BAFFLING SOCIETY MURDER MYSTERY SOLVED

Jack Russell Found Guilty On Last Four Charges

TEXAS NOW TO AID OKLAHOMA PROSECUTORS

Faces Murder Charge Following Gun Battle Near Duncan

TERMS TOTAL 17 YEARS

Bandit Is Under 5 Sentences And Old Suspended Term

The State of Texas closed its prosecution of R. J. (Jack) Russell in the eighty-ninth district court, shortly after three-thirty o'clock Friday afternoon when the jury of that court returned a verdict of guilty and assessed a punishment of five years in the penitentiary on the last of four indictments charging highway robbery and robbery with firearms. Two other indictments charging robbery with firearms in connection with the jailbreak last January will be dropped. Instead every assistance will be accorded the county attorney of Stephens county, Oklahoma, to secure extradition of Russell to Duncan for trial there on a murder charge growing out of a gun battle near that city on the night of Feb. 2. These announcements were made by district attorney immediately following the return of the jury's verdict.

Faces 17-Year Term.

Russell now is under five different penitentiary sentences from Texas courts, sentences aggregating 34 years, but since all but two of them will run concurrently it means that he is due to serve 17 years in the state prisons. There is a year old five-year suspended sentenced against him at Victoria, two sentences of seven and five years each against him from the thirtieth district court of this city, and two sentences of twelve and five years each against him from the eighty-ninth district court of this city.

J. H. Long, county attorney of Stephens county, Oklahoma, and J. W. McIvan, deputy sheriff of that county, appeared in the court room Friday and remained there throughout the trial, stated that there would be no delivery of the prisoner to Oklahoma without the presentation of proper papers. These will be secured as soon as possible, Mr. Long stated.

Trial Is Hasty Affair.

Russell's trial Friday, his fourth in a Wichita county court, was a hasty affair compared with that of Monday and Tuesday. The jury was chosen from the special venire and some few additional talesmen by two o'clock in the afternoon, and the indictment, charging the hold-up of the Lamar Avenue Drug Store on the night of Oct. 18, read to him. The defendant plead guilty, and the state immediately introduced two witnesses, E. R. White and Barney Matlock, who related the incidents surrounding the hold up. The state then introduced a written confession of the deed obtained from Russell and rested its case. The defense rested also and the judge presented his charge with its instructions to the jury to find the defendant guilty, and assess punishment at either death in the electric chair, life imprisonment, or any term of imprisonment not less than five years.

Brief Arguments

Defense and state were each allotted 25 minutes for the closing arguments. These were finished at 3:20, the jury remaining out only a few minutes.

Members of the jury were W. S. Johnson, P. B. Bontwell, G. M. Mount, R. F. Quells, J. T. Cooper, Chas. L. Skaggs, J. L. Maley, G. W. Ward, S. S. Fillman, R. W. Oakey, W. F. Ernest and S. C. Moore.

Russell has yet a visit remaining to the eighty-ninth and thirtieth district court room, the scene of at least five full days of trial on various offenses of his, for he has yet to receive sentence from either Judge Wilson or Judge Martin on the four convictions against him. Russell broke jail last January before Judge Wilson could sentence him then, and Judge Wilson has not been back in Wichita Falls since Russell has been in jail again.

Text Book Case Is Argued Before Court

AUSTIN, March 12.—The Texas supreme court today heard oral argument on the application for the writ of mandamus of the American Book company of Cincinnati, to compel S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, to recognize their $550,000 contracts for spelling and general science texts. Decision is expected to be handed down next Wednesday.

W. A. Keeling, former attorney general, for the American Book company, attacked Marrs' letter and charged that the superintendent did not include the American Book company's texts in the list of books he first sent to the school authorities. He charged that "every way in which Marrs' wrote in his letter of the American Book company's books, he did so derogatoria'ly."

National City Bank of New York Buys W. F., Ranger and Fort Worth Railroad; To End Receivership

J. W. Mitchell, Receiver, To Go In As President When Technical Transaction Is Finished April 1

Echoes of Jake Hamon's business activities in the southwest were revived Friday when announcement was made that the Wichita Falls, Ranger and Fort Worth railway, running from Dublin in Erath county to Jimkurn in Stevens county—a distance of about 70 miles—had been purchased outright by the National City Bank of New York. A technical sale will be perfected April 1, at which time sanction of the transaction will be asked of Federal Judge James C. Wilson of Fort Worth who on Dec 6, 1921, placed the road in receivership. All of the stock is now owned by the New York bank.

The road was built by Hamon and his associates at a cost of about $4,500,000. It represented one of the principal assets of the Oklahoma multimillionaire, despite the fact it has been in receivership for about five years. Used almost exclusively for oil traffic out of the Ranger territory, it will probably be disposed of to oil or railroad interests, it has been indicated.

James A. Jackson, vice-president of the National City Bank and who was in Wichita Falls about ten days ago, represented his company in the deal which takes the road out of receivership. When Judge Wilson's sanction is obtained, which is expected without difficulty, officers of the line will be elected. J. W. Mitchell, receiver of the road, will probably be elected president and continue his direction of the road.

No change in policy or operation of the line is contemplated, it is understood, and the sale really means little. It is understood the sale to the National City company liquidates a loan made by the bank to Hamon before his death and in which the road was put up as security.

TEXAS BANKER GIVEN HEARING

H. P. Fall Charged With Murder Of Mr. and Mrs. Sanhorn

BAY CITY, Texas, March 12.—Charged wit hthe double murder of his wife's sister, Mrs. Sanborn, and her husband, Camden Sanborn, H. P. Fall, former East Texas banker, was brought into court here today for a preliminary hearing before county Judge R. F. Anderson.

Included with Faall in the two murder charges against him is his young son, Howard Fall, a 17-year-old high school boy, who was with his father when the shots were fired which broght death to his aunt and double tragedy upon his mother, Mrs. Fall.

Hoard Fall was not included in the preliminary hearing, however. The state waived young Fall's examining trial at this time and recommnded he be given bail upon both murder charges, fixing the total sum at $3,000.

But bail for H. P. Fall, denied at the time of his arrest, is to be as stubbornly fought. It was for that, as much as to bind Fann senior over to the grand jury, that the state today began what gives signs of being a rather full exposition of its case.

It is not clear whether the Japanese returned the fire of the forts. The Japanese counsul general at Tientsin has lodged a strong protest with the Kuominchun leaders.

HALE'S KIN IS STATE WITNESS AT HIS TRIAL

Burkhart, Missing Nearly 2 Months, Surprises Defense

COURT IN A TURMOIL

Sudden Introduction Of Oklahoman Brings Exciting Climax

PAWHUSKA, Okla., March 12.—(AP)—The sudden introduction of Ernest Burkhart late today as a state witness in the preliminary trial of his uncle W. K. Hale and John Ramsey for the alleged murder of W. E. Smith at Fairfaax three years ago threw the hearing into a turmoil that was still unsettled when court adjourned for the night.

Burkhart has been missing for nearly two months—federal officers say under their protection. Efforts of his relatives and W. S. Hamilton of Hale's counsel to communicate with him had been in vain. Federal Judge Cotteral had refused to issue a writ of habeas corpus for his delivery ruling that his absence was voluntary.

Early in the hearing Hamilton had announced that "very serious charges" would be made aginst T. B. White, head of the federal secret service force, who conducted a six months investigation of a series of murders in Osage county.

S. P. Freeling, leading counsel for Hale said that Burkhart was under two charges of murder in the Osage county court. Freeling was corrected by Edwin Dabney assistant state attorney general who informed him that only one charge had ever been filed against Burkhart and that it had been dropped.

The court room scene was an exciting climax to a day of common place testimony in which the state merely sought to show that Smith's home in Fairfaax had been destroyed by a premeditated explosion and that Smith his Indian wife and a servant girl had died from the effects of the blast.

The defense attempted to bring out that the explosion might have been caused or at least hastened by other means.

Blue Pajamas Key To Unravelling Of Nesbitt Mystery

TROY, Ohio, March 12.—(AP)—A pair of blue pajamas was the key which unlocked the baffling Nesbitt murder mystery.

The sleeping garments were missing from the Nesbitt home after Frances Drake Nesbitt's body was found. Jacob Nesbitt her husband, who tonight confessed to the crime asserted he did not know where they were.

However, Prentiss Brown who with his wife stayed at the Nesbitt home Wednesday evening preceding the murder, declared Nesbitt had worn the pajamas that night. Nesbitt in his testimony at the coroner's inquest had said that he did not wear pajamas that evening.

This set officials to thinking, and started them on the right trail, after a series of false starts had been made.

GRAND JURY IS CALLED 'RELIC'

It Is Obsolete and Out Of Joint With Times, Says Judge

SAN ANTONIO, March 12.—(AP) A grand jury is an obsolete relic of a bygone era, entirely out of joint with present times, and operates principally to clog court dockets, impede justice, increase the tax payer's burden, and has only a flimsy tradition view of Burr W. Jones, former justo sustain and perpetuate it, in the tice of the Wisconsin supreme court. The jurist and his wife are visiting in San Antonio.

Use of the grand jury is optional in Wisconsin, Justice Jones said.

"We have tried to pattern our judiciary closely after the English in many ways, the Britishers having proved to the world that speedy justice is the surest crime deterrent. The criminally inclined feel far easier in a state where experience shows that after their arrest they will be given a nominal bond, and be granted delays without number, and possibly finally pardoned.

"In Wisconsin it is next to impossible for a person charged with muurudeur to get bond. In special cases it si done, but the statute sets $10,000 as the minimum bond, any defendant so charged can be released on."

JAKE NESBITT CONFESSES TO SLAYING WIFE

Ends 3 Weeks' Investigation Which Puzzled Officers

FOLLOWED A QUARREL

Town, Pointing to Couple As Ideally Happy, Is Shocked

TROY, Ohio, March 12.—(AP)—In the presence of a half dozen witnesses, Jacob C. Nesbitt, tonight confessed he killed his wife, Frances Drake Nesbitt three weeks ago today. He said they had been quarrelling "over everything."

The confession came after five hours of questioning in the Nesbitt home according to Ora Slater, Cincinnati private detective.

He said Nesbitt broke down completely and made a clean breast of it. Nesbitt, according to Slater, declared he did not know with what he hit his wife. The murder occurred Friday morning after Nesbitt and his wife had arisen.

Quarreled All the Time.

"We have quarreled ever since we were married," Slater quoted Nesbitt as having said. "We quarreled over everything, business and personal matters.

"We quarreled Thursday night and we got up Friday and in the same mood.

"I got mad and hit Frances in the face with my first. Then everything got red.

"I have only a hazy remembrance of what happened after I struck her with my fist."

Vanity Proves His Undoing.

Nesbitt, however, did say that he remembered taking the body, and placing it in the bath tub after which he washed his hands and combed his hair. A single strand of blood-stained hair was found in a comb in the Nesbitt home and furnished one of the meager clews which officials had worked on.

It was then, he said, that he took his blue pajamas which were missing from the home to the basement and burned them in the furnace. Afterwards he came back upstairs and straightened up the furniture.

Baffled Officers 3 Weeks.

For three weeks, the Nesbitt murder has presented a baffling wall of mystery to officials who have worked feverishly to unearth a tangible clew.

Th point had almost been reached where every one concerned believed the murder would remain unsolved forever.

Nesbitt himself has been the most active in attempting to run down clues. He has worked with newspaper men and with Slater ever since the latter came here to take charge of the case a week ago.

Had Remained Calm.

He had never been accused of the murder and today was the first time he had been questioned at any length. At the coroner's inquest he answered questions apparently in a straightforward manner and the coroner's verdict as rendered at the close was that Mrs. Nesbitt had died from concussion of the brain, the result of having been struck by an unknown instrument in the hands of an unknown.

"Jake" and "Fran" Nesbitt were known as an ideally happy couple here. Both graduates of Ohio State university, they were popular in the social life of Troy and were among the most active members of the Troy Country club. Both were athletes, Nesbitt winning a football letter in college and Mrs. Nesbitt two tennis championships.

No one knew they quarreled—they were just counted good fellows.

They prospered in business enough to purchase hom eand Troy was glad to see them get ahead.

Childhood Sweethearts.

Frances Drake was the town tomboy, a lovable hoydenish sort of a girl, everybody's friend and nobody's enemy. And Frances and Jake were childhood sweethearts. They grew up together right here in Troy and when they got married Troy friends beamed with happiness.

"An ideal match," it was said.

Their apparent prosperity was considered just another example of the success of their marriage.

Suit on "Cracking" Patents Used By Oil Refineries Reveals Romantic Rise of Inventor to Great Wealth

20 Years Ago Author-Mechanic Was Told By His Friends to Stick to Literature, But His Device Has Won Him Fame and Fortune

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—The suit begun by the United States government to set aside 16 oil "cracking" patents held by the Texos Oil company has revealed that the career of Joseph H. Adams of Brooklyn, inventor of the process, has been as remarkable as any of the fiction heroes he created in early manhood.

About 20 years ago, Adams wrote stories of poor boys who rose to fortune, illustrating them himself and spent his spare time working on his inventions. Friends advised him to stop "playing" with the inventions and stick to literature. Instead of doing this, however, the author borrowed money in 1909 to put his "cracking" process on the market.

Justice McAvoy in the supreme court of Brooklyn a few years ago ruled George C. Rogers, who made the the loan, was entitled to forty per cent of the proceeds of the patent, then valued at $8,000,000. Since 1924 the inventor has perfected 15 other processes, for one of which the Texas Oil company is reported to have paid him $1,000,000 outright, while fifty other companies contribute royalties on other processes.

Mr. Adams owns a $95,000 home in Brooklyn which is closed for the winter while he is in Florida, where he has another home and a palatial house boat.

He was named co-defendant with the Texas Oil company in the government's suit. The government contends that he is not entitled to the patents nor to any future royalties from them.

Casting Directors of Film Studio Tour Honky-Donk Dance Halls For Girls For A Reformatory Scene

But Strangely Enough, Some of the Ball Room Queens, Who Dance at 5 Cents a Round, Say the Movies Are the Bunk When It Comes to Pay

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—(AP)—Casting directors for famous Players-Lasky film studio staged an after-dark raid on honky-donk dance halls and night clubs of Los Angeles last night seeking realistic girl figures "young enough and hard enough" for a scene in a woman's reformatory.

The raid was staged after the central casting office with more than 5,000 women on its lists had found only 12 who were able to play the parts.

Paying their admission to a number of cheap dance halls the casting director and his aides picked out the girls, one by one, and asked them if they wanted an opportunity to work in the films.

The majority thought they were being hoaxed. "Gwan," retorted one, "all the big butter and egg men have that line."

Others declared that they could earn more than the extras' $7.50 per day by continuing their dance hall life where they receive a nickel a dance for acting as partners for stray men plus half the price of the soft drinks they induce the men to buy.

HOUSTON GETS SIX FACTORIES

HOUSTON, March 12.—(AP)—Six factories and a 1,200-room hotel along the Houston ship channel were announced today by George Diamont, industrial engineer.

The plants will be rented to members who wish to come into Houston and occupy a modern plant without building it themselves. The exact location cannot be announced at this time but it will be on the north side of the ship channel midway between Main street and the turning basin.

The hotel will be a six-story working man's hotel. A Dallas hotel concern is said to be ready to sign a 25-year contract for the rental of the hotel for $2,500,000.

Most of the factory space was said to be contracted for. A St. Louis marble and granite company will take over one whole building and a barge steamship company has bid for the ground floor of the other five buildings.

Telegraph Company Soon To Offer Wire Service To Interior

NEW YORK, March 12.—Under new arrangements entered into with the Mexican government the Postal Telegraph commercial cables system is enabled to render a telegraph and cable service into and out of Mexico, according to an announcement made today by Clarence H. Mackay, president of these companies. Mr. Macany's companies have been seeking to enter Mexico for some years but were prevented from doing so by certain monopolistic agreements which existed. These agreements, however, have been cancelled, under the new plan, which is designed to establish a more comprehensive telegraph and cable service between the United States and Mexico.

In commenting upon the new arrangement between the United States and Mexico, Mr. Mackay said, "For about 50 years there has been a monopoly of the telegraph service between the United States and Mexico which prevented my company from introducing competitive service and in fact, in 1897, we did actually establish a connection with Mexico, but after a few months we were compelled to discontinue this service in consequence of the then existing monopolies. "The arrangements with the Mexicon telegraph administration to which my company is a party have resulted in the cancellation of the old time monopolies and the Postal Telegraph and commercial cable companies are thus able to offer the public a competitive telegraph service with Mexico which goes hand in hand with commercial interiors."

R. M. BRITTON SUES LOMAX

Explsoion Oct. 30, 1925, Made Basis Of Petition

Damages in the sum of $40,000 are asked of T. G. Lomax Jr. and T. G. Lomax Sr. in a suit filed Friday by Richard M. Britton of this city. The damages are asked as a result of injuries alleged to have been incurred when a boiler on the Lomax lease north of Archer City exploded on October 30, 1925, at which time, the petition states, Britton was knocked into a state of coma which lasted several days by the force of the explosion. He received serious gashes about the face and body, a broken leg, and other injuries from which permanent disablement is probable.

At the time of the accident, the petition states, Britton was an employee of the Bradford Supply company and was engaged in erecting a power plant on the lease, and that in pursuance of the usual custom in the oil fields had gone from the scene of his work to a drilling well to ask a friend, L. A. Niles, for some cigarettes and a Stilson wrench.

It was while on this visit to the drilling well that the explosion of the boilers occured. The petition alleges that the explosion was the result of negligence of the defendants or their agents, and that the usual custom of borrowing in the oil fields made him in fact a guest at the drilling rig.

The Security Union Casualty company, employers compensation agents for the Bradford Supply company, is a co-plaintiff in the suit, seeking for itself return of money which it has paid Britton under the terms of his policy with them.

GIRL FREED IN MARINE'S DEATH

Slew Officer After Repeated Attempts to Attack Her, She Testifies

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 12.—(AP)—Dorothy Pegran, on trial for the murder of Phillip Tulley, sergeant of marines, was acquitted by a jury here today after deliberating four hours.

The non-commissioned officer was on recruiting duty here and was residing in the same boarding house with Miss Pegran, who was said to have followed him from Pittsburgh. The sergeant maintained a home in Pittsburgh where his wife and young son lived.

Miss Pegran was the only defense witness called. She told the story of her life and concluded with the statement that she killed Tulley because of his consistent attacks upon her. Prosecuting witnesses testified that after she shot Tulley in her bedroom she dropped to her knees beside him and kissed him, then stepped back and fired two more bullets into his body.

As the verdict was announced the spectators broke into cheers.

Miss Pegran kissed several of the jurors and declared that she was wearing a lucky ring and that it had brought her acquittal. The ring was said to have been a gift from Tulley.

Miss Pegran's lawyers paid by a certified check from Pittsburgh. They refused to say who was defraying the girl's expenses.

Admirer of Slain Man's Wife Freed In Hammer Mystery

ELIZABETH, N. J., March 12.—(AP)—The "hammer murder" of William J. Clark of Hillsdale last November was still a mystery today and Joseph Cowen of Newark, an admirer of Clark's wife, was a free man for the first time in four months.

Search for the murderer is not ended, however, Prosecutor Abe J. David indicated.

A jury yesterday acquitted Cowen, linked to the crime through circumstantial evidence and his admission that he "stole a few kisses" from Mrs. Clark.

In charging the jury, Justice Kalisch said that it was his personal conviction that "the relations between the defendant and Mrs. Clark were illicit." While the defendant may be guilty of moral turpitude, however, he continued, "you are not trying him on that charge."

On the night of November 3, last, Clark drove his automobile into his garage and his wife and her mother who were with him got out. A few minutes later they heard screams and Clark, his head crushed and bleeding, staggered into their arms. A bloody hammer was the only clue.

La Follette Named On Tariff Probe

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP) Senator LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, was named today by Vice President Dawes as the "progressive republican" on the special committee which is to investigate the tariff commission.

The committee will select its own chairman and is expected to begin the inquiry next week.

Senator LaFollette is the only senator listed in the congressional directory as "a progressive republican." There are half a dozen others who are generally designated that way in debate in the senate.

DRY AGENTS CANNOT PAY FOR "TIP OFFS," IS RULING

COTTON MILL INDUSTRY IN TEXAS

DID you know that the value of textile products in Texas gained $23,000,000 from 1915 to 1925? Well, Burt C. Blanton, a consulting industrial engineer, says so. He has recently completed an additional survey and a report of the textile industry of Texas. This survey shows on January 31, 1926, there were 229,340 spinning spindles in Texas mills, as compared with 226,675 spinning spindles in place on the corresponding date in place in 1925, which is equevilent to a net increase for 1926 over 1925 in the number of spinning spindles in place in Texas mills of approximately 5.5 per cent.

He says of the total number of spinning spindles in place in January 1925, approximately 93.9 per cent were active during the month, as compared with 94.2 per cent in January 1926. Net increase in the average number of active spindle hours per spindle in place in Texas mills for January 1926, over January 1925, approximataed 14.4 per cent. Texas ranks third in the average number of active spindle hours per spindle in place for January 26, as compared with a rank of 6 for the corresponding period in 1925.

Texas mills consumed 50,813 bales of cotton in 1915 and 95,494 bales in 1925. Cotton consumption of Texas mills for 1915 to 1925 inclusive, shows a net increase of approximately 84 per cent, and the average cotton consumption of all Texas mills for the same period has approximated 72,153 bales per annum.

Aggregate value of textile product of Texas mills in 1914 was $3,754,785, and in 1925 it was $26,892,540. Furthermore, he says the net increase in the value of textile products of Texas mills for 1914 to 1925 inclusive, approximated 608.9 per cent which is equivalent to $23,137,755. Per capita value of Texas textile product today approximated $5.39, and the ratio of capital invested in the textile industry in Texas to the state's aggregate wealth today approximates $1 to every $218.85.

Texas produced a cotton crop of $5,500,000 bales, speaking in round numbers in 1925. There is room in Texas for a thousand cotton mills. There is room in Texas for a hundred woolen mills. There is room in Texas for a large number of tanneries. Texas leads in the production of cotton, in the production of wool and mohair and in the production of raw hides. Why not in the mills and the factories.

It is ever the manufacturing nations that are the wealthy nations of the world. Manufacturing made England the Misstress of the seas and British shipping helped to do it. Now the United States is making gigantic strides in a manufacturing way and is destined to lead the nations of the earth, but the American flag is again disappearing from the seven seas and the merchant marine built in war times, appears to be at its ebb tide.

It cost the American people three billion dollars. Now the international bankers of America appear to be willing, nay, anxious, for American products to be carried in foreign boats to the bargain counters of the world.

COTTON SEED AS A FOOD

COTTON seed as a staple food will be discussed at a convention to be held in connection with the spring meeting of the American Chemical Food society at Tulsa in April. Reports will be presented on the results of surveys of the possibilities for such use of cotton seed products. Because of the high protein content of the seed, it is predicted that synthetic beef steak with practically the same protein value as real meat, may be an outcome of the investigation.

If successful, this will enable the cotton grower to raise his own beef steak in his own cotton patch and to serve fleecy staple beef three times a day, if he cares for a meat food at every meal. Then when Henry Ford produces synthetic milk from an iron cow, it will be unnecessary for the farmer to keep milch cows on his farm.

There is a splendid civilization coming if the chemists are given the right of way. Not many years ago cotton seed was used as a fertilizer. Indeed, the farmers had a contempt for it. It was cheaper than dirt, real dirt. In recent years cotton seed has sold as high as $75 per ton, and it is utilized for many purposes.

In the Civil war the south gave up in dispair because the supply of fats was exhausted. If the statesmen and soldiers of the Confederacy had known the value of cotton seed oil it might have been different. Cotton seed as a food product has many possibilities.

This is the view point of the chemists who say that in the near future it may be a very nourishing food for both man and beast. Where ignorance is bliss, it is not folly to be wise. It is the wise men who get the most out of life, and it is the scholar given to research work who does the most for humanity.

IS THERE MONEY IN PETROLEUM?

IS THERE money in petroleum? There is. Is an investor in on the ground floor and the owner of the right kind of stock. The Texas company report net earnings of $39,605,078 for 1925, equivalent to $6.02 a share, par $25.00, on the 6,578,000 shares of stock as compared with $4.02 in 1924. This is said to be the best showing ever made by the Texas company, total net being $8,500,000 more than for 1920, the previous record year, and 50 per cent larger than for 1924.

The company ended the year with a remarkable strong balance sheet, cash increasing to $18,814,106, and profit and loss surplus to $413,466,230, or approximately 70 per cent of the par value of outstanding stock. These figures must be something of a shock to Judge James W. Swayne, now a member of one of the state boards. J. S. Cullinane, James Stephen Hogg and James W. Swayne organized the Texas company in the days of the Spindletop oil excitement. Hogg and Swayne did not remain with the company for any length of time. They sold their stock and retired before the time had arrived for the cutting of dividend mellons.

Cullinan remained with the company as its head for years and when he retired, he is said to have taken millions with him. Is there money in oil? Well, go ask the men that got in on the ground floor and remained there. Go ask the men who got in on the ground floor when the Magnolia was organized. There is money in oil if you know the road to take. Two of the original organizers of the company made the right start but they switched roads at the wrong time.

After Hogg had been gathered to his fathers, his heirs found themselves owners of rich oil producing land and thus, they became millionaires. Judge Swayne sold his stock when the price was not gilt edge. He did not find himself the owner of oil-producing lands in after years. In the long run there was no money in oil for Swayne, but this is the way that life goes. It is much of a gamble but the successful gambler must know the game.

HOW OLD IS MOTHER EARTH?

HOW old is mother earth? Dr. Alfred Church Lane, famous geological teacher and expert ,appeared before the geologists of Princeton University and estimated the age of the earth at one billion years.

How old is man? Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn addressed the students and faculty of Cornell University and set forth as outstanding irrifutable facts that man with a human form and human attributes has been on earth over five hundred thousand years, according to the least estimates of geologic time.

Professor Osborn asserted in this address that French Catholic priests have been among the foremost scientists in supporting the theory of evolution, and the Catholic of Louvian University, Belgium, have accepted the modern scientific interpertation in its entirety.

Furthermore, Professor Osborn insists that man belongs to a family of his own, which has a history entirely independent of all other families for an incalculable period of time, two and a half million years at the least geological estimate.

If these scientists are correct in their estimates, the earth's age is a billion years and the first family came two and a half million years ago. If man has inhabited the earth two and a half million years, then he is a piker as a traveler when placed by the side of the snail, and the snail is said to be the slowest moving of all creatures that inhabit the earth.

SPEAKING OF PETROLEUM

NOW the directors of the Ohio Oil company, a former Standard Oil subsidiary, has declared an extra dividend of 25c a share on the capital stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 50c a share. Both dividends are payable March 31. Three months ago the directors declared an extra dividend of 50c a share. Is there money in petroleum? There appears to be for Ohio Oil company stockholders.

The GOLDEN COCOON
by RUTH CROSS

Stephen—she shuddered away from that thought as from too many others. Stephen had paid his debt, if debt he owned. Eldredge had chanced on his name in a column of hundred dead. It seemed he had found work in an ammunition factory—some fast spasmodic twitching perhaps of selff-respect, some genuine shame at her having seen him as a waiter, a flunky in uniform. There had been an explosion. Such things were constantly happening now. She had resisted the impulse to send the clipping to Greg—on the eve of sailing again for France. Eldredge had brought her this information, too, information not trusted, of course, to the newspapers.

Once across the border into her own state, her heart stirred faintly to great stretches of black land prairie with the corn showing new and sketchily green; to oil derricks bristling on every hand like a particularly dusky variety of cactus; to blue bonnets sheathing hill and plain with dazzling, far-flung scarfs of lapis lazuli; to sand and heat and yellow April sunshine; to ugly little towns with the assembled populations crowded round the ugly, yellow buff stations to watch the "Limited" go through.

What struck her most as she stepped at last from the train at the little red brick capital station was that everything seemed so unchanged. It was like an enchanted city, drowsing there in the late afternoon sun—the Avenue, the Capitol, the "Mansion," the Gothic spires—waiting, perhaps for her return.

The campus wah changed most of all several fine new buildings, a dozen sprawling wooden "shacks," huddled the blue bonnets, once undisputed April monarchs, into pitiably cramped quarters. They were there, though, still—thousands of quaint, wise little blue hoods, nodding and swaying, to the wind, plunder for greedy herds of pollen-gilded bees. Molly waded out half way to her knees in them, glanced round, dropped quickly to the ground. She smothered her face in the blossoms, pressed her lips to the fragrant, warm earth beneath. Her earth . . . She remembered that other homecoming so long ago. Autumn it had been—and how she had longed then to stoop and kiss the earth beneath her feet.

The sun hid itself over behind the Gothic towers, and the Southern dusk did cool, scented penance for the heat and burden of the day. A slim new moon lifted its silver horn above the chapels ivied buttresses, and still Molly lingered on—to think and to dream . . .

The past rushed over her like the first deep whiff of ether, bore her down, blotted out new landmarks. Faces, voices, scenes—some long forgotten. She thought of Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Parker with her little pine-knot body, her humor-wrinkled face, her head of gold—gone long since to her reward. A rich and generous reward it must be.

She thought of her mother in the faded calico wrapper, thrusting back the damp tendrils from her face with the worn, harassed motion. Her mother—she had spent herself, her youth, her strength, her very bone and blood, to bring them forth. She had shriveled and fallen into dust like a dried seed pod after the seeds are scattered. And what had they done for her? Nothing, nothing at all.

She thought of her father, bland and beningnant in his unpaid for pine coffin—of Larry. . . .

On the Avenue, she had noted a handsome black-and-gold sign, lettered. "Judge James Larrabee Shannon." She has passed and repassed it—lingeringly; old ties, old affections, straining fiercely at her heart. But, no, it was better not—better always the dead should remain dead, better the ghostly should not intrude their ghostlion the living. He was prosperous, successful—with a position to be maintained, no doubt. There might be bitterness and recrimination, the old flame of intolerance breaking out. Strange they had all been like that; deep down, perhaps, affection, but at the surface reacting on one another like vitrol, and corrosive sublimate. Strange that the mildest and gentlest of women should have brought forth such a quarrelsome, contentious brood.

Stephen—the thought of him persisted too. Stephen strolling round the corner at dusk with his inimitable, leisureliness, Stephen smiling at her his sphinxlike God-out-of-the-machine smile, Stephen glorious and beautiful to her as a god. Stephen in flunky's uniform, hurrying to help Eldredge with his coat, accepting his fee—Stephen of the trembling hands and twitching muscles. Then Stephen—torn, mangled, blown perhaps to atoms—dust to dust. It seemed too cruel, too dreadful.

That Molly he had feigned to love—that violent, headstrong Molly. She could all but see her swinging along the path now between the blue bonnets, with the buoyant, never-to-be-mistaken stride of one predestined, born, and steered toward freedom. She wore a gingham frock faded from many washings. There were books under her arm. From a ribbon dangled a floppy, home-made hat.

She was outrageously slim, her eyes not less blue than the flowers that bordered her way. That violent, headstrong Molly, and yet he had swayed her to his every passing whim . . .

That reckless, stubborn Molly—she could see her halting in the path there with a defiant challenge—to demand an accounting for the years. Rash and insolent, conceiving in hot lust what maturity must forge out with groping imperfection in sweat and toil and blood. Youth mortgaging the future for the vision of the moment—nay, for a mere gesture, an outlet, an expression of itself. Youth, the transcendent, the terrible, the unreturning.

CHAPTER XXXII

In her room at the hotel—the hotel where the alumni dance had taken place, where another would be taking place soon, no doubt—the heat was stifling, oppressive. She changed her traveling suit for the lightest gown in her bag, and wandered out to one of the small, iron-railed balconies across the way; the same balcony, perhaps, where she and Arthur Bancroft had stood that night five years ago. Five years. . . .

This was a night of mocking birds and magnolia blossoms—the moon a milky blossom, too, against a pall of velvet. From a tree, glistening green and blossom starred, a feathered cantatrice poured out his soul of souls into the light. Ravishingly, intolerably sweet—moonlight, blossoms, that song.

She ought not to have come. She was in very truth a ghost, growing more ghost-like with every movement. She was an alien on hallowed, too familiar ground; separate and apart from all this thrilling, bursting ecstacy That bird, this odor of a thousand blossoms, this soft southern air—they brought things back overpoweringly.

In the city one might delude oneself with work, friendship, quite affection—a thousand inconsequent trifles. But here on her own ground, where her roots struck deep, there was no self-deluding. She wanted life, love; she wanted Greg. She wanted nothing else in the world. Nothing else would answer. He belonged to her—she to him. Nostupid quibblings of pride, honor, expediency, could change that. That other woman—what was she to him? When two people had belonged wholly to each other, body mind and soul something had been created out of that complete possession, something eternal and indestructible. That was marriage—the marriage of true minds. There was no other marriage.

If for only a moment that bird would be still! She put her hands over her ears, but the mild and piercing madness would not be shut out. It was like a cry, a human cry, insistent and fierce, so anguished it seemed he must hear and understand. What were a few leagues more or less of land and water between two immortal souls?

She turned with a sharp, convulsive movement. That cry, this odor of a thousand, 10,000 blossoms—she could endure them no longer She would go back. She would not even wait for the morning. She ought not to have come. . . .

At the entrance to the balcony stood the bell boy in uniform—blinking at her through the half darkness.

"Gentleman to see you, miss," he mumbled and then took himself off.

There appeared presently in the archway a substantial, square-built figure. On the light summer coat the moonlight showed a mourning band.

Molly stood frozen, incredulous. It was a trick of her overwrought senses, Greg was on his way to France—She asked a miracle; yet dared not trust its fulfillment. It was Greg, but changed—how changed—broken and older—Greg, whose face was never given to show what he felt He stood there with his head bent a little, yet looking at her—waiting as if for her to give permission for him to cross the threshhold. She tried to speak, tried to call his name, but the syllable died on her lips. There was less than half a dozen steps between them, and yet moment after moment passed—other moments—and still they only went on looking at each other, as if that were the soul means of communication left between them. It was dreadful to see Greg like that—broken and older, his head bent.

"Greg, you did hear—you came—" She found words at last, took a step toward him.

He put out his hands as if to ward her off. "You must hear first what I have to say." He indicated a rustic bench, but Molly moved back toward the iron railing, stood with her hands gripping it behind her.

"I see—" She was surprised herself to note how casual and matter-of-fact she sounded. "You've come to tell me you do want your freedom, after all. But"—she glanced around, still a little dazedly—"how did I know that you were here?"

"Myron Eldredge—I wired him."

"Oh."

He came then and stood directly in front of her. But speech seemed more difficult for him than for her. When other moments had passed in silence, she added: "You did think of a way then? I knew you would—you're so clever about such things"

He made an odd, half-finished gesture of negation. "Don't talk like that. I came to throw myself on your mercy—to beg you to forgive me."

"Forgive you—I?" Molly made a faint, incredulous motion toward herself.

"Yes that day when you came—I didn't understand. I was vicious brutal—mad with jealousy. . . ."

"You jealous . . .?" She made another incredulous movement. "Oh, no, I—that woman. . . ."

"You needn't have been. You know there's never been anybody but you—there never could be. That was the one thing that hardened my heart against you—you knew there couldn't be. Now I—can't even ask you to forgive me. . . ."

"Oh no; it is you who must forgive. . . . But how . . .?"

He touched the hand of crepe on his sleeve. "My mother—she went all at once like a tree with the ax laid to the root. She told me. I think she wanted to tell me sooner, but she didn't know how. . . ."

"Your mother—she told you . . .?" Molly was silent with the wonder of that. Then, "Greg, you mustn't think I'm not guilty—just as guilty as you believed me—only I didn't know it. It was my own stubborn, headstrong will. Tonight for the first time I've seen it all clearly."

"Never mind about that After all, it wasn't your going—or the reason given—that hurt most. It was your not letting me help you. I knew what it was like for a woman of your sort alone in a great city. I used to sit and picture it to myself—the hardships, privations, hunger perhaps. . . . It was torture. For years I tried to find you. Then that day when you came into my office. I thought you had what you wanted—all you wanted. . . . I thought maybe you—pitied me a little. . . ."

Bolly caught his big, square hands in hers, covered them with penitent, hot kisses, with hot, self-reviling tears. "You're so much bigger than I am, Greg—always so much finer and more generous. I'm ashamed to tell you—I didn't realize even that that was one of the ways I was hurting you. I was thinking only of my own pride, my own miserable self-respect."

He did not say anything at all. He pulled her head down against his breast, smoothed and stroked her hair, made awkward little patting motions about her shoulders. "I wish you wouldn't cry like that," he said after a while.

Lyrics of Life

THE TWO-GAITED MAN

I always have fancied a two-gaited horse.
I've had lots of critters that wasn't of course,
A big yellah pacer, a bay that could trot—
And then a new sorrel one summer I got,
A two-gaited sorrel, who knew either one.
And seemed to enjoy it, whichever he done.

For out on the road, or in any old place,
When he tired of a trot then he changed to a pace,
When he tired of a pace then he trotted some more,
And he never got sulky and never got sore.
He wasn't no racer, and yet I have found
That a two-gaited horse can git over the ground.

I always have fancied a two-gaited man,
Who grieves when he has to, and laffs when he can,
Who works like the dickens and plays with a will,
Who speeds on the level and pulls on the hill,
A two-gaited fellah who watches the road
And changes his pace so it lightens the load.

For a fellah all work soon will work to the grave,
And a fellah all play mighty little will save;
But the man who can change to a pace or a trot,
Gosh, the money he makes, and the friends he has got!
So grieve when you have to, and laff when you can,
For the world's mighty good to a two-gaited man.

Value of Spices.

In the middle ages such a fabulous value was set on spices, when their actual worth is considered, as the world has probably never known before or since. A single pound of ginger would buy a sheep, a pound of cloves woud buy seven sheep; two pounds of mace were worth a cow. When Henry II came to Rome the streets were "fumigated" with cloves, and in China cloves were held in the mouth to sweeten the breath when speaking to the emperor. As for pepper, rents were paid in it in England, and it passed as legal tender, just like money. It was even almost worth its weight in silver, for when Alaric the Goth captured Rome he demanded as his tribute five thousand pounds of gold, two thousand pounds of silver, and two thousands pounds of pepper. No one can say Alaric didn't have "pep," either.

Now what do you know about that?

POEMS THAT LIVE

MY GARDEN

A garden is a lovesome thing, God wot!
Rose plot,
Fringed pool,
Fern'd grot—
The veriest school
Of peace; and yet the fool
Contends that God is not—
Not God! in gardens!! when the eve is cool.
Nay, but I have a sign;
'Tis very sure God walks in mine.

THE KISS IN A TAXI.
By Loring G. Hall.

The married folks kiss with a peck on the cheek,
When they think to do kissing at all;
The soul kiss, I'm told, lasted almost a week!
Well, even the best things will pall.
The movie queens kiss at the end of the reel,
And it brings many sighs in the dark!
I don't know exactly how others may feel,
But I like to kiss in the park!

A lot of the things that I know I've been told,
And some I have learned for myself.
Some girls, when they kiss, are decidedly cold;
No wonder they're left on the shelf!
Some girls will kiss none save the man they will wed,
And some will kiss any old guy!
Well, as for myself, after everything's said,
I don't hate a kiss on the sly!

It costs lots of time to get some girls to kiss,
And then it is apt to be quick!
But one doesn't mind that if she is a Miss
Whose kiss has a wonderful kick.
It takes lots of presents and many a treat
Before some give kissing a trial;
But the kiss in a taxi has got 'em all beat——
It costs only six bits a mile!

Reasonable Doubt.

The night before his wife's burial Sam had tried to drown his grief in forbidden spirits. At the cemetery the next morning he clung to one of his friends for support as the clergyman sobbed dolefully:

"A sweet flower has been plucked from our midst, brethern. In the deceased we have lost a pure and gentle soul of a loving and unselfish disposition——"

Sam had listened with ever-increasing bewilderment. He turned suddenly to his friend.

"Let's go, big boy," he whispered, "we done gone and went to de wrong funeral." —W. Taeges.

3 KILLED IN CHURCH RIOT

Officials Slain As Orders Come to Close Catholic Institution

TEPIC, Nayarit, Mexico, March 12—(AP)—Three representatives of the state of Nayarit are dead, a number of persons injured and one girl near death as a result of riots occasioned when orders for closing a Catholic church were met by armed opposition from church followers.

The immediate cause of the tragedy was in the neighboring town of Jalisquello, where a Catholic priest had failed to comply with the closing law of the government and was standing his ground against presidential orders with the backing of his flock.

Upon the arrival of the representatives of the government consisting of Congressman Porres, and a friend, Senor Ortega, at Tepic they were met by an infuriated mob of men and children who demande dtheir withdrawal.

Undaunted by Mob.

Undaunted by the mob confronting them which was armed with all sorts of weapons, the three men faced the gathering and read the authorization of the government closing the church. Soldiers in sufficient numbers to protect the dignitaries were now available.

In the emergency the mayor of the town was called upon to back up with his authority the representatives from the state capital. At first he sided wtih the demands of the worshippers that they not be molested. Later, being convinced of his obligation to back up the orders of the president and of the state governor, he reversed his decision and also demanded the closing of the offending church.

Many Are Wounded.

When the mayor turned against them, the people fell upon the trio. Before calm was restored, the three dignitaries had been so badly mutilated that they died before medical attention could be rendered.

A girl was wounded and several women and numbers of children received serious injuries. The body of the slain congressman has been removed to this city, where it lies in state.

A petition of the church in this instance sent to Governor Pina asking pardon for the offense, has resulted in the church's being allowed to open its doors again and function.

Soviet Geologist Is Austin Visitor

AUSTIN, March 12.—(AP)—N. L. Lindtrop, geologist for the soviet government of Russia, was here today in conference with H. E. Bell, chief supervisor of the oil and gas division of the railroad commission relative to the Texas laws regulating the production and conservation of crude oil with a view of making recommendations to his government. He paid his respects to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

Lindtrop is making an investigation of oil development in the United States and Mexico, having already been at the latter place. He came here from Houston and left for Tulsa, Okla. Russia is planning to launch an aggressive oil development program, he said.

Crude Output In Texas Increases

AUSTIN, March 12.—(AP)—Crude oil production in Texas for the quarter Dec. 31, 1925, amounted to 32,194,467 barrels, which is a slight increase over the same quarter in 1924, according to figures compiled by the tax division of the comptrollers' department today. Crude oil production for the December period in 1924 was 32,136,591.

Water which bothered the test at first bailing was completely shut off when casing was reseated. The test was drilling at 1,123 feet yesterday and apparently a dry hole.

A BEQUEST OF WORTH

WHAT is described as "the most beautiful will ever written" has just come to light and has been probated in Cook county (Chicago) Illinois.

It was found in the pockets of an old and ragged coat worn by a patient in the Chicago poorhouse. He had once been a successful lawyer and the will was written in a firm, clear hand on a few scraps of paper. It was read before the Chicago Bar association, which immediately ordered that it be made of record in Cook county.

Here it is:

I, CHARLES LOUNSBERRY, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do hereby make and publish this, my last will and testament, in order, as justly may be, to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

That part of my interest which is known in law and recognized in sheep-bound volumes as my property being inconsiderable and non-account, I will make no disposition of in this, my will. My right to live, being but a life estate, is not at my disposal, but these things excepted, all else in the world I now proceed to devise and bequeath.

ITEM. I give to all good fathers and mothers, in trust for their children, all good little words of praise and encouragement, and all quaint pet names and endearments, and I charge said parents to use them justly, but generously, as the needs of their children shall require.

ITEM. I leave to children inclusively, but only for the term of childhood, all and every flower of the fields and blossoms of the woods with the right to play among them freely, according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And, I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof and odors of the willows that dip therein and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees.

And I leave to the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night and the train of the Milky Way to wonder at, but subject nevertheless, to the rights herein after given to lovers.

ITEM. I devise to boys, jointly, all the useful, idle fields and commons where ball may be played, all pleasant waters where one may swim, all snow-clad hills where one may coast, and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where when grim winter comes, one may skate, to hold the same for the period of their boyhood. And all meadows with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereon; the woods with their appurtenances, the squirrels and the birds and the echoes and the strange noises, and all the distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own place at the fireside at night with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood to enjoy without let or hinderance or without any incumbrance of care.

ITEM. To lovers I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need, as the stars in the sky, the red roses by the wall, the bloom of the hawthorn, the sweet strains of music and aught else they may desire to figure to each other the lastingness and beauty of their love.

ITEM. To young men jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous, inspiring sport of rivalry, and I give to them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength. Though they are rude I leave to them the power to make lasting friendship and of possessing companions, and to them exclusively I give all merry songs and grave choruses to sing with lusty voices.

ITEM. And to those who are no longer children or youth or lovers, I leave memory and bequeath to them the columns of the poems of Burns and Shakespeare and of other poets, if there be others, to the end that they may live the old days over again, freely and fully, without tithe or diminution.

ITEM. To our loved ones with snowy crown I bequeath the happiness of old age, the love and gratitude of their children until they fall asleep.

What greater legacy could the world require? What bequest of riches could accomplish more good? What testament of any kind would more redound to the welfare and happiness of humanity?

The pauper-lawyer, friendless, probably and alone in the poorhouse of a great city has left to posterity a document that more men might emulate in spirit for the betterment of their fellows.

And now, if you have read the will . . . .

You will understand us when we say . . . .

Organization Not To Take Part in Any Race, Says Evans

DALLAS, March 12.—(AP)—Reiterating his assertion that the ku klux klan "is out of politics," Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard, prior to his speech here tonight, predicted today that the most surprised persons will be those who disbelieve that statement of klan policy.

"The klan," he declared, "is not going to get in any gubernatorial politics or any other. It is not going to instruct on anything political. It is not going to spring any "surprises."

The imperial wizard, accompanied by Mrs. Evans and his secretary, spent most of today conferring with local klan leaders. He is to speak at Greenville Saturday night.

"HER MAN"

--By Beatrice Burton--

READ THIS FIRST:

SYLVIA STARR, who looks like a flirt but isn't, is engaged to marry RANDALL PHELPS. He asks her to break their engagement, and tells her he's in love with her best friend FAY SHIRLEY.

Sylvia gives him up, greatly to the satisfaction of her maiden aunt, AGONY STARR, with whom she lives. Aunt Agony says that Ranny is a lazy good-for-nothing, and urges Sylvia to marry PETER WILK, a sober bachelor, several years older than herself.

Sylvia discovers that Fay, who expects to marry Ranny in June, is seeing a great deal of her former fiance, EDDIE CARTER. Ranny is extremely jealous of him.

On Sylvia's birthday, on the 10th of May Peter gives her a picnic supper in the woods. At 9 o'clock Fay and Ranny have failed to show up, and the crowd goes ahead with their supper. Sylvia feels sure that the pair have eloped.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER VI.

As she spoke, two yellow headlights gleamed like tigers' eyes through the trees.

"There's an automobile heading in this way from the road, now, Eddie," she cried. "Let's go and see if it is Fay."

Together they left the fire and made their way carefully through the darkness. The headlights suddenly disappeared and another smalled light took their place.

"They must have a flash with them. Let's stand here and wait for them!" Eddie, brilliantly. "Yes-siree! While we've been sitting here, starving while we waited for 'em to come, they've been cozily getting spifflicated—well, what do you know about that!"

"I'll straighten 'em up," Sylvia answered. For some reason, not at all clear to herself she felt like crying.

She went forward and took Fay by the arm. "I think you two are horrid—not to get to my picnic on time," she said to them. "There's a wonderful New Man here tonight, too. Fay—you'll be sorry you were late, when you see him!"

Fay laughed again. "All right, I'll take him under my wing when I get there," she replied, "and you can have Ranny. All he's done is tell me how wonderful you are all evening—I'm sick of the sound of your name, to tell the truth—yes, I'll be glad to give your new man a thrill."

She was as good as her promise.

She took Sally March's New Man away from Sally in five minutes.

"How does she do it?" Sally asked Sylvia as she helped her unpack a box of marshmallows for roasting. "She's panted Eddie. He was very fat and the May night was very warm. Moreover, the ground was uneven and he hated exertion anyhow.

"Let's wait here," he repeated.

In a few minutes they could hear voices—Fay's and Ranny's. The pair was evidently having a heated argument.

"I'll do as I please, anyway!" they heard Fay say. "It's not a bit worse for a girl to drink than it is for a man to do it—and it's none of your business anyway!"

Then a low growl from Ranny—then silence, broken only by the sound of snapping twigs as the pair came nearer.

Sylvia heard Eddie fumbling for something in the pockets of his flannel shirt, and suddenly a match flared up in the inky darkness. "Halloo-oo!" Eddie called as if the other two people had been miles away, "here we are!"

"Hello Eddie," Fay's light voice answered. There was a sharp edge to it—and Sylvia remembered that it was often this way when she had been drinking.

Overhead a bird twittered sleepily in the unseen leaves.

The eye of the flashlight grew larger and brighter.

"I'm sorry we didn't wait for you, now," Sylvia called to the pair behind its glow. "We just finished supper about five minutes ago."

Fay's laughter rippled up and down in bright little waves. "We've had plenty!" she giggled as she came dimly into view, leaning on Ranny's arm, "and it wasn't food—or water, either!"

"They've been drinking!" said Eddie, brilliantly. "Yes-siree! While we've been sitting here, starving while we waited for 'em to come, they've been cozily getting spifflicated—well, what do you know about that!"

"I'll straighten 'em up," Sylvia answered. For some reason, not at all clear to herself she felt like crying.

She went forward and took Fay by the arm. "I think you two are horrid—not to get to my picnic on time," she said to them. "There's a wonderful New Man here tonight, too. Fay—you'll be sorry you were late, when you see him!"

Fay laughed again. "All right, I'll take him under my wing when I get there," she replied, "and you can have Ranny. All he's done is tell me how wonderful you are all evening—I'm sick of the sound of your name, to tell the truth—yes, I'll be glad to give your new man a thrill."

She was as good as her promise.

She took Sally March's New Man away from Sally in five minutes.

"How does she do it?" Sally asked Sylvia as she helped her unpack a box of marshmallows for roasting. "She's not pretty, or particularly smart—"

"She's peppy!" Sylvia answered. That's why she's fascinating. The men never know what she's going to do next. She keeps 'em guessing."

Sally fixed a marshmallow on a stick before she answered.

"Well, I wish you'd get this man of mine away from her," she said, gloomily. "I'm really crazy about him, you see."

In five minutes Sylvia had organized a game of hide-and-seek. "We'll hide in pairs," she told the gay crowd, "a man with a girl—Fay, you start off with Ranny—"

Fay shoook her red head.

"I'll be Eddie's partner," she said, surprisingly.

When everyone was paired off Sylvia stood alone in the dull glow of the fire with—Ranny Phelps.

"I don't know how this happened," she faltered, "I thought Peter and I were partners. I thought—"

Ranny looked at her innocently. Not until weeks afterward did Sylvia know that he had arranged to be left there with her—that he had worked it, shamelessly.

"Well, we may as well start out to hunt the others," he said "that's the game, isn't it?"

They started out.

The night was as dark as the pit, there in the woods.

Every now and then when she looked up through the trees Sylvia could catch a gleam of a tiny star, but there was no other light.

Ranny held tight to her arm—not to protect her, but to support himself. He was, he admitted cheerfully, the least bit "squiffly."

"How did you and Fay happen to have anything to drink?" she asked him as they went along, feeling their way through the underbrush.

"We were—celebrating something," he said, thickly.

There was a long silence.

"Say, what's the big idea of this game anyway?" he asked suddenly. "We never could find any of these couples here in the darkness. Why, its black as Calcutta!"

Sylvia laughed. "We aren't supposed to find them," she answered smoothly. "What they want is to be let alone—for what you so elegantly call 'mugging' parties!"

"Hmm—I see." Ranny answered. "And Fay—she's with Eddie Carter, isn't she?—she picked Eddie for her partner, if I remember—"

He sat down suddenly at the base of an invisible tree and drew Sylvia down on the moss beside him.

"What d'you suppose she pulled on me tonight?" he asked, after Sylvia had spent a moment or two in puzzled silence—"says she's made up her mind not to get married in June, after all! That's what we were celebratin.'

He laughed.

In the darkness Slyvia's eyes searched for the white blur that was his face.

She was too stunned to speak. She sat, holding her breath while Ranny hunted for his eternal cigaret.

"Yeah—the party's off," he went on thickly, when he had puffed it into oblivion. "I should worry—" But his voice had bitterness in it.

Slyvia laid her hand over his. "Ranny—do you mind—terribly?" she asked.

Instead of anwsering, he began to talk about her. "You're the only one of the whole crowd that I'd give you a tinker's dam for!" he said forcibly." The average girl is a regular cheat!—pretends she's crazy about a man just to make some other fellow jealous—takes me away from you, just to show me that she can do it!"

Slyvia drew in her breath sharply. "Oh, no, Ranny, Fay didn't do it for that reason," she said. "I know Fay too well to believe a thing like that of her—"

He interrupted her roughly. "Oh, well, let her ride! Let's not waste any more time talking about her—it's you I want!—you, you, you—"

His face was burried in her neck and he held her tight in his arms as if he never would let her go.

Sylvia felt as if all the stars in the sky had come down and were shining in her heart.

Sylvia, with the weakness of a woman very much in love, forgives and forgets in order to feel Ranny's arms about her once more. But why even before the final step, does she think suddenly of the friendliness and dependability of Peter Wilk?

Does she love Ranny too much? Is it ever good to love a man of his type too intensely? In the next installment Ranny and Slyvia start on a hurried honeymoon, in which Ranny seems as deeply in love as Sylvia. Will she be able to hold her new-found happiness, and will Ranny prove as constant as he seems?

"We Had Plenty and It Wasn't Water, Either," Fay Giggled.

More Truth Than Poetry

A YANKEE CONTRACTOR VISITS EGYPT.

Supposing the Sphinx falls a prey to erosion
In a couple of decades perhaps,
And, after a rumbling and muffled explosion
Is tumbled in utter collapse:
Is that any reason to trouble or worry
Of even for missing a meal?
We will erar a new Sphinx in its place in a hurry,
A good one, of concrete and steel.

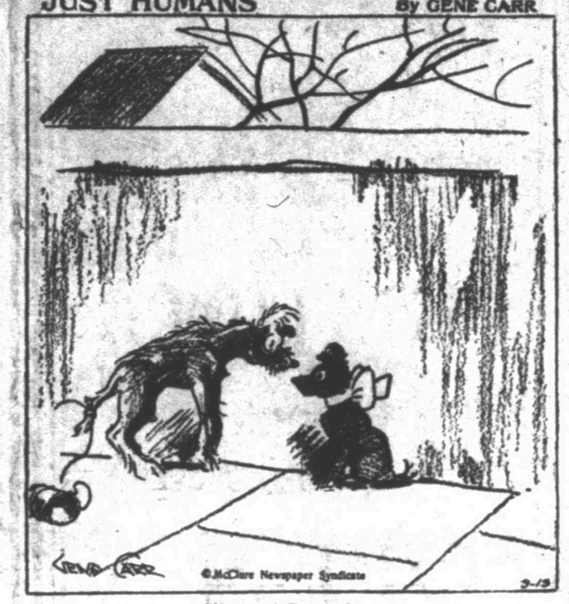

Supposing the pyramids crumble asunder
As the old things eventually must,
Will we stand round the ruins expressing our wonder
That it took them such ages to bust?
Not we; for new stones and supplies we will wire,
And these tottering tombs we'll replace
With beautiful new ones, three hundred feet higher
And taking up ten times the space.

Old Cheops no doubt drew the foolish deduction
(His faith in himself was sublime)
That he was a whizz at the art of construction,
And his fame would endure for all time.
But most of the stuff that he built is now rotten,
And soon it will totter and fall—
For the ruler who soon will be wholly forgotten
Was not such a bear-cat at all.

But when we show up with our engines and winches,
Folks will see what we think of the past,
We will figure in feet where he figured in inches—
And the work that we put in will last.
The sands of Sahara will blossom with wonders
Stretching over it mile after mile—
All put up to stay, and without any blunders,
In the good old American style.

Fort Worth Wins First Game 29 to 27 In Two Overtime Periods

LANDON-HILL BATTLES HARD IN FIRST TILT

Second Of Series To Be Played Tonight On College Court

By MACK TURNER

Two overtime periods were required Friday night before the Fort Worth Power and Light team, city basketball champions of Fort Worth, emerged victorious over the Landon-Hill five, local net champions, in the first of their inter-city title fights. The score finally ended 29 to 27 after standing 24 to 24 at the close of the regular game. Each side scored one point in the first of the 5-minute overtime period, and in the second the visitors looped in two counters from the field while the best Landon and Hill could do was one.

As an example of the evenness of the play throughout, the first quarter ended eight to seven in favor of Fort Worth. They also led at half time, 14 to 12, while the third quarter wound up with the count knotted at 16 all. It climbed to 24-24 by the close of the final quarter.

Fight Uphill Battle

Landon-Hill fought a more or less uphill fight all the way. They ran into the most speedy and smooth working offense they have encountered this year; while at the same time they were offered a sterling defense by the visitors.

Riley Rawls was the outstanding offensive man of the game with six field goals and one free pitch for 13 total points. Beck, a teammate, ran him a close second with five field goals and a free pitch. Kennedy and Carter tied for the honors of the Fort Worth team with eight points each, while Hargrove accounted for seven points.

Rice, Clary and Beck were playing great floor games and their defense cut down many Fort Worth field goals. Johnson and Hague were also doing excellent work on defense, and a large per cent of Landon-Hill baskets were from the center of the court.

Preston Beck was shooting the ball from center and passed with a deadly eye for the hoop. All of Rawls' shots were of the shorter kind.

Fast Passing

The Fort Worth visitors displayed a fast passing and great defense team throughout and the sending in of substitutes made little or no difference in their playing.

The whole team worked smoothly, and in the closing periods Hargrove, Kennedy and Ayres had the ball coming down the floor with apparent ease.

These same two teams will battle tonight on the Junior college court at eight o'clock. In case the Landon-Hill club wins, a third game will be played directly after the first to determine the champion. If Fort Worth wins the first game of the evening the series will be over.

Spudder Notes

The Spudder powers weilded the axe again Friday and Pitcher Jim Gray was released. Gray was a right hander who hailed in from Eliaville, Texas.

Word was received in Spudder headquarters Friday that Floyd Trexler, drafted outfielder, would not report here this year. Trexler will remain with his job with a railroad company.

The loss of Trexler will be a great loss in the way of outfield men for the club for he was counted on to make a great fight for a berth.

Batting and bunting practice was the order of the morning with batting, game, and infield workout in the afternoon. The only new men on the field for their first workout were Suds Sutherland and Mel Kerr.

The club is beginning to bear down and the practice is getting steadily harder. Curves will soon begin to break at the park and then a real line on the recruit material can be obtained.

Distel and Lamb are both expected in camp at any time now.

Tony De Fate at last has found a bat he likes in the stock of those used by Skipper Fred Brainard. Tony has been using a bat of Pete Lapan's model, but after busting a few with a Brainard model he took a liking to it.

Another case of quitting an old brand for one that feels better to his hands has appeared in Pete Lapan. The peppery little maskman has taken a liking to the Ping Bodie models and has been pasting the pill hard of late.

DUTCH HOFFMAN HAS BIG TIME FIRST DAY IN CAMP

SHREVEPORT, March 12.—Ed "Dutch" Hoffman, celebrated his arrival into the Shreveport camp this afternoon by driving three balls out of the park in batting practice. Dutch hit two over the fence from the left side of the platter and one from the righthand side of the plate. The Sports will play their first exhibition game of the season Saturday, meeting the Chicago White Sox, but Hoffman will not get into the game. Chick Benton reported to Manager Tarlton Friday but was not in uniform. He will not get into the game tomorrow. Tarleton has only two outfielders in camp and two youngsters of the Texarkana Twins in training here will help him out.

FIGHT IS APPROVED.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—The welterweoight championship fight at Scranton, Pa., May 17, between Mickey Walker and Pete Latzo received the approval of the state athletic commission today and will not conflict with steps taken here to force Walker to defend his title.

BEARS LOSE TO CARDS AFTER A STIFF CONTEST.

SAN ANTONIO, March 12.—(AP)—The San Antonio Bears nearly won an exhibition game from the St. Louis Cardinals today, but lost their one-run lead in the eighth inning and the contest went to the Cards, 6 to 5.

Taking a three run advantage in the first frame on four hits, the Bears showed much improvement over their work of yesterday. Center fielder Pipps made the longest drive since the league park was enlarged last year, the ball going to within ten feet of the right field fence before it was caught by Douthit.

The Cardinals did not present their regular lineup, as all the former Houston players went to that city for a game. Manager Hornsby stayed here, however, but did not get a hit in five trips to the plate. He walked twice.

HOMER PEEL RETURNED TO BUFFS BY CARDINALS.

HOUSTON, March 12.—(AP)—Homer Peel, the slugging outfielder, who was a Buff in 1925, has been returned to the Houston club by the St. Louis Cardinals and will be in uniform in the game with the Cards here Saturday. At the conclusion of the last playing season Peel was sold to St. Louis. An initial payment of $2,500 was made, it being stipulated that the rest of the un-named purchase price would be paid if Peel was retained by Manager Rogers Hornsby.

This initial payment has been forfeited by the Cardinals and Peel returns to the Buffaloes without strings.

In his first season as a class A player Peel batted .360.

STEERS WIN EASILY FROM MINERAL WELLS K. P. TEAM.

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, March 12.—(AP)—The Dallas Steers cavorted over the Mineral Wells K. P. team here today, 27 to 7 in celebration of their final day of spring training at this place. Tonight the vanquished team entertained the Steers with a banquet.

Snipe Conley said tonight he wished the season play were scheduled to start tomorrow, so fit are his men for action. He said he would use the same lineup Saturday as that employed last Sunday against the Victory-Wilson team in Dallas. Tom Estill will be the first mound artist and Bud Hungling will start behind the bat. The infield and outfield will start as they did in the first home game.

Joe Victor, the first casualty of the year, seems entirely recovered from his injured back and pitched 20 times in the strenuous batting practice today.

The Steers will break camp here early tomorrow and start at once for Dallas, where they will engage the Oklahoma City Indians Saturday afternoon.

EXPORTER REGULARS TRIM YANNIGAN TEAM.

BEAUMONT, March 12.—The Exporter regulars took the Yannigans to a real trimming this afternoon, piling up almost a dozen runs while blanking the understudies. Home runs by Galloway and Handley contributed considerably to the scoring. But as was the case yesterday, the clouting of McClannahan, the young Conroe outfielder, was the bright spot. They had three for three again today and two of them were double. His hitting is the talk of the camp and he bids fair to be retained for a while yet. Doc Brudr, Houston lad who gained much football fame at West Virginia last year, socked a couple too, but even those two youngsters could not get a run across.

Skipper Galloway picked his squad today for the practice game in Lake Charles tomorrow against Kansas City. Galloway will play first. Connelly second, Handley and Woehr third, De Viveros, short, Ormand, Davis, Robinson and Bruder in the outfield, Robertson and Lotspech will divide the catching. Pitching will fall to Drake, Hansen, Riggs, Nance and Rickets.

BUFFS BOW TO FORMER MATES

Old Houstonians, Now With Cards, Win Over Texas Leaguers 6 to 1

HOUSTON, March 12.—(AP)—Surprisingly good pitching featured the first blood-battle of the season here today in a game which the Buffalo alumni on the St. Louis Cardinals won 6 to 1 from the Houston Buffs. Eddie Dyer, former Rice Institute star, hurled the first five innings and permitted two scratch hits and one solid hit. Sy Johnson pitched the last four innings and would have blanked the Buffs but for a walk to Goff and a triple by Nick Demaggio.

Chick Hafey, star of the 1924 Buffs, was a stellar performer today. In his first trip to the plate Hafey got a home run over the left field wall, while in the ninth inning he caved Johnson trouble by throwing out two runners who took liberties with his strong arm.

Aubrey Speer and Felix Vigare, third base candidates, made a favorable impression, while both Lefty Steily and Ray Pipkin pitched what was considered great baseball. Pipkin showed the curve and fast ball he had last season, and in addition has mastered a slow curve which he used discretely and effectively.

ROOKIES TO PITCH

FORT WORTH, March 12.—(AP) Two rookies and one veteran will pitch ofr the Panthers tomorrow afternoon in their first exhibition game of the season against the Minneapolis Millers.

Hogsett, left hander, probably will start, Chick Howard, right hander from Paris, Texas and Jimmy Walkup, whose left arm has earned him a living with the Cats for several seasons, will finish.

Line of the Cats is expected to be: Windle or Foss, ss; Ezzell or Mullen, 3b; Sears, lf; Konetchy, 1b; Vache, cf; Edington, rf; Palmer, 2b; Smith, Moore and Brandon, c; Hogsett, p.

WANT MATCH ON COAST.

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—(AP)—Joe Levy, matchmaker for the Olympic auditorium here, today sent telegrams to the managers of Gene Tunney and Young Stribling at Miami, Fla., offering to stage the fight between the two which has been postponed.

The seating capacity of the Olympic auditorium is 12,000.

RICHARDS WINS TITLE.

PALM BEACH, Fla., March 12.—(AP)—Vinvent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., won the tennis championship of Florida in singles here today when he defeated Takeichi Harada of Japan, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Byers Park Sold

BYERS, March 12.—Hub Carpenter has bought from the Lone Star Gas company their ball park at Petrolia and has leased five acres of land adjoining the townsite from J. B. Dunn and will erect a modern park here.

TWO EXTREMES

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—Two extremes of baseball were furnished by the New York major league teams in Florida yesterday. The Giants played excellently, although they lost to the Phillies, 2 to 1. The Phillies won at Bradentown on three hits off Greenfield and Barnes.

The Braves made 18 runs and 21 hits against the offerings of Chesterfield, Johnson and McQuaid of the Yankees at St. Petersburg. The Yanks made two runs.

At Clearwater, Brooklyn shifted its infield, sending Standaert to second base and Marriott to third.

BOSS MISSES TRAIN

PHILADELPHIA, March 12.—(AP)—So interested was Commissioner Landis in watching the senior Athletic team defeat the junior nine, 13 to 8, at Fort Myers yesterday that he forgot to leave in time to catch his train for the Phillies' camp at Bradentown. "Quite a game, quite a game," he said.

Cy Williams, hard hitting outfielder, has joined the Phillies at Bradentown, Fla.

SYRACUSE HURLER STRONG

ST. LOUIS, March 12.—(AP)—Bill Hallahan, pitcher recalled from Syracuse, has been the big show in exhibition games played thus far by the Cardinals. In parts of two exhibition tilts in which he has participated at the San Antonio training camp Hallahan has allowed only one hit and has struck out 13 batters.

The Cards beat the San Antonio Bears, 12 to 3, yesterday and Hallahan, pitching three innings, allowed one hit.

The Browns at Tarpon Springs worked hard yesterday to round out for their long series of exhibition games. They wen through drills in batting and fielding. They meet the Brooklyn Dodgers, who defeated them 5 to 4 Wednesday, in another exhibition game Saturday.

Bank Team Wins Houston Tourney

HOUSTON, March 12.—(AP)—The Channel State Bank basket ball team won the championship of the Houston basketball federation last night by defeating the fast passing C. L. Bering team at the municipal gym, 21 to 17.

The bank boys staged a rally in the last few minutes of play to nose out their opponents.

The winner here was to meet the winner of the San Antonio Federation's title, but according to J. D. Farrington, secretary of the local federation, the Alamo City boys have called off the contest. The game was scheduled to be played either in Houston or the Alamo City on Saturday night.

The Houston champions will meet either Wichita Falls or Fort Worth in an elimination game in the near future, Secretary Farrington said.

Strangler's Headlock Too Much for Munn

KANSAS CITY, March 12.—(AP)—Before a crowd that jammed convention hall to the doors Ed "Strangler" Lewis last night defeated Wayne "Big" Munn in two straight falls, both by means of the "Strangler's" famed headlocks. The men wrestled one hour and fourteen minutes before the first fall came, Lewis applying 20 consecutive headlocks ere the big Nebraskan finally succumbed.

Weakened by the gruelling struggle preceding the first fall, Munn returned to the ring and was subdued in the comparatively short time of 27 1-2 minutes.

TIGERS ALL SHOW UP

DETROIT, March 12.—(AP)—Despite a muddy field the Detroit American squad held a curtailed workout yesterday at their Augusta training camp. All of the players ordered to Augusta for training have now arrived with the exception of Lou Blue, first baseman, and Emory Rigney, shortstop. Their absence will not interfere with regular infield and outfield practice being started next Monday, when Manager Ty Cobb is scheduled to take charge of the training.

MATTY TO TAKE ON DUTCHMAN FOR TITLE HERE

Promises To Administer Punishment For Waters' Offense

Well, Matty Matsuda, welterweight champion of the wrestling world, will arrive in Wichita this coming week and on Thursday night he promises to avenge the beating and abuse hurled against Teddy Waters by Dutch Mantell. This no doubt will be music to the ears of Wichita Falls fandom which gritted teeth during the Thursday night melee and prayer for an avenger. Teddy was too clean for the work Mantell pulled and although Matty is a gentleman wrestler, it is rumored nevertheless that he has a trick or too up his sleeve.

Belt at Stake.

Matty's three thousand dollar championship belt will be at stake during this match because Mantell weighed in at 145 and three-quarter pounds for the Waters scrap. That extra three-quarters was sweated out while he was running away from the angry fans who pursued him when he stepped from the ring.

Matty Ready.

"If the Wichita fans want me, I come, Matty wired yesterday, along with a little comment about what he thinks he can do to Mantell.

Promoter Alex Ross has promised Matty a big guarantee for the match. And to top it off with a rich cream he has arranged for Teddy Waters to meet Jack Gorman as a preliminary on the same card. The Waters-Gorman go would draw as a final bout in any city of the country, but to give the fans the worth of their money and a little more, the double card will be made a humdinger.

Owing to the fact that the card is so pretentious, the free list will be suspended this time and by doing so it will not be necessary to raise the price of the match. The same prices will prevail as have in the past.

Yankee Girls Win In Nice Tourney

NICE, France, Farch 12.—(AP)—An all-American final in the women's singles of the Nice lawn tennis tournament was assured today when Helen Wills the champion, and Isabella Lee Mumford of Boston, emerged victorious from the semi-finals.

Miss Wills disposed of Mme. Peterie of Hungary at 6-2, 6-2, while Miss Mumford won over Eileen Bennett, a comparatively strong English player in an extra set match at 4-6, 6-3, 6-0.

SPUDS BATTLE 8 FRAMES TO A 6 TO 6 TIE

Teams of Spudders led by Wray Query and Patrick Martin battled to a 6 to 6 deadlock Friday afternoon at Spudder Park in an eight inning affair. The clubs were playing under the impression that they were tied and in the last half of the eighth with the score 6 to 5 in favor of the Martinites Suds Sutherland scored when Turner spilled Schroyer's pop fly.

The pitching of John Roberts and Lefty Caraway, both of whom hurled five innings with only a single run being scored, was the outstanding feature.

Kerns and Sutherland tied for hitting honors with the Martin club. Both poled out three hits in four trips to the plate. With the Query team Metzler was the leading batsman with a triple, single, walk and sacrifice. Turner collected a single and two walks in four times at bat and Bob Wiley got two singles and a walk in four times up.

Berger Has Fast Team This Year

TYLER, March 12.—(AP)—After two days of training, Manager Joe Berger of the Denver Bears announces that he will have a strong lineup ready for the initial games of the exhibition seasons, which will be played here Saturday and Sunday with the Waco cubs of the Texas league. Among these recently arriving are: Horan, the veteran outfielder, with the New York Yankee prior to joining Denver last year; Greer, a right hander from California; Atchley, a southpaw from Oklahoma; Mitteltead a second baseman from Seattle; Hodges, veteran right hander, who has been punching cattle this winter on his Arizona ranch; Smith, a rookie catcher; Hall, veteran right hander, who has been buying cotton in Phoenix, Ariz.; Ray Falk, utility and well known to Texas league fans.

Berger hustled is squad through through a brisk workout Thursday despite a sudden Texas norther which drove the temperatures down several degrees.

BAMBINO NOT GOING SO GOOD

Ruth's Failure to Show Old Clouting Ability Worries Yank Fans

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—The failure of Babe Ruth so far to show anything approaching his old time clouting consistency in the training camp battles is beginning to worry the Yankees' followers.

The big fellow's more ardent supporters feel that it is too early to become alarmed; that it is only a question of time before the Yankee star strikes his real stride. These boosters point out that Ruth was never in better playing trim than now and that his determination will make his comeback efforts a success.

Other critics incline to the belief that the babe faces a harder struggle than many contemplate despite his good general condition. Over anxiousness to make good, they point out, may be a handicap. In addition, pitchers who gained confidence by subdueing Ruth last season are expected to be less shy of his hitting powers during the coming campaign.

The entire and highly-touted slugging cast of the Yankees thus far has not distinguished itself, judging from reports. Tony Lazerri, the coast league cannonader and infield candidate is playing second fiddle for the present white mark Koenig occupies the shortstop post and Spencer Adams plays the keystone bag. Tony, the critics aver is finding the Florida climate less conducive to home run hitting than the rarified air of Salt Lake City.

While these mournful notes are beents, reports from the camps of other clubs which occupied second division depths in 1925 are more encouraging. This is especially true of two additional league trailers of last season, the Boston Braves and Phillies.

Under the hustling leadership of Dave Bancroft and Art Fletcher, two former lieutenants of John McGraw, these clubs are convincing observers they will be stronger pennant factors than was anticipated.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—(AP)—The cotton market was more active today and prices easing off at the start rallied sharply. It was largely a weather market and although at first the prospect for a return of fair weather had a tendency to depress values, the prediction of freezing weather in the belt aroused fears that crop preparation would be further delayed and that the crop in extreme South Texas already above ground would be damaged. From an early decline of five to nine points from the close of yesterday the market advanced, reaching the highs in the late trading at levels 26 to 31 points above the lows. Prices lost a few points on old crop months in the last few minutes of trading and the close showed net gains for the day of 18 to 26 points.

A private authority estimated the domestic mill consumption during February at 543,000 bales against 583,192 during January and 550,775 for February last year. The British board of trade made exports of yarns in February sixteen million pounds against the same total last year and exports of cloth 366,000,000 square yards against 442,000,000 last year.

First trades showed net gains of two points to net losses of two points. Prices eased off in the early trading until May traded down to 17.84, July at 17.41, and October at 16.70, or three to nine points under January's close.

The subsequent rally which started before noon and extended throughout the afternoon carried May up to 18.15, July to 17.71 and October to 16.96 or 26 to 31 points above the lows. The close was a shade off from the best on old crop months but at the highest for new crop positions.

Exports for the day totaled 9,071 bales and for the week 70,065 bales. Heater made the week's mill takings 265,000 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—An early decline was followed by rather sharp rallies in the cotton market today, July contracts selling up from 18.05 to 18.40 and closing at 18.37, compared with 18.10 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed firm at net advances of 24 to 32 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of four points to an advance of five points. New crops were relatively firm on covering or trade buying, but old crops felt the influence of continued unfavorable reports from the spot and goods markets combined with relatively easy Liverpool cables.

A feature of the morning was heavy selling of May against purchases of July and October which was supposed to reflect the transfer of a long interest in the trade to the later months. The easier rulings in May selling down to 18.52 or 11 points net lower, while October declined to 17.31, or 8 points net lower.

The May-July difference narrowed from 42 points at the close of the previous day to about four points but at this figure the decline was checked by covering. Wall street interests were credited with buying May freely on the rally which followed. May sold up to 18.50, or 27 points net higher and 50 points over July, while October advanced to 17.70 or 36 points net higher. Closing prices were within two or three points of the best.

There was no particular change in the general character of the news and the late rally was generally attributed to the technical position and the covering of May shorts.

The week-end figures apparently were without much effect, and a report that a private bureau estimated domestic consumption for February at 453,000 bales against 550,000 last year, attracted only a little comment during the early trading.

Exports today 16,671, making 6,179,617 so far this season. Port receipts 664; U. S. port stocks 1,284,556 bales.

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—The upward movement of prices was resumed in today's stock market with the rails and oils again in the forefront of the advance. Scattered profit taking and bear selling took place, however, in the main body of industrial stocks. Trading showed a substantial falling off in volume, the day's sales totalling 1,537,000 shares, or about 300,000 below those of yesterday.

Bullish sentiment was created by the improvement in the credit position as indicated by the substantial decrease in broker's loans in the week ended March 3 the decrease in rediscounts last week and the continuance of relatively easy money rates.

Delaware and Hudson led the advance in the railroad group by soaring nearly eight points to 174½, the highest price since 1912, on rumors of an early distribution of its coal company assets. It yielded three points of its gain on realizing.

"Nickel Plate" common closed nearly six points higher at 163¾, after having sold 8 points above that figure and Chesapeake and Ohio common and preferred advanced to record high levels at 136¼ and 130, respectively.

Other rails for which there was a sustained investment demand were Lackawana, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio. Norfolk and Western was heavy.

Persistent rumors that General Petroleum was to be absorbed by the Standard Oil company of New York, or merged with some California company, sent that stock up 3¾ points at 62⅝ on total transactions of over 110,000 shares. Marked strength also was shown by General Asphalt and Maracaibo. Texas company was heavy on selling inspired by the government's suit against that company for cancellation of patents on the so-called "cracking process" for refining gasoline.

Buying of the steel shares was stimulated by reports of a substantial increase in inquiries in the first ten days of March and by rumors of an early resumption of dividends on Republic Steel. U. S. Steel common closed ⅝ higher at 127⅛ after having sold slightly above that figure. An extreme break of over five points in American Agricultural Chemical preferred was accompanied by reports that the federal trade commission was bringing suit against that company. General Motors was run up two points to 127⅛ on predictions of record breaking first quarter sales.

Call money held steady at 4¼ per cent all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Deman sterling and French francs held relatively steady at $4.85⅝ and 3.64 certs respectively. Scandinavian rates rallied briskly. Danish kroner soaring 18 points to 26.39 and Norwegian kroner 24 points to 21.89 cents.

Bradstreet's Review

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP)—bradstreet's temorrow will say:

The stock market has quieted down after last week's feverish activity and sales are running about 2,000,000 shares a day, with price tending upward. The average price of railroad shares is up about 3½ points from the lows of last week, while industrials have made a gain of about 8¼ points. The treasury department's $5,000,000 bond issue was over-subscribed. Steel production is at the highest rate since March a year ago, with the principal producer operating at about 95 per cent of capacity in spite of a decrease in unfilled orders.

Prices of finished steel are firm, while scrap prices tend higher. Pig iron prices are lower, but coke up slightly. Building expenditures for February as reported to Brandstreet's show a decrease of 8.5 per cent from a year ago with gains made by New York counterbalanced by losses for the rest of the country.

Weekly bank clearings $9,943,618,000.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, March 12.—(AP)—Wheat prices went sharply upward today, accelerated by exporot purchasing on a broad scale. It was estimated that in the last 24 hours 2,000,000 bushels of North American wheat had been taken for prompt shipment in Europe. Foreign buying of future deliveries here was also in evidence. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1⅝@2⅜c net higher, May (new) $1.85¾ to $1.85½ and July $1.40⅝ to $1.49 with corn ⅜ to ⅝c up, oats at ¼@¾ to ⅝c gain and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a rise of 7c.

Corn and oats drew their firmness chiefly from wheat strength. Rough weather and bad roads were also a bullish factor.

Provisions averaged a little higher, influenced by grain.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, March 12.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow: Trading in wool has been of a most desultory nature and only at the expense of prices in the domestic markets during the past week. The foreign markets, however, have again afforded a sharp contrast, prices prevailing abroad both in the primary and secondary markets being against the buyer, for the most part, and especially so on merino wools. London opened fully as strong as expected, even low and medium crosss breds being against the buyer.

In the west little in the way of new business has been done, a little early sale of idaho mixed wool having been sold at 34 cents. Arizona sales were mostly at 38 to 40 cents for the best wools.

Mohair quiet but steady. Quotations: Scoured basis, Texas fine 12 months (selected) $1.18@1.20; fine 8 months $1.05@1.08.

ALASKA HAS A NEW GOLD RUSH

Strike Is Similar to Beach Streak Found Near Nome

NOME, Alaska, March 12.—(AP)—Reports of a gold strike near Vluff, about 60 miles east of here, caused many persons to stampede from here yesterday. Dog teams were in great demand.

Old prospectors believe that the strike is the same kind of beach digging as found in the vinicity of Nome and that it continues up and down the Bering sea coast for many miles.

An 18-inch streak averaging $3 a pan was said to have been found. Merritt and Chidie, owners of placier property in the district, drove a 150-foot tunnel in from the beach. They first obtained "dirt" paying 15 cents a pan, finally ranging to $8.

STOCK-A-DAY

The Liggett and Myers company organized in furtherance of its separation from the American Tobacco company in 1912, is one of the largest units in the tobacco industry. It manufactures cigarettes, smoking and chewing tobacco and other tobacco products. The company owns 77 1-2 per cent of the Pinkerton Tobacco company of Toledo, manufacturing scrap tobaccos. The company has factories at St. Louis, Chicago, Richmond, Durham, San Francisco and Philadelphia as well as storage warehouses at strategic points.

The brands of the company have been extensively advertised. Capitalization consists of $22,514,100 outstanding in 7 per cent cumulative preferred shares of $100 par, $21,496,400 in common shares of $25 par and $32,492,150 in Class B common at $25 par value. Funded debt consists of two bond issues totaling $28,896,250.

Net income in 1925 was $15,289,652 and profit and loss surplus Dec. 31, 1925, was $46,286,814. Current assets totaled $105,690,918 and current liabilities $7,154,771 with net working capital of $98,545,147. Dividends on the preferred and common have been paid since 1912, and on the Class B common since 1920. The present rate on the common is 12 per cent annually and on the Class B, common $3 annually. On Jan. 20, 1926, the directors voted an extra cash dividend of $1 a share and a stock dividend of 10 per cent on the common and Class B common in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement on those issues.

The par value of common and Class B common was changed from $100 to $25 early in 1924. Before the old stock was removed from the list it sold as high as 240 and as low as 206 1-2 in that year. Early this year the company bought 40,000,000 pounds of tobacco from the Burley Tobacco Growers Co-operative association.

CONVICT KILLS GUARD IN JAIL

Slays One, Shoots Another In Vain Effort To Gain His Liberty

BARBOURSVILLE, Ky., March 12.—(AP)—Members of the local national guard company and six deputy sheriffs were patrolling the vicinity of the Knox county jail here today to prevent possible mob violence to Morgan Payne, who last night shot and killed Assistant Jailer Joe West and seriously wounded his brother, Bond West.

Payne, an inmate of the jail, shot West as he was locking the prisoners in their cells for the night. When Bond came to his brother's assistance he was shot twice by Payne, who then fled, firing as he went.

He was recaptured in a running battle with twelve deputies and returned to the jail.

Sheriff Sam Lewis, fearing mob violence, then stationed the guardsmen and deputies about the jail. No disturbances were reported this morning.

POTATO KING PRAISES VALLEY

Lon Sweet Of Colorado Speaks Friday On Possibilities Here

Possibilities of developing the Wichita irrigated valley into a potato raising district as well as cotton were taken up Friday in a lecture to the business council of the chamber of commerce by the "potato king" of America, Lou D. Sweet of Denver, Colo., who came to this city at the request of the chamber of commerce.

Other speakers at Friday's luncheon held at the Kemp hotel included Fred Weks, local attorney, who talked in interest of the $100,000 drive for the financing of the Texas-Oklahoma fair association which begins in this city Monday. J. H. Allison, president of the University club announced the speaking dates of Gutzon Borglum, who will be in this city next week, Wednesday and Thursday, and will lecture at the Junior college auditorium at 8 o'clock each evening.

Bradley Presides

J. W. Bradley presided at the council meeting.

J. A. Kemp endorsed Mr. Weeks' statements concerning the fair association which he said would be one of the greatest factors of the valley in letting the territory know the value of irrigation to this section. He introduced Mr. Sweet as the best known potato grower of the country and why he had come to Wichita Falls for a few days.

"You have a wonderful project here," Mr. Sweet said, and he told how he had looked over the valley going out to the reservoir with County Agent Guy H. Jones. "The project is as yet little known up in our country, but you deserve credit for getting it into the shape you have in the time you have been working on it.

"Agriculture is the foundation of civilization and will continue until changes come that we cannot see. Irrigation is old and what you have to do is to follow fasts and rotate crops without rotation there will be failures," Mr. Sweet said.

In speaking of the plant elements, the soil here is lacking in humous and nitrogen, and he told how planting of legumes, nitrogenous plants and others build up the ground.

Divorce, Marriage On a Par Again

Matrimonial ventures, pro and con, negative and positive, so to speak, stood at a par with one another Friday for the first time since the beginning of March. With twelve days of the month past the books of the district clerks ofice showed a total of 27 divorce petitions filed, while the county clerk reported that 27 marriage licenses had been issued. Up until Friday, however, the divorce petitions have led by anywhere from ten to one or two to marriage licenses, the number of marriage licenses issued equalling that of the divorce petitions filed Friday when only two divorces were filed and four licenses issued.

The four licenses Friday went to Lloyd Southen, Frederick, Okla., and Lenna Spriggins, Hollister, Okla.; W. L. Crowder and Mrs. Ella Brown, Grandfield, Okla.; C. S. Quinn, and Mrs. Lora Mae Willis; Ross Landers and Etta Ash.

Welfare Workers Here, Fighting To Eradicate Flu, Find 17 Out Of 36 Negroes Suffering Here

Extra Help Added By Social Service Bureaus To Give Care and Instruction Needed; New City Physician Begins Work.

Carrying out plans made by the Municipal Welfare board for emergency relief work in checking the influenza epidemic here welfare workers including Red Cross nurses, special helpers and the city physician were busily engaged Friday in investigating cases and administering to their needs.

Because of the epidemic which had grown to such a point that immediate action had to be taken for relief work, a special meeting of the Municipal Welfare board was called Thursday and a special relief fund set aside to carry on work made necessary at this time. Mrs. Kathleen Gorsline, secretary, was instructed to make personal investigation of the cases, while work in the main office would be handled by a helper, Miss Ivo Wilson, girl's work secretary of the Y. W. C. A. who volunteered her services during the epidemic.

Mrs. Gorsline reported last night that of ten members in one negro family four adults are ill with influenza and the others of the family are small and unable to work.

In the families investigated, involving 30 persons, 17 were suffering from flu and the 19 remaining well persons were too young to work or to take care of the sick ones properly.

Dr. H. D. Filmore who practiced Friday for the first time as city physician of Wichita Falls was busy throughout the day.

If fair weather continues for several days and the measures advised by physicians, it is believed, the epidemic will be checked and in hand.

March Community Builder Is Issued

The March number of the "Community Builder," official publication of the Wichita Falls chamber of commerce, was distributed Friday noon at the business council luncheon at the Kemp hotel.

An editorial, a story telling of the West Texas chamber of commerce meeting to be held in June in Amarillo of the Dental convention in this city in April; committees of the chamber of commerce; information concerning the additions to the residential districts of the city, new schools and hospitals, are also given space in the community builder

Phillips Speaks On Attitude Of Jew and Non-Jew

"Be rather one of those who is put to shame than one who puts other to shame; belong rather to those who are oppressed than to those who oppress others," Rabbi Samuel Phillips said in an address to Temple Israel Friday night when he spoke on the subject, "The Attitude of the Jew to the Non-Jew."

"The subject is so vast and the references so many than several sermons might be preached to show how exalted are the lessons taught to the Jewish people with regard to the consideration and love of their non-Jewish neighbors, and how even when the latter, in their turn, willfully forgot to acknowledge their debt to the Jewish people, the children of Israel still followed the high spiritual conception inscribed upon the pages of their sacred literature," he told the congregation.

All Have One Father.

Expressing the idea he brought in his sermon, he quoted from Malachi, "Have we not not all one father? Hath not one God created us all?" Quoting from Gittin, 61:1, he said, "Hence let us learn that it is our duty as Jews to help the poor of the non-Jews, to visit their sick and to bury their dead."

He concluded his sermon with a verse from the prophet Isaiah, "It shall come that I will gather all nations and all tongues, and they shall declare my glory among the Gentiles, and I will also take of them for priests and Levites and it shall come to pass that, from one new moon to another and from one Sabbath to another, shall all flesh come to worship before me, saith the Lord.'

Jenks Players In New Bill Saturday

It has been pronounced in cities all over the United States as one of the most absorbing and true to nature stories ever seen on the stage; the characters are well drawn and very interesting and the comedy is the kind that sinks deep into your system and bubbles up every now and then in remembrance. The whole thing is refreshing and wholesome.

REVIVAL INTEREST GROWS

Increasing interest is being shown in the revival service now being conducted at the First Church of the Nazarene at Fifth and Burnett street by Evangelist W. E. Ellis of Dodsonville, according to the pastor, Rev. J. P. Ingle. Song evangelists, Johnnie and Jackie Douglas are assisting greatly in the services, it was said.

RHEUMATISM!

What Is It—anyway?

THAT awful agony of swollen joints and inflamed muscles—that miserable pain and torturous suffering, we call rheumatism—what is it?

Here's what it is: It is the result of waste products and impurities in the blood! Impurities that get the upper hand because the system is starving for want of healthy, rich, red blood!

But you just cleanse your blood and build up the red-blood-cells and watch the rheumatism vanish! Why, S. S. S. will aid Nature put so many millions of red-blood-cells in your system that the impurities that cause your rheumatism are driven out—they can't stand pure, healthy blood.

S.S.S. conquers rheumatism! The rich, red, fighting blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build brings ease and comfort to every sore, swollen tissue in your body.

And this great S. S. S. goes right on helping Nature build more and more red cells until your whole body is tingling with life and vibrating with vim, vigor and vitality. You feel like yourself again.

Get S. S. S. right now—build up your blood to where it is pure, red and healthy. S. S. S. is the sure way.

Helping Those Who Know How to Help Themselves

This bank has helped, and is helping, in the agricultural development of this region.

We're especially glad to help the man whose farm program is carefully made and who includes feedstuffs, livestock and poultry in his planning.

We know that such farmers have a big advantage over those who stick to staple crops alone.
