General Ike Has No Plan For Politics

(By The Associated Press)

ABILENE, Kas., June 22.—General Dwight D. Eisenhower tonight brought "the very greatest moment in my whole life"—his homecoming—to an official close in a press conference in which he denied with the utmost vigor that he had any idea of going into politics, and stated that when he takes off his uniform it will be to return to civilian life.

"Look" he said in response to a question about whether he might become secretary of state, "I'm in the federal service and I take the orders of my commander in chief. All I want is to be a citizen of the United States, and when the War department turns me out to pasture that's all I want to be.

"I want nothing else."

Talk Of Politics Silly

"It is silly to talk about me in politics, and so for once I'll talk about that, but only to settle this once and for all. I should like to make this as emphatic as possible. There's no use me denying that I'll fly to the moon, because no one has suggested it and I couldn't if I wanted to. The same goes for politics.

"I'm a soldier and I'm positive no one thinks of me as a politician."

Eisenhower said he would spend the weekend here with his family, then return to Washington Monday for a conference with Secretary of War Stimson.

"Right after that I'm going on a short rest, and I'm not going to tell anyone where I am going. I'm just going to rest. Believe me, I've been through a lot."

To Go Back In July

Eisenhower told the large press conference that early in July he expects to be back in Europe, to assume his two-way job, administering control of American forces there, and sitting on the control commission that will be the government of Germany.

Eisenhower, limping from a wrenched right knee he suffered in a fall, received a tumultuous hero's welcome from his old home town today but with characteristic modesty told his proud and cheering neighbors "I'm not a hero."

With even more vigor and firmness than he spoke on politics, Eisenhower took up a question about American relations with Russian soldiers.

No Protest On Russia

"I want to emphasize," he said, "that no one ever protested to me about anything in connection with our agreements and commitments with the Russians. The Russians and we are agreed and we carried out our commitments to the letter. From a military standpoint, which is all I'm prepared to discuss, we found Russian cooperation with us excellent.

Colleges Agree To Economies

AUSTIN, June 22. (AP)—Governing boards and presidents of state universities and colleges have agreed they will spend less money than appropriated for college use in the next biennium if revenue is not available or if actual need for full expenditure of appropriations does not exist.

This was revealed today by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson who approved a $25,563,449 appropriation for the biennium beginning Sept. 1. The appropriation was $5,251,329 more than authorized spending for the biennium ending Aug. 31.

All Agree To Savings

The Governor said the University of Texas and Texas A. & M. college will spend about $600,000 less this biennium than authorized and other schools will make savings also.

For the new biennium, he explained, he consulted college boards and presidents who agreed on a policy of keeping the state within its revenue limitations.

Increases in appropriations for the new biennium over those for the present period went to schools in the following amounts:

Texas A. & M. college $243,000; experiment service $242,000; forestry service, $70,000; John Tarleton Agricultural college $129,000; North Texas Agricultural college $97,000.

Texas U. And Branches

University of Texas, $565,000; extramural division $135,000; medical branch and John Sealy hospital, $695,000; school of dentistry, $323,000; College of Mines $117,000; Prairie View university for negroes, $393,000.

Texas State College for Women, $421,000; North Texas State Teachers college $275,000; Texas Technological college, $368,000; Texas College of Arts and Industries, $150,000; East Texas State Teachers college, $119,000; Sam Houston State Teachers cllege, $219,000; Southwest Texas State Teachers college, $145,000; Stephen F. House Strips OPA Of Authority As Food Situation Grows Tense

Meat Shortage Is Prime Item For Worry Over Texas

(By The Associated Press)

MEAT was a prime item in Texas food news Friday.

Some 800 independent retail grocers at Houston had voted to close their meat markets "and keep them closed until the black market is curbed and meat can be bought within the legal ceiling price."

There was a difference of opinion at San Antonio as to whether grocers there would consider similar action, and the organization of independent grocers at Galveston called a mass meeting Friday night to "plan a fight on the black market."

"Here in the heart of the cattle country we have gone on a diet of fish shipped from the coast," said a report from the Panhandle city of Amarillo.

Thumbnail Sketch

The War Food administration's southwest region office at Dallas gave this thumbnail sketch: meat, poultry, lard, sugar, still extremely short. Potatoes in fair supply; fresh vegetable supply fair; generally, milk, egg supply adequate.

A number of restaurants at Amarillo were closing, and restaurant men planned a meeting with OPA officials from Dallas and Lubbock Tuesday.

At San Angelo two or three cafes "closed for remodelling" until they could catch up on food points.

The Houston grocers' action, taken in a meeting Thursday night, set Monday as closing time.

Scarce At Amarillo

The Amarillo report said that meat was scarce in stores, but other food supplies were sufficient, though not ample.

Ray Peterson, president of the Corpus Christi Retail Grocers association, said he had called a meeting of the association for next week when members will discuss the closing of meat markets by Houston men and consider local action.

Tom Pattillo and Harry Hutchinson, Robstown slaughterers, said they believed the country was "bursting" with cattle, fat calves and hogs—"not heavy stuff that the government wants" — but because of "OPA bungling" they could not get a permit to slaughter.

Both expressed fear current supplies of fat calves would deteriorate.

Many Corpus Christi wholesalers got no deliveries at all this week.

Population Increase

Because of the city's increased population, 75 per cent of quota permits were satisfying only 40 per cent of demand, the report said.

A Clarkwood slaughterer and a Corpus Christi slaughterer closed down yesterday for lack of quotas, they said.

Other reports:

Austin—all types of meat, except hamburger, increasingly scarce; ham and bacon practically curios. Eggs, milk plentiful. Poultry scarce. Fish sometimes unavailable during times of extreme meat shortage. Fresh fruits and vegetables high and poor quality.

Polio Incidence Is Far Above Last Year

AUSTIN, June 22. (AP) — The State Health department's weekly bulletin today listed 198 cases of poliomyelitis for the year to date as compared with 65 for the same period in 1944 and 108 for the same period of 1943.

For the week ended June 16 the report lists 37 cases of polio as compared with two cases for the seven year median during the same week.

The incidence of dysentery and typhus fever is also on the increase with 81 for the first three weeks of May. Dysentery cases totaled 1,535 for the first three weeks in June as compared with 845 for the first three weeks of May.

New polio cases for the week ended June 16 by counties are as follows: Bexar 3, Brazoria 3, Burnet 1, Dallas 1, Galveston 6, Gregg 3, Harris 6, Kleberg 2, Lubbock 1, McLennan 1, Milam 1, Navarro 3, Nueces 1, Rusk 1, Starr 2, Travis 1, Williamson 1.

Travis county reported three additional cases today, all of them children who were hospitalized for treatment.

Several Injured In Bus, Truck Collision

LAKE CHARLES, June 22. (AP) —Seven of 21 passengers njured in the collision of a Greyhound bus and a truck here early today are being detained at St. Patrick's hospital for further treatment, hospital authorities announced.

The bus driver, R. H. Norman of New Orleans, is apparently the only occupant of the bus seriously injured.

The list of injured included Mrs. James E. Knight of Abilene, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Morris Jones of Gainesville; Mrs. Robert E. Jackson of Houston; Miss Esther Farr of Harlingen, and Minor Moss of Port Arthur.

Governors Describe Food Situation In Northeast Critical

NEW YORK, June 22. (AP) — Governors of 13 northeastern states today described their peoples as without sufficient food and said government aid was necessary to relieve the situation.

One of the executives said "tempers are becoming brittle" in his state.

The governors, here for a food conference called by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Gov. Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, expressed their views at a press conference.

Called Most Pressing

Gov. Dewey termed the food problem the "most pressing one of the moment."

Gov. J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, declared that one-third of the residents of his state were going without sufficient food, recommended that Army and Navy demands on the nation's food supply be reviewed.

McGrath also recommended modification of Selective Service demands on farm manpower and said he had requested a presidential investigation to determine why this country was not getting more food from Canada.

Gov. Maurice J. Tobin of Massachusetts said the problem of food production was "assuming the seriousness of that of the production of tanks and planes early in the war."

OPA Plan Said Unfair

Two New England governors, Mortimer R. Proctor of Vermont and Morris A. Hildreth of Maine, said OPA slaughtering regulations were unfair for their states.

Governors Herbert R. O'Connor of Maryland and Walter W. Bacon of Delaware pictured their states—both centers for poultry raising—as suffering serious poultry shortages because the Army was taking the entire boriler production of both states.

U. S. Agriculture Dept. Would Get Pricing Controls

By FRANCIS M. LEMAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 22—In a bitter uprising against meat, sugar and other shortages, the House voted 145 to 142 today to strip the OPA of jurisdiction over food pricing and to place this responsibility in the Agriculture department.

With many Democrats absent, Republicans pressed through a broadened version of a recommendation by Herbert Hoover for "an administrative revolution" to solve the meat "famine."

Subject To Roll Call

The action, taken by teller vote, is subject to a later roll call vote.

Democrats, seeing themselves outnumbered at least temporarily in the virtually straight party line voting, put off the final showdown until tomorrow.

The administration defeat came after Democratic party lines previously had held firm to beat back numerous amendments designed to curb OPA powers.

Rep. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM), who becomes agriculture secretary June 1, voted against the transfer of authority from OPA to his own hands. He told the House he would "not run from any responsibility but I don't want to be a policeman."

Letter From Hoover

Hoover, former president and World War I food administrator, wrote Rev. Jenkins a letter which was read to the House, declaring that "the existence of black markets in meats and fats in every city of the country is sufficient evidence of a breakdown in control of both distribution and price."

He proposed "an administrative revolution," transferring all meat authority except the details of rationing from the OPA to the Agriculture department. Jenkins immediately broadened the proposal into an amendment shifting all food authority except ration-

Connally Sees Easy Majority For Ratification Of World Charter

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22. — Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee predicted today that the Senate will ratify the new United Nations charter "with a comfortable edge over the necessary two-thirds."

"This will be true," Connally declared in a statement, "because of the non-political support of the charter."

"Republicans and Democrats will support it. That has been the constant policy of the foreign relations committee for the last three years.

Partisan Politics Out

"We believe that partisan politics should end at the water's edge."

Assurance of prompt British action on the charter drafted here at the United Nations conference came today from the United Kingdom delegation.

Authoritative estimates in American quarters here are that it probably will take at least eight weeks—or until early September to get a final Senate vote on ratification.

Connally and Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich) are flying back to Washington Tuesday night after the conference close, and will make immediate reports to the Senate, Connally on Thursday, and Vandenberg on Friday.

Plan Quick Action

"As chairman of the committee on foreign relations," Connally said in his statement today," "I shall, as soon as Senator Vandenberg and I reach Washington, call a meeting of the committee for the purpose of discussing and determining the most practicable means to secure speedy action in the committee and on the floor to secure ratification of the charter.

"Of course, the leadership of both sides must be consulted. We are anxious for speedy action but realize the necessity for reasonable consideration in the committee, and opportunity for debate on the floor."

Experts gave the charter a final polishing as the San Francisco conference coasted toward the finish line. President Truman will address the concluding session Tuesday.

Britain's chief delegate, Lord Halifax, predicted early ratification by his government of a charter which he said represents "a really great historic advance."

Snyder Pair Held On Forgery Count

J. G. Moore, 37, and his wife, Helen, 43, of Snyder, were charged here Friday with forgery of a $50 cashier's check.

Both were in county jail last night in lieu of bond of $1,000 each, set by Justice of Peace C. E. Lynn.

The complant alleged that on May 21 they forged the check on the Fort Worth National bank, to which were signed the names of J. A. Cozby, cashier, and W. L. Pier, president.

Deputy Sheriff Tom Cannon took custody of the pair at Seminole, where Mrs. Moore was convicted of forgery and assessed a two-year sentence, officers said. Moore is under a five-year sentence for forgery at Brownwood, Cannon said.

Borger officials have placed a hold order for the couple.

Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police, was complaining witness and the complaint was prepared by District Attorney Burton S. Burks.

Be Careful, General, We're Not In Mood Now For Drums Of War

PARIS, Friday, June 23. (AP) — This imaginary letter to Gen. George S. Patton, jr., written by a captain who signed only the initials J.C.B., appeared today in Stars and Stripes, U. S. Army newspaper:

"Dear General Patton:

"I am one of 30,000 men who died under your command on our march across Europe. Last week you told a Sunday school class:

"'You children are the soldiers and nurses of the next war.'

"Another war—not a hundred years from now but right around the corner! I don't know what the other 29,999 boys did but I turned over in my grave, General, and the dirt above me moved because it isn't packed hard yet.

"Please don't tell us that, General—not just now. And don't say it again to our families. It's too soon for them to understand. And don't say it to the world at a time when all the decent nations in it are working to build a peace of some kind.

"Couldn't you just sort of hold your tongue at least until after that San Francisco conference? A lot of people—smart people too—are pretty hopeful about the way things are going out there.

"On the night before you spoke to that Sunday school class you cried on the platform before thousands of people. You said:

"'It's no fun to say to men you love, "go out and die."'

"We know that was no fun for you. It's no fun to die either. It's particularly no fun when the General you followed turns right around to your homefolks a few weeks later and tells them you died in vain.

"Yes, we died when you told us to die. We tried to do everything you asked of us because we thought of you as a great soldier. We still do. But may we now with all due respect ask one little favor in return?

"Just stay a soldier. Leave the peace up to those who are working their hearts out to make it stick. Leave them alone — for a little while anyway. And for God's sake stay out of my little brothers' Sunday School class. He still thinks I died to make a better world for him.

"Signed, Private 'X'"

In his address to the Sunday School children of the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour in San Gabriel, Calif., June 10, General Patton said:

"You children here, whether you like it or not, are the soldiers and nurses of the next war. There will be war again, in my opinion, because there have always been such things."

Hirohito To Assume Full Rule Of Japs

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22. — A Tokyo radio commentator said today it was highly possible Emperor Hirohito would invoke "imperial supreme authority" to rule the empire personally should the emergency confronting Japan become more serious.

Such "personal government by the emperor," said the unidentified commentator in the FCC-recorded broadcast, would "override all the laws that may exist at any given time" but would not be "anything like despotic or absolute government."

Emergency Measure

Japan's recently enacted wartime emergency measures bill, which becomes effective tomorrow, was described as only a "step taken in conformity of what the imperial supreme authority should be." The bill gives the cabinet virtually dictatorial powers.

Article 31 of the imperial Japanese constitution provides for the authority referred to by the commentator. The constitution provides that granting of emergency powers to the cabinet "shall not affect the exercise of the powers appertaining to the emperor" in time of war or national emergency.

When Premier Suzuki asked the emergency measure he said his government wished to meet the crisis "together with the Diet" and "in one body with the people," rather than have the emperor invoke his supreme authority.

Based On Tradition

"Personal government by the emperor," however, explained today's commentator, being "based on the tradition and sentiments of the Japanese nation, is more deeply rooted than government by law and can more successfully meet what is occasioned by the gravity of the situation."

Radio Tokyo today reiterated its report that two Allied task forces were prowling off Sakishima, southwest of Okinawa, and said two waves of Allied carrier-borne planes strafed the Medan sector of Sumatra on Wednesday.

Another broadcast sought to pep up the homefront with the claim that Japanese troops had recaptured "several islets" off Peleliu in the Palau group.

Toll On Peleliu

Nipponese "Army and Marine" forces, which have been hiding out on Peleliu since the American invasion last year, have taken a toll of "more than 1,000 enemy casualties" in island-hopping raids since May, Tokyo declared.

Southern Palau is held by Americans. Northern islands in the group remain in Japanese possession.

Tokyo made no contention in the broadcasts, intercepted by the Federal Communications commission, that the task forces off Okinawa had been active, but said they included at least five carriers and four battleships.

20,000 Japs Trapped On Luzon; Okinawa Slaughter Continues

Flag Is Formally Raised On Island; Captives Increase

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Saturday, June 23.—Slaughter of Japanese diehards on Okinawa, where more than 90,000 have been killed, and more mass surrenders, swelling the bag well beyond 4,000, continued Friday as the American flag waved in victory over that potential staging base for the next invasion.

Nippon still lashed back from an invasion-jittery homeland with the air arm, however, sinking two light American vessels, heavily damaging an auxiliary unit and slightly damaging two other light units, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz acknowledged in today's communique.

Three Weak Pockets

Tenth Army patrols, working over three weakly resisting pockets, killed 596 Nipponese in all sectors Thursday night and early Friday.

Ceremonial raising of the flag yesterday formally proclaimed United States possession of 485 square miles of soil characterized as enemy "homeland" by the 10th Army leader.

The enemy air force, which already had sunk 31 ships and damaged more than 50 during the Okinawa campaign, hit the shipping during a series of raids Thursday night.

Chased Off Next Day

Enemy planes tried it again Friday morning but were chased off by American interceptors.

The group suicide occurred on the extreme southwestern tip of Okinawa where Maj. Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd, jr's Sixth Marine division has a pocket of the enemy surrounded.

Another pocket still held out to the east, along the coast south of Mabuni, against Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Infantry division.

Yet another pocket was fighting back with dwindling strength inland in a triangular area circumscribed by the towns of Aragachi, Medeera and Makabe. It was being reduced by the 381st and 305th Infantry regiments of Maj. Gen. James L. Bradley's 96th Infantry division.

Emphasizing the hopelessness of the situation from an enemy standpoint, the communique noted that five machineguns were still active."

In these cores of resistance, it was apparent every Japanese would have to be killed.

War Criminals Face Mass Trial

LONDON, June 22. (AP) — Germany's arch war criminals and their terror-atrocity organizations may be prosecuted "before the end of summer" in an unprecedented collective trial on a blanket charge of provoking and waging an illegal war, Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson announced today.

The chief prosecutor of war crimes for the United States declared the American plan which he unfolded for fastening guilt upon the Nazis in a single trial before a four-power military tribunal would "clear up the whole thing at once.

Speaks Only For U. S.

The sage, sharp-eyed former attorney general emphasized that he could speak only for the United States. But he said in response to a press conference question that none of the other three major western powers had yet expressed opposition to the plan.

Jackson's disclosures came as the four powers — the U. S., Russia, France and Britain — arranged for a conference in London early next week in an effort to reach a formal agreement on the procedure, place and time of the trials.

Jackson said the United States was advocating trial by a military tribunal on which each of the four major powers could be represented by "one or two judges," who would decide the degree of punishment to be meted out to those convicted.

Under the broad American plan, a number of ranking Nazis—men such as Reichmarshal Hermann Goering and Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop — and organizations such as the Gestapo and the SS, presumably would be brought to trial collectively.

Although he declined to identify publicly at this time those who will be tried the American prosecutor said "no one will be given immunity in high military or official places if there is evidence to prove that he is a war criminal."

Last Nip Escape Port Is Captured By Daring Foray

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

MANILA, Saturday, June 23.—Aparri, last Japanese escape port on Luzon, was captured Thursday morning by U. S. Sixth Army infantry and artillery units operating with a daring band of Igorrot guerrillas, Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed today.

Capture of the north Luzon port at the mouth of the Cagayan valley trapped an estimated 20,000 Japanese fighting troops in the valley, which already had been bisected by guerrilla capture of the Cagayan province capital of Tuguegarao, 65 miles by road south of Aparri.

Resistance Is Light

The Sixth Army units and the guerrillas had secured Aparri by 7:30 a. m. Thursday. Beating off scanty resistance, they then pushed rapidly southward eight miles up the road to Dugo.

The Japanese were fleeing south and east from the Aparri area but threw in a desperate small counterattack against the guerrillas at Tuguegarao. Led by an American, Col. Russell W. Volckmann, the guerrillas beat off the tank-led charge on Thursday.

Thirty miles south of Tuguegarao troops of the U. S. 37th Infantry division advanced five miles north down the river road from Ilagan and captured the town of San Juan.

23 Armor Knocked Out

In the advance the former [illegible] National Guard outfit destroyed a Japanese tank, killed 60 Japanese and captured two 47-mm. guns. Four miles east of Ilagan they destroyed six Japanese tanks and one baby tank, raising the total of enemy armor knocked out to 23 in two days.

An American headquarters spokesman said that Japanese forces remaining in the valley were now estimated to number less than two divisions, with probably no more than 20,000 effectives, and that these troops were broken up into relatively isolated small groups. Previously the Cagayan valley had been suspected to harbor the largest single reservoir of Japanese on Luzon.

Elsewhere On Island

Elsewhere on Luzon, the U. S. 25th Infantry division, led by Maj. Gen. Charles L. Mullins, captured the town of Pingkian, a northern road junction in the mountains.

Jap Position In China Precarious

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press News Analyst

Chinese capture of the former American advance air base of Liuchow, which both Chungking and American sources in China indicate is impending, would mark the definite end of the Japanese China-Indo China land communication corridor.

The main stem of that corridor, both rail and road, runs through Liuchow. If the enemy is preparing to evacuate the town, falling back northward on Kweilin as reported, there would be cause to anticipate the collapse of the whole west side of the Japanese corridor defense front south of Liuchow to the West river.

Leave Japs Abandoned

That would leave Japanese troops to the south all the way to Singapore and Sumatra virtually abandoned. There only other land contact with Japanese armies in central and north China is a precarious route along the lower reaches of the West river to link up with the still open Hankow-Canton arm of the corridor.

Present and impending Chinese successes illustrate what General Marshall had in mind in recent testimony before the House Appropriations committee when he said present Chinese operations were a factor for consideration in shaping final Allied victory plans against the common foe.

Recapture of Liuchow with its direct rail and road contacts with Kunming and India and Burma supply sources certainly could lead to early expansion of General Chennault's 14th American Air force in China. Allied planes and crews for that are now available from Europe.

Romance Leads To Trouble And Peace Bond Is Granted

Peace Justice D. W. Robertson Thursday night married a much decorated Mexican soldier and his sweetheart.

Friday afternoon, he placed the girl's father under $500 peace bond because the parent, in effect, didn't like the idea of the marriage.

Trinedad Flores, 23, is the soldier. He returned recently from combat with a Purple Heart, a presidential citation and a chest otherwise looking like a beribboned "rainbow."

He filed suit for divorce from his then wife Lina N. Flores and obtained it. But three minor children custody of whom he obtained through court order, were to figure in the second marriage.

For Nicholas Aguilar, father of Flores' most recent bride, warned his daughter Toribia against assuming duties both as bride and as "mother" to children not her own, officials said, and allegedly made threats to kill her.

She went into Robertson's court and swore out the peace bond application Aguilar was arrested, and the girl went back to her husband —and, if she elects, to the children.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Dempsey of Sundown have been informed by the War department of the death of their son, Pvt. Austin E. Dempsey, 27, who died Sept. 11, 1943, while a prisoner of the Japanese government in Thailand. The report was based on information received from the International Red Cross.

Pvt. Dempsey was captured in the fall of Java as a member of the 131st Field artillery for which he volunteered in 1940. The only card the family received from him following his capture arrived four months after his death. Before being moved to Thailand, he was interned at Moulmein prison in Burma.

Before going into the Army, Pvt. Dempsey attended school at Levelland and Sundown, after which he was engaged in farming. Survivors besides his parents are two sisters, Mrs. Velma Graham of Levelland and Mrs. Wilda Quillen of Denver City, and two brothers, Garland and J. T. Dempsey, both of Sundown.

Cardinals Stop Cubs, Take Over Loop's Runnerup Spot

CHICAGO, June 22. (AP)—The surging St. Louis Cardinals moved into second place ahead of Chicago in the National League today as Ken Burkhardt snapped a five-game Cub victory skein with a five-hit pitching job to win his seventh game of the year, 5-2.

The Cards, off to a 3-0 lead in the fifth, were ahead 3-2 starting the ninth and scored two more. Buster Adams singled to right to score Red Schoendienst and Johnny Hopp, who had singled ahead of him. The Cubs were only one run behind at the time, after Phil Cavarretta had scored in fifth when both he and Peanuts Lowrey had walked and Hickey Livingston singled, and Lowrey hit a homer into the left field bleachers in the seventh, his third of the year.

St. Louis hit four Cub pitchers for a total of 12 hits in the error-less game, with Schoendienst getting four of them, and Adams three. Schoendienst scored three times, and Adams was credited with four runs batted home.

Burkhardt had the Chicagoans completely handcuffed for the first four innings, without a man reaching first base. Then he eased up, and walked Cavarretta and Lowrey to set the stage for the Cubs first run, with Livingston's hit the first of the game for the Cubs. He allowed one hit an inning the rest of the way but never was in trouble.

Finals Repeated In Womens Open

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22. (AP) — Grief-stricken Mildred (Babe) Didrikson Zaharias showed what stuff champions are made of today when she accepted news of her mother's sudden death and then advanced into the final round of the 16th annual Women's Western Open golf tournament.

Unable to make West-coast plane reservations until Sunday morning, Mrs. Zaharias elected to defend her title and came from behind to crush a stubborn semi-final opponent, Mrs. Albert Becker of Englewood, N. J., 4 and 2.

Thus the saddened former Olympic track champion tomorrow will meet the same 36-hole championship rival she trounced at Park Ridge, Ill., last year — dangerous Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia, who today hurled Carol (Babe) Freeze of Portland, Oregon, 3 and 2.

Miss Germain turned in the most brilliant semi-final performance however, as she blasted a one-under-par 36 for a two-hold lead over Miss Freese at the turn and then clipped one off standard on the next seven hole to finish two under for the day and four under for her last 44 holes of competition.

Mrs. Becker, 30, who has been playing golf since 1937, dogged Babe's heels throughout the first nine, twice taking advantage of bogeys by the champion to erase one-hole deficits on the seventh and ninth holes.

Miss Germain copped the first two holes and was in charge of her match the rest of the way, although plucky Miss Freese, making her first start outside her home state of Oregon, twice came within a hole of catching the Philadelphian. That was on the fifth when Carol carded a birdie four after chipping 60 feet to within inches of the cup, and on the 12th when Miss Freece bagged a birdie deuce.

Jeep Named As Poor Favorite In Belmont

NEW YORK, June 22. (AP)—The three-year-old turf championship, already muddled, will become even more so tomorrow when nine horses compete in the 77th running of the $50,000 added Belmont stakes at Belmont Park.

Three of the entries for the mile and one-half race trailed Hoop Jr. in the Kentucky Derby. Five of them were behind Polynesian in last Saturday's Preakness. And with the Hoop sidelined by a leg injury and Polynesian not eligible, the race figures to be a scramble for the major share of the $74,250 purse. If all nine start, it'll be worth $53,250 to the winner.

The newcomers that will challenge for championship consideration in the final race of the American turf's triple crown at Lt. James M. Roebling's Wildlife, Brookfield from Edward Isaacs Brookfield farms and Johnsport of William Woodward's Belair stud.

Although Jeep failed in the Derby and then passed up the Preakness, the crowd that may approximate 50,000 probably will make him the choice.

Homers Help Edwards Ten To Victory, 11-1

Moyers To Play In Two All-Star Tilts

R. W. Moyers, senior letterman with the Lubbock Westerners last season, announced here Friday that he has accepted invitations to play in the two major pre-season all-star games, the battle at the Texas High School Coaches Association all-star game in Abilene, and the Oil Bowl game in Wichita Falls.

The game at Abilene will feature players from North and South Texas schools who have finished their high school eligibility. Pat Gerald, coach of the Vernon Lions, is selecting the players for the North team, and Eck Curtis, now coach at Highland Park, is selecting the players from the South.

The Oil Bowl game this season will feature stars from Texas against stars from Oklahoma, and will be played about two weeks after the All-Star game at Abilene. Many of the Texas players will take part in both games.

Merle McCracken of Pampa and Maurice Essary of Amarillo are other District 1-AA players who have accepted bids to the All-Star game at Abilene.

Nelson Grabs Lead In Exclusive Meet

DETROIT, June 22. (AP)—Lord Byron Nelson, Toledo umbrella safesman, birdied the last three holes today for a four-under-par 68 in the first round of the 72-hole "Big Fore" invitational golf tournament at Plum Hollow Golf club. Nelson was out in 35 and in, in 33.

Nelson, playing in the 60's for the 14th time in 15 successive rounds of competition, thus grabbed a one stroke lead over second place Sam Byrd, the home pro, in the exclusive three-day medal play event. Byrd finished with two straight birdies for his 35-34—69.

Trailing in the four-man competition were Harold (Jug) McSpaden with 36-38—74 and Duration National Open Champ Craig Wood with 38-38—76.

Many West Texans On North All-Stars

VERNON, June 22 (AP) — Six more boys have accepted invitations to play with the North squad in the annual all-star football game at the Texas High School Coaching school at Abilene in August, Pat Gerald, chairman of the selection committee, announced today.

Previously Gerald had obtained 17 players. The six who have now accepted nivitations are:

Merle McCracken, Pampa, and George McCorstan, Ballinger, backs; Harold Kilman, Shamrock, and Kenneth Dismukes, Sweetwater, ends; R. W. Moyers, Lubbock, and Joe Holley, Odessa, tackles.

Gerald has invited Billy Engle, Greenville back, to finish out the squad. Engle, however, is in the Coast Guard and Gerald doesn't know when he will hear from him as he may be at sea. He will be back for the game.

The 17 previous acceptances were:

George Graham, San Angelo; Charles Edmondson, Austin (El Paso); Maurice Essary, Amarillo; George Sims, Seymour; Billy Wayne Looney, Sulphur Springs, and Sam Pierce, Vernon, backs.

Harold Clark, Highland Park (Dallas), and Alonzo Robertson, Memphis, ends.

Dick Harris, Wichita Falls, Sam Callan, San Angelo, and Thomas Murphy, Sunset (Dallas), centers.

John Basham, Poly (Fort Worth), and Ernest Kiely, El Paso High, tackles.

Corky Totten, Sherman; Guy Daniels, Abilene; Eldon Dawson, Greenville, and Wilbur Milner, Paschal (Fort Worth), guards.

It is estimated that one of every 259 working people in the United States is employed in some form of printing or publishing.

New Synthetic Gasoline Studied

FOR a nation which virtually runs on gasoline, as the United States does when it can get it, any development which promises to produce a satisfactory substitute is of the first importance. This war is taking a tremendous bite out of the oil resources which are among the main sources of the nation's military power. After victory, unless vast new petroleum pools are discovered and developed, it may be necessary to start conserving what remains in the interest of national security.

Synthetic gasoline can, of course, be made from coal and the country's coal deposits are large enough for the foreseeable future. But there is also one other promising source of liquid motor fuel which is now being pushed by the laboratories of the Department of Agriculture. This alcohol produced from corncobs, oat hulls, peanut shells and other waste farm materials.

The idea is not new. What is interesting is the announcement that recent experiments have proved so successful that a plant is being built to produce the fuel on a semi-commercial basis.

But before automobiles can be operated on fuel produced from corncobs, two things will have to be done. Motors must be developed which wil run efficiently on this fuel. And it is still to be proved that this gasoline substitute can be produced at low cost on a vast, commercial scale.

But if the trick can be turned it will be thoroughly worthwhile. For it will, at the same time, use up material which largely goes to waste, provide farmers with a new source of income, and make available another fuel for powering the nation's cars if gasoline reserves begin to run dangerously low.

It is entirely possible that this new method of manufacturing synthetic gasoline will reach down into our own South Plains for some of the materials used.

If gasoline can be made from corncobs, why can't it be made from the stalks of the cotton plant, from the tumbleweed, or the stalks of Terry county's justly celebrated broom corn?

Certainly we of this area should watch with interest the experiments being made in "ersatz" gasoline from vegetable matter. It might mean a lot to us some day.

A Prize Worth Capturing

A CAMPAIGN to capture Pacific Ocean shipping trade formerly handled by the Japanese merchant marine is now being planned in West Coast ports. Estimates are that of the prewar Pacific tonnage in and out of American ports, U. S. Ships carried 25 per cent, the Japs 40 to 45 per cent, British, Dutch Norwegian and other ships of European registry dividing the remaining 30 to 35 per cent.

After the war, Japan will not have a merchant marine. This offers U. S. shipping a golden opportunity. European countries will be busy reestablishing their old home trade routes and rebuilding their fleets. Soviet Russia may sprout maritime ambitions.

Before the war, Japan's cheap labor, cheap ship construction and operating costs, plus subsidies for all merchant marine sailings under the Japanese flag, resulted in freight and passenger rates so low that no other nation could compete in the Pacific.

But with the Japs permanently out of the picture, the possibility that American ship operators can capture a large part of this Pacific trade is bright, according to such men as Hugh Gallagher of the Matson Lines, Russell Lutz of the American President Lines, John E. Cushing of the War Shipping administration and others.

At first blush, all this may seem as of no importance to people of Lubbock and the South Plains—far removed as we are from blue water and with no direct connection with shipping business. But the fact is, our economic system has become so complicated, and composed of so many interlacing parts, that what directly benefits the West Coast, for instance, indirectly will benefit us.

After victory over Japan, the U. S. will need every commercial tool it can find to bolster its economy.

Only by expanding our old lines of business, as well as by adding new ones, can we afford the maximum number of jobs; keep commerce to its highest pitch; encourage and insure the circulation of currency and otherwise assure prosperity.

And if we can do all these things partially by taking away from the Japs what once was theirs, so much the better.

Recipe For Co-Operation

W. P. MacCOY, director of personnel for the U. S. State department, has a recipe for getting the best out of his workers. It is one which all others will do well to study.

His recipe:

"Give two pats on the back for every kick in the pants."

That sort of thing should work wonders in any organization.

"I'm on a light diet," said one moth to another. "During the past ten days I have eaten only two women's swim suits."

The American House

Spring brought open roads, and travelers.

A good many of these were drummers, who either drove their own horses from place to place or hired transportation from the livery stables along the route. Those who sold standard stock were only a few hours in each village, while those who had samples to display stayed longer There was hardly a night that we didn't have one or more of them registered at the American House.

A few were, undeniably, sporty They made us feel countrified and a little prim. Mr. J. Francis Simms wore very high laced shoes, tight trousers, and a ruby ring. He kept up smart talk in the dining room, even in the face of Ada's discouragement. "Ain't it awful, Mabel?" he said over and over. "Ain't it awful?" Mr. Benjamin Wiggle was very fat and always smelled of SenSen. "Wiggle's my name," he would say in introduction and then proceed to demonstrate in a way you could never forget.

However, most of the men who came were sensible and industrious. Feeling sorry for anyone who had to be away from home, my mother went out of her way to make them comfortable.

The first and third Saturdays of every month brought Dr. Billings, the dentist from the Junction. In his regular office he had an upholstered chair that tipped backward, but if you came to him in the parlor of the American House you had to content yourself with the organ stool borrowed from the church vestry. You almost never had a tooth filled. You had it out, or you put up with it, one way or the other. If you needed gas, my father gave it in his office. This happened very rarely. Gas cost money, as we saw it. Grit was cheap.

On alternating Saturdays Dr Snow, the oculist, took over the parlor. You could buy your glasses ready-made from him for 25 cents, or if you were more particular (and prepared to pay a dollar) you could have a pair made to your special order with a 10-year, gold-filled frame.

Only one other person used the parlor for business. That was Mrs. Carrie Carter, who sold corsets. Up to the time she came, women had purchased such things by mail order, having, of course, too much delicacy to ask for them at a store. But mail order wasn't entirely satisfactory, for a corset box, being long, low, and narrow, was always recognizable when you took it from the Post Office. So Mrs. Carter, being a married woman and bringing her wares (which you could carry home in your Boston bag), had quite a following. The greatest deterrent to her trade lay in the undeniable fact that her customers might be seen and detected.

She owed a great deal of her business to my mother. Instead of openly approaching the parlor, one customer after another would come into the office, ostensibly to make a call. "I've been intending to come and see you ever since you moved," they might say. Or "It has taken me long enough to get here." Then, a brief visit over, they would announce in a casual manner, that, now they were here, they might stop for a minute in the parlor and just say hello to Mrs. Carter.

Mrs. Carter knew her trade. She measured her customers in a white cheesecloth robe with long flowing sleeves which gave the illusion of modesty and grace. She had technical names for every spot on your anatomy. "Your mammary glands need a slight support," she would say. Or "There is a little dilatation of your abdomen." She was very patient. The Kangaroo Bend was outmoded in 1909, and the new lines demanded a corset with a low bust and a long skirt. It wasn't an easy change. She had a little song she used to sing to cheer her disgruntled customers It went something like this:

"I do not need a country seat,
Because I can't sit down."

There were itinerants, too, most of them agents and peddlers. Around the first of June a young man arrived selling lightning rods. Now we had plenty of thunderstorms along the coast, bad ones that lasted until the turn of the tide. Hardly a season passed without a farm house or a barn being struck and burned to the ground. Although nearly all buildings were equipped with one or two lightning rods, these were of the plain, practical variety, constructed by Mr. Giddings. The ones the young man sold were ornate with fancy turnings and impressive with their shining silver balls. Moreover, he gave a Magic Lantern entirely free with every purchase of 12.

By the time he moved on, the town shone and bristled with rods.

The very next week another young fellow came selling fire insurance. He had less chance than a bolt of lightning. The danger was over, people told him. You could always handle a chimney fire yourself with a little salt.

He was a nice young fellow with very red cheeks and an incorrigible cowlick. He had been three weeks on the job and hadn't sold a thing.

My father couldn't resist a beaten, disheartened boy. He took out a $2500 policy on the American House.

"It might come in handy some day" he said.

Appointment Of Food Czar Not Expected

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 22. (AP) —President Truman doesn't contemplate the appointment of a "food czar" in a program looking to the early straightening out of meat and other food distribution, White House sources said today.

What he has in mind, these sources said, is a closer working relationship between agencies supervising the production, distribution and pricing of food.

The program, to be put into effect when Clinton P. Anderson becomes Agriculture Secretary and War Food administrator, will, the President told his press conference yesterday, bring about an improvement automatically.

He said there would be a unity of control over prices and food, but did not go into details.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

THE Omaha OPA will distribute a regularly published bulletin to the city's 225 barbershops in the belief that the best way to spread information is through barbers.

There is something to the idea. In my years as a newspaperman I have found barbershops an excellent source of information.

But taking it all in all, I think you are more apt to get a lot of misinformation in barbershops than information.

BRANDEIS

However, doesn't that hold good with most other sources of information as well?

Where, for instance could you get more information than in government offices that have been organized for the particular purpose of supplying information through the press to the American public.

Take the San Francisco conference, for instance.

Hundreds of top-flight newspapermen have been falling all over each other to get accurate information for you, the public.

And what have they been able to obtain?

Nothing much better than what they could have gotten in any San Francisco barbershop, or, for that matter, in any New York or Lubbock or Allentown or Goose Creek barbershop.

By the way I want to tell you one thing right here, and, please believe me that I am completely sincere about it.

You hear so often "Oh, that's only newspaper talk."

That implies, of course, that you can't believe what you read in the papers.

I know hundreds of newspaper men—reporters, writers, editors, publishers.

I still have to meet the first one whose first and foremost principle isn't accuracy, truth, reliability.

The average newspaperman doesn't get enough money ever to become rich. He could probably earn much more in many other callings.

But he is in newspaper work because he loves it. He feels that newspaper work is a public service. He would no more think of lying to you in print than he would in his personal relations with you.

He knows that freedom of the press is an indivisible part of freedom of life.

The newspaperman doesn't lie.

But when those on whom he depends for his news lie to him, don't blame the newspaperman. Blame the politicians, the government hirelings, the press agents and the rest of the ilk who are not really cheating the newspapermen or his paper, but who are defrauding you.

SOMETIME ago when the OPA suddenly cancelled millions of ration points without giving America's housewives a moment's notice, I criticized them severely and had many letters of praise and a few of criticism.

I hope that, under our new management in Washington, there will be as much confidence in America's press as there is in Omaha's barbershops.

Pacific Chiefs Chosen

"Big Four" To Lead War On Japs

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE AMERICAN team for the second half of the war against the only surviving Axis power will be captained by Gen. George C. Marshall as Chief of Staff, by Gen. Douglas MacArthur as commander of the ground forces in the Pacific, by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz as head of the combined Anglo-American fleets and by Gen. Henry H. Arnold as chief air strategist.

Although future developments may necessitate certain changes, this arrangement was agreed upon at conferences which President Truman has held with returning military and diplomatic experts since the collapse of Germany. He has been giving almost his whole time to the problem of a quick triumph over Tokyo.

HST is upsetting Rooseveltian plans, domestic and foreign, in many other respects, and he will continue to depart from his predecessor's methods. But he is not disturbing the naval and military leadership which FDR, largely at the suggestion of John J. Pershing, established. It is not generally known outside Army circles, but both Generals Marshall and Eisenhower are classified as "Pershing boys."

DIVISION: General Eisenhower may be shifted to the Far Eastern theater if the Japs eventually retire from their islands and decide to fight to the finish on the plains of Manchuria and North China. In that event he will take with him the famous leaders who drove the Germans from the Normandy beaches to the outskirts of Berlin — George Patton, Courtney Hodges, Alexander Patch and others.

But the smiling "Ike" from Kansas, where the terrain is somewhat similar to that of Manchuria and North China, not to mention portions of France and Germany, has shown such great qualities as an international mixer (a curbstone synonym for diplomat) that for the moment he will be the principal American representative on the continent. He has so endeared himself to the British, French and Russians that he cannot be spared from that post.

TUCKER

Post-Hitler conferences of United Nations statesmen and generalissimos have led to an agreement for a division of labor among the forces fighting Japan.

Britain will, at least temporarily, confine her land and water might to cleaning out the 725,000 Japs who have been by-passed in the Pacific archipelago, in Malaya, Thailand and Indo-China. Chiang Kai-shek's American-trained and equipped soldiers will try to provide us with a landing stretch along the Chinese coast, and to sever Tokyo's railroad connections with her southern source of rubber, tin, oil and food.

British warships, however, will probably be shifted from the command of Lord Admiral Louis Mountbatten to Nimitz. They can be extremely useful in the last stages of naval warfare against the Pinafore admirals of the enemy. Although slow because of their unusually heavy armor, they are ideal for slugging it out with the Nips at close quarters in the China and Inland Seas.

PATTON: President Truman will have to place a want ad for a new Secretary of War unless "Blood and Guts" George Patton stays away from Washington. Our greatest expert in the employment of armor robbed Henry L. Stimson of at least a year of life during his recent visit here.

The septuagenarian secretary was a cavalryman (Troop A) in his early days as a wealthy young blade in New York society, and he still likes the horses. So he took Patton to his heart and his health when the Third Army commander got to town.

They had dinner and cocktails; they talked tanks and horses to a wee hour. And when Mr. Stimson introduced the famous and fiery replica of "Stonewall" Jackson to newspapermen, he asked General Patton to discuss the question of whether horses might not again become the mainstay of the mobile forces. Patton did. He is all for horses.

PISTOLS: At that same press conference, however, Mr. Stimson did not do so well. In reading the weekly review of the war, he stumbled over words of more than two syllables, he mispronounced simple names and places. He skipped paragraphs and then returned to them when they had no connection with the subsequent stuff.

His aides gazed at one another in wonder. So did members of the press. The answer is that, like Othello with Desdemona, Patton kept Stimson up too late with his tales of bravery.

The few correspondents who met Patton after the conference were amazed at the man. The fire-eater actually lisps and talks in a high, almost effeminate falsetto. He has a delicious sense of humor.

His resentment against Mauldin's cartoons of dirty, unkempt and unshaved soldiers is understandable after a few minutes in his presence. He is a meticulous dresser. And his two pearl-handled pistols are as white as snow. He never shoots them unless he can't help it, because he doesn't want to soil them with battle stains!

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

INDIA—always a sore point in Anglo-American relations — may soon be well on the road to self-government.

New York Oriental experts believe that the nation is likely to accept London's offer of dominion status and larger participation in the administration.

Mohandas Gandhi seems to favor acceptance. But we cannot be sure how his followers will react until after the meeting of the Congress Working committee.

In addition to being in sympathy with India's desire for independence, we now have new interests in the outcome. Thousands of United States servicemen are stationed in India, the base of our supply line to China. American businessmen are devising plans for increased trade. An important economic mission from New Delhi will arrive in New York within a few days, comprising steel, jute, sugar, textile, cement and oil industrialists.

LEMAN

The Indian problem is so bedeviled by propaganda and so complicated by radical and religious antagonisms that the unbiased find it extremely difficult to understand.

It is a chip-on-the-shoulder theme for Britons. When Americans accuse them of oppressing nationals they point a finger at our treatment of the Negro in parts of the United States.

Their economic stake in the Peninsula is important. In the old days younger sons located there to make their fortunes. Up to the start of this war one of every four persons in the United Kingdom depended directly or indirectly on India for his living.

Many regulations of the English overlords are severely criticized at home. London Socialist papers call these rulers the "Bourbons of Bureaucracy." This class is on the way out; Whitehall a few days ago issued a warning to civil service applicants that it can no longer guarantee a full-time career in the Indian department and that appointments may be terminated as local officials take over.

SPLIT: Tory imperialism has not been the sole obstacle to Indian self-government.

Blocking full independent are the native princes —some of them enlightened maharajahs; others, Oriental despots who treat their subjects like dogs. Their territories cut across India's highways, railroads, rivers and electric power systems and penetrate nearly all provinces.

If they remain isolated bastions of British power the rest of the Peninsula cannot be politically free. If they cut loose from the Commonwealth, they may bring India under tyranny as bad as anything perpetrated by the Japanese.

It remains to be seen what effect the new London offer will have on internal dissensions as well as on the age-long distrust of British rule.

Syminton Case Stands As Silent Warning

There Can Be Too Much Politics

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Bob Hannegan, the big, affable Missourian, did the unprecedented at last summer's Democratic National convention when he moved to nominate his friend, Harry Truman, as Vice Presidential candidate.

It was unprecedented, and highly unorthodox, because Mr. Hannegan was chairman of a national committee is supposed to be neutral among candidates.

STOKES

It showed a certain frankness and boldness in Mr. Hannegan, such as he had exhibited in Missouri politics. He wanted to see his friend Vice Presidential candidate, so he set about it in a business-like manner.

Though he did not know it at the time, Bob Hannegan also was making a President of the United States. When fate elevated Harry Truman to the Presidency, Mr Hannegan became the political generalissimo of the Truman regime. He got the cabinet post which often goes with that party position, Postmaster General.

Missouri Moves In

He has been bold in exercising his power. Bob Hannegan is an organization man. He believes in the use of patronage to maintain a party organization, in rewarding organization men with jobs, in distributing jobs to political friends and those who have been helpful, which is no new theory.

He is very busy doing this. It has been overdone in the past to the detriment of good government. Some who have watched Missouri move into Washington recently under the direction of Mr. Hannegan and have seen organization men get their friends placed are of the opinion that Mr. Hannegan is using a free hand, some think too free a hand.

MR. HANNEGAN'S power carries tremendous responsibility. Fitting deserving Democrats into office, or those who have helped the party in one way or another, is not quite the same on the national scale as it is on the Missouri scale. There is a big stake in national government. There are always people around who know this, who are watching for the opportunity to get on the inside, or get friendly persons on the inside, for purposes which may not always be apparent to a politician whose eyes are rather on the political effect.

Government is big and complicated these days, and there are economic interests more important than political interests.

Embarrassment Crops Out

In the past, some appointments have been made too hastily, with the result that a President has been embarrassed later by something that a political henchman has done.

Shifting of jobs has gone on rapidly in the new administration, and with evidence of too casual inquiry into the complete background and viewpoint and the possible effect on national policy in a case or two.

FOR example, it was learned in the Senate after the nomination of W. Stuart Symington, St Louis businessman, to the important post of chairman of the Surplus Property board, that Mr. Symington had been involved in business activities that were held by a federal court to be monopolistic in design. This was discovered by Sen. Joe O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), a foe of monopoly, when the nomination came before the Senate Military affairs committee of which he is a member. The nomination accordingly was held up for an investigation.

Because of the importance of this post, it would seem natural that the committee would explore Mr. Symington's background and his business philosophy very carefully, despite the tendency of the party in power in the Senate not to question Presidential appointments to closely, especially in a new administration. The Senate shares the responsibility of appointments with the President through its power of confirmation.

The Symington appointment is an example of what may happen, and what often has happened, in quick shifts of officials, particularly when there is emphasis on the political aspects as there seems to be with Mr. Hannegan

Other shifts in important jobs are in the offing, and Mr. Hannegan's course will be watched carefully.

States Want Return Of Mineral Rights

AUSTIN, June 22. (AP) — The states have organized to seek legislation for the return of mineral rights taken by the federal government in acquiring lands for war purposes, general land commissioner Bascom Giles asid today.

Giles is president of the newly formed National Association of State Land officials which, he said, will oppose a federal policy of condemning property in fee simple in order to gain surface right and at the same time take over mineral rights.

This policy, Giles added, can not be construed as necessary for war purposes.

The association of state land officials was organized in Washington, D. C., where Giles and other state officers recently appeared before the House judiciary committee in behalf of legislation to guarantee state titles to submerged lands.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

STOCKS TURN DOWNWARD

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—While assorted specialty stocks turned in a strong performance today, selling elsewhere caused the market to suffer its first average loss since June 11 after hitting a new peak for the past eight years or longer in the forenoon.

Transfers of 1,850,000 shares compared with 2,100,000 Thursday.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .2 of a point at 67.6. The utility average touched a top since 1937 by a shade.

Among favorites, Schenley jumped 4 points, to 64¼ on talk of a split-up and boosted divided. Transcontinental and Western Air was up 3⅛, American Airlines 2 and Eastern Air Lines 1¼ as the RFC announced arrangements for aiding aviation transport companies in obtaining parts and materials.

Casualties included M-K-T common and preferred, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Union Pacific, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, General Electric, Johns-Manville, and Woolworth.

Bonds were spotty although a few railway loans pushed higher.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 22 (AP)—The cotton futures market moved in a narrow range as traders awaited final action on the price control bill. Light hedging and liquidation depressed prices slightly in early trading today but mill buying and local covering subsequently appeared in sufficient volume to reverse the trend. Final prices were 5 to 15 cents a bale higher.

Mill buying of spot cotton during the past week was smaller according to private advances. Some trade quarters tentatively estimated the 1945 cotton crop would be about one million bales under last season, based on the lower acreage planted and the spotty weather conditions throughout the cotton belt.

Armour Plant Work Stoppage Spreads

FORT WORTH, June 22. (AP)—A work stoppage Thursday in the hog and sheep killing sections of Armour & company had spread through the plant Friday morning, with union representatives estimating more than 1,000 men out and the plant management setting the absentee total at "probably 50 per cent."

The company said a meeting with the union was scheduled for Friday.

Two hundred employes in the hog and sheep sections left the job Thursday morning in protest against discharge of seven negroes who had ailed to appear for work on June 19, Emancipation day.

A. J. Pittman, district director of the United Packing House Workers of America (CIO) said that a union meeting Thursday night had voted full support to the discharged seven and that Friday morning a request had been made to Atlanta for assignment here of a U. S. conciliator. That request has not yet been answered.

High Officer Thinks That Hitler Is Dead

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, June 22 (AP) — A high officer to Gen. Eisenhower's intelligence staff said today it was his personal belief that Adolf Hitler is dead but the evidence is inconclusive.

The officer, whose name can not be used, told of the frequent injections given Hitler.

The correspondents were told that Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering also proved to be "something of a drug fiend." The name of the drug was not disclosed but Goering took so much that "if it had been taken away from him suddenly he would have become a raving maniac in 24 hours." His captors are cutting down the amount he takes.

Humble Refinery Is Taken Over By PAW

CORPUS CHRISTI, June 22 (AP) —The Petroleum Administration for War took over operation of Humble Oil and Refining company's Ingleside, Tex., refinery shortly after noon today.

President Truman had ordered seizure of the plant June 6, but a series of legal moves had delayed it until today.

Bob Shirk, an official of the PAW's district office at Houston and Dudley Cornell, PAW district counsel from Houston, carried out the order.

House Whacks OPA

ing from Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, to the incoming agriculture secretary, Anderson.

When it was obvious that Republicans might outnumber Democrats on the floor, to press through the Jenkins amendment, the Democratic leadership put on a slow-motion voting procedure as members passed through the tellers, hoping that more opponents of the amendment might appear.

Roll Call Delayed

Losing despite this maneuver, Chairman Spence (D-Ky) moved that the House forego further consideration of the OPA extension legislation today. Republicans made an issue of this but lost 154 to 132 and the roll call on the Jenkins amendment was delayed to Saturday.

Anderson told reporters later he believed the Jenkins amendment would "put OPA in a paradise and me in the hottest spot imaginable."

He said it would remove the food authority of the Office of Economic Stabilization as well as that of OPA and leave no checks against the department of agriculture.

"There should be some check on that authority," he added.

President Needs Time

Administrationists in the House argued that the Jenkins amendment should be set aside, to give the President time for a consolidation of authority to deal with food shortages.

Rep. Patman (D-Tex) told the House the Jenkins amendment would "put the President in a strait jacket," so far as food control is concerned.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex), in an unusual move, went into the House well to appeal to the House "not to destroy OPA" just before the body voted down the proposal to limit OPA to only six months more of life.

In the United States and in England a child under seven years of age is not criminally liable for any act.

Food Picture In Texas Gloomy

Onions and potatoes plentiful and good quality. No new canned fruit or tinned meat, tuna, salmon, etc., arriving on grocery shelves.

San Angelo and Odessa

San Angelo—meats of all types scarce, but some of all available. Variety of canned vegetables reduced sharply recently.. No lasting shortages of poultry, but chickens being eaten in smaller sizes. Eggs, milk, plentiful. Oranges, potatoes, short. Hail cut even the irrigated truck yield in the area, but there were prospects that would be overcome within three weeks. Some housewives had run out of points.

Odessa—hard hit by sugar shortage, with some cafes and most club luncheons using saccharin. The soft drink supply has been hard hit. Persons with only one ration book doing housekeeping are having a hard time. A milk shortage has been alleviated by recombined milk. The OPA is threatening to crack down on black market poultry operations general basic foodstuffs fairly ample.

Paris and Galveston

Paris—fresh meat virtually unobtainable. Some canned meat. Eggs fairly plentiful, poultry limited, milk supply good. Fruits in reasonably supply. New potatoes, lard, scarce. Housewives seem to have plenty of points. Restaurants limiting sugar for coffee and tea and serving no butter.

Galveston—meat supply expected to be off about 40 per cent in near future, but fruit and vegetable outlook for rest of year "not too alarming" said Harry Eagleston, manager of the merchants and manufacturers division of the chamber of commerce.

Corpus Christi—soap, shortening, vegetables, fresh and canned, very scarce or unobtainable; one carload of vegetables arriving yesterday noon lasted three hours; toilet tissue and other paper products unobtainable; no sugar for eight days—the city usually consumes three carloads a week. No honey; no preserves, eggs plentiful but dealers accuse handlers of putting them in storage for higher prices; no poultry; milk short, but going around with a new dairy recently opened; restaurants hard hit, with smaller ones closing for days at a time.

Lubbock and Vernon

Lubbock — choice meats, ham and bacon unobtainable; poultry scarce; fair supply of shortening; butter scarce; sugar scarce, purchases limited to five pounds a customer.

Vernon — meat, sugar scarce; pork virtually unobtainable; beef and poultry scarce, except in markets which do own slaughtering; fresh vegetables available; milk, eggs plentiful; fresh fruit, except peaches, scarce; potatoes, lard obtainable; housewives report exhaustion of red and blue points long before expiration dates.

Pampa—meat, fresh vegetables, poultry, lard, scarce; potatoes improved; eggs, milk plentiful; canned vegetables, fruits fair.

President Keeps Close Tab On Pacific War

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 22 (U.P) —President Truman today kept close tab on the war in the Pacific as he continued his vacation in the Northwest. Today he took a daylong motor tour to Mount Rainier, the imposing, snow-covered trademark of Washington state.

The President was in constant communication with world developments. He had special radio facilities to keep him in touch with the progress of the war even while he was driving through the great forests of this section.

The odds were better than even that Mr. Truman would go to the Pacific, himself, before the year is out — particularly if conditions are such that Philippine independence can be proclaimed in the early autumn. There also has been some diplomatic pressure for a meeting as soon as feasible between the President and Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

Cologne Released To British In Ceremony

COLOGNE, June 22. (U.P)—The American Military Government of Cologne turned the city over to British Occupation authorities today.

Lt. Col. Raymond L. Hiles of Georgetown, Tex., presented the "key to the city" to British Lt. Col. G. H. Pownall in ceremonies in the heart of Cologne.

Military government officials of America and Britain opened the ceremonies with a review of a company of Irish guards. A Scots guards band played the Star Spangled Banner as the American flag was lowered and God Save The King when the Union Jack went up.

Pownall said the British administration would be virtually the same as that under the Americans.

Agreement Reached On Polish Regime

MOSCOW, June 22 (AP) — An Allied commission announced tonight that, rival Polish factions have reached an accord on a plan for the reorganization of the Polish government and that the plan has the approval of Russia, the United States and Great Britain.

A statement by Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov, British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr and U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman—authorized by the Crimean conference to settle the problem — announced the agreement, reached by three groups of Poles at conferences here.

The next step will be an announcement in Warsaw within a few days of the personnel of the government and then its recognition by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union, and presumably by many other nations.

front found the Russian soldiers to be great pals. They got along swell together, and I had no single instance of trouble reported to me."

The general was serious as he spoke on this subject in contrast with his light hearted mood through most of the rest of the conference which ranged from what kind of a baseball player he was as a youth, to whether he believed Hitler was dead.

He thought Hitler was dead, but now he doesn't know, "I just don't know anything about it," he said.

His Baseball Career

As for his baseball career, which was brief, he said:

"I was center fielder. I went into baseball deliberately to make money, and with no idea of making it a career. I wanted to go to college that fall, and we didn't have much money."

Speaking of non-fraternization in Germany, Eisenhower said this works pretty well in public, but that it must be abated just as soon as the criminals and dangerous elements are sorted out.

Eisenhower paid strong tribute to President Truman.

"The world needs food and leadership just now more than anything else. We've got a great leader in this country, a man from this Middle West and a man with a whale of a lot of common sense."

Generally speaking Eisenhower said the behaviour of the French toward American soldiers had been excellent.

French Relations Good

He said relations with the French were good.

"One thing I'm never going to be any party to is the question of who won the war. I think everyone who did what he could won the war, and I regard all conversation as to who won it as foolish. It took all our efforts combined, and we all won."

Abilene, a town of 6,000, was crammed with visitors for its celebration which featured a parade depicting Eisenhower's life here as a boy. The general laughed loudly at one float showing him carrying ice.

His biggest thrill came from a float carrying the Abilene High school football team of 1909 on which he played. Ten men who played with him were on the float but his old position—left tackle—was left vacant. His former coach, Orrin Snider, rode on the float.

"Hi boys," the general yelled through cupped hands as the team passed.

In responding to the outpourings of his old friends, General Eisenhower said:

"Every boy dreams of the day when he comes back home after making good. I too so dreamed, but my dream of 45 or more years ago has been exceeded beyond the wildest stretch of the imagination."

Okinawa Cleanup

streaming into American lines, Nipponese soldiers mingled with them in large groups. They gave up in response to loudspeaker instructions.

The enemy air attack was the first major one since Okinawa was declared conquered Thursday. It also was the first one in any strength since the Japanese lost 141 planes during raids June 6 and 7.

The two ships were sunk and the auxiliary hit at the outset of the Thursday evening strike. The other two were damaged by strafing.

Twenty small groups of raiders tried it again Friday morning. Patrol fighters stopped most of them a considerable distance out. There is no announced score, as yet, on enemy planes downed or damaged.

World Charter

The British elections, he told a news conference, will leave unchanged "the main line of British policy both in respect to the conduct of the Pacific war and to the work which we have done here."

United delegates expressd confidence the Senate also would approve the charter. Two Senators who served as vice-chairmen of the delegation at the Golden Gate, Tom Connally (D-Tex) and Arthur Vendenberg (R-Mich), will report to the Senate next Thursday and Friday.

Senate committee hearings may not begin until the second week in July, however.

33 Could Block It

Thirty-three senators could keep the world organization from coming into existence. The charter must be ratified by all the Big Five powers — the United States, Russia, Britain, China and France—and by 23 of the 45 other signatories. Senate ratification must be accomplished by a two-thirds vote of the 96 legislators.

Halifax listed five points at which he said the charter represents an improvement over the old League of Nations covenant. A requirement for big power unanimity of action, provisions for using regional security systems; military arrangements which provide "real teeth;" a trusteeship system for dependent peoples; a council for solving international social economic problems.

East of Manila troops of the 38th Infantry division, the First (dismounted) Cavalry division, and the 102nd Regimental Combat team killed or found dead nearly 500 more Japanese in their cleanup of the Marikina watershed area.

It was in the Cagayan valley, however, that the hardest victory punch came with the sparkling performance of the guerrillas.

Installation of officers and an address by Mrs. Ruth Fredde of Dallas, president of the Texas Federation of Insurance women, marked the dinner meeting of Lubbock insurance women Friday night at Lubbock hotel.
