HAMILTON TRIAL MOVED FROM HOSTILE CITY

Dwindling Fuel Supply Forces Yellow Bird To Land With Young Stowaway

FRENCH FLIERS COME DOWN ON SPANISH SOIL

Record Breaking Flight Comes to End Near French Line

TAKEOFF SATURDAY

Lotti, Assolant, Lefevre And Art Shreiber To Fly to Paris

PARIS, June 15. (Saturday) (AP)—A Havas Agency dispatch from Santander, Spain, near where the Yellow Bird landed safely at about 8 p. m. G. M. T. (about 3 p. m. E. S. T.) today said that the stowaway, Arthur Schreiber of Portland, Me., had not suffered from his long air voyage.

The plane also carried a live crocodile 10 inches long as a mascot.

The agency learned that the Frenchmen thought they were in France.

The aviators found one Frenchman among the many anxious to help them and with his aid as interpreter a telephone message was sent to Santander for 125 gallons of gasoline so that they could leave for Paris in the morning.

The village authorities soon roused the guard and Spanish cavalineers formed a guard of honor around the plane which apparently was undamaged.

The whole countryside was aroused by the unlooked for event and there were a hundred persons eager to do every little service that the Frenchmen asked.

LACK OF FUEL FORCES LANDING

SANTANDER, Spain, June 14. (UP)—The giant French monoplane Yellow Bird successfully completed the eighth eastward crossing of the North Atlantic ocean tonight, but was forced down on the rough, pebble-strewn beach at Comillas because an American boy had done what experts said was "impossible" and stowed-away on the craft.

The Yellow Bird landed on the beach, 25 miles west of here, at 9 p. m. (8 p. m. E. S. T.) after a flight of approximately 3,675 miles in 29 hours and 50 minutes.

Jean Assolant, pilot of the plane, jumped from the cabin of the Yellow Bird holding Arthur Schreiber, of Portland, Maine, by the collar. The American youth had hidden himself on the big craft shortly before it took off from the beach at Old Orchard, Maine, Thursday morning.

Stowaway Introduced

Assolant and the Portland youth faced the crowd which rushed out from the little village of Comillas when the plane glided to a long, rolling landing on Cyambe beach.

"Meet our unexpected pilot," said the 22-year-old French flier as he introduced the boy to the startled townspeople. Assolant said the extra weight of the boy had been the cause of their failure to reach their objective—Paris.

"I had not calculated for the extra weight in the amount of gasoline carried," he explained, as his two companions, Rene Lefevre, navigator and Armeno Lotti, backer and radio operator, joined him.

Plane Damaged

The big plane was slightly damaged shortly before it reached Santander, and Assolant said he expected the damage would delay

LONDON, June 14 (UP)—Charles G. Dawes, new American ambassador to Great Britain, arrived here today to introduce England to what it has named already "split-second diplomacy" and perhaps with Britain's new labor prime minister, to pave the way for a solution of the naval armament problem.

Here was the former vice president's program from the time the liner Olympic entered Southampton water today:

3:35 p. m. arrived Southampton. Issued air-tight prepared statement, saying nothing, but so felicitously worded that it has won him many friends already.

6:40 p. m. arrived Paddington station, London. Welcomed by British officials, Belgian ambassador, and representatives of American legion and other American societies.

In his conference with MacDonald, Dawes is expected to invite the premier, in behalf of President Hoover, to go to Washington and there, across a table, try to reach an agreement regarding naval strength that will result not only in limitation but in actual reduction of fleet tonnage.

BABE'S BURIAL HALTED TO DIG GRAVE, CLAIM

Pastor Sues City for $2,000 For Alleged Failure To Aid Mourners

CHARGE IS DENIED

McLary Explains Delay Was to Chase "Sports" From Cemetery

Charging that mourners at the funeral of their baby daughter were forced to take shovels and uncover and dig the child's grave after the funeral procession had arrived at Riverside cemetery, Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Robinson Friday afternoon filed suit for $2,000 damages against the city of Wichita Falls. Rev. Mr. Robinson is the head of the Assembly of God church here.

Claim Shock to Mother

News that the baby's funeral had been interrupted while the grave was dug reached the bedside of the child's mother, who was ill, and resulted in a serious emotional shock to the sick woman, according to the claims set forth in the petition.

The plaintiffs declare that friends had prepared the grave for the baby after its death last April, leaving a box prepared to receive the coffin. When the minister and his friends arrived at the cemetery, the grave had already been covered and rounded off, the allegations continue. The petitioners assert that members of the party, asking for the assistance of the sexton in re-digging the grave, "were told that they could take shovels and do it for themselves."

Don McLary, sexton of the cemetery, declared, Friday afternoon, that he had filled the grave in good faith, believing it already held the body.

"I didn't mean to hurt any body's feelings" he said. "I found the open grave, with the lid on the box and a piece of tin spread over the top. I thought the services were completed and that they had expected me to fill in the grave."

Sexton Tells Story

The sexton denied having refused to help in removing the soil again.

"I was on my way to chase some 'sports' out of the cemetery when the people came to me about it," he explained. "I couldn't stop right then, but I gave one man a shovel. Only one man can work on such a small grave at a time. I didn't tell them I wouldn't do it at all. I just couldn't stop right then."

George D. Fairtrace, city manager, declared late Friday that he had investigated the case at the time of the child's death and that he was assured that no intentional harm had been done.

"I have not heard that the sexton was ever approached for help," he asserted.

"I understood that he had found the covered box and had thought he was expected to fill the grave. That is the usual custom on such occasions. I am sure the sexton is not the kind of a man who would refuse his aid."

THRILLS LACKING

Robison Impeachment Inquiry Disappoints Spectators

AUSTIN, June 12. (AP)—Testimony adduced at today's session of the lower house sitting as a committee of the whole to digest charges against J. T. Robison, veteran commissioner of the general land office, showed that as late as May 27 circular letters, typed in his office and signed by him, were sent out in an effort to have refunds from the one-cent-an-acre reappraisement fund returned to him.

Spectators in the galleries who came for thrills sat through a long, hot day without them. The testimony was dry and tedious. It consisted chiefly of reading figures from a bank ledger, quoting from the question and answer transcript of the committee that investigated the land office, and a recital of one of the auditors who checked the reappraisement fund of how he arrived at his deductions in his report.

Mass Meet Called at Kell Field Today

Inauguration of transcontinental air-rail passenger service directly through Wichita Falls, considered by local chamber of commerce officials and aviation enthusiasts as an epochal event in the city's history, is to be celebrated with a mass meeting and band concert at Kell field Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when the S. A. F. E. ship Wichita Falls, piloted by Robert W. Cantwell, lands en route to Sweetwater.

Members of the aviation committees of both senior and junior chambers of commerce, as well as the directorate of the two organizations, are working in cooperation with the management of the Municipal airport to stage a celebration equal to the occasion. It was pointed out that the route linking the Western Air Express and T. & P. railway with air and rail service from St. Louis to New York, by means of the Southwest Air Fast Express through this city promises by virtue of the cities connected and the comparatively short traveling time from coast to coast to become one of the principal arteries of passenger traffic across the country.

Cantwell Pilots Ship

Two of the seven huge tri-motored Ford ships owned by the S. A. F. E. corporation passed through Wichita Falls Friday on trial runs over the Tulsa-Sweetwater course. Robert W. Cantwell, chief pilot for the concern, left Sweetwater at 8:15 Friday morning, and swung over Kell field 30 seconds ahead of schedule time, flying the 14-passenger all-metal plane Wichita Falls. At 3:45 p. m. the Sweetwater ship, piloted by B. F. Billings, made a brief stop here, delivered a communication to Dr. J. W. Cantwell, and proceeded to Sweetwater for the initial service run Saturday morning.

Under the schedule announced by the S. A. F. E. service, three hours and 50 minutes are required

VERNON GIVES PRESS GUESTS ROYAL PARTY

Barbecue, Dance and Pretty Girls Feature Reception For Delegates

"Gentlemen of Press" Held "Slander on Newspaper Profession"

By BERNICE STRAWN
Record News Staff Correspondent

VERNON, Texas, June 14.—Two hundred fifty persons representing the 1929 Texas State Press association now in session at Wichita Falls arrived here on a four-coach special train at 5 o'clock this afternoon for a barbecue dinner and dance at the Hillcrest Country club as guests of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce.

MEETING ENDS TODAY

The annual election of officers and selection of the 1930 convention site will feature Saturday morning's session of the Texas Press Association Golden Jubilee convention and close the 1929 meeting. Several items of unfinished business will also be discussed.

Vernon citizens met the Texas editors with a caravan of automobiles and staged a sight-seeing tour over the city before going to the country club, where they crowded about open pits and feasted on old-fashioned barbecue with abundant trimmings.

Scores of Vernon young ladies attended the dance which began about 8 o'clock, affording partners for all the visiting newspaper men who were not accompanied by spouse or sweetheart.

Brief addresses were made by Mayor H. D. Hockersmith and A. M. Bouriand, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, who were introduced by Ray Nichols, editor of the Vernon Record, and a member of the state association executive committee.

The trip to Vernon was arranged by the local chamber of commerce in cooperation with A. E. Kelly, entertainment committee chairman, and J. W. Chatham Jr., chamber of commerce traffic manager, of Wichita Falls.

The special train left here at 9:30 o'clock Friday night for Wichita Falls, where the closing sessions of the annual convention will be held Saturday.

BAYLOR TEACHER ATTACKS "NEWSPAPER PICTURE"

The recently released film, "Gentlemen of the Press," was characterized as a "slander on the newspaper profession" by Dr. Charles D. Johnson, chairman of the Baylor university department of journalism, in his address, "Modern Constructive Journalism," made at Friday morning's session of the Texas Press association.

Representation of newspaper life in the characters and story of the film was grossly exaggerated, he charged, particularly in the picturization of the successful journalist as a piece of human wreckage, and the sentiment created by the leading figure's advice to young men to stay out of journalistic work.

"As a member of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism," he declared, "and as a member of the executive committee of that body, I wish to state to those high and broad-mind-

Power Board Can't Act On Rio Grande Project

WASHINGTON, June 14. (AP)—The federal power commission today decided it was without jurisdiction in the proposed development of hydro-electric power on the Rio Grande river between Texas and Mexico.

The issue rose on the application by the first district of Maverick county, Texas, for a preliminary permit for a 7,200 horse power project.

The commission held the development would not affect interstate commerce or navigation, and consequently was without its jurisdiction.

Texas Senate Goes on Record As Being Shamed by Negress' Reception

AUSTIN, June 14. (UP)—The Texas senate this afternoon voted condemnation of Mrs. Hoover's entertainment of a negro congressman's wife at a White House tea. The vote was 26 to 2.

Senators Julian Hyer of Fort Worth and Tom Love of Dallas, who had voted for Hoover in the recent election, voted against the resolution.

Both said they condemned the action of Mrs. Hoover as reported in the press but would not take part in a resolution which pointed out that Texans were told in the campaign that they might expect such a result if Hoover were elected.

Earlier today Love, leader of the Hoovercrats in Texas, had termed the entertainment as "unfortunate."

Love Quizzed

"I am glad that Al Smith Democrats did not succeed in electing a negro congressman from my former state of Missouri as they tried to do for then there would have been two to invite instead of one," he said.

Senator Love was made the target for a battery of questions when he spoke on the resolution.

He refused to take newspaper reports as proof that the incident occurred. If it occurred, he declared, he was ready to condemn it. Nevertheless he declared Texas Democrats should not be censured for having voted for Hoover.

When he began discussing prohibition, Senator Wirtz asked: "Do

HOOVER'S FARM BILL CERTAIN

Both Houses Pass Debentureless Measure

WASHINGTON, June 14. (UP)—The seven-year fight for farm relief came to an end today with final approval of the $500,000,000 administration measure by the senate, 74 to 8. It was approved previously by the house quickly and without a record vote.

The measure was signed by Vice President Curtis as presiding officer of the senate and then sent to the White House to await the president's signature. Mr. Hoover will sign the bill tomorrow, it was announced.

A veritable torrent of oratory greeted its final entrance into the senate. Nearly every supporter of the debenture got up to explain why he would vote for the bill, though criticising it as of little value without the debenture. The burden of the explanation was that the measure should be given a trial, though little was expected of it.

The tariff was linked with the farm bill in the debate, many debenture supporters criticizing the house tariff bill, presaging a bitter fight over the tariff when it comes before the senate after the recess. With the farm bill and other major legislation out of the way, congress will be ready to adjourn the middle of next week.

Apache Indian Torture Tactics Put in Practice by Hoodlums

CHICAGO, June 14. (US)—Chicago gangsters have reverted to the tactics of the Apache Indian and burn their enemies and traitors at the stake.

This became known today when the body of an unidentified man was found in a small clearing three miles south of Three Lakes in northern Wisconsin.

The man had been bound to the stake with wire. He had been shot and tortured with the knife and then burned to death.

The scene of the crime is in the vicinity of the summer homes, or hang-outs of Al (Scarface) Capone and Joe Saltis and their hoodlums.

District Attorney Earl L. Kennedy, in whose territory the crime was committed, declared it was "the most brutal murder I have ever investigated."

Efforts to identify the victim by some 15 keys found at his feet failed. Efforts failed to trace a shotgun which was found near the spot. The weapon was a special job manufactured by the Remington Arms company and had no serial number.

All articles of jewelry, if any, and a belt buckle, had been removed by the killers before they destroyed their victim.

NEW LOCATION OF CASE TO BE KNOWN TODAY

Judge to Announce Where Murder Charge Will Be Heard Saturday

EVIDENCE 'PILED ON'

Long Procession of Witnesses Describe Feeling In Amarillo

AMARILLO, Texas, June 14. (UP)—Judge Henry Bishop shortly after 6 p. m. today granted the defense motion for a change of venue in the murder trial of Judge R. H. Hamilton, charged with the fatal shooting of his son-in-law, Tom Walton Jr.

Court adjourned immediately until tomorrow morning, at which time, by agreement of counsel, Judge Bishop will announce where the trial will be held.

40 Witnesses Heard

Judge Bishop's decision was handed down after 37 defense and three state witnesses had testified as to the possibility of securing a fair and impartial trial for the former jurist in or near Amarillo.

Throughout the day the defense brought first one and then another Potter county citizen to the witness stand, each with a story of having heard much unfavorable comment against Hamilton, but each holding the opinion that he himself would not be biased were he on the jury.

Few of the witnesses, however, when pinned down by cross-examination of District Attorney Edward Thomerson, were able to name specific persons whom they had heard make prejudicial remarks against the defendant.

Explanation Awaited

Hamilton, prominent in the law and the church of the Panhandle, and a former member of the commission of appeals of the state supreme court, is charged with having shot his son-in-law when the youth came to his office. Just why the boy was shot has never been fully determined, and Panhandle citizens are impatiently awaiting the time when Judge Hamilton will explain on the witness stand the reason for his action.

Walton is said to have gone to the jurist's office to explain a secret marriage with the latter's 17-year-old daughter, Theresa, in Austin last February. The fact that Hamilton had been adverse to the romance between the two while they were students at the University of Texas is thought to be a possible reason for the shooting.

The legal battle on the venue removal is thought by some to be even more bitter than the actual trial will be.

FLYING PRIEST LEADS VOYAGE

Wartime Pilot to Take Cross Into Heart Africa

BERLIN, June 14. (US)—A modern crusade, having the sanction of the pope to carry the cross by airplane into the heart of southwest Africa, will be led next spring by Father Paul Schulte, of Cologne; Capt. Herman Koehl and Col. James Fitzmaurice. Captain Koehl and Colonel Fitzmaurice, with the late Baron von Huenefeld, flew the Bremen from Ireland to Greenly isle last year.

Father Schulte, who was a wartime pilot and who today is the only priest-pilot in the world, will not only be the spiritual leader of the religious air mission, but will divide the "trick" at the controls of their plane with the transatlantic heroes.

Pope Approves

Inspired by the death of his wartime buddy, Father Fuhrmann, who lies in a lonely grave near the edge of the southwest African desert, where he perished after dubious travel in establishing mission posts in the former German southwest Africa, Father Schulte decided the Missionaries must adopt modern means of travel.

After years of planning, he has succeeded not only in inducing the Junkers works, Captain Koehl and Colonel Fitzmaurice to help him, but has obtained the official sanction of Pope Pius XI. Father Schulte belongs to the Oblate Fathers and founders association, the aim of which is to foster missionary work "by means of modern transportation."

10 Make Journey

Not only Catholic societies, but non-secretarian business groups, such as the North German Lloyd, Junkers, the Daimler-Benz Motor company, are supporting the venture.

The expedition will consist of a personnel of 10, including laity of the Oblate order; three Junkers planes, 10 automobiles, three motorboats and elaborate radio equipment.

Twenty missionary posts, located in southwest Africa between Windhuik and Owakwanjari, in Owamboland, will be visited and strengthened. Journeys ordinarily taking three weeks through the African wilds will be made in three hours by plane.

The Oblate laity taking part in the expedition will be trained to undertake similar missions in the wilderness of South America and Asia. Father Schulte will wear his priestly garb while piloting his plane.

Coolidge Still Undecided on Coming To Texas at Invitation of Solons

AUSTIN, June 14. (AP)—Calvin Coolidge, invited by a legislative resolution to visit Texas in December to attend the Houston salesmanship's club's annual gridiron dinner, is not yet able to determine whether he will make the trip, the former president advised in a letter read before the senate today.

Coolidge expressed pleasure at receiving the invitation, and declared:

"I would certainly like to come there because of my respect for the state and affection and admiration for its people."

Senator Walter Woodul, Houston, said efforts to have the former president visit the state would be continued.

Annulment Suit Reveals True Name Of Girl Serving Term for Murder

NEW YORK, June 14. (UP)—Dorris McDonald, who now is serving a life sentence in Quebec, and George McDonald, who was thought to be her husband, and who died on the gallows for the alleged murder of a Canadian taxicab driver in a holdup, were not married, it was learned here today. The real facts came out when Francis Allan of New York, asked Supreme Justice Louis A. Valente to give him permission to serve "Dorris McDonald" papers by publication of his suit for the annulment of their marriage. Valente granted Allan his request.

Dorris McDonald is an Oklahoma City girl.

It was learned that Dorris McDonald's real name is Julia Francis Allan. She married Allan at Port Chester, N. Y., in January, 1925, according to papers filed by her husband in supreme court today.

In August, 1927, the so-called Dorris McDonald and two men were arrested in Denver for the murder of a cab driver. She first gave her name as Julia Frances Allan, later as Julia Palmer, but it was tried as Dorris McDonald.

She was sentenced to hang with McDonald, but a petition voicing the protest of the citizenry saved her from the gallows.

Slaying of Nurse Arouses People

CANEY, Kan., June 14. (UP)—A restless crowd of farmers and townspeople milled around the streets of Caney today as officers from the county seat at Independence continued their probe of the mysterious killing Wednesday night of pretty Marguerite White, student nurse and popular in the younger set here.

A coroner's jury, composed of a dozen of the farmers and merchants who stood on street corners and discussed the shooting, will probe the affair tomorrow.

Meanwhile Elmer Cales, 28-year-old farmer, is held under heavy guard in the county jail of Independence. So fearful was the county sheriff of Cales' safety, that he ordered four men no guard both day and night to prevent possible mob violence.

RESERVE BANK TAX OPPOSED

Wichita Banker's Report Shows Operation Cost

DALLAS, June 14. (AP)—That the $291,000 which the Dallas Federal Reserve bank had to pay last year to the government as a franchise tax should go to member banks in the district was the opinion expressed today by the Dallas Reserve Bank Stockholders association, meeting in annual convention.

Report of the cost of operation and disposition of earnings was made by W. M. McGregor, president of the First National bank of Wichita Falls, and while his report did not actually contain recommendation that the stockholders ask discontinuance of the franchise tax charge, it was intimated such a recommendation would later be drawn and submitted to the federal reserve board at Washington.

That the condition of member banks in the Dallas district is unusually strong and sound, and that bank members as a whole are well pleased with the conservative operations of the Dallas bank, was stressed by Mr. McGregor in his report.

Six new members of the advisory committee were elected unanimously. They will meet with hold-over members in the near future and elect officers, Stanley Longmoor, secretary, said.

New members are Oxsheer Smith, Cameron; J. P. Williams, Mineral Wells; Alf Morris, Winnsboro; Ben Johnson, Shreveport; W. C. Slaughter, Durant; B. W. Graves, Douglas.

Calcutta, capital of Bengal, India, has a population of more than 1,327,500.

Policeman Stages Debate With Man On Suicide Topic

MILWAUKEE, June 14. (AP)—Hundreds of persons watched Policeman Raleigh Fable argue yesterday with a man atop a bridge against suicide—and then saw the man leap.

"Let's be sensible," the policeman said to the man on the bridge, Edward Kluge, 56. "Why not talk it over."

"Never mind, just stay away," said Kluge.

For 20 minutes they argued. In the meantime word had been sent to the fire department. When the fire siren sounded, Kluge shouted: "They won't catch me in any net," and leaped 45 feet to a dry creek bed. He was not killed, but was so badly injured he may not live.

WRITER GIVES LIGHT ON WAR

Pershing Alone Wanted To Continue Strife

NEW HAVEN, June 14. (UP)—Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of American troops in France, was the only allied commander who opposed granting Germany an armistice in November, 1918, Charles Seymour, provost of Yale university, asserts in the summer "Yale Review," to be published tomorrow.

Professor Seymour has had access to most intimate sources of post-war discussions of what occurred in Europe during the vital world war years of 1917, 1918 and 1919.

He is the custodian of the papers of Col. E. M. House, Woodrow Wilson's wartime confidante, and has edited two volumes of them.

The story usually has been that President Wilson particularly, and American statesmen in general, were the peacemakers. Professor Seymour, in tempering this assertion, also defends the Americans from foreign charges that they were so pacific as to interfere with complete allied victory.

After quoting French, British and Italian generalissimos as favoring an immediate armistice, Professor Seymour says:

"Of all the generals, Pershing was the only one who did not wish to grant an armistice and urged the continuation of the offensive against the Germans. When House laid Pershing's memorandum, advising the continuation of the war, before Clemenceau and Lloyd George, they brushed it aside with some show of contempt."

Professor Seymour's discussion of events leading to the world war armistice is backed up by documents.

"President Wilson," he says, "merely made peace practicable by putting Germany's request (for an armistice) before them (the allies). They were free to accept or refuse it. In the end, it was the opinion of Marshal Foch himself that prevailed.

"That Foch himself approved the granting of the armistice is plain from the following conversation. It is recorded in a letter to Colonel House, written by Paul Mantoux, interpretor for the supreme war council.

"House asks Foch, 'Will you tell us, M. Le Marechal, solely from the military point of view, apart from any other consideration, whether you would prefer the Germans to reject or sign that armistice as outlined here?'

"Foch replies, 'Fighting means struggling for certain results. If the Germans now sign, those results are in our possession. This being achieved, no man has the right to cause another drop of blood to be shed.'"

Professor Seymour departs from the scholar's usual view of the world war. It was not, he says, that the leaders were bad men; but they were not good enough.

"We must remember," he says, "that the soldiers and statesmen of the world war strove with conditions and forces which had escaped human control. It is a mistake to regard the outbreak of the war as inevitable. Yet to have avoided it in the circumstances of 1914 would have required a group of statesmen each endowed with a combination of moderation and courage, of foresight and of will power such as is rarely bestowed upon mortals."

INDIAN GIRL GUARDS GRAVE

Wyandotte Descendent Opposes Ditch Diggers

KANSAS CITY, Kan., June 14. (UP)—Miss Lyda Conley, through whose veins courses the courage of the Wyandotte Indians, stood guard at their old burial ground here today against an advancing patrol of city workmen and threatened to call a spade a spade.

Self-appointed guardian of soil which received Wyandotte bones years ago, Miss Conley entrenched herself between workmen and seven feet of soil they sought to remove and announced:

"If I can get no legal action to stop this desecration, I will resort to the gun again."

Miss Conley called it desecration. The city said it was improvement of a retaining wall.

And while workmen dallied as Miss Conley declaimed she would stay in the trench forever, two city detectives were assigned to arbitrate the rebellion.

Officials recalled another time when improvements were started, Miss Conley and her sisters, Helen and Ida, patrolled the cemetery with shotguns.

Better Learn English

WORCESTER, Mass.—The fact that he couldn't read English cost Aaron George $10 in court recently. He applied for a license to run a pool room. The license board sent him a document refusing him the license. George thought it was his license, framed it, hung it on the wall and opened his "parlor." Police arrested him several days later.

HUNT SPREADS FOR KIDNAPERS

Search Fails to Find Four Highwaymen

OROFINO, Idaho, June 14. (UP)—The hunt for four gunmen who kidnaped Lieut. Gov. W. E. Kinne of Idaho near here Tuesday spread to a third state today with hundreds of possemen in the search.

Kinne and two men who stopped to aid him as he was struggling with the bandits by the roadside, were kidnaped and bound to trees in the woods, after one of the men, Paul Kille, had been beaten and shot. The other man, W. L. Tribbey, who came to the aid of the state official also was beaten on the head with the gunman's pistol butts. Tribbey was recovering in a hospital here.

An area more than 200 miles square is being combed by posses. Bloodhounds have proved a failure in the search so far. The manhunt spread into eastern Oregon today as word came in that a blue sedan, bearing the Idaho license plates of Tribbey's car, was said to have been seen heading north near the state border.

Airplanes, which were active on the first day of the search, resumed the hunt today. The search now covers parts of Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

For the Next Comer

It takes many, many years to make an oak.

You do not notice many people planting acorns. Too long to wait, they think. Before the acorn could grow into a large shade tree they would be dead and gone.

Lots of people won't plant asparagus in their gardens because there is no chance of enjoying it the first year. Something might happen to change their plans. They might not be there the second year.

Of course, some one else would reap the benefits of labor; the next comer would be grateful, just as generations yet unborn would bless the man who put the acorn in the ground.

That, however, is not a popular motive. To work for the next comer is work wasted, we think, and few of us are so altruistic as to do so.

Sometimes it happens.

Mrs. Miller's husband failed in business. For four months he failed in his efforts to find work. The landlord gave them notice to move. During the last months that she spent in her rented house Mrs. Miller made her garden.

It happened to be in the spring, gardening-time—and Mrs. Miller always made a garden. Apparently she saw no reason for not doing so, even though she would not be there to enjoy it. She planted zinnias and sweet peas, delphiniums and astors. And in her window-boxes she set geraniums and wandering-jew. As usual.

The neighbors thought she was an idiot. And said so. But Mrs. Miller thought it would be too bad for some one who might move in too late to plant a garden to spend the summer flowerless. It wasn't a great deal of trouble, she pointed out, and practically no expense, as she had both seeds and cuttings.

Not a practical woman, Mrs. Miller, but no truly practical soul would bother to work for the next comer.

It is fortunate for humanity that there are Mrs. Millers. It is her spirit that animates the hundreds of scientists who gave their lives in order that the cause of research might be furthered and life made safer and better for all of us today.

To plant window-boxes when you are leaving a house is a small thing, perhaps, but the spirit which prompts it is not small. Both Mrs. Miller and those brave men who conquered yellow fever and experimented with radium worked for the next comer and that is a most splendid although not the most practical thing to do.

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

CHILDREN HURT BY CRITICISM

Too Much Fault-Finding, Says Dorothy Dix

Danger of Perpetually Finding Fault With Children. Is a Woman Justified in Using Tears to Gain Her Own Way?—Why Suicide Is The Coward's Way Out.

Dear Miss Dix—Don't you think it is wrong for parents to criticize their children constantly? I know a little girl whose father never speaks to her except to find fault with something she does, and he continually mortifies her by calling her attention to her defects and mistakes before other people. It is, "Mary sit up straight, don't slouch at the table." "Mary, don't eat like a pig." "Mary, don't be so awkward." "Mary, don't be so stupid," until the poor child has got the idea that she is somehow all wrong. Do you think this is laying the right foundation for this little girl's future happiness and development? A READER.

Answer: I think that the greatest parental vice is fault-finding and that more children have been ruined by it than by anything else in the world. And the pity of it all is that the parents who wreck their children's lives by it do it through love instead of through malice.

They are so anxious for their children to be perfect that they are determined to nip every fault in the bud and correct every foible. So they "pick on" the children all of the time, and it is "Johnny, don't do this" and "Mary, don't do that" every time they rise up or sit down. Every time they speak their grammar is corrected. Every mouthful they eat calls down some sort or reproof. They can't walk across the floor without being criticised.

They can't express an opinion without some stricture being made upon it until the poor, badgered little creatures learn to keep away from home as much as possible and to make themselves as inconspicuous as possible when they are around their parents.

No complaint is heard more frequently from fathers and mothers than that their children are not companionable with them and do not confide in them. They wail out that their adolescent boys and girls never tell them anything, never want to go out with them and never want to spend their evenings at home.

Nine times out of ten the parents themselves are responsible for this state of affairs. They have alienated their children from them by their continuous fault-finding. For children have their vanity as well as grown-ups, and none of us voluntarily seeks the society of those who are going to call our attention to our defects and let us see that they regard us as poor, miserable specimens of humanity.

Mary and John don't relish being told that they are young fools and that their taste is bad and their manners boorish any more than father and mother would. Furthermore, they are not going to tell father and mother anything or let father and mother find out anything if they can help it that would lend point to their criticisms.

Parents forget that they are their children's world and that their approbation means fame to their little ones and their reproof black disgrace and that a child that is criticised by its parents before strangers feels just as much humiliated as father or mother would if they were lampooned in a newspaper and held up to public ridicule.

Also, a child takes its parents' value of itself, and if father and mother tell it continually that it is dull and stupid and homely it grows up believing that it is dull and stupid and homely and it makes no effort to be anything else. It is parents who implant the inferiority complex in their children's minds.

All of us know dozens of men and women who are failures in the world simply because they have no faith in themselves and so have not the courage to attempt to better themselves. Probably every one of these is the victim of faul-finding parents who kept their weaknesses ever before them and who made them believe that they were lacking in intelligence or intiative or personal charm and so couldn't do the things that other people did.

The power of suggestion is one of the greatest forces for evil or good in the world. Keep before a girl the idea that she is homely and she will grow up deprecating and slouching and be homelier still because she will never think it worth while to learn how to carry herself or to take the trouble to dress herself up or have that self-confidence that is 40 per cent of good looks anyway.

Keep telling a boy that he is shy and awkward and you will intensify timidity until you will make him one of the men who falls over his feet and takes a back seat as long as he lives.

But, on the other hand, you can make a child feel that you expect the best of it and it will give it because it has to live up to its blue china. You can praise little Johnny's manners until you make a Chesterfield out of him. You can exclaim over his knowledge of history until you turn him into a student. You can show appreciation of the little tasks that Mary does until she becomes mother's helper.

Praise is always more potent than blame. The only thing that continual knocking does to a child's character is to harden it and flatten it out. Which is something for parents to consider.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—My mother has been dead for some time and my father gives me everything I could desire. However, there are times when I want things he thinks I should not have and then all that I have to do is cry in order to get my own way.

I am engaged to a very nice young man, and sometimes I do things of which he does not approve and then we quarrel, but if I cry he will give in and be again at my feet. As long as this method gets me what I want, do you think it is right for me to use it? A SPOILED CHILD.

Answer: Undoubtedly you have taken the easiest and quickest way of getting what you want, because tears have ever been woman's most effective weapon to use against men. For some reason that no one can explain, men's backbones just melt down into a pulp under the water from a woman's eyes, even when they know she is weeping for revenue only.

Why this is thus, nobody knows not even the poor, limp man who has surrendered to the crybaby. All that he knows is that he simply can't stand the weeps and so to stop her blubbering he gives her the car he can't afford or the dress that he will have to do without lunches to pay for or he apologizes to her for the thing she has done that provoked the quarrel and promises never, never to cross her again.

Many a woman before you, my dear, has floated herself out of a bad situation on a tide of tears. Many a one before you has cried for the moon until she got it. Many a one has found out that hydraulic power is most effective in breaking down a man's morale, but don't you think that tears are a pretty poor, mean, contemptible weapon to use on a man?

Because they are only effective when you use them on a man who loves you and they only work with him because he can't endure to see you make even the gesture of suffering. Have more self-respect than to play such a lowdown game on your father and sweetheart.

And remember this, that while your father will always give in to his little crybaby, your husband won't. Before marriage your sweetheart will kiss away your tears. After marriage he will tell you not to be a fool and will go out and bang the door behind you.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—Why is it cowardly to commit suicide.—O.

Answer: Because the brave attitude toward life is to carry on in the face of discouragements and disaster, to fight on instead of running up the white flag and surrendering. Every day you read in the paper about men with families who have committed suicide because of some impending disgrace or because they have met with financial reverses.

Do you not think it would be a braver thing, for these men to go to work and support their poor little children than it is for them to put a bullet through their brains? Don't you think that it is cowardly for them to take the easiest way out and leave their families to bear alone the disgrace or to starve because the breadwinner has gone?

"Emperor of Hoboes" Given Royal Welcome to Wichita

Bath in Hotel Room "Novelty," He Confesses to Reporter

His Royal Highness, King Leon I, Sovereign Emperor of all the hoboes by virtue of the powers in him vested in solemn conclave of the peers of his kingdom, has arrived in Wichita Falls—without pomp, without splendor, without even the consorts befitting his exalted station.

In fact, he "just blew in," as he put it when interviewed at the Holt hotel, where he has been installed in the royal suite. Following an auto ride from Denton, he called at the house of Rabbi A. Rabinowits, who is of his faith, and introduced himself. His real name is J. Leon Lazarowitz, and his home is —or will be—at 457 East One Hundred and Fifth street, Brooklyn, N. Y. Rabbi Rabinowitz received His Highness and prepared a royal luncheon, after which a visit was made to Sol Laskey, who gave orders for the preparation of the royal suite at the hotel, refusing to allow anyone besides himself to stand the bill, according to the hobo king.

King Leon has hoboed his way through every country in the world except Russia, and he "don't take no stock in Bolshevism." To be exact, he has covered 368,523 miles within the last nine years, and he has yet to buy a ticket. For the incredulous he produces postmarks, news articles, souvenirs, letters, cards, any number of supporting evidences that he speaks the truth about his travels.

His last trip began in Brooklyn, took him to Ketchikan, Alaska, and from there he has covered all of the Pacific coast down to Mexico and across the border states to Texas. His last bath was in Fort Worth. Previous to that one, he "didn't quite remember." When in Texas, however, he makes up for lost time on his baths, so he said, and he plans to take several here "so he can get along without any after he leaves the state."

"I came out of the way just to be in Wichita Falls during the Jewish holiday Shevouth," he declared. This holiday celebrates the giving of the law to the children of Israel. He will attend the services at the orthodox synagogue here Saturday.

His Royal Highness keeps a record of all his journeys, giving gradations to each town he visits. The symbols NG, F, G, and XLNT are used in the royal books, meaning no good, fair, good and excellent. Wichita Falls received the grade of G, in the estimation of the king. "This is the most courteous town I have visited in Texas," he said, "and as for the girls here—well, they've got 'em all beat a mile!"

King Leon belongs to 112 clubs, lodges, associations, or what-have-you in hundreds of cities in all parts of the world. Most of his travels are made on the rods of freight trains, but his connections with various automobile associations often earn him rides in cars. He has been on the road since the age of 14, when he graduated from high school in New York, and he is now 23 years old.

He was elected Sovereign Emperor of the Bona Fide Hoboes Union of the United States at its last convention on Sept. 10, 1927, in Minneapolis, Minn. "But I'm goin' home now—to stay—not to get married. I'm gonna get a job and leave the road—if I can," he said. "I'm not even goin' to the next hoboes' convention in Los Angeles on Jan. 1, 1930. They don't need me, and I've nominated Denver Mike for next emperor, anyway." With a sigh he muttered, "The King is dead! Long live the King!"

His Highness has letters from Mackenzie King, premier of Canada, President Hoover and numerous other personages in all corners of the globe. He has keys to the cities of Nashville, Tenn., and Winnipeg, Canada, and any number of notes and letters from city officials in other nations.

WEATHER EXPERT

Ground Hog Added To Collection in Zoo At Scotland Park

Wichita Falls now has a weather prophet whose predictions will or will not be accepted as accurate, depending upon one's belief in age-old tradition. A ground hog, brought from Rodgers, Ark., by W. H. McAbee of the McAbee Lumber company, was presented to the Wichita Falls Municipal zoo Friday, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent. Plenty of digging space will be provided for "Brer Ground Hog" in the sunlight so that he will have ample opportunity to exercise his forecasting powers.

Another addition to the zoo Friday was a civet cat, which was caught near the City laundry plant, 400 Austin, by Harry Gray.

Healthful vegetables need not be unappetizing

Little water and small amounts of sugar work wonder flavors in these beneficial foods

A FAMOUS cooking specialist, on the staff of two large magazines, has announced a discovery of importance to everyone interested in healthful, delicious foods.

This woman announces her discovery to all interested in better tasting foods. "We have discovered," she says, "that sugar in correct amounts added to the vegetables while cooking, intensifies the natural flavor in fresh vegetables, restores in large measure the flavor of freshness to slightly wilted vegetables, and enhances the flavor of canned vegetables." In all instances she emphasizes that sugar increases the food value of the vegetables. She gives the following delicious recipe:

PEAS COUNTRY STYLE—To 2 cups of shelled peas, allow 4 young tender carrots, and a small onion. Scrape and slice the carrots, and cook them and the peas in just enough water to cover, adding 1 level tablespoon of granulated sugar. When nearly tender add a chopped onion and 1 generous tablespoon of butter. Add salt and pepper to taste and 1 level teaspoon of sugar. Simmer until the onion is cooked.

The wonderful thing about sugar as a flavorer, recommended by good cooks and scientists alike, is that it develops the appetizing flavors of fruits and meats as well as vegetables—in fact makes nearly every good food more palatable. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

'DRY' KILLINGS PART OF GAME

But W. C. T. U. Regrets Recent Bloodshed

NEW YORK, June 14. (UP)—The Women's Christian Temperance union regrets deeply the shedding of blood in efforts to enforce prohibition, Mrs. Ella Boole, of Brooklyn, N. Y., head of the organization, told the United Press today, but at the same time feels that there are situations in which it cannot be avoided.

She was commenting upon the recent tragedies in prohibition enforcement—the killing of Archibald Eugster by Jonah Cox, prohibition officer, near Detroit; the death of Henry Virkula at International Falls, Minn.; the Aurora, Ill., shootings of a few weeks ago; the killing of an alleged bootlegger in Washington recently, when he sought to escape behind a smoke screen in an automobile; and the I'm Alone case.

Lives Often at Stake

"We of the Women's Christian Temperance union and those associated with us," Mrs. Boole said, "deeply regret when life is taken or when personal injury is done by officers enforcing the law.

"Yet sometimes it cannot be avoided if officers do their duty. The public must remember that officers are dealing with desperate men who are breaking the law. Oftimes it becomes a contest between an officer upon one side and a desperate man upon the other, and someone's life may be at stake.

"If a life is taken in defense against robbery; or if a life is taken to prevent murder; or if personal harm is done in the chasing of an offender, it is called justifiable homicide. The same rule of law and of reason applies in these regrettable cases.

"Each case which is now before the public has resulted in exoneration of the officer or officers involved with the exception of those, including the I'm Alone case, which are still awaiting settlement."

Mrs. Boole was replying informally to statements made in Washington by Representative Pittinger of Minnesota, who in commenting upon the Virkula killing was quoted as saying that the country should be informed if prohibition officials have authorized enforcement agents to "kill upon suspicion."

"If they deny such a program," Pittenger's statement said, "then it is high time to find out if private individuals or organizations of individuals put the stamp of their approval on such methods as those which led to the tragedy in question."

Aurora Case "Exploited"

"In the case of the Aurora, Ill., shooting, great capital was made of it," she said, "because it was on the eve of the referendum in Wisconsin and much money was spent in the Wisconsin campaign."

She also commented upon the recent activities of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, of which Mrs. Charles H. Sabin is the head in New York state.

"The public should be told," she said, "that while they call it an organization for prohibition reform, they do not want to reform prohibition, but to repeal it. That is their real purpose.

"Behind all the agitation there is one outstanding fact, and that is that the Women's Christian Temperance union is an organization which stands for something constructive. The other side is tearing down and is destructive. One is affirmative and the other is negative. What have they ever done for the young people; to make better men of our boys and girls; and to help them to live clean, worth-while lives?"

Mrs. Boole was firm in her belief that the efforts of the anti-prohibition forces, strong as they are and may become, will come to naught, if prohibition is given a fair trial.

"We have a slogan in the W. C. T. U.," she said, "which I think is very apt. It is 'give prohibition a chance; the saloons had theirs.'"

Famous Expert of Dallas Hotel Supervises Press Lunch Here

Through the artistic finesse imparted by the skill of Charlie King, garde manger of the Baker hotel, Dallas, the buffet luncheon served at the Wichita club Friday noon to members of the Texas Press association as guests of The Record News and Daily Times, was made one of the real highlights of the three-day session here.

Mr. King has few equals in the Southwest in the fine matter of delicate cuisine, and his services were secured for the Friday luncheon here through the courtesy of Fenton J. Baker, proprietor of the Baker hotel, and chef Ed Zwahlen.

Among the delectable viands arrayed on profusely decorated tables were basted turkeys, richly brown, smoking roasts of the choicest cuts, and for the most fastidious, smoked tongues in the shape of diminutive lady slippers. Toothsome salads, every variety and hue of olive, and brined vegetables to whet the appetite for meats, combined to offer the visitors a rare feast.

Numerous compliments were paid by those present to A. A. Dickson, manager of the Wichita club, and to Mr. King, for the excellence and attractiveness of the menu.

COURT RESETS BEARDEN SUIT

Trial Involving Oil Lands Delayed by Judge

Trial of the suit in which Lee O. Bearden, declared legally dead by a Young county court three years ago, seeks to recover $120,000 and title to his property from his own children, has been continued until the September term of court, according to information received from Judge Allan D. Montgomery Friday afternoon.

The case was continued after Judge Montgomery sustained a motion for abatement in which the defendants claimed that the proper parties had not all been named in the suit as originally filed. The continuance gives time for the plaintiffs to draw up an amended petition.

In the suit already filed, Mr. Bearden names the Texas company, lessors of Archer county oil lands which he claims to have inherited from his father, in his claim for $120,000, the alleged profits on the land during the period of Bearden's "legal death." From his children, he seeks recovery of his title to the property, distributed among his heirs after the action declaring him dead. The children are: Mrs. J. C. Rabey of Montague county, Max Bearden, and Sibyl Bearden Davis. J. C. Rabey and Clarence Davis, his sons-in-law, are also named as defendants.

The suit was brought following Bearden's reappearance in Young county after an absence of more than seven years.

West Asheville, N. C.—"When I was about thirteen years old, I was weak and run-down," writes Mrs. T. J. Ballew, who lives on Oak street, this city.

"I was pale and under-weight. "I took a couple of bottles of Cardui at that time. It built me up, and I was much better.

"When I was nineteen years old (this was after my marriage), I again had a breakdown. I was in miserable health. I was very weak. The least thing tired me. I only weighed 105 pounds. My color was bad.

"I remembered what Cardui had done for me once before, so I started taking it again. I gained until I weighed 127 pounds.

"I have a good appetite and feel fine. I certainly praise Cardui."

ALMOST GAVE UP HOPE OF SEEING A WELL DAY AGAIN

"I have seen the time when I would have given almost anything in the world to find the splendid health I now enjoy since taking Sargon.

"I had suffered for two years with such stomach trouble that I had about given up hope of ever being well again. After eating I would have heartburn and an uncomfortable, bloated feeling in my stomach that lasted for hours. My entire system seemed to be out of order. I was so nervous that actually I was afraid to be alone. I could not rest day or night. I had dizzy spells every morning when I first got up and would be so tired that I didn't feel like starting my housework. You would have thought that I didn't have a drop of blood in my body, my color was so bad. I felt dull, lifeless and drowsy all the time.

"Three bottles of Sargon have already done more for me than I expected any medicine to do. That depressed feeling has left my stomach and I am no longer bothered with indigestion or heartburn. I'm no longer nervous. I sleep well and get up in the mornings feeling fine. My strength and energy returned and I go about my housework cheerfully and without tiring. It seemed like I could just feel Sargon building up my blood and bringing back a good, healthy color to my face. I am certainly like a different person from what I was one month ago.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills have rid me of constipation in an easy, natural manner by stimulation of my inactive liver. They never nauseate like other laxatives.

"There are several in my family taking Sargon with splendid results."

The above statement was made recently by Mrs. Ruby Light, highly esteemed resident of 413 North Washington street, Dallas.

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Rentro Drug Co., Eighth and Scott streets, No. 1 main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; in Electra from Lough's Drug store; and in Burkburnett from Burkburnett Pharmacy.—Adv.

"HE COULDN' TELL PINK"

Daily Editorial

TRADITION is abandoning its customary formula of casting all intelligence in procrustean molds.

The process of stretching and trimming individuality to fit an arbitrary method won't furnish the type of talent the twentieth century needs in its business.

Such system is only comparable to pruning grapevines by foot rule, instead of at bud-point, or growing crops without regard to their natural soil affinities.

The wrong fertilizer will stifle and ruin the sturdiest plant, and, by the same token, each brain requires a degree of special gardening to develop and accentuate peculiar capacities.

No two of us are entirely alike. Every mind has some hidden spring, and failure to locate it in childhood is largely responsible for the prevalence of adult dullards and inconsequents.

The non-conforming youngster, the apparently stupid boy, now suggests to school and college authorities that his lack of interest in routine lessons may be due to their limited range of appeal.

The ability to memorize words, dates, and tables no more indicates understanding in a human than it does in a bird. The parrot is notoriously a feathered ass, while the sparrow resistant to all training, ranks the shrewdest and most resourceful of air-folk.

The more primitive the tribe, the more uniformity of thought and action.

Herd habits destroyed the buffalo and wiped out the wild pigeon. The salmon, obedient to inflexible urges from egg to death, is fast disappearing, but the wily trout, a watchful student of environment and the unexpected, changes his counter tactics as fast as angling invents fresh lures.

ORIGINALITY carries its personal yardstick and can merely be held to common measurement by stunting and aborting its expression.

Pouring gallons into pint cups simply spills the plusage, and the restraint of good brains by pedantic straight-jackets either defeats their possibilities or numbs them until they escape the confining influence and secure a chance to exercise retarded strength.

All of which explains why celebrities have so seldom shown any early samples.

And also why "teachers' pets" never grew up to be fame's favorite or a balance sheet star.

His class record would hardly have appointed General Grant commander in chief of the federal army.

All-wise Providence alone saved Field Marshall Haig from rejection by the British staff college because he couldn't tell red from pink.

And while we are at it, its just as well to recall that no tutor ever discovered that Wellington was a bright lad, or suspected how Sir Isaac Newton would later fill his quill with indelible ink and rewrite science and physosophy.

Richard Wagner, Oliver Goldsmith, and Sir Walter Scott, additional graduates of the dunce stool sitting pretty on the peak of Olympus, also thumb noses at the shallow pates where cheating scales weighed and found them wanting.

1843—Sam Houston proclaimed an amnesty between Texas and Mexico.

Public Confidence and Mooney

GOV. C. C. YOUNG of California seems to have laid down an entirely new principle of criminal law.

A few days ago the Los Angeles Church Federation wrote the governor asking an early review of Tom Mooney's application for a pardon. Mooney, you recall, is the San Francisco labor organizer who has been in prison since 1916 on a charge of murder.

Governor Young, writing his reply, put down the following amazing paragraphs:

"If his innocence is established he should, of course, be set free irrespective of other considerations. If, however, there is not a certainty of innocence, but only a doubt as to his guilt, his case should obviously be treated the same as that of any other prisoner. This would normally mean a parole as the first step, with the possible consequent pardon as it might be justified in the future.

"If there is a probability of his guilt, he ought to remain right where he is, of course."

If this isn't an entirely new principle of law, it comes mighty close to it.

American law provides that any defendant must be convicted of guilt "beyond the shadow of any reasonable doubt." No man can be found guilty on "probability." Guilt must be proven up to the hilt. The accused man gets the benefit of the doubt. The law was designed on the famous old theory that it is better for two guilty men to escape than for one innocent man to suffer.

Governor Young seems to be reversing all the criminal courts of the land.

But that isn't all of it.

Mooney's case has an importance far greater than that of the ordinary man who has suffered injustice. There are plenty of reasons for suspecting that he was arrested and convicted because the San Francisco capitalists did not like his union activities. Since his trial the testimony on which he was convicted has been shown to be perjured. The judge who sentenced him and the jurors who voted him guilty, as well as the police captain who handled the case against him, have been convinced of his innocence and have asked that he be pardoned.

Thus it behooves the state to lean over backward in dealing with his case. It is especially important that he be given the benefit of every doubt.

His liberty is not the chief thing at stake. The chief thing is the confidence of millions of ordinary men and women in the fairness and decency of our social and legal system.

Governor Young babbling about "probability of guilt," has it in his power to hit this confidence a knock-out blow. And, at the same time, he is in a fair way to write down his own name as that of a small and unchivalrous man.

An Armed Germany Again?

FRANK H. SIMONDS who writes on European affairs with a good deal of authority takes an exceedingly gloomy view of what Europe's future will be if the nations of Europe do not follow the suggestions of the recent Geneva conference and reduce their armies.

Writing in the June Review of Reviews Mr. Simonds predicts that maintenance by such major powers as France and Italy of their present armies will eventually cause Germany potentially the greatest military power of all to rebuild a huge standing army.

"For the moment, the question, so far as Germany is concerned, is in abeyance," he writes. "While allied troops are on German soil and reparations are still to be adjusted the Germans are unlikely to break the contract which binds them to helplessness in the face of armed neighbors.

"But no one believes that in the future Germany will stay disarmed. Thus the failure today at Geneva if it stands, must foreshadow the return of Germany to the ranks of conscript nations and the restoration of an armed continent."

No Help to Prestige

IT IS hard to see in what way the American house of representatives covered itself with any glory at all during its first day's consideration of the census and reapportionment bill.

The amendment to exclude aliens from the count was cheap and unworthy; so, likewise, was the companion amendment, voted in retaliation, to exclude negroes in southern states. And the little rider removing the census appointees from civil service rules, and thereby setting up 100,000 jobs for the deserving friends of congressmen, was politics at its very lowest.

On top of this, the demeanor of the members, described in dispatches as a near-riot, was just a trifle disgraceful.

House leaders this spring were reported to be determined to raise the general prestige of their body to the level of the senate's. They are certainly choosing a peculiar way to go about it.

Rural Traffic Deaths Increase

AUTOMOBILES continue to kill an ever-increasing number of people. Figures compiled by the National Safety Council show that accidents for the first four months of 1929 are a good 5 per cent higher than for the same period of 1928; and no check to this ominous increase is in sight.

It is notable that much of this increase comes from rural regions. The cities report, for the most part, about the same totals as they had a year ago; but in the country districts the toll is going up.

This may be a cogent argument for strong, well-equipped state traffic police patrols. It undoubtedly is an argument for greater care and watchfulness on the part of each individual motorist. Our motor traffic fatality list is rapidly getting too frightful to be borne.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Prof. Elmer Twitchell's Baccalaureate

(Delivered to a girl's college after the manner of Prof. Rogers recent "snob" talk to the boys at Massachusetts Tech.)

"Ladies of the graduating class:

"You are about to leave these cloisters and go out into the cold world. Your paths will be varied. Many of you will become wives and mothers. Some of you will become secretaries of state, advertising writers, lady stock brokers, interior decorators and assistant attorney generals in charge of prohibition enforcement. Others will become channel swimmers, members of sister acts in vaudeville, trapeze performers and chow-dog fanciers. Practically all of you will become terrible bridge players. At such a time as this a little serious advice from the old cookoo is not out of order.

PHILLIPS

"Be crazy about yourself. Remember that where you are personally concerned the best is none too good. Be vain! Be priggish! Be impossible! You will find it just as easy to marry the boss's son as his office boy. Easier, if all I hear is true.

"Office boys never stay awake enough for you to interest them in the proposition. Even should you hold an office boy's attention a little and send him for the marriage license he would either forget it entirely, or be gone a week or two and return with a pot of glue or a pair of shears or something else by mistake. The chances are he would never come back. Office boys are like that. But bosses' sons retain better. They will get the idea quicker. By all means get yourself a boss's son.

"Dress, speak and act like a lady. Get your hair done three times a week. Never buy a frock without an extra pair of brevities. Never wear the same pearls at night that you wore all day at the office. Keep your white shoes whitened.

"Belong to the best clubs, seek the company of women who amount to something, women who have made good, like Mrs. Gann, Maureen Orcutt, and Helen Wills. Believe that you are in every way bigger and better than the working girl. Remember that it is up to you to take the rule away from the night club hostesses, the George White chorus girls, the Western Women's professional baseball nine, and the Lady Cyclists' club.

"Never go motoring with strangers below you socially. Do not 'neck' with persons whose financial future is not well established. Avoid parking in the cheaper priced cars. It is just as easy to win him in a Mercedes as in a Chevrolet.

"Do not allow yourself to be rescued at fires by firemen you have never met. Wait for the man worth while.

"With these few words, I close, thanking you for your kind attention and assuring you that if elected I will solve the farm problem and give a living wage to all."

Have a Heart Carter!

The Carter Glass bill proposes to tax all stock sales where the buyer has not held on for at least 60 days. "I don't mind holding a stock for the long pull," says Elmer Twitchell, "but 60 days is asking too much."

Critics of Mr. Glass say there is no way to tell the difference between an investor and a speculator. Don't be that away! You can always tell the speculator. He is the man who plays the new dollar ball across the water hole.

Mr. John David predicts that in another hundred years styles in attire will have changed to such an extent that men will appear in "scanties" for street wear, with legs bare from the ankles to just above the knees. Another hundred years? Aren't we going crazy any faster than that?

Tillman County Oats Better Than Expected

FREDERICK, Okla., June 14.—Several fields of oats which seemed a failure because of the long continued drouth revived to such an extent since the recent rains that from 40 to 50 bushels an acre are expected to be realized, according to some of the farmers. Purney Chamberlin, son of N. A. Chamberlin from west of Frederick, had a field of oats which promised so little that it was pastured by stock until there was nothing left to eat. Following the late rains the oats grew rapidly and Chamberlin says he expects to realize from 40 to 50 bushels an acre from this field.

Several other farmers are said to have similar fields of oats which they used for pasture.

Oat harvesting will begin in about two weeks, according to T. R. Keeter, acting county weigher.

Lynn Kincaid Succeeds Brother in Burk Bank

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, June 14.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the First National Bank here, Lynn Kincaid was elected as active vice president of the bank, to succeed his brother, Glenn Kincaid, who had resigned to accept the position as active vice president of the Security National Bank at Wichita Falls. Glenn Kincaid will remain as active vice president of the bank here until July 1.

The Kincaid brothers have lived in this city for a number of years and have taken an active part in the different movements towards progress of the city.

Banker's Continued Absence Causes Fear

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., June 14. (UP)—Alarm was felt here today for J. C. Key, cashier of the First National bank and superintendent of the Methodist Sunday school, who has been missing since Monday.

Key was last heard from at Monett, Mo., where he dropped a note to his wife while en route to visit his sister in Ohio. He did not arrive at the latter place.

Key's accounts at the bank were reported in good shape.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, June 14.—Richard S. Ryan, well known attorney, has visited the same barber for the past 35 years. If he is out of town for a month or so he just goes without a haircut—fearing to trust his needs to a new barber.

He tells of a man he once employed as a nightwatchman for a firm Ryan was temporarily reorganizing.

"Is it permanent?" asked the old man.

"Well—yes, I'd say it's permanent," replied Mr. Ryan, having in mind the possibility he could keep the old fellow for at least a year.

"I hope so," said the old man, "The last place I went to they promised they'd give me a steady job—but they went ahead and fired me after eleven years!"

"I see," corrected Mr. Ryan after a little thought, "then you better not consider this job as permanent."

The other day I met Major William G. Brooks, chief pilot of a flying circus, whose experiences are thrilling and amusing. He had the title of "commander of the Nicaraguan government's air forces" during the revolution down there a couple of years ago. The fact is, the "air force" consisted of only two Americans who used to drop ammonia bombs upon the revolutionists. Brooks has a couple of letters from President Diaz complimenting him effusively for his services and skill.

One trick Brooks used, he tells me, was to fly over the revolutionary lines and drop circulars informing the revolutionists that he didn't mind if they took a few shots at his plane but if they fired too many shots he would drop bombs "that would poison every insect within the radius of 10 miles."

I refer to the ushers in Roxy's and other cathedrals of the motion pictures, so-called. Being an usher nowadays is something more than a hap hazard job. It's a career. The ushers must take up military training, or something, learn social deportment, know how to answer questions with quiet dignity, how to "point" without making a social error and—this the only solace—how not to accept tips.

Well, I started to say that the ushers in these places are dressed up like members of the king's guard. They have special uniforms for "rush days" and other uniforms, of a quieter nature, for ordinary theatrical days.

On the other hand, we have our city policemen. Recently they were equipped with new caps. They're baggy sort of caps, not the crisp, neat ones they used to wear. Much criticism has been heaped upon them. Some citizens claim the police look too undignified and others say they look like telegraph messengers, which may or may not be the same thing.

There are persistent rumors—as if rumors weren't always persistent—that Jed Harris, has retired from the theatrical world with his pot of Broadway's gold. Just now he is in Europe and the rumors are flying thick and with inconsistency.

One rumor says he has two other plays in contemplation, another reports him as being "sick and tired" of the stage and another comes from gossipy Hollywood.

Harris has been successful as a Broadway producer because he seldom put on the stage a poor piece of entertainment. During the very season that producers weep about as disastrous, Harris went ahead and his productions enjoyed, as they deserved, a huge success.

ABE MARTIN

I don't see why more farmers don't jump into grand opery. It's subsidized an' the seasons are short. I reckon May'll be jest like "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It'll return next year an' fool us again.

Bishop McConnell Is Given Ovation

DENVER, Colo., June 14. (UP)—Bishop F. J. McConnell, president of the Federal Council of Churches in America, who was deposed as keynote speaker for the Northern Baptist convention earlier this week because his views were regarded as being too radical, was given an ovation today when he addressed the convention.

Storm clouds that had hung over the gathering before Bishop McConnell spoke, faded after his address. The bishop brought to the meeting no expression of principles that the delegates could not accept as their own, leaders said.

OKLA. BAPTIST HEAD ACCUSED

Phelan Lax on Evolution Oath, Is Charge

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., June 14. (UP)—W. W. Phelan, president of Oklahoma Baptist university at Shawnee, Okla., who dismissed two faculty members for printing a "sex questionnaire," today stood accused of laxity in enforcing the "anti-evolution oath."

Phelan issued a statement today that he was being "persecuted by members of his own denomination." The statement was in reply to an editorial appearing in the current issue of the Baptist Trumpet, Oklahoma church paper edited by the Rev. C. P. Sealy. The paper charged that Phelan had not required new members to publicly take the required stand against evolution.

"Every one of the 22 members—including the six installed last December—have signed the prescribed statement," Phelan declared. He denied the allegation that two members who resigned from the board had done so because of the evolution clause.

The two trustees who resigned were Judge Robert A. Heffner, Oklahoma City, and the Rev. T. O. Holcomb, Lawton.

Phelan had recommended suspension several weeks ago for two members of the faculty engaged in psychological research who printed a "sex questionnaire" on the pattern of that issued at the University of Missouri. The trustees carried out the recommendation.

Charging that Phelan and his trustees were "towing the Baptist school toward "modernism," the Trumpet editorial said:

"Some of the brethren are beginning to winder if there is a feeling of indifference regarding the fundamental precept of this basically fundamental institution. It is well understood by Oklahoma Baptists that Oklahoma Baptist university is to be a rock-ribbed fundamental school. They are not interested in any other sort. The signing of an anti-evolution resolution by the trustees is not the only thing required to keep it fundamental. It must have the cheerful compliance of the part of the trustees."

Phelan said that he was against teaching evolution in the school and that he had tried to make the university a fundamentalist institution.

VERNON HOST TO EDITORS

Press Delegates Honored At Barbecue, Dance

ed young men who contemplate entering the profession of journalism that there is in editorial effort the greatest opportunity for public service offered in any field of endeavor in the United States."

Independent Editors

Doctor Johnson voiced a plea for independent editors to take up the fight to keep newspapers on the highest plane, and to place journalism alongside and above the professions of preaching, medicine, political science, and teaching.

"Modern conditions demand a higher grade of intelligence and a more liberal view toward social, economic, educational and religious questions than ever before," he continued. "The day of the gig-headed editor has passed. The day of the narrow-minded editor has passed. The day of the uneducated editor has passed. Fortunately the day of the common sense editor has not passed. Fortunately, also, for the editor, the time has arrived for his economic independence, for modern constructive journalism offers to him just rewards for his best public service."

He outlined some of the conditions which have changed the position of the present-day editor and presented a challenge to the group. "To the modern constructive journalist," he said, "I would say, have no fear, for journalism with fear loses the sword, loses respect and loses the opportunity of leadership. But without fear and with the courage of conviction the modern editor holds a place in the community of respect and honor and through the channel of the public press the largest public service can be rendered."

The wealth of still dormant resources and opportunities in Texas as a field in which newspapers have unlimited chance to keep the state what it is, the Lone Star State in the firmament of industry, culture, and wealth, was the concluding topic of Doctor Johnson's address, a plea for high-minded journalistic effort closing it.

John F. Easley of Ardmore, Okla., discussing, "How I Have Found Subscription Contests to Pay," described several distinctive personalities in newspapers. Inefficient means of sensational subscription drives, reduction of prices and unusual prizes were deplored by him, and the more unique and practical idea was advanced of conducting scholarship contests, with the awarding of scholarships as prizes.

Small Town Paper

"Best Sources of News in a Small Town" was the subject of a talk by W. A. Salter of the Kerrville Mountain Sun. The spirit of friendliness in a small town, greater than that in a city, was mentioned as one of the contributing sources of news in the small place.

"While the passenger train has been supplanted as the country editor's standby," he said, "there is still the county courthouse, the city hall, the public schools, churches, women's organizations, hotels and the chamber of commerce. But greater than all these as a source of news is the street itself," he concluded.

Cooperation of railroads and newspapers was urged by Ollie Webb of the Texas and Pacific railroads, Dallas, in his address, "Railroads and the Newspapers."

Individual responsibilities of both organs of public welfare were mentioned by him, in many of which both the railroads and newspapers should work together for their own good and that of the public, he declared.

"The tick eradication program is a recent example of a constructive enterprise upon which the newspapers and railroads cooperated," he pointed out. "The fostering of a farm dairy program, diversified farming, and all other forms of community improvement and development also offer the same opportunity for cooperative effort."

Newspapers and railroads may both be responsible to God, he stated, for the manner in which they discharge their duties to the communities they represent.

"In every section where a railroad is operating," he said, "that railroad should feel some responsibility for development of the resources and opportunities in that community to their fullest extent. A newspaper should be guided likewise.

"Both organizations, as factors contributing to our civilization, will be held responsible to God for the manner in which they take advantage of their opportunity to help humanity," Mr. Webb said in conclusion.

New Air Service Opens Here Today

for the southbound trip from Tulsa to Sweetwater, three hours 35 minutes for the northbound trip each morning. A passenger might leave Sweetwater, in West Central Texas at the usual office hour in the morning, have almost one hour for the transaction of business in Tulsa at noon, and be back at his home at 5 o'clock in the afternoon of the same day. Connections by the T. & P. railway provide an overnight Pullman service to El Paso, at which point Western Air Express planes begin a rapid daylight flight to Los Angeles.

Transportation from coast to coast over the new line will offer the passenger his option of air transportation, New York central, or Pennsylvania system trains between St. Louis and New York, it was said.

Chatham Sends Message

The S. A. F. E. ships connecting Sweetwater and Tulsa, by way of Wichita Falls, articulate at Tulsa with planes of the same company which have for some weeks been giving regular daily service between Dallas and St. Louis by way of Tulsa. Headquarters of the corporation are now maintained in Tulsa, with Erle P. Halliburton as president.

J. W. Chatham, traffic manager of the chamber of commerce, accompanied Pilot Bob Cantwell to Tulsa Friday morning. Arriving in Oklahoma City five minutes ahead of schedule, he dispatched the following telegram to local offices:

"Arrived here 10:45 a. m. in ship Wichita Falls, piloted by Robert W. Cantwell, chief pilot, preparatory to inauguration of transcontinental air and rail line New York to Los Angeles beginning June 15 via Wichita Falls, daily service each way, according to the schedule left by Mr. Cantwell this morning. We should make big preparations for celebration at Kell field Saturday afternoon, when first westbound plane lands. The S. A. F. E. corporation wants two representatives from Wichita Falls to ride to Sweetwater, returning Sunday morning. Big celebration being planned at Sweetwater for Saturday night. you think social equality preferable to anti-prohibition?"

Love, who was visibly agitated, was understood to reply: "Yes. If Theodore Roosevelt who ate with Booker Washington were living, I would vote for him over a man who would turn the country over to Tammany and liquor."

The resolution which was adopted took the place of a satirical one, offered by Senator T. J. Holbrook of Galveston, "congratulating" the Hoover Democrats on the incident. In offering it Holbrook referred to "these who are political nigger lovers."

"The man who would say that ought to have 'liar' written across his brow."

Love, who was walking toward Holbrook as he spoke, was ordered back to his seat by Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller, presiding officer.

The resolution which was finally adopted recited the incident, deprecates its effect on friendly relationship of two races designed to live in one nation and resolves: "That we bow our heads in shame and regret and express in the strongest and most emphatic terms at our command our condemnation and humiliation at such conduct, if true, on the part of the mistress of the White House and her associates."

Love and Hyer asked that amendments dealing with Democrats who voted for Hoover be left off so they "could vote for the resolution."

Texas, Love asserted, did a great service for the Democratic party in making it possible for Tammany to nominate the candidate for president again.

Dallas Lady Helped Mother Get Well

"Ten years ago I started giving mother Nature's Remedy and she has kept away her spells of constipation, indigestion, sick headaches and pains in the back ever since," says Mrs. Arthur Brown of 1208 Reiger St., in Dallas.

That's because those little Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) soothe sweeten and stimulate the stomach and bowels. Then the starch and sugar wastes can't remain in your system to form those acids which bind the bowels, sour the stomach and rob the blood of the red corpuscles it must have plenty of to keep you from suffering pain, biliousness, headaches, indigestion and rheumatism. You can get NR tablets in the 25c box at any drug store. More than three million are used in a day.—Adv.

Olympic Theater Adds Sound Device

Installation of a Kue-Graph equipment, providing synchronized music and sound effects for silent-film pictures, at the Olympic theater was announced Friday by Charles Morehead, manager.

With the new musical device, a great variety of recorded compositions may be used, including the work of organists and well known orchestras. Musical continuity for each screen production is arranged at the local theater, and follows the story as cues have been arranged. The Kue-Graph is said to have proven highly successful in adding color and atmosphere to motion picture drama.

Glenn Tryon, in "It Can Be Done" is the attraction for Saturday. The story is based upon the old adage that "where there's a will there's a way," and is fraught with much humor in the demonstration of just what may be done on a busy city street today. The wholesome psychology of perseverance underlies the story, however.

No change in admission prices accompanies the installation of new equipment, it was announced.

FRENCH FLIERS LAND IN SPAIN

Lack of Fuel Brings Atlantic Flight to End

their departure for Paris until Saturday noon.

But Assolant, who married a New York chorus girl, Miss Pauline Parker, four days ago, and his companions were in high spirits as they discussed their flight over the Atlantic, telling how they had "a fine trip" except for the high winds which forced them to change their course after they passed the Azores islands.

Terrific head winds had handicapped them considerably, the entire European coast being swept by a 60-mile gale. The added weight of the 20-year-old Portland, Maine, youth undoubtedly handicapped them further.

Landing at Dusk

Assolant after successfully having piloted the huge air traveller across the monotonous stretches of the ocean, knowing full well that his fuel supply was rapidly diminishing, finally with joy sighted the coast line. He determined to follow the coast line to Bordeaux if possible. His judgment, however, was that the growing darkness and the hazard of an unknown, but certainly meager, supply of fuel, dictated a landing on a spot which he could see.

So it was that in the growing dusk the Yellow Bird slid down out of the air and nestled upon the beach here, a tired traveller from a distant land.

It was only a short flight across the Bay of Biscay to the Basque coast in France, but Assolant and his companions, wise birdmen that they are, preferred not to dare fate by attempting the crossing. Examination of the tanks of the plane showed how wise they were.

Assolant at the controls brought the big plane which had passed over all the heaving waves of the Atlantic to a perfect landing, such as hundreds of spectators at Old Orchard beach and at Roosevelt field, near New York, had seen scores of times in practice flights. It was a landing which no perhaps could not have made had he proceeded into the increasing darkness and a forced landing, because of lack of fuel, had been necessary. In that event a smashup would have been almost inevitable.

Start Again Today

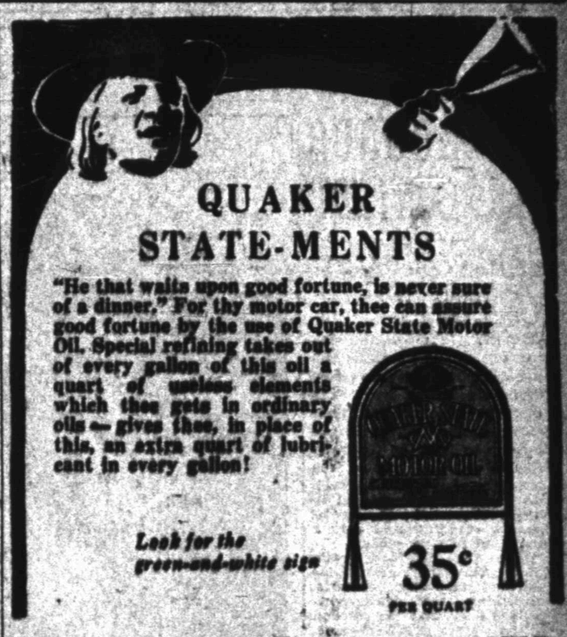

The flyers announced that they will sleep at Comillas tonight and proceed to Paris tomorrow. They should reach there in less than four hours after refueling the Yellow Bird. The stowaway, having ridden this far with them, seems likely to be their companion the rest of the way.

IDLE SPUDDERS TAKE SECOND PLACE AS SPORTS LOSE

WET GROUNDS HALT CONTEST

Day of Rest Gives Aid To Pitching Staff

Special to The Record News.

BEAUMONT, June 14.—Jim Galloway's fast climbing Spudders lolled in a hotel lobby today, tweedled their thumbs, practiced new tricks with their yo yos, and left their miraculous advance in the league standings up to fate. As Galloway tucked the athletes under the sheets tonight, he informed each one that the club now reposed in undisputed command of second place in the standing and only a few jumps out of first place.

For while the Spudders spun their yo yos Shreveport and Dallas dropped their respective contests, thus breaking the Shreveport-Wichita Falls tie for the second rung by the margin of a half game, and pulling the Steers a half notch down. The game here was prevented by wet grounds.

The Wichita Falls club moves into San Antonio Saturday in an effort to extend their spectacular winning streak to 10 or more games having piled up nine consecutive victories before today's postponement.

The hurling department of the Gardner-Galloway detachment was certainly not hurt by the rest afforded by today's layoff. The day of idleness will help continue the regular pitching assignments with the big four, Payne, Steengrafe, Wiltse and Goff chunking every fourth day. If the Indians are not found too hard to handle, Steengrafe, Wiltse and Goff are expected to share the mound duties in order during the three-day stand.

After leaving San Antonio the Spudders will move into Waco for three games with Del Pratt's organization, after which they will return home to entertain the Cubs and Indians.

A Few Revisions

Full many a dub of purest ray serene
Studies his shot with too much pains and care;
Full many a mutt is born to lift his bean
And waste his curses on the country air.

'Twas ever thus since childhood's hour,
While struggling through my golfing rounds,
I never tried to use full power
But what I sliced one out of bounds.

I remember, I remember,
Each word the pro has said,
The way to pivot with the hips,
The way to hold my head;
And yet it gives me little joy
To wade into the sand
And gaze upon the heel print there,
A niblick in my hand.

The Best Left-Hander

Joe Busch, in a reminiscent yarn, ranks Eddie Plank as one of the greatest left-handers of all time. And this happens to be a ranking that the Gettysburg Guide always deserved.

Going back no more than 30 years, the three greatest left-handers of baseball were probably Rube Waddell, Eddie Plank and Pennock.

Babe Ruth might have worked himself into this group if he had not switched from pitching to home run hitting. The Babe, I believe, had the highest five-year average of any left-hander. But the careers of Waddell, Plank and Pennock covered a much more extended period on the firing line. There have been other great left-handers since 1900, including Doc White, Nick Altrock, Vean Gregg and a few more. But Waddell, Plank and Pennock stand at the top, with the eccentric Rube the greatest of them all.

Even after Connie Mack had turned him adrift near the end of his career, he had enough stuff left, pitching for the Browns, to fan 17 Athletic batters in one of his closing games.

Waddell had more speed than either Plank or Pennock, and a deeper, more baffling curve. There were days when it looked as if he could start one for the batter's shouders and have the catcher digging the ball from the dirt back of the plate.

Plank and Pennock were always smart pitchers, with fine control. The Rube was no intellectual giant, but for all that he was smart enough in the box.

The Best Catcher

"I agree with the verdict," writes H. B., "that Mickey Cochrane of the Athletics is the best all-round catcher since Buck Ewing—possibly the greatest of all time, if he holds his present pace. I always thought Bresnahan and Kling were two wonders, Kling especially, but I'd rather have Cochrane than either. He is just as good a catcher as Kling was in the old days of Cub supremacy, and a better hitter. Cochrane has been a big factor in the Athletics' success so far this season. He is as dangerous as any man in the league at bat, and back of the bat he is a smart, hustling type that means a lot to a ball club. If he can keep going he has a great chance to be ranked as the greatest catcher of all time, when you add his hitting to his defensive play."

All the great ones of baseball haven't died or retired. Cochrane can hold his place with any catcher in the game. And in other positions it might be well to keep an eye on two such youngsters as Mel Ott and Jimmy Foxx.

Today's Golf Dope

According to Walter Hagen, Horton Smith has the best straight left arm he has seen in golf.

"And the reason I think it is the best," says Hagen, "is due to the fact that he can keep his left elbow perfectly straight on the back swing without any strain or effort. He seems to be double-jointed or loose-jointed in the elbow, and this means a straight left arm without any strain or torsion. If I ever held my left arm as straight as Horton Smith does I would have no leverage left. My left arm would be as stiff as a piece of steel."

It has been pointed out that Harry Vardon always had a slight bend in his left elbow. This is true. Vardon was another who could not get a straight left arm without too much arm stiffening. The straight left, or at least the almost straight left, means better control. There is a hinge in the left shoulder, and another hinge in the left wrist. With a middle hinge at the elbow, it is almost impossible to keep control in check. Two hinges are hard enough to handle, without inserting a third. Bobby Jones has a remarkably straight left. There seems to be almost no bend, although there is a slight one, just enough to leave him the amount of arm elasticity he needs to kill off too much tension. A correct body turn makes the straight left easier and simplier. But this doesn't mean turning the left arm into a steel ramrod.

C. A. Wright, Held Here as Habitual Criminal, Taken to Dallas for Trial

C. A. Wright, under a third offense burglary indictment here, was taken to Dallas Friday afternoon on a bench warrant calling for his appearance there to answer another habitual criminal charge, according to information given by George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney.

Wright is accused of car theft in the criminal district court in Dallas, the indictment specifically charging a third offense and invoking the habitual criminal act, the officers who served the warrant told Mr. Anderson. That indictment, like the one returned here, involves a mandatory 99-year prison sentence upon conviction, the attorney explained.

The Dallas officers, bearing a warrant signed by Judge C. A. Pippin, in the criminal district court, said that Wright is to be tried in Dallas county on Monday of next week and that he would be returned here in time for the Wichita county trial set for June 24.

The prisoner is under two indictments here, one including the third offense charge. He was arrested in Oklahoma City after members of the sheriff's department had recovered several thousand dollar's worth of goods stolen from prominent Wichita Falls homes early this year. T. A. Cagle, indicted in connection with the same series of burglaries, has already begun the serving of sentences aggregating 20 years. Mae Hart, who pleaded guilty to receiving and concealing stolen property, is under a five year suspended sentence.

CITY NATIONAL WINS, 9 TO 8

Wichita State's Rally Falls Short of Victory

In a Banker's league contest yesterday afternoon, the City National Bank defeated the Wichita State 9 to 8. A seventh inning rally pulled by the Wichita State nearly netted them the game. There were three men on and two down but Allen, City National pitcher, pulled out and fanned the last man. The game was a pitcher's duel, and the runs were only scored on errors made by their teammates. Two freak home runs drove in half of the tallies. Allen held the State to 8 runs, 7 hits, while Taylor held off on six hits and nine runs. The game was a close tie and might have gone for 10 innings had not Taylor's teammates made so many errors. The leading clouter for the victors was Thurman who got two singles out of three times at bat. The leader for Wichita State was Taylor with two doubles, a home run, and a purpose walk out of four times at bat. Excellent pitching by Allen also helped to win the game, striking out 12 men.

Court Action Causes Sacrifice of Horses

OMAHA, Neb., June 14. (UP)—Race horses whose proud owners a few days ago listed their thoroughbreads as worth $1,000 to $2,000 were disposing of the animals today for $150 and $200 as result of the death blow administered racing in Nebraska by the state supreme court.

More prosperous stablemen were advancing funds to their less fortunate associates, with which to send their horses to states permitting horse racing.

Clyde Van Dusen Derby Favorite

Crack Field Entered In Washington Park

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—A crack field of three-year olds, including, with one exception, all important stake winners of the season, was named today to start in the $50,000 American Derby at Washington park tomorrow afternoon, with indications that a crowd of close to 75,000 would witness the classic.

Clyde van Dusen, winner of the Kentucky Derby, has been installed favorite due to the sloppy condition of the track, with African, which ran second to Blue Larkspur in the Belmont stakes, the second choice, Karl Eitel, entry of Alderman John J. (Bathhouse) Coughlin of Chicago, winner of the Fairmount Derby over a muddy track, also was highly favored.

Indications tonight were that the race would be run over a muddy, or at best a heavy, track caused by a three-day rain.

All the best three-year olds from East and West have been named to face the barrier, with the exception of Blue Larkspur, Edward R. Bradley's candidate for championship honors.

The entry list with jockeys follows:

War Buddy, L. Hardy; Paul Bunyan, R. Ayraud; Dr. Freeland, Schaeffer; Roy Gibson, E. Shropshire; Grand Prince, K. Watson; Judge Hay, L. Morris; Karl Eitel, R. Jones; Bowler, No Boy; Naishapur, C. E. Allen; Black Diamond, Barnes; Minotaur, Deprema; Clyde van Dusen, W. Gardner; African, R. Leonard; Silverdale, Pascuma; Windy City, L. McDermott; Dail, P. Neal.

"The American women," affirms Mrs. Davidson, "who form the most important part of our clientele in Paris, force our hands to make what they prefer to wear. And this is really as it should be."

The School Vacation

During the school vacation period of approximately three months, you should allow your child to forget about his studies and develop as much as possible in a physical direction.

You are, of course, anxious that your child learn rapidly, but remember that the child can learn things from nature which cannot be obtained from books.

Many parents make the mistake of "cramming" children at the expense of the nervous system, and the children look pallid, and are irritable, temperamental, and are obviously worn out. If the child's nervous system and brain are strained in its youth, the injury will persist throughout life.

There is a grave danger that many of our children are given too much of a strain in obtaining educations during the school year. They often detest many of the studies but are nevertheless forced to remain in the classroom for six to eight hours, and a pernicious practice is carried out of having them take home extra work requiring two or three hours to complete. Such training continued for any length of time without proper periods of recreation is certain to ruin the mind and intelligence of children and to make them unfit for practical purposes. It is certainly carrying the "cramming" too far to insist upon having the child study during the summertime.

This is a wonderful time of the year for recreation and intensive cultivation of the physical body. Give the child a chance to be out in the sun and take plenty of exercise through such games as tennis, horseback riding, swimming, boating, hiking, baseball, etc.

Let them romp and play to their heart's content, even if they are a little more careless with their clothes and personal appearance. You must realize that your child is a growing individual who has probably been pushed beyond his mental capacity, and you who find so much good from a vacation in the woods must realize that your child should be allowed to go back to primitive enjoyment for at least two or three months if you expect him to regain the strength of body so necessary for the coming term of school with its many responsibilities and unnatural mental strain and tension.

It is a good plan to teach the child to excel in various kinds of athletic games, checking up upon his activities and commenting on them at the end of each day. Praise and encouragement and possibly even prizes should be given for proficiency in winning physical contests. Children who are encouraged in the right direction toward whole some exercising do not find the time to develop vicious habits or mannerisms.

During the summertime you will also be able to regulate your child's diet even more carefully than when the problem of school lunches had to be handled. Let the child eat at home whenever possible that he may be assured of good and wholesome food.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Baby Slow to Walk

Question—Mrs. C. writes: "My 11-month-old baby seems perfectly healthy in every way, but makes no attempt to try to walk or even crawl. I weaned her at seven months, and am feeding her milk, into which I put malt sugar; also I give her cereals, vegetables and toast. I was wondering if there was something lacking in her food which might be bringing on bone trouble of some kind."

Answer—Many babies do not begin to walk until a year or more of age. If your little girl obtains plenty of certified milk and orange juice, I do not believe there is much danger of her developing any trouble with her bones. It is a good plan to allow the baby to crawl on the floor, because this develops her strength.

Inflammation of the Periosteum

Question—Mrs. A. L. writes: "Have been told my trouble is inflammation of the periosteum. The trouble seems to be with the end of my spine. I have difficulty in sitting or lying. Have been painting the area with iodine, but without results. How can I cure this condition so the bone will not become diseased?"

Answer—the trouble with the end of your spine might be brought on by some injury even without your knowledge. If it affects the coccygeal bone at the end of the spine, it sometimes requires much time to overcome. I do not believe that the iodine applications will be of any benefit, but I would suggest that you use hot sitz baths for about 10 minutes, followed by cold sitz baths for five minutes each day. It would also be well to have an osteopath or chiropractor examine your spine if you do not notice improvement within a short time.

Steno Blamed for Dire Calamities

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 14. (UP)—Emery E. Davis, 55-year-old former president of the Davis Boring Tool company, contributes the following calamities to his love for a $10-a-week stenographer:

The loss of a half million dollar fortune.

Loss of the profits from his million-dollar business.

Loss of all the hair on his head.

Loss of his wife.

Loss of 41 pounds of flesh.

Davis is suing the former stenographer, Mrs. Evelyn Gardner, a divorcee, for $50,000 damages. In his suit he recites the above losses.

The former manufacturers' petition says that his love for Mrs. Gardner was his first misstep in 27 years.

NEWS of the FIELD

NORTHEAST OF MUENSTER

Benson, Benson & American Refining Properties No. 1 Haverkamp, a wildcat test located 150 feet each way from the northwest corner of east 105 acres out of the Haverkamp farm in the Burditt survey abstract 66, in southeast Cooke county, is showing for a 35 barreler. The well, which is the means of opening up a nice little shallow pool northeast of Muenster, topped the shallow sand at 753, and after drilling to 760 feet filled to the top of the casing.

NORTHEAST OF MARKLEY

Parks and associates have made location for their No. 1 A. Williams to be drilled 750 feet north and 150 feet west of the southeast corner of Adams survey, two miles northeast of the town of Markley in northwest Young county.

NORTHWEST FIELD

The American Refining Properties No. 1 Lillis Morgan, located in the southeast corner of its 38-acre lease out of the Lucinda Meadows survey, in the old Northwest pool of Wichita county, is drilling at 560 feet.

SOUTHWEST ARCHER

C. W. Gilliland and others have started drilling on their No. 3 G. H. Roach test 450 feet south and 450 feet west of northeast corner of section 1595, T. E. L. survey, in southwest Archer county.

McLAUGHLIN BROTHERS

McLaughlin brothers have spudded in on their No. 1 W. M. Justice test 3296 feet south, and 1743 feet west of the northeast corner of block 8, W. H. Patton survey, abstract 343, in Archer county.

DEEP SAND IN WICHITA WELL

Gulf Finds Oil Show At 3616 Feet

The Gulf Production company's No. A-43 T. L. Burnett located in section 4, H. & T. B. R. R. survey, a few miles southeast of Electra in Wichita county, is standing with 125 feet of oil in the hole from a sand at 3616-17 feet.

The test which is at present the deepest in Wichita county, was drilled in an effort to determine whether or not a much deeper pay exists than those from which the wells are now receiving their production, and the contract was made for a 4,000 to 4,500 feet cable tool test.

While the oil shown is of no commercial value unless the drilling of more sand increases the amount to a considerable extent, it does prove beyond doubt that somewhere there exists in the district a much deeper horizon and it is but a question of time until the steel bit will search out and bring to the surface this new sand.

The show of oil in this test is deepest so far uncovered in the county.

$310,000 OIL SUIT FILED

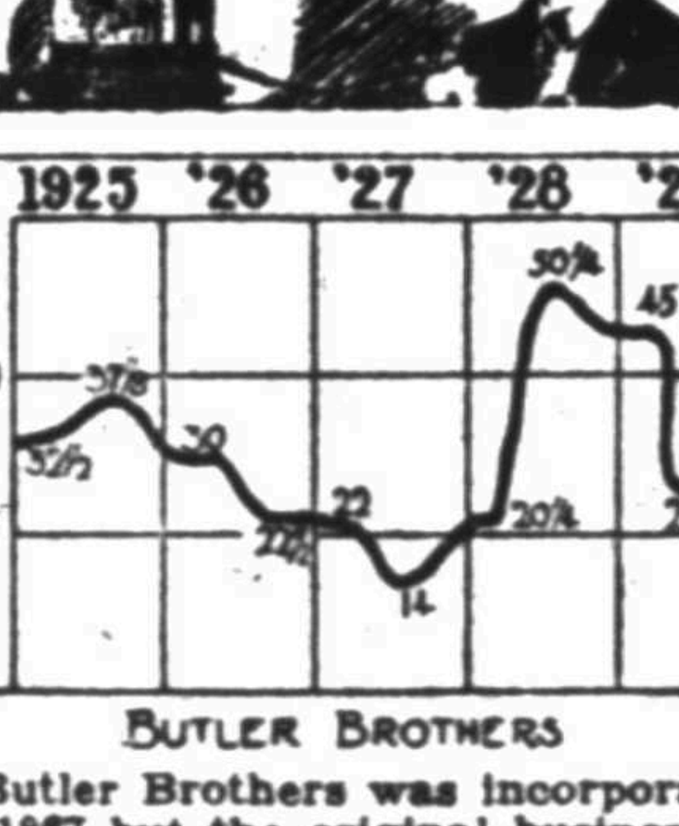

Keystone Production Co. Asks Injunction

Asking for a mandatory injunction calling for the delivery of assignments and transfers involving an oil lease in Oklahoma, or for $310,000 damages covering the alleged value of the leases, the Keystone Production company, of Fort Worth, Friday filed suit against George L. Pace in the 89th district court here.

The petitioners allege that they entered an agreement with Mr. Pace in March, 1928, through which they purchased a one-third interest in oil leases in Stephens county, Oklahoma, represented to them as the property of the defendant. They declare that a $25,000 cash payment has already been made, and that they were ready to meet the other terms of the contract which called for an $88,294.14 payment out of the profits from the lease.

The petition filed by the company asserts that the officials believe that Mr. Pace has allowed a part of the lease to lapse or be forfeited, and alleges that he has refused to turn over to them the required assignment and transfers.

DRYGOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Cotton goods were steady and quiet. Gray goods demand was somewhat less. Mills continued unwilling to sell forward deliveries at current prices. The movement of finished sheerer cottons for summer wear was reported large. Spot raw silks here and abroad were firm and unchanged. Silk moires were gaining favor. Threatened labor difficulties were depressing to wool goods and lining trades. Calcutta burlap cables showed a slight reaction from recent declines and prices were a little firmer.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, June 14. (AP)—The wool market is very slow. Some demand is being received for fleece wools of medium grades for future delivery. There is little more inquiry for 64's and finer fleece wools at the lower range of prices recently quoted, but volume of business transacted has shown no improvement. The Western grown wools are very quiet on practically all grades.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—Early advances were followed by declines after publication of the government reports on domestic consumption and boll weevil emergence in the cotton market today. October contracts sold off from 18.96 to 18.66 or 21 points net lower and closed at 18.69. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 15 to 18 points.

There was a little flurry of buying on the census report placing domestic consumption at 668,229 bales for May compared with 631,710 for April and 577,384 for May last year.

It was readily supplied on moderate bulges, however, and prices eased again but on the whole held fairly steady until the report on boll weevil made its appearance.

Prices broke sharply, with July selling off to 18.49 and December to 18.82, making net declines of about 18 to 22 points on the general list. Prices then steadied and closing prices showed rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest.

Private cables said local buying and trade calling had absorbed liquidation in the Liverpool market. Port receipts today 3,609 bales. U. S. port stocks 952,196. Exports 12,832, making 7,829,399 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 14. (AP)—Although the official consumption and boll weevil reports about met bullish expectations, cotton worked lower today under selling by recent buyers who evidently had discounted the statements in advance. October, after trading up to 18.85, eased off to 18.55 and closed at 18.58, or 20 points net lower. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 19 to 22 points.

July sold at 18.88, October 18.85 and December 18.97, but under liquidation and at the lowest July sold at 18.38, October 18.55 and December 18.68, or 29 to 30 points down. There was some covering in late trading and final prices showed recoveries of 2 to 3 points from the lows.

Receipts 3,586; for week 17,771; for year 9,269,002; last year 8,365,209. Exports 7,832; for week 63,327; for year 7,549,604; last year 7,080,041. Stocks 956,150; last year 1,004,238. Stock on shipboard 68,857; last year 90,893. Spot sales 5,915; last year 4,235.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, June 14. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Uneven and sharp price declines were enforced around the 11-market circuit on hogs. Shippers at several points purchased freely at 15 to 25c lower values, but packers were bearish and required price concessions of 25 to 50c. The day's extreme top of $11.35 was paid early at Chicago. Total offerings were around 80,000, an increase of 7,300 over last Friday and 18,000 heavier than the corresponding day last year.

Moderate activity developed on fat lambs and yearlings at firm to 25c higher prices. Aged stock was on a full steady basis. Choice Idaho lambs in Chicago scored $15.80, while fed yearlings cashed up to $12.00. The supply approximated 28,100, as compared with 31,777 a week ago and 21,731 the same day last year.

Cattle trade was moderately active at most points, with killing classes holding steady with the week's uneven advance. Chicago reported a moderate decline on fat she stock. No higher finished matured steers were available. Trade interests are in a quandary as to the market the forthcoming week, some believing that the sharp advance on fed steers and yearlings will bring out a liberal supply, while others think feeders will hold out for still higher prices. The fact that farm work throughout much of the corn belt has been retarded by heavy rains may have a tendency to lighten receipts. Aggregate receipts of around 10,000 were about in line with a week ago and a year ago.

Heavy Week-End Profit Taking Puts Damper on Bull Campaign

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

NEW YORK, June 14. (AP)—The revived bull campaign on the stock market ran into heavy week-end profit taking today, and closing prices were highly irregular, but yesterday's accelerated pace of trading was maintained, total sales exceeding 3,200,000 shares.

Call money was considerably easier, holding at seven per cent all day with some funds available outside as low as 6½.

The market opened strong on bullish interpretations placed on the federal reserve condition statements, but it was definitely stated in federal reserve circles that there had been no change in the tight money policy.

Prominent in the day's news was the passage of the farm relief measure, without the debenture scheme, which was favorably received in Wall street.

Montgomery Ward announced the cutting of a $50,000,000 melon through granting of rights.

Gasoline prices were advanced one cent in Pennsylvania, Delaware and Houston, Texas.

Rubber consumption in the United States during May was reported at a new high record just under 50,000 tons.

Copper shares received the best support in some time, reflecting the favorable interrpretation placed on the statistics for May, showing but a moderate increase in stocks of the red metal, despite the slump in buying. Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting and Greene Cananea sold up from 2 to 4 points.

Utilities turned highly irregular.

A few of the rails gave a better account of themselves, Atchison and Norfolk & Western mounting about 4 points. Steels were firm, U. S. Steel mounting more than 3 points to 177¼, but losing some of its gain later. In the merchandising group, Macy, Safeway, and Sears Roebuck made fair gains, but Montgomery Ward, after climbing about 5 points, reacted in "selling of the good news" of the granting of rights.

Auburn Auto, after selling up 4½ points to a new top at 297½, tumbled to 275, and closed at 285, off 8. It was announced that President Cord is forming a new holding company.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, Sterling Cables rallying slightly to $4.84 13-16, while the Canadian dollar dropped to a discount of ⅛ of a cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 14. (AP)—Apparent certainty that the bill establishing a $500,000,000 federal farm board was at last as good as signed gave grain values new upturns today. Wheat traders also kept strict watch over indications that the Canadian crop situation might become precarious.

Closing quotations were unsettled, ⅛ to ⅝c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅛c to ⅝c up, oats ⅛c to ⅛@⅝c advance, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 10c.

Prospects that farm relief would at once go into effect dominated the wheat market from the beginning. Dispatches saying that wonderful weather was adding substantially to the domestic winter wheat yield southwest attracted much notice.

FIRE DESTROYS WICHITA HOME

Gasoline Explosion Leads To Blaze Here

A baby carriage and a small chair were the only objects saved when the house of C. B. King, about three miles out on the Burkburnett road, was destroyed by fire at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The fire was caused by the explosion of a gasoline tank on a kitchen stove, which was being filled. The tank had been exposed to the heat of the sun and had probably become sufficiently heated to cause undue explosion of the gasoline with the resultant fire, it was said. The liquid was thrown over a wide area by the explosion and the entire room was in flames almost immediately, a high wind sweeping the fire through the length of the house.

The only occupant of the house at the time was Mrs. King, who escaped without injury. A man who had been working in a field nearby attempted to enter the front door in an effort to remove furniture from the burning house, but flames issuing from the front of the house prevented. The loss was given at $2,000. There was no insurance, according to Mr. King.

In answering the call, the engines from central fire station received the wrong directions and the house was burned to the ground when they finally arrived after having gone out on the Iowa Park road beyond the refineries.

Fake Stock Promoters Losing Their Customers

NEW YORK, June 14. (INS)—Inexperienced men and women of financial means, who in former years were the prey of fake stock promoters to the extent of $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 a year, are rapidly turning to legitimate securities, according to H. J. Kenner, general manager of the Better Business Bureau in New York City.

Newspapers barring doubtful stock offerings and real estate promotions in advertising is given by Kenner as one of the main reasons.

Mark Pendell, forestry supervisor at Fort Simcoe, made a high record of 175 rattlers killed in less than an hour.

The parade will start at 9:30 o'clock and will pass through the business section to the salvage yard at North Tenth street and North Brook avenue.

SUIT AGAINST COUNTY SET

Tax Collector's Claim to Be Heard Monday

The second trial of an $18,000 suit brought by Guy C. Raley, tax collector, against Wichita county for delinquent tax commissions, will be called in the 78th district court here on Monday morning of next week. Attorneys for both sides have indicated that they will be ready to go into the trial at once. The first hearing, completed here two months ago, resulted in a hung jury, the jurors disagreeing on several of many special issues submitted.

Mr. Raley is asking for $18,000 to cover commissions on delinquent tax collections between 1923 and 1925. He claims to have turned the money into the county treasury with the understanding that it would be refunded to him if litigation then pending in the courts should be decided in favor of his claims. The present suit was filed after the supreme court ruled invalid an act repealing the 5 per cent commission allowed collectors on delinquent tax collections.

Since the earlier trial here the legislature has passed a new law, permitting collectors to sue on such claims and forbidding the county to plead the statute of limitations. The coming trial will begin a test of the constitutionality of the new act, attorneys believe. Wayne Somerville, county attorney, has announced that the county will continue to contest the claim and will attack the newly enacted bill.

A $13,000 judgment awarded to M. L. Tittle, former collector, on a similar claim, is now under appeal.

Roxana Testimony Nearly Complete at Graham

At the end of a week devoted to the hearing, testimony for the defendant in a $500,000 damage suit brought by H. M. Ford against the Roxana Petroleum corporation, on trial in the 30th district court at Graham, was nearing completion Friday afternoon, Judge Allan D. Montgomery, before whom the trial is being conducted, said late Friday that arguments would probably not be finished this week.

The case involves 640 acres of oil land in Young county. The plaintiffs claim to have been damaged in the sum of $500,000 by the alleged failure of the oil company to properly develop the lease and to drill off-setting wells.

The case is back in the 30th district court after having been twice remanded from the United States district court, where its introduction was sought by attorneys for the defense. Judge William H. Atwell refused to assume jurisdiction and sent the question back to the state courts during the March term of court here.
