More Than 100 Officials Here For Hearing; Potential Oil Field Sought Into Testimony

RECESSING at 5 o'clock yesterday day until 9 this morning 10 witnesses had testified in the hearing before Examiner H. C. Dee of the Interstate Commerce Commission on applications of the T. & P. and New Mexico railway and the South Plains and Santa Fe railway, for the construction of extensions of those railroads into Lea County, N. M.

Extension of the Texas and New Mexico line is proposed in Monahans, Texas where it connects with the main line of the Texas and Pacific railway, of which the T. and N. M. is a subsidiary, to the Texas-New Mexico state lines, 70 miles to the north of Monahans, and up through the oil field area of southeastern Lea county to Lovington, county seat, another 70 miles. Total length of the extension proposed would be approximately 5 miles. Of this the railway has already secured a permit from the Interstate Commerce Commission to extend to the state line, and has constructed and is now operating in Monahans through Wink and Permit, to Cheyenne, Texas, a distance of about 33 miles, being some 15 or more miles remaining to be built to the state line.

Santa Fe Totals 80 Miles.

The South Plains and Santa Fe extension is to run from Seagraves, Texas to Lovington, onward for 46 miles with trackage rights from this straight line, at a point of some 12 miles west of the Texas-New Mexico boundary southward

Murder Trials Brawl Aftermath

Houston Courts To Seaman For Killing With Ended Drinking Bouts Vessel Lay In French Port

(By Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Apr. 1.—Details of a night of drunken revelry in the French port of Havre, ending in the death of a sailor, were revealed in Federal court here today when John D. Fikes, 26, seaman aboard the American steamship Wicott, went on trial for the murder of Charles A. Leonard, 32, chief steward of the vessel.

Victim Was Robbed

Leonard, a world war veteran, was stabbed to death after the vessel left Feb. 1.

Companions of Fikes testified for the government, part of a series of fights between the two men.

John Wilckens, 17, described sorties ashore featured by a number of visits to cafes and saloons, where Fikes drank heavily before the men returned to the ship.

POLICE GUARD POLLS

Irregularities Ignored In Elections In Dallas

DALLAS, Apr. 1.—Fifty policemen, or more, tomorrow will stand guard at the polls here in the city election for selecting a mayor and four commissioners. It will be the first time that all precautions have been taken.

Police commissioner Striker denied that the action was taken to guard against irregularities ignored to be feared.

MARKET GOES WILD

Call Money Goes Up And Stocks Go Down Monday

NEW YORK, Apr. 1.—(AP)—Call money went up and stock prices went down today as an hysteria swept Wall Street due to unfavorable credit developments over the three-day stock exchange holiday.

Extreme declines in active issues ranged from $6 to $20 a share.

Easter Egg Hunt Held At Capitol

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—Easter tide egg rolling, that unique custom played annually by Washington youngsters brought life and laughter today to the usually staid lawns of the White House and capitol.

The third Easter Monday rendezvous of the children—Zoological Park—also was crowded.

President and Mrs. Hoover watched the children enjoy themselves. Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney-general, also was there. Mrs. Hoover and her friends waved greetings to the frolicking children and from time to time appreciation was shouted back.

Although the frolic took place not far from his window and the laughter of the children were audible within his office, President Hoover stayed close by his desk.

Rebels Defeated In Battle Monday; Many Are Killed

Insurgents Badly Driven Back At Limon, Report Says; Prisoners Taken In Other Points

(By Associated Press)

MEXICO CITY, April 1.—A message received tonight said federal forces had defeated insurgents at Limon, Sinaloa after a furious seven hour battle today.

General Rodrigo Telamaante reported "I can assure you there are more than 100 enemy dead." Fifty insurgents were captured.

Federal losses in dead and wounded were not more than 20. Apparently, insurgents had attempted an advance southward from La Cruz, but General Telamate said their defeat at Limon had checked thte rebel advance and necessitated a radical change in plans for rebel Generals Ramon F. Iturbe and Robert Cruz.

Give Battle Anywhere

"Whatever their intentions," he assured the president, "measures are being taken to give them battle at La Cruz or anywhere else they are found."

One federal regiment pursued the enemy as far as Coystitan, where additional prisoners were captured.

General Telamante said that four federal regiments had engaged about 1,000 rebels at 10 a. m. and at 5 p. m., had forced them to flee from their strongly entrenched positions and to retreat toward La Cruz, where their main body was located.

Information gleaned from rebel prisoners was that they had left

Charges On Long Placed On Shelf

No Action Taken By House In Louisiana Row; Under Fire, Governor Explains His Message

(By Associated Press)

BATON ROUGE La., Apr. 1.—After a short session the Louisiana House adjourned tonight until tomorrow without taking up the impeachment charges against Governor Huey P. Long.

The adjournment was agreed on unanimously to permit the rules governing the proceedings, as recommended by a subcommittee, to be printed.

Meet As Grandjury

Meeting as a grandjury to consider the charges, ranging from a plot to murder to misdemeanors, the house opened its session with the chamber crowded.

At the start the clerk read a message from Governor Long declaring that the Senate resolution requesting the governor to furnish names of members of the legislature which it is said the governor charged with bribery by the Standard Oil company, was based on misinterpretation of his original statement. He said he had shown in that, that he had no first hand information and that his charges were based on hearsay.

Attorney General To Start Action On Building Site

Condemnation Proceedings To Be Made On County's Site Offered For New Federal Building

The United States Attorney General has been instructed to institute condemnation proceedings in an effort to clear the title of the proposed federal building site here, County Judge Robert H. Bean was advised yesterday by the assistant secretary of the treasury.

Judge Bean explained that if anyone claimed any interested in the proposed site which is the southeast corner of the courthouse square it would be necessary to file a claim.

Since the property was originally deeded to "the public" it has been impossible for the county to give a fee simple title to the federal government. In a recently friendly injunction suit, brought about by local business men, Judge Clark M. Mullican ruled that the title was vested in the name of the county. This decision was forwarded to Federal District Attorney Norman A. Dodge, who in turn submitted it to the attorney general.

Leaders of the movement to place a new federal building here fear that this city will lose the $335,000 appropriations voted for the construction of a combined postoffice and federal court building here unless speedy action is taken in clearing the site.

More Employes Of Mills In Walk-Out

SPARTANBURG, S. C., April 1 (AP)—Protests by employes against so-called efficiency systems recently introduced in cotton mills of the Piedmont section continued today with two more mills added to the list of those at which there have been strikes within the last ten days.

Three hundred employes of the Woodruff Mills, Woodruff, S. C., a branch of the Brandon corporation joined 1,750 employes of the corporation at its Greenville mills who went out last week. Two hundred weavers at the Union Buffalo Mills located near Union, S. C., left their looms without giving a reason for the walkout.

Garner Entitled To Seat, Report Of Probers Says

Fraud Said To Be Found In Valley Elections; Report On Wurzbach-McCloskey Case Is Withheld

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 1.—The special house campaign committee which investigated charges of fraud in the Texas primaries and general elections last year has reported that Representative John Garner, new house democratic leader, was clearly entitled to his seat in congress.

The report, prepared by Chairman Lehlbach and made public today, declared there was "not a scintilla of evidence" to sustain the charge that fraud was practiced at the July primary. Testimony offered by Sid Hardin, Garner's opponent, the report added, showed that Garner defeated Hardin so overwhelmingly "that no possible motive for fraud in his behalf existed."

Election Tainted

The report did say, however, that in Hidalgo county, in Garner's congressional district, the November general election was "tainted with wholesale fraud in various forms" and recommended that the committee's conclusions be turned over to the department of justice with a request for investigation by a special assistant attorney general.

The report held that the throwing out of returns, practically all republican, from the Weslaco district in Hidalgo county because of "trival irregularities" was "utterly without justifiable grodnda," and that such action deprived various candidates for president, vice president and United States senator of upwards of a thousand votes.

Mexican Voting Found

The committee also found that the "voting of thousands of Mexican citizens or naturalized Mexicans for which the Baker machine paid poll taxes was overwhelmingly established by the evidence." The Baker referred to is A. Y. Baker, sheriff of Hidalgo county.

In connection with the contest between Augustus McCloskey, democrat, of San Antonio, and Harry M. Wurzbach, republican, of Seguin, in the 14th district, the report made no recommendation, calling attention to the fact that the matter was before the courts and that the election was involved in a contest before the house of representatives.

It concluded, however, that the investigation showed that "charges were made in the official returns during the time between their delivery by the presiding judges and their canvass by the county commissioners."

STOCKS AID TREASURY

Increase Of $80,000,000 In Income Taxes Results

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP)—Activity in the stock markets through 1928 was said by treasury officials today to account for an $80,000,000 increase in the March income tax returns over those of the same period a year ago. The total this year reached $595,000,000.

Such an increase was unexpected. It was said further that a treasury surplus of around $100,000,000 was indicated. The last estimate placed the probably surplus at $26,000,000.

Tornadoes And High Winds Strike In Many States

(By Associated Press)

THE Easter storm which swept the middle west, taking one life and causing heavy property damage, roared into the east yesterday, raising the death toll to six persons and destroying property over a wide territory.

Sweeping through southern Ohio, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania, into New Jersey, and on into Canada winds of almost tornado force blew down trees, unroofed houses, and other buildings and crippled telephone and telegraph communication.

A man was killed at Newark, Ohio by a tree which was blown down on top of his automobile; at Buffalo, N. Y. a track man was killed in a like accident; A 16 year old girl was blown into the path of an automobile and fatally injured at Belmore, Ohio; a 10 year old school girl met the same fate at Newell, W. Va., when a falling window, blown in by the gale, hit her, and a farmer near Polksville, N. J., was killed when struck by a beam blown from a barn.

A two ton roof was lifted from a building at Rome, N. Y., by the wind and dropped 300 yards away.

At Newell, W. Va., Margaret Peal, 10, died from a crushed skull suffered when the wind tore out a window frame in the public school

France Will Give Honor To Herrick

Dead Ambassador, Friend Of Frenchmen, Mourned With All Rites Given Usually Given Great

(By Associated Press)

PARIS, April 1.—France has taken the death of American Ahbassador Herrick as her own loss and will pay his body the same honors she pays to those of her own distinguished sons.

The Ambassador's last home-going will be aboard a ship which is the pride of the French navy, the new swift cruiser Tourville, the Premier of France will pronounce the only oration over the dead, and the French army will render thte same honors accorded generals and marshals of France as the procession goes from the American embassy to thte church.

Was Widely Loved

Those honors spring from thte sentiment of French people of all classes who had unbounded faith in Ambassador Herrick, and loved him not only for his friendship to France but also for himself. His genial manners made him known throughout the country as few other foreign diplomats have ever been known.

Ceremonies are to begin Thursday morning at the embassy, where Premier Poincare will pay tribute to Mr. Herrick's memory in the name of the French government.

"The Blunderbuss" Price Goes To $1

AUSTIN, April 1. (AP)—"The Blunderbuss" Texas University outlaw publication, was selling at $1 a copy here tonight wherever one could persuade someone to part with the four small, yellow sheets. The police still were looking for the publishers

It contained the University of Missouri sex questionnaire and scads of "low-down" on University students that could be termed scandalous, if not scurrilious.

Chief of Police R. D. Thorp confiscated 25 copies from an old, blind vender and announced that he would arrest and prosecute for criminal libel anyone he suspected of being connected with thte publication.

So capable and trusted as a convict serving one to five years for embezzlement was Grundy that Warden W. H. Mackey kept him as private secretary on August 28, 1926, when the sentence expired. Today Milt F. Amrine succeeded Mackey as Warden and Grundy must make his own way outside of prison walls.

Building Permits Totaling $86,750 Issued Monday

April Is Given Good Start With Issuance Of Nine Permits; Schenck Leads In Construction

Lubbock building permits were given a substantial send-off for the month of April yesterday as nine permits were issued from the city buildings inspector's office for a total of $86,750.

This one day's total is almost half of the total for the entire month of April last year, which stood at $192,140. With this record start and with a several large building projects looming in the near future, April promises to become the banner month of the year so far.

Yesterday's permits boosted the year's total to $1,212,368 for 211 permits.

Four of the nine permits yesterday were to Tom Jackson for the construction of four buildings for W. F. Schenck. The largest of these will be a $50,000 sixteen-family apartment house to be built within

Worker Meets Instant Death As Tons Slide On His Body; Spear Gets Broken Shoulder And Bruises

One Man Escapes

M. D. Ricketts, Local Man, Escapes Possible Death Or Injury, Having Climbed On Truck

DAVIE GALLGOS, 21-year-old Mexican of San Narcial, N. M., was crushed to his death, and Carl Spear, truck driver for the South Plains Pipe Line company, was painfully injured yesterday when they were caught beneath landslide at a gravel pit on the H. L. Johnston ranch, about sixteen miles southeast of here.

The Mexican met instant death when he was caught by a large boulder weighing several tons. Spear was pinned against a nearby truck by the boulder and the avalanche of gravel and sand which followed.

M. D. Ricketts, damage adjuster for the South Plains company and the only other person at the pit, escaped injury having climbed on the truck immediately before the cave-in.

Spear's shoulder was broken and was severely bruised. He was brought to a Lubbock sanitarium and was reported resting at a late hour last night.

It was said that virtually every bone in the Mexican's body was crushed by the deluge of rocks and gravel. Badly mangled, his body was recovered by the other two men after digging for almost an hour. It was taken to the Foster Funeral Home of Slaton.

Gallgos came to Slaton about three weeks ago and had been employed by a gravel company for some time.

Jury Selected In Mexican's Trial

Death Penalty To Be Asked For Jo Moran Charged In Slaying Jean Archileta Here Last December

Selection of a jury in the murder trial of Jo Moran, Mexican, charged with fatally shooting Jean Archileta last December 3, was completed in the 99th District court yesterday afternoon. Hearing of testimony will begin at 9 o'clock this morning.

The jury in the cast includes: C. M. Mitchell, S. M. Hufstedler, Gus Kallas, E. H. Carr, P. C. McCoy and J. M. Lewelling, all of Lubbock, and B. B. Jones, of Posey; I. M. O'Neal, Wolffarth; W. M. Waldrop, Wolffarth; P. H. Hood, Slaton; W. H. Killian, Idalou; and L. B. Germany, Acuff.

Shot From Ambush

Archileta was shot from ambush when he stepped from a Mexican Fanny's Place," a small restaurant in Little Juarez, Lubbock's Mexican section. The restaurant was operated by his wife. Archileta died in a local sanitarium several hours after the shooting. Moran was arrested in Jones county several weeks later.

The defense counsel consists of W. D. Benson, Max Coleman, and Nordyke and Pardue. District Attorney Durwood Bradley and his assistant, Burton S. Burks, are assisted in representing the state by special prosecutors, Marshall and Stewart.

Death Penalty Intimated

The state's attorneys intimated from their questioning of the jurymen that they would ask for the death penalty.

Other cases scheduled for trial before Judge Clark M. Mullican this week include: J. W. Barbee, Mrs. Rosamond Barbee, and Ed Stovall; each charged with violation of the prohibition laws.

Santa Fe And Texas And Pacific Open Battle For Line Extensions Into New Territory Of Eastern New Mexico

and parallel with the state line to end at the town of Henry, N. M Total distance of the Santa Fe's project will be approximately 98 miles.

All witnesses testifying yesterday were for the Texas and New Mexico railway. Among these, officials of the Texas and Pacific railway stressed their reasons for desiring to build the T. and N. M. extension, as being to secure tonnage from the Lea county oil field, the development of which is looked forward to as being of big proportions.

Lea county witnesses stated the building of the T. and N. M. would give them a railroad, admittedly needed, the principal point made by them being that this line would give cattlemen and stockmen new markets, such as El Paso, California and Fort Worth. On cross-questioning by Santa Fe attorneys these witnesses admitted the fact that the type of cattle raised in the area normally goes to markets of Lubbock, the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma and Kansas, and that sheep normally is shipped to Colorado points for grazing and feeding. Fort Worth's market for cattle is now of some consequence, it was brought out, but even with the T. and N. M. railway, that market would not be to any degree changed, as the bulk of cattle markets north and northeast.

As Examiner Davis explained, at opening of the hearing, 10 a. m. yesterday, no cumulative testimony was offered. The hearing is being held in the banquet room of the Hotel Lubbock, more than 100 men being present yesterday, principally representatives of railroads, oil companies, cattlemen, stockmen and chamber of commerce representatives from such towns and cities as Dallas, Fort Worth, El Paso, Big Spring, Wink, Midland, Oklahoma City, Roswell, Carlsbad, Lovington, for the Texas and New Mexico, and from Lubbock, Brownfield, Amarillo, Tulsa, Wichita Falls, for the Santa Fe.

H. C. Pipkin, Santa Fe attorney, of Amarillo, and Albert L. Reed, of Dallas, attorney for the Lubbock Board of City Development, who has been employed by that organization to intervene in behalf of the South Plains and Santa Fe railway, headed the Santa Fe's legal part of the hearing. Other Santa Fe officials present include, J. R. Hitchcock, Amarillo, vice-president and general manager; T. B. Gallaher, Amarillo, general freight and passenger agent; Lee F. English, Chicago, general counsel; W. E. Goodloe, Amarillo, division freight and passenger agent; M. C. Blanchard, Amarillo, chief engineer; J. A. Gillies, Slaton, division superintendent; Roscoe Wilson, Lubbock, attorney.

As the Texas and New Mexico railway is a subsidiary of the Texas and Pacific railway, the latter company's officials here include, J. I. Lancaster, Dallas, president; J. B. Payne, Dallas, vice-president; G. O. Bateman and T. D. Gresham, Dallas, attorneys.

A large group of men, representing numerous intervenors in behalf of the Texas and New Mexico railway's application, are here among these being, Continental Oil Co., Denver, Colo., by P. R. Naylor and P. H. Kuhns; Continental Oil Co., Wichita Falls, Texas, by T. H. Lawson and J. W. Liddell; Skelly Oil Co., Tulsa, by H. L. Armstrong and J. S. Freeman; E. E. McInnis, S. J. Cole, for Amarillo Board of City Development; Albert L. Reed, Dallas, for the Lubbock Board of City Development, all for the Santa Fe.

For the city of Wink, Texas, is M. H. Bridges, also representing that city's chamber of commerce; C. C. Staley, commissioner of public lands for New Mexico; J. C. Peyton, El Paso, for the Peyton Packing Co.; Wm. R. Blair, W. W. Upperman, Richard F. Burgess, El Paso, for the Southwestern Portland Cement Co.; H. D. Driscoll, E. R. Tanner, H. L. Birney, J. K. Moore, of El Paso, for the El Paso chamber of commerce, the El Paso Freight Bureau, the Peyton Packing Co., the Southwestern Portland Cement Co., the El Paso Union Stockyards and the Rio Grande Oil Co.; Jule G. Smith, Fort Worth, for the Fort Worth association of commerce, the Fort Worth Freight bureau; E. K. Newman, for the Carlsbad, N. M. chamber of commerce; A. A. Ahlman, president of Jal, N. M., chamber of commerce; C. D. Woolworth, Dick Herwig, Lusk Motor Co., John Lusk and the Merchant Livestock Co., of Lovington; Thomas J. Freeman, New Orleans; A. H. Priest, of Fort Worth and H. D. Driscoll, Oklahoma City, for the Livestock Traffic association of Fort Worth, and the Oklahoma City Livestock exchange; W. S. Lynch, J. J. Lane, J. S. Anderson, A. D. Jones, of Roswell, N. M., representing various intervenors, and Seth Alston, Lovington chamber of commerce, and himself.

Lancaster Testifies First.

J. L. Lancaster, president of the Texas and Pacific railway, was the first to testify. He stated he is also president of the Texas and New Mexico railway and that the latter road would be operated independently of the Texas and Pacific. Organized in 1927, the T. and N. M. amended its charter Nov. 30, 1923, to build from Monahans to Lovington, he said, and admitted on cross examination by H. C. Pipkin, that the company had decided to build to Lovington after the Santa Fe railway had made application to extend its line to New Mexico.

Second to testify was N. L. Ford, locating and construction engineer for the T. and N. M., and said his first survey of Lea county was made in December, 1927, and that the second was in 1928. Producing oil now located in the county is principally around the town of Jal, he testified. The fact that oil field supply houses generally follow oil field development was brought out by Ford's testimony, upon questioning by Pipkin, and admitted these concerns would likely locate at Jal, if that field develops, as they now are located at Wink, Texas, located on a two-mile spur from the Monahans route.

Cost of Extension Told.

With 34.1 miles of the Monahans line now in operation, R. G. Wagner, assistant engineer of the Texas and Pacific, told of estimated cost for the proposed extension as being $1,835,000, of about $26,071 per mile. Total construction cost proposed in five years would be $1,925,000. Net railway income figured on this line would be about $215,000 for the first year, and $217,000 the next. Wagner admitted that potential tonnage figured from oil field development would last only a few years.

Both Pipkin and Reed, of counsel for the Santa Fe and the Lubbock Board of City Development, put Wagner through a gruelling series of questions. They established the facts that the Texas and Pacific railway's revenue of late years has come from oil field development along its main line. Up to 1927 the traffic west of Big Spring, Wagner told, was chiefly local shipments of cattle, and he said that portion of West Texas immediately adjacent to the T. and P. main line was arable and tonnage could not be expected to a great extent, generally, except through mineral devlopmnt, such as petroleum, potash and zonite. These commodities were only potential, he admitted, and not to be counted on as certain at this time, stating he was giving the potential tonnage as a basis for seeking a permit to extend the T. and N. M. "We are not basing our application on tonnage that exists," he stated.

Reed Fires Questions.

Albert L. Reed here asked Wagner:

"Is it not true that a higher level of rates exist west of Big Spring, on the main line of the T. & P., than exists east of Big Spring? If a community can avoid 100 miles of differential territory haul, don't you think that beneficial? Is not the Texas and Pacific now insisting that its differential line, now at Midland, be moved east to Big Spring?"

Wagner admitted these to be true, and said facts justified the differential point be placed at Big Spring.

"This would increase the level of rates paid on commodities moved into and out of differential territories, would it not?" Reed then asked. Wagner replied he was not qualified to answer.

To Develop Traffic.

"Has it been the policy of the T. and P., in the past to extend branch lines to develop traffic in its territory?" Reed then asked, to which the reply was that it had not. Wagner admitted the T. and N. M. would be operated separately from operation of the T. and P., and told of the T. and P. owning three other subsidiary lines, namely the Cisco and Northwestern, the Abilene and Southern and the Pecos Valley Southern, the questions as to whether or not the T. and P. had ever built any branch lines of its own coming at the close of the morning session.

At 2 o'clock, when the afternoon session opened, Wagner was still on the stand. Pipkin asked him:

"What branch lines has the T. and P. constructed since its main line was built in Texas?" Wagner couldn't answer. Then Pipkin asked, "Did the T. and P. construct these lines named, or acquire them afterwards?" To this the answer was, he did not know.

Payne Is Gruelled.

J. B. Payne, vice-president in charge of traffic, of the Texas and Pacific, on cross examination was also put through gruelling questioning by Pipkin and Reed. He exhibited extensive tables of rates and mileage pertaining to the extension of the T. and N. M. In these it was shown that by the T. and N. M. the distance from Lovington Dallas would be 501 miles, to Fort Worth 469, to Sweetwater 267, to Houston 675, to Galveston 723, to Amarillo 493, to Wichita Falls 434 and to Monahans 105. Distances by this route from Hobbs 85, Nadine 77, Eunice 65, Henry 59 and Jal 43.

Rates on various commodities were quoted by Payne, the comparison points being Seagraves and Monahans. On cross examination, Reed asked Payne, pointedly, why the town of Monahans had been used instead of that of Kermit, or Cheyenne, at the end of the T. and N. M. line rather than at the point on the main line of the Texas and Pacific.

Explains Monahans' Rates.

"Don't you think that using Kermit as a comparison with Seagraves would be fairer?" Reed asked, to which Payne explained the Monahans rates were used because they were main line rates.

"But th rates to Kermit," asked Reed, "are they not higher than the rates to Pecos, west of Monahans, and, wouldn't the rates to Lovington and the rest of Lea county, be as high, or higher than the rates to Pecos?" Payne replied he didn't know, at first, that the rates had not yet been made; that they might be common point rates, and later admitted they would likely be about what they were to Pecos. Reed here stressed the point that Kermit rates were in many cases higher than they were to Pecos, to which Payne acquiesced.

Livestock Goes North.

When Reed asked if he knew where the majority of livestock out of Lea county went to market, Payne replied, that they went to Oklahoma City, Wichita, Kan., Kansas City. And he admitted later that the greater percentage of livestock shipped from Midland, mainline point on the T and P., went to northern markets, and not to Fort Worth or El Paso. Payne was unwilling to say what rates would be applied on livestock from Lea county to the Kansas City market because he did not know.

Julie C. Smith, of Fort Worth, telling he was representing the Fort Worth association of commerce, was president of the Fort Worth Grain and Cotton Exchange, the Fort Worth Warehouse company, and was appearing for the Fort Worth Freight Bureau, stated he favored the T. and N. M construction because it offered the shortest single and affilliated line to Fort Worth and southeastern New Mexico points for shipments of livestock, grain, cotton, oil, etc. He said that by way of Lubbock and Sweetwater, from New Mexico there was loss to livestock in transit and transfers from one line to the other at Lubbock, Slaton and Sweetwater. To this, Pipkin objected to ask if he knew these transfers to be true from his own experience, which he had not.

Fort Worth Claim Presented.

"Fort Worth is the largest grain market in the southwest, outside of Kansas City," Smith said, "and looks upon the territory as a potential grain producing area. Fort Worth is the largest livestock market in the southwest, and with the production of oil in Lea county, with offices of many major companies in Fort Worth, with large supply houses there, and the fact that the Texas and Pacific has spent between five and six million dollars in the city," Smith declared as reasons why the T and N M extension was favored.

"Is it to the advantage of grain men to reach a large number of markets?" Reed asked Smith, who replied affirmatively. "The ability to reach markets affects the price of grain, does it not?" He replied yes, and stated that Texas grain producers enjoy higher prices net than those of Oklahoma or Kansas, because of nearness to reaching export trade channels He admitted, to Reed's question, that grain is often damaged in transit by being locked up in cars for great distances, and that it needed drying out at times.

Oil Man Testifies.

E. C. Allen, Dallas, general superintendent of the Shell Petroleum company, testified that his company's divisional offices for handling activities in production in the states of Texas and New Mexico were located at Dallas The company's potential supply of oil in Winkler county, he said, was about 400,000 barrels a day. It has 75,000 acres under lease in Lea county and the potential possibilities there look for a production to last for 20 to 25 years, Lea county is in its preliminary development stage, he said, and practically all field equipment is being handled now by trucks from the Shell's Winkler county fields. In his estimation important petroleum production will develop in Lea county, of small producing wells, but of lasting quantity over a long period.

"Unless railway facilities are available," Allen said, "production of Lea county will be held back." There will be an important production of casing head gasoline in Lea county, this being shipped by tank cars on railroads, he told He said his company considers Andrews and Gaines counties, Texas, as potential oil fields, also. His prediction of population in Lea county, in the next 10 or more years at between 25,000 and 50,000 people. There are now about 5,000 in the county.

Stockman For T. and P

H. Sim Eaves, Lea county stockman, his ranch located about 40 miles southwest of Lovington, said he was using 10,000 acres, of this 320 being his own and the remainder state and government land. He has at this time about 200 head of cattle, mostly Herefords, and told that he considered the T and N. M. would benefit him, by giving a quicker routing to Fort Worth, El Paso and Los Angeles, for his cattle, the railroad saving shrinkage of calves through driving to railroad points now existing.

Pipkin, through questioning of Eaves on cross examination, established the point that Lea county's "tight" land extends only to about 22 miles south of Lovington, mainly in the shallow water belt, and that water is derived principally from pumps and tanks. The white face Herefords, he showed are classed as a "brooder and stocker" cattle, the chief markets for which lie north and northeast of Lea county, and little demand for them at Fort Worth, El Paso or in California The California and El Paso markets are more for baby beeves, he showed. He also portrayed that the bulk of cattle shipments over a period of years have been to Kansas City, the Panhandle, Oklahoma and Kansas, and that sheep go to Colorado for feeding, out of Lea county.

Drives To Seagraves.

Reed, through questions, developed the fact that Eaves drives cattle to Seagraves, 80 miles, rather than to Pyote, a shorter distance, because of quicker access to a ready market, and that cattle are fed in transit at Lubbock and in the Panhandle.

O. Beaty, Lea county agricultural extension agent, showed the shallow water belt of Lea county traverses the northern half of that area, extending into Texas. Approximately 1,000,000 acres of land are in the belt, of this 829,440 acres being in Lea county. There are 2,000,000 acres in the entire county. The county can carry 259,000 head of sheep, 101,280 head of cattle, produces arodnd 50,000 calves a year, or 280,000 lambs a year. There are 40,000 calves and 10,000 older cattle a year shipped, with a potentiality of 50,000 calves or 230,000 lambs, meaning in pounds of wool, 2,080,000 a year. Few sheep are in the southern part of the county, and most of the cattle in the north half.

Around 1,200 cars of livestock a year originate in the county, Beaty testified.

Same Advantages Offered.

Irrigation from the shallow wells gives a successful agricultural production, about one-fourth of the land in the county being subject to shallow well irrigation, Beaty said he favored the T. and N. M., because of opening markets at El Paso and Fort Worth, as well as California, to which Pipkin and Reed reminded him the same markets were available if the Santa Fe extension were built.

Reed mentioned the fact that the Santa Fe extension would go through the heart of the shallow water belt, while the T. and N. M. would only touch the lower edge of it.

W. M. Beverly, of Lovington, last to testify during the afternoon session, a cattle inspector and cattle raiser, told of the bulk of cattle shipments from the area going out by the Santa Fe and that in a five-year period, 149,000 head of cattle from the northern half of Lea county, had been shipped. His plea for the T. and N. M. was that it would open another market to producers, that might benefit prices. To this Pipkin said the cattle being "brooder and stocker" type, the market would not be at points to be served by the T. and N. M., but points served by the Santa Fe.

Beverly admitted that either road would be all right.

A number of other witnesses will testify today in behalf of the Texas and New Mexico. The entire day will probably be taken up with this side of the question before the examiner.

THIS MAN SAYS IMPROVEMENT HAS BEEN WONDERFUL

"Money Couldn't Buy The Good Orgatone Did Me," Says Lubbock Farmer

"I have not only gained in health and strength since taking Orgatone, but my recovery has been remarkable," said J. W. Claunch, of rural route 3, Lubbock, Texas, while talking with the Orgatone representative recently.

"For eight long years, I have suffered with my stomach and digestive troubles. My stomach was always full of gas and I was badly bloated and it was hard for me to breathe at times on account of the gas pressure and I thought I had heart trouble. I was also bothered with kidney trouble and had severe pains in my back and sides, and at times I would have hard lumps in my stomach, until I would nearly die.

"Sometimes, I would have severe spells of indigestion and would be in misery for hours, and would cramp until I could hardly stand it. I got to where I could only eat the light foods and even then, it hurt at times, it hurt me. I tried all kinds of medicines but nothing seemed to do me any good.

"Orgatone was recommended to me, and I decided to give it a trial. My improvement has been wonderful. I feel fine every day, and eat anything I want, without the slightest trouble in the least afterward. The gas and bloating spells have left me, and the hard lumps has quit forming in my stomach and I haven't had the cramps since taking Orgatone. I sleep fine every night, and get up in the mornings feeling fine. Money couldn't buy the good Orgatone did me, and I know anyone who was suffering as I was, if they will give it a trial will be benefitted by it."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Lubbock exclusively by the Bowens Drug Store under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative. Out of town customers are being supplied by mail upon receipt of price $1.25 for one bottle or six bottles for $6.25. Adv.

wants transportation, to call any member of the committee. The committee is composed of Floyd A. Norman, Dean A. H. Leidigh, R. C. Smith, K. M. Renner, Dr. I. E. Barr, W. L. Stangel, and Walter A. Myrick.

D. F. Eaton, Lubbock county agricultural agent, president of the show and several other Lubbock people left yesterday to attend the exposition.

Tech An Exhibitor

The Texas Technological college is one of the big exhibitors at the show again this year and other stock from Lubbock county is entered. The Tech exhibit includes 13 head of pure bred Holstein-Freisians, and 5 pure bred Jerseys.

Included in the Tech entries, are a number of individuals that won at the show last year and cows that have made excellent production records during the past year.

Badges To Be Worn

The Lubbock delegation will meet at the City Hall at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Badges, stickers for cars and other regalia will be passed out by the chamber of commerce in order that the Lubbock delegation may make an outstanding showing. A headquarters will be maintained at the show in order that Lubbock county people who do not have an opportunity to go with the delegation may obtain these badges at Plainview.

Farmers who live in the northern part of this county will likely join the auto caravan at Monroe or Abernathy, continue with the group to Plainview where they will get their badges at the show.

Other Counties Going

While the Lubbock county delegation is expected to make an outstanding showing, Floyd county and a number of other South Plains counties will also have a big delegation there and unless Lubbock county has a representative number there, this county will fail to make the best showing. Swisher made the best showing last year, having the largest delegation of any county in the Plains.

Wednesday is to be the big day at the show from several angles. It is official Jersey Day and all the Jersey judging will take place on this day. Winners in the Production Contest will be announced and a number of South Plains counties will be there with their full strength like Lubbock county.

Farmers Urged To Attend

The Dairy Promotion committee has invited a number of Lubbock county farmers to be the guests of this city by taking advantage of free transportation to the Dairy Show. In order that a way for every farmer who may avail himself of this invitation, the committee is anxious that all Lubbock citizens who can, go and take cars to carry these needing transportation.

The program for the show is as follows:

Twenty-Two Injured, Three Missing In Missouri

ST. LOUIS, April 1. (AP)—Twenty-two injured, three missing and thirty to forty farm buildings wrecked or damaged was the know-toll today of an Easter storm that cut a swath through southeast Missouri last night.

Searching parties, under direction of the Popular Bluff Red Cross chapter, today attempted to make their way over highways strewn with trees and other debris to make a further survey.

Reports indicated the storm, accompanied by a terrific downpour of rain and hail, originated near Hoxie in northern Arkansas.

Property Loss May Reach $1,000,000 In Missouri

POPULAR BLUFF, Mo., April 1 (AP)—Two score persons were injured and property damage that may reach $1,000,000 was caused by an Easter windstorm in southeastern Missouri, N odeaths had been reported, and it was believed none of the injured would die.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., April 1. (AP)—One man was killed and two persons injured today in a tornado that cut a path four miles wide along the Delamare river between Easton and Portland, Pa., The storm also caused heavy damage on the New Jersey side of the river, particularly in the vicinity of Columbia, opposite Portland.

Sweeping in from the southwest, the storm carried houses and barns from their foundations, blew off roofs of scores of other buildings, and uprooted hundreds of trees.

The man who lost his life was Boyd Titman, of Polkville, near Portland. He was struck by timbers from the wreckage of his barn. A brother, Charles Titman, and his family narrowly escaped.

At Vale, N. J., Charles Jones, 33, suffered a possible fracture of the skull.

New Flood Menace Seen As Result Of Disturbances

CHICAGO, April 1 (AP)—Winter made a return appearance in the middlewest during the Easter weekend, paralyzing many sections and leaving them today to contemplate his April fool antics.

The Easter storm not only thwarted fashion parades and demoralized communication but created a new flood menace in the upper Mississippi valley where falan, snow and sleet rushed down into streams already bulging at flood stage.

The government weather bureau at St. Louis forecast new floods throughout the Mississippi valley north of St. Louis.

Come Out Even Police Take Time About On Tags

CHICAGO, April 1. (AP)—Policeman Harry Anderson of Evanston, a suburb, found an automobile parked an hour and 50 minutes in front of the Evanston police station in the 90-minute parking zone. He wrote out a slip. It made no difference to him when Detective Edward Wharton claimed ownership of the car.

"A policeman," remarked Anderson, "ought to observe the law. Here's your ticket. And don't try to fix it either."

That was Thursday. Today Anderson appeared, at police headquarters to prosecute his brother officer. No one could find the ticket. Anderson himself hunted through books, files and spindles for two hours.

"The bum, he fixed it," remarked Anderson as he went out to climb into his car. On the steering wheel was an arrest slip. Pinned to it was a note.

"You are arrested," it read, "You've been parked here for more than two hours. The limit is 90 minutes for same. Love and kisses, Wharton."

"What this town needs," remarked Anderson, "is less law violators and more cops with a strict sense of duty. Now I got to get this fixed."

Mortgage Fable Is True In Missouri

Youth Uses Airplane To Fly Back In Time To Pay Off Mortgage On Father's Farm Just As Sale Starts

(By Associated Press)

KINGSTON, Mo. April 1. — The fabled youth came home to pay off the mortgage. Ralph Cox did it in an airplane.

Ralph, son of Henry Cox, a farmer near here, last fall felt the urge of the air. But father Cox didn't have the money and besides, there was that pesky mortgage on the farm. But Ralph found where he could borrow enough money for flying school—if Father Cox would sign the note. So Father Cox did, and Ralph went away.

His father heard from him at a Topeka, Kan. flying school. Then the letters stopped.

Things Go Hard.

Things went hard for Henry Cox. The mortgage came due, the note was pressing, taxes were unpaid. Finally Sheriff Jo- ler came and told of foreclos- re proceedings.

The day for the sale on the urthouse steps here was set. he time, 9 o'clock. Farmers ame from all over Caldwell unty; for the Cox farm was good buy.

Raising his hammer, Sheriff der opened his mouth to cry- se of Henry Cox's farm.

Airplane Appears.

There was a roar overhead. airplane was circling. The rmers gaped. There aren't ny airplanes in Caldwell unty.

Down came the plane into a ld across the way. Out step- d Ralph. He advanced on the urthouse, peeling bills from roll.

The mortgage paid off, father d son went arm in arm to the nk where reposed the note.

Browns Plans For Re-Organization Of Postal Unit

WASHINGTON, April 1. (AP)—The postoffice department is on the verge of a general re-organization which will affect a large part of the administrative branches and extend through the entire postal service.

Postmaster General Brown has determined to raise the standard of character and ability in the tremendous personnel of the service

It is understood that President Hoover has approved Brown's plans under which the only assistant postmaster general to remain would be W. Irving Glover, second assistant in charge of air mail.

Bartlett to Be Replaced

First Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett is to be replaced and that office so remodelled that the first assistant will become the right-hand of the postmaster general in formulating policies. No one has been selected to succeed Bartlett.

The third assistant, Robert S. Regar, is to be replaced by a certified public accountant. Mr. Regar, under plans, will be retained in another capacity.

CLEANING RUGS

In pinning a rug or anything else that is heavy to a line, throw it over the line and pin the two sides together below the line, not to it. This prevents bulgings from the pins.

TAILORED CHIFFON

A navy blue tailleur for afternoon uses double chiffon and tailors it like a single layer of goods. Its skirt is circular, the coat flaring. It has a richness to it that is charming.

GREEN CAPE

A blue-green chiffon afternoon frock has a large circular cape cut like a colero in front and fitting the shoulders like a raglan coat.

Church Meetings In Spotlight Of Interest Here Monday

Opening WMS Conference Sessions In Plainview Draw Lubbock Women Tuesday; Church Societies Meet

Social, Program and Business Hours Are Enjoyed By Church Women Yesterday Afternoon In Meetings At Various Centers; Conference Officer Speaks When First Methodist Women Meet In Church

Church society meetings were in the spotlight of interest for women in the city yesterday as the Northwest Texas W. M. S. is in annual session at Plainview until Friday.

Opening sessions of the Plainview conference will be held today and 10 Lubbock women are expecting to be present. Others probably will attend part of the sessions if the weather continues favorable.

Those who expect to go to Plainview today are Mesdames A. T. Kimbro, D. C. Ross, J. W. Richards, Tom J. Foster, C. E. Moreman, T. A. White, T. V. McKinney, H. E. Ross, J. C. Orr and G. C. Wolffarth.

Mrs. Merritt Speaks At W.M.S. Meeting

Mrs. J. G. Merritt of Colorado City, who is social service secretary in the Methodist conference, visited the First Methodist W. M. S. yesterday afternoon and made an inspiring talk on the recent meeting of the church Women's Council in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Merritt and Mrs. W. L. Doss, who also lives in Colorado City, were guests of the Methodist society yesterday. They have been visiting here before going to the Plainview meeting.

Program Heard

A program on "The Risen Christ and Women" was heard at the Methodist meeting and Mrs. R. I. Tubbs conducted the devotional. Mrs. C. C. Webb discussed the program topic.

Reports on society work were heard during a business session. The society has a paid membership of 76 for the first quarter of this year.

Women in the society are assisting the church pastor, Rev. H. L. Munger, in conducting a religious survey of the town. Thirty-eight attended the meeting yesterday.

Bible Study Held In Presbyterian Society

The first Bible study for this church year was conducted yesterday afternoon by Mrs. C. J. Wagner at the First Presbyterian church and there was an excellent attendance. The first two chapters of Jeremiah were studied. Miss Virginia McLean conducted a junior Bible study course during the afternoon at the church.

April Fool Social Is Gay Function

An April Fool social was given in the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. J. McCarty, 1805 20th street, for members of the 19th Street Baptist W. M. S.

Christmas and Hallowe'en decorations were used in the house, April fool stunts were played and other diversions added to the gaiety of the occasion.

As more serious parts of the entertainment readings were given by Gertrude Osborne, Tech student, and Edna Muriel Lewis; Erma Lois Harris played a piano solo and Chester Harris and Aubrey McCarty sang a duet.

Shower of Handkerchiefs

Mrs. McCarty was presented with a shower of handkerchiefs in remembrance of her birthday.

Hostesses for this affair were Mrs. McCarty, Mrs. John H. Ritchie, Mrs. W. V. Lewis and Mrs. R. D. Harris. Guests were Mesdames W. A. Terrell, B. E. Reeves, H. R. Sprawles, J. A. Alred, Ed McDaniel, C. A. Flippo, W. A. Carrell, N. O. Vincent, A. S. Eads, Gus Schantz, Stevenson, Myrtle Jones, M. C. McCrummen, Miss Gertrude Osborne and Rev. C. J. McCarty.

Business Session Of Society Is Held

Reports on social service activities were heard yesterday afternoon at a business meeting of the First Baptist W. M. S. at the church.

An executive meeting had preceded the business session and seven circle chairmen were in attendance with their reports which showed 175 sick visits, 83 hospital visits, 62 to unenlisted Baptists and 25 to strangers.

Circle 1 of the society met in all-day session at the church and Mrs. W. R. White conducted a study of "The Wandering Jew in Brazil." Lunch was served at noon at the church.

Child Of Four Needs Love, Praise

(Editor's Note: This is the seventh article on "The Pre-School Child," which Olive Roberts Barton, authority on children, has written for this newspaper. It is one of a series of twelve.)

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
NEA Service Writer

There is a certain thing I should like to stress very strongly in the four-year-old child.

It is this: That every child is largely a product of the attitude his elders take toward him, but it is between 4 and 5 years of age that he is particularly sensitive to the treatment he receives.

Is your child of four happy? Is he responding satisfactorily to the handling he receives? Are you doing all you can to make himself confident and important in his own eyes?

There is probably no other year as psychologically important as between the fourth and fifth birthdays. Heretofore he has been learning, experimenting, trying out; the world and the things in it have been interesting, but so far he has kept himself apart. His personality or ego has not bothered him in the least until now.

During this year reason begins in earnest, and when it does he discovers that he has a decided place in the world of things and people. For the first time he becomes what we call in psychological parlance, a "social creature."

This time should be a happy time. He should be made to feel the love of people around him. Patience should be practiced and care taken that discipline is not harsh. He should be kept very busy and very happy, read to, talked to a great deal, played with and have things explained to him.

Love and happiness should be the keynote of his life at this time.

Don't allow him to develop that deadly thing we call inferiority complex.

A child between four and five should be praised and praised and praised some more. Encourage him to do things, and no matter how he bungles them, try to praise him. Never say that a thing isn't right; never laugh at him; be very sure that every command you make is a reasonable one. He can think now, and he will think and be uncannily smart about sensing unfairness or injustice.

Froebel, the old German educator, sensed this many years ago before the word "behaviorism" was thought of. He started his play school and called it the "kindergarten" or "Children's Garden." The idea was better than even he knew. I am a firm believer and staunch friend of the kindergarten, and wish that every child of four or five years of age could be fortunate enough to enjoy its advantages. Some day I hope that it will be included in every public school system in the country.

The Woman's Day

By Allene Sumner

Allene Sumner

Miss Ruth Timmons, 19-year-old school teacher of Richland Township, O., is just one of the girl teachers recently dragged forth on the carpet before an accusing board of education to meet charges that she demoralized her pupils by teaching them the Charleston and other nefarious bits of worldly wisdom.

The board pulled in its horns a little at finding that the dance taught their progeny was not the Charleston, but folk dance steps taught in the young lady's college.

The board was forced to meet, too, parental charges that Miss Timmons—

"Failed to come to school one time—"

"Failed to maintain proper discipline—"

"Neglected to keep proper oversight of her pupils outside the school room—"

"Failed to instruct her pupils in such a manner as to enable them to show evidence of reasonable proficiency in the subject studied."

STANDARDS DIFFER

Though Miss Timmons was not removed, it was only by some miracle, for hundreds of young school teachers are actually fired each year because parents whose ignorant and provincial way of living gives them an utterly different set of standards and values than a girl who comes into their community from a college and a larger environment, seem to think that they have the right to demand that the teacher of their young react exactly as they do, or she is all wrong.

Granting that not all school teachers are as efficient as they should be; granting that they are not always superior and less prejudice-ridden than the parents of their communities, the fact remains that, on general principles, I am inclined to favor gossip and criticism of their children' teachers to mean anything whatsoever; in fact I would favor some neat punishment for parents who carp at their children's teachers, for the bare fact is that 90 per cent of the time the teacher is right and the parent all wrong.

THIS NEW AGE

In the first place, a school teacher is generally much younger than parents; she or he is much more atune, because of youth and educational opportunities, to the modern world of the present — the world which children are meeting, rather than the world which their parents met.

In the second place, parents have the well-developed genius of making teachers responsible for all the things they themselves wish to evade, because they don't know how to handle the situation.

The complaint that Miss Timmons "neglected to keep proper oversight of her pupils outside the school room" is one of the most ridiculous charges ever made. This idea that a teacher who puts in her good eight hours' work should in turn be responsible for her pupils after school hours is as archaic as "The Hoosier Schoolmaster."

For NEA Service.

THE plan of this Old Colonial house wastes not an inch of space and yet provides for plenty of room. It achieves practicality without the loss of beauty. It is built on long, low, generous lines—for a 100 foot lot. It has "every modern convenience," but it isn't expensive! In fact, it seems to be an architectural paradox.

The visitor enters upon a large, well-shaped, well-lighted living room.

Two large bedrooms, a connecting bath, cedar closets, and a hall linen closet are on one side. On the other a pantry separates the dining room and the kitchen—the kitchen is equipped with every modern device and has cross-current ventilation—and there are many coat closets and a bedroom and bath.

It has been planned that the family shall live on this first-floor, where all the rooms adjoin and where every detail has been worked out for the saving of stepes. Each room, too, is a separate unit

The second floor consists of two bedrooms with an adjoining modern bath. This floor is for guests or servants.

The house is built of shingles painted white, with blue green shutters and brown shingle roof. The chimneys are common, whitewashed brick.

PAVEMENT POUNDERS

C. C. Pyle's ache and pain bunioneers completed the second lap of their transcontinental derby last night with more than 100 entries in the 80 day trek from coast to coast. Elizabeth, N. J., was the first control point, reached Sunday night. The Monday jaunt to Trenton was considerable longer than the opening lap.

News dispatches indicate the venture which lost its promoter quite a sum last year will be a financial success this year. Pyle has adopted a quite different attitude toward the control points and has drawn marathon runners from a number of foreign countries to compete in the cross country trek.

* * *

The race had not been half completed last year before the public had lost confidence in the promoter and his scheme to rake in the dough. A casual observer could see that the runners were not training and that everything was not as it should be. As a result only a handful was present to see the iron men cross the finish line in New York at the Polo Grounds.

NOT A BROTHER ACT

Paul Waner, the "Big Poison" with the Pittsburgh Pirates, continues to "hold out" on Barney Dreyfuss in spite of the fact that his younger brother, Lloyd, has already come to terms with the Pirate owner. The man who led the National League in batting in 1927 and gave Rogers Hornsby a hot race last season has let it be known that he and his brother star had never intended to carry the brother act from the stage to the diamond.

* * *

The elder Waner still contends that he and Paul are worth half as much as Babe Ruth .He evidently has plenty of confidence in his worth to the National League team. While the Pirates and the world in general are wondering how the "Smokey City" are going to replace their leading swatsmith, Paul is nonchalantly fishing near his home at Ada, Okla. A request from Dreyfuss at San Antonio, where the Pirates were playing an exhibition series, that Waner meet him there to talk terms brought an emphatic "no" from the Oklahoman. Incidently the Houston Buffs of the Texas League gave Pittsburgh a sound trouncing yesterday. Looks like the club could use the hitting power of their holdout star very nicely since the entire team collected only six hits off the Texas League hurlers.

IT FAILED AGAIN

The Red River Valley Class D baseball loop has failed again. A number of cities in north Texas and southern Oklahoma have tried time after time to perfect an organization of this kind, but have always succeeded. Plans were hurried this year than ever before. Possibly a few more attempts will be necessary before the leaders at Vernon will be able to put over the venture. Of the six teams scheduled to enter the league, only two, Vernon and Childress, had teams ready to enter when it was decided to abandon all plans.

High school track teams of the Panhandle and South Plains will gather in Plainview Friday to compete in the invitation track and field meet staged in that city. Lubbock will likely be represented by a team of 15 tracksters.

Tech Thinly Clads Return From Texas And S. M. U. Relays With A Fourth Place In Both Events

College Speed Merchants Expect Stiff Competition From Thundering Herd; Squad Improvng

Following their return from downstate where they participated in the Texas and S. M. U. Relays, Texas Tech tracksters began training Monday afternoon for their first dual meet of the 1929 track season here Saturday with the Buffaloes of Canyon Normal. A strenuous week is in store for the Matador thinly clads before they take on the Teachers in the first home track and field exhibition.

Buffs Reported Strong

Reports from the Buffalo stronghold indicate the locals will have their hands full in outscoring the speed merchants of the Panhandle section. Although the Teachers have not been tested in a matched meet this season, confirmed reports give them strong entries in all track events with veteran tracksters back in the harness and the addition of new weight men to make a well-rounded scoring combination.

Injuries and scholastic ineligibility have taken a heavy toll in the Matador track ranks this season but the Tech mentor has new material added to his group of veterans and these are expected to make strong bids for their respective events. The locals will likely score the majority of their points in the field events in the quarter and in the hurdles.

Make Good Showing

In spite of the handicap under which the Tech relay teams entered the Austin and Dallas events Friday and Saturday, Coach Payne's cohorts gave a splendid account of themselves. Entering the 880-yard relay in the Texas Relays, the Matadors placed fourth in the college division of this event. All teams were placed according to time in the relay events.

In Dallas Saturday, the Tech mile relay team placed fourth in a field of nine colleges. The Matadors had not trained for this event and were running the distance for the first time when they were clocked for four place.

The date for the second dual meet of the season with the Daniel Baker Hill Billies has been changed to April 13, Coach Payne announced this morning.

Floydada Gunner Cops Local Shoot

Fred Stanton Loses Chance To Capture Prize In Official Match Sunday; Visitor In Lead

Fred Stanton, one of the leading marksmen of the Lubbock Gun club was sailing along on calm seas apparently for a gold watch looming in the foreground, until a hurricane in the form of a visiting gunner, J. O. Dudley, of Floydada, swooped down upon the grounds east of the city Sunday afternoon and wrecked his hopes for winning the third leg of the prize shoot.

The local marksman had won two legs of the shoot on successive Sundays and had only to take high score Sunday to cop the prize, but the pace set by the visiting gunner was too fast for Stanton. Dudley broke 24 out of 25 birds in the official shoot while the best Stanton could do was a 19 to take second place.

Dudley's win gives the Floydada man the first leg of the shoot. He must win two more in a row to take the prize offered by the local club.

No "skeet" shoot was held Sunday because of a scarcity of rocks for the new range. A large crowd was on hand to see the exhibition.

National Tourney Will Start Today

CHICAGO, Apr. 1.—(AP)—Basketball sharpshooters from 33 states smacked balls against the backguards for hours today in their final drill for the University of Chicago's eleventh annual national interscholastic tournament.

Although the championship struggle does not start until tomorrow morning, when Raton, New Mexico, and Portsmouth, N. H., meet, the gymnasium was crowded with spectators.

Big teams, like the Athens, Texas, outfit with six foot plus giants, mingled with tiny squads such as Valley City, N. D., a team that averages 145 pounds and has a 126 pound star forward. It was a setting of strange contrast.

Collins Training Hard For "Sub" Role With Athletics

EDDIE COLLINS

This will be the twenty-second year in the majors for Eddie Collins. Eddie, at 41, is senior player in his league in point of service.

FORT MYERS, Fla., April 1 (AP)—Now that Ty Cobb apparently has retired and Tris Speaker has become a minor league manager the dean of American League players is a quiet, slim, young-looking man of 41—Edward Trowbridge Collins.

Eddie, who is captain of the Philadelphia Athletics, is hard at work for his twenty-second consecutive season in the majors.

"I will not attempt to be in there every day," Eddie said, "but I am still listed as a player and I will be in enough games to get into the averages."

Last year Collins saw service in only 36 ball games, but he was able to bat .303. He will be on the job again this season as aide to Connie Mack and will be available for pinch-hitting duty as well as a substitute at second base for Max Bishop.

Eddie came to the Athletics in 1906 from Columbia University, but it was not until three years later that he broke into prominence when Mack made his famous switch and sent Collins to second base and Dan Murphy to right field. Ever since he joined the club the veteran pilot had tried to find the proper place for Eddie. He was tried at short, third and right field before being permanently stationed at second.

In 1909 his first year as the regular second baseman of the Macks Eddie participated in 153 games and hit .346 as well as proving to be the most competent second sacker in the league.

At the end of the season of 1914 the Athletics sold Eddie to Chicago for $50,000, then considered a preposterous figure at that time, but Eddie later was regarded as one of baseball's biggest bargains. Collins help the White Sox win two pennants and a world's series. It was with the Sox that he had one of his best years, for in 1920 he hit for .369. In Philadelphia his best season was in 1911 when he batted .365.

Collins might be playing regularly yet had it not been for an injury he sustained in 1925. His ankle was badly sprained during the season and he never recovered. In 1924 he had been appointed manager of the White Sox but when Charles Comiskey saw his playing usefulness was ebbing on account of the injury he released him in 1926. Collins returned to the Athletics the following year.

Santone Indians Will Start Tour

SAN ANTONIO, April 1. (AP)—The San Antonio Indians, as the former Bears now are known, will take on local teams here this week, Sunday they go on a barnstorming tour, opening at Luling.

Road games are booked at San Marcos, April 9; Uvalde, April 12, and Seguin, April 14.

Pitcher Herbert Agricola of Flatonia, who has been trying for a place on the San Antonio staff, has decided to retire from baseball and first baseman Gus Wendler of Boerne and pitcher Hugo Klaerner of Fredericksburg have been turned over to the Coleman, West Texas League club.

HONORED FOR HIS WORK

Because of his great interest in wrestling, Coach Sheridan at Lehigh was recently feted by the team and given a set of gold cuff links.

LOOKS LIKE GREAT PROSPECT

Johnny White, former Fordham star, is playing with Columbus in the American Association this year and is being touted as a sure big leaguer of the future.

Pyle Encounters Trouble On 2nd Day Of Foot Race

Trenton, N. J., Officials Refuse To Allow Bunion Derby Troupe To Pitch Tents; "Cross Delaware"

TRENTON, N. J., Apr. 1.—(AP)—Finishing second in today's 46-mile lap, Juul Cools of Belgium took the lead today for the two laps of the 1929 edition of C. C. Pyle's transcontinental bunion derby. Cools, third yesterday, came in behind Paul Simpson of Burlington, N. C., today.

Simpson won the 46.4 mile jaunt from Elizabeth to Trenton by a good margin, covering the distance in six hours, ten minutes, 50 seconds. Cools, finishing today in 6:24:20 beat him out by only a few seconds in the two day total.

Trenton officials refused to allow Pyle to pitch his tents and stage his show here, so the caravan had to go across the Delaware River to Morrisville, Pa., from where it will start tomorrow.

Pyle ran into a writ of attachment here and two of the brightly painted automobiles of the entourage were seized.

Stoner Is Jinx

Roommates of Tiger Hurler Take Trail

DETROIT, April 1.—For ball players who have gone south to training quarters with the Detroit Tigers during the past several years and were assigned as roommates of "Lil" Stoner, it has been a case of "Abandon hope, all ye who enter here."

The fate of those who have been called upon to share a room with Stoner has been a trek back over the rough trail to the minors. Nothing seems to save them.

Nearly half a dozen Tigers who can be recalled off-hand, tried it, disappeared, and they seldom come back to the majors.

Rookies and regulars have been treated with equal disdain by the Stoner jinx.

However, the jinx cannot function this year for Stoner drew Coach George McBride for a roommate. But even George had better watch out.

"Red" Wingo was the last one to feel the heavy paw of the Stoner jinx. Before "Red" were Bassler, Billings, Doyle, Barfoot, Burke and Rufus Clark.

The situation has become so acute that even Stoner himself has come to warn prospective "roomies" in advance.

Fort Worth Cats Trim Frogs, 3 to 0

FORT WORTH, April 1. (AP)—The Fort Worth Panthers did not find it an easy job to defeat the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs today. The score was 3 to 0.

Charles Kearney, rookie right hander, and Ben Weaver, elongated lad obtained from Fort Smith the latter part of the 1928 season, did the flinging for the Panthers.

The Nut Cracker

The Tigers may not go to the coast next year "because there are so many changes of making whoopee" out there. Mr. O'Goofty says they ought to find some other town in which to play their home games too.

Glenna Collett Wins Medal Round

PINEHURST, N. C., Apr. 1.—(AP)—Shooting a record 73, Glenna Collett of Providence R. I., National Woman's champion, took medal honors today in the qualifying round of the North and South women's tournament.

Miss Collett went out in 35, believed to be a record round for women, and returned in 40 to finish the 18 holes seven strokes ahead of Miss Martha Parker of New York.

Four were tied for third place. They were Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, Miss Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, Ohio; Miss Marion Turpie, of New Orleans, and Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, defending champion.

CORSICANA IS OUT

Franchise In Lone Star To Go To McKinney

DALLAS, April 1. (AP)—Corsicana definitely has surrendered its franchise in the Lone Star League. President Fisher of the league informed Dallas baseball officials from Paris tonight. Inability to raise sufficient funds to operate the club was given as the reason for withdrawal.

McKinney will take over the Oiler franchise, it is understood here. Ray Falk, manager of the Oilers, is slated to boss the McKinney crew in event the transfer is made.

South Plains And Panhandle Teams To Meet In Track

Medley Relay Will Be Feature Of Contest Staged At Hale County Capital; Lubbock May Enter

(Special To The Avalanche)

PLAINVIEW, April 1.—Plainview will be the scene Friday of the first annual Panhandle and South Plains track and field meet, it has been announced here by high school authorities. The leading high schools of these sections have been invited to compete.

Beginning an event which will doubtless continue through the years Plainview high school officials are expecting one of the largest gatherings of thinly clads that was ever assembled here to participate in the events arranged for the contest.

The meet will be featured by a special relay in addition to the regular track and field events. A tennis tournament will also be held in connection with the meet. Some of the crack netters of this Plains country are expected.

Loving cups will be awarded the teams which finish in first and second places, the high point man of the meet and the winner of the medley relay. Individual trophies will be presented winners of first, and third places in all events.

Officials of the meet have announced that the preliminaries in the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, the 120 high and 220 hurdles will be run off Friday morning. The events will start at 10 o'clock. Finals will begin Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

Lubbock Likely To Enter At Plainview

Although it was not certain Coach E. J. Lowry, of Lubbock High school, announced last night that this city will probably be represented by seventeen athletes in the invitation Panhandle and South Plains track and field meet to be staged at Plainview Friday.

The local tracksters carried off the county meet with flying colors last Saturday and are in prime condition for further competition. The question as to whether or not the Westerners will enter the Plainview meet will depend upon action taken on another meet which is being considered.

Tech Engineers To Give First Annual Show On April 20

Entire Plant At College To Be Put In Operation For Puble Inspection; Invitation To All Given

The first Engineers Show, which is to be an annual affair and which will be a real "Open House" at the School of Engineering, Texas Technological college is to be held Saturday, April 20, beginning at 2:00 o'clock p. m., according to an announcement from Kinsey Miller of Lubbock, senior student in the Mechanical Engineering department who is in charge of advertising the show.

The seven departments, the three engineering buildings, the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of engineering equipment and apparatus and the students and faculty members of the Engineering school will all be employed to give the general public the most complete impression of what the Engineering School is doing that is possible.

See Entire Plant.

"We have had a number of people come to visit us," Dean Wm. J. Miller stated Monday. These people see one department and then another, but this will give us an opportunity to show those interested the entire plant in operation."

Special tests will be in operation for the benefit of the visitors in all departments. An abundance of entertainment will be offered also. The Texas Tech Band will furnish music during the afternoon. Free picture shows, showing both entertaining films and industrial pictures will be run in the projection room in the Main Engineering building.

All Labortories Open.

The three buildings to be inspected are the Main Engineering Building, the Textile Engineering Building and the Mechanical Engineering building. All the laboratories, the Textile mill machinery the mechanical shops, and other places of interest will be open to the public.

"We are especially interested in entertaining business men not only here in Lubbock but in other towns and cities," Kinsey Miller stated today. "We are also anxious to entertain the high school students from schools over the state."

The Engineering Show will be held on the same day of the district interscholastic League meet and many students will be here to participate or to watch the meet and will have an opportunity to see the Engineers' show.

Souvenirs to Be Given.

Another interesting feature of the first show is the announcement from Kinsey Miller that most every department will offer some souviner that is made by students in the department. A cob pipe is a likely gift of one department, while a napkin or some souvenir from the Textile department may be forthcoming and similar articles will likely be issued out to the visitors by other departments.

The show is in the charge of a Senior committee, composed of one representative from each of the seven departments. This committee is being supported by the Engineering society, which is made up of students of the School of Engineering. Members of the committee are: June Hewitt, Plainview, architectural engineering, chairman; B. A. Schmidt, Pafiya, electrical engineering; J. F. Sanders, Haskell, chemical engineering; Ray Thomas, Tehuanana, textile engineering; Neville B. Graham, Quion, civil engineering, and J. T. Gist, Colorado, cogolical department.

Dean Wm. J. Miller, of the Engineering school is ex-officio member of the committee.

Harsh, Gallogy Given Life Terms

ATLANTA, Ga., April 1 (AP).—George R. Harsh and Richard O. Gallogly, wealthy former Oglethorpe university students, today pleaded guilty to murder and were sentenced to life imprisonment.

On agreement, the action was taken immediately after Harsh, member of a Milwaukee family, had been granted a new trial following his conviction and sentence to death for the murder of Willard Smith, a drug clerk, during a hold-up. At his previous trial he had entered a plea of no tguilty by reason of mental irresponsibility.

Gallogly was permitted to enter a similar plea and receive sentence after having been tried twice without a jury verdict.

Chicago Police Hold Man Who Murdered To Shine As Hero In Girl's Eye

By ROY J. GIBBONS
Staff Writer for Central Press and Avalanche-Journal

CHICAGO, April 1. — Stanley Reichel, 25-year-old motorman, faces the electric chair here because, police say, he cold-bloodedly planned and carried out the murder of an innocent dupe in an effort to shine as a hero in the eyes of a girl and her wealthy parent.

His daughter, Frances, so John Maslanka, the father, had indicated might look higher than a motorman for a mate. Thus was the germ of the plot planted in the brain of the infatuated Reichel, who himself is married but estranged from his wife. Police authorities say he worked the entire scheme out in advance with Machiavellian cunning. As they re-enact it, the boy waxed desperately over his failure in the game of hearts. He conceived the thought to blackmail the father for $500, threatening his daughter's life as the penalty for non-payment.

The father merely reported the attempted extortion to the authorities, but the girl was distraught. As Reichel had planned, she told him of the blackmail letter, because he previously had concocted a falsehood for her consumption to the effect that he had quit his job on the street cars and entered the secret service.

Plot Lacked Action

More letters followed the first. What the plot lacked was action—and something to give it substance. Reichel, investigators declare, supplied this essential by brutally beating to death Michael Hrybski, an automobile installment collector, in a garage at the rear of the Reichel home. Then, with the blood of his victim still on his hands, he hurried to the home of Miss Maslanka to bask in the warmth of her approval of the hero who had tracked down and killed in single-handed combat the extortioner who had threatened her life.

It is so the police paint the picture. Reichel admits the killing, but claims he was attacked by Hrybski and struck him down in self-defense.

His story is fantastic and, police say, shot through with falsehoods.

In a seven-page statement, which he did not sign, Reichel declares that his victim really was the blackmailer of Maslanka and that he tracked him down personally. Hrybski, he intimates, perhaps learned that he was under suspicion and lay in wait for him (Reichel) in the garage.

"I had proof on March 18 that Hrybski had written those letters to Mr. Maslanka and I asked Mr. Maslanka if he wanted the man caught," declared Reichel. "He told me he didn't. Then I told Frances about it and she said she would never be satisfied until the man who wrote those letters was killed. Her mother and her sister, Stephanie, told her she was crazy to talk that way.

"Tuesday night as I was putting my car into my garage, I noticed the door was partly open. I started in and saw a strange car standing there. Then something hit me on the head. I was dizzy but not knocked out, and got hold of a lamp and fender bracket and swung. A man fell down. I went into the house and then, realizing that my hat had been knocked off in the scuffle, returned to the garage. It was only then that I saw the man I had hit was Hrybski.

Goes to Tell Girl.

"I started for the Maslanka home to tell Frances what I had done before I called the police. I was going to show her that the man who wrote the letters to her father was dead. When I arrived at her house, the police arrested me."

Later Reichel insisted Hrybski had shown him a letter that Hrybski said was to be mailed to Maslanka that night. This letter has not been received.

The Maslanka girl told the authorities that she had met Reichel when they both worked in a piano factory. Later he told her he had left the company and was doing secret service work, she said.

"I did not know that Reichel was married," she said. "He was no more than a casual acquaintance and I certainly was not in love with him."

Resembles Other Murders

The murder of Hrybski bears a certain resemblance to the killing by Carl Wanderer of his wife and an unidentified dupe known as the "Ragged Stranger," here several years ago, and to the murder of little Bobby Franks by Loeb and Leopold, police say. In the Franks murder case, the boy's father was instructed to throw the ransom demanded from a moving train at a certain spot. The Maslanka extortion letters demanded that the $500 also be thrown from a moving vehicle, a street car.

Reichel, who has been held to the grand jury for trial, is a nervous and seemingly undernourished youth with shifty, evasive eyes. He talks fast and has the nonchalance about him of an actor. Yet he quailed when police clapped him into a cell and brought him face to face with the reality of the situation which, to appease an unrequited love, they declare he concocted in the delirium of his melodramatic ambition.

Probe Of Liquor Case Is Started

Tuttle Begins Investigation Of Reports On Baggage Find On Representative Morgan, Of Ohio

NEW YORK, April 1. — United States Attorney Charles Tuttle today began an investigation of reports that Representative William M. Morgan of Ohio brought four bottles of liquor into the country a week ago. Representative Morgan has repeatedly denied the truth of the reports.

As soon as he reached his office Mr. Tuttle communicated with H. C. Stuart, assistant collector of the port, and instructed him to send to the federal attorney's office all customs inspectors, agents and other persons having any knowledge of the facts concerning the arrival of Mr. Morgan on the liner Cristobal and the contents of his baggage.

Until he had questioned the customs men, Mr. Tuttle said he could not tell whether he would request Mrs. Thomas Hall, widow of a Bismark, N. D., congressman, to come before him. The reports about Representative Morgan included statements that Mrs. Hall, also a passenger on the Cristobal, had demanded free entry and when this was refused had been assured by Mr. Morgan that when he got back to Washington he would attend to the matter.

Killin Announces Citizens' Camps

Lubbock youths will again be offered a month's vacation with pay this summer through the Citizen's Military Training Camps, according to an announcement made yesterday by Lt. H. E. Killin, Tech military instructor, who is in charge of the enrolling of Lubbock youths for the camps. Lieutenant Killin stated that he would be in his office at any time during the afternoons of the next two months and will furnish information to any above or men who might wish to attend one of the camps.

An effort will be made, Lieutenant Killin said, to have a Lubbock patoon at Fort Sam Houston in San Antonio, the camp for this region. A number of boys are planning on attending the camp, he said. Transportation to and from the camp and a month's army pay will be given the students. All boys 17 years of age and over are eligible to attend.

The camp at Fort Sam Houston opens June 12 and continues until July 14.

Tahoka Plans For City "White Way"

TAHOKA, April 1.—The City Council of this place met yesterday afternoon in company with Judge Kelso, president of the West Texas Utilities company, and Hubert Allen, the Lubbock manager of the company and went into details of erecting a white way in the business section of Tahoka.

Mayor Dr. J. R. Singleton reported after the meeting that the city council voted to have the white way erected at an early date. The council set Monday evening to meet and designate the location of the lights over the business section.

The civic committee of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce of which J. E. Nance is chairman took up the matter of a white way a little over a week ago. With the houses in Tahoka numbered and the names recently placed on all street corners and a new theater soon to be built Tahoka is fast taking on the appearance of a city.

Dr. Singleton also stated that the city was granted a decrease of about 25 percent in the current used for pumping water.

"Boys In Blue" May Not Be Intact

DETROIT, April 1 (AP)—Fifteen of the "Boys in Blue," all who are left of the pride of Detroit in Civil War days, are to meet April 13, to decide whether they shall meet again. Dissension, 65 years and more after Gettysburg, and Antietam, threatens the existence of Detroit post of the Grand Army of the Republic. Some of the members, the youngest of whom is 84, think they are too old and say it is too difficult to get out to meetings.

Even the commander, John L. Hinman, staunch leader of those who favor continuing the post admits there are difficulties. Not many of the boys ever are able to attend meetings. Seldom are more than four or five present; some times only two. The post finds it hard to pay rent for the meeting place.

As the lines are drawn now, three members favor disbanding three are just as strong for sticking it out, four are undecided, two are too ill to be consulted, and three have moved to distant states.

Forty years ago the post's roll was a blue book of Detroit. Its members were leaders of Michigan in business and politics, including Hazen S. Pingree, governor of Michigan; Claudius B. Grant, justice of the state supreme court; George L. Maltz, state treasurer, and many others. But these have passed and only one or two of the 15 members who survive are in business.

TEXAS TECH TOPICS

Y. W. C. A. INSTALLS OFFICERS

Installation of officers of the Tech Y. W. C. A. was held in the chapel of the First Methodist church last night at 8 o'clock. Miss Mary Hope Westbrook former president of the organization played a prelude after which the invocation was given by Ruth Lefforge. Mrs. Mary W. Doak made a statement of the purpose of the "Y" and response was made by Miss Lefforge, Lizzie Belle Clements, and Lillian Nelson, retiring officers. Instruction was given to the incoming officers and they responded. They are Margaret Cooper, president; Mary Jo Underwood, vice-president; Lizzie Belle Clements, treasurer, and Genevieve Meredith, secretary.

Envoi was given after this part of the program by the new president and communion was administered by Dr. John C. Granbery. Following the singing of "Follow the Gleam," Doctor Granbery gave the prayer of dismissal.

Cecil Horne, director of publicity of the college and Duelle Clemens, student will represent Tech at the third annual meet of the Southwestern Intercollegiate Press association which convenes at C. I. A. at Denton Friday of this week. Tech is a member of the association.

The Sock and Buskin, Tech dramatic club, will present the "Killer" at their regular meeting tonight. As this is not a play demanding royalty people other than members are invited to attend.

Dr. John C. Granbery has returned from Austin where he attended the meeting of the Southwestern Politician and Social Science association which convened for its annual session at Austin the past week-end. Doctor Granbery read a paper on the "Psychological Factor in Relation Between the United States and Latin American Countries."

Dispatches Of War In China Conflict

Oposing Factions In China Claim Advances Against Each Other; Naval Protection Given Consul

(By Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, April 1.—Dispatches of war developments up river, where nationalists are trying to advance through Hupeh province against Hankow, were conflicting tonight.

It seemed established that the nationalists were successfully continuing their advance, with their forces in the northern half of Hupeh meeting stiffer opposition than those on the north bank of the Yangstse river.

Nanking military authorities announced that the head of their forces on the north bank of the Yangstse had reached Yanglo, 25 miles below Hankow, and that Nanking gunboats were bombarding the river shore within 15 miles of the Kwangsi leaders' stronghold.

Although Nanking claims that Hankow will fall by April 6, Hankow dispatches describe military leaders there as confident of their ability to hold off the attack. Despite this confidence it is said plans for evacuation southward have been made.

Foreign communities and river ports have not been disturbed but foreign consuls have completed plans for a hasty concentration in case of necessity.

The American consular officials at Hankow and Nanking have requested naval protection. American ships have already arrived at those places and are expected shortly at Klukiang and Wuhu.

Winslow Resigns From Judge's Post

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—United States District Judge Francis A. Winslow, 66, today announced his resignation, and so halted congressional investigation into charges of maladministration of justice, made against him in the house.

Winslow, elevated to the federal bench by President Harding six years ago, sent his resignation to President Hoover last week. It reached the president today and was accepted.

Winslow was charged in the house by Congressman F. H. La Guardia with "grave irregularities" in the conduct of bankruptcy matters.

Texas Plans For Special Train To Atlantic Seaboard

Special Good Will Train To Leave Dallas, May 15; Designated As "All Texas Dairy And Industrial"

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, April 1.—The schedule of the special good will train that will carry a large number of the Texas business persons to the Atlantic seaboard has been announced here.

W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls has been selected to head the tour.

The object of the trip, it is said, is to express the "good will" of Texas business and allow Texans to inspect dairy and textile industries in the territory to be visited. The excursion has been named the "All Texas Dairy and Industrial Tour."

Leaves May 15.

The special will leave Dallas with about 225 passengers on May 15 and will return on May 25. Stops will be made at Starkville and Tupelo, Miss.; Sheffield and Hunysville, Ala.; Chatanooga and Knoxville, Tenn.; Ashville, Gastonia and Charlotte, N. C.; Greenville, SC.; Atlanta, Ga.; Birmingham and Montgomery, Ala., and New Orleans. The cities will be visited in the order named.

Unlike the original all-Texas tour two years ago, which was made up of only men, women have been invited to make the trip, and a number of county home demonstration agents are expected to make the tour.

Gov. Dan Moody will be unable to board the special, but has sent his best wishes for the success of the undertaking.

The tour has the endorsement of the East and West Texas Chambers of Commerce.

Fred L. Haskett, with headquarters at the Adolphus hotel, Dallas, is train manager.

BUY ROAD GRADERS

Howard County To Get Much Highway Work

(Special To The Avalanche)

BIG SPRING, April 1.—The commissioners court purchased seventeen new road maintainers which have been received and will be placed on the Howard county roads. These graders have eight foot blades and were purchased for $184 each. This makes a total of 36 graders in Howard county. These maintainers are kept by some farmers and after a rain the roads are dragged at a cost of $288 after each rain.

Man Making 'Buy' Is Shooting Case Denies Purchase

(By Associated Press)

AURORA, Ill., April 1.—The man who made the "buy" in the Deking liquor raid case has been found. He is Philip Johnson, and he has told attorneys he did not purchase liquor from Mrs. Lillian Deking at all.

The shooting to death of Mrs. Deking a week ago by a deputy sheriff took place at the Deking home during a raid made under a search warrant. The warrant, in turn, was predicated on a "buy" of liquor which Eugene Boyd Fairchild, acting as a county investigator, declared he had made from a woman at the Deking home.

Complaint Inaccurate.

Fairchild told authorities the complaint on which the warrant was obtained was inaccurate in declaring he personally had made the purchase. He said Johnson, son of a gas station owner at Batavia, Ill., had been the actual buyer of the liquor, using money which Fairchild furnished.

Johnson, who volunteered his story to attorneys representing Joseph Deking, said he did not buy the liquor at the Deking home, or from a woman, as the Fairchild complaint declared. The "buy" was made, Johnson said, "from a man in front of Stafford's Filling station," which is near the Deking home.

Carbary reiterated his belief that Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith, who did the shooting, acted in self-defense, believing that Mrs. Deking intended to shoot him after he had slugged her husband, Joseph. The deputy was himself shot in the leg by te Deking's young son, Gerald, and is recovering in a hospital.

SCRIPTURE—I looked on my right hand, and beheld there was no man that would know me: refuge failed me; no man cared for my soul.

I cried unto thee, O Lord: I said, Thou art my refuge and my portion in the land of the living.—Psalm cxlii, 4, 5.

WHAT IS BEST TO DO?

Who knows? It is aquestion that has puzzled many of the legal minds as well as the clergy of the land, and the plain ordinary laymen; this thing of capital punishment. We read an interesting article a few days ago regarding the crime wave, the number of convictions and death sentences in Dallas, and the effect that so many of the escapes from the state penitentiary has on the fellows who are fortunate in securing a prison sentence: The writer of the article editorializes in this way regarding the situation:

Following a campaign of several years for law enforcement with a vengence in Dallas county since the first of the year has sentenced six men to die in the electric chair. None of those men have yet been executed and some may escape the extreme pnalty. For several years Dallas juries have had the reputation of dealing sternly, especially with those that rob with firearms. The ultimate effect of these extreme sentences can best be determined after it is found whether all of the men sentenced to die finally make the fatal journey to the chair. Meantime there appears to be no appreciable falling off in capital crimes in Dallas county.

This condition brings forward again the old question of whether capital punishment is advisable. It gives opponents of the extreme penalty good ground for argument.

On the other hand, we can not escape the fact that sentence to prisons of Texas doesn't mean mucit for a bad man of intelligence. Te record of escapes from month to month, almost from day to day, is so much in favor of the man who really wants to escape that he has little to fear—if he is smart.

The fundamental purpose of a prison system is not to visit vengence upon offenders but to cause the offender to think of his errors of the past and make amends. We will all agree that the poorest reform system that could be imagined now is to be found not only in the Texas prisons but in every other prison of the land—including federal institutions. No matter what the fundamental purposes of these prisons may be the public conception is that they should make life unpleasant for the inmates and for the most part the guards usually see to it that very few people serving time have a very good time. Exceptions are to be found in the cases of men with ample means, who are given soft jobs and whatever luxuries prison life may be expected to offer—and on a comparative basis luxuries are to be found in prisons.

Whether we want to admit it, our ideals in the meeting out of justice—and punishment where needed—are founded on the customs and practices and customs of primitive men. It is doubtful if civilization will ever get us completely away from this. Rout vengence from the world and you will have heaven. That can never be under the present order of things. It isn't so promised in the Scriptures—not until the millennium, which will change the order of things.

Persons that have murder in their hearts, criminals that rob with firearms and would shoot at the drop of a hat if they thought their victims were going to resist or discover their identity, are too dangerous for society to be permitted to run at large. It is even hazardous to put them in prisons where the chances are in favor their escape. The best thing to do is put them out of the way.

Our prisons, however, might be relieved of their congested conditions and society might be better protected by the re-establishment of the barbaric whipping post.

That old institution, pretty generally outlawed by the march of civilization, would certainly offer a better reform agency than anybody can ever expect to develop from a modern prison. It also would afford a certain degree of punishment that some crimes merit. Bullies that have to cringe from the lash at the whipping post never want to go through such humiliaton again. Those interested in prisen reform might think that over.

LUBBOCK SHOWS SPIRIT THAT BUILDS

In the Roswell Dispatch of last Friday, notice was given by Will Robinson in his special column, of the progressive spirit of the people who have made Lubbock. Will in his column which he chooses to call "Wilrob's Column" says:

"When one considers the way in which Lubbock is sifting sand to get the Santa Fe into Lovington, it is to cease to wonder at the wonderful growth of that city. It is alive all the time. In this case it realizes perfectly well that its interest are all with the Santa Fe. There is no neutrality there. Even Lovington, the storm center of the whole shooting match, and Roswell, which often boasts about its progressive understanding, have much to learn from Lubbock. That town has the spirit which builds cities."

And it is a never dying spirit, too, it seems. For thirty years this type of citizen has operated in Lubbock. In the early days when only a few, perhaps fifty people, resided in Lubbock there was that spirit of progress and perserverence that built. Slowly at first but finally increasing in momentum until it has attained a speed that it making it bring us into the front ranks of the progressive cities of Texas and of the entire southwest. The progressve building spirit of Lubbock has attracted a great deal of attention from all points of the compass. From all parts of Texas, and we might say the entire nation because of the national publicity that has been given the city and the South Plains section. There is not a Lubbock citizen who is not proud of the progress that Lubbock has made and it is with a great deal of genuine pride that Lubbock people read of the nice things that we are printed about this city.

STEWART PAUSES TO ANALYZE COLONEL THEODORE ROOSEVELT, JR.

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent

ASHINGTON, April 1. — To pooh-pooh Col. Teddy Roosevelt, Jr., is quite the fashion.

The chorus of pooh-poohs rose to a climax recently when the young man was suggested for the governor generalship of the Philippines. Naturally. A lot of politicians want that job. If Teddy can be poh-pooh'd out of it—leave it to them.

With no wish to push him for that or any other post, suppose we give the colonel the once over, to see whether we can arrive at some sort of a conclusion concerning the calibre of citizen he is.

• • • •

It is Teddy junior's hard luck that people persist in comparing him with his father.

Robert T. Lncoln, for instance, never would permit himself to be compared with his sire. He made a hermit of himself to avoid it. Throughout most of his career he dodged public life, for that special reason.

The second and third generations of Grants have done the same thing, without carrying it to quite such extremes. They always have been satsfied to be a great man's descendants—each, on his own account, merely a good average.

• • • •

Young Teddy happens to have much the same tastes and ambitions as Theodore I. He has gone in for politics. And why not—if he chooses—as well as anybody?

However, it makes him conspicuous, necessarily And instead of estimating him on the basis of his intrinsic worth as an individual, the public insists on estimating him as his father's son.

• • • •

This has been pretty severe on him.

It gave him an early, easy start, to be sure: but, in the long run, that may only prove to have handicapped him.

Probably Teddy, senior, made a few mistakes in his youth, too. If so, they did not count heavily against him, because he was young. By the time he had achieved greatness they were forgotten.

Teddy, junior, has no such allowances made for him.

From the very outset he has had to stand the contrast between himself and his father—in the latter's prime.

• • • •

They may say what they please, but young Teddy was a middling good assistant secretary of the navy.

True, he fell for the transfer of Elk Hills and Teapot Dome from the navy to the department of the interior, but it was his superior's policy not his. He could only have protested, at most, and he failed to see the Ethiopian in the woodpile. So did a great many other supposedly capable officials. Indeed. Numerous competent naval authorities still insist that, at least in principle, it was a good thing.

The colonel was an assistant naval secretary of considerable decisiveness and character and not all his decisions were wrong. He hated red tape. He had nerve.

• • • •

Quite likely Teddy II would be anything but a conciliatory governor general of the Philippines.

Teddy 1. before him, was not a conciliatory personality.

One complaint of Teddy II is that he tries to imitate his father. Perhaps he does. After all, it is no bad quality in a son to consider that his father was a great man—and, feeling thus, to endeavor to follow as closely in his footsteps as he knows how.

RUBBING ONE EYE WILL NOT REMOVE CINDER FROM OTHER

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal ofthe American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

This advice is about as good as any advice that can be given to the average man about removing a cinder from the eye. Rubbing the good eye is not nearly so likely to do harm as rubbing the eye with the cinder.

There is one important rule for the person who gets something in his eye—do not rub that eye! If the cinder is on the delicate membrane that lines the eyelids or on the glass-like tissue that covers the front of the eyeball, rubbing will merely scratch the tissue, push the cinder farther in and make it harder for someone who knows how to get it out.

Furthermore, when the cinder is finally removed, it will still be necessary for the open scratch to heal. Sometimes rubbing of the good eye will cause both eyes to water, which process will be salutary since that is nature's way of flooding the tissues.

The simplest thing to do is to pull the upper lid over the lower one with the hope that the lashes of the lower one may sweep off the upper lid and loosen the cinder. If this is repeated several times the cinder will usually come out.

The person who knows how can turn back the lid and with a piece of sterile gauze pick off the cinder. If the cinder sticks deeply in the tissue, do not let some friend try to rub it out with a handkerchief. Do try to lift it out with a toothpick and do not let any drugstore clerk or inexperienced person fuss with it. Unclean hands or gauze will carry infection into the eyes far more serious than the effects of the cinder.

If you believe that rubbing the other eye will cause the cinder to come out, try it. If the cinder comes out you are lucky but the treatment is not scientific.

Spring Offensive In Mexico

SO THINK WE

We think if it had of been the first of April, we might have decided that it was an April fool stunt but falling on Easter Sunday, we cannot conceive of a man being given three years for shooting down another man on a few seconds warning, as was done down Tyler way Sunday, when a jury rendered a verdict of guilty and assessed punishment at three years imprisonment. If the man was guilty of murder, we are of the opinion his punishment should have been imprisonment for life and if not guilty he should have been given his freedom.

We think that March behaved herself exceptionally well this year, and April opened for a fine start. With a good season in the ground and a few warm days this country will be as green as a wheat field, and it looks like this might be the kind of weather we could have.

We think there will be one thing that the razing of the old Merrill hotel will not reveal, and that is a frog in the corner stone. In the days that this old landmark was erected, it was not on the minds of the builders to become famous for their cruelty to animals or frogs. The building was erected to take care of a need at that time, and many people that this hotel would take care of the needs of this city for many years to come, but it did not, and since it is to give place to twelve or possibly fourteen story hotel, it goes to show that even the boys of that day and time could not see far enough in advance to build for the future.

We think there are many people who break the laws of the land every day, but possibly they do not know it. There are so many laws on the books of this state and of this nation, that a fellow would have to be a whizzer to know all of them, and how to keep from breaking them.

We think that when husbands talk in their sleep they should apologize to their wife for interfering with her sleep.

We think it would make George Washington blush if he knew how many lies the postage stamp with his picture on it, carried through the mails. Its a fine thing that he does not know we are sure.

We think some people get very much wrought up over the actions of public officials, but usually it is caused by not knowing just what all enters into the proposition. It is easy to criticise, and very often the verdict is rendered withput hardly any of the evidence being in.

We think there are fewer people come to the South Plains and tire of the country and return to where they came from than any other section of the state. The percentage we are sure would be very small if it was shown in figures.

We think if you should take a ride over Lubbock you would be of the opinion that there is thirty thousand people in Lubbock instead of twenty thousand.

We think if it is true that waves of crime follow as an aftermath of war, Mexico will never be free from crime, or even be reasonably free of it.

—o—

We think about the only relief that representatives of Wall Street would think of giving the average farmer would be to loan him call money at twenty per cent interest.

—o—

We think that the men to figure out the relief plan, if there is such a thing, through acts of congress, would be to have a committee of practical farmers, to give their ideas of the kind of relief necessary, and confer with the committee from congress and composed of other representatives.

—o—

We think some of these damage suits do not turn out just as some folks would have them. For example, here is one from New Orleans. While the plaintiff won in the suit, which happened to be the girl in the case, one of the conditions was that she return all of the jewels trinkets, etc., that the young man had given her during the period of their engagement, and these jewels amounted to more than the damages asked.

AGELESS

Justice Holmes of the United States supreme court has just turned 88. He celebrated his birthday by putting in a busy day in court. He has been in his high office nearly 27 years. A commentator says this highly interesting thing about Justice Holmes:

"Variously known as the 'great liberal' and the 'great dissenter' Justice Holmes, in the opinion of court attaches, is as young in mind and as responsive to changing conditions of the world as he was on the day that he assumed the black robe.

"A fondness for work and an abiding sense of humor are declared by friends to be the secret of his ripe age and his clearness of vision."

MILLIONS FOR WHAT?

New York is said to spend fifty million dollars a year on theater tickets. "New York" of course, is meant to include the hundreds of thousands of visitors in the city every week. Most people go to the theater for fun, for amusement, for recreation, for entertainment and nothing else. A few go for education. They visit the most thoughtful and the most serious plays. It is not money badly spent, although the amount may be a little out of proportion, considering all the other things one might spend money for in New York. The theater, at its best, brings life more abundantly to thousands.

WHAT DID HE LEAVE?

One of the first questions after the funeral is: "What did he leave?" Some way we can't escape our gripping interest in wealth. We even fool ourselves into thinking we are the good friends of some men, when the fact is we only admire their riches and their capacity for making money. The Flynn brothers, hermits 70 years old and more, lived in a shack near Chicago. They died and only three persons were at the funeral. Later it was found they left $250,000—and 30 people turned up in court to claim the money.

A HUMAN DOCUMENT

Frequently men who feel the most deeply, who suffer the most in sorrow, express themselves the least noticeably. They carry an impenetrable reserve behind which they suffer in silence. President Coolidge talked little. He felt much. Nobody can read his article on the presidency, in the Cosmopolitan, without saying to himself: "Here, indeed, is a human document."

It throws a new lift on the great president, and people will love him the better for his feelings, expressed at last.

PRESS COMMENT

LEGISLATIVE SPEED IN VERMONT

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican: The Legislature of the State of Vermont is a three-day body. It believes neither in rash expenditure nor in waste of time. Its last session was the shortest in more than a quarter of a century and it has been enjoying comparatively short sessions from time immemorial. But the lawmakers of Calvin Coolidge's native state did not neglect their work. They plowed through a mass of measures with a thoroughness that left no signs of unloosened ground. Not only did the legislature lay out a program of modern highway construction but it also took important steps to preserve and perpetuate its scenic attractions. It kept a shrewd eye on prospective expenditures and did not let anything slip by that would tend toward burdensome taxation. The proposed state income tax measure hardly lasted long enough to tell about it. On the other hand, the tax on gasoline got a little boost as did also the sheriff's fee for making arrests.

Pushing the plow along with a vigor that presaged a well-tilled legislative field was Governor Weeks, who "cracked the whip" but once, and then with such force and decision that the response was immediate. Some wet influences had evidently for the moment percolated into the Legislature when a bill was passed providing for a reduction from $300 to $50 in the minimum fine for liquor law violations. Governor Week's sharp message accompanying his veto brought the legislature at once into line. His veto was unanimously sustained.

WHAT AILS OKLAHOMA?

New York World: Oklahoma was admitted as a State Nov. 16, 1907. It has now some 2,500,000 people and great wealth in agriculture and oil wells. Already it is above the average of the States in wealth and population. Its percentage of illiteracy is low, its schools excellent. With perhaps 70 per cent of its people urban dwellers, it has cities big enough to support strong newspapers. Yet of seven administrations since it became a state, only two have escaped charges of impeachment for some member. And two governors within six years have been tried after impeachment.

Gov. Jack Walton was removed under impeachment in 1923. Now Governor Johnston follows him into the discard; and as twenty-five Senate Democrats voted against him and only seven in his favor—he is a Democrat—we must believe the verdict just. Elected for a four-year term, Governor Johnston was in trouble almost from the beginning. At one point in the long fight to remove him, in December, 1927, something like civil war was threatened when a session of the House called to impeach him was barred from the capitol by National Guardsmen armed with machine guns. During 1923 the system of biennial sessions saved him. Now he is out at last upon the inclusive charge of incompetency.

What ails Oklahoma? With its swift and splendid growth, its inflow of vigorous and intelligent settlers, its schools and its press, it should be a well-governed State. Why does it fall down so often? Is it bad management? It is bad luck? Is it a disease of infancy to be outgrown? The answer is of considerable importance to a great State and to the Union of States.

The Chicago Undertakers' Association says that a funeral costs less than half as much in Chicago as it does in New York. Mass production certainly cuts down the high cost of dying.—Chicago Tribune.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

RUTH LESTER, secretary, finds the body of her employer, "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDDEN, Monday morning sprawled beneath the airshaft window of his private office. He was shot some time between one and four Saturday afternoon.

McMANN, detective sergeant, questions the following suspects: Ruth, MRS. BORDEN, Borden's estranged wife and mother of his two children, who admits calling on him Saturday afternoon; RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, who says she called on Borden Saturday afternoon to get the torn half of a $500 bill he promised her; JACK HAYWARD, Ruth's finance, whose office is across the narrow airshaft from Borden's.

Hayward says he returned to the seventh floor Saturday afternoon to get his and Ruth's matinee tickets left on his desk. McMann's belief in Jack's guilt is strengthened by the testimony of MICKY MORAN and OTTO PFLIGER, elevator boys, and BILL COWAN, Jack's friend, who tells of having heard Jack threaten Borden's life.

A detective is sent for CLEO GILMAN, Borden's discarded mistress. BENNY SMITH, Borden's office boy, says he returned to the office Saturday afternoon to get Ruth's gun for target practice but it was already gone. ASHE, Borden's manservant, tells McMann of a woman with a beautiful contralto voice of whom Borden lived in fear.

MINNIE CASSIDY, scrubwoman, tells of going to Borden's office at 1:30 Saturday, answering his phone while he was out, and of telling the woman with a "beautiful alto voice" that Borden refused to talk to her then but asked her to call later. Ruth asks Mrs. Borden if her husband knew some woman with a beautiful contralto voice. The widow haughtily evades the question.

Lotty Miller, woman who cleans Jack's office, says she was detayed in her Saturday cleaning by the return of Jack to his office, that she went away and did not see Jack leave. McMann receives a wire from Adams, one of Borden's stock salesmen, giving his alibi. Ruth tries to defend Jack to McMann, who seems convinced of her fiance's guilt. McMann gruffly extends his hand and says significantly, "Take a look at this."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXII

Ruth Lester's hand crept out but her crinsing flesh rebelled. She could not force her fingers to close upon the small, flattened-out lead bullet which lay upon the palm of Detective Sergeant McMann's big hand.

"The — bullet which killed — Mr. Borden?" she gasped. "But I—don't understand. It's—flat—"

"Yes, it's flat," McMann agreed, with dreadful significance. "And it's not the bullet which killed Borden. It's—the bullet he fired in defense of his life—but just an instane too late."

Ruth shrank into her chair. "Please tell me. I don't understand."

McMann's hard gray eyes dropped. "Detective Carlson found this bullet while you were out to lunch with Hayward. He found it on that strip of cement seven flights below," and McMann pointed to the window overlooking the airshaft. "And after Carlson found this—" the detective returned the flattened bullet to his pocket and rose from Borden's desk—"I found something else. Come here!"

Ruth followed him jerkily, on ice-cold feet, to the window. Two pigeons, strutting about on the window ledge, took flight, but she scarcely saw them. Her wide, frightened eyes followed the direction of McMann's pointing finger—a spot in the brick wall beside Jack Hayward's window.

"See?" McMann persisted, but without triumph. "A new scar in one of those old bricks. I've examined it—and it's new all right. That is where this bullet struck—harmlessly. It was aimed at Harry Borden's murderer, who stood in Jack Hayward's window, but the finger which pulled the trigger was that of a man mortally wounded—or the shot would not have gone so wide of its mark. Do you understand now, Miss Lester?"

Ruth raised her trembling hands to her face, pressed her icy fingers tips into her throbbing temples. "No! No!" she cried. "I don't understand! All I know is—the person at whom that shot was fired was not Jack Hayward."

McMann turned from the window, strode to Borden's desk, took his seat again. Ruth followed unsteadily, her knees so weak with fright that they could scarcely support her small body.

"What became of your pistol which we know from fingerprint evidence that Borden had secured after you left Saturday, bothered me considerably until this evidence turned up." McMann said slowly. "I believe that Borden was shot as he stood against that open window that as he fell, mortally wounded, his pistol—or rather, your pistol—clattered out of his hand to the cement below. His murderer retrieved it, disposed of it along with the weapon with which he had killed Harry Borden."

"Retrieved it?" Ruth cried, suddenly clarified. "How? How? If you mean Jack Hayward when you say 'his murderer,' how could Jack have possibly retrieved my pistol on Saturday? Otto Pfluger, the elevator operator on Jack's corridor, has told you that Jack descended in his car, not more than 10 minutes after Otto had taken him up. There is no way of entering that court below except through a basement door. I know, because I once dropped my handbag out of that window and had to go clear down to the basement and through a door leading from the basement to get it.

"If Jack had done that, he would have been seen. Morever, he did not have time to walk down seven flights of stairs, counting the basement stairs, and all the way up again in the 10 minutes he was in the building. And there has not been one shred of evidence from either of the cleaning women or any tenant, to confirm your earlier suspicion that Jack used my office key to get into this office after Mr. Borden was killed, to retrieve the pistol provided it fell to the floor instead of out of the window."

McMann frowned thoughtfully as the almost hysterically triumphant girl made each of her points. Then, when she had finished, he asked, slowly: "What about Saturday night or Sunday? Knowing that the pistol lay there, he could have taken his time about coming back for it."

"And there is no record of his being in the building Saturday night or Sunday," Ruth told him triumphantly. "I haven't seen the register for those days, but I'm sure you have, and since I know Jack wasn't in the Starbridge Building after two o'clock Saturday until nine this morning, I know his name is not on the register. That's true, isn't it?"

"Yes," McMann admitted. "But he could have walked down to the basement without using the elevator or without being seen by the one man on duty after four o'clock Saturday."

"And that exit door to the court is kept locked," Ruth cried. "It had to be unlocked for me. The porter in the basement had to send for Mr. Cowlan, the superintendent, in order to get the key to unlock it. Furthermore, Jack never had the key to this office, so he could not have come here Saturday night or Sunday and gained access to Mr. Borden's office, even if he could have entered the building and left it unobserved by the elevator man. You must believe me when I tell you that the key which the waiter picked up and handed to Jack was the key to my apartment, not my office key. No, Mr. McMann, you're on the wrong scent. Please believe me, please keep an open mind for some theory which will explain all the facts."

"And one of those facts," McMann pointed out, "is that Harray Borden fired a shot which grazed a brick in the wall beside Jack Hayward's window."

"And what does that prove—against Jack?" Ruth challenged. "I'll grant that Mr. Borden was standing near that window when he was killed, but how can you be sure that he was facing the window when he took aim? If his murderer—or murderess—fired at him in this office, isn't it easy to picture Mr. Borden's arm flying out, after he was hit, so that the bullet with which he had meant to kill his attacker, was discharged through the window. Why assume that he had aimed at someone in Jack's window? There was simply no where else for the bullet to go—"

"Just a minute!" McMann interrupted. Detective Birdwell opened the door between the private office and the outer office. "What is it, Birdwell?"

"Commissioner Weeks on the wire from headquarters, sir."

McMann reached for the instrument on Borden's desk but before he removed the receiver, he spoke to Ruth: "That's all for the present, Miss Lester. Please remain in the outer office till I need you again. You might open and sort the afternoon mail. I'll take charge of it and go over it later, of course."

As Ruth slipped through the door

This Anniversary

THE FIRST U. S. MINT

Today is the anniversary of the creation by Congress of the first United States mint.

This act, passed April 2, 1792, followed closely the suggestions which had been made by Alexander Hamilton. His plan was to utilize both gold and silver as monetary standards. He recommended that the ratio between the two be 1 to 15—a proportion based on the bullion values of the time. He favored coinage of $10 and $1 gold pieces; 61 and 10-cent silver pieces, and 1 cent and 1-2 cent coppers.

When the mint act was passed, however, no provision was made for a gold dollar. Because of this omission, silver coinage advocates later insisted that the original unit of value was the silver dollar. It is usually held now that the word "unit," as used in the mint act, applies to numbers and not to value.

Incidentally, the phrase "In God We Trust" did not appear on U. S. coins until 1866. Then, at the suggestion of a former governor of Pennsylvania, James Pollock, this familiar motto was adopted by Congress.

Today's Poem

THE PLOW

Above yon somber swell of land
Thou seest the dawn's grave orange hue,
With one pale streak like yellow sand,
And over that a vein of blue,

The air is cold above the woods;
All silent is the earth and sky,
Except with his own lonely moods
The blackbird holds a colloquy.

Over the broad hill creeps a beam,
Like hope that gilds a good man's brow;
And now ascends the nostril-steam
Of stalwart horses come to plow.

Ye rigid plowman, bear in mind,
Your labor is for future hours!
Advance—spare not—nor look behind—
Plow deep and straight with all your powers.

which Birdwell held for her she heard the detective sergeant greet his superior the police commissioner.

Sickly she realized what that call from the head of the police department meant. Commissioner Weeks, was famous for his choleric temper, his impatient demand for quick results, especially in sensational cases, like the murder of 'Handsome Harry' Borden. His motto seemed to be "Arrest somebody—anybody—and find out the truth later." In this particular case, Jack Hayward would undoubtedly be the victim of Commissioner Weeks' avid appetite for newspaper praise.

Fifteen minutes later, as she sat at her desk, trying to concentrate upon the thick sheaf of correspondence addressed to a man who would never read it, Police Commissioner Weeks arrived.

Ruth knew the commissioner personally. In the old days, before her father's death, Weeks had occasionally dined with the famous criminal lawyer, Colby Lester. She rose and faced the tall, lean, distinguished-looking man who had barked out a curt greeting to Detective Birdwell.

"How do you do, Mr. Weeks?" she faltered, trying to make her trembling lips smile naturally. "I wonder if you remember me?"

Light sprang into Commissioner Weeks' cold eyes; a broad smile flashed suddenly beneath his stubby white mustache. "Remember you, child?" he exclaimed cordially, taking her cold little hand in both his. "Who could forget your pretty face? You're Colby Lester's daughter, of course. And while I'm mighty sorry that you're dragged into this miserable business, I'm gad to see you again. How are you, my dear?"

"Well, and—very happy." Ruth answered steadily. "You see, Mr. Weeks, I'm engaged to be married to a man I love with all my heart—Mr. John C. Hayward. I'm going to invite you to my wedding."

"Hayward?" the commissioner repeated, his eyes going cold and pale again. "Isn't that the young man—? Oh, hello, McMann! I'm renewing an old friendship with little Ruth Lester."

Ruth sank slowly into her chair as the two men—the detective sergeant in charge of the investigation into the murder of Henry P. Borden, and Police Commissioner Weeks—passed into Borden's private office and closed the door behind them. Had she helped or injured Jack's chances by her desperate, indirect appeal to a man who had never been known to permit friendship to interfere with the performance of his duty? Well—and her body sagged tiredly—she had done her best for Jack.

The next hour was a nightmare of suspense for Ruth Lester. From five until six o'clock the rumble of voices, sometimes loud, the words almost unintelligible, sometimes low and earnest, came to the girl through the closed door. There were infrequent interruptions, when Birdwell received reports from headquarters or other detectives working on the case, which he had to relay to his superiors closeted in Borden's private office. From these one-sided telephone conversations which Birdwell carried on at Benny Smith's desk, Ruth learned that Cleo Gilman had not yet been found, that no information at all had been gleaned as to the present whereabouts of Jake Bailey, the murdered man's bodyguard, that Benny Smith, 'permitted to return to his home, followed by a detective, was so ill that a doctor's car had been parked before his home for more than an hour.

At six o'clock came the order which Ruth had been expecting and dreading. McMann, looking pale and harassed, opened the door and spoke sharply to Birdwell: "Get Hayward—and Rita Dubois. R'Ma's in Covey's charge, down the hall. We'll have Hayward in first. Miss Lester will answer the phone if it rings while you're gone."

The phone didn't ring during the detective's absence. Ruth, standing trembling beside it, wished it would—that something would happen to make those long minutes shorter. At last the door opened and Jack Hayward pushed in ahead of Birdwell.

Ruth's anxious, loving eyes devoured him. He had evidently just brushed his hair, for the deep waves in it gleamed wetly in the electric light. Not the act of a nervous or a frightened or a guilty man . . . And his bronze-brown eyes, wide open, candid, clear smiled at her.

They both forgot Detective Birdwell as they moved toward each other, their arms outstretched. They did not even realize that the detective had considerately turned his back.

"Poor little darling!" Jack murmured.

Ruth wanted to warn him that arrest lay before him, to tell him of the flattened bullet found in the court below his window, but he stopped her first words by laying his lips against hers. That kiss, which Ruth wanted desperately to prolong forever, lest the next time their lips met it should be from between prison bars, lasted until Detective Birdwell slowly crossed the room and opened the door into the private office.

HAD YOU TAKEN NOTICE
Of the very important fact that things are looking up in Lubbock real estate? Work is proceeding rapidly on the Broadway underpass this to be immediately followed by the Avenue H underpass, right away now work will begin on the two big hotel propositions, we are getting ready to vote the airport bonds and place our city among the leaders in that regard, this to be followed by the vote to build the new high school building, and that to be followed by the highway building proposition. Lubbock has continued to go forward, and the reason is that her people are progressive and stay in the lead on needed developments, and that is why she is going to make a real city. Do not wait too long now to make that real estate investment you have intended making.
The very best medium priced piece of realty in Lubbock today is the property at 804 Avenue Q, and the buyer is sure of a splendid profit on it. It is worth every dollar of $4,250.
$3,150.00
will buy it yet. The lot is unusually large, 55 by 148, facing east on pavement, pavement paid, and $1,000 will handle it. It is absolutely the very best chance in Lubbock today to pick up about $2,000 profit in a short time. See us.

HAD YOU TAKEN NOTICE
Of the very important fact that things are looking up in Lubbock real estate? Work is proceeding rapidly on the Broadway underpass this to be immediately followed by the Avenue H underpass, right away now work will begin on the two big hotel propositions, we are getting ready to vote the airport bonds and place our city among the leaders in that regard, this to be followed by the vote to build the new high school building, and that to be followed by the highway building proposition. Lubbock has continued to go forward, and the reason is that her people are progressive and stay in the lead on needed developments, and that is why she is going to make a real city. Do not wait too long now to make that real estate investment you have intended making.
The very best medium priced piece of realty in Lubbock today is the property at 804 Avenue Q, and the buyer is sure of a splendid profit on it. It is worth every dollar of $4,250.
$3,150.00
will buy it yet. The lot is unusually large, 55 by 148, facing east on pavement, pavement paid, and $1,000 will handle it. It is absolutely the very best chance in Lubbock today to pick up about $2,000 profit in a short time. See us.

Stock Market Is Struck By Credit Reaction Monday

Stocks Resume Operations After Three-Day Holiday; Long List Of Issues Go Down In Selling

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 1. (AP)—The stock market resumed operations after its three-day holiday today only to be again enmeshed in the snarls of the credit situation. A secondary reaction of severity developed, a long list of important issues selling off from 3 to more than 20 points.

A rejection after the sharp break and rapid recovery last week was not surprising but the continued scarcity of call money, and disturbing public discussions of the handling of credit during market holidays, unsettled confidence and augmented selling arising from the technical condition of the market. The pace of trading fell off, however, only 4,162,830 shares changing hands, in contrast to the 5,000,000 to 8,000,000 share days last week, and in general stocks did not break through the low levels of last Tuesday.

Call money renewed at 10 per cent, in contrast to 8 per cent at Thursday's close and then mounted successively to 12 and to 15, equaling Thursday's renewal rate. The accumulation of selling orders over the week-end carried prices of sharply in a busy opening. A ratlier feeble rally around midday was checked by the 12 per cent rate, but a number of issues rallied briskly in the last hour, despite the 15 per cent rate.

Further adjustments of balances incident to the quarterly settlements and the fact that it will take until Wednesday to clear the bulk of the quarterly payment checks served to keep money tight. After the storm of criticism levelled at Charles E. Mitchell of the National City bank for aiding the market last week, bankers were reluctant to help the market today, and the flow of funds from Europe was cut off because of the church holiday there.

Cotton Prices Are Off $1.50 A Bale On Southern Mart

NEW ORLEANS, April 1. (AP)—Cotton prices eased off over $1.50 a bale today under offerings induced by weakness in stocks and favorable weather in the corn belt, but the lower prices attracted some trade buying and covering which was further stimulated by a report that the government would soon issure a boll weevil statement. The general market closed steady at net declines of 12 to 17 points.

In the absence of Liverpool cables the market was apparently without incentive at the start. First trades were unchanged to 5 points net down. Prospects for favorable weather in the belt brought out enough ring selling, however, to force prices 16 to 17 points below Thursday's close.

There was a rally of about 2 points towards the end of the first hour on a bullish private acreage report but the demand soon tapered off and selling became more active in sympathy with the decline in stocks. By noon quotations were 29 to 33 points net down.

A report that the government was to issue a boll weevil report in the near future induced traders to cover, probably on the belief that the report would be bullish. Prices gradually recovered during the afternoon and final prices showed rallies of 16 to 17 points from the lows. May closed at 19.83 and October 19.85.

Receipts 6,321; for week 18,226; for year 8,908,387, last year 7,552,141; exports 29,373; for week 45,705; for year 6,620,519; last year 5,732,549. Stock 1,764,405; last year 1,717,770. Stock on shipboard 128,149; last year 107,018. Spot sales 8,811; last year 6,917.

Price Of Cotton Dropes Lower On New York Market

NEW YORK, Apr. 1.—(AP)—Cotton was lower today under liquidation and local or southern selling inspired by reports of fairly favorable weather in the south and the unsettled tone of the stock market. After showing net declines of about 30 to 34 points, with July selling off to 19.86 prices rallied partially on covering, July closing at 20.01. The general market closed steady at net declines of 12 to 21 points.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 6 points on reports that weather conditions over the holidays had been fairly satisfactory in the south, coupled with the weak opening of the stock market and advance in call money rates. There was some trade buying and covering.

The late advance was promoted by reports of a better tone in stocks. The early selling seemed to have improved the technical position.

A private report was published early, placing preliminary acreage indications at 2.3 per cent above last years. This was somewhat above figures published last week, but it seemed to have little if any effect on the market. In continuation of the easter holidays Liverpool was closed today but will reopen tomorrow.

Texas Livestock Has Slight Rise

FORT WORTH, April 1. (AP)—The supply of cattle and calves was more liberal here today no quotable change for lower values developed during early trading. Hogs registered an advance, and spring lambs were a little lower; other classes of sheep were steady.

Slaughter steers, particularly the kind to sell at 10.50 to 11.00, were active at ten to 15c higher values.

The early trading included a nine car shipment of steers that sold to order buyer at 12.40. These steers carried considerable finish.

Bulls were fully steady, one load early selling at 8.75; packages at 8.00 to 8.50. Common light bulls cleared around 8.00.

Slaughter yearlings about steady with carlots at 12.00 to 12.75 and a load of long aged yearlings at 13.00.

Calves were about steady Packer buyers paid up to 12.65 for good heavy calves, culls selling around 8.00.

Buyers for stocker calves a little easy on some sales but carlots moved at 12.50 to 12.75. About two loads of desirable light stocker cows sold at 9.25.

Spring lambs a little lower and a few sold at 16.00. Wooled fat lambs sold at 15.75 and shorn fat lambs at 13.00 and 14.00. Shorn fat yearlings at 12.50.

Rail hogs 25 to 35c higher, truck hogs 10 to 20c higher. Rail top 11.35 and truck top 10.70. Bulk 175-250 pound butchers at 10.25 to 11.35. Packing sows at 8.75 to 9.75.

MID-WESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Apr. 1.—(AP)—(U. S. S. D. A.)—Curtailed supplies of cattle around the 11-market loop today prompted a reaction on killing classes of cattle with prices firm to unevenly higher. Sharp gains of 25@50c were registered at several markets on fed steers and yearlings. A weak to lower undertone prevailed on vealers. Stockers and feeder trade ruled fairly active at steady to 25c higher prices. Several points, however, are materially lower than a year ago on feeders. Aggregate receipts were around 44,300 a decrease of 26,500 from a week ago and 11,500 less than the corresponding day last year.

Hogs found an active outlet at generally 25@25c higher prices, maeger supplies being the strengthening influence. The day's extreme top of $11.90 was paid both at Chicago and St. Louis. Total offerings were around 94,000 as compared with 146,585 last Monday and 138,622 a year ago.

Weekly Review Of Business in Lubbock

Farmers Produce Company Gives Market

Scores Of Nearby Towns Send Trade

Fed by scores of small trade tributary towns, the Farmers' Produce, 1312 Avenue H, has built up a business so extensive in the last year that it reaches to virtually every part of the South Plains.

This business was established in Lubbock about a year ago. It was at first both a produce and grocery store, offering exchanges of groceries for produce. The grocery line of the company, however, is being discontinued so that more time and service can be given to the produce end of the business.

Out of the grocery line, I. S. Furlong and C. R. White, managers of the produce house, feel that they are now better able to care for the produce of this section and promise the best prices.

Most of the produce brought here consists of poultry, cream and eggs. Although some little of it is shipped away, most of it is sold right in Lubbock. The Farmers' Produce sells wholesale to the local grocery stores, in addition to doing a good retail business. The company furnishes many dressed chickens to the local markets.

Radios Now Good For Whole Year

Radio was once considered a pastime, or entertainment solely for the months of cold weather. The former theory was that hot weather and accompanying static made conditions unsuitable for reception.

Now, however, according to the experts, modern improvements have made radio a year-around entertainment. All of these improvements are incorporated in the Majestic, all-electric sets handled by Carnett Electric company of this city.

The Carnett Electric company is located at 1209 Broadway. It claims to be the South Plains' largest electrical store. A substantial electrical contracting business is carried on.

Home-Killed Meats Are Boyd Specialty

Home killed meats, always fresh, constitute a specialty at Boyd Brothers' Meat Market, located at 713 Broadway.

Business of this firm is growing rapidly. Quality and service are insisted upon by the owners and more and more the housewife is relying upon this home institution for her meat needs.

The phone number is 459.

1929 WHEAT CROP IS NOW ASSURED

TULIA, April 1.—With approximately three inches of rain this week, the wheat crop is 100 per cent good at this time. Very little more rain will be needed to make a fair wheat crop as the plant is in the best of condition to advance rapidly to maturity. Large acreage of oats and barely has been planted, much of which is now up and will gro wrapidly. With little additional moisture, this crop will be good.

A large acreage of sod land is being broken in the county, most of which will be planted in row crops. Some will be summer tilled for fall wheat planting. The general outlook for a good crop year has not been better in a number of years.

Stockmen are assured of early spring grass, which will be sufficient within a few days to fully supply the livestock.

Knows The Town
This Realtor Can Tell Values

T. W. Sawyer knows Lubbock like a book.

So familiar is he with values of prices of property in Lubbock that he can sit in his office in the Brown building, west side of the square, and immediately tell you the value of any piece of property in the city.

That he is thoroughly acquainted with values is evidenced by the fact that five major loan companies, doing a large volume of business in Lubbock, have employed him as appraiser for property here.

Mr. Sawyer came to Lubbock eight years ago and has been in in the real estate business since that time. He came here from Florida where he had been a realtor for a number of years. Since he has come to Lubbock he has dealt exclusively with city business property, and knows probably as well as anyone in the city values of business property.

Of all of the towns in this section, Mr. Sawyer chose Lubbock because of its vast possibilities. He feels that it will make the largest and most metropolitan city in this section.

Big Ship's Mail Bag Again Loses To Thieves

LONDON, April 1 (AP)—The steamship Leviathan's mail has suffered from thieves again.

When the mail for the ship from London arrived at Southampton Saturday one of the registered mail bags was found to have been slit open and a small package taken.

It was reported, also, that several registered letters were taken. Some said the package taken was consigned from a London diamond merchant to a firm in Bogota, Colombia.

It was assumed the theft took place in London. Bonds, jewelry and money estimated in some advices at $100,000 to $500,000, but said by the government to be not more than $12,000, were stolen from the mail of the Leviathan while it was at sea between New York and Southampton and Cherbourg last June.

MAN NOT IDENTIFIED
Trust Official Unable To Recognize Suspect

TOPEKA, Kans., April 1. (AP)—Charles R. Burrell, vice president of the Home Trust company, Kansas City, today was unable to identify John Schopen, one of the $400,000 diamond robbery suspects held here, as a member of the gang which robbed the Kansas City banking house during the republican national convention last summer.

Sash And Door Co. Grows With Town

A business that has been here almost as long as Lubbock has and one that has continued to parallel the city in its growth is that of the Lubbock Sash and Door company.

"If it's made of wood we make it" is one of the mottoes of the planing mill of the company.

Started on a very small scale in 1914, numerous additions and improvements have been made from time to time. The plant now includes a modern, up-to-date planing mill and a large warehouse, which covers an entire half block. A small warehouse and a small mill constituted the equipment with which the Lubbock Sash and Door company started in business.

In addition to woodwork of all kind, the company handles and cuts glass of all kinds.

The company is owned by the Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co. W. B. Atkins is manager.

Savings Dept. Is Feature At Bank

The savings department is a new feature of service at the Citizen's National Bank, which since 1906 has been rendering faithful, courteous banking service to the people of Lubbock and the South Plains country.

Deposits at present are at a high level for the Citizen's National bank. The statement prepared following a national bank call on March 27 showed $1,942,142 to be on deposit at this time in the bank.

Personal safe deposit boxes constitute another angle of the varied service rendered by the institution.

BROWNFIELD, April 1—A petition for an election to determine whether bonds will be issued for paving twenty blocks of this city, is being circulated and is being freely signed with predictions made that the issue will carry by a safe majority, as many of the citizens have altered their opinion concerning the proposal and are going to favor it in the coming election. It is expected that an election will be ordered to occur within the next sixty days or less.

Tahoka Shipment Of Grain Large

Predict Total Of 600 Cars Will Be Dispatched From Lynn County Capital By End Of Year

TAHOKA, April 1. — Surplus head maize, kaffir, and other grain sorghums, totaling 525 car loads, have been shipped from Tahoka according to local buyers; and it is estimated there will be at least 600 cars by the end of the shipping season. The total amount shipped has been approximately 12,000 tons at 20 tons to the car, and brought the farmers of the Tahoka trade territory about $200,000. Also, several cars of threshed grains, and about twenty cars of corn have been shipped.

In addition, practically every farmer is keeping back a larger supply than usual due to the increase in number of dairy cows, hogs, chickens, and turkeys. Lynn county raised the best grain sorghum crop in 1928 she has ever raised.

Although under the average for the past six years by about 8,000 bales of cotton there had been 34,317 bales ginned in Lynn county according to the government report of March 20. Tahoka has received 10,968 bales, counting two round bales as one square.

DALLAS, April 1. (AP)—Discussions of oil and gas developments, especially in the southwest, will feature the convention of the American Society of Civic Engineers here on April 24-25, it is shown in the convention program.

Extends To Air

Youth Bums Ride In Airplane

CANADIAN, April 1. (AP) — The realm of the "hitch hiker" has extended into the air, it was learned today when Charles Hoyt, a youth, arrived here after a five-day trip from Columbus, Ohio.

Hoyt said he "bummed" a ride in an airplane from St. Louis to Kansas City. At Manhattan, Kas., he was picked up by a motorist who brought him the rest of the way here.

Checks Under One Dollar Not Illegal

But Banks Don't Like Small Checks And You Better Not Write Them If You Can Help It, Officials Say

There is a story about a little girl who can have everything she wants but who knows better than to want some things. Just so, there might be a story about people writing checks for less than a dollar because there is no law against the practice.

In spite of the common belief that it is illegal to write checks for less than one dollar, no evidences of such a law can be found here. Judges, lawyers and bank officials consistently scoffed at such an opinion, stating that they believed there is no such regulation.

Check Is An Order

A check is an order to the bank to pay to the holder a stipulated amount of money placed there by an individual. If one chooses to write an order for only two cents, the bank pays because service is a part of the institution's business.

Such checks are written in Lubbock every day and in large numbers. One bank official believes that an average of 300 checks for amounts less than one dollar come into that institution every day.

Probably an idea that this practice is illegal has grown from the discouragement that banks offer, according to officials here.

Banks Don't Like 'Em

Even though it is not unlawful to write such small orders, this practice may not be without its penalties, according to officials. A bank is a business institution and may regulate charges to customers, so that it will be entirely legal to charge a fee for the handling of small checks, the bankers explained.

The unusually large number of small accounts here several months ago led to the service charge which is assessed for accounts smaller than $50.

QUOTA IS RAISED

Big Spring's Membership In W. T. C. C. Complete

BIG SPRING, April 1.—Big Spring's quota of members in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has been raised this week by E. H. Whitehead, publicity manager, and L. B. Campbell field representative of the organization.

These staff men report that renewals of 1928 members were practically unanimous.

PLAN CLEAN-UP WEEK

Big Spring Citizens Are To Clean Up Town

(Special to The Avalanche)

BIG SPRING, April 1.—A proclamatio nhas been issued by the mayor of Big Spring setting aside the first two weeks in April as Clean-up weeks. The civic committee of the city federation with Mrs. Homer McNew as chairman and the civic committee of the Chamber of Commerce with Frank King chairman, have outlined plans by which they will enlist all the school children, boy scouts, and camp fire girls in this campaign. The town will be divided into districts and a loving cup will be awarded the district making the most successful efforts at cleaning. Other cash prizes are benig offered by the merchants of the city.

Favors 120-Day Sessions

PARIS, April 1. (AP)—S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, declared in an address to Lamar county school trustees today that he would urge adoption of an amendment to be voted on in 1930 which would lengthen the legislative session to 120 days and provide for "business like" handling of legislative business.

Slick, "King Of Wild Catters," Buys Properties

(By Associated Press)

TULSA, Okla., April 1.—T. B. Slick of Oklahoma City, "King of the Wild Catters" who recently sold his oil producing properties to the Prairie Oil & Gas Company for between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 announced here today that he had purchased holdings of the Pryor and Lockhart Producing company in the Valley Center opol in Sedgwick, Kansas, and an interest in 40,000 acres of wildcat leases, also in Kansas.

Both transactions were said to have involved a consideration of approximately $1,000,000.

Purchases Adelaide Properties

Slick also announced purchase of the Adelaide Oil company's producing properties in the Valley Center pool and an interest in a 3,600 acre block of leases southwest of Newton, in Harvey county, Kansas.

Plans for three separate oil companies, one each in Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas, with Slick controlling each, were made public. The Oklahoma company, already in operation, is in charge of E. E. Kirkpatrick of Tulsa and Charles Urshel of Oklahoma City. Slick's Kansas company is to be headed by Ralph Pryor and Floyd Lockhart, with headquarters of the Texas company to be perfected later, will be in Fort Worth.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Aklu and Mrs. Buren Akin, all of the Canyon community, were visiting and shopping in this city Monday.

Get In Mix-Up

Kujawinsky Was The Name Though

EVANSTON, Ill., April 1. (AP)—Names of the Mesdames Kujawinski—Stella and Anna—got mixed today, and it was nothing trivial.

Police had a warrant for "a woman named Kujawinski, 1215 Dodge Avenue." A desk sergeant thought there should be a first name so he looked in the phone book and found Mrs. Anna Kujawinski listed. He edited the warrant accordingly. How was he to know there were two Mrs. Kujawinski's living across the hall from each other at 1215 Dodge Avenue?

Thus it came about that police raided the wrong Mrs. Kujawinski. Unfortunately (for the wrong Mrs. Kujawinski) they found liquor there. This struck them, when they learned of their error, as most amusing; to raid the wrong place and find liquor. It held no merriment, however, for Mrs. Anna Kujawinski and she told them to go to Mrs. Stella Kujawinski's. They did, but Mrs. Stella, having heard all the racket at her neighbor's, was ready for them, and no liquor was to be fuond.

They arrested her anyway, although it was not quite clear for what.

Secrecy Is Abolished

ROME, April 1. (AP)—Doctors professional secrecy, as far as cases of malpractice are concerned virtually will be abolished in Italy under a circular issued by Premier Mussolini today. The premier has decreed that all physicians must report cases of birth prevention coming to their knowledge.
