majors Awaited

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—The new administration's attitude toward an anti-trust action against seven major U. S. and foreign oil companies should be clarified Wednesday.

The international oil cartel case is scheduled to come up again then before Judge James Kirkland. The new attorney general, Herbert Brownell, will have to decide what further steps to take.

Pending is the question whether some 20 U. S. oil firms must produce voluminous records. A grand jury was empaneled to study charges of price fixing and market splitting by an alleged international cartel.

Judge Kirkland tossed the case into the laps of the new administration Jan. 13 after the goveryn-ment offered to substitute a civil suit for the criminal action if the companies would produce the records voluntarily. The companies refused and asked that subpoenas for the records be dismissed.

FIVE U. S. COMPANIES

In continuing the action to Jan. 28, the judge commented that his action will give the new regime time "to consider if it wants to act or not." Named in the case are five American companies: Standard of New Jersey, Standard of California, Socony, Texas and Gulf. Two foreign companies, Shell and Anglo-Iranian, are involved.

The National Security Council earl this month recommended that in the national interest the criminal action be dropped. The commission observed that security, prestige and Middle East oil supplies were at stake.

The government under the direction of former Atty.-Gen. James McGranery then offered to drop criminal charges in favor of a civil suit.

Lawyers for the companies called this "blackmail."

TIDELANDS NEXT

Up on Capitol Hill, there's little action expected for a week or two at least. Committees are busy organizing into subcommittees to study particular subjects.

Probably the first major subject to come before the Senate Interior Committee will be the tidelands issue—ownership of the oil-rich submerged lands just off the coasts of several states.

The problem is expected to go first to a five-man subcommittee.

All the most likely Republican subcommittee members are on record as favoring state ownership and three members of the subcommittee will be Republicans.

The two top Democrats on the Interior Committee, Sens. Murray of Montana and Anderson of New Mexico, favor federal ownership.

Nolan County Well Flowing

J. D. Wrather, Jr., has found an apparent flowing discovery in Southeast Nolan County at his No. 1 J. E. Davis.

It took two drillstem tests in the Ellenburger, the first at 6,573-593 feet. Tool on that test was open two hours and 30 minutes, and recovery was 60 feet slightly oil and gas cut drilling mud, 90 feet oil cut drilling mud, and basic sediment.

Open flowing bottomhole pressure was 65 to 165 pounds, and 30-minute shutin pressure was 265.

The other test, taken at 6,595-615 feet, used a five-eighths inch bottomhole choke and one inch top choke. Tool was open 36 minutes and gas surfaced in eight minutes. It started flowig oil in 25 minutes, and oil flowed to pits 11 minutes. No guage or estimate was reported on the amount of oil it produced.

Recovery below circulating sub was 40 feet gas cut drilling mud and basic seidment, with no formation water.

Now on total depth of 6,615 feet, it is taking electric logs and it will likely try to complete as an Ellenburger discovery.

Top of the Ellenburger was hit at 6,580 feet, which is on a datum of minus 4,160 feet.

It is 330 feet from north and west lines of section 35-Z-T&P, three and one-half miles northeast of Blackwell.

Wildcat For Martin

Drilling is to be started soon at a San Andres - Permian wildcat in Southwest Martin County. It will be drilled as Joseph I O'Neill, Jr., and Zepher Drilling Corp. of Midland No. 1 Mabee.

It is approximately one mile south of the nearest production on the south side of the Mabee (San Andres) field

Location is 1,980 feet from west and 660 feet from north lines of section 12, block 39, T-1-N, G&M-MB&A survey. It is just inside the west lines of Martin County.

The drillsite is about 20 miles northwest of the city of Midland. It is on a farmout from Magnolia Petroleum Company. Rotary tools will be used.

Terry County Offset To Field Well Located

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Turner, Jr., and Lynn D. Durham, all of Midland, No. 2 Maton Ralls is to be one location south of their No. 1 Ralls, the recently completed flowing producer from the Pennsylvanian reef lime, which extended the Stetex (Pennsylvania) field more than one mile to the west and south in South - Central Terry County.

Drilling at No. 2 Ralls, using rotary tools is to start once.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 146, block T, D&W survey. It is seven miles south of Brownfield.

Spraberry Exploration

Magnolia Petroleum Co. No. 2-C Sam Preston is a new exploration in the Southeast Midland County Area. It is 22 miles southwest of the city of Midland.

Drilling with rotary tools to 7,400 feet is to begin at once.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 30, block 37, T-4-S, T&P survey.

It is estimated that about three-quarters of human twins are a result of two fertile eggs, and only one-quarter the result of a single split egg.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VOL. 3, No. 231 SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JANUARY 25, 1953 SECTION TWO

Mrs. Don Shaffer of Lion Oil Camp poses in a Navy ribbed rayon suit trimmed sparingly in a lighter shade of blue. All accessories are the same shade Navy including her Navy and white checked straw hat. An adjustable veil which Mrs. Shaffer has pulled to the tip of her nose is found on almost all new spring bonnets. She wears a matching light blue scarf, an accessory that threatens to be almost indispensible this spring and summer.

Mrs. Jack W. Craft, 2109 Twenty-sixth Street, wears a new spring luggage tan and beige crepe dress topped by a matching cape collar stole. Her purse and shoes are the same shade luggage tan and she carries contrasting beige gloves. Her straw off-the-face hat repeats the same colors. Accessories this spring will both contrast and match depending solely on the costume worn. (Lee Watson Photographs.)

Warmer Weather High Notes Spring Fashions

Dressed for spring in a Navy butcher linen sundress topped by a long jacket piped in white is Miss Mina Matthews of 3110 Avenue U. Cotton, too, will be found in a large number of dresses in all price ranges. Her hat is of milam straw trimmed with white flowers and a Navy veil. Pill boxes, profile and straight hats, almost all trimmed in velvet or flowers, are the fashion this season.

Miss Jane Hardin, 2312 Thirty-first Street, wears a versatile dress equally appropriate for a party or play. The black, low blouse of broadcloth is worn with a multicolored denim skirt with matching stole. The elasticized belt is being repeated in spring fashions, and here is sewed on to the skirt. Jewelry is heavier and is being worn more this season.

american designers' patterns

Harvey Berin has created in pattern No. 1129 a dress for daytime with a notched lapel and emphasizing an oblique line. The Bodice is single breasted, skirt double buttoned, hip pockets long and narrow of contrasting fabric like velvet, while the dress is heavy bengaline. The collar is faced with similar contrasts. The pattern is cut to the designer's measurements of size 12 for bust 36, waist 26½, hip 37½; size 14, bust 37½, waist 28, hip 39; size 16, bust 39, waist 29½, hip 40½; size 18, bust 40½, waist 31, hip 42; size 20, bust 42, waist 32½, hip 43½; size 12 requires four and one-half yards of 39-inch fabric for the dress and three-eights yards for contrast.

Miss Parnis made pattern No. 1086 in finely checked wool and trimmed the collar and cuffs with white pique. Other fabrics may be used such as linen, cotton, silk, faille, taffeta or wool. The pattern is available in standard pattern sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 12 requires four and one-eighths yards of 39-inch fabric. To order either pattern send $1 for each to Spades Syndicate, Inc., Dept. 163, Box 535, General Post Office, New York 1, N. Y. For Airmail handling, enclose 25 cents for each. To order pattern pamphlet No. VIII send 15 cents.

England's Customs, Queen Discussed At 20th Century

Mrs. John Hamblen entertained members of the Twentieth Century Club at her home Tuesday and directed a program on England.

"Socialized Medicine in England" was the topic of Mrs. H. J. Brice's discussion. She told of Harold Stassen's observation of the program in England which revealed that elderly persons with chronic ills had flooded the hospitals leaving no room for emergency cases. Since the program works on the principle of quantity instead of quality, older men respecting the medical profession are moving to less restricted positions, she said. She said when the idea of "it's free' has worn away, the program may be a success, but she told that it would be a serious mistake for the United States to follow socialized medicine.

TOURIST MANNERS . . .

Mrs. Stanley Hill reviewed three English writers who described the unpleasant manners of American tourists and soldiers in England. Her topic was "Do the British like Us?" She stressed the need for tourists to be good will ambassadors and emphasized that ignorance of British customs caused misunderstanding.

Queen Elizabeth and the forthcoming coronation were discussed by Mrs. R. E. Gray. She told how the queen could get through the work of the monarch in half the time of her late father, since she had been preparing for the work most of her life while he ascended to the throne unexpectedly in middle age. She also told of the many duties of the queen which include being a business woman, landlord, wife, mother and king. She said Americans might be critical of the cost of the coronation, but that they should compare those costs with the state and national inaugural expenses. The coronation, she said, was one of England's last traditions since the United States now holds supremacy of the seas which were formerly England's stronghold.

Mrs. W. J. Ely reported that about 100 pounds of clothing had been shipped by members of the club to the women of Austria through the CARE agency. She said $12.25 had previously been sent to provide fats for Austria.

Thirteen members attended and answered roll call with a fact about England.

David Headstream, son of Mrs. W. W. Headstream, 2909 Avenue W, is home from the University of Texas where he was a student last semester. He will be inducted into the Army about Feb. 1.

Miss Ruby Butts, new county home demonstration agent, explained the duties of officers and led the recreation period. Members learned two new games, "Here's a Pair of Shiny Silver Shears" and "Dollar, Dollar."

H-D Agent Sees Clubs As Builders For Community

Miss Ruby Butts who took over the job as home demonstration agent for Scurry County this month hopes to develop new home demonstration and 4-H Clubs in the area.

"Everything is completely voluntary," she stated, adding that any new clubs started would be on requests from the prospective members. The clubs are not necessarily confined to rural areas. At one time there were 10 home demonstration clubs in the county including one in Snyder, she said.

At present there are only five of the active women's organizations. 4-H clubs are located at the junior high school, Hermleigh, Ira and Fluvanna. The club at junior high will probably be made into two since there is a membership of 120. Actually Miss Butts prefers 12 to 15 persons in an organization.

The home demonstration clubs meet twice each month with one meeting being a demonstration by Miss Butts on the program set up for the year by the club. This year the clubs have based their activities around landscaping and meat preparation. Miss Butts said she also hopes to work in food freezing.

In this year's program the agent said she will probably not introduce new shrubs for yard improvement but will encourage the use of native ones. "They are less expensive and can withstand droughts and weather," she explained.

Actually I want to get to know the women and their families so I will be in a better position to help them accomplish their own goals. And until I do, I'm not going to be a very valuable agent," she said. For an example Miss Butts stated she could suggest an outdoor living room be located in one part of the yard and, unless she knew the family, wouldn't be aware the family dog always slept there.

"Home demonstration clubs provide a central ground to draw a community together," she stated. The common practice is for persons to go to town to have their fun instead of manufacturing it themselves, she said. In Belton where the agent was previously located the 19 organized clubs had a membership of about 1,000. They had reached the point of having community talent shows instead of just programs planned for their individual groups," she said.

Although Miss Butts deals mostly with organized clubs she said, "We are always ready to help with any homemaking problems they care to bring to us." Occasionally the problems come in too late. Persons who have put food in the deep freeze call in and say they really didn't know how to prepare it so they just put it in.

She said nothing can be done then since the food is already spoiled. "We just wish they would call us about their problems before they do anything," she said.

The agent has numerous hobbies including raising English Shepherd dogs which almost paid her way through Texas University. She said she had one particular dog which had about 100 puppies that she sold at an average of $20. each.

She also likes to read and has a library of about 500 books, a large number of which are on home economics. A believer in collecting, Miss Butts acquires stamps, Christmas records which she plays through July, and adds to her already large personal recipe file. She estimated she had over 10,000 recipes.

Another hobby is baking chocolate cakes. Her favorite kind is a honey chocolate cake in which honey is substituted for less than one-half the sugar. "The texture isn't as fine, but the flavor makes up for it. It is also more moist, sweeter and richer," she said.

Orginally Miss Butts lived in Pleasanton on a Brahma cattle ranch. She worked for four years in Kingsville before she moved to Belton. The family is comprised of her mother, one brother and two sisters. She is a member of the First Baptist Church here and she is doing work on her masters degree at the University of Arkansas.

Second Year Begun By Borden HD Club Women

Six home demonstration clubs in Borden County have completed their first year of club work with more than 100 women enrolled in the program, according to Mrs. Edith W. Hughes, home demonstration agent.

Until Mrs. Hughes started work in November, 1951, there had never been a home demonstration agent in the county. Women living near the county lines had attended club meetings in adjacent counties, and women in the northwest corner of the county had organized the B and L club. The Lynn County agent met with the women. By February of last year, in addition to the B and L Club, the Cedar Crest, Fairview, Gail, Mesquite and Murphy clubs had also been organized.

After the cubs were organized, the members formed the Borden County Home Demonstration Council composed of one elected delegate and the president from each club. The year's work has been mostly concerning with acquainting the women with each other and getting work organized, the agent said. The program planned for the first year touched briefly on different phases of homemaking in order to give the women a more complete picture of the Extension work available. Demonstrations were given on clothing, food preparation and preservation and in home improvement.

DEMONSTRATIONS GIVEN

Clubs are organized to have one meeting with the agent presenting the demonstration and one meeting without the agent at which time a leader in the club gives the demonstration. The Cedar Crest Club reported having a demonstration at every club meeting during the year.

Clubs are beginning to carrry extra projects as a part of the program. The Mesquite Club made two quilts which were presented to Girlstown at Whiteface, Tex. A school building which is no longer in use has been converted into a club house by the Fairview Club.

Recreation has also been an important phase of the Extension program in Borden County. The Murphy Club has combined club and community activities, and the Gail women sponsored a picnic for the community in July. The same club also included families at its Christmas party.

4-H CLUBS BEGUN

County girls were organized into 4-H Club work. An awards program was combined with the Christmas party when outstanding 4-H work was recognized. Members were represented at the round-up held at College Station and at the district camp in Lubbock.

Club women were also represented at out-of-town meetings, including the Texas Home Demonstration Association convention in Kingsville and the district THDA meeting at Dimmitt. Club women also attended the meeting in Big Spring on home grounds beautification.

Work for 1953 is underway with yearbooks already in the hands of members, the agent reported. Major demonstrations selected are clothing and food preparation. Council officers include Mrs. Ben Weathers of Murphy Club, chairman; Mrs. John Whitmire of Fairview Club, vice chairman; Mrs. Mert Jones of Cedar Crest Club, secretary - treasurer, and Mrs. Carl Griffin of Fairview Club, THDA chairman.

Organization of the county clubs took 142 days of the agent's time. She reported 57 days devoted to home improvement, 28 days to food work and 54 days spent working with clothing. Eighty methods demonstrations were given.

Mrs. Davis is the former Miss Flora Jean Bond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Bond, southwest of town, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Davis, Jr., of Hobbs, N.M. The double-ring ceremony was held Jan. 17 at the First Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Ronald Hubbard, pastor of the church, officiating.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace over taffeta. The dress was fashioned with a strapless bodice under a short fitted bolero. A waist-length veil was attached to a coronet, and her flowers were white gardenias.

MATRON OF HONOR

Mrs. C. A. Underwood of Oklahoma City, Okla., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a green ballerina-length dress and carried a colonial bouquet of red roses.

Candles were lighted by Miss Billie June Newnham who wore a pink organdy ballerina-length dress and a wristlet of roses.

C. A. Underwood of Oklahoha City attended his brother-in-law as best man, and ushers were Floyd Smith of San Angelo and Ike Iverson of Crane.

Baskets of chrysanthemums, stock and greenery formed the setting for the ceremony which was lighted by candles in candelabra.

MRS. SMITH SOLOIST

Wedding music was played by Mrs. James Rosser, organist. She accompanied Mrs. Floyd Smith, sister of the bride, who sang "O Promise Me" and "Through the Years."

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Humble Recreation Hall. The bride's table was centered with an arrangement of pink ranunculuses. Mrs. Underwood served the three-tiered cake, and Mrs. Vernon Hartwell registered guests.

When the couple left for the wedding trip, the bride wore a brown suit with alligator accessories.

She attended Texas State College for Women in Denton and has been employed by the West Texas State Bank. The bridegroom attended Texas A&M and is employed by the Kewanee Oil Co.

Out-of-town guests were from Mount Pleasant, San Angelo, Wichita Falls, Odessa, Midland, Crane, Monahans, Wickett, Hamlin and Hobbs, N.M.

Formal Balance, Evergreens Are On Club Program

Mrs. Wade Winston and Mrs. J. E. Sentell presented the program for Garden Club members Friday morning when Mrs. Bill Davidson was hostess at the Village.

Flower arrangements in formal balance were discussed by Mrs. Winston who illustrated her talk with orchid chrysanthemums in a peach - colored container. She explained that formal balance means perfect balance and is often not as pleasing as informally balanced arrangements. Like formal gardens, however, the formal arrangements have their place, she said.

A study on evergreens was given by Mrs. Sentell who discussed the Australian spruce, pine tree and juniper trees which are best suited to windy, drought conditions. She told of the care the evergreens require.

Mrs. F. G. Sears, president, appointed a nominating committee composed of Mrs. M. L. Andress and Miss Myrtle Harrell. A committee to plan landscaping for the new Girl Scout lodge was named, including Mrs. Winston, Mrs. George Frazier and Miss Harrell.

Nine members present reported planting about 100 trees and 150 shrubs. Mrs. J. T. Hughes is a new member.

Mrs. R. F. Wasson, 300 Thirty-seventh Street, has been in Kingsville, where her father, Herbert Andrews, is ill.

Mrs. M. C. Burditt goes through her weekly routine of sponging leaves of her plants. Behind the ivy vine is an oleander which is about four years old and stands about six feet high. It is one of the many plants Mrs. Burditt repots each spring. (Dolores Ketchersid photograph.)

Indoor Plants Take Special Care In Order To Thrive

Christmas poinsettias should be set back and allowed to dry out, according to Mrs. M. C. Burditt at 3408 Avenue E.

Although gardeners differ on the subject, Mrs. Burditt said she lets the leaves fall off her poinsettias and the dirt dry out in preparation for the repotting and watering in April when she resets all her plants. After all danger of frost is past she puts the newly potted poinsettias outside in the sun, watering them as often as is needed.

"When repotting I cut or break the container around the plant if it is possible," she explained. Then holding the main root she gently taps the dry dirt from the small white roots. "I use peat moss in the new soil, mixing about one tablespoon or more to a gallon of dirt," she added.

In the new mixture she places pieces of broken crock, nails, or iron in the bottom to allow for the circulaion of air. She said the plants needed a certain amount of iron rust for growth. She also warned that the pot must have a hole in the bottom to prevent rust rot. If foil is wrapped around the pot she either removes it or cuts a hole in the bottom to allow for drainage.

When plants show signs of dying Mrs. Burditt takes a slip from it to start a new one or resets the root.

One unusual pot plant she has is a gardenia which she said blooms every April. It's care is different, requiring a tablespoon of vinegar once a month in the water to provide the right amount of acid. In the winter months she places it where the humidity is high and a temperature of about 60 to 65 degrees

Mrs. Burditt frequently removes the foil from around the pots and paints them a color to harmonize with the flower. She also adds designs, taking into consideration the color scheme of the room she plans to set it in. She said a plain color paper or decorative paper such as crepe with fluted edges can be placed around the pots. She has one plant set in discarded cookie jar.

Eisenhower's Close Family Relationship

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, Jan 24 (AP) — For business and pleasure, the Eisenhower family likes to be together. And wherever they are, the President frequently looks around him sharply, then inquires, "Where's Min?"

"Min" is Mrs. Elivera Carlson Doud, Ike's mother-in-law. He likes to have her close at hand. Their relationship refutes every mother-in-law joke ever written.

She's a white-haired, alert, witty and friendly woman with a lively curiosity and a reluctance for the limelight which nowadays conflict. She certainly doesn't want to miss any of the excitement surrounding her illustrious son-in-law and daughter, but she finds it hard to keep a vantage point in the background.

So far, Mrs. Doud hasn't been quite able to reconcile herself to the fact she isn't a private citizen any more. Like any other normal woman, she isn't pleased about the wide circulation given her birthday—she'll be 75 in May.

Just before the inauguration, Mrs. Doud was still a bit uncertain about her future plans.

"I'm going back home to Denver, of course," she remarked during an interview, "but it's an awfully hig house and I rattle around in it a bit. We've lived in that house for 47 years.

"I don't know about living in the White House. But I think Mamie would be happier if she can keep an eye on me. She's a worrier, and she won't worry about me if I'm right there. I take a lot of tumbles—I haven't a very good sense of balance and both my girls are afraid about my falls."

Mrs. Doud's other surviving daughter (two Doud girls died in their late teens) is Frances Moore —always called "Mike"—wife of George Gordon Moore, a Washington, D. C., businessman. Mrs. Doud and her daughters have always been very close. There's real temptation for her to stay in Washington but home to her is Denver.

The postwar years have been full and exciting ones for Mrs. Doud, marked unhappily by the sudden death of her husband, John Sheldon Doud, in 1951 when she was away on a visit with the Eisenhowers in France. She flew to Paris—her first plane trip.

"Then I flew the Atlantic twice in three weeks," she remarked soberly.

Since that vacation trip to France and the sorrowful flight home, Mrs. Doud has logged almost 50,000 miles of air travel. Always an enthusiastic traveler, she has rolled up thousands more by rail. The Eisenhower campaign train traveled the length and breadth of the nation last fall, and Mrs. Doud, occupying a drawing room next to her daughter's, was along for most of the trip.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Lora Miller, 2610 Avenue U, are her daughter, Mrs. Forrest Wade and daughter, Mrs. Rex Smith, and sons, Steve and Lyn, all of Clovis, N.M. Another daughter, Mrs. Melvin Stoker and daughter, Susan, of Abilene are also guests in Mrs. Miller's home and in the home of Mrs. R. C. Miller, Jr., 2608 Avenue U.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bollinger, above, are at home in the Elliott Addition here following their marriage Jan. 4. She is the former Miss Bettie Lou Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Patterson, Elliot Addition, in whose home the ceremony was read. The Rev. T. Gerald Cates, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, officiated. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Birge of Old Ocean, Tex.

Little Expense To Keep City Parking Meters In Operation

Neither cold weather nor dust storms appear to hamper the efficient operation of the 386 parking meters which net the city of Snyder about $17,000 annually, but when the rains come the meters act up, Jack Inman, meter maintenance man, said.

Actually, it isn't the rains that cause the meters to quit operating as planned, but the combination of dust deposited in them during dust storms, and the higher humidity during the wet weather, that does the meters in, Inman said.

He explained that during dust storms, the humidity is usually low enough to let the meters continue working amid the dust which acts, when dry, something like graphite but when wet something like mud and gums up the works.

Although cold weather may be responsible for a few broken springs, or levers inside the meters, the wild temperature changes often experienced here appear to [illegible] the meter's operation, he said.

Last year the parking meters accounted for a nice income to the city. Mrs. Clara Jones, city secretary, said $17,095.93 was collected by the meters from automobile drivers parking on the downtown streets.

That was only $8,232.37 less than the meters cost when purchased new March 10, 1939. When the meters were first installed here in April 1949 there were 401 of them, but the number has been reduced to 386 by the institution of parallel parking on many of the city's downtown streets, Inman said.

By about mid 1951, little more than two years after the meters were installed, half the income from the meters had paid their original cost, so that now everything taken from them is income for the city of Snyder.

Its a full time job for Inman to keep the meters in operation, however, and the dust storms and rains are not the greatest deterent to their good operation.

Persons beating the meters as a coin is inserted in the slot is the biggest problem we have, Inman said.

He explained that the meters were constructed so that no amount of beating or giggling would affect the 12 minutes of time registered for one cent, or one hour for a nickle, but that the beating does spring and sometimes breaks the delicate mechanisms in the meters.

Each meter contains a clock that must be wound about every third day, and a coin registering mechanism that trips the time indicator.

"Many persons who would scream in horror if someone started to slap their alarm clock around, will unthinkingly beat the parking meter which contains a similar timing mechanism," Inman said.

But with all the beating, and sandstorms experienced by Snyder's parking meters, the Dual Automatic Parking Meter Co., reports that meters here show a higher rate of efficiency of operation than is obtained from similar meters in most other towns.

"We have spent less than $100 for repair parts for all the meters in use here, since they were installed," Inman stated.

Steers, Horses Sold In Last Stock Sale

DENVER, Jan. 24 (AP)—The last big auction sale of the 1953 National Western Stock Show saw 158 fat steers go yesterday for an average of $34.30 per 100 pounds.

The only animals remaining to be sold are several hundred registered range bulls. They will be offered privately.

The top price, $80 per 100 pounds, in the auctioning was paid for the reserve champion fat steer in the junior show divisions.

The 930-pound Hereford named George was sold by Marie Semler, 16-year-old 4-H Club member from Haigler, Neb., to George Ott, manager of the Aviation Country Club here. The junior show champion steer was sold earlier in the week.

At another auction yesterday, 15 thoroughbred horses sold for an average of $392 per animal.

The top price, $1,150, was paid for Jinniyeh, a bay filly consigned by Stephen B. Strang, Golden, Colo., and purchased by Godley and Shephard of Elizabeth, Colo.

General Says Navy Is Responsible For Vests

BOSTON, Jan. 24 (AP)—A one-time War Department technical adviser says the U. S. Navy financed armored vests development after the Army gave them up as a bad job.

Inactive Brig. Gen. Georges F. Doriot told the Society of Plastic Engineers yesterday the Army in 1943 stopped its experiments in the device that is saving Army lives in Korea because "steel and aluminum experts told us we were crazy."

Thousands of the life saving vests are being used in Korea, Doriot said, but "if it hadn't been for the Navy, we would have had to give up the research in 1943."

Mrs. Sam Cress stands beside one of her first pictures, a tapestry which she painted in 1921. She mixed paints with tupentine in muffin tins, using a variety of browns and greens. "Our teacher let us start with pictures any size we wanted and we gained confidence. We weren't afraid to try anything." She added that the trait is sometimes lacking in modern artists. Mrs. Cress Finds Art To Be Something Everyone Can Love

Art can be enjoyed by persons of any age whether or not they know a brush from a palette, according to Mrs. Sam Cress who lives in the Diamond M apartments.

Mrs. Cress said water colors are particularly simple to do without the fuss and bother caused by work with oil. "I did some of mine while I was at work, wetting only the part of the picture I was going to work on," she explained. Mrs. Cress draws the entire picture with a hard lead pencil and then paints the background and highlights.

She said she also puts the colors in lightly first, deepening them to the intensity she desires. "When you're working with water colors you can always darken one, but if you get it too dark at first you just have to throw it away," she warned. One advantage of using water colors is that they may be done at night under artificial light, she said.

The Cresses moved to Snyder about two years ago from Sweetwater. Mrs. Cress has been painting with water colors for the past eight years after a lapse of about 20 years. She has also done charcoals and works in oil. She plans to study more art and particularly wants to learn spontaneous water coloring, that is, painting on sight without first drawing in the subject.

Mrs. Cress does her water colors on heavy paper which she said doesn't puff up when wet like some thinner papers will do. Her copies frequently are taken from greeting cards which she said are done by foremost artists. "It is a good way to learn, but out of a sense of honor we were taught to label them 'copy' when we signed our names at the bottom," she explained. Most of her reproductions are 12 inches by 16 inches in size.

Mrs. Cress's formal instruction has been limited, she said. Her latest was under Jim McCollough of Abilene who taught a class in Snyder last summer. "However, unless more interest is shown than has been before, we can't do anything with art here," she added.

Mrs. Cress isn't impressed with modern art. She stated while she can see no value in it, she would like to know enough about it to learn to appreciate it.

Mrs. Cress believes a person is never too old to learn an art. "There is one thing about fine arts, they are so soul-satisfying. I think persons who know them are never bored, and when you get older you have more time for them and know how to appreciate them more," she said.

Mrs. Cress's talents aren't limited to art. She also plays a violin, one which is a good copy of a Stradivarius given to her by her father, she said. Mostly she plays classical or semi-classical music. "You really have to be good to play popular because it's so much faster," she said.

TULSA, Jan. 24 (AP)—Oklahoma oil field activities declined generally during the past week which saw completions drop to 113 wells and a corresponding slump in the number of new producers.

True Story Of Love Focused On Far East

(A MANY-SPLENDORED THING, Han Suyin, Atlantic, Little, Brown, Boston, $3.75)

A beautiful love story, particularly since it is true, is basically the story told by Han Suyin in her "A Many-Splendored Thing."

The story is of an Eurasian woman who falls in love for a second time after planning to devote her life as a doctor to the service of her destitute Chinese countrymen. The book was written as a tribute to the one man, an English correspondent, who made life a living thing for the lonely widow. Their romance had complications, however, as Mark was already married to an English girl. With the Hong Kong sun shinning down on their meeting place by the House of Wisdom Suyin promised her lover "I shall exhume all my memories, for I was born irreverent. And I'll do it before the love of you recedes from me as surely as the sea's tide... I shall write how we loved in the fashion of all lovers, and strove not to let the things of existence destroy us."

The unorthodox romance is frowned upon by the Colony, and Suyin is forced to undergo social as well as religious intolerence. However, she reverts to the Chinese philosphy of laughing at cruel incidents, a happy protection so that she is left never shocked nor bitter for long.

Chinese customs are told in detail by the author, including the public execution of persons accused of crimes and the gala moon feast. Family life, Chinese style, is presented through the eyes of one born to the ancient methods and logics. But the modern side of China is not ignored, either. Suyin tells of the infiltration of Communists and the effect of the Korean war. Close to the end of her book she includes a chapter of impressionistic letters written by Mark, her correspondent - lover, from Korea, or as it translates, the "Morning Calm."

Her descriptions of her homeland are loquacious. In one part about Hong Kong she said "The Houses of the rich, set upon their ponderous bases, high above one's head among the palms and frangipani and bamboo of their gardens, protected by their flowered battlements, have the remote, enchanted look of castles...."

Maugham 80, Warns Writers Of Frankness

LONDON, Jan. 24 (AP)—Somerset Maugham enters his 80th year tomorrow with this warning to modern writers: Don't carry frankness too far or readers may revolt.

"I think it's a good thing that present-day authors can write in much more freedom than I had a quarter of a century ago," the English writer said in a pre-birthday interview here. "But if frankness of expression goes too far there may be a popular revulsion against it."

Maugham finds that morality in writing generally has changed greatly in the past few decades. To illustrate this change, he recalled that "in World War I, the English Tommies' favorite swearword was 'bloody.' It was awful then but it's not so bad today."

As for movies, Maugham thinks there's still too much censorship although this situation is slowly getting better.

"I can't speak for television," he added. "I've never seen it."

"Both readers and publishers are sick of war stories," he said. "To most writers in their 30s, the last war was their one tragic and awful experience. They still haven't settled down to normal things—but they must."

Maugham wrote "The Razor's Edge," "Of Human Bondage" and scores of other novels, short stories and plays. He offered these other pointers to writers struggling to hit the top:

"1. Travel, dont wait for experience to come to you. Go out and search for it.

"2. Read a lot, but read what you fancy and not what you feel you must. Reading as a duty doesn't do anyone any good.

"3. Work hard and have infinite patience—mostly with yourself.

"Oh, yes," he added with a twinkle, "I almost forgot. A writer has to have talent. It's a gift of nature and not something that can be taught."

Maugham believes journalism is good training, too. It helps writers to be clear and concise and provides a wealth of experience, he said.

"But to me," he said with a grin, "journalism is like marriage. It's very useful but shouldn't last too long."

Maugham has never been a working newspaperman but he's been married—and divorced.

A small, soft-spoken man with a pleasant smile, Maugham abandoned a promising medical career half a century ago to travel and write about what he calls the normal or everyday things of life—some funny, some tragic, all worth telling.

He notified parish priests and firefighters confined the blaze to a confessional.

Clyde McCoy Brings Back Old Tune With His Muted Trumpet

Clyde McCoy's new "The Music Goes 'Round and Around" hasn't taken Snyder record buyers by storm yet, but dealers report they are having calls for it and expect more.

The new record uses McCoy's invention, the mute, possibly even more than his first hit, "Sugar Blues." However, the band hardly soft pedals any part of the ditty. Frequently the brass blasts, and the piano playing a lead for about eight measures gives a barroom rendition.

"Mr. Wah Wah" of which McCoy was one of the composers recorded on the other side has even more muted trumpet. In this record McCoy employs an echo chamber which repeats about six times. The disc is a Columbia recording.

Local record dealers said Hank Williams fans are still calling for his old numbers. And they have added a new request. They want "The Death of Hank Williams" which is still so new the dealers haven't heard it, but the fans say it's "just wonderful."

One surprise in the business is that the opposite side of Les Paul and Mary Ford's "Lady of Spain" is almost as popular as the side that orginally sold it. In fact, national polls list "My Baby's Coming Home" higher on the bracket.

"A Fool Such as I" has crept up to seventh place on the Snyder top ten and in most cases the request is for the hill billy Hank Snow version. However, Tommy Edwards, Negro singer for M-G-M, has a version of it using violins and a slow beat to the point where there is almost no western tinge. "I Can't Love Another" on the opposite side was an ex-hill billy pepped up by Edwards into a popular tune although LeRoy Holmes orchestra did incorporate a steel guitar for the number.

Doris Day and Johnnie Ray have teamed up for a novelty number "Ma Says, Pa Says" recently released by Columbia. Johnnie doesn't shed a single tear on either side of the record and does some top harmonizing with Doris who is always good. "I want a Full Time Job" is on the opposite side.

The top ten listed for Snyder this week were:

"Don't Let the Stars Get In Your Eyes," Slim Willet.

"Til I Waltz Again With You," Teresa Brewer.

"Why Don't You Believe Me," Joni James.

"Keep It a Secret," Slim Whitman.

"Lady of Spain," Les Paul and Mary Ford.

"My Baby's Coming Home," Les Paul and Mary Ford.

"A Fool Such as I," Hank Snow.

"Bye Bye Blues," Les Paul and Mary Ford.

"Wishing Ring," Joni James.

"The Glow Worm," Mills Brothers.
