"NOT GUILTY," JURY'S VERDICT IN ADAMS CASE

Defendant Is Freed After Forty Minutes

Wayne Adams, charged with the murder of J. D. Turner near Burkburnett last September, was found 'not guilty" Friday noon when the jury that has been hearing the case in the Thirtieth District court returned a verdict, after deliberating only 40 minutes. The jury retired at 11:20 and returned with its verdict at exactly 12:00 o'clock.

Adams Calm

Adams received the decision with out show of emotion and after thanking each of the jurors individually, left the room. Announcement of the acquittal brought loud applause from the crowd that thronged the court room and this, in turn, was followed by warnings from Judge H. R. Wilson that a recurrence of the demonstration would result in penalties being assessed.

In reading his charge to the jury, Judge Wilson touched on the charges of murder, murder with malice aforethought, and alibi.

McDonald Scores Weir

Concluding argument of counsel in the case was made by C. C. McDonald and C. Y. Cummings, for the defense, and by County Attorney E. L. Fulton and District Attorney Schenck for the prosecution. Attorney McDonald bitterly assailed the testimony offered by R. C. Weir, chief witness for the state, who told of alleged conversations with Adams prior to Turner's death in which Adams was alleged to have made threats against Turner.

The state based its plea for conviction largely on the contention that Adams had been in the vicinity of the Turner home the night of the murder and that, as the witness, Weir had testified, he had threatened Turner.

Ground Hog Sees Shadow; More Cold

Six weeks more of the winter season was probably written on the books for Wichita Falls, Friday, unless the ground hog is an early riser.

Although Friday morning was cloudy, clearing skies prevailed later in the day and the four-footed weather prognosticator could easily have been startled by his shadow if he took a look at things any time after the middle of the morning.

Such being the case, tradition has it that he retires for another six weeks' nap.

Assault Charges Are Filed in Row Over Possession of Ku Klux List

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—A warrant charging assault with a deadly weapon, a blackjack, was sowrn out today in municipal court by Lionel C. Moise, assistant editor of Tolerance, against Robert E. Shepperd, treasurer of the American Unity league and the American Unity Publishing company. The American Unity league is said to have been formed to oppose the ku klux klan, while Tolerance is an outgrowth of the movement.

Moise also made charges of assault against Robert Shepperd, Jr., and Shepperd's attorney, Benjamin H. Vanderveld.

The warrant was sworn out after Circuit Judge Ryner in connection with a fight for possession of what is alleged to be a roster of membership of the ku klux klan, issued an injunction restraining Shepperd and the American Unity Publishing company from disposing of the list or publishing a magazine to be known as "Toleration."

It is charged that Shepperd has gained possession of the disputed lists and now seeks to establish his own publication, "Toleration."

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Howard Girard, 18, tied on his leather apron and went right on working as a pressman's helper, today despite his having inherited $2,000,000 of a $12,000,000 estate left by a grand uncle, Antoine Damange, in Paris, France. He is going to start a printing shop all his own now.

Asked if he contemplated marriage with so much money, Girard snapped a finger and said: "If the girls didn't smile before, the devil with them now."

DENVER BANDIT IN AUSTIN, CLAIM

Believe Man Held In Two Crimes

By Associated Press.

CINCINATTI, Feb. 2.—Theory that George Gallagher, held in Austin, in connection with a $50,000 pawnshop robbery here last March, was implicated in the Denver mint holdup, was expressed today by Chief of Detectives Emmett Kirvan. Kirvan said he believed that the man whose frozen body was found several weeks later in a Denver garage and who was later identified as a participant in the mint robbery was Frank Klayman, who also was implicated in the robbery here.

A detective was sent to Austin today to bring back Gallagher.

Garner Charges Harding Tries To Violate Budget

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—A violation of the budget law by President Harding through his failure to recommend to congress the means of wiping out the prospective deficit in government finances this year was charged in the house today by Representative Garner, Texas, ranking democrat on the ways and means committee.

He charged that Harding's purpose was to use the sinking fund in the daily operation of the government so that the anticipated deficit for $270,000,000 for this fiscal year might not show on the treasury books.

Ruhr Situation

Strike of railwaymen in the Rhineland and a large portion of the Ruhr has ended and a resumption of train services has begun. Where strikers have not returned, the French are operating trains. The tieup at Mayence continues because of a refusal by the French to release the railwaymen under arrest on charges of sabotage.

In the mines, however, the coal diggers are practically idle.

French customs cordon, which was set up to block the transportation of coal and other reparation goods from occupied into unoccupied Germany, is being maintained rigidly. An embargo has also been placed on benzol, tar and other by-products.

Along the canals and the Rhine and where the rail strike continues, the French have taken charge of feeding the civilian population.

Announcement is made that the French in a few days will be able to transport coal into France.

Major General Allen, American unofficial observer, has withdrawn from the Rhineland commission.

FARM CREDITS BILL PASSES SENATE 60-0

Loans on Livestock And Agricultural Products Voted

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Consideration of farm credits legislation was concluded by the senate tonight when it passed the Lenroot-Anderson bill. The measure now goes to the house where the Capper co-operative credits bill is under study.

Vote Made Unanimous

The vote on passage was unanimous, 60 to 0, the measure going through without material amendment. The vote, however, was not made unanimous until Senator Norbeck, republican, South Dakota, had withdrawn a lone negative vote explaining that he would be "a "good fellow."

The Lenroot-Anderson bill provides a maximum credit of $1,320,000,000 for agricultural loans through the existing farm loan system by establishment of 12 agricultural credit departments in the 12 land bank districts. Each would have $5,000,000 capital from the government with authority to double the entire capital of $60,000,000. Authority to issue $1,200,000,000 in tax-free debentures, to provide additional loaning capital, would be given subject to approval of the farm loan board.

Loans on Livestock

The new credit departments would make loans from six months to three years on agricultural paper to co-operative agricultural associations on staple products or livestock. Interest rates chargeable would not be in excess of 1½ per cent above the land banks rediscount rates. The debentures authorized would not bear over six per cent interest.

No arrests have been made but it is said that a hat and a poll tax receipt found where the whipping took place may lead to identification.

BRITISH DEBT PLAN COMPLETE

Draft Is Now Ready For Pres. Harding

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The plan for funding Great Britian's war time debt to the United States, was completed late today by final action of the American debt funding commission in conference with Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador. Announcement was made later when details of the plan were made public, that the draft would be sent to President Harding tomorrow with recommendations by the committee that it be given executive approval and transmitted to congress.

The plan contemplates final extinguishment of the debt in 62 years, with interest rates fixed at three per cent for the first 10 years from December 15, 1922, and three and one-half per cent thereafter, together with a fixed schedule of annual amortization payments approximating an average of one-half of one per cent of the principal.

Killing of Two in Gun Fight Puts Situation Beyond Control of Local Officers

By Associated Press.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Feb. 2.—Twenty-five national guardsmen from troop B. Fifty-third machine gun squadron, London, Ky., were ordered to Corbin, Ky., tonight by Governor E. P. Morrow after Mayor J. S. Gillman of Corbin, and Sheriff Young of Whitley county, had reported the situation there was getting beyond their control. The present strained condition followed a gun battle between railroad workers and special officers early Tuesday, when two men were killed and two wounded.

FIGHT CAUSES SITUATION

CORBIN, Ky., Feb. 2.—A strained situation ascribed by officials here as due to a gun battle early Tuesday between railroad workers and special officers in which two men were killed and two wounded has resulted in the ordering of 25 national guardsmen here for duty.

Mayor Asks Troops

In an appeal to Governor Morrow for troops, Mayor John Gilliam and Sheriff Young of Whitley county, were said to have declared the situation while quiet, was getting beyond control of the local officials. It was said special police, recently appointed, were resigning and that city officials were unable to obtain others to fill the vacancies caused by the resignations.

Cause of Battle Unknown

Corbin, key to the Cumberland valley division of the L. and N., was the center of a bitter controversy during the railroad strike last summer and since that time has been the scene of several disturbances. Generally, however, suggestions that labor troubles were back of the outbreaks were dismissed by local officials.

Harding Silent On Rumor That Forbes May Leave Post

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—Inquiries at the white house today concerning the recent departure for Europe of Colonel Chales R. Sensational Liquor Raid Enmeshes 90

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—J. L. Asher, a revenue agent from the Kentucky mountains, here three weeks in guises ranging from an ash cart driver to a Kentucky colonel at a fashionable ball, today directed more than sixty capitol revenue agents and police in liquor raids on 60 places, netting arrests of about 90 persons, cluding 12 women, and confiscation of more than 300 gallons of intoxicants.

Drives Ash Cart

Asher first drove into the underworld aboard an ice wagon as helper. He then switched to an ash cart and quickly caught the trail as he picked up the "empties" in all corners of the city. Then as a coal wagon driver, he got into the homes again, assisting in storing away the coal and modestly accepting pint bottle rewards. He later appeared as a piano tuner and again as a lawyer.

Disguise Fools 'Boss'

With this evidence in hand the raiders went quickly to the secret coaches, holes in the wall, baby cribs, pianos, phonographs, and chicken coops.

So complete was the agent's disguise that, while returning to police headquarters one day dressed as a tramp with several quart bottles bulging from his pockets, he was arrested by his immediate superior before the officer discovered his identity.

Orient Seeks To Stop Santa Fe From Building Cut-Off

By United Press.

WICHITA, Kans., Feb. 2.—Petition asking for a restraining order against the Santa Fe railroad, which is constructing a cut-off branch between Cottonwood Falls and El Dorado, Kansas, was filed in federal court here today by W. T. Kemper, federal receiver for the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway. The petition alleges that the new Santa Fe line so closely follows the right of way of the Orient as to render the Orient property valueless, although the Orient has never constructed a line along its right of way.

In Washington

Senator Nelson, republican of Minnesota, celebrated his 80th birthday.

The Lenroot-Anderson credit bill was passed by the senate, thereby disposing of the last of such measures before it.

Southern Pacific railroad was authorized by the interstate commerce commission to spspend its steamship service between New England and Gulf ports.

Instructions to Major General Allen, who commanded American troops in Germany, to withdraw from the Rhineland high commission as American observer, were made public.

Reporting that customs receipts for January totaled $46,345,991, an increase of $7,000,000 over December collections, treasury officials predicted revenues for the current fiscal year would amount to $480,000,000.

At one of the stormiest sessions in recent years, Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, was twice rebuked by the senate, which expunged from the record certain remarks made by him concerning Senator Wadsworth, New York, and Couzens, Michigan, republicans, as well as a statement by the latter regarding the Alabama senator.

An agreement was reached on details of the British debt funding program by the American funding commission, conferring today with Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador. The recommendations will be forwarded to the white house tomorrow and President Harding is expected to transmit the report to congress next week.

Two Senators Censured When Red Hot Tempers Explode in Debate

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Senate action today in expunging from the record statements yesterday of Senator Heflin, democrat, Alabama, during discussion of the British debt funding arrangement, precipitated the most bitter and protracted exchange of the session.

Tempers in Explosion

Exploding tempers sent hot personalities sizzling through the air during the hours of debate which ended with Senator Heflin being reproved a second time for use of improper language. Remarks by Senator Couzens, new republican member from Michigan, were also declared objectionable and ordered expunged from the record.

By a vote of 40 to 28, the senate first decided Senator Heflin violated the rules by referring to Senator Wadsworth, republican, New York, as "a representative of the bond sharks and big financiers of Wall street."

Couzens Hits Back

Senator Heflin's second offense occurred in reference to Senator Couzens, as a millionaire representative of "big business interests."

The senate also expunged statements by Senator Couzens that Senator Heflin was "playing to the galleries," and had "sneaked out in the night time."

BETTER WATER SERVICE ASKED

May Extend Mains In Burkburnett

BURKBURNETT, Feb. 2.—A proposed project to extend sections of the water mains here, is now before the city council. The plan, as proposed to city officials, is to extend the present system in several directions to take in all territory covered by the city charter of Burkburnett proper.

It is considered doubtful if the proposal will be ratified within the next week, but insistent demands made by citizens of parts of the city in need of better service, have brought the project to the council's attention. It will probably be discussed among officials at once, with action in the future in view.

Cope Urges More Humor Thru Life

Herbert Leon Cope, celebrated lyceum lecturer and humorist, delivered a mirth-provoking message of good cheer to an appreciative audience that crowded the First Christian church Friday night. Mr. Cope urged his hearers to "Laugh at the stumbles and the blunders" made during life, and interwoven through the humorous portions of his lecture were many thoughts appealing to the deeper things of every day life. He stressed the fact that people were prone to look on the sordid things as they pass along and miss the many beautiful things that were theirs if they would but stop and see and enjoy them.

Three Locations In Archer County

Three locations are reported to have been made offsetting the Dr. Wallace test in section 2, abstract 987, Kemp and Kempner tract in Archer county. Reports from the Wallace well state that it is flowing by heads at the rate of 150 barrels a day. The pay sand was entered at 1,740 feet.

This will likely prove an extension of the Freeman-Hampton pool nearly a half mile to the northeast, and much interest is being manifested with an extensive drilling campaign expected.

BURKBURNETT TO "CLEAN HOUSE"

Sanitary Movement Under Way

BURKBURNETT, Feb. 2.—An organized cleanup of Burkburnett streets will be made during the next few days to insure a cleaner and more sanitary city. City officials have asked that every property owner cooperate in every way possible, in an effort to do away with all unsanitary conditions here.

Crowded conditions here have made it difficult for the city to be kept in a clean condition, according to city officials, but in the campaign now started, every effort will be made to put the city back in its pre-boom condition.

Among the projects being undertaken in the campaign, is one to grade and repair all streets in the city. Beginning next Monday, every unpaved street will be graded and repaired, the holes and low spots left by the heavy rains will be filled in and the streets put in good condition throughout, it is said. It is the intention to clean up the city in every respect, and next week has been named as the time for beginning the movement.

The Burns test on the W. M. McGregor tract in Archer county is reported to have found a sand at 1,636 feet. A core barrel was run Friday and some "likely looking" sand was brought up, which, it is hoped, will prove to be the true pay sand.

This test is 11 miles south of Wichita Falls, and is about the same distance east of the Panther pool, the nearest production.

Will Exhume Coffin Said to Hold Gems

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The treasury department has acquiesced in a request of war department officials for the exhumation and examination of the coffin of James Jones, an American seaman, buried in Cypress Hill cemetery, Brooklyn, to determine whether smuggled Russian crown jewels were buried with the body.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Scrapple—Boil head of pig until tender. Put meat through food chopper, skim fat from broth. Reheat, add meat; thicken with corn meal. Cook in fireless for several hours. Cool and fry as mush.

Cabbage Salad—Shred head of cabbage fine. Season with salt. Whip one-half cup sweet cream, add two tablespoons sugar, one tablespoon vinegar. Add nuts to this and mix through cabbage, serve cold.

Escalloped Ham—One cup chopped lean cold ham, two hard boiled eggs one cup white sauce, cracker crumbs, butter. Arrange ham and eggs and cracker crumbs in layers. Cover with crumbs. Add sauce. Bake.

Hickory Nut Cookies—Take three eggs, cup nut meats, one cup sour cream, one-quarter cup shortening one cup sugar, one teaspoon soda, flour to stiffen. Roll thin and bake.

Chocolate Sandwich Cookies—One-half cup shortening, one-quarter cup milk, two cups flour, one-quarter tablespoon salt, one cup sugar, one egg, one tablespoon baking powder, one-half cup cocoat. Cream, shortening and sugar together; add milk and beaten egg; mix well. Sift flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt together and add. Roll very thin and bake in hot oven about twelve minutes. Make a white frosting as follows: One cup sugar, one-half cup milk. Boil until syrup is thick, then pour slowly on one tablespoon of marshmallow cream, flavor to suit. Beat until the right consistency to spread. Spread between cakes, sandwich like.

SUGGESTIONS

Dirty Window Shades—The kitchen window shades are apt to get very discolored with the smoke and grease from cooking. They can be easily cleaned by laying them on a flat surface and washing them with a sponge of steel wool wet in a very soapy water. Rinse thoroughly.

To Brighten Old Handkerchiefs—Since there is a fancy for colored handkerchiefs, one resourceful young woman took a number of her oldest favorite handkerchiefs that had failed to respond to the usual persuasive methods of bleaching, and when she was coloring some shirtwaists with various of the simple rinsing tints added to each different shade some of the kerchiefs to color at the same time. The result was successful, and in place of the old-looking handkerchiefs she apparently had gained a number of new ones in dainty colors.

"Watering Milk" Draws $25 Fine

A charge of "watering milk" drew a fine of $25 for a local dairyman when he was arrainged in city police court Friday, on a complaint made by Dr. A. H. Douglas, city health department director.

Analysis of milk being served consumers showed that the percentage of butter fat was far below that required by law.

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I have been married three years. The first year of our married life was happy and then my husband got to running around with other women. I worried myself to death, but I quit worrying and lost all my love for him because he treated me so mean. I can never love him again as I once did. I didn't give him any reason for treating me so cruelly.

He has quit his running around now and he stays at home, but I can't love him no matter how good he is to me. I went with a young man before I was married and he wanted me to marry him, but I thought I didn't love him enough. I find I was mistaken. About two weeks after I was married he got married. He didnt live with his wife long and he told me he loved me and he always would. He is on my mind all the time. I know he thinks of me and he saves his money. He wants me to get a divorce and marry him. I dearly love him and my life is miserable. Please advise me what to do.

RUBY.

You have a good imagination, but you use it in the wrong way. Since you did not love the other man before your marriage when he wanted you to marry him you may be sure you only imagine you love him now. Without a doubt if you were free to enjoy his company you would find him tiresome and no more desirable than you used to consider him. Absence has made you think of his best. traits and helped you to imagine his character blessed with qualities he does not possess.

Stop thinking about the other man and devote yourself to thoughts of your husband. The same qualities you admired before marriage he still possesses, only you have grown blind to them. Since he is good to you now, overlook the period when he was intersted in other women. He saw his mistake and is trying to make up to you now.

EUNICE: Unique ways of stamping envelopes to go through the mail never did appeal to me. If you care to send another envelope correctly stamped, I will reply to your question.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl fourteen years old and a freshman in high school. On our basketball team there is a girl who is going away. She plays center. Our captain wants me to take her place when she is gone.

Our coach wants another girl to take this girl's place but all of the other girls want me. Please tell me what to do in order to win his consent so that I can take her place.

We are going to play another school next Friday night. After the game we are giving a dance. Is it proper to dance with the boys from that school? MICKY.

Naturally you are very eager to play on the team, but I would advise you to let the coach and captain decide the matter and say nothing yourself. The girl who plays the better game should be chosen regardless of popularity.

Since you are entertaining the other school with a dance, it is all right to dance with the boys from that school.

JIMMIE AND DAD RADIO STORIES

LVI. Jimmie's Biggest Day.

(By Broad Caster)

"Morning dad, how did you sleep last night? I was putting up antennas for our CW set all night. Once I slipped clear off the roof and slashed into the rain barrel. Mother came running out and helped me out, then I slipped again and fell into the cistern."

"You're not hurt, are you, Jimmie?"

"No, not very badly; only my head is a little sore where I bumed it where I hit the floor."

"That's a good one. I suppose you really were putting up an antenna on your bed when you fell out."

"I suppose so. Remember that today is the day of all days for me. Today is Christmas, Fourth of July, and circus day all in one. We are going to get the CW telephone set today."

"My mind's made up to that, Jimmie. I have been thinking quite a bit about that antenna we will have to put up. What do you think about it, Mr. Expert Consulting Radio Engineer?"

"Oh, dad, there are a lot of different kinds of antennas, umbrellas, cages, flat-top, inverted L's, and the common kind called T's. They each have their advantages. For instance a T antenna is the easiest to construct. All you have to do is to take four copper stranded wires about 100 feet long and fasten them to two spreaders ten feet long. Of course you must place a poreclain isulator in each wire where it hooks to the spreader. The next thing you must do is to place four more wires onto the middle of the flat-top part. This will make the lead-in. To make it right the four lead-in wires are fanned for about fifteen feet then braided together in a pigtail. You remember the antenna must not be more than 110 feet from the ground to the farthest point of the antenna. Since the flat-top is split in half you county fifty feet for that, then you must have the center sixty feet off the ground."

An amateur sending antenna must be more than 110 feet long.

"That's dead easy to talk about, but how are we going to get an antenna sixty feet up in the air in the middle. That would take two poles at least seventy feet high."

"Yes, dad, that is right for a CW sending set, then you will have a good radiator."

"Radiator, you mean antenna, don't you?"

"Well, an antenna is a radiator of wireless juice dad."

"Oh, I get you now. Then we will have to call up the telephone company today and see if they have any such poles, so I may buy two for the antenna."

"Then that is settled. I'm going to study up a bit about antennas so I can figure out a good one for us dad. CW is queer stuff and may be we had better find out the best antenna or at least try to find out the advantages and disadvtanges of each. I will read up in your book today between study hours at school about them and we will go over the layouts tonight."

"That will be fine, Jimmie. I will get the antenna wire today and the insulators. I might find out something downtown from the fellows at the radio store. If we only could find one who was as clever as the one in Washington, D. C., we would be all set."

"Yes, but really good radio men are scarce, dad. Better let me be your radio engineer."

"We didn't get that list of CW apparatus completed last night. What else will we need?"

"I thought of a lot of things that we will need, dad. One will be a radio frequency choke that will keep the high frequency out of the direct current generator, and another is a small transformer which will take the voice currents from the voice pickup device or microphone as it is called, and put them onto the grid of the voice amplifier tube. This is called a modulation transformer and looks a lot like an amplifier transformer except the windings are a bit different. You will also have to have one of those big grid leaks for power tubes. They have 5,000 ohms resistance with a center tap for 2,500 ohms."

"Better stop right there, Jimmie, for we will have to have a dray to haul all of that stuff home."

Somebody's Birthday

BY ELSA ALLEN.

If today is your birthday yours will be a life of discontent and with you "Well begun" will not be "half done." To begin will frequently be all that you do.

Your mind is one that plans eagerly and rapidly, but unless you discipline yourself severely you will never bring an of your projects into successful operation and while you are cursing your luck others will be making your dreams their realities.

Your natural power of organizing will make you invaluable in business, carried on in a big way, such as department stores, railroads and construction, as you can carry parrellel actions in your mind and you need heavy responsibilities to maintain your interest.

You should never be in business for yourself, but once in a well organized team, you will do your share. You despise detail and you will frequently expend untold energy in avoiding a simple arithmetical task.

You have a keen sense of the artistic because you habitually view things in their inter-relations. You will find yourself continuously rearranging pictures, furniture and bric-a-brac. You are erratic and easily irritated, but once assured of a person's loyalty there is nothing you will not do for him.

Women born this day are suited for business careers or activities of a social nature, and if confined to a domestic life, should acquire a diverting interest outside of the home.

Today you should avoid signing any document whatever, because any obligation incurred will be more than you can meet.

A child born on this day will have unusual health and some frame as an athlete.

The key, thrust in the lock on the other side, completely barred any outlook. He pressed his ear against the door, but heard nothing.

A second later he was at the window. Some one was outside, breaking entrance. He didn't care who it was so long as the shutter was opened.

There was a sharp crack, and the shutter swung open. Then a head abruptly bobbed into the square of uncertain light. It was the hunchback, Little Billy.

"Miss Ruth?" he hissed sharply.

Martin caught the gleam of a revolver pointed at his chest

"Don't shoot!" he exclaimed. "It is I, Martin Blake, the law clerk."

"The law clerk! Good Lord! Have they shanghaied you?"

"Yes, I'm locked in this room," said Martin.

"I'm coming in," whispered Little Billy.

He dropped to the floor by Martin's side. Immediately, he thrust his head out of the window and spoke a few words in an undertone to some one below.

"Stand by, Bos," called Little Billy softly. "I'm inside, all right."

He straightened up and clutched Martin's arm. "Did you see her? Is she safe?"

"Think so. They haven't had time to harm her. I think she is in the next room. Some one was rapping on the wall."

"Code talk!" supplanted the hunchback "That is Ruth. She thinks I was caught, too. Which wall?"

He darted to the side of the room Martin indicated and started a light tapping on the wall. Hardly had he begun when faint replies came from the next room. For several moments the strange conversation continued through the wall. Twice, Martin heard the hunchback mutter an oath. Then, after a final series of raps, the little man left the wall and crept to Martin's side.

"Yes, she is in there," he announced. "We will have to work swiftly. What do you know of this house—how constructed?"

Martin described in whispers the plan of the building as he knew it. He also told Little Billy of his own rough experience, though he did not mention the envelope.

"I warn you," said Little Billy, "you are in some danger. Carew, or any of his crowd, would snuff you out in an instant if he thought fit. I am not going to ask you to risk your skin in an affair that does not concern you. There is the window—the bosun will let you pass."

"Ill stay and help you, if you'll have me," promptly replied Martin. "I am not afraid to take a chance. And that girl—those yellow—"

"I knew you would stick!" interrupted the hunchback. His hand grasped Martin's in a congratulatory grip. "I knew I had not misjudged you—you are a white man. We must get her away, and we dare not call the police into this affair. But there is nothing crooked on our side of the fence. Here, take this—you may need it!"

Little Billy thrust something into Martin's hand, and Martin thrilled at the feel of it. It was a pistol. Martin Blake, law clerk, became of the dead past, and Martin Blake, adventurer, stepped into the law clerk's boots

"It is too risky to make a rush through this door," Little Billy was saying. "They would hear us and be on guard. We will try the next window."

He vaulted over the sill, clung a moment and dropped to the shed below. Martin saw the boatswain catch the little man in midair and lower him gently to his feet.

"Come on," the hunchback then called softly. And Martin followed The boatswain's gruff whisper was in his ear—

"Swiggle me, ladibuck, I 'ad no thought to run afoul of you again."

He paused beneath the other window, and Martin and the boatswain pressed close to his side.

The boatswain produced a short steel bar and handed it to the hunchback. Then he braced his back against the building, directly below the desired window, and picking Little Billy, hoisted the little fellow to his own broad shoulders. The hunchback perched there a moment and delivered instructions to Martin

"You stand lookout," he instructed. "Watch the street. Listen for footsteps."

Martin obediently crept to the edge of the shed's roof that overlooked the street and posted himself there as watchman.

Then, abruptly, came from around the corner in front of the saloon, the muffled throb of an automobile engine. It stopped. Martin stiffened tensely and griped the automatic in his hand. Behind him, he heard the boatswain mutter:

"'Ear that, Billy? Swiggle me, 'e's back—'urry!"

The scraping sound of the steel bar upon the shutter increased in volume, Several men had entered the saloon. The danger seemed to have passed them by.

Little Billy gave a satisfied grunt. The shutter was open, Little Billy was clambering down from the boatswain's shoulders, an indistinct figure clambering out of the newly opened window.

And then Martin saw a beam of yellow light illumine the other window, the window of the room in which he had been prisoner. His ears were assailed with a sudden outcry coming through that window—

"He ees gone!"

A man's figure was framed in the lighted window—a bloated bulk that he knew was Spulvedo, the dive keeper. A flame shot from that figure into his very face. The missile struck the roof close to his side and splattered shingle and dirt in his face. Without hesitation, Martin straightened his own arm and fired point blank at the living mark. Spulvedo emitted a stifled shriek and fell from sight.

SHOOTING ON HIGHWAYS

Senator T. H. Ridgeway of Bexar county, early in the session, introduced a bill prohibiting the discharge of firearms "across a public highway." It was sent to engrossment by a vote of 19 to 8. There were more than 1,000 homicides in Texas in 1922.

Were the victims shot "across the highways?" Were the slayers convicted? Men have been given from three to five years for having in their possession illegal booze. Is a booze drinker or maker a greater league criminal than a professional gunman who slays his kind? Asking the information; that's all.

STATE CONTROL OF UTILITIES

Texas has what is known as the has prepared a bill for regulating interurbans and controlling state utilities. In substance, it places control and regulation of all long distance telephone companies, interurban electric railways, jitneys, and trucks, teegraph companies, water companies and light and power companies doing an interurban business under the railroad commission.

According to the measure, the commission is given exclusive jurisdiction over those public utilities which are not regulated by law, but it has no jurisdiction over local utilities. City Attorney James J. Collins of Dallas is responsible for many important features of the bill. Should this measure be enacted by the Thirtieth legislature, then the railroad commission will have something to do.

It has the backing of Senator Stewart of Fort Worth, Senator Davis of Dallas, Senator Murphy of Houston and Senator Ridgeway of San Antonio is said to be open to conviction. Interurbans and long distance telephone companies are not regulated by state or municipality and some of the lawmakers appear to be willing to place these utilities under state control.

TEXAS TECH BILL.

All the people of Texas are interested in the Texas Technological College to be established in the western part of the state. There were only two amendments offered to the substitute bill. One by Senator H. L. Darwin, providing that the college shall be built within easy reach of the city selected as the location, and the other by Senator Edgar E. Witt providing that all the $150,000 appropriation for buying a site not used for that purpose be placed in a permanent improvement fund for the college.

It calls for a total appropriation of $1,002,500 divided as follows: $150,000 for purchasing college site, $500,000 for buildings for the fiscal year 1923-24, and $350,000 for building for the fiscal year 1924-25. The only appropriation called for immediately is $2,500 to pay expenses of commission to locate site for the college. This bill calls for the creation of a west Texas State college to include agricultural and mechanical courses and also technological courses. Senator Bledsoe in his appeal to his fellow senators said:

"West Texas pays her part of the taxes of the state and she deserves recognition, I believe this college can be established without additional burden in taxations of the state. The present condition of the treasury has been brought about by the failure of some parts of the state to pay their portion of the taxes."

And then 24 senators voted for the Texas Tech bill, five voted against it, one was marked present but not voting, and one senator was absent. Some were in the west. There is going to be created in coming years one of the greatest state colleges under southern or western skies.

ONE MAN BLOC

Refresentative J. Roy Hardin of Kaufman county has organized an anti-tax legisative bloc. Representative Hardin says that industrial enterprise in Texas will be severely crippled, and the economic progress of the whole state will be retarded if the tax measures pending before the legislature are premitted to become laws. Representative Hardin is certain of one member on the rostra of his new bloc. When the roll is called the gentleman from Kauffman will answer present.

COTTON IN EGYPT

Southern Illinois farmers are to plant cotton this year. They are going to desert wheat for the fleecy staple. They say that there is no reason why farming lands in the vicinity of Cairo should not yield a profitable crop of the staple of democracy. They say there is no boll weevil there, but the Mexican insect has a way of getting over the country and making its presence felt.

BREAKING THE SHELL.

Indifference is responsible for much of the trouble in the world.

Indifference is like a shell formed about human sensibility and sympathy.

"What we don't know doesn't worry us" is a proverb which is based on a sound understanding of human nature.

Children die of preventable diseases; people are permitted to dwell in unhealthful tenement houses; capable men and women seek in vain for employment, all because those who could help them, and would like to help them, never heard of them.

Rouse the public to a case of distress and it becomes immediately sympathetic and helpful.

A few weeks ago two boys put out into the mist that covered the Hudson river which was full of drifting ice floats.

The rowboat that carried them was soon lost to sight.

When they failed to return home in a few hours, alarms were sent to every police station along the river, for a distance of twenty miles.

Men sought them in small boats and police motor boats.

People crowded to the shores to watch for them.

And until they turned up, safe and sound, about dusk excitement and suspense ran up and down the river.

While these boys were drifting aimlessly about in the Hudson, hundreds of other unfortunates were fighting for their lives with disease and poverty—with none to give them assistance.

The case of the lads who were drifting was spectacular. It caught the public attention. And the desire to alleviate distress is easily aroused.

The difficulty lies in arousing it—in really awakening the majority of prosperous and easy living people to the fact that others need their help.

Newspapers have done much to remedy this condition in late years. That is the reason for the multiplication of hospitals, and societies for the relief of the sick and the needy.

But the shell of indifference is still hard to break.

It is not easy to turn out of one's way to answer calls of distress, when they are faint and far away.

But when they are clear and close at hand, help will always be given.

When the shell of indifference is finally broken there will be far less suffering in the world—and those who have been living inside the shell will find greater happiness in bringing cheer into the lives of the unfortunate.

TIMELY VIEWS ON WORLD TOPICS

"OVERTHROW OF GREECE SHOULD BE WARNING TO U. S.," SAYS GENERAL

"Within the last few months we have seen what may happen to a country in consequence of its not having had definite plans commensurate with the position it had assumed in world affairs. We have seen its armies in defeat and disgrace, its high officials condemned to death and executed, its government overthrown by an outraged people." This is the warning of Major General James G. Harbord, U. S. A. retired.

Maj. Gen. Harbord

"Without definite plans for our defense, in keeping with our position in the world today we are taking the same chance that Greece took and we are courting the same disastrous consequences," he continues: "If there be any who are inclined to doubt this, I invite attention to the manner in which the people of this country during the last three years have demurred at paying the cost of victory and I ask you to consider seriously what might have happened if they had been called upon instead, to pay the price of defeat.

Rising Power of Soviets.

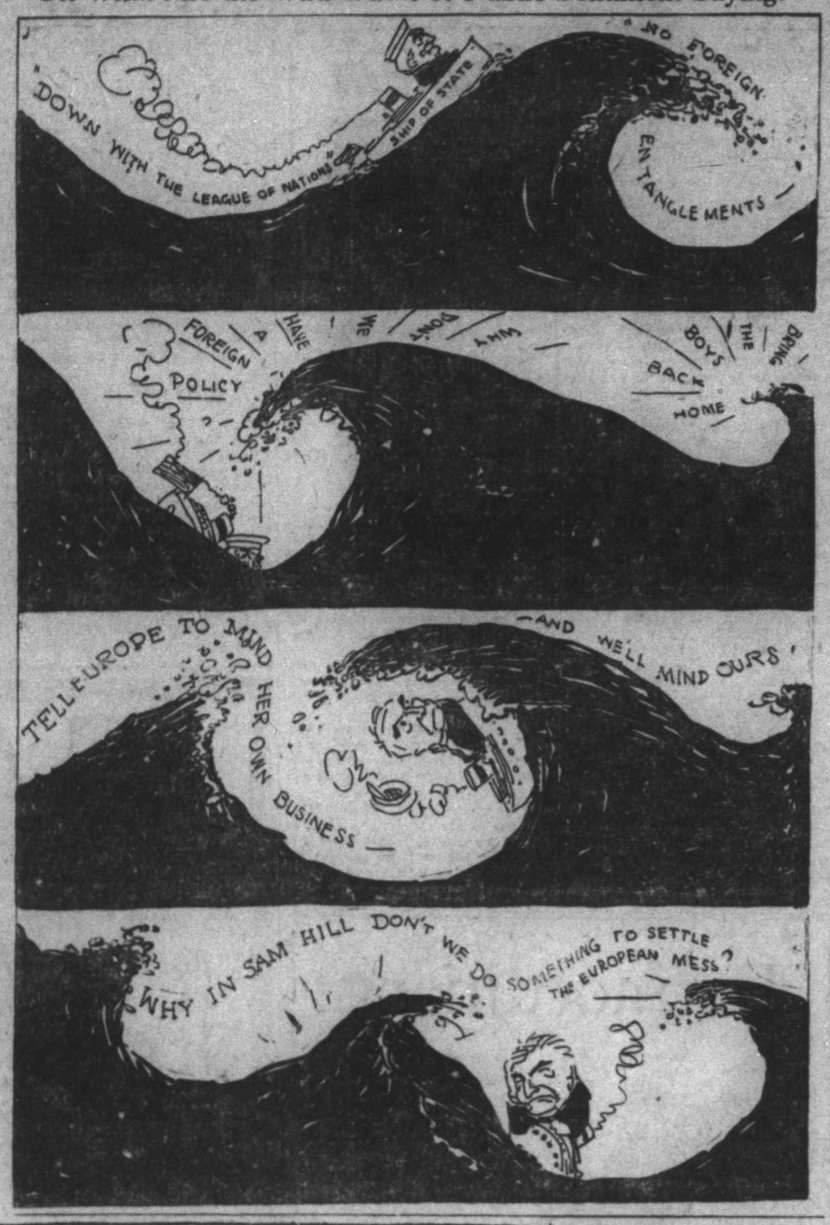

"Within the last four months two important cities of the world have changed hands in obedience to more or less direct pressure from the Soviet government of Russia, displacing Great Britain in the one case and Japan in the other. These cities are Constantinople and Vladivostok, cities at the opposite ends of the continent of Asia nearly 8,000 miles apart."

One of the gravest dangers of the present, General Harbord said, lies in the possibility that Russia, though a virtual outcast among the nations of the world, may effect military combinations which would have the potentialities of war on a major scale. Germany, in the bitterness of defeat and economic distress he said, is looking for an ally, and that brother in arms and friend may be Soviet Russia, which is now maintaining by far the largest army in the world.

General Harbord outlined the measures proposed for defense. He said they involved the support of a professional force barely sufficient to provide for the peace time needs of overseas garrison and for the preservation of internal order, and a non-professional force of civilians bringing the aggregate to within less than one man to every 200 of population. But incomplete as these plans are, he said, they are a great advance over any the country has ever had.

"There are those who for reasons of their own will tell you that we need no defense plans," General Harbord said: "that this country was never in less danger of attack than at present. Possibly so. I sincerely hope so. But I cannot forget that we have been told that same thing in every generation of this country's history and that, in spite of such utterances, no generation has been without urgent need of such plans or has failed to suffer for lack of them. This matter of national defense is not a political issue, as some are inclined to make it. It is not a matter that the political profiteer or the synthetic statesman should be permitted to exploit in his own selfish interest. It is not a question of whether this party or that shall be enabled to go before the country with a record for economy falsely made by bartering our security. It is wholly a question of whether this country shall be placed in a position to endure, with or without the consent of the rest of the world."

More Truth Than Poetry

—By James J. Montague—

WITH ALL APOLOGIES

I played every lead as I fancied,
(And won pretty often at that),
But a Colonel once came and sat into a game
We were playing one night in our flat.
And he said that my only idea
Was to follow some fatuous whim;
"Be guided by me; play as I do," said he;
So I learned about auction from him.

I played as the Colonel had taught me
Till an elderly dame came along;
Watched me lead a lone ace, with a scandalized face,
And said I was all in the wrong.
"Of course you can bungle your leading."
She said, "if by chance you prefer,
But no tricks you will miss if you lead 'em like this;"
So I learned about auction from her.

Her method I followed a fortnight,
When a couple of friends happened in.
Said they, "It's too bad, with those cards that you had,
That you simply could not make 'em win.
Among all bad players of auction,
You shine like a radiant gem;
It is all in the bid; we'll teach you, old kid,"
So I learned about auction from them.

I follow ten different systems;
Ten methods of bidding I use;
Few tricks do I take and no rubbers I make
And I'm always rebuked when I lose.
I've taken eight courses of lessons,
But none of my teacher's agree,
So I beg with a sigh that you never will try
To learn about auction from me.

IRRIGATION ? ? ? ? ?

Through arrangements with A. M. McPherson, consulting engineer of this city who has had wide experience in irrigation work, The Record News is enabled to answer questions of all interest pertaining to irrigation work. Mail your questions to the Irrigation Editor, of The Record News.

A List of Common Terms Used in Irrigation and Their Definitions.

Twenty years ago, few indeed knew what was meant when such terms as carbureter, radiator, gear shift, or differential were used. Now the man is behind the times who does not know far more than this about an automobile. Can you imagine trying to describe how an automobile is built without using such terms?

Irrigation is of prime importance to this city. It will soon form its greatest asset. We have for some months been answering questions on irrigation and trying to educate those who are not familiar with it. We have, from time to time, defined various common terms used. The meaning of certain terms must be known and understood before books and bulletins on irrigation can be read with understanding.

It is apparent from the number of inquiries constantly received that there is need for further knowledge along these lines; so we will for a while define some of the more common terms used in all irrigated sections and if you will clip these definitions and preserve them you will be better able to read other articles or irrigation.

ACRE FOOT—A unit of quantity, the same as quart or gallon. It is the amount of water that would cover an acre of ground one foot deep. It is equal to 43,560 cubic feet or 325,850 United States gallons.

SECOND FOOT—A unit of flow; one cubic foot of water passing a given point in a second of time. Equal to about 450 gallons per minute. One second foot flowing for about 12 hours will give a quantity of about one acre foot.

MINER'S INCH—Also a unit of flow but not as definite as second foot. It is defined in various states by statute. It can generally be considered that 40 miner's inches equal one second foot.

Dear Roy—Last night a very intelligent young lady asked me, "what is this new Bonar Law?" I couldn't resist the temptation, so I said, "why that's a new law which provides that any one pulling 'boner' will have to tarry in the hoosegow." Tell me, what would you have said?—W. B. D.

If you are getting your memoirs for book form publication, there are a few general directions to follow.

First, go through all the newspapers and magazines and clip out all the anecdotes you can find. When you have about 800 of these you are ready to start on your memoirs.

Let the first three volumes tell of the days of your childhood, not omitting the time your father took you to Chicago to see President Grant go by in a parade and you thought the drum major of the band was General Grant. This is a sure-fire laugh. Your childhood days will certainly be of great interest to the public.

The next four volumes should deal with your young manhood and your various love affairs, interspersed with passages telling of your life in college.

Let the next five volumes tell of your early struggles in your profession and how you made good against tremendous odds.

The time you spent in jail can be passed by without any volume at all, as this is liable to happen to anybody and is not particularly worth mentioning.

The next four volumes can tell of your successful business or professional career and can lead to your old age and demise.

The latter will be awaited with fortitude and courage by your readers.

There is a strong antipathy among people against having their pictures published in the papers and magazines but it is an antipathy which is shy and bashful and seldom comes to the surface.

Observe the lady who's lapdog Piff-Paff-Poof has won a ribbon at the East Sudbury dog show. She knows that the public has the right to see her likeness in the paper, but she just naturally cringes from the ordeal—until she gets her best frock and hat and has time to hook one knee over the other.

The actresses who come in from the sea on the great liners fear this camera to the extent that many of them lock themselves in their staterooms or appear wearing heavy veils. They can be found hiding behind lifeboats or tucked away in the steerage among the immigrants.

Nobody is safe from the cameraman A perfectly innocent celebrity may be walking along the street wearing a new style hat and—"Click." The dread sound comes without the slightest warning. He turns around to see his assailant just disappearing around the corner or leaping into a rapidly moving taxicab.

There should be a crusade against these picture-takers. But, if there is one, who will back it?

Nobody!

WHO'S WHO

GIACOMO ACERBO

Giacomo Acerbo, secretary general of the council of ministers in Mussolini's "American" cabinet is a striking example of why they call the new Italian premier's cabinet an "American" one. He, like many of other ministers, is clean shaven, which is distinctly American, and he is an enthusiastic sportsman. He is an insatiable cross country walker and mountain climber.

GIACOMO ACERBO

Acerbo is one of the most popular of all Mussolini's lieutenants, particularly with the ladies, as he is famous as a smart dresser and good dancer. He is called by his innumerable friends Giacomini or Jimmy. He comes from Loreto Aprutino, a small mountain town of the Abruzzi, the so-called "noble and strong" region of Italy. During the war he was a captain in the land forces of the country and was counted among the bravest. He was rewarded with five medals for exceptional valor in the battlefields.

In the recent Fascisti revolution he distinguished himself as one of the most courageous and capable leaders. His Fascisti from the Abruzzi held nearly all of southern Italy for Mussolini.

POEMS THAT LIVE

Can death be sleep when life is but a dream
And scenes of bliss as a phantom by?
The transient pleasures as a vision seem,
And yet we think the greatest pain's to die.

How strange it is that man on earth should roam,
And lead a life of woe, but not forsake
His rugged path; nor dare to view alone
His future doom, which is but to awake.

Guns of the Gods

By TALBOT MUNDY

A Story of Romance and Mystery in India

The visitor proves to be Yasmini. Mrs. Blaine penetrates her disguise. The princess tells of secret warfare between her and her cousin, the maharajah. She says she should occupy the throne, but that the English decided not to allow a woman to reign.

Tom Tripe, an English drill sergeant, in the employ of Gungadhura, calls at the house. Yasmini, whom he was supposed to be holding almost as a prisoner in her own palace, makes him promise to tell the maharajah that she had gone to see the English commissioner. She learns that Chamu's son is indebted to Mukum Dass, money lender, and pretending to find that Chamu has stolen a bank note from her, she forces a promise of silence from him, giving him the bank note with which to pay the debt.

In the conversation which followed it was evident that Sir Ronald Samson, English commissioner was trying to find out how near Blaine had come to finding gold and whether it was gold in the ground or what he called the treasure of Sialpore that he was searching for. Tess declared that neither she nor her husband had heard of the treasure before.

"Now, now, Mrs. Blaine!" he laughed. "You Americans are not so ingenuous as you like to seem! Do you really expect us to believe that your husband's purpose isn't in fact to discover the Sialpore Treasure?"

"I never heard of it."

"Well, well—of course I believe you Mrs. Blaine. We're not overheard are we?"

Not forgetful of the Princess Yasmini hidden somewhere in the house behind her, but unsuspicious yet of that young woman's gift for garnering facts, Tess stood up to look about, and sat down again, nodding in the direction of a gardener. "There's the nearest possible eavesdropper."

Samson then told the story.

"There have been eighteen rajahs of Sialpor in direct succession father to son," he said. "The first man began accumulating treasure. Every man has confided the secret to his successor and none else—father to son you understand. When Bubru Singh, the last man, died he had no son. The secret died with him."

"How does anybody know that there is a secret then?" demanded Tess.

"Everybody knows it! The money was raised by taxes Minister after minister in turn has had to hand over minted gold to the reigning rajah—"

"And look the other way, I suppose while the rajah hid the stuff!" suggested Tess.

Samson screwed up his face like a man who has taken medicine.

"There are dozens of ways in a native state of getting rid of men who know too much. Poison—snakes—assassination—jail on trumped-up charges, and disease in jail—apparent accidents of all sorts. It doesn't pay to know too much."

"Then we're suspected of hunting for this treasure? Is that the idea?"

"Not at all, since you've denied it. But I hope your husband doesn't stumble on it. Or if he does, that he'll notify me first."

"Would that be honest?"

"I'll let you into a diplomatic secret, Mrs. Blaine. Only you mustnt repeat it. The present maharajah, Gungadhura, isn't the saving kind; he's a spender. He'd give his eyes to get hold of that treasure. And if he had it, we'd need an army to suppress him. We made a mistake when Bubru Singh died; there were two nephews with about equal claims and we picked the wrong one—a born intriguer.

"Who is the other man—the one the British didn't choose?" asked Tess.

"A very decent chap named Utirupa—quite a sportsman. He was thought too young at the time the selection was made; but he knew enough to get out of the reach of the new maharajah immediately. They have a phrase here, you know, 'to hate like cousins.'

"So you'd rather that the treasury stayed buried?"

"Not exactly, but—he tossed ash from the end of his cigar to illustrate offhandedness— "I think I would promise ten per cent of it to whosoever brought us exact information of its whereabouts before the maharajah could lay his hands on it."

"If I were Gundadhura I'd find that money or bust! And when I'd found it—"

"You'd endow an orphan asylum eh?"

"I'd make such trouble for you English that you'd be glad to leave me in peace for a generation!"

Samson laughed good-naturedly and twisted up the end of his mustache.

"'Pon my soul, you're a surprising woman! So your sympathies are all with Gungadhura?"

"Not at all. I think he's a criminal! He buys women, and tortures animals in an arena, and keeps a troupe of what he is pleased to call dancing-girls. He's despicable. But if I were in his shoes I'd find that money and make it hot for you English!"

Samson did not know whether or not to take her seriously, but recognized that his chance had gone that morning for the flirtation he had had in view—very mild, of course, for a beginning; it was his experience that most things ought to start quite mildly, if you hoped to keep the other man from stampeding the game. Nevertheless, as a judge of situations he preferred not to take his leave at that moment.

Give a woman the last word always, but be sure it is a question, which you leave unanswered!

"You've a beautiful garden," he said; and for a minute or two they talked of flowers of which he knew more than a little; then of music of which he understood a very great deal.

"Have you a proper lease on this house?" he asked at last.

"I believe so. Why?"

"I've been told there's some question about the title. Some one's bringing suit against your landlord for possession on some ground or another."

"What of it? Suppose the other should win—could he put us out?"

"I don't know, I'm sure. Well—if there's any trouble, come to me about it and we'll see what can be done. Sometimes a little influence you know, exerted in the right way—well—Please give my regards to your husband—Good morning, Mrs. Blaine.

Theresa Blaine smiled after him, she was seized suddenly from behind, drawn backward and embraced.

"You are perfect!" Yasmini purred in her ear between kisses. "You are surely one of the fairies sent to live among mortals for a sin! I shall love you forever! Now that Samson sahib will ride into the town to ask about your landlord, of whom he knows nothing, having only heard a servant's tale. But Tom Tripe will have told already that I am at the burra commissioner's house and Gungadhura will send there to ask questions. And whoever goes will have to wait long. And when the commissioner returns at last he will deny that I have been there, and the messenger will return to Gungadhura, who will not believe a word of it. So, after he has learned that I am back in my own palace, Gungadhura will try to poison me again All of which is as it should be."

"What?" Tess gasped.

"He always tries to poison me. Now he will try more carefully."

"You must take care! How will you prevent him?"

"I shall eat very often at your house. And then you shall take a journey with me. And after that the great pig Gungadhura shall be very sorry he was born, and still more sorry that he tried to poison me!

They were still in the window.

"Ah! Hasamurti comes!" she said suddenly. "She is my chetl," (Hand maiden)

I shall go to the temple of Jinendra where the priest, who is no man's friend, imagines I am a friend of his. He will promise me anything if I will tell him what to say to Gungadhura; and I shall tell him without believing the promises. One of these days perhaps he will plot with Gungadhura to have me poisoned."

She has gone like a shadow without another word.

Dick Blaine returned for early lunch and showed her a bag full of coarsely powdered quartz.

"There's color there," he said jubilantly. "Rather more than merely color! It's not time to talk yet, may lead somewhere. Then won't Gungadhura gloat"

She told him about Yasmini's visit and about the commissioner's call.

"Wants me to find the treasure, does he, and call the game on Gungadhura? What does he take me for? One of his stool-pigeons? If it's a question of percentage, I'd prefer one from the maharajah than from him."

As Yasmini went through the gate, Mukhum Dass, the money-lender, was riding by on a smart mule. Yasmini's hooded figure brought him to a halt.

"This house is yours?" she asked and he nodded his sharp eyes shining like an animal's determined to recognize his questioner.

"There is a son of lies who brings a lawsuit to get the title?"

He nodded again.

"Dhulap Singh, is it not He is a secret agent of Gungadhura."

"How do you know? Why should the maharajah want my property?"

"He hunts high and low for the Sialpore treasure. Jengal Singh, who built this house, was in the confidence of Gungadhura's uncle, and a priest says there will be a clue found to the treasure beneath the floor of this house."

"A likely tale indeed!"

"Very well, then—lose thine house!"

"True information has its price," he said. "At any rate name the price."

"It is silence firstly; second, a security for silence."

"The first part is easy." His bargain-driver's eyes watched hers intently, unable to detect the slightest clue that should start him guessing. He was trying to identify a man, not a woman.

"How shall I give security for silence" he asked.

"I already hold it."

"Where are the title-deeds of the house you say you own?" she asked him suddenly.

Mukhum Dass kept silence, and tried to smother the raging anger in his eyes.

"Was it Mukhum Dass or another who went to the priest in the temple of Jinendra on a certain afternoon and requested intercession to the god in order that a title-deed might be recovered?"

"Priests cackle like old women," growled the money-lender.

"Nay, but this one cackled to the god. Perhaps Jinendra felt compassionate toward a poor shroff (money-lender) who can not defend his suit successfully without that title-deed. Jengal Singh died and his son claims that the house was really sold to Dhulap Singh, who dallies with his suit because he suspects, but does not know, that Mukhum Dass has lost the paper;—eh?"

"How do you know these things?"

"Maybe the god Jinendra told! Which would be better, Mukhum Dass—to keep great silence and be certain to receive the paper in time to defend the lawsuit—or to talk freely, and so set others talking? Who knows that it might not reach the ears of Jengal Singh that the title-deed is truly lost?"

Another Fine Installment Tomorrow

Coyotes Swamp C. & L.; Junior College Nosed Out

HIGH SCHOOL WINS EASILY

College Goes Down Fighting

Coach Jones' Red and Black high school basket ball quintet swamped Collier and Landon, 50 to 22, in a City league game at the American Legion hall Friday night, while the Junior college five went down to a two-point defeat, 20 to 18, in a fast and furious battle with the Knights of Columbus. The latter embroglio was everything that the first game wasn't—namely, a real battle from start to finish.

The Coyote C & L affair was never in doubt. At the half time mark Jones' proteges were leading 27 to 7 and although things were a little more even in the last half, the winners still managed to hold a comfortable margin.

Leo Baldwin, the long Coyote center, was the outsanding player of the game with 12 field goals to his credit. Hudspeth, of the losers, broke loose in the last half and roped five goals.

By winning their game last night, the school boys have defeated practically all the strongest teams in the City league.

Line-up:

High school	C. and L.
Deems	Neal
forward
Ray	Ferguson
forward
Baldwin	Bassell
center
Powell	Hudspeth
guard
Coffey	Montgomery
guard

Substitutions: Crites for Baldwin, Baldwin for Deems, Mabeckney for Ray, Gordon for Mabeckney, West for Crites, Cameron for Powell, Beck for Baldwin. Field goals: Neal 1, Ferguson 2, Hudspeth 5, Deems 3, Ray 2, Mabeckney 3, Baldwin 12 Crites 2, Powell 2.

Knights Have Narrow Squeeze

The Junior college five went down in glorious defeat, 20 to 18, in as hotly contested game as has been seen here in weeks.

The first period ended with the score 10 to 8 in favor of the college boys but the Knights quickly overcome this narrow lead at the beginning of the second period and forged ahead in a few seconds. From this time on both teams fought hard, with the Knights gradually forging ahead until, with only six minutes to play, they had a lead of seven points. At this time the collegians came to life and gradually, point by point, overcame the lead until they were within two points of the leaders. With only two minutes of play and the score 20 to 18 in favor of the Knights, they took the defensive and played for time.

Lineup:

JUNIOR COL. Pos.	K. of C.
Ferguson	Collegan
forward
Skaggs	Kubecka
forward
Haney	Faichney
center
Powell	Coffey
guard
Walker	Dee
guarJ

Substitutions: Pardo for Powell, West for Haney, Powell for Skaggs, Haney for West, McMahan for Kubecka, Kubecka for Dee. Field goals: Ferguson 4, Skaggs 1, Haney 1, Pardo 1, Collegan 2, Faichney 4, Dee 2.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM!

"I am eighty-three years old and I doctored for rheumatism ever since I came out of the army, over 50 years ago. Like many others, I spent money freely for so-called 'cures' and I have read about 'Uric Acid' until I could almost taste it. I could not sleep nights or walk without pain; my hands were so sore and stiff I could not hold a pen. But now I am again in active business and can walk with ease or write all day with comfort. Friends are surprised at the change." You might just as well attempt to put out a fire with oil as try to get rid of your rheumatism, neuritis and like complaints by taking treatment supposed to drive Uric Acid out of your blood and body. It took Mr. Ashelman fifty years to find out the truth. He learned how to get rid of the true cause of his rheumatism, other disorders, and recover his strength from "The Inner Mysteries," now being distributed free by an authority who devoted over twenty years to the scientific study of this trouble. If any reader of "The Record News" wishes "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" containing facts overlooked by doctors and scientists for centuries past, simply send a post card or letter to H. P. Clearwater, No. 290 G Street, Hallowell, Maine. Send now, lest you forget! If not a sufferer, cut out this notice and hand this good news and opportunity to some afflicted friend. All who send will receive it by return mail without any charge whatever.—Adv.

County Finals Slated Tonight

Burkburnett, Electra, Iowa Park and Clara Win In Preliminaries

Special to Record News.

ELECTRA, Feb. 2.—Electra and Iowa Park high schools in the senior division and Burkburnett and Clara schools in the junior classification, will meet here tonight in the final of the Wichita County Interscholastic League Basketball tournament. The four teams named survived the preliminary and semi-final games played Friday afternoon and night.

The winners in Saturday night's finals will represent Wichita county in the district events to be played in Archer City next month.

Iowa Park seniors won the right for a shot at the championship by eliminating Burkburnett in the semi-final matches Friday evening, while Electra did the same in vanquishing Fairview. These four schools were the only onees entered in the senior division.

In the junior division more competition was encountered, eight teams being entered in this race. Burkburnett walked on Iowa Park in the semi-final and Clara went into the nightcap with a victory over County Line school.

Molla Defaults To Lillian Schorman

NEW YORK. Feb. 2.—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national woman's tennis champion, defaulted to Miss Lilliam Scharman of New York in the semi-final round today of the Heights Casino invitation tournament. A severe cold from which she has been suffering for several days caused the withdrawal. Miss Scharman will play Miss Leslie Bancroft of Boston tomorrow morning for the title which Mrs. Mallory captured last year.

Texas Aggies Win Over Longhorns

COLLEGE STATION, Feb. 2.—The Texas Aggies tonight won their first basket ball game with the Texas university Longhorns, 27 to 21, overcoming the Austin aggregation's lead of three points, gained in the first half.

BEARS BEAT RICE

WACO, Feb. 2.—Baylor university defeated Rice Institute 11 to 8 here tonight.

MUSTANGS WIN

STILLWATER, Okla., Feb. 2. — The basket ball team of Southern Methodist university at Dallas, defeated the Oklahoma Aggies in a slow game here tonight 18 to 10.

McKoin Back to Studies

MONROE, L., Feb. 2.—Dr. B. M. McKoin, former mayor of Mer Rouge and one of the leading figures in the Morehouse parish kidnaping case, left today for Baltimore on receipt of permission from Attorney General Coco, and will resume his post graduate work at Johns-Hopkins university.

Thin? Run-down? Sure Way to Get Right Weight

Increase Your Red-Blood-Cells. That's the Sure Way! S. S. S. Builds Blood-Cells; This Means Strength!

Do you know why insurance companies refuse to insure a great many men because they are under weight? Simply because to be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, a plus in their strength. Hollow cheeks fill out. You stop being a calamity-looker. You inspire confidence. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them. Ladies and gentlemen, a peaky, bony face doesn't make you look very important or pretty, does it? Take S. S. S. It contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger also bottle it the more economical.

CHAMPAGNE, Ill., —Baylor university, Waco, Texas, today entered Earl Frazier, its crack hurdler, in the 75-yard high and low hurdle events in the indoor relay carnival at the University of Illinois here March 3.

LOS ANGELES—Gene Sarazen, national open and professional golf champion, and Miss Marion Hollins, former national woman champion, defeated Jock Hutchinson, former British open champion and Mrs. F. C. Letts Jr., two up, in an east versus west mixed foursome at the Los Angeles country club today.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—William A Ingram, head coach at William and Mary college last season, today signed a contract as head football coach at Indiana university.

NEW YORK—Jack Dempsey's chances of defending his heavyweight title this year, at least in New York state, were reduced to a minimum today as a result of the decision of Wm. Muldoon, chairman of the state athletic commission, not to permit contests with the two men regarded as challengers—Harry Wills, New Orleans negro, and Jess Willard, former champion.

CHICAGO—CharlesRobertson, 1922 pitcher for the Chicago American league club, today confirmed reports that he had declined to accept a 1923 contract tendered him. He said he asked a raise of $1,000 per annum.

NEW YORK—Home runs from balls driven into left field at the Polo Grounds will be rarer this year. Extension of the fence in front of the bleachers in that section from ten to 16 feet, is expected to turn back many balls.

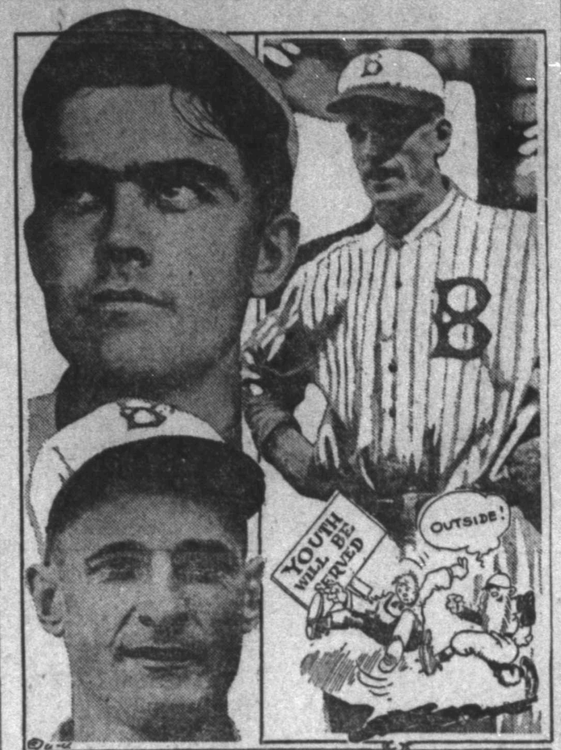

ABILENE—The mail vote taken to determine whether or not the Texas intercollegiate athletic association should award championships in any branches of sport has resulted in a 6 to 6 tie, it is announced by President A. E. Chandler of Abilene.

Babe Adams Granddaddy of Big Leaguers

Below, Ivan Olson, third oldest player

By Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo.—Babe Adams, veteran pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates who recently announced he wanted to retire from the big leagues to manage an independent club in Wisconsin, today signed a contract to pitch for Pittsburgh again this year. The contract was signed.

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Babe Adams says he wants to quit the Pirates. Says he has a good offer to play independent ball around his home in Wisconsin. Barney Dreyfuss says he doesn't want Babe to go. The old team wouldn't seem the same without Charles Benjamin Adams.

That's that.

This story isn't about this desire of Babe's. But his announced ambition to quit the big league game brings attention to the fact that his passing—if it occurs—will remove the oldest player in the big show.

Babe Adams is the granddaddy of all National and American league players—if the ages they give in the record books are accepted. There may be a gray-haired bird lurking in the big show who refrains from shoving Babe out of the first position. But this story won't bring them in.

On May 18 Babe will hit the forty mark. According to the dope at hand he was born on that date in 1883 in the quiet little town of Tipton, Ind.

Jake Daubert and Ivan Olson are the Babe's nearest rivals in age. Odly enough both are in the National league. Babe lacks four days of being two years older than Jake and is two nd a half years older than Ivan the Terrible, who was born October 14, 1885.

That the oldest player in point of years in the big show should be a pitcher is remarkable in itself, Babe, while rising to the top of the veterans' list, has had to pitch ball good enough for the big show over a span of nineteen years, a wonderful record.

Babe started to pitch big league ball the year he started to vote, 1904. He broke in with the Parsons club of the Missouri Valley league that year and it was while playing his second year with that club he got his first big league tryout. The Cardinals looked him over and then sent him to Louisville. That club shifted him to the Denver club of the Western league and it was here that Babe received his call to the Pittsburg club.

Babe didn't stick the first trip. The Pirates farmed him to Louisville, but called him back in the spring of 1909. His service since with the Pirates has been continuous with the exception of the season of 1917 and part of 1918, when he dropped back to the minors apparently through This rest, however, just gave him a new lease on life.

Two Brilliant Facts

Two facts stand out in Adams' brilliant career. The first is his notable one of winning the world's series almost single handed for the Pirates in his first year in the big show. He won three games of the series that fall, licking the Detroit Tigers.

His other feat was a memorable pitching battle with Rube Marquard in 1915 season. The duel was staged at Forbes field, Pittsburg. The game went twenty-one innings and

BARNES PICKED TO WIN PURSE

Galaxy of Stars In Beaumont Match

By Associated Press.

BEAUMONT, Feb. 2.—Fresh from victory in the Corpus Christi open tournament, "Long Jim" Barnes headed a field of 30 professionals who arrived here today for participation in the two-day tournament which starts Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock when the first pair tee off in the best ball amateur pro event.

Other fairway favorites who will compete include John Golden, Bob Peebles, Bill Cravey, Tom Boyd, Art Langworth, Johnny Farrel and a score of others.

The delegation arrived here at 10:25 this morning and immediately after lunch journeyed to the local nine-hole course where numerous private matches were shot affording the field opportunity to familiarize itself with the style of play necessary.

Following the Saturday event, a 36-hole open match will be played for a purse totalling more than $1,000. Although Barnes is favored to win, he is afforded little advantage over the galaxy of stars who will dispute his game which saw him triumph in the British open last year.

MEHLHORN SHOWS UP

BEAUMONT, Feb. 2.—"Bill" Mehlhorn, runner-up to Walter Hagen in the Texas open tournament at San Antonio last week, unexpectedly arrived late tonight for the Beaumont tournament.

Reynolds Takes Billiards Crown

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Edward F. Reynolds, New York, won the national amateur pocket billiard championship title tonight. In a match filled with nervy cueing, the star of the amateur billiard club of New York, defeated J. Howard Shoemaker, holder of the championship since 1914.

Larry Doyle's home run in the twenty-first gave the Giants the game.

It is generally believed that the strain of that game told on Babe's arm and forced his temporary retirement from the big show a couple of seasons later.

Adams may not answer the bell for the 1923 scramble. If he does step out he will be missed as one of the cleanest-living, most likeable fellows the game has known.

Bradstreet's Report

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Events of the week have been mainly favorable, this characterization at least covering fairly well domestic happenings. Spring trade with jobbers in the larger cities has expanded, collections are a little better and industry has kept up the fast pace previously noted. Relatively, most activity is noted in large eastern markets and in central and southern centers. Retail trade has tended to lag, which is only natural at this season, but still exceeds a year ago, and reports from the larger markets are quite unanimous that January showed a big surge forward in jobbing and wholesale buying as compared with January a year ago, gains of 25 to 50 per cent being instanced.

UPWARD TREND IN STOCKS SEEN

Crude Advance Aids In Recovery

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Encouraged by several constructive developments, including a further brisk recovery in foreign exchange and foreign bonds, and higher prices for steel products, mid-continent crude oil and sugar, speculators for the advance had little difficulty in bidding up prices today in the stock market.

The demand embraced all sections of the list, but was most effective in the steels, equipments, oil, sugar and food specialties. Railroad shares also made marked progress, but the gains were less extensive than those in the industrial group. There were a few isolated weak spots, notably Allis-Chalmers preferred and Virginia Carolina chemical.

United States steel touched 105 3-4, Crucible, Gulf States and Republic steels moved up 1 to 1½ points and Bethlehem B improved fractionally.

FOURTH BOOST IS GIVEN CRUDE

Mid-Continent Price Raised 10 Cents

THE STATE OF TEXAS
and County of Wichita.

To George S. Wright, B. F. Forbes and unknown owners all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in the land or lots described, the same being delinquent to the State of Texas and county of Wichita for taxes, and the same lying and being situated in the county of Wichita, and State of Texas, to-wit: Being lot number 2, block number 148, original town of Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Texas, which said property is delinquent to the State of Texas and county of Wichita for taxes for the year 1917-1918-1919-1921 aggregating the sum of $85.93, including interest, penalties and costs, said taxes having been legally levied, assessed and rendered against said land and lots, and the same being a lawful charge and constituting a prior lien against the same in favor of the State of Texas and county of Wichita to secure the payment thereof:

And you are hereby commanded to be and appear before the honorable 78th district court of Wichita county Texas, at the next regular term thereof, to be held at the city of Wichita Falls, on the 1st Monday in March A. D. 1923, the same being the 5th day of March A. D. 1923, then and there to show cause why judgement should not be rendered against you and the said land and lots sold under foreclosure of said lien to satisfy said taxes, interest, penalties and costs, and all court costs; all of which, together with other and further relief, general and special, being fully set out and prayed for in the plaintiff's original 1st amended petition held in said court on the 18th day of January 1923, and appearing on the docket thereof as suit No. 2387-B, wherein the State of Texas is plaintiff, and George S. Wright, B. F. Forbes and unknown owners and J. P. Bremrod and all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in said lands or lots, defendants.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, at office in the city of Wichita Falls, in the county of Wichita, this 18th day of January A. D. 1923.
A. F. Kerr, Clerk, District Court, Wichita County, Texas.
By Effie Holland, Deputy.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the sheriff or constable of Wichita county, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon E. T. Morrison by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th District court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in March, A. D. 1923, the same being the 5th day of March A. D. 1923. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 22nd day of January, A. D. 1923, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 13922-B wherein S. B. Daniel is plaintiff, and E. T. Morrison and J. C. Boyd are defendants, and said petition alleging,

Being a suit on a promissory vendar's lien note, dated Jan. 3, 1921, for the sum of $1520, interest, attorney's fees and costs of suit, said note being past due and unpaid; said note having been executed by E. T. Morrison to J. C. Boyd on Jan. 3, 1921, in part payment of the hereinafter described land and premises and sold, transferred and conveyed to plaintiff and payment guaranteed by the defendant, J. C. Boyd. And that the said J. C. Boyd is claiming some interest in and to said property by virtue of being a second lien holder. Prays for judgment against the defendants, E. T. Morrison and J. C. Boyd for the sum of $1828.05. with all costs and for foreclosure of vendor's lien on the south forty-five (45) feet by one hundred (100) feet of lots Nos. thirty-rive (35) and thirty-six (36) in Boyd's sub-division of lot No. two (2), block seven (7), Bellevue addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Texas. Said lot fronting 45 feet on Denver street..

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 22nd day of January, A. D. 1923.
A. F. KERR,
Clerk 78th District court, Wichita county, Texas.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Fred Campbell Oil company, a corporation, by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in March A. D. 1923 the same being the 5th day of March A. D. 1923, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 22nd day of January A. D. 1923 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 13923-B wherein, Mollie Evans is plaintiff and Fred Campbell Oil company, a corporation, is defendant and said petition alleging, a suit in tresspass to try the title, for rentals, damages and costs of suit and for the cancellation of a certain oil and gas lease made and entered into by and between J. B. Evans, now deceased, Mollie Evans as lessors and W. C. Meyers and A. J. Schulz, lesses, on March 27th, 1917; on the grounds that the defendant, being the assignee of said lease has failed and refused to comply with the terms and conditions of said lease and that the same is now null and void and of no force and effect; said land being described as follows: Being the west 20 acres of the north 40 acres of the south 80 acres of the L. B. Taliferro survey, patent 384, Vol. 85, said north 40 acres being described as follows: Beginning at an interior point 324 varas east and 972.5 varas south of the southeast corner of the J. E. Ellis survey, a stake; Thence south 190.7 varas: Thence east 1311 varas: Thence north 190.7 varas: Thence west 1311 varas to the place of beginning.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 22nd day of January, A. D. 1923.

THE STATE OF TEXAS
And County of Wichita

To Mrs. Mattie Lue Parsons and C. W. Parsons.

All persons owning or having or claiming any interest in the land or lots hereinafter described, the same being delinquent to the state of Texas and county of Wichita for taxes, and the same lying and being situated in the county of Wichita, and state of Texas, to-wit:

Lot No. 11 in block No. 15 of Floral Heights addition to the city of Wichita Falls, as shown by the map or plat of said addition now on record in the deed records of Wichita county, Texas. which said property is delinquent to the state of Texas, and county of Wichita for taxes for the years 1919, 1920 and 1921, aggregating the sum of $165.45, including interest, penalties and costs, said taxes having been legally levied, assessed and rendered against said land and lots, and the same being a lawful charge and constituting a prior lien against the same in favor of the state of Texas and county of Wichita to secure the payment thereof:

And you are hereby commanded to be and appear before the Honorable 78th District court of Wichita county, Texas, at the next regular term thereof, to be held at the courthouse of said county, in the city of Wichita Falls, on the 1st Monday in March, A. D. 1923, the same being the 5th day of March, A. D. 1923. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 2nd day of February, A. D., 1923, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 13057-B, wherein W. L. Wright is plaintiff, and Beatrice Wright is defendant and said petition alleging, plaintiff and defendant were legally married March 30, 1921, and lived together as husband and wife until on or about the 23rd of June, 1921, when plaintiff on the grounds of harsh, cruel and tyranical treatment, left defendant, that defendant used the vilest and most approbious epithets toward plaintiff, and was unfaithful to him and her treatment toward plaintiff is of such a nature as to render their future living together as husband and wife insupportable, that plaintiff treated defendant during the time he lived with her with kindness and affection, and provided for her support and maintenance; plaintiff prays for citation by publication, for judgment disolving the marriage relation, for special, general legal and equitable relief.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 2nd day of February, A. D., 1923.

And County of Wichita

To W. Hazard and unknown owners and all persons owning or claiming any interest in the land or lots hereinafter described, the same being delinquent to the State of Texas, and County of Wichita, for taxes, and the same lying and being situated in the County of Wichita, and State of Texas, to-wit:

Lot No. 11, block No. 47, Iowa Park, Texas, as shown by the original map or platt, of said town which is recorded in records of deeds in Wichita county, Texas, which said property is delinquent to the State of Texas, and County of Wichita taxes for the years 1894, 1895, 1896, 1897, 1898, 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902, 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909, 1911, 1912, 1913, 1914, 1917, 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921, aggregating the sum of $85.79, including interest, penalties, and costs, said taxes having been legally levied, assessed and rendered against said land and lots, and the same being a lawful charge and constituting a prior lien against the same in favor of the State of Texas and County of Wichita to secure the payment thereof;

And you are hereby commanded to be and appear before the Honorable Seventy-eighth District court of Wichita county, Texas, at the next regular term thereof, to be held at the court house of said county, in the city of Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in March, A. D., 1923, the same being the 5th day of March, A. D. 1923, then and there to show cause why judgment should not be rendered against you and the said land and lots sold under foreclosure of said lien to satisfy said taxes, interest, penalties and costs, and all court costs; all of which, together with other and further relief, general and special, being fully set out and prayed for in the plaintiff's original petition filed in said court on the 27th day of January, and appearing on the docket thereof as suit No. 11045-B, wherein the State of Texas is plaintiff and W. X. Hazard and unknown owners and all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in said lands or lots, defendant.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, at office in the city of Wichita Falls, in the county of Wichita, this 27th day of January, A. D., 1923.
A. F. KERR,
Clerk District Court, Wichita County, Texas.

CIVIC LEAGUE PLAY PLEASES

Pageant Has Large Cast

"The Feats of the Red Corn," presented at the Palace theatre Friday night under the direction of Mrs. E. L. Fulton, assisted by Miss Kathleen Lynch, for the benefit of the Civic league, was enthusiastically received by a large audience.

The story which was taken from an old Indian legend in which the person who finds the first red ear of corn shall call on the Four Winds to grant his or her wish, furnished a quaint setting for the 50 local children who took part.

Principal Roles

Principal roles were taken by little Misses Geraldine Monroe, Rose Marian Art, Frances Reid, Joe Witherspoon, Jr., Ruth Grisham and Berniece Martin, all of whom gave splendid interpretations of the Indian characters which predominate in the cast.

Miss Anna Mae Cato favored the audience with a graceful solo dance, and accompaniments were played by Miss Annette Walsh. George Hodgins was stage director.

In the choruses which proved an exceptional attraction to the entertainment, were: Misses Frances Ana Saunders, Mabel Drinkard, Marietta Hunt, Edna Lee Shepherd, Jeanette Moore, Tillie Mae Schaffer, Josephine Fisk, Mary Jane Covington, Mildred Miller, Frances Fenton, Mary Elizabeth Collier, Beulah Gardner, Harriett Peterson, Anna Mae Cato, Doll Thompson Darr, Nathaline Lebenson, Camile Avis, Vera Stonecipher, Zona Marie Ehlert, Jane Schman, Bertha Mae Kruger, Pauline Jane Art, Helen Sylvia Lebenson, Genevieve Williams, Margaret Sheldon, Helen Ruth Connelly, Lilly Graham, Marjorie Dalton, Mary Louise Dickson, Mary Maples, Gladys Brandelberry, Maxine Brandelberry, Charlotte Joiner, Helen Loeb, Gwynn Voelker, Juanita McCracken and Rose Mary Catter, and Mrs. George Thornburn.

Duncan Elected Council Chairman

T. P. Duncan, general manager of the Wichita Mill and Elevator company, was chosen chairman and Frank Queisser vice chairman, of the business council of the chamber of commerce for 1923, at the weekly luncheon Friday. They were unanimously elected upon the report of the nominating committee headed by B. J. Bean.

The first trade trip of the year will be made in April and will be to Duncan and other Oklahoma points, according to an announcement of J. C. Mytinger, trade excursion chairman.

Katy Sued For $20,000 Damages

Alleging that her husband was run over and killed by an engine of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad, in the Wichita Falls yards, Mrs. Lulu Rosser asks $20,000 as damages in a suit against that company. The case is being tried in the Eighty-ninth district court.

It is alleged by the plaintiff that her husband was killed June 20, 1921, in an accident caused by the negligence of the company.

Mrs. Cavendar Is Given Freedom

Mrs. Elizabeth Cavendar, held by Wichita county officials on charges of murder in connection with the death of G. A. DeMoss in Electra, last September, was released Friday. Instructions to free the woman were given by District Attorney Walter Schenck.

Mrs. Cavendar was arrested in Texarkana after Ida Bell, now starting a five year sentence in the state penitentiary for the murder of DeMoss, charged that she had been offered a bribe by Mrs. Cavendar to slay DeMoss.

The Core--No More

Judge E. W. Napier, in the Seventy-eighth district court, yesterday found a verdict for the City National bank in a suit for $2,700 filed against it by the Citizen's State bank of Denison.

It was the allegation of the plaintiff that a check certified by the defendant bank, was not made good, and that the bank that certified the check was responsible for it.

Owing to the death of one of the prominent members of the Shrine club at Electra, the dance which the club was intending to hold last night was postponed until next Friday night. Plans are being made to make the dance one of the biggest affairs of the season at Electra.

Mrs. Mary Gross returned from New York, Thursday, where she has spent the past three weeks in selecting spring millinery.

Miss Annie Nichols, who has been a patient in the Baylor hospital at Dallas for the past three months, will return to her home in this city, Sunday. Her father, J. F. Nichols, left Friday for Dallas, to accompany his daughter on the trip home.

Mrs. A. H. Douglas and small daughter, who have been suffering with influenza the past week, are reported to be improving.

The high school Girls' club held their regular weekly meeting Friday afternoon. The main feature of the program was a vocal solo by Miss Winnifred Alvis, the new supervisor of music in the public schools in the city.

Maskat Temple To Have Radio Concert

The Maskat temple amusement committee composed of Walter Caldwell, Claude Wood, Wilkie Talbert, and Paul Von Allmen, of the Maskat temple, met with Potentate Frank Collier yesterday, to discuss programs for the near future. It was decided by the members on the committee to give a radio program in the Faith lodge rooms on Thursday night, February 8, at which time it is hoped to enjoy the program given by the Al Koran temple of Cleveland, Ohio. This temple with its band and nationally known singers, promise an interesting program. The W. S. Radio Auto Supply will furnish all radio equipment for the program.

It was further decided at the meeting to give a Washington's birthday dance at Call Field on the night of February 22.

Business Council Favors New Bill For Education

The business council of the chamber of commerce, at its weekly luncheon Friday, went on record as favoring the Sterling-Towner educational bill now pending before congress. The bill provides for federal aid for schools and a federal department of education.

An interesting discussion took place when the measure was presented for ballot. B. J. Bean opened an attack on the bill by stating that while it "sounded good" it would simply mean more interference in local affairs by the federal government, and, in his opinion, there was too much interference now. W. W. Silk thought there would be too much "politics," while C. H. Clark voiced the opinion that it would be a further encroachment on rights of the various states.

W. D. Cline then took the floor in favor of the bill, and after quoting passages from the measure, declared that it was not designed to interfere with the work of the state or local school organizations. He also presented figures on illiteracy, proving the necessity of federal aid in this work.

Mr. Cline was assisted in his plea by Judge B. D. Sartin, who pointed out the assistance rendered by the federal government in the building of good roads. F. N. Lawton and L. E. Martlew also spoke in favor of the measure.

The vote taken Friday was in connection with a nation-wide canvass being made by the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Three Taken To Pen Friday

Tex Gee, Curley Pawley and Jim Sloan were taken yesterday to the state penitentiary to serve sentences ranging from 5 to 10 years. Gee, convicted some time ago of the robbery of Joe Collonna, will serve a five year sentence as will Rawley, convicted of theft over $50. Jim Sloan, a negro, will serve a 10 year sentence for the murder of another negro, Jack Pippin. He was convicted in the Thirtieth district court.

Plenty of Rain

With more than a half inch of rain falling Thursday night and the clouds hanging low over this vicinity all day Friday, there were indications of continued wet weather Friday night. Local farmers said after the rain Thursday night, this vicinity has had enough moisture to last for weeks.

Sheriff Jails 115 Since January 1

Within one month, since January 1, when he took office, Sheriff Pat Murphy has placed 115 men behind the bars of the county jail. Of this number 31 were placed there following arrests made by officers of the sheriff's department, on liquor charges, and, according to Murphy, whiskey was taken in every instance.

Of the 31 taken in whiskey raids, several have already been tried and convicted, others await trial.

The longest wave measured by officers of the United States hydrographic service was half a mile, and it did not spend itself for 23 seconds.
